

Prairie View Prexy Blasts Negro Solons

PRAIRIE VIEW, Tex. (AP) — The president of predominantly black Prairie View A&M, which faces a possible legislative investigation, lashed out Tuesday night at some Negro legislators whom he called "a disgrace" to the people they represent.

"We didn't send blacks to Austin to run around in big cars tearing down black leadership," Dr. A. I. Thomas told a meeting of about 250 staff members at the college.

As for an investigation of the school by the Texas Legislature, Thomas told the faculty to "either join me or fight me. If you want to fight us, get ready for the damndest fight you've ever seen."

He asserted that black legislators who have pushed for an investigation of the school have been tricked by members of the House Education Committee who are against him.

POLITICS

"This was a political move," he said of the resolution which would establish a 12-member investigating committee. The resolution still requires floor action before passage.

Thomas also hit critics who want to remove the school from the Texas A&M system and give it a governing board of its own which would contain more blacks.

"What does (the college) profit by having a black board or a white board if it has no money?" he asked. "Prairie View has been inadequately funded for 96 years and will continue to be inadequately funded for another 96 years."

BELIEVE IT

Mentioning salary problems, Thomas said, "I don't have the money to give to you because the governor has not given it to me. I cannot even employ all of you next year. It is as much your problem as mine ... You better believe it."

While a neighboring college drew 75 per cent of its enrollment from families earning more than $12,000 a year, Thomas said, about 76 per cent of his school's student body comes from families making less than $2,000 a year—forcing the school to make up for deficiencies they suffered in their early education.

Critics have said, Thomas added, that students at the school are fearful. They are "not fearful but insecure," he said, because many come to the school on indefinite loans and grants.

"The whole confounded system makes you insecure," he said of the college's problems.

PLAQUES FOR STANDOUTS IN Y MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Membership Drive Leaders Recognized At Y Meeting

Accolades were passed out Tuesday evening after the YMCA board of directors convened to discuss the membership drive launched several weeks ago. The convocation took place at the Y.

Harold Bentley, board president, presided. New members of the directorate include Mrs. Sidney Curtis, Mrs. Harold Rosson and Charles Dunnam.

Clyde McMahon Jr., chairman of the Y's sustaining membership committee, reported his group had collected $8,760 to date.

Jim Baum, chairman of the participating membership campaign, revealed that $13,845 had been turned in by his group.

Tito Arencibia, who raised $1,410 in the campaign, was rewarded with a plaque, emblematic as the top producer.

Mrs. O. S. Womack, chairman of the membership committee, lauded Baum and the Rev. Caleb Hildebrand for their leadership in the drive. Hildebrand serves as co-chairman of Baum's committee.

Mrs. Curtis presented two persons with Y Youth awards for contributions made within the Y during February. They were Cindy Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wall, and Roy Duran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Margarito Duran.

Reports by Curt Mullins, general secretary of the Y, and Mrs. Clyde Thomas, head of the Youth Government program, were also heard.

Five top producers in the participating membership drive were Arencibia, who raised 10 per cent of the goal himself, Frank Hardesty, Mike Hull, Danny Valdes and Mrs. Don Reynolds.

These five top producers collected $3,545 to comprise 25 per cent of the goal.

Honored as quota-busters in the participating drive were Mrs. Joe Horton, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Jerry Jenkins and Mrs. Ralph Caton.

The top team of the 16 teams in the participating effort was the Colts, led by Mrs. Paul Shaffer, captain.

Mullins said the Y derives 41 per cent of its yearly income from the membership campaigns. The rest of the income is derived from program fees, endowment and the United Way.

Number of new memberships represented by the money collected has not yet been determined, but Mullins said he expects around 1,200 new memberships, the number obtained from last year's drive for which the goal was only $500 less.

Ships Waiting To Take On Wheat For Russia

HOUSTON (AP) — Thirty ships are tied up outside the Port of Houston waiting to take on wheat for Russia and 30 more are in the Gulf of Mexico steaming toward Texas ports, officials here said Tuesday.

More than two million tons of the 19 million bought by Russia have moved through the port so far, and the pace will probably pick up, they say. Officials here estimated 90 per cent of the wheat bought by the Soviet Union is the massive grain deal will move through this port.

Despite the huge volume, T.E. Wimberly, who runs the Port Terminal Railroad Association, said there has been no big backup of rail cars at the port.

Wimberly said any possible massive tieup of grain cars has been stopped by officials of the nation's railroads who slap embargoes on movement of trains toward Houston when the rail yards get full.

Frank Hemmen, manager of the Cargill Inc. grain elevator, one of three privately-owned facilities here, said his firm is having little difficulty keeping ships and rail cars moving without tieups.

"We're busy around the clock and it looks like we're going to stay that way for a while," Hemmen said.

But a spokesman at the elevator owned by the Port of Houston said his elevator is three to four weeks behind in loading grain with little chance of catching up soon.

"We're working 13-hour shifts but we just don't have the manpower to stay open any longer than that," the spokesman said, adding that 14 of the 30 ships tied up in Galveston Bay outside the ship channel are waiting to move into one of two berths at the facility.

Wimberly said grain has been moving into Houston "at a pretty smooth flow. You ask the elevator operators. They'll tell you they haven't had to wait for grain."

Operators said the main cause of the ship buildup was a delay in the United States and Russia reaching an agreement on shipping rates. Loading has also been delayed by three snowfalls in the past two months in a city where snowfall every five years is regarded as out of the ordinary.

'Where Are Our MIAs?'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In-Indochina, while the State Department lists an additional 24 civilian MIAs.

Voices in Vital America (VIVA) best-known for its worldwide distribution of five million bracelets bearing the names of POWs and MIAs, says it is coordinating the ads. It calls on its bracelet-wearers and other Americans to protest the Communists' alleged failure to account for all Americans they captured.

It says one way to do this is to demand of Congress that not one penny be spent on rebuilding North Vietnam until all MIAs are accounted for.

VIVA is also asking all bracelet wearers to continue wearing them at least until all American POWs are released.

"We are urging people to continue wearing their bracelets to help alert others that the issue has not yet been resolved satisfactorily," said Mrs. Douglas Coppin, chairman of VIVA's National Advisory Board.

The Pentagon says there are 1,328 U.S. military men missing in action or unaccounted for in

Shot In Head Three Times

HOUSTON (AP) — Dorothy Joan Young, 48, was shot in the head three times and killed shortly before 2 a.m. today at the drive-in food store she managed in Southwest Houston, police reported.

Police said she apparently was slain by a robber who took about $70. They said there were no witnesses and no clues to the slayer's identity.

Mrs. Young had taken the job because her husband was in a hospital and she needed the money, officers said.

Banker Pays Loot For Release Of Son

DALLAS (AP) — Bank president Kenneth Terry, his rugged good looks twisted like a strained muscle, stood in front of his posh North Dallas home a few hours after his young son was kidnapped and declared, "It's enough to make a man get out of the banking business."

captured for two and a half days shortly before Christmas last year until Dealey paid $250,000 ransom for her safe return.

FBI agents found her unharmed, wrapped in tape, blindfolded and lying on a dark suburban street. Two brothers were arrested later the same day. She had been spirited from the driveway of her apartment home after returning from a shopping trip. The ransom was recovered.

ORDEAL
Philip Terry, 12, had been released just hours before, unharmed and appearing casual and collected as the two stood together.

GEORGE OGLE II

"It has been an ordeal," said Terry, president of the First Bank and Trust Co. of Richardson, a Dallas suburb.

The father at first said the FBI had asked him not to disclose details.

Later he said his son was abducted after a telephone caller convinced teachers at the Norwood Elementary School that he was the father of sixth grader Philip and said he was sending a friend to take his son to keep a doctor's appointment. This call was made about an hour after classes began for the day.

all that could be collected without drawing too much attention, adding, "He told me that I had seven minutes to do it. If I called the police or the FBI, my son would be killed. The caller told me, 'We will not harm your son if you do what we say.'"

PAPER SACKS
After a scramble to find two papers sacks somewhere in the bank, Terry placed the money in them and drove to a designated spot, which he said only was on a well traveled street not far away.

A hearing was set for 9:30 a.m. Friday for Ogle in connection with the federal charges.

Authorities said Ogle, before his arrest, was free under $50,000 bond posted last Oct. 3, when he was charged with theft of $237,500 by false pretext. A district attorney's investigator, H. H. Davis, said Ogle was accused of using forged stock certificates as collateral to induce a Mexico City business man to guarantee a $250,000 loan to him from the Dallas International Bank.

Philip walked outside the school, which is about 150 yards west of his home, and was forced into a car by a ski-masked man, who handed him adhesive tape with an order to blindfold himself.

The banker talked on the third of three telephone calls to his office an hour later. He was convinced his son was being held after being allowed to talk to the boy.

Demands of the caller were said to have included one for $250,000 in old currency of small denominations.

Terry said about $50,000 was Twenty minutes later the principal at the Prestonwood Elementary School, in the same general area, telephoned Terry that his son had walked into the school.

Philip told his father he was taken to a house, placed face down on a bed and covered with a blanket. He overheard the ransom call while lying there, and he was released after about an hour and a half.

George Ogle was arrested a few hours later and whisked to the Dallas County jail where he was undergoing questioning.

It was not learned at once if the ransom money was recovered.

College Singers To Sing Tonight

The Odessa College choir will appear at the First Christian Church at 7:30 o'clock this evening. The singers are presently on their annual tour.

The choir, under the direction of Maurice Alyford, has 46 members. There will be no admission charge for the program.

After its appearance here, the choir will appear in Abilene Thursday.

The younger Terry's uncle is Dist. Atty. Don R. Ross of Rusk County in East Texas, who said he, too, had been instructed to keep quiet about the case.

"We have been asked not to give out any information at all," Ross said by telephone from his home at Henderson.

SAFE RETURN
The kidnaping of the boy follows by two months the abduction of Dallas socialite Amanda Dealey, striking blonde daughter-in-law of Dallas News publisher-board chairman Joe M. Dealey.

VORTAC Facility Keeps Airplanes On Course

By JOHN EDWARDS
In the middle of a cotton patch near Luther stands a circular white building topped by a cone. It and other VORTAC facilities scattered every 100 miles over the United States mean life and death to pilots and their passengers.

VORTAC facilities transmit and receive radio signals which indicate distance and direction to pilots. "In a way, it (the VORTAC system) is more dependable than your power company," said Melvin Alsbury, a Federal Aviation Administration technician and the sole employee here.

Pilots take the navigational aid for granted, he said. "Sometimes, I've heard those airplanes call into Midland saying 'what's wrong, what's wrong.'" A malfunction had temporarily interrupted the equipment's operation.

CALLING THE COWS
The Big Spring facility has been located near Luther since 1967. Before the city grew too close, a VOR facility was located near Mount Olive Cemetery.

Sensitive equipment housed in the odd-shaped building is easily affected by noise. According to FAA folklore, problems were encountered early every morning with noise at one facility. But, by the time technicians arrived, the cause of the noise could not be located. Finally, they learned, Alsbury said, that a farmer was calling his cows from the roof of the VORTAC each morning.

WORDS TRANSLATED
VORTAC is the abbreviated term used for two types of navigational equipment. VOR stands for very high frequency omnirange and denotes equipment that enables flyers to determine direction.

Very high frequency radio waves are sent out from the VOR facility in all directions. Flyers tune into the frequency that represents the direction they want to go. In this way, they fly from one VOR facility to another.

Those flying by instruments are assigned an altitude by an Airport Traffic Control Center, explained J. W. (Bill) McClendon, manager of Big Spring Aircraft and Howard County Airport.

Pilots in Big Spring skies also are guided by VOR voice radio signals which identify the Big Spring VORTAC. Criss-crossing over the Big Spring facility are Texas International flights, Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. and other privately owned aircraft. Other equipment is called TAC or TACAN — Tactical Air Navigation abbreviated. Civilian planes with distance measuring equipment depend on TAC equipment.

NO MORE GUESSING
Signals with extremely rapid pulses are transmitted to and from TAC equipment on the ground. By timing the pause between pulses, distance is determined electronically.

Planes with the proper equipment can make instrument landings at Howard County Airport through the Big Spring VORTAC. Although it is called a non-controlled airport, Howard County Airport does operate a radio for advising pilots about the runway being used and landings of other planes, McClendon said.

Bee Keepers Not Sweet Talking

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli bee-keepers say they've been stung. And the land of milk and honey may be a little less sweet for a while because of it.

The problem isn't a lack of honey. Just the opposite — there's too much. So bee-keepers took their produce off the market to drive up prices. In the past the bee-keepers produced a surplus of honey, and prices were frozen by government controls at the 1969 level of 40 cents a pound.

The bee-keepers say it costs them almost twice as much to produce honey now, and some went out of business because they couldn't raise their prices.

Woman Suggests Death For Rape

NEW YORK (AP) — Phyllis Chesler, an assistant professor of psychology at Richmond College, has her own ideas about making the punishment fit the crime of rape.

"I'm in favor of death," she said in a recent interview. "Not capital punishment though. I don't think that's very humane. The killing should be done hand to hand with fury and passion and not by anonymous bureaucracy of the legal system. Women ought to kill men while they are being raped."

UT Sniper Story Flops

AUSTIN (AP) — Police reported finding no evidence to confirm reported sniper fire Tuesday atop a tall apartment building just off the University of Texas campus.

A delivery man working on Guadalupe Street near the Doble Center, an apartment, hotel and shopping center, told the Austin Statesman he heard two shots and the whine of a bullet hitting the street about 9 a.m.

Visual rules flying continues but high level and low visibility flying without instruments is almost unheard of now.

"Most all of them have some instrument capability," McClendon said. "To be up in the clouds without instruments, you can see you'd just be guessing."

"Back in the old days," McClendon said flyers got lost all the time and ended up landing in a field and walking to the nearest telephone.

"I'm an old country boy and I spent 13 months in Korea and I know a shot when I hear it," Benjamin Lee Reed, 39, of Austin, told police. "The shots really frightened me."

Another person, a half block away, also reported hearing what he thought was a shot, but police were unable to verify either story.

Former Texas Rodeo Star To Get His Day In Court

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — In action lasting less than 15 seconds Tuesday, a panel of three federal judges assured former Texas rodeo star Jack G. Favor a day in federal court to air his charges he was convicted of murder illegally.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that a federal district court could not order an evidentiary hearing in state court on Favor's charges.

Chief Judge John R. Brown told defense attorneys, "You don't care what court it's in do you, as long as you get your hearing?"

KILLED WOMEN
Favor's attorney J. B. Wells of Bossier City said, "Your Honor, this is what we've been looking for for four years."

At issue is the complicated, longstanding case in which Favor was convicted in 1967 of the 1964 double slaying of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Richey at their bait stand near Houghton. He was sentenced to two concurrent life sentences in the state penitentiary.

But he was the only one of the three defendants to stand trial in the case. The others, Floyd Cumbe and Donald Lee Yates, were allowed to change their pleas to guilty of manslaughter.

DENIED
Court records show Cumbe was released without ever being sent to the state pen. Two days after his release, two Tulsa, Okla., women were killed and Cumbe was convicted of their murders and is now serving time in that case.

Five years after the conviction, Favor appealed to state district court. It was denied. He then went to the Louisiana Supreme Court, and again it was denied.

Favor filed the same petition in U.S. District Court, which said there was insufficient evidence to determine allegations of collusion between Cumbe, prosecuting attorneys and the trial judge.

U.S. District Judge Ben C. Dawkins sent the trial back to state court for a hearing on collusion, and also set aside Favor's conviction and gave the state 30 days to retry him.

Both the Louisiana attorney general and Favor's defense attorney argued that a federal court could not order a hearing held in state court.

The 5th Circuit Court agreed Tuesday.

Escape Ends In Creek Bed

GOLDTHWAITE, Tex. (AP) — The romantic escape from jails of Charles Boyce Hardin and Kay Cagle ended in a creek bed Tuesday, their freedom barely 24 hours long.

Hardin, 27, escaped from the Brown County jail at Brownwood early Monday by picking a lock. He stole a car and drove 30 miles to free his girl friend, Miss Cagle, 21, from the Mills County jail at Goldthwaite.

Early Tuesday morning, two persons were seen running from a house near Moline, 15 miles southeast of Goldthwaite.

A Department of Public Safety helicopter bearing three persons flew to the area and spotted the duo.

The two escapees fled to a creek bed, said Richard Williams of the Highway Patrol at Lampasas.

VORTAC Facility Keeps Airplanes On Course

By JOHN EDWARDS
In the middle of a cotton patch near Luther stands a circular white building topped by a cone. It and other VORTAC facilities scattered every 100 miles over the United States mean life and death to pilots and their passengers.

VORTAC facilities transmit and receive radio signals which indicate distance and direction to pilots.
"In a way, it (the VORTAC system) is more dependable than your power company," said Melvin Alsbury, a Federal Aviation Administration technician and the sole employee here. Pilots take the navigational aid for granted, he said. "Sometimes, I've heard those airplanes call into Midland saying 'what's wrong, what's wrong.'" A malfunction had temporarily interrupted the equipment's operation.

CALLING THE COWS
The Big Spring facility has been located near Luther since 1967. Before the city grew too close, a VOR facility was located near Mount Olive Cemetery. Sensitive equipment housed in the odd-shaped building is easily affected by noise.

According to FAA folklore, problems were encountered early every morning with noise at one facility. But, by the time technicians arrived, the cause of the noise could not be located. Finally, they learned, Alsbury said, that a farmer was calling his cows from the roof of the VORTAC each morning.

WORDS TRANSLATED
VORTAC is the abbreviated term used for two types of navigational equipment.

VOR stands for very high frequency omnirange range and denotes equipment that enables flyers to determine direction.

Very high frequency radio waves are sent out from the VOR facility in all directions. Flyers tune into the frequency that represents the direction they want to go. In this way, they fly from one VOR facility to another.

Those flying by instruments are assigned an altitude by an Airport Traffic Control Center, explained J. W. (Bill) McClendon, manager of Big Spring Aircraft and Howard County Airport.

Pilots in Big Spring skies also are guided by VOR voice radio signals which identify the Big Spring VORTAC.
Criss-crossing over the Big Spring facility are Texas International flights, Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. and other privately owned aircraft. Other equipment is called TAC or TACAN - Tactical Air Navigation abbreviated. Civilian planes with distance measuring equipment depend on TAC equipment.

NO MORE GUESSING
Signals with extremely rapid pulses are transmitted to and from TAC Equipment on the ground. By timing the pause between pulses, distance is determined electronically.

Planes with the proper equipment can make instrument landings at Howard County Airport through the Big Spring VORTAC.
Although it is called a non-controlled airport, Howard County Airport does operate a radio for advising pilots about the runway being used and landings of other planes, McClendon said.

Bee Keepers Not Sweet Talking

TEL AVIV (AP) - Israeli bee-keepers say they've been stung. And the land of milk and honey may be a little less sweet for a while because of it.

The problem isn't a lack of honey. Just the opposite - there's too much. So bee-keepers took their produce off the market to drive up prices.

In the past the bee-keepers produced a surplus of honey, and prices were frozen by government controls at the 1969 level of 40 cents a pound. The bee-keepers say it costs them almost twice as much to produce honey now, and some went out of business because they couldn't raise their prices.

Woman Suggests Death For Rape

NEW YORK (AP) - Phyllis Chesler, an assistant professor of psychology at Richmond College, has her own ideas about making the punishment fit the crime of rape.

"I'm in favor of death," she said in a recent interview. "Not capital punishment though. I don't think that's very humane. The killing should be done hand to hand with fury and passion and not by anonymous bureaucracy of the legal system. Women ought to kill men while they are being raped."

UT Sniper Story Flops

AUSTIN (AP) - Police reported finding no evidence to confirm reported sniper fire Tuesday atop a tall apartment building just off the University of Texas campus.

A delivery man working on Guadalupe Street near the Dobie Center, an apartment, hotel and shopping center, told the Austin Statesman he heard two shots and the whine of a bullet hitting the street about 9 a.m.

"I'm an old country boy and I spent 13 months in Korea and I know a shot when I hear it," Benjamin Lee Reed, 39, of Austin, told police. "The shots really frightened me."

Another person, a half block away, also reported hearing what he thought was a shot, but police were unable to verify either story.

Former Texas Rodeo Star To Get His Day In Court

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - In action lasting less than 15 seconds Tuesday, a panel of three federal judges assured former Texas rodeo star Jack G. Favor a day in federal court to air his charges he was convicted of murder illegally.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that a federal district court could not order an evidentiary hearing in state court on Favor's charges.

Chief Judge John R. Brown told defense attorneys, "You don't care what court it's in do you, as long as you get your hearing?"

KILLED WOMEN
Favor's attorney J. B. Wells of Bossier City said, "Your Honor, this is what we've been looking for for four years." At issue is the complicated, longstanding case in which Favor was convicted in 1967 of the 1964 double slaying of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Richey at their bait stand near Haughton. He was sentenced to two concurrent life sentences in the state penitentiary.

But he was the only one of the three defendants to stand trial in the case. The others, Floyd Cumbeby and Donald Lee Yates, were allowed to change their pleas to guilty of manslaughter.

DENIED
Court records show Cumbeby was released without ever being sent to the state pen. Two days after his release, two Tulsa, Okla. women were killed and Cumbeby was convicted of their murders and is now serving time in that case.

The 5th Circuit Court agreed with Favor's appeal to state district court. It was denied. He then went to the Louisiana Supreme Court, and again it was denied.

Favor filed the same petition in U.S. District Court, which said there was insufficient evidence to determine allegations of collusion between Cumbeby, prosecuting attorneys and the trial judge.

U.S. District Judge Ben C. Dawkins sent the trial back to state court for a hearing on collusion, and also set aside Favor's conviction and gave the state 30 days to retry him.

Both the Louisiana attorney general and Favor's defense attorney argued that a federal court could not order a hearing held in state court.

Escape Ends In Creek Bed

GOLDTHWAITE, Tex. (AP) - The romantic escape from jails of Charles Boyce Hardin and Kay Cagle ended in a creek bed Tuesday, their freedom barely 24 hours long.

Hardin, 27, escaped from the Brown County jail at Brownwood early Monday by picking a lock. He stole a car and drove 30 miles to free his girlfriend, Miss Cagle, 21, from the Mills County jail at Goldthwaite.

Early Tuesday morning, two persons were seen running from a house near Moline, 15 miles southeast of Goldthwaite.

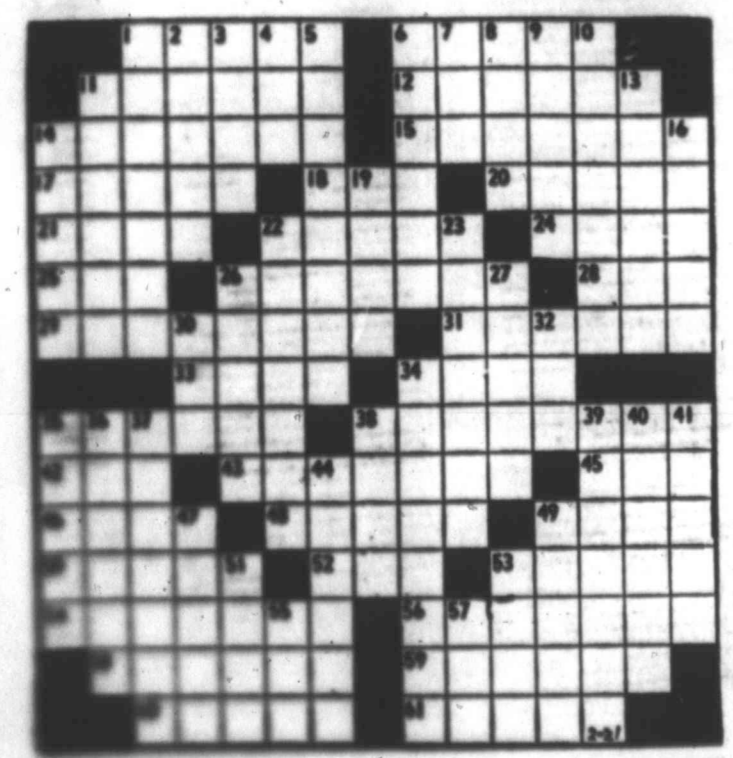

A Department of Public Safety helicopter bearing three persons flew to the area and spotted the duo.
The two escapees fled to a creek bed, said Richard Williams of the Highway Patrol at Lampasas.

EX-POWS WILL BE MISUNDERSTOOD? Love, Patience Called Key

FORT WORTH (AP) — David Fite is going through experiences now which a large number of prisoners of war will be facing soon. For he spent four years as a prisoner of the Communists in Cuba.

Fite says he often sits across the breakfast table from his 8-year-old son, Mark, and asks himself, "I wonder what you were like when you were a little boy."

That is only a little thing in the trauma and turmoil that Fite, a former Southern Baptist missionary, realizes will face men returning from the Southeast Asia prison camps.

All the POWs, he said in a recent interview, will struggle to adjust—caught in a mind-boggling culture shock, buffeted by internal forces which they may not know how to express and which will mystify and perhaps even annoy family, friends, and employers.

A large measure of their success in returning to normal will depend on the love and patience of those closest to them, Fite said in an interview with the Baptist Press.

SPYING
Fite, his father-in-law, Herbert Caudill, and 52 Cuban Christians were jailed in 1965. Fite and Caudill were charged with "ideological diversionism (teaching ideas the Cubans did not like)," spying in the guise of church work and "trafficking in foreign currency."

"We absolutely denied the spying charges," Fite said in another interview, "but admitted to the trafficking charge which meant basically our financial support as missionaries came from the United States."

Fite said he had it easier than the Vietnam POWs. "I was not a combatant, and I had lived in Cuba for quite a while and understood the culture and language. During most of my imprisonment, my father-in-law was there with me, along with imprisoned Cuban Christians."

"That fellowship, the abiding faith I had in Christ, and brief monthly visits from my wife, Margaret, helped me bear up."

MENTAL CRUELTY
But the physical and mental cruelty of his Communist captors, coupled with severe "brainwashing" techniques and daily management of his very move, took their toll on Fite. "In a prison environment," he explained, "every decision is made for you — hour-by-hour. They tell you when to get up, when to eat, what to eat, whether or not to eat, what to wear, what to do, when to sleep. "One of my major adjustments involved re-learning the process of decision making, he said. "For a long time," he explains, "my life was complicated by the fact that I had to spend a lot of time making little decisions that most people make automatically."

Fite says he would stand in a supermarket and take 20 minutes to decide what shaving soap to buy. Family and friends may expect them to reweave the threads of their lives too quickly, Fite says. "I hope the rehabilitation program planned by the military will solve that," he says. "I found that a period of moratorium, in which I was not immediately thrust into major responsibility, helped me readjust."

STRAIN
During the moratorium, he spent time with his family and earned a doctorate in theology at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary here before assuming his current job as director of continuing education for ministry at the seminary. Return from a long absence in prison puts a strain on children and husband-wife relationships, Fite says. A father, removed from his children's formative years, experiences a gap in his understanding of their development. Mark was one month old when Fite went away and nearly four when he returned. His other two boys were six and eight when he left. But probably the most severe readjustment facing the returnees, Fite believes, will involve overcoming emotional scars of brainwashing.

Study Plans To Widen Houston Ship Channel

HOUSTON (AP) — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is studying plans to widen the Houston Ship Channel. The channel width has been 400 feet since the last widening in 1959. It narrows to 300 feet between Greens Bayou and the Turning Basin. Howard L. Heald, chief of the projects reports section of the Corps, said widening the channel to 600 feet would cost $30 million and widening it to 800 feet would cost $45 million. George W. Altwater, Port of Houston executive director, said even the $45 million figure is "dirt cheap" because the present width is inadequate for newer merchant ships. Capt. J. W. Pierson, presiding officer of the Houston Pilots Association, said the channel needs widening because of safety requirements. "If we don't, we'll have a real calamity down there one of these days," he said. Heald told the Port Safety and Advisory Council that the Corps of Engineers also is studying proposals to dredge the channel to 45 feet. The present channel depth is 40 feet but can safely accommodate ships with drafts of only 36 feet.

The advice included: secure cash, jewelry and other valuables, report suspicious characters lurking around and inform police when leaving for outstation.
