Texas Demos Work In Wee Hours To Select Delegates

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace and Sen. George McGovern picked up sizable blocks of delegates in a marathon Texas Democratic convention that finally ended at 3:31 a.m. today.

"This has boiled down to a convention of mathematics," chairman Calvin Guest told the sleep-groggily delegates near 2 a.m. as officials tried to apportion national convention delegates according to age, sex, race and presidential preference.

The session started two hours late Tuesday because of a new presidential preference straw vote, then ran 15½ hours without a break but marked by long periods of inactivity and impatience.

"It was a good convention, but we are going to have to do something to make the convention procedure move faster," said gubernatorial nominee Dolph Briscoe, who tried to act as peacemaker among the contesting presidential prospects.

The final national convention delegation of 130 members included 42 delegates for Wallace, 34 for McGovern, 21 for Sen. Hubert Humphrey and 33 uncommitted.

The apportionment was based on the state convention straw poll among the 3,864 delegates attending, but it does not bind the delegates to vote that way at the National convention starting July 10 in Miami Beach.

39 WOMEN

The delegation includes 29 young people, 39 women, 12 Negroes and 19 Mexican-Americans.

Wallace's supporters furnished most of the color and what little fireworks appeared at the gathering.

Early today, in the midst of a long period of inactivity, Wallace boosters staged an impromptu demonstration, marching around the convention hall and waving banners and placards. One delegate carried a Confederate flag.

There was an immediate protest over the flag from a McGovern delegate who identified himself as Carl McMillan of Dallas. Then Wallace supporters surrounded McMillan, booing, pushing and waving more confederate flags.

Several of the numerous city and state officers present rushed McMillan from the floor — for his own safety, they said. McMillan later returned. There were no arrests and no charges were filed.

McGovern forces claimed victory on one front—the election of a vice chairman in opposition to Briscoe and many Wallace backers.

By a roll call vote of 2,125 to 1,795 Mrs. Eddie Bernice Johnson of Dallas, who recently won an election for state representative, defeated State Democratic Chairman Roy Orr. Mrs. Johnson was endorsed in floor debate by Mrs. Billie Carr, one of McGovern's key campaigners in Texas.

Orr had been recommended for the vice chairmanship by Briscoe and endorsed by Hall Timanus, state chairman for Wallace.

"I feel this is just the first step toward real democratic justice in Texas," said Mrs. Johnson, who is the first Negro woman ever elected to the legislature from Dallas.

In his keynote speech Briscoe was applauded loudly when he said, "The day of winner-take-all politics is over."

RAPED, SHOT

Arrest Three Slay Suspects In West Texas

DALLAS (AP) — Arrests of three men in West Texas were followed Tuesday night by discovery of the body of Marie Childs, 45, in a vacant Dallas house.

Preliminary examination indicated Mrs. Childs, who disappeared early Monday from a drycleaning and laundry station, showed she was raped and shot once in the back of the head, the county medical examiner's office reported.

Officers said a hitchhiker told authorities at Van Horn, in Culberson County, that three men gave him a ride near there but abandoned the car and started walking on Interstate 10 after hearing a broadcast about the disappearance of Mrs. Childs in Dallas and a description of her stolen automobile.

Sheriff's deputies said they took the three into custody as they were trying to thumb a ride 40 miles east of Van Horn, which is between Pecos and El Paso. The abandoned vehicle was identified as that of Mrs. Childs.

Dallas officers lodged murder charges against the trio, whom they identified as Ronald Neal, 19; Elwood Gibson, 20; and Don Johnson, also 20. They said the prisoners all claimed to be from Dallas. Several hours after the arrests, a tip led officers to the body of Mrs. Childs in the fixtureless bathroom of an untenanted house three miles from the business place where she disappeared while at work.

Police Lt. Charles Burnley said the body, fully clothed, lay face up with Mrs. Childs' purse beside it.

A deliveryman reported the office where Mrs. Childs worked was open and unlocked Monday morning when he arrived. Police said less than $100 was missing from the cash drawer and Mrs. Childs' car could not be found.

'Bama Blast Hurts 27 Men

CONCORD, Ala. (AP) — Two tanks of welding gas accidentally entered a coal crusher in U.S. Steel's Concord mine late Tuesday, causing an explosion that injured 27 men, a preliminary investigation by government officials showed today.

There were no fatalities. Seven miners were hospitalized, one in critical condition and three seriously hurt, hospital spokesmen said.

Ban On Use Of DDT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus ordered today an almost complete ban on use of the pesticide DDT in the United States.

Ruckelshaus made the ban effective Dec. 31, 1972, to allow a transition to substitute pesticides.

Under his order, the use of DDT will be permitted in this country only for public health purposes and in three minor uses to protect crops where no effective alternatives are available — that is, on green peppers, onions and sweet potatoes in storage.

All remaining crop uses of DDT — mainly on cotton, peanuts and soybeans — will be banned. Ruckelshaus' decision was based on a 17-month study by EPA on the effects of the widely used chemical.

The long-awaited decision gave environmental groups a victory in one of their earliest and toughest battles that began with the publication of the late Rachel Carson's now-famous book, "Silent Spring."

Although DDT became a worldwide weapon against insects in the years following World War II, Miss Carson warned that it was spreading and persisting in the environment. Other environmentalists soon began campaigning against the pesticide.

Wright's Bid For Acreage Is Accepted By Council

After several months of hunting prospective buyers, two bids were finally submitted to the city commission Tuesday in regular session on the sale of Section 17 and 46 acres in Section 18. One bid was rejected and one accepted, however.

In the bid opening Roger D. Brown, representing himself, G. C. Broughton and J. C. Sackett, presented a bid of $160,000 on the 640 acres in Section 17. H. W. Wright submitted a bid of $15,372.25 on 36 acres in Section 18.

A motion to receive the bids and take them into consideration for award presentation at the next meeting died for a lack of a second, as several of the commissioners questioned whether Brown's bid on the 640 acres satisfied the commission's original anticipated revenue from the sale of the land.

HAS HAD YEAR

Mayor Pro Tem Eddie Acri indicated he would like to study both bids further, but Frog Koger, commissioner, pointed out Acri has had a year already to think about it.

Castling more doubt on postponement of action on the bids, Koger said he was skeptical of waiting, because he felt Wright's bid was fair and might be withdrawn due to the commission's procrastination.

Jack Watkins, commissioner, said the commission can always reopen bids on Section 17, and with that the commission accepted Wright's bid on Section 18 and rejected Brown's bid.

In other business, city fathers tabled a request made by Acri to change the regular meeting times of the council from 5:15 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Acri said he felt there is not enough citizen involvement in the city commission meetings, because the current meeting time does not allow time for the working man to leave work, have dinner with his family and attend the meeting.

Two years ago the meetings were held at 7 p.m., but were changed to the current time because of the desires of one individual city commissioner, according to Acri.

Hall reminded Acri the change would have to be worked out with the city personnel required to attend the regular sessions. "I also feel we should not make a decision until all five commissioners are here," said Hall.

CHOATE ABSENT

Mayor Wade Choate was absent from the meeting. He left the city Monday on a business trip.

City dads tabled the request until Choate returns for the next regular session.

Other action taken by the commission on items on the agenda included:

—Approval of a certificate of occupancy requested by Margaret Chvojka for Wanda's No. 2, 3317 W. US 80.

—Approval of a certificate of occupancy requested by Margaret Chvojka for the Roadrunner Tavern, IS 20.

—Postponement of action and tabling of the rezoning of land along Loop 700.

—Approval on first reading of an ordinance regulating loitering, in reference to a request by several car lot owners in the city.

—Approval of a bookmaking ordinance to support the police department's deterrent actions against the local bookmaking activity.

—Approval of the minutes of

Wright Talks At A&M Party

Bob Wright, who has had a colorful career in athletics, will be the principal speaker at Thursday evening's Texas A&M Club's Scholarship barbecue.

The meal will be served at the amphitheater in the City Park, starting at 7 p.m. Plates sell for $1.75. Children under eight can gain admission free, if they accompany their parents.

The money goes toward a scholarship which will be awarded to some worthy high school graduate in the area.

Wright, one-time high school athlete and coach, formerly was executive vice-president of the Texas High School Coaches Association. He is recruiting coordinator under the new head coach at Texas A&M, Emory Bellard.

Wright is well known here, having appeared here a couple of times, under the auspices of the Quarterback Club. He is a well-known after-dinner speaker.

He played his high school football at Ballinger, where his father, Pooch Wright, also coached. Bob also coached at Cleburne.

Industry Prone To Help Some Cities, Says Acri

Some insight into the financial future of Big Spring was brought to light by Mayor Pro Tem Eddie Acri, after Tuesday's city commission meeting.

Acri's remarks stemmed from Commissioner Jack Watkins' warning to the council during the voucher checking session of the regular session of the city commission. Watkins warned that the commission is allowing waste and bad judgment to enter into an alarming number of transactions by city officials.

Watkins predicted that the result of commissioner's failure to work in the city hall checking bills and functions of the various departments will result in more money being spent than is received by the city. A serious deficit will arise at the end of this fiscal year, September 30, if the irresponsibility on both counts continues, according to Watkins.

Acri told of a visit he made to an East Texas city, which has made arrangements with an industry located from five to 10 miles outside the city. The industry identifies with and feels an obligation to the city for the benefits it derives therefrom. In place of paying ad valorem taxes which the industry feels it owes to the city, a token contribution of $50,000 per year is paid by the industry to the city, according to Acri.

Annexation of surrounding industrial and residential areas was mentioned by the Mayor Pro Tem as a means of creating revenue for Big Spring in the face of a city deficit, which could rise at the end of this fiscal year.

Commissioner Watkins and Acri agreed that an increase in already astronomical city taxes and service charges will serve no purpose but to put Big Spring at the top of the high-tax list of Texas cities and burden the local taxpayer more than necessary.

Acri said that personal visits to many progressive cities in the United States has proven to him that the most modern and most fair way of aiding cities in post-boom slumps is not to raise taxes to present taxpayers, but broaden the base of the tax-paying citizenry, through annexation.

Deadlock May Thwart Effort To Fatten Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional efforts to fatten the Social Security checks of millions of voters before election day may be thwarted by a Senate deadlock on welfare reform.

The dilemma took shape as the Senate Finance Committee wrapped up its work on a massive bill containing the hotly disputed welfare provisions as well as the Social Security increases most senators favor.

Many members of Congress are anxious for the Social Security boosts to be included in the checks recipients would get

Nov. 3, four days before the presidential and congressional balloting.

CAN'T HAPPEN

But Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball says that can't happen unless the bill is signed into law by Aug. 10 because of the time it takes to change his computers.

With floor debate delayed until after a mid-July congressional recess for the Democratic National Convention, that gives the Senate less than a month to resolve a three-way split over the bill's welfare provisions.

But little argument seems likely on the Social Security measure, which would raise monthly payments 10 per cent across the board, expand Medicare to cover maintenance drugs, and provide a $750 million supplement for widows.

Well over half the Senate is on record in favor of doubling the across-the-board increase to 20 per cent.

SAME PACKAGE

If both programs are kept in the same package, it seems unlikely that the legislation could reach President Nixon by Aug. 10 because of lengthy debate and the time it would take to reconcile the measure with the version passed earlier by the House.

For this reason, Finance Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said Tuesday there might be a move to split off the Social Security provisions, a difficult parliamentary maneuver.

Money-Spending Session Under Way

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Preston Smith told the legislature today it can finance all state programs—including welfare—for a full year without imposing new taxes on Texans.

Smith's recommendation to a joint session of the House and Senate came as a surprise, since he was expected to propose funding welfare for less than a year as a means of avoiding an immediate tax bill.

The legislature's outgoing leaders already have endorsed financing welfare for only eight months, delaying a tax bill until next year.

Smith called the special legislative session to appropriate funds for state government operations for the year starting Sept. 1. The session convened an hour before Smith spoke.

The governor noted that speculation had centered on the possibility of a seven- or eight-month appropriation for welfare as the device for avoiding new taxes this summer.

"But the budget which I recommend today is a complete budget with a full 12-month appropriation for the Department of Public Welfare, as well as for all other state departments and agencies," he said.

He said this was possible because Texas would receive $125 million from the federal government during the 1973 fiscal year for social services provided to past, present and future welfare recipients.

Smith went to Washington, D.C., two weeks ago to confer with federal officials about the possibility of Texas receiving such funds.

He said the added federal money was coming to Texas "as a result of a lot of dedicated work by the governor's office, the Department of Public Welfare and a large number of our state agencies."

"As a result of all these efforts (See NO NEW, P. 2-A, Col. 7)

Quarter Plan Is Explained

An explanation of the four-quarter system was detailed by Supt. Sam Anderson to the Rotary Club at its weekly meeting Tuesday in the Settles.

This is optional for the 1972-73 school year but must be activated for the 1973-74 school year. Each school will operate at least three quarters (180 days instruction plus 10 days in-service training), but it can designate which three quarters it will operate. A fourth quarter (summer) is optional.

Foundation school program credit is based on average daily attendance for three-quarters. The fourth quarter, if operated, will be financed either by tuition or by the district; the state will not participate.

Teachers are required only to teach in the three quarters designated by the district. No student may be required to attend more than three quarters, Anderson said.

The Big Spring school system will go on a modified version of the quarter system this autumn.

Men, Women On Welfare Will Register For Work?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new federal law requiring 1.5 million men and women on welfare to register for work or job training is expected to have minimal impact on the nation's swollen welfare rolls.

High unemployment and a tight federal budget are expected to limit the impact of Workfare, the only portion of President Nixon's welfare reform bill to become law to date.

ABOUT 140,000

About 140,000 able-bodied welfare fathers will find themselves automatically signed up by local welfare agencies before the law takes effect July 1. Hundreds of thousands of welfare mothers will be added to the list as their recertification date comes up in the next six months.

But fewer than half are likely to be called in for appraisal interviews afterward. Those most likely to be placed in jobs without further training will be called whenever an opening occurs.

Exempt from work registration are mothers of preschoolers, adults caring for someone else at home, youngsters over 16 attending school fulltime, wives of registered men and anyone living more than one hour away from an approved project.

JOB TRAINING

The $250 million requested by the White House, plus another $205 million budgeted earlier for the Work Incentives (WIN) Program, more than doubles spending the last four years. The program would create 8,000 public service jobs and 24,500 new job training post positions.

"It will be a rather limited program," said an official of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare which originally asked for $565 million, later scaled to $460 million.

HEW undersecretary John G. Veneman said, however, "for the number of people we'll reach, I think $250 million is enough."

The WIN program has had a disappointing record, plagued from the start by "buckpassing" between HEW and the Labor Department with state administration compounding the problem, Veneman said.

Two Rate Spots On Dean's List

STANTON (SC) — Two Stanton residents, Randy Nichols and Steve Stallings, made the dean's list at Texas Tech University the past year.

Both are sophomores and are taking Business Administration. Randy's major is Marketing. His average was 3.25. Stallings is majoring in Accounting and had a grade average of 3.50.

Randy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elma Nichols; Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Stallings.

Fair Barn Is Meal Scene

"Just good fellowship and a good meal," is Chamber of Commerce Manager Ron Mercer's description of the Agri-Appreciation Barbecue scheduled here Thursday in the Howard County Fair Barn.

The informal gathering of farmers, ranchers and Big Springers has already drawn more than 230 interested persons and a total of about 250 is expected, Mercer said. Agrarians and local retailers will come and go as they please during two and a half hours of serving beginning at 11 a.m. Thursday. Serving the barbecue will be Ambassadors Club redcoats to the accompaniment of live music by Joe Dunn's western band.

Hosting the event will be Sam Schultz of the Chamber's Retail Committee, Gerald Miller and G. C. Broughton of the Agricultural Committee. Mercer will be present to meet Big Spring's Howard County neighbors.

No one can be admitted without a ticket, Mercer stated, because the food supply is limited and catering orders have been submitted.

Cotton Producers Facing Deadline For Planting

Cotton producers are required to plant through Thursday, June 15, and they have the option of planting after that date, said J. G. (Gabe) Hammack Jr., executive director of the Howard County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service office.

"If, after June 15, you cannot plant, you may get the acreage excused, but do not file your request until you decide you will not plant cotton," said Hammack.

The last day to request an excuse for not planting cotton is June 30. For cotton planted, then lost due to abnormal weather conditions, the request must be filed within 15 days of the loss. In either case, the producer must file the request, pay the inspection fee, and let the ASCS crews inspect the land before it is used for other crops.

There is no restriction on which crops may be planted on the land after excise and inspection. However, warned Hammack, the operator must have enough "set-aside" acreage on the farm for all program crops. The ASCS office will be closed July 4.

Oil Scouts Meet June 28 To Reminisce And Plan

AUSTIN — Oil Scouts from United States and Canada will convene in their 49th annual meeting June 28-July 1 in El Paso, to elect officers, hear prominent speakers, and attend to the business affairs of their association.

For many years, since the discovery of oil, scouts have served as the intelligence arm of the petroleum industry. Canadian legend tells of Sy Hughes who hid three days and nights in the mud under a rig floor, near Cherry Grove, Ontario, to obtain information a "tight hole". In the States, oil scouts relayed information from pithole to Cleveland where their employers bought and sold on a wildly fluctuating market in which the price of crude oil varied from $3.50 to $20 a barrel in one year.

As the petroleum industry grew, the scouts duties and abilities grew with it. He exchanged his horse for an automobile and his automobile for a 'copter. The scout also traded his rough field-earned education in the school of hard-knocks for college degrees in law, engineering, geology, and accounting, until today fully half of the oil scouts hold college degrees.

Today the oil scout is as much at home in the offices of Los Angeles and Calgary as he is in the brush, on the plains, or in a 'copter over offshore drilling rigs in the Gulf of Mexico or the North Sea. Today the Scout is delivering information to his employer in some area in digitized language, ready for immediate use by his company's computers.

A scout's job is to find oil and gather information about oil for his company. He does this by scouting drilling rigs and exploration crews, by searching court house records and government regulatory offices, by learning from personal contacts about deals, trades, and leasing activity, and by obtaining samples, logs, maps, and records. He has earned the appellation of "The eyes and ears of the oil industry."

Early in the scout's history, he came to see the value of association with other scouts, and weekly meetings, called "Scout Checks" evolved. Through these meetings, where information is exchanged, one scout is able to report to his company the work of 10 to 20 scouts at the cost of his own expenses in the field for a few days.

According to estimates of the International Oil Scouts Association, oil scouts collectively drive 20 million miles in one year gathering data on 30 thousand drilling wells, seven thousand of which are in wildcat or unexplored territory.

INFO RECORDED

The scouts Year Books record all exploratory wells drilled each year, and publish records

WRITES BOOK — Clarence Pope, long time oil scout for Sun Oil, has written a book, "An Oil Scout in the Permian Basin, 1924-60" in which he chronicles his days in the oil patch. History is interspersed with color and drama. It is published by Permian Press, Box 26725, El Paso, Tex. 79926.

of acreage under lease, blocks assembled, geophysical and core drill prospecting, and other information including production statistics for all oil and gas fields in the free world.

At least three major company presidents began their careers as oil scouts. Some companies begin their professional employees, such as engineers and geologists, by assigning them to scouting positions for a year.

LAUDS WORKERS

Dr. Charles Hay, president of the British American Oil Company of Canada, in a speech to oil scouts at their 42nd annual meeting in Banff said: "By the very nature of your work, you have acquired the sort of over-all industry outlook that we strive to develop in our executives, most of whom start out as specialists in one field or another. Most of you possess the very 'mix' of qualities that company managements are looking for in people to develop as future executives: intelligence, resourcefulness, loyalty, quickness, accuracy, and ability to assess people and get along with them. And especially... you know how to keep confidences!"

"You are specialists in separating fact from fiction and in quickly distilling the significant from a mass of information. In short, you possess the judgment ability that is the key factor in any decision-making process. It would seem that scouting is an excellent training ground for many of the aptitudes needed in management today."

President of the International Oil Scouts Association is John O'Donohue, scout for Humble Oil and Refining Company, New Orleans, La.

'No More Orr,' Chant Scares Of Delegates

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Long before the results were officially announced, it was obvious how the contest for permanent vice-chairman of the Texas Democratic convention would turn out.

"No more Orr," chanted scores of delegates.

And when the word came, supporters of Mrs. Eddie Bernice Johnson of Dallas drowned out the announcement that she had defeated State Democratic Chairman Roy Orr.

GLAD TO SEE YOU

The convention center arena, a miniature Houston Astrodome, echoed with an im-prompt song: "Good-bye Orr... Good-bye, Orr... Good-bye, Orr... We're glad to see you go..."

The first Negro woman ever elected permanent vice-chairman of the convention, Mrs. Johnson made her way slowly up an aisle jammed with delegates. Rep. Frances Farenthold, who lost her bid to become Texas' first woman governor in 40 years, was all smiles as she congratulated Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson, who has won a Democratic runoff for state representative, defeated Orr on a two-hour roll call vote of 2,125 to 1,795.

Her supporters, keeping close tabs on the count, started waves of applause as she neared the margin of victory.

"That did it! That did it!" shouted one black delegate as Webb County (Laredo) reported all its 23 votes for Mrs. Johnson.

The petite Mrs. Johnson stepped up to the platform a few moments later and virtually the entire audience stood up to applaud her.

"We have overcome!" said someone in the crowd. "Right on!" said another.

KEEP THE FAITH

"It gives me faith in this party," Mrs. Johnson said.

Orr took the loss in stride. "As chairman of the state Democratic Executive Committee, I was charged with organizing a fair convention," he said. "I think the vote here today and the spirit of the convention proves without a doubt that we've had a fair and open convention."

"It makes it a little bit better since she's from Dallas County and I still like to claim Dallas County (as home)," Orr said. Orr had troubles earlier in the day when he sounded the familiar theme for party harmony—and stumbled over the word. "I'm confident that if the unity and the harmony... harmony—harmony—that has prevailed throughout the previous days will continue today," he said.

WALLACE SLOGANS

Business got off to a slow start that preliminary matters such as the invocation, national anthem as well as the keynote speakers, were presented before the convention was officially called to order three hours and two minutes late.

During a lull, officials decided to take up a collection to help pay the cost of the convention, passing champagne buckets up and down the aisles. George Wallace backers seemed to be everywhere, sporting red, white and blue buttons, plastic hats emblazoned with Wallace slogans, and constantly waving placards. The Wallace forces proved the strongest in numbers in a straw vote, taking 33 per cent of the delegate strength on presidential preference, and they wanted everybody to know it.

Life Underwriters Prexy To Seat Officers Here

John W. Donohue Jr., CLU, president of the Texas Association of Life Underwriters, will install the new slate of officers for the Big Spring Association of Life Underwriters during its Ladies' Night-Installation banquet, to be held at Coker's Restaurant Thursday night.

Donohue, partner in the firm of Rogers & Belding in El Paso, Tex., represents the 6,500 members of the state life insurance agent trade association which is affiliated with the 105,000-member National Association of Life Underwriters.

John Hale, president of the Big Spring Association of Life Underwriters, said the state president is a dynamic and progressive young life insurance agent with a strong sense of dedication toward the advancement of the agency system of marketing life insurance and toward protection of the insurance-buying public.

Donohue is a qualifying member of the Million Dollar Round Table, a four-year qualifier for membership in the Texas Leaders Round Table, and has received the National Quality Award three times. Entering the life insurance business in 1962 with Aetna Life Insurance Company, he served as an agent, brokerage manager and agency supervisor.

In El Paso, Donohue is

currently a member of the United Fund Budget Committee, a director on the Goodwill Industries Board, the Texas Mental Health Association, the El Paso Chapter of Chartered Life Underwriters, and first vice president of the El Paso Downtown Touchdown Club. He was a member of the 1970 Texas Governor's Steering Committee on the White House Conference on Children and Youth, a past vice president of the El Paso Sun Carnival Association in charge of the basketball tournament; past president of the UTEP Alumni Association, and served in all offices in the El Paso Jaycees and El Paso Association of Life Underwriters.

McGovern Just 149 Short?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of George McGovern claim the South Dakota senator will have at least 1,360 delegate votes by the time of the Democratic party convention in Miami Beach next month.

That would be 149 short of the 1,509 needed to clinch the party nomination for president. McGovern now has 957.55 committed delegate votes and is after the 278 votes at stake in the New York State primary on June 20.

McGovern's total is greater than all of his major rivals put together. Sen. Hubert Humphrey has 349.6, Gov. George Wallace has 328, and Sen. Edmund Muskie has 178.05 for a total of 855.65. Another 127.5 are committed to other candidates and favorite sons.

Three are 521.3 uncommitted delegate votes to date, and McGovern will be trying to woo support from this group, as well as from about 350 delegates remaining to be selected in state conventions. The National Democratic Convention will open July 10.

President Nixon already has sufficient votes to clinch the Republican nomination, with 874 votes with only 674 required. The only other Republican with a delegate vote is Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., who won a single vote in the New Mexico primary.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband came home a little early and I didn't hear him. I was on the telephone talking to "B" at the time. ("B" is a guy I've had something going with for about a year. He's a friend of my husband's).

My husband could tell I was talking to some guy because I hung up real fast when I saw him, so he asked me who my "boy friend" was. I lied and told him it was "J" (another friend of his), but I told him that nothing ever happened between us. (It's true, nothing did.)

Since this incident, my husband has been very cool to "J." I feel just awful and want to clear "J's" name, but I'm afraid if I do my husband might suspect the right one. What should I do? IN MESS IN K.C.

DEAR IN: Tell your husband that the guy on the phone wasn't "J," and if he guesses it was "B," you'd better run like "H."

stating that my husband and I have been living together as man and wife. I couldn't possibly ask any of my friends to sign for me, Abby, I couldn't bear the gossip.

My husband is 74, and we could use the extra money. Is there any other way to solve my problem?

NAMELESS IN IDAHO
DEAR NAMELESS: Either inquire at your local Social Security office, or ask a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: Our oldest daughter, age 23, is still living at home. She has graduated from college and already has a job in her chosen profession.

She doesn't drink or smoke, and in all her years of schooling, we have never had any kind of discipline problem with her.

Now the problem: When her boy friend comes over, she entertains him in her bedroom. They are usually watching TV, which is hers, purchased with her own money. But she always closes the door, and sometimes she stays as late as 2 or 3 a.m.

My husband feels that this doesn't look nice, so he mentioned it to her and she said she wasn't doing anything she was ashamed of.

I told my husband that in view of her perfect record, at age 23, if this is all we could find to complain about we were lucky. I would like your honest opinion on this Abby.

PERPLEXED
DEAR PERPLEXED: I'm with you, Mother.

DEAR ABBY: About that woman married 28 years who felt insecure because she was still wearing the tiny diamond her husband gave her when they were engaged, even though he could afford a much larger one now.

Shame on her. I'm still wearing my original diamond from 33 years ago, and I wouldn't trade it for the one Richard Burton gave Elizabeth Taylor! Many of my friends have replaced their rings — some, by replacing their husbands. Sign me...

When North opened the bidding with one diamond and South responded with one spade, the two heart rebids is known in the trade as a "reverse" which shows about 19 points inasmuch as it forces partner to the three level to show a preference for the first suit.

South actually had a choice of calls since he could have bid either three diamonds or two no trump to show the club stopper. We approve of the spade rebid inasmuch as it designates a six card suit and allows partner to raise with a doubleton. North had almost enough to proceed directly to game, but he chose to give a single raise and leave the last word to South. The latter held enough in reserve to bid four spades.
West opened the deuce of hearts, dummy played the six and East put up the ace on which South dropped the eight. The three of hearts was returned and West ruffed. Interpreting East's lowest heart as a suit preference signal requesting a shift to the lowest ranking side suit, West cashed the ace of clubs. South won the continuation with the king, crossed over to the queen of spades and when both opponents followed, the king was overtaken with the ace to pull West's last trump with the jack. The ace and king of diamonds were cashed and when the queen dropped, declarer did not need to sluff his jack on a high heart.

In order to defeat the contract, East must shift to a club at trick two. We are not inclined to be overly critical of his performance inasmuch as West might have held the ace of spades and the king of clubs in which case an immediate heart ruff will allow West to exit effectively with a club—since he retains the ace of spades as an entry to cash a club trick after East's queen dislodges the ace.
Be that as it may—we are inclined to favor the club shift by East since the odds favor South's having the ace of spades when he rebids the suit—in which case the contract cannot be defeated unless the defense can take two clubs as well as the ace of hearts and the heart ruff.
The proper card to return is the ten of clubs. If South ducks, East can switch back to a heart. If declarer covers with the king of clubs, West plays the ace and then puts East in with the queen to get the heart ruff.

B&PW Club Projects Evaluated

Mrs. J. B. Apple reviewed programs and projects conducted by the Business and Professional Women's Club in 1971-1972 at a meeting Tuesday in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room. Members were asked to evaluate the activities for use as a guideline for the new program director.

The state convention will be held June 22 in Houston. Attending from here will be Mrs. Charles Summers, Mrs. Laura Boubek and Mrs. Bert Affleck. The scrapbook for the local club, compiled by Mrs. Summers, will be entered in state competition.

Mrs. Apple announced she will be in Washington, D.C. June 23-29, attending the national convention of Credit Women International. She is on the international slate of officers as treasurer.

A salad buffet was served from a table covered with a lavender check cloth and centered with large paper Mexican flowers. Mrs. Rozelle Dohoney was a guest. The next meeting is at 7 p.m. June 27 at Coker's Restaurant, when new club officers will assume duties.

Past Matrons Elect Leaders

Mrs. Wayne Parrish was elected president of Past Matrons Club, Big Spring Chapter 67, Order of Eastern Star, Tuesday in the Downtown Tea Room.

Others elected were Mrs. Alden Ryan, a new member, vice president; Mrs. Dalton Mitchell, secretary; Mrs. George Pittman treasurer; and Mrs. Oney Mason, reporter.

Mrs. Orbin Daily presided, and invocation was by Mrs. Fred Eaker. Guests were Mrs. Al Caparas of Odessa, Mrs. E. Stagg, Malvern, Ark.; and Mrs. Mary Elman.

White cloths covered the dining tables. The head table was centered with an arrangement of burlap flowers in shades of yellow, brown and green, and artificial tulips accented the other tables.

Nurses Give Gift To Miss Wells

Miss Faye Wells, outgoing secretary-treasurer of Texas Nurses Association, District 24, was presented a gift in appreciation of her services at a dinner meeting Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Fred Hyer, 1729 Yale. Mrs. James Lancaster is assuming the office, and Mrs. John Payne Jr. will serve another year as president. The club will resume meetings in September.

Men's Garden Club Told How To Root Cuttings

How to start seeds and root cuttings was explained by L. R. Saunders and Bill Sneed for members of Men's Garden Club Monday evening at Sneed's home, 3914 Parkway. Members joined in a general discussion.

The men agreed that perlite and vermiculite were the best substances for rooting processes. They may be used individually or combined, and are also good for potting soil by mixing one-third sand, one-third soil and one-third perlite or vermiculite.

Saunders presided during a business session. Sneed announced that the All American Rose Selections for 1973 are Gypsy, Medallion and Electron.

The new types of roses will be introduced in next spring's rose catalogs.

Recommendations to be made to Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs were discussed, and members toured the yard of the Sneed home. Robert von Rosenberg was a guest.

Tentative plans were made to tour the grounds and greenhouse at Howard County Junior College July 11.

Paula Meek Chosen Girls State Delegate

PAULA MEEK

Over 500 young Texans assembled Tuesday in Seguin for Bluebonnet Girls State where they began a 10-day period of study and active participation in the processes of city, county, and state government, and politics.

Sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Girls State accepts girls who have completed their junior year of high school and are recommended on the basis of leadership, character, scholarship, and physical fitness. These "citizens" will represent 350 high schools throughout the state.

Paula Meek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meek, 2801 Crestline, is attending the event as delegate to represent Howard County Unit 355 of the American Legion Auxiliary. Dana Mancill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mancill, 606 Colgate, is alternate delegate. The delegates are screened by school officials, and the auxiliary pays for transportation and registration fees, which include food and housing.

Former citizens of Girls State and members of the Texas American Legion Auxiliary comprise the 62 members of the staff and counselors who volunteer their services to direct and lead this program.

Miss Frances Goff, director of special projects at the University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute at Houston, has served as volunteer director since 1952.

Mrs. T. J. Manning, assistant principal at Clear Creek High School, is associate director of administration; and Miss Gretchen Killinger, teacher, Clear Lake High School, is education coordinator. The chairman of the auxiliary Girls State committee is Mrs. J. B. Martin of Trinity.

Operating under a "learn by doing" philosophy, "citizens" of the imaginary state participate in mythical political parties, legislative processes and elective and appointive politics. City "officials" will meet with Seguin city officials and elective state officials are "inaugurated" at the state capitol in Austin.

Scheduled as speakers this year are: Honorable Preston Smith, Governor of Texas; Honorable John Tower, member, United States Senate; Honorable Henry Grover, member Senate of Texas and Republican nominee for Governor of Texas; Mrs. Jan (Barefoot) Sanders representing Barefoot Sanders, Democratic nominee for United States Senate; Bill Hobby, Democratic nominee for Lt. Governor of Texas; John Traeger, member, Texas House of Representatives and Democratic nominee for State Senate, District 26; Mrs. Henry H. Hill, state president, American Legion Auxiliary; Gil Moody, commander, American Legion of Texas; Dr. Joe K. Menn, president, Texas Lutheran College; Alfred H. Koebig, mayor of Seguin; and Miss Glenda Brown, Houston, governor of Bluebonnet Girls State, 1971.

Climaxing the session, which ends June 23rd, is the selection of two outstanding citizens of 1972 who will be sent to Girls Nation in Washington, D.C. There the two young representatives will continue their studies of American citizenship and democratic processes of government.

Miss Meek and Miss Mancill attended a banquet for area delegates Friday evening in Slaton. They were accompanied by Mrs. Ollie Branson, local auxiliary president, and Mrs. E. N. Rea.

Shower Honors Miss McMillan

Miss Jo McMillan, who will be married to Lynn Adams June 24 in First United Methodist Church, was honored Monday evening with a kitchen shower in the home of Miss Ruth Anne Moss, 1309 Wright.

Cohostesses with Miss Moss were Mrs. Edward Akin, Miss Barbara Eason, Miss Dana Baker, Miss Teresa Johnson and Miss Susan Plowman.

Corsages of small kitchen items were presented to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Harry L. McMillan; and her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Preston Adams.

To Mainland China Luxury Liner Cruises

NEW YORK (AP) — One man planned wrestling matches for his trip around the world, another brought his violin and a fashion designer welcomed the 91-day luxury liner cruise as an opportunity to see her longtime inspiration — mainland China.

Lilly Dache, French designer, boarded the S. S. France recently in a wheel chair because of a back injury, but it didn't dampen her enthusiasm for the trip which has a tentative two-day sidetrip to Communist China.

"I think it's terrific," she said. "All my life I have been inspired by all Chinese things. I have always had a great deal of Chinese things around me — jade, Chinese embroidery. They have the most beautiful designs and colors in the world."

Alexis Nihon, a multi-millionaire who is a member of the Bahamas wrestling team, brought aboard his weights, a reclining board and mat so he and his two sons, Robert, 21, and Alexis Jr., 25, could keep in shape for several matches scheduled at some of the 27 ports where the ship will stop.

Nihon, who paid $99,430 for the top-priced Ile de France suite for his family, said he was scouting the competition in preparation for the Olympics.

Across the deck, a couple, who took the Normandie suite at a cost of $67,100 allowed reporters in for a tour but insisted on being anonymous.

"You may say we are a New England couple," said the white-haired woman. She said they had brought along their own supply of Boston baked beans and homegrown granberries.

Many cabins, including two at about $20,000, were taken by passengers simply as rooms to store their clothes. Other accommodations ranged down in cost to $5,065.

The voyage will create $10.5 million in revenues for the French line.

The first passenger to board the ship in New York was Marjorie Cowan of Rochester, N.Y., widow of a surgeon. She said she grew impatient waiting for the 4 p.m. embarkation time and wandered in early only to be surprised by waiting television cameras and a ceremony in which she was given an Hermes bag. The France sailed at midnight, five hours late.

Not far behind was Bertram Stern of Kansas City, Mo., who boarded carrying an encased violin. He said he thought mid-ocean was as good a place as any to practice music.

Reservations should be made today for the Teen Swim Party slated from 8 to 10 p.m. Friday at Big Spring Country Club. Mrs. Harold Davis, chairman, said a poolside hamburger buffet will be served at a charge of $1 per person. Each club member may bring one guest. Those planning to attend should call Mrs. Davis at 267-5745, or the club, 267-7701.

A LOVELIER YOU Food Is Tranquilizer For Overweight Guilt

By MARY SUE MILLER
A lovely mother writes: My teen daughter is 20 pounds overweight. She looks dumpy and knows it. She's old enough to date but is seldom asked. She is so uptight about the thing, she discourages boys in her class. Nothing I say discourages her from overeating. Can you help us?

The answer: Truly obese, teen or umpteenth — feels frustrated, guilty and unhappy. To compensate, she is apt to eat more and still more. Actually she uses food as a tranquilizer. Thus her dietary habits become a round robin of food... frustration... food.

A doctor's help is required in such instances. Medicine in recent years has developed a number of aids in the treatment of overweight. Furthermore most reducers develop respect for a doctor and try to live up to his guidance. That's a big plus.

Not infrequently, the urge to gourmandize covers a psychological problem. A doctor soon discovers the trouble and refers the patient to a trained psychologist.

Parents may have qualms about fees. The cost could never be higher than a daughter feeling inept — a social dropout. When the love and wisdom of parents cannot reach a child, professional advice is the next step. Parental cooperations in any plan suggested, however, is the crux of success. Teens need informed parents today — desperately!

Young, Old Gather 85,000 Strong For Rally In Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Some 85,000 Explo '72 delegates jammed the Cotton Bowl for the first mass rally of the week-long evangelistic training conference Tuesday night.

It was predominantly a youthful gathering, but the audience spanned all ages and nationalities.

In a welcoming address, evangelist Billy Graham, honorary chairman of the event, detailed the multiple purpose of Explo.

Labeling the conference a "Christian happening," Dr. Graham said, "I really did not have the faith to believe that they could do the WHOLE thing. But they did it."

"This is a way to say to the world that God loves you," he told a cheering crowd whose shouts and chants rarely subsided throughout the program.

Dallas police nevertheless commended the orderliness of the gathering. They said the young people were the best behaved they had seen for one of this size.

Dr. Graham and Dr. Bill Bright, president and founder of Campus Crusade for Christ International, sponsor of Explo '72, at a joint news conference earlier.

"Many of the great movements of world history have begun with youth," Dr. Graham noted. "This certainly includes the great Christian movements. I am inspired to see these vast numbers of students participating in Explo '72."

"As far as students' political involvement is concerned, they're trying to get Him elected in the hearts and lives of people."

Concerning "Operation Penetration," an Explo followup effort, Dr. Bright specified, "We are instituting one-on-five method of evangelism designed to train 500,000 evangelists by this fall. We are giving 100,000 Explo delegates a method for this. We are deeply committed to massive discipleship."

Dr. Graham answered several questions about involvement of minority groups in Explo and in evangelistic movements in general.

He noted a rise in black-led evangelical events and stated that large delegations of blacks had come to Explo from his home state of South Carolina.

Asked about the phenomenon of witchcraft, Dr. Graham said, "This is a backlash of the devil which always comes with a great spiritual awakening. We are seeing both of these in our time."

Federal Perjury Trial Zips Along

HOUSTON (AP) — Final arguments were set for today in the federal perjury trial of Michael A.S. Makris, a former associate of convicted Houston financier Frank W. Sharp.

Both sides rested their cases Tuesday, the defense without calling a witness.

Makris is accused of lying to investigators from the Securities and Exchange Commission who were looking into the tangled financial affairs of Sharp in December of 1970. According to a statement he gave SEC investigators then Makris said he had no dealings with Sharp or with a Roman Catholic order which operates a preparatory school here.

Sharp testified Tuesday that Makris had talked to him about a scheme to buy $30 million in securities in Swiss banks for $3 million. The alleged securities were deposited in Swiss banks by Jewish victims of Nazi Germany, Sharp said Makris had told him.

Also testifying that Makris told them about the securities were the Rev. Michael F. Kennelly, then head of Strake Jesuit school here and now president of Loyola University in New Orleans, and the Rev. Michael Alchediak, present head of the Houston school.

Defense lawyers contended that Makris was not responsible for any statements made to the SEC in December of 1970 because of a brain tumor operation he underwent eight months before.

Kennelly was asked by the defense if Makris seemed mentally vague about the alleged securities during their meetings after the operation when they talked about the securities.

TOWER IN CONTROL Republicans Stave Off Power Play By Grover

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — down through parliamentary maneuver. Grover's resolution was defeated in the convention resolution committee by 18 votes to six. A minority resolution committee report, which included the Grover resolution, was prepared and brought to the convention floor.

The resolution, brought to the floor in a minority report from the resolutions committee, was dumped by a tabling motion passed by a controversial voice vote.

"TRADITION"

Grover triggered the minority report in a dramatic speech earlier in which he said the state party leaders were not aiding him in his election campaign. He asked that the state chairman, Dr. George Willeford of Austin, and vice-chairman, Mrs. Malcolm Milburn of San Antonio, be replaced.

Citing "tradition" and procedures in the Democratic state party, Grover said as the GOP gubernatorial candidate, he should be empowered to have a voice in selecting party leadership.

"You delegates represent the voters who gave me an overwhelming mandate," he said. "I ask you to go on record with a resolution calling for a state executive committee meeting to select new party leadership."

"I'm asking you to pass a resolution instructing a state executive committee to elect a chairman and vice-chairman who will unify the party for a great victory in November," he said.

"GO GROVER GO"

The speech followed a massive and colorful demonstration which jammed the aisles of the convention center with delegates who shook the building with war whoops and massive chants of "Go Grover Go."

During the 15-minute demonstration, Grover, wearing a bright white suit, reached from the convention stage to shake hands with hundreds of supporters. He laughed, shouted and paced with excitement as the demonstrators wound up and down the aisles, carrying red, white and blue signs and unleashing gas-filled balloons that littered the auditorium ceiling.

Grover's speech stunned the delegates who had sat through hours of speeches Tuesday calling for party unity and for efforts to heal wounds caused by the primary runoff campaign which Grover won last month.

His comments followed by only minutes a speech by Sen. John Tower, who called for party unity.

DON'T FIGHT

"This is no time for fighting among ourselves," Tower said. "Our differences must be left behind us and we have to pull together."

But Grover ignored the senator's advice and shattered the previously calm and deliberate convention with his speech.

Party leaders immediately huddled and Willeford later told newsmen that Grover's action was "a challenge to Tower's party leadership."

"Tower is the titular head of the party," he said. "I was hand picked. When these people do anything to me, they take on Tower. And they better bring lunch."

Willeford said he had no fear for his position: "I've done my homework. I'll get the votes."

Other party leaders wondered if Grover had done his homework.

Peter O'Donnell, former national committeeman from Texas and still a powerful force in the party, said the current convention was limited only to national issues and what it can consider. A September convention in Dallas, he said, will elect state party officers. And even if Grover's resolution passed, said O'Donnell, the convention could not order the executive committee to meet. This can be done only by the chairman or by members of the committee, said O'Donnell.

Tower, who left the convention before Grover's stunning performance, remained in his hotel room, but an aide said the senator definitely considered Grover's action an attempt to take over the party machinery.

"MORALLY BANKRUPT"

But the entrenched party leaders held firm and the Grover-opposed resolution went down through parliamentary maneuver. Grover's resolution was defeated in the convention resolution committee by 18 votes to six. A minority resolution committee report, which included the Grover resolution, was prepared and brought to the convention floor.

Dr. W. M. Rector, a delegate from Wichita Falls, immediately moved that it be tabled. The motion was seconded and chairman Rudy Juedeman called for a vote.

Both the "ayes" and "no's" rattled the walls, but Juedeman, a figure of calm, ruled the tabling motion passed. This defeated Grover's resolution. Juedeman stoically ignored thundering shouts of "roll call, roll call."

Rector, before making his motion, labeled the resolution "morally bankrupt" and "utterly divisive."

"We are debating an issue concerned with power," said Rector. "I stand appalled."

PLAYING GAMES

After the issue was defeated, Grover supporters, screaming and stomping their anger, attempted to revive it, but were ruled out of order.

Ted Lyon of Houston, a strong Grover supporter, was permitted to speak "as a courtesy" after he told protesting delegates, "Let's stop playing games and have an honest discussion of the issue."

Lyon said that Willeford and Mrs. Milburn "have been forthright in their opposition to Grover" and that the candidate was entitled to have party leaders who would help him in his campaign.

Lyon said that party leadership is concentrating on the re-election of Tower and President Nixon and ignoring the efforts of Grover.

Moments later, on a motion from the floor, the convention adjourned.

Party officials said the bitterness and disharmony which surfaced during the convention could seriously affect the campaign efforts of the Republican party in Texas. Several pointed out that Republicans are small in number in the state and must be united to win.

RIGHT TO WORK

Before dissolving into dissent over the Grover issue, the convention passed 21 resolutions.

Included were statements which denounced forced school busing; supported a strong national defense program; supported efforts to secure human treatment of American prisoners of war in North Vietnam; opposed immediate amnesty for those who fled the country to avoid the draft; supported tax and other incentives to encourage oil exploration; reaffirmed support of the "right to work" portion of the Taft-Hartley Act; reaffirmed concern for the environment, and called for re-vamping the federal welfare and social security systems.

The resolutions also commended and supported a number of Republican candidates including President Nixon.

One surprise resolution commended John B. Connally, a former Democratic Texas governor and recently retired Secretary of the Treasury, "for his distinguished service to our nation." It passed despite loud voice opposition.

Most of Grover's supporters in his power move came from the Houston delegation which had more than 300 delegates.

Many in the delegation expressed bitterness at the defeat and one delegate noted, "No body carries Texas without carrying Harris County."

Heavy Rains Chipping Away At Drought

By The Associated Press

Showers and sometime heavy rains keep chipping away at drought conditions plaguing much of Texas, and in a spot or two it's downright wet.

One of the best soaked areas is in the Texas Panhandle around the Samnorwood community in Collingsworth County.

A five-inch downpour drenched that point Tuesday, bringing its moisture total since May 1 to 14.75 inches.

A scattering of showers and occasionally severe thunderstorms drifted through nearly every section of the state Tuesday and hung on today in places, clearing out first in the Texas Panhandle and in far West Texas west of the Pecos River.

The damp weather persisted this morning over much of the region east of a line linking Childress and Laredo, and forecasts called for it to continue at least another day.

Lovers Of Rock Music Resorting To Violence

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two policemen were injured and at least 30 persons were arrested as angry rock music lovers resorted to violence Tuesday night after being turned away from a Rolling Stones concert because of counterfeit tickets.

Doors at the San Diego Sports Arena were broken as rocks, bottles and firebombs were hurled, officers said. The two policemen were injured by flying glass. An ambulance reportedly had its windows smashed.

Police Sgt. G. E. Bobb said several hundred bogus tickets to the rock music concert were printed and sold at prices as high as $50.

However, police said they did not know whether the persons outside the arena had purchased the counterfeit tickets and been turned away or whether they had valid tickets but had been turned away because persons with bogus tickets had their seats.

Two Big Springers Are Given Awards

Two Big Spring high school students have accepted Opportunity Award Scholarships for study at Texas A&M University beginning in August.

They were selected by TAMU's Faculty Scholarships Committee on the basis of scholastic achievement and leadership potential.

Student Aid Director Robert M. Logan said 1,700 applications were received for 215 Opportunity Awards given this year.

The 1972 recipients are Billy M. Priebe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Priebe, 2314 Roberts, who plans to study mechanical engineering, and Gary M. Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Williamson, 2505 W. Hwy. 80, who plans to study biochemistry.

Saved—Once More

Our area seems to go from one cliff hanger to another when it comes to agricultural prospects, but somehow, it generally turns out well.

Our annual reprieve has come through during the weekend and the fore part of this week when most of the gaps in our spotted planting picture were put in position to be closed. Nearly all the cotton acreage will be planted now, although there are a few spots in the center of the northern half of the county which have a marginal amount of moisture.

Fortunately, there are areas of the county — pretty well scattered — which had cotton up to reasonably good stands. Many of these were on the ropes because surface moisture had been exhausted and the tap root was reaching down to the dry band overlying much deeper sub-soil reverses. For the most part, the rains "made the moisture meet," and that bodes well for the changes of getting the crops well established.

Possibly half of the county's acreage or more will be planted this week or as soon as the ground is dry enough. This is getting on the outer edge of the best planting period and each day toward the end of the month makes it that much less desirable, but we don't operate an optimum time tables in the country — we operate on rain.

Once the cotton is in the ground, many farmers will also follow with planting of grain sorghums, forage and miscellaneous crops. Within a fortnight, the barren red chocolate color of the Caprock Plains above Big Spring should begin to take on a greenish hue. Already, as if touched by a magic wand, pastures and hills are turning green. Cattle are looking good and there appears to be an ample supply of stock water.

All of which is cause for giving thanks. We've been pulled back from the brink so many times by a beneficent hand so often that there surely ought to be precious few agnostics in West Texas.

Peacepipe Is Better

Harold Potts, a Chippewa Indian in Chicago who is charged with setting a fire during a protest demonstration, claims the state of Illinois has no right to prosecute him. His deed was really an "act of war" covered by the Geneva conventions, he contends, challenging the validity of an 1830 peace treaty between the Chippewas and the U.S. government.

In his eagerness to save his own scalp, Mr.

Potts may be doing his fellow Indians a disservice. If all our old Indian treaties were torn up, there might be grounds for evicting Indians from their reservations and denying them the services provided by the U. S. Indian Bureau. While Indians find much to criticize in government policies, we doubt if they are ready to embrace the Potts adventure. The peace pipe is better.

Public Hangings

Robert E. Ford

Any person who likes western fiction, whether it is printed or on tape or film, knows that a public hanging was pretty much of a social event — except for the man who got hung.

This is not altogether fiction. Such legal affairs drew just about everyone who could get there.

MANY PERSONS today may not understand the attraction of such a legal process and in fact would do everything in their power to avoid attending either as a spectator or the hangee.

This desire to see an execution has nothing to do with the West particularly: It is a universal thing and has been going on a long time.

It appears that there will be no more court-ordered executions in the United States unless the Supreme Court justices change their viewpoint on the subject.

The last public hanging in Texas took place in Waco on July 30, 1923.

It was about that time that the state took over all executions with the installation of the electric chair at the main prison unit at Huntsville. Only a few witnesses, required by law, viewed the Huntsville executions.

UNTIL THAT TIME, each county carried out the orders of its court. The advanced-thinking citizens of Baylor County apparently did not like the idea of executions in public, so when the jail at Seymour was built it was equipped with a gallows in a cell-like room. The state took over before anyone ever met his end there.

The last man executed in public was Roy Mitchell, specifically condemned for the slaying of Mrs. Ethel Denecamp. He confessed to a reign of terror during which he killed eight persons. A confederate was lynched a year earlier.

The execution was outside the jail and was witnessed by an estimated 5,000 persons who filled every window of the courthouse, perched on nearby buildings and filled the street.

A CANVAS screen had been erected to hide the proceedings from public view, but at the last minute someone cut the rope that held it up.

About 500 women were in the crowd, old newspaper clippings say.

The female may be the more deadly of the sexes, but the code of the West, which treated women as if they were goddesses, protected them from death sentences. Only four are known to have been assessed the ultimate penalty in Texas, for instance, and only one of them was executed.

THE ONE execution of a female was almost 110 years ago and her death has caused a legend to grow.

The woman was Chepita Rodriguez who was hanged from a mesquite tree on Friday, the 13th of November, 1863, near San Patricio.

Her crime: the ax slaying of a Ranger, John Savage.

The legend is that the ghost of Chepita walks among the mesquite alongside the Nueces River in South Texas any time a woman is sentenced to death in Texas.

It was nearly 90 years after Chepita's hanging before another woman was sentenced to death in Texas.

This was Mrs. Emma Oliver accused of slaying a San Antonio man. She was treated all right — her favorite rocking chair being brought to her cell. Her sentence was commuted to life in prison and it was in prison that she died of cancer.

Chepita still holds her spot in history.

Records of her trial are scanty but she did plead innocent.

Legend has it that Chepita, an old woman, puffed on corn shuck cigarettes as Sheriff John Gilpin took her by oxcart to the river bank for the hanging.

The oxcart also carried her coffin. Chepita was buried beneath the tree from which she was hanged.

Mobilize 'Truth Squads'

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — In much of the business community today there is a defensive feeling, a fear of the future, a distrust of the political climate, a suspicion that events might conspire against it.

It is difficult to say how pervasive this attitude is but it appears and reappears in the speeches and testimony and other public statements of many chief executives of the largest and most powerful corporations.

Whether the attitude is justified by the facts can, perhaps, be answered only through a thorough study.

To illustrate from a little noted but very revealing speech this week:

Stewart S. Cort, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., second largest in an industry where profits have lagged, is greatly concerned—somewhat bitter also, it would seem by his remarks—about political attacks on business.

Truthfulness, he told the Jacksonville, Fla., Rotary, is taking "an awful beating" from some political candidates. They are, he said, throwing around careless rhetoric intended to discredit the business community.

Cort was especially incensed about accusations that business fails to pay its fair share of taxes, claiming that in the 10 years through 1971 Bethlehem paid more than $1.7 billion, or more than its total net income.

"So please think twice before swallowing all this baloney about large corporations not carrying their fair share of the tax burdens," he said. The explanation, he said, is that "the temptation is irresistible" to attack business.

Cort expanded his remarks to talk about a general climate of "cynicism and mistrust" fostered by "an army of malcontented" who, he implied, were largely responsible for—as revealed in an unnamed survey—46 per cent of Americans thinking that big business is dangerous to our way of life.

The effect if not the purpose of antibusiness propaganda and calls for extreme tax reform, he suggested, is to destroy individual incentive, confiscate savings and endanger individual freedom.

Cort insisted he wasn't against change. Continual and gradual changes in society are needed, he said, "and needed badly." There is, he said, "a lot of inequity in our land: there's a lot of poverty; there's a lot of suffering that must be remedied."

But, he added, "we must find a way to do it that doesn't stop our economy in its tracks—a way that doesn't wipe out the individual liberties that have made us a proud country, with every right to be proud."

He called for groups such as the Rotary to organize programs "to encourage responsible, honest, and truthful campaigning. Mobilize 'truth squads' perhaps."

Changing Words

Around The Rim

Barbara Lord

MANY OF THE "older" generation think wistfully of the times when "trip" meant to travel on a journey; "grass" was used to refer to a green lawn layer; and "speed" was the measured rate of travel.

Today's young people, however, aren't the first to play havoc with our language. Many word meanings now common bear little resemblance to their original definitions.

In 11th century Persia "assassin" was a drinker of hashish. Members of a secret order who used the drug spread terror over Persia, Syria and Asia Minor for two centuries. "Assassin" is actually a derivative of "hashshashin," from the Arabic language.

"Bonfire" has a grim history. During the middle ages it was called a "bonfire" and was necessary for burning of human bodies during war emergencies. Today its meaning extends to any open-air fire for public celebration or sport.

"CANDIDATE" ORIGINALLY meant one clothed in white, and comes from the Latin "candidus" meaning glistening or white. Our word "candid" also stems from the Latin, and was first used in English with its literal meaning "white." Now it is used figuratively to describe an unbiased mental quality. "Belfry" had no relation to bells when the word originated. It began as "berfrel" and was used to designate a movable tower used by besiegers. It acquired the meaning of bell tower when watchtowers with bell alarms were used to counter the threat of a siege tower.

In Ancient Rome the word "ambition" described anyone going about for votes. Our word "ambition" is derived from the Roman version, and since "going about for votes" indicates a desire for honor or power, the meaning of ambition now extends to include a desire for achievement.

"NEIGHBOR" DERIVES from the old English words "neah" (near) a "gebur" (dweller or farmer), so its original meaning was "a nearby farmer." Changing times and the mobility of people now has the word referring to all persons who live near each other and even to "neighboring" nations in the modern world.

Other changes in word meanings over the centuries include "curfew," cover the fire for the night; "abet," to sic a dog on an animal; "congregation," a flock; "economics," the art of housekeeping; "taxicab," a carriage that bounced like a goat, and "broker," a retailer of wine.

Laird Also For Aid

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The Secretary of Defense, Melvin R. Laird, recently appeared before an appropriation subcommittee of the U.S. Senate to urge support for President Nixon's request that $780 million be appropriated for the military assistance program and $527 million for foreign military sales.

MR. LAIRD says the basic purpose of the appropriations is to provide "friends and allies in various parts of the world" with the assistance they require as they "strive for a greater measure of self-sufficiency and less dependence upon this country for their defense needs." He points out that this is in accord with the President's program for peace, which cannot be established just by words. Secretary Laird stresses the need for careful preparation, and adds:

"Given sufficient time, our allies can reduce uncertainties as to their capabilities and simultaneously influence the perception of potential aggressors as to their resolve to use those capabilities should deterrence fail."

MR. LAIRD CONTENDS that a shortsighted course of action by Congress would rob the programs of any true meaning or effectiveness. He argues that the President, if the funding requests are met, can continue "to emphasize the features of total force planning which will allow reduced U.S. presence abroad and at the same time assure the protection of our vital national interests while enhancing free world security."

The Secretary of Defense declares it is essential that the United States proceed with full implementation of our "national security strategy of realistic deterrence," which calls for a "more effective and equitable burden sharing among our friends and allies." He adds:

"BUT THIS approach cannot succeed without a strong, vigorous and congressionally-supported emphasis on our new approach to security assistance."

"Recently, the Senate foreign relations committee made several reductions in our fiscal year 1973 request for the military assistance program and foreign military sales."

This action occurred despite our protestations that last year's cuts were damaging to our attempts to improve free world defenses. For example, we had to initiate a 40 per cent reduction in planned funding of Republic of Korea as a result of the cuts in the fiscal year 1972 request."

"THE REDUCTION of grant military assistance from a requested level of $780 million to $600 million, together with the reduction of the proposed funding for foreign military sales from $527 million to $400 million, will have a widespread and long lasting impact upon the ability of our allies and friends to provide for their own defense. In particular, the reduction in funding for credit sales can severely disturb existing arms balance in such areas as the Middle East, impede progress of our allies and friends toward the self-sufficiency we have been fostering through a transition from grant aid to credit sales, and result in a sharp decrease in the sale of needed equipment to Latin American countries . . ."

"THE SECOND CATEGORY of action taken in respect to the proposed legislation is the insertion of language into the bill which restricts the nature or level of funding to specific recipients. For example, the bill now contains a ceiling of $275 million for total expenditures to Cambodia. Such a restriction seems counter-productive when one considers that Cambodia cannot divert any more of her own resources for defense purposes."

The first recording will be "Exhibition." Also planned are "Mountain" and the Introduction and Dance of the Persian Slaves from "Khovanshchina."

My Answer

Billy Graham

Last month while watching TV I saw and heard you say that Jesus Christ was a revolutionary. Would you please explain how our Lord and Savior, the Redeemer, was what you say?

Jesus is a revolutionary. Whenever He comes into a human life, He effects a total, radical change in that person. Thieves become honest men, alcoholics become men of self-control, vain and self-centered women become lowly and gracious, when Jesus is given His rightful place in their lives. And Jesus is a revolutionary by virtue of the place Jesus demands — nothing less than the position of Lordship — in the lives of those who follow Him.

This is not to say that Jesus would be considered a revolutionist in the political sense, however. He actually counseled His followers to submit to authority, to love their enemies, to pay taxes to the Roman government. By His death, submitting to those in authority, He gave the supreme example of nonviolence.

But there is coming a day when "The kingdom of the world will become the kingdom of our Lord, and of His Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever." Revelation 11:15. Until Christ comes to overthrow this world's system, He goes on changing people and through changed people He is making "all things new."

A Devotion For Today . . .

"Let what you say be simply 'Yes' or 'No'; anything more than this comes from evil." (Matthew 5:37, RSV)

PRAYER: O Lord, I am tired of pious language. Help me to express my faith in living words. In the name of Jesus, who always speaks truth in a new way. Amen.

(From the "Upper Room")

Confident PM

Marquis Childs

LONDON — A year ago Prime Minister Edward Heath confronted the hurdle of bringing Britain into the European Common Market and ending the isolation of this island realm. With the terse, no-nonsense assurance that is his political style he has cleared that hurdle, and, except for the final confirmatory stages, Britain is a partner in the new Europe.

TODAY WITH THE SAME cool confidence he is attacking the dragons of inflation, unemployment and the ubiquitous demands of the powerful trade unions. He seems to have not the slightest doubt that he will win this one as he overcame the opposition to Common Market membership. While victory will come much harder, Heath is convinced that the score in the early skirmishes shows that his Conservative government is already winning.

UNDER THE IMPERTURBABLE gaze from Heath's steely blue eyes the members of his cabinet know that they must be ready with answers when their turn comes. The Prime Minister rarely wastes words. From the front bench in the House of Commons his delivery is as businesslike as the report of a chairman of the board.

A close ally of President Georges Pompidou of France, Heath agrees with Pompidou's recent strictures that there must be much more careful preparation before the forthcoming European summit can succeed. That summit anticipates the next step toward closer cohesion of the European community.

A MONETARY UNION is one goal. With characteristic restraint Heath sees this as a considerable way off, with intermediate steps providing adjustment of exchange rates and a gradual meshing of Europe's differing monies.

The Prime Minister's restraint applies to the Nixon mission to Moscow. He sees it not so much as a breakthrough but as a continuation of the trend toward a more relaxed world. Similarly with the European Security Conference to be held in the fall, he believes the preliminary procedural discussions will be quickly got through with and the conference can then turn to the substance of agreed decisions. Mutual balanced force reduction on both sides of the divide is the ultimate goal.

IT IS ON THE domestic issues that he is sharp and affirmative. Inflation when the Conservatives came to power was running at the rate of nearly 10 per cent. During the past 11 months it has dropped to 4½ per cent.

The principal battle is with the trade unions and the coming into force of the British version of a Taft-Hartley Act. Just now the conflict is with the railroad workers' union and the threat of a slowdown that will disrupt what Heath believes is a fairly rapid expansion.

Edema Of Lungs

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain "acute pulmonary edema." Does it have to do with the heart or the lungs? Can it happen again? I had an attack but don't understand what went on. — Mrs. C.B.T.

"Pulmonary" refers to the lungs. Therefore pulmonary edema means excess fluid accumulating in the tissues of the lungs. It is a severe congestion of the lungs.

It may be primarily an involvement of the lungs, or it may be a result of weakening of the heart, so there is no categorical answer to your question of whether "it has to do with heart or lungs."

From the heart standpoint, pulmonary edema can result from heart failure — that is, decreased pumping action of the heart because of damage to heart muscle or valves. Or it can come as the result of an acute heart attack which, of course, sharply reduces the heart's efficiency. The accompanying edema can be acute or chronic, depending on how it is brought on.

Whether acute or chronic, when the edema is the result of heart trouble, the essential explanation is that the heart is not pumping the blood in sufficient volume to carry away the excess fluid and dispose of it through the kidneys.

As I said, there are entirely different causes of pulmonary edema, too: extensive pneumonia (lung infection); inhalation of toxic fumes or smoke; severe chest injury; suppression of breathing from overdosage of morphine, barbiturates or other such drugs.

Oxygen is necessary during the acute attack, but one must not lose sight of the longer-range question. That is, what is the underlying cause and how can it be corrected? If the basic trouble is the heart, then heart treatment is the right course.

If the attack resulted from fumes, smoke or injury, but the heart is strong, the outlook for recovery is usually good, barring the possibility that the fumes or injuries have caused severe lung damage.

In that case, one must guard against recurrence of the edema. The likelihood of recurrence, in general, however, is greater if heart failure is the basic cause.

Dear Thosteson: A friend says white wine has no calories. He is trying to lose weight, and skips meals but drinks white wine instead of or with meals. Also he is very listless. — B.B.

Certainly white wine, or any kind of wine, has calories. When your friend drinks instead of eating, no wonder he is listless. He's also inviting liver damage.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Relative to Mrs. R. L.'s letter about sinus trouble and nasal passages closing up at night, I have found a method of relief which may help.

Lying down, with head back, I press lightly with fingertips on the bony bridge of the nose between the eyes, sometimes just above where the nose joins the forehead, sometimes lower on the nose.

A light pressure, held for 10 or 15 seconds, opens the passages and they remain open. I never need nosedrops any more. — B.V.D.

If it helps you, it may help others. And you're better off for getting away from continued use of nosedrops. I have to caution, however, that sinus trouble involves so many different possibilities that your method certainly won't do the job for everybody. Always worth a try, though.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's newly revised booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Bride Of Jew Will Appeal To President

LONDON (AP) — The American bride of a Soviet Jew being held by Russian police says she will appeal to President Nixon "to help me get him back."

"I'm in a terrible state now," Judith Silver Shapiro said as she arrived in London Monday from Moscow.

"I've been told that my husband has been arrested and I will appeal to President Nixon to help me get him back. I had to leave Russia before we could complete our marriage with a civil ceremony because my visa expired. I tried to get an extension, but they refused."

The 27-year-old social worker from Cincinnati, Ohio, and Gabriel Shapiro, a chemical engineer, were married last Thursday in a private religious ceremony in a Moscow apartment.

Shapiro, an activist in the Moscow Jewish community, hid from Soviet authorities for 27 months, his wife said.

Police arrested him as he was leaving Moscow airport after seeing her off.

"For some years Gabriel has tried to get out of Russia," Mrs. Shapiro said, "but the authorities have refused, saying he knows too many Soviet secrets."

"I shouldn't have left Moscow... I wish hadn't I want to be with my husband..."

The couple tried to have a civil marriage ceremony, the only kind recognized by the Soviet government, in hopes that it would help get him a permit to emigrate to Israel.

They completed all the necessary paperwork, but her visa expired before the one-month legal waiting period was fulfilled.
