

CAPE KENNEDY, VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE

Space Shuttle Picks

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Rep. Lou Frey, R-Fla., announced today the United States will build two bases for the space shuttle—at Cape Kennedy and at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

In a telephone call to The Associated Press from his Washington office, Frey said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration would make the announcement at a news conference at Cape Kennedy later today.

Frey said that Cape Kennedy, America's premier launching site, would be used for initial testing of the space shuttle and that it would be the initial operational base for this reusable rocket plane.

Flight testing is expected to begin in 1976, with first manned test flights scheduled for 1978. The shuttle, capable of 100 or more trips into space, is expected to be operational late in the decade.

Frey said Cape Kennedy will be used mainly for NASA launchings.

He said that in 1979 or 1980 a second base will be in operation at Vandenberg. This will be used mainly by the Defense Department for military missions. The congressman said the Defense Department would pay for building its own base at Vandenberg.

Most NASA launchings require an east-west launching and Cape Kennedy is ideal for this type launch. The solid fuel booster rockets can be parachuted into the Atlantic offshore without endangering civilized areas.

But the Defense Department requires north-south polar orbits, the paths followed by most of this nation's military satellites, now launched from Vandenberg.

By launching south from the California base, the boosters also can be dumped into the sea.

Polar orbits can't be flown from the Cape because the boosters would overfly land areas.

The boosters will be recovered and refurbished for later launches. The orbital section, which can carry as many as 12 persons, will return to earth and land like a conventional aircraft. After refurbishment it will be ready to fly again in two weeks.

The selection of Cape Kennedy and Vandenberg ends a 3½-year NASA Defense Department search for a site.

The shuttle will be capable of delivering communications, weather, military and other satellites into orbit, and returning to earth payloads which need repair.

The shuttle also could be used as an interim space station, supporting its crew and as many as eight scientists, engineers and doctors who could conduct experiments.

Later, the shuttle could be used to ferry men and supplies between earth and permanent orbiting space laboratories. Such a laboratory is envisioned in the mid-1980s, and the shuttle would be used to carry sections of the station into orbit, where they would be assembled by astronauts.

HIJACKED CREW — Crew members of the hijacked Frontier Airlines 737 jet returned to Denver late Thursday night. Stewardess Jacquelyn Jones (right) told a news conference how the hijacker approached her and took a revolver from a paper bag, telling the stewardess he wanted to see the captain. Capt. Wilber R. Hurt (2nd right) pilot of the plane diverted the aircraft to Los Angeles from its Tucson destination. Olin Head (3rd right) 1st officer on the flight. The hijacker identified as Ricardo Chavez-Ortiz, surrendered to authorities in Los Angeles after allowing 27 passengers to deplane.

'I PAID THE PRICE' — Ruth Eiseman-Schier, who will be released today from prison after serving three years for the kidnaping of Florida land heiress Barbara Jane Mackie, talks with newsmen during interview last night in Milledge, Ga. "I'm not so naive, so foolish as I was. I now think before I do something," she said in the interview. She will be deported immediately to her native Honduras.

Dust Storm Warnings Issued For Huge Area

Thunderstorms, hail and dust swept parts of Texas into the morning today after winds during the night caused extensive damage in two towns and less damage in a third. One injury was reported.

During the early morning hours, thunderstorms, some severe, swept eastward from west of Fort Worth into the area of Denton and Roanoke.

Another line of thunderstorms moved on a line from west of Austin to Eagle Pass.

DUST ALERTS
Police at Weatherford reported golf-ball-sized hail fell for five minutes during a severe thunderstorm shortly before dawn.

The National Weather Service issued dust storm warnings for a wide area starting at the New Mexico border from Parker County south to Gaines County and east of there. The agency said visibility of a quarter mile was expected.

The Weather Service reported Bridgeport was struck by severe winds Thursday night. It said mobile homes were blown over, extensive window damage occurred, trees were uprooted, and power and telephone lines were knocked down.

Winds at Bridgeport reached 80 miles per hour, the Weather Service said.

KNOCKED DOWN
A half hour later, Sanger was struck by a storm that blew out windows, knocked down signs and injured one person. A sheriff's deputy said the lashing winds were straight and that no tornado occurred.

An hour after the Bridgeport storm, Gainesville was shaken. Damage occurred to homes and businesses and utility lines were knocked down.

Graford, about 12 miles northwest of Mineral Wells, reported hail the size of peas. Decatur reported lashing winds and one-inch hail.

Golfball-sized hail was reported in parts of Dallas County at mid-morning.

Irene Little Is Poised For Sterner Challenge

Irene Little is ready for the hard ones Saturday when she represents Howard County in the Regional Spelling Bee at Lubbock.

The 1972 champion, who edged Glenn Margolis in the finals here in late March, goes up against representatives from more than a score of South Plains counties Saturday.

When she was practicing for her College Heights and then the county spelling contests, Irene was aided by her brother and sisters. But in drilling for the regional finals, they weren't too much help to her.

"They can't pronounce the words," observed Irene, who had moved over into the advanced words division to concentrate in her practice for the regional competition. So her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Little, have been holding practice nightly in the tough section of the "Words of Champions." Irene will be bidding to repeat as regional champion, since it was Maridene Margolis, then of Goliad but now of senior high, who turned this trick last year and then went on to take 10th place in the nation.

When Irene competes Saturday, she will have a family rooting section. Accompanying her to Lubbock will be her parents, plus sisters Paige and Carrie. Her brother will be unable to make trip.

Irene will be a guest at a luncheon given by the sponsoring Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and will receive a gift as a participant in the regional bee.

Extortion Plot Foiled

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Two men have been captured after police detective Richard Hawkins posed as a bank executive and successfully thwarted the attempted extortion of $25,000 from Corpus Christi Bank & Trust Co.

The money was recovered Thursday after the arrests of the two men, according to Commander Ted Bullard, head of the police criminal investigation section. One of the men taken into custody was from Dallas and the other was a Corpus Christi resident.

Authorities said the extortion attempt began when the chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the bank, James T. Denton Jr., received a telephone call advising him his son had been kidnaped in Lubbock and would be killed unless the banker followed instructions for arranging a ransom.

Denton was instructed to gather $25,000 and take it to a telephone booth near Spohn Hospital here. The caller said he would call the telephone booth and give the bank official further instructions.

The bank official gathered the money while another officer of the bank notified police.

Lt. Floyd Graham and Hawkins were sent to the bank. Bullard said, and other officers sent to Denton's home to protect his family. Efforts also were begun to contact the son, James T. Denton III, at Texas Tech in Lubbock where he is a student.

'Air Pirate' Has His Say, Gives Up Gun

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Mexican father of eight who hijacked a jetliner, then gave a rambling interview to newsmen as he waved a handgun later found to be empty was described by authorities today as being motivated mostly by personal troubles.

Ricardo Chavez-Ortiz, 37, stressed social injustices suffered by minorities in a long speech broadcast on radio and television Thursday from a Frontier Airlines 737 he hijacked over New Mexico.

But the FBI and other officials said they believed Chavez-Ortiz, who has a history of psychiatric problems, was upset by having been fired from his job as a cook in Los Angeles and by other personal setbacks and was not a racial militant.

Brandishing a .22-caliber pistol, Chavez-Ortiz took over the jetliner shortly after 8 a.m. west of Socorro, N.M., and commanded it for 7½ hours, including more than five hours at an isolated area of Los Angeles International Airport where he had directed it to land.

His only demands were to "tell my story" on radio and television and to see a specific Los Angeles police artist.

AT LEAST FIVE Ratliff's Relatives On Payrolls

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Senate records show that state Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford at various times employed at least five of his own relatives, the Abilene Reporter-News said today. In addition, two other relatives were hired by other legislators.

The newspaper said that, in addition to employing his own daughter and son-in-law, Paul and Mary Jane Manloff, and having his own children employed by Rep. John Allen of Longview, Ratliff employed his father-in-law, a sister-in-law and a grand-nephew.

The three newly disclosed employees were said to be:

—James Gladish, the father-in-law, who was paid $250 monthly from January to May 1970 and $200 in July of that year. He is now in the Stamford Inn rest home. An official at the home said Gladish left there in March 1970, returned in September 1970 and has been there since.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Moss, sister-in-law, of Seymour. The record shows she was employed at $450 monthly in February this year. Her husband, W. C. Moss Jr., said she is now in a Seymour hospital following surgery and is not available for comment.

—Joe Thigpen, grand-nephew, described as a Texas Tech law student. Thigpen was employed last January at $150 a month. He said he was employed for longer but cannot remember how long.

Ratliff has not been reachable for comment. His business telephone is disconnected and his home telephone does not answer.

'Confused' Political Scene In Texas, Connally Admits

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Treasury Secretary John Connally strongly hinted today he will return to Texas before the primary election May 6 to participate in what he termed the "confused" political scene.

While sidestepping direct questions on political matters, Connally said: "I may well be back here (Texas) before the primary."

And then, smiling broadly, he added: "I may have something to say at that time."

The former Texas governor returned today to the campus of a university he helped establish to join in a tribute to the late Houston Harte, pioneer West Texas newspaperman and a founder of the Harte-Hanks Newspaper Group. Harte died in San Angelo March 13 at the age of 79.

Connally, in his dedicatory remarks, spoke of his "profound admiration and respect" for Harte and dedicated the Houston Harte University

Center "in his honor and in his memory."

The widow of the late newspaper executive, her head shielded against the sun by a straw hat, was seated on the speakers' platform between her two sons, Edward Harte of Corpus Christi and Houston II. Harte of San Antonio, both executives in the Harte-Hanks group.

The three Hartes were given a standing ovation when they were introduced to a predominantly youthful crowd on the academic mall outside the new structure.

Talking with newsmen at the rambling, palatial home of university President Lloyd Vincent, Connally, accompanied by his wife, Nellie, said he was in no position to discuss the civics of the present Texas political situation.

"Frankly, I have very definite ideas about it but I'm in a little difficult position. I'm here to dedicate a building honoring Houston Harte," he said.

Noting that he would leave here to attend another function honoring Texas Supreme Court Justice Robert W. Calvert in Fort Worth tonight, Connally said: "I don't want to mix politics in Texas with these two events."

However, he did say in response to a question that the Democratic gubernatorial race "is very confused, the people are confused."

He attributed the trauma in state politics to the Sharpstown State Bank scandals and their effect on state government.

"I think the atmosphere in Texas is bad... I don't know if I can do anything about it, but if I can I will," the secretary said.

Connally said there is too little competent political leadership in both the nation and the state, but that Texas needs "able, strong leadership... particularly in this turbulent year."

Preliminary competition is still under way to choose more competitors from a field of 39. ## West Texas Plane Crash

SEMINOLE, Tex. (AP) — The crash of a light plane in West Texas has claimed three lives. The three were identified as John Rogers, 52, of Hobbs, N.M.; Billy Junior Arnold of El Paso and Lyman Allison of Lovington, N.M.

The crash occurred late Thursday during a severe dust storm off U.S. 180 about 10 miles west of Seminole.

Investigators said the bodies were badly burned in a fire that followed the crash.

Shot Twice In Face

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A twice-married Trinity University senior was fatally shot early today and police held a young, bearded man for questioning.

The victim, shot twice in the face and once in the arm, was identified as Elizabeth Harris Strauch, 25, originally from the Washington, D.C., area.

Trinity officials said she was the mother of a three-year-old daughter and was an elementary education major.

Training Ends For Astronauts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Thirteen months of intense training ends today for the Apollo 16 astronauts, then they'll relax a day before taking off for the moon on Sunday.

John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II plan to spend most of the day in spaceship trainers, rehearsing as they have so many times the critical separation of the two spaceships, descent to the moon, liftoff from the surface and rendezvous and docking.

Young and Duke, who are to become the ninth and 10th Americans to walk on the moon, will be in the lunar module simulator and Mattingly in the command ship trainer.

This is the last day of training for the Apollo 16 crew, which was selected for the mission March 3, 1971.

On Saturday, they'll take the day off for relaxation in their crew quarters. They indicated they probably would spend some of that day reviewing the complex flight plan which is to take Young and Duke to the first landing in the moon's mountainous highlands.

They are to land near the crater Descartes in the highest region on the front side of the moon. Scientists believe this mountainous area was formed by two distinct volcanic events that occurred during the convulsive formation of the moon more than four billion years ago.

If Young and Duke find the volcanic evidence, it will show the moon once had a hot, active interior like the earth. The rocks they collect also might tell scientists why the moon at an early stage lost its heat and became a relatively dead planet.

At the launch pad, the countdown proceeded on schedule toward the planned liftoff of the Saturn 5 rocket at 12:54 p.m. EST Sunday.

Gordon Turner, lead test supervisor, reported there were no problems in the rocket, spacecraft or ground support equipment.

The weather outlook for Sunday's launch remained satisfactory, with a forecast of partly cloudy skies, southwest winds of 15 miles an hour and temperature of 80.

Museum's Exhibit Will Continue Until May 1

The Heritage Museum exhibit on Pioneer Women, easily the biggest drawing card to date, is heading down the home-stretch.

The executive committee Thursday affirmed the schedule for the exhibit to close May 1 in order to make way for the Western art exhibition which will be at the museum May 7-18 under auspices of the American Association of University Women.

When this is cleared, preparations will be made for a major exhibit, "Winning of the West," designed to appeal especially to summer tourist traffic. This will go through September, then be replaced by a special showing of paintings by H. W. Taylor, pioneer Big Spring artist, through October.

There will be an interlude from May 20-24, to coincide with Armed Forces Day and the 30th anniversary of Webb AFB. The museum plans a special exhibit during this period.

The policy of keeping the museum open Saturday and Sunday afternoons, from 2-5 o'clock, was confirmed. The board also voted to send Mrs. Jerry Atwell to Fort Stockton April 27 to a seminar being conducted by the Texas Historical Commission. Daryle Hohertz, chairman of the exhibits committee, will make a similar one at Texas Tech April 28.

Scouting Is Adjusting To Times, Group Told

Changes are coming in the Boy Scout program, Jim Armstrong, field director for the Buffalo Trail Council, told the Lone Star District committee meeting Thursday noon at the VA Hospital.

Improvements, might be a better word, he added, although they may cut across the grain for a few of the old-line scouters.

Most changes recognize a different age — that most fires today are started with matches; that certain sections of the country don't have swimming pools and that by the same token there are other types of life saving than in aquatics. Training will tend toward the man-to-man type, and superstar scoutmasters who rule a one-man kingdom will be downgraded.

Boy Scouts of America aren't springing this overnight, he explained. Twenty-five councils have tried it across the nation for the past five years, and they have held the average boy in Scouting for three years longer.

Bill Brooks, training chairman, said that the district was in the odd position of having completely manned training teams but with too few leaders reporting for training. Welland Brown, health and safety chairman, said drug abuse materials had been issued. Capt. Steve Paige said that plans were virtually complete for the Explorer, Olympics at Webb AFB April 21-22, and that 150 reservations had been made.

Capt. Clyde McLeon's Exposition team reported gross revenues up $100 for the year. Paul Koshi said that Boy and Girl Scout units would work together in a beautification project April 29. Preparations are complete for the district Camporee May 5-6, said Ralph Beckham. Jimmy Ray Smith's commissioners met Thursday to follow up on re-registrations.

The sustaining membership campaign is progressing, according to George Zachariah, finance chairman, and Jack Powell. Chaplain A. C. Hicks, district chairman, presided, and guests were members of the training committee — Joyce McCullough, Ruby Bruns, David Pohl and Bill Sneed.

Center Needs Are Discussed

In an effort to build support for the local rehabilitation center, Jim Thompson and Robert Whipkey have currently been visiting with civic clubs in the city, explaining the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center's need for monetary assistance.

In the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club this week both men presented a program, describing the operation of the center. Thompson also showed some slides of techniques used at the center in the rehabilitation of persons with various maladies caused from sickness and accidents.

Each man discussed the growth the center has had in the past 10 years since its inception, and the budget problems it is now experiencing with the lack of operational funds.

Following the meeting, the board of directors of the Kiwanis Club voted that the proceeds from this year's Rodeo Bar-B-Que would be donated to the center for the purchase of equipment.

When the club began the Bar-B-Que 10 years ago the proceeds went to the center. Therefore, it was decided this week pending approval of the board on a year-to-year basis, that in the future all proceeds from the Bar-B-Que will go to the Rehabilitation Center, according to Ken Strickland, Kiwanis-Gram editor.

Thompson visited with the local Jaycees last week, presenting the same program. Jaycees decided to donate proceeds from an upcoming dance to the center.

TO BUILD FIGHTER PROTOTYPE GD Gets Giant Pact

FORT WORTH (AP) — Fort Worth's General Dynamics plant was one of two aircraft companies picked Thursday to build prototypes of a new light-weight fighter plane.

The Department of Defense made the announcement through Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., of Fort Worth.

Also awarded a big contract was Northrop Corp. of Hawthorne, Calif.

General Dynamics received a $37.9 million contract while the award to Northrop involved $39.1 million.

Each firm will design and build two prototype aircraft which the Air Force will use to determine the feasibility of developing a small, lightweight, low-cost fighter plane. The first flight tests are scheduled to begin in the next 18 to 26 months.

Three other firms bidding for the fighter contract were Boeing, Ling-Temco-Vought, and Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

As the avionics contractor for the B1, Boeing of Seattle, Wash., received a $62.5 million award to provide the electronics and navigation equipment for the new swing-wing bomber now under development by the North American Rockwell Corp.

Losing bidders on the B1 contract were General Dynamics, Hughes Aircraft Co., IBM Corp., and North American Rockwell Aircraft.

"On the basis of that competition, it is expected the Air Force will award one of the companies a long-term, production contract to build many hundreds of the planes," Wright said.

The important thing about Thursday's action, Wright said, is that it keeps General Dynamics in business.

"We're in the ball game in a period when a lot of aircraft companies are falling by the wayside . . ." he said.

"This is strictly a prototype program for testing some new technology applied in a simple way in a very lightweight, highly maneuverable air-to-air superiority fighter," said Lyman C. Josephs, Convair Aerospace Division vice president and light-weight fighter program director.

"The objective is to see whether this kind of technology is really useful in the operational arena," he said in a Fort Worth press conference.

It is considered unlikely that the Air Force would order planes from both companies.

BET ON WIN

Wright said he is confident that General Dynamics "will acquit itself well in this competition. They've built some fine planes in the past and I'll put my bet on them winning it."

Josephs said the fact the amount of General Dynamics contract is lower than that awarded Northrup is of no real significance.

"We were asked to structure a contract price within a certain scope of work, and the Air Force did not give us very much specific instructions as to how much work they really wanted," he said.

"Each contractor structured his own program and ours came out a little less than Northrup's," Josephs said.

Josephs said one major objective of the program is to make as inexpensive a plane as possible, "to reverse the trend in what's been happening to weapons systems in the last 15 years."

General Dynamics officials would reveal few specifics about the plane's design and capabilities, saying some additional data probably will be released in a few months as it is declassified.

DAY FIGHTER

However, Josephs did say the plane is "an air superiority day fighter."

"It is for the purpose of engaging the enemy in air-to-air combat in conditions when you can see the enemy visually," he said.

He said he considers the plane "a relatively simple airplane."

"However, it does embody advanced technology of the types that haven't been tried before. If they are successful — and we believe they will be — it will make a quantum jump in the effectiveness of air-to-air combat fighters," Josephs said.

The General Dynamics plane will be a single engine, single pilot, supersonic jet, which Josephs said will be "a modern advanced technology version of some of the class of air superiority fighters that the U.S. Air Force and the U.S. Navy had in the early and middle 1950's."

The defense department is exploring the lightweight fighter concept in an effort to reverse trends toward increasingly expensive and sophisticated fighters.

Josephs would not give the exact weight of the plane, but did say "The Air Force officially said they wanted a plane that was under 20,000 pounds gross weight."

WEIGHT MYSTERY

He said General Dynamics in its submitted proposal, "met that without any problem at all. In fact we bettered it."

Josephs said he knows nothing about the Northrup prototype and how it compares to the General Dynamics model.

Even Dry Skin Needs Cleaning

Dry skin needs thorough morning and night cleansing just as much as oily skin, but the traditional soap and water method may make the skin dry even more. To add to the problem, dry skin is very often sensitive too.

The solution is to utilize gentle lotion for cleansing. It thoroughly removes makeup and actually softens the skin at the same time — and is gentle enough for the most sensitive skin.

Just spread the creamy lotion generously on your face and then tissue off. Rinse with cool water and pat dry and see how soft and smooth your clean skin feels.

Explains Causes Of Dental Disease

"The main cause of dental disease is dental plaque, a bacterial formation on the edges of teeth," said Dr. J. T. Clark of Odessa, speaking at District 24, Texas Nurses Association, Tuesday evening in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

"New Horizons In Dentistry" was Dr. Clark's subject title. He said decay and pyorrhea (inflammation of sockets of the teeth which causes loosening of the teeth) are 90 per cent of dental trouble.

"The toothbrush is not effective in removing all plaque which causes these diseases," said Dr. Clark. "The best treatment is a daily control program which stirs up the plaque at least once every 24 hours." Proper diet and dental care were also encouraged. Dr. Clark is a graduate of Washington School of Dentistry, St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Eileen Holley of Odessa, a dental hygienist demonstrated a proper control program for preventing build-up of plaque.

Mrs. John Payne presided, and Mrs. E. P. Driver announced she recently attended a meeting in Wichita Falls about new trends in school nursing.

A LOVELIER YOU Teens' Diet Habits Need Looking Over

By MARY SUE MILLER

The dietary habits of too many teen girls fail to make a passing grade. In spite of all the teen talk about natural foods, the consumption of naturals — vitamin C, calcium and iron — falls short of adequate. And those nutrients, plus protein are essential to a strong body, sound teeth, physical stamina, stable nerves and good skin and hair. Not to mention normal weight!

Deficiencies are mainly of Miss Teen's own making. She eats gooey snacks and puts on weight. Then, still snacking, she skips on meats and vegetables. Or she is so finicky that she eats scarcely anything; she fades away to skin and bones.

Either way, her intake is never properly balanced. Her weight, verve and looks suffer grievously.

Let's reorder the daily pattern of eating. For calcium, protein, and riboflavin (B-vitamin); 4 cups of vitamin D skim milk, (vitamin-D is necessary to ingestion of riboflavin). For iron, protein and B-complex: 3 servings chicken, lean meat, fish or eggs. Example, 2 eggs at breakfast, hamburger patty at lunch, broiled liver at dinner.

For vitamins C and A: 1 cup orange or half grapefruit; 1 cup tomato juice; large portions dark green and deep yellow vegetable. For iron: Baked potato with skin, 2 tablespoons wheat germ.

Those foods add up to 1500 calories. To lose healthfully and then maintain normal weight, you need an additional 800 or 900 calories. To gain, at least 1500 more calories are required. You may use those calories, whichever your goal, for any food your heart desires. But never an overload of sweets.

YOUR GAIN

Are you too, too thin? And you never can gain an ounce? Send for my leaflet, "Your Gain." TEXAS CAMPAIGNS GET HOTTER

Barnes Rejects News Accounts Linking Him With Nepotism

By The Associated Press

New and thorny campaign issues have emerged in Texas political camps after Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes rejected news accounts linking him with legislative nepotism, senatorial candidates Ralph Yarborough and Barefoot Sanders tangled over federal programs and gubernatorial candidate Dolph Briscoe was accused of having a private road built at taxpayers' expense.

Sanders Thursday voiced opposition to a national health care plan which he said Yarborough has advocated. Sanders' stand came after Yarborough challenged him to pinpoint which federal programs he would eliminate that Yarborough sponsored while serving in the U.S. Senate.

Sanders, who was interviewed in Dallas, said the program would cost $77 billion and that Yarborough's advocacy of it represented excessive spending.

CANCER FUNDS

Sanders said he would not cut out programs such as the Cold War G.I.

Bill, efforts to fight cancer, or bilingual education — all measures which Yarborough sponsored in the Senate.

He said, however, that Yarborough pays no heed to where money to finance programs will have to be raised, and continually advocates spending approaches to problem-solving.

Yarborough earlier reiterated his support of programs to spend federal money fighting cancer, to pay for the education of military veterans of the cold war, for bilingual education, and other programs that were investments that pay dividends. He called on Sanders to single out those programs he considers wasteful.

He maintained that the true culprit to blame for heavy federal budgets and budget deficits is the Vietnam War.

"DOWN THE PIT"

Yarborough said the United States has poured $140 billion "down that pit" in Vietnam. Inflation is continuing upward, Yarborough said, and one of the quickest ways to halt it would be to get out of Vietnam completely.

Meanwhile, Barnes said he thought it was "extremely unfair" that the name of his son, Greg, 13, was brought into newspaper stories about legislative nepotism. Barnes said his son received a $5.50 check for serving as honorary page the opening day of the 1965 session, but for the rest of the time, when Greg was a regular page, his wages were paid by Barnes.

Frances Farenthold, Democratic candidate for governor, told students at the University of Texas at El Paso that UT regents are pushing the UT system to the brink of ruin.

"The resignations in the past week of five more teachers and two department chairmen at UT-Austin is further evidence that the once great faculty there is now a shambles," she said.

ROAD RAPPED

In Austin, Sens. Oscar Mauzy, Dallas, and William T. Moore, Bryan, called a special news conference to claim that Dolph Briscoe, Democratic candidate for governor, used his influence to get a $209,000 road built across his South Texas ranch at taxpayers expense. Moore is a local campaign manager for Barnes.

In other developments, disharmony has hit the Republican camp.

Sen. Henry Grover, Houston, Republican candidate for governor, said one of his opponents, David Reagan, acts like "a desperate candidate whose entire campaign has been negative and personal. . . The party hierarchy is again bent in making a deal with the liberals like they did in 1970. That's why they have picked a liberal college political science professor like Reagan."

Reagan said in Houston that Republicans must elect a reform-minded candidate "capable of taking on this one party Democratic monopoly with all its ingrown waste and corruption."

GROWTH TAXES

In Odessa, Tom McElroy, Dallas, said he was the only Republican candidate for governor who could defeat a Democrat. "My appeal is to the hard working, tax paying, common-sense middle road conservative who is tired of the political circus in Austin," he said.

Briscoe said in Richardson that Texas has growth taxes totaling $375 million every two years "which goes far toward meeting any new tax needs. I propose to live within those means." Briscoe repeated his opposition to any extension of the sales tax to food and medicine.

Gov. Preston Smith said in Lufkin that the opening phase of his 72-stop campaign tour has received a "tremendous" response. "This great opening phase renews the faith that I have always had in the Texas voters," he said. "It confirms again for me that the people are not looking for a governor who gathers together the largest number of paid celebrities to attract crowds."

Tom Carlidge, the walking candidate for U.S. Senate, was reported leaving Waxahachie and heading toward Italy.

ETHICS BILL

Sen. Wayne Connally, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, said Thursday he would "wage a continuing program to bring new industry to Texas with new jobs and new opportunities for our people." He spoke at the dedication of a new plant for Rubhmann Manufacturing Co., a manufacturer of shovels.

Bill Jones and Bill Hobby, both Democratic candidates for lieutenant governor, crossed paths in Abilene when both campaigned at Hardin-Simmons University. Later both were guests at a Lions Club luncheon.

Sen. Joe Christie, candidate for lieutenant governor, told a coffee in Jacksonville, that "meaningful ethics bill can help cure the current confidence crisis in state government, but only honest elected officials can insure honesty in the statehouse. The voters must bear the responsibility of putting honesty back in the Capitol."

Dowdy's Case Is Delayed By House Committee Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House ethics committee widened its investigation of Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., Thursday to probe charges that his wife is using taxpayer's money unlawfully in her campaign in Texas.

But the committee put off for the sixth week a decision on whether to recommend House punishment of Dowdy himself. He was convicted of taking a $25,000 bribe.

Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, said an hour-long discussion Thursday dealt almost totally with allegations about Mrs. Dowdy.

$22,500 JOB

She is remaining on her husband's payroll in a $22,500 job while campaigning to replace him in Congress in a slightly enlarged East Texas district.

State Sen. Charles Wilson, a Democrat like the Dowdys, officially complained to Congress that Mrs. Dowdy was sending out campaign literature under her husband's free mailing privilege (the frank), which is supposed to be restricted to members only and limited further to noncampaign material.

Price said both the complaint about the frank and about Mrs. Dowdy's payroll status will be investigated further by the committee staff. He said he hoped there would be a decision by next Wednesday on the use of the frank, but he later added that the ethics committee might only buck the issue to another House committee more directly responsible.

VOTE ISSUE

More than six weeks ago, Reps. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., and Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., formally petitioned the ethics committee to look into their suggestion that Dowdy be stripped of committee and House floor voting rights while he appeals his conviction and its 18-month prison sentence. At that time, they said the committee should have time to make up its mind within a month.

Wiggins said Thursday he had been assured on Wednesday by an ethics committee member that the committee would recommend that Dowdy be deprived of voting.

Price, however, said the committee spent very little time discussing the Waldie-Wiggins request Thursday. He said he didn't know when the committee would make a decision on that. When asked if he expected it would be before Congress adjourns—and Dowdy's term expires—Price said he thought it would be.

"We are checking to determine what the inconsistencies are," Price said about the Wilson claims of postal frank abuse against Dowdy.

"We have some doubt as to how it was mailed," he added, referring to Mrs. Dowdy's campaign literature.

He said there are no hard-and-fast rules against congressional employes campaigning—even for their own political future rather than for their boss.

"The only provision in the rules and regulations is that members of the Congress shall require a day's work for a day's salary of their employes," Price said.

Dowdy contends his wife is on extended vacation, as far as his payroll is concerned.

Butter Use Record Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Per capita use of butter dropped to 5.7 pounds in 1971, the third successive dip and the lowest mark on record for the spread, according to Agriculture Department records.

Meanwhile, per capita margarine use rose slightly to a new high of 11.1 pounds last year, the department says in a report on the fats and oils situation.

Butter consumption has been on the skids generally since the shortages of World War II and margarine has been climbing since then, according to government records.

In 1934, Americans ate an average of 18.3 pounds of butter each. Even in 1942 it held at 15.7 pounds on a per capita basis. But by 1944 butter had dropped to 11.8 pounds and has not been as popular since.

WINNING CARTOON — This cartoon, drawn by Rodney Hammack, HCJC newspaper associate editor, was awarded top honor in the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association newspaper contest.

HC Students 2nd In TIPA Contest

By BEN JOHNSON III Howard County Junior College journalism students compiled the second highest total of individual entry points in the newspaper division of the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association contest. HCJC had 35 points compared to Amarillo College's leading 37.

Results of the contest were announced at an awards banquet Tuesday night in McAllen, which concluded the three-day TIPA convention.

Rodney Hammack, HCJC campus newspaper associate editor, won first in the division II in Humorous Cartoon category. The judge commented, "Although all entries in this category are cute, Hammack's is especially well done and its meaning would be understood by anyone who knows about Halloween activities of kids."

Ben Johnson, editor of El Nido, placed second in the general column category. The judge noted, "Johnson's work is of a more flippant nature, but he handles it well and shows imagination and a flair for fantasy."

Hammack also took second place honors in Editorial Cartoon, Critical Review, and he teamed with John Tidwell and Karen Ashley for the runner-up position in news feature.

Johnson placed second in Feature, and captured third place spots in Sports Story and Sports Feature. Robin Hoover, former El Nido staffer who now attends Texas Christian, won second in Specialized Column.

Amarillo College and UT-Arlington tied on top in the TIPA sweepstakes contest with 82 points. Sweepstakes points are determined from individual entry rankings in newspaper, yearbooks and magazines.

Edwin Newman, of NBC news, spoke to the convention Monday night on the Pan American University campus.

'AINT NOTHING WRONG WITH THAT GIRL' Thunder Road Interesting?

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

CHON THANH, Vietnam (AP) — "What's wrong with this girl?" asked Capt. Mike McDermott, holding up a Stars & Stripes that showed Raquel Welch in fulsome cleavage at the Academy Awards ceremony.

He was hard to hear over the blam-blam of howitzers firing at an enemy machine gun somewhere nearby in the jungle scrubs.

"Ain't nothing wrong with that girl," answered the major advising the ARVN — Army of the Republic of Vietnam — artillery. "Nothing at all."

IT'S DANGEROUS

"Good," said the captain, raising his voice to contend with a helicopter whirling down to take out some wounded.

"Then there's nothing wrong with me. So far."

McDermott, from Highmore, S. D., squatted at a field telephone in the corrugated sewer pipe serving as the front line command post on Highway 13, Vietnam's Thunder Road.

A four-year man in the Nam, having extended twice on previous tours with the 101st Airborne, the captain took issue with a visitor who called Highway 13 "interesting."

"That's rear echelon talk," he corrected between telephone squawks telling why he couldn't get more air strikes and what had become of the water he ordered yesterday for his men.

"It's not interesting. It's dangerous. Goddam dangerous."

He found no argument in this quarter. On the drive up from Saigon this reporter and two other AP men hit the floorboards when a B40 rocket tried to zero in on our hired car and an AK47 rifle pop-popped from only a few hundred yards away.

HAPPY CHAOS

Only a few miles back, Route 13 had been a happy chaos of three-wheel taxicabs, oxcarts, droning motor bikes, over-crowded provincial buses, mobile noodle restaurants, and women in conical hats at roadside markets.

Now the wide road through the rubber plantations and stretches of scrub jungle was empty and menacing except for an occasional lumbering armored column. Asia's teeming tide of life recedes and vanishes in the patch of advancing armies.

Just around the bend from where the rocketeer took aim at our blue Buick, the 21st ARVN Division from the Mekong Delta was strung out in a long line. Moving up to relieve An Loc, 60 miles from Saigon, the column was held up by the fighting at Fire Base No Name, where Capt. McDermott begged for water and air strikes. Under a blazing noon sun, the troops squatted in the shade of their armored vehicles, longing for a nice cool rice paddy to wade in.

RUBBER ROAD

Highway 13, Indochina's rubber road, runs from the outskirts of Saigon deep into Cambodia and is a living road map — or perhaps a death map — of the war that won't go away.

Here is grown the finest rubber in the world. Beginning at Lai Khe, halfway to the Cambodian border, the plantations are immense, some of them 75 miles square and employing 20,000 men.

The tall orderly stands of rubber trees look shady and cool and peaceful. They're not. They meet war's specifications for slaughter.

Splendid cover against planes, perfect protection for ambushers crouched behind the trees to fire down the long straight rows at the exposed highway.

Here in 1964 and '65, ARVN regiments were massacred in slaughterhouse scenes of running blood and dripping latex. Then the U.S. 1st Division, the Big Red One, arrived in July 1965, and staked out the rubber plantation country and the surrounding scrubby jungles of War Zones C and D as its own Charlie-hunting preserve.

BIG RED ONE

The Big Red One had a howitzer named Bau Bang and another named Ben Cat, both firing into the jungles in those directions. Pacification in these parts came out of the barrel of a gun.

The 1st Division built an orphanage at Ben Cat in honor of Sgt. Arthur McMellon, a mess cook who was kind to kids.

The division went home two years ago and the orphanage, like its base camps, was obliterated. The sergeant's name was obliterated. Now, in the renewed fighting, it's been abandoned. Except for an occasional helmet out in the bush or rusting tins of C-rations, time and the jungles have all but wiped out the American presence.

DAYS OF HOPE

There were days of hope and high promise on Route 13 over the years. In the Spring of 1967 the Big Red One cleared the road all the way to the border, and the first big convoy of rubber moved down to the Saigon docks from the Terre Rouge plantation. RMK, the big construction firm, widened and improved the road, and last fall for the first time in seven years Vietnam began exporting rubber.

Troops Recapture Most Of Loc With Aid Of Heavy B52 Strikes

SAIGON (AP) — Counter-attacking South Vietnamese troops were reported tonight to have recaptured virtually all of the provincial capital of An Loc.

Enemy rockets exploded in a Saigon suburb, killing 15 Vietnamese civilians and wounding six, bringing the war to the capital for the first time in the current offensive.

Battlefield reports from An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, said government troops were reinforced with 400 paratroops and aided by heavy U.S. B52 strikes in the counterattack that latest reports said had retaken all but two blocks of the city.

FORCED BACK

Earlier, the Vietnamese high command said the enemy had been forced back outside the city limits after seizing the northern part of the provincial capital in a tank-led assault Thursday.

An unknown number of 100 pound rockets slammed into northern Saigon around Tan Son Nhut airbase. All but one fell off the base into civilian housing. It was here the 15 persons died and at least six others were wounded. There was no reported damage or casualties from the lone rocket that hit inside the big air base.

The skies over North Vietnam suddenly cleared today and waves of U.S. jets streaked in for heavy attacks north of the demilitarized zone.

The bombing has been seriously hampered by heavy monsoon clouds restricting attempts to hit enemy troops, tanks and supply columns heading south toward the DMZ. The weather was termed the best yet for American pilots who had resumed bombing the north April 6.

SIX JETS DOWN

Radio Hanoi claimed six U.S. jets were shot down during the raids, it said at least four North Vietnamese provinces were attacked, giving some idea of the scope of the aerial offensive.

The eight jet B52s dropped about 1,000 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese troop concentrations a mile west and a mile northeast of An Loc.

Waves of helicopters landed the paratroopers to the southeast. Field reports said they were engaged in light contact with the enemy.

South Vietnamese rangers were reported fighting small groups of North Vietnamese on the eastern edges of the town.

Antiaircraft fire was said to have decreased sharply. The weather was clear, and scores of U.S. fighter-bombers were in action.

KNOCKED OUT

The Saigon command claimed 369 North Vietnamese killed Thursday and today, 200 of them by air strikes. An official spokesman, Col. Le Trung Hien, said 33 North Vietnamese tanks were destroyed, including 18 inside An Loc by South Vietnamese tanks and other anti-tank weapons.

Other reports said 37 enemy armored vehicles were knocked out, including seven T34 medium tanks, the biggest the North Vietnamese have.

One B52 raid by chance knocked out a North Vietnamese tank attack before it developed, field reports said.

The tanks appeared out of the sunset Thursday, and a U.S. ground observer hurried to call in air and artillery strikes. Just at that moment a flight of B52s arrived high overhead, and the tanks were in the target area.

The reports said at least three of the tanks were destroyed.

ENEMY GUNNERS

During the night enemy gunners slammed 50 rockets and mortar rounds into the provincial headquarters in the southern part of the town, killing or wounding about 10 Vietnamese, field reports said.

There was no word of progress from the 20,000-man government relief column which Thursday night was reported stalled by enemy fire 15 miles south of An Loc.

On the northern front below the DMZ, field reports said the South Vietnamese were still holding on to Fire Base Bastogne, 12 miles southwest of Hue, but apparently were running short of water. The base stands in the way of long-range artillery attacks and ground thrusts against Hue. It has been surrounded and under heavy pressure for four days, and supplying it has become a major problem.

ELEGANCE AND UTILITY — Visitors on the Highland Mall Saturday will observe a wide sweep in automotive elegance and efficiency Saturday in the display by Dewey Ray Motor Company. What many regard as the most luxurious American automobile, the Imperial, is shown above, and what also is the ultimate in comfort and utility is the striking new and powerful Dodge pickup. Show hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Chrysler Lines To Be Displayed Saturday

A special showing of the famous Chrysler lines will be spotlighted in the air conditioned Highland Mall Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dewey Ray is providing a display of latest Chrysler, Dodge and Plymouths, along with the line of Dodge trucks.

In the spotlight will be the Chrysler Imperial, regarded by many authorities as the most regal of the luxury line.

While industry trends have been dictating reduced styling and appearance, Chrysler's Imperial has emerged as an all-new luxury automobile with simplified but elegant lines. Additionally, the Imperial includes several engineering innovations to improve upon safety, ecology and driver-passenger comfort.

An exclusive wheelbase in the Chrysler line, Imperial is 127 inches with an over-all length of 229.4 inches.

Over-all width is 79.6 inches, height 56 inches, front track 62.4 inches and rear track 63.4 inches. In addition to establishing a new contemporary and appealing look, the body design encompasses functional and safety features. Bumpers include protection against damage to lights, and exhaust. Color-keyed body side moldings provide added protection. Fiberglass fender skirts are standard.

A unique electronic ignition system eliminates need for breaker points, a common cause for increased emissions due to engine misfiring. Heating and air conditioning, already superb, have been improved for the ultimate in passenger comfort. AM-FM radios, as well as stereo tape decks, are optional. Naturally, the Imperial has power steering power disc brakes, automatic transmission, and vinyl roof. Also on display will be Newport and station wagon models.

Among the Dodge models, everything has been completely restyled for the 1972 models. The big news for Dodge is found in the many engineering and mechanical improvements, the employment of electronic ignition, a new 400 cubic inch V8 engine, quieter automatic transmission. The models have brighter backup light stronger impact-resistant seat tracks, improved parking brake system, simpler and safer bumper jacks. The outside lines are longer, with a 122-inch wheelbase. Safety features include warning light reminders for lap and shoulder belt system. Models displayed include Challenger, Monaco and Charger.

Plymouth long has had a reputation of being just about the most durable and efficient as well as smartest styled of the popular price range. In the Fury line, as well as the Valiant and others, new hardtop designs have emerged for the cars along with six wagons. The wheelbase is 120 inches, and head, shoulder and leg room will be as large or larger than some of the high-priced competitors.

New treatments accentuate the bumpers, grilles, lamps and exterior ornamentation. The Fury III series offer the two-barrel carburetor V8 as standard with optional choice, or the economy 360 DID engine and single-barrel carburetor. The 400 CID power package uses 91 octane gas. The Dodge line also has the new electronic ignition system.

When it comes to trucks, Dodge's reputation for building tough, rugged machines is the cornerstone on which the company has engineered strength and fresh, contemporary styling into its new line of half, three-quarter and one-ton vehicles. The pickups are as beautiful and as comfortable as most any passenger model, and cab width is the maximum for the industry at 65.7 inches. Doors are wider and cab easier to get into and out of. Seat height provides better leg support, and more insulation has virtually eliminated noise.

PROGRAM CONTROL ISSUE, SAYS CBS

U. S. To Sue Big TV Networks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says it will file suit aimed at breaking up network control over television entertainment programming. The action would rank as one of the government's strongest attacks on prime-time TV shows.

The department said the civil suits will accuse the Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., American Broadcasting Co. and a related firm with violating antitrust laws.

NBC SILENT
But Justice officials refused to discuss ramifications of the suit or to disclose the alternative they prefer. CBS and ABC denounced the move; NBC officials would not comment.

First word of the government plan came from CBS Thursday. The Justice Department then confirmed only that suits against the networks and Viacom International Inc. will be filed in a few days. Viacom, a one-time CBS subsidiary, now operates independent cable-television and syndicated-program systems.

The government intention seems unlikely to have an immediate effect on the programs beamed into millions of homes because of the anticipated lengthy route to a final court settlement.

The Justice Department said the civil antitrust suits will charge that the networks "have monopolized and restrained trade in prime-time television entertainment programs."

NO CHARGE

Department spokesmen at first refused to elaborate on the announcement, but, after repeated inquiries, said news programming would not be affected.

"These cases have absolutely nothing to do with news, public-affairs or sports presentations. They are limited to prime-time entertainment programming," said Bruce B. Wilson, deputy assistant attorney general in the antitrust division.

CBS and ABC said, too, that they understood news programs would not be involved. CBS President Robert D. Wood said the government aims to prevent the networks "from producing any television entertainment programs or feature films" and turn them into "mere conduits" for independently produced programs.

He said the government apparently wants to hand the program-production role to advertising agencies and motion-picture producers.

NO MERIT
"We will refuse to acquiesce in the Justice Department demands, which we believe have no merit legally or otherwise," Wood wrote CBS-affiliated stations in a letter made public Thursday. An ABC spokesman said the network's position is that the government's intention "is without merit, and we can beat the department has chosen this moment in time to undermine it in the courts."

The CBS chief accused the Justice Department of under-mining the regulatory powers of the Federal Communications Commission, which in 1970 forced the networks to limit prime-time programming to three hours a night, instead of the 3½ hours customary before then. "We cannot understand why the department has chosen this moment in time to undermine the prime-time-access rule," the CBS chief said.

The ABC statement also referred to the prime-time-access rule and said, "With the filing of the suit, the two government agencies are diametrically opposed to each other."

Neither the administration nor the networks had anything to say about political implications of the Justice attack.

Nixon administration officials have frequently criticized network news reporting. Network officials have returned the fire by accusing the administration of threatening retaliation against the networks through the government regulation of broadcasters.

But one of the most severe critics of prime-time entertainment programming has been FCC member Nicholas Johnson, a Democrat.

Two agents of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, posing as narcotics buyers, said they met with Frick in Fort Worth.

The agents stated in their complaint that Frick told them he had contemplated committing the murder himself but decided he "would be safer in hiring it done."

the entertainment shows aired between 7:30 and 11 p.m. EST. ABC said only 10 per cent of its prime-time shows are network-produced and Wood said the figure is 8.2 per cent for CBS. No figures were available for NBC.

HIT WITH COCAINE RAPS

Accused Of Attempting To Kill Federal Judge

HOUSTON (AP) — A man accused of attempting to have a federal judge killed has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of cocaine smuggling.

Ronald D. Frick, 24, of Fort Worth and Honolulu, was named Thursday in a three-count indictment alleging he conspired to smuggle four and a half pounds of cocaine from Peru into the United States at Laredo.

Frick was charged last week with trying to make a deal with federal undercover agents to murder U.S. District Court Judge Ben Connally of Houston.

Frick was arrested in Diana, Tex., on a complaint authorized by Asst. U.S. Atty. Cecil Emerson. Frick was accused of agreeing to deduct $5,000 from the purchase price of cocaine in return for the murder of Judge Connally.

Two agents of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, posing as narcotics buyers, said they met with Frick in Fort Worth.

The agents stated in their complaint that Frick told them he had contemplated committing the murder himself but decided he "would be safer in hiring it done."

NIXON'S NEW PROGRAM FOR AGED

Wildest Thing In 45 Years

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon's commissioner on aging traded verbal jabs here Thursday with a senior citizen from nearby Lewisville who called the President's proposal to assist older people "the wildest thing I've run across in the past 45 years."

James B. Martin, national commissioner for the Office on Aging, at first tried to brush off R. K. Thompson of the Lewisville chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons by telling him, "You should write your congressman."

SCALP THEM

Martin said many of the complaints Thompson had were contained in legislation passed by the Senate and the House. The commissioner suggested American citizens elected representatives who didn't want what Thompson wanted.

"We'll scalp them at the next election, sir," Thompson retorted. The group of about 100 older persons who had assembled to listen to Martin began to warm up to the exchange.

"I don't want any free meals myself," Thompson said, "just an adequate return on what I have invested."

He said he resented "being lumped off into welfare" with some other people who he asserted were "sponging off the government."

Martin countered that President Nixon's new program for the aged was geared mainly at the low income groups and did not compel anyone to be a recipient.

INCREASING TAXES

As to Thompson's complaint that the new program would bring new economic woes to the "vast thousands of us already overtaxed and overburdened," Martin said the present system is forcing older people into nursing homes and increasing taxes by boosting medicare costs.

The program would allow older persons to "stay in their own homes and economize on taxpayers' money," he said.

The federal assistance being given to older persons in the past few years is "a drastic change from anything that has happened in the past because money is being put into it," Martin said during his speech.

Spending under the Older Americans Act has risen from $32 million in 1969 to a proposed $157 million for the 1973 budget. President Nixon is recommending a further increase of $100 million for nutrition and related services.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Martin said 15 to 30 per cent of the elderly now in nursing homes "wouldn't have to be there at all if they had some supportive services" provided them such as meals, transportation and work.

The administration bill for older persons, now pending before the Senate after passing the House, would provide a 5 per cent increase in Social Security benefits, which have risen 26 per cent in the two years, Martin said.

The bill would also provide a basic income floor for all people over age 65 of $150 a month for unmarried persons and $200 for couples, he said. No deductions would be made from Social Security payments up to $50 a month or from earnings up to $50 a month.

The legislation would provide short term training of 40,000 people with federal funds to work in nursing homes, as well as funds for training state inspectors of nursing homes, Martin said.

EARNERS CERTIFICATE — D. W. (Bill) Butler, Supervisory Clerk, Soil Conservation Service, (left), is presented a Certificate of Merit with grade salary increase by Joe J. McEntire, Area Conservationist. The certificate is in recognition of Butler being assigned an outstanding performance rating for the fiscal year 1971. The manner in which he performed his administrative duties materially contributed to the efficiency of the Big Spring Area staff, the citation said.

Counterfeit Ring Smashed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Seven persons from the Los Angeles area have been named in a 22-count, federal indictment charging conspiracy to flood California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas with counterfeit $20 bills.

U.S. Atty. William Keller said Thursday Secret Service agents had recovered about $600,000 worth of the counterfeit money but there was no indication how many of the bills had been passed at stores and markets in the four states.

The indictment charged the seven with conspiring with each other and five unindicted co-conspirators to manufacture, possess, sell and circulate counterfeit money.

The indicted were Albert R. Bennett, 48, Garden Grove; Alfred L. Burg Jr., 43, Burbank; Robert J. Morris, 44, Yorba Linda; Patrick Yim, 58, Los Angeles; Charles Monte, 28, Pasadena; Roger W. Schleith, 32, Glendale; and George Scott, 41, Woodland Hills.

Johnson 'Getting Along Just Fine'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Just one week after a major heart attack struck him, former President Lyndon B. Johnson was reported in good condition and under doctors orders to take it easy.

Officials at the Army's Brooke General Hospital said the situation was the same as Wednesday, his first day here after flying from Virginia, where his condition was called "quite good."

"He's getting along just fine," a spokesman said.

Johnson, 63, has been receiving cards and letters and officials said he can watch some television to pass the time, but he has been spending most of his hours resting.

"His principal requirement for the days and weeks ahead is for a tranquil environment permitting relaxation as he gradually resumes normal activities," doctors said in a statement Wednesday, the only formal advisory issued so far. "He needs rest and peace and quiet," an official said Thursday.

The former President was stricken at Charlottesville, Va. last Friday. He pressured his doctors to return him to Texas and he was flown late Tuesday night to a penthouse suite at Brooke that is ready for him 24 hours a day.

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Annette Gilly's statement detailing her knowledge of the Yablonski murders "has moved us a step up the ladder in the hierarchy of the United Mine Workers union," says Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague.

And one can assume, Sprague added, that "in the course of time there will be more arrests."

Sprague commented after Mrs. Gilly's statement, which drew UMW President W. A. "Tony" Boyle's name into the slayings and said "the union" was behind them, was read Thursday in Washington County Court.

"My father told me that the Yablonski murder had the approval of the 'big man,'" Mrs. Gilly said in her statement. "To me, that meant Tony Boyle, president, United Mine Workers union."

Boyle refused to meet with newsmen, but the UMW's general counsel, Edward L. Carey, denied in New York that Boyle or any other UMW member had anything to do with the killings.

He termed Mrs. Gilly's statement, on the basis of excerpts reported by the press, extremely vague. He said the term "big man" could apply to many persons.

The statement contained no other references to Boyle aside from Mrs. Gilly's interpretation of the words "big man." Mrs. Gilly did not say how she concluded that this meant Boyle.

Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, 59, UMW insurgent; his wife Margaret, 57, and their 25-year-old daughter Charlotte were shot to death in their sleep at their state home in nearby Clarksville. Their bodies were found on Jan. 5, 1970.

Yablonski had just lost a heated campaign to unseat Boyle from the presidency and was about to testify before a federal grand jury in Washington, D.C., that was probing UMW affairs.

"This case will only be successfully concluded when we find out who ordered this assassination and who put up the money," Sprague said. "And I suspect that we will reach that level."

Mrs. Gilly's statement was read at a pretrial hearing for her father, Silas Huddlestone, 68, one of five other persons currently in custody in the case. He is charged with murder and conspiracy.

Mrs. Gilly's husband, Paul, was convicted of murder and sentenced to death for the Yablonski killings last month.

Mrs. Gilly is also charged with murder and originally entered a plea of innocent. However, at a hearing Tuesday she changed her plea to guilty and turned state's evidence in return for a prosecution pledge not to seek the death penalty.

ARTIST? (Q.) My father is president of a company and wants me to be a secretary. I want to be an artist. He doesn't want me to be an artist.
 My mother and he are separated. He says she is a drunk and that if I am an artist I will probably be a drunk too. She is not a drunk. I know. She thinks it would be great for me to be an artist. But I live with him. Can you give me any advice? — 16 1/2 in California.
 (A.) Yes, be what you want to be and are suited to be. You — not your father or mother — are going to live your adult life. If you are a secretary and do not want to be one or like to be one and are not a good one, you are more liable to end up an alcoholic than if you are an artist and like it and do well at it.
 But do not think you can be a good artist just because you want to be one. You have to have a talent for it, and you have to work at it just as you do to be a secretary.
 Your best course would be to go to a good college or university and take art courses under artist-teachers. Your father would probably be able to send you. In so doing you could see if you have talents and skills that might permit you to be a good artist.
 It is pleasant to think of starting out on your own and becoming a great painter or sculptor. But without a good educational background, the chances are against it.
PAIN: (Q.) I usually don't write such personal things. But I have to know. It's my breasts. They hurt. They have been hurting since Christmas. Can you tell me why? I am an 11-year-old girl. — Super-Tender in Texas.
 (A.) When a boy or girl hurts persistently anywhere — no matter how personal the place — the person to see is a doctor. Go with your mother to see your doctor, and tell him about your pain. Answer his questions fully. Don't hold anything back because of modesty. Let him check you if he asks to, which he probably will.

Married Student Wins Court Fight

TROY, Tex. (AP) — The father of the high school football captain says his son has won his bid to take part in extra-curricular activities even though he got married recently.
 The Austin American said Clebert Ellis filed suit in Belton last week to enjoin the Troy Independent School District from enforcing its rule prohibiting married students from participating in school-related activities.
 Ellis — whose son, Steve, 18, was football captain and also lettered four years in baseball and track — said the school board had agreed to "kick out" its rule and that he had agreed to drop the suit.
 Steve married the former Shearin Gilmore of Pendleton, a 16-year-old freshman, March 27 at Temple.

Welfare Slashes For Californians

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Wednesday by the court—will reduce California's $2.7-billion-a-year welfare program by $7 million a month.
 Orders to cut welfare grants for 500,000 Californians were issued Thursday after a temporary U.S. Supreme Court ruling on Gov. Ronald Reagan's welfare reform, an aide to the governor says.
 The recipients slated for cuts beginning May 1 are families with outside income who receive aid to families with dependent children benefits.
 Robert Carleson, the state welfare chief, said the cuts will range from a few dollars to elimination of the entire welfare check in some cases, depending on the size of the family's outside incomes.
 He said the cuts—allowed by a temporary order made public Wednesday by the court—will reduce California's $2.7-billion-a-year welfare program by $7 million a month.

Motorists Ignore Bid For Help
 OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — John Renfrow, 13, stood along Interstate 80 in western Iowa, waving frantically in an effort to stop passing cars. A few feet away, his father worked in vain to save his mother's life.
 "I had the car's four-way flashers on. John was crying and waving his arms. I was giving my wife artificial respiration on the shoulder of the road. Anyone could see it wasn't a setup for a robbery," Renfrow said.
 The family was returning Sunday from a visit to relatives in Perry, Iowa, when Mrs. Renfrow "quivered and slumped forward" in her seat, her husband said.
 She had undergone four operations in the last two years, including removal of both kidneys.
 After several minutes, Renfrow reported, a car stopped.
 "The man drove in to get a rescue squad but it was too late," Renfrow said.

 West opened the ten of clubs and the ace was played from dummy. It appeared to South that the easiest way to come to 10 tricks was to establish North's diamonds and he set his campaign accordingly. The ace of hearts

Planting Tips For Shrubs

COLLEGE STATION — Whether planting bare-root or balled and burlapped trees or shrubs, the first step is to dig a hole of sufficient size. If the plant is bare-root, the hole should be large to allow the root system to spread out naturally.

As far as depth is concerned, plant the tree or shrub about the same depth it was growing in the nursery. This is often two to three inches above the uppermost roots. On a bare-root plant the trunk or main stem is often discolored at the original soil line. Plant a balled and burlapped plant so the top of the soil ball is at the soil surface.

When planting small balled and burlapped plants, the planting pit should be about 1½ times the diameter of the ball. The depth should be the same as the depth of the ball. Larger plants will require an even greater hole size in relation to the ball diameter.

After setting the tree or shrub in its hole, backfill with a good soil mixture, using one-third peat moss and two-thirds good topsoil. Then water the plant thoroughly. In drier areas of the state, a soil ridge around the edge of the hole will catch rain-water as well as facilitate watering with a garden hose.

Fertilizer should not be used in the fall on new plants. It should be used only after the plant has become well established in the new location.

AN EXTRA TOUCH — You can add an extra touch to your yard with ornamental or functional items such as this lovely fountain. Surrounded by flowers and shrubs, such decorative pieces lend soothing animation to a lovely scene. Fountains and bird baths help attract a wide assortment of beautiful feathered friends to your yard, adding song, beauty—and insect control.

You Can Beat Nematodes

Home gardeners complain each year about root knot nematodes in their tomatoes, okra, beans and other vegetable crops. These microscopic worms may be the reason for sickly plants that do not respond to fertilizer or water. Nematode presence can be recognized by galls and knots on plant roots.

The best method is to move to a new garden site if land is available. However this is not always possible and your garden space is limited.

If nematodes have been a problem in the past, treat your garden this spring before planting, advises County Agricultural Agent Bruce Griffith.

The most widely used chemical for nematode control contains dibromochloropropane (DBCP). It is available at nurseries and farm supply stores.

No special equipment is necessary for treating home gardens, explains Griffith. Liquid materials can be applied with a quart fruit jar with a ten-penny nail hole punched on each side of the lid — one to pour from and the other to let air into the jar so the liquid will pour evenly. This jar can be used to pour the proper amount of fumigant diluted with water, kerosene or fuel oil into each 100 feet of open furrow at least six inches deep.

Granular DBCP can be sprinkled by hand, suggests Griffith using rubber gloves — into the open furrow. In either case, cover the treated furrow immediately to prevent chemical vapors from escaping into the air.

Row treatment is made by placing the fumigant in a six-inch-deep furrow directly under seed rows or transplant rows, adds Griffith.

Broadcast treatment can be made by opening a six-inch-deep furrow using a hoe, spade or other implement. Furrows should be no more than twelve inches apart from center to center. A broadcast treatment is much more effective than row treatment; however, more fumigant and expense is involved.

No matter which method is used, seal the fumigant into the soil by dragging a weighted board over the area immediately after treatment. Then sprinkle the soil lightly with water, adds Griffith.

Buying Plants? Ask About Them

Don't be timid when shopping for a plant.

If you don't know what size it likely will grow to be, ask your nurseryman. Ask if the plant can withstand heat and wind without panicking. Ask if it is a low plant or one which grows to considerable portions.

Know your nurseryman or garden center operator and rely on his word about whether the plants are quality ones.

Tree and shrub bargains can turn out to be anything but this,

PERMANENT PLANTS

Most Anything Will Grow, But Some Things Do Better

You can grow almost anything in this area, but certain varieties do well. Others may flourish in the summer but can't stand severe winters, or while they can be sustained require too much care and attention.

One of the basics are evergreens, which the conifers dominate. Junipers do well in this vicinity. The Pfizer or spreading juniper is highly popular, and it can be pruned to achieve special effect. Other good ones are blue juniper and red cedar. Italian cypress (which grow in tall, graceful columns) work well for long vertical framing effect but are susceptible to West Texas wind. Arizona cypress is exceptionally vigorous, and is a steady rapid grower which offers possibilities as a plant to fill a certain area, or as a fence (planted close enough so that branches overlap) or as a windbreak.

Broad leaf evergreens include cherry laurel, a small but shapely tree, and live oak.

Among the deciduous trees, the Arizona ash is a good one, maintaining symmetry, rugged disease resistant. Another is the honey locust (not black locust). One which has gained rapidly in popularity is the maple-leaf mulberry. This has a large leaf with deep green sheen, and the tree does not bear fruit. It is not at all uncommon for this to make a good shade tree in five years.

Utility with beauty comes from the apricot. This tree makes a fine shade and will bloom profusely and in most years bear heavily.

Other fine trees, which likely will grow slower but which are long-lived are pecan, walnut live oak and red oak. Chinese elm grow rapidly but have the disadvantage of being susceptible to a leaf beetle. Too, they often cause plumbing trouble with their nomadic root systems. American elm are slower but have more staying power.

Among the hearty varieties of shrubs are abelias, bush evergreen honeysuckle (which add flowers and fragrance), Buford Holly, yaupon (large or dwarf), nandena (with red berries, like the yaupon), yellow (Italian) jasmine.

For low-type borders, monkey grass or Korean boxwood are good. Legustrum and euonymous make good hedges, and when trimmed, good accent plants although they may need to be watched for powdery mildew. A border plant which is gaining rapidly in favor is the new red glory rose which blooms all summer. And speaking of blooming, you can't do better than crepe myrtle which comes in white, purple, lavender, pink, watermelon red, etc. and which will bloom profusely most of the summer and fall. Many years ago it was voted the city's official shrub. There is no limit to types of roses to add beauty to your yard.

Insects Which Threaten Lawns Can Be Controlled

Getting a lawn started may be a chore — but it is a one-time deal. Keeping a lawn is an annual challenge, but a well-manicured, luxuriant growth of grass is worth the effort and expense.

One of the biggest problems is that of combatting insects. Most trouble comes from white grubs, root worms, and cut worms, along with chinch bugs, and bermuda mites.

Chlordane and diazinon appeared to be the most favored for controlling grubs and cut-worms, although garden centers have a variety of other compounds which are effective. There are poisons specifically prescribed for getting at chinch bugs, which seem to be getting more of a foothold in this area despite assurances that they couldn't survive in this high, dry and warm climate.

If you're having worm trouble, your grass will die out, most likely in patches, or it will fail to come out in the spring. If you can lift out patches or mats of the grass (because the roots have been cut), you've got trouble, all right. Poisoning can stop the trouble, but it will take little time to regrow a turf.

Chinch bug damage appears in patches, too, and spreads. These are tiny creatures, but if you will watch closely enough and long enough, you can spot these stripped bugs if your lawn has them. Withered, anemic looking blades may be a tip off.

Mite damage will occur during the growing season, leaves losing its vigor and evidenced by grass dying despite ample water and care. Usually there will be a few sprigs of green remaining in these patches which spread progressively if not checked. Again, your garden center can prescribe sprays which are a specific for this menace, which, happily seems to be lessening in this area.

Another lawn pest is "web worm" which seems to be fond of attacking from the dry edges, forming veins or dirt tunnels which look like crusty earthen veins. They can be controlled easily with prompt action, but delay will produce substantial damage.

DON'T PULL NUTGRASS — SPRAY IT AWAY THE EASY WAY

Pulling nutgrass only helps spread it. Instead, use ferti-lome Nutgrass and Weed Killer to get rid of this pest in ornamental beds, around shrubs, trees, sidewalks and Bermuda grass lawns. Gallon plastic jug with pistol grip sprayer or 16 oz. plastic squeeze bottle.

Follow Basic Rules In Landscape Plans

You may not be expert, but you can do a pretty fair job of landscaping your home if you will remember a few basic facts.

First of all, plant with a sense of trying to bring out the beauty of the house. Some call it enchanting the house, but it adds up on using plants to focus attention on the good architectural points of the structure. Too many people seem to think that landscaping means to hide the house.

Secondly, sit down and draw rough plans on paper. It will be better if you attempt to draw to scale.

THINK AHEAD

Thirdly, think in terms of plant maturity. Experienced horticulturalists say it is much easier to over plant than it is to under plant. Those cute little Arizona cypress planted next to the sidewalk are dainty now; in five years they will clog the walk; in 10 years you may have to prune a hole through overlapping branches overhanging the sidewalk.

Similarly, planting a number of shrubs sufficient to look great the first year will result in a deep, tangled wildwood a little later on. You may be faced then with the painful experience of cutting down or removing some of your plants.

Another thing, guard against planting too closely to the house. Some plants conceivably

AVOID THORNS

For this reason, don't plant pyracanthas against a house. Although they are a vigorous shrub which does well in this area, they are about the thorniest bush to come down the nature trail. They will shred you, a painter or whoever has to get near them.

One other thing might be borne in mind. Pick out the right plants — those which are pruned to achieve this result.

Keep your plants pruned to remove deadwood and to shape them to your designs. Many people find they can take the various junipers (even natives) and trim them with a poodle effect. Others top Italian cypress so they do not get too high, then prune them so that thick pillars of green result. Several trees will make a great windbreak when planted and right plants — those which are

Kickbacks Count Sacks Contractor

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston contractor Raymond G. Novelli has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of scheming to obtain construction kickbacks.

The indictment, returned Thursday, accused Novelli, 33, of having schemed while doing business as Gypsum Systems to obtain kickbacks totaling $21,200.

The indictment alleged the scheme was to defraud the El-Tee Corp.

Novelli was indicted in January by a Harris County grand jury for allegedly embezzling over $50 from the Jacobson Construction Co. of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Logic Faces Tough Test

Texas citizens have an obligation to provide for the higher education of its youth. For this purpose, the state supports 24 colleges and universities, not including professional schools, and contributes to innumerable public junior colleges.

But Texas does not have the responsibility of providing tax-supported education for students from say, California or New York. The exception might be men in the military who want to further their education while serving at Texas bases.

State-supported schools charge students from other states substantially higher tuition than resident students. The legality of this is now challenged in three court cases on the grounds that the right to register and vote in the campus community makes students residents of the state.

In an Associated Press survey across the nation, many educators predicted out-of-state tuition would not exist in two or three years.

This obviously would result in the loss of hundreds of million dollars in tuition revenue. It would have to be made up from other sources, and that generally would mean from higher taxes.

The AP cited that out-of-state tuition would produce $20 million this year in Colorado, where resident students pay $423 a year and non-residents

$1,691 to attend the state university. In the smallest state, Rhode Island, the out-of-state tuition this year will amount to $1.4 million. State university tuition is $761 for residents and $1,661 for non-residents.

Texas charges $4 per semester hour for resident students, $40 for non-residents. There is utterly no predicting the outcome of the court tests on this question. True, students have gained the right of local voting where they are enrolled in college. But how that imposes a tax obligation on citizens of that state to provide a bargain, subsidized education for students from other states is beyond logical understanding. Let us hope logic and legal considerations coincide in this instance.

Better Late Than Never

Much too late, the United States finally has gotten around to recognizing the new nation of Bangladesh.

Ironically, our recognition came one day after it was revealed the Russians have moved a giant step closer to their long-held goal of gaining a port on the Indian Ocean.

The Russians have agreed to do the work necessary to restore the Bangladesh ports of Chittagong and Chalna to working order. They will clear the channels of sunken ships and floating mines; to do the work, they will dispatch 20 Russian naval units in Bangladesh, including engineers and a repair vessel. First elements already are on the scene. Odds are good the Russians will extend their stay greatly beyond that time; it would not be surprising in the least if they are granted permanent facilities.

Meanwhile, our pettishness is withholding recognition from Bangladesh, following our celebrated Nixon "hit" toward repressive Pakistan in the Bangladesh struggle, has left our relations with India and the new nation in tatters. Recognition gives us an opportunity to wipe out some of the animosity, but it will be a long and painful process for the wounds are deep. Helping in a hurry will expedite things.

The 'Burly' Magazine

Around The Rim

Barbara Lord

THE ADVENT of "burly" magazines has come to American newsstands, and perhaps will eventually rate a special section on the stands as have "girlie" magazines for so long. Burly Burt Reynolds paved the way for the new phenomenon in the women's magazines media when he posed nude for the April issue of Cosmopolitan.

Lying on his side with his head propped up with his hand, a little cigar between his teeth and a "you didn't think I'd do it, did you?" grin on his face, it's a little difficult to determine where the bear skin rug he is on ends, and Reynolds begins.

Reactions by local women varied when they first saw or heard about the centerfold, but I think typical behavior is indicated in the fact that several people were approached to see if they would have their picture taken with the magazine for a short feature in The Herald. These people were buying the magazines, but refused to have the act documented with a picture. Admittedly, I have talked to some since that said they would have gladly been in the picture.

The curiosity the picture aroused probably made a small fortune for the magazine. Even those that were abhorred by the idea, wanted to see what was actually done. I'm sure this was the reaction when Playboy, a respectable, middleclass person's magazine, first began their female centerfolds. I hope Cosmopolitan has started a trend toward more expression and individualism in magazines and other media. Not because I particularly like to look at nude men, but because I think the idea has as much right to be pursued as the idea of nude women.

I'm glad one magazine has acknowledged this.

England, incidentally, beat us to the idea. A magazine there published a nude picture of Germaine Greer's husband about two months ago. Mrs. Greer is the country's foremost women's liberation movement advocate.

The male body was once considered a work of art, and it's a pity it no longer is. You may not think Reynolds compares to "David" or some of the Greek Gods, but perhaps we've been too inhibited for too long. I say, give it a chance to catch on. If the centerfolds are done with taste in respectable magazines, perhaps society will at least learn to put up with what may even consider art.

FOLLOWING ARE some of the comments of local women when they heard about Reynolds' nude debut:

"I never thought Cosmopolitan was the perfect household magazine. It goes to a great deal of effort to be bizarre and shocking. See you at the newsstand."

"If that's all of the news they have, I think they better stop publication."

"The picture's not near as vulgar looking as the 'picture' you get of some men in tight bathing suits."

"Absolutely fantastic! It's a real move forward for the movement (women's liberation)."

"It doesn't shock me, but it sure doesn't turn me on."

Other women thought it was "ridiculous," a money-making gimmick, and "obscene."

Whatever his reasons, I have to take my hat off to Burly Burt (but that's all), for having the courage to provide the public with a new experience, for better or worse.

System On Trial

Marquis Childs

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Against the backdrop of hatred and violence pervasive in so many areas of American life, what the candidates are saying in the marathon primaries sounds like the echo of a polite debate out of another and happier era. Here in a small courtroom in the Civic Center, under vigilant security, is a focus of the violent scene.

AROUND THE trial of Angela Davis are all the fierce winds of contention. The quiet of the courtroom is the eye of the storm. The tall, slender defendant with the big bushy Afro is helping to conduct her own defense with a detached concentration as though she were lecturing to one of the philosophy classes she taught at the University of California in San Diego.

She might be unaware that she has become a world figure and that millions everywhere follow the drama in the courtroom. Somewhere at this moment, given the time changes around the globe, speakers in a half-dozen languages are demanding freedom for Angela. Banners that say "Free Angela" are held up in an alien sun infinitely remote from the desensitized modern of San Jose's Civic Center.

THE CHARGE of murder came out of a crime shocking in its horror even in this age of violence. Hostages taken at gun point out of a courtroom in San Rafael were shot within minutes after being forced into an escape van. One was Harold Haley, the trial judge, who had his face blown off from a gun strapped to his jaw. Another was Assistant District Attorney Gary Thomas, left paralyzed for life.

What gives the episode a weird unreality is the plot of the kidnapers. They apparently believed they could flee the 30 miles from San Rafael to the San Francisco airport with their hostages and hijack a plane to Cuba or some other Communist haven.

MISS DAVIS is accused of buying the guns as an accessory to murder. At the start of the trial she admitted to having bought the four guns for, she said, her own protection. The prosecution must prove the motive. Relying largely on circumstantial evidence this will be difficult.

The line between the orderly working of the judicial system and a test of wills in a political contest is the dilemma of the prosecution and the authorities responsible for the trial. The defense, not only in the courtroom, but around the world is determined to show that because Miss Davis is a Communist, a revolutionary and a black, she is the victim of savage persecution.

A SERIES of trials of blacks with similar political overtones is an answer to this charge. The latest was the acquittal of two of the Soledad Brothers, John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo, standing trial for the brutal murder of a guard at Soledad Prison. Three Soledad Brothers were killed in the San Rafael escape plot and their involvement is closely linked with the Angela Davis drama.

Huey Newton, the Black Panther leader, was tried three times in Oakland and each time a jury failed to convict. He is free to lecture around the country. Recently he visited Peking as an honored guest of the Peoples Republic of China.

BOBBY SEALE was freed after a lengthy trial in New Haven, Conn. He had been charged with the death of a fellow Black Panther.

The interminable trials test the judicial system as never before. But with responsible judges as in the Soledad Brothers trial, they show that justice can be done however harried and tortured the process.

FREEMONT, Ill. (AP) — The National Audubon Society, Freemont Garden Club members have learned, is urging the creation of educational nature centers to learn the enjoyment of the outdoors.

One center in Greenwich, Conn., a 500-acre project, now is in operation.

As housing developments multiply and more and more shopping centers are built, land is used up in great acreages.

Mrs. Francis Kafka said "if each urban community would set aside a tract of land, this would benefit future generations."

Each day new projects take 3,000 acres of land in our country.

Profits Causing Concern

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — As the country fights to keep a lid on wage and price increases, some of the nation's biggest corporations are reporting tremendous first-quarter profit gains over a year earlier.

While the reports make great news for shareholders attending annual meetings, which reach a peak this month, they are causing concern in Washington and anger among union leaders.

Already the Cost of Living Council has ordered some companies to roll back prices. And it has found in a review of 105 corporate reports that 20 per cent of them indicated unacceptably high profits.

In quitting the Pay Board last month, George Meany, AFL-CIO president, claimed that "profits have begun to skyrocket." And now, lending credit to his charge, profit gains of 30 and 40 per cent are common.

In the past few days, for example, the following companies were among those reporting big percentage gains:

Du Pont 32, Honeywell 60, IBM 22, Westinghouse Electric 27, Polaroid 17, Allied Chemical 19, St. Regis Paper 64, Kimberly-Clark 35, Howard Johnson 44, Consolidated Paper 55, United Aircraft 50, International Paper 36.

These companies are hardly typical. Most companies are reporting smaller gains and, as always, some companies are in the red. And some have not yet reported. But the impression at this point is that profits are surging.

In defense of the big gains, industrialists argue that one cannot ignore the special nature of the present figures. A larger perspective must be taken, they say.

The current figures are high only in a relative sense, they say, pointing to the fact that last year's first-quarter profits were nothing to crow about since the nation still was suffering some effects of the recession.

A study of 4,000 corporations by the First National City Bank found that profits last year rose 13 per cent and commented: "For a comeback, it was not much of a comeback." Profit margins in 1970, it said, were the worst since World War II. In its Monthly Economic Letter for April, it claims that "the current recovery in corporate earnings stalled in mid-1971. Since then," it adds, "after-tax profits have not risen appreciably."

First City claims "a downward trend in profits has persisted since the middle of 1966 earnings never recovered from the minirecession of 1966-1967 and plunged deeper still in 1969-1970."

While the big gains being reported by outstanding companies may not indicate conditions for many thousands of other companies, they definitely suggest that a watershed may have been crossed.

Argus Research, which supplies some of the most widely followed research in the business and investment communities, comments that "...our analysis indicates, literally, there is tremendous room for profits growth in the economy over the next several years."

It cites two fundamental reasons for the improved outlook: interest payments lower than had been anticipated, and the likelihood that productivity growth, long mired, will become unstuck.

Lunar Buggy Cost

Hal Boyle

By RICHARD BEENE (Substituting for Hal Boyle)

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — It cost millions to build the lunar buggy scheduled to explore the moon on Apollo 16, but a man who helped to develop it says the price doesn't begin to compare with its advantages.

And besides, says Frank J. Musil of Huntsville, Ala., it costs plenty to build a regular earth bound car.

He said one of the major automobile manufacturers in Detroit recently reported that it cost $400 million to develop a new model. "And that's not counting the engine," he said.

Musil, the Boeing Co. program manager for the lunar rover, said the total contract for the vehicle amounted to about $38 million, including $30-$32 million for designing and developing it.

"In terms of actual hardware sitting there, it's not all that much," Musil said, noting there are no plans to return any lunar rovers to earth.

"It probably amounts to $100,000 or so, but it served its purpose," he said. "It covered more than 10 times the area covered by any previous walking missions."

The rover was first used on Apollo 15. Plans call for it to make both the Apollo 16 and 17 flights.

Joining Musil in praising the lunar rover at a recent technical convention here was astronaut David R. Scott, commander of Apollo 15.

He said the only change he could recommend was redesigning the seatbelts, which has been done. "I can't think of a better way to do it," he said of the little buggy.

Scott said man may benefit from concepts developed for the lunar rover, such as the vehicle's hand control "stick" that incorporates all features of driving, including turning and stopping.

He predicted the public will continue to support the space program because people are beginning to learn there are valuable returns from it.

"Technology is what keeps this country going," he said. "It's our best product."

Musil said the lunar rover was not the only type of transportation considered for the moon. Pogo sticks and backpack rockets were among possibilities discussed, he said, adding:

"But it just turned out that the good old American automobile was the best way to do it."

Musil and Scott discussed the rover at a meeting sponsored by the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

I have often heard people say, "Cleanliness is better than Godliness." Do you agree with this? F.H.

Nowhere in the Bible does it say that cleanliness is superior to Godliness. There are many texts of Scripture which suggest that Godliness is superior to physical cleanliness. For example, Jesus said to the Pharisees: "You make clean the outside of the cup, but inwardly are full of dead men's bones." He also said in Mark 7:15, "There is nothing without a man, that entering into him can defile him; but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile him."

Physical cleanliness, however, is a desirable thing for everyone. Every normal person likes clean food, clean beds, and a clean body. But what Jesus was emphasizing was the cleanliness per se, physically, does not necessarily imply spiritual hygiene. In other words a person can be clean in body but dirty in spirit, and vice versa, one can be unclean physically, and clean spiritually. Of course both are recommended and implied. While soap is the cleaning agent for the body, the cleansing blood of the Savior is the cleansing agent for the soul. The Bible says, "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (1 John 1:9). God has provided the means both for a clean body and a clean spirit.

Agreement Possible

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — As American air power evens up the battles in Vietnam and shows clearly that a military victory is not going to be achieved by North Vietnam over the South Vietnamese, the time is ripe for a reopening of the negotiations at Paris.

THE UNITED STATES has for several weeks refrained from attending any meetings with representatives of Hanoi at Paris until the Communists indicate a willingness really to negotiate. Criticism of this move has lately been voiced by the Communists, who charge that our government is preventing any progress toward making peace. But the large offensive launched recently by the North Vietnamese across the demilitarized zone and into South Vietnam was hardly the kind of development that would make the American government feel that the talks should be resumed.

NOW, HOWEVER, the situation seems to have changed somewhat as the United States has demonstrated that it can and will assist the South Vietnamese with adequate air power and keep the Hanoi armies from maintaining possession of bases and territory they may seize. In other words, as the big offensive is repulsed, the occasion seems at hand for getting the Paris conference started again.

Unfortunately, there is widespread confusion in this country over the nature of these so-called peace negotiations, and not enough emphasis has been placed upon the proposals made by the United States.

FOR WHAT the United States is seeking is not territory for itself or control over any nation in Indochina. The objective is primarily to see that South Vietnam has an opportunity to choose its own form of government without interference by any other country.

Under the American plan, the United States promises that its forces will be pulled out completely within six months of an agreement. A cease-fire will be declared throughout Indochina. All prisoners of war will be released simultaneously with the troop withdrawal. South Vietnam will have internationally supervised elections in which all political elements, including the Viet Cong, can participate. The different nations of Indochina will settle "existing problems" between themselves.

ONCE THIS is accomplished, American involvement will have ended, except that such assistance, economic and otherwise, as is given various small nations will doubtless be forthcoming to South Vietnam and the other countries of Southeast Asia. The important thing now is to give wide publicity to the details of the plan of the United States for Peace.

The belief here is that North Vietnam may be ready to undertake meaningful negotiations, having been convinced by the recent military activities that the United States will help South Vietnam until there has been an agreement at Paris. There have indeed been some complaints from the North Vietnamese side about the suspension of the Paris talks, and this has been construed as a sign that a resumption of the conference is desired.

UNQUESTIONABLY the use of air power by the United States was an effective way to halt further invasions into South Vietnamese territory.

Differences are not impossible to reconcile if peace is really sought. It should not take a long time for the representatives in Paris to draw up an agreement which would bring a cease-fire and permit the initial phases of a peace plan to get under way.

'Jesus Revolution' Singer Featured In Local Crusade

By MYRNA McFADIN
Beverly Masseege, former Big Spring resident, will accompany her evangelist husband, Charles Masseege, when he conducts a "Jesus Revolution" Crusade at the College Baptist Church, April 24-30. Dr. Jimmy Law, pastor, invites the public to attend these services each evening at 7:30.

Mrs. Masseege traveled world-wide on the Playboy and Sonnet Club circuits before giving her life to Christ. He has sung on the Grand Ole Opry, the Louisiana Hay Ride, the Cowtown Hoedown, Big "D" Jamboree and many other such programs.

She has also appeared in several movies. She was chosen Miss Blindfold to travel around the country doing public relations work for the movie "Blindfold," starring Rock Hudson.

"But," Mrs. Masseege says, "the glamor of show business does not compare to the glory of God. I used to sing to please people; now I sing to please my Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. He is real to me."

She states that since she has come to know Christ personally her life has been revolutionized — radically changed. She says that she and her husband have but one desire — to tell people of the revolutionizing power of God and the abundant life they can find in a right relationship with Christ.

The First Baptist Church in Coahoma was the April 7 setting for a youth banquet honoring the senior citizens of the community.

The honoree was Mrs. Ida Graham, the oldest regular member of the church. She has been a member for 48 years and has been a Christian for 63 years. Gloria Webb and Larry Clawson presented Mrs. Graham to the youth in attendance. Larry told of some of her accomplishments in service to the Lord. Gloria presented her with a gift, "Good News for Modern Man," in large print.

The speaker for the occasion was the Rev. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of Big Spring's First Baptist Church. Sharing in the entertainment were Jerri Tonn, Paula Dodson, Bridget Wright and Sheryl Bohannon. Master of ceremonies was Billy Don Fishback.

The fellowship hall was beautifully decorated with the theme "April showers bring May flowers."

Ten residents will be departing Monday on a tour of the Bible Lands and Europe, hosted by the Rev. W. Randall Ball, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church. This is the fourth time the Rev. Ball has hosted such a tour.

MRS. IDA GRAHAM, RECENTLY HONORED
... seated with Gloria Webb and Larry Clawson

According to the Rev. Ball, "This is one of life's greatest thrills ... to visit the very places where Jesus walked, taught and lived His earthly life. The Bible comes alive for you." He is especially enthused about this tour. It will be the first time he has been allowed to visit Beirut, Lebanon, and Damascus, Syria.

A total of 26 will depart from New York. Other points of interest on the tour include Athens, Cairo, Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Samaria, Galilee and Nazareth. They will also visit the Mt. of Olives, Jericho, Jordan River and the Dead Sea.

The Rev. Elra Phillips will be guest speaker at the North Birdwell Lane Methodist Church Sunday morning.

Reared in Big Spring, the Rev. Phillips has spent much of his adult life here. He served as pastor at Forsan from 1968-1969 and at North Birdwell from 1969-1970. Since 1970 he has served as associate pastor of

Mr. Ed Straight Man Big Religious Man

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ex-comic Alan Young, who used to talk with Mr. Ed the horse, now lectures to church audiences about his Christian Science faith.

"I don't feel any great change in careers," said Young, 52, who left show business five years ago to give full time to his religion. He was in San Francisco recently on part of a speaking tour that will last until June and take him all over the Western and Plains states.

"As an entertainer, you're doing your highest idea of joy," Young explained. "Well, I'm presently in my highest idea of joy now. Only I have a much better producer and director."

The Canadian-born actor, who got his big break in 1945 as a radio replacement of Eddie Cantor, appeared in several movies but was best known as straight man for Mr. Ed, the talking horse on television from 1960-66.

"I had planned to quit Ed for church work in 1965," Young recalled, "but they talked me into staying another year. I got other offers for a few years, but not any more. I have no desire to go back now because this is it. This is the big time." Young's family converted to Christian Science while he was a teen-ager, and he credits his faith with curing him of asthma and keeping his health excellent. He says he hasn't visited a doctor in 20 years.

"It's great," Young said of lecturing after being an actor. "You have to be ready because you can't go into your dance, you know-but I'm ready."

The Baptist Temple Observes 20th Year

This Sunday marks the 20th anniversary of Big Spring's Baptist Temple Church, 11th Place and Goliad, and they've been planning for the occasion for many months.

The festivities are centered around the "homecoming" of many former pastors and members. All former members and charter members present will be recognized. Many have related they will be returning.

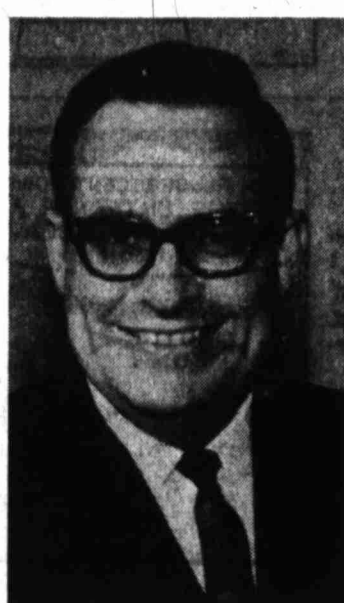

The day will begin with a message from Chaplain Clark O. Hitt, retired chaplain of the Veterans Hospital here, at 10:30 a.m. At 11 a.m. Chaplain James Parks, now VA chaplain at Temple, Tex., will be speaking. Chaplain Parks was the first pastor of the Baptist Temple. Dr. Lindel O. Harriss, head of the Bible Department at Hard-Simmons University, will be speaking at 2:30 p.m. He is a former interim pastor of the church.

Special music will be presented by Joe Dunn, former minister of music, and Carl Reynolds, former church member.

There will be a basket luncheon at the Howard Co. Fair Buildings following the morning services. A reception and formal tea is planned, following the afternoon services. This will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Mrs. Curtis Reynolds is chairman of the anniversary committee.

Rev. James Puckett, pastor of the church, invites all former members and friends of the church to take part in the activities.

The Baptist Temple was organized in 1952 with 75 charter members. They have had 1,200 added to the church in the past nine years — a gross increase of 150-200 new members each year. Their present church membership is 999, with a Sunday School enrollment of 635.

REV. JAMES PUCKETT PASTOR

Reform, Politics Not Church's Job?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preaching social reform or getting involved in political issues is not the church's job, and is weakening many denominations, says Kenneth H. Wood, editor of the Seventh-day Adventist periodical, Review and Herald.

He says denominations which have diverted their emphasis from spiritual mission to social concern have been hit by "internal division, shrinking memberships and hostility from civil governments."

$15.4 Million Suit Is Filed Against Church

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP) — Through the window of her first-floor apartment, she says she kept seeing the blue car. Day and night for weeks, it was there, adjacent to her apartment. Whenever she went out, she noticed it.

"It was always there, this old, pale blue car," she says. The experience was part of a series of incidents in which free-lance writer Paulette Cooper, 27, claims that she has been harassed for more than a year by representatives of the Church of Scientology because of her critical book about it.

In a $15.4-million damage suit brought in state Supreme Court here, she charges that the organization wiretapped her telephone, had her watched and followed, visited her late at night, subjected her to libel litigation and had her publisher threatened and sued.

The aim was to intimidate her and amounted to "intentional interference" with constitutional rights of free speech and press, says the suit, filed by attorney Paul D. Rheingold, a former Justice Department lawyer who handled one of the early suits by consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

Rheingold said the suit's objective is to stop an organized group from "using intimidation and improper means to gag freedom and keep people from speaking out."

The Rev. James R. Meisler, a Scientology information minister, termed the allegations "ridiculous and laughable," and added: "This fantasy she has about people spying on her and following her is a lot of nonsense. Nobody in our organization had been asked to harass her."

He noted that the organization, based on the ideas of eclectic philosopher L. Ron Hubbard and started in 1950, has a $1.5-million libel action pending against Miss Cooper and her publisher, Tower Publishing, Inc., for her book, "The Scandal of Scientology."

"It's a complete farce, based on a lot of antiquated, hackneyed things that just are not so any more," he said.

Miss Cooper, Jewish and with degrees in psychology, said: "It becomes a question of whether a person can tell the truth, or is to be harassed into silence. All of this has been frightening and upsetting, but the principle is worth fighting for."

Her suit quotes Hubbard as stating that "we should be very alert to sue for slander at the slightest chance." The suit claims this policy is used to "stifle free discussion," and that under it, the group has brought more than 100 lawsuits against publishers and others in

She Takes Over

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife's mother became widowed last year and came to make her home with us as my wife's only child. At first we treated Grandma like a guest, but she soon started to take over, criticizing my wife's handling of our children and her extravagance in managing the house. Then she started in on the children. She found fault with their friends, their clothes, their habits and the noise they made.

The old lady even told me that I should give up golf as it was a "silly" game, and took too much of my time away from my family. She also told me that I subscribed to more magazines than any one person could possibly read.

The kids and my wife have been very patient and respectfully silent thus far, but I know they resent Grandma. How can I put this old busybody in her place without a major flare-up? Or should I keep quiet and wait until my wife also has a bellyful and handles it her way?

BELLYFUL IN S.F.
DEAR BELLYFUL: Let your wife handle it her way. You probably won't have to wait long.

DEAR ABBY: Why do basically honest people cheat at bridge?

We are members of a bridge club, and one of the women in our foursome always keeps score, and almost all the time she wins the high score prize.

As soon as the game is over, etc., but I am on social security this woman makes a pretense of clearing off the table and she immediately destroys the score sheets.

This annoys all of us who have noticed it, and if she did not have otherwise lovable qualities we would drop her from the foursome.

Can you please give us some ideas on how we can straighten her out without offending her or causing her embarrassment?

SUCH GOOD FRIENDS
DEAR FRIENDS: Basically honest people do not cheat at anything. Either keep this lady with the "otherwise lovable qualities" honest by relieving her of the score keeping job or drop her.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote in asking what to do with unsolicited stuff that comes in the mail. Some organizations send out personalized key chains, packets of Christmas cards, name stickers and a lot of other items, hoping the recipients will send them a dollar or two.

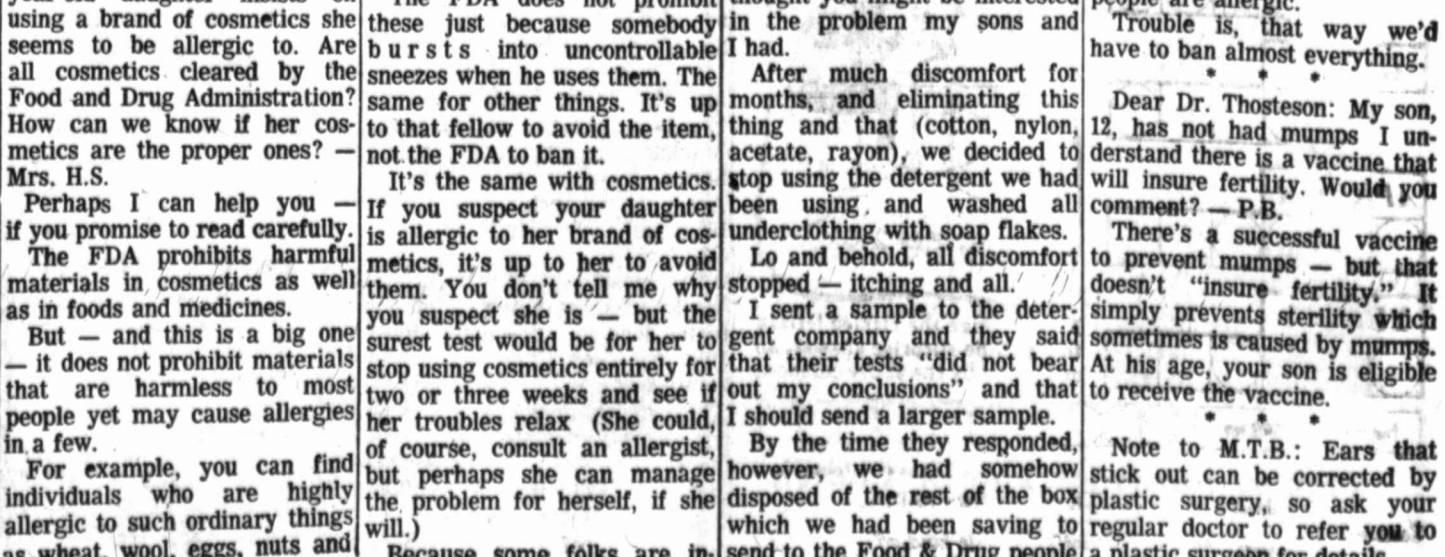

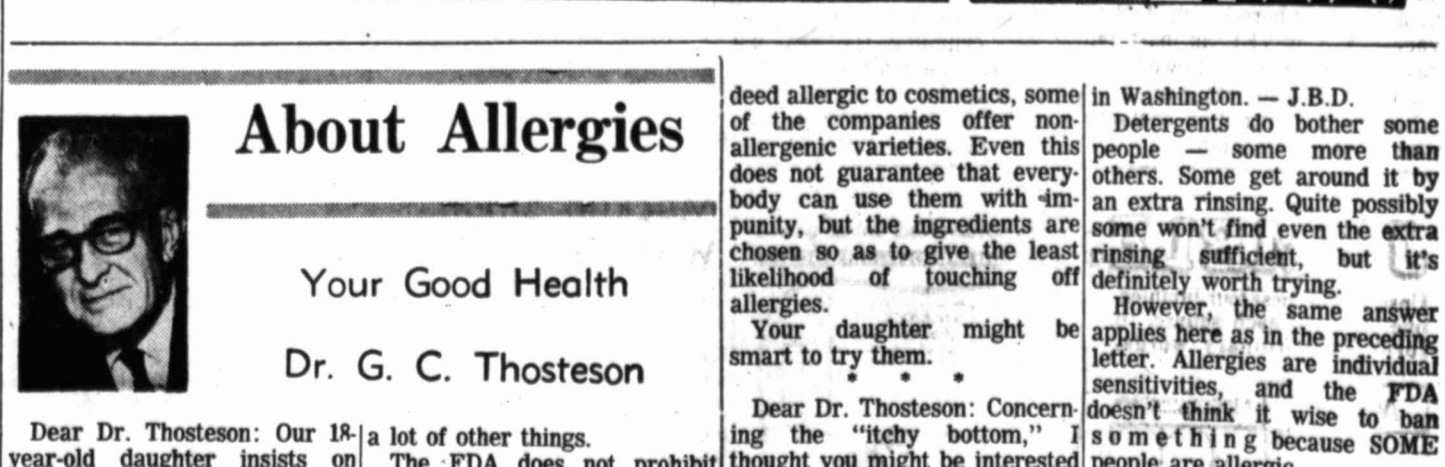

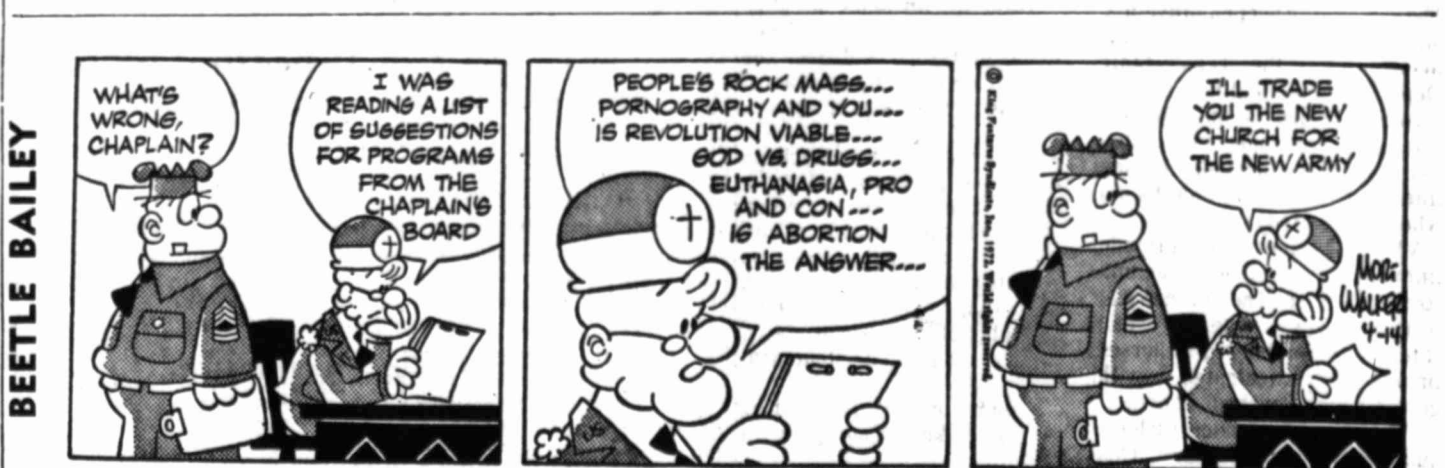

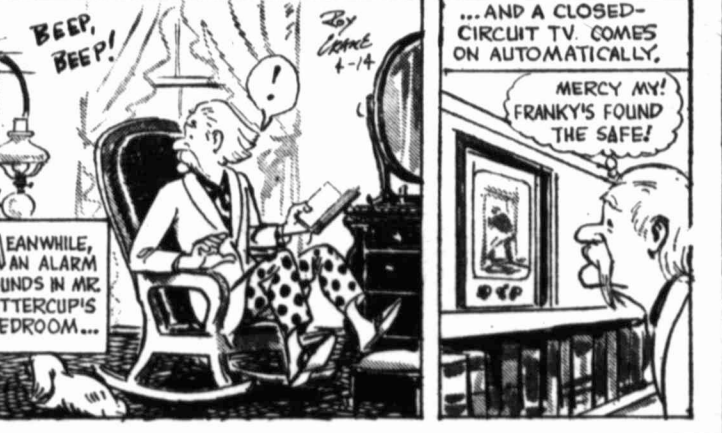

I wish I could afford to help all these missions, churches, veterans, handicapped people,

Well, here's the answer: My mailman told me that if I ever get anything in the mail I did not order and do not want, I shouldn't even open it. (But if I do open it, I can tape it closed again.) Just write on the package, "Refused. Return To Sender."

The sender will have to pay the postage for its return so you won't have to worry about hearing from them again because after a while, they'll get the message.

NO MORE JUNK
DEAR ABBY: Mark Evans, Ph. D., who says he is a grown man who enjoys living at home with his mother and father, and is probably considered an oddball by society because he respects his parents and shares their values, did not disclose the subject of his degree.

If it's psychology, I will kill myself!

About Allergies

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our 18-year-old daughter insists on using a brand of cosmetics she seems to be allergic to. Are all cosmetics cleared by the Food and Drug Administration? How can we know if her cosmetics are the proper ones? — Mrs. H.S.

Perhaps I can help you — if you promise to read carefully. The FDA prohibits harmful materials in cosmetics as well as in foods and medicines. But — and this is a big one — it does not prohibit materials that are harmless to most people yet may cause allergies in a few.

For example, you can find individuals who are highly allergic to such ordinary things as wheat, wool, eggs, nuts and deed allergic to cosmetics, some of the companies offer non-allergic varieties. Even this does not guarantee that everybody can use them with impunity, but the ingredients are chosen so as to give the least likelihood of touching off allergies.

Your daughter might be smart to try them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Concerning the "itchy bottom," I thought you might be interested in the problem my sons and I had.

After much discomfort for months, and eliminating this thing and that (cotton, nylon, acetate, rayon), we decided to stop using the detergent we had been using, and washed all underclothing with soap flakes.

Lo and behold, all discomfort stopped — itching and all.

I sent a sample to the detergent company and they said that their tests "did not bear out my conclusions" and that I should send a larger sample.

By the time they responded, however, we had somehow disposed of the rest of the box which we had been saving to send to the Food & Drug people in Washington. — J.B.D.

Detergents do bother some people — some more than others. Some get around it by an extra rinsing. Quite possibly some won't find even the extra rinsing sufficient, but it's definitely worth trying.

However, the same answer applies here as in the preceding letter. Allergies are individual sensitivities, and the FDA doesn't think it wise to ban something because SOME people are allergic.

Trouble is, that way we'd have to ban almost everything.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 12, has not had mumps I understand there is a vaccine that will insure fertility. Would you comment? — P.B.

There's a successful vaccine to prevent mumps — but that doesn't "insure fertility." It simply prevents sterility which sometimes is caused by mumps. At his age, your son is eligible to receive the vaccine.

Note to M.T.B.: Ears that stick out can be corrected by plastic surgery, so ask your regular doctor to refer you to a plastic surgeon for details.

ONLY 14 PUPILS WALK OUT Boycott At Santa Maria

SANTA MARIA, Tex. (AP) — Only 14 pupils walked out of classes Thursday to join a boycott at Santa Maria elementary school. Leaders of the boycott claim about 30 pupils are involved.

The school has a total enrollment of 304.

The boycott came after several weeks of picketing by members of the concerned citizens committee of Santa Maria who claim there is discrimination against Mexican-American pupils.

Armando Diaz of the citizens committee said 13 to 16 other pupils were kept at home

Thursday by their parents. The boycott started at 9 a.m. when the pupils met their parents outside the school.

HOT HASSLE

Principal Lawrence Murphy engaged in a heated argument with some parents when the pupils tried to take their school books as they left class. Murphy grabbed some books away from a few pupils.

"The state is going to charge me for the books if they don't bring them back," Murphy said.

After a brief argument, the pupils walked to the school porch and dropped their books.

Murphy then informed the parents they were trespassing on school property and ordered them to leave. After marching up and down in front of the palm tree lined school yard for a few minutes, the pupils were taken to the Santa Maria Community Center where boycott leaders said they would organize classes.

The concerned citizens committee leaders say they have met five times with the school board and have presented grievances. They say the school board has not answered their demands.

Murphy said a list of answers was prepared to give the committee last Friday, but no one appeared at the school to get them.

The citizens claim among other things that the quality of education is not good enough.

Murphy said he is working with the school board to provide good education for the pupils.

Speaking of the picketing and boycotting, Murphy said "How can I get good teachers who will come here and tolerate this sort of thing day after day?"

Only one of the school's 304 pupils is not a Mexican-American.

Snare Four In Tax Net

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Internal Revenue agents have arrested four men for allegedly helping others prepare false tax returns.

District director R. L. Phinney said the arrests were made after the agents, posing as taxpayers, contacted 44 independent tax return preparers in Texas as part of a nationwide program to monitor such operations.

He identified those who were arrested as Rodolfo Navarez of El Paso, Gonzalo Guerrero of San Antonio and Ophelia Canales and Florence Henley, both of Houston. If convicted, he said, they could be sentenced to three years in prison and fined $5,000 for each violation.

Phinney said the statewide investigation is continuing.

INTERNAL SECURITY REPORT Contains Libels Galore?

WASHINGTON (AP) — House subversive-seekers summarized and defended their past year's probes in a 55,000-word report today that a critic claimed contains "thousands of totally unsubstantiated libels."

The House Internal Security Committee claimed credit for publicizing what it termed Communist organizational influence in antiwar demonstrations.

INNOCENT CITIZENS

"In the future, one has reason to believe, fewer innocent citizens will swell the ranks of mass outpourings concocted by our Communist enemies," wrote Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., committee chairman.

While Students for a Democratic Society and the Black Panther Party are withering since committee probes in 1969 and 1970, Ichord added, development of the pro-Maoist Revolutionary Union which the panel investigated last year shows "the birth of revolutionary groups in constantly recurring and requires our eternal vigilance."

But Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., in dissent, said the report sets forth "grossly irresponsible labels upon the groups which led last May's Washington peace demonstrations, the National Peace Action Coalition and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, and upon the peace movement in general.

The peace-group hearings and this part of the report, he added in a 6½-page general attack on the committee and its activities, "make a mockery of the 1st, 4th and 9th amendments to the Constitution and, in my judgment, disgrace the House of Representatives."

HEAVY BURDEN

Ichord called Drinan's position a diatribe and said it is "apparently consistent with the intent of Congressman Drinan to collapse the committee from within."

In a separate five-page minority view, the committee's four Republicans — John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, Roger H. Zion of Indiana, Fletcher Thompson of Georgia and John G. Schmitz of California — expressed support for Ichord.

"The minority is keenly conscious of the heavy burden borne by the chair Ichord as this committee is confronted from many quarters by a well-organized, highly vocal minority of professional antagonists who now scout from an advanced observation post of harassment within our very periphery," they wrote.

The current committee, formerly known as the House Un-American Activities Committee, is "in no respect . . . any less dangerous or wasteful today than it was 20 years ago," Drinan said.

Kissinger Delays Visit To Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger has postponed a planned visit to Japan because of the latest crisis in Indochina.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler noted that Dr. Kissinger is chairman of the Washington Special Action Group, a crisis-oriented committee that has been meeting almost daily since North Vietnamese troops charged across the demilitarized zone into South Vietnam two weeks ago.

Moscow Uses Twig Brooms, Shovels To Battle Snow

MOSCOW (P) — When the first flakes of snow whiten the ground in Moscow, a civilian army attacks with everything from twig brooms to echelons of snowplows parading down the broad avenues.

No city as big as this metropolis of seven million people gets as much snow, and no city in the world works so hard to dispose of it.

In contrast to some other public services in this communist capital, snow removal is well organized and highly efficient.

SCRAPE, SCRAPE

When snow begins, thousands of "dvorniki" the corps of workers who clean courtyards and sidewalks — mobilize their brooms and shovels.

The rhythmic rattle of twig brooms and the scrape, scrape, scrape of shovels can be heard far into the night if the snow holds out.

They work quickly to get the snow out of their balconies and into the street where the machines can take over.

Squads of burly, ruby-cheeked women, wearing orange vests to make them visible to drivers, swarm over the bridges and sidewalks with their shovels.

Trucks start spreading sand and salt at major intersections and if snow depth reaches one inch, hundreds of snow plows are dispatched.

"We try to do everything to clear our streets as fast as possible," says Boris Lifshitz, head of Moscow's Department of Public Services.

He said it can snow in Moscow from the beginning of October to mid-April and over the last 10 years the city has averaged nearly five feet of snow a winter.

The urgency of the attack on snow is partly explained by a need to keep traffic moving. The life of this sprawling city depends to a great extent on the lumbering trucks, large and small, that carry everything from cabbages to bread, beer, gasoline, meat and structural steel.

And only official cars whizz along on spiked snow tires in Moscow.

Moscow won't tolerate a snowfall crippling the city as sometimes happens in New York City, for example. City government edicts specify that an inch of snow must be removed from major streets in 24 hours. The time is extended for major storms, but the streets must be kept open in downtown Moscow.

MEANS WORK

That means work round the clock. Lifshitz, a tall, black-browed man who has been fighting snow for 20 years, said that from Nov. 1 to April 15 "we have about 1,300 machines on duty day and night."

When heavy snow falls, the waiting plows, trucks and loading machines are dispatched from 31 headquarters in the city. Once the snow is pushed to the sides of the streets, fleets of dump trucks move in and machines with crablike claws scoop up snow and convey it to the trucks.

"In a difficult situation we use about 2,500 trucks," Lifshitz said.

The trucks, plying meticulously planned routes, dump most of the snow in the Moscow River from special ramps. At the ramps there are pairs of big rotors agitating the water to break up the snow and start it moving sluggishly down the river and out of town.

HARD RIVER

If the river freezes or becomes clogged with snow, icebreaker ships move in to keep the channel open.

Snow clearance is a vast enterprise in Moscow. Lifshitz said the entire operation involves 8,000 persons and costs between 10 million and 12 million rubles per winter. That's $12 million to $14.4 million at the official exchange rate.

And that's not counting the thousands of dvorniki who are assigned to buildings and apartment blocks in the city.

Historic Oak Finally Falls

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fierce snowstorm finally toppled historic Bettin Oak.

Bettin Oak, a landmark at Morrirstown National Historic Park, N. J., had been ravaged by age and disease when it fell under the assault of high winds.

Reinforced with cables and patched with concrete, the magnificent black oak soared 125 feet over Jockey Hollow. Because the patches obscured many annual rings, the tree's reported age of 230 years is only a close estimate.

The great tree already dominated the landscape when Gen. George Washington and his troops wintered at Morrirstown in 1777 and again in 1779-80. Even then the tough oak was so large that soldiers desperate for firewood spared it in favor of easier-to-cut smaller trees.

The tree was named after Captain Adam Bettin, who was killed in a 1781 mutiny of Pennsylvania troops.

Expectant Moms' Class Scheduled

Vaccination Call Out For Horses

All horses that have not been vaccinated for VEE, Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis, should be vaccinated this year, according to the Texas State Department of Health.

Also included in the vaccination call are foals vaccinated too young to develop lasting immunity (under six months old when vaccinated).

VEE vaccine will provide immunity for over one year and possibly longer. The commercial product now available can safely be administered to horses previously vaccinated with government-furnished vaccine.

Texas remains under Federal quarantine for VEE. This means that horses must be vaccinated for VEE at least 14 days before being allowed to leave the state for other areas.

For more information contact your local veterinarian.

Macklin Singing With Glee Club

Midshipman Richard G. Macklin, 72, Big Spring, recently sang with the Naval Academy Glee Club on the castle steps at Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla., launching a singing tour through the Southwest.

The son of Lt. Col. (USA Ret) and Mrs. T. P. Macklin of 403 E. 19th Street, Midshipman Macklin gave up some of his Spring leave from the Naval Academy to perform with the 100-voice Glee Club in Walt Disney World.

The visit to Walt Disney World was the latest addition to the long list of singing stops that the Glee Club has made throughout the United States.

The visit to Walt Disney World was the latest addition to the long list of singing stops that the Glee Club has made throughout the United States.

The midshipman has performed in the White House and on national network television shows several times in addition to their many public appearances before high school audiences across the country.

Recreational Car Is Next In Sight

There is a third vehicle in the future of many Americans, and it's likely to be a recreation vehicle.

The face of recreation is changing, and automotive companies are taking into account the booming recreation market when designing building and marketing cars and trucks.

Recreation vehicle sales are more than seven times greater than they were at the start of the last decade and the number in use, already at 3.7 million, is growing at a rate of 500,000 per year.

Gateway Of West Turning To East

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The people of this Texas city, which likes to call itself the Gateway of the West, have turned to the East for their latest attraction—a Japanese garden.

The garden, created from the desolate wilderness of a former gravel pit in the city's botanical garden, has been five years a-building and it isn't finished yet.

Under the sponsorship of the Fort Worth Garden Club and the personal direction of Scott Fikes, city superintendent of horticulture, trees have been removed, about four million pounds of boulders have been brought to the site, and 40,000 shrubs and ornamental trees have been planted.

Fort Worth citizens have chipped in with thousands of dollars to build torii gates and a meditation center.

More than 50 ceramic wind chimes in the shape of butterflies, Japanese lanterns, owls and other birds have been turned out in the workshops of club members.

For a sneak preview, members of the garden club donned authentic kimonos to greet visitors and served them tea in tea-houses perched among the trees. Wind chimes tinkled from the branches overhead and floral floats and swans floated on the garden's three lakes.

Misplaced Decimal

A building permit for a carport and storage area issued by the city to Edna Creek, 822 West 7th St., was listed as a $7,300 investment in Tuesday's edition of The Herald. It should have been for $75.

Registration Of Voters Up

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Voter registration in Hidalgo County is at an all-time high, according to Tax Assessor-Collector Bob Lyon.

Lyon said a total of 70,853 persons had registered for the May primary election by the cutoff date of April 5. He said this compares with the previous record in 1968 when 57,020 persons registered to vote.

The official also noted there was quite a last-month surge when a total of 4,900 persons registered in the last 30 days.

WILL TIE RECORD

Ready For Fourth Trip Into Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — John W. Young will tie a record on Apollo 16 by making his fourth trip into space, but the 41-year-old astronaut says he hopes the mission is not his last.

"I expect to be in the space program until they kick me out," says Young, a Navy captain who flew twice in the Gemini program, circled the moon on Apollo 10 and will go all the way to a lunar landing as commander of Apollo 16. The mission is scheduled for launch this Sunday.

Crews for all of the scheduled space missions have already been selected, but Young believes his country will not abandon manned spaceflight after all it has done.

COPOUTS

"It's inconceivable to me that we're going to be technological copouts," he says.

John Young was born in San Francisco, but reared in Orlando, Fla., and considers the smaller town home.

He was an outstanding student and athlete in high school and, like many of the astronauts, was attracted to flying while still a teenager.

Young majored in aeronautical engineering at Georgia Institute of Technology and also enlisted in the Navy ROTC. He went right into the Navy after graduation in 1952 and within seven years was a Navy test pilot.

'SCRAMBLING'

In 1962, Young set two world records which still stand for "scrambling" — an interceptor jet. He set the first by roaring from a standstill on a runway to an altitude of 9,250 feet in 34 seconds aboard a Phantom jet fighter. The second record was for an altitude of 80,000 feet.

The Navy pilot became an astronaut in 1962 and has since contributed as much to the lore and legend of the space corps as he has to the technology of flying in space.

Young hides a first-class mind behind a folksy facade of dry wit, mildly mangled grammar and a deadpan delivery.

The astronaut takes a simple, direct approach to engineering problems which occasionally has made the complex studies used by most engineers appear a little silly.

SHAVING

One example concerns the problem of shaving in space. For years engineers spent thousands of dollars on various shaving devices which would not only cut the beard but sweep up the cut whiskers and keep them from floating around in the spacecraft.

On Apollo 10, Young solved the whole problem with a safety razor, some thick lather and a tissue. He theorized that the lather would hold the cut whiskers, and the lather could then be blotted up with the tissue. He was right.

Young will be at the controls of the Apollo 16 lunar module for man's fifth landing on the moon. With him will be Charles M. Duke Jr. The command module pilot on the mission is Thomas K. Mattingly II who

'Package' Aids Car Buyer

A new word has crept into the automotive glossary. It's "Package," a common enough word, but one which many new car shoppers would be hard-pressed to define, even though the term can make ordering a car much easier — and more economical.

It is a selection of popular extra equipment items that can be ordered as a group for the sake of simplicity and convenience.

Packages come in many forms, but one of the more common is the "easy order" type package. This would include such optional items that most people want added to their basic model, such as power brakes, power steering, undercoating, wheel covers and similar equipment.

Young looks younger than his 41 years, his face unlined and his hair untouched by gray. He stands 5 feet 9, and is powerfully built.
