

LEGISLATORS MEETING IN SPECIAL SESSION

Elect Negro Fem Pro Tem

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas legislators, discontent and divided by election year politics, met in special session today with fond hopes of getting back home by Easter.

The first gavel rap came at 10 a.m. sharp.

In a pre-session caucus the Senate elected Sen. Barbara Jordan, Houston, first Negro woman ever to serve in the Texas Senate, to be president pro tempore or assistant presiding officer during the special session.

On the House side the 10 state representatives who are Republicans held their own caucus and elected Rep. Fred Agnich, Dallas, as minority leader and Rep. Sid Bowers, Houston, as minority whip.

Two possible conflicts that could extend the session apparently were eliminated in last minute developments Monday night.

Rep. Bill Healy, Paducah, rough and tough chairman of the House Appropriations Committee for a number of sessions who had become an issue in the House speaker's race, unexpectedly resigned his chairmanship.

Healy said he had made no deals or promises with any of the competing candidates for speaker but resigned "in the best interests of unity and responsibility in the House during this important session."

Chances of a quick, harmonious special session soared Monday night when Gov. Preston Smith and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes announced an agreement that consideration of the governor's interim appointments would be postponed until a second special session, probably in June.

"After discussing the matter personally with Lt. Gov. Barnes, we both thought it would be helpful to withhold submission of the Senate and House could act on the two emergencies of highway beautification and 1972 primary financing and go back home by Easter," Smith said in the joint statement.

OPPORTUNITY

"I am in complete agreement with and in support of Gov. Smith in his statement regarding appointments," Barnes said. "I am confident the senate will support the governor in this matter since the senate will have ample opportunity to consider these appointments at a later date."

A senate controversy over Smith's interim appointments had been considered a possible roadblock to quick adjournment. There have been indications that the two-thirds approval needed for governor's appointments would be hard to get from the senate before election time, particularly for Secretary of State Bob Bullock, Smith's former legal aide, and State Insurance Board Chairman Larry Teaver, Smith's former appointments secretary.

Bullock and Teaver have been active in supporting Smith's reelection campaign against Barnes and five other challengers.

The appointments armistice left one highly controversial matter to be settled before legislators got down to actual lawmaking—the election of a new house speaker.

Speaker Gus Mutscher, convicted recently in Abilene of conspiracy to accept a bribe during the 1969 session, wrote a letter late Monday saying he was resigning as speaker effective upon election of his successor. He designated Rep. James Slider of Naples, one of Mutscher's floor leaders in past session, to preside through the speaker election process.

Rep. DeWitt Hale, Corpus Christi and Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine both claimed enough votes Monday to be elected speaker for this session and the second special meeting in June. Hale is not a candidate for speaker of the 1973 regular legislature that meets next January but Price is.

MOVED OUT

Mutscher moved out of the speaker's office Monday into the office of Rep. Will Smith, Beaumont, who died recently. Mutscher, who has not resigned as state representative from Brenham, said he would sit at Smith's desk on the House floor today.

After selection of a president pro tempore or assistant presiding officer, the Senate was scheduled to adopt parliamentary rules for the session and accept introduction of bills covered in Smith's call for the session.

Public hearings were expected this afternoon on two bills concerning Texas primary elections.

Sens. Mike McKool, Dallas, and Joe Bernal, San Antonio, said one bill would handle financing of the 1972 elections and the other would establish a permanent unitary primary system, instead of the usual separate Democratic and Republican primaries. The first bill would appropriate $2 million from the general revenue fund to pay for the May 6 primaries. Federal court orders earlier this year blocked further use of candidate filing fees to pay primary election costs as they have been used in the past.

FREEZE ALERTS Snow Falls In Texas Panhandle

By The Associated Press

Snow fell this morning in the upper Panhandle and subfreezing temperatures were forecast for tonight in that area as new spring storms pressed into Texas.

The cold snap was in sharp contrast to other weather patterns in the state. Houston, Brownsville and Corpus Christi had readings in 70s while light snow spattered the area from Guyton, Okla., to Perryton to Amarillo.

The National Weather Service issued freeze warnings tonight for all counties north and northwest of Childress. Temperatures in the upper 20s with light snow were predicted throughout the night.

Weathermen said it would be partly cloudy and a little warmer in that area Wednesday. Amarillo and Pampa are two of the largest cities in the affected area.

Meanwhile the latest cool front stalled along a line linking Lufkin, College Station and Cotulla, and the chilled air behind it dropped temperatures close to freezing at a place or two in the Texas Panhandle.

By early morning patches of low clouds and fog hovered over the coastal plains and parts of South Texas while it was clear to only partly cloudy over the rest of the state.

Late Monday tornado warnings went out for Navarro and Ellis counties after state police reported the sighting of a tornado moving eastward from a point 12 miles west of Corsicana. It disappeared without any report of damage.

A bit later the Weather Service posted a tornado watch for 20 counties from the edge of North Central Texas through Northeast Texas in a 70-mile wide corridor from west of Tyler to north of Longview. This alert and a severe thunderstorm watch for several other counties expired without word of injuries or loss.

Rainfall measurements included Texarkana 1.03 inches, College Station .72 inch and Lufkin .11.

Rail Lobby Drawn Into House Fight

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas house members wrangled at length today over whether to choose a successor for Speaker Gus Mutscher by secret ballot or through an open, record vote.

Backers of Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi for speaker favored a secret ballot, while Palestine Rep. Rayford Price's supporters wanted an open vote.

Mutscher, who resigned today, sat at a desk on the floor as a rank and file member.

Hale claimed the surprise resignation of controversial Rep. W. S. Healy of Paducah as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee insured his victory, but Price supporters said their man still had the votes to win.

Rep. Don Cavness of Austin urged an open vote, with each member rising at his desk and declaring his choice for speaker.

"I have 300,000 people who are going to be affected by what we do here, and they have a right to know what their representative did... Let's don't let anyone say we were afraid to let the people know how we voted," Cavness said.

Rep. John Hannah of Lufkin said the secret ballot for electing the speaker was instituted in 1911 as a reform to "break the back of the railroad lobby."

"It is the railroad lobby who is sitting in the gallery... It is the other lobbyists sitting up there who want an open ballot so they'll know how to distribute their money in the month before the (primary) election," Hannah said.

Davis To Support Hale For Speaker

Impeachment proceedings could throw a monkey wrench in plans for a quick special session, Rep. Dee Jon Davis, Big Spring, told The Herald today.

Rep. Davis interrupted his studies at the University of Texas Medical School in Houston to return to Austin for the special session.

He said he planned to cast his ballot for speaker of the special session for DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi.

"I think it will be better to name some one speaker who has no ambitions to be speaker in the regular session," he said. "It seems wise to me to name someone who will not use the speaker's position as a power base from which to launch a campaign for speaker at the next regular session."

Rep. Hale said he was not a candidate for speaker except for the special session.

Rep. Davis anticipated no prolonged debate over the highway beautification bill or the measure to finance party primaries — the two items specified by Gov. Preston Smith in his session call.

"We could have passed the highway bill last session," said Rep. Davis, "but it was like a lot of federal dictums which say you must do this or that or lose funds — and then you never get the funds anyhow. Now we have to do it, so it amounts to passing a bill conforming to federal standards on billboards along federal-aid roads."

As for primary funding, Rep. Davis anticipated no problem. He thought that inter-fund transfers could supply whatever general fund appropriations was necessary and without imposing any tax for it.

But as for the impeachment proceedings threatened by Rep. Paul Moreno, El Paso, against Gov. Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Gus Mutscher (who has stepped aside for the special session as speaker), Rep. Davis said he presumed these will have to be heard and may even go to a vote.

"I don't think there will be nearly enough votes to impeach," he added.

Women's Rights

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — One of the first legislative proposals offered Texas legislators in special session today was a resolution to ratify the so-called women's rights amendment approved recently by Congress.

The resolution was drawn up by Sen. Oscar H. Mauzy and Rep. Dick Reed, both Dallas Democrats.

If the amendment to the U.S. Constitution is ratified by three-fourths of the states it will prohibit any denial or abridgement of equal rights under the law on account of a person's sex.

"Texas has a most repugnant history of sex discrimination," said Mauzy. "We can partially atone for our past sins by being one of the first states in the country to ratify this very important amendment. And I'm sure that each legislator's voice on our ratifying resolution will be closely watched by his female constituents back home."

Jail Break Attempt

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Prisoners holding two or more hostages at knife-point attempted to break out of the Santa Clara County Jail today, deputies said.

Initial word was that no inmates had been immediately successful in escaping, said sheriff's Lt. Don Tamm.

Tamm said at least one person was injured.

An unknown number of inmates took two female hostages. The two-story building housing the jail and the sheriff's department was surrounded by officers, Tamm said.

The escape attempt caused a delay in the Angela Davis murder-kidnap trial, scheduled to begin in another building about 200 feet away.

"There is a jail break in progress involving hostages," said Deputy Mike Seamans.

HOT OFF THE PRESS — Patty and Angelo Gray, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell E. Gray, 4205 West Highway 80, become engrossed in an edition of The Daily Herald immediately after it leaves the press. The girls, ages 2 and 4, seemed particularly interested in a picture of a dog on Page One. Candy provided by their father added to the tots' pleasure.

FOR COUPLES

Committee Likes $300 SS Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has voted unanimous approval of a proposal that would raise minimum Social Security payments for every aged person who has paid into the system for at least 30 years to $200 a month. For married couples the figure would be $300.

The measure adopted Monday would substantially close the gap between benefits for people who have worked many years at low-paying jobs and those for people who have contributed to the system at maximum levels and therefore receive maximum benefits.

Businessmen Set Meeting Tomorrow

Trades Day, a promotion planned by local merchants, will be discussed at three meetings scheduled for Wednesday morning in the Texas Electric Service Company's Reddy-Room. The sessions get under way at 9 a.m., 10 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Businessmen are being urged to attend one of the sessions.

Second Highest Trade Deficit In U. S. History

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation recorded its second highest merchandise trade deficit in history last month, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said the value of imports exceeded exports by $597.6 million in February, the figure topped only by the $821.4 million trade deficit last October.

At the same time, the department said its list of leading economic indicators increased in February for the eighth straight month. But the increase last month was 0.5 percent, the smallest gain in five months.

DARK SHADOWS

The index of the indicators tend to foreshadow future movements in the economy. The indicators have shown strong increases in recent months.

The trade deficit adds to the nation's balance-of-payments deficit and affects the stability of the dollar.

The department said it wasn't exactly sure why the deficit reached such a magnitude in February. It said the West Coast dock strike probably influenced both exports and imports but, by how much, it does not know.

The West Coast dock strike finally ended Feb. 20.

For the first two months of the year, the trade deficit soared to $916.4 million, giving the nation one of its worst starts ever in foreign trade.

One reason for the large deficit could be the recent currency realignment in which the value of the dollar fell in relation to other currencies, making U.S. exports cheaper overseas and foreign imports more expensive in the United States.

HEAVY FLOW

Nixon administration economists say they expect the realignment will have some bad effects temporarily until the currency settlement does the job it is supposed to do—discourage the heavy flow of imports into the United States.

The department said seasonally adjusted exports in February totaled $3.805 billion while imports totaled $4.403 billion.

Domestically, the news wasn't all that good for the administration, either, as the leading indicators reflected a still-slack economy. As is the case with all government statistics, the figures could be revised later, however.

Indicators showing improvements last month were initial claims for unemployment insurance, stock prices, industrial materials prices, the average work week and building permits.

Indicators declining were new orders for durable goods, contracts and orders by manufacturers for plant and equipment, and the cost ratio of prices and labor.

Satire

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old daughter was required to write a satire for her English class assignment. She chose as her subject, the DEAR ABBY column.

Her teacher gave her an "A" on it, and across the top of the page she wrote, "I loved it!"

I am enclosing the satire for you to see. I hope you won't take offense. I got a big kick out of it.

NORMAN M. IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR NORMAN: I got a big kick out of it too, and I thank you for sending it to me. In these trouble times, a good laugh is worth a lot. And I hope your daughter doesn't mind if I share her satire on my column with a few million of my dearest friends, my readers:

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but I am at my wit's end.

My husband, "Xylo," (not his real name) is getting out of hand. It wasn't bad when he flushed my prize Burmese cat, Otis (not his real name) down the toilet, or the fact that he kept our little son chained in the trunk of our car for the past two months, but yesterday he went too far.

He purposely drove the car over my begonia bed, which wouldn't have been so bad, but my father was pruning them at the time. What should I do? Sign me

WONDERING IN WYOMING

DEAR WONDERING: Have you spoken to your clergyman about this? A man's home is his castle, you know. Count your blessings. At least he doesn't come home drunk every night.

DEAR ABBY: Our big school prom is coming up next month and I don't have a date. I have been told that I have a good personality, and everyone says I would make a good model.

I have loads of friends, long blond hair, big blue eyes, a very shapely figure, a peaches and cream complexion, and I wear only the best of clothes. What could be wrong with me.

"7-ft.-2" IN TARZANA

DEAR "7 FT. 2": Do you make a habit of wearing heels?

CONFIDENTIAL TO PIMPLY AND PREGNANT IN PEORIA: Don't worry. Things have a way of working themselves out.

P.S. Mr. N.M.: Tell your daughter I think she has a delightful sense of humor, and I loved her satire, too. But if I were to have printed those letters, I would have heard from 2,000 horticulturalists, telling me that begonias are grown only in moist, tropical climates, so "Wondering in Wyoming" either has her flowers confused, or I must have made up the letter.

And in her second letter, I'd have probably heard from the President of the Chamber of Commerce in Tarzana, Calif., informing me that there is no woman in Tarzana who is 7'2" tall, and unless I can document my statement, I should submit an apology in writing, and retract by statement.

So you see, writing Dear Abby isn't as easy as it appears to be. But thank you for giving me (and my readers) a delightful change of pace.

Vinegary Aspirin

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Some years ago I read an article by a doctor who said that aspirin tablets which have a vinegary odor, and if used will do more harm than good. I wasn't too concerned then because I seldom use aspirin. Now, because of my arthritis I use at least 15 tablets a day. With very few exceptions every bottle of aspirin I buy, whether the cheapest or not, has a vinegary-like smell. Will you give me your opinion? — Mrs. F.

Chemically, aspirin, which is acetylsalicylic acid, is related remotely to acetic acid in vinegar. It can, therefore, have a vinegary odor even when fresh.

The odor can intensify with age, but this does not mean the tablets are spoiled.

Pharmacists say the way to tell when aspirin is spoiled is to note when a "frost" or powdery surface appears on the tablets. This "frost" is acid crystals which can be very irritating.

With the amount you are using I would be very surprised if you keep any aspirin around long enough to reach this stage unless you are buying it in enormous quantities — and I doubt that you are.

Don't worry about a faint vinegary odor; just watch the surface of the tablets for any sign of this "frost" to appear.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you list the foods to be avoided if one has a high cholesterol count and wishes to keep it normal? — Mrs. A.P.

You'll find such a list in my booklet, "Control Cholesterol Sensibly," but you'll also find that there's more to the cholesterol matter than merely avoid certain foods. Best you send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for the booklet if you are serious about getting your cholesterol down to a reasonable level.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Some friends and I were discussing pregnancy and one of the girls said she heard it was the female that determined the sex of a child because one ovary produces female eggs and the other produces male eggs, and the sex of the child depends on which ovary produced the egg at the time of conception.

In high school biology I was taught it was the father who determined the sex of the child and the female's egg cells had no sex chromosomes at all.

Please settle this disagreement. — Mrs. P.B.

"One of the girls" was about as wrong as it is possible to be.

It's this way: all the eggs, or ova, possess X chromosomes, the X chromosome carrying the essential female characteristics. The male sperm is of two kinds. One carries an X chromosome; the other carries a Y chromosome.

If it is an X sperm that unites with an ovum at conception, the baby will be a girl. If a sperm cell with a Y chromosome does it, the baby will be a boy.

In a sense the "father" determines the sex," but to be a little more specific, it comes down to whether an X sperm or a Y sperm happens to penetrate the ovum first. And once a sperm has penetrated, no other one will be accepted.

The male produces approximately equal numbers of the two types (X and Y) of sperm, and it is likely that the sheer law of averages has a good deal to do with it. Recent research indicates, however, that some other conditions, not completely understood, have some bearing on the matter.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? LAKERS SET SEVEN RECORDS

Offensive Lakers To Test Bull Defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eight National Basketball Association records fell to the Los Angeles Lakers during their regular season, yet Coach Bill Sharman would relinquish all for a successful playoff campaign.

That big test starts tonight at the Forum when the Lakers, leading team in the NBA on offense, face the Chicago Bulls who led the loop in defense.

The Lakers are favored in the best-of-seven series, but as their forward Happy Hairston says, "Playoffs are completely different things. Teams play tighter defense."

Los Angeles rolled to a 69-13 regular season record, at one time winning 33 in a row, and they held a 3-1 advantage over Chicago.

The 69 victories bettered by one the mark by the Philadelphia 76ers in the 1966-67 season when Wilt Chamberlain played for the Easterners. Philadelphia went on to win the NBA title that season.

Chamberlain has hauled down 1,572 rebounds for the Lakers this season and averaged 14.8 points per game. Hairston has been the No. 2 man on the boards with 1,045 rebounds.

Guards Gail Goodrich and Jerry West have led the scoring with averages of 25.9 and 25.8 respectively and West led the league in assists with 747.

Jim McMillain fills out the starting five in credible style with an 18.8 scoring average and 522 rebounds.

While the Lakers averaged 120 points a game, the Bulls held foes to an average of 102.9 and their feat of limiting opponents to less than 100 on 27 occasions was the most since 1954 when the league adopted its 24-second shooting clock.

Bob Love led Chicago in the games against Los Angeles with a 28.5 average while Chet Walker averaged 20.5. The stat of Walker and Tom Boerwinkle remained questionable, however, since both suffered injuries on March 21 when the Lakers took a 109-104 decision in Chicago.

The Lakers and Bulls meet again at the Forum on Thursday night before moving to Chicago for games No. 3 and 4.

Los Angeles posted its 69-13 mark this season in winning the Pacific Division crown while the Bulls placed second to Milwaukee in the Midwest Division at 57-25.

Both the 69 total victories and 33 in a row set NBA records, but there were others sometimes overlooked—36 victories at home, 31 on the road, (two triumphs were on neutral courts), 81 games over 100 points, the largest margin of victory in a single game—83 points on March 19 over the Golden Gate Warriors, and the only team to go two complete months without a loss.

The Lakers also tied an NBA record by having two players—Chamberlain and Hairston—grab more than 1,000 rebounds in a season.

In case there were any doubts, the final National Basketball Association regular season statistics released today indicate that 1971-72 was indeed the year of the Lakers.

Los Angeles set seven major team records en route to their 69-13 won-loss mark. What's more, two of their veteran stars, Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West, led in three of the five major individual statistical categories.

Kareem-Jabbar of Milwaukee, the league's Most Valuable Player, was the scoring leader with an average of 34.8 points per game and Jack Marin of Baltimore was No. 1 in free throw percentage at .894. Other than that, it was all Los Angeles.

Chamberlain, shooting less but winning more led in two categories with a .649 field goal percentage and 19.2 rebounds per game. West nosed out player-coach Len Wilkins of Seattle with 9.7 assists per game.

Permian dropped its first district game Saturday when the Abilene Eagles clipped them, 4-0. The Panthers are 1-1 in district action and 10-4 for the season.

Doug Shelton, Permian's second baseman, got his team's only hit in the game with Abilene.

LAMESA (SC) — The Klondike Cougars won the District 8B Volleyball Tournament this week to nab the district title for the fourth time in five seasons. The cougars won with victories over Sands by scores of 15-11 and 15-8 in the finals.

Klondike advanced in the tournament with opening victories of 15-2 and 15-2 over Union Terry. Sands defeated Wellman 15-7 and 15-2.

In B-team action, the Cougars also reigned as champions when they defeated Sands in the finals of the tournament. Sands had advanced to the finals with wins over Borden County by identical scores of 15-3 and 15-3.

The Cougars ended their season with a mark of 8-3. B-team district action is scheduled for April 19-21, but the site is not yet known.

A five-man committee, headed by Dr. N.J. Pisacano of the UK faculty, was named to consider and recommend concerning the appointment of a head basketball coach "... as promptly as possible."

Kapp Files Antitrust Suit Against Rozelle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Quarterback Joe Kapp, hero of the Minnesota Vikings' 1969 Super Bowl season, has filed a multimillion dollar antitrust conspiracy suit against all 26 National Football League teams and NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

The suit, filed Monday in U.S. District Court and assigned to Judge William T. Sweigert, says that the 33-year-old Kapp has been barred from professional football since his 1970 season with the New England Patriots because he refused to sign the standard NFL player contract.

Kapp is seeking millions of dollars in damages in a jury trial but the exact amount has not been determined. Antitrust laws provide that any damage award determined by a jury be tripled.

The standard players' contract, the suit alleged, gives Rozelle the "unlimited power to penalize a player for anything Rozelle sees fit and to bar him from his profession as a player."

The complaint said that Rozelle ordered the league to breach Kapp's $600,000 three-year contract with the Patriots. It further charges the league and team owners with monopolizing professional football through the player draft, the Rozelle "ransom file," the standard player contract and the black list.

Kapp played eight years of Canadian pro football after leading the California Bears to the Rose Bowl in 1959. In 1967 he signed a three-year $300,000 contract with Minnesota, and when his option expired in 1969 he signed the agreement with New England.

Old Mexico Fish Story

By BRIAN PEAY
Two days of fishing in Old Mexico proved successful for four local and two area men last week.

Dr. P. W. Malone, Clyde Angel, Terry Carter, Clyde McMahon, and Jim McMahon, of Lubbock; and O. L. Click, Glenn Petty said, "It has been very painful for Mike, and the treatments haven't been easy."

The senior track star had to sit for hours in a whirlpool bath. He proved himself last week with the record-setting run. Coach Petty continued, "He thought he'd just like to try the mile run; it sure will help him in his efforts to get a scholarship."

Priebe placed fourth in the mile competition with a 4:29.8 time which bettered his record-setting race, but didn't match McCormick's race.

fishermen flew to the lake last Wednesday, and fished until Friday morning. One of the planes belonged to Clyde McMahon and the other to Jim McMahon.

Telling what some people would believe to be just another fish story, Terry Carter said not 10 minutes after they had started fishing, on the second cast Dr. Malone caught a 4 1/2-pound lunger.

However, the catch qualified his story.

Carter said the lake had obviously not been fished in a long time, and that the clear waters were teaming with the black bass.

Mike McCormick Shatters Mile Record On First Try

Mike McCormick, a senior sprinter from Big Spring High School, ran his first competitive mile race Saturday in the San Angelo Relays and shattered his high school's record in that event.

McCormick, a three-year letterman, decided to try to run the mile just for the heck of it and he broke the school record set by Bob Priebe just a week ago. McCormick posted a 4:28.9 time which dumped Priebe's 4:30.8 record. Priebe had broken a 4:31 record set in 1956 with his run a week ago.

McCormick received a painful stress fracture to his leg on December 18, 1971. Since that

BSSH Work Experiment Discussed In Article

To some, like Snoopy the cartoon character, "work is the crab grass in the lawn of life." However, to some patients at Big Spring State Hospital, work has proved a grass-roots treatment method.

The work-treatment experiment is described in "The Work Village," the latest publication of the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health at The University of Texas campus.

The booklet by O. Stanley Brown, assistant to the president of the Foundation, explains how the Work Village at Big Spring State Hospital began and what has happened to the once chronic patients who reside in the "village."

Dr. Preston Harrison, hospital superintendent, struck upon the new course of therapeutic action for the hospital's schizophrenics, especially through work. He decided to test the hypothesis that work can make sick persons more productive, happier and increasingly adequate. Mr. Brown explains. Thus the Work Village idea was conceived, and the colony came into being in January, 1967.

"It would be sheer folly to interpret the Work Village experience thus far optimistically as a panacea for schizophrenia," Mr. Brown warns.

"Improvement in any of the disease's manifestations is a long, hard pull," he points out. "It involves many persons, many skills, unbelievable patience, eternal hope, and amazing dedication by the professionals on the rehabilitation team. But this is to say that work seems to be helpful."

Crowds thronged the trim lawns and imposing drive of the government seat at Stormont Castle on Belfast's outskirts and heard outgoing Prime Minister Brian Faulkner declare from a balcony: "We share your feeling of resentment and bewilderment and the feeling of betrayal by London."

20 TO 1 — The red and white flag of Ulster, the common name for Northern Ireland, outnumbered British Union Jacks 20 to 1.

This was the Northern Ireland Parliament's last session before suspension for at least a year while Britain tries its hand at direct rule of the troubled province, driven by Catholic-Protestant feuding and the violence of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which wants to unite Ireland and Northern Ireland.

HONORED — Dr. Charles L. Ainsworth is one of two Texas Tech faculty members named fellows by the American Council on Education. Dr. Ainsworth, former director of educational services in Big Spring, is assistant dean of the graduate school at Tech. He will attend fall and spring semesters in Chicago and Washington, D.C., doing research and producing analytical reports on administration. A native of Water Valley, he is the son of Mrs. J. N. Morton, 353 S. Redlands, Grand Junction, Colo.

Phone Service Is Back To Normal

Telephone repairmen restored service late Tuesday afternoon after an underground cable had been cut a block west of the Gregg Street intersection on FM 700 south access.

Harry Sawyer, manager for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, said that 275 pairs out of a total of 300 in the cable were severed about 11:30 a.m. Monday. Reports reaching the phone company indicated that a city crew, searching for a valve, cut into the cable. Luckily, a toll (longdistance) cable next to it was not disrupted.

Crews started getting phones back in service at 2 p.m. and continued rapidly until the last pair was spliced at 5 p.m., said Sawyer. Phones in the Highland South, Coronado and Silver Heels areas were affected.

Team In El Paso To Probe Plant Pollution Charges

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A team of federal environmental specialists has arrived in El Paso to begin investigations of alleged lead and sulphur dioxide pollution caused by emissions from the American Smelting and Refining plant (ASARCO) here.

The investigators arrived as the city went ahead with a program to relocate residents of the area around the smelter, and the city's suit against ASARCO entered its fifth week in district court.

The city is asking for $1 million in damages and for a court order to close down the plant for cleanup operations. City officials claim that emissions from the smelter have caused blood lead poisoning among children in the El Paso area.

At least 35 children have been hospitalized with blood poisoning and company officials said ASARCO will pay for the medical treatment.

An El Paso allergist, Dr. Edward Egbert, testified Monday that he has treated several patients suffering from the effects of sulphur dioxide allegedly emitted by the smelter.

Dr. Egbert said that sulphur dioxide "can retard the growth of the trachea and constrict chest muscles, causing asthma-like symptoms in pa. enas."

He explained that he has observed these symptoms in patients he treated in the El Paso area.

During the first four weeks testimony dealt mostly with the effects of lead pollution. Several doctors said they found dangerous concentrations of lead in the systems of a number of children living near the smelter.

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of ♣

Today's hand which came to us in the mail from a subscriber produced a swing of colossal proportions when it was dealt in a home team-of-four match. At one table, North and South were set one trick in their contract of five hearts, whereas at the other table a more ambitious competitor in the South seat not only bid a slam on the deal, but actually succeeded in winning 12 tricks.

West opened the bidding in second position with four spades and North doubled. While the double at this level is intended primarily for penalties, partner is not obliged to leave it in. South feared that the profit on defense might be negligible [West would actually have taken eight tricks if permitted to play four spades and, subtracting his honors, the net loss would have been a mere 200 points]. Holding a seven card suit, South made a reasonable takeout to five hearts which closed the auction.

West opened the king of spades and dummy played the ace. In his haste to pull trumps, South led the four of hearts at trick two. East played the deuce, declarer put on the king and West was in with the ace. The latter cashed the queen of spades on which East made the enlightening discard of the deuce of clubs. Warned that his partner held no high honor in that suit and despairing of winning another trick in the side suits, West—in desperation—returned a third round of spades, which proved to be a lethal thrust. South could not afford to ruff with dummy's queen of hearts, so he discarded a club. East scored the setting trick with the jack of hearts as declarer helplessly discarded from his hand.

Had South led the queen of hearts from dummy at trick two instead of a small one, retaining the king in his hand, he would have been able to cope effectively with a third round of spades from West. This play has the added advantage of protecting against East's holding all the missing hearts, for after the ace is dislodged and West shows out, then the jack can be picked up subsequently via a finesse.

At the other table, West also opened with four spades and North doubled. His partner was more ambitious however and fancied his holding sufficiently to leap directly to six hearts. The opening lead was the king of spades on which North played the ace. Since a quick spade discard was necessary, a small club was led at trick two and when East played the deuce, South successfully finessed the jack.

The ace of clubs was cashed, dummy entered with the king of diamonds and the king of clubs was led on which declarer shed the nine of spades. West was out of clubs himself, however he was obliged to ruff with the ace of hearts. A spade was returned, trumped by South and the latter proceeded to pull the remaining two hearts with the queen and king. His only loser on the deal was the ace of

MRS. HAYES STRIPLING SR.

MRS. JOHNNY JUSTISS

The outstanding junior clubwoman award went to Mrs. Hardy W. Lewis of El Paso. New district officers, other than Mrs. Stripling and Mrs. Angel, are Mrs. V. C. Phillips of Grand Falls, president; and Mrs. Vance Hendricks, Monahans, second vice president. Mrs. Justiss, parliamentarian for the 1941 Study Club of Coahoma was cited for her efforts in the club's project, "to work toward inspiring young girls in the community to the highest ideals of womanhood." Mrs. Justiss is a homemaking teacher at Coahoma High School where she guides students in their Future Homemakers of America work and serves as advisor for Howard County Young Homemakers. A resident of Coahoma for nine years, she is a Sunday school teacher at the First Baptist Church. She and her husband, who is vice president of Coahoma State Bank, are the parents of a son, Shawn, 5. Mrs. Hart Johnson of Fort Stockton, a supervisor for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, was speaker for the Diamond Anniversary dinner Friday evening, choosing as her topic, "Women in Public Affairs." A jubilee tea was held in the home of Mrs. Frank Fulk-

Friday afternoon, and the Holiday Inn was the scene of the lighting of the 75th anniversary cake as a conclusion to Friday's events. The formal opening of the convention came at 9 a.m. Saturday, business was concluded in the afternoon, and the climax was the Diamond Jubilee Awards Luncheon. It was during this time that the Modern Woman's Forum and 1965 Hyperion Club, both of Big Spring, were recognized as "Pioneer Clubs." The final luncheon was held at Holiday Inn where the president's address was by Mrs. Carpenter who said her administration, 1970-72, has as its goal, "Seeking a Better Environment with Womanpower." Mrs. Carpenter and her husband, Dr. Phillip A. Carpenter, were named Burkburnett's Outstanding Citizens in 1971. She is a prominent citizen of Texas in many areas and was appointed to the Governor's Committee on the Status of Women. The district's $300 scholarship was awarded to McCamey youth.

Celebrates Birthday At Dinner

The 85th birthday of Mrs. L. S. Patterson was celebrated with a luncheon for family members and close friends Monday at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Patterson, south of the city.

The honoree's other children, who were present for the event, were her daughter, Mrs. H. R. Jarvis of Houston, and her son, Malcolm Patterson, and his wife. Another son, Murry Patterson of Fort Worth, was unable to attend.

Others joining the group were the honoree's sister, Mrs. George Brown, and Mrs. Brown's son and daughter, George Lynn Brown of Odessa and Miss Nell Brown of Big Spring; Mrs. Buck Richardson and Mrs. C. B. Mace, the latter of Lubbock.

There are four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, a number of which attended the party which followed the luncheon.

Decorations carried out a blue and yellow theme, and the centerpiece for the dining table was an arrangement of yellow pansies.

Mrs. Steele Gets District Post

Mrs. Mae Steele was elected president of District 4 Eagles Auxiliary at a district convention of Eagles, hosted by Big Spring Aeries 3188, Saturday and Sunday at the Settles Hotel. She will be installed at the next district meeting, May 20-21 in Odessa.

Delegates and guests attended the convention from Crane, Fort Stockton, Lubbock, Midland, Odessa and San Angelo.

The next local auxiliary meeting is at 8 p.m., April 10 at the hotel.

'Need Books Immediately'

The Big Spring Herald has been notified by the University of Texas of the Permian Basin that local citizens who are contributing books to the Founder's Library should bring them to the Herald office by 5 p.m. Wednesday afternoon, if at all possible.

A presentation event is slated Thursday in Odessa, and it is hoped that a large number of books will be on hand at that time. Arrangements will be made here to transport the books to Odessa. Those who have large numbers of books to donate, and cannot bring them to the newspaper office, are asked to call The Herald, 263-7331; Mrs. Robert Knight, 267-2826; or Mrs. Roy Cederberg, 263-1825, and arrangements will be made to pick up the books. Among the latest contributors are Ed Ballard, the U.S. Experiment Station, Melvin Mathis, Terri Atkinson, Pete Valenzuela Jr., Dick Charles Montgomery, Bill David Montgomery, Pamela Sue Montgomery, Belinda Strong, Luther Caldwell, Mrs. Harry Hubbell Caudle, Robert Paul Downing and William Kelly Downing. Also, Larry Don Knight, Cindy Lou Knight, Mrs. Myrtle Lee, Dr. James Roberts, Jack Hulen Crenshaw of Abilene (formerly of Big Spring), Friends of the Howard County Library and members of Girl Scout Troop 409 from Kentwood School, Gay Mireles of the Scout troop donated a complete set of encyclopedias.

Farewell Coffee Held Saturday

Mrs. Garland Braun, who is moving to Alamogordo, N.M., was honored at a farewell coffee Saturday morning in the home of Mrs. Robert Knight, Silver Heels.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Dan Shockey, Mrs. Clovis Hale, Mrs. Carlisle Robison, Mrs. Ted Hicks, Mrs. Bill Narrell and Mrs. Gerald Wooten.

The honoree was presented a corsage of yellow daisies, and the hostesses each wore a cluster of daisies tied with yellow ribbon.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a rose-colored cloth and centered with an Easter basket filled with spring flowers. Silver appointments were used.

Use Wide End When ironing large things, say a tablecloth, rest the iron on the narrow end of the board. That way you can get maximum use out of the wide end of the board.

LGA To Sponsor 'Easter Parade'

The Ladies Golf Association, Big Spring Country Club, will sponsor a children's "Easter Parade" during the Easter Sunday buffet luncheon at the club.

Mrs. Bill Johnson, chairman for the event, will introduce the children during the informal program, and after lunch, they will be entertained with an Easter egg hunt on the grounds. Members and their guests are invited to attend. Reservations should be made by calling the club, 267-7701.

Handcrafts Club Exhibits Work

Members of Newcomers Handcrafts Club displayed individual projects Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Owen Gee. The items included cross-stitched quilts, a baby afghan and crocheted items. Work continued on the crocheted afghan which is a group project.

Mrs. Kitty Young was a guest, and Mrs. Eddie Sides became a member. The next meeting is at 9:30 a.m., April 12 in the home of Mrs. Joe Cox, 1315 Harding.

"Become Instrument Of Solution Rather Than Part Of Pollution"

Drugs, welfare and pollution were the topics discussed by Modern Woman's Forum at its annual "Texas Day" meeting Thursday at Coker's Restaurant. Directing the segments of the program were Mrs. Harwood Keith, Mrs. W. A. Laswell and Mrs. Hugh Duncan.

Crocheted Shift Petite, Charming fact that the state is near the Mexican border. She said a "Special Action Office of Drug Abuse Prevention" was established in Washington, D.C., in 1971 which is constantly searching for solutions to the drug problem, but that while work to "dry up" sources of drug supplies is needed, there is also a great need for aid to addicts to help them become useful citizens.

"People must be encouraged to help themselves if they are to maintain their human dignity," said Mrs. Laswell. "Our national welfare system is a mountainous failure." She indicated that one of the great strengths of America has always been that its people believed in helping those in need, but that too much assistance destroys initiative and eliminates dignity, which gives meaning to life.

Mrs. Duncan said pollution is an extremely serious problem throughout the world. In Texas, she said the major problems are in cities where sewage treatment facilities were built when the population was small.

"Texans must be concerned with what they can do individually," said Mrs. Duncan. "They must become a part of the solution rather than a part of the pollution."

Mrs. H. M. Rowe presided, and Mrs. E. C. Howard was hostess. The next meeting is April 14 at Holiday Inn, with Mrs. Fred Whitaker as hostess.

Shelton Ashley will speak about Welfare and Poverty — America's No. 1 Problem.

The district's $300 scholarship was awarded to McCamey youth.

Unsettling Price News

Food prices took their biggest jump in 14 years last month. That has to be unsettling political as well as economic news.

The jump defied economic controls aimed at deflating soaring living costs. Meat, primarily beef, accounted for 70 per cent of the increase.

Living costs are advancing at an annual rate of 4.9 per cent, which means the average 35-cent-a-week wage advance of rank-and-file workers came out to 11 cents in buying power.

For a President who reluctantly turned to economic controls to curb inflation, the news is all bad.

Yet the episode illustrates the tricky road of controls. Beef is one of the food items free of controls. Other costs that go into putting beef on the table are supposed to be controlled, within limits laid down by appropriate authority, but these "controlled" times lie between feedlot and table.

If the controls are doing any good, at all, the answer to higher meat prices is that people are buying it at a brisk rate and that producers are trying to supply it — at a profit, which is the reason they produce it. Blunt the profit significantly and production will drop. That's the ultimate flaw in a controlled economy.

The public supported Phase I controls — the freeze — in the hope that a psychology of restraint would set in to curb inflation which was running at about 6 per cent increase annually.

Restraint has to follow into eating habits, too, if they are to avoid the living-cost increases like last month's. Where the increase is concentrated in meat prices, a reaction can be achieved fairly

Reforms Must Wait

Gov. Preston Smith's plan for delaying a special session until after the June runoff primary has been torpedoed by two adverse developments. Attorney General Crawford Martin took a dim view of the plan to finance the party primaries on credit; the U. S. Department of Transportation issued an ultimatum on the highway beautification act deadline as it pertained to Texas.

So Saturday the governor relented and called a special session beginning today on the two items. Initially, he had planned to toll into the special session hopper the bombshell of second-year appropriations, but unless there is a groundswell from the Legislature to do so, this won't be con-rapidly — if the consumers want it.

Washington has no magic wand that can repeal the laws of supply and demand nor does it have the resources to induce producers to work without profit. An alternative — price supports for food products — hasn't worked very well in the massive farm price supports now ingrained in the federal budget to the tune of about $6 billion a year.

sidered. It would be a modern miracle if there were such a demand.

With the Easter holidays just around the corner, it is probable that only the primary funding and the highway beautification bill (regulating billboards), will be considered. It means that in this short term, the major procedural reforms which many Texans hope will come will have to wait for consideration. Perhaps the organization of the House may give some tip-off on how prospects for reform will stack up later. In our book, this stacks up in importance along side of appropriations, taxes, primary and highway funding.

Care For Your Car

Around The Rim

Joe Bright

Some people never seem to have any car problems; others seem to be plagued with mechanical failures regularly and at the most inconvenient times.

Usually, a car runs well because the owner knows what needs looking after and follows a schedule of preventive maintenance. Basically, the owner's manual which comes with a new car will tell facts you need to know about upkeep, but regardless of what car you own, there are a few things to keep in mind.

TIRES — Regular inspection will pay off. Air pressure should be checked every two weeks or at least once a month. Too little air will cause the tires to wear rapidly along the outer ribs of the tread; too much air will cause rapid wear on the center ribs and will reduce your car's handling and braking capabilities.

ALIGNMENT — Check car's front suspension twice a year because bumps, chuck holes or a hard thump against a curb can throw it off, resulting in a car that weaves and tires that wear fast and unevenly.

IGNITION — If a car is hard to start, regular tuneups can eliminate this problem. Most need a tuneup every 12,000 to 15,000 miles, and this includes new spark plugs, points and condenser and sometimes, a new rotor and distributor cap. (Spark plug wires can cause trouble, too, if they develop cracks. Battery posts should be scraped clean of corrosion periodically and then covered with a protective lubricant.

COOLING SYSTEM — Be sure there is plenty of antifreeze, but check hoses and belts, too, and replace if they are frayed. The thermostat, which regulates the flow of coolant through the engine, should be checked yearly, and have the mechanic look at the radiator pressure cap to make sure that the seal and valve are sound.

FILTERS — Cleaning and replacing the various filters is a must. A dirty air filter on the carburetor forces the engine to work harder and use more gasoline. An oil filter can get stopped up by solid particles — replace it at every, or every other, oil change.

BRAKES — At regular service intervals, the mechanic should check the master cylinder for adequate fluid level and for leaks, which could leave you without any brakes in an emergency. Don't try to get too many stops out of old linings, or don't go too far on disk brake pads. Either could cause additional damage and more expensive.

Other things with which to be concerned are lubrication, exhaust system (a potential killer!), shock absorbers and cleaning. A clean car may not run better, but a regular washing and polishing inside and out will keep it new longer and add enjoyment to your driving.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

I am sixteen years old, and I would like to know if there is anything in the Bible against dancing. My mother says that Christians are not supposed to dance. I like to go to parties and dance, but if the Bible says "no dancing," I will stop.

I am sure your mother refers to the type of dance in which couples are in bodily contact. This kind of dancing can arouse the passions and become the gateway to temptation.

Having said this, there are no specific admonitions against "dancing" in the Scriptures. There are of course allusions to worldliness, and the corrupt practices of the world system. We read: "Love not the world, neither the things of the world." I John 2:15. On the positive side we read: "Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus." Colossians 3:17. This is the real criterion for Christian conduct. If it glorifies God, and if you can do it in Jesus' name, confident that it will strengthen you spiritually, and not weaken your Christian testimony — then it is justified.

There is a legitimate kind of dancing mentioned in the Bible. "David danced before the Lord." II Samuel 6:14. And he said: "Thou has turned for me my mourning into dancing; thou hast put off my sackcloth and girded me with gladness." Psalm 30:11.

In Ecclesiastes it says: "There is a time to dance." Ecclesiastes 3:4.

Bonds Do Involve Risk

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the oldest, most persistent generalizations about the securities markets is that stocks involve risk and bonds do not; that if you want to conserve you invest in the latter, avoiding the former.

The seed is implanted in the mind despite the harsh environment of contrary information in college economic courses. It cannot be dislodged in adult life even by the evidence.

But bonds do involve risk. For example: A bond is purchased at a market value of $100, scheduled to mature in 25 years. No doubt about the company's guarantee. It will pay $100 in 1997 and 5 per cent dividends in the interim.

In the meantime, however, the trading price dips to 85. That's all the market will pay. The owner is confident that he will get his $100 at maturity, but can he wait that long? He finds he must sell, and so takes a $15 loss.

This is only a simple example, but it happens often. And now there is another reason why the purchase of bonds is hardly the wise way to seek conservation of capital: Inflation. In a massive but clear and erudite looseleaf volume called "Q-V-T—The Three Keys to Stock Market Profits," John Winthrop Wright, one of the nation's most consistently successful investment advisers, writes:

"Inflation has become a permanent factor in the economy of every nation, including the U.S.A. Therefore, ownership of fixed-income and deferred-dollar payment obligations is always a losing proposition for the investor."

Nothing startling about such an observation. Others have told us the same thing in other words, that it is wiser to be a borrower than a lender in times of inflation. Curiously though, we didn't apply this to the bond market.

Wright is a fundamentalist whose market philosophy is based on quality, value and timing—QVT. His statements are always backed by masses of data rather than by subjective observations. A sample:

Real Value Common Stocks	1949 $100	1950 $66.27
	1955 $214.81	1965 $63.70
	1965 $243.77	1968 $42.10
Real Value Corporate Bonds	1949 $100	1955 $85.25

Stall Food Prices

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — There was more good news on the cost of living from the Nixon Administration last week. It went up again. But Herbert Stein, one of the President's chief economists, said the only reason it had risen was because food prices had increased. If you eliminated food prices from the cost of living, he said, you would in fact have seen a decrease in the prices.

NOT MANY PEOPLE realized how well the President's anti-inflation policies were working until they were explained to them by Mr. Stein.

Since food prices seem to be the main problem, I can now reveal what the Administration is going to do about it.

Do not be surprised if you flip on your television set in a few weeks and see the President of the United States sitting at his desk behind his seal.

"My fellow Americans,

"I HAVE ASKED to speak to you tonight on a subject that is vital to everyone in this country. When I took office three and a half years ago, this country was on the road to inflation: an inflation that touched every household, every man, woman and child in this great land of ours. I vowed at the time to do something about it and I am happy to report to you tonight that my efforts have succeeded. I can now tell you that the price of baseball cards is down .8 per cent, the cost of trolley-car tracks has been reduced .9 per cent, men's straw hats are selling at one-third the price of 10 years ago.

"Lawrence Welk records have been reduced $1, and men's Nehru jackets are selling at a 50 per cent discount.

"THE REASON FOR the success of my anti-inflation program is the willingness of the American people to make sacrifices to stem the tide. "The only area we don't seem to have made any headway in our fight against rising prices is in food. Now I know you are going to say, 'If the price of food goes up how can we ever hope to hold down inflation?'"

"My fellow Americans, the answer to that question rests with each and every one of you out there. I am asking every person in the nation regardless of race, regardless of age, regardless of party affiliation, to stop eating.

"WHEN I SAY stop eating, I don't mean just meat or vegetables or fruit or bread. I mean stop eating anything."

"If everyone gives up three meals a day as long as Phase 2 is in effect, I assure you that our battle against higher prices will be won before the November election.

"Some of you may say, 'How can we give up eating when it has become such an important part of our lives?' At first it won't be easy. If I may add a personal note, Pat said to me just before the broadcast, 'Isn't there any other way of lowering the cost of living besides giving up food?'"

"AND I REPLIED, 'Pat, of course there are other ways. We could freeze farm prices, or put a ceiling on grocery distributors, or issue regulations barring rises in commodities. That would be the easy way, the political way, the economical way. But, as President of the United States, I must choose the hard way.

"MY FELLOW Americans, when you go to bed hungry tonight, remember you are not going to bed hungry because there is no food to eat, but you are going to bed hungry because you believe, as I do, in a healthy, stable economy.

Bullfighting Season

Hal Boyle

By FENTON WHEELER (Substituting for Hal Boyle)

MADRID (AP) — Another bullfighting season has begun in Spain but what's in store for the future seems uncertain for all but the bulls.

They, of course, by tradition must die. Before the season ends next fall, more than 13,000 of them will have been dragged from the nation's bullrings.

Their year, if they can be said to have one, is expected in 1973 when a new law takes effect requiring fighting bulls to be at least 4 years old. The bulls still will be killed—law requires it—but the theory is they should be able to make a better fight of it.

This season's outlook, however, for tourists, bullfighters, managers and breeders is less optimistic.

Spain's No. 1 bullfighter, Manuel Benitez, "El Cordobes," has announced his retirement. A mainstay at drawing crowds, especially tourists, El Cordobes has changed the style of modern bullfighting. His retirement, if it sticks, is expected to damage both revenue and spectator interest.

Two other good draws, Santiago Martin, "El Viti," and veteran Antonio Ordenez also have given up.

But it is the retirement of El Cordobes, a millionaire at 35, that is expected to hurt the most. He says he may turn to acting.

Some bullfight critics have implied El Cordobes was motivated to retire by the new law, pointing out that a 4-year-old bull is far bigger, wiser and stronger than the animals on which El Cordobes rode, sometimes literally, to fame.

Marijuana Myth

William F. Buckley Jr.

The recommendations of the National Commission, assuming the thoroughness of its research, are welcome. Up until two or three years ago, one could rudely say about marijuana that there wasn't yet enough evidence about its effects to warrant a substantial change in public policy towards the casual users of the drug.

BUT THE EVIDENCE began to mount, and Professor John Kaplan of Stanford University wrote a challenging book in 1970 in which he trod a delicate but altogether intelligible line. He said that whatever is ultimately discovered about the harm caused by marijuana, it is right now indisputable that the criminalization of the use of it is worse for more people than any foreseeable affliction from the use of it.

A year or so went by and Professor Lester Grinspoon of Harvard went much further. He said that enough is now known as the result of scientific testing about marijuana to make it scientifically responsible to state flatly that the occasional use of it does not harm the individual biologically or psychologically.

THE COMMISSION at the very least accepts the views of Professor Kaplan, and goes a long way towards accepting the views of Professor Grinspoon. It makes, however, an interesting distinction between the pusher and the consumer, one which no doubt would vex many law enforcement officials if the Commission's recommendations are widely accepted. But not one, surely, which is without precedent. The Commission says, in effect, that the use of marijuana, which after all does affect the mind, is hardly to be encouraged by filling the grocery stores with it. But that if an individual goes out of his way to get it, he will not be prosecuted, though the supplier will be.

I said on one occasion, taxed by a college student to explain my position against the legalization of pot, that it struck me as unbalanced that at one and the same time a state should a) legalize marijuana, and b) legalize soft drinks containing cyclamates. The Commission's recommendation in effect acknowledges the difficulty.

RGV Bookmaking Proves Costly

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Court Judge H. A. Garcia assessed two Lower Rio Grande Valley businessmen fines and suspended jail terms Monday after they pleaded guilty to felony bookmaking charges in connection with football betting.

The two men were arrested last October by Texas highway patrol officers who said they found 75 betting slips and $278 in a car occupied by the men.

Russians Ready To Test ICBM?

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird says the Soviets are not slowing down their strategic weapons buildup and may be ready to begin testing a new or improved intercontinental ballistic missile.

Laird, who was at Ft. Hood observing joint maneuvers by the Army and the Air Force, said at a news conference Monday that a Soviet pause in construction of new missile silos is not an indication of a Russian slowdown.

While Laird was discussing the Soviet arms buildup, a special team of Army investigators was looking for a missile reportedly stolen from a jet plane at Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin.

GUNMAN STRIKES
While the investigation was going on a lone gunman robbed the Non-Commissioned Officers Club of about $1,000. Two women cashiers at the club were tied up before the robber fled with the cash.

The missing rocket is a 2.75 inch air to ground missile. Laird answered with a terse "yes" when he was asked if the Russians were expected to begin tests fairly soon of a missile system destined for the new underground silos which were first spotted more than a year ago by U.S. reconnaissance satellites.

U.S. military experts feel that the silos are for the new or improved ICBM systems because they are larger than anything seen in the past.

One theory holds that the Soviets are building a missile that would pack even more of a nuclear punch than their giant SS9 ICBM which mounts a 25-megaton warhead.

SPECULATION
But there has not been any evidence of new missile tests and, without this, the U.S. experts says it is impossible to forecast accurately what the Soviets are planning.

The Pentagon said last week that the Russians have built between 90 to 100 silos, but that no construction has been spotted in recent months.

This has sparked speculation that the Soviets may be considering an agreement with the United States on limiting the number of offensive missiles.

But Laird said that there have been what he called "peaks and valleys" in Soviet missile activity with the valleys extending sometimes from 9 to 14 months.

Laird came to Ft. Hood to witness the performance of more than 23,000 troops participating in exercise "Gallant Hand 72" in which a mythical country, "Marcos," is invaded by a neighboring nation and the United States comes to the rescue.

Hussein To Explain State Plan To Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan meets with President Nixon today to explain the significance of his plan to transform his Middle Eastern kingdom into a federated state.

The Western-oriented monarch is also expected to ask for continued U.S. economic and military aid for his country. Middle East specialists here predict he will not leave empty-handed.

Hussein's visit, his fifth since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war and third since Nixon became president, is described as strictly private. In addition to his appointment with the President, the king will lunch with Secretary of State William P. Rogers and return to the White House for a dinner with Nixon.

Hussein might elicit an American reaction to his proposal for a semi-autonomous Palestinian state on the West Bank, now occupied by Israel. Since the king disclosed his plan in a speech March 15, U.S. officials have declined any comment on it. Nor has there been a response from the pro-Arab Soviet Union, despite noisy denunciations of the Hussein proposal in several Arab capitals.

Silence should not be interpreted as approval, some officials say privately. They acknowledged, however, that Hussein's initiative at least represents some movement in an otherwise-frozen situation.

Informists say the United States had no part in the preparation of the proposal and was not informed of it officially before the monarch spoke.

Military aid to Jordan, suspended when Hussein ignored Washington's advice and went to war against Israel in 1967, was resumed in the fall of 1970 after the king defeated the Palestinian guerrillas in Jordan and their Syrian supporters. Under a supplemental appropriation voted by Congress in December of that year, Jordan has received $30 million, and the current fiscal-year budget provides for a $45-million grant to Jordan. The administration is asking for $40 million for the coming fiscal year.

The National Retired Teachers Association is a non-profit organization, working to increase retirement benefits; pass legislation for the age 55-over group; to give the lowest price possible on prescriptions; to give the best hospitalization and other benefits. The Texas Retired Teachers Association has been active in explaining what is being done and an effort to secure a pension for retired teachers on air.

Retired Teachers In Session Today

All retired teachers, former employees, and others of the 55-over age group are invited to attend a meeting at 6 p.m. today in the Bridge Room of the Holiday Inn.

Olson Sweet, Assistant to the Texas State Director of National Retired Teachers Association, will explain what is being done and an effort to secure a pension for retired teachers on air.

Two Community Action Sessions Scheduled

LAMESA (SC) — Two special training sessions for persons associated with the Lamesa-Dawson County Community Action Program will be conducted this week by a training team from the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity.

Training for the Community Action Board members and staff members will be conducted at 7 p.m. today in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room. There are 36 members of the CAP board — 12 from the area councils; 12 from the governmental bodies, including the school district; and 12 from civic clubs and other organizations. A. J. McDaniel is president of the board.

A special training session for everyone concerned with the four Target Area Councils will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Middle School cafeteria. Part of the program is expected to include an explanation of the services and programs sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Anyone interested in this special session is urged to attend the meeting, according to Mrs. Viola Mojica, CAP program coordinator.

The OEO training team will consist of John Geisweid, team leader; Rudy Davila; and Ervin Butler. Mrs. Janette Everheart, executive director for the local CAP, urges everyone involved in the community program to attend the training sessions.

Tardy Tag Buyers Given Warning

Saturday midnight is the deadline for displaying the green-and-white 1972 license tags on all vehicles. Mrs. Zirah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector, is urging all county residents to buy their tags as soon as possible this week and avoid the long lines on Friday afternoon.

Saturday, the county tax office will be closed. The Webb AFB Federal Credit Union substation for license tag sales will also be closed. Newsom's Grocery on Gregg, authorized to sell license tags for passenger vehicles only, will be open Saturday.

License sales are $51,639.96 behind the 1971 total of $498,611.81, with 1972 fees collected currently totaling $446,971.85.

Keep Trying

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

NON-RIDER: (Q.) My best friend just got his driver's license. I am not allowed to go in a car with him or any of my other driving friends.
I follow all the other rules set by my parents, but I really object to this one. I have tried discussing it with them, but they won't change the rule.
I know that some teenagers have accidents but my friend is very responsible. He is 16. I am only 15, but I think that if I am to keep my friends I must be able to ride with them — Boycotted Boy in Pennsylvania.
(A.) Your parents seem to be finding it hard to realize you are growing up. Do not give up on your driving discussions with them. The talk will help them to get accustomed to the fact that a 16-year-old can be a good driver — in many cases better than the average adult.
They will need this awareness next year when you are ready to get your license.
I am sure that you will be a reasonable, careful and good driver.
"ENEMY": (Q.) I have the worst enemy ever. Every time I go anywhere she follows me. Every time she follows me there is trouble.
You'd never believe she is a girl. And what I can't understand is that she has the nicest family, but has to go around being a bully.
Sometimes she is sweet as can be, but when it comes to competition, such as swimming or selling cookies, she is a true brat. — 17 in Michigan.
(A.) It is not automatically a girl that she is going to be your enemy. I think she just has a lot of growing up to do. You can't grow up for her.

You may, however, be able to help her by being frank with her and telling her when she is particularly obnoxious. But when you tell her she is obnoxious, try not to be obnoxious yourself.

Princess Anne's Showing 'Vital'

CROOKHAM, England (AP) — Princess Anne's showing at the three-day horseback riding competition next month at Badminton will be vital for her selection to Britain's Olympic team.

The 21-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth II suffered a setback in competition Sunday when she failed to hold a lead and finished in eighth place. It was her first competition since winning the European three-day horse tria, championship last year.

Her 9-year-old gelding, Doublet, went well in the final stage of the Crookham horse trials, but picked up 29 time faults, wiping out the five-point lead gained Saturday by the princess.
