LITTLEFIELD, Tex. (AP) — Survivors of a school bus-train crash that killed four children and three teen-agers were still reliving today the seconds of horror they experienced as they saw a Santa Fe freight train bear down on them.

Seventeen others were injured, at least one of them critically. The dead included two sets of brothers and sisters.

SCREAMS

"Everybody in the bus

screamed that the train was coming," said 11-year-old Raul Ortiz from his hospital bed as he recalled the final seconds of the tragic Tuesday afternoon ride home from school.

The bus, driven by Artiss Johnson, 68, was hit by the train at the intersection of U.S. 385 and the Santa Fe depot just four blocks from the business district of this Texas Panhandle-South Plains town. Johnson was injured and his condition was reported stable.

Johnson's physical condition is good, hospital authorities said, but his physician banned visitors, saying Johnson was nervous and upset. His wife was admitted to the same hospital in a state of shock, hospital officials said.

DRIVER UPSET

Police Chief James Cox said the train was going at 58 miles an hour. There were 29 persons in the bus.

The victims were identified as Edward Ortiz, 17; his sister, Aurora, 9; David Frausto, 18; his sister, Diana, 9; Mary Medina, 10; Anita Martinez, 18; and Julie Davis, 9.

KILLED INSTANTLY

"They were killed instantly," Cox said. "The train hit the left rear side of the bus near the wheels and ripped it off."

Jesse Diaz, 15, said he was sitting in the middle of the bus when it stopped at the blinking light crossing.

"Then it went on," he said. "I saw the train coming in before the bus started after it stopped. Anita Martinez (one of the victims) screamed at Mr. Johnson to stop."

Raul Ortiz, 11, said he saw the train coming. "When the bus stopped, everybody yelled that the train was coming. Everybody yelled and turned. He

Investigators Seeking Clues In Triple Slaying

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Meager clues and a cold trail were left today for investigators seeking the killers of two men and a woman near Ingram, six miles northwest of here in the Southwest Texas Hill Country.

Authorities had no suspect and could only conjecture about the motives for the shootings of Albert Kennedy Jr., 54, a long-time justice of the peace, and his son and daughter-in-law, Tom Kennedy, 26, and wife, 22.

TWINS UNHARMED

Mrs. Albert Kennedy found the body of her husband shortly before 1 a.m. when she returned home from work at an Ingram motel.

Officers carrying word to relatives stumbled across the bodies of Tom Kennedy and his bride of last Aug. 4 in their home eight miles from that of the Elder Kennedy.

Twin daughters of Tom Kennedy by a former marriage, 20-month-old Stacy and Tracy, were sleeping unharmed in the residence.

The elder Kennedy owned a gun shop at Ingram, from which he conducted court, and his son worked in the shop.

Officers said Albert Kennedy had a number of guns in his home but there was no indication any was taken by the killer. The gun shop had not been entered.

WIRES CUT

The telephone wires had been cut and Mrs. Kennedy ran about 100 yards to the home of her mother-in-law to call a doctor, who summoned Sheriff E. A. Schreiber.

The justice of the peace lived about seven miles from Ingram and about two miles off Texas 27. His son resided a mile west of Ingram on Texas 39.

An hour and a half after the older Kennedy was discovered, Sgt. James England and patrolman Don Oates went to inform the son about his father's slaying and found the two younger victims shot in their home.

Officers said it appeared the killer shot Albert Kennedy in the chest as the justice of the peace struggled with him. As the slayer left, he fired a shot through the back porch screen, hitting the victim in the head.

Tom Kennedy also was shot in the head and chest, Sheriff

Schreiber said, and Mrs. Kennedy was shot at least three times in the head. Young Kennedy lay in the front room and Mrs. Kennedy in a bedroom.

TOGETHERNESS—An unidentified U.S. colonel leads a group of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, along with another U.S. officer (smoking pipe), after a meeting of a subcommittee on captured persons today in Saigon. Officials said today that the release of American prisoners of war could begin any time during the next three days. (See story page 14).

Charge Democratic Spying In '64 Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, accused Democrats today of trying to cover up their party's past political misdeeds and said he has "wholesale evidence of wiretapping of the Republican party" in the 1964 campaign.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., meanwhile demanded that the proposed Senate Watergate probe be broadened to include alleged Democratic spying on his 1964 presidential campaign.

TURNED DOWN

The statements came as Republican prepared to push for amendments that would broaden the mandate for the investigation in an effort to extend political damage to the Democrats.

However, Scott told reporters that Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., scheduled to head the probe, had turned down proposals to extend the investigation to other presidential elections and provide for a committee equally split between Democrats and Republicans.

"The majority doesn't want to look at Democratic malfeasance and misfeasance," Scott said.

He said he had received the information about the alleged wiretapping of Republicans in 1968, on Tuesday, adding that limitation of the probe to 1972 would prevent them from introducing the material into evidence.

HE DOUBTS

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, said he would defer to Ervin on all GOP amendments but said he doubts that the North Carolina senator will accept the proposals to broaden the probe back to 1960.

Meanwhile, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was disclosed to have sworn last September that he learned of the Watergate break-in from radio news accounts and knew of no one in the Nixon campaign organization higher than those charged who had any involvement in the case.

Lobby Control Bill Debates In House

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas House members took up for debate today a lobby control bill that Speaker Price Daniel Jr. called "a test of the reform spirit" of his fellow representatives.

"We think this is a fair and equitable bill," said Rep. John Bigham of Temple, the sponsor. "It is not punitive in nature."

He said the bill's purpose was to trace the source of lobby funds and "to see where the money is going and to make this information available to the public and to us in one central location."

VOICE VOTE

House members also gave tentative approval, on a voice vote, to a Senate bill appropriating $900,000 to the Constitutional Revision Commission, which will advise the legislature when it meets next year as a constitutional convention.

In a statement issued late Tuesday afternoon, while lobbyists clustered in small groups around the Capitol, Daniel said:

"The people of Texas have heard a lot of talk about reform during the campaigns last spring and fall. When the House considers and takes action on the lobby control bill

... the people will learn who is really committed to carrying out the promises of the campaign and the mandate of the people as expressed at the polls.

"I urge the members of the House and the public to be wary of innocent looking amendments, which would have the effect of gutting this essential legislation."

STATE AGENCY

He said the bill was designed "to prohibit the unethical practices of those lobbyists who would abuse their privilege or attempt to buy legislation or favorable administrative decisions."

In legislative action Tuesday, the Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill extending the life of the 50-member Governor's Commission on Human Relations until Aug. 31. The commission expired by law last Thursday. A bill making it a permanent state agency is pending in the House.

Senators passed to the House a bill enabling Spanish-speaking applicants to take driver's license examinations in Spanish.

Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, said some Mexican-Americans take interpreters along when they take the test, but many others simply don't take the examination because they do not know English.

Kissinger Embarks On Asian Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger headed for Bangkok today on the first leg of an epic Vietnam postwar journey to Hanoi and Peking.

The presidential adviser smiled and waved to reporters, but said nothing, as he boarded an Air Force jetliner at Andrews Air Force Base.

NOW HEAR THIS

Kissinger got last-minute instructions from President Nixon as he took off at 10:50 a.m. EST on his 11-day mission aimed at ushering in a new era of post-war relations with America's Vietnam adversary.

The presidential assistant, who conferred with Nixon three hours Tuesday, will be proceeding from Bangkok to Vientiane, Laos, on his way to Hanoi.

Kissinger's mission is built around four days of talks beginning Saturday with North Vietnamese leaders in Hanoi. The sessions, officials said, are expected to dwell on postwar relations between the two countries and on North Vietnam's share of Indochina-wide reconstruction.

Kissinger will be the first ranking U.S. official to set foot in Hanoi in over a decade.

After Hanoi, Kissinger moves to Peking for five days of talks with Premier Chou En-lai and other Chinese leaders—consultations designed to speed the thaw in U.S.-Chinese relations.

LAOS PROSPECTS

Kissinger's first stop will be in Bangkok Thursday to confer with Thai leaders and meet three U.S. ambassadors — Ellsworth Bunker from South Vietnam, C. Emory Swank from Cambodia and McMurtrie Godley from Laos.

After his overnight stop in Bangkok, he flies Friday to Vientiane, the capital of Laos, where, a spokesman said, he will consult with Laotian officials "on prospects of a cease-fire in Laos."

From Laos, Kissinger will fly to Hanoi Saturday.

The White House said Kissinger will be accompanied by six administration officials—Communications Director Herb Klein, Ambassador William Sullivan and four members of the National Security Council staff.

READY TO TAKE ON ALL COMERS — The chaparral, better known to some people as the road runner, is a fearless bird which won't back off from a fight. The proud fowl (which rarely flies), here seeks out a field mouse, then carries it away to eat later. In against a rattlesnake, the chaparral will win every time. Herald photographer Danny Valdes captured this vignette in the eternal struggle going on in the world around us southeast of town Tuesday while on another mission.

IMPROVEMENT Nixon Visits Stennis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis was visited today by President Nixon as improvement was reported in the condition of the 71-year-old Mississippi Democrat but chances he would recover from gunshot wounds continued grave.

'AWAKE, ALERT'

But Nixon, after a 10-minute visit with Stennis in Walter Reed Army Medical Center, told newsmen: "I think he's going to make it."

A hospital spokesman said the senator, who underwent 45 minutes of exploratory surgery Tuesday, rested well during the night and was "awake, alert, and conversant" today.

The spokesman, Maj. Frank Garland, said at a 7 a.m. briefing that the senator's surgeons "consider his condition to have stabilized since yesterday's surgery."

Stennis was shot twice in a holdup near his Washington home on Jan. 30.

Today's hospital statement said:

"Sen. Stennis rested well last night. He was able to sleep a total of five hours. He is now awake, alert and conversant.

"His fever has lowered somewhat from last evening. The vital signs are good. Surgeons consider his condition to have stabilized since yesterday's surgery.

STILL GRAVE

"However, he is still listed as very serious and the prognosis is still grave."

Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, was shot in the stomach and thigh. The bullet that hit him in the stomach penetrated his pancreas and colon.

Stennis' prognosis had been described as "guarded" ever since the attack, but he was reported showing improvement until early Tuesday.

Rain Measures .17 Locally

Big Spring residents awoke this morning to a slow rain which measured .17 by mid-morning for the first measurable moisture in the month of February.

Showers or light rain pelted broad areas of West, North and East Texas today with the moisture expected to change into freezing rain or snow in the Texas Panhandle by tonight.

Official weather forecasts in this area indicate that it will be colder tonight, the low, however, is expected to be in the mid-thirties, which would not bring freezing conditions.

Farmers who have seized on the warm, clear days to complete their cotton harvest were again halted here today, unable to get into the fields.

Most of the rainfall in the state was reported in an area extending from Lubbock southwest to Alpine and around San Antonio in South Texas and north of a line from near Wichita Falls to Sherman.

$9 Million Dope Flush

HOUSTON (AP) — Customs agents flushed away 20 pounds of almost pure heroin down a commode at the customs house here Tuesday and still had more than 100 pounds to go.

The heroin, seized about 10 years ago, has been stored since then. Customs agents estimated that cut to 5 per cent purity, it would have a street value of $9 million.

Regional Commissioner Cleburne Maier said the heroin came to the United States from France through Mexico. Sixteen persons were convicted in the case involving the heroin, he said, with the key figure being Joseph Stassi of New York City.

Maier, who supervises a five-state region for the Customs Department, said drugs are stored in bank vaults or customs vaults pending disposal and there has never been a drug loss in his region.

About 100 pounds of heroin, held as evidence, currently are under lock and key in the region now, he said, along with about 100,000 of marijuana.

Driver Oblivious To Fire In Truck

A truckload of hay caught on fire at 1st and Scurry at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Fire officials scattered the bales of hay in an attempt to extinguish the blaze but the load of hay was considered a total loss. Both the truck and hay belonged to Olin Cowan, who was driving down the street without realizing the fire had begun in the rear of the truck.

Terry Foley, 13, who was thrown clear after the impact, told his mother that a little girl next to him was screaming...

Mrs. Jean Patterson, a substitute bus driver whose vehicle stopped behind Johnson's, described the accident:

"He pulled up there and stopped. Then he kept creeping across the tracks and all of a sudden the train came up from behind the depot."

Moments earlier another bus had moved across the tracks. THAT'S MY BROTHER

Mrs. Patterson, whose children ride the same buses, said she crawled underneath the boxcars when the train stopped.

"At first I thought my own kids were in that bus," she said, "but they had gone in the first one. A little girl was crying and saying, 'That's my brother.' And I could see that the kid was dead."

Anita Martinez was a school dropout who had decided to return to school. Four of her brothers were reported in the Medical Arts Hospital in under-terminated condition along with eight other injured pupils.

Debbie Lynn Frausto, 5, whose brother and sister were killed, was transferred to the Lubbock Medical Hospital. Others injured are at the Littlefield Hospital.

In addition to the Fausto child, others listed in critical condition today were Cliff Davis, 6, and Robert Medina, 16.

Nurses changing shifts when the accident happened shortly after 4 p.m. were rushed to the scene of the accident aboard the town's four ambulances.

Economic Census Report Is Due

The U.S. Census Bureau today reminded the nation's businesses which received 1972 Economic Census questionnaires a month ago that the firms have about two weeks to meet the deadline of Feb. 15 for the return of the filled-in forms.

The Census Bureau, part of the Commerce department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration, reports that although hundreds of thousands of the forms have already been mailed back, the majority of the forms still must be returned.

Firms receiving the questionnaires are required by law to respond. The same census law protects the privacy of all information reported to the Census Bureau by providing that the information 1) may be used only for statistical purposes 2) may not be published so that data for any business firm can be identified; and, 3) may not be seen by anyone other than sworn census employees. Census reports may be used for purposes of taxation, investigation or regulation.

Milk deliveries were reduced in most areas and in some places stopped altogether despite a pledge from strikers that they could continue.

"We mean business and we don't indulge in idle talk," said former Provincial Home Minister William Craig. "This will be a show of force, a show of strength."

The strike originally was planned as a protest against the detention of two Protestant militants under the emergency anti-terrorist laws. Then it was widened to include a call for restoration of the Protestant-dominated provincial parliament which the British government suspended a year ago.

The strike was condemned in advance by labor leaders and some Protestant politicians, including the Rev. Ian Paisley, leader of the Democratic Unionist party.

But previously such walkouts have virtually shut down the province, partly because of the threat of retaliation against anyone not heeding the strike call.

An IRA statement during the night admitted responsibility for the death of a British soldier killed late Tuesday in a rocket attack on an armored car. His death brought the confirmed total in 3 1/2 years of violence to 713.

The IRA began using Soviet-made rocket launchers three months ago, but this was the first fatality from them.

A 65-year-old patient climbed over the bed-rails at Veterans Administration Hospital early this morning and disappeared.

The VA hospital authorities alerted police at 6:43 a.m. the man, clad in hospital pajamas and carrying a cane, was located hiding under a bush near the street "waiting for a bus."

The Tourism Subcommittee of the Chamber of Commerce will meet Thursday at 5 p.m. in the Chamber office.

Chairman of the committee is Arnold Marshall.

Strike Cripples Northern Ireland

BELFAST (AP) - A 24-hour strike by Protestant militants spread power cuts over Northern Ireland today and threatened disruption of transport, schools and public services.

Electric power officials estimated the power was off in half shortly after the strike began at 6 a.m.

All Belfast city buses were off the streets. Some crews turned up for work but quit in the face of threats. One bus was reported hijacked and another burning. The Transport Department then called off all service.

Milk deliveries were reduced in most areas and in some places stopped altogether despite a pledge from strikers that they could continue.

"We mean business and we don't indulge in idle talk," said former Provincial Home Minister William Craig. "This will be a show of force, a show of strength."

Last USO In South Viet Hangs Out 'Closed' Sign

SAIGON (AP) — "The USO is closed." The red, white and blue sign on the door spelled the end of an era for the hundreds of thousands of war-weary GIs who wandered inside looking for a hamburger or a friendly face. After nearly 10 years of trying to provide a bit of America in an unfamiliar land of rice paddies and conical hats, the last USO in South Vietnam posted the notice today. There was no music, no formal announcement, not even free chili dogs or milkshakes to mark the occasion. Just a few startled civilians and soldiers who came to have a snack, play pool or just hang around for a while.

BELIEVE IT
"I don't believe it," said Sgt. Jack Rains of Miami, Fla. "I got down here after 10 months and it's closed. I guess that's the way things go."
"Though all the food and entertainment facilities are closed, USO director Michelle

M. Chalfont said the building will be open for information and state-side phone calls until all the American servicemen are out of South Vietnam March 23.

TV Nudity Nets $15,000

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — A man whose nude body was shown on a television newscast for nine-tenths of a second last March has been awarded $15,000 damages from the station which shot and broadcast the film.

A jury of nine men and three women awarded the damages to Oren Taylor, 32, of nearby Emmett, after deliberating about an hour Tuesday night. The 11-1 verdict in 4th District court held that Taylor's right to privacy had been invaded by KTVB Television when his nude body was photographed and televised to an estimated audience of 38,000. He had sought damages of $30,000.

Taylor was filmed in suburban Garden City on March 10 while being arrested on a charge of recklessly endangering the life of another. He was tried and convicted on the charge. Testimony indicated police were called to the home Taylor then occupies after he had evicted an unidentified woman. The TV film pictured Taylor in a side-view as police pulled him from the house naked after breaking down the door.

Taylor's lawyers contended during trial of the damage suit against KTVB that the incident produced personality changes in Taylor due to the shame and degradation he suffered as a result of the broadcast.

Mrs. Chalfont, whose parents live in Eau Claire, Wis., said the U.S. Command had asked the USO to close "to keep the troops out of the downtown Saigon area," where the two-story club is located.

In recent daily bulletins, the Command has warned that assaults and armed robberies in Saigon are occurring at "an alarming rate." The Command is urging American personnel "to stay out of Saigon unless on official business and not to travel in groups of less than three persons."

NICE PLACE
A handful of servicemen showed up at the club today, some for its last sightseeing tour of the city and cruise down the Saigon River.

"They told me this was the last day," said Spec. 5 Paul Fulton of Atlantic City, N.J., as he shot a final game of pool before taking off on the cruise. "That's too bad, because it's a pretty nice place—a lot nicer than the USOs in the states."

"Are we the last patrons?" asked Sgt. Frank C. Wainwright of Alexandria, La. "I think it's awful well, as they say, 'We'll miss you beaucoup!'"

The first USO in South Vietnam opened in April 1963 in the heart of downtown Saigon. At the height of American involvement in the war, in 1969, between 75,000 and 100,000 servicemen trooped through its doors every month, Mrs. Chalfont said.

U.S. Gasoline Shortage May Come This Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation that runs on oil ran short this winter, and might just run short of gasoline this summer.

Shortages already have forced a partial lifting of oil-import limits, and the Nixon administration is known to be considering changes that would lift the lid even higher.

Official explanations of this winter's fuel shortages emphasized increasing oil usage because of cold weather, Midwest grain-drying and a jump in gasoline consumption.

But industry and government spokesmen admit so far more basic problems: practical production limits in the oil fields and a deep stagnation of refinery construction.

CANT KEEP UP
The domestic oil industry simply can't keep up with demand; in 1972 it concentrated on gasoline, and the fuel oil ran short.

Efforts to rebuild the fuel-oil stocks make a gasoline shortage this summer "entirely possible," a major oil company spokesman said in a recent interview.

"We may be advertising to get people to increase gasoline mileage, instead of to buy more gasoline," he said.

George A. Lincoln, former director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, noted recently that when the industry let its fuel-oil reserve slide last summer, gasoline prices were higher than fuel-oil prices. Under those circumstances, Lincoln said, "any sensible computer will tell its refiner to make gasoline . . ."

PRETTY CLOSE
American Petroleum Institute President Frank N. Icard stated, "In order to keep up with the demand, refineries boosted production of gasoline and this delayed a buildup of heating-oil inventories."

By Aug. 1, according to Bureau of Mines statistics, stocks of light oils east of the Rocky Mountains were more than 11 per cent lower than a year earlier.

But that was just what the industry had planned, according to estimates on file with the oil-regulating Texas Railroad Commission.

"We thought we could make it up," said one oil-company spokesman, "and we almost did. We were not too far short."

But some oil deliveries were cut 20 to 30 per cent when cold weather hit. Companies that had reserve supplies became tight-fisted with them, to get through the winter.

GAS CUT OFF
Low-priority customers whose natural gas was cut off found it difficult to buy oil as a substitute. Oil suppliers accustomed to purchasing stocks on the open market saw that market dry up.

On Jan. 17, the Nixon administration moved to get more oil from abroad, lifting controls on imports of light heating oil and increasing general import quotas for the rest of 1973.

One company spokesman said in an interview, "We have been running some refineries slightly above their rated capacity and things are getting a lot better now. What we ought to be looking forward to, is what do we do next year?"

By then, the last margin for improvement may be gone.

Government and industry spokesmen say domestic oil fields are producing at maximum efficiency and cannot be pumped faster without ruining future productivity.

Development of a huge new oil field in Alaska is blocked by an environmental lawsuit, and oil exploration off the untouched Atlantic coast is stalled by a state-federal dispute over jurisdiction.

CANT AFFORD IT
Pressing for permits and tax incentives to increase exploration and development, the API has conducted a massive publicity campaign for more than a year, on the slogan "The nation that runs on oil can't afford to run short."

"The problem today is primarily due to the fact that we have a shortage of refinery capacity," said one API specialist.

As late as 1961, government figures show, domestic refineries could handle all U.S. demand for petroleum products. Ten years later, demand was 16 per cent higher than domestic refinery capacity.

A summary last December by the Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas showed only one new refinery due for completion in 1973 in the eastern United States, none expected in 1974, none in 1975.

Nine proposed refineries were listed as "uncertain" projects because of environmental or economic problems.

If U.S. refineries cannot handle the growing demand for oil and gasoline, even increased imports of crude oil won't help, and the nation may have to import more finished products—if it can get them.

URGE: (Q) I am 14. I feel that I need sex. There is this boy I like. Last year he got a girl pregnant. I'm sure he could get me to do something with him.

The more I see of him the closer he gets to me. Today he walked right up on me, nearly making his body touch mine. Then the bell rang to go to class.

If he asked me to go with him I would say yes. Then I know he would and could get me to yield. Please send me an answer quick before it is too late.—Nancy in North Carolina.

(A.) Just about every healthy girl (and boy too) sooner or later has the urges you describe. But they do not spend ALL their time thinking about sex. They devote their time and energy to other things.

You can too.

But you must put your mind to it. Find other interests, other prospective boy and girl friends, sports, hobbies. Put your mind on your studies. Really study. Don't fudge.

You can do it. Please do, because if you don't break your present chain of thought, I fear you are going to be in deep trouble.

GRUFF HUMOR

Training Policemen, Firemen To Be Nurses

NEW YORK (AP) — They are far from what Florence Nightingale had in mind for the nursing profession — homicide detectives, firefighters, radio-car cops and policemen.

But they just may be the best class of nurses turned out by Bellevue Hospital in its 100 years.

"I'm convinced of it," says Dr. Joseph A. Cimino, New York City Health Commissioner and originator of the idea of taking about-to-retire cops and firemen and using their experience, skill and compassion to train them to be badly needed nurses.

WHITE HOSE

Eighty-seven, out of an original 100, stuck it out through a long, hard 2½ years, while doing their regular jobs, and will graduate from the only such program in the nation Thursday night.

Long ago, they got used to the stationhouse and firehouse ribbing about becoming nurses, once thought of as strictly a woman's occupation.

Fireman Mike Wolf, built like a halfback and the veteran of thousands of alarms, said, "The guys back at the house can't wait for me to graduate so they can buy me my first pair of white pantyhose."

Patrolman Harold McCarthy, of the Traffic Education Unit, already has the professional mustache and demeanor of a Park Avenue specialist. He claims to be the first to enroll in the program and will present the class to Mayor John Lindsay and others at the graduation night ceremonies.

Then he wants to go further on in the Hunter College-Bellevue School of Nursing, as it's formally known, to get his B.S. in nursing.

PICK UP JOB

"I'm hoping the feds will pick up the tab for that, too," he says. The Health, Education and Welfare Department's Division of Nursing funded the program for two classes of cops and firemen to the tune of $500,000 and the second class graduates next February.

Most of the would-be nurses have families with children — who miss them often during the 40 hours they spend in class, clinic and homework.

The gruff humor common to policemen and firemen also makes for a bedside manner that the school's founder, Anglican Sister Helen Bowdin never dreamed of, say doctors at Bellevue and the nearby Veterans Administration and New York University hospitals, where the men do ward practice.

One doctor said, "When she gets a scared patient, a female professional nurse puts on her best reassuring smile and says, 'Mr. Zilch, if we follow doctor's orders and watch ourselves, I think we'll come out all right.'

BEER BRAGS

"But a cop or fireman nurse is more likely to tell the guy: 'Aw, hell, Mac. I had the same thing myself a couple years back. A month later I could lick my weight in wildcats and drink my weight in beer.'"

Dr. Joseph T. English, president of the Health and Hospitals Corporation, hopes the grads will come back to the city's 19-hospital system. So does the dean of Hunter-Bellevue, Dr. Marguerite Holmes, who feels the policeman and firemen are most interested in "the emergency ward, intensive care, psychiatry, and don't be surprised, pediatrics."

Dean Holmes speaks affectionately of her unusual charges as the sirens scream past to the Bellevue emergency ward outside her window.

"I think if I had it to do over, I wouldn't take anybody under 30 to be a nurse."

Then she adds: "If seriousness and dedication mean anything, our cops and firemen should sail through their state boards on Feb. 14. That's Valentine's Day. And there's plenty of heart here."

Poodle Grooming Course Scheduled

Poodle owners wanting to learn to groom and clip their own pets can enroll for a six-week course at Howard County Junior College today at 7 p.m.

Teaching the class will be John Dahse, who has been in the business a number of years and who has taught the course at HCJC several times.

Fee for the class is $15. It will meet for two hours every Wednesday night in the Practical Arts Building, Room 109.

Preregistration is recommended by calling 267-6311, ext. 56. One can also enroll at the first class meeting.

He Pushed Young Bride Off Cliff

EDINBURGH (AP) — A 21-year-old West German was found guilty of pushing his bride off a cliff to collect about $968,000 in life insurance. The court sentenced Ernst Dumoull to life in prison, but eventually he will be eligible for parole. Dumoull and his fiancée, Helga, 18, had eloped to Scotland. She fell 300 feet from the Salisbury Cliffs on Friday, Oct. 13, their wedding day.

United Nations' Roll Explored By AAUW

The American Association of University Women explored different aspects of the United Nations in a group discussion led by Mrs. Jerry Phillips Monday evening in the First Federal Community Room.

Local members found the UN was concerned in many projects other than being peace maker for countries with disagreements. The UN is concerned about combating pollution, solving problems of the cities, preserving the world's natural and cultural resources, education for a better environment, the world's drug problem, better education in all fields, human rights, world economy and many other international problems.

The UN stays out of the conflicts of countries unless it becomes a world problem involving several countries or unless they are asked to take the part of mediator. "The UN is only as strong as the nations that back it with their money and military power," said Mrs. Phillips.

The UN helps to pull the nations together as a group and to pass information on to the nations. It does not have a special time to meet as congress does, but meets any time there is a need for its services.

The Stockholm Conference, which was held in June, 1972 is an example of the UN's concern for projects other than peace making. This was a world wide gathering of 113 nations to make policy to protect man and his habitat. "For the UN to help the citizens of the world, the average person must have a better understanding of the UN and its duties," said Mrs. Phillips. "Influence at its best is understanding at work. Influence pressure without understanding is the car at full speed but driverless."

"To help us have a better understanding of international situations we must be informed from different sources. We must come to our own conclusion based on many sources. Some good sources are the Sunday New York Times, UN Weekly Bulletin, the Department of State Bulletin, Your Foreign Policy and the local newspaper."

A study of the UN might be used in the classroom according to the speaker. As children study the UN's part as peace maker between countries which have disagreements, the children could be guided into seeing that they, too, must solve their problems in order to gain peace, and sometimes need help from someone else to gain this peace.

AAUW will have its annual meeting to elect officers Feb. 19, at First Federal Community Room at 7:30 p.m.

Writing Book Costs Her Job

LURE, France — Madeleine Sczodrowski's boss was so proud when she sold her novel, "Bitter Cherries," to a publisher that he ordered 200 copies to send to customers of his Chappuis Metal Works.

Then he read the book and fired Miss Sczodrowski after recognizing himself as villain in the plot.

The novelist sued to get her job back, but the court ruled against her. Judges agreed that the poor man had discharged her for professional, not personal, reasons.

'Not Less Gas, Just More Demand For It'

"There is really not less gas being produced, just additional demands for it," said D. D. Pittman, guest speaker Monday evening for Big Spring Desk and Derrick Club. Pittman, district manager of Pioneer Natural Gas Company, was introduced by Miss Ollene McShan, vice president of the club.

"Natural Gas and You" was Pittman's topic, and he supplemented the talk with a film showing the uses of natural gas, from the time it leaves the ground until it reaches the home where it is used for heating, cooling and other domestic purposes.

Although no one knows the origin of natural gas, Pittman said that all agree it was created many years ago by tiny plants and animal life that died and, though the years, the sand and gravel conversion formed into gas pockets.

There are basically four kinds of gas: wet gas, dry gas, sour gas and sweet gas. The wet gas, for which there are many uses now, includes butane and propane. In years past, it was flared for the want of something to do with it. Dry gas is that which comes into the home. Sour gas of which there are a few fields locally, is gas that is clear of carbons except sulphur. The preferred type of gas is sweet gas. There is no odor to gas, so an odor has to be added for safety purposes in order to detect leaks.

Natural gas was first known in European countries over three thousand years ago. It was used to evaporate a brine solution in making salt. It was first known in the United States in 1775 in West Virginia. It was about 50 years before commercial use was found for gas, and then mostly for lighting — street lighting. About 15 years later, it was used for all domestic purposes. Most of the gas produced in the United States comes from four areas: Gulf States, Middle West, Rocky Mountains and Appalachian Mountains, and 70 per cent of the gas produced in the United States comes from Texas and Louisiana.

Natural gas first came to Big Spring Nov. 12, 1927. The first gas came from Forsan and later was led into fields in the Andrews area. Most of the gas now comes from the Delaware Basin, but can come from as far away as Amarillo.

During the recent cold weather over Texas and whole United States, there has been much said about shortage of gas and fuel oils. Pittman said that the shortage is basically due to the growth of new industrial plants and the added demands for the use in industries and for helping solve pollution problems.

"There are still gas fields to discover and deepening of the wells already drilled," said Pittman, "but there will be many problems getting it and the cost will be tremendous."

Germ Nut
Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Cleanliness can be overdone, you know. I once had a neighbor who bathed every morning, noon and night. And after each bath, she washed every garment she had worn. She used so much detergent (to kill the germs) she blocked up the plumbing, so her husband, out of guilt and remorse, actually called the landlord and offered to raise his own rent!

The superclean screwball always carried a bottle of disinfectant and a wash cloth in a plastic bag in her purse in case she touched something "dirty." (Someone once asked her what she did with all her old dirty paper money.)

She also carried a bottle of sweet-smelling cologne with which she literally drenched herself. She became more moderate in its use after a swarming bunch of bees surrounded her, forcing her to run inside for cover.

Now, do you still think women can't bathe enough? JUST A STINKER
DEAR STINKER: Your neighbor had an abnormal obsession (or phobia) of germs, which is a far cry from my suggestion that every woman should invest about five minutes and a little soap and water to insure freshness and fragrance before intimate contact. (P.S. And the mail from men who said "thank you" in eight different languages — nearly broke my mailman's back!)

DEAR ABBY: I belong to Parents Without Partners, and I keep seeing a man there who I know is married, but he is very deceitful about his marital status. I don't think this is fair, but I don't want to be the one to turn him in, so what do you suggest?

SCHENECTADY
DEAR SCHENECTADY: Tell him he had better discontinue the charade or you will report him. Then do so, if he doesn't drop out. You would be doing the organization a service, and the heel doesn't deserve to be protected.

DEAR ABBY: "Depressed Up North" sounds like my husband. Why is it always the wife's fault if a couple's sex life is unsatisfactory? I admit I let myself get fat and I'm not proud of it. Magazines are filled with articles telling women to stay slim and attractive if they want to keep their husbands. I have yet to see an article that informs men that women are not exactly turned on at the sight of a 200-lb. mass of flab. Aside from the fact that it's just

The Next Hot Issue

The preoccupation about Vietnam in recent days has been on conclusion of the peace agreement — any peace agreement — and release of prisoners and those missing in action.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Senate Democratic Leader, is the first to put in the spotlight a subject few citizens had thought of which will kindle controversy.

That is aid in rebuilding North Vietnam. Sen. Mansfield said any U.S. aid program to Hanoi will meet strong opposition in Congress, although he favors it.

The warning signs are already apparent," he told newsmen.

Some House members have indicated, he said, "they were not at all happy about an aid program for all of Indochina." (Rep. Omar Burleson, in a statement for release Thursday, takes a dim view of this.)

Mansfield said questions were raised when lawmakers were briefed by Henry A. Kissinger on the peace settlement.

He said Kissinger advised senators and House members that there have been no negotiations or agreements on possible aid to North Vietnam. Before anything about this is done, Congress will be consulted. Kissinger was quoted as saying, "Maybe there have been no negotiations or agreements on aid to North Vietnam, but the peace document itself reflects that it has been talked about."

Chapter VIII, Article 21 says: "The United States anticipates that this agreement will usher in an era of reconciliation with the Democratic Republic of Vietnam as with all the peoples of Indochina. In pursuance of its traditional policy, the United States will contribute to healing the wounds of war and to post-war reconstruction of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and throughout Indochina."

"Traditional policy" recalls that the United States poured massive amounts of money into West

Germany and Japan to rebuild those defeated countries, both thoroughly hated during and in the immediate aftermath of the war.

President Johnson offered in his Johns Hopkins University speech in Baltimore to assist in rebuilding North Vietnam if Hanoi would call off the war, but the proposal brought no response.

Mansfield perceives correctly that aid to Hanoi will provoke controversy, not only in Congress, but in the public.

A wise course for the present, at least, is to wait and see how the North Vietnamese handled our prisoners, their condition when they get home, the honesty and forthrightness in accounting for whether North Vietnam intends to let the war end.

Second Class Status

The Utah Legislature has declared, in effect, that all women are second-class citizens.

By a vote of 51-20, the legislators voted against ratification of the Women's Equal Rights Amendment to the federal Constitution.

One of the opponents, Rep. Eldon H. Barlow, denounced the amendment as a "vicious, devious instrument to destroy the Christian basis of this nation." He also said men were divinely chosen to be leaders of society. And he claimed the amendment would lead to "divorces on a scale heretofore unheard of."

Solons in Arkansas showed an equal degree of reticence over regarding woman as the equal of man, quoting a bit of Scripture out of context. Some would like to go back to the barefoot, voteless, chattel status.

Ubiquitous Gremlins

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

It's about time for a review of the havoc wrought by those typo gremlins. None is immune, and they occur in everything from stories to headlines to ads.

AS FOR headlines: "Nancy Stoops to Wed." (Oakland Tribune)

"Firecracker in Can Hurts Girl at Dance." (Charleston W. Va. Mail)

"TV Roundup: Gleason to Host Bing Crosby." (Philadelphia Inquirer)

"New Larking Lot at Palmer High." (Anchorage Daily Times)

And now a few classified ads: "Train for a career as a curses aide." (Huntsville Ala. Times)

"For sale — Elsie Smith typewriter, 18-in carriage." (Santa Barbara News Press)

"Teacher — Science and math for junior, high grades, for the fall, five days a week, 12:30 to 4 p.m. Ideal for a tired teacher." (Jersey Journal)

THEN THERE are those where a letter added, or a letter left out, makes the difference.

"They're all pretty blondes, brunettes, and readheads." (Toledo Blade)

"A special Christmas program was resned." (Milton Pa. Gazette)

"Men comprise only 1.5 per cent of the South's nursing students." (Atlanta Journal)

"The finale of the evening was a violin solo by Richard Hansen with Marilyn King at the piano as accompanist." (Idaho Falls Post Register)

"Only a few months ago it requested guests to wear a cat in the dining room." (Detroit News)

"OH HOW THE girls have been snapping up those bargain-priced milk goats." (New York Post)

"The Medical Examiner's Office issued a certificate of suicide in the crowning of Mrs. Margart Y..." (Rochester Times-Union)

"Parts of downtown Owatonna, including the Press Building suffered a power outage for 48 minutes..." (Owatonna Press)

"The session they are planning in Washington is going to be non-violent, according to sponsors." (Newark News)

"Bill Keller sank four soul shots in the last six seconds." (San Diego Union)

"FOUR MUSICIANS who represented the school in the concert that was held last Saturday evening..." (Hamilton N.Y. Weekly)

"Eighty seven nuns and 16 laywomen will be authorized next month to assume the priestly function of disturbing the Holy Communion." (Hartford Courant)

"However, Chief Brown feels the firemen did a 'real good job' and did as little as possible in putting out the fire..." (Boonville Mo. News)

"Assembly President Emilio Arenales of Guatemala stood with Thant at the head of the deception line, along with other officials." (Chicago Tribune)

EVEN THE President and his family are not exempt:

"Julie will arrive with her father in her gown at the church." (New York Post)

"Whenever Dick has come down, Bebe has dropped most of his social life to fish or load or play god with Dick, a friend said." (New York Times)

"They described the chances of Nixon going into his home state of California as 'mightily small.'" (Chicago Tribune)

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

My Christian in-laws are trying to pressure me to join their church, despite the fact that my husband and I agreed that we would attend separate churches before we were married. My church is satisfying to me, and I am sincere in my beliefs. What difference does it make to my in-laws which church I attend?

B.D.M.

Many people get quite emotional about church membership. While I urge all those who come forward in our crusades to join a Bible believing, Christ honoring church, I know that membership in itself can save no one. The real matter of importance is our relationship to Christ.

SOMETIMES ministers do not cooperate in our crusades, because they know we tell people to find the most spiritual church they can and join that one. I believe in the existence of denominational organizations, but I believe the rationale of their existence is Paul's statement in II Corinthians 1, "Not that we have dominion over your faith, but are helpers of your joy." That applies to churches as well.

But another problem surfaces in your letter. It relates to husband and wife attending separate churches. I have known people who have done this successfully, but one wonders if it's worth the extra effort and the inevitable polarizing of interests.

Actually, my wife is a Presbyterian, and I'm a Baptist. On Sunday, however, I attend her church with our family, and thus, we all serve and worship Christ together.

Perhaps your in-laws assume that since you're split now on church loyalty, another move wouldn't make much difference. I suggest that starting next Sunday, you worship together; my prediction is your in-laws will be delighted.

Going To The Dogs?

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a pet doctor gets tired of hearing:

"You don't have to be afraid of Tighe, Doc. He wouldn't hurt a housefly."

"How's the veterinary business these days — going to the dogs?"

"If a cat and a dog in your hospital get in a fight, which side are you on?"

"Hey doc, how about me sleeping in your hospital for a week? I've got the flu, and I can't afford to pay what they charge at a human hospital."

"Yes, our cat is caught up in a tree again and won't climb down. Can you come rescue her? I'd call the Fire Department, but I called them twice last week and we're no longer on speaking terms."

"You don't have to be afraid of Sport, Doc. He only likes to bite the mailman."

"Do you make house calls, doctor? The reason I'm asking is that our cat needs a checkup, but I've never been able to get him to go to an animal hospital since I took him to one as a young kitten and they changed him overnight from a back fence baritone to a living room soprano."

"Why does it cost so much to get a cat or dog fixed? Ten years ago I paid less for my kid to get a tonsillectomy."

Noble (Stupid) Bird

Robert E. Ford

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Pictures appeared in almost all the newspapers back in October showing big, white turkeys marching down the street of Cuero in perfect order like a West Point cadets on parade.

THIS IS AN absolute impossibility. Turkeys just don't do that. They are free-spirited and undisciplined and joining a group effort is completely foreign to their nature.

Then we ran into a possibility. The man who shot the picture is Ted Powers of The Associated Press and a former Marine.

Powers probably demanded an early morning formation, gave them a lecture about marching, using Marine English, and told the birds to shape up or ship out. You know what that means shortly before Christmas.

The occasion was what is called the "annual" Cuero Turkey Trot — held every four or five years. Citizens have been holding this celebration whenever the mood struck them since 1912.

IT LOOKED LIKE there wouldn't be any more Turkey Trots after the 1967 disaster.

Between 1912 and 1967, breeders developed a bird so heavy that a good many of them simply couldn't march.

Nanette Wiess, writing in "Texas Highways," a publication of the Texas Highway Department, quotes Homer Berner, assistant general manager of the Cuero Daily Record:

"Well it was an unusually hot day in 1967, and those broadbreasted turkeys raised only for eating just couldn't make it down the street."

Stricken birds had to be gathered up and placed in trucks along the parade route as 60,000 visitors looked on.

TODAY'S BEST turkeys do not get much exercise any more than do cattle in feed lots.

Turkeys now go directly from the hatchery to the feed lot and get practically no exercise.

Used to spend the night occasionally on the farm of Uncle Charley and Aunt Eva Woods just outside Seymour in North Texas. He raised turkeys along with his regular farming operation.

But they weren't the same kind of turkeys. They ranged over the farm, chasing grasshoppers or just running around for the fun of it.

At nightfall, it was the job of everyone around to try and herd the turkeys into their pens to keep the coyotes from getting them.

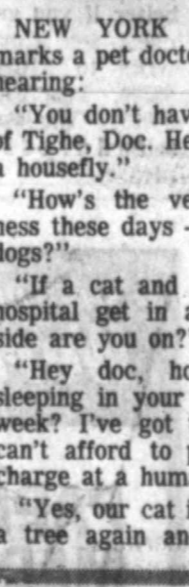

BUT THERE always was a gobbler or two which reverted to older times and took his own anti-coyote measures by finding the tallest mesquite tree, fly up and settle down for the night.

Then everyone would gather under the tree and shout and throw sticks and finally get the bird down and into his cage.

Turkey raisers grew to hate turkeys.

The Cuero Record's Berner told Miss Wiess that "Turkeys are the dumbest animals you ever saw. They won't even come in out of the rain. They'll actually stay out in a down-pour and drown themselves."

An oldtimer once revealed how easy it was to trap turkeys. Just dig a pit and cover it, with a runway leading from the surface of the ground to the bottom of the pit.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause a burning sensation when urinating? I am 52, have three children. This is more pronounced just before and after my period. This also causes my husband some distress. Is this a process of aging or can I do something to relieve it? — Mrs. R. F.

Aging may or may not be involved, but whatever the cause, you probably CAN relieve it. The first step, however, has to be discovering what the cause is. There are many possibilities.

One thinks first — it's the commonest — of infection in the urinary tract, whether kidneys, bladder, urethra or ureters. Strongest evidence of this would be finding pus cells in the urine, so a laboratory test for that would be very much in order. In fact, first order of business.

Ulceration at the outlet tube (urethra) of a fold in the membrane (a condition called a caruncle) can be responsible. Highly acid urine may cause burning, and your doctor can advise medication and diet if he finds that to be the trouble.

The fact that your trouble flares up around the time of the menstrual period gives rise to the suspicion that you may be irritated by the flow, or even that you may be sensitive to the menstrual pad you use. Try a different brand. (At your age you cannot expect menstruation to continue much longer.)

Burning also may be part of the aging process, involving changes in the genital membranes stemming from a decrease in female hormone production. A hormone cream often is prescribed for this.

But to get back to your original question: there isn't any remedy I can suggest for you without knowing the cause of the trouble — and that is something your doctor will have to determine.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a prescription filled for Griseofulvin for fungus on the toe. I received capsules. I thought it would be an ointment or salve. Do I have the right medicine? — P. W.

Yes, it's the right medicine. This is an unusual — and very useful — medication discovered not so many years ago. It is, in fact, an antibiotic for some types of fungus. It's an antibiotic because it acts by inhibiting the multiplication of the fungus particles, just as the more familiar antibiotics inhibit multiplication of bacteria.

It is, I believe, the only anti-fungus medication that acts in that way, and can be taken by mouth. Other anti-fungus medications would be toxic if taken by mouth, and have to be applied to the surface of the WASHINGTON — For several years there has been a controversy about prayers in the public schools. It has been definitely ruled by the Supreme Court that no governmental body can prescribe prayers. The effort now, therefore, is to obtain for students the privilege to have voluntary-prayer services conducted by themselves at a recess permitted for the purpose.

THE ARGUMENT against prayer in schools has been that there must be a separation of church and state, as provided by the constitution, and that there can be no involvement of government in religious matters. But people in governmental agencies today hold their own sessions of prayer. Members of the House of Representatives have a prayer breakfast each week, and so do senators. Participation is voluntary.

Just a few days ago the President of the United States attended the 21st annual National Prayer Breakfast in Washington. The guests included not only members of Congress but officials from other parts of the government.

MR. NIXON made a brief address about peace inside and outside our country. He referred to the recent agreement to end the Vietnam war, and declared:

We are concerned, for example, about the problems that divide us. They talk about the divisions between the generations, divisions between the generations, the divisions between the religious in the country — and we have them.

"SO WE CAN legislate about some of these divisions. For example, we pass laws, laws providing and guaranteeing rights to equal opportunity. But there is no law that can legislate compassion. There is no law that can legislate understanding. There is no law that can legislate an end to prejudice. That only comes by changing the man and changing the woman. That is what all religion is about, however we may worship."

The President closed with the plea that, abroad and at home, our prayer should be:

"Let there be peace on earth and let it begin with each and every one of us in his own heart."

THE CONSTITUTION says that "church and state" shall be separate, and certainly the prayer-breakfast movement throughout the United States in the last 25 years has adhered to that doctrine. But members of various governmental agencies attend regular prayer breakfast sessions once a week at which individual life and the lessons derived from religious principles are analyzed. These meetings have a profound effect on the persons who participate in them and on their everyday relations with their colleagues and friends.

Soft Spot

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — The soft spot in the Nixon generation of peace is today, as for many years, the Middle East. Yet, for all the bluster out of the Arab world, the chances for at least an interim settlement are better than at any time since the six-day war in 1967. And this hopeful prospect owes a lot to President Nixon's initiatives with Moscow and Peking.

A SIGNIFICANT meeting was held in New York recently. Not only was there praise for Secretary of State William P. Rogers, rare enough in itself, but it came from Jacob Stein, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of major Jewish organizations. The occasion was a dinner honoring Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin, who will retire following the visit to Washington of Prime Minister Golda Meir at the end of February.

In a low-key speech Rogers said he was convinced that both sides, Arabs and Israelis, want a settlement based on the United Nations Security Council resolution of November, 1967, calling for the return of the territories occupied in the six-day war. He went on to say that the most realistic approach would be to begin negotiations on an interim agreement reopening the Suez Canal.

HE PROPOSED the following steps: separate the military forces of both sides still positioned along the canal; reinforce the cease-fire; a partial Israeli withdrawal; and finally the opening of the canal to international commerce. The speech contained no reference to the U.N. peace efforts or the unhappy mission of Gunnar Jarring. This was a welcome omission for the Israelis, since they had been dead set against the initial Rogers peace plan with the incorporation of a role for a U.N. mission.

Both Rabbi Stein and Ambassador Rabin praised Rogers for initiating the cease-fire that brought an end to the shooting in June, 1967. Rabin called it the most important development in the nearly six years since the six-day war.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A House subcommittee approved an ethics bill for legislators and state officials Tuesday, despite objections from a Texas Supreme Court associate justice that it probably was unconstitutional.

Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, the ethics bill's sponsor, also complained of the subcommittee version and said he hoped the full House State Affairs Committee would override it.

The earliest the committee can act is Monday.

Associate Justice Jack Pope said the subcommittee had disregarded his advice and kept judges under the bill. He called this "unequal treatment of the branches of government." The Texas Constitution, he explained, already puts judicial behavior under scrutiny by the Judicial Qualifications Commission.

Nugent said there was a possible violation of the constitutional right of privacy in requiring disclosure of stocks, bonds, notes, real estate and business interests "held" by state officials. He urged that only property "acquired or sold" should be covered by the disclosure provision.

"Between now and when the (state affairs) committee meets... I am going to try to get with Judge Pope and go through this bill section by section and attempt to draft a bill that satisfies his concept of constitutionality and mine and see if the full committee might not be inclined to accept that substitute rather than the one handed out by this subcommittee," Nugent told newsmen.

Rep. Larry Bales, D-Austin subcommittee chairman, said he disagreed with Nugent's view of the bill's constitutionality.

REPORTING
Rep. Jimm Mattod, D-Dallas, who offered the revised bill approved by the subcommittee, said it was necessary to require disclosure of financial interests "held" by an official.

"The public should be entitled to know what assets a man holds when he is in a public position so they would know why he voted in a particularly way," Mattod said.

WINS SUBCOMMITTEE APPROVAL

Ethics Bill For Lawmakers

Included in the bill is a requirement that retainers, such as those received by some lawyer legislators, be reported.

A 12-member ethics commission would enforce the act, investigating complaints and reporting violations to the attorney general and district attorneys of counties where they occurred.

Rep. Jim Clark, D-Houston, recommended that the size of the commission be cut to nine, including a newsman, a law professor, a government professor and a lobbyist. Bales indicated he might back Clark's proposal as an amendment.

'NO VOTE'
The subcommittee voted to approve the substitute bill was 3-1, with Reps. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, and Hilary Doran, D-Del Rio absent. Rep. Joseph Sage, R-San Antonio, cast the "no vote."

Don walked in a few minutes later and said he, too, would have voted against the substitute because of the constitutional question raised by Pope and Nugent.

He referred, smiling, to those who voted for the bill as "dumb dingbats."

The ethics bill is part of House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.'s "reform" program.

An ethics bill was passed in 1971, but the late Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held it unconstitutional because, he said, it violated the right of privacy.

Sands Scores 101-43 Victory Over Klondike

ACKERLY — The Sands Mustangs romped to their 22nd season victory and set up the Dist. 5-B showdown with Borden County, smacking Klondike 101-43 here Tuesday.

The Mustangs, 22-4 on the year and 5-0 in the second half, would advance to the playoffs with a win over the Coyotes in Gall Friday. A loss would set up a playoff since Sands won the first half with a 7-0 mark.

Frosty Floyd dumped in 23 points and Ricky Hughes and Danny Coldiron sacked up 20 each in the rout, while Bradford had 14 for the losers.

Klondike won the girls game 74-63 behind Debra Bradford and Liz Keune. Bradford hit 34 and Keune 32 for the league champs, and Jill Hunt, who averages 10 points per game, broke loose for 38 to pace Sands. It was the last game for the Sands girls, who ended the year with a 21-12 mark and finished third in the district with a 19-4 record.

West Cagers Shock East In ABA Bout

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Turnabout is fair play. For the West All-Stars of the American Basketball Association, truer words were never spoken.

Victims of a 45-point East outburst in the final quarter last year, and down by 19 points in the third period Tuesday night, the vengeful West suddenly exploded—leaving the confident East broken, bewildered and beaten.

A partisan crowd of 12,556 screamed with delight as the West smashed its favored foe 99-19 in the fourth period and claimed a 123-111 victory that squared the six-game series and gave the Westerners a full measure of revenge for the 142-115 humiliation suffered in 1972.

Warren Jabali, Denver's stocky guard, won the most valuable player award—the dismay of Utah partisans who thought their own Willie Wise deserved it.

Wise led the scorers with 26 points, tallying 12 of 15 unanswered West points that turned a 62-82 deficit into a 97-92 lead over a 3½-minute span reaching into the final period.

But Jabali helped make it possible, feeding others and scoring 11 points in the third period as the West whittled down an East lead that had reached 71-52 soon after the halftime tipoff.

Jabali tied the game at 92 with a three-point play and wound up with 16 points.

"We lost the momentum," sighed East Coach Larry Brown of Carolina. Winning Coach LaDell Andersen of Utah agreed, saying his team "just kept moving out" once the ball started bouncing the west's way.

Mustangs' Coach First In Line To Post-Game Brawl

By The Associated Press

The chaotic Southwest Conference basketball race makes you do wild and strange things—just ask mild-mannered Bob Prewitt, the Southern Methodist basketball coach who turned fist-swinging tiger Tuesday night.

Prewitt, Mr. Nice Guy, became so irate when guard Zach Thiel was karate-chopped with one second left in overtime by Texas A&M's Bob Gobito that he led a charge onto the floor.

Fans, players and coaches became involved in a free-for-all that lasted for almost five minutes before the national anti-race riot was played by the Mustang band, security police and calmer heads prevailed.

Sophomore reserve Phil Baill-SMU was 64-62 and coupled eye for eye with the coach to score 17 points for Tech.

Rice Coach Don Knodel said his Owls were "just horrible. We didn't use our heads and we didn't use our bodies."

The emotionally drained Prewitt said later "I thought he (Gobito) went at Thiel's head but I had no business going out there during a game. I want to protect my players... I want to fight for them. You do some things you're not proud of... I wasn't proud of what happened."

Prewitt and Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf later shook hands over the incident. Prewitt, who lost his glasses in the melee, said "I told Shelby I was sorry... and I really was. The game got out of hand at the end and I don't want to comment any further on that."

Flower Grove, Wellman Split

FLOWER GROVE — David Prybyla rang up 35 points here Tuesday night to lead Flower Grove to a 59-55 overtime decision over Wellman.

The win gives Flower Grove a 7-4 record on the year and a 2-4 standing in Dist. 5-B.

Wellman defeated the Flower Grove Girls 33-35 in the season finale for both teams. Kathy Beaver had 32 in the victory, and Nancy Prybyla notched up 21 for Flower Grove, which ended the year with a 9-15 mark and a 6-8 record in loop play.

Hawks Rally Past Odessa

ODESSA — The best aren't always the easiest, and the Howard County Jayhawks proved it here Tuesday night with a tense 84-80 come-from-behind victory over the Odessa College Wranglers.

The triumph runs the Jayhawks' season record to 20-11, "I think this is the most effort we've ever given since I've been at Howard County," Wilder said after the victory.

The Jayhawks were down at the half 44-35, and trailed by 10 points, after losing the lead and falling behind by six points, they tied it up again at 70-70 and got the ball back with less than a minute to play.

Johny Tomm sparked the comeback effort with a pair of baskets that cut the margin to 70-68, and 5-8 Willie Williams dropped in the tying points with just over a minute to play.

Smith hit 25 points — 21 in the first half — to spark the Steers, while Kevin Miller rang up 16, Tomm hit 15 and Williams dropped in 10. Miller was also the leading rebounder with 17.

For Lee, Don Bradley hit 18 points and Steve Cromwell managed 16.

Rebels Turn Back Big Spring, 73-72

MIDLAND — The Big Spring drops to 0-4 and 13-16. The Rebels are just 11 days away from a return date with rival Midland High which will likely decide the loop champion.

War Crimes Sentencing

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A Frankfurt court today sentenced six former Nazi police officers to prison terms ranging from 2 1/2 to 15 years for aiding in the murder of about 30,000 Russian and Polish Jews during World War II.

Five of the men were members of a police battalion that rounded up Jews in the ghettos of Pinsk and Stolin in 1942 and escorted them to mass executions.

The other man is Adolf Petsch, a member of the security police of the Waffen SS. He was sentenced to 15 years.

The trial lasted 14 months, and may be the last large-scale war crimes case in West Germany.

The investigation began in 1962. The court traveled twice to the scene of the crime in what is now the Soviet Union. At the time, the territory was Polish.

SAIGON (AP) — A senior U.S. official said today the United States is planning to receive 20 to 40 American prisoners of war from jungle camps along the Cambodian border north of Saigon on Saturday.

The official, who is a member of the U.S. team planning the repatriation of American prisoners, said the first group of prisoners in North Vietnam probably won't be released until the early part of next week, perhaps Sunday or Monday, coinciding with the visit there of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

RECOVERY TEAMS

The official said the first prisoners would be released at An Loc, a provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon and 10 miles from the border. He said American helicopters will pick up the men there, fly them to Tan Son Nhut Air Base in Saigon, and they will be transferred to a C9 medical evacuation plane for the 1 hour and 45 minute flight to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

Meanwhile, prisoner recovery teams of the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision were making plans for their part in the POW releases.

Three eight-man teams—two each from Canada, Indonesia, Poland and Hungary—are standing by in Saigon, ready to move out on two hours' notice. They spent the morning at their headquarters at Tan Son Nhut Air Base discussing operational procedures.

121 VIOLATIONS

Twelve members of the Canadian Red Cross were flying to Vietnam today to join representatives of the Polish Red Cross in touring the prison camps. An annex to the Paris cease-fire peace agreement says at least two Red Cross societies will be designated to visit all places where prisoners are held "to contribute to improving the living conditions."

The Saigon military command reported another 121 Communist cease-fire violations, including two battles in the central highlands north and south of Pleiku.

South Vietnamese forces attacked first, destroyed seven tanks and killed 30 of the Communist troops, while suffering no casualties of their own, a communique said.

The Saigon command also reported that North Vietnamese tanks and infantrymen were spotted moving into position for an attack on government forces near the A Chau Valley about 20 miles southwest of Hue. 6 a.m. today.

Kite Flying Peril Cited

It's kite season — the time when youth's fancy turns to paper and string aerodynamics. For Texas Electric Service Company its the time to remind parents and youngsters of some safety suggestions for kite flying.

"While we understand the joys of kite flying, we also understand the dangers," said T. R. (Tom) Locke, TESCO manager.

"If your kite gets caught in electric wires just leave it there and call Texas Electric. We'll send someone to get it down for you."

Locke also pointed out other safety suggestions for kite flyers. They are:

—Always use dry string — never anything metallic. Never use wire.

—Always make your kite of wood and paper.

—Fly your kite only in good weather. A soggy kite doesn't fly well, and wet string can be dangerous.

—Find an open area to fly your kite. Always avoid trees, power lines, radio and TV antennas, and busy streets and highways.

These safety suggestions appear on posters which are distributed to local schools in a further attempt to promote safety during the kite season, Locke added.

Public Records Measure Debated

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The House State Affairs Committee approved a bill that would clarify what records of public bodies are open to the public.

The bill now goes to the House floor for debate.

Co-sponsored by Reps. Lane Denton, D-Waco, and Camm Lary Jr., D-Burnet, the measure was approved on a 12-4 vote.

JUSTICE?

It exempts the personal offices of the governor, the lieutenant governor and state legislators.

Rep. James Kaster, D-El Paso, attempted to remove the exemption for legislators.

"Why do we exempt ourselves?" Kaster asked. "I think that's a gross miscarriage of justice."

Rep. Ben Munson, D-Denison, said he thought "there's somewhat of a distinction between us and some bureaucrat living out his life over there in that job."

Legislators must run for office, but the bureaucrat does not, he said.

OBJECT

Kaster said if they really were interested in reform they would not exempt themselves. "I could have somebody in my office, or, Frank Sharp in there, working on something, working on some banking bills nobody could find out about. I just object to putting everybody but us under it," he said.

Rep. Mickey Letland, D-Houston, moved to table Kaster's amendment, explaining later that he thought the House would reject the bill with that amendment. The motion to table prevailed, 10-5.

FINE, JAIL

Among other things, the bill lists as "public records" "All working papers, research material and information used to make estimates of the need for, or expenditures of, public funds or taxes by any governmental body, upon completion of such estimates."
