EAGLETON'S BOUT WITH NERVES

Realizes He Made Mistake

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Democratic vice-presidential nominee Thomas F. Eagleton refused anew today to release medical records of his three hospital treatments for nervous exhaustion but said he would talk with his doctors about allowing them to discuss his past medical problems.

Eagleton also said he now realizes he made a mistake by not telling Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern about the three hospital stays before McGovern recommended him to the Democratic National Convention.

Eagleton revealed Tuesday that he had voluntarily submitted to hospital treatment in 1960, 1964 and 1966 for "nervous exhaustion and fatigue" brought on by overwork. Twice he received psychiatric care and electric shock treatment.

Eagleton elaborated on that announcement today, although Tuesday he said he would have no further comment on it during the campaign.

He said he does not now receive any medication except for "an occasional, very sporadic tranquilizer. I don't even know the name of it."

MINOR MATTER
He said he did not feel any need for a psychiatric examination now and would not submit to one unless McGovern, President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew do the same.

He said the fatigue and depression that led to the three hospital stays were in his opinion relatively minor matters.

"In my own mind, I do view it as a broken leg or a broken arm," he said. "I realize many in the public do not."

He said he had reconsidered his initial stance of making no further comment about the matter and will instead try to educate the public about the kind of problems he encountered in the past.

Eagleton reiterated that he feels perfectly qualified to run for vice president and to take over the White House.

Newsmen who questioned Eagleton today at a morning news conference asked him again, as they did Tuesday, whether he would allow hospital records of his treatment to be made public.

PERSONAL DATA
Eagleton again refused, saying that these records are private, privileged documents. "And it is my intention that they so remain," he said.

He said the records are intended as communications among doctors, that they contain highly technical information not readily understandable by laymen, and that they contain information from personal interviews.

However, Eagleton did leave open the possibility that he will allow his former doctors to discuss treatment they gave him.

He noted that professional ethics prevent physicians from discussing publicly matters relating to their patients, and said he would within the next few days speak to the doctors and "discuss with them what should be said."

The Missouri senator was scheduled to depart today for Honolulu, Hawaii, to address a union meeting. He said he would telephone the doctors after he returns Thursday. At the Los Angeles news conference, newsmen also pressed Eagleton on why he had not told McGovern about his mental problems when McGovern offered him the vice-presidential nomination.

HEADLINES
"Quite frankly, I didn't think that these experiences were of that great moment," Eagleton said. "I now realize that it is. I've read the morning headlines."

He said McGovern had offered the No. 2 spot on the Democratic ticket during a hectic day and that now he believes he probably would have told McGovern about it if he had had more time to think.

Eagleton said that no members of his family have been subject to mental difficulties. He said his mother died of hypertension and his father died of natural causes when "his internal organs just slowed down at age 76."

Eagleton made the announcement at a news conference at McGovern's temporary retreat in the Black Hills of South Dakota. Later he talked a little more with newsmen with him on a charter flight to Los Angeles.

But both sessions were cut short before newsmen asked all the questions they had about why Eagleton kept the matter secret and why he hadn't told McGovern about it earlier.

On the plane to Los Angeles, however, he did divulge that he felt relieved to have the story off his chest.

"When you're in politics, you know, you're in a volatile field. You're in some kind of fish bowl. Thus it always goes through your mind 'When will I be asked?' 'When will somebody know?'"

PLANE CAPER

Fouled-Up Narcotics Operation

HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP) — Officers pieced together, bit by bit, the story today of a fouled-up narcotics operation that turned comic.

The yarn, with officers from San Antonio to Hillsboro contributing, involved a twin-engine Lockheed Lodestar with what the Department of Public Safety estimated was 2,500 pounds of marijuana aboard.

How it got to Cameron in Central Texas at dawn hadn't been fully explained at a late hour, but that seems to be where the story became public.

It started, said Hearne Police Chief R. L. Perkins, with a telephone call from a man who said he was U.S. Customs Agent Burk.

The man said he was in a government plane when he was overpowered by three men and his plane commandeered and flown away.

But Bill Cochran, a spokesman for the U.S. Customs Service at San Antonio, said no agent was aboard. This opened several possibilities — one that someone with an interest in the marijuana had been dumped at the small Cameron airstrip and was not going to allow any confederates to get away with the weed.

Not long thereafter, the plane landed at Hillsboro in North Central Texas. Airport manager Ed Schronk said two men alighted and were picked up by two men in a blue Camaro. The car headed toward Dallas.

Meanwhile, McLennan County officers at McGregor let out a great cry. "We're floating in marijuana."

The marijuana was on the McGregor airstrip which officers said was "covered" with the plant.

A Department of Public Safety officer said in Waco that the marijuana had been dumped at McGregor. Officers said it apparently was a touch-and-go landing, with a pause only long enough to get rid of the evidence.

Cochran, the San Antonio customs spokesman, said, "No customs personnel were involved in this. We did not have an agent on the plane. The person who called R. L. Perkins (the Hearne chief of police) was not a customs agency officer."

Cochran said the customs agency was aware of the plane, but did not have an officer on board.

Earlier, the San Antonio customs office said they had no agent named Burk.

The San Antonio spokesman said five or six customs agents from Houston and San Antonio were investigating, some of them in aircraft.

The Department of Public Safety spokesman at Waco said there was no immediate information on ownership of the plane. "We think it came from around Harlingen," he said.

HOPES FOR NEW PEACE POSSIBILITIES — Israeli Premier Golda Meir Consults with defense Minister Moshe Dayan today prior to addressing parliament in Jerusalem. Mrs. Meir welcomed Egypt's expulsion of Soviet military advisors and appealed to President Anwar Sadat to make a "joint supreme effort" for peace. She told Israeli's parliament that is vital to "strike out on new paths and never return to the course which has led to death, destruction and frustration without bringing peace."

Don't Try To Outsmart 'Bama County Sheriff

ALABASTER, Ala. (AP) — Special Forces units undergoing summer training in guerrilla warfare tactics learned at least one important lesson: Don't try to outsmart an Alabama county sheriff.

The mayor and police chief of this city of 4,000, some 20 miles south of Birmingham, were kidnapped at gunpoint, hauled away in a camper and held in mosquito-infested woods for six hours a week ago, they revealed Tuesday. It was all part of a drill to show National Guard units from Alabama, Florida and Louisiana how the Viet Cong terrorize small villages.

Mayor Willie Mathis and Police Chief C. E. Carter were driving around town together when a pickup truck with a portable camper on the back pulled alongside. Seven members of the Guard's 20th Special Forces Unit — Green Berets — jumped out, leveled M16 rifles and pistols and herded them into the vehicle.

"They had us covered faster than the drop of a hat," the mayor said. "We didn't have a chance."

The chief was handcuffed and both were kept under the watchful eyes of the silent men in Guard uniforms.

"We knew the troops were in the area and we had heard they would try to take a political prisoner. But we were told a recruit would be brought in. The recruit would think he was learning my job but later would be kidnapped," the mayor explained.

Actually, it was the recruit's job to keep an eye on the mayor and make note of his activities for the kidnap caper. Before Guard officials told Mrs. Mathis what was going on, she called Shelby County Sheriff C. P. "Red" Walker, whose immediate reaction was, "Something sneaky's going on here."

The sheriff, theorizing the city judge — or even himself — might be the next victim, took deputies and local police and surrounded the judge's home.

Sure enough, after dark, eight figures sneaked silently onto the property of City Judge H. L. Hollis, knocked on his door and surrounded him.

"Not so fast there," the sheriff's voice boomed out. The eight were arrested, booked on an open charge and found themselves prisoners of their own little war game.

The sheriff soon received a telephone call in which an unidentified voice said he wanted his soldiers back. Walker replied he would release them when the mayor and police chief were freed.

The sheriff got his way. The eight soldiers, however, were held in jail until the next day.

"I thought I'd keep them just in case anybody else disappeared during the night," Walker said.

Texas 'Alimony' Arguments Slated

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court changed its mind and agreed today to decide whether divorced professional men can be forced to pay what a lawyer called a form of alimony.

Alimony is not permitted by Texas law.

The court said it would hear arguments after it reconvenes in October in the case of Dr. James B. Nail Jr., a Wichita Falls eye doctor.

When Nail and his wife were divorced, the trial judge granted Mrs. Nail a $40,000 community property rights in his practice, payable in monthly installments.

The decision was upheld by the Fort Worth Court of Civil Appeals, which said the good will of Nail's medical practice "was wholly acquired by the Nails during the existence of their marital relationship."

The Supreme Court agreed to hear the case on the question of whether the requirement that Nail pay his ex-wife $40,000 out of his future earnings was permanent alimony, contrary to state policy set by the legislature.

Nail's lawyers and the Fort Worth court both said there had been no prior rulings in the United States that a man's professional practice had a "good will" that could be divided upon divorce.

The court upheld the lower court rulings June 28, but granted Nail's motion for rehearing and decided to consider the case.

In their motion for rehearing, Nail's lawyers said, "without deliberate action by our state legislature, the court of civil appeals has created a form of permanent alimony out of a ghost called 'professional good will.'"

Food Prices Skyrocketed During June

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food prices jumped 0.9 per cent in June, the biggest increase in four months, the government said today. Meat and fresh fruits and vegetables accounted for most of the boost.

The Agriculture Department said a year's supply of groceries for a typical family of four — the "market basket" index — went up $11 in June as a result of a $15 increase for farmers and a $4 cutback for middlemen.

The June hike was the largest monthly increase since February's 1.9-per-cent boost, the department said. There was a 0.4-per-cent decrease in food prices in March, a 0.7-per-cent decrease in April and a 0.4-per-cent increase in May.

The department said in its "market basket" index that higher prices for beef, pork, frying chickens and fresh fruits and vegetables accounted for most of the June increase. Prices for eggs dropped sharply, and price changes for most other items were relatively minor.

The "market basket," a measure of the cost of a year's supply of food for a family of four, cost an annual rate of $1,299 in June.

The farmer's share of the June market basket was $528 and the middleman's $771 for transporting, processing and selling the food items.

Last Friday, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said grocery prices increased 0.6 per cent over the May level. The Agriculture Department, however, measures prices for most of June while the BLS based its report on the first week of June.

The June Agriculture report showed choice beef sold at an average retail price of $1.135 per pound. This was 2.3 cents less than the record high in February and March of nearly $1.16 per pound, but was 2.1 cents per pound more than $1.114 in May.

Compared with a year earlier, the retail price of beef was up 7.4 per cent.

Pork cost 82 cents per pound in June, up from 79.4 cents in May and the highest this year. Compared with a year earlier, pork prices were up 17.8 per cent, the department said.

Mrs. Kleberg Joins Tower

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John Tower's re-election campaign headquarters announced today that Mrs. Richard M. Kleberg Jr. of Kingsville will be state chairman of Women for Tower.

She is the wife of the board chairman of the King Ranch and the sister of the late Zachary Scott, a well-known motion picture actor.

"We are very fortunate to get such an outstanding person to fill this very important post in the campaign," Tower, R-Tex., said. "Women play an extremely important role in any campaign and Mrs. Kleberg is well qualified to lead this effort."

Mrs. Kleberg was active in President Nixon's 1968 campaign and in the 1970 U.S. Senate campaign of George Bush, now United States ambassador to the United Nations.

Born in Tyler, Mase is married to the former Kathy N. Graham, Big Spring. They have one child. Mase is a graduate of Big Spring Senior High.

Prior to joining the Cook Discount store Mase was with Southland Corporation for two years as a store manager.

Not Surprised, Says Mrs. Agnew

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew says the possibility of danger to her husband during campaigning is something "we don't think about or dwell upon."

Mrs. Agnew accompanied her husband during an appearance here Tuesday amid tight Secret Service security.

She said she was "very pleased and happy" with President Nixon's decision to retain her husband as his running mate, but she added, "I can't say I was really surprised."

'I Don't Allow Myself To Kiss Men,' She Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Laurel Lea Schaefer says she set some rules of personal behavior when she became Miss America.

"I don't allow myself to kiss men — like mayors and visiting dignitaries. If they try it, I just tell them I think it's unnecessary. Or I tell them that I have a very special friend who wouldn't appreciate it," the green-eyed Ohio University graduate says.

Laurel, 23, says her "special friend" — John Lurie, whom she's been dating for more than two years — is one of the items in her life that she will begin re-evaluating after she hands her crown to a successor. Laurel began her reign last September in Atlantic City, N.J., and will yield to a new queen Sept. 9.

"I'm looking forward to setting new goals," she said, brushing her long brown hair back from her shoulders. "I'm planning to go into television acting and public relations work for several companies." Laurel said 10 months of traveling through the United States as Miss America has made problems she had "only read about" come alive. "I was down in South Carolina, talking to an assembly at a predominantly black high school," she recalled. "They asked me to sing — and the only thing I could think of was 'Dixie'." "One very well-spoken young man explained that if you listen to the words of the song you can understand why a black person wouldn't want to be reminded of Dixieland as it was when the song was written."

Used His Mother's Money To Lead Adventurous Life

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Some people are born with brown eyes. I was born with money."

That was Lance Reventlow's offhanded comment about the $50 million to $100 million he would some day inherit from his mother, the much-married Woolworth dime-store heiress, Barbara Hutton.

His mother outlived him, though. Reventlow and three other persons died in the crash of a light plane near Aspen, Colo., during a thunderstorm Monday night.

BIG FIGHT
In his 37 years Reventlow used his mother's money to lead an adventurous, sporting life.

Reventlow's biggest extravagance was racing cars. He designed his own model, and its beetle-like shape dictated its name — the Scarab. In his early 20s he raced the car on the grand prix circuit, winning the Nassau race in 1958.

His racing contributed to the dissolution of his marriage to his first wife, actress Jill St. John. "Lance has taken out his racing license again," she told a reporter when they separated in 1962 after two years of marriage. "A big fight resulted."

Reventlow was the son of Miss Hutton and her second husband, the Danish Count Haughwitz - Reventlow. The marriage ended in divorce and the boy was the subject of a bitter custody fight. Miss Hutton won full custody of Lance in 1945.

A frail boy afflicted with asthma, Lance spent his childhood in boarding schools in the United States and Europe.

In 1960, Reventlow married Miss St. John, a longtime child actress who developed into a sex symbol. At first she said she wouldn't try to dissuade him from racing. Later she did, and they were divorced in 1963.

In 1964, Reventlow married Cheryl Holdridge, 19, an actress who had once been a member of the Mouseketeers of the Mickey Mouse Club television show. She said that she didn't insist on it, but Lance gave up car racing. In his last years he devoted himself to polo and skiing. He had maintained a home in Aspen for six years.

Federal investigators are attempting to learn the cause of the plane crash.

Authorities said from the condition of the wreckage, found at the 10,500-foot elevation, it was believed the plane had plunged nearly straight down into the trees in a heavily wooded box canyon.

'THEY SAID THAT'S A LOT OF BALONEY' Eagleton Had Drinking Problem?

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern says he first learned the complete details of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's psychiatric care and shock treatments for nervous exhaustion when the two candidates and their wives met here Tuesday morning.

In an exclusive interview late Tuesday, the Democratic presidential nominee said "he and I didn't really get into it seriously" until the meeting at which they decided Eagleton should tell the full story.

Until then, he said, he knew about it in general terms. McGovern said some of his high ranking assistants had been discussing the matter with Eagleton's top aides for at least a week and some aides knew of it when the Missouri senator was selected as the vice presidential candidate.

McGovern said that when he and his wife met with the Eagletons at his Sylvan Lake retreat near here, the discussion centered on "whether it was worth disclosing, whether it was enough of an issue to be worth mentioning."

Blackfly Threat To RGV Citrus

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner John White has asked Brownsville residents for "greater cooperation" in an effort to combat the blackfly which, he said, could wipe out the Rio Grande Valley's citrus industry.

White said he realized that spraying the infested trees in Brownsville is a "nuisance" to the residents, but "this pest must be wiped out if we are to maintain the citrus industry in Texas."

He said the trees will be sprayed every two years. The project has been underway for a year. He said if the blackfly is not controlled, it can destroy a citrus tree within a year.

White said a 1956 outbreak of blackfly in Texas was controlled.

PROMOTION — Brig. Gen. James F. Hamlet, above, has been nominated for promotion to major general. Hamlet, 50, from Alliance, Ohio, would be the second black in U.S. Army history to attain the two-star rank. He has just returned from Vietnam where he commanded the 3rd Brigade of the 1st Cavalry Division.

Campaign Organization Is Aiming At Aug. 15 Start

"No use dragging this out to Christmas," Robert Hickson, 1972 United Fund campaign chairman, observed Tuesday in announcing his staff for the central fund drive.

He announced Aug. 15 as the general kickoff, and all divisions will launch their drives at the same time, he said.

He said that every division head he had contacted had accepted readily, and that most of them were well along in organization with team captains selected. Hickson said he had found a way of enthusiasm among the campaign leaders, and expressed the hope that the $13,640 goal can be reached during the autumn.

Among the 16 division heads announced were:

Paul Meek, out-of-town gifts; J. D. Nelson, big gifts; Tom Feters, special gifts; Tom Locke, employes division; Harold Canning, metropolitan; Mrs. M. A. Snell, women; Alton Marwitz, town and country; R. W. Whipkey, public relations.

Col. Harold Shultz said that the Webb AFB campaign structure is shaping, and Hickson noted that at least one division has started its contacts.

Morris Robertson, UF president, expressed confidence the new goal, which is about $3,000 over last year's total, can be reached.

"We can do it," he said. "Our people need educating to the necessity of giving a fair share and to the fact that these agency belong to us and are our responsibility. But thanks to you the United Fund is working."

DOWN SAFELY, OR WAS IT?

It might have been safer in the air.

G. M. Fisher, Midland, made an emergency landing in a small plane on the Moss Creek road east of Big Spring Sunday.

When he returned to move the plane, he discovered that vandals had done an estimated $2,500 damage to the craft, which is owned by Wayne Mikell, Midland. The sheriff's department is investigating.

Texans Mop Their Brows

By The Associated Press

Texans are mopping their brows in some of the hottest weather yet this summer.

Temperatures climbed as high as Wichita Falls' 102 degrees Tuesday afternoon, and top marks above 100 were expected to dot most sections of the state through next Sunday.

Readings near dawn today dipped as low as 66 at Dalhart in the Texas Panhandle while it was still a humid 82 at Galveston on the coast.

There was little breeze to offset the heat—a circumstance which the National Weather Service blamed for a mass of stagnant air mass causing a pollution alert near the Upper Texas Coast.

Official observers said a lack of wind caused the stagnant air to hang nearly stationary in the so-called "Golden Triangle" which embraces Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange.

Forecasts called for clear to partly cloudy skies along with the hot weather. Prospects were seen for isolated afternoon showers through the Rio Grande Valley and in the West Texas mountains.

"Both Tom and I decided that if we were going to truly wage the kind of open campaign that we said we were going to wage, run the kind of open administration with full disclosure of everything, that we ought to disclose this too," McGovern added.

Although the Democratic presidential nominee had said earlier in an ABC Evening News interview with Harry Reasoner that Eagleton "is not considering" leaving the ticket, he told The Associated Press that the Missouri senator had raised that very point in their meeting here. Eagleton later confirmed this point.

"He just said 'if this is embarrassing to you in any way, don't feel any obligation to keep me on,'" McGovern said. "I thought it was ridiculous even to bring it up, and I think he just did it as kind of a courtesy gesture."

"I don't think that he felt there was any grounds for his withdrawal," McGovern said. "I certainly don't."

McGovern, kept busy by staff meetings and now the Eagleton controversy in the first 10 days of a two-week vacation here, appeared tired as he discussed the matter while returning to his cabin from a tennis lesson.

But he insisted that "I'm not at all discouraged about the campaign," and feels it is off to a good start.

McGovern said "It doesn't bother me" that Eagleton had voluntarily hospitalized himself in 1960, 1964 and 1966. He said that while he was considering his choice for vice president, he had asked some of his Senate colleagues about rumors that Eagleton had a drinking problem and "they said that's a lot of baloney."

Asked if any of the senators had mentioned the hospital stays, McGovern replied, "No. They just said there are rumors that he had to be hospitalized for drinking and I asked a couple of people and they said it was a lot of nonsense."

On the Monday or Tuesday following the convention, McGovern said, the first reports of Eagleton's hospitalization for nervous exhaustion appeared. He said Frank Mankiewicz, his top political adviser, "first picked it up ... and kept me advised."

During the next few days, McGovern said, there were telephone contacts between Mankiewicz and Douglas Bennett, Eagleton's administrative assistant. Though he added that "Eagleton and I didn't talk directly about it," Eagleton told his news conference that "my intention in coming out here was to make this statement today."

Only McGovern, Eagleton and their wives took part in Tuesday's detailed discussion of the matter, the South Dakotan said. He added that "once I heard the story, he and I both agreed that the thing to do was to tell everything that we knew about it."

Asked what he thought the reaction would be, McGovern said "let's wait and see. Other people have to make their judgments, but I think he's a safer man to have in the White House than either (Vice President Spiro T.) Agnew or (President) Nixon."

"I feel good about him," he concluded. "My mind is at peace, and I think Tom's is too."

McGOVERN: A COMMITMENT OF PASSION

'American Politics Will Never Be The Same Again'

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a grateful George McGovern who took the rostrum at Miami Beach to accept the Democratic party's nomination for President of the United States.

"I have been the beneficiary of the most remarkable political organization in the history of this country," he said. "It is an organization that gives dramatic proof to the power to love and to a faith that can literally move mountains."

SON OF PREACHER

The history of this son of a poor, pious preacher of the plains was always one of reaching to a higher rung: from crack high school and college debater to professor; from party organizer to congressman; from Food-for-Peace administrator to senator.

And then, after a last-minute try in 1968 to inherit the fallen Robert Kennedy's legions, McGovern began the careful planning and the rigorous work of summoning people to his presidential cause. He did it from his back-row bench, a liberal senator from a conservative state ranking 45th in population.

TWIN GOALS

"I believe deeply in the twin goals for which Robert Kennedy gave his life—an end to the war in Vietnam and a passionate commitment to heal the division in our society," he had said in 1968.

And he pounded home that same theme again in 1972, when he won the prize: "During four administrations of both parties, a terrible war has been charted behind closed doors. I want those doors opened and I want that war closed. And I make these pledges above all others—the doors of government will be opened and that war will be closed."

McGovern had been a senator only eight months, in 1963, when he became the first to denounce the Vietnam war on the floor of the Senate. It was for the record mostly, because there were few to hear him.

HIS BEAT

It has been his drumbeat since.

When seven years later, the Senate beat down, 55 to 39, the Hatfield-McGovern amendment to end the war, McGovern told a reporter he was only temporarily discouraged.

"I'll recover by tomorrow," he said in his quiet voice. "I would have liked to have seen a stronger showing. But I suppose it's the first time in the history of the country that 39 senators have stood up in the middle of a war and voted to cut off funds."

By speaking out on tax reform, welfare, military spending and other issues, McGovern changed the image of a one-issue candidate. And in the four years since 1968, it also was a changed personality that stood arms stretched in victory before the thousands at Miami Beach.

All his life, McGovern has had the "nice guy" aura—the outspoken, earnest, dedicated plainsman who could be played well on the screen by James Stewart or Gary Cooper. But to find steel in the man, one has to go back only to the thorny battles he fought to mount his congressional soapbox in the first place.

TWIN SISTERS

Mrs. Ila Pennington, twin sister of McGovern's wife, has known him since he was overcoming his youthful shyness by being a high school debater. "He's got a great deal of poise and self-confidence that helps in all situations—that remains with him all the time," she says. "He seems unflappable. There have been times, of course, when he has shown concern, but never in an extreme way like some people do, with temper tantrums and obvious disturbance."

But McGovern did have one notable public display of temper in the credentials fight before the convention, when he was stripped of 151 California delegates.

"Shabby, back-room dealing," McGovern called it and said he "wouldn't have any part of any convention nominee who would support this." But later he cooled off. The question, of course, became moot by the action of the full convention seating the full delegation.

REALLY TRIED

McGovern began thinking seriously about running hard for the presidency soon after Chicago 1968, when he got 148 1/2 votes after less than three weeks as a candidate, says George Cunningham, his longtime aide. "I think it was a series of minor frustrations and some major dissatisfactions with offices he held. In each he bumped up against the limitations of the position," Cunningham says.

He spent 1969 traveling to college campuses, talking with people, hearing them out—just as he had done years earlier when he sought the opinions of South Dakotans. But his contacts weren't just on the campus—he made an effort always to speak to businessmen too. "He really tried to plumb the depth of their views on the economy and business community," Cunningham says. "We weren't up there as an advocate. We were up there as a listener."

GREAT VIGOR

In August 1969, he already was saying "if I were to be a candidate, I would have to go the primary route with great vigor."

He made the formal announcement in January last year—a year earlier than anyone else; and an unusual act in politics.

The primaries are history. "I think there was a change in him after Wisconsin," says his press secretary, Richard Dougherty. I think it all came together. I think there was almost a sort of psychic sigh of relief. He gambled an awful lot and I think that's the first time it looked like he might rake in the pot. Early on, it was an enormous act of faith and I must say an enormous self-assurance."

NEW POLITICS

To reporters who covered the campaign, the change in Wisconsin also was noticeable. He seemed to have acquired more presence; his voice was fuller he looked more confident.

Now, the tall, quiet-spoken plainsman with the sparse hair and shy grin heads to high noon with Richard Nixon. No matter how the November showdown ends, his rise to the rostrum at Miami Beach already validates the words of his acceptance speech:

"American politics will never be the same again."

"Colic" Your Good Health Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write about "colic" babies. I think it would benefit a great number of people. — Mrs. A.V. "Colic" is one of those words that means whatever the user wants it to mean. The dictionary defines it as a severe griping pain in the belly (such as a gallstone attack). With babies, the term is used for anything from fussiness to energetic crying. The baby may have a pain — or he may be just restless, hungry, itchy, wet, or upset. Some significant observations have been made. "Colic" rarely occurs in a hospital nursery. It seems to manifest itself most when baby has been taken home. Ordinarily it disappears in the first four to six weeks of life. It's more common with first babies. The implications are that hospital nurses know a bit more about how to keep tiny babies contented, and perhaps that a tiny baby may be upset by a new environment — it may be noisier, his feeding schedule may not be what he expects or wants, he may need more regular burping. Colic is often attributed to an intestinal disturbance. It may be. Or it may not be. A little gas (or air) is normal in an infant's innards, but too much swallowed air can make him crampy. Regular, adequate burping after each feeding pays off. Likewise small babies need frequent, small feedings. A harried mother may try to stretch the intervals between feedings. Or formula may be thickened. Baby may get hungry between feedings, and he'll protest. In about 10 per cent of colicky babies, allergy to cow's milk can have a bearing. In such cases, watch for other symptoms: diarrhea, eczema, or a family history of allergies. Such traits can be passed on. Intolerance to carbohydrate (sugar) or fats also may call for modification of the formula. Many pediatricians are pretty well convinced emotional tensions can be part of the trouble. A small baby may not recognize any words yet, but still can be influenced by a mother's anxieties and attitudes. One frequent question: what about giving baby a pacifier? Some object to pacifiers. I don't, and I think the general tendency is to accept their use, since it can satisfy the sucking instinct. Dr. F. M. Smith Jr., of Louisiana, argues that there's nothing wrong with permitting this form of gratification — and don't older people chew gum, smoke and indulge other forms of oral gratification? Denying a baby a pacifier, he says, is sheer hypocrisy. If baby likes his pacifier when he's small, let him. But don't, of course, try to make that the answer to everything. If it doesn't calm him readily, and he keeps on fussing or crying, look for a reason. Babies are reasonable critters, and don't fuss or cry unless they have cause. Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife recently had an I.U.D. inserted, and to have this done, she told the doctor that she has had a baby which she has not. I was wondering if there is a possibility of complication. — A.B. There is no connection between her having had a baby or not having had a baby and the insertion of the intrauterine device. And why, for heavens sake did she tell the doctor she had one? Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in my middle 60s and have unions which are continuing to get worse. Would it be too late to have them removed by surgery? How long would I be in the hospital? — Mrs. V.J. No, it's not too late for surgery, but how long you would have to stay off your feet would depend on the particular case, and I can offer no estimate or suggestion except to ask the surgeon (orthopedist or, in some cases, podiatrist) to make an estimate. To learn of the many factors that can be involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia, which concerns the esophagus, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Delivers Steam Engine, Rotary Table To Museum. KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A Texas A&I University ex-student has delivered personally a rare two-piston steam engine and rotary table to the John E. Conner Museum of Texas A&I University. Rescuing the artifact from the scrap yard, Lloyd C. Rathburn rented a trailer in Houston and delivered it to the museum. Rathburn bought the engine and table near Houston from a person who planned to sell them for scrap metal. Built Dec. 16, 1890, the engine and rotary table have been displayed in Odessa, Tulsa, Okla., and Lafayette, La., oil shows. The unit that was used in early oil drilling to replace cable look percussion drilling. The same rotary drilling method is still used today. Rotary drilling soon replaced many cable rigs because the rotary rig could drill at a much faster pace.

NATIONAL MOVES INTO LL FINALS Pfeiffer's Shot Sinks Texas, 3-0

Kyle Pfeiffer crashed his second home run of the District Three tournament, a shot over the center field fence, to lead the Big Spring National League past Big Spring Texas League, 3-0, Tuesday night.

The victory puts the Nationals in the finals against the winner of tonight's game between Midland Tower and Midland North Central. That game begins at 8 p.m. at the American Little League park.

The National League's hard-hitting bats were silenced by Louis Rodriguez, a fast-working righthander, until the bottom of the fourth inning. Up to that point, he had given up four hits, at least one in every inning, but he had not given up any runs.

Mitch Harris led off the inning with a double that bounced off the fence in left field. He advanced to third on a deep fly ball to right field by J. Wray Warren. The next batter, Paul Spence, struck out, but first baseman Tommy Worsham slapped a single up the middle to score Harris with what proved to be the winning run.

In the next inning, Duane Thomas started the inning for the Nationals with a hard line drive to shortstop. Lloyd Jolly grounded unassisted to first base. Kenny Fowler, the National League pitcher, worked the count full and then hit a line drive to short right center field, James Pinker, the center fielder for the Texas League, charged in hard and got to the ball, but in the heel of his glove and bounced out for an error.

Rodriguez got ahead of Pfeiffer, the next batter, one ball and two strikes. But Pfeiffer lofted a next pitch just over the fence in center field. The ball fell a little to the left of the flag pole in straightaway center.

For practical purposes, that ended the game although the Texas League did kick up a little flurry in the bottom of the sixth. Rodriguez led off the inning with a single. Larry Duron followed with a ground ball to shortstop to force Rodriguez at second. Pinker then hit a scorching line drive directly back to Fowler who caught it and doubled Duron off of first to end the game.

Fowler pitched a superb game and had excellent fielding behind him. He gave up only five hits, but they were well scattered. No more than one came in any inning. He walked nobody, and he didn't allow any Texas League runner to get as far as second base. Interestingly, he struck out nobody.

Rodriguez pitched a great game for the Texas League and, Fowler, he walked none of the have an error behind him in for most of the game, got opposing batters. Not until the the field. Two errors were com- brilliant help in the field. Like disastrous fifth inning did he mitted in the fifth.

39TH CONTEST

All-Stars Prep For Cowboys

Bob Devaney has a string of 23 coaching victories and 32 unbeaten games, but if he hopes to continue that streak, he had better have a few aces up his sleeve.

Devaney, coach of the 1972 College All Stars, has been drilling his squad in preparation for Friday night's 39th All-Star Game against the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys in Chicago.

The veteran Nebraska coach, whose teams have won two straight national football championships, told a Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Chicago Tuesday he was well aware of what the National Football League champions could do.

"After a study of Cowboy game films, we decided to concentrate our game preparations on punting and kickoff returns," Devaney joked after introducing his squad.

In a more serious vein, he noted:

"With a group of guys like this, we feel that if we got any coaching to them at all, we would have a good chance. I know they're going to give it a great effort Friday night."

The All Stars will be led by quarterbacks Jerry Tagge and Van Bronson, both of Nebraska, and Pat Sullivan of Auburn, the Heisman Trophy winner.

The Cowboys are 16- to 17½-point favorites in the game, which the pros have won 27 times while losing nine and tying twice.

Elsewhere, the San Francisco 49ers reported that rookie wide receiver Terry Beasley has broken a bone in his right big toe. The former Auburn All-American had just returned from being out eight days with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Chuck Hixson, who set many national passing records at Southern Methodist, announced his retirement after the Kansas City Chiefs said he had been traded to Buffalo. He never played in a NFL game. He was the Chiefs' 13th draft choice in 1971.

Franco Harris, the Pittsburgh Steelers' No. 1 draft choice, signed a multi-year contract with the team. The terms for the former Penn State player were not announced.

The Baltimore Colts signed veteran wide receivers Eddie Hinton, Ray Perkins, and Jim O'Brien who's also a placekicker, and defensive back Tom Curtis.

Wendell Tucker, a four-year wide receiver, was cut by the St. Louis Cardinals. Second-year kicker Skip Butler was released by the New York Giants, who also said rookie linebacker, Jim Evans will undergo knee surgery.

Mike Tilleman, a Houston defensive tackle, was reported in good condition after exploratory abdominal surgery. Doctors said they found an abscess on the abdominal wall but no malignancy. Tilleman, a seven-year veteran, had a malignant growth removed from his stomach in 1969.

Soph Tourney Gets Underway

The Red Sox will represent Big Spring in the District-5 Sophomore League Baseball Tournament which gets underway tonight. Teams from San Angelo, Midland and Lockney will also compete in the tournament which will be played at the Johnny Stone complex. The tournament will continue through Saturday night.

The Red Sox, who captured the league championship and the right to represent Big Spring in the tournament, will meet Midland Western in Park A at 8 p.m.

Other games tonight include Midland Eastern-San Angelo Elks in Park B at 8 p.m. and Lockney-San Angelo American in Park A at 6 p.m.

The Red Sox reached the tournament by claiming the Sophomore League crown for the second half of the season and then defeating the Cubs, 8-1 and 5-4, in the best-of-three playoff series last week.

Tournament Director is Jimmy Felts, Max Coffee is serving as Assistant Tournament Director.

The tournament committee is comprised of Billy Addy, Al Valdes, Buck Brown, Byron Smith, J. W. Dickens, Tommy Walker, Pew Broughton and Phillip Palmer.

Tournament Director Jimmy Felts announced that admission to the tournament will be 50 cents for adults and 25-cents for children. Felts added that there would be a 10-cent admission charged for Little League or Teen-Age League baseball players with identification.

Oilers Get News— Good And Bad

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — it doesn't necessarily mean the battered Houston Oilers already hurting this year in training camp, got some good news and some bad Tuesday.

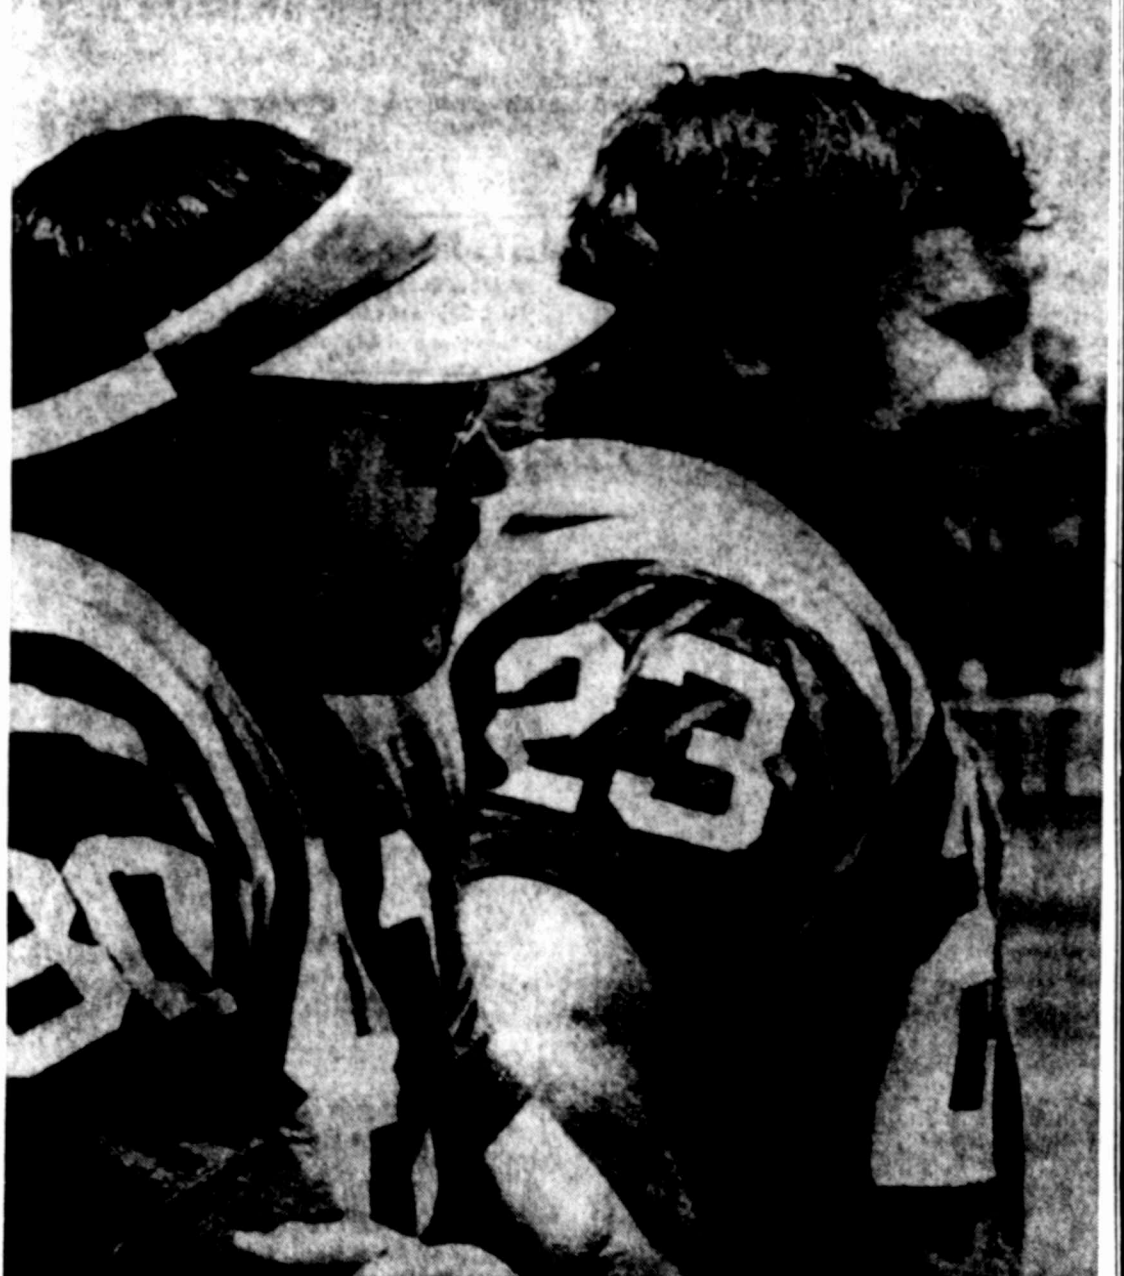

The good news was that seven-year veteran defensive tackle Mike Tilleman, who underwent an exploratory operation after a growth was discovered in his stomach, will be back in uniform in six weeks.

The bad news was that defensive tackle Ron Billingsley has problems with his left knee and defensive tackle Gene Ferguson left camp.

During an appendectomy in 1969, Tilleman was found to have a tumor in his stomach. But the operation Tuesday revealed the growth discovered during a physical examination was only an abscess in the abdominal wall. He was listed in satisfactory condition.

Billingsley, a six-year veteran, was taken to a hospital Tuesday.

"Right now it looks like it's a torn cartilage, but even then

Jerry Quarry Quits Ring For PR Job

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jerry Quarry, whose dream of a heavyweight boxing title eluded him through seven years as a professional, says he has quit the ring to pursue a career in public relations.

The 27-year-old Texan said Tuesday the decision to retire came last June 27 after he watched his brother Mike get knocked out by George Foster in a light heavyweight bout in Las Vegas.

Quarry himself was TKO'd in the same ring later that night by Muhammad Ali.

"I lost my desire when Mike lost his fight," Quarry said. "Watching my brother loose

Nicklaus Has Infected Finger

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An infected finger has sent professional golfer Jack Nicklaus to the hospital, casting doubt on whether he will be able to play in the $200,000 PGA Team Championship Tournament at Ligonier, Pa., next weekend.

Nationals Edge Americans, 4-3

JOE MORGAN DRIVES IN WINNING RUN IN 10th

(AP WIREPHOTO)

CHARGING AARON — Atlanta Braves Henry Aaron runs toward first on his way to a round triper watching pitcher Gaylord Perry, Cleveland. Aaron hit a home run in the sixth inning driving in an additional run to help the National League All Stars defeat the All Stars of the American League 4-3 Tuesday night in Atlanta.

ATLANTA (AP) — Tug McGraw is awfully glad that he doesn't pitch in the American League. He'd probably never make the All-Star team if he did.

"They don't recognize relief pitchers over there like they do in the National League," the New York Mets' bullpen star said Tuesday night after helping the Nationals win the 43rd mid-summer classic with a tense 4-3 victory in 10 innings.

As if his powerhouse pitching didn't speak eloquently enough for his argument, the left-hander had much more to say after winning his first All-Star game.

"Relief pitching is an art," he said, "and only the National League recognizes that fact. Specialization is the National League way, the modern way. I'm glad that my league has undervalued the importance of a relief pitcher. He's really the 10th man on the team."

All of McGraw's remarks were, of course, directed at the American League — but mostly toward Manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles. In three straight All-Star games, the American League field boss has never picked a relief pitcher for his staff.

"Earl certainly doesn't recognize us," said McGraw.

McGraw was certainly recognized as one of the best pitchers on Atlanta Stadium's playing field Tuesday night, although there were several other standouts in one of the best-played All-Star games in recent years.

McGraw held off the American League with shutout pitching in the last two innings, striking out four batters, before Cincinnati's Joe Morgan came through with the game-winning single in the 10th.

"It was some kind of breaking ball, but I don't know if it was a slider or curve since I've never seen him before," Morgan said of the pitch he hit for a run-scoring single off Baltimore southpaw Dave McNally, the losing pitcher.

Actually, the whole affair never could have gotten to the extra-inning stage except for some game-turning dramatics by Atlanta's Hank Aaron, the hometown golden boy, and Cookie Rojas of the Kansas City Royals.

Aaron coaxed the standing room-only crowd of 53,107 to an ear-splitting roar when he belted a two-run homer over the 375-foot mark in left-center to give the Nationals a 2-1 lead in the sixth inning.

Then Rojas, one of the unluckiest home run hitters on the field, delivered a pinch-hit clout with a man aboard in the eighth inning to give the Americans a 3-2 lead that put a wet blanket on Aaron's accomplishment. However, the Nationals tied the game in the ninth on Lee May's run-scoring bouncer.

Aaron called his home run "the most dramatic" he's hit because most of the folks came out to see me hit one," said Aaron who has unloaded 659 career homers in his chase toward Babe Ruth's record 714.

His latest blast was collected off Cleveland's Gaylord Perry, an old "friend." He hit his 600th homer off Perry when he was pitching in the National League.

Morgan, ever the romantic, wished that Aaron would have won the Most Valuable Player trophy instead of himself.

"When Aaron hit that home run, it was like watching a Hollywood movie," said Morgan.

"It would have been nice if he was the hero, playing before his hometown fans."

Danny Murtaugh, the former Pittsburgh Pirate manager who came out of retirement at the request of baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn to manage this game, was nervous right to the spine-tingling end.

MORGAN REWRITE MAN Unhappy With Script

ATLANTA (AP) — Joe Morgan didn't like the way the script for the 43rd major league All-Star Game was going so the little Cincinnati Reds' infielder took things into his own hands.

The extravaganza turned into a most happy event for Morgan, whose 10th inning run-scoring single gave the National League a 4-3 triumph Tuesday night before a record 53,107 crowd at Atlanta Stadium.

But only two innings earlier, it appeared that Cookie Rojas would be the hero, after he put the American League ahead 3-2 on a two-run homer off Montreal's Bill Stoneman.

Earlier Hank Aaron, pushing toward Babe Ruth's all-time home run mark of 714 with 639, stroked a two-run blow in the sixth inning, putting the Nationals up 2-1, and sending the home town crowd into a frenzy, giving the Atlanta slugger the nearly a two-minute standing ovation.

"When Aaron hit the homer it was like watching a Hollywood movie," Morgan said afterward in the winners' dressing room "I thought he should be the hero. Then when Rojas hit it, I said, 'Gee, it's not supposed to be that way.'"

"This was one of the most dramatic home runs I ever hit," Aaron said. "I felt comfortable hitting against Perry."

Gaylord, formerly of San Francisco and this year a 16-game winner with Cleveland.

"The pitch I hit off him was a spitter. It wasn't one of his best spitters, but it was a spitter."

Danny Murtaugh, who retired after guiding the Pittsburgh Pirates to the World Championship last year, led the NL to its ninth victory in 10 games and put them ahead in the series which started in 1933, to 24-18-1.

"It's games like these that sent me into retirement," the jovial Murtaugh said of his one-day triumphant return.

Morgan then won it for the NL in the 10th after Nate Colbert walked and was sacrificed to second by San Francisco's Chris Spier. Morgan crisply spanked a line drive single to right center and Colbert easily strolled home with the winner.

Morgan was voted the game's Most Valuable Player, with Aaron second and winning reliever, Tug McGraw the third choice. Rojas was fourth.

Rojas was disappointed that the American League didn't win but was thrilled about his home run.

The little Kansas City second baseman, who made it into the starter Rod Carew only because of a recurrence of a rib injury, said he hit "a dangling inside slider."

"It really felt great and I thought we were going to win it. At first I thought it would be caught but when rounded first base, I saw it was out."

"I then thought I only need 620 more to catch Hank Aaron."

THE FINAL NUMBERS — Tenth inning Hero, Joe Morgan, Cincinnati (8), is congratulated by National League All Star teammates catcher Manny Sanguen, Pirates, left, Tug McGraw, New York, bare headed, Ron Santo, Chicago Cubs and Cesar Cedeno, Houston (28), after he scored the winning run to give the NL a 4-3 victory over the American League All Stars Tuesday night at Atlanta.

COOKIE ROJAS 'Thought We Had Good Chance'

ATLANTA (AP) — "I thought we had a good chance of winning," Cookie Rojas said after nearly being the hero in the 43rd All-Star Game when he stroked a two-run homer in the eighth inning, putting the American League ahead briefly.

But the Nationals came back with a run in the ninth and the winner in the 10th on Joe Morgan's run-scoring single Tuesday night for a 4-3 victory and a 24-18-1 edge in the series which started in 1933.

"It was quite a thrill," said Rojas, a 33-year-old infielder with the Kansas City Royals. "It was a great personal achievement, but I still would have been happier if we won."

Rojas, who has hit only two home runs this year and 39 in his career, was asked about the drive which just cleared the fence in left field with Carlton Fisk of Boston aboard, giving the AL a 3-2 edge.

"I thought it might be caught, I believe it hit Billy Williams' glove. But when I rounded first I saw it was out and thought: 'I only need 620 more to catch Hank Aaron.'"

Rojas said he hit a hanging inside slider from right-hander Bill Stoneman of the Montreal Expos.

Earl Weaver, AL manager, said that Rojas probably wouldn't have played if it were not for starting second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota telling the Orioles skipper in the seventh inning of a pulled rib cage muscle which was bothering him.

Weaver then was asked why he played his infield back hopping for a double play in the ninth inning on Lee May's bouncer with his club leading 3-2 and runners on first and third and none out.

"We can get out with only one run if we get it and have a chance to win in the next inning," he added.

"He added that if the infield were in, May's bouncer would have gone through to left field and the Nationals conceivably

SAN DIEGO (AP) — This city, which lost its National Basketball Association team a year ago, is the apparent winner of a new expansion franchise from the American Basketball Association, it was reported today.

The San Diego Union quoted the operator of the San Diego Sports Arena as saying he had been told by ABA officials Tuesday that the franchise was awarded to Leonard Bloom, a San Diego dentist.

Police Nab 32 Scalpers

ATLANTA (AP) — Thirty-two persons were arrested on charges of ticket scalping at the All-Star Game in Atlanta Tuesday night.

Sgt. A. L. Elsberry, head of the police gambling section, said he and nine other plainclothes officers infiltrated the crowds several hours before the game.

DA's May Give Up Private Practice For Higher Wages

AUSTIN (AP) — District attorneys are facing a decision whether to give up their right to practice law on the side if the legislature will raise their pay substantially. The Texas District and County Attorneys Association is expected to debate the question with its potentiality of conflicts of interest at its convention Sept. 14-16.

Dain Whitworth, association executive director, said a legislative proposal is being prepared to pay district attorneys in counties of more than 50,000 population the same as district judges. District attorneys now receive $15,000 a year from the state, while district judges get $22,000. Some counties supplement their pay. Whitworth said the median income for Texas lawyers in metropolitan areas between 50,000 and 500,000 population ranges from $23,000 to $30,000. By comparison, district attorneys salaries are so low that "if outside work were prohibited, you would get some nut in there—someone who is not a good lawyer, who would work for that," Whitworth said. State law now permits both district and county attorneys—with rare exceptions—to practice civil law on the side.

"I'd say a majority of them have a small amount of private practice," Whitworth said. He said "the thinking now" is to tie the association's request to the legislature for big pay raises for district attorneys to a prohibition on outside work. "But some district attorneys don't want it—they don't want to have to give up their clients. I don't know how the association will vote on it," Whitworth said. "There is always a possibility" of conflict of interests, he acknowledged, when district attorneys have private clients who might become involved in criminal cases.

Whitworth said there have been instances where a district attorney disqualified himself and brought in an outside prosecutor to handle a case because of such a conflict. It seldom happens, he added, that a district attorney will prosecute a criminal case involving someone he represents in civil matters. "District attorneys have to run for election, and if there is a conflict of interests they usually step aside," Whitworth said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Appointment of J. Pierce Lehbeck as chief of bureau for The Associated Press in New York City has been announced by Wes Gallagher, president and general manager of the AP. Lehbeck, 35, has been chief of bureau at Albany for four years. He succeeds Douglas Lovelace, who has been reassigned within the general office of The Associated Press. Howard E. # Nixon Wants Uncle Sam To Perk Up Park Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon declared Tuesday it is ridiculous that the federal government owns more than half the land in some Western states and he instructed officials to step up the transfer of little-used federal property to state for parks. But the chief executive told the Federal Property Review Board that he wanted to make sure transferred land was properly used by local and state governments.

The President's comments came as reporters were allowed to attend a portion of a meeting he held with the property review board. He elaborated later in a written statement saying he was pleased with the Legacy of Parks program which has led to the creation of 144 new parks in 39 states.

Pointing to a large map of the United States showing the new parks, Nixon said in some Western states the federal government owns more than half the land. "That's ridiculous," he said. "We don't need it."

He then told the six review board members that he wanted a close follow up when property is transferred to state or local governments. If it is not to proper use, he said, the federal government should reclaim it.

The President did not elaborate on his reference to federal land in the Western states, or say when or how any transfer should take place. Much of the federal land in such states as Wyoming, Utah and Nevada is leased to cattlemen for grazing. As he talked with members of the review board, Nixon stressed the difficulty in getting the bureaucracy to turn over land. "Agencies seem to get a vested interest in every piece of land they have and they fight against turning it over," he said.

Sea Otters Hard Hit By Explosion

AMCHITKA Island, Alaska (AP) — Biologists studying Amchitka Island nine months after it shook from a five-megaton underground nuclear test say shockwaves may have killed as many as 1,000 sea otters in the nearby Pacific Ocean and Bering Sea.

But Karl Schneider, Alaska state game biologist who first asserted that the Atomic Energy Commission blast killed more otters than the AEC estimated, said here there is "no significant long-term damage" to the remote Aleutian Island's otter population. Scientists estimate the island is home for 6,000 to 8,000 sea otters.

Don't Be Lonely

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

OUTSIDER? (Q.) I'm sure you've heard of my problem before. I'm terribly lonely. Oh, I've got friends, but they are not close like the friends other people have. I never go anywhere with them. To be frank they are not really friends. They never invite me anywhere.

When I ask a girl out on a date, I get flimsy excuses which mean no. Help me! — On the Outside in Ohio.

(A.) Don't be so negative and you won't be so lonely. You feel like an outsider because you behave like one. An insider knows that to be in he has to work at it. He doesn't wait for people to invite him. He invites them. He doesn't wait for someone to come to him and make friends with him. He goes out and makes friends with other people. If a girl says no when he asks her for a date he asks another girl.

That is the way to have friends. Select one or two of your acquaintances, either boys or girls, who have something in common with you. Be warm toward them. Let them know you admire them and are interested in them. Work at it.

BACK RUBBING: (Q.) I like this boy and we get along pretty well, but I am afraid he is trying to deceive me. His family came from another country and he talks to me about the customs there. He told me he has two girl cousins, both 17, our age, and that when he visits they call him into the bathroom to rub their backs while they bathe.

Sex Crimes Slackening

LONDON (AP) — Murder and other violent crimes are increasing in Britain while sex offenses appear to be slackening, the government said today.

Official figures showed that crime in general rose 5.8 per cent last year, compared to 1970, and jumped another 5.3 per cent during the first three months of this year.

In the United States, however, FBI figures show all crime rose 7 per cent during the first half of 1971. Violent crimes of all kinds in the United States increased 11 per cent, and forcible rapes were up by 7 per cent.

In England and Wales there were 176 murders last year, compared to 135 in 1970, the government said.

NO FURY LIKE A WOMAN SCORNED 'Female Chauvinist Boors'

By DEE WEDEMEYER Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Feminist Betty Friedan, who predicted a male backlash as the result of female chauvinism in the women's liberation movement, has run into a backlash of her own.

"This seems to be a case of hell has no fury like a woman scorned in the women's movement," said Olga Madar, a vice president of the United Auto Workers and a member of the policy council of the National Woman's Political Caucus.

Miss Madar was one of many women who sprang to the defense of Gloria Steinem and Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., when Mrs. Friedan singled them out as "female chauvinist boors," antithetical and part of an ideological split within the feminist movement.

IT'S WORSE

Miss Steinem and Mrs. Abzug were restrained in their reaction to Mrs. Friedan's magazine article and news conference Tuesday until it became clear that word of the so-called split made headlines. In increasingly stronger terms, Miss Steinem and Mrs. Abzug offered their rebuttals.

"I think it is not honest of me to say there are no disagreements. There are," said Miss Steinem. "It's worse that women think there is some big philosophical split than that they understand the real problem with one person. Of course there are tactical differences, but we also work together."

"But an individual who has delusions of inventing and downing the movement is bound to attack other women who raise their heads. Philosophy has nothing to do with it."

Mrs. Abzug described the article as "theoretically inaccurate and factually wrong and subjective, sensationalist literary projection."

FANTASIES

"Many people have fantasies," she said. "But few write them down."

Mrs. Friedan, author of "The Feminine Mystique" and a founder of the National Organization for Women, criticized feminists who portray women as super virtuous and men as the enemy.

Mrs. Abzug was criticized in the article for running against Rep. William F. Ryan, a supporter of women's rights, in a primary battle, after her own congressional district was gerrymandered. She lost.

Some women interviewed said that perhaps this dissent was a healthy sign that the movement was strong enough now that women could disagree publicly, but most viewed the arguments as unfortunate.

MIRACLE?

Wilma Scott Heide, national president of NOW, stressed that no single individual or organization should be regarded as speaking for the whole movement.

She said there were some philosophical differences but not of major consequence.

"We didn't start out at the same place, it would be a miracle if we ended up at the same place," she said.

Solar System

HOUSTON (AP) — The world's foremost authorities will debate questions on the dynamics of the origin and future of the solar system, the motion of the moon and the million-year behavior of our and other galaxies.

Dr. Victor Szebehely, professor of aerospace engineering and engineering mechanics at the University of Texas, has received a $25,000 grant from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to conduct an advanced study institute in dynamical astronomy in Europe.

The university's Center for Celestial Mechanics is cosponsoring the institute which will deal with the motion of natural and celestial objects such as planets, satellites and stars.

More Newsmen Killed In Viet

SAIGON (AP) — Four more newsmen have been killed in Vietnam, bringing the death toll to six in the four-month-old North Vietnamese offensive.

Canadian photographer Gerard Hebert was hit Saturday by an artillery shell as he ate with South Vietnamese paratroopers near Quang Tri City.

Two television cameramen from Singapore, Terence Khoo and Sam Kai-Faye, and a South Vietnamese army photographer, Tran Van Nghia, were cut down by rifle fire 200 yards off Highway 1 last Thursday. Their bodies were not recovered until Sunday.

Foul Mouth

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a 21-year-old daughter who will be a college freshman. She was raised in a moral and decent home. Lately she has begun to pepper her language with filthy four-letter words.

When I told her that I found her language offensive, she said everybody talks that way nowadays, and I should "get with it."

I am 50 years old and am not about to "get with" filthy language. My daughter says, "They are only words, and it's a person's right to use the words he wants to use."

I would like your opinion. OFFENDED MOM DEAR MOM: The "right" to swing one's arms ends where the other fellow's nose begins. Tell your daughter to "get with" and launder her language in your presence. No one has the right to pollute the atmosphere with audible garbage.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is young, 25, and she is naturally big busted, and usually a little cleavage shows when she wears a dress with just a normal neckline. My parents think this is in bad taste. They invited us for lunch at their country club, and told me to please tell my wife to wear something with no cleavage showing. They say nobody dresses that way at a country club.

Abby, if I were to tell my wife what they said, you would hear screaming from Los Angeles to New York, so I turned down the invitation.

I like the way she looks in these dresses. Most of the women in my family are flat-chested.

I don't know how they dress at country clubs, do you? J. IN MIRADA, CALIF.

DEAR J.: I doubt if a woman wearing a dress with "a little cleavage" showing would be out of place in any country club.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder how many houseguests there are who think they are being helpful to their hostesses, but are actually making more work for them?

When a guest has slept in one of my beds and is leaving, why on earth would he carefully make up the bed — spread and all? I have to tear it apart in order to change the linen anyway.

Also, some guests will use towels, and then fold them so neatly I can't tell which towels have been used and which haven't. If they would leave the used towels a bit rumpled it would be so much easier for me.

Also, some people's idea of "washing" dishes is to run hot water over them. I'd prefer to have dirty dishes left in the sink for me to wash MY way.

Please rush this into print, Abby. I am expecting some "helpful" houseguests soon. NAMELESS BUT SERIOUS DEAR NAMELESS: Consider it rushed.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "OLD TIMER." He who takes but never gives may last for years but never lives.

There Is No Appeal Mrs. Lee

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The congregation of the Cathedral of the Holy Spirit, the Rev. Shirley Carter Lee, the second woman ever ordained as a minister of the Southern Baptist Church.

Controversy had been brewing all week after Mrs. Lee revealed in a newspaper interview that she was three months pregnant at the time of her marriage in May to an ex-Catholic priest.

The Kathwood board of deacons voted earlier Sunday to request the congregation to rescind the ordination of Mrs. Lee.

Local congregations in the Southern Baptist Church have the power to ordain ministers and, if they please, to rescind their ordination.

There is no appeal. However, Mrs. Lee could theoretically find another congregation to reordain her.

Mrs. Lee, who was ordained last August, works as a chaplain for two inmate facilities of the South Carolina Department of Corrections in Columbia.

In a story published July 17 in the Charlotte Observer, the Lees said their decision to have a child was one "between two consenting adults." They said they had decided to marry before they knew about the pregnancy.

Radio Exec Allen Dies

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Former San Antonio radio executive Paul Allen English died Tuesday at a local hospital of injuries received in an auto accident near here, a spokesman said.

English, 44, who used the professional name Paul Allen, was injured early Sunday when a jeep in which he was riding overturned on a gravel road on a ranch near Hondo, about 40 miles west of San Antonio.

He was well known throughout South Texas as a disc jockey and later served as general manager of San Antonio Radio Station KITE.

He was airlifted to a local hospital by an Army helicopter used in a civilian emergency aid program based here at Ft. Sam Houston.

A hospital spokesman said he rallied briefly Monday but was returned to the critical list and died about 11 a.m. Tuesday. He lived in San Antonio.

$3 MILLION DIVORCE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Bruce B. Dayton, the department store magnate, will pay $3 million cash as part of the settlement in a divorce with his wife Gwendolen.

Under the divorce granted in Hennepin County District Court, Mrs. Dayton, 52, will get the couple's home in Wayzata and its furnishings plus other property.

Dayton, 53, is chairman of the board of Dayton Hudson Corp., which operates department stores in Minneapolis, Detroit and elsewhere. He was sued for divorce by his wife of 28 years on the grounds of a course of conduct detrimental to the marriage relationship.

The settlement, which calls for no alimony, stipulates that Mrs. Dayton will receive $800,000 within 15 days and eight subsequent payments of $275,000 each on the anniversary of the divorce.

'Cool Million' New NBC Caper

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After a fling with relevant themes and a flirtation with law and order shows, television is going all out this fall for entertainment.

Don't look for many messages on the tube in the fall. Among the new shows, it's mostly comedy and adventure.

NBC's "Search"—formerly called "Probe"—is about a globe-trotting special agent hooked up electronically via satellite to a computer.

ABC's "Delphi Bureau" pits a research specialist with a retiring nature and an encyclopedic brain against the nation's enemies.

Jefferson Keyes operates in that rarified atmosphere reserved for the superpowerful and the super-rich and collects $1 million for solving a case. That's NBC's "Cool Million."

"It's about as close as I can get to pure escapist entertainment," said Roy Huggins, executive producer of "Cool Million."

"But I try to keep it on solid ground. I want the audience to enjoy it and they can't enjoy it if they don't believe it."

James Farentino, one of Hollywood's busiest actors, portrays Keyes.

Farentino, late of "The Lawyers" segment of "The Bold Ones," is sandwiching in five 90-minute episodes of "Cool Million" between movie assignments, appearances on TV variety shows and other commitments. "Cool Million" will be one of three rotating shows on the NBC "Wednesday Mystery Movie."

Huggins, a curly haired, ruddy Irishman—who created

"Marverick," "The Fugitive," "Run For Your Life" and "Alias Smith and Jones," has written two of the episodes for the show.

And About Causes, Too

We shall never be able to cope with the drug problem in the United States as long as we treat the symptoms or the end result rather than the disease.

Practically all of our effort to date has been directed toward control of the drug traffic. It has been an impressive exercise, from Operation Intercept along the border with Mexico to subsidizing the cultivation of crops other than poppies in Turkey. It has reduced the flow of narcotics, but it has not eliminated it. Nor is any enforcement agent prepared to say that the effort will be completely successful. Some drugs will get through, in spite of every precaution.

How then can we proceed to treat the basic disease or causes of drug addiction?

It is a very complex question, though. Sheer boredom can be a cause. An Army psychiatrist in Vietnam reported that a soldier about to be returned to the United States entered the amnesty program to cure himself of drug addiction. The soldier said he wouldn't even think of seeking a cure if he had to stay in the Army in Vietnam. Youthful experimentation can and often lead to addiction. It is possible to provide a counter-motivation, one that exists the idealism of youth in a search for a worthwhile goal?

Alienation and disillusionment with American life, either by reason of discrimination, neglect, or sheer hopelessness, disenchantment with materialism, the secularization of religion, and the callous insensitivity of government, all have a part.

The list of reasons for drug addiction can be expanded. But those suggested give an approximate indication of the magnitude and complexity of the problem of drug addiction.

We could, of course, just throw up our hands and persuade ourselves that there is no answer to the problem. We can say with some confidence that the problem, after all, is confined to a small minority of the population. But humanity and a natural concern for the welfare of all our brothers and sisters will not permit us to flee from the problem nor abandon the search for remedies.

Some of the vast sums spent for control might also be used to exploring the causes and searching for basic remedies. We cannot pretend that the solution is more or better law enforcement, although adequate enforcement must be a necessary element in the search. We cannot hope to find a cure as long as we remain ignorant of the cause. And even then, part of the problem will persist, as witness that of alcoholism.

Chapter And Verse, Please

Rate reductions, ranging up to 10 and 11 per cent for many areas, are being recommended in car insurance. But in breaking down the territory, our rate comes down to about half that because we are in what is loosely called the Oil Patch.

Presumably, the reason for this is a higher rate of losses to premiums within this sector as compared to the remainder of the state. We'd like to call for a little chapter and verse on that. Are we having that many more claims, or are our claims costing us that much more?

There's Nothing New

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

As Solomon once observed, there's nothing new under the sun.

On the 14th of July, 1903 in Prairie Dog Hill, a Howard County community known now only to archeologists, the celebrated international dominoes championship matches were inaugurated.

THE PRINCIPLES for this event were Cackle Burr, esteemed champ from Sanco, in Coke County, Texas, Senior Grande Seiseysels. The esteemed Mr. Burr had advanced to the finals by dispatching the Southwestern domino kings all the way from Terlingua to Waxahachie and from Dime Box to Texoma. Senior Seiseysels simply awed everything south of Rio Bravo.

As legend has it, the match was scheduled in the parlor room of the Dry Gulch saloon, which was surrounded by the settlements horse lot, a clump of mesquite, the windmill, and an apothecary.

ALL WAS in readiness for the first match, but Mr. Burr did not show. Three days later, via U. S. burro mail, a message came that he was dissatisfied with the financial arrangements, namely that his percentage was not proper. This puzzled the promoters since they could not discern what difference any percentage of nothing made. On the fourth day, however, Mr. Burr showed, impeccably dressed, clean-shaven and reeking of witch hazel.

IN THE first match, after quibbling over the tables, the dominoes, the judges, the location, Mr. Burr was induced to play his double two as a spinner, having drawn four other deuces, but Senior Seiseysels slapped on the six to, his hot-blooded, enthralled, being ill-conceived. Moments later, confronted by treys on either end, Mr. Burr was obliged to play his six three since it was the only trey he had. Whereupon Senior Seiseysels pounced upon it with the double six, chortling, "They don't call me Seiseysels par nada."

AND SO IT continued until he had an insurmountable lead. Mr. Burr threw in the sponge before the game was over, but with loud complaints about the squeaking of windmill. It was, he said, a distracting influence. So they shut it down, but when he fared no better in the second round. Then he demanded that the brass spittoons be removed on the grounds that they had a resonant reverberation when hit with a bullseye and from across the room.

In the third round, however, Mr. Burr astutely sent the Mexico challenger to the boneyard early in the round, and, having the remaining rocks that would play in his hand, forced his adversary to draw all the remaining dominoes. Whereupon Burr blocked the game and got the domino.

THE TRI WEEKLY Carrot, which dutifully reported the matches, noted that the contest had reached a war of nerves. This sudden stroke upset Seiseysels so much that he blew the fourth match, resigning midway in a fit of pique. He announced he was going jackrabbit hunting to relax. And so it went through the 78th game, all event and with neither further ahead than two games. The Carrot reduced its coverage to a few paragraphs and finally to a sentence. The once great crowd of domino aficionados gradually dwindled until only the janitor remained, and then he came only on Tuesdays.

ULTIMATELY the table wore thin and the spots disappeared from the dominoes, and yet Burr and Seiseysels played on, neither able to convince the other of his superiority. When the settlement faded into oblivion, they were still plumping down spinners and playing to them. If you know where Prairie Dog Hill was located, you can stand on a certain nearby hill today and still hear the clicking of dominoes, and a babble of demands.

Checking Extra-Texas

Robert E. Ford

Tossed a spare shirt and a stick of credit cards in the automobile the other day and headed north and west to make certain that such states as New Mexico and Oklahoma are taking good care of our property.

COLORADO, Wyoming, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas citizens foolishly believe they bought their states from Texas for $10 million back in 1850.

Any truly loyal Texan knows that isn't the truth. What we did was accept a lump sum for an indefinite lease and if they don't keep the property in good shape, we just might reclaim it.

Drove the entire breadth of Oklahoma and didn't see even one Indian.

This is very encouraging, as it shows that Oklahoma has the Redskin Menace under control.

Actually, the Indians probably were out of the state following Jane Fonda around, nodding their heads in unison when she told about how they were mistreated.

DON'T KNOW that Texans can be too happy about the way Kansas is maintaining our property.

For one thing, Kansas hasn't done anything much about the Tornado Menace.

At least half a dozen persons said, yes, Kansas still has tornadoes. "But they never hit anything," they add hastily, meanwhile looking apprehensively over their shoulders.

NEW MEXICO does a much better job of farming the highways. It looked like several crews were cutting and baling hay on the median strips. Kansas is full of illusions. You look along the horizon — and Kansas is nothing if not horizons and wheat — and you think the country is filled with huge cities with towering skyscrapers.

And when you get to the skyscrapers, turns out they are only soaring grain elevators and the adjoining city consists of a filling station and a truckers' restaurant. Kansas must have a million elevators.

Particularly wanted to see Kansas because it is called the Sunflower State.

Didn't see a sunflower the breadth and half the length of Kansas. Only one seen on the trip was a single, lonely yellow plant on a median strip deep in Colorado.

BETWEEN SANTA Fe and Albuquerque, it's terribly dry, and they need to get out a few thousand lawn sprinklers and wet down all that ranch land.

Why, Albuquerque admits that it has 361 days of sunshine annually. We hope the city's application for federal drought aid has been approved.

Colorado is just filled with problems and we suggest that the next session of the Texas legislature cancel Colorado's lease.

For one thing, the state has allowed a lot of debris to pile up. The map calls them mountains, which is useful to know as not many Texans are acquainted with them.

Must admit these mountains are right pretty. Perhaps we can claim one of the small ones, maybe 500 feet tall or so, and plant it out around Lubbock. It would be a great tourist attraction, for natives from throughout the South Plains would drive there just to see what a mountain looks like.

Why Do People Save?

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The answer to why people save has become not only one of the more puzzling aspects of consumer behavior but each year becomes a more important element in understanding the economy's immediate future.

In the second quarter of the year, for example, the rate of after-tax savings dropped to 6.6 per cent of income. It had achieved a nearly unprecedented rate of 8.6 per cent in the comparable three months of 1971.

As a result, money began flowing into consumer markets, such as for cars, houses and appliances, at the rate of an additional $15 billion a year, boosting the economy into vigorous recovery from 1971's recession.

Why do people save? Once we thought the answer was obvious. Classical economists, who liked precise, neat answers, believed that an increase in interest rates encouraged people to add to savings. Sounds logical, but doesn't higher interest mean that the cost of living is higher also? And don't people tend to dig into their savings in order to maintain their life style?

John Maynard Keynes, the British economist of the 1930s who influenced to some degree almost every economist who followed, approached the question from another angle, stating instead why people spend. Said he:

"The fundamental psychological law, upon which we are entitled to depend with great confidence... is that men are disposed, as a rule and on the average, to increase their consumption as their income increases..."

Well, correct as he was on many issues, it now seems clear that Lord Keynes missed this one. The evidence of recent years, when income rose and so did savings, seems to provide doubt.

As industrial societies develop, individuals acquire discretionary income—income that they can either save or spend, income beyond immediate needs.

George Katona, who headed the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan until recently, studied the phenomenon as closely as any man and developed several basic theories now widely accepted.

Katona found that people don't spend merely because they have the ability to spend. That's only one of the ingredients. They also must have willingness to spend, he found, and this willingness depends upon psychological as well as economic factors.

And people save for the future, of course—for a better home, to educate their children, to provide for their retirement. They save for security, as when they permit cash to accumulate in insurance policies.

People also seem to save because they are educated, and the level of education—if not of wisdom—rises inexorably. The Survey Research Center found that an absence of liquid assets is strongly correlated with little education.

The Morgan Guaranty Trust published an examination of the savings habit that suggests the often-high savings rates of recent years—the norm is close to 6.5 per cent rather than the first-quarter's 8.6—may be due to a new life style.

"There is said to be developing a desire to resist materialistic urges, to avoid ostentatious products, to live more simply and casually," it stated.

"Small cars, providing basic transportation," seem to be growing in popularity. Retailers report many instances of consumer preference for "bottom-of-the-line" models, functional but without extra features or fancy decorations."

War Chest Source

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — The waist-deep mire of money corrupting the political process has a special section reserved for organized labor. Playing the money game of big business, the unions are in trouble and they have thereby put in the hands of the Federal government a powerful tool to punish or forgive. This is one of the levers the party in power is manipulating to re-elect President Nixon.

WHEN THE TEAMSTERS' union came out for the President and got Mr. Nixon's personal thanks, it had all the shock of a feather falling on velvet. The Administration had paroled the Teamsters' Jimmy Hoffa. Teamster President Frank E. Fitzsimmons who presented Mr. Nixon with campaign bouquets was given virtually sole authority at the last Teamsters' convention to parcel out the union's political kitty.

Ralph Orr, labor reporter for the Detroit Free-Press, broke the story that Fitzsimmons' son, Richard, had been charged with putting union funds to his personal use. The charge involving the use of union credit cards was brought by the Department of Labor. The Department of Justice sent it back to Labor on the ground that the $2,400 involved over five years could have been for union business. "Come up with more evidence if you want us to prosecute," Justice said.

THE SWAMP of swamps is the United Mine Workers, whose president, W. A. (Tony) Boyle, was convicted the other day for the illegal use of union funds, sentenced to five years in prison and fined $130,000. The conviction was based on contributions of $49,250 — $30,000 of which went to Sen. Hubert Humphrey for a "salute to Humphrey" dinner during the 1968 campaign.

TWO YEARS AGO the indictment of Paul Hall of the Seafarers Union for illegal political use of union funds was dismissed by the trial judge who had some harsh words for the Department of Justice for failing to push the prosecution. The amount in the indictment, $40,000, was said to be part of a larger sum, a considerable share going into Republican campaigns.

Union spending is peanuts alongside the big money that comes from business and the paymasters of business. The long investigation into International Telephone and Telegraph showed a contribution to San Diego for the Republican convention of $100,000, with a pledge of another $100,000. The Justice Department ruled that as a gift to the city this was not covered by the Corrupt Practices Act forbidding corporations to make political contributions.

TO PARAPHRASE that most-quoted of quotations, all money in politics from special-interest sources corrupts, big money corrupts absolutely.

Repeated attempts have been made to put campaign financing on a nonpartisan basis. The latest proposal was to give every Federal taxpayer the option of deducting $1 from his income tax, the dollars to go into a fund to be divided between Republicans and Democrats. President Nixon killed that one by promising to veto the tax reform bill of 1971 if that amendment was attached to it. The Republicans with a war chest of many, many millions have no interest in that kind of financing.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could all do without:

Heat waves and people who make unnecessary waves.

The sound of triphammers. Letters from worthy causes that blithely tell us we can "contribute $25 or even less."

Front-page romances between giant pandas too young to know what real love is.

Recipes for personal happiness by movie stars who can hardly spell the word.

Quarter coins so light you can't tell them from nickels.

Veal cuts at $3.29 a pound.

Any armchair strategist who has never been to Vietnam but thinks he knows what'll solve all the problems there.

Summer cocktail parties in the apartments of people whose air-conditioners have just expired.

Girls who borrow a cigarette from you and then wait for you to light it for them, too.

Girls who won't lend a man money—unless he takes them out to lunch with it.

Management morale messages on the office bulletin board intended to keep the staff from lapsing into the summer doldrums.

Post cards from executives letting their subordinates know what a wonderful time they're having on their vacation.

Spoiled milk in the refrigerator and a plate of cold meats turning sour.

Announcement of new weapon systems that cost more apiece than it used to take to run the government for a year.

No seat left in the coach car except one next to a tired fat mother holding in her arms a wailing child with waving stick fingers.

From these and other afflictions and inflections, deliver us, Amen.

How About Issues?

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The general impression given by aides at the Republican and Democratic headquarters is that millions of voters may approach election day without a clear idea of what each candidate stands for and that a campaign virtually of a personal nature is necessary to win the votes of a majority of the citizens in each state.

THIS SEEMS surprising in a Democracy in which the people are well informed or at least can become acquainted with the facts by reading newspapers and magazines or watching television during the next three months. The notion is being conveyed that voters are lined up by pressures of various kinds, and that there is not the freedom of choice which is so often boasted of in the United States.

There is, to be sure, a demand for organizational work. Lots of people are indifferent and will not register or go to the polls on election day unless urged to do it. But a vast number do not need to be pushed into the voting booths. In many cases, there will be unpleasant kinds of what might be called "pressure."

SOONER OR later, there will be an inquiry as to the forms of coercion used in presidential elections, because voters should not be subjected to any undue influence. When members of a large organization or business are told that their head wants them to vote for a certain candidate, then freedom of choice is impaired.

Recently, the press has published a number of items telling how some labor-union officials have announced their preference for individuals seeking office. Actually, union members are intelligent enough to make up their own minds about who they want to see elected president of the United States.

Perhaps meetings of labor unions can be held and speeches made presenting the point of view of one political party or the other.

QUITE A number of organizations will be formed, of course, whose sole objective will be to pledge its constituents to vote for the nominee extolled. These will extend throughout the country. Many of the local units of this kind not only contribute funds but also participate in various movements that help the nominee to win and manage to become a recognized body of campaign workers who later seek rewards and get them.

BUT HOW A MAN votes is his own secret. As far as the campaign workers are concerned, they can only tell whether their arguments on behalf of their candidate have been successful when the final returns have come in.

My Answer

What can a man do if he loves his wife and he knows she loves him, but he continues to see another woman? It would be hard to give either one up. I will be looking for your answer in the Cincinnati Enquirer.

O.P.H. One of the first and most important statements in the Bible is in Genesis 2:24: "Therefore shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall cleave unto his wife, and they shall be one flesh."

All through the Bible is taught rigid marital fidelity. It is both psychologically, physically, and spiritually sound. To have more than one woman is practiced in many parts of the world and is considered a sign of masculinity and strength, and some men feel little guilt about this.

But, of course, it is alien to the Christian concept which teaches that monogamy is incumbent upon those who would build a Christian home and live a Christian life.

Of course, you know you are guilty of adultery, and obviously you have begun to feel the pangs of this guilt. You will find plenty of company today, for the trend of the times is free-wheeling sex, much like it was in the days of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Recently, one of the advocates of the permissive philosophy said to the press: "I would give all that I have and own if I could find just one woman who would love me." Sex outside the bounds of true love is a mockery and a sham. The empty pads of Haight-Ashbury are proof that sex without love doesn't last, and neither will yours. A divided love is no love at all.

A Devotion For Today..

Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land. (Hosea 4:1) PRAYER: Father, we thank You for Your matchless grace and for the power of the Spirit that strengthens us in time of crisis. Use us to communicate the Word to people and to help restore truth, mercy, and knowledge of You to the land. In Jesus' name. Amen. (From the 'Upper Room')

"Spending Controlled" Says Purchasing Agent

"Control of purchasing plays a great part in finances of a city," said Bob Butler, purchasing agent for Big Spring, speaking to Spring City Chapter, American Business Women's Association, Tuesday evening in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

"Communications can often be a problem," continued Butler. "A person that needs an item must be able to identify the object exactly to avoid ordering the wrong thing."

Since he became purchasing agent, Butler said the volume of orders has increased four times, and the number of suppliers has also increased. He said this enables the city to order in larger quantities, thus avoiding costly charges of small shipments.

"Each department in the city is asked to plan ahead," concluded Butler. "It must submit a department budget which is first reviewed by the city manager and then sent to the city commissioners for final approval." Following his talk, Butler led a discussion period.

Mrs. Dale Fryar presided. The meeting marked the second anniversary of the chapter, and 10 charter members were present. Another 10 members were recognized for perfect attendance during the past year. The cake, decorated in chapter colors of black and gold, was served by Mrs. Phyllis Cox and Miss Mary Curtis.

Mrs. Vernon Schroeder, counselor for Vera Metric Cosmetics, gave the vocational talk, and displayed an Aloe Vera plant to show where oil in the cosmetics originates.

Members agreed to assist at the Starlight Specials Aug. 8. Invocation was by Mrs. Fred Butler, and benediction was by Mrs. Harold Bentley. Guests were Mrs. Tony Barton, Mrs. Geraldine Dietz and Mrs. E. J. DeVlaeminck.

The next meeting will be a covered dish supper at 7:30 p.m., Aug. 22 in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Rainbows Observe Honor Night

Miss Sandra Dickenson, worthy advisor of Order of Rainbow for Girls, Assembly 60, presented gifts to past worthy advisors in observance of "honor night," Tuesday evening at the Masonic Temple. Receiving gifts were Terri Manns of Midland, Peggy Grant, Sharon Andrews, Cindy Williams and Susan Smith, all of Big Spring.

In other ceremonies, Mrs. O. L. Nabors presented an age majority certificate to Sharon Andrews, past grand representative from Vermont to Texas.

A hostery drive originally scheduled Saturday has been postponed until September.

Several girls discussed the meaning of Rainbows, and the role the organization plays in their lives.

Guests were Mrs. Bill Elliott and several members of Norman Reed Assembly in Midland. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ocey Mason, Mrs. Alden Ryan and Emily Boyd.

'ROUND TOWN

Back home for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. PAUL SOLDAN, is Mrs. M. J. PEDESCO and her little daughter, Rachel. Mrs. Pedesco is the former KATHLEEN SOLDAN and she is living in Troy, N. Y. The two plan to be in Big Spring until Aug. 18.

MRS. JOHN KNOX got back Sunday night from a three-week vacation trip that took her to Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri and numerous family happenings. The big event was the celebration in Lebanon, Tenn., where the family gathered for the first time in 12 years and honored their father on his 84th birthday. Later Mrs. Knox went to Carmi, Mo., to visit former Big Spring neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. JIM HYMAN. At Kirkwood, Mo., Mrs. Knox attended the wedding of a nephew which also brought to the city the Knoxes daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. JOHN STUHL and son. The Stuhls went from Kirkwood to Lebanon to visit her grandfather before returning to their home in Northfield, Minn.

A LOVELIER YOU Spot Trimming Aids Summer Shape Up

By MARY SUE MILLER

How has your figure survived so far this summer? Most lovelies gain a pound or two, an inch or two. Weekend sneezes and laziness on hot days combine to tip the scales and tapes.

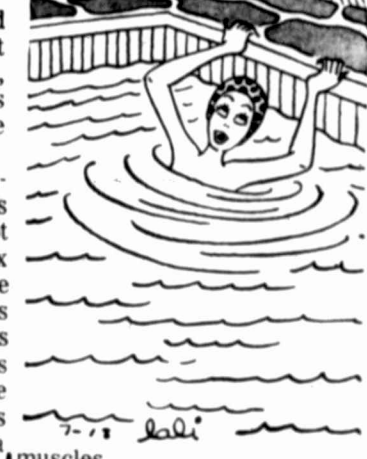

Don't you realize the summer's half over? It really is time to start needed spot trimming. There's barely six weeks before fall fashion time — those new, tiny waistlines that accent the measurements of the bosom above and the hips below however slight; those hemlines just above the ankles revealing an ounce of extra weight.

Here's how to trim, and never was any system so cinchy:

To tidy waist, take this one lying on bed or beach. On back with legs together and hands clasped on top of head, stretch tall. Now contract waist muscles with an accordion action — hard. Hold for 6 seconds — relax and repeat 10 times.

While standing (waiting for a bus, let's say), improve legline contours simply by contraction of muscles upward. Start at ankles, continue through calves, knees and thighs. Repeat as often as possible.

In bathtub or swimming pool, firm bosomline by gripping edge behind head. Alternately push forward and back for 1 minute. Work for tugs in chest muscles.

Easy and yet so effective! LAZY EXERCISES

Here's an effortless way to trim off heavy spots. All you do is lie down or sit down, and flex your muscles. If that's for you, send for "Lazy Girl's Exercises." Based on the isometric principle of exercise, routines trim head-to-toe figure. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Garage Sale Set By PBX Club

Plans were finalized for a garage sale by members of PBX Club of Big Spring, Monday evening at a meeting in the home of Mrs. John Ray 1307 Runnels. The sale is scheduled Aug. 12-13 at the home of Mrs. Jack Barber, 2508 Seminole. The next regular meeting is at 7 p.m., Aug. 14 in the Directors Room, First National Bank.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I am passing on a hint for a person with vision trouble. The State Library for the Blind gives out a record player for these people to use as long as necessary.

The records (called "talking books") are furnished free also. When my mother's sight began to fail we got one of these record players for her to use.

We put casters on a small table and added a shelf below for her to use for the records she hadn't heard.

She can roll the table anywhere in the house that she wants it and it provides her with many hours of enjoyment.

Perhaps this method may appeal to other parents of teenagers.

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever make too much macaroni and cheese for supper?

Here's an idea I came up with that is delicious.

If it has been baked, pick off the browned crust and discard that.

Then measure the amount you have (allow about a half a cup per person), and after cooling, add the usual macaroni salad fixings.

Hold off on the mayonnaise until the last. There may be enough cheese sauce to give you the desired consistency. But wait a day before fixing the macaroni for a reappearance. Your family will never know it's just plain old leftovers.

Mrs. J. Ellis

Dear Heloise:

One night while I was working on my favorite hobby, knitting, I broke the end off one knitting needle.

The stores were all closed and I didn't have any other needles of that size.

So I stuck the broken needle (plastic, of course) in the pencil sharpener and sharpened away. Believe it or not, it works great. I'm still using it, two years later!

Secretaries' Convention Underway In Chicago

The 27th annual convention of Association, Int., is being held through Saturday in Chicago, Ill., marking the 30th anniversary of the organization.

Mrs. Sue Ratliff, president of the local club, briefly outlined the growth of the international club at a meeting Monday evening in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

"NSA is the world's leading secretarial association," said Mrs. Ratliff. "It now has 650 chapters and 29,000 members throughout the United States, in Canada and Puerto Rico." The theme for the convention is "30 Years of Progress Through Performance."

Mrs. R. C. Thomas led a discussion about the examination necessary for a certified professional secretary's certificate at the Monday meeting. Comments concerning advantages of acquiring a CPS were given by Mrs. William Bryans, Mrs. Jo Callahan and Miss Marguerite Cooper, all CPS's. Guests were Mrs. Jeannie Darden, Mrs. D. W. Overman and Mrs. Bill Emerson. The group will meet for a salad supper at 7 p.m., Aug. 28 in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

'Closer To Him Than Anyone'
CHICAGO (AP) — Guy Shubert is dead and the East St. Louis blind association to which he dedicated the last 22 years of his life is not able to bury him.
Shubert, 73, blind since 1950 and choked by emphysema, worked without pay for the Benevolent Blind Service, Inc. He was a public relations man, a fund raiser and business agent for the firm, which raised $750,000 in the last quarter century.
"If it hadn't been for a man like him, we never could have done it," said the Rev. Lloyd Calvert, head of the association.
"The man had one lung and couldn't breathe, but he always kept going."
Shubert died Monday of burns suffered when his bed in Mercy Hospital caught fire. The body was taken to the Cook County (Chicago) morgue.
The Rev. Mr. Calvert, himself blind for 37 years, said he would like "to bury Shubert in our plot and honor a man with his dedication."
"But we're not relatives and there's some kind of law," he said.
The minister said he didn't know too much about Shubert.
"You could tell he was a college educated man and I think he was once a banker," he said. "He had a son but we were closer to him than anyone."

Label Warns Of 'Dehydrated' Ape
PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — The public relations director at the Paducah school system may have come up with a way to get people to open envelopes that look like just more junk mail.
Shirley Williams has devised a stamp to put on the outside of an envelope which says:
"WARNING: If you throw this in your wastebasket unopened, a capsule of water inside will break, spilling out a dehydrated gorilla. He will then jump out of the envelope and hug you to death."

Borden Grand Jury Asks Tightening Voting Proof

GAIL — Recommendations by the Borden County grand jury for preventing fraudulent voting were filed today in 132nd District Clerk's office here.

The recommendations stem from the grand jury's probe last week into charges against four persons for allegedly voting illegally in the Democratic party primary election in Borden County.

It was alleged that the individuals, former Borden County residents, voted in the primary election although they lived outside Borden county and were ineligible to vote in the county.

Grand jurors returned no indictments against the four, but recommended that the cases be presented to a later grand jury panel should new evidence warrant.

According to 132nd District Attorney Lealand W. Greene, the current grand jury held that there was insufficient evidence to support indictment.

Jurors recommended that election officials wishing to challenge the vote of a person he believes to be an ineligible voter should request the challenged voter to present a signed affidavit attesting to voting eligibility.

Grand jurors further recommended that the challenged voter present a signed affidavit from a well-known Borden County resident attesting to the voter's eligibility.

Jurors suggested that election officials warn all persons presenting such affidavits that they can be charged with false swearing, a felony, should the information in the affidavits be found to be false.

In addition to its voting probe, the grand jury returned indictments for possession of marijuana against Kenneth and Steven Barrow, both of Lamesa.

Mullen To Attend National Parley

Thomas H. Mullen, a Big Spring High senior, will represent Webb AFB Federal Credit Union at the third annual National Youth Advisory Board conference in Mount Horeb, Wis.

The conference begins Sunday, and concludes Wednesday, Aug. 2.

Mullen, 18, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Mullen, 416 Dallas.

The over-all goal of the national conference is to evaluate the progress of existing Youth Advisory Boards and other credit union youth related programs and to develop conclusions which will aid in the further growth of such programs.

At the conference, Mullen will report on the progress of the Webb YAB program and gather information concerning other Credit Unions' youth programs across the nation.

Kids Frustrated? Let Them Work It Off With Dough

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Kids angry? Got problems? Frustrated? Let them work it off with dough.

Jane Fleischer, family life education specialist of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says playing with dough acts as a channel of exploring, experimenting, creating and expressing deep feelings for children two to six years old.

"The dough stimulates different kinds of thinking," she says. "Notice the child's comments and exclamations as he handles it."

The Texas A&M University specialist says play dough develops large and small muscles as well as eye-hand coordination. It also provides sensory experiences.

"As an outlet for emotional release," says Miss Fleischer, "it becomes an acceptable means of working off anger and other problems. As the child pounds and squeezes it, he drains off his angry feelings and makes them more manageable."

Make your own play dough by combining one half-cup of flour, one-half cup of salt, three teaspoons of alum and enough water to hold it together. Mix as for dough and bread to the consistency of clay.

Then store in a lightweight plastic container. Wrap it in a wet towel and snugly fasten the airtight cover.

Dough play, anyone?

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

A skillful defense combined with an adverse division in trumps led to the upset of South's four heart contract when the latter failed to take countermeasures to protect himself.

West opened the ten of clubs which proved to be an effective choice. The queen was played from dummy and East, after some thought, signaled encouragingly with the eight. If the lead were a singleton, he was surrendering an opportunity to give his partner a ruff by not going up with the ace and continuing the suit—but if that were the actual distribution, then he always had two natural club tricks by retaining the ace-jack behind North's king. If West has a doubleton club and a quick entry, however, it may prove vital to retain communications in the suit order to cash two club tricks subsequently.

South attempted to counter East's play by leading over to his king of diamonds and then back to dummy's ace and queen—on which he discarded one of his remaining clubs. The queen of hearts was now put thru for a finesse, losing to West's king. The latter returned the nine of clubs which East overtook with the jack, to continue the ace.

South ruffed with the ten of hearts in order to prevent a cheap overruff and West discarded a spade. Declarer then played the ace. When East showed out, it revealed that the West's nine of hearts was established as a second trump trick for the defense and inasmuch as South could not avoid the loss of a spade as well, he was obliged to concede a one trick setback on the deal.

It would not have availed declarer to ruff in with the eight of hearts on the third round of clubs, since West would have overruffed with the nine. There was only one way to counter the defensive strategy. After South takes his club stuf on the queen of diamonds, he must lead a fourth round of the suit and discard his remaining club.

As it turns out, West is in with the jack of diamonds, but is unable to get his partner back in. If he switches to the king of spades, South merely ducks, wins the continuation with the ace and takes the heart finesse. West is in for the final time with the king, but whether he returns a spade or a club, declarer ruffs and draws trumps, losing one trick each in spades, hearts, and clubs.

If West shifts to a low spade when he is in with the jack of diamonds, declarer must rise with the ace and take the heart finesse. Thanks to the fortunate division in spades, West is unable to get East in again and South loses the same three tricks.

If East has the fourth diamond, declarer discards a club as before and West will presumably do the same. If East leads back the ace of clubs, South ruffs with the ten of hearts and West will presumably take a discard in order to develop a second trump trick. Declarer now plays the ace and another heart. West puts up the king to cover North's queen and presumably switches to the king of spades. The ace is played from dummy and the king of clubs is cashed on which South discards his remaining spade while West ruffs in. Declarer wins the return and draws the last trump with jack of hearts. His losses are restricted to one diamond and two heart tricks.

Did Not Fire Fatal Shots

ROMA, Tex. (AP) — A Starr County deputy sheriff, Adolfo Ramirez, said Tuesday he did not fire the shots that killed Jose Angel Solis, 20, a Mexican national, wanted in connection with the shooting of four people.

Solis died Monday afternoon as a result of bullet wounds suffered during an exchange of gunfire Sunday with police officers in the outskirts of Roma.

Ramirez said Solis was shot once in the head. The bullet went right through him, he added.

The deputy sheriff denied having fired any shots.

An Associated Press story Monday identified Ramirez as the person who shot Solis.

Authorities said Solis was wanted in Mexico on murder charges. He reportedly drove a stolen pickup truck in Cerralvo, Mexico, and then drove it at high speed across the international bridge at Roma.

Later he went to a motel where, police said, he shot a clerk and took two persons as hostages.

He then engaged into a running gun battle with police until the truck slammed into a tree and Solis was shot during the exchange of gunfire.

PROPOSES SPIDERS IN SPACE — Officials at NASA have announced that Judith Miles, 16, of Lexington, Mass., is one of 15 high school students from 16 states, whose proposed experiments will be used on the American Skylab space station next year. Judy's experiment calls for the use of two spiders on the trip to determine the effects of weightlessness on the spider's web-spinning ability in space. Two special glass and aluminum cages are being built for the project.

Big Difference

PRAGUE (AP) — Ever since he was 13, Roman Skamene has been acting in films. After his title role in Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper," he was getting so much fan mail the postman refused to carry it and the boy had to go to the post office himself to pick up his 200-300 letters a day.

Though directors describe him as a "God-given talent" and Roman has tried three times to get into the drama academy he was always turned down as "lacking in talent."

Now That You Know, We Don't Have Two-Star Box

Almost 11,000 postal patrons help get mail delivered here in Howard County have received pamphlets from the post office describing efforts by the postal system to provide better mail service.

Included are explanations about mail boxes with one star (denoting later pickup).

Big Spring has only one one-star box — no two star boxes.

"This is because our last mail departure is at 5:30 p.m.," said Postmaster Frank Hardesty, "so we have to clear the boxes 35-40 minutes before then. The only exception are the courtesy boxes in front of the Post Office which are checked at about 5:20 p.m."

Most of the special boxes are in larger metropolitan areas, according to Hardesty, and will
