Burriss Named Steers' New Head Coach, AD

BOB BURRIS

Bob Burriss, the man who led Midland Lee's return to football respectability five years ago, has been named head coach and athletic director at Big Spring High School.

Burriss, a former Oklahoma State assistant, was selected to the position by the school board Monday in a closed meeting, soon after the board voted to accept the resignation of Clovis

Hale, Steer head coach the past three years. Hale submitted his resignation Thursday to Supt. Sam Anderson, saying he was not leaving because of another job but that he was planning on remaining in coaching. In his three seasons as head man Hale posted season records of 5-5, 2-8 and 1-9.

The 38-year old Burriss received a two-year contract with salary 'sat at $15,000 the first year and $15,500 the second. The board granted him permission to bring one assistant, and a decision will be made upon the others after his arrival. The board approved a one-month extension of Hale's contract as a transition period, which will last until March 1.

NO. 1 DRAFT SELECTION

Oilers Choose Matuszak

NEW YORK (AP) — Huge defensive tackle John Matuszak of the University of Tampa was picked No. 1 by the Houston Oilers today as the National Football League opened its annual draft of college players.

The 6-foot-7, 275-pound was an overpowering pass-rusher for the Spartans and his selection opened 17 rounds of drafting that was to provide 442 clubs. The Baltimore Colts, drafting second after a trade Monday with the New Orleans Saints, then picked Bert Jones, strong-armed Louisiana State quarterback.

The Philadelphia Eagles selected offensive tackle Jerry Sisemore, a 260-pound two-time All-American from the University of Texas as a trend developed toward the picking of giant linemen.

'Country' Maynard Charms Fans

outgoing co - captains of the Quarterback Club, Al Valdes, Martha Poss and Ray Lawlis. Valdes was also honored at the end of the banquet by radio station KBST with a spirit award.

in El Paso. My bathroom caught on fire. It was all right though, because it didn't get up to the house." and began delighting the crowd immediately.

the public has of quarterback Joe Namath, telling the crowd he is "a dedicated athlete. I remember the night before the Super Bowl we had rooms next to each other in the hotel and I could hear the projector whirring at 2 a.m."

"Always remember," Maynard told the group seriously at the end of the night. "This is the greatest town in the United States and this is the greatest school in the United States. You just have confidence and believe that, and you can make it that way."

He talked on his upward rise in football, and then had some not-so-kind words when he got to the top: "They say the Jets are the second lowest-paying team in football. I call them the $20 million franchise with the two-bit organization ..."

He was studying the Baltimore defense, and when I went over and told him I was trying to get some sleep, he told me he had found the key. Sure enough, he had.

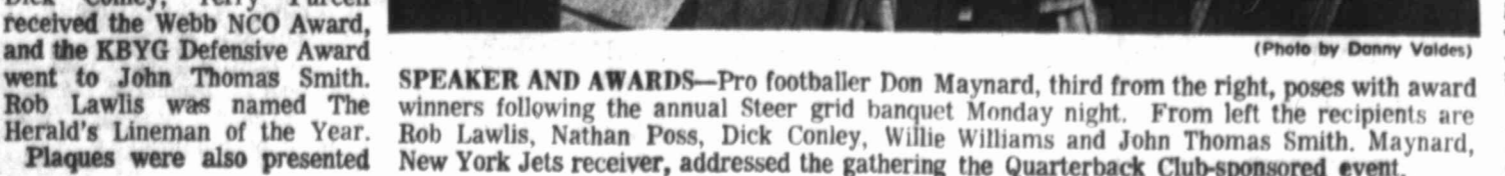

Maynard, the NFL's all-time top receiver in receptions and yards, also talked about the "relationship" between him and Joe. "If I miss a pass we go back and talk about why I missed it. Joe and I can say more in five minutes than some people can say in five hours. I tell him 'I'll make you a great quarterback and you'll make me a great receiver.' That's just the kind of relationship we have."

It was a nostalgic night for most, as Steer head coach Clovis Hale made his last appearance as head man before the team and fans. Hale resigned Thursday as head coach and athletic director, and Monday afternoon the school board accepted his resignation and named Bob Burriss the new mentor.

He presented awards also highlighted the night's events, and Willie Williams and Nathan Poss were the big winners. Williams received the Coaches' Award and the Dibrell's Scholastic Athlete Award, while Poss was honored as the Big Spring Herald Back of the Year and also received the KBST Lineman honors. Poss was a defensive back and tight end on offense, earning all-district mention.

He said it was an illegal hit during a game with Houston that caused partial paralysis in his left side and blurred vision. "If they'd fine these guys about $5,000 for getting the bad press on this sort of thing I guarantee we'd see some people walking a straight line," he said.

Maynard, a 15-year veteran told the players, "There are some little kids around here that think you're just about the greatest thing in the whole world. Remember, wherever you walk, somebody's going to be watching you . . . There's just one thing you can leave behind — and that's your influence on others."

IT GOT AWAY—The ball squirts away from the grasp of Howard County's Taylor Williams (44) Monday night during the Jayhawks' Western Conference cage bout with New Mexico Military Institute. The Hawks held off a late rally by the visitors and posted their seventh conference win, 90-79.

The Howard County Jayhawks, survived one crucial test here Monday night, holding off a persistent New Mexico Military Institute bunch for a 90-79 Western Conference victory.

stung the Jayhawks, and with four minutes remaining in the game, HCJC's lead was cut to two points.

Next action for the Jayhawks is here Wednesday when they host Concordia Lutheran Junior College of Austin.

The win snapped a two-game Hawk losing streak and also gave the team a boost of confidence, since they were playing without leading scorer and rebounder Thomas Bledsoe, who injured a shoulder last week and will be out for at least five games.

Lumzy fouled out to worsen matters, but a couple of crucial baskets and Williams' three-point play gave the Hawks working room in the fading minutes.

The Jayhawks are now 7-2 in WC play, while NMMI slipped to 2-13 on the year and 0-9 in league action. Six NMMI players hit in double figures, led by Richard Lury's 18 points.

And the strongest game of all was turned in by 6-6 freshman Taylor Williams, who burned the visitors for 29 points and dropped in a three-point play when things got tight near the end.

Leroy Lumzy, who fouled out late in the game, notched up 20 points, Mike Randle of Big Spring added 18 and Herbert Lee hit 15 points, 10 in the first half.

The Hawks, now 16-11 on the year and 7-2 in loop play, had little trouble with the winless NMMI crew early as they bolted to a 46-32 halftime advantage, mainly on the scoring of Lee and Williams.

ANNENBERG'S IMAGE IMPROVES Foot-In-Mouth Envoy

Caplay News Service
LONDON — The recent White House announcement that President Nixon has asked his old friend Walter H. Annenberg, publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, to stay on for another term as U.S. ambassador in Britain has caught London by surprise.

MORE TIME

Experienced American-watchers had been confidently forecasting that 64-year-old Annenberg, who says he wants to spend more time with his grandchildren, would be stepping down. One senior European ambassador, who for the sake of his reputation at the protocol-conscious Court of St. James's must remain anonymous, had even been taking discreet side wagers on Annenberg's successor. The favorites were W. Clement Stone, the insurance magnate and top contributor to the Nixon campaign fund, industrialists H. J. Heinz and Leonard Firestone and William Paley of CBS.

Supreme optimists were even being offered long odds on California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

But it is a tribute to Annenberg's tenacity and powers of recovery that his reappointment to a job which many still regard as the plum ambassadorial post in the Diplomatic Service was widely welcomed in Whitehall.

SHARP CONTRAST

When Annenberg first came to London as ambassador in 1969 he made a disastrous start. His hard-driving blunt style was in sharp contrast to his predecessor David K. Bruce, a professional diplomat, and the British press gave him a rough time. Time magazine, too, accused him of "periodic attacks of foot-in-the-mouth disease." This was an unkind reference to a famous occasion when he presented his credentials to Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace. The ceremony was recorded on film and the queen casually asked Annenberg where he was living in London.

He replied: "We are in the embassy residence subject, of course, to some discomfort as a result of the need for elements of refurbishment and rehabilitation."

Annenberg was mercilessly mocked for the long-winded nature of his reply, which simply meant that the official residence near Regent Park was being redecorated at a personal cost to him of about $1 million.

The ambassador himself fails to understand the reasons for this reaction. "It was a very formal occasion," he recently told the London Daily Express. "I was not going to speak to your queen as if I was at a barbecue."

WHY BOTHER?

Annenberg was much more down-to-earth in another controversy about the huge American eagle which adorns the U.S. Embassy in Grosvenor Square. He described it to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as a "blatant and insensitive enormity" and threatened to pull it down. But many Americans living in London protested and Annenberg quickly reached a compromise. "It can stay," he announced. "I won't bother him, if he doesn't bother me."

But Annenberg and his wife Leonore have since gone a long way toward establishing a reputation as brilliant hosts and discerning gourmets.

An invitation to a U.S. Embassy party is now an invitation to be treasured.

And the ambassador's philanthropic contributions to

Jane Fonda, Spock Hailed

MOSCOW (AP) — Yevgeny Yevtushenko, the Russian poet, has written a poem on the end of the Vietnam war in which he praises the antiwar activities of Jane Fonda and Dr. Benjamin Spock.

The poem, entitled "With Victory," was published by Pravda. It also mentions Soviet weavers who made the material that clothed "Victory in Vietnam," the Soviet workers who marched in support of Vietnam and Americans who resisted the military draft.

Then comes this stanza: "With victory, Vietnam. The air of the front is peaceful."

With victory, the world of friends —

Both the West and the East. With victory, Picasso. With victory, Jane Fonda. With victory, My Petka. With victory, Doctor Spock. The words "My Petka" apparently referred to the Russian people.

Petka is a diminutive form of Pyotr, a common Russian first name.

Vote Peace Resolution

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Senate adopted a resolution Monday praising President Nixon for the "negotiation and signing of a peace agreement that brings the Vietnam war to an honorable conclusion."

The resolution, sponsored by Sen. Betty Andujar of Fort Worth, one of three Republicans in the 31-member Senate, says the peace agreement "embodies the goals for which Presidents Kennedy, Johnson, and Nixon labored so long."

It also honors military personnel who served in the war, commends the families of prisoners and those missing in action "who worked so unceasingly for the return of their loved ones" and is a "tribute to all Americans whose prayers for peace and whose loyalty to this great nation have helped bring peace again to our land."

POLITICAL INSIGHT

Annenberg also showed sound political insight when he refused a honorary degree from St. Andrews University — the oldest in Scotland. He had been forewarned that there might be serious anti-American demonstrations so he politely declined the honor. It was a great personal sacrifice because a degree from the university of the home of golf would have been a career highlight for this enthusiastic 15-handicap player.

Independent TV News Minus Commercials?

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Movie-TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Next April, an independent television news agency hopes to begin servicing stations in the U.S. with a daily hour of news — without an anchorman and without commercials.

Heresy? Not really. The service is being offered as a supplement to local TV news operations, providing filmed news and sports reports the stations can include in their own newscasts.

NEWS BUREAU

The agency is TVN, Inc., temporarily based here and so new — it was incorporated Jan. 11 — that its executives haven't yet decided where to set up their permanent corporate headquarters. They say it will probably be located in New York.

They plan to set up fully staffed news bureaus here and in Washington, D.C., Chicago and Los Angeles to start with, and may establish other domestic bureaus if things go well.

The company will collect and send out their reports by leased lines for taping by client stations. The major networks feed their regular evening news broadcasts to stations the same way.

TVN officials say the company will offer international as well as national news, getting its overseas film stories from Visnews, Inc., a London-based TV news cooperative.

Visnews, which owns a small percentage of TVN, is a non-profit trust owned jointly by the British Broadcasting Corp., Reuters, the Australian Broadcasting Corp. and the New Zealand Broadcasting Corp.

Starting a full-scale news operation from scratch won't come cheaply. It'll cost about $4 million, according to TVN's president, John O. Gilbert, a veteran broadcasting industry executive.

BASIC TRUST

He says TVN's news crews in the U.S. initially will number about 60, including cameramen and technicians.

He declined for competitive reasons to say how many stations — independent and network-affiliated — have shown an interest in TVN's proposed operation.

He emphasizes that the operation isn't competing with the news programs offered by the ABC, NBC and CBS television networks, which now have a total of 584 affiliated stations. "However, we do feel that we can be a great supplemental service for the stations," said Gilbert, a former ABC vice president for affiliate relations. "That's our basic thrust — as a supplemental service for local newscasts."

Dope 'King' Draws Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Auguste Joseph Ricord was sentenced to a maximum 20 years in federal prison Monday, after the government described him as "the biggest narcotics trafficker ever brought to justice in the United States."

He also was fined $25,000 as head of a ring which the prosecution said smuggled a ton of narcotics a year into this country.

"The destruction he has wreaked upon our society is unbelievable," said Asst. U.S. Attorney Walter M. Phillips.

Ricord, 63, was French-born but now resides in Asuncion, Paraguay.

Who Decides Questions For College Testing?

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — which most high school seniors take to get into college. Miriam Burstein teaches 10th and 12th grade English in New York City, but she devises test questions which affect some 1.5 million college-bound students across the country this year. Miss Burstein, chairman of the English department at Hunter College High School, moonlights as an "item" writer for Educational Testing Service — ETS.

FREE LANCE
She is part of a pool of teachers paid on the free-lance basis to submit questions for use in the College Board Standard Aptitude Test — SAT — or College Board Achievement Tests and other information, the SATs produce not a few nervous stomachs.

A few become too unhinged even to take the test.

Last year, 1.34 million seniors from 20,000 high schools spent three hours of a Saturday morning hunched over ETS-prints test books choosing answers to hundreds of questions from multiple-choice lists.

While all of the questions on the SAT are multiple choice, they do not all simply reflect a student's memory of facts.

Some are designed to show a student's ability to interpret, evaluate, analyze and synthesize.

The SATs are scored within a range of 200 to 800, but Miriam Epstein, associate director of test development for ETS, says less than 1-10th of 1 per cent of all those who take the test achieve the 800 level.

MATH ABILITIES

"We pitch the difficulty so the mean score will be 50 to 60 per cent correct, so students need not be worried about scoring well if they can't answer every question," Epstein said.

Although students and parents often express concern that a score of less than 650 will bar a student from a good college or university, the mean score for all students who took the SATs in 1971-72 was 450.

The SAT, designed to show verbal and math abilities are offered at some 4,000 centers across the country six times a year. An estimated 211,000 young people are due to take their College Boards on the next testing date, March 3.

Colleges and universities depend on aptitude tests such as the SAT and the ACT assessment examination given by American College Testing of Iowa City, Iowa, to help guide them in selecting from among their applicants. The ACT test last year attracted one million students.

NOT STANDARD

They do it because curriculum and grading are not standard in schools across the country.

So each year college-bound students mail off their $6.50 registration fee. If they plan to attend a Big Ten school or other college in the Midwest or Southwest, they might also take the ACT exam.

In addition, about one-fourth of those taking the SATs will pay an extra $10.50 to take from one to three-hour-long College Board Achievement Tests in any of about 15 subjects.

Who decides what kind of questions indicate a student's preparedness for college?

ETS, now in its 25th year, was set up to meet the measurement needs of American education. Although it is now heavily involved in educational research, most Americans are familiar with ETS because it produces and administers tests for the College Entrance Examination Board, a nonprofit association of 1,600 colleges and universities, secondary schools, school systems and education associations.

The type of questions included in the SATs and what they are designed to measure is determined by ETS's test development staff and a standing committee of the College Board on Aptitude Testing. That committee is made up of people specially trained in psychometrics — a branch of psychology concerned with mental measurement — or involved in research on the validity of test scores and college admissions procedures.

PLAN TO RAISE PRICES Cost Of Living Council Probes Several Companies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council is investigating several companies that have announced intentions to raise prices in apparent violation of Phase 3 price standards, the council's outgoing director says.

Donald Rumsfeld, President Nixon's choice to be ambassador to NATO, did not identify the companies. But he said, "If necessary and appropriate, we will take action." The council has power to roll back price increases if voluntary standards are violated.

ZERO

In an interview with The Associated Press, Rumsfeld said the council is monitoring industries "where reported increases may be inconsistent with the standards." The council has yet to zero in on a company or union under Phase 3 voluntary standards.

Rumsfeld discussed what led the Nixon administration to change from mandatory to voluntary controls on Jan. 11.

The questions and answers: Q. Is Phase 3 the final stage before a free-market system or do you see some kind of continuing controls on the economy?

A. I just don't know for sure. I don't think anyone can know at this point in time. What we are doing with Phase 3 is taking the next logical step after Phase 1 and Phase 2. There's no blueprint for how to do this. It's a matter of assessing the economic situation, the economic factors that will be operating next year and this year, the effects of the other pieces of the puzzle, fiscal and monetary policy and unemployment, because the controls are only a part of the over-all economic policy, and then making judgments. But I hope it is so successful that it is the final stage.

WORRIED

Q. Is the administration now worried that Congress may try to tinker with the control system in some way, making it more extensive or even bringing it under its own umbrella?

A. Well, I have not seen any serious comment by people in responsible positions that would suggest that. The Congress has a constitutional responsibility, and they have every reason in the world and every opportunity to look at that extension and make judgments with respect to it. My sense of what the people who maintain a continuing and ongoing interest in this subject matter intend to do is that it is clearly a function of the Congress to legislate on this matter but that it is for the executive to administer. That's the normal procedure. As far as your word "tinkering," I suppose that beauty is in the eye of the beholder. The last time the Congress passed some amendments, they thought they were wise amendments. Some others thought they were not so wise, but that's a matter of judgment, and I wouldn't describe what the Congress does as tinkering. Q. I would like to ask about the expectations of inflation that seem to have been revived in the stock market. If that is the general reaction to Phase 3, wouldn't be dangerous. A. First I don't think they have been. While I read periodically that some one may say that, I have not seen any substantive comments that would lead me to believe that is correct. One of the basic elements of the problem of inflation was expectations, as you point out. Phase 1 and Phase 2 have affected those expectations. Progress has been made, in reducing inflation while expansive fiscal monetary policy was yielding rapid increases in output and employment. The fact that real spendable weekly earnings are up has helped to alter the people's expectations about inflation. Food prices have been a problem during this period, and that has countered this somewhat, but net, we have made headway. I don't believe Phase 3 has re-ignited those concerns or fears about inflation. I don't personally believe the stock market is reflecting that.

UNIONS

Q. Do you think that it has re-ignited expectations of inflation in the labor unions, with respect to their wage demands this year?

A. No, I don't. The labor unions are aware that real spendable earnings are up. Their members are aware that the circumstances of the wage-earner in this country are better today than they were three years ago, both relative to where they were three years ago and relative to other workers. The economic pressures that existed three years ago and energized this wage-price spiral clearly do not exist today. However, that doesn't mean that people won't try to get what they can get. It won't mean there won't be requests.

Q. In cases that came before the Pay Board, the average increase granted in the past year was just under 5.5 per cent. Can you do that well in 1973?

A. Possibly, since the underlying economic factors have improved, but I don't know what the record will be.

Business
In 1972
Best Ever

AUSTIN (AP) — Business in 1972 was the best ever for the state, according to a professor at the University of Texas—but the boom may have also contributed to the nation's inflationary spiral.

Robert H. Ryan, assistant professor of business at UT-Austin, says business activity in 1972 was up 10 per cent from 1971. He said that projection could be made even though December figures aren't in yet.

But, Ryan said, although personal income rose 9.7 per cent, production climbed only 7.5 per cent in the leading industry. That means more dollars purchasing relatively fewer goods and services—or inflation.

The Texas personal income increase was greater than the nation's, 9.7 compared to 8.5. Ryan said that Texas is still far behind the national per-family income level.

Ryan said some of the income improvement in Texas has been canceled because of the production lag. Even after a adjustment for increased prices, however, personal income rose 6.3 per cent from a comparable period in 1971.

In one measured city, Dallas, consumer prices rose 3.0 per cent, compared to 3.3 per cent in the nation. Since 1967, Ryan said, Dallas has experienced slightly less price inflation than the national average.

Ryan said economists expect the rate of inflation to continue between 3.3 and 3.5 per cent during 1973.

In other economic areas, Ryan said insured unemployment in 1972 was uncertain during the first two quarters, but began to improve in July. Thereafter, it declined in every month but October.

Nonfarm employment increased slowly through 1972, up about 2.9 per cent from the previous year.

Texas' population edged up 3.6 per cent, Ryan said, while the labor force expanded by 2.8 per cent.

Ryan predicted prosperity may entice women to leave their jobs and return home. He said prosperity plus generous retirement plans may cause a general upsurge in early retirements, among men as well as women.

LBJ Holiday

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate adopted a House-approved resolution Monday to make former President Lyndon Johnson's birthday, Aug. 27, a state holiday.

There was no objection to the resolution which was written by the "Black Caucus" of the House.

Although the proposal expresses legislative intent, House parliamentarian Bob Johnson has said state holidays can be created only by statute.

Plans Jelling For Fair Scheduled In September

Preparations are under way for the revived Howard County Fair, set for the third week of September.

Gerard Miller, a member of the executive committee of the fair association, said a director's meeting has been slated Feb. 20, at which time by-law will be adopted and officers elected.

Definite plans can then be started.

"We're trying to make this a real big to-do with something for everybody," Miller said. Areas of participation in the fair are now being worked out.

Names as fair directors are Johnnie Walker, Miller, Joe Pickle, Delbert Donaldson, Neil Fryar, Arnold Marshall, Dorothy Garrett, Jimmy Taylor, Tom Locke, Bill Read, Edgar Phillips.

Also, Hamlin Elrod, Ron McNeil, Mrs. Wayman Elchison, Jerry Iden, Oliver Nichols, Jerry Hall, Ruth Mitchell, James Barr, Mrs. Dale Smith and M. C. Grigsby.

Miller said the last county fair held was in 1951.

Interested persons, who met at first under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, visited fairs at Lamesa and Colorado City to get ideas for the fair.

Miller said the event to be held at the Howard County fairgrounds will be like an "old time" fair plus added attractions.

Gave $5,773
To Nixon Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters Union president Frank E. Fitzsimmons contributed $4,000 to President Nixon's campaign in the closing days of last fall's elections, new reports filed with the government show.

The Oct. 30 contribution to Democrats for Nixon was reported by the committee in a statement on contributions and expenditures made to the General Accounting Office.

The committee's report was among the first of many due by Wednesday when all political committees which raised or spent $1,000 or more during the 1972 are required under new federal elections laws to make final reports on the presidential election.

The new reports cover the last seven days before the election and any spending and contributions since then.

Among the larger contributors listed by Democrats for Nixon, a committee headed by former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally, was W. P. Clements Jr. who gave $5,773 on Nov. 3. The Texas oilman recently was nominated and confirmed as deputy secretary of defense, the No. 2 job in the Pentagon.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

THREAT: (Q.) After six months I realize I don't love Reg. I want to date other boys. But when I mentioned breaking up he threatened to run off and kill himself. Every time I try to talk about us he says he will commit suicide if I leave him.

I know he has many problems at home, and I would feel guilty for breaking up with him even if he didn't carry out his threats. My mother and best friend tell me I am not being fair to myself going steady with Reg when I don't want to, and I am afraid leaving him would hurt him badly. What do you think? — Desperate in Indiana.

(A.) You are being unfair to yourself. You are being unfair to Reg, too, by continuing to go steady with him. In doing so, you are pretending to love him, or at least that you like to be with him, which is not the truth. By not taking action

GOOD NEWS ON POW LIST — Mrs. Roy Ginder, left, points to the name of Capt. David P. Mott, formerly of Big Spring, whose name was released by Hanoi as being a prisoner of war. Capt. Mott was listed "missing in ac-

Social Security Changes Told

Most of the changes made in 1972 pertaining to Social Security laws will benefit people already drawing social security, according to Erven Fisher, manager of the local social security administration office.

Fisher was speaker Friday for the Health and Welfare Committee at the Veterans Administration Hospital. He said there will be a 20 per cent benefit increase for individuals and families. There will also be an increase in benefits for widows and retired people.

Other changes approved in 1972 included changing the waiting period for disability benefits from six months to five months. He said people earning $2,100 per year will be able to draw benefits, and anyone more than 72 years of age will receive full benefits regardless of income.

A LOVELIER YOU

Skin Was Original Wash, Wear Fabric

By MARY SUE MILLER

A Lovely writes: My teen daughter has excessively oily skin and has been advised by her dermatologist to wash her face at least three times daily as part of a remedial treatment. This has set me to wondering whether dry skin should be soap-and-water cleansed. I have heard not and should think not, since dry symptoms are opposite to oily.

The Answer: The skin is the world's oldest example of wash-and-wear fabric. With one exception, every skin needs the astringent of some form of suds. The rare skin, allergic to soap, is the exception.

One sudsing a day usually suffices for dry skin. The best time is before retiring, after the removal of makeup with a creamy cosmetic cleanser. To freshen up during the day, use cosmetic cleanser and mild, moisturizing skin fresher.

Albeit washing removes soil and oil, it also disturbs the skin's protective acid mantle. Hence you would suds oily skin often to carry away acidic excesses. But you would not deplete dry skin's short supply of oil by constant sudsing.

The sort of suds used differs, like timing, for dry and oily complexions. Dry skin responds to superfatted creamy bars and fluids; clear, moisturized bars, too. Medicated soaps and fluids with the pH factor aid oily problems. Like all precious fabrics, the complexion thrives on correct care.

RELIEF FOR OILY SKIN

An oily skin can be improved. Just send for my leaflet, "Relief For Oily Skin." Advice covers corrective treatments and makeup: such special problems as pimples, blackheads and enlarged pores. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover handling.

'House Rules'

Dear Abby Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law is basically a pretty nice guy, but he is a real football freak.

My wife likes to spend Sunday with her parents, so we go, and of course the TV is always going full blast with some football game because her father is crazy about football.

My father-in-law (I call him "Coach") begs me to bet, and just to please him, I do. I always end up with the winning team, but I lose money because he comes up with all kinds of funny "house rules" such as press bets, side bets, etc. Meanwhile, he sits there with a Cleveland Browns coaching hat on his fat head and laughs his head off.

What should I do?

KEN IN WOOSTER DEAR KEN: Keep the bets small and let the old gaffer have fun. Meanwhile, when you've learned his game, raise the ante and then YOU have fun, too!

DEAR ABBY: My son is getting married soon. The bride's mother does not like my son because he has long hair and a beard and he refuses to cut it for the wedding.

In order to punish my son, she has planned the following type of wedding: Just the parents of the bride and groom and the brothers and sisters on both sides. No other relatives and absolutely no outside friends.

After the wedding there is going to be a sit-down dinner. No music or dancing. Not even a small reception. She has informed me that SHE is going to wear a long dress.

What I want to know is this: Do I have to wear a long dress? And does my husband have to rent a tux? I have to put out all that money just to sit down and eat a meal. WEST TEXAS DEAR WEST: Wear whatever you want, and tell your husband to do the same. (P.S. Perhaps SHE'S wearing a long dress to conceal the broom she uses for transportation.)

DEAR ABBY: Paul and I have been married for 27 years. We have three children. Two are in college. Paul has worked hard all his life and we have done well financially because I worked, too, and we saved our money. Paul came from a large family (10 children) of which he was the oldest. His father died shortly after we were married, so Paul helped support his mother and the younger children. I never objected, though it was quite a strain on us for many years. When Paul's mother remarried two years ago, I breathed a sigh of relief. Well, the other day when I went through Paul's pockets before sending his suit to the cleaners, I came across two letters from his mother, addressed to him at the office!

Since no one was around, I decided to see what was up. I found out she had asked him for some money and he had sent it. I don't know how much or how often. Well, I am boiling, and I can't say a thing.

I am fed up with this whole mess, especially this business of writing to Paul at work to ask him for money.

How do I handle this situation? I am not a snoop, but—

SEALED LIPS

DEAR SEALED: You say you are not a "snoop," yet you read letters that were not intended for your eyes. You can either keep your lips sealed and pretend to know nothing, or confess that you read the letters and ask Paul for an accounting. I think you'd feel better if you confessed and cleared the air.
