

Glasscock Jail Was Once Courthouse

By MARJ CARPENTER
GARDEN CITY — There probably won't be a birthday party for the Glasscock County jail, but there might should be. It will be 80 years old at the front of the year.

The rock building, which was sandblasted and renovated a few years back, stands on the front corner of the courthouse square.

The reason that it is on the front corner is because when it was constructed in 1893, it was the courthouse.

The courthouse was built later with rocks, from creekbeds in the area, to match the jail. Only the courthouse is larger. Both buildings are almost an exact square, but the courthouse itself has two-story high pillars for decoration.

Both are good solid buildings and not many people get out of that solid rock jail, which was not built for comfort back in 1893.

The courthouse construction was begun in 1906 and completed in 1910, according to Mrs. Vena Lawson, district clerk. Mrs. Lawson added laughingly, "I don't remember that — I heard it."

DATE BACK
 The cornerstone on the building is dated 1909 and includes the names of C. L. Bocard, county judge; B. A. Keathley, Commissioner I. L. A. Lane, 2; W. B. Currie, 3; L. H. Hiller, 4; and Norman Ciro-wood, clerk.

The area was originally settled by ranchers and it did not become known as a farming county until after World War II when the Oliver Daniels' ranch was broken up and sold off into farm land. It was then that a group of German farmers came from Van Court and Rowena and moved to what is now St. Lawrence and began irrigated farming. There is also some dryland farming in another portion of the county.

Out at St. Lawrence, they give strong support to their Catholic Church. In Garden City, there are four Protestant churches, Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and Church of Christ.

Lottery Proposed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations should consider a worldwide lottery to solve its financial problems, according to Ghana. The West African nation said there could be religious or political objections, but that many countries had overcome initial inhibitions and were using lotteries to their financial advantage.

Everybody in the county goes into Garden City to school. St. Lawrence farmers have built themselves a community center. Garden City has a Little League ball park, but no community center.

The district clerk says there are 1,137 residents in Glasscock County — that was, as of Friday. Exactly.

HAD HOTEL
 Garden City used to have a two-story hotel called the Chambers Hotel. "That was in the days when it took a rancher all day to get to town in a wagon to get supplies and he'd spend the night before returning home," one oldtimer stated. At that time, Garden City also had a combined funeral home and furniture store, a dry goods and mercantile store and other businesses.

Now they have grocery stores, hardware, feed and seed store, a cafe and some filling stations but do not try to claim a large business district.

It's a happy-type community — not hurried or hurried. "Those of us who live here live here because we really like it and like each other," a woman stated in the town's cafe. "The only time anybody gets in a big rush around here is the kids from school who come rushing in for hamburgers at noon."

There's not too much happiness in Glasscock County about the recent murder trials around the death of Steve Currie, rancher. The cost of the continued trials and appeals is "breaking a small county financially."

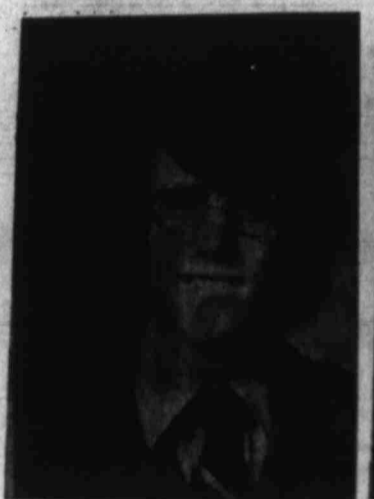

And most of the time it's a fairly peaceful county. One oldtimer, over a cup of coffee stated, "It seems a shame for one murder to cause us so much grief."

CASE OF STEALING
 The old-timers around Glasscock County particularly like to reminisce about the old days when a little community to the north of where Garden City is located stole the post office. The settlement was called either New California or Little California. Memories seem to differ on which was the name.

One dark night the folks out there came in and stole all the mail out of the Garden City post office and tried to set up a post office of their own. The people at Garden City stole it back. And Garden City apparently won out. They have a post office to this good day and the California settlement is gone.

Everybody agrees that the town must have been named for somebody named Garden. "We never have claimed to be a garden spot. We have a few rock gardens," one citizen added.

But small or large, growing or standing still, a garden spot or not, the people in Garden City nearly all seem to agree. "We like it out here."

Two Local Students Win National Commendations

Two Big Spring High School seniors received national recognition this week for achievement in the field of high school English.

John Crawford Hicks and Dana Maria Mancill were both commended for their achievement by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Big Spring High was allowed one entry from last year's junior class for every 500 students in the total school enrollment, according to Mrs. Olen Puckett, department head. To have two of the three entries submitted from Big Spring being recognized nationally was quite an achievement.

After nomination, each student submitted samples of his best writing, including an autobiographical sketch and essay.

The local junior English teachers who prepared the entries were Mrs. Charlotte Irwin and Edward Loveless. This is the second time that Big Spring has had a student named to this accomplishment and the first time there were ever two named locally.

Hicks' teachers during his high school years include Miss Velma Blagrove, Mrs. Elizabeth Johansen and Mrs. Irwin. Dana's teachers were Mrs. Rebecca Hagood, Mrs. Eldene Holbrook and Loveless.

The two students had a completely different set of teachers, indicating strength in the entire high school English department here.

Both of the winning students are also active in fields of high school journalism.

The nation's schools participating in the program nominated approximately 7,200 juniors for the NCTE citations. Of that number, only 870 finalists were chosen. They represent schools from 50 states, the District of Columbia and American preparatory schools abroad.

HC Instructor Authors Ranching, Water Article

Leslie Kelley, instructor in United States and Western Civilizations history in Howard County Junior College, is the author of an article in the recently published book "Early Ranching and Water Resources in West Texas."

Publication of the work was under sponsorship of the Snyder unit of The Ranch Headquarters Association of Texas Tech University, Lubbock, a group dedicated to preserving in permanent form in narrative and pictures the history of this area.

The title of Kelley's illustrated chapter in the book is "Dora Roberts: Howard County Pioneer." Material was gathered from personal interviews with surviving relatives and friends of the pioneer and oil woman, from books published between 1911 and 1942 which dealt in part with her life, and from files of the early day newspaper Howard County Enterprise and its successor the Big Spring Daily Herald.

The author also has recently been requested to compile and write a history of Webb Air Force Base, currently observing its 25th anniversary, and is doing preliminary work on that project.

The request originated through the local organization of the American Legion and HCJC from the Permian Basin Historical Society of Odessa. This work scheduled for completion in the spring of 1973, will be published in a historical journal issued by the department of history of University of Texas, Austin.

Copies will be filed in the archives of the Austin school and in the new University of Texas in Permian Basin at Odessa, and will form the basis of an address by the author in a future meeting of the historical society. The writer also has done extensive work on a biography of pioneer West Texas tent showman Harley Sadler.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley came to Big Spring from Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, in 1951 when he became pastor of Prairie View Baptist Church. While pastor of the church he was a part-time teacher at HCJC. He has also been pastor of Salem Baptist Church and Vealmore Baptist Church in the Big Spring area, and has served as pulpit supply and interim Howard and adjoining counties.

He has been a member of the full-time faculty at HCJC since June, 1959. He has completed all course work for his Ph.D. in Texas Tech University with the major in United States and European history, and minors in English and American literature and education.

Mrs. Kelley, graduate of Hardin - Simmons University with post-graduate work in Texas Tech, has had 17 years teaching experience in the elementary schools of Anson, Snyder, Big Spring and Lubbock.

Angly To Visit Here Tuesday

Maurice Angly, Republican candidate for state treasurer, will be guest of honor at a reception from 10 to 11 a.m. Tuesday at Howard County Republican headquarters, 417 Main.

Angly has promised, if elected, to "put state funds to work earning interest" in contrast to Jesse James, his opponent's placing $4 million dollars in Bank, earning no interest state funds in the Sharpstown whatsoever.

Angly will arrive by plane Tuesday morning and will hold a press conference upon his arrival, according to Ben Bancroft, Howard County Republican chairman. James has held the office of state treasurer for 15 terms. C. V. Riordan recalls that James has been in office since October 1941.

The public is invited to attend the reception. Refreshments will be served by members of the West Texas Republican Women's Club.

Foreigner Again Familiar Sight In China

PEKING (AP) — The foreigner, once detested as an imperialist intruder, is returning in ever increasing numbers to a China which still vigorously waves the banner of anti-imperialism.

Nineteen months ago the Americans were described as the most repellent imperialists of all. This year, following the February visit of President Nixon to Peking, more than 500 Americans have made the China tour, often encompassing visits to the Great Wall, the eating of Peking duck, and lessons in acupuncture.

"The gate of friendly contacts between the people of the two countries is now open," says the official Hsinhua news agency.

QUICK CHANGE

Three months ago, the Japanese government headed by Eisaku Sato wined under repeated Chinese charges it was headed down the garden path to militarism. Yet a month ago the new prime minister, Kakuei Tanaka, returned from Peking with diplomatic recognition. In the words of Hsinhua he had "opened a new page in the history of relations between the two countries."

In fact nearly 4,000 Japanese made the pilgrimage to Canton, Shanghai and Peking in the first nine months of 1972.

More than 500 delegations of all kinds from 90 countries—many of them Communist but a large number not—have come to China.

This has been accompanied by a vast exodus of Chinese table tennis players, basketball, football, ice hockey, badminton, skating and gymnastic teams to 52 countries around the globe, 16 of them with no diplomatic ties to Peking.

Chinese trade delegations, journalists, doctors and diplomats have joined the parade as China's influence continues to widen internationally.

The ebb and flow of foreigners into China, and of Chinese going out, is a product of Com-unist chairman Mao Tse-tung's "revolutionary line in foreign affairs." Under it, the people of a country are described as essentially good.

even if their leaders may be less than admirable. How does this encompass movements called American imperialism and Japanese militarism? In the words of one Chinese here, "They represent a small percentage of the whole."

Though the foreigners are coming back, they do so under Chinese terms. The run-down Tudor houses on "Banker's Row" in Shanghai, occupied by poor Chinese families, the moldering mansions on Canton's Shamen Island, festooned with proletarian laundry, and the once-elegant Peking houses where foreigners once lived, are evidence that the old order has passed.

TMA Stages HCJC Program

HOUSTON — The Texas Manufacturers Association (TMA) will sponsor a College Town Hall Program on the campus of Howard Junior College at 9:00 a.m. on Wednesday, in the college auditorium.

Mrs. Reva Adams, department chairman, is serving as campus coordinator for the program. All students are invited to attend.

Entering its 20th year, TMA's College Town Hall Program, a question-and-answer panel program, provides students with the opportunity to discuss the practical applications of subjects studied in the classroom such as economics, finance, marketing, government and management with business executives of proven experience from area companies.

Candid and informal, College Town Hall Programs are scheduled during both fall and spring semesters in colleges and universities throughout Texas.

Jerry G. Jenkins, vice president, chemical operations, Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, Big Spring, will serve as moderator for the program at HCJC. Panelists will include Richard B. Hull, president, SunLine Boats, Inc., Midland; Doug Henson, economic research officer, First National Bank, Midland; Paul W. Taylor, manager employ relations, Mobil Oil Corporation, Midland; Bob Peavy, production manager, Central Texas Iron Works, Midland.

The Broadway Mansions itself, where foreign correspondents and U.S. military men lived after World War II, is maintained in carpeted luxury, a hotel for Chinese visitors.

Canton's Shameen Island, floating in the Pearl River, is half a mile long, 400 yards wide. It used to be the site of the French and British concessions; after 10 p.m. its two stone bridges were closed to Chinese. Today, Chinese stroll under the shade of its splendid banyan trees or sit over a game of chess. The foreigner draws curious stares.

The Protestant and Roman Catholic cathedrals have fallen into disrepair, and the paint has peeled from the superb villas which line the riverfront. But government offices and Communist trade missions, meticulously maintained, illustrate what it all once was.

Few foreigners live in Canton or Shanghai compared to the thousands of yesterday. But the foreign population of Peking—chiefly diplomats and journalists—grows rapidly.

So far, 81 countries have recognized the People's Republic, among the latest Japan and West Germany. When they move into their embassies, possibly early next year, the diplomatic population will make a large upward bound from its present 1,200.

RESTRICTED

Most diplomats and foreign correspondents are restricted to guided tours.

Many complain of boredom: there is virtually no theater, no Western movies, no symphony concerts, no night clubs or cabarets, no bars.

But there are compensations. Peking food is among the best in the world, the city itself is a collection of cultural splendors, and the Chinese, though less accessible than in the past, are civilized, well behaved and friendly.

There are, too, some positive negatives: no tipping, no mugging, no appreciable smog, and no narcotics.

The old Peking Club, where foreigners once ate strawberries and cream beside the swimming pool, became the International Club under the Communists, a gray, sleepy echo of the brilliant past. It now is being replaced by a bright, new multistory structure on Chang An Boulevard, the wide avenue which runs past Tienamen, the Gate of Heavenly Peace. Next to it is an apartment complex for foreigners.

Some newsmen of the 40 or so resident in Peking occupy individual houses, but most live in apartments reserved for foreigners. Spacious and well built, these are described by their occupants as comfortable "ghettos," little islands in the vast Chinese sea.

Diplomats and newsmen complain most about what seems to be a conscious effort to keep Chinese and foreigners apart.

To the foreigners of the old society this would have been a source of amusement; they spent their time maintaining the walls between themselves and the Chinese.

The new foreigner is a different breed. In general, he has chosen to live and work here because he is interested in the people, the country and its history. He would forgo the luxuries for opportunities to know the Chinese better and on closer terms.

Consortium Will Study Pollution

HOUSTON (AP) — Top administrators of seven Texas universities met here today to form the Gulf Universities Consortium on Air Pollution.

The consortium is funded by a $25,000 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and is aimed at coordinating educational and research efforts of the seven universities in the area of air pollution.

Universities participating in the consortium are University of Texas-El Paso, Texas A&M, University of Texas-Austin, Rice, UT School of Public Health, Baylor College of Medicine and University of Houston.

Fleet Commander Cites Problem

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The commander of the Pacific fleet says the U.S. Navy has "much to do" to calm racial tensions that led to recent disorders aboard two ships.

Clarey said he felt "deep concern" over the racial disturbances aboard the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk and the oiler Hassayampa.

"We have much to do in the Pacific fleet to correct the situation," he said.

Examining Trial Set For Nov. 2

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A Nov. 2 examining trial has been set for a Del Rio man arrested here on a charge of possessing marijuana with intent to distribute it.

David Lee Williams, 21, a former Dallas resident, was arrested Tuesday when investigators said one pound of semi-refined marijuana was found in a paper bag.

According to an affidavit filed with the federal charge against Williams, he was arrested while waiting to board an airliner for Dallas.

The affidavit said a routine inspection of the bag turned up some clothing, the marijuana, and $2,000 in cash.

You'll elect a President and a United States Senator, among others, on November 7th. How the election goes determines how we go, as a state and nation, in the years immediately ahead.

The choice should be clear to Texans by now. It centers on one major point—who is best equipped to get the job done.

Richard Nixon and John Tower have records of performance which speak for themselves. The two have worked hard. And, they have worked well together for the good of all Texans, and for all Americans.

It appears virtually certain that President Nixon will serve another four years. For that reason alone, we must keep John Tower in the United States Senate. We must keep the team together.

In a personal letter to Senator Tower, September 29th, the President expressed his continuing, deep interest in the Senator's political future.

"Your candidacy for re-election to the United States Senate has my enthusiastic endorsement, and I want you to know how grateful I am for your faithful and energetic support of my Administration."

"For over a decade, your leadership in the Senate has been a source of strength to the State of Texas and the nation. Having observed the impressive results of your hard work and having benefited from your thorough knowledge of the issues, especially in the vital areas of national defense and economic policy, I can testify to the importance of your continuing service in Washington."

"We need your informed, articulate voice in the United States Senate to meet the challenging problems that confront America in the coming years."

And, again, the following day the President told an audience in San Antonio:

"I know that there's not one Senator in the United States Senate who has a record superior to John Tower. He's a Tower of Strength."

On November 7th, we need to keep the best team for Texas—Richard Nixon and John Tower.

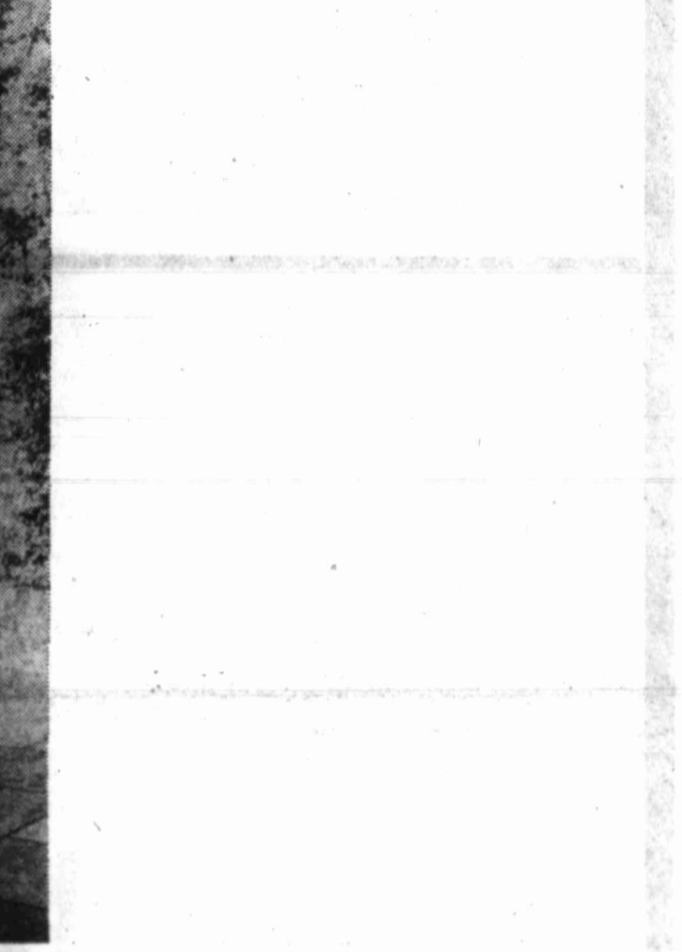

KEEP THE BEST TEAM FOR TEXAS

"I've said it before, and I'll say it again, on the national security issues, whenever we need a good, strong man to speak up we call on him.

"I want to say to this group here that in terms of quality there isn't a man in the United States Senate who is more reliable, a man who has a better record . . . there isn't a man that I need more than John Tower. We appreciate what he has done and we would certainly appreciate whatever you can do to see that he's re-elected."

This is not the year, and these are not the times, in which to try the untested. Now, more than ever, we need men who are rational, men with proven abilities, men we know can handle the job.

On November 7th, we need to keep the best team for Texas—Richard Nixon and John Tower.

On November 7th, we need to keep the best team for Texas—Richard Nixon and John Tower.

Women Try Politics

By RENA PEDERSON
Associated Press Writer

As Nov. 7 approaches a growing number of women in Texas are organizing politically. They lure politicians to speak at luncheons with a voting potential that teases: "Never underestimate the power of a woman."

"We're getting more clout," said Maura McNeil, a Dallas worker in Women for Change. "The politicians who ignore the women's movement and think it's insignificant are the same ones who disregarded the youth vote and the black vote. They'll be sorry."

As Miss McNeil put it, the women's vote is not necessarily synonymous with women's liberation: "Many candidates will say they are not for women's lib, but they are for day care centers, equal pay for equal work and laws protecting the use of one's body. These are basically women's issues but at the same time, they are everyone's issues. That's why a woman's vote is a potential threat."

OUTLET

Women for Change is one of several organizations that have sprung up as a political outlet for women.

Others drawing larger and larger audiences include the National Organization for Women (NOW), the Women's Equity Action League (WEAL), the Women's Political Caucus, and the traditional League of Women Voters. All are taking a political emphasis this fall.

"More and more women are looking at the candidates' stands on issues that will affect them as women," said Sarah Weddington, 28, an Austin lawyer who is running for the state legislature.

"It's more widespread than you would think. Women in urban areas are more visible with their activity, but I have found in my campaigning that rural women are very aware of what's going on."

Mrs. Weddington noted, "one example of how important the woman's vote is to politicians is that during the special session of the Texas Legislature the equal rights amendment proposal was approved with no problem at all. They had their eyes on that fall ballot."

Marsha King, 29, a Dallas worker in the Women's Political Caucus, said that women are examining candidates not only in regard to "women's issues" but other issues they never scrutinized before: "Texas women are reading more about the economy and foreign affairs. But they realize it doesn't do you any good if a candidate promises to get the economy in shape if you're not paid equally to begin with. They are thinking about the issues more, but with a feminine emphasis."

Both Republican and Democratic campaign headquarters reported they are making more of an effort to publicize their candidates' views on women's issues and they are speaking more to women's luncheons as well as the traditional businessman's lunch.

"I think the politicians are catching on to it," said Helen Cassidy of Houston, president of the Texas Women's Political Caucus.

VARIETY

"They sense the strength in the women's movement. I think much of that strength is in its variety. Women cross the boundaries of race and age and class. It reflects the culture and the culture is crying for change. I have inquiries from all over the state from women wanting to know what they can do."

Odene Crawford has been working with the women's political caucus in San Angelo as well as with political parties. "Things are changing," she said. "Some people may think we are not as aware as they are in big cities, but once these people find out about women's issues they understand the humanitarian aspect of it."

Miss Crawford said that in the last year West Texas women have made "impressive" showings in county and precinct politics. She said, "Women are becoming more active not just on women's rights but consumer protection and on sewer rates and on the school board. They've done some pretty good work."

In Waco, there are new chapters of NOW and the Texas Women's Political Caucus. Sherrie Fudge, 24, said the group is basically young—23 to 30 years of age—but that many of the older women have revealed they are sympathetic. "They just don't want to associate themselves with anything too radical."

Most of the organizers are women who have been "radicalized" into the movement by their education, a divorce, a friend. Single women, divorced women and widowed women are the first to feel the need for reform when they come up against property laws, credit methods or restrictive job opportunities. Others say they are attracted by the movement's humanitarian emphasis.

Janet Rollins, an art professor at the University of Texas at Austin, is typical of women who have been "politicized."

"I voted for a candidate on their total views, but obviously that is going to have to include women's views. I don't like to separate women's views from what's good for society, but they are related. Calling attention to the injustices foisted on women is a very good thing, but I hate to hear it emphasized as just a woman's problem. It's a problem for society," Mrs. Rollins said.

"I always ask myself if it is good for the majority of people. Since women comprise half of the population, if it's good for them, then usually I discover it's a proposition that is good for the whole and something that needs to be done."

Yet many Texas women still vote as their husband tells them and are embarrassed by the women's movement.

NOT ALL

"I don't imagine they are all bra-burners like in New York, but they seem shrill and quarrelsome to me," said one Dallas matron. A grandmother in Harlingen said she would "work with political groups but not women's groups because women tend to get too emotional when talking politics. Women don't make good politicians."

Several political observers said prejudice against women in office—by men and women—was one of the key factors that defeated Rep. Frances Farenthold in her bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

"But Frances Farenthold's candidacy was the catalyst for the women's movement in Texas," said Paula Latimer, a women's activist in the Fort Worth-Dallas area. Miss Latimer, who recently received her doctoral degree in English from Texas Christian University, has decided to work fulltime with WEAL on discrimination cases instead of teaching.

"Farenthold brought more women into her campaign than ever worked on a state race before. And she started a lot of women thinking about women's role in politics. Two years from now, she or someone like her might very well make it," Miss Latimer said.

Mrs. Farenthold says the women's vote was a large factor in her support although she never did consider herself as a "woman's candidate."

MANY IN TEXAS

"I never have thought that being a woman was a necessary quality for political office. I just don't think it should be a hindrance," she said.

This fall, nearly a dozen women running for state office in Texas, and Mrs. Farenthold, who was the only female representative last year, said she thinks at least three of them will win. Former state Senator Barbara Jordan of Houston is running for the U.S. House of Representatives and is considered an easy winner.

Betty Andujar of Fort Worth is running for the Texas Senate and there are nine House candidates: Kay Bailey and Dorothy Potts of Houston, Adrienne Glenn of Beaumont, Joan Rose of Seabrook, Jennifer Lee Carney of Austin, Patti Patane of Mercedes, Chris Miller of Fort Worth, Miss Weddington of Austin, Senfronia Thompson of Houston and Delores Gisel of Arlington. In addition, Debby Leonard of Houston is the Socialist Workers party candidate for governor and Annie Spring is the party's candidate for comptroller.

Giant Regional Airport May Be Finished In '73

AUSTIN (AP) — The gigantic Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, one of the largest construction projects in Texas history, is about two-thirds complete and should be finished by late next summer, a business researcher said Saturday.

Construction costs will total about $341.2 million and the total airport investment is expected to reach nearly $700 million, said Charles Zlatkovich of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas.

Land for the 17,000-acre airport between Dallas and Fort Worth cost the two cities $58 million.

Zlatkovich said the airport "will be one of the nation's busiest from the day it opens." Dallas-Fort Worth already ranks 10th among all urban areas in the country as an origin and destination point for domestic air passenger trips, totaling 2.43 million in 1971, he said, adding that it is expected to reach 8.3 million in 10 years.

"An interesting irony of the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport is that while it is the first of the 'jumbo hub' airports in the United States, it may be also the last, at least for the foreseeable future," Zlatkovich said.

"Increased environmental awareness and high-density development around major airports have made them unwelcome neighbors in many cities. The classical solution to the problem has been to move the airport to another site, frequently out in the boondocks. Now, however, many regions have run out of boondocks, except in areas so remote that an airport would be of little benefit," he added.

The only two major airports under construction in the United States are at Kansas City and Dallas-Fort Worth.

The "positive economic effect" on the Dallas-Fort Worth area is predicted at $202 million by 1975.

Zlatkovich quoted John Shaffer, federal aviation administrator, as saying, "What the railroad did for the development of Chicago and the steamship for London will be done for this area by the new Dallas-Fort Worth airport. It's truly the world's best airport. You are developing the world's first inland city."

Environmental Positions Of Candidates Listed

DALLAS (AP) — The chairman of one of the largest environmental groups in Texas has released a statement identifying the environmental positions of candidates in 25 state legislative races and one congressional contest. Edward C. Fritz of Dallas, chairman of the Texas Committee on Natural Resources (TCNCR), said "distinct choices exist" on environmental positions in those races. Fritz emphasized TCNCR "takes no position in elections. Sometimes the Democrat is the pro-environmental candidate," he said, "other times the Republican is preferable." Fritz said the listings indicate which candidates scored well on a questionnaire containing issues selected by environmentalists, and which either scored "poorly" or did not respond. The 5th Congressional District race in Dallas between incumbent Democrat Earle Cabell and Republican Alan Steelman was cited as the most critical race. Fritz said Cabell is listed as a member of the "Dirty Dozen," a group of twelve congressmen cited by Environmental Action, a national citizens group, as "most deserving of replacement." Fritz said Cabell also drew a low rating from Field and Stream magazine and the League of Conservation Voters.

Fritz said Steelman has been endorsed by Environmental Action. Four other Texas races are "momentous" in environmental importance, Fritz declared. In the 17th senatorial district, Fritz said Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston had a favorable voting record, while Republican Jim Nelson did not respond. In the 100th legislative district, Democrat Andy L. Helms of Pasadena was listed with favorable responses, while Republican Ray Barnhart made no response. In Austin, Democrat Sarah Weddington was rated high and Republican Dwight M. Wheeler did not respond. In Dallas, Democratic Sen. William Braecklein was cited favorably, while Republican challenger Jim Wade had no response.

Wedding Held In Pantomime On The Street

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Drunks, street musicians, Jesus freaks and just about everyone else who calls the sidewalks of San Francisco home were there to throw rice and kisses as white-faced mime Robert Shields got married at a wedding which was a silent scenario in pantomime. Shields, who was taught by French mime Marcel Marceau, has used Union Square as his stage almost daily for more than a year. Passing pedestrians are his spectators and people eating lunch are his props. Some who didn't like being mimicked have punched him in the nose. Police have arrested him because his act stops traffic. But the people on the street who like Shields' performance toss coins into a black top hat he sets on the sidewalk. He usually collects about $30 a day.

Television Anthology Is Put Together By Cooke

NEW YORK (AP) — Alistair Cooke can't be all bad. He agrees with H. L. Mencken's thesis that "all journalists are people who like to flap their wings in public." Cooke has been a practicing journalist for most of his adult life, but it's hard to imagine him flapping. Particularly when one recalls him as the quietly British host of television's "America" series from 1952 through 1961. But a journalist he is and he is going to get the words out. After 35 years of writing about the United States, he's finally distilled his impressions into 13 one-hour shows called "America." The first of the lot will air on NBC at 10 p.m. Nov. 14, six days before his 64th birthday. The rest will be broadcast on alternate Tuesday nights. Cooke's two-year tour of the nation with a film crew from the British Broadcasting Corp. ended this month at Cooke's book-lined apartment on Fifth Avenue, the final shots in his study overlooking the northern wilderness of Central Park. Several weeks later, he sat in the study, a lean, animated man in comfortable grey slacks and a sweater, philosophizing about the Americas of 1937 and 1972. It was a gloomy, rainy Friday. And he was saying his tour of America had uncovered a gloomy nation compared to the 1937 model he had described for the BBC and the Manchester Guardian.

Officers Injured In House Raid

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Four men were slashed and another suffered a bullet wound during a raid Friday night on a house where officers said beer was being sold illegally. Authorities said four men attacked the policemen as they were starting to leave. Lt. Jesse Anderson, 36, underwent surgery after a knife pierced a lung and, collapsing. He was described as in serious condition. Attendants said Lt. John Phillips, 30, was in fair condition with face, back and abdominal injuries, and patrolman James Rogers, 28, was treated for cuts and dismissed. Police said they found Albert Jiminez, 21, one of the men in the house, had a cut on the back of his head after being taken to jail and was moved to the hospital. An older man who lived in the house was taken into custody also. No charges were filed at once. Police said two undercover agents bought beer in the house, on the north side of Plainview earlier in the evening. Officers then obtained a search warrant and made the raid.

MORE NEEDED, THOUGH Harvests Slowed In Some Areas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Scattered rains slowed harvesting in some parts of the state last week, but more moisture is needed in many areas, the director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says. Dr. John E. Hutchison, director, said cool, damp weather slowed cotton and grain sorghum harvests on the high-rolling plains. A light freeze damaged some of the late crop. Showers also slowed the peanut harvest in Central and North Central Texas where the crop is producing good yields and grades. Wet weather also halted the rice and soybean harvests in Southeast Texas. Harvesting of both crops is past the halfway mark and yields have generally been good. Stock water is still low in central and eastern areas and supplemental feeding is active due to lack of adequate grazing. Agricultural agents gave these reports: Panhandle: Light rains brought a halt to harvest operations. Harvesting of grain sorghum is nearing the halfway point. Light freezes caused some grain sorghum to fall. Southeast and Upper Gulf Coast: Rains delayed soybean and rice harvesting. Almost half of the soybean crop is in with yields averaging about 30 bushels per acre. The second rice cutting is about 75 per cent complete with yields ranging from seven to 10 barrels an acre. South Central: Some corn, cotton and peanuts remain to be harvested. The pecan harvest is nearing the halfway mark in some counties. Grazing is below average on many pastures and ranges. Screwworms are heavy with Grims County reporting 12 cases in the past week. North Central: Armyworms are damaging some small grains. Some fall vegetables

MOFFATT CARPETS, 609 Gregg St., opens here Monday under ownership of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Moffatt (above), Lamesa. Operating the store will be Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pennington.

Moffatt Carpets Stage Formal Opening Monday

Formally opening Monday is the new Moffatt Carpets store, 609 Gregg St., established here over two weeks ago by Larry and Linda Moffatt, Lamesa. The Moffatts say they have done quite a business with Big Spring people in their Lamesa furniture, carpet and drapery store. Handling commercial and residential carpets (they have laid carpet for junior high schools, courthouses, and have a contract for a library), the Moffatts will feature "good, old lines of carpeting" such as Lee's, Philadelphia, Viking and Dan River.

Pennington in Colorado City and Lamesa. The Penningtons are moving here from Temple to operate the Big Spring store. Mr. Pennington said he has more than 25 years in the business. Moffatt offers laying service within two or three days after the sale of carpet, with two Big Spring crews and three other emergency crews from Lamesa. They have 15 years experience in the carpet and furniture business, having operated stores in partnership with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pennington.

Pastures Can Prove Deadly

Hybrid sorghum — sudan pastures, fast growing and excellent forage, can also be deadly, especially during the late summer and fall, stated Bobby Lemons, Mitchell County Agent. Breakdown of the sorghum's plant material by its own enzymes results in prussic acid poisoning for the animals which eat the plant material. The actual agent causing death is hydrogen cyanide, the same chemical used in the state gas chambers for executions.

There are two times during which poisoning occurs, Lemons explained, after frost, where there is damage to the plants, high levels of hydrogen cyanide are very common in the plants. The second case is when plants perk up and begin fast growth after a very dry period during which the plants have been burned up. The hydrogen cyanide is very volatile and therefore stays in the plants for only a very short time, but while it is present, animals must be kept off the pasture. Either the wilted or fast growing stage of the plant can be dangerous. Lemons points out. Problems usually arise when hungry animals are suddenly placed in these pastures. Prussic acid is swift. Lemons said death can occur within five minutes after grazing affected plants, and almost always within 12 hours.

He urged stockmen to graze their cattle in such pastures only with great caution. Hungry cattle should never be turned in.

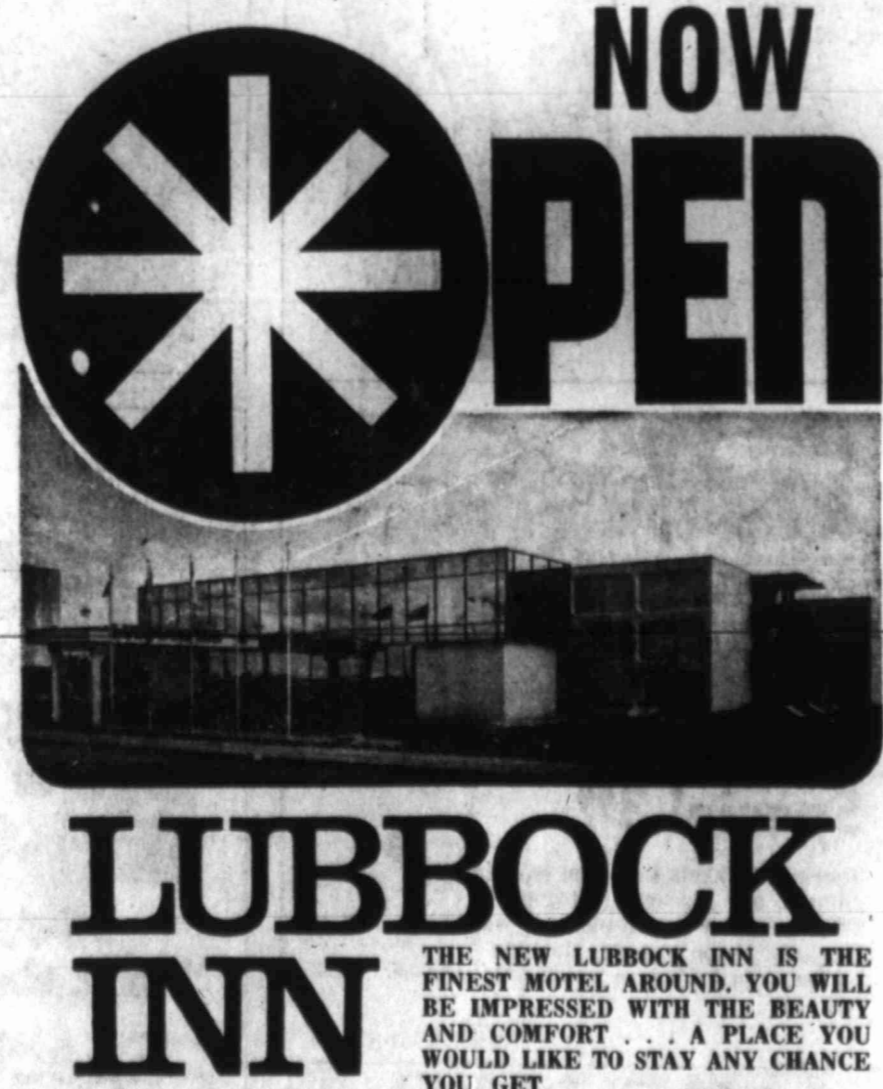

For the marriage vows, bride Lorene Yarnell, also a white-faced mime, pretended to take her pulsating heart out of her chest. Shields took his out, too, and they exchanged hearts. About 100 people who had gathered for the ceremony in Union Square sighed. The bride wore a black and white drum major's outfit. Baritone Bruce Yarnell of the San Francisco Opera, the bride's brother, sang something, but it was in mime too so it's hard to say what the song was. "It seemed like an intimate wedding to me because all these people are like my family," the 21-year-old groom explained after the crowd shouted "Hip hip hooray!" and threw rice and flowers. Little old ladies who sun themselves on benches in the square brought presents. Drunks who were staggering had been mimicked by Shields crowding the sidewalk altar to show the loudest congratulations.

Students Can Tour Europe

A European Tour, sponsored by Study Guild International, will be offered to Big Spring High School or college students interested in participating. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watson and Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell will be the sponsors locally of the tour, which will leave Chicago June 26 and return July 23. Mrs. Watson, local math teacher at the high school, says that students taking the tour will be eligible for three hours of college credit if they take an examination on the tour knowledge at the end of the trip. The examination and credit is optional but can be held for high school sophomores, juniors or seniors and is accepted by most colleges, according to Mrs. Watson. The cost of the trip, counting everything except souvenirs is $998, and will include trips to Rome, London, Paris, Athens, Innsbruck and Naples. It may be paid in monthly installments. Mrs. Watson stated that a meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Nov. 14 at Big Spring High School for information on the trip and slides will be shown at that time. Any interested students and their parents are urged to attend.

Eva Peron's Money Stirring Interest

BUENOS AIRES — Eva Peron's missing millions, a fortune estimated at possibly as much as $250 million, again are stirring a political and legal sensation in Argentina.

The wife of the long-exiled former dictator has been dead over 20 years now since July 26, 1952, but a court decision ruling that her mother could not legally sign over her own rights to part of the estate to then President Juan Peron has revived interest in the beautiful woman some Argentines revere as a saint.

Still there are those Argentine observers who suggest that the timing of the court action has political overtones.

IN SPAIN

Peron, 77 on Oct. 8, has lived in Madrid, Spain, for the last 10 years, and in exile abroad for 17 years, since his overthrow in September, 1955.

But some of his still faithful followers are insisting that he will be a candidate in the Argentine presidential elections, tentatively scheduled to be held in March, 1973.

Speculation that the court decision may be more than a belated effort to see that justice be done Dona Juana Ibarguren de Duarte is reinforced by the fact that she, herself, passed away in 1970.

In effect, Judge Manuel Em Caceres now has ruled that Eva Peron's mother could not sign away Oct. 15, 1952, something she did not possess at that time — a share in Eva's fortune.

Dona Juana brought suit against Peron in 1968 seeking to have the deed quashed mainly on the grounds that he had never formally accepted it. She also charged he had shown ingratitude to his elderly mother-in-law.

TO FOUNDATION

Through his attorney, Peron claimed he personally never received the moneys and properties, which went to the Eva Peron Foundation. Peron said his wife's assets were duly made over to the foundation by law on Aug. 14, 1953.

However, the now canceled deed also refers to Eva Peron's possible assets abroad. That reference in the 20-year-old protocol was made public some years back and set off rumors of secret numbered accounts in Switzerland in Eva Peron's name. But no concrete evidence of any such has ever turned up.

The foundation which received most of her fortune was broken up late in 1955 after the military coup that drove Peron from power.

But Mrs. Ibarguren's legal counsel said that she was not seeking any part of the millions and millions that went into the foundation.

All she wanted was her legal share of some real estate, bought when Eva Peron was single, and two residences in the fashionable embassy quarter of Buenos Aires, northern suburbs given her by the late Argentine shipowner and airline magnate, Alberto Doderó.

The suit also requested the return of Eva Peron's jewels and numerous foreign government decorations.

The jewels were auctioned off just after the 1955 revolution in the attempt to regain some of the immense sums squandered during the Peron dictatorship.

Most of the jewelry was bought by a New York jeweler, and the rest by buyers from all over the world in one of the most sensational sales of all times.

Peron claimed that he turned over the Doderó properties to the foundation as student hostels.

Two Can Play The Game At Moving Meter Back

BY MARJ CARPENTER

Turning back the speedometer on used cars is often suspected by customers of used car dealers.

But what the customer may not realize is that many used car dealers are suspecting the same thing about them.

In an informal poll of used car dealers here, it was discovered that many of the dealers have a right to be suspicious.

One dealer stated, "We have often awarded value on what we thought was a car still under warranty only to discover that the speedometer had been set back."

The customers think the same things about many of the dealers. Only the dealers have a better check-out system.

Most of the major car dealers keep a record of the mileage on an automobile whenever it is worked on in one of their shops, so if a used car dealer buys a vehicle that supposedly had 34,000 miles and they then discover that it was repaired in some shop at 48,000, they have a reason to believe something is fishy.

LAWS STRENGTHENED

The laws in Texas have been strengthened making it illegal to set back the speedometer.

One used car dealer here said this may halt the instream of lease automobiles from other states that have had the speedometer set back, "since it didn't seem to matter much in Texas."

As to the national pledge list which is supposedly being signed by used car dealers throughout the nation, stating that they will not set back the speedometer, Big Spring car dealers have yet to see a copy of it.

Of the 35 local used car dealers, 28 said they have never seen such a pledge. The other eight were unavailable or had no comment.

Most of them said that they didn't care about signing a pledge, but they had no intention of turning back speedometers.

One dealer said, "The newer model cars have such a short warranty now that nobody worries as much about it as they did during the five year, 50,000 mile warranties."

PLEDGES FAIL

Another local used car trader might have hit the nail on the head when he said, "Signing a pledge — that wouldn't mean any more than a drunk making a New Year's Resolution. If he's going to drink, he'll drink no matter how many pledges he's signed. And if a dealer is going to be crooked, they'll be crooked no matter how many pledges they signed. But in my opinion, used car dealers are usually basically honest."

"The trouble lies in the fact that people want a new car for the price of a used car. There's no such thing."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When there's nothing between you and the pavement but two thin bicycle tires, you notice things — things like flowers, animals and beer cans.

And when you pedal these thin tires 6,200 miles up, down and across the United States, you collect memories.

You remember the 65-year-old cyclist in Louisville, Ken. who weekly pedals the 100 miles to Cincinnati and back.

And the motorist who pulls alongside you on a steep stretch of Rocky Mountain road just to tell you how fast you're coasting. And the kids at every town who beg to join you.

Four cyclists had those experiences as they spent the last 2 1/2 months riding across the United States for St. Jude's Children's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Accompanied by a van and a dune buggy, the four rode 15-mile shifts from Washington, D. C., to Los Angeles, stopping in 60 cities along the way to symbolically collect money raised for the hospital by local groups.

The trip was sponsored by Epsilon Sigma Alpha, a 33,000-member international women's service organization. The cross-country ride was made to publicize the project. Taking part in the ride were Alain Pinto and Colen Davis, both 17 of Fairfax Va.; Ruben Leon, 20, of Phoenix, Ariz.; and Larry Keith, 29, of St. Louis. A young couple, Mark and Cheri Estes of Ottawa, Kan., directed the trip and took turns on the bike.

St. Jude's exists on contributions. The four cyclists collected $250,000 for the hospital, from local fund drives presenting a check for that amount to the hospital's founder, actor Danny Thomas, when they arrived in Los Angeles.

They slept in the van, ate on $6 a day and suffered through rain, heat, wind and injuries. But the trip had its rewards. Strangers stopped them in the street to give them money.

"Nobody else stops and looks at flowers, but we did," said Leon. And there was plenty of time to think. "Once you get your muscles toned, they do the pedaling," Pinto said. "If you can get your mind to wander, it does wonders."

Rich Anderson is sure Texas doesn't need another Sharpstown scandal.

Rich Anderson believes the Sharpstown stock scandal occurred because elected state representatives allowed it to occur. These were men who, for reasons of favor, fear or carelessness, allowed their votes to be controlled by powerful committee chairmen and special interest groups.

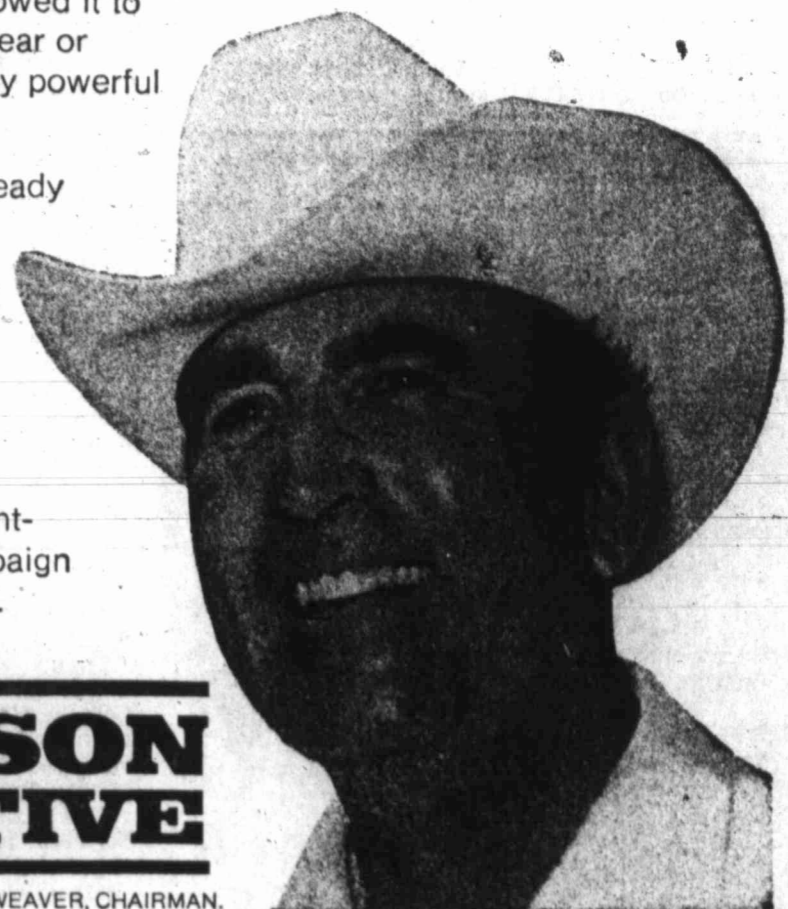

In many sections of the state Texas voters have already determined to change the way the state's being run from Austin. "Power politics" and "power politicians" hopefully have had their day.

What about this district?

Rich Anderson believes this newly created district needs a strong new voice—not a hollow remnant from the past. Rich Anderson intends to be a straightforward, independent representative. His only campaign promise is to be a representative you'll be proud of.

Privileged Position Of Church May End

DUBLIN (AP) — Ireland's 1937 constitution will be rushed through both houses Thursday in a first move to end the constitutionally privileged position of the Roman Catholic Church.

The bill starts what may be a lengthy process to give the public a new constitution and provide a political basis for its claim to unity with Northern Ireland.

The bill has the backing of the three main parties in parliament. The Church — which claims the allegiance of 95 per cent of the republic's three million population — already has signaled it will not oppose the measure.

The bill will amend precisely how is not yet known — a subsection of the constitution's article 44 recognizing the "special position of the Holy Catholic Apostolic and Roman Church as the guardian of the faith professed by the great majority of the citizens."

Another subsection declares "the state also recognizes" other churches and religions existing in Ireland in 1937. Churches founded since 1937 are theoretically unrecognized.

Article 44 has in fact been a dead letter in recent years. Twenty years ago, however, it was invoked by the Roman Catholic hierarchy to kill a coalition government's plan to provide free medical facilities for nursing mothers and children.

This action is still cited by Northern politicians — and by some in the republic — as an irresponsible Church interference with the democratic will.

The planned amendment will leave unchanged other legal barriers to Irish political unity, principally the constitutional ban on divorce and the status-backing Church dominated censorship and obstructing the ready availability of contraceptives.

The main effect of the amendment may be to impress opinion in the opposition Labor party in Britain. It generally is in favor of an eventual merger between British ruled Northern Ireland and the republic. But Labor spokesmen have recently declared themselves disappointed by the republic's slow progress in ridding itself of laws and attitudes objectionable to the Protestant majority in Northern Ireland.

With both the republic's government and the main opposition agreed on the need for change the referendum seems likely to produce a heavy "yes" vote.

Mustache Gets Top Policeman In Deep Fry

MIAMI (AP) — Patrolman Daniel Zell, voted Miami's outstanding officer of the year in 1969, has been suspended from duty because his mustache is a quarter of an inch too long, police officials say.

"A lieutenant told me I look so bad that he's ashamed to see me in public because I embarrass him," the blond, curly-haired Zell said Friday. "I don't know what public he means."

Zell, 26, said he was ordered to trim his mustache, hair and sideburns at roll call Wednesday. When he returned Thursday without stopping at the barber shop, he was sent home by his sergeant.

Police spokesman Sgt. Kenneth Harrison said Zell's official status is "absent without permission and without pay."

In addition to his drooping mustache, police officials charge Zell's entire head is too hairy and in violation of the department's grooming code.

Zell contends that his superiors are out of step with the times and he was singled out because he led a fight which resulted in a relaxation of the department's grooming code six months ago.

The code specifies hair shall be collar-length and "the ears shall be left well defined at all times." Sideburns are not to extend below the ear lobe and mustaches must not extend more than one-half inch beyond nor more than one-quarter inch below the corners of the mouth.

Zell won the Miami Rotary Club's $1,000 award as top policeman in 1969 and two officer-of-the-month awards in 1967 and 1968 when he was a crew-cut recruit.

Extremists Are Again Busy Where El Duce Strutted

ROME (AP) — Fifty years after Mussolini's "March on Rome" brought Fascism to Italy, extremists are again trying to exploit labor and social unrest. But unlike 1922, leftists as well as rightists are in the forefront of agitation and terrorism.

On Oct. 28, 1972, armed, gray-shirted Nationalists black-shirted Fascists and marched 26,000-strong into Rome and took up strategic positions in the city. They met no resistance.

On Oct. 30, King Victor Emmanuel III named Benito Mussolini prime minister.

The move, popular at the time, brought Fascism to Italy and 18 years later plunged the country into a world war on the side of Nazi Germany.

Many Italians see parallels in present day Italy to the conditions of the 1920s.

The bloom is off "Il Boom," the economic miracle of the 1960s that established Italy as an industrial power. Unemployment is currently estimated at 7 per cent of the labor force, about double what it was two years ago.

Unemployment is highest in the underdeveloped south, where thousands are forced to migrate to the industrial north. Housing and schools in the northern cities are often inadequate.

Meanwhile, workers demanding a bigger piece of the diminishing industrial pie have staged repeated strikes across the country.

Economists estimate that Italian industry had a net loss equivalent to $600 million last year as a result of strikes, loss of business confidence and a decline in investments.

A series of 34 shaky coalition governments since the war has whittled away public confidence in the ability of the leaders to get anything done.

All these governments have been beset from both sides: the Communists, who command one of every four votes in Italy, and the National Right, heirs to Mussolini's shattered Fascist dreams.

Pearl Buck Is Denied Entry

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Pearl Buck, whose home for 49 years was the China mainland, has been denied permission to visit there, it was disclosed today.

According to Newspaper Enterprise Association, which is serializing Miss Buck's latest book, "China: Past and Present," her request was turned down by the Canadian Embassy of the People's Republic of China.

Miss Buck, 80, was winner of the Nobel Prizes for Literature and the Pulitzer Prize for her best seller of some years ago, "The Good Earth." She currently is recuperating at Burlington, Vt., Medical Center after surgery last month to remove her gall bladder. She resides in Danby, Vt.

An NEA release quoted a letter to her from the Chinese Embassy as saying her works have "for a long time... taken an attitude of distortion, smear and vilification towards the people of China and their leaders."

Rebels Bombard Big Spring

CONLEY STOPS LYONS — Big Spring linebacker Dick Conley pulls down Midland Lee quarterback Pat Lyons during second quarter action of Friday night's District 5-AAAA clash. Lee walloped the Steers, 38-14.

By DON COOPER

The South rose again in Memorial Stadium Friday night as the Midland Lee Rebels humiliated the Big Spring Steers, 38-14, behind the 139-yard rushing effort of junior fullback David Perry. The loss dropped the Steers to 1-3 in District 5-AAAA competition. Lee is 3-1 in league play.

The Lee defensive unit was superb in the contest as the Steers were completely ineffective except for long-gainers through the air. The defensive line of Lee was like a stone wall as the Steers were never able to get anything going on the ground. Big Spring netted -60 yards rushing in the game. This is the second straight week that the Steer ground game has been held to minus yardage. Permian held the Steers to -44 yards on the ground last week.

Big Spring took a quick 7-0 lead early in the game when Lee tried an onside kick on the opening kick of the game. The Lee gamble failed and the Steers took over the football at the Big Spring 44. Two running plays netted three yards. On third down, quarterback Alan Davis found split end Nate Poss wide open in the middle of the Lee secondary and rifled a scoring strike to Poss. Poss took Davis' pass at the Lee 32 and raced into the end zone untouched. The play covered 53 yards. Ricky Steen booted the PAT.

Lee got its first chance to get on the scoreboard midway through the first period. Davis was jarred loose from the football deep in Steer territory. Joey Dudenhoeffer recovered for the Rebels at the Big Spring six-yard line. On the second play, Lee quarterback Pat Lyons darted into the end zone for the touchdown from three yards out. Rick Roberts booted the Rebels into a tie with 7:37 remaining in the first period. The Rebels went ahead to stay just moments later when sophomore fullback Milton Jones capped a 36-yard drive with a one-yard plunge. Roberts' kick gave the Rebels a 14-7 margin with 3:27 left in the first period.

The Steers stormed back to cut the lead to 21-14 when Jones again scored on a one-yard plunge with 9:19 left in the second quarter. Roberts' kick was good. The Steers stormed back to cut the lead to 21-14 when Jones again scored on a one-yard plunge. Steen booted the PAT. The drive was sparked by a 43-yard pass from Davis to tight end Jerry Knoepfel which gave the Steers a first-and-goal at the Lee five. The Steers missed a scoring opportunity late in the first half when Knoepfel intercepted a Lyons' aerial at the Steers' 46 and returned it to the Lee 13.

Forsan Jolts Sands, 38-8

ACKERLY — Forsan Junior High closed out the season with a 38-8 romp over Sands Junior High here Thursday night. The win gave Forsan a perfect 5-0 mark for the season. Forsan got on the scoreboard in the first quarter on a seven-yard run by John Medlin. Jace Elliott tackled on the extra points to make the score, 8-0. A six-yard run by Larry Patton and a successful conversion by Elliott in the second quarter increased the Forsan lead to 16-0.

The score mounted to 24-0 in the third period when Elliott swept into the end zone from eight yards out. Quarterback Ralph Miranda passed to Tommy Carter for the two points. Later in the third period, Miranda completed a 12-yard scoring pass to Tony Munoz. The PAT attempt was no good leaving the score, 30-0. The final Forsan tally came on a 38-yard run by Elliott. Elliott also added the extra points to give Forsan a 38-8 lead. Sands got on the scoreboard in the final period on a one-yard plunge. The extra points came on a run to make the final score 38-8.

The first-team defense was unscathed during the season. Stevens also singled out quarterback Miranda for praise. "He made our offense go this season," said Stevens.

McGee's TD Gives Crane 7-0 Victory

CRANE — Crane's Golden Cranes celebrated their Homecoming with a 7-0 win over the Stanton Buffaloes in a District 7-AA clash Friday night. The Cranes posted a second quarter touchdown and then depended on a strong defensive effort to take the narrow win and grab their second win in league play—Stanton, which lost to Coahoma last week, dropped to 0-2 in district competition.

Lions Look To Break Texas Jinx

DALLAS (AP) — The Detroit Lions hope to break the jinx of Texas Stadium when they meet Dallas Monday night while the Cowboys try to play like World Champions for a change.

Both teams own 4-2 records going into the nationally televised National Football League game.

Dallas, the Super Bowl titlists who are in Washington's shadow in the National Conference East, have yet to lose a game in Texas Stadium—a span of eight regular season and three exhibition games.

"This is another very big one for us," says Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "We can't afford many slippups between now and the time we play Washington again."

The Cowboys fell a game behind the Redskins with a 24-20 loss to Washington last week. The two teams meet again Dec. 9 in Dallas.

Detroit was tied with Green Bay before Sunday's games for the lead in the NFC Central division. The Lions thumped San Diego 34-20 last week with Mel Farr rushing for 96 yards and tight end Charlie Sanders returning to action after missing five games with a shoulder injury. Sanders caught three passes for 50 yards.

The Lions are the second most prolific scoring outfit in the NFL with 161 points.

The Cowboys are the NFL's No. 1 offensive team but quarterback Craig Morton suffered two crucial interceptions last week against Washington.

Landry says the Detroit game is Morton's to "win or lose" although Super Bowl VI hero Roger Staubach now is on the team roster.

Felker Passes Miss. State Past Houston

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Quarterback Rocky Felker threw two touchdown passes to wingback Bill Buckley and scored once to lead Mississippi State to a 27-13 homecoming victory over Houston Saturday.

Felker brought State from behind in the final quarter as he directed the fired-up Bulldogs to three touchdowns.

He drove State 63 yards in seven plays, lifting Buckley on a four-yard touchdown pass to deadlock the score at 13-13, and then marched them 45 yards in six plays to put State ahead to stay.

The 182-pound sophomore circled right end from ten yards out for State's third touchdown. A minute later, State tacked on another score after linebacker Billy Southward intercepted a Houston pass and returned it to the Cougar 14. After two runs and a penalty, fullback Wayne Jones punched across from two yards.

The Bulldogs dominated the first quarter with Felker engineering a 68-yard scoring march. He accounted for 20 yards on two runs and 41 yards on two completions, the last going 13 yards to Buckley for the touchdown.

Fullback Pudding Jones gave Houston its first touchdown just before the quarter ended. He returned the kickoff 45 yards after State's touchdown. Quarterback D. C. Nobles passed to end Marty Watts for 24 yards and Jones accounted for the other 20 on three runs. He went 13 yards up the middle for the score. Houston forged ahead early in the fourth period with a 35-yard march set up by a fumble recovery.

Tigers Upend Buffs, 20-17

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Greg Hill kicked a 33-yard field goal with six seconds remaining as giant-killer Missouri staged its second consecutive upset by edging seventh-ranked Colorado 20-17 Saturday.

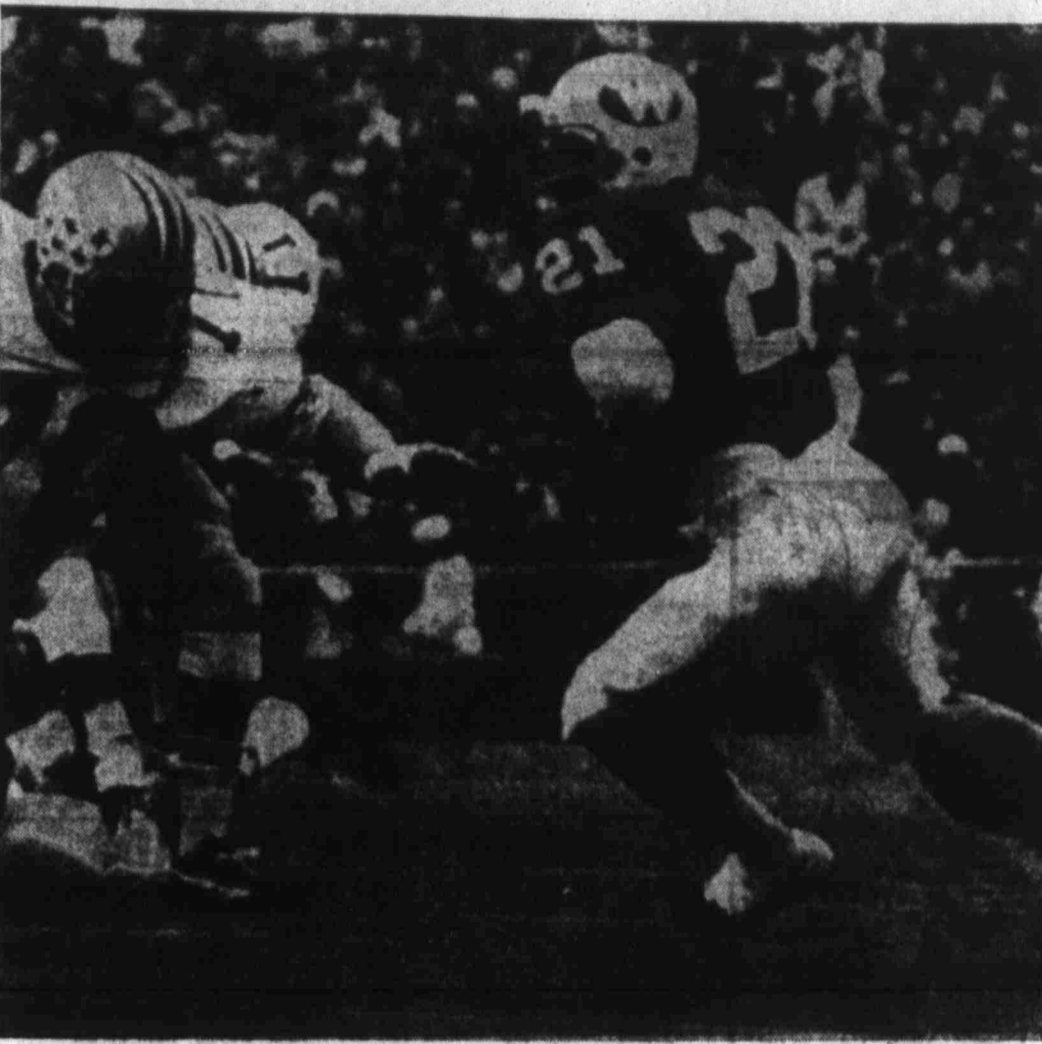

Ironically, Hill had missed a 37-yarder only moments earlier. A week ago, the Tigers had knocked off ranked Notre Dame. Colorado's defeat just about eliminated the Buffaloes, who conquered then second-ranked Oklahoma last week from Big Eight title contention.

Colorado, after spotting Missouri a 10-point halftime advantage, came from behind twice, sending injured running back Charlie Davis into the second-half action in an effort to overhaul the Tigers.

Davis ran three yards for Colorado's first touchdown and had a big hand in the second, scored by Bo Matthews on a one-yard run.

Fred Lima's 22-yard field goal put Colorado even the first time, and his conversion after Matthews' six-pointer squared the game at 17-17.

The Tigers piled 10 points into 1 minute, 4 seconds of the second quarter.

MIDWAY POINT IN SLATE West Meets West In NFL

West meets West and top meets bottom with Miami once again putting its unbeaten record on the line this weekend as the National Football League reaches the midway point of the 1972 season.

In the West, the Los Angeles Rams visit the Raiders in Oakland in the only interconference game of the weekend. The Rams, 4-1-1, hold a one-half game lead over Atlanta in the National Conference West while, in the American Conference West, Oakland, with a 3-2-1 record, also led by half a game, this over Kansas City.

The Dolphins, 6-0 and leaders by two games over the New York Jets in the AFC East, carry a seven-game winning streak—including last year's regular-season finale against Green Bay—into their meeting Sunday against Baltimore. One more victory will equal Miami's victory record.

The Colts, meanwhile, are looking for their first victory under new Coach John Sandusky—as well as for their second victory of the year. Both teams came very close to reversing trends last weekend.

The Dolphins, going for the first time with quarterback Earl Morrall as the starter in place of injured Bob Griese, managed to squeeze out a 24-23 triumph against surprisingly tough Buffalo. And the Colts, with quarterback Marty Domres starting in place of Johnny Unitas as part of Sandusky's youth movement, came within a minute of beating the Jets before Joe Namath and Eddie Bell combined on an 83-yard touchdown pass play that put New York on top 24-20 at the end.

Sunday's other NFL games have Washington going against the emerging Giants in New York, Kansas City at San Diego, Minnesota at Green Bay, San Francisco at Atlanta, New England in New York to face the Jets, Cleveland at Denver, Pittsburgh at Buffalo, Houston at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at New Orleans and Chicago at St. Louis. On Monday night, Detroit visits Dallas.

Hunters Get Bag Limits

SAN ANGELO — It took a determined, intrepid type of individual to go out and harvest a bag limit of Tympanuchus pallidicinctus in the Permian Basin and Panhandle counties having an open season this year, but Texans being what they are, did it.

In case you aren't familiar with the species, reference is made to the lesser prairie chicken, once a disappearing species, now brought back to huntable numbers in several counties.

Permian Basin hunters took 201 chickens during the two-day season while 189 birds went into game bags in the Panhandle. All the birds were earned because the weather wasn't all that could be desired.

High winds, hard rains, hail in some areas, a combination of all of nature's unfavorable tricks lumped together made hunting about as pleasant as mashing your way from Nome to Juneau, but those who were successful said it was more than worth the discomfort.

REBOUND FROM UPSET Sooners Demolish KSU

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Flaky Greg Pruitt scored three touchdowns and gained 121 yards to become the second leading rusher in Oklahoma history as the eighth-ranked Sooners stormed back from last week's loss to Colorado by bombing Kansas State, 52-0, here Saturday.

Pruitt, 185-pound senior speedster from Houston, Tex., scored on a pair of three-yard runs to help OU take a 17-0 halftime lead, then got off on a beautiful 22-yard scoring run in the third period. His 121 yards for the day gave him 2,396 career yards, putting him ahead of Jim Grisham's 2,339.

Quarterback Dave Robertson passed 19 yards to Joe Wyle for one touchdown and ran seven yards for another as OU widened the lead to 31-0 in the third quarter. Leon Crosswhite dashed 17 yards and Tinker Owens, a freshman and brother of Heisman Trophy winner Steve Owens, romped in on a 19-yard end-around to wrap up the scoring.

Kansas State failed to sustain a long drive as the Sooner Secondary blanketed quarterback Dennis Morrison's receivers throughout the afternoon. However, the Wildcats had the ball on the Oklahoma 14 and 19 in the first half and on the 21 in the third period but couldn't

SF Austin Belts Sul Ross, 45-7

NACOGDOCHES, Tex. (AP) — Freshman quarterback Larry Mayer set a school passing record Saturday while leading Stephen F. Austin to a whopping 45-7 homecoming victory over lethargic Sul Ross.

Mayer connected on four touchdown passes in the first half, piling up a 31-0 halftime lead. He relaxed and watched the rest of the game from the sidelines.

Austin is now 1-5 for the season, and 1-4 in the Lone Star Conference. Sul Ross has a 4-3 record, 2-3 in the league.

Will America Give Up Its Cuban Naval Base?

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — The United States may give up its naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, as the first step in reopening relations with that Communist country.

This intriguing possibility has been raised by the remarks of the U.S. commander of the base, Rear Adm. Leo B. McCuddin. Though couched in diplomatic terms, they go farther than any former U.S. statement in accepting what has been a long-term Communist demand.

The admiral's unusual call for a rapprochement with Cuba was contained in two remarks made to a Miami reporter. The admiral said, first, that U.S. relinquishment of the base is "not beyond the realm of possibility, but for the foreseeable future we will be staying here."

This is the first time, so far as is known, that an American official has even voiced the possibility that the United States might give up its naval base at Guantanamo.

CASTRO INSISTENT

Cuban dictator Fidel Castro has long been demanding that the United States give up the base. The timing of McCuddin's statement was especially interesting, since Cuba and Russia recently reiterated the demand.

Following Castro's visit to the Soviet Union at midyear, a joint communique was issued which included the following paragraph:

"The Soviet delegation confirmed its support of the demand made by the people of Cuba and the Revolutionary Government of the Republic of Cuba that the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, set up in Cuban territory against the sovereign will of the people of Cuba, be unconditionally withdrawn."

McCuddin also reportedly called for resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Cuba. McCuddin was quoted as saying:

"We have to recognize that there are other ideologies and we all have to get along in the world. It would be better for us economically, and better for Cuba, if we did recognize the country and establish relations with them again."

Again the admiral's comments were viewed as especially significant because to date American officials have been reluctant to discuss the possibility of rapprochement with Cuba. Whether McCuddin's statement had prior approval from Washington was not known, but in view of the sensitive position he holds it was not deemed likely he would say these things without at least a tacit OK.

Vast Polish Salt Mine Interests Tourists

KRAKOW, Poland (AP) — The gray-haired Polish guide gazed up with the others and said: "I know what you're thinking. Everyone gets that feeling when they're down here."

Above them, stretching endlessly from left to right and seemingly as high as the night sky, was one large expanse of nothing.

They were standing in what is probably one of the largest underground chambers in Europe. It's so enormous that Nazi troops even managed to install an aircraft factory inside to protect it from Allied bombing.

The cavern's walls, their craggy surface marked by massive salt slabs of irregular shapes and sizes, shoot crazily up to a height of 138 feet and then disappear into the darkness of the awesome void.

But the sight is no freak work of nature. It was caused by human hands — thousands of Polish miners who over the centuries axed one gigantic hollow from a solid layer of salt.

The chamber is part of the Wieliczka salt mine which has been preserved by the Polish government and turned into a museum.

Every year nearly a million tourists visit the complex, close to the ancient royal city of Krakow, southern Poland.

Its wonderland of treasures includes several huge 17th and 18th century chapels whose altars and holy effigies are entirely carved out of salt.

On one chapel wall is an intricate, 12-foot-long picture showing Christ at the last supper. All the figures have been cut in such a way as to give them a three-dimensional effect.

"The miners' permanent fear of death created a strong religious life at Wieliczka," said one official. Most of the carvings are the work of miners who had an unusual artistic flair.

Perhaps the most staggering sight is the Chapel of the Blessed King. It is located hundreds of feet below ground, and the onlooker has to keep reminding himself that it's made out of salt.

The chapel's floor measures 177 feet long, by 48 feet wide. All its silver-gray salt walls are adorned with beautiful sculptures representing biblical scenes.

But the greatest surprise occurs when one looks up at the ceiling. There, hanging 35 feet above the ballroom-size temple, are five giant chandeliers made of crystalline salt.

For the technical minded, there's an array of priceless wooden machinery dating back 400 years. Horse-driven capstans and iron carts are all shown in their original working positions.

Undoubtedly, Wieliczka is today one of Poland's top tourist attractions, with its three levels and 125 miles of corridors.

HOLDS LEASE

The United States holds a 99-year lease to 45 square miles of land at Guantanamo. The lease was obtained at the turn of the century, when the base had more strategic importance than it does today. Then it served as a needed coaling station for U.S. ships sailing the Caribbean. Today it serves primarily as a strategic and psychological balance to the Soviet military presence in Communist Cuba.

Hence the possibility is seen that the United States might be willing to withdraw from Guantanamo if Russia were to withdraw its military presence from Cuba.

Petterson Buys Share Of Firm

Paul Petterson, manager of River-Welch Funeral Home, Friday announced he has purchased an interest in Roberts' Funeral Home in Hobbs, N.M. and will start managing the business Nov. 1.

In March, 1963, Petterson began working for River-Welch Funeral Home. A 1963 graduate of Dallas Mortuary College, Petterson served his apprenticeship with River-Welch under the direction of Earnest Welch.

Petterson expressed his appreciation to the public and said he felt indebted to Welch for having been associated with him.

He and his wife, the former Gloria Coker, were graduated from Big Spring High School. He later attended Howard County Junior College and Wayland College at Plainview. At Wayland, he sang in the International Choir.

His wife was graduated with a bachelor of arts in home economics from Texas Technological University. Afterwards, she spent a year in Europe at the University of Stockholm, Sweden.

They have one daughter, Daine, two and one-half and belonged to the First Baptist Church.

Petterson, a past member of the board of the downtown Lions Club, was program chairman for the group.

Man Is Killed East Of Town

SSgt. Edward V. V. Warner, 27, of Fort Bliss died about 4:14 p.m. Friday when he lost control of his automobile, crossed a median and hit a concrete culvert 23 miles east of Big Spring on IS 20.

His wife was injured and taken to Root Memorial Hospital and then transferred to Webb Air Force Base Hospital in Big Spring. Their two young sons were uninjured.

Services for Warner are pending at Kiker-Rains-Seale Funeral Home in Colorado City.

The one-car accident was investigated by Highway Patrolman Randy Wilkinson and Tommy Parker.

The body will be sent to his home on Yap Island, Guam for burial. The sergeant had served two different periods of service in Vietnam. Other survivors include a brother, Boya Warner of Ft. Sill, Okla.

Evades Question

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel has disavowed any intention of running for premier at the end of Golda Meir's term. "You are asking me to walk barefoot through a minefield," he told a questioner. "You do not know me very well."

Group To Fight For Amendment

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston lawyer Leon Jaworski, past president of the American Bar Association, has announced formation of a local committee to back passage of Amendment 4 which would allow the revision of the Texas Constitution.

Jaworski said the Constitution, adopted in 1876, must be revised in order to serve the citizens of the state as it should. He said the upcoming legislature, with its many new faces, is the best way to do it.

Jaworski's law partner, Gibson Gayle, will head a 14-member "Citizens for the 4th Amendment" Committee.

Democratic Lt. Gov. nominee Bill Hobby and state Rep. Price Daniel Jr., unopposed in the race for House speaker, also spoke strongly in support of the amendment.

Brazilian Donkeys Facing Extinction

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Economic development and growing exports have teamed up with poverty and ignorance to threaten Brazil's jackasses with extinction.

In Brazil's impoverished and arid northeast region — a place where horses and mules don't survive for long — generations of burros have patiently trotted over countless miles of hard-baked earth, carrying water and firewood and, in good times, some meager produce to market.

Recently, however, a slaughterhouse in the state of Bahia started buying jackasses throughout the northeast at the astonishingly low rate of $2-$3.50 apiece. Killing them at the rate of 200 a day, it exports meat to the United States and Japan for use in dog food.

The venture was so successful, the firm hopes to slaughter 200,000 animals next year. Other slaughterhouses in the north east also have begun to enter the burro meat export field.

Brazilian ecologists became alarmed. Brazil's jackass population is estimated at several million — 900,000 in Bahia alone. But ignorant northeastern peasants, constantly in need of money, tend to sell their spare female jackasses first, scientists explain. Females are less regarded as workers, because, in the peasants' eyes, they "waste" two months every time they get pregnant.

Seventy-five per cent of the jackasses slaughtered for meat are females, reports indicate.

A new law forbids the wholesale exporting of wildlife for commercial purposes — but the law has not yet found its way to classifying the patient burros as wildlife.

HC To Offer Auto Course

A defensive driving course, under the auspices of the National Safety Council, will be offered to the public at Howard County Junior College.

Harold Wilder of the college staff has been certified to teach the course after attending an instructor development course in defensive driving.

The course will include eight hours of concentrated instruction, using a variety of films, flip charts and other teaching aids.

The course will also offer graduates a 10 per cent credit on their auto insurance and is being taught here in cooperation with local agencies.

Anyone interested should contact Wilder at Howard County Junior College.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

STRAY: (Q) My fiance is 21 and I am 17. We went steady seven months before we became engaged. We have been engaged eight months.

Five months ago I found out he was going out on me. This has happened several times since then. I know it is true because I have seen him.

He also lies to me about what he does or doesn't do. I have caught him lying. Once I broke up with him because of a particularly big lie. But it lasted only one night because he came to me and asked me to stay with him. He told me he wouldn't lie to me any more, but he still does.

Other boys have asked me to go out with them, but I haven't because I don't want to.

My mother says that if I love him I will stay with him no matter what he does. I do love him but I am not sure what to do. What do you think? — Hurt in Ohio.

(A.) Marriage does not reform a man or a woman. One who lies and cheats before marriage is likely to lie and cheat after it. I urge you to think seriously about this fact of life.

Your mother apparently comes from a school of thought that believes a husband who fills the role of procreator, provider and head of a family is free to do as he wishes away from home, and his wife is supposed to pretend that such activity does not exist. I do not subscribe to this way of thinking. I believe it is destructive.

HAIRS: (Q) I have small hairs on my stomach. Is this normal? What can I do about them? — 14 in Tennessee.

(A.) Many girls have hairs on their midriff, especially around and below the navel. If they are dark, clip them off with scissors before wearing a bikini or bikini-type garment. If they are light, leave them alone and no one will notice.

MAD: (Q) My mother is mad all the time. When my father gets mad she gets even madder. When I try to talk to them about it they both get madder and take it out on me. Why do they have to be so mad so much of the time? — In the Middle in Michigan.

(A.) Talk to your father alone at a time when he is not angry. Talk to your mother alone at a time when she seems least angry.

Tell each of them that it makes you very sad and unhappy to see them so angry. Ask each if there is anything you can do to help.

TWO YEARS: (Q) I have known this shy guy for two years and am sure I love him. A friend of mine told me he said he likes me. Should I tell her how I feel so she can tell him? — 14 in Florida.

(A.) It is a little premature for you to be declaring yourself, considering that he has apparently made no move at all.

But whatever you have to say to him, say it to HIM, and not some middle person.

"COME ON IN AND HAVE COFFEE"

'Who's Getting Old?'

By JO BRIGHT

When the 91st year rolled around for Mrs. Stella Lyles, she didn't even glance at the calendar. If she had, it might have occurred to her to slow down a bit . . . take it easy . . . find a comfortable chair and rock for a spell.

But it never entered her mind. Like the lady said, "You just can't give up!"

Give up? Cooking? Cleaning? Gardening? Reading? Knitting? Sewing? Not on your life. Mrs. Lyles has too much to do to be concerned with the passing of time.

The birthday was just an excuse for a party.

It wasn't always so, for when Stella was young, people were so busy they had little time for celebrating. She was a small girl, the second of eight children, when her parents packed a covered wagon and struck out for the Indian Territory. Maybe there were too many rivers to cross, or the grass looked green enough in North Texas, because the family didn't complete the journey, but settled down near Glenrose, not far from the Paluxy River. It was there Stella grew up, and among her memories are weekly trips to the mill where her father took grain to be ground into meal and flour. And in her mind's eye, she still sees the little stone jars which her mother filled with preserves and sealed with wax.

When she was twenty, she became the wife of W. H. Plew, a handsome young man from Altus, Okla., an area then known as the Plew Valley. The following year, in 1903, she bought a Sears-Roebuck treadle sewing machine for $13, and during the next 20 years, spent long hours pumping the pedal to provide clothing for a family which eventually included seven children. One son, Ray, died in 1938. The other children are Mrs. Maggie Gillespie and Roy Plew, both of McFarland, Calif.; Mrs. Lillie Ford, Elk City, Okla.; Mrs. Orpha McCoy, Boulder City, Nev.; Mrs. Mabel Skeen, South Gate, Calif.; and Earl Plew, Big Spring.

By 1924, Oklahoma was pretty well settled, and Mr. Plew decided his sons "might have a better chance" further west. Packing their belongings in another wagon, the family crossed a good part of Texas to make their new home 20 miles southeast of Lamesa. There Mr. Plew bought 160 acres of land.

"We had to break the land and put it in," said Mrs. Lyles, recalling that they arrived in March but still had time to make a "fair crop" of cotton and maize. It was the same the next year, but the third year, in 1926, Mr. Plew suffered a stroke and died within 10 days. ("He had been grubbing bear grass, and he had high blood pressure . . .")

Mrs. Lyles said she, and the three children who remained at home, continued to work the farm for the next few years as dust and drought began to drive farmers from the land.

"In 1933 we didn't make anything," she said, "but on Aug. 2, 1934, it rained, and we made 1,500 pounds of pinto beans off the 100 pounds we planted. Sold all of them."

But times were bad. Mrs. Lyles had a small patch of vegetables that she irrigated with buckets of water from a well, and there were numerous chickens that provided "egg money" for necessities. Yet it was borrowed money that fed the stock.

"The small farmers like us were beginning to quit," explained Mrs. Lyles. "besides the lack of water, we only had horses to work the land, and farmers with tractors were moving into the plains. The kids would soon be gone, so I sold out in 1934."

It didn't mean retirement. Like several of her children,

Can You Share Christmas Warmth With These 92 Cold 'Little Angels'?

By JO BRIGHT

"I would also like to ask a favor. Please ask especially for winter clothes such as old woollens, snowsuits and sweaters. The winters are pretty chilly here due to the cold winds blowing in from the Yellow Sea, and I think the home will really need warm clothing during the October to April period. Thanks again for your support to these beautiful children."

The above is the closing paragraph of a letter signed by Maj. James J. Landers and received by Mrs. Frank Moore Jr., a member of the NCO Wives Club, Webb Air Force Base.

Mrs. Moore's husband, SM.Sgt. Frank Moore Jr. is now serving with the 3rd Field Maintenance Squadron in Korea, and since arriving there, he and other members of the squadron have "adopted" some young charges, 92 children who live at the 11 Mag Won Babies Home.

Maj. Landers is squadron commander, with M.Sgt. Robert T. Henderson as chairman of the Babies Home Council. When Sgt. Moore wrote to his wife, requesting help in obtaining clothing for the children, she relayed the need to the NCO Wives Club which is making every effort to fulfill the request. The club is asking that anyone having children's clothing they do not need, "share the warmth" by donating it to the orphanage. Mrs. Moore or other members of the club will pick up the clothing and get it on its way to Korea as soon as possible.

A squadron spokesman recently wrote to the club: "Your outstanding support of this project has greatly improved the living conditions of the children as clothing, blankets, and diapers were needed badly. At the present time, there are 92 children in the home, and this causes a constant demand for clothing. So, on behalf of the children, we send you their warmest appreciation and gratitude."

Club members were glad to hear from the squadron that their donations had been received and delivered to the home, but the most touching letter of appreciation was the following, printed here as it was written:

"Dear Mrs. Moore, How can I express my thanks to you. I received your effort and warmest parcel again through your husband with gratitude. They were most requirement for children's equipment. Some were immediately weared our little angels. Thank you very much for your kindness and your trouble. Every children eagerly look for word to as your almsgiving."

"I suppose you have heard almost our little angels and state from your husband. We are so much proud to have our military sponsor-ship 3rd F.M.S. Especially we honour to welcome Squadron Commander Landers and your husband. Their assistance were give us big encouragement and warm consolation for our duty. I want you to know last Sunday they had wonderful welfare service for little angels."

"Our kids had wonderful dinner by Major Landers and your husbands special efforts. Every children (without nursing baby) tasted fried chicken, bean with a tomato sauces, vegetable salads and bread. And orange juice and milk."

"Our little angels were so much enjoyed with them. We also thanks to their cordial efforts. I enclose with this letter which I caught some of snap shot. If you enjoy with them, I will be grateful."

"Recently our family were increases so quickly. They were almost new born babies. Now we nursing 92 little angels, and 16 members are their assistants. Our small dining room was already changed to their staying room. But still not adequate for their come-fort. We believe if the our Lord wishes to them, it will be fulfill."

"Our best regards and Our Lords blessing with you and on your members which of the presented us every warm hands."

"Yours very respectfully,
Mrs. P. K. Kyung Huc, Superintendent and John Kim, director."

Cold weather has already come to Korea — and soon it will be Christmastime.

Don't you have something to share with "the little angels"?

HD Women Explore Diets, Safety, Snacks

Home demonstration clubs in the area studied a variety of subjects throughout the week, including home and personal safety, diet foods and methods of serving attractive and tasty hors d'oeuvres.

LEES-DRUMRIGHT CLUB
Safety in the home and personal protection were discussed by Mrs. Gary Seidenberger for Lees-Drumright Home Demonstration Club Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Harry McMillan, Lomax.

Mrs. Seidenberger said women too often stack things in high places and must then stand on chairs or books to reach them. She warned against overloading electric sockets, and outlined methods of fire prevention and extinguishing. She said women should avoid walking alone at night, and should never walk on dark streets or alleys.

Mrs. Lynn Glass presided, and Mrs. Melvin Thacker announced there will be a Lees Community meeting at 8 p.m., Monday in the community center.

Several members plan to attend a bazaar Nov. 4 at the City Cafe in Sterling City. All proceeds will be given to Sterling City Nursing Home.

Names were drawn for a Christmas gift exchange. The women will attend a holiday program presented by Mrs. Sara Williamson of Stanton, a Texas Electric representative, at 2 p.m., Nov. 14 in the Texas Electric Reddy Room, Stanton. This will be in lieu of their regularly scheduled meeting. The next business meeting will be at 2 p.m., Nov. 28 in the home of Mrs. J. J. Overton.

CENTER POINT CLUB
"Food for Reducing" was the program presented by Mrs. N. R. Garrett and Mrs. James Petty for Center Point Home Demonstration Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. J. R. Petty, 1013 Sycamore.

The women prepared and served foods in the 1,200, 1,400 and 1,800 calorie count ranges. Mrs. Petty said a 1,200 calorie per day diet of balanced meals is guaranteed to take off 1 1/2 pounds per week. The diet has a stable effect on the body and reduces without causing wrinkled or loose skin as crash diets often do.

Members brought items to donate to Westside Community Center for use in arts and crafts classes. Plans were made to host a Christmas party for Ward 10B North at Big Spring State Hospital, at 10 a.m., Dec. 12, followed by a club luncheon at Furr's Cafeteria.

Mrs. H. M. Hagood announced the next luncheon for senior citizens will be Nov. 15 at the county fair barns. She also announced an open meeting on estate planning will begin at 10 a.m. Monday in the fair barns. The public is invited to this covered-dish affair.

Mrs. Bob Wren presided, and guests were Mrs. Lenore Amerson, Payson, Ariz.; Mrs. R. E. Wilson, Mrs. Gene Crenshaw, Mrs. Ella Gill and Mrs. Beesie Suggs.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m., Nov. 8 in the home of Mrs. Tommy McCullough, 1106 Sycamore.

CITY CLUB
"Party planning can be exciting and rewarding for a hostess," said Mrs. Alton Underwood to City Home Demonstration Club members Friday in her home, 601 E. 16th.

"The decisions to be made, grocery shopping and preparation of refreshments can be mere labors of love if the hostess is aware of certain facts concerning home entertaining."

Mrs. Underwood and Mrs. B. F. Mabe outlined categories of hors d'oeuvres during their program, "Party-Perfect Appetizers."

Mrs. Mabe said the "cocktail canape" is the most popular type of appetizer. It consists of some mixture or relish spread placed on a firm, edible base, usually toasted or fried bread. Skewered tidbits also rate high as an appetizer. They are served with a small wooden or plastic pick inserted and are eaten from the pick. Piquant morsels come either dry and easy to eat with the fingers or moist to be served with plates and forks.

Hot coffee or some type of liquor should accompany hors d'oeuvres, and the women said to avoid serving a great variety of appetizers because it is not economical. Aesthetic value is also important. A variety of shapes, textures, temperatures and flavors can be attained with a little pre-planning.

"Never hesitate to assemble a platter of odds and ends," said Mrs. Mabe. "If it is nicely arranged, guests will be drawn to it. The first requisite for making successful appetizers is to use your imagination."

Guests for the meeting were Mrs. Gus Brandon, Cross Plains; Mrs. Miller Harris and Mrs. Marvin Wood. Mrs. Waymon Etchison was introduced as a new member.

A demonstration on how to decorate note paper with dried flowers was made by Mrs. Fay Newman, who used plastic wrap to give the flowers a crinkled effect.

It was announced a program on estate planning is scheduled at 10 a.m. Monday in the county fair barns, and the public is invited to attend.

The serving table was decorated in a Halloween motif. Devotion was by Mrs. Ross Callihan and Mrs. Clyde Cantrell won the attendance prize. The next meeting is Nov. 10 in the home of Mrs. Callihan, Silver Heels.

FORM 'SINGLES' GROUP—An organization for young, single adults who or attending college or working, and have common interests, is being formed under the leadership of this group. From left, they are Sandy Crocker, Stuart McFarland, Bob Sharp, Mary Anderson, Sherri Alexander and Pat Jolly. A get-acquainted weiner roast was held Thursday evening, and the next event will be a card party. Those interested in joining the group are invited to call Miss Anderson after 4 p.m. at 263-7890.

Irish Custom Joins Halloween, Romance

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

There's a charming Halloween custom in Ireland. We came upon a description of it in "Feasting Galore — Recipes and Food Lore from Ireland" by Maura Laverty (Holt, Rinehart and Winston). Here is what the author says:

"In the North and West of Ireland, boxty sometimes takes the place of the Halloween barmbrack as a prognosticator of the year's weddings. A ring wrapped in wax paper is mixed in with the batter. And the girls are warned:

Boxty-on-the-griddle, boxty-in-the-pan,
If you don't eat boxty, you'll never get your man."

BOXTY-IN-THE-PAN
1 1/2 cups water
3 medium-small potatoes
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
4 tps. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
3 eggs
1 cup milk
1/4 cup butter, melted
1 tps. bacon fat

In a 1 1/2-quart saucepan bring water to a boil. Peel 2 of the potatoes; cut into 8ths; add to boiling water. Cover and boil over medium heat until potatoes are soft and water has cooked away — 12 to 15 minutes; check often to avoid scorching. Mash potatoes through food mill; measure 3/4 cup firmly packed. (If there is any leftover, use in another dish.)

On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder and salt; set aside.

Beat eggs; add milk, butter. Peel remaining potato and finely shred; squeeze to remove water. There should be about 1/4 cup shredded potato after squeezing.

In a large mixing bowl, thoroughly mix shredded potato with mashed potato. With a pastry blender mix in sifted flour mixture until fine crumbs are formed. Stir in milk mixture until flour is completely dampened.

Spoon bacon fat into a 9-inch cast-iron skillet. Place in a preheated 425-degree oven for about 5 minutes to heat bacon fat and pan. Add batter. Return pan to oven and bake until top is browned and edges are crisp and browned — 35 to 40 minutes. Serve from pan; or turn out of pan turn right side up. Cut into wedges. Serve hot with butter. Makes 6 servings.

419 MAIN DOWNTOWN

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

If it's true that the early bird gets the worm he has every opportunity to enjoy a solitary spender in the early hours in downtown Big Spring. True, some offices open at 8 a.m., and there may be a few isolated businesses, but they are few and far between. Most stores, especially those who cater to women, don't open until 9:30 and some are following their city cousins by holding the doors closed until 10. Perhaps the gaining back today or that "lost" hour will make a difference in the opening time. It's a surprising thing to get to town for shopping an hour or two before the shops open... but I'd rather break the habit of getting there early than have shopkeepers have to get down so soon. I never was fond of worms anyway!

MRS. RAY CAUDILL got back from her Hawaii trip just in time to go with her son, DON CAUDILL, to Dallas for market... to buy spring and summer merchandise! Mrs. Caudill accompanied her daughter, MRS. PEGGY HAWES, and her granddaughter, SHERRILL HAWES, of Houston, to Hawaii early in the month. They toured the seven islands before coming back to Honolulu for a week. Mrs. Hawes and Sherrill continued their trip to the Orient where they are presently. They plan to spend some time in Australia and New Zealand before returning to Houston Dec. 23. Sherrill is a senior pre-med student at Texas A&M.

MR. and MRS. C. H. McDANIEL are in Tarzana, Calif., to visit their son and his family, MR. and MRS. TERRY McDANIEL and their two little daughters. If their residence here had lasted until Nov. 15, MR. and MRS. MELVIN RAY would have lived here 30 years. They are now planning to move to Barstow, Calif., probably about Nov. 5, where he will continue civil service work. The Rays came here Nov. 15, 1942 when he joined the forces at the old Big Spring Bombardier School. The move will take them to the city where their only child, MRS. HOWARD WASHBURN, and her family live.

Another old timer has made a move that will just take her a little distance from us. She is MRS. E. D. MERRILL who is now living in Midland with her daughter and son-in-law, MR. and MRS. ROY MINEAR. The Merrills moved here more than 45 years ago when the late Mr. Merrill was transferred by the T&P Railway Co. for which he was an engineer.

MRS. E. F. HENDERSON accompanied her sister, MRS. LOU WILCOX of Plainview to Houston for the weekend. Mrs. Wilcox was in Houston for a meeting.

DR. and MRS. J. E. HOGAN had the pleasure of seeing "No, No, Nannette" at the new Dallas Music Hall during the past week.

Baylor University Homecoming attracted several Big Springers this weekend. MERRILL CREIGHTON was there to see son Chris... Josephine didn't make the trip. Incidentally, Cliff Creighton is now with the legal department of Phillips Oil Co. in Oklahoma City. Back to Baylor... MISS NELL BROWN and her long-time friend, MRS. LUCILLE BRADY who lives in California, came down to Waco to join many friends as did the REV. and MRS. KENNETH PATRICK.

JP joined his 1932 class for a round of festivities as the members and their spouses were honored on the 40th anniversary of their graduation. Making the meeting even more pleasurable was the fact that the men who were Joe's roommates during their Baylor years were there with their wives. We plan to do some visiting in Dallas and Austin and perhaps a quick trip to the valley before we come back.

MRS. FAY NEWMAN returned recently from Dallas where she visited her daughter, MARGIE NEWMAN, and her brother, Ollie Anderson. She was accompanied by MRS. MAURINE TERRELL who visited her son-in-law and daughter, the TOMMY WILKENSONS. The group visited the State Fair, and Mrs. Newman said she particularly enjoyed the horse show, the music hall and the Woman's Building. Mrs. Terrell and the Wilkensons also attended "No, No, Nannette."

MR. and MRS. W. E. GIBSON JR. are in Belgium this week on company business... Keep in touch.

Spring Styles Recall Wide Pants Of 1920's

NEW YORK (AP) — Wide pants, inspired by 1920s men's trousers, were standouts at Geoffrey Beene's spring show. "I want the collection to contrast innocence with great daring. That's how it is with any attractive woman," said Anthony following his spring show Thursday. He's discarded most of his 1930s-inspired wide-labeled jackets and has taken up the innocent cardigan. It was worn with wicked little georgette blouses, cut down in front. "The whole collection is navy, red, green and-or white.

For no reason except they are beautiful together," said Anthony. For day, these colors were used for a series of precisely-cut, solid colored suits, with pants or skirts. He did a series of striped sequin ensembles, in navy and white. Some of his best evening clothes were innocent, white, fulllength and soft, with their own coats.

Contest Opens For Conservation Award

COLLEGE STATION — A search for the 1972 Texas Conservation Homemaker of the Year was launched this week throughout the state. Announcement of the contest was made by Mrs. Florence W. Low, assistant director for home economics with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University.

State winner will receive the Texas Conservation Homemaker Award silver service during State Champions Night in Fort Worth on May 12, 1973. Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, the contest is part of the 28th annual Texas Conservation Awards Program. Each county may nominate one woman who lives in the county in which she and — or her husband operate a conservation farm or ranch. The farm or ranch must be operated under a basic soil and water conservation plan developed in cooperation with the local Soil and Water Conservation District. Guidelines for entering may be obtained from county Extension agents. Five regional winners will be selected from county nominees. The state winner will be chosen from among regional winners. Girl Scouts To Observe Halloween

The ghost of Juliette Low promises to be the highlight of the Girl Scout Halloween party Tuesday at the Howard County Fair Barn. All the Girl Scouts in the area are planning to attend the event, which is a combination birthday party for the founder of the Girl Scout movement and Halloween costume party. Hours are from 4 to 5:30 p.m.

Coordinating this gala event is Mrs. Jerry Snodgrass. Helping her on the planning committee have been Mrs. Calvin Daniels, Mrs. Daryl Hohertz and Miss Wayne Beene. Senior Troop 40, under the leadership of Miss Sally Spill, is in charge of the program. Mothers and other interested adults are helping in numerous ways to assure the success of the party.

"After the games, refreshments and costume prizes, the party will end on a serious note with each girl lighting one small candle, making a silent wish for the future of Girl Scouting singing Happy Birthday in honor of Juliette Low," said Miss Arlene Estes, field director. The amount of monies collected from the girls for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund will be announced at the conclusion of the party.

'I Love To Have People Hate Me'

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "I love for people to hate me." That's the reason for which Ann Calvello says she has been competing in the Roller Derby for nearly a quarter of a century.

"When I played in San Francisco for a while, I could do no wrong. I was miserable. The more they boo, the more I love it," said Ann, at 43 one of the sport's oldest participants.

"It's a funny thing. The fans love me because I've been around so long, and yet they hate me," she said Thursday.

"But Ann draws a line between her professional and her personal life.

"The fans pay their money to boo me in the rink," she said. "But once I'm out of that rink, I'm my own woman again."

Ann is in Tucson touring with the Jolters, a team representing five Midwestern states.

She says she has been a leader on the tour since she started in the Roller Derby at age 18 in 1948. A scout saw her in San Francisco and asked her if she wanted to go to Europe. Her answer was, "Why not."

"Every event has to have color and showmanship," Ann said. "I started the first day to let people know I was out there. I was a natural leader."

Being noticed for Ann includes spraying her hair green for a match. She thought the gimmick up one St. Patrick's Day, when she said she looked around and "saw too many blades."

She retired briefly from the tour when she married derby referee Roy Langley, but has been divorced for the past 15 years. She lives near San Francisco with her daughter, who, she complains, she never gets to see.

Travel is the reason for which she says she may quit after she finishes her 25th year. "I don't like to be on the road now for six months each year."

Man's Illness Not False Labor.

Textile salesman Harry Beere went into the hospital with a stomach complaint and came out with a maternity grant for $70.

"My swollen tummy made me look eight months pregnant, but I never expected anything like this," he commented as he read the medicare grant and the card listing him as a maternity case.

Later a Social Security official apologized. "The mistake got into Mr. Beere's envelope by mistake. It's all sorted out now."

I'm tired of all the traveling, the one night stands, the car rides from place to place. Basketball players think they got it tough, at least they get to fly. Have you ever tried driving across the country? I must drive about 75,000 miles a year."

Ann is bothered by the idea that Roller Derby is a fraud.

"Listen, she said, "I have had my nose broken 12 times, skated with broken ribs and right now have torn cartilage and ligaments in my legs. It's a rough game and it's for real," she said.

But for Ann Calvello, everything is now coming up roses. She makes about $35,000 a year, drives a Lincoln Continental and brags she meets all the guys she wants.

"What I'd really like to do is meet Joe Namath. I think it would be nice to meet the Ann Calvello of football. After all, I was there first."

Sagging Freedom May Be Lost

Can a boss make office workers wear bras in this era of the braless look?

Probably, but don't tell Betty Friedan, mother of the women's movement, about this apparent cramping of female freedom.

The probability is based on a survey by the Administrative Management Society which involved 15,000 office managers and such nation-wide.

More than half the respondents indicated their firms would not permit braless attire. How this particular rule is enforced wasn't detailed.

Plaids Go Boldly Into Fall Fashion

Fashion will make its strongest fall and winter color statement in plaids. Big and bold or small and subdued, the plaids will swing around the seasons' entire color wheel, with the emphasis on the bright side.

Huge blanket plaids in clear paintbox colors will be plaids in vivid shades and the slightly darker tones of tartans. They will be used in all sorts of sportswear separates, including jackets, vests, toppers, short and long skirts and some shrink sweaters.

Argyles will play their lead in knits. The diamond design will take to bright and muted hues in pullover and cardigan sweaters, vests, dresses, pants and, recalling their big burst of popularity during the 30s and 40s, in socks.

Couple United In Marriage

Miss Elizabeth Annette Davis and Donald Ray Tyler, both of Dallas, were married at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ, with Ralph Williams officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Downs, Anton; and Tyler is the son of Mrs. Anita O'Brien, 623 Caylor, Big Spring; and Ray Tyler of Dallas.

The couple stood before an archway of greenery flanked by branched candelabra and baskets of white gladioli. A choral group from the church provided wedding music.

The bride wore a formal-length gown of white bridal satin fashioned empire style with a lace yoke accenting the bodice. A small satin bow with seed pearls set off the high round collar. Lace and pearls also highlighted her long sleeves which reached a deep cuff. Her floor-length illusion veil was edged with lace and held with pearl d'ange tiara trimmed with matching lace. She carried a nosegay of yellow carnations. Serving as matrons of honor were Mrs. Wayne Hill, Lubbock, and Mrs. Larry Wood, Levelland. Maid of honor was Miss Sandra Maston of Dallas. The bridal attendants all wore floor-length gowns of yellow dotted floral swiss featuring high stand-up collars and long, puffed sleeves.

Vocational Education Program Outlined For Altrusa Women

"Vocational education is a teaching outline that is to be supplemented by the coordinator's experiences and by business sources to train students to be more effective workers early in their work experience," said Jim Shillingburg, guest speaker for Altrusa Club Thursday at Coker's Restaurant.

Shillingburg is coordinator of distributive education at Big Spring High School, and he explored the various fields offered under the program. They include metal trades, electrical appliances, home and building trades, auto mechanics, small motors repair and upholstery. Since BSNS is an area vocational school, students may enroll in vocational courses while a high school student.

enrollment of vocational related courses is 1,089. There are 23 vocational teachers. The school also offers courses in home economics, vocational agriculture and a laundry program. There are also 53 students enrolled in two pre-employment lab shops at Runnels Junior High School, studying home economics and shop programs.

Quotable Women

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I don't feel 90 in my head, but I feel 180 in my body." Dame Sybil Thorndike, first lady of the British stage on her 90th birthday.

"She has tried to maintain herself as a private person. If you go out campaigning, it puts a different light on the situation." Nancy Tuckerman, a spokesman for Jacqueline Onassis, explaining why the former first lady had canceled plans to campaign for Sen. California-Pol. D-R.

"It made tears come to my eyes." Pat Nixon as she presented the "blind worker of the year award" to Mazelle Sullivan of Talladega, Ala.

"They can send a man to the moon, so why can't they make a head of lettuce that tastes like lasagna?" Julie DeJohn, 300-pound entertainer.

"Christmas gift-giving has been tragically over-emphasized. The desire to give things to each other is a good thing and of course it does have a valid beginning, going back to the gifts to the Christ child. But it has been exploited, and sometimes we lose sight of the basic event." Marjorie Holmes, author of "Two From Galilee."

"Rise up against these acts of insane terror, kidnaping and extortion that rend the fabric of international life." Israeli Premier Golda Meir to the nations of the world after the Arab guerrilla attack on the Israeli Olympic team.

"Anything could happen if we were forced to go back to Uganda... we have nowhere to go and we are penniless." Samiara Esmila, on arrival in London after being expelled with an estimated 50,000 Ugandan Asians.

"We're fairly sure that we were bugged again." Democratic National Committee Chairwoman Jean Westwood after the discovery of a red box filled with wires at the party's national headquarters.

"I don't think I'd be doing much good lying around a jail cell and now I'm really interested to learn if I can teach someone to read and write." Margaret Fleming, 17, after being convicted on a marijuana charge and sentenced to teach illiterates in the Dade County (Miami, Fla.) Jail.

Miss Crawford Weds Lt. Michael McGee

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Carolyn Crawford and Lt. Michael Lynn McGee in a candlelight ceremony at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in St. John's United Methodist Church, Lubbock.

Dr. Charles Lutrick, pastor, performed the nuptial rites as the couple stood before an altar flanked with branched candelabra entwined with fall flowers and greenery. Single candle hurricane lamp stands completed the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delaine Crawford of Lubbock, formerly of Big Spring, and McGee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McGee, Abilene.

The bride wore a high-waisted gown with a fitted bodice styled in lace and edged with tatted lace. Her lantern sleeves were fashioned in chiffon, which also overlaid her circular taffeta skirt. The skirt extended to a slight train. A Juliet caplet held her floor-length illusion veil, and she carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and babies'-breath.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Miss Linda Crawford. Miss Jan Toland and Miss Paula Green, both of Big Spring, were bridesmaids.

Best man was Lt. Edward Farris of Junction City, Kan., and groomsmen were Lt. Jack Jansson, Manhattan, Kan., and Michael Gravor, Lubbock.

Serving as ushers were Marc McGee and Matt McGee, both brothers of the bridegroom; Bill Lashlee and John Lopez, all of Abilene.

The bridal attendants wore gowns styled similarly to the bride's in a floral print chiffon.

A background of traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Boyd Ramsey, organist.

The couple was honored at a reception in the garden room of the church immediately following the ceremony. The serving table was decorated with a silver candelabrum adorned with multi-colored chrysanthemums and babies'-breath. A tiered and columned cake accented one end of the table, while the opposite end held a silver punch bowl.

Members of the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Johnny James, Miss Ellen Gossett, Mr. Michael Gravor, Mr. and Mrs.

Scholarship Program Is Discussed

The "Voice of Democracy" scholarship program sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars was discussed by the local VFW Auxiliary Thursday in the home of Mrs. Homer Petty, 707 N. Gregg.

The scholarship program is designed to give high school students the opportunity to voice their opinions on a patriotic theme and to convey them via the broadcast media. Any students in grades 10 through 12 are eligible to enter. The theme is "My Responsibility to Freedom," and deadline for entering is Dec. 15.

Mrs. G. C. Broughton Sr., Mrs. C. G. Barnett and Mrs. Petty will go to Big Spring High School during the week to outline the contest to interested students.

Mrs. Broughton presided at Thursday's meeting. Guests included Mrs. Mildred Sterle, Odessa, District 25 president, Mrs. Priscilla Webb, Monahans, district membership chairman, and Mrs. Louise Chambers, Odessa, Auxiliary No. 4372 president.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: Our friends just told us they are expecting their first baby. I have an idea for soon-to-be mothers.

I packed a special little package for my husband before our little girl was born. I gave it to him when we got to the hospital.

I put in dimes, a list of telephone numbers, candy bars, a paperback book I was sure he hadn't read, two magazines and a deck of cards.

I had so much fun putting them together. I would have left my own suitcase at home rather than forget his surprise package.

It would have been very good to help him pass the time, but we were so fortunate, all he got to do was eat a candy bar.

Wasn't that nice? ... Darlene Blankenau STARS

How about throwing in a package of chewing gum, or some pop? Bless you! ... Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT
Dear Heloise: I'd like to share the following information with your readers: I just learned it myself from the gentleman who came out to touch up my year-old cherry wood furniture.

Don't use plastic place mats, plastic tablecloths or plastic doilies on base wood; the new finishes on the woods cause a chemical reaction with plastic that leaves the imprint. Plastics used should be flannel-backed. ... Charlotte Leypoldt

I have a nutty idea that works simply "divine" on wood, especially scratches. Grind up some pecans or walnuts, put them in the palm of your hand and have at it

Mesquite Tree To Bloom Friday With Arts, Jewelry

THE MESQUITE TREE OPENS FRIDAY FOR ART ENTHUSIASTS Miss Zane Neal, owner, makes final preparations

The Mesquite Tree is about to bloom. Quite possibly, it will be the prettiest tree in West Texas. Instead of sharp thorns and sparse leaves, its branches will bear golden jewelry, and from its limbs will hang original works of art.

The Mesquite Tree, an art gallery which will also feature designer jewelry, will hold its formal opening Friday at 1011 Gregg. The owner is Miss Zane Neal, a native Big Springer whose interest in art, particularly as it pictured the western scene, increased as she traveled the Southwest while participating in her hobby of "rodeoing."

Calling hours for the formal opening will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday, with Miss Neal as hostess. She will introduce Ed Steinberg who will be present, showing the one-of-a-kind gold jewelry created by Nat Cabot. Until now, his jewelry was available in Texas only at Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston.

Frank Spinelli jewelry of New York, and genuine Indian jewelry will also be available, as well as "Pottery by Steel" of El Paso.

Artists whose work will grace the limbs of The Mesquite Tree include David Brownlow, Fort Worth, who is primarily noted for cathedral paintings. He is represented in the private collections of Bob Hope, Hal

Wallis and Winthrop Rockefeller, and has received 42 various awards for his paintings. In addition he is rated outstanding in "Art In America."

Q. T. Coats Jr., well-known locally as an artist of floral arrangements, will extend his talents for the Mesquite Tree with pen and ink miniatures and unique florals designed on weathered shingles.

Most noted for her "Daisy Series" watercolors, Patti Canaris, El Paso, will also have works in the new art gallery. She is an expert in using muted colors and is represented in the Jinx Gallery, El Paso, as well as other galleries in the Southwest and in many private collections. Mrs. Canaris has done free-lance art work and illustrated several books. Her six one-woman shows have brought several awards.

Robert Gartland, Lawton, Okla., is one of the best known artists in his home state. He studied art in New York and has shown works in galleries throughout the United States. Several of his watercolors will be handled at The Mesquite Tree.

Although born in Bern, Switzerland, William Kolliker now resides in El Paso. Most famous of his paintings are his owl etchings. He has held many one-man shows and his etchings and paintings are owned by hundreds of collectors in the United States, Mexico and Europe. He is listed in "Who's Who of American Art?"

Life in the American Southwest is beautifully captured in paintings by Ben Konis, Amarillo. He combines strong pattern and light with rich color and bold brush strokes to create an individual impressionistic style in landscapes and figures. It has been said that Konis' brush "drips with the heat of our great Southwest," and that "his feeling for little people captures the secrets of the child's world, while his portraits of ancient Indian chiefs and Mexican peons unmask life-times of struggle, sorrow and despair."

Lawrence B. Porter, Mesilla Park, N.M., is the artist that introduced nudes to the western landscape, and they have become quite popular in southwestern galleries. He executes gouache medium with an egg tempera technique on many of his contemporary western murals for several Texas business concerns, and has displayed works in many group and one-man shows. His water colors, acrylics and pen and ink drawings capture the cowboy of yesterday and today.

A Texas artist who is only now beginning to receive the fame he deserves is Dobb Tubbs Snyder. His unique specialty is woodcarving, and his works are appealing to both beginners and experts as he captures some of the southwest with replicas of Indians and wildlife.

Dr. Lucien C. Vannerson was a chiropractor in California when he first became interested in art as a hobby. By 1950 he was known as a self-taught artist and exhibited in numerous galleries. Since 1956 he has devoted himself to painting and is noted for his desert and mountain scenes in vivid, lifelike colors. His pictures are prized by collectors in this and other countries.

Although Tom Knapp is both sculptor and painter, only his bronze works will be featured at The Mesquite Tree. His art depicts moments of western life

Hear Talk About School Financing

"School Financing" will be the topic explored by Dr. June Hyer at a luncheon sponsored by Midland League of Women Voters, at twelve o'clock noon, Nov. 2 at Midland Country Club.

Dr. Hyer is a member of a state committee studying methods of school financing.

The luncheon is open to the public at a cost of about $2.85. Reservations must be made by Tuesday, and anyone interested may call or write to Mrs. Henry Krusekopf Jr., 2610 Cimmaron, Midland, 79701, phone 265-2974; or Mrs. Norman Gould, 2814 Fannin, Midland, 79701, phone 694-1880.

Detailed bronze sculptures of the old west have made George Walby an admired artist in his home state of Colorado. He resides in Loveland, Colo., and his works are being offered for the first time in Texas at The Mesquite Tree. Each sculpture is limited to 36 editions, after which the mold is destroyed.

"Pottery by Steel" is handled by many galleries in the Texas and New Mexico areas, and is now available in Big Spring. The artist creates a variety of unusual pieces including hanging flower containers, vases, candles and casserole dishes.

G. Zachariah Keeps Easter Society Post

George J. Zachariah was re-elected treasurer of the board of directors for the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas at the society's annual convention recently in Fort Worth.

Roger Staubach, quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys, was introduced as the 1973 Texas State Easter Seal Appeal Chairman, a position previously held by Miss Phyllis George of Denton, Miss America of 1971. She served as 1972 chairman of the state organization for handicapped children and adults.

David R. Fortenberry of Azle, 23-year-old engineering student at Tarrant County Junior College, was honored with the "Gallantry Award," given in conjunction with the National and Texas Easter Seal Societies to recognize an outstanding contribution by a handicapped person in furthering the potential of other handicapped individuals by personal example. Fortenberry, injured in a motorcycle accident in 1970, was hospitalized for 85 days and was then homebound until January 1972, when a program of physical therapy was begun at the Tarrant County Easter Seal Treatment Center. He entered a two-year college program in preparation for ultimate completion of a bachelor's degree in drafting. He now uses a wheelchair only for long distances on campus. He has acquired the ability to move freely on crutches, permitting him to participate in campus activities other than classes.

Donald Scowden, 3-year-old Odessa youth, was honored as the 1972 Texas State Easter Seal Child. Donald's picture appeared on the more than one million Easter Seal Appeal letters mailed throughout Texas this past spring.

Staubach, Fortenberry and Donald were honored at the climax of the two-day meeting, the awards banquet. At that time, Rodney D. Hargrave of Dallas, re-elected as President of the Texas Easter Seal Society Board of Directors, also honored Bob Lilly of the Dallas Cowboys for seven years of chairmanship of the Annual Texas High School Football Boys Lilly Day for Crippled Children, an annual fund raising event.

Board of Directors of the Texas Easter Seal Society, has been long associated with the North Texas Rehabilitation Center in Wichita Falls.

The Texas House of Delegates, meeting during the convention, elected members to the State Board of Directors. Newly elected to three-year terms were: Joe Furman, McAllen; Robert E. Kennedy, Abilene; and P. O. Settle Jr., Fort Worth. Elected to a one-year term was Robert Latza, Odessa.

Re-elected to three-year terms were: Edward J. Drake, Dallas; Ed H. Hill, San Antonio; Thomas N. Jenness Jr., Fort Worth; Kent McIvar Jr., Dallas; Ramiro Sanchez, Laredo; and Mr. Hargrave.

Remaining members of the board include: Herman R. Baker, Sherman; Irving Baker, Dallas; Dan S. Chadbourne, Bryan; M. T. Coon, Groves; Guy Dickert Jr., Texarkana; Tom King, Houston; James W. McCutchen, Wichita Falls; Mrs. James T. Mixson, Waco; J. Phillip Richardson, M.D., El Paso; Frank R. Rundell, Austin; Ray E. Santos, M.D., Lubbock; Mrs. Jess A. Tolbert, Tyler; Charles W. Walker, Austin and Zachariah, Big Spring.

YOUNG AT HEART — Groucho Marx enjoys a night on the town with his constant companion Canadian actress Erin Fleming. Groucho admits he still has an eye for the ladies — even at 81.

Groucho Marx Is Still Skirt Chaser, At 81

Copley News Service

LONDON — Groucho Marx, 81 years young, left London recently for California, where he promptly ended up in the hospital suffering from what doctors called "a mild heart attack."

But while he was here, he managed to set up a forthcoming retrospective of his old films and leave the British press laughing out loud — at themselves.

Accompanied as usual by his beautiful, young, red-haired companion, Canadian actress Erin Fleming, he claimed that he first started chasing girls when he was 12. Wearing his familiar black beret and puffing energetically on his Havana cigar, Groucho breezed his way through a press conference that lasted for more than an hour.

Earlier, he had been in Cannes for the film festival there, and it was Groucho who stole the show.

"They showed 'A Night at the Opera' and everyone stood up and cheered," he recalled in all honesty. "Most of them hadn't even been thought of way back when we made that one."

STOOD UP

"Then the president of the whole shindig stood up and tied a ribbon around my neck that had a medal on it so heavy I stooped more than ever. 'All the way from Beverly Hills,' I told them into the microphones, 'and it's not even gold!' But then again, the dollar isn't real gold either, anymore. The best investment is gold teeth. Whatever happens, you can always chew."

Groucho chewed his way through a variety of subjects to the delight of the British writers, who seem to have memorized every scene in his old films. He managed to slam, in no particular order, the British royal family, American politics, and women over 40.

He did, however, have a few kinds words for Charlie Chaplin, Ring Lardner, Robert Benchley, and the Russian, Rasputin, with whom he seems to sense some spiritual kinship.

"But why should there be this incredible revival of interest in our movies? Maybe it's because the kids today think we were attacking the Establishment. We were just trying to be funny."

"When we made movies like my three favorites, 'Duck Soup,' 'A Night at the Opera' and 'A Day at the Races,' we received no more than a dozen letters a month. Now I get 100 letters a week, from all over. Amazing."

NEW CAREER

And in the last few years he seems to be starting a new career on TV talk shows. "Although I'm personally very fond of Dick Cavett," he says wryly, "it's really foolish of me to do his show for $250."

"I used to make $25,000 a week on my 'Life' show. So now I'm going to do more one-night campus shows and a stint at Carnegie Hall, that will pay $10,000 — that's more like it."

Groucho's one regret is that he never finished school. "It has given me an inferiority complex. I've written five books, but it would have been easier if I had been able stage names. Groucho got his name for obvious reasons, and Harpo his because of his musical ability. "Gummo always wore gum shoes, Chico liked to chase the chicks, and Zeppo was born the day something happened to a big zeppelin."

Looking out over London, Groucho takes a puff on his cigar and says, slyly, "I wish I were 65 again. Then I'd really be able to chase around this town!"

Municipal League Meeting Attracts Mayor Choate

Mayor Wade Choate attended a meeting of the Texas Municipal League's Legislative Committee on General Municipal Affairs Tuesday in Austin.

The Committee was comprised of about 50 city officials from different areas of the state, ranging in positions from librarians to police chiefs and city managers, forming an opinion of Texas city officials for the Texas Municipal League board to build legislative policy, Choate said.

The committee made a lightning examination of 16 legislative proposals, none which, according to Choate, have any exclusive effect on Big Spring.

The committee chose to make no recommendation on several issues, such as reorganization of county governments, the restructuring of Texas' court system, the creation of multi-county public service authorities and a move to make regional planning councils directly responsible for public services.

SUPPORTS PROPOSAL

Among topics committee members decided to support legislation on the existing authority of councils of governments, allowing great flexibility on a regional basis in contracting for a wide variety of services for member cities and counties.

Also supported was a move to allow smaller cities more power in the home-rule category. Presently those with populations less than 5,000 are under general law restrictions of the state. Many of these smaller cities perform a wide range of essential public services. New legislation would allow cities as small as Coahoma more power and a higher tax rate.

The committee voted to retain the Texas Open Meetings Law in its present form, which requires the business of governmental bodies be publicly conducted, excluding meetings to consider the appointment, employment or dismissal of a public officer or employee or to hear complaints or charges against officers or employees; the acquisition of real property; and matters affecting security.

ANOTHER BACKED

Seventeen states have adopted a National Fire Protection Association model law forbidding the sale, possession or transportation of all fireworks, including small firecrackers and nonexplosives (sparklers and snakes). The TML committee supported the regulation, with the exception that municipalities, a museum, parks, air associations and other organizations may display

Science Is Hope Of Civilization

HOUSTON (AP) — A Nobel laureate says science, pinpointed as the source of much contemporary despair, also must be recognized as the major hope of civilization.

"I know that some anti-science feeling is fashionable," said Dr. Alfred Kastler, winner of the 1966 Nobel Prize in physics.

The French nuclear scientist said "technology, by contributing to such things as pollution, has done its part in placing civilization in danger."

"But I think problems of this nature can only be solved by scientific methods," he said.

Kastler, 70, said during a recent visit to Rice University that he believes it would be a mistake to overemphasize applied science at the expense of theoretical work just because the latter has no quick easily seen benefit for society.

fireworks after a permit has been issued. The officials approved legislation which would require the recordation of incorporations, annexations and disannexations of cities, to aid the just and efficient administration of all-level governmental responsibilities.

Municipal courts of record could be authorized by legislation which the committee supported. This act would allow in some cases a reduction in the number of appeals to crowded county court dockets which are often dismissed.

Opposed by the committee was possible legislation authorizing the Texas Railroad Commission to review contracts between natural gas pipeline firms and cities.

Also rejected was a proposal to authorize the chief city administrative officer, to commission city employees as peace officers while on municipal park or airport property or while in fresh pursuit of law violators. City officials, on the committee felt that peace officers should be properly trained as such, before given the authority of a policeman.

A Texas Public Utility Commission also was opposed with the opinion that competitive prices are supposedly better in Texas without a regulatory commission.

Referred to subcommittees for further study were proposed revisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure and the Penal Code. Also handed down for more detailed subcommittee study was a proposal to legislate more state financial assistance to local health units; to provide statewide support of teaching hospitals, and requirement of counties or districts to insure payment of medical bills incurred by citizens under a different hospital district.

Lawyer Writes In, On Court

NEW YORK (AP) — When he isn't practicing law, Jerrold MORGULAS writes novels. Sometimes he even writes novels when he is practicing. "A lawyer spends a lot of time sitting in the courtroom," attorney-author Morgulas explains, "so sometimes while I'm waiting for a judge to appear, for example, I'll go to the back of the court and write." SQUEEZING his writing into the spare moments that pop up during his life as a lawyer, husband and the father of two small children has paid off in two published novels for the intense 38-year-old. His first, "The Accused," was an examination of some of the moral and judicial problems left over from the Nuremberg trials. His latest, "The Siege," is about "the siege of the Alcazar during the first months of the Spanish Civil War."

Both writing and the law come naturally to Morgulas. His father is an attorney in a law firm that specializes in handling the construction business. Morgulas works for the same firm, noting that "I grew up knowing I would go into this practice. During my college summers, I worked in the offices of construction firms, reading blueprints and that sort of thing, to get a feel of what was going on in the field." AS FOR WRITING, he says, "It was something I always wanted to do. I started when I was very young, and now I find it gives my life a very good balance. Quite simply, not only do I want to write, I have to write because I find myself fulfilled when I am writing and not when I'm not." Then he adds, with a laugh, "I think writing fiction makes my legal brief writing better — not so ponderous, you know." To blend his two lives, Morgulas says he rises about 6:30 a.m. and writes at his typewriter for about an hour. Then he boards his commuting train to New York City and writes in longhand — as he does during those courtroom moments — for another 40 minutes. "I do the same thing on the train coming home," he says. "And then when I get to the house I go back to the typewriter for an hour or so in the evening. On weekends I write while the children are napping."

NEW YORK (AP) — Love to assemble at a publishing investment of a quarter-million dollars. Entitled "The McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of World Drama," the four-volume set sells for a nifty $120. Film Market Hungry

By JAMES MEADE
Copy News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Films are a feast and famine business. Production has been in famine in recent years. It would not be if all the traditional establishment producers were like M. J. Frankovich.

Frankovich has completed 10 major theatrical features within the last four years. They include "Butterflies Are Free," "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice," "Cactus Flower," "Marooned," "The Looking Glass War," "There's a Girl in My Soup," "Doctors' Wives," "The Love Machine," "Stand Up and Be Counted" and "4."

LOSERS NOT BAD
Frankovich's "Forty Carats" is shooting in Greece and will move to New York City and the Warner Bros. Burbank (Calif.) Studios, shared by Columbia. It retains Edward Albert, writer Leonard Gershe and director Milton Katselas, a trio from "Butterflies."

Liv Ullman, Gene Kelly and Binnie Barnes also are in the cast.

Like any other volume project, there are some winners and some losers in Frankovich's list. The winners, such as "Butterflies," "Bob and Carol" and "Alice," "Cactus Flower," "Marooned," "The Looking Glass War," "There's a Girl in My Soup," "Doctors' Wives," "The Love Machine," "Stand Up and Be Counted" and "4."

SUCCESS PLUGS EARS
The secret of a successful production primarily is getting the writing and direction together, a formula that calls for dealing with large and sometimes opposing egos.

"Don't forget the producer's ego. He has one, too," Frankovich said in an interview. "Creative people are tougher to handle after success. They put on ear plugs and forget to listen."

"I'd rather catch a writer or a director on the rebound after a failure," Frankovich admitted. "The producer, the writer and the director use each other for sounding boards. It's easier when everybody's listening."

"Most of the great directors were writers themselves," Frankovich said. "They say John Ford improvised but what he did was ad lib a bit. Ford always knew his setting, his characters, how long the sequence should be and what was supposed to happen."

"Willie Wyler is a great director but he always was at his best when he had producer Sam Goldwyn working with him," Frankovich said.

FEMALE OFFICER KILLED
Among Frankovich's future projects is James Mills' "Report to the Commissioner," a tense story of a naive young New York City detective who kills a female undercover officer because he has strayed from the letter of his orders.

The detective then is trapped for nearly a day in an elevator with a desperate narcotics pusher, each having a gun pointed at the other. Meanwhile police officials at a barricade debate how expendable is the young detective.

Frankovich, Katselas and Mills, a former journalist, turned lunch into a casting story conference.

At issue was whether young Albert, inexperienced but talented son of Eddie Albert and Margo, should play the young detective, a role he would like.

Meanwhile, Frankovich was negative on a Katselas inquiry about a stage actress for the role of the murdered undercover policewoman. "Good actress, but she can't be sexy enough," Frankovich judged.

PICKING BRAIN
Frankovich and Katselas also were picking the brain of writer Mills on the characters trapped in the elevator, a scene whose quality will determine the success of the movie.

Frankovich and Katselas saw mutual respect developing between the antagonists while Mills was downbeat, contending that the drug pusher, hostile to the world since childhood, would feel no empathy for anyone.

St. Lawrence Festival Is Scheduled Nov. 5

By MARJ CARPENTER
All during the year St. Lawrence is a hard-working farm community. It is located 14 miles southeast of Garden City. And once a year in the fall, St. Lawrence is a place of celebration — at the annual St. Lawrence Festival, which this year is Sunday, Nov. 5. Some years as many as 3,000 persons have flocked to St. Lawrence for the barbecue of homemade German sausage and all the trimmings and the festival which follows. The farmers in that community actually start getting ready weeks ahead for the festival which raises money for their church, the St. Lawrence Catholic Church. The weekend of the festival, they dedicate all of their time, talents and energies to the festival. The men will get together on Saturday morning, Nov. 4, at the barn on Alfred Schwartz's farm and start preparing the homemade German sausage. That night, they light the fires to barbecue beef and prepare the rest of the big meal. From 11 a.m.-2 p.m. on Sunday, the meal is served to the large crowd expected. That afternoon around 2:30 p.m. an auction is held. Farmers dedicate bales of cotton and other items to the auction as a gift to the church.

Also, games such as spin a wheel, grab bag and bingo go on during the afternoon. The women have a fancy stand where homecooked and handmade items are sold. They have worked on these all during the year. That evening from 5:30-6:30 p.m., the meal is served again. And that night, a polka band furnishes music for a dance which is enjoyed by all ages for many hours. General chairmen this year are Leroy Wilde, Daniel Hirt, Bill Schroeder and Wilbert Braden. Cecil Halfmann is chairman of the barbecue and Jimmy Strube, the dance.

Many People Now Helping Fight Litter

Littering has become no little thing in the eyes of the public. Today's generation of young people have been known to romp rather heavily upon their adult relatives and friends if they start to throw a can out the car window. Definitely, this generation is more ecology-minded. Then, everybody is becoming more conscious of litter, partially due to effective national advertising. The state highway department claims that public concern for a cleaner environment may be having an effect, at least on litter pickup. Locally, Clint Kent of the state highway department here says that he believes that the average motorists are not dumping as much trash out as they used to heave out the window. He added that his crews pick up twice a week in litter cans both directions from Big Spring on Interstate 20 as well as twice a week on Highway 350 and 57 and that the cans are usually full. "People used to ignore them," he added. Statewide, the litter pickup cost estimate for 1970-71 was $3.1 million, as compared to an estimate this year of $3,285,000. This is only a small drop — but a drop of $15,000. Kent had no figures immediately available on local costs of picking up litter just in this area. Roger Spencer, maintenance engineer for the state highway department says that "When you consider inflation, as well as the increased number of vehicles using our highways, the savings looks even bigger." The number of motor vehicles registered in Texas increased approximately five per cent.

A New 'High'

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am so happy about a recent "victory," I have to share it with someone. About two years ago I started taking "diet pills" to control my appetite. They made me feel so great. Too great. That was the trouble. Before I knew it I was taking so many I stopped counting. I was hooked and didn't know how to get off them and still function daily. (I am a registered nurse and should have known better.) I was averaging four to five hours of sleep at night and I was ruining my family life with my impatience, irritability and tenseness. Finally one morning my head was reeling from exhaustion and too many pills and I couldn't remember whether I had bathed the kids before I put them to bed. I knew I had to have help, and then I did something I hadn't done in years. I prayed. And by God (literally) somehow I found the courage to take those pills and flush them all down the toilet. I'd be lying if I said I felt the next few weeks were easy. More than once I was tempted to get more pills, but I prayed for the strength to keep me from it. It's been months since I've taken a pill and I feel like a new person. I am "high" on being free from artificial stimulation which has to end in a depression. I know this is too long to print, but please try to find room in your column for some of it, Abby. I'm sure there are others who are hooked as badly as I was, and if I can kick the habit with prayer, so can they. Thank you.

BORN AGAIN IN LOUISVILLE
DEAR BORN: Your inspiring message is well worth fitting into my column. The power of prayer can move mountains.
DEAR ABBY: Grandfather was worried because his 5-year-old grandson was flying alone by plane from one coast to the other. He said, "the boy needs more than a couple of stewardesses who do nothing but grin at him like a couple of Cheshire cats."
Has he ever seen Cheshire cats deal with skyjacks, bomb threats, or passengers who are sightless, hard-of-hearing, crippled or drunk?
It's my opinion that the boy would be safer in the care of a stewardess than with his grandfather. Or hasn't grandpa got all his marbles?
STEWARDESS
DEAR STEWARDESS: Grandpa probably has all his marbles, but he doesn't have all his facts. Thanks for filling him in.

Mr. and Mrs. Frances Hagen head the bingo and Mrs. Robert Latzel, the fancy stand. Mrs. Leon Halfmann is chairman of the grab bag booth and Mrs. Floyd Wilde, spin-a-wheel. The women will also give away a quilt and crocheted table cloth to the lucky winners with Mrs. Dennis Seidenberger as chairman. This fund goes directly to the Altar Society which uses the money for flowers for the church and church projects. The St. Lawrence Festival has become rather famous in the area and the one planned for Nov. 5 this year promises to live up to all of its fame.

Group To Discuss Proposed Fair

Planning for the annual Howard County Fair gets under way at 3 p.m. Tuesday as an advisory group meet at the Chamber of Commerce office to organize the Howard County fair association. Leading the group is County Agent Bruce Griffith who says discussion at the meeting will center around ideas for the fair, location of the fair grounds and dates for the annual event. Griffith urged all members of the group to attend this organizational meeting. Approximately 18 residents from all parts of Howard County have been selected for the group.
