Puzzle of Saturday, Oct. 7, Solved

They May Help

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I enjoy your no-nonsense, unequivocal answers which I find very informative.

I am in my mid-60s, and about 20 months ago found that I couldn't get up from bed without severe pain in the lower back.

X-rays disclosed sacro-lumbar arthritis, but I comfort myself with the knowledge that it isn't the crippling kind, and I know that few of us escape the ravages of time.

I use an electric heating pad in bed and in back of me when viewing TV. It is mildly helpful. I don't walk as much or as rapidly as formerly, particularly when each step causes pain. On other occasions, although I am conscious of stiffness, I keep walking so I won't become immobilized.

I would like to try either diathermy or sonar-wave treatment. I know this is only a palliative, but I understand the heat penetrates deeper. — M.B.B.

Thank you for appreciating my unequivocal answers. So I shall now equivocate.

I just don't know whether diathermy or sonar will help. It is true that the heat penetrates deeper. That's the purpose of those methods.

This heat will not correct the changes in bone shaped that have occurred, but like any warmth, it will soothe and relax muscles which often become tense when you have arthritis.

So all I can say about these methods is: try them. See if they help. But don't expect more than you can reasonably expect to gain.

You show a pretty sane attitude toward arthritis. Keeping joints flexible, even if it hurts, is vastly more sensible than letting them stiffen and become more or less useless through lack of movement.

At the same time, in your particular type of trouble, it is not too unusual for the pain to disappear after a while because of further changes that may take place in the joints of the spine.

I have no doubt your doctor has given you some guidance on what type of activity or without harming it — and medication can make it less painful.

There's one other thing I'd suggest. Your pain is worst when you first get up in the morning. It may be because your mattress is too soft and doesn't give quite enough support while you're asleep.

An inexpensive way to test that out is to insert a bed board (good stiff sheet of plywood) between the springs and mattress, to minimize the sagging. It's not the sort of thing that can be guaranteed to help, but it does so in a surprisingly large number of cases, and is well worth a try.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have never had german measles. We would like to start a family in about a year. If I got a german measles vaccination, would this make the baby immune in the early stages of pregnancy? — K.T.

In the early stages of pregnancy, the only way the fetus, or formative baby, can

To Mail Seals For Christmas

More than 3 million pieces of mail will go out to Texas homes, including Big Spring, during the mid-October bearing Christmas Seals for the 1972 campaign of the Texas Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association (TTRDA) according to Dr. Travis Smith of Abilene, president of the TTRDA.

"It is through the donations we receive from these Christmas Seals that we finance our fight against tuberculosis, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, smoking, air pollution and a host of other respiratory diseases," Dr. Smith said.

The bulk of the Texas mailings will be deposited in U.S. Post Offices on Oct. 7, with another mailing toward the end of the month. Big Spring residents will receive theirs from the San Angelo office, according to Mrs. A. E. Elmore, member of the regional board from Big Spring.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ10754 ♣KJ95 ♦752
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ INT Dble. 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. You have a minimum opening bid despite the fact that partner has shown distinct values by doubling one no trump, it would be your strategy on your part to take voluntary action which would show a hand with considerable excess values. Partner should have the next say.

Q. 2—As South, not vulnerable, you hold:
♠J10 ♣AQJ10 ♣Q5 ♦J10743
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass Pass 1 ♠
Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠
Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two no trump. This hand contains 11 points in high cards and you should certainly make one use of those values, are distributed in all four suits. Partner bids three spades, call it a day.

Q. 3—As South, not vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK10 ♣AQ983 ♦842 ♣Q5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two hearts. This hand is not eligible as a two no trump rebid because it lacks a stopper in diamonds. Valued at hearts, this hand is worth 16 points which places it at the top of the minimum range.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A962 ♣J10943 ♣10544 ♠J
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass Pass 1 ♠
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ 3 ♠
Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Your hand has little in the way of defensive values. As a matter of fact the only trick taking possibility you have is the ace of spades which may dissipate tricks your partner expected to win. It seems improbable that the three club contract can be defeated when you recall that partner passed originally. In self defense you should return to three spades.

Q. 5—You are vulnerable, have a part score of 70 and hold:
♠AKQ9653 ♣A64 ♦K5 46
What is your opening bid?
A.—I would be inclined to relax the standard requirements for two bids in this case. There is too much likelihood that partner even with definite values will take no action over a one spade bid which "put you out" and a slam may be missed. An opening bid of two spades is recommended, with the suggestion that you tread lightly after that.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠9853 ♣Q109 ♦AK3 4A5
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
3 ♠ Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Slam possibilities should not be overlooked with this powerful hand, and the way to start probing is by a one bid of four clubs. Your next step will depend upon partner's action at this point.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ107432 ♣J5 4J52
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—With this hand you have but one aces—hearts, and the suggested call at this point is four hearts. If partner wishes to go to five clubs he is at liberty to do so but, we would rather string along at this point with a seven card suit.

Q. 8—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK875 ♣2 ♦QJ5 ♠K763
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Our choice is for a temporarily bid of four clubs. That the hand will surely make at least six clubs there can be no doubt, but by proceeding slowly we may obtain sufficient information upon which to base a grand slam effort, giving immediate club support is preferable to a rebid of the spades.

Solons Meeting Again With Most Of Work Still Ahead

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators had most of their 30-day special session behind them today but most of their work still ahead of them. Both houses meet at 11 a.m. Most senators and representatives returned to Austin expecting to make a final decision some time during the week on competitive insurance rates—the primary reason Gov. Preston Smith gave in calling the emergency meeting on Sept. 18. Smith first said he would limit the session to insurance rate reform and to restoration of the governors' budgetary powers. Later, amid considerable complaining, the governor added 24 other tasks to be tackled by this session which includes many "lame duck" senators and representatives who will not be around when the 1973 Legislature meets in January. At the end of last week the Senate had passed six measures and sent them on to the House. The House had not cast a final vote on any issue but had two bills waiting on its debate calendar. In both houses it apparently will take unusual efforts to get the main subject of the session, competitive rates for car and house insurance, up for a final vote. Speaker Rayford Price told newsmen he was not optimistic about the House Insurance Committee recommending passage of such a bill. "But there will be a report to the House. It will not be left in committee," Price said. Even if the committee does not recommend the bill a majority of House members could demand that it be brought up for debate. In the Senate a similar competitive rate measure was stalled last week by a 3-3 vote in a Senate committee. It also could be brought up for debate by majority vote of senators present.

Bankers Book Mayor Lugar

DALLAS (AP) — In Dallas Mayor Roger J. Lugar will be the keynote speaker here today at the opening session of the 98th convention of the American Bankers Association. The convention unofficially opened on Saturday, but most of the weekend was dedicated to social activities including a trip to Texas Stadium by the Bankers to watch the Dallas Cowboy-Pittsburgh Steelers football game.

Bombers Strike Communist Forces Threatening Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — From 250 to 500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong still held Huong Phuong village and three hamlets 15 to 20 miles north of Saigon today despite heavy air strikes. The enemy force occupied the hamlets Friday and Huong Phuong on Saturday, cutting Highway 13 between Saigon and a big South Vietnamese military headquarters at Lai Khe, 30 miles north of the capital. "I don't think anyone regards the threat to Saigon today as significant because of the relative capabilities of the two sides," said one U.S. source. "The South Vietnamese territorial forces and regular units have good defensive capabilities. The North Vietnamese units are still under strength from previous combat. They are still capable of terror attacks by fire, sapper attacks and perhaps small infiltration efforts, but the likelihood of any main attack on Saigon is rather remote."

'Communistic Niggerism'

Editor's Note: The Ku Klux Klan which wielded its political and social power with terror and impunity during the 1920s is rebuilding in the 1970s with ballots, bumper stickers and ball point pens. Associated Press writer Victoria Graham looks at this resurgence in a three-part series which begins today. In an interview with Grand Dragon William Chaney, she tells in the first part of current Klan activities. The concluding article tells why some of its members have joined the Klan.

Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Ku Klux Klan that ruled Indiana with terror and pageantry in the 1920s says it's rebuilding its realm in the 1970s with ballots, bumper stickers and ball point pens.

The hooded order that dominated Indiana from the rural tavern to the Statehouse holds open conventions at Holiday Inns and files complaints with the Indiana Civil Liberties Union.

VISIBLE EMPIRE

The "invisible empire" is more visible than at any time since the civil rights backlash of the 1950s and 60s and is wielding the highly visible tools of community organization, advertising and old-fashioned prairie politics.

Grand Dragon William Chaney of Indianapolis told the Associated Press Indiana's Klan "is the most formidable—the strongest north-of-the-Mason-Dixon Line."

Chaney, a part-time paper server for Decatur Township Justice Court, says the Klan "doesn't want to burn and destroy. We're going to bring about change in the political arena... If we use violence we might as well blow our own brains out."

FREEDOM

But in case the ballot doesn't produce the desired results, King Kleagle Paul Book of Kokomo readily admits the Klan "is training vigilantes and will use them for self-defense if blacks, socialists and communists take over and we lose individual freedom."

The Klan claims to be organizing junior Klans in racially-troubled schools and providing "intelligence materials" about the Black Panthers said the Students for a Democratic Society SDS.

Crosses still are burned on lawns. Virulent literature about "communistic niggerism" still finds its way into manufacturing plants, neighborhoods and high schools. The Klan still has its brushes with the law over weapons permits, illegal mailings, court injunctions and alleged possession of dynamite.

Chaney himself is appealing a conviction in Ann Arbor, Mich., last March for possession of a concealed pistol and tear gas canister.

But the heritage of the night rider and the taint of violence are being played down today in favor of slogans of law and order and political change.

Chaney, a corpulent man with a waxed moustache and a Southern Drawl, readily agreed to an interview in a southside Indianapolis tavern which he said was owned "by one of us..."

DON'T SAY THAT

"But don't say that," the Dragon admonished with a wink over his beer, "the Klan officially frowns on this sort of thing."

Chaney, a former advertising salesman, provided reams of Klan leaflets, provided other Klansmen for interviews and said, "Any publicity is good as long as we can get people to say 'Klan.'"

He compares the Klan "to an iceberg—only the tip shows. We'd bloom out like a rose at night if only people weren't afraid and the FBI would stop harassing us."

State and local police agree if uncheck the Klan would grow much faster in Indiana. Although Chaney refuses to divulge membership figures, law enforcement officials place the membership of record at about 500, with a dedicated core of 150 card-carrying Klansmen in 15 units or Klaverns.

Five years ago the membership was virtually zero. Police attribute the Klan's latest resurgence to the backlash against court-ordered school busing in Indianapolis and the salesmanship of Chaney, a former Kentucky farmer, miner and truck-loader.

Chaney compares himself to an evangelist and says his goal is to organize basic Klan units of klaverns in all 92 counties and bring about 400,000 persons—10 per cent of Indiana's white population—into the Klan fold.

He says Indiana is especially fertile ground because it has many southerners and is the fountainhead of the John Birch Society and the American Legion. But Indiana is only one of the clearest examples of a nationwide campaign to recruit members and legitimize the Klan without sacrificing its gothic appeal.

The Klan is holding more ceremonial cross-burnings and full robed street walks in courthouse square than five years ago. They conscientiously check with police to comply with local regulations but prefer private property for cross-burning rallies.

The Klan occasionally scatters leaflets in neighborhoods at night and shopping centers during the day, sometimes placing leaflets on windshields of cars at NAACP meetings, according to police.

Work Begins On Building

Construction is underway on a 7,800-square foot maintenance building at Big Spring State Hospital.

J. W. Little Construction Company is contractor for the project which will cost $94,250.

The structure will have a central area for carpentry, welding, plumbing and minor auto repairs. Two adjacent bays will provide sheltered storage of ground maintenance equipment, construction materials and paint. Located on the west side of the hospital grounds, the building will be surrounded by an eight-foot chain link fence.

A parking lot for 40 cars will be provided. Completion is scheduled by April, 1973.

A recreational building at the Torrell State Hospital will incorporate a gymnasium, library, music room, stage, occupational therapy area and the hospital's clothing store.

Total floor space is approximately 18,308 square feet. Cost of the project is $513,475. The all-metal building is expected to be completed next August.

Presbyterians Meet Here

Representatives from some 60 Presbyterian churches of the Tres Rios Presbytery US and UPUSA will convene here Tuesday and Wednesday at First Presbyterian Church.

The meeting begins at 2:30 p.m. with elders from the churches excepted to take part in the annual fall business session.

A Holy Communion service, open to all, will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Richard B. Hardie, Western Hills Presbyterian Church, Little Rock, Ark., will speak after the rites.

The meeting lasts through Wednesday noon. Church representatives attend from a distance encompassing El Paso, part of New Mexico and all the way up into the Panhandle.

Post Office, Banks Take A Holiday

Banks, the post office and most federal offices have been closed today in observance of Columbus Day.

Special delivery mail was to be delivered Monday, said Postmaster Frank Hardesty, and the only outgoing dispatch for the day left the post office at 2 p.m. Lock box service was provided for boxholders on Monday, but there was no home delivery by city or rural carriers.

Columbus Day traditionally is observed Oct. 12, but under a new federal schedule, it was moved to Monday as have several other holidays, including Veterans Day.

BIG SPRING HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, MONDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1972 SEC. B

'VD Is The Gift That Keeps On Giving,' Cavett Warns

NEW YORK (AP) — We'll have trouble explaining this, but there's an entertainment show on tonight about venereal disease. It's on because VD is a topic most parents have trouble explaining to those who count—their kids.

The program is "VD Blues." It stars Dick Cavett and lasts an hour. It'll appear on most of the Public Broadcasting System's 223 stations at 8 p.m. and an hour earlier in Central Time states.

It'll be succeeded in at least 85 cities by follow-up shows that explain local VD problems and hopefully inform those who know or fear they have VD where to go and who to call for treatment.

TWO BIGGIES

The show makes a valiant try at combining good entertainment with sound information about VD. Its theory is that the straight approach usually falls on deaf ears and causes slumber.

And the message is aimed at the young, enticing them with brief guest appearances by members of music's youth establishment—Arlo Guthrie and scruffy Dr. Hook and the Medicine Show.

Cavett, who majors in wry comment each week night on ABC, stays in character for "Blues." And he's a fortunate choice as host.

He explains the "two biggies"—syphilis and gonorrhea—in the terms most people use, yet remains disarming enough to get the message under way before the "wash-your-mouth" cries commence.

LOVED ME

"VD is the gift that keeps on giving," he warns. "VD is the disease of people who love people. And nowadays there are a lot of young people loving young people because we've got a VD epidemic on our hands... and other parts of our anatomy."

Cavett will attract the young viewers. Alas, the show's opening skit may drive them away immediately. It's a long, precious saga, written by Jules Feiffer, about a lady who learns from her doctor that she has syphilis. And that he gave it to her and doesn't want her to name him as the donor.

"You said you loved me once," the healer pleaded.

"That was the once," the lady explains.

It's Feiffer's way of illustrating what Cavett explains in a few sentences—that tracing VD carriers often is difficult because some doctors won't report them to public health officials. The usual given reason is that this violates the doctor-patient relationship.

WILL ARGUE

The best segment, written by Clayton Riley, illustrates the real problem of getting VD treatment in the ghetto. Would that he had written the whole show. He has uncannily accurate eyes and ears. And taste.

And he has it all down—the clinic closed for lack of official care and funds, the black militants and stuffy bureaucrat arguing in tongues only television cameras understand, the officious nurse who turns away the scared, infected ghetto girl.

His contribution is well worth the wait. It's a shame that it arrived so late in "VD Blues," which as entertainment is composed of one-third brilliance and two-thirds crudity and boredom.

The show, produced by WNET here, will anger many. But despite its faults, it also may save thousands of young people from venereal disease.

Scheduling Yet?

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Ralph and I have been married for two years, and we are still very much in love, but here's our problem: Ralph is "scheduling" what used to be our most beautiful and romantic moments, and I don't like it.

He says, "No romance until after Johnny Carson."

Abby, sometimes I don't want to stay up that late, because I have to be up at 6 a.m. sharp every day, but Ralph stays up to watch the whole show no matter who's on.

I think he's being selfish, and he thinks I'm being stubborn. I'd like your opinion. And in case you think this is a gag, I'm signing my full name, but please don't use it. Sign me...

SLEEPY TIME GAL IN MPLS

DEAR GAL: If your husband isn't turned ON until Carson is turned off, you need more help than I can give you in a letter. I'm afraid the honeymoon is "recurrence." I make my share of recurring errors, but this isn't one of them.

DEAR ABBY: I do not drive a car, so I do a lot of walking. My problem is that I have been threatened, frightened, and nearly bitten by dogs. How does one defend himself against dogs without appearing ridiculous?

Please help me.

AFRAID OF DOGS

DEAR ABBY: Will you take a tip from a veteran mail carrier who has picked many a bone with a dog? He says the government provides each mail carrier with a can of "spray," which is an animal repellent. Also, instead of a cane, carry a leather belt with a big knot in the buckle end, and if a dog attacks you, give it a good clout on the nose with the knot. Also, never turn your back on a dog or run, for he'll surely attack you. Finally, if you are in doubt as to the dog's friendliness, check his tail. If it's stiff—reach for the spray!

Sharks Invade

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — Dozens of sharks invaded a beach area near this north eastern Brazil city to attack a dead whale, police reported.

State Fair Fans Increase... DALLAS (AP) - Near perfect fall weather has helped push attendance at this year's State Fair of Texas to almost a half million persons after the first two days.

State Fair Fans Increase... A total of 491,771 visitors crossed the turnstiles at the fairgrounds here over the weekend, compared with almost 50,000 less persons who did the same thing the first two days last year.

State Fair Fans Increase... Starting with a special program at the Fair Park Coliseum in the morning and throughout the day, various groups dressed in bright costumes danced folk dances and sang Czech songs for the crowds of people.

Tiger Population... KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) - The National Zoo Council said it would ask the government to ban shooting of tigers and export of their skins. It claimed the tiger population has dropped from thousands to 500 in the past 50 years.

Kaleidoscope's Impact Hit Both Students, Teachers

HEAR, FEEL, LEARN — Education is a fun experience at Kaleidoscope. Ten-year-old Melinda Porras uses two of her natural senses while she listens to 20 music boxes and feels the vibrations the sounds emit. Melinda is in the fifth grade at Bauer.

By BARBARA LORD
Kaleidoscope has ended. Friday was the last day of the creative art program for children which was set up at Lakeview School for 10 days.

As Kaleidoscope, which was organized by Hallmark Cards, continues on its national tour, it leaves in Big Spring a mountain of memories for the 3,500 elementary students who spent an hour in the multi-colored rooms of a child's dream world.

The reaction of the students was obvious to anyone who had the opportunity to watch them as they created art objects in Kaleidoscope's workshop or as they listened, heard, visualized and touched items in the "idea room." They all loved it. They wished it could last longer, and they hope it returns.

Generally, elementary teachers are as enthusiastic about the program as the children. A sampling of remarks from teachers who took their students through, shows that all of them hope to incorporate some phase of the program in their own classrooms.

NEW POSSIBILITIES

"It's great. That's all you can say about it," said Mrs. Roy Anderson who has taught in Big Spring schools for about 30 years. "Kaleidoscope is one of the greatest assets to the teaching field I've ever seen, and I've been around for a long, long time. There's no end to the possibilities it provides for teachers, and I plan to use the ideas in my classes." Mrs. Anderson teaches fifth grade at Kentwood.

"I thought it was interesting to see what the girls responded to and what the boys responded to," said Mrs. Robert Bradshaw, a fifth grade teacher at Airport. "They all enjoyed everything, but girls seemed to prefer working with the yarn while the boys were more caught up with painting. The entire program is tremendous. Even students who aren't normally 'balls of fire' will get inspired with that much room and that many materials."

CREATIVE EXPERIENCE

"All of my students wanted to know if it was coming back next year," said Mrs. William Addy who teaches second grade at Park Hill. "The idea room was a new experience for most of them, and it made them think a lot about their senses." She believes children expressed themselves more freely because there was more room and more materials than found in regular classrooms.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS — James Hayes, fifth grader at Bauer, doesn't know which room of Kaleidoscope he enjoys most. Here he peers from the studio workshop back into the "idea room" which he just left. Both rooms offer new and imaginative facets of learning.

"It was a creative experience that can't be beaten," said Mrs. Mark Alexander, third grade teacher at Boydston. "You can do your own thing in every phase of participation. None of the students had had that experience before, and I hope to carry some of the ideas back to my classroom."

Another Boydston teacher said simply that it was "wonderful." "I've never seen 53 children together with so little noise and so busy," said Mrs. R. F. Davis who teaches second grade. They didn't show any of their bad habits while there, and they couldn't come back down to earth when they left. The program provides every incentive children want." Mrs. Charles Phillips has had a "creativity table" for her first graders at Kentwood for a long an idea for an art project and they go into it with something in mind. Kaleidoscope's method was to just give them the materials and let them do anything they wanted." They got completely involved in their creating."

COULD BE BETTER

A general consensus of teachers at Lakeview School thought the over-all program was good but could have been better. "The end products turned out too stereotyped," said Mrs. Mamie Lee Dobbs, spokeswoman for the teachers. "We think it would have been better if Hallmark hadn't provided any examples of what could be done. When small children see as example, they think that is what is wanted, so they try to copy it."

"From the preview film we received of the program, we thought there would be much more originality involved on the part of the students," continued Mrs. Dobbs. She said the teachers felt the idea room stimulated more creativity ideas than the workshop room did because the kids were keyed up and excited. Mrs. Dobbs said the program provided many good ideas that she plans to use in teaching. "When the program ended I rushed down to take notes before they folded it up just to make sure my ideas for art activities weren't stimulated just temporarily," she said.

The children enjoyed themselves and they all have a bag of items they created which they were allowed to take home. Miniature Kaleidoscope kits with various materials included are being sold for 75 cents at the Big Spring High School library.

Easy To Change

Cabinet design need no longer be a deterrent to the woman who wants to change her decor scheme.

Scovill's Azaj residential hardware unit calls attention to the demountable hinge that permits changing cabinet doors without removingscrews and hinges, and thus going along with a new room design. Its self-closing feature eliminates the need for magnetic friction catches.

THE LIONESS HEARTED — Little Mona Lisa Ruiz isn't quite sure she wants to be a lion, but the "imagination" booth at Kaleidoscope offers her other options. She can be a fireman, astronaut, clown, or 'Lucy' of the Peanuts comic strip. Mona Lisa is a fifth grader at Bauer Elementary School.

A LOVELIER YOU 'With It' Slang Often Shows 'From It' IQ

By MARY SUE MILLER

There was a time when a lovely spoke nothing but the King's English. She never resorted to slang or slur. Her speech was correct. And although she might sound a bit stilted to our ears, her standards were essentially right. It must be admitted that today's slang words are handy, colorful, and often pinpoint an idea. But do be careful in your use of them. They should be used, like pepper, purely for seasoning. Persons who perpetually speak in slangy terms demonstrate a lack of training and imagination. A girl may think she's "with it" but she sounds "long gone from it" if you will pardon my slang.

The criteria of attractive speech are a low but audible voice, fully enunciated words, and a choice of words that communicate an idea in an exact and interesting fashion. For repetitive speech there is little excuse. How can you explain away the fact that we are exposed to 25,000 words in the course of ordinary schooling, but use only 1,000?

Whatever one's metier or life style, making a project of rediscovering those unused words would increase one's word power. And the greater that power, the greater one's ability to win and influence people. Words can be a passport to charm, or a visa stamped "No Entry."

WINNING MANNERS

To open a door on increased poise and popularity, send for my booklet, "Winning Manners." Topics included are Introductions, Invitations, Table Manners, The Charming Hostess, You — The Guest, Dating Manners, Formal Dances, Travel Tips and Tipping, Small Points, like when to wear a hat or check your coat. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 25 cents in coin, and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Bleach, Soda Duo Deters Mildew

To combat mildew which has discolored grouting in shower tile, make a thick paste of household bleach and baking soda. The paste should be about the consistency of tooth paste, and should be applied with a tooth brush. After scrubbing the area, rinse with clean water and wipe dry.

For further information and a booklet on how to prevent and remove mildew, write the Home Economics Department, Middlesex County Extension Service, 105 Everett Street, Concord, Mass. 01742.

Aids Workload

While serving dinner, let pots, pans, casserole dishes, or any other utensils which have baked on stains, soak in a sinkful of sudsy hot water. When it comes time to do the dishes, the hardest job will become the easiest because you thought ahead.

Columbus Day Decor For Breakfast Meet

Columbus Day was observed through table decorations when Coahoma Past Matrons Club met for breakfast Saturday at Coahoma United Methodist Church. Hostesses were Mrs. Ernest Garrett and Mrs. Keith Birkhead.

Tables were covered in white linen cloths and centered with models of ships and arrangements of assorted fall flowers. Invocation was by Mrs. Norman Read.

investigate methods of obtaining a piano for club use. Assisting her will be Mrs. Dewitt Shive. The next meeting is at 9 a.m., Nov. 4 at the church, with Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Gus Martin as hostesses.

Hides Wrinkles

If facial hair is prominent or wrinkles and laugh lines are deep, the best type of make-up to use is a translucent foundation with moisturizer. Avoid all matte or chalky make-up or powdery finishes which will only attract attention to these flaws.
