

Little Paris Hotels Are Fast Departing Scene

PARIS (AP) — The little Paris hotels, with the toilet down one flight and the chambermaid who delivered Henry Miller-type fantasies with your morning croissant, are dying. The mama-papa teams who owned and ran them, charming or exasperating tourists with their kindness or crabbiness, are selling out, some to real estate developers, others to businesses or firms who have transformed the hotels into offices or apartment blocks. Since 1950, 178 small hotels have closed in the city, according to figures from the National Tourist Office. No one is building anything of limited size to replace them. It doesn't pay. The dying process would be a long and quiet one, but the situation is underscored by the opening of three new hotels, all large, brimming with plastic and neon, and expensive. Paris' growing lack of interest in the traveler with a moderate income was illustrated at Easter, a period when thousands of Europeans arrive for a long weekend. All the reasonably priced hotels were full and tourists were dispatched into the countryside for rooms. Managers of de luxe hotels—the Plaza Athenee, for example—admitted they were running at only 50 per cent capacity.

NANCY SEELY

JUDY SIMMONS

Seely, Simmons Are Top Flower Grove Students

Flower Grove has as its honor graduates for the 1971-72 school year, Nancy Seely, valedictorian, with a four year average of 90.05, and Judy Simmons, salutatorian, with an average of 88.82.

Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Seely of Route 1, Ackerly. She plans to enter Texas Tech University next fall.

Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Simmons, also of Route 1, Ackerly. Her plans include fall enrollment in Angelo State University in San Angelo.

Other members of the 71-72 graduating class are Judy Cave, Charlotte Welch, Valentina Silva, Carina Barboza, Frank Cruz and Ruben Gonzales. Baccalaureate services will be held in the school auditorium at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 21 with the Rev. C. B. Baker, Big Spring, as guest speaker. Commencement exercises will also be held in the school auditorium at 8 p.m. on May 23. Following graduation, the class will begin its senior trip. This year the class will vacation in Galveston and visit other points of interest in that area.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced that it is accepting applications for stenographers (GS-2 and GS-3), and Typists (GS-2 and GS-3) for future vacancies in the West Texas and Dona Ana and Otero Counties in New Mexico. Salary range is $5,166 to $6,544 per year. Further information and application forms may be obtained at the Federal Job Information Center in the El Paso National Bank Building Arcade, 411 North Stanton Street, El Paso 79901.

Family Planning Stamp Unpopular

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Postal Service officials here say an 8-cent stamp promoting family planning is "the slowest moving commemorative we've ever had."

Although most commemorative stamp issues are quickly sold out, the local post office still has 90,000 of the 8-cent stamp received more than a month ago.

"It's not a popular stamp. It's too controversial," said Jack Cullen, superintendent of window service at the main branch.

The stamp depicts a man and woman and two children strolling under the legend "family planning."

Birthday Noted

TOKYO (AP) — An estimated 40,000 Japanese and a few foreigners went to the Imperial Palace today to wish Emperor Hirohito a happy 71st birthday.

Brown, Jenkins Named To Cosden's Board

Rene P. Brown, vice president-research and engineering, and Jerry G. Jenkins, vice president-chemical operations, have been elected to the board of directors of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of American Petrofina, Incorporated. The action was taken earlier this month at the annual stockholders meeting in Wilmington, Del., and announced Saturday by Paul D. Meek, president of Cosden.

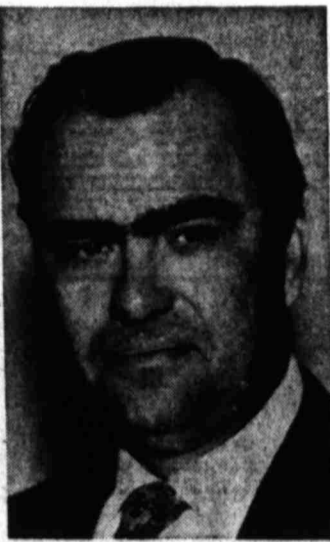

Brown, a native of Grand Prairie, joined Cosden in January 1957 as a chemical engineer immediately upon graduation from the University of Texas with a BS in chemical engineering. He was named manager of research and control in May 1961 and was elevated to vice president-research in April 1967.

His memberships included the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, the American Chemical Society, Society of Plastics Engineers and The Society of the Plastics Industry. A registered professional engineer in Texas, Brown is affiliated with the National Society of Professional Engineers. He is a director of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Foundation, and was recently named to the board of directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He is a director of Big Spring Youth Center, Inc. Brown and his wife, Kris, reside at 3 Highland Heather with their two daughters, Deborah, 14, and Elaine, 9.

A graduate of Texas A&M University, Jenkins holds a BS in chemical engineering and is a registered professional engineer in Texas. His association with Cosden began in March 1958 as a senior process engineer. Two years later he became assistant manager of the technical department and later chief process engineer. In March 1964 he was promoted to manager of licensing and chemical development. He was elected a vice president in April 1967, the scope of his responsibilities now including both manufacturing and licensing.

Court Upholds Ruling Made By Schoolman

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Friday that the principal of Coronado High School in El Paso, Tex., has the authority to regulate the hair of male pupils.

A district court had upheld the right of Chesley Karr to wear his hair long and attend the school. The case was considered by all 15 judges of the appeals court, with eight of them ruling against long hair and seven of them in favor of youths being able to wear their hair long in public schools as long as their hair length does not interfere with school functions.

The majority opinion said it did not mean to minimize the individual rights of Karr and noted there was not enough time for federal courts to become involved in hair length cases.

Proposal To Reduce Cost Of Water Study Okehd

State agencies Friday tentatively agreed to trim the cost of a water quality study of the Colorado River Water District basin to a level that state and local matching funds will meet the 50 per cent demanded by the federal Office of Management and Budget.

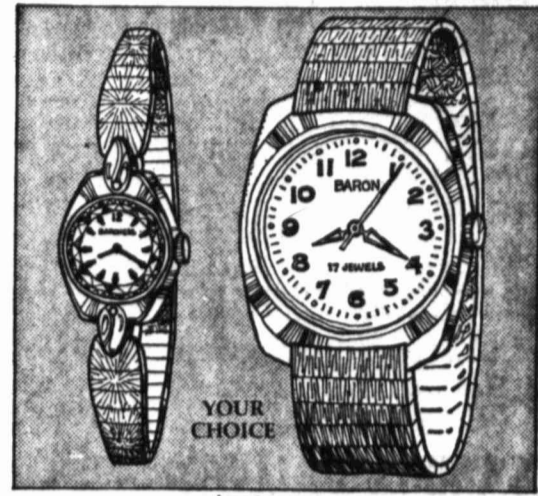

Traditionally federal funds have financed such studies. Cong. Jake Pickle of Austin, who had obtained the original $300,000 appropriation from Congress last year to start the study, said he will try to get the OMB ruling reversed. He was bitter over delays which he said was caused by OMB refusing to release money appropriated by Congress for the project, then imposing a 50-50 matching requirement.

Federal and state engineers will begin Tuesday an effort to pare the cost of the study from $1,700,000 to $1,400,000 so that the state can come up with matching funds. Hugh Yantis, executive director of the Texas Water Quality Board, said the board had refused to transfer a $140,000 final contribution to the project to bring the state share to $850,000 because it would have involved taking money from other pressing projects. Dean Mathews of the environmental Protection Agency, said he felt that the scope of the study could be cut and still meet EPA requirements. Maj. C. A. Allen of the U.S. Corps of Engineers, resisted efforts to trim the study, but Rep. Pickle pinned him down to trying to work out revisions. The representative got a promise that the revised study would be ready by the end of this week. One of the reasons for urgency of the study is that cities in the basin may have to have this date in order to qualify for federal funds on sewage and pollution control works facilities.

Davis Diary Vital, Says Prosecutor

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—The prosecutor says his case against Angela Davis is in "great jeopardy" unless he is allowed to introduce into evidence a document he calls Miss Davis' diary.

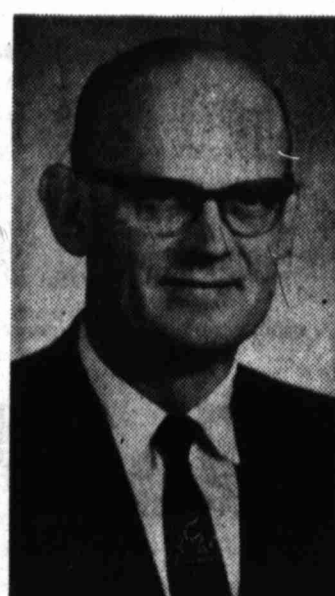

THREE REAL SWINGERS — There's swinging on a star. There's a swinging on The Strip at Las Vegas. Then there's backporch swingers. Three little Amish youngsters, in their traditional black hats, sun-bonnet and black clothes, swing on an old-fashioned porch swing at their home near Lancaster, Pa.

Albert Harris Jr.'s comment was disclosed late Friday when a sealed transcript of a closed chambers session last Tuesday between the prosecution, defense and the judge was ordered unsealed by the judge.

Harris said it would be "very difficult for us to proceed" against Miss Davis unless her diary, found in the prison cell of slain convict author George Jackson, is admitted into evidence.

Miss Davis, a 28-year-old black militant, is charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in connection with an Aug. 7, 1970 Marin County courthouse shootout in which four persons were killed.

She is accused of supplying the guns and plotting the escape attempt of three convicts, which ended in the gun battle. The state claims she loved Jackson and hoped to exchange hostages for his freedom.

Students' Undisciplined Attitude Is Criticized

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — An official of a Soviet youth organization who toured U.S. college campuses says many American students do not appear to be seriously interested in using educational facilities provided for them.

The students obviously have many of the finest resources in the world, Levon G. Saakyan said in an interview Friday.

When they study. There is an attitude among university leaders that is too lenient. They are not trying to bring up their students to have a sense of full consciousness of their responsibility. Students have an easy life and perhaps they are too accustomed to it.

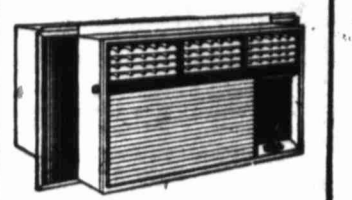

Saakyan suggested more students should engage in collective work experiences to learn a greater sense of social responsibility.

Deaths Increase

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas traffic accidents have killed 989 persons so far this year, compared with 957 at this time last year, the Department of Public Safety reports.

Fatal accidents this year total 840, compared with 797 for the same period a year ago.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

CRMWD Is Taking An Unfair Rap

Dear Editor: I have been disturbed by remarks reported from recent meetings of the City Commission concerning the Colorado River Municipal Water District. One member of the Commission has intimated that the City has been conned into an unfair contract with the District. This is not so.

As one privileged to have served four years on the City Commission and for 18 years on the District Board, I think I am in a unique position to accurately weigh these remarks. For the life of me, I can't understand any basis whatsoever for them.

It was the City of Big Spring that worked with the City of Odessa and the City of Snyder for years to create the District. They helped shape the contracts which are now in existence and incidentally, the citizens of Big Spring overwhelmingly approved the contract between the city and the District by a 23 to 1 majority, to enable the District to begin its job of providing adequate water supplies.

Getting plenty of water was too big a job for any one of the cities to tackle and still do the other things they had to do, but the District could do it and has done it. When first water was delivered in 1952, the City of Big Spring was at its limit of its water supply and the cities of Odessa and Snyder were virtually in the same condition. None of them could have held on to what they had, let alone grow another peg, without plenty of water. But because the District did get the water and has managed to supply it in abundance without ever once having to ask the cities to curtail their usage, they grew. Big Spring doubled in population and Odessa tripled in population. During these 20 years, the District has pumped more than 200 billion gallons of water to its customers and the average price per thousand gallons to the City of Big Spring has been 16.98 cents. In West Texas and in most of the state, for that matter, this is pretty economical water.

RESPECTABLE RATE One reason why the District has been able to provide water to the cities at such a respectable low rate is because the Net Revenue derived from the sale of water to other customers of the District has been used to reduce the rates to the member cities.

The District has been solely financed through the sale of Revenue Bonds. There is not one penny of tax money involved in the District; nor does the District now have the authority to levy taxes. The City's contract with the District says in essence, that the city will take all of its water from the District paying a fixed annual charge plus 6 cents per thousand gallons for water it uses. The total of this, together with the revenues from the other cities, equals what it costs to pay the District's debt services and to operate the system.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delegates to an American Bar Association conference agree that some type of prepaid group plan is needed to give middle-income Americans greater access to lawyers.

But delegates to the Conference on Prepaid Legal Services concluded a two-day meeting Friday with little agreement on how such a plan should work.

"This thing is too new," one delegate said. "We should go ahead with every type of plan because we don't know which one is best."

Nearly 400 representatives of the legal profession, insurance industry, organized labor, law schools, consumer groups and government participated in the conference designed to analyze the development of prepaid legal service plans—a concept similar to prepaid group medical and health services.

The program is designed to make legal assistance more readily available to persons of low and middle income, those earning between $6,000 and $20,000 a year who make up, between 60 to 70 per cent of the population.

Political Advance Men Little Known But They're Invaluable

By The Associated Press
Already it was 9 p.m., and though he had wanted to be in Orlando by now, he was still at work in the unlisted suite that he and a few other shadowy men have as headquarters.

in their home areas. "Too many friends and relatives want to help," she says. "My people should be unflinching."

Miami was about to embark on his 27th advance trip for Humphrey, by no means has a monopoly on guile and cunning, but some of his exploits are near legendary in advance circles.

street crowds and now employed by nearly every advance man, is to organize poster contests among schools, clubs and other groups, with a guarantee that the winner will have his sign autographed by the candidate.

through all the gimmicks and the planning when a candidate is really face to face with people.

ORCHESTRATING
And, indeed, who really notices, when crowds gather and banners wave and confetti flutters, that men like Rodgers are orchestrating these supposed manifestations of love and loyalty from the grass roots?

TRICKY SIDE
But when it comes to the tricky side of the trade, the most celebrated advance man of all is Bruno, master of the built crowd, of creating the conditions for the kind of spontaneity that got Bobby Kennedy mobbed wherever he went.

And, perhaps the most controversial of Bruno's trademarks and one to which he confesses in "The Advance Man," a memoir of his work with the Kennedys, is the matter of making sure crowd barriers are so flimsy that a mob scene develops.

Despise Bruno's unmatched record in crowdsmanship, his go-for-broke style is not to every candidate's liking.

Another Casey innovation is the introduction of young, attractive advance women, namely 25-year-old Rose Economou and 28-year-old Marsha Pinkstaff, a former Miss Indiana who got her political start by campaigning for Sen. Birch Bayh.

Artist's Success Surprises Her Much More Than Anyone

By MYRNA MCFADIN
Mrs. Bonnie Hohertz is recognized as being one of Big Spring's foremost artists. In the recent Open Exhibit of the Big Spring Art Association Bonnie entered five paintings and won five awards.

Turnips Row!" Turnips Row it was.

Mr. and Mrs. Hohertz are also quite proud of their daughter, Andra. She won Second Place for her entry in the Primary division.

While some might claim their artistic destiny was foretold at an early age, Bonnie relates quite a different story. Her early education was received in a school that offered no art program whatsoever.

SCARED JUDGE
Her husband came home four days before the show and announced he was going to start his entry. "He didn't even know how to mix paint or use a pallet knife, and he won third place. Mine, scared the judge."

It was at this point she determined to start studying seriously. Being a dedicated homemaker, she had no other course but to start training herself to learn at home.

BASIC DECISIONS
At the helm is Ursula Culver, director of scheduling. A veteran of on-site advance, she now seldom leaves her Washington office. Instead, she makes the basic decisions as to which cities Humphrey will visit, dispatches the appropriate advance men to take it from there.

ONE TEACHER
Her first and only teacher was Winnie Unger — "the kindest, most loving person you have ever seen. No matter what a mess you made, she could find something good about it."

It is not unusual for Bonnie to stay up till 2 a.m. several nights in a row studying and painting. She loves every minute she spends in her own special world. She says one of the most exciting things about her life is the fascinating people she meets.

Bonnie names her paintings as spontaneously as she paints them. Her First Place painting was named by a friend. Having taken it with her on a visit, the friend took one look and said, "Say, how about that —

By STEVE HULTMAN
 Frances (Sissy) Farenthold was greeted Friday by the largest turnout yet for a gubernatorial candidate in Big Spring.

Mrs. Farenthold met supporters, city officials and Democratic party officials at an hour-long reception and press conference.

A short speech set the mood of the reception and the attitude of Mrs. Farenthold to Big Spring.

"The pros said to write off East and West Texas," she said, "but I'm not writing off anything."

"The turning point of the campaign" was COPE, in March, in Galveston. I won't ever forget it, because people came from all over the state to me and said they were with me, they would help me.

"But before that there were a few. Many of my friends were skeptical. But I remember with great, great gratitude Mr. (Kenneth) Howell in Arlington the weekend before I announced. He told me Big Spring was a great place to come to, and (said) I would find it a friendly place, and so I have."

SHE'S INSURGENT
 "I classify myself as an insurgent, and I think this is the year for insurgency. If you look at the second definition of insurgent you will see 'challenge to party leadership,' and that's what my campaign is about," she said.

"We've got to stop the merging of the public and private interests and the use of public office as collateral. It didn't start in Sharpstown, but it should surely end after that."

"I'm inclined to agree with Gus Mutscher who said 'The big fish are still swimming,' but as far as investigation I just don't see where any further investigation is going to come. I think that's unfortunate."

One point Mrs. Farenthold elaborated on was her opposition to the Texas Water Plan.

"Of course we need a water plan. And West Texans are suffering more than any other Texans. But we need a water plan for all the West Texans. With the kind of plan that came out in 1969, only the large corporate farmers would have been able to afford to buy the water."

"With that kind of plan, it would have taken half of all the electrical power we produced in 1967 to lift that water to the high plains. That's the kind of thing that was almost passed."

LOOK WEST
 "Now we need water conservation laws, we need water management, we need to look to New Mexico and see what they have done with reservoirs and the multi-use of water. And we need to get on with it."

CANDIDATE (L), LOCAL WORKER

A corporate profits tax is the way to go for more money, according to Mrs. Farenthold, who has opposed an extension of the sales tax.

"The line is drawn clearly between me and those other three on that," she said.

While in the legislature for two terms, Mrs. Farenthold passed only one bill, for travel expenses for Judge Novell who came to testify at a committee hearing.

"Most of my efforts have been in the area of reform. I was active in that (the Jerry Sadler controversy) and it was the first area in which I realized we really needed reform because of his conduct before a legislative committee. As a consequence of that we came up with an antiquities bill and the first resolution reprimanding a member of the executive branch."

"During the beginning of my second term in 1971 when I saw the enormity of the stock fraud scandal I first worked on rules reform. When I saw the enormity of our problems what seemed to me to have top priority was the reform of our legislative process."

ROLE PLEASED HER
 "When I introduced a resolution and appealed the chair and got 30 votes, I knew for the rest of the session I would have what we could call legislative ostracism, and that's all right with me, because I had made that decision then."

Mrs. Farenthold went on to discuss her attitude toward marijuana, explaining she had introduced bills to lower the penalty for possession to a misdemeanor.

"It doesn't matter to me which of the other three candidates is in the runoff," said Mrs. Farenthold. "If I could have supported any of them, I would have, but I couldn't."

"Right now I am fighting to get into the runoff, but right now no one knows who will be in it. It's up to the people."

David Sweatt Is Elevated To Top Post

WESTBROOK — President Roxann Moore presided over the final meeting of the Westbrook High School Chapter of the National Honor Society Thursday with the invocation being given by Joyce McKenney.

Teresa Selvera gave the treasurer's report and read the minutes of the previous meeting.

The nominating committee presented its report for the new officers for the ensuing year. Those elected were David Sweatt, president; Joyce McKenney, vice-president; Teresa Selvera, secretary; Steven Hines, historian; Bruce Rich, reporter; and Lee Roy Miller, parliamentarian.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sweatt of Westbrook.

In behalf of the NHS members Roxann Moore was presented the president's gavel insignia as a gift from the Westbrook NHS members by Preston C. Lightfoot, sponsor for the chapter.

Mr. Lightfoot also presented a membership card to Karen Stewart, a junior and a new member who was voted in by the Faculty Council.

David Sweatt, vice president, was in charge of the program, a film, "For Better or Worse," was viewed by the members.

Refreshments were served to the teachers, administrators, auxiliary personnel, teacher aides, and the NHS members. The social committee consisted of Roxann Moore, Teresa Selvera, Sandra Rich, Linda Rame and Joyce McKenney.

Scout Camporee Lures Scouts By Hundreds

Several hundred Scouts are expected Friday evening at the Roundup grounds southeast of the City Park for the annual Lone Star District camporee.

Ralph Beckham, director, said that the Lone Buffalo district also would be represented at the camporee by at least one troop from Colorado City and one or more from Snyder.

Several troops here have sent their entry blanks to Beckham, but he urged all others to return these promptly to him at 3308 Auburn.

Troops will begin setting up camp after school Friday, then will devote all of Saturday to contests in Scoutcraft and skills.

The public is invited to witness the campfire program Saturday starting at 8 p.m. when each troop will present a skit, and the Order of Arrows Indian Dancers, under leadership of Austin Ferguson, will give a performance. Garrett Patton will preside at the campfire ceremonies.

Church services will be observed at 8:30 a.m. Sunday immediately before time for the troops to break camp.

Among the events scheduled for Saturday are: Pony Express (Rider and four boys as "mounts"); judging of a model camp; tracking and trailing; Norwegian Bucket race

SMOULDERING REMAINS OF GASOLINE TANKER Wreck near Stanton killed T. J. Proctor, Big Spring

Local Trucker Dies In Stanton Crash

A Big Spring man died near Stanton about 2 p.m. Friday in the fiery crash of the gasoline tanker he was driving.

T. J. PROCTOR

One possible explanation of the accident was suggested by Highway Patrolman J. W. Crowley, who said: "He may have had a tire on fire, and while he looked back at it in the rear-view mirror he could have wandered off the road, and overturned when he tried to turn back to the high-

THE WEEK

Give the weather A for effort. For a change, our area had clouds, and one morning the north half of the county received from one-half to an inch of rain. That general soaker, necessary for planting, is still around the corner — but as has been safely observed, one day nearer.

Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center has raised $13,300 toward an estimated $20,000 needed for equipment of its new wing. A bigger gap, however, appeared in the first quarter statement which showed the center running $12,713 behind its revenues. This is because nearly half of those using the center are unable to pay. Nevertheless, this can't go indefinitely.

Our city had two distinguished visitors during the week. One was Gov. Emilien Vaes, governor of the Hainaut province in Belgium, which contains Petrofina installations. The other was Roger Staubach, quarterback for the world champion Dallas Cowboys, who is proficient, eloquent, affable, and, just for good measure, handsome. Naturally, he made a great hit as the speaker for the Zale's-Herald Youth Achievement dinner. Top winners were Bobby Carlie, Big Spring; Phyllis Wynn, Coahoma; Debra Fryar, Fossil; Dorinda Vee Graham, Sands; Spencer Reid, Lamesa; Diana Payne, Stanton, and Mark Allen Waldrip, Colorado City.

Harold Davis, president of Gamco, got himself an additional job last week. He was named president also of Miller Visual Aids, Inc., of Fort Worth, which, fortunately for us, he will manage from here.

Big Spring and Webb AFB had a special interest in the safe return of Lt. Col. Charles Duke, one of the three moon astronauts who splashed down in the Pacific Thursday. As a second lieutenant, he was a distinguished graduate at Webb Sept. 3, 1968.

A rash of burglaries broke out last week, and these were unique for boldness and centering on homes. Thieves were breaking up to residences in broad daylight and carrying off stuff as though it were their very own. You can help stop this by making a note of strange goings on in your neighborhood, jotting down license numbers, descriptions, etc.

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Cub Scouts all combined Saturday for a good turn of massive proportions. They tackled more than a score of vacant lots around town and gave them a cleaning. Now if the whole town can catch the fever —

After spending 25 years as a professional Scouter, and another 10 as volunteer, Monty Stokes has retired on early disability because of health reasons. Anyone who puts a quarter of a century into boys comes out with a mighty rich investment.

Big Spring State Hospital has been a busy place for workshops lately. Friday it concluded one for workers with adolescents, an event which attracted 130 persons to the hospital campus. Two were held the week before.

THEFTS

A burglary at Webb's Cafe, 103 W. 1st, was reported Friday to police, in which the cigarette machine and juke box were broken into and approximately $50 in change taken. Officers said entry was gained through the front door, and that an attempt had been made to break into the Tap Room Cafe across the alley from Webb's Cafe, but entry was not gained. A theft was reported to police Monday morning from the Record Shop. A tape player, valued at $100, was reported to have been stolen.

President Due To Make Political Hay Today

By The Associated Press

President Nixon flies to Texas Sunday for an overnight visit with his Treasury secretary, John Connally, in what many are interpreting as more than a social call.

The big event of the trip will be a Sunday dinner for about 200 persons at Connally's ranch seven miles east of Floresville which is 29 miles southeast of San Antonio. Among those invited to the dinner are persons who have been substantial contributors to political campaigns in the past, resulting in an attack from Roy Evans, Texas AFL-CIO president and a Democrat.

Nixon's visit is only one development leading up to the primaries and precinct conventions Saturday. George Wallace and Hubert Humphrey also scheduled visits during the week, hunting for Democratic convention delegates. Nixon will not be seeking convention votes—he has them wrapped up among the Republicans.

Until this year, Democratic presidential convention delegates voted as a block—their candidate determined in precinct, county, district and state conventions on a winner-take-all basis. This year, the national Democratic party has eliminated bloc voting, meaning candidates can pick up delegates even if they do not win the majority of Texas' 130 convention votes.

Thus Humphrey will sweep through the state, visiting El Paso, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston Thursday. He will be preceded Tuesday by Wallace campaigning in Beatmont, Corpus Christi and Houston.

Connally, former Texas governor and a Democrat, has never been much of a favorite with liberals such as labor leader Evans, anyway.

And when he joined Republican Nixon's Cabinet, some speculated that Connally would cross over to the GOP, possibly becoming Nixon's vice presi-denial running mate in this year's election. Neither of these events appears really likely. Connally's considerable political power is within the dominant Democratic party in Texas.

DEATHS

Proctor Services To Be At 10 Monday Morning

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Monday for T. J. Proctor, 44, who was killed when his transport truck overturned and caught fire near Stanton Friday afternoon.

Rites will be in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. Gary Higgs, pastor of Berea Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Mt. Olive Cemetery.

Mr. Proctor was born in Big Spring Oct. 17, 1927, and lived as a youth in Westbrook and Loraine, returning to Big Spring after serving in the Navy in World War II. For 35 years he was a driver for Sunset Motor Lines, then drove for transport companies, including Eagle since January, 1972.

Mr. Proctor was married in April, 1948, to Dean Fulton and she survives him as do three sons, Terry Proctor, Big Spring; Michael Proctor, Texas Tech; and Chris Proctor, University of Texas at Austin; also a step daughter, Miss Donna Fulton, Ft. Stewart, Ga.

Other survivors include his father, L. S. Proctor, Big Spring; four brothers, Ralph Proctor and T. A. Proctor, both of Big Spring, Wallace Proctor, Colorado City and Jack Proctor, Irving; two sisters, Mrs. Dean Rittenmeyer, Sparks, Nev., and Mrs. Eugene Terry, Hawthorne, Nev. Pallbearers will be Henry Stewart, Garland Conway, John Lewis, Ben Dougherty, Paul Garrett and Bob Springer.

Sweatt Rites Are Conducted

COLORADO CITY — Funeral services for T. G. Sweatt, 84, were held Saturday in the First United Methodist Church.

The Rev. C. W. Parmenter of St. Luke's Methodist Church officiated, assisted by the Rev. Ed H. Burkett of Calvary Baptist Church. Burial was in the Iatan Cemetery under the direction of Kiker-Raines-Seale Funeral Home. The grandsons were pallbearers.

Mr. Sweatt died at 2:50 a.m. Friday in Root Memorial Hospital following an extended illness. He was born in Jones Co., Aug. 8, 1887, and came to Mitchell Co. in 1901. He married Eva Mae Sutherland Oct. 23, 1906, in Iatan. They lived in Mitchell Co. until 1951, then moved to Andrews. They moved back to Colorado City in 1959.

Mr. Sweatt was a retired teacher and a member of the St. Luke's Methodist Church. Survivors include his wife of the home, three daughters, Mrs. Leonard Morris and Mrs. Warren Costik, both of Colorado City, and Mrs. L. E. Murphy of Crane; four sons, Claude Sweatt of Odessa, Loyd Sweatt of Olton, Wilmer (Doc) Sweatt of Westbrook and Russell Sweatt of El Paso; one brother, Ed Sweatt, Dimmitt; three sisters, Mrs. Curtis Smith and Mrs. Bertie Jones, both of Midland, and Mrs. Jennie Franklin, Upland, Calif.; 20 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

John Arista Sr.; Services Monday

John Arista Sr., 68, native of Howard County and a retired farmer, died at 2:50 a.m. Saturday in a hospital here.

Last rites will be at 2:30 p.m. Monday at St. Thomas Catholic Church, of which he was a member, under the direction of the Rev. Leo J. F. St. John, pastor. Burial will be in the Mount Olive Cemetery under direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

He was born in Big Spring, April 26, 1904, and farmed and ranched until illness caused his retirement two years ago. He was married here in 1941 to Miss Ricarda Martinez. She survives him as do two daughters, Mrs. Eddie Ortega, Fort Worth, and Mrs. Julia Hamilton, San Francisco, Calif.; three sons, John Arista Jr., and Henry Arista, both of Fort Worth, and Robert Arista of the home in Sand Springs; 24 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He also leaves a brother, Tommy Arista, Big Spring; six sisters, Mrs. Fred Lindo, Bay City, Mrs. Bickel Silva, Sanderson, Mrs. Anela Salgado, Odessa; Mrs. Caroline Salgado, Fort Worth; Sarah Claveran, Fort Worth; and Mrs. Anita Leos, Big Spring.

Father Of Local Woman Succumbs

J. L. Moore, father of Mrs. Mary Skalicky, member of the Howard County Junior College music faculty, died Friday in Dallas after a long illness. Arrangements are in charge of the Restland Memorial Funeral Home in Dallas, and services have been set for 2:30 p.m. Monday.

Rites Conducted For Mrs. Deans

Services were held at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Howell-Doran Funeral Home Chapel in San Saba for Mrs. Gertrude Elizabeth Deans, 45, wife of J. B. Deans, Herald pressman.

She died at 4:30 p.m. Friday after a long illness. Burial was in the Harmony Ridge Cemetery near San Saba. She was born Dec. 8, 1926 in San Saba and had served as secretary at TCU when she lived in Fort Worth.

Also surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Charles Roberts, Grandview, and Mrs. Eugene Williams Jr., Fort Worth; her mother, Mrs. Orla Johnson, San Saba; four sisters, three brothers and two grandchildren.

Woman Succumbs In Nursing Inn

Mrs. Hattie Maypole, 89, mother of Mrs. Paul Klonka, died Friday evening at a Big Spring Nursing Inn.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Sunday in the St. Mary's Episcopal Church with the Rev. Harland Birdwell, rector, officiating. Burial will be in Forest Park, Ill. in charge of the Zimmerman and Son Funeral Home.

She was born March 29, 1883, in Chicago, Ill. and was married to Dr. Alexander M. Maypole April 25, 1906 in Maywood, Ill. He died in 1952. For a time Mrs. Maypole lived in Tucson, Ariz., then came here in 1960 to make her home with her daughters. She had been a resident of the inn since 1964.

Surviving Mrs. Maypole are her daughter and one grandson Paul P. Klonka, Big Spring.

Apollo Crew Flying Home

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — The Apollo 16 astronauts returned to U.S. soil Saturday and their commander, John W. Young, said that the mission's success "shows the real teamwork that's going to keep this country great."

"We really enjoyed the trip, you could tell we were having fun, but we sure are glad to be back," Young told about 2,500 persons who welcomed the astronauts as they stopped over at Hickam Air Force Base on their way to Houston and a late Saturday evening reunion with their families.

Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II got a traditional Hawaiian welcome—flowers and kisses—during the half-hour stopover.

Duke said that before blasting off from Cape Kennedy 14 days ago on the 12 million-mile mission, "I decided I wouldn't use words like 'spectacular' and 'fantastic' but I bet you I used 'fantastic' 900 times. It was the most fantastic trip I ever took."

The astronauts arrived in three separate planes from the Ticonderoga, which plucked them out of the Pacific about 1,500 miles southeast of Hawaii on Thursday and then steamed toward Honolulu.

Each served as copilot of his craft during the hour and 40 minute flight from the ship to Hickam, on the outskirts of Honolulu.

Sale Of Bulbs Opens Monday

Big Spring Downtown Lions Club members will be knocking on doors all over town Monday and Tuesday for their annual light bulb sale.

Proceeds from the sale go into the Lions sight conservation and blind work, and also to send crippled and diabetic children to a summer camp.

"In selling these packets of light bulbs to Big Spring families," said Roy Hughes, president, "we hope to be able to turn on the light to those who see poorly or perhaps not at all. One of our prime objectives is to see that children—and poor adults, too—who need glasses and can't afford them are furnished with glasses."

"Over the years, we have helped literally hundreds of youngsters and others to have good vision, and we owe it to the help that you people in Big Spring have given us. We want you to know that when you buy a package of bulbs this week, you are having a part in this humanitarian work."

When there are remaining funds, the club helps in other projects, such as recent donation of a bingo machine to a ward at Big Spring State Hospital, where the club also put in a miniature golf course. It has supported the YMCA, Boys Club and other local enterprises.

Chairman of the light bulb sale is Aubrey Bryans, aided by division leaders Jimmy Ray Smith and Don Box, each of whom have five teams working under them.

MISHAPS

2300 block of Allendale: Dorothy Chaney McElroy, 2911 Brent, and Cary Lynn Hise, 2225 Lynn; 4:57 p.m. Friday.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are due today from upper Florida north along the coast through the Virginias and inland to the southern Lakes Area, where it will blend into rain. More rain is due over the Pacific Northwest, Montana, with snow expected in Wyoming; and showers due over Kansas and Oklahoma. It will be cool in the west and milder east of the Mississippi.

D. L. Knight Looks Back On Service With Mobil

D. L. Knight, lease operator at Mobil Oil Corporation's Chalk Foreman's area, retires Monday with 35 years service.

"Things are a lot different now," he said. "Time has changed lots of things. The working conditions have changed, and it's easier to do the work now. It used to be all manpower, now it's all machines."

Fellow employees honored him with a dinner at Big Spring, at which Quincy Early, foreman, presented him with a jeweled emblem and testimonial.

married in 1934. They live on the Sterling City Route, Big Spring. They plan to spend their retirement years in Big Spring, near their married daughter, Peggy Crooks. Knight plans to work with his knife making and woodworking hobbies.

Doomed Man Hopes His Story Can Help

By RICHARD KISONAK
LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — I am scheduled to die this year. For several months a mysterious, fatal disease, the name of which I can barely pronounce, has quietly and determinedly been waging a hellish war on my muscular system. It will continue to do this, the doctor says, until I am paralyzed—and die.

I found out about it on a raw, windy day last November. Since then my life has been a whole new ball game, and I don't know how I am going to react when it is obvious that my time is up.

It is a very rare disease called amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, and it results in degeneration and hardening of portions of the spinal cord. In time this brings on extreme weakness and, finally, paralysis and death.

Many years ago the same disease took the life of Lou Gehrig, the famous New York Yankee slugger. It is often called Lou Gehrig's Disease. The medical profession doesn't know what causes it.

ADJUSTS MENTALLY

I have agreed to put my feelings down on paper because of the possibility that what I have to say might be of some help in the future to somebody else. My message, for what it is worth, is that I have been able to adjust mentally to a point where I am able to cope so far with this awful thing that is pulling me down. Things aren't the same any more, of course, but at the same time my life is more beautiful and meaningful than ever before.

For almost 19 years I was a newsman for The Lewiston Daily Sun. The first signs that something was terribly wrong showed up about the middle of last year. I was losing weight, and also I began having a small speech problem. There was a slight slurring of some words when I spoke. At first it didn't concern me too much, as I figured it was caused by my dentures. I had the dentures realigned—but the speech problem grew steadily worse. A throat examination turned up nothing wrong there.

Summer went and autumn came and things were no better. Because of the speech problem, I was intentionally avoiding people.

By now there was a slight twitching of my tongue. Following a thorough examination, a specialist I went to see smiled and said he could find nothing wrong with me physically. He was 90 per cent certain, he added, that my speech and tongue problem was caused by an emotional thing. "Are you happy with your work? Do you have a problem at home with your wife or kids?"

Negative on both counts, I insisted. He insisted that all my signs were normal but that, if I wished, he'd arrange for me to be examined by a Portland specialist in neurology. Make an appointment, I said, and I went home wondering if I were beginning to lose some marbles upstairs.

DOCTOR LATE

The appointment was on Nov. 11 last year, the traditional Armistice Day observance. The doctor was very late. Later I was to wish that he hadn't shown up at all.

I remember that visit vividly: "We were in a side room and the doctor, a bland looking fellow with his features, signalled that the examination was over. He said, 'Get dressed, then get your wife.' They were the last words he would speak to me."

Moments later Beverly and I sat before him side by side on hard chairs, waiting. The doctor, a young man with finely chiseled features and burning eyes, fingered a paper on his desk for what seemed like an eternity.

Then he turned to Beverly and said, "Your husband has a fatal disease. It is called amyotrophic lateral sclerosis," the doctor was saying, his eyes glued on a paperweight on his desk. "It also is known as Lou Gehrig's Disease."

The room was spinning crazily and my chest was on the verge of exploding. My arms were numb. My legs were rubber. In my head, the pounding intensified.

"I believe in being frank," the doctor was telling Beverly. I looked at her. All over her face were the etchings of shock. Beverly was staring at the doctor, and her eyes were unbelieveing.

"There is no cure," the doctor was saying. "There is no medication for it."

My heart was pounding madly, as I tried to digest what had happened. I couldn't believe it was happening to me. Say you are joking, doctor. Please say it isn't so. Please!

"He has all the symptoms," the doctor said to Beverly. I managed to untangle the knots in my throat. I muttered, "Gawwd damn."

NOT CONTAGIOUS

The doctor was explaining that it isn't a contagious disease. And it isn't a hereditary disease, he went on, in an apparent move to take some of the sting out of it for my wife and family. Beverly came across with the question that I didn't dare ask. How long did I have to live? The doctor answered quickly, bluntly.

"One year—if he's lucky."

Somewhere a siren was wailing. It was in another world. I got up, walked sluggishly to the inside wall in the doctor's office and slammed my fist hard against it.

Don't bother running to other doctors, hoping for another diagnosis, the doctor was telling my wife. It would be a waste of time and money. I should go home and enjoy what time I have left. I had an urge to walk over to his desk and break his nose with my fist.

We told the children the same night. Our kids are Richard Jr., 17, and Janis, 15, both students at Lewiston High School, and Wayne, 11, a fifth grader at Martel School. We called them to the kitchen before supper and told them what the doctor had said. When we'd finished, they cried.

Wayne rubbed his eyes with his left hand and complained, "But this only happens on television!"

Four days later, at Central Maine General Hospital in Lewiston, special tests confirmed the diagnosis. Confirmation was no surprise. Already I was beginning to adjust. A year if I'm lucky, the Portland doctor had said. If it was only nine months, that still gave me time to get in a bunch of living!

At home a couple days later, a friend dropped by and asked, "How does it feel to be told you are dying?"

The first nights bring nightmares. In my dreams I die in weird, color-splashed ways. I attend my own funeral—twice. In the morning I immediately am reminded that I am dying. I am unable at first to read the obituary page in the morning newspaper.

SEVERE CRAMPS

Next are the leg cramps, another symptom of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis. Periodically they have me bolting out of bed in the middle of the night.

I made up my mind to live one day at a time, enjoying life to the fullest, and soon I was doing just that. A wonderful, understanding wife and children make it possible. We don't mention the disease much any more and life around the house has returned to near normal. The major difference, on the surface, is that I'm no longer working.

Christmas was our best ever. Lots of laughing, meeting friends, good food, gifts. That night I had a good cry when the kids were in bed and I was alone. It was my last Christmas with my family. I cried hard, and I am not ashamed to say so.

In January my weight stabilized at about 140 pounds. A year earlier it was around 155. I felt pretty good and Bev and I flew to Jamaica for a week of fun in the sun.

Lions Heading For Conclave

Lions from District 2A-1, which runs from Ackerly to Burnet and Kingsland, and from Midland to Goldthwaite, will converge Friday and Saturday at Brownwood for their annual meeting.

Registration and the traditional golf tournament begin Friday morning, the time that queen contestants from nearly every club in the district, sign in.

The cabinet meeting is due in the afternoon and at 6 p.m. a barbecue at the headquarters Riverside Motor Hotel will be the first major convention event. This will be followed at 8:30 p.m. by the queen's contest.

R. A. (Lip) Lipscomb, past international director, will be the speaker for Saturday's Key breakfast. Business sessions are set during the morning and afternoon with time out for the banquet at 12:15 p.m. honoring District Governor Homer Hodges, winners. Cecil Bridges, Stanton, rules chairman, and D. S. (Schley) Riley, Big Spring, elections chairman, will report at the final business session. There will be a concluding reception at 5 p.m. for the incoming district governor.

TO ALL VOTERS

Because it is impossible for me to see everyone, I would like to take this opportunity to tell you my stand on the office of Justice of the Peace. (Everyone in a 4-mile radius of Big Spring, including Elbow and Lemox, may vote for me.) The office of Justice of the Peace is important to every citizen in that it preserves peace and safeguards the life and property of all citizens. My deep conviction is that this office must be preserved and upgraded to meet the changes and demands of society. To this end, I have recently completed a 40-hour special course in my field. I have married over 2,400 couples and feel that they like you, are my friends and I would appreciate your vote and support for election to another term. Vote for Walter Grice next Saturday.

National Secretaries Week

By JO BRIGHT

By the time men or women earn the title of "executive", they know they were helped up the ladder by good, top-level secretaries.

That's not as simple as it sounds.

According to the National Secretaries Association, a secretary is "an executive assistant who possesses a mastery of office skills, who demonstrates the ability to assume responsibility without direct supervision, who exercises initiative and judgment, and who makes decisions within the scope of assigned authority."

Climaxing the local observance of National Secretaries Week was an educational seminar, for secretaries and office personnel, which was held Saturday in Withycombe Hall, Webb Air Force Base. Keynote speaker for the event was Ernest Lynch Jr., district manager for Southwestern Life, and guest speaker for the Executive's Night dinner was Sen. John Tower. Others addressing the seminar were Mrs. Paulyne Wern, a Certified Professional Secretary and president of the Texas-Louisiana Division of NSA; Mrs. Mary Dudley, psychology instructor, Howard County Junior College; and Mrs. Judi Johnson, assistant for marketing, IBM Corporation.

Included in the week's events was a reception Saturday which honored Mrs. Frank Long, the local chapter's Secretary of the Year. Mrs. Long was also introduced at the dinner by Mrs. Harry Nagel, SOTY chairman. The invocation was by Mrs. Billy Sheppard, seminar chairman, and the welcome was extended by Mrs. V. V. Ames, chapter president, and Col. H. D. Shultz, base commander, Webb AFB.

Serving with Mrs. Ames as chapter officers are Mrs. Robert Roberson, vice president; Mrs. W. A. Bryans, recording secretary; Mrs. W. B. Hinsley, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Adelle Smith, treasurer.

Assisting Mrs. Sheppard, general chairman, were Mrs. Long, registration; Mrs. Hinsley, exhibits; Mrs. Bryans and Mrs. Sue Ratliff, program; Mrs. J. L. Ryals, NSA booth; Mrs. Camille Patterson, publicity; Mrs. Elmer Seitzler, meals, accommodations and decorations; Mrs. Joseph Miller, evaluation; Miss Marguerite Cooper, finance; Mrs. Herbert Heath, refreshments; and Mrs. Nagel, Secretaries Week chairman.

Local high school and junior college secretarial and business students were issued an invitation to participate in the special week's activities and seminar.

The Secretaries Week theme was "Better Secretaries Mean Better Business."

Mrs. Angeline Krout, president, National Secretaries Association, said, "It is a time for professional secretaries to renew their dedication to the inherent qualities that executives rate highest. These qualities are loyalty, dependability, tact, discretion, initiative and good judgment."

PARTICIPATING in Saturday's education seminar sponsored by the NSA were, from left, Mrs. Jimmie R. Jennings, Mrs. Neal Abernathy, Mrs. Linus

M. Tucker, Mrs. G. W. Birrell, Mrs. Joseph Miller, and seated, Mrs. E. J. Earle.

"SECRETARIES WORK VERY HARD," says Snoopy of his fine-feathered friend, Woodstock. The cartoon characters were used in decorations at Saturday's seminar. From left are Mrs. Jimmy Hins-

THE ARTS

High School Meistersingers Slated For Concert Monday

The Big Spring High School Meistersingers, directed by Lee Jackson Bowers, will present a pre-tour concert Monday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Members of the choir will be singing music from the program they plan to use while on Spring tour.

The repertoire includes selections from Baroque and Romantic periods, also contemporary compositions, spirituals and pop selections.

Tickets ($1 and 50 cents) for the performance may be purchased from any Meistersinger or at the door. Proceeds from the concert will help pay for meals of the choir while it is on tour.

The itinerary includes performances at McMurry College in Abilene, Brownwood High School, Howard Payne College in Brownwood, Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, and finally at the Buccaneer Festival in Corpus Christi.

While at Corpus Christi, the choir will participate in the 4-A choir competition. The trip begins Tuesday and will end with the choir's return Sunday, May 7.

The current exhibit at Midland's Museum of the Southwest, "Greenland - Arctic-Denmark," is the biggest ever to come to the museum. It includes 16 tons and 7,000 square feet of material. The show continues through May 28 at 1705 W. Missouri, Midland.

The concert by Mary Skalicky, organist, scheduled for this afternoon at the First Methodist Church, has been postponed. Her father died Friday in Dallas.

An early mule-powered cotton gin, a gift to the West Texas Museum at Lubbock, will be restored for exhibit in the industrial and agriculture gallery. Area ginners have volunteered to make the restoration.

announced a two-week postponement of its annual show, which now will start May 21. The First National Bank in Midland will be the site and the hours 2-6 p.m.

Dr. Seymour V. Conner of the Texas Tech history faculty has been named co-winner of the 1972 Wrangler award for the year's outstanding Western non-fiction book. The award is posted by the National Cowboy Hall of Fame. The book is "North America Divided: The Mexican War 1846-48" written in collaboration with Odie B. Falk, Oklahoma State U. The two are now writing a book on the Santa Fe Trail.

Howard was one of the best dancers I ever knew, and fascinating to be with. Terrifically bright and intelligent. But he was immersed in his work."

Western Art Coming To Heritage Museum

One week from this afternoon, the American Association of University Women will open a fortnight of Western art displays presented by the Baker Gallery of Fine Art.

The show, which bids to be perhaps the most outstanding to come to Big Spring, will be on display at the Heritage Museum from May 7-18.

Four of the artists, whose works will be hung in the show, will be on hand for the opening day. They are Frank Gervasi, member of the National Academy; Mondel Rogers, Ronald Thompson and Olive Vandruft. Mr. Gervasi is the only member of the National Academy residing in Texas and has made his home at Marfa since 1968.

Among others who will have pictures in the show and sale are Peter Hurd, Henriette Wyeth (who is Mrs. Hurd), John McCoy, Norman Kant, Irving Couse, Thomas Hart Benton, Theodore Van Soelen and a number of others.

"This exhibition might well be described as a 'National Academy' show since so many members of the NA are included," said James Baker, Lubbock, head of the Baker Gallery. "The show also is designed to interest the beginning collector, especially with original signed prints by most of the members of the National Academy listed."

There also will be sculptures created by Una Habury, John D. Free and Jim Hamilton.

"The Gallery has furnished major exhibitions to a number of other museums, including Wichita Falls, El Paso, Oklahoma City, Okla., Santa Fe and Roswell, N.M., and Wichita, Kan.," said Baker. "We intend to make every effort to make this a most impressive exhibition."

Thomason, who lives in Weatherford, has won the National Academy of Design Oberg prize for water color, and he paints in dry brush watercolor and the age-old medium of egg tempera in his outdoor scenes. Mondel Rogers, who resides in neighboring Sweetwater, works with the same media and specializes in the West Texas scene.

Quotable Women

"I watched it (the moon walk on television) and couldn't really believe it. I'm not sure that I do now. I made my daughter take me out to look at the moon after I saw it on television. I thought maybe they had messed it up and it wasn't shining anymore. But it's still shining so I suppose it is okay if we walk around on it." — Alice Higgins, 83 years old.

"I believe in doing what I want to do. If I want to climb a telephone pole, then I'll go out and climb a telephone pole. But I'm not going to march up and down the streets saying I want to climb a telephone pole." — Sally Hearne, who joined the volunteer fire department in Courtland, Calif.

"As a result I was belligerent, resentful and unhappy. My marks in school were terrible. I came from a family of achievers and I couldn't know a small degree of success." — Luci Johnson Nugent, daughter of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, who said in Redbook magazine that an eye disorder as a child made her a poor scholar.

"Howard was one of the best dancers I ever knew, and fascinating to be with. Terrifically bright and intelligent. But he was immersed in his work."

'Music Affects Life's Events'

"Music is used to march by, to tell stories and to express thought. Doctors use it to soothe nerves, to pep you up and to slow you down," said Mrs. Jerry Hall to Alpha Eta Upsilon Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. Derwood Blagrove, Ackerly.

During her program, "Music's Influence On Our Lives," Mrs. Hall said the three stages of musical development are rhythm, melody and harmony. She said the Psalms was the first hymnbook.

"Stephen Foster was the first American songwriter to compose music uninfluenced by European music," said Mrs. Hall. His songs of the 1840's were minstrel and negro spirituals.

Mrs. Hall said the song, "America, the Beautiful," was inspired by a woman in 1893 who was standing on top of Pike's Peak in Colorado. "How Great Thou Art" originated in Sweden about 70 years ago, but didn't become popular in this country until the 1950's.

outlined the life history of Beethoven, and played a piano rendition of his "Variation of a Swiss Song." Members were asked to name their favorite song, singer and composer. Mrs. Hall quoted phrases from well-known compositions, and asked members to write the name of the songs. A prize was awarded for the most correct answers.

Mrs. Derrell Bearden announced that Barbara Ponder, a girl from the Girls' Ranch in Whiteface whom the chapter sponsors, needs a bicycle for exercise and therapy. Members agreed to raise funds or make arrangements to obtain a bicycle for her.

The group will meet for a Founders' Day tea Sunday in the home of Mrs. Hall, and the chapter's choice for "woman of the year" in Ackerly will be honored. The next regular meeting is at 9:30 a.m., May 11 in the home of Mrs. Jerry Iden. New officers will be installed.

TO MARRY — Mr. and Mrs. Connell Taylor, Silver Heels, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lucia Lynn, to Gordon E. Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Simmons of Royal Oak, Mich. Miss Taylor and Simmons recently completed a tour with "New Hope," a Christian musical group which performed throughout the country. The wedding will be Aug. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Peek and their "peek-a-poo," Brummel

New Residents Like Living In 'Big City'

By BARBARA LORD
Mr. and Mrs. Buster Peek arrived in Big Spring April 1 and are thrilled with the "big city." Once they find a house to live in, they'll be happy and ready to settle for a long stay here.

"We're really excited about all of the stores, and especially with the shopping centers," said Mrs. Peek. The couple moved here from Brownfield where they lived for three years, so Big Spring is considerably larger than what they are used to. Peek is a salesman with Viscio Division of Nalco Chemical Company.

Big Spring has added attractions for the Peeks. It is ideally located for visits to both of their parents. Mrs. Peek was reared in Odessa, and Peek is from San Angelo, so they are able to visit often. The move to Big Spring also put the couple closer to water-skiing territory, and they have already deposited their boat at a lake in San Angelo, with plans to use it every possible weekend.

"We bought a boat shortly after we were married," Mrs. Peek said. "Our parents thought we were crazy because we didn't even have any furniture yet, but we bought it anyway. And we haven't regretted it. We both love to water ski, so we get plenty of use from our boat."

Mr. and Mrs. Peek both taught school in San Angelo for four years. They are graduates of McMurray College in Abilene.

"I don't plan to go back to work," said Mrs. Peek. "I've gotten lazy since I stopped, and I'm in no hurry to begin again. Getting up in the mornings was always a chore, and I'm looking forward now to just being a housewife and mother." The Peeks are planning to adopt a child, and are awaiting finalization of the paper work.

As yet, the Peeks have been unable to find a house they want to buy. They are taking their time because they want one they'll be happy with for what they hope is a long stay in Big Spring. Peek looks for large rooms and a big fenced-in yard, while Mrs. Peek is more concerned with colors and floor plan to accommodate their Spanish and traditional furniture. They are also considering building a home, but in the meantime, Mrs. Peek has gotten their temporary residence at 1501-B Wood as settled as possible with all of their furnishings in storage. Brummel, the couple's "peek-a-poo," adjusted easily to his new surroundings. Mrs. Peek said he is "spoiled, but like one of the family."

In their spare time, the Peeks enjoy playing a little "social" bridge. He is also a golfer and is trying to teach his wife the sport. At home, Mrs. Peek likes to sew and makes many of her own clothes. She especially enjoys yard work, and looks forward to having their own home so she can begin. She has also done some decoupage, and plans to learn knitting and foil art.

"Buster likes anything that has to do with sports," said Mrs. Peek. "In addition to teaching history in San Angelo, he was the school coach, and he still enjoys anything he can do outside.

Keep Blender Handy; It Does Many Jobs

Blenders can do many things when they are handy to use. Keep your blender in a convenient place where you can use it everyday. Use it whenever you have something to whip, grate, chop, puree, mix or blend. Pulverize sugar for beverages. Grind coffee for the freshest brew you have ever tasted. Liquefy fruits and vegetables with the blender for soups and drinks and forget you ever used graters or sieves. A blender is easy to operate if you carefully follow the manufacturer's instructions.

Although the blender will do many jobs that can be handled with a mixer, it does not take the place of a mixer. There are two jobs the blender cannot do—beat egg whites stiff or mash potatoes. A spatula is necessary when working with thick mixtures and helps to remove the blender mixture from the container. In most instances when ice is used in the preparation, it should be crushed. Ice cubes, however, can be added one at a time (to two cups liquid) while the blender is running.

ZIPPY RELISH FOR MEATS
2 medium turnips, pared and cut up
1/2 medium onion, cut up
1/2 cup vinegar
1 1/2 tbsps. sugar
1 tsp. prepared horseradish
1/2 tsp. salt
Put all ingredients in container; cover and run on high until vegetables are chopped. If necessary, stop blender and push ingredients toward blades with rubber spatula. Store in refrigerator. Delicious with roast beef, corned beef or ham. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

CHOCOLATE REFRIGERATOR DESSERT
1/4 cup hot milk
2 cups miniature marshmallows
4 1-oz. chocolate almond candy bars
22 graham crackers
2 tbsps. confectioner's sugar
6 tbsps. butter, melted
1 cup whipping cream, blender whipped

Put milk, marshmallows and candy bars (each bar broken into 4 pieces) in container; cover and turn on high until smooth. Pour into a bowl and refrigerate while preparing crust and whipped cream. Break 4 graham crackers into container; cover and run on low until finely crumbled. Empty crumbs into a bowl. Repeat process until all crackers are crumbed. Mix confectioner's sugar and crumbs; then stir in melted butter. Put two-thirds of crumb mixture into an 8x8x2-inch pan. Fold whipped cream into chilled chocolate mixture; pour into crumb-lined pan. Sprinkle remaining crumbs over top. Chill 4 hours. Makes eight servings.

She Marches To Washington

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A tanned, limping Irene McCabe says she hopes her 650-mile march to Washington will give new life to anti-busing movements in Congress and the White House.

Specifically, she's counting on enough of her busing opponents to knock on congressmen's doors to persuade at least 60 more to sign a petition discharging a proposed constitutional ban on busing from a hostile Judiciary Committee.

With a visit this afternoon to President Nixon's domestic-affairs adviser, John B. Ehrlichman, she hoped to prod the President to reverse himself and endorse the proposed amendment. "The President isn't really tricky," the Michigan housewife said at a rally Thursday. "The only reason he didn't get behind it before was because it was a lengthy process (to get states' ratification)," Mrs. McCabe said. "We're going to remind him it took only 90 days to pass the 18-year-old vote."

A second rally will be held Saturday, and Mrs. McCabe and others urged the small crowd Thursday to return with neighbors and relatives to illustrate the depth of antibusing sentiment.

One march official had predicted a crowd of 20,000 for Thursday, but only about 2,000 came.

After the hike from her Pontiac home, Mrs. McCabe said, "I personally suffered a great deal of pain on the march," surpassed only by pains of childbirth.

But through the march, she said, "We have given birth to the spirit of liberty."

She told a reporter she thinks the anti-busing movement marks "the rebirth of grassroots interest in government" and her appointment with Ehrlichman shows Nixon recognizes that.

Some say busing is cooling off as an issue in Congress, Mrs. McCabe said, then vowed to "fire it up a little." The petition to extricate the proposed anti-busing amendment from the Judiciary Committee now has 152 signatures. Few have signed in the past three months after an initial flurry of support.

Nixon's announcement that he would ask Congress to pass a moratorium on court-ordered busing apparently relieved the pressure on many congressmen to sign the discharge petition.

A LOVELIER YOU Enjoy Slim Thighs In Summer Sun Fun

By MARY SUE MILLER
Have you ever thought ahead to a new bathing suit? If your thighline has thickened, the thought is worth a whirl. Incoming summer suits are brief, briefer, briefest.

A solution to a heavy or falcid condition is found in this routine:
1. Lie back down with knees bent, soles of feet on floor and arms stretched out at shoulder level. Now briskly swing legs from side to side, so that sides of thighs slap floor and, with each change of direction, inner sides slap together. Be sure to keep legs relaxed and twist sharply in waist. Otherwise you won't work up sufficient momentum for slaps with snap. Start with 10 repeats, gradually increase to 20.

2. Stretch out on floor at right angles to a wall, so that feet press against it. Next push down hard with left foot and pull up hard in thigh muscles. Hold for 10 counts, relax and work with right leg. Repeat 5 to 10 times each side.

To aid and abet successful results, avoid sitting with the legs crossed as often as possible. Cross-legged positions pressure and bulge the thighline. Other positions are just as comfortable and perhaps more graceful. For example, place feet together on floor and swing them from the knees to one side . . . you've got a slimming pose.

LEG TRIMMERS
If your individual problem is heavy legs, send for my new leaflet, "Legline Trimmers," which contains spot reducing exercises that will meet your individual needs, whether for thighs, knees, calves or ankles, or for contouring your entire legline. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin.

Founder's Banquet Held By BSP Units

The Big Spring Chapters of Beta Sigma Phi celebrated the 41st anniversary of the organization's founding Thursday evening with a banquet in the Non-Commissioned Officers Club at Webb Air Force Base.

Forty-one years ago, the first chapter of the sorority was formed in Abilene, Kan. There are now approximately 10,500 chapters and 225,000 members in the United States, Canada, 23 foreign countries and territories.

Mrs. Tom Warren of Mu Zeta Chapter, BSP City Council president, was mistress of ceremonies, and following the opening ritual, the invocation was offered by Mrs. Ted Hicks, also of Mu Zeta Chapter.

The program, arranged by Beta Omicron Chapter, featured a short play, "The Mice Have Been Drinking Again," performed by the Forsan High School Drama Department under the direction of Mrs. Judy Anderson.

Presenting the welcome to pledges were Mrs. Clay LaRochelle Phi Zeta Omega Chapter; Mrs. Jack Parrott, Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter; Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mu Zeta Chapter; and Mrs. Roy Pickett, Beta Omicron Chapter.

The history, purpose and goals of Beta Sigma Phi were related by Mrs. John Knoepfel who also gave a resume of BSP activities in Big Spring during the past year.

Girl of the Year awards went to Mrs. Wayne Stroup, Phi Zeta Chapter; Mrs. Knoepfel, Beta Omicron; Mrs. Roe Fulgham, Alpha Beta Omicron; and Mrs. Wilson, Mu Zeta. The awards were presented by Mrs. David Grifford, Mrs. Clarence Hays, Mrs. Ted Hicks and Mrs. Bobby Hughes.

Receiving the title of Pledge of the Year were Mrs. Grifford, Phi Zeta; Mrs. Ronnie Suggs, Alpha Beta Omicron; Mrs. Fred

MRS. ROSCOE NEWELL

Burgess, Beta Omicron; and Mrs. Joe Thurman, Mu Zeta. The highlight of the evening was the naming of Big Spring's Woman of the Year, an award made by BSP for the past several years.

The honor went to Mrs. Roscoe Newell, a local school administrator. Mr. and Mrs. Newell, who reside at 501 Circle Drive, are parents of six sons.

She's Birthday Girl

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — When Mrs. Lula Black Veale celebrated her 97th birthday recently, the Texas Christian University school song would have been more appropriate than "Happy Birthday."

Mrs. Veale, who now lives in Midland, is one of a long line of Texas Christian alumni and the party for her was held in the Student Center on campus. In fact, it was the TCU Alumni Affairs Office that helped to arrange the event.

Roscoe Jr., Wesley, J. C., Lewis, Truett and Donald.

A past president of the Howard County Association for Retarded Children, Mrs. Newell has made numerous public programs for handicapped children. Two years ago, she was first runner-up as Teacher of the Year, and in 1971, was nominated for Woman of the Year. She was offered professorship at Midwestern University. Mrs. Newell is a member of the Texas State Teacher's Association, National Teacher's Association, Council for Exceptional Children and the national, state and local units of an organization relating to language or learning disabilities. Also, she holds membership in Delta Kappa Gamma and the Community Concert Association. She taught Sunday school at First Baptist Church.

The Founder's Day pledge was led by Mrs. Gary Huckaby, and the message from Walker Ross III, president of the International Executive Council of BSP, was brought by Mrs. Fulgham.

Decorations for the banquet were in sorority colors of black, white, and yellow.

Buy Foundations In Correct Size

Before buying a girdle, know what kind of control you want. Girdles come in varying degrees of control. Never buy a girdle that cuts off circulation or leaves deep red marks in the flesh at the garment's waist and hem. Such marks are a sure sign your girdle's too small for you, ma'am.

Painting is an easy and economical way to redecorate. Paint your walls a lighter or darker shade than your ceiling, or accent one wall by painting it a contrasting color. To accent a favorite furniture piece or carpet, pick up the predominant color and use it on the corresponding wall.

Pledge Pin Ceremony Performed Thursday

Mrs. John Walls became a member of Alpha Chi Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, during a candlelight pledge pin ceremony Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Jack Price, 604 George.

Mrs. Ivan White of Fort Stockton, ESA District 8 president, performed the ritual. Other guests present were Mrs. J. O. Stockburger, district coordinator; and Mrs. Nancy Lovett, incoming district parliamentarian, both of Fort Stockton.

Mrs. White also presented Mrs. Bobbi Lord with a first pearl award. The award is given to first year ESA members who have accumulated 1,000 points for philanthropic projects.

Mrs. Clovis Hale presided and announced that she and Mrs. N. R. Holcombe donated $400 worth of used clothing to Big Spring State Hospital.

Mrs. White urged members to attend state convention Friday through Sunday in Fort Worth, Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Jack Price, 604 George, support in her bid for state recording secretary.

Following refreshments, the chapter honored Mrs. Tim Smith with a surprise baby shower for her son, Kevin, born March 29.

The next meeting is at 7:30 p.m., May 11 in the home of Mrs. C. W. Utley, 905 E. 14th.

Popular Grass

St. Augustine is the dominant lawn grass from Dallas southward along the Gulf Coast and throughout Florida. It is coarse, grows well in the shade and is easy to establish from sod.

Miss Cave Marries Donald Lee Burgess

The wedding of Miss Pam Cave and Donald Lee Burgess was solemnized at 6 o'clock Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church chapel, Lamesa. The Rev. Jim Mosley, pastor of Ackerly Baptist Church, performed the ritual before an altar decorated with candelabra and arrangements of white carnations. Mrs. Leroy Chapman, organist, accompanied the vocalist, Layne Heald.

Slight Flare Is Figure Slimmer

Curved seams flare this skirt, and the rolling collar opens just enough to insert a wee bow. No. 3394 comes in sizes 12 1/2 to 22 1/2. Size 14 1/2 (bust 37) takes 2 1/2 yards of 44-inch fabric.

For each pattern, send 50 cents plus 15 cents for first-class mail and special handling to IRIS LANE, (care of the Big Spring Herald), Morris Plains, N.J. 07950.

Buy Wisely For Fur Wardrobe

"Please-mother-please" isn't the answer to a teen-ager's dressing on a modest allowance. If you must stick to budget, buy your clothes extra carefully with switching-about in mind. If you have sisters who wear the same size, you might merge your clothing allowances and buy parts in a pre-determined color scheme so you can have a larger number of items to mix and match.

Butter Kids' Pills

If your children are pills about taking pills, a bit of butter on the tablet can make the whole thing easier to swallow.

The bride was attired in a white peau de sole gown; the A-line skirt extending to form a long train. The skirt was edged with beaded lace and banded with three rows of seed pearls. The bodice and skirt were sprinkled with beaded lace appliques, and a yoke of sheer illusion was trimmed in rows of pearls. Her headpiece, overlaid with beaded lace, held a floor-length veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of orchids, stephanotis and babies' breath.

Mrs. Jerry Cuthbertson of Big Spring was matron of honor, wearing a princess-style gown of blue dotted Swiss with flocked flowers, a ribbon belt and satin button trim. Her matching garden hat was also trimmed with satin ribbon.

The bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Miss Judy Cave and Miss Jackie Cave, both of Ackerly; Miss Patti Heald, Lamesa; and Miss Sherrel Burgess of Hale Center, sister of the bridegroom. They wore identical gowns, each in a different color. The gowns were green, pink, orchid and yellow.

Don Trussell, Dallas, was best man, and groomsmen were Gary Sorrenson, Don Townson and Kenneth Massey, all of Lubbock; and James Wilson of Friona. John Blunt of Lubbock and Jackson Ashburn of Plainview were ushers.

The flower girl was Jill Froman, Stanton, who wore a pink dotted Swiss dress with flocked flowers. The bride's brother, Jon Cave of Ackerly was the ring bearer. Altar tapers were lighted by Layne Heald, Lamesa, and Bob Jones, Ackerly.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the church parlor with Mrs. Anceal Harry, Mrs. Donnie Fraser and Mrs. Jane Crawford serving refreshments. The bride's table featured a tiered cake, crystal punch service and wedding bell tree. A silver coffee service was used on the bridegroom's table, along with a gold hurricane lamp. Chocolate cake was served.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. J. King, Kerrville; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon, Mrs. Marie Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Burgess, Larry Bryan and Mr. and Mrs. Velon Townson, all of Hale Center; and Anceal Harry and Steve Harry, both of Lubbock.

Spice Party Held For Bride-Elect

Miss Barbara McAlister, bride-elect of David Draper, was honored at a spice and recipe party Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Harold Davis, 701 Capri. Mrs. Jimmy Taylor was cohostess.

Attired in a lime green pantsuit, Miss McAlister presented a corsage of tiny artificial vegetables, as was her mother, Mrs. Harold McAlister, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Bill Draper.

Guests were served refreshments from a polished wood table centered with an arrangement of orange, avocados and grapes in a gold leaf container. Matching candle holders with green tapers flanked the centerpiece, and crystal appointments were used.

Miss McAlister and Draper will be married June 3 at First Baptist Church.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luellen of Indianapolis, Ind., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Deborah Ann, to Rex Scofield, son of Mrs. Vivian Scofield of Amarillo and the late Lloyd Scofield. Miss Luellen and Scofield are teachers at Goliah Junior High School. A July 22 wedding is planned at the United Methodist Church in Indianapolis, Ind.

MRS. STEVE SIMMONS COVINGTON

Couple United In Marriage

Miss Patricia Kim DeHart enhanced with ruffles and button trim, featured leg-omutton sleeves with wide lace cuffs. The bride's veil of illusion was held by a bandeau of daisies, and she carried a bouquet of mixed spring flowers.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Loren H. Hinkler of LaGrange Park, Ill., formerly of Big Spring, and Frank DeHart of Carlsbad, N.M.

The nuptial ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's uncle, the Rev. L. M. Hammit, before an improvised altar featuring candelabra, and tall baskets of flowers and greenery.

FORMAL GOWN
The bride was attired in a white formal gown fashioned with Empire waistline and softly-gathered skirt with ruffled hemline. The bodice

Miss Barbara Belew of Sand Springs was maid of honor. She was attired in an ankle-length, floral print gown, and her headpiece was a bandeau of fresh flowers. She carried a nosegay of matching flowers. Marc Sweeney served as best man.

'Sex Discrimination' Works Both Ways

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A man who tried for two weeks to get a job as a secretary and was turned down by at least 40 companies found that sex discrimination can work both ways.

An Associated Press reporter put himself in the secretarial job market, asking only $85 a week. He had four years of college and typed 60 words a minute.

The newsman applied mostly through a personnel agency, since all efforts on his own were met with replies that the job already had been filled.

Prospective employers dealing with the employment agency counselor were more blunt about their reasons for rejecting a man for the job.

"To be quite frank," said the counselor, Don Bridges, "a lot of men simply want someone who can do the job, but they want some nice, young chick around who has nice legs."

Bridges is with Republic Personnel in Charlotte. He did not know the applicant was a newsman until after "40 to 60 companies" rejected the idea of hiring a man for a secretarial position.

At least 20 of the companies actually had openings for jobs as secretaries, Bridges said, and others usually take well-qualified applicants to fill positions later in the high-turnover field.

The companies included banks, financial institutions, public utilities and various smaller companies with as few as three secretaries.

"Some of them simply said they wanted a woman for the job and didn't give any other reason," Bridges said. "I pointed out discrimination, but they wouldn't budge."

Bridges said other companies told him they had all-girl secretarial staffs and didn't want to change.

The newsman had told Bridges that he was fresh out of the military where he had been a secretary for a general for five years. The newsman had Bridges tell the prospective employers that the applicant wanted to become an executive secretary and had to get some general office experience.

Not a single company granted the newsman an interview.

Bridges said a woman with the same qualifications would have had little difficulty nailing down a job.

HD Club Members Advised On Wardrobe 'Wearability'

Five area home demonstration clubs met during the past week, as studies focused on wardrobe wearability, pollution and traffic safety.

CENTER POINT CLUB

Miss Sherry Mullin, Howard County home demonstration agent, discussed how to select clothing and materials for a wardrobe when she was guest speaker for Center Point Home Demonstration Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. James Petty, 1013 Sycamore.

Miss Mullin said a buyer should consider texture and wearability of fabric, color and design of garment, needed accessories and suitability to occasion. She suggested women choose their own hem length according to their likes and consider height, weight and age when selecting a wardrobe.

Mrs. T. L. McCullough was introduced as a new member. The club donated $5 to the Aubrey Russell endowment fund for 4-H scholarships awarded by the HD Council.

The club was host group to a luncheon for the county's senior citizens recently at the county fair barns. The luncheons will be held each month and all senior citizens are welcome to attend.

Devotion was by Mrs. Petty and Mrs. Roy Brown was a guest. The women will meet again at 2 p.m., May 8 in the home of Mrs. B. Riddle, 911 E. 16th.

KNOTT CLUB

"Each of us is responsible for some of the litter and pollution in the country," said Mrs. Dlaton Wright during her program, "Our Environment," presented to Knott HD Club Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. R. Clemens.

"Even though we live in a secluded area, we contribute to air pollution when we burn our trash," continued Mrs. Wright. She encouraged members to bury waste that nature will take back into its soil rather than burning it. In the fall, Mrs. Wright said joint efforts of community people will see all cotton gins disposing of burrs by dumping them back into farmland instead of burning them as has been done in the past.

Mrs. Clemens presided and announced that bandages made by the group were given to the American Cancer Society. The next meeting is at 2 p.m., May 9 in the home of Mrs. O. B. Gaskins.

CITY CLUB

"The first traffic law went into effect April 15, 1968," said Mrs. Faye Newman for City Home Demonstration Club, Friday in the home of Mrs. M. F. Hodnett, 1001 E. 16th.

"Registration fee for automobiles was 50 cents, and most speed limits were 18 miles per hour on open roads and eight miles per hour in town," continued Mrs. Newman. She said fines for violations were not less than $5 and not more than $100. Her reminiscing of early automobile laws was in conjunction with a program on driving safety presented by her and Mrs. Ross Callihan.

Five keys to safe driving outlined by Mrs. Newman were to have good vision, obey traffic laws, take proper care of cars, be a courteous driver, signal correctly and have good physical and mental fitness.

Mrs. Callihan discussed recent changes in driving regulations, and reminded members that beginning in 1973 anyone wishing to renew their driving license will be required to take a written examination.

"As a driver you should shift your vision every two seconds," said Mrs. Callihan. He said a driver's view should include the "big picture" and you should shift eyes from front to rear view mirror to side roads and to oncoming traffic regularly.

To assure safe driving Mrs. Callihan said you should keep your eyes moving, leave yourself an out in any situation, be sure other drivers see you and aim high in steering.

Mrs. M. E. Anderson won the attendance prize. The devotion was by Mrs. Hodnett. The serving table was covered with a crocheted cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow daisies around a yellow candle.

The next meeting is at 2 p.m., May 12 in the home of Mrs. J. P. Gordon, 1509 E. 6th.

LEES CLUB

New officers were elected by the Lees Home Demonstration Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. J. L. Overton with Mrs. Gary Seidenberger presiding.

Named to the slate were Mrs. Lynn Glass, president; Mrs. Mollie Gardner, vice president; Mrs. Seidenberger, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. J. J. Overton, reporter. Council delegate will be Mrs. Melvin Thacker, while the 4-H leaders are Mrs. Seidenberger and Mrs. Glass, assisted by Mrs. Gene Smith. Mrs. Smith is the club's nominee for delegate to the state convention in Houston Sept. 11-14.

During the meeting, changes were planned for next season's yearbook. The next meeting will be May 9 at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Thacker.

LUTHER CLUB

The Luther Home Demonstration Club met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Regis Fleckenstein to hear a program by Miss Mullin. The speaker discussed "Five Clues to a Wardrobe," which she defined as fashion, care, cost, material and suitability.

Mrs. Frances Zant, president, reminded members of the May 10 art show and antique doll display slated at Heritage Museum.

The next meeting will be May 11 in the home of Mrs. Pauline Hamlin.

MRS. RONNIE GANDY

BSP Honors Mrs. Gandy

Mrs. Ronnie Gandy will be honored at Ackerly's "woman of the year" at a tea from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. today in the home of Mrs. Jerry Hall, Ackerly. The public is invited to attend.

Members of Alpha Eta Upsilon Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi chose Mrs. Gandy for the award based on her accomplishments in community service, philanthropic projects and her profession. The tribute will be made annually by the chapter to honor a local woman who is not a member of BSP.

Mrs. Gandy (Barbara) and her husband have three children, Keith, 15; Kevin, 14; and Kara Beth, 1. She teaches English and journalism at Sands High School, where she also serves as librarian and is in charge of purchasing for elementary libraries.

For six years, Mrs. Gandy has been sponsor for the school's senior class. She directs the annual senior plays, and writes, directs and narrates the annual Christmas program which includes participation by 300 students from kindergarten through 12th grade. She also sponsors fund-raising projects to take a trip each year. Annually, she directs several events, including a one-act play for the University In-terscholastic League competition.

The Gandys are members of the First Baptist Church of Ackerly, where Mrs. Gandy teaches an intermediate Sunday school class. She received her bachelor's degree from Southeastern State College, Durant, Okla., and has taught school for 12 years. She is an active life member of Texas State Teachers Association.

The tea honoring Mrs. Gandy is being held in conjunction with the 41st anniversary of the sorority. The chapter plans to honor the community's "woman of the year" during Founders' Day activities each year.

La Gallinas Play Scramble Bridge

Two tables were in play for La Gallinas scramble duplicate bridge Wednesday at Big Spring Country Club. Mrs. Clarence Peters won first place, and tied for second and third were Mrs. Aureli LaFond and Mrs. Bill Johnson. The group will meet again at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the country club.

Stanton Church Scene Of Nuptial Ceremony

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Paula Lavon Standefer and James R. Dillard Saturday evening at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Days in Stanton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Standefer of Lenora, and Dillard is the son of J. R. Dillard of Stanton.

The Rev. Raymond Carson performed the ceremony before an arch of candelabra entwined with pink carnations, roses and jade foliage. In the background was a sunburst arrangement of jade foliage and candelabra.

Music was provided by Miss Peggy Rounds of Burnsville, Minn., and Roy Koonce, organist and vocalist.

The bride wore a formal gown of ivory silk organza, taffeta and heirloom lace. The bodice featured a round yolk of lace and a Victorian collar attached with lace scallops. Leg-of-mutton sleeves were deeply cuffed in the lace, and a bow accented the high waistline. A lace flounce highlighted the full skirt and swept to a circular court-length train. Matching lace formed her Queen Anne bonnet which held a tiered illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white carnations, pink sweetheart roses and babies'-breath, accented with pearl loops and pink satin bows and streamers.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Rounds served as maid of honor, attired in a floor-length gown of deep pink dotted Swiss. The high waistline was gathered to form a full skirt edged with a wide ruffle. The bodice featured a high collar and long, puffed sleeves. She wore a pink garish hat trimmed with a pink bow and long streamers. She carried a nosegay of votive candles surrounded by pink camelia buds, lace and satin.

Bridesmaids were Miss Deborah Holloway and Miss Jessica Patton of Big Spring. Their gowns were fashioned in light pink dotted Swiss and styled identical to Miss Rounds'. They carried nosegays of votive candles surrounded by deep pink camelia buds.

Don Ashely of Seminole was best man, and Dave Dillard, the bridgroom's brother; and Tooter Harrell were groomsmen. Serving as ushers and altar taper lighters were Marvin Standefer Jr. and David Standefer, brothers of the bride. Kim Morrison, flower girl, wore a gown styled like the other attendants. Ring bearer was Danny Koonce.

A reception was held in the Cap Rock Auditorium, where the serving table was covered with a white satin cloth and draped with scalloped Chantilly lace. Pink carnations accented the points of the scallops, and the bridesmaids' bouquets were arranged around an antique silver candelabrum for the centerpiece. Silver appointments were used. The tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. A fuchsia cloth and silver appointments were used for the bridegroom's table.

Serving were Mrs. Johnny Louder, Mrs. David Brown, Mrs. Herb Sorley, Miss Dianne Sawyer and Mrs. Dickie Weaver, the latter two of Big Spring. Mrs. Hugh Brian Scheafer of Kermit presided at

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

Despite the fact that April came and went without bringing us many showers I am being optimistic in my dreams that even without the showers, there will be May flowers . . . and maybe they'll all start tomorrow. Happy May Day come the morrow.

The unusually high winds of the past week did their damage to the flowers in bloom. The newly-replanted rose garden at Comanche Trail Park would have still had some roses had the wind not taken its toll. The garden clubs of the city have furnished the garden with some beautiful new bushes and during the early spring months they were very pretty.

Even tho' the planted flowers are having a hard time the durable beargrass is doing the only good thing it does all year. It is now putting out its creamy-blossomed spires that makes one forget how mean and sticky the spear-like tines are on the plants.

And speaking of sticky things, the great clump of cacti on the edge of the W. W. POSEY yard on Indian Hills is taking on the appearance of a blooming period. Even tho' no one can get near enough to a cactus bloom to tell if it has any odor, there is nothing as beautiful as the brilliant colors of the cactus . . . MRS. G. R. ROBINSON on Crestline has some colorful pansy beds.

MR. and MRS. EMIL FAHRENKAMP of Fort Worth were here during the past week. His parents came here almost with the railroad, and naturally the Fahrenkamps found the old time displays at Heritage Museum a fascinating place during their visit.

We went down to Waco last weekend to see what might come out of the Baylor recruiting efforts for the football season coming up and to visit No. 3 son. We weren't the only interested Big Springers.

Right above us in the stands were the CARROLL JONESES . . . On the way home Sunday afternoon we stopped to get gas and who should be gassing up but SAMMY JONES (no relation), who is in school at Texas Tech, and former resident LINDA CRAWFORD, and another friend. They had been to Fort Worth to visit friends and relatives.

The Dallas Cowboys already had most of our city as fans before the visit here by ROGER STAUBACH Wednesday night, but he probably endeared himself and his team to a number more. I had intended to put a protective covering over my hand which was shaken by the star but it didn't work out. One of the VA Hospital patients he visited who is a great fan of Staubach said "He didn't even have a halo." He is a remarkable young man and the Youth Achievers and their parents and friends enjoyed having the opportunity of hearing him.

THOMAS G. GARDNER who was a talent scout for many years, spent Friday and Saturday here visiting his daughter, MRS. JOE McFADIN, Mr. McFadin and their family. Gardner, who lives in Los Angeles, Calif., left here Saturday night en route to Fort Worth where he will visit other relatives.

When SONNY and CHER make their appearance in Lubbock soon the fellow in the background with all the percussion instruments will be JAMES BECKHAM, son of the Fred Beckhams here. James also provided the background for the recently-performed Glen Campbell and Jerry Reed concert in Lubbock. This fall James will go to Odgen, Utah, where he has been employed by Weber State College to instruct in percussions. He is a graduate of Texas Technological University.

PANTRY PICK-UPS

Ground lamb generally is made from neck, breast, shanks and flank, although boneless lamb from any cut can be used. One pound of ground lamb yields about three and one-half servings. Because ground lamb is highly perishable, store only one to two days in the refrigerator and two to three months in a freezer at 0 degrees Fahrenheit.

For oven cooking of frozen vegetables, partly defrost the vegetables to separate pieces. Then spread vegetables in a greased casserole, add seasonings as desired, and cover. Bake until just tender. At 350 degrees F., partially frozen vegetables generally require about 45 minutes' cooking time.

Protection Needed While Painting

Always take cover when painting your home. A painter's cap will provide adequate protection for your head, while hand cream or lotion will protect your arms from painting splatters.

College Park Center Has New Business

By MYRNA McFADIN
Fabric Center is now in Big Spring, at College Park Shopping Center.

Fabric Center is a wholly owned subsidiary of Coit International which owns and operates over 400 retail fabric stores throughout the country. The company owns over one million square feet of fabric warehouse space in Dallas, Tex. Robert Coit, president of Coit International, explained, "A large warehouse and the Fabric Center chain of over 400 retail stores gives us tremendous buying power that saves the customer money on every yard of fabric she buys. In this way we are able to bring our customers quality fabrics at fantastic savings."

Fabric Center Centers, in addition to carrying fabric, offers a full line of notions and a complete selection of crafts. The new fabric store will be managed by local employees who will be trained by Fabric Center.

FAST GROWING

Fabric Center is one of the fastest growing chains of fabric stores in the country. The management attributes a large portion of its success to the ability of their friendly staff in giving the customer quality fabrics and courteous service at all times.

A complete selection of the latest fashion fabrics is now being shipped to their new Big Spring store, so watch for the Grand Opening and announcing their official opening.

Friday marked the end of a 28-year career for Mrs. Lou (Boo) McPherson. Mrs. McPherson has been employed by Big Spring's Montgomery Ward store since 1944. I asked her what had been the highlight of her career. "Well, if I were going to be perfectly honest, I'd have to say the day they put air conditioning in the old store," said Boo.

HER SPECIALTY

Her specialty has been in the shoe department. "I love to sell shoes — especially boots." She says she has fitted as many as three generations in some families. "My husband retired three years ago, and he's already hung up his apron in anticipation of my retirement."

There was a special breakfast in her honor held Friday morning at Cokers. Practically every member of the staff was present. She was presented with a beautiful rocking chair, though many said the gift didn't suit her personality. "I'll never stop," says Boo.

She stressed what a fine company Wards is. "Working for them is really a pleasure. You feel you're a part of one big family. I do plan to come back from time to time part-time so I can renew old acquaintances."

What plans does Boo have for the future? "My husband and I love sports. We plan to take in some Astros and Rangers ballgames, but I know I'm still going to have a fit!"

Eva Nall, owner of the Health Food Center, is enlarging the shopping area of the store. An addition now under construction will allow better display of merchandise and a better arrangement for your shopping convenience.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wilson have just returned from Las Vegas where they spent four days in a sales seminar for the Life Insurance Company of the Southwest.

Wilson won the Vegas trip by qualifying for his company's president's club for the second time in a row. In 1971 he was the company's fifth top producing agent, and he was one of the top ten again this year. Only ten members are in the president's club.

EYE FABRIC'S MATERIALS

Wilson has been with Life Insurance Company of the Southwest for three years. He came to Big Spring in 1955. Last year he received a gold watch for his achievement. When he won again this year, they presented his wife with a watch.

While in Vegas they saw the Roger Miller Show, the Danny Thomas Show, toured Hoover Dam and attended the company's President's Ball.

This month marks the first birthday of Creative Arts and Supply, 1907 Gregg.

"Happy birthday to you!" Much to my surprise, local grocery stores have no problems with "disappearing" pushcarts. They credit this to their sack boys. Said one manager, "They push them out, and they push them back in again." Good thinking.

M. O. Clemmons, manager of Foodway, does report he has a real problem with shoplifters. This seems to be the woe of most merchants.

Another new business for our city is Smallwood's Western Wear, 502 Gregg, owned and operated by Jonell Smallwood.

Smallwood previously owned the College Park Phillips 66 station. Of his new venture he says, "I am striving to become the boot headquarters for this area." His stock includes Nocona, Cowtown, Texas and other boots. He also carries Bailey hats and Tem Tex pants and shirts.

Stlogan for the new western store is "Where the working cowboy buys his duds." Best wishes for your success.

I recently questioned Trinity Memorial Park concerning the response and interest in the mausoleum built by them several years ago.

To date seven people have been entombed to the mausoleum. This certainly reflects strong consideration by family members concerning advantages of the structure.

James Jodoi, owner of the Ranch Inn Pizza Cafe, applies science to everything he does. He takes deep pride in his cookery.

Says Jodoi, "Our menu is different from any around. I am a specialist in Oriental cooking. I also make great pizza." The menu includes Polynesian, Cantonese and Chinese food — along with anything else you might want.

Jodoi would like to educate Big Springers in Chinese food. "It is more nutritious, and the preparation is altogether different from American dishes. you don't see the Chinese depending upon vitamins to stay healthy or diet pills to stay slim."

A native Hawaiian, Jodoi was reared among the Chinese. However, he strives to Americanize foreign cooking. "Everything I prepare is different. To be a good cook you must learn the different techniques. I marinate my meat, and I even grow my own bean sprouts. I have developed a revolutionary way to grow bean sprouts in less than two days."

James Jodoi raises orchids, too. They are beautiful.

Students Are Building Boat For Credits

MYSTIC, Conn. (AP) — In a chilly workman's shed used for restoring old sailing vessels, a group of 10 college students saw, hammer, fit, sand and carve to make a boat. They spend a month at it, then look proudly at what they've put together.

Their work is for a course in economics, but not really. It's a lesson in what craftsmanship is all about. Increasingly this type of experimental course is being offered at a number of colleges and universities across the country.

This program is offered by Williams College in Williamstown, Mass., and it's listed under an economics heading because that's what the teacher who dreamed it up teaches most of the year.

The students are 10 young men and women on a one-month break their college has set aside for this type of experimental course—designed to foster individual expression, creativity, or some other kind of experience they wouldn't get in Economics 101.

Other colleges, such as Yale, take a different approach, but the idea is the same. At Yale, students pick from a range of student-initiated "hall seminars" to fill out their schedules during the regular academic semester.

The subjects can range from film-making to advanced studies in science or political science, depending on what the students and their teachers agree on.

The setting for the Williams course—one of several in which students travel from their campus—is Mystic Seaport, an outdoor museum of sailing history that features replicas of 18th century buildings standing alongside well-preserved examples of old sailing ships.

So what, you might ask, could you learn in that chilly shed?

The course's main teacher, a boatbuilder from Maine named John Gardner (his more formal title at the seaport is assistant curator of small craft studies), says "this type of cross plank goes back to the Middle Ages. It goes back to Breughel ... boats like this were used in the Newfoundland fishery."

The gunwales, mast step and stern transom are made of yellow pine. Another part is made from the roots of a tree. The boat's planking is northern white pine, its bottom Virginia cedar, its stern white oak.

All that for a 13½-foot boat that could carry one sail and a couple of pairs of oars. Except that it's put together by hand, and the skill used to build it gives it both its beauty and seaworthiness.

The students live for the month on one of the sailing ships, the Joseph Conrad.

Their teacher, assistant economics professor Peter Gottschalk, says meeting people such as Gardner is a large part of what he wanted to teach—not just what craftsmanship is, but who the craftsmen are.

Green Berets Fight To Keep Identity

BAD TOELZ, Germany (AP) — American Special Forces, their green berets bloodied and somewhat discolored from twilight warfare in Southeast Asia, now are fighting for their unit existence.

Down from a peak of about 7,000 men to some 3,000, they will be cut further. Among those left will be a detachment at Bad Toelz in southern Germany.

It was in Germany where the dream of the men in the Green Berets was first conceived, combining the stealth of the wartime American Office of Strategic Services—OSS—and the daring bravado of Otto Skorzeny's German Special Commandos.

IN COMBAT
Here in the foothills of the Alps, the Special Forces Detachment Airborne Europe numbers 305 officers and men. They are housed in a compound built by the Nazis as a training school for SS elite guard combat officers.

The commander of Detachment Europe is Col. Ludwig Faistenhammer Jr., 47. An ex-college boxer, he was born in nearby Munich and immigrated to the United States with his parents when he was a young boy.

An enlisted man in World War II fighting against the Germans, Faistenhammer has made a career of being a Green Beret with wide experience in Southeast Asia.

"We are an elite," Faistenhammer said in an interview, "and we have no problem with the local community. No dope. No incidents. No long hair, I tell the men, 'You don't like it here? Then out.' Those that stay are the best men in the Army."

Pride, even chauvinism, long has been the mark of Special Forces men, even while their now symbolic green berets were against regulations, worn only in the backwoods country around Fort Bragg, N.C., when the Regular Army was not looking.

The 10th Special Forces Group Airborne came into being in 1952 at the height of the Korean War, put together from volunteers from all across the Army. But they languished out of the public eye for years until John F. Kennedy became president. He looked them over, liked what he saw and their fortunes boomed. Already in 1959, they began special operations in Vietnam and Laos, beginning an association with the Central Intelligence Agency—CIA—that later would cost the Special Forces image dearly.

BANK ORGANIZED
Their Vietnam scandal—the alleged execution of a Vietnamese double agent—cost the Green Berets notoriety around the world, signaling the eclipse of their once-favored position.

Special Forces was first organized by Col. Aaron Bank, something of a legend among the men who joined the original unit. Bank combined the infiltration concept—and intelligence role—of the World War II OSS with the combat capability of the German Special Commandos of Col. Otto Skorzeny.

The men Bank gathered about him were a mixture of soldier-adventurers, men eager to leave the more humdrum duty of regular line units, opportunists, the curious, ex-OSS agents from Europe, China and other war-time theaters.

It was for Europe, in the era of East-West confrontation, that Special Forces was organized—commando specialists and guerrilla organizers for possible use in suppressed countries.

Vietnam became an unexpected interlude. Subsequent probes into Africa and South America broadened the opportunity for experience as Special Forces searched—and still searches—for a lasting role even in peacetime.

While the men of the Green Beret based in Europe concentrate on the future far from the jungle heat they fought in for the past decade, it is Vietnam, as it is for the entire Army, that remains their special trauma.

Special Forces puts its killed in Southeast Asia at more than 700, with many more wounded. Col. Faistenhammer and his sergeant major, John F. Pioletti of Fayetteville, N.C., are typical: Each has served three tours in Vietnam or Laos; each was wounded in Vietnam.

There is a wood-carved memorial to the Green Beret dead in Faistenhammer's headquarters. He tells newcomers to the outfit that he expects them to be worthy of those who went before. While Special Forces is being cut back, the appeal of the Green Berets remains.

Plugging A Loophole

That ubiquitous governmental watchdog, the General Accounting Office, has zeroed in on the nation's drug problem. Now it is up to the nation's lawmakers — with prodding from the public — to set about action upon GAO's advice.

In a report on activities of the Bureau of Narcotics, the GAO said the bureau should do more about the drug problem, and showed how it could. According to the bureau's own figures, 90 per cent of the dangerous drugs now on the underground market were diverted from licensed sources — manufacturers, distributors, doctors, pharmacists. Obviously, careful record-keeping and requirements for strict accounting of drug sales and distribution would cut down on this traffic, if not eliminate it entirely. But the GAO finds the narcotics bureau does not even maintain enough records to follow up on leads when drug manufacturers tip it off to unusually large or suspicious orders for drugs.

And in the course of its probe, the GAO found state level agencies — studied were those in New York, California and New Jersey — lack enough staff to monitor retailers of drugs sufficiently and effectively and to force corrective action.

This is the large hole in our antidrug program. And it is one which should be plugged — and which can be plugged, if Congress, the various state legislatures and the public exert themselves. Records of drug production should be required; drug sales at every level should be closely monitored by officials and seelers-and-buyers alike. As nearly as possible, every ounce of dangerous drugs produced and marketed in this country should be accounted for at every step.

All this will take money; it will require additional regulation of the drug industry. But it is a sacrifice and an expense we must be willing to bear if effective war is to be waged on the ever-growing menace of illegal use of drugs.

Important Week

This is a highly important week for Texas voters.

Saturday brings up the first primary, but the immediate deadline is Tuesday. Voters who cannot go to the polls Saturday, or who are in doubt about their ability to be available then to cast a ballot, should cast absentee ballots. This must be done no later than Tuesday.

It is true that the Saturday balloting is for purposes of nomination, but in many instances it will be the same as electing. In any event, those who do not take part in the nominating primaries rob themselves of a chance for a real voice in selecting their officials.

Conscientious citizens will make every effort to vote this week.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

I read in the Bible about the wicked women whom Jesus met and forgave: the adulteress whom the Pharisees wanted to stone, the women at Jacob's well, and Magdalene. But, we never read anything about the men who participated in their sins seeking forgiveness. Did Jesus not condemn immorality in the male of the species?

A.C. There is no evidence in the Scriptures that Jesus was partial to men. He condemned the Pharisees for their hypocrisy, and they were men. The Sermon on the Mount was given to men as well as women. He demanded that "all men everywhere repent."

While it is true that the Bible differentiates between the sexes, and gives to each sex its uniqueness and individuality, there are no Scriptures which exonerate men and condemn women for the same sins.

The men who participated in immorality with the women you mention probably did not come to Christ for forgiveness as did the women. Like many men of their day, they probably considered women, an object to be possessed and enjoyed. But Christ changed all that. He lifted women to a new plane of respectability. They followed Him. They were the last at the cross, and the first at the tomb. They were prominent in the New Testament church. After Jesus' life, death, and resurrection they were more prominent in society than ever before.

Morally, women are the stronger sex. Men, by nature, tend to be aggressive, vascillating, and weak. But, when people fully commit their lives to Christ, He gives them a new moral purity and strength, regardless of sex.

"Does the Rotary Club have a category of membership for a whirling dervish?"

According to my drinking cousin, Bobby Harris, George Burns was recalling early vaudeville days with Gracie Allen when they culled many of their jokes from a newspaper column written by John P. Medberry.

Another comedy team of the era, Block and Sully, complained to Burns that one of the jokes had been used by them first and belonged to their act, Burns denied their claim, telling them:

"We got it out of the early edition." It's things like that which killed vaudeville.

Left Mindedness

William F. Buckley Jr.

You will recall that early in the month Gen. Westmoreland, who is the chief of staff of the Army, went to Yale at the invitation of the students' Political Union. They took him to dinner, and then began to propel him towards the auditorium. But at that point an aide to the general reported that the massive wall of shouters and hecklers made it impossible for Westmoreland to speak, unlikely that he could accomplish anything by trying to make his way to the podium and just possible that he might be physically assaulted. So the general pulled out of his pocket a politely worded statement declining to go ahead with his speech, and inviting student leaders of the anti-free speech movement to visit him "in peace and dignity" in Washington, and he would receive them and communicate his message.

THE PRESIDENT of Yale, Mr. Kingman Brewster, pulled some boys-will-be-boys boilerplate from his book shelf, glanced it with a little leer at the general subject of academic freedom, and went back to worrying about how hard it is for a black man to get a fair hearing in New Haven. The student newspaper, frightened at being censorious, did a perfunctory editorial, and published a regular columnist, a young man of exquisite discernment who announced, "I think that Westmoreland is a war criminal," and argued that depriving Westmoreland of a platform had been not a theoretical or philosophical or constitutional deprivation, but a tactical blunder, because it prevented a Yale audience from acquiring first-hand knowledge of Westmoreland's criminal mentality.

ALL THIS proved to be too much for Eugene Rostow, professor of law, former undersecretary of state for political affairs, former dean of the Yale Law School. He addressed an open letter to the president of Yale and the fellows of Yale University. He might as well have addressed it to his wife, for all the publicity it received. To be sure, the New Haven press gave it notice. But the Yale Daily News (as of this writing) seems to be taking the position that Yale students shouldn't hear distinguished professors who believe that Yale students should hear Westmoreland.

MR. ROSTOW BEGAN: In my considerable experience at Yale, I have never before known a situation that justified a direct appeal to the Corporation by students and by members of the Faculty. He went on to cite the commitment of the university to academic freedom, and criticized the president's statement as being inadequate because it "did not order an independent investigation to determine whether disciplinary proceedings against the students involved should be brought, or criminal charges preferred against those who, through the use of force, deliberately made it impossible to hold the meeting at which Gen. Westmoreland was scheduled to speak."

MR. ROSTOW then reminded Yale's officials that the student newspaper had carried notices that students would try to break up the meeting, and even so adequate preparations were not taken; and that no apology had been extended to Gen. Westmoreland. "The weakness of your statement invites worse trouble. But it is to be deplored for a deeper reason. It does not begin to meet your responsibility to the laws of this country, and especially to the laws protecting academic freedom."

WHAT IS WRONG about the current situation is most cogently singled out by Eugene Rostow. It is less than students can behave like Nazi youth squads, it is that there is something less than a universality of disapproval of those that do.

A freshman profile published in the Yale Daily News reveals that it is further left than most American universities. Sixty per cent of the freshman class considers itself "liberal," 14 per cent "far left" — as compared to 41 per cent and three per cent for the rest of the country. Twenty per cent of the freshmen think of themselves as "middle of the road," six per cent as "conservative," 14 per cent nationwide. Somebody ought to write a book about the left-mindedness at Yale University. The trouble is nobody would believe him.

Price Commission May Be Stiffening

NEW YORK (AP) — The prospect of hundreds of millions of dollars in price rollbacks dominated the economic newsfront this past week as the Price Commission promised to crack down on firms with excessive profit margins.

C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman, said the Price Commission was reviewing the quarterly earnings reports from major companies and indicated that large price reductions and refunds were in the offing.

Later in the week, Ford Motor Co. voluntarily announced an average $13 price cut for its cars and trucks after reporting a 49 per cent leap in first-quarter earnings to $232 million.

ROLLBACKS
The commission ordered rollbacks at six large companies, including Eckerd Drugs Inc., a Charlotte, N.C.-based chain of 123 stores, and F. W. Woolworth Co., which was told to rescind recent increases in lunch counter operations at its five-and-dime outlets.

Other news during the week gave conflicting signs of the nation's economic health. The government reported a worsening of the U.S. trade deficit in March and a slackening of productivity gains during the first quarter. On the plus side, leading economic indicators showed gains last month, while the Treasury's plans for refinancing indicated a smaller federal budget deficit than previous estimates.

TRADE IMBALANCE
The Commerce Department said the $54.3 million deficit in the nation's trade account last month, which was slightly lower than the February deficit brought the first-quarter deficit to a record $1.5 billion.

A trade deficit occurs when the value of foreign goods brought into the country exceeds the value of American goods taken out of the country.

The Labor Department, meanwhile, reported that output per hour of work in the private sector during the first quarter increased at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of only 2.17 per cent, compared with a 3.2 per cent rate of gain in the fourth quarter of 1971 and 3.6 per cent for all of last year.

At a congressional hearing, Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson expressed amazement at the slowdown.

BREAD GAINS
Good news came with the report from the Commerce Department that the composite index of leading economic indicators rose 0.9 per cent in March, continuing its recent upswing. The index, which often foreshadows broad movements in the economy, had

The Week's Business

- Excessive profit margins may bring on more rollbacks
- Ford cuts prices $13 per car after showing jump in profits
- Indicators gain, deficit may shrink—but trade balance off
- Labor output gains but increase curve is levelling off
- Prepayments dull treasury borrowing demand; indices broader risen 0.7 per cent in February, and an average of about 1 per cent a month for the past half year.

The Treasury Department, finding itself with unexpected funds on hand because of what a spokesman said was overwithheld personal income taxes and the strong economy, announced plans to trim its borrowing plans, and pay off some of its maturing debt in cash.

Paul A. Volcker, treasury under-secretary for monetary affairs, said the stronger revenue picture indicated a small budget deficit, but did not indicate how much the planned $38.8-billion deficit might be reduced.

Astronomers Say Mathematical Data Hint At New Planet

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — "Intolerable errors" in the predicted timetable of Halley's Comet have led a University of California scientific team to believe a 10th planet may be circling the sun beyond Pluto — outermost known planet in the solar system.

Three computer scientists at the University's Lawrence Livermore Laboratory said Friday their prediction of the planet's existence is based on mathematical calculations related to the orbit of the mysterious Comet.

The team, led by Joseph L. Brady, named the proposed body "Planet X." According to the scientists, the planet would be 300 times more massive than earth and about six billion miles from the sun — far beyond the orbit of Pluto. The earth is 93 million miles from the sun.

The planet would take 512 years to make a single revolution around the sun, and its orbit would be sharply tilted from the plane in which the other nine planets revolve, the scientists said.

Brady said he came up with the "Planet X" theory after studying unexplained orbital deviations of Halley's Comet. He said he concluded the deviations could be caused by the gravitational action of "Planet X."

The scientist said past predictions of the arrival of Halley's Comet near earth have repeatedly been wrong by several days.

"Errors like those are intolerable and they demanded an explanation," Brady said. "They couldn't be satisfactorily explained by the turmoil in the gases of the comet's tail as it approached the sun, but they fit precisely into a gravitational picture of the solar system that included a tenth planet."

Brady said the prediction of new planets based on mathematical calculations was not new. He said Neptune's location was predicted in a similar way in 1846, as was Pluto's in this century.

He added he hoped his prediction would encourage astronomers with powerful telescopes to look for the planet, but he admitted the hunt would be like searching for a needle in a haystack.

"The proposed planet is located in the densely populated Milky Way where even a tiny area encompasses thousands of stars, many of which are brighter than we expect this planet to be," Brady said.

NOTICE ARRIVES, BUT HOUSE GONE
DELANO, Calif. (AP) — The Delano Historical Society has learned too late that the area's first Spanish adobe home will be listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

The listing, requested three years ago, was approved this week—two months after an auto agency bought the property, razed the old house and built a parking lot.

WASHINGTON — The Federal Trade Commission has attacked the advertising claims of the nation's leading nonprescription painkillers. In a strongly worded complaint, the FTC accused the major drug companies of making misleading and false claims about the effectiveness of their products. The main thrust of the complaint is that while most of the painkillers work, the drug companies, through advertising, give the false impression that there is a "significant difference between the products."

MY FRIEND, Prof. Heinrich Applebaum, believes that the FTC has gone too far. While he is an advocate of truth in advertising, he feels the government could do more damage than good by making the drug companies go honest.

"Why they have not taken into consideration is the psychological effect that painkilling advertising can have on a headache," Applebaum told me in his Headache Research Laboratory located at the end of the runway at National Airport.

"IN MY STUDIES, I have discovered that people are dependent on outrageous claims for painkillers to rid themselves of headaches. Let me show you," Applebaum took two volunteers and made them stand next to a plane taking off.

"This is the fastest way we have of giving people headaches," he explained. After the plane took off, he said to one volunteer who was holding his head, "I am going to give you two aspirin." To the other volunteer he said, "I'm going to give two Bufferin which relieves pain twice as fast as aspirin." Now tell me when your headache is gone."

The person who took the Bufferin said in three minutes, "My headache is gone." The person who took the aspirin waited six minutes and then said, "My headache is gone."

"BUT HOW can you be sure of this?" I asked.

"Because the person who thought he had taken the Bufferin really took aspirin. And the person who believed he had taken aspirin was really on Bufferin."

"You're a sneaky guy, Professor," I said with great admiration.

"Now, watch this experiment." The professor took a schoolteacher and placed her on a school bus with 45 grammar schoolchildren. Her face became strained and irritable and she started to scream at the children.

Shaky Situation

WASHINGTON — Add to the renewed ferocity of the Vietnam war the likelihood that the German-Russian peace treaties will be rejected in Bonn and the figure of peace — on the cartoonist's drawing board — a fragile lady besieged on every side — nears the vanishing point. Rejection by the Christian Democrats of the structure of Chancellor Willy Brandt's ostpolitik may not dash President Nixon's hope of easing tensions on his Moscow mission. One theory is that this would give him an added bargaining power with the masters of the Kremlin, since they would have all the more need to come together with the big power and thereby isolate Germany.

THAT SEEMS to me a shaky theory. Leonid Brezhnev, the party boss, and Premier Alexei Kosygin have put so many chips on the Brandt treaties. And allied to those treaties is the detailed agreement upgrading the status of West Berlin, which the Soviet Union will not approve until the Eastern treaties are ratified.

SO MUCH dust is being kicked up by the Christian Democrats ridden by old fears and suspicions that it is important to put Brandt's position in perspective. He has been a staunch partner in NATO. In the Common Market he has worked to bring Britain into the fold. Last week in London Prime Minister Edward Heath received him as a fellow European dedicated to the common end of a peaceful continent.

FLORIDA GROVE FFA, FHA Plan Barbecue

By JUDY GAVE

The Florida Grove, Fla., Future Farmers of America and Future Homemakers of America are sponsoring a barbecue to be held Friday.

Entertainment will be provided by Leon Langley. The best is being furnished by Holcomb Cattle Company. All members of the FFA and FHA, their parents, and anyone employed by the school will be given free tickets. Anyone else interested in attending can purchase tickets for $1 from any FFA or FHA member.

A number of the students of the Florida Grove English classes plan to attend "Hello Dolly" at Lamar High School, Friday night.

Several members of the FFA attended a judging contest, Friday, April 22 on the Tech campus in Lubbock. Those attending were Charlie High-Cockrell, Jimmy Ross, Sam Jones, and Dan Hightower. Jimmy Ross and David Pridyia attended the Region I golf tournament, April 19-20.

Mrs. Marjory Rawlings and two members of the FFA, Peggy Hayes and the state FHA president, attended the regional convention in Fort Worth, April 21-22.

Mental Illness Statistics Shock

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing government statistics, a National Institute of Mental Health psychologist said Monday there is growing evidence that "almost no family in the nation is entirely free of mental disorders."

And, Dr. David Rosenthal suggested that the incidence of mental disorders may figure prominently among the causes of the country's social turbulence and disorders, including crime and racial unrest.

BORDERLINE
Based on a 1967 institute survey, which Rosenthal said contains the latest figures, he concluded possibly 40 million Americans are borderline schizophrenics or exhibit other deviant mental behavior in the schizophrenic category.

"Indeed," Rosenthal said in a report to the National Academy of Sciences, "it may very well be that the so-called 'normal' person, with respect to mental health, does not represent a norm at all, but rather an idea—relatively rare—that most of us would like to achieve."

Rosenthal said there are more than 1.75 million schizophrenic or potentially schizophrenic persons walking the streets besides at least 500,000 in hospitals. Schizophrenia, one of the major mental illnesses, includes a tendency to withdraw from reality and often involves hallucinations and delusions.

In his report, prepared for the academy's annual meeting, Rosenthal said there's growing evidence that hereditary factors may play a role in causing at least some forms of mental illness.

He declared that fuller acceptance of that idea by scientists might ultimately lead to better means of controlling mental illness, with the benefits going to society in general.

DRINKING PROBLEM
Rosenthal said other statistics from the survey indicate:

—90,000 Americans were hospitalized in 1967 for depression and "many times more never found their way to a hospital."

—On suicide, "At least once every minute someone in the United States tried to kill himself, and once every 24 minutes the attempt was successful."

—There are 9 million people in the United States with a serious drinking problem, or about one of every 22 persons, whose annual costs to the nation include $19 billion, half of all arrests, and 25,000 highway deaths... An estimated 200,000 new cases develop each year."

—First admission rates and resident population rates in mental hospitals for children under age 15 were increasing alarmingly...

—Children institutionalized

Forum Comedy To Be Offered

The departments of Drama and Music of Howard County Junior College will combine efforts this summer in producing the musical comedy, "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum," by Stephen Sondheim, Larry Gelbart and Burt Shevelove.

Performance dates for the production are July 3, 4, 6, 7 and 8 in the dining hall of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building on the HCJC campus.

The dinner-theatre-in-the-round concept will be employed for this production, meaning that the play will be staged in-the-round and that supper will be served before the play. The project is a continuation of a summer theatre program started last year by the college drama department with their dinner-theatre production of George Herman's "A Company Of Wayward Saints."

Auditions for the production are scheduled for May 17, 18 and 19. All interested persons are encouraged to audition for a role or to sign up for production staff. A person may sign up for an audition by signing the audition sheet in the foyer of the drama department in the auditorium building. Audition materials are available in the HCJC library.

Sure Beats Wrong Number Excuse

PETERBORO, N.H. (AP) — Stephen Stone and Michael Narbis tried to place a telephone call through Houston to Thomas Mattingly while he was piloting in the Apollo 16 command module around the moon. The two employees of Radio WSCV, said the operator in Houston told them that the call couldn't be placed because "there are no lines and area codes out where he is."

This Custer Wins His Last Stand

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Custer has won his last stand—that's Harvey Custer.

Indian groups wanted the name of Custer High School changed, contending it glorified the controversial Indian fighter, George Armstrong Custer.

The school board said no change was needed because the school was named for Custer Avenue which had been named for Harvey Custer, a constable

Construction In Texas Dips

AUSTIN (AP) — Authorized construction in Texas dropped 8 per cent last month compared with February but it still was 23 per cent higher than the January value, the Bureau of Business Research reports.

The University of Texas agency blamed February's phenomenal 33 per cent increase for what it called an almost inevitable decline in March.

Housing starts in the United States also were down in March—11 per cent—for the first time since last September.

Nonresidential construction in Texas is up 43 per cent for the first quarter of 1972, compared with the figure for the same period a year ago.

Sixty per cent of the total construction in the state for the first quarter took place in Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth and Austin.

Apartment dwellings continued to lead the residential construction figures—16,586 apartment units, compared with 14,392 single-family units. Only 430 duplexes were authorized.

Council To Meet

The Base-Community Council steering committee will meet at noon Monday at Coker's Restaurant.

General business items will be discussed.

Newspapers Top Medium For Ads

NEW YORK (AP) — Newspapers far out-distanced television as the nation's largest advertising medium in 1971, the American Newspaper Publishers Association states in an annual report.

The nation's 1,749 daily and 590 Sunday papers sold $6.2 billion worth of advertising compared to television's $3.5 billion, the ANPA report said.

In third place was direct mail with $2.9 billion while magazines accounted for $1.4 billion and radio $1.38 billion.

The ANPA survey also said daily newspaper circulation increased 123,731 to 62,231,258 and Sunday papers 448,041 to 49,664,643.

Privacy Quest

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What's gotten into you? Everyone is entitled to privacy!

I refer to those people who were vacationing near Monterey when a car full of strangers drove up, and asked if they could share their picnic table. I think they had a lot of nerve trying to butt in that way.

I give those people credit for saying, "No, we want our privacy." You took the part of the intruders and gave out with a lot of dialogue about "caring and sharing."

Look at the English. They are great protectors of their privacy. You don't see them letting just anybody move in and get chummy with them.

DEAR LIKES: For the other side of the coin, please read

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the people who didn't want to share their picnic table, I couldn't help but think how much they were missing. Privacy can be found in the confines of one's own home, and if that is what one wants, he should stay home.

We are not world travelers, but we have had many memorable outings when we took our children camping. We've shared picnic tables (and even lunches) with strangers from all over.

Had we wanted our privacy, we never would have met the two charming retired schoolteachers who were crossing the country on the narrow back byways instead of the freeways. ("You don't see anything from an airplane!")

Or the party of happy young people who insisted that we share their campfire on the banks of a river one beautiful moonlit night too beautiful to describe.

Our children have romped with children of every color and creed, and it has enriched their lives.

Once we joined a family with nine children who were giving "Mamma" a vacation from the kitchen, treating her to a dinner of peanut butter and jam sandwiches and chocolate milk.

Those who shun strangers will never know the wonderful feeling of making friends of strangers, and have them blow you kisses when you wave them goodby.

Privacy seekers miss the whole point of living in, and enjoying, God's beautiful world, which belongs to all of us. I weep for them, and their growing numbers.

RECEIVED MORE THAN WE GAVE

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-seven years ago, I married a smart, young, ambitious man. Climb!

Climb! Climb! Year after year the goals got higher. He worked, worked, worked!

Last week I nearly lost this wonderful man to a heart attack. What good was the split level home, the beautiful furniture, the sterling silver, the mink, the extra car? My only prayer was that this devoted husband and father should live to enjoy the fruits of his hard-earned labor.

I reproached myself a thousand times for having demanded so many material things. I nearly worked him to death. No wonder most women outlive their husbands.

I was lucky. Thank God mine is going to make it.

Abby, please tell young married women to settle for less and not to drive their husbands to exhaustion. Sign me

Difficult Answer

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Doctor: I need an answer very soon.

I am a girl, 17, and have been having intercourse with my boyfriend for seven months. We don't use any form of contraceptive. I haven't become pregnant but every month when it is time for my period I pray that it comes. I'm getting more afraid every month. We use condoms once in a while but they are so irritating to me.

I feel that we have overlooked an effective birth control method long enough. My friend uses "the pill" and she gets them from Planned Parenthood, but I am afraid to take them, feeling it will upset my body chemistry. Could you print some information on the pill and other contraceptives?

I need an answer very soon.

Also I have a thick white discharge from the vagina. Is this normal? Could it be a sign of venereal disease? Neither my boyfriend nor I have had intercourse with anyone else.

A.L.

I hope your praying has been effective and that by the time you read this you won't be shopping for a home for unmarried mothers.

Quite frankly, it's not easy for me to answer a question like yours. Part of it, anyway. People of my generation are alarmed, and have been for some time, over the free-and-easy sex habits of high school kids and younger, but lecturing on self-restraint, at this stage of proceedings, probably won't do a particle of good. So I'll confine my comments to this. If young people are going to do it, the least they can do is take enough responsibility to do some thinking beforehand instead of afterward.

Look at the question you've posed for me. You won't use the pill because of some worry about your "body chemistry," whatever you mean by that. You don't like the condom. So you apparently want me to pick out a birth control system for you -- one that will do the job and not interfere with your personal preferences.

Well, I have reservations about "the pill" for people at your age because, for one thing, it is so good a contraceptive that girls feel excessively "safe," not realizing how much this contributes to V.D. and also to vaginitis (other vaginal infections).

You don't like condoms, although they are pretty good as contraceptives and excellent in avoiding V.D. and vaginitis. I doubt, from your letter, that there's any point in urging you to do the studying to try to use the rhythm method, and it is not as certain as other methods anyway.

That leaves you the alternative of going to a doctor to be fitted for a diaphragm, which is reasonably reliable, or the I.U.D. or "coil" which works pretty well, too, except that some women can't use it because of irritation.

Anyway, I think that it's up to you, not me, to take the responsibility of choosing.

As to that vaginal discharge, no, it's not normal. It could be a sign of V.D.; or it might merely indicate vaginitis. You ought to go to a gynecologist to have the exact type identified and treated.

I'm glad your boyfriend isn't running around with anybody else -- but two million cases of V.D. a year are proof that "somebody" is.

At 61, Famed Playwright Has Subdued His Demons

NEW YORK (AP) — Tennessee Williams talking. Slowly, softly, intently. The same man you've met before, but different.

"When you've really had a mental crackup, it's a great catharsis of all the things that have troubled you. That is, if you survive it, and I barely did."

The words trail off.

The Williams spectacle of brilliant playwright, physical illness, emotional turmoil and sybaritic splash has for a quarter-century delighted, distressed and diverted multitudes.

"I feel I have lived a full life," he ties it all together. The tone is measured assurance. Or resignation?

The distinguished dramatist last month passed his 61st birthday. His latest play, "Small Craft Warnings," more recently premiered Off-Broadway. The events together enticed him from preferred seclusion for a far-ranging conversation.

The events, that is, plus palpable distress over what people may think of him today.

NONE TO GIVE

The mixed critical reception that greeted "Small Craft Warnings"—many reviewers found that play's characters were ghosts from dramas past—stirs a fervent rejoinder: "What do they want, blood? At 61, I don't have blood to give. I gave them good writing. I achieved my purpose, which was to write a play that corresponded to a short story."

One scene he regards as "the finest writing I have done since the early plays." In it, an elderly homosexual describes his loss of all interest in life, of being unable any longer to be surprised by anything.

"That the man was a homosexual was only a kickoff for the speech. He's not my kind of homosexual."

Williams evinces reluctance to dwell on that aspect of human behavior, or to linger over any detailed pathology concerning past dire bodily ailments.

"I've covered all this," the statement echoes like a prayer. "You don't want to write much about this, do you?" Then gratefully, "No-o. I was really a wreck."

In appearance, Williams projects augmented confidence. He has sworn off the more exotic medicaments indulged in of yore, has "two or three drinks and I'm a great lover of wine. I do get tired at night." He writes every morning.

"I love traveling most of all. You can write anywhere you have a piece of paper."

But Williams has no intention of turning hermit.

"My doctor told me I should go to Key West and live like a crocodile." His arms paw the air in mime of a lethargic swamp dweller. "What was my answer? Well, I'm not doing it, am I?" Roar of laughter. The conversation frequently breaks for gleeful bursts.

"I have found again the ability to be surprised, which I lost during the 1960s. I feel much freer with people and I feel I have more friends."

NO NEUROSES

What has it all to do with the inner man, the creator whose lyrical imagery has ever been strongly etched with burning compassion. Do demons of anguish still haunt him?

"Oh, you mean my neuroses."

Disney Film Made Texas Girl A Star

The unusual successful start that Sandy Duncan's career has had reads like invention. But the facts are facts.

This petite, bouncy and talented red-head from Tyler, Texas moved into the limelight via The Dallas Summer Theater, the New York stage, several attention-getting TV commercials, a CBS-TV series contract and a starring role opposite Dean Jones in her first feature film, Walt Disney Productions' "1,000,000 Duck," starting Wednesday at the Jet Drive In.

Even though Sandy had appeared in a number of first run Broadway musicals, rousing critical reception finally came her way when she opened in the second lead in a revival of "The Boy Friend."

For a straight acting role in the off-Broadway play "Ceremony of Innocence" Sandy won a Theatre World Award.

Sandy actually tried to make her theatrical debut at four when, during a dance recital at an American Legion Hall, she headed for the stage. It was only when her mother promised her dancing lessons did she back off and return to her seat.

'THE TEN COMMANDMENTS' Re-Release Regenders Memories Of DeMille

The most extensive preparations ever made for a motion picture—ten years of planning, three years of research and exploration, three years of writing—preceded the actual shooting of Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments," a Paramount Pictures re-release opening in Technicolor Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

The painstaking research for the film, which is generally recognized as the masterwork of master showman DeMille, not only guided the creation of the script, which is more voluminous than many major novels, it was also used in designing the mammoth sets, the 100,000 props, the half million units of wardrobe for extras and 25,000 extras, the makeup and the choreography.

Studied exhaustively for the spectacle were the King James and Douay versions of the Holy Scriptures, and "The Pentateuch and Haftorahs," edited by the Chief Rabbi of the British Empire. The Koran, the Midrash, the Mishnah and the works of Philo, Josephus and Eusebius were searched to fill in the 30-year period of Moses' life that is omitted in the book of Exodus.

Flimed against natural backgrounds, the film eloquently traces the story of Moses from the time his mother set him afloat on the Nile, through his years as a young general in the Pharaoh's army, to his betrayal and exile, and finally his deliverance of the Israelites and his receiving God's Commandments.

The dramatization of Moses' life presents such spectacular sequences as the Plagues, the building of an Egyptian treasure city, the parting of the Red Sea, the Burning Bush, and Moses receiving the Lord's Commandments on Mount Sinai.

The extraordinary Red Sea episode took three years to execute and consumed more than $1,000,000 of the film's mammoth budget. The fearsome panorama of the army consumed by towering walls of raging water was made possible by the wizardry of Academy Award winner John P. Fulton, one of Hollywood's most gifted special effects geniuses.

Actor Bruce Dern Hopes To Shed 'Heavy' Roles

NEW YORK (AP) — Some New Yorkers fear to walk in Central Park at night, but actor Bruce Dern runs right in and doesn't run out again until he has trotted a couple of miles or so.

"I've seen nothing to worry about," Dern says with a grin. "There's nobody in the park at night except me and the cops."

Dern's hobby is long distance running, a youthful interest that indirectly led him into acting.

"I was running in college, and I was doing pretty good," the 35-year-old, casually-clad actor recalls. "Then I grew some sideburns. They weren't too long, but I was told to cut them."

"I couldn't believe a track coach would make an issue out of this. So I quit the team and school."

"Right after that I went to a movie and saw James Dean in the film. He seemed to be reaching people. So I decided that was what I wanted to do and went to dramatic school."

He started out on the stage but then moved into movies and television where "I always seemed to be playing a psychotic kind of heavy. I guess it was because my first TV part was that of a heavy and after that they always seemed to be giving me those parts. I bet I'm the only actor who's been shot and killed by Marshal Dillon at least eight different times."

The long-haired actor also usually played the heavy in many of his 24 movies until he appeared in "Drive, He Said," where he portrayed a college basketball coach.

"That was the first time anyone let me play a normal human being," Dern says, and he

Love Story Also Depicts Cruelties Of Urban Life

John Schlesinger, who recently scored a personal triumph with the phenomenally successful Academy Award-winning "Midnight Cowboy," renews his association with United Artists with "Sunday Bloody Sunday." Produced by Joseph Janni, a long-time associate of Schlesinger, "Sunday, Bloody Sunday" will open Wednesday at the Cinema Theatre.

The film stars Glenda Jackson, Peter Finch and Murray Head in a love story of contemporary London, written for the screen by the noted novelist, short story writer and movie reviewer, Penelope Gilliat.

Miss Jackson, who previously scored in two other films made for UA—"Women In Love" and "The Music Lovers"—received the Best Actress

No-Name Horse Named Exodus

David D. Rogers won, with his suggestion "Exodus" and his explanation: "I feel that America's song 'Horse With No Name' is symbolic of modern man's struggle to release himself from the bondage of today's society. The author of the song experienced a 'going out' of sorts."

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A radio station here held a contest to name "the horse with no name" and the prize was a Palomino mare.

Short Courses Prove Successful At HCJC

By JOE PICKLE

When Charlie Clay retired as a Texas & Pacific locomotive engineer this year, he wanted to see if he was too old to learn something else.

He probably knew less about stitching than anything, so he signed for the fundamentals of sewing, one of the numerous short courses offered at Howard County Junior College.

The instructor shook her head. But when the course ended six weeks later, Charlie Clay had convinced himself he could do it. Moreover, he had mastered sewing skills enough that he turned out a pretty good shirt.

HARTE ENROLLMENT

Clay is only one of about 650 adults who have found satisfaction in the 33 courses offered for personal pleasure, avocational or vocational skill development.

MEMBERS CLAMOR

So successful has the program been that several of the classes have had members clamoring to keep going during the summer when Dr. Charles Hayes, administrative dean in charge of the program, had hoped to pause and regroup.

So far there have been courses in 27 separate subject areas. One additional one is to start the first week in May — this one on "indexing" or organizing the mind. The actual enrollment has totaled 619, but Dr. Hayes feels the memory course will push the total near 650.

If nothing else, the record has established a springboard for next year. The only limitation seems to be space and time; the course potential is just as broad as is the spectrum of human interest.

ANYTHING

"We'll offer any legitimate subject so long as we can get a minimum of 10 for the class," he said. "In addition, we plan to set up several of the bread-and-butter courses on a continuing basis until there are signs we have saturated the field. Others we hope to continue in various phases — like in art, moving from water colors to oils to pottery, to sculpture, etc."

There's no such thing as anti-enthusiasm who will take a certain course. While Clay took the sewing course, normally a domain of women seamstresses, there was one woman who took the course in woodworking. In the upholstery class, about half the students were women.

The courses range from three days to as long as 15 weeks (for conversational Spanish). Most of them are four to six weeks. A number of enthusiastic adults have said they think they ought to continue longer.

Subject areas in courses

SWAPS LOCOMOTIVE FOR A SHIRT
Mrs. Don Ellis teaches Charlie Clay to sew organized this year are beginners and advanced bridge, bookkeeping, cake decorating, coaches clinic, conversational Spanish, crafts, drivers education, fix-it, flower arranging, fundamentals of insurance, fundamentals of real estate, sewing, grocery checking, gunsmithing, income tax procedure, introduction to Biblical literature, knitting, nurses aide, oil painting, police science reserve course, powder puff mechanics, poodle grooming, upholstery, watercoloring, wig styling, wood working and training your memory.

Half a dozen of these are vocationally oriented. Dr. Hayes says that where more training is desired in these fields, it is a logical step over into the college's vocational-technical division.

How did he arrive at the list, and where did he get instructors?

He had about six years background in this type of adult education, and then he surveyed all Texas colleges (and several out-of-state ones) offering this kind of training. From the results he came up with a list of courses he thought might fit into this area.

GOOD INSTRUCTORS

"Getting top instructors hasn't been difficult of all," he said. "Big Spring is bubbling over with people who are expert in the fields we have offered. Only once have we had to get an out-of-town instructor to supply a need."

Usually, the individual who agrees to instruct a course makes a course outline. In a few cases, the outline develops as the course is taught.

"We ask for constructive criticism from the students, and we've received a number of helpful suggestions," said Dr. Hayes, "but I can say truthfully that we have yet to get a complaint on an instructor."

When an accelerated short course program was proposed last autumn, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, agreed. There was one stipulation — "so long as it doesn't cost us anything; we don't have any extra money."

With one course to go, the course tuition fees have aggregated $8,678, of which $5,001 has gone to instructors. An additional $181 went to teaching materials and equipment rentals (like the sewing machines). Brochure and enrollment expense has amounted to $793, leaving $2,700 for purchase of furniture needed, also for utilities, janitorial services, etc.

In short, the courses have paid their own way.

Those who complete the courses get certificates. Some of them get jobs, quite unexpectedly like the woman who took cake decorating for fun, then hired out in response to an urgent appeal for help. Everyone taking the grocery checking course found a job, and one store wanted the list of graduates.

One of the keys to a successful program is finding things people are interested in. Another is putting a good instructor over the group — and Dr. Hayes screens prospects carefully because "these classes aren't captive audiences like young students in the regular academic program — instructors have to make these courses interesting."

Fish Growth Is Controlled

WINTHROP, Wash. (AP) — If you're a rainbow trout at the U.S. hatchery here you need a sweater, but down river at Wells Dam it's bikini weather for the Steelhead and salmon.

The reason is that fisheries experts are lowering and raising water temperatures in order to control growth. The goal is to keep fishermen happy by supplying them with plenty of fish of the right size at the right time.

The refrigeration system at the Winthrop National Fish Hatchery will drop the temperature of the water in which rainbow eggs lie to 38 degrees from about 47. Cooler water slows down the metabolism of the eggs so they will hatch later.

Tom Sheidrake, assistant manager of the hatchery, said state and federal hatcheries which the Winthrop facility supplies have asked for delivery of eggs that will assure eight-inch fish at specified times.

The refrigeration process enables the hatchery to delay the fish from reaching the release stage by 90 days, Sheidrake said.

Egg-taking from the adult fish in the outdoor holding ponds starts in January and generally runs through March, Sheidrake said. The fish usually reach the eight-inch size in 14 to 15 months.

The first batches—about 750,000 eggs—are retained here, some to be released as fingerlings in Indian Reservation lakes and streams, others to be planted as eight-inchers in Methow Valley streams.

Another five million eggs are used to meet the needs of other states and hatcheries overseas. These are the ones to be refrigerated.

The refrigeration system to delay egg-hatching will be much cheaper than delaying actual fish growth by cooling the water in the holding ponds, Sheidrake said.

Meanwhile, at Wells Dam they're warming up the water so the salmon and steelhead eggs will hatch about the same time.

By heating the water, the time it takes to hatch salmon eggs and bring the fish to feed stage can be shortened by as much as a month.

No Need For Heroin Addict To Turn To Crime For Fix

LONDON (AP) — A heroin addict who mistimed his last dose walked into a London clinic, twitching.

"You look awful," a doctor said. Then he handed out a legal narcotics prescription under the tax-subsidized National Health Program.

Once again a junkie had turned up just for another fix that could eventually kill him, rejecting the chance for free withdrawal treatment at a government hospital.

But at least there was no need for him to turn to crimes of violence to raise money for illegal drugs. And with legal narcotics available, there was less profit incentive for gangsters to start mass black market operations here.

He was taking advantage of Britain's system of treating addicts as patients rather than as criminals, a practice once denounced by former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell as "the surrender approach."

There's a big question whether the British system could work in the United States, but evidence accumulates that it works tolerably well here, following some key revisions.

The number of addicts known to the government is declining. Perhaps more important, it is declining among the younger age groups.

Britain's drug situation pales by comparison to the U.S. problem. At its peak there were probably fewer than 4,000 addicts in this nation of 55 million, against perhaps 200,000 in New York City alone.

But the British addiction rate grew alarmingly over the past decade, calling the whole system into question and forcing some major changes.

The system was riddled with abuse. Rogee physicians privately overprescribed for registered addicts, who then sold their surplus to pay the rent or buy food, sometimes hooking a new young junkie.

Merit Awards Are Made At Klondike

KLONDIKE (SC) — Merit 'K' awards have been announced by teachers in the Klondike school system. Winners represent the outstanding students in Klondike.

Peggy Low and Mitzi Warren were lauded for outstanding work in shorthand. They ran 1-2 in district competition. The awards were presented by Mrs. Sue Davis.

Lyn Vogler was given an award by Mrs. Barbara Archer for work in organic chemistry.

Others honored included: Ann Shofner, in fine arts; Henry Gonzales, in Spanish; George McCown, for Fealty, all rewarded by Mark Stewart.

For their outstanding work in agricultural shop, awards went to Monte Wilson and George McCown. Those awards were presented by Theron Tidwell.

Hope For Dieters

A new, low calorie natural sweetener from an African red berry has been isolated by a Veterans Administration research team at the University of Pennsylvania's Monell Chemical Senses Center.
