

$9.7 Billion Budget Bill Rushed To House

AUSTIN (AP) — A $9.7 billion state budget bill, which would require no new taxes to balance it with income, was formally approved today by the House Appropriations Committee.

Rep. Neil Caldwell, D-Angleton, the committee chairman, said the measure would be taken up for debate by the House April 17.

House rules require general appropriations bills to be laid out for a week before they can be considered on the floor.

The bill would spend $2 billion from general revenue in the two-year fiscal period that begins Sept. 1. This is an increase of $360 million over current general revenue expenditures. The rest of the budget comes from federal funds and earmarked state taxes.

FEDERAL FUNDS

Page-by-page consideration of the measure was completed April 1, but it took a week for the committee staff to post all the changes to the original bill and have measure printed.

Included in the bill are these major provisions:

—State employe pay raises ranging from 10.2 per cent for the lowest paid workers to 3.4 per cent for the highest in the coming year, with additional 3.4 per cent raises the following year.

—Comparable raises for non-faculty employes of state colleges and universities. Faculty members would receive 3.4 per cent increases each year, with an additional 3.4 per cent in 1975 for faculty members earning $15,000 or less.

MORE PATROLMEN

—$5.6 million for a new state program of financial assistance to kidney patients who need costly transplants, hemodialysis or other treatments.

—$28.4 million for community mental health and mental retardation programs.

—Funds to add 100 more men to the Texas highway patrol.

—$24.7 million to plan, buy and develop state parks, including historic sites and buildings.

—$6.4 million for adult and bilingual education.

—$188.9 million to operate public junior colleges.

The bill came out with orange covers, prompting Caldwell, a University of Texas alumnus, to call it "an orange and white document."

ALL OVER FOR ANOTHER YEAR—This morning's record low temperatures killed practically all of what has promised to be a bountiful fruit crop in the area. A typical example is the pear tree pictured here, grown by Jack Roberts of Rte. 1, Big Spring. He left the sprinkler on in hopes the fruit could be salvaged but the water froze. Roberts also has peach, apricot, cherry, plum, apple and pecan trees in his yard, along with grapevines. Jack Frost is no friend of the West Texas fruit grower. Invariably he comes calling without an invitation.

Insurance Bill 'Compromise' Is Announced

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe called a news conference today to announce a compromise in which he played a part—on the competitive car and home insurance rate issue.

House sponsors of a pure rate competition bill negotiated over the weekend with State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie, an advocate of strictly limited competition.

According to one source's account, Briscoe attended the talks in person. Rep. Don Cavness, D-Austin, sponsor of the race competition bill, said Briscoe only talked with those present by telephone.

"What the governor expressed to me was that he wanted a change in the law that would, within reasonable controls, allow as much flexibility to the companies as possible, with the general public getting the advantage of better rates," Cavness said.

The compromise will be laid out at Tuesday night's meeting of the House Insurance Committee, whose approval would send the measure to the House floor for action.

Committee chairman Ben Bynum, D-Amarillo, said the bill would allow insurance companies to deviate both above and below the rates set by the board each year.

Plans For Improvements To Airport Authorized

By JOHN EDWARDS

C. R. Crim, a local engineer, was authorized to prepare plans and specifications for $58,800 in Howard County Airport improvements this morning.

Half this amount is to be paid by the federal government, Crim told County Commissioners Court. Work includes fencing, lights, main runway lights and a slope indicator for the main runway.

The county has $15,000 budgeted. Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, said the rest must come from the general fund.

"When that airport goes, we go, the whole community goes with it," County Judge A. G. Mitchell commented.

A group from the Chamber of Commerce were present to see the court decide the question of airport improvements.

FAIR PLANNED

Chamber members who are organizing a Howard County Fair for Sept. 17-22 also met with the court.

The court authorized the fair association to proceed with arrangements for the fair at the county-owned fairgrounds.

County expenses may include erecting a one cable fence so cars must go through the gate for admission and outside lights.

In 1951, Howard County held its last county fair.

Johnie Walker said he and others had visited fairs at Colorado City, Lamesa and Lubbock. Also meeting with the court today were Gerald Miller, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, and Bruce Griffith, county agent.

TRAPPER DELAYS

Earl Brownrigg, county trapper, asked to be put on full-time starting Jan. 1, 1974. Sickness in his family, Brownrigg said, caused him to desire the delay.

Brownrigg now works four winter months yearly for $512 per month plus car allowance. Action on his full-time employment will be delayed until budget preparation time this summer.

The "government trapper" bagged 14 coyotes and seven bobcats during March, Commissioner Jack Buchanan said. During February and March, Brownrigg took 56 coyotes and 28 bobcats.

Brownrigg was told to keep records of both predators "furbearing" animals caught. He said skunks, racoons, foxes and possum, classified as furbearing, legally can only be killed between November and Feb. 15.

Other business included:

—Authorizing taking three informal bids on installation of two air conditioners in the show barn arena.

—Deciding to grade all Little League diamonds at one time.

—Approving payment of 20 per cent of a $25 per month increase in car allowance for Ed Cherry, juvenile probation officer. Other parts of the increase must be approved by the City Commission and Big Spring school board. With the $25, Cherry will be getting $125 per month car allowance effective April 1. Mitchell said the juvenile probation board did not want Cherry to be considered a law officer, and, therefore, proposed this increase rather than one like Sheriff A. N. Standard received for law enforcement training certification.

—Discussing repairing the vault-type door to the county clerk's office.

—Authorizing the county judge to sign a document permitting county employes to obtain cancer insurance at group rates. Shelby Read, an insurance salesman, was told to contact employes.

Guerrillas Try To Hijack Big Airliner

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Arab guerrillas blew up the Israeli ambassador's residence in the heart of Nicosia today and tried to hijack an Israeli airliner at Nicosia International Airport.

The guerillas engaged in running gun battles both outside the ambassador's residence and at the airport with Cypriot police and Israeli security guards.

A government spokesman said one Arab was killed and two were captured at the airport. A fourth Arab holed up somewhere in the airport terminal building and exchanged fire with police and troops after the incident.

One Cypriot policeman on guard outside the ambassador's residence was shot and seriously wounded by the guerrillas who planted a massive explosive charge at the front door of the three-story apartment building.

The facade collapsed. Ambassador Rahamim Timor and his family who were in their second-floor apartment escaped unhurt.

Witnesses at the airport said three Arab guerrillas in a gray car drove at high speed across the tarmac, through an open gate and, firing guns, headed toward an El Al Viscount about to take off for Israel.

The three men jumped out of their car and tried to seize the plane.

FOR A RECORD LOW Temperature Dips To 21

A record low of 21 degrees was recorded at the Big Spring Experiment Station this morning. Lowest previously recorded was 28 degrees in 1938.

The drop in temperature damaged apricots, peaches and some pecans, County Agent Bruce Griffith said.

Some of the later varieties of peach and apricot may survive. Allowing for these, Griffith believed the harvest would be light this year.

Nixon Using Base Closings List As Club?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee chairman says the White House is holding back a $1-billion list of military bases to be closed, possibly "to reward their friends or punish their enemies" in Congress.

Chairman Otis Pike, D-N.Y., of the House military-construction subcommittee said in an interview that the Pentagon months ago submitted its recommendations to the White House on which bases should be cut back.

"The decisions being made from there on," he said, "were being made on a political basis, not on the basis of national defense."

Asked if he was suggesting the White House is using the base-closing list to try to influence congressmen's votes on other issues, Pike said "that is a possibility."

"Or they may want to reward their friends or punish their enemies," he said.

Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson told congressmen last week the administration is still working on the base-closing list.

He used the same $1-billion figure that former Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird did last year for the size of the cut. But Richardson said that would be the savings over several years, not one.

Laird estimated the first year's savings at about $300 million.

Former Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard said on leaving office last year that the Pentagon could save $1 billion a year by closing unnecessary bases but that political constraints got in the way.

Shield Law In Trouble

AUSTIN (AP) — The House today rejected Senate changes in the newsmen's "shield" bill and called for appointment of a 10-man conference committee to work out a compromise.

Rep. Dave Allred, D-Wichita Falls, won a 102-41 vote to request a conference committee after the House tabled an effort to accept the Senate amendments 81-61.

Allred objected to a Senate provision that would allow the Texas Supreme court to force a newsmen to reveal information obtained in confidence or divulge the names of confidential sources.

Rep. Bob Maloney, R-Dallas, tried to persuade the House to accept the amendment, calling it "a safety valve."

"The Supreme Court would have the interest of everyone concerned when they rule on it," Maloney said.

But Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio, said that the amendment made the measure worse than no bill at all.

"The sources would be dried up... We would be deprived of information that is so necessary to the general public," Garcia said.

Earlier, the House called for compromise efforts on a firefighters' and policemen's collective bargaining bill. Senators are expected to agree to creation of a conference committee.

POISON KILLS TWO PREACHERS

NEWPORT, Tenn. (AP) — Two fundamentalist preachers died Sunday after refusing medical attention for strychnine they drank Saturday night at a religious service to test their faith, authorities said.

Sheriff Bobby Stinson said the men, the Rev. Jimmy Ray Williams, 34, of Carson Springs, Tenn., and the Rev. Buford Pack, 30, of Marshall, N.C., took the poison at the Holiness Church of God in Jesus' Name.

Stinson said members of the Newport rescue squad went to the church but persons who attended the service refused to permit Williams and Pack to be taken to a hospital.

One person who attended the service said copperhead snakes and rattlesnakes were handled by some members of the congregation. One man was reported bitten on the arm by a rattlesnake.

Poisonous snakes are sometimes handled by members of fundamentalist sects as a demonstration of faith.

Beer Can Bounced Off Man's Head

The incident occurred in the parking lot at Denney's.

BUTCHER'S CLEAVER SLOWED New Signs Appear Alongside Roasts, Chops, Drumsticks

By The Associated Press

The new signs listing meat price ceilings appeared beside roasts, chops and drumsticks today, but the butcher's cleaver may continue to spend more time than usual stuck in his chopping block.

Spot checks with leaders of last week's meat boycott indicate shoppers leaning over counters probably aren't trying to decide which cut of meat to buy but still whether to buy.

All but the smallest stores, those with annual revenues of $100,000 or less, must post clearly visible ceiling-price signs near the items covered, according to the Cost of Living Council.

Ceiling prices must be listed for each cut of fresh meat; for 25 items representing 75 per cent of sales of processed meat, such as bacon, sausage and cold cuts; and for the 10 best-selling items of canned or bottled beef, pork, lamb or stew or soup containing meat.

A shopper who thinks the posted price is illegal should check with the store's personnel, said the council. If still unsatisfied, the shopper should call the Internal Revenue Service with such data as the price asked, whether signs were posted and the name and address of the store.

If an investigation revealed a violation, the IRS could impose price rollbacks and penalties.

Although the week-long meat boycott has ended without major retail price reductions nationwide, the possibility of further consumer action is still on a front burner.

Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., said on Sunday that a meeting of 50 consumer leaders is scheduled in Washington on Wednesday to discuss follow-up action.

He said during a television interview: "My speculative guess is that there will be continuation of another week-long boycott against meat beginning midnight Saturday."

Revenue-Sharing Check $98,389

The City of Big Spring received their first revenue sharing check for 1973 this morning in the amount of $98,389 for the first quarter. They were also notified they will receive a check of equal amount on June 1.

This is more than the city had anticipated, according to Harry Nagel, city manager. They expected to have $167,474 in additional revenue sharing funds by September, but now will have $196,778 additional funds.

At the same time, the 2,030-member Consumer Federation of California, comprising 11 consumer and labor groups, called for a 15 per cent reduction of meat and poultry prices by May 1.

While the consumer leaders were giving their views, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said on NBC's "Meet the Press" that he would not support any proposals for the President to put strong controls on all food stuffs.

He would not predict when the ceilings on beef, pork and lamb might be lifted.

Family Of Freed POW Is Planning Reunion

By ANN STEVENS
"I think he was just skimming the top," said Big Spring J. O. Sheld Jr. of the tales of torture related publicly by his nephew-in-law, Lt. Col. Jerry Curtis, a former POW from Alexandria, La.
Curtis, an Air Force helicopter pilot, was freed Feb. 12 after being held captive by the North Vietnamese for seven years. He was shot down in 1965 during a mission to rescue a fellow pilot downed in mountain country.
His wife, Terry Stringer Curtis, is the niece of both Sheld and Mrs. Jim Burt of Big Spring. Mr. and Mrs. Burt are planning to attend a reunion with the Curtis and their two children next weekend near Austin.

"I just talked to them both (Terry and Jerry) on the phone yesterday," said Mrs. Burt. "Jerry said he is in real good physical health. He said it still seems like a dream that he is home."
In a recent interview with a Houston Chronicle reporter, Curtis told of the nightmares of being treated like a caged animal, of countless beatings and of the monotonous diet of boiled cabbage and boiled pumpkin.
"There was a pumpkin season and a cabbage season in North Vietnam," he said, pointing out that he could tell the time of year by the menu.
He said prisoners were "treated" to rice wine on holidays. "I had to give mine away it was so bad. It tasted like peach brandy."

After reading the Chronicle account of Curtis' treatment, Mrs. Burt said, "It didn't really surprise me at all. Maybe officer he had set out to rescue because my husband was a POW and two enlisted men joined him as cellmates."
"NOT SURPRISED"
Until the death of Ho Chi Minh in 1969, guards questioned him almost daily about military operations in the south, Curtis said, noting that after Ho's death more humane treatment was given to the prisoners.
Now spending a 60-day convalescent leave getting reacquainted with American life, the 40-year-old career officer since being freed.

Raise Of Councilmen's Pay In Austin Rejected

By The Associated Press

Tech Slates Science Meet

LUBBOCK — Research scientists, educators and persons interested in the aims and goals of all areas of science will meet at Texas Tech University April 18-21 for the 9th annual meeting of the Southwestern and Rocky Mountain Division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The four-day meeting will bring together more than 200 members of the division of the national group for an interchange of information from different scientific disciplines through the presentation of papers and discussions.
Papers will be presented in categories ranging from arid zone studies, through botanical sciences, physical sciences, social sciences, zoological sciences to science education.

Highlighting the meeting will be a symposium conducted by the division's Committee on Desert and Arid Zone Research (CODAZR) on "Environmental Quality vs. Economic Development" and the John Wesley Powell Memorial Lecture to be delivered by Dr. Katherine Esau of Santa Barbara, Calif.
National leaders and scientists in environmental studies will discuss the public's need for awareness and the approaches citizens may take toward environmental problems in the CODAZR symposium. The panel will also discuss "legal approaches to environmental quality through realistic legislation and enforcement."
Dr. Katherine Esau, professor emerita and botanist, University of California, will discuss "Exploring Plant Virus-host Cell Relations with the Electron Microscope" as the host of the Powell Memorial Lecture for the meeting. The lecture was instituted in 1929 and named for John Wesley Powell, first major explorer of the Colorado River.
The Southwestern and Rocky Mountain Division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science is one of three in the Association. Presentations of papers and discussions during the meeting will be open to the public without charge.

Local School Reaps Awards

Big Spring High School swept the annual History and Government contest held at Sul Ross State University over the weekend.
Since there is no UIL competition in history courses, Sul Ross designed a contest in American History, World History and Government which they hold each Spring.
Out of the 48 awards presented, Big Spring collected 17 of them, eight more than the closest school. For the sixth straight year, Big Spring swept the Government division of the contest.
The students take an hour-long test followed by 30 minutes to write an essay.
In Government, five places are named and five honorable mentions. Catherine Ailensworth of Big Spring was second, Martha Perry, fourth and Marie Bouldin fifth for three in the top five.
Big Spring also received honorable mentions to Pat Cox, John Holloway, Rick Lang, Paula Meek, Curtis Mulline and Susan Smith.
In world history, Big Spring honorable mentions included David Arbuckle, Bobby Bradshaw, Larry Cordes, Sonia Luis and Tonia Moore.
In American History, honorable mentions went to Tom Bidelson, Randy Schreckengost and Rita Sherrill. Sponsors were Miss Jan Breland and William Martin.

TOURIST'S VIEW OF EUROPE Oh, To Be In Paris— Now That April's There

By JOE PICKLE
PARIS — April in Paris is something special. It was for our group on the Presto tour, for we came in here just as the sycamore and chestnut trees were putting out leaves with such a delicateness of touch and color that the works of Renoir Mone and other such painters no longer seemed "textured" for effect but a reflection of the actual senses.
The tulips were in full bloom as were the forsythia (proliferate banks of it along the slopes of cuts for highways), and the cherry trees. As for all our work the weather was wonderful with nothing worse than high overcast and occasional nippy wind.

ATMOSPHERE
A last-minute switch in arrangements took us a little hotel in the heart of the city. The accommodations were hardly up to previous standards, but the location was superb. We were told that this was perhaps more typically Parisian, and most of us wouldn't take for the atmosphere in being within a block of the Arc de Triomphe. (now Charles DeGaulle Etoile (star) around the arc. The four Eiffel (we learned to say A-fel) was within a 25-minute walk. The sidewalk cafes of Avenue des Champs Elysees were just around the corner. Within minutes by Metro was the Concorde (where 2,000 Frenchmen, including Louis XVI and his queen Marie Antoinette) were beheaded during the revolution.) the adjoining Tuilleries garden, and the magnificent Palais de Louvre.

ART TREASURES
The Louvre contains 22 miles of passages, and we were told that by spending only 20 seconds in front of each display, you could do it all in six weeks. Nevertheless, it is difficult to describe your emotions at elevation is a magnificent view 5.7 miles down a trough of low land from the river to the 25-mile-wide salt water lake, which empties into the Gulf of Mexico. When completely open, the spillway will divert about a sixth of the river's flow — estimated at 1.4 million cubic feet a second between the 30-foot-high levees on both banks at New Orleans.

Action To Ease Flood Fears At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Part of the Mississippi River streamed into Big Lake Pontchartrain today to ease the strain on levees protecting New Orleans from "one of the big floods of the century."
Army Maj. Gen. Charles C. Noble, head of the Mississippi River Commission, said the opening of Bonnet Carré Spillway 33 miles above New Orleans was the first of several possible emergency moves.
"We are prepared to open additional floodways if future developments require their use," he told a group of Washington officials Sunday.
A festive crowd of about 4,000 gathered on the levee to watch Sen. Russell Long, D-La., raise the first of the spillway dam's 350 sections. The Army Corps of Engineers said all sections would be open by Wednesday.
The open sections send water while mounted, various movements similar to those performed by unmounted drill teams.
The platoons will set up operations at the center about 3 p.m., and remain on the grounds for about three hours.

Army Cavalry Unit Will Give Show Here Tuesday

The colorful Horse Cavalry Platoon from Fort Hood, Tex., will give a free demonstration at the Highland Center Shopping Center from 4 until 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.
The platoon executes a mounted demonstration of approximately half an hour in three segments: Horsemanship Drills Sabre Proficiency and Two-Man Rescue.
In the fall of 1971, the commanding general of the First Cavalry Division, Maj. Gen. James C. Smith, organized a Horse Cavalry Platoon on a volunteer basis from assets within the division.
The platoon was organized to accomplish three missions: To assist the Unit of Choice Recruiting Program carried on by the division, to enhance community relations in the Southwest and to carry on the military traditions and heritage of the cavalry.
The platoon is organized and trained according to standards prescribed in the 1883 Cavalry manual. Equipment and uniforms are authentic replicas of that issued to cavalrymen of the 1880 period.
Demonstrations of the Horse Platoon include running pistol and sabre courses and performing cavalry drills. While negotiating the pistol and sabre courses, troopers demonstrate skills that were employed by cavalrymen of the Indian Wars period. The cavalry drills require horsemen to execute,

Truck, Mail Van Collide

All kinds of public vehicles were involved in an early morning series of wrecks.
First a U.S. mail truck collided with the rear of an asphalt truck, 2 miles east of Big Spring on IS 20 at 4:30 a.m.
Glen H. Schuessler of Midland, mail truck driver, was hospitalized in Big Spring Hospital suffering from serious injuries, with cuts around the face and eyes.
Driver of the asphalt truck, which left quite a big asphalt on the highway at the scene was James Patrick Archer, Rt. 1, Big Spring.
Highway Patrolman Jimmy Parks was investigating officer. He is also investigating a second accident where city police unit was in a sideswiping accident with a truck while the city unit was en route to the wreck scene. Details of this accident are not yet available.

Beef Expert To Instruct

WESTBROOK — Dr. Flor Krebsel, beef production specialist with the Texas Education Agency and the A. & M. Department of Animal Science, will instruct a beef production short course for adult farmers Monday through Thursday.
The course is being sponsored by Westbrook High School's Agriculture Department according to an announcement by Superintendent L. M. Dawson and Kenneth Beasley, vocational ag teacher.
Dr. Krebsel has shown livestock and won many awards including championships at the Southwestern Livestock Exposition in Fort Worth and at the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City.
The short course will begin at 7:30 p.m. today in the vocational agriculture building of Westbrook High. During the four-day period, Dr. Krebsel will be available to help cattlemen with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction.
Interested cattlemen may contact Beasley to enroll in the course for which a $3 fee will be charged. Certificates will be presented to each person finishing the training.
Dr. Krebsel indicated that the course will deal with methods of producing beef at a lower cost and ways of producing the type of beef that homemakers want to buy. It will also cover reproduction topics such as pregnancy diagnosis, selecting the bull and replacement heifers.

Plagens, Wheat Are Re-Elected

GARDEN CITY — Ed Plagens and A. R. Wheat won re-election the Garden City school board Saturday.
Plagens got 102 votes, Wheat, 90 and challenger Rufus Fowler, 64. A total of about 250 votes were cast.

Houston Vandals Shut Off Power

HOUSTON (AP) — Vandals have plunged parts of Houston into darkness in the past week, Houston Lighting & Power Co. officials said, by sawing through locks on utility poles and shutting off power. Service to about 5,000 homes was interrupted during the early morning hours of several days last week, C. L. McNeese, the company's public affairs manager, said. "The actions have been irresponsible and dangerous," he said. Electricity to homes affected was restored in each incident in about an hour, McNeese said. He added that company security men were working with police in an effort to stop the vandalism.

U.S. Planes Help Get Five Ships To Isolated City

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — American warplanes pounded Communist gunners along the Mekong River helped get the first convoy through to Phnom Penh in 20 days. Three tankers and two cargo ships reached the isolated city Sunday, but two other ships were lost and 11 other captains abandoned the voyage up the river from Saigon. "Every time we slowed down they shot at us," said C.S. Lo, master of the 7,000-ton Lucky Star, the lead ship. He said U.S. planes striking as close as 1,000 feet ahead of his ship helped get the convoy through. Lo said he had made about 10 previous trips up the river, but Sunday's eight-hour journey was the worst. REDS OPEN UP The Lucky Star was hit once by a rocket that went through a bulkhead and also had several dents from bullets. Communist gunners opened up on the convoy soon after it crossed the border Sunday morning. Despite the air support and accompanying Cambodian naval gunboats, the Taiwanese freighter Ally was sunk and the Filipino tanker Mekong was set afire and left burning about four miles inside Cambodia. The fate of the crewmen on the two ships was not known in the Cambodian capital. More tankers are expected to attempt the 60-mile passage, perhaps within a week. The arrivals Sunday eased a shortage of gasoline that has resulted in long lines at filling stations. All of the major highways leading into Phnom Penh have been cut and government forces have been taking a beating from the Communist forces, particularly along the southern approaches to the capital. But a varied selection of food is available in the shops and restaurants, and there are only occasional power blackouts. Meanwhile, Gen. Alexander Haig arrived in neighboring Thailand to begin a four-day assessment for President Nixon of the situation in Indochina. He met first in Bangkok with Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, the Thai premier. Haig was to fly later today to Vientiane, the Laotian capital, and then was to visit Phnom Penh and Saigon. U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen in the United States Sunday that Haig's trip had been planned two weeks ago and did not indicate a crisis situation in Southeast Asia.

Gas Slash At Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin's natural gas supply for electrical power production has been cut back again, officials said today. Coastal States Producing Co. told the city last Monday night that Austin's gas supply for power production was being cut 50 per cent because of the cold weather over the state. City officials said the needed additional fuel to run the municipally owned electrical power plants would come from the city's supplies of fuel oil, as it has several times previously this winter. The natural gas supply for residential and business use, which comes from Southern Union Gas Co., is not affected.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief from Such Burning Itch and Pain in Many Cases.

The burning itch and pain caused by infection and inflammation in hemorrhoidal tissues can cause much suffering. But there is an exclusive formulation that in many cases gives prompt relief for hours from this itch and pain so that the sufferer is more comfortable again. It also actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation and infection. Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients in New York City, Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center reported similar successful results in many cases. This is the same medication you can buy at any drug counter under the name Preparation H. Preparation H also lubricates to protect the inflamed surface area and it doesn't sting or smart. In fact, it has very soothing qualities which make it especially helpful during the night when itching becomes more intense. There's no other formula like Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

NCO WIVES STYLE SHOW—A family-type style show, with fashions for both adults and children, was presented Friday evening by J. C. Penny and Co. at the NCO Club at Webb AFB. The NCO Wives Club sponsored the event, with its members and their children serving as models.

Gift Party Honors Bride-Elect

A bridal shower honoring Miss Bekki Goodman was held recently in the home of Miss Cindy Stanley with cohostesses being Mrs. Jan Whitehead, Miss Markay Brooks, Miss Debbie Bennett, Miss Nona Miller and Miss Debbie Buita of Midland.

Miss Goodman and Randy Thornhill will be married May 5 in Trinity Baptist Church.

The honoree, attired in a white pantsuit with pink silk blouse, was presented a pink pompon corsage, and corsages of pink pansies were presented to her mother, Mrs. Frank Goodman, and her grandmothers, Mrs. Clyde Nations.

The refreshment table was covered with a pink cloth and centered with a miniature tree accented with pink pansies and small kitchen items. The centerpiece was flanked by white milk glass candelabra.

Cookies Go To State Hospital

Eighteen dozen cookies, will be made and delivered to Big Spring State Hospital this week by members of the Airport Home Demonstration Club. The plans were made when the club held its first meeting of the month in the home of Mrs. Taty Parker, 1405 Mt. Vernon.

Women Explore "Relationships"

"Cultivate Happy Family Relationships" was the study topic introduced by Mrs. Roy Southard Thursday for the Parish Workers of St. Paul Lutheran Church. The women met in the home of Mrs. John Foster and welcomed a guest, Mrs. Norman Backs.

Mrs. August Graumann presented a mission board report, noting that six hospital calls were made locally during March. Mrs. Halvard Hansen was in charge when members served cake and coffee today at the Veterans Administration Hospital. Also, the workers will bake and deliver 12 dozen cookies to the Big Spring State Hospital the fourth Tuesday of May, July, September and November.

Carlos E. Asay, Morman mission director, will be guest speaker at the next meeting, May 3, in the home of Mrs. Moran Opegaard, 2700 Navajo. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

'30's Return In Fashion

The long waistline is back and is emphasized with blouson tops and dresses, all reminiscent of the 1930s.

'Matrons' Meet At Breakfast

Spring flowers in shades of purple and red decorated tables when the Past Matrons Club of Coahoma held a 9 a.m. breakfast Saturday at Coker's Restaurant.

Hostesses were Mrs. O. A. Maddison of Coahoma and Mrs. Gerald Oakes of Midland. The invocation was by Mrs. Melvin Tindle.

Mrs. Tom Barber presided during a brief business session.

The next breakfast meeting will be held May 5 with Mrs. Dewitt Shive and Mrs. Carl Bates as hostesses.

Equal Rights Amendment Is Big Issue In Legislatures

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution is a big issue in state legislatures throughout the nation. Arguments mount whether ERA will help women achieve the equality with men some feel is denied them or whether it will actually be a blow to women. In the following, a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, which has passed the amendment, tells why she is for ERA, while a Tennessee legislator tells why he is leading a fight to have the state legislature rescind its ratification.

By STATE SEN. BROWN AYRES

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — I have reservations about some of the implications of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. A small minority of Women's Lib activists have pressed for passage of this amendment without shedding light on many of the problems that would arise.

Some legal problems connected with this proposal, as with any constitutional amendment, have not had a chance to be fully aired. The ERA would abolish hundreds of state and federal laws dealing with many topics, including marriage, child support, inheritance and industrial relations.

I am in favor of equal treatment of women, equal pay, equal rights, but this proposed ERA cannot be compared to the 19th Amendment ratified in 1920 which gave women the right to vote.

The purpose and intent of that amendment was clear, concise and incapable of being misunderstood. The legal effects of the ERA, unlike the 19th Amendment, are not so clear.

One legal complication would be in Social Security. Women may now retire at 62 and men at 65, but with the passage of ERA the distinction must fall.

Another legal complication is the way child support and alimony laws will be affected. Opponents of the ERA claim it will make every wife in the United States legally responsible for providing 50 per cent of the financial support for her family.

Advocates of the measure cite the trend in divorce courts across the country in awarding little or no alimony and smaller payments for child support. This is true because more young women are working these days and are able to meet these responsibilities. But what about the women who are not working, who through their married life have not chosen to work?

Often these women are not specially trained or lacked adequate skills and find it difficult to obtain jobs.

Tennessee and most states have provided for this contingency with alimony and child support laws. But if ERA is adopted, it will become the supreme law of the land, and any lesser law in conflict with it must fall.

This is the heart of my reservations — the relation between the state laws and the federal Constitution. The Tennessee Legislature has provided for support of non-working mothers who need alimony in order to live and raise children.

By enacting this amendment to the U.S. Constitution, the legislature, in effect, will take this matter out of state hands. It becomes a constitutional issue to be decided by the federal courts.

Alimony insures these women will be cared for and will not be reduced to going on welfare and becoming a ward of the state.

I might also point out laws pertaining to domestic relations — marriage, divorce, etc. — are in the sole jurisdiction of state courts now and in the past federal courts have declined to enter this arena.

I would cite other examples: protective inheritance laws giving widows homestead rights, protective laws in industry. I feel our legislature should have the chance to re-examine these problems more at length and reconsider our action of last year.

By STATE REP. LOIS PINES

BOSTON (AP) — The Equal Rights Amendment would eliminate the problems of a current haphazard approach to ending sex discrimination. Now each state legislature must deal with each of the areas of sex discrimination on a piecemeal basis.

There are numerous instances every day of inequality in the treatment of women. Without the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, this will continue.

The amendment would force all state legislatures to address themselves to providing equality under the law now.

For 50 years we've talked about an equal rights amendment and still sex discrimination exists. It exists in the areas of property rights, credit, education, employment, public accommodations, housing, even in our court system. In some states women don't sit on juries.

In Massachusetts, women with children under the age of 16 are automatically exempt from serving on juries. These kinds of abuses would be eliminated under the Equal Rights Amendment.

We can see by the actions of various state legislatures in their rejection of the constitutional amendment that some individuals don't really believe women should be treated equally. I'm very disappointed by Maine's rejection of the amendment. If equality is one of the basic concepts on which our country was founded, I think it's critical that we include this provision in our Constitution.

I am actively involved in securing passage of an equal rights amendment for Massachusetts so that regardless of what happens on a federal level, we will be able to assure women in the Commonwealth that they will be able to be treated equally without regard to sex.

I think that the country as a whole has suffered greatly as a result of centuries of sex discrimination. We discourage women from becoming involved in running their country. We discourage them from seeking higher education. We discourage them from pursuing careers and top-level decision-making positions.

We have lost immeasurably in terms of human resources.

Our country's most vital asset is our human resources, and we have consistently discouraged full development of those resources by not providing equal opportunity for all. Passage of the Equal Rights Amendment would encourage women to participate in government, to pursue their career interests and to contribute to the fullest extent of their abilities to American society.

The loss of this resource is, in my opinion, criminal.

If we don't pass the Equal Rights Amendment now, it may be another 50 years before each state will get around to eliminating inequality in its laws.

The country cannot wait that long. Sex discrimination must not continue to pervade our culture.

Date The Rejects

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My assets: I am 18, have long blonde hair, blue eyes, am 5 feet 3, with measurements of 37-26-38. I graduated from high school with honors. I own over $700 worth of jewelry (gifts from my parents), a stereo, a color TV, and a closet full of beautiful clothes.

I got my driver's license and am given the use of the family car whenever I want it.

I've gone steady six times, have received five class rings, a bracelet, a necklace, a sweetheart ring, five and a half dozen roses, two boxes of candy and many, many love letters.

Now, why am I miserable? I'll tell you why. Because I live in a small town, and I mean really small, and there is no one to date. I've gone through 40 boys in 2 1/2 years! I found only one that I wanted to keep. And he didn't want ME!

I'm not stuck up, but I'm never satisfied with anything. As soon as I get it I don't want it. I'm proud of the fact that I've never gone all the way.

All my friends have dates, but I don't have anyone and I'm so jealous I could die. Please help me.

DEAR WALLFLOWER: (You sound more like a tiger lily to me.) Unless some new talent comes to town, you had better start reading some of your rejects. Perhaps when you look at them through more mature eyes, they'll look better to you. And you to them.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a 46-year-old widow who has been seeing a very nice man her age for four months. My older brother thinks Mamma is being disloyal to Dad, who has been dead for a year. My brother says "Mamma's lived her life."

Abby, Mamma raised nine kids practically single-handed. Dad got sick seven years ago. The last three he hardly left his bed and Mamma nursed him like a baby, knowing it was just a matter of time and he'd die. The last year was awful, but Mamma never complained and she did all she could to make Dad happy and comfortable.

My brother says Mamma should have respected the memory of Dad enough to stay home for a whole year and wear black. I say Mamma is entitled to as much happiness as she can get now. How can I convince my brother that he is wrong? ON MAMMA'S SIDE

DEAR ON: You may not be able to. But don't worry about it. Your mother did all she could for your father while he was alive, and any happiness she finds now she's earned.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 63700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ108 ♥7 ♦KJ73 ♣A954

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—While we are normally disinclined to permit the opponents to play a hand at one, in this case we believe that a pass is clearly indicated. The opponents are playing at your best suit, and it may prove that if you give them another chance the opener might be in a position to show a second suit in hearts.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠QJ9764 ♥2 ♦53 ♣AKQ6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ 2 ♥ 2 ♠ 3 ♥

What do you bid now?

A.—On the basis of values held, a four spade bid is indicated. However, for strategic purposes we recommend a bid of four clubs. This is to elicit the best opening lead from partner if the opponent should subsequently go to five hearts as a sacrifice bid.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠KJ102 ♥QJ ♦J9 ♣AKQJ2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♦ Pass 2 ♣ Pass

2 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

3 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's rebid of two hearts is known to the trade as a "reverse bid" and designates a powerful holding for, after this bid, responder, if he wished to return to diamonds, would have to climb to the three level. When North subsequently jumped to three no trump, he indicated that his values were principally high cards, that he had more than a mere 19. You have 18 high card points, which means the opponents will be lucky to have as much as a queen, and a bid of seven no trump is in order.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A ♥42 ♦QJ1043 ♣QJ742

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♠ Dble. ?

What do you bid?

A.—This is rather a good holding opposite an opening bid and contains sufficient high card values to warrant a redouble, but such a call is not the preferred strategy with this type of hand. My policy in all doubtful cases is to act at once. A pass amounts to burying your head in the sand. The suggested call is an immediate bid of two diamonds, and it is likely that you will have an opportunity to show the other suit at a reasonable level, giving a reasonably accurate description of your hand.

Q. 5 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQJ84 ♥KQ1063 ♦AQ ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite the fact that partner may have a relatively weak hand, you should insist upon a game contract. The recommended call is three hearts. This hand has an original valuation of 20 points and partner has promised at least six in high cards, so that enough values are on hand for a game.

Q. 6 — Partner opens with heart and you hold:

♠Q8432 ♥A104 ♦K95 ♣83

What is your response?

A.—Two hearts. This hand is not strong enough to justify two forward moving bids. In support of hearts, it is worth only nine points and, therefore, comes within the limit of a single raise.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠102 ♥AK1084 ♦K94 ♣J83

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♠

1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Partner's free bid of one no trump indicates a good hand which should normally measure 16 points. Your hand contains 11 which is sufficient for a game contract.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, partner opens with one diamond and you hold:

♠K964 ♥AQ10 ♦1094 ♣AK4

What is your response?

A.—Our preference is for a complete descriptive bid all at one shot. Such a bid is three no trump. This hand is evenly balanced and contains 16 points in high cards. We would, therefore, choose to suppress the one-over-one response even if it happens to be a major suit. The reason is that, even if partner happens to have four spades, this hand with double stoppers in both the other suits might play just as well at no trump.

If Jane Fonda Of Red Viet, Ex-POW To Buy Her Ticket

CALDWELL, Kan. (AP) —

Former prisoner of war Capt. William R. Schwertfeger says if actress Jane Fonda likes North Vietnam so well, he'll personally buy her a ticket to get there.

Schwertfeger's comment was in response to a statement by Miss Fonda that prisoners of war probably weren't treated too badly by the North Vietnamese, who Schwertfeger said "have no concept of freedom."

He spoke to about 600 persons at a ceremony Sunday welcoming him back to his hometown in South Central Kansas. A native of Medford, Okla., just across the state line, Schwertfeger moved here with his wife and child before going to Vietnam.

His Air Force jet was downed over North Vietnam in February 1972.

He asked the crowd to remember the POWs who haven't yet returned home. He spoke of families of men still missing in action, saying, "They have no hope. They need the prayers of each and every one of you. Those men have given up their lives for something they thought was right and I would have given up mine too."

Schwertfeger said he was tortured one time when the North Vietnamese tried to extract information from him about weapons being used by the United States. He said he gave them false information and they apparently believed him because the torture was discontinued.

Can your cigarette pass these 5 simple tests?

If you've ever had second thoughts about the brand of cigarette you smoke, here's a quick way to find out if it really delivers what you want.

These five simple tests will tell you a lot about quality, freshness, and taste.

And if you make these tests with a Winston, they'll tell you why Winston smokers can point to their brand and say, "How good it is!"

Test #1 Sniff It

Take a whiff of the tobacco. Does it smell rich and fresh and appealing? If your cigarette is Winston, you'll recognize the aroma of costly Vintage Leaf Tobaccos. Winston chooses the most nearly perfect leaves money can buy. Then we age these rare tobaccos in wooden casks. We do it for the same reason you'd age a fine wine. Aging makes our tobaccos mellow and brings out that extra dimension of natural goodness.

Test #2 Feel It

Roll the cigarette in your hand. Pinch it slightly. Does it feel stale? A cigarette that's been waiting in a warehouse, or on a shelf, can lose some of its freshness. And some of its taste. But, because Winston sells so fast, every pack comes to you fresh. The fact is, on any given day, Winston is likely to be the freshest cigarette your money can buy.

Test #3 Take a puff... before lighting

Take a puff — without lighting it. That's a good way to learn about the tobacco and the filter. If you can taste the tobaccos without lighting up, you know there's richness up front. And that the filter doesn't get in the way of the taste. Winston's exclusive Filter-Blend, a top-secret blend of different tobaccos, works with Winston's modern white filter to deliver satisfying taste in every puff.

Test #4 Light It

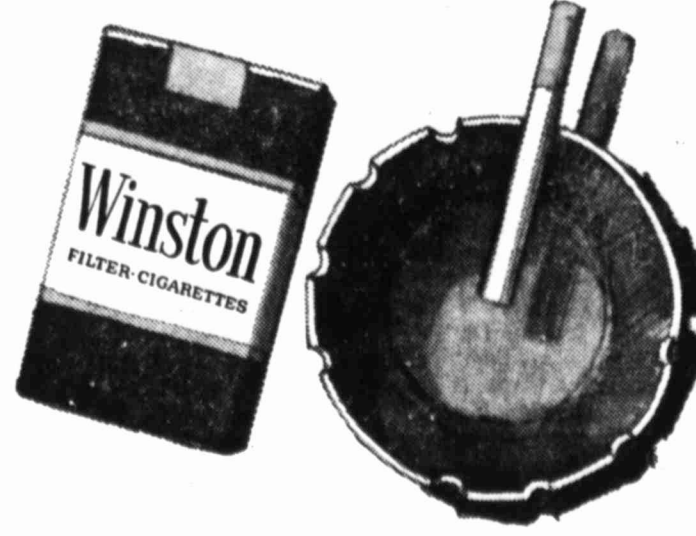

Does it burn evenly? Here's a critical test of the way your cigarette is made. A cigarette rolled fresh, packed full and made with care will burn evenly, draw easily. Winston always does. How does your brand shape up?

Test #5 Smoke It

What could be simpler? That's the real test of a cigarette. Can it deliver good taste and real satisfaction every time you light up? Winston can. Ask a Winston smoker. Any time. He'll tell you in four simple words: How good it is.

Ask a Winston smoker. He'll tell you

HOW GOOD IT IS.

'POWER OF THE PURSE'

Congress Ready, Able To Battle White House

By JOHN BECKLER

Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Among achievements with which history may credit President Nixon is one he probably would rather do without: a strengthened Congress, ready and able to battle the White House.

It hasn't happened yet. But under the goad of Nixon's policies, Congress is rousing from its long slumber and showing signs that it means to re-establish itself as an equal branch of government.

The continued bombing of Cambodia is producing a serious effort in Congress to find a way to curb the President's war-making power.

IMMEDIATE ISSUE

It is trying to broaden its powers over the presidential treaty-making and appointment functions, and it is reasserting its right to initiate legislation rather than waiting for drafts of bills to be sent up by the White House.

But by far the most significant struggle between Nixon and Congress is over the power to spend the federal dollar. Its outcome will strongly influence the future relationship between the executive and legislative branches.

The immediate issue involves billions of dollars Congress has appropriated for programs it has enacted but which Nixon has refused to spend. Impoundment is the term for what Nixon is doing, and although it has been practiced by presidents for 170 years, it has now become a dirty word on Capitol Hill.

IMPOUNDMENT

The Senate passed a bill last week that would prevent a president from impounding funds without congressional approval, and similar legislation is under consideration in the House.

What has stirred Congress to such activity is the nature of Nixon's impoundments. Previous presidents have withheld funds mainly in the area of national defense where, as commander-in-chief, they have clearer authority. But Nixon has concentrated on domestic programs.

"Impoundment goes to the very heart of the doctrine of separation of powers," Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chief sponsor of the Senate-passed bill, said during last week's debate.

FEDERAL SPENDING

But the President and his spokesmen say the Constitution and other laws passed by Congress give Nixon wide discretionary powers to achieve efficiency and economy in government and to combat inflation. Nixon also has charged repeatedly that Congress has shown itself to be incapable of controlling federal spending, making it necessary for him to act.

It is in response to that charge that Congress is taking the most significant steps in its efforts to assert the "power of the purse" that the Constitution gives it. It has established a Joint House-Senate Committee on Budget Control that is due this week to recommend a procedure designed to give Congress an equal role with the president in drawing up a budget and setting the spending priorities within it.

Giant Footsteps

Now that some of the shock of the sudden death of Robert W. Whipkey has passed, it is possible for us to speak more dispassionately about his contribution to the Herald and to Big Spring.

Few, if any, men have influenced the progress and the character of the community as he did. There are relatively few institutions in which he was not involved personally or indirectly. Even a mere catalogue fills a column of space, and yet, the significant thing is that he was not just a joiner but an active participant. Whatever he put himself to, he did with unreserved energy and determination. He personally raised thousands upon thousands of dollars for deserving humanitarian projects and furnished leadership in raising hundreds of thousands dollars more. It is not an exaggeration to say that many of the institutions here owe their survival to his direct and indirect efforts.

To understand the magnitude of his influence, it is well to note his family background — a father of the old school of weekly newspapermen and a proud craftsman; a radiant mother from whom he must have gained some of his deep sense of civic responsibility to others and to his deep Christian ethic; and his devoted wife and confidant who sustained him, and from whom he drew strength.

Robert W. Whipkey was first of all a newspaperman; he could have asked for no higher appellation than that he was a good newspaperman. The many tributes that the Herald received from the trade over the years are a reflection of his skill learned at the feet of such great teachers as the late Max Bentley, his first editor, Bernard Hanks and Houston Harte, founders of what is now Harte-Hanks, Inc. Their philosophies squared with its own — that the first obligation of a newspaper was not to make a lot of money, but first of all attempt earnestly to be a good, and hopefully a better, newspaper than even the field justified.

The Herald's standing and fortunes were at low ebb when he came here in 1935. Not only did the circulation multiply by almost 10 times during his tenure, but the Herald made progressive changes into new homes three times as an expression of its faith in the community it served. From a position as a temporary managing editor when he started, he soon became editor and publisher. Service in the U.S. Navy interrupted his work, but when he returned in 1946 he was better equipped for a role of leadership to which he gave himself his own physical harm. Always, he was interested in a better quality product, and in a voice of leadership to help build up and advance the community.

Finally, his highest sense of responsibility was for the Herald Staff — which was the "Family" that he and Ruby had. It would be less than truthful to say that he never lost an even demeanor, but when he did explore said something incisive, he was openly or secretly stricken with remorse, and he was generous to a fault in his consideration to his co-workers.

When it came time for him to retire — which he did several months ahead of schedule because he felt that it would not be wise for the company to invest a lot of training in him mastering a new system which a successor would be obliged to almost immediately repeat, he called in his department heads, to break the news. He wept; and so did we; and so do we now again.

This is "30" for the mortal body of Robert West Whipkey; it is the "lead" of the story of a life that goes on living.

Congress Holds Key

An effort to avoid what may be turbulent legislative going failed Monday in the quest for Alaskan oil deliverable in the U.S. The Supreme Court said, in effect, that the 1920 Mineral Leasing Act is constitutionally adequate and, thus, the court may not amend it. That is strictly congressional business.

That 1920 law limits rights-of-way to 54 feet in width. Proposed Alaskan pipeline demands are greater than that.

The court's cogent comments included: "We have no more power to grant their (pipeline companies) request (for wider rights-of-way), of course, than we have the power to increase congressional appropriations to needy recipients."

The pipeline is the point where environmentalists and industrialists meet. They can resolve their differences. Technology can produce a pipeline compatible with the environment. That is what ought to be done next, with a little help from Congress on rights-of-way.

Favored States?

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

I see where one John Berendt has updated a list assembled by the late H. L. Mencken and attempted to rate the "best" and "worst" states in which to live.

NO STATES in the South are listed among the top 14. Texans will, no doubt, be amused if not angered to learn their commonwealth is ranked no better than 41st among the 50.

Connecticut, because of its accessibility to New York, no doubt, is rated No. One, followed by Minnesota and New York, in that order.

Then comes Illinois, Massachusetts, Hawaii, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, California and Utah to round out the top 10.

Maryland is generally regarded as a Southern state (although it is both east and north to a Southerner). It is 15th, behind Iowa, Washington, Michigan and New Jersey, which head the second 10.

Following Maryland on the "second 10" are Delaware, Oregon, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Pennsylvania.

ALASKA IS 30th on the list, ahead of such Southern worthies as Florida (34th), Virginia (35th), Tennessee (38th), Louisiana (43rd), Georgia (44th), Alabama (47th), and Mississippi, which has to fight the rear guard action.

Obviously, Berendt, who couldn't have strayed very far from New York and environs, rates the state on gross family income and availability of television programs and the legitimate theater. Urban blight was considered in the final decisions, too.

A LARGE number of people living in the East and North retire without leaving their block. I'm sure, because of economic restriction but more than a few depart, after hitting their last licks at work, for the South, South-west and Far West.

I can count on my fingers, however, the Southerners, Southwesterners and Far Westerners who have turned themselves out to pasture who deliberately move North or East.

GRANTED THAT New York and Chicago are good places to earn one's bread, not many migrants from the gentler climes want to live in either place.

Are you really living if you arise before dawn in Connecticut to catch a train to go to work in New York and disembark from another train after night has fallen on the return trip?

Brokers' Blues

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The securities industry is growing increasingly distressed about the decline in share ownership and trading activity by individual investors, whose numbers had doubled in the decade of the 1960s.

The concern is shown in advertising programs, in statements by stock exchange officials and in testimony before congressional committees, where the industry hopes to win backing for investor tax incentives.

THE PEOPLE whose business is now being sought include small investors, the very ones that many brokers turned down in recent years because of heavy volume and the feeling that small accounts failed to pay their way.

As a result, many individual investors took their money elsewhere. For the 12-month period ended in mid-March, share-owner population declined by about 800,000, the first such drop since the mid-1940s.

The loss is being felt not only in brokers' pocketbooks but in the functioning of the markets, where activity on some days is made up largely of institutional trading. There exists a serious loss of liquidity.

A market is liquid when buy and sell orders are easily matched because there is an abundance of traders. In a liquid situation, buy and sell orders are matched without sharp price changes.

Institutions, however, trade many thousands of shares at a time, and it is sometimes impossible to match buyers and sellers quickly without permitting prices to rise or drop sharply.

THE EVIDENCE is seen daily in stock price listings.

James Needham, New York Stock Exchange chairman, concedes the liquidity problem. "The securities markets need the individual investor, both small and large," he said in commenting on declining share ownership.

Needham is among securities industry spokesmen who have testified, or plan to testify, before the House Ways and Means Committee, seeking legislation to make share ownership more attractive.

While couching their testimony in idealistic terms, the motive of industry spokesmen is at least partly that of self-survival. The NYSE claims the nation's economic and social objectives require broad ownership — but so do the goals of stock exchanges and their members.

Another concern increasingly expressed is that the capital needs of American corporations might not be met in future years unless investors are provided with more encouragement.

One of Needham's proposals, which are similar in some ways to others presented or planned for presentation, is to increase to $200 from $100 the dividend income exclusion on income tax returns.

HE WOULD ALSO permit commissions paid on purchases and sales to be treated as deductions against ordinary income. At present, such commissions cannot be deducted, a rule Needham considers illogical.

A third proposal would permit a limited tax deduction for individuals who buy stock as part of a personal pension plan, providing they are not adequately covered by employer-sponsored plans.

Another widely sponsored proposal, offered by Needham and others, would tax capital gains on securities at a rate that would decline with the length of time the securities are held.

MANY INVESTORS are believed to be locked into stocks in which they have big gains, these securities leaders feel, because to sell would be to incur too large a tax bite. This, they say, damages capital mobility. You might add that it hurts commissions too.

The chairman's thesis, it appears, is that the individual investor is needed for the functioning of free enterprise, by the corporations which need liquidity, by the exchanges which need liquidity, by the brokers who need commissions.

The oft-scorned individual investor ought not to forget it.

Rocky's Road

Marquis Childs

NEW YORK — We've got to start getting revved up in September, and by the first of the year we should be in high gear. This is the word circulating through the remarkable political organization Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has perfected as he prepares to run for a fifth term.

WHEN HE finishes his fourth term he will have served longer than any Governor of any state. If present soundings prove out, there is no reason why he should not have another four years in the Governor's chair in Albany. One reason is the disarray of the Democrats, with no opponent visible on the 1974 horizon.

At one point Mayor John V. Lindsay may have thought of opposing his enemy. The other day with great bitterness Lindsay said to a reporter: "Why don't you ever write the truth about Nelson? He has a personal net worth of $1.25 billion. So why shouldn't he spend $15 million of his own money to get elected?"

THERE IS no doubt that a great deal of Rockefeller money, both from the Governor's personal fortune and from members of his clanish, loyal family, has gone to fertilize the Rockefeller organization. One inside estimate is that the 1970 campaign cost nearer $20 million than $15 million. The governor's stepmother, the late Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., made a contribution of $1.4 million and, in an exceptional exercise of honesty in these matters, paid a gift tax on it of $900,000.

WITH SOME glaring exceptions Rockefeller has been a good governor. In the cynical view prevailing in the era of the politics of big money he is so rich he doesn't need graft. So far as an outside observer can tell, his has been a clean administration. His veto of the bill passed by the legislature repealing New York's liberalized abortion law was a courageous affirmation of the right of the individual.

AS THE revving up begins, what the governor is saying seems to belie what he has been doing. His proposal recently that all drug pushers, whatever the seriousness of their offense, their age or previous record, be sentenced to life imprisonment without parole must be taken as a political ploy. It is politically motivated, in the tough law-and-order context. But as was shown in the fumbling way the Attica Prison revolt was handled, prisons and crime are the governor's weak point.

With their acutely turned antennae, both these highly successful politicians know that a tough line on law-and-order is strongly supported by the great silent majority.

TODAY THE governor's return to office next year seems so assured that political ploys are not only superfluous but a serious impediment to future action that might be contrary to political pronouncements. Inside observers here do not write off Rockefeller's hopes to run again for the presidency in 1976.

Are You Going Up Or Down?

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is an elevator.

Are you going up or down? Your status rarely if ever remains stationary. The main thing is, it is highly important to know which direction it is going.

If it is going up, all you have to do is keep up the good work. If it is going down, it becomes immediately imperative to take corrective steps.

How can you determine your real prestige in a society in which even your best friend won't tell you that you have had breath?

Well, there are ways. For example, you need worry no further about your status if —

Your neighbors band together and throw a block party once a month in your honor.

Every time you drive up to your supermarket the manager rolls out a red carpet to your car door.

The barbershop where you get your hair cut keeps a special chair with your name on it.

A genealogical society writes to tell you that they have discovered that you are the legitimate heir of a European royal family.

When you play golf at your club, the caddy asks you for your autograph.

You own your own pro football team during practice sessions, and you play quarter-back during practice sessions.

Bartenders at two places have named drinks after you.

Yes, big boy, if these things are true about you, you're in pretty solid.

But how do you tell when your prestige is slipping?

Well, maybe it's about time you resigned from the human race if —

Your smartest son is caught stealing a second-hand 1962 Volkswagen.

Both Republican and Democratic political workers ask you to vote in the other party's primary.

When you go into a liquor store for a bottle, the owner automatically reaches for the musical wine.

Every dog in the neighborhood can whip your dog — even in his own front yard.

The local state unemployment office votes you a gold star for having the best attendance record of any applicant in the last 10 years.

But cheer up, man. There is only one way left for you to go. It has to be up.

Letter To The Editors

Dear Editor:

I am seeking information about Art Names. During the 1930's and 1940's he operated a traveling tent show which I think played in this area. I am searching for information about him and his show with the ultimate hope of writing his biography. I would like to hear from anyone who knew him who would be willing to correspond with me about their memories. I would also like to hear from anyone who might have pictures, letters, poems, or other memorabilia about Art Names or his troupe.

Promises, Promises, Promises

"I am a believing, God-fearing Christian," George assured Kathy repeatedly during their courtship. But after the wedding, he confessed that he had been lying. He had been an atheist all the time.

TO KATHY, a devoutly religious woman, the situation was unbearable. As soon as possible she went to court for an annulment, and the judge granted her a decree. The judge said the marriage lacked the "meeting of the minds" that was essential to make any contract binding.

While the law will tolerate a reasonable amount of "salesmanship" in courting, it will not tolerate deception that strikes at the heart of the marriage relation.

HOWEVER, not every statement connected with religious matters is considered to be that vital.

Take another case in which the bridegroom, having promised to go through a church wedding after the civil ceremony, failed to carry out his promise. For five months he managed to find one excuse after another for staying away from the church.

At last his wife filed suit for an annulment. But this time, the court turned her down. The court reasoned that if she was willing to put up with her husband's excuses for five months, the religious ceremony could not have been so important to her after all.

OF COURSE, the more firmly the marriage is established, the more reluctant the courts are to annul.

A number of cases have been based on the premarital consent by one spouse to have the children raised in the religion of the other spouse. In this situation, even if the consent turns out to be fraudulent, courts have generally refused to find enough grounds for an annulment.

REASON: with the couple having dwelt together for years as husband and wife, and with children already in existence, it is very late indeed to declare that the marriage had been invalid from the start.

Psychological Evaluation

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 15-year-old son has become a behavioral problem not only to our family but to others he associates with.

Presently he is in the sixth grade in public school. We have had several discussions with his teacher and she is convinced that he is lazy and inattentive.

My wife and I are bewildered by his inability to perform as effectively as he's capable of doing. As concerned parents, should we place him in a private school? If this is possible, could you recommend a facility? — D. G.

I don't expect to be able to give you a complete answer to a problem as complicated as this, but perhaps can help you simplify.

Since his problem exists not only at school but with (apparently) everybody, then don't expect changing schools to be a solution.

I DO suggest this: get a psychological evaluation of the boy. The school system may be able to refer you to a suitable clinic to do this. (His hearing and vision should be evaluated as well.)

Or, in many cities by all means, see if there isn't a child guidance clinic, which can help you identify his problem and advise you how to go about handling it.

Children's hospitals often have departments devoted to such problems as these (but there isn't much time left, as your boy is close to the upper age limit at which such hospitals accept new patients).

Finally, the major medical centers have facilities, too. A psychiatric examination may very well be the best possible way of helping your son. And before you snap my head off with a reply that "he isn't crazy," remember that while psychiatry does indeed deal with psychotic (mentally unbalanced) patients, that isn't its sole interest. Its goal is helping anyone who has difficulty adjusting to life's problems. Obviously that fits your son. So get some skilled help for him rather than hoping that a "private school" is going to solve things.

QuEbec (AP) — There were 23.6 million chickens and hens in Quebec as of June 1, 1972, an increase of 2.8 per cent over the previous year, the statistics bureau said.

MY ANSWER

Billy Graham

I wrote you before about a drinking problem and you helped me. Now I have another. It's just that I enjoy going to the racetracks and betting on the horses. My wife says it's a sin. What do you think?

P.T. I suspect your wife's judgment that your present problem is a sin comes from matters you fail to mention. Do you come in first or last, for example, on issues like these: sufficient money for household expenses or adequate time spent with your family? The trait of gambling is never found in isolation. It has its own special stable of related vices.

Now, you didn't say whether you are a believer in Christ or not. That is important for my next statement. You see, the Bible teaches that we are to be stewards or managers of all we have — our time, our money, our talent, everything. No one has ever declared that a gambler is a good manager. All I have ever read of the racetrack is that it is structured in favor of the operators. The chances for you to make it repeatedly profitable are astronomically low.

Furthermore, it's wrong psychologically, because it can become addictive. It must be that way for you already, if you brand it as a problem.

There is a much easier way to find enjoyment and to pay the bills. It's called "work" and "trusting God."

A Devotion For Today . . .

God is love. (I John 4:8)

PRAYER: Dear Father, You are the source of all beauty and love. Help us to open our hearts to You in our daily lives. In the name of the Master, who teaches us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

UNDOUBTEDLY ONE OF RICHEST ARTISTS WHO EVER LIVED

Art Lovers Mourn Pablo Picasso, Dead At 91

MOUGINS, France (AP) — 50 years his prices rose steadily. Art lovers around the world today saluted the genius of Pablo Picasso, dead at 91 after one of the most notable and influential careers in the history of painting.

The Spanish-born revolutionary who changed the course of 20th century art died Sunday at his walled estate overlooking the Mediterranean. Death was attributed to a heart attack brought on by collection of fluid in the lungs.

NO ARRANGEMENTS
Picasso's widow and his eldest son were discussing funeral plans with Armande Antebay, the artist's business manager and an old friend. But Antebay told newsmen nothing probably would be decided today.

The body was reported lying in the artist's upstairs bedroom. Picasso had been reported in good health and working with his usual zest despite recurrent attacks of gripe during the winter. He recently completed arrangements for the showing in Avignon next month of all his paintings produced since 1970, a total of 210 canvases.

Saturday night, the artist and his wife, Jacqueline, entertained friends at dinner. Picasso was reported in high spirits, eating heartily and entertaining his guests with stories. After the guests left, he went to his studio to work.

CALLED DOCTOR
When he awoke Sunday morning, he complained of a pain and his wife called a doctor. But by the time he arrived 10 minutes later, Picasso was dead.

Picasso died among one of the greatest troves of 20th century art ever amassed in private hands. He was the greatest collector of his own works, releasing only a small part of his prolific production for sale. Hundreds of these paintings and drawings were stacked away in a strongroom built into his two-story home. He kept the key to the room himself, and only a few outsiders ever had a look at his hoard. What disposition he made of his collection in his will was not known yet.

Estimates of Picasso's wealth were considered the wildest sort of guesswork, but he was undoubtedly one of the richest artists who ever lived, and probably the richest. He was selling enough of his work to live comfortably in Paris by the time he was 30, and in the last

Workman Holds PCA Conclave

Western Production Credit Association officials go to Houston April 12 for the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank's annual meeting and 50th anniversary celebration at the Houston Oaks Hotel.

PCA board member participants include George Clark of Odessa and Joe Lee McMahon of Verhalen.

David K. Workman of Stanton, PCA president, will accompany them.

A congressman, governor and president highlight the Houston bank's meeting program. Workman pointed out. Speakers include Rep. John Melcher, D-Montana, a member of the House Committee on Agriculture; E. A. Jaenke, governor, Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D.C.; and W. H. Calkins, president, Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston.

Workman said the more than 500 meeting participants represent Texas organizations which obtain their loan funds from the FICB of Houston. These organizations last year made loans to Texas farmers and ranchers totaling more than $1.3 billion.

Western PCA makes loans to agricultural producers in Andrews, Crane, Culberson, Ector, El Paso, Glasscock, Howard, Hudspeth, Winkler, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Reagan, Reeves, Upton, and Ward counties.

Landfill Trash Catches Fire

Somebody accidentally set the Big Spring landfill on fire Sunday.

Although the fire boys have tried to extinguish it, it continues to burn since "a ditch full of trash is difficult to put out, and keep out," a spokesman said.

Whoever lit the thing is violating all of the state pollution laws, the spokesman added.

No Discrimination By Local Thief

Ronnie Clanton of 407 11th said that the thieves who came to his house believed in women's rights. They stole both a boy's bicycle and a girl's bicycle at the same address.

CHILD GENIUS
Born in Malaga, on the south coast of Spain, Picasso was a child genius who seemed to never stop imagining new ways to present his universe. He mastered representational art, invented cubism to give a new dimension of painting, then turned to distortion, with the face and body taken apart and then reassembled in accordance with his own vision. Despite the wide appeal of his representational work in his Blue and Rose periods, it is the distortions that the public generally associates with his name.

NEW VIEW
Picasso's new view of his subjects led to vehement criticism and controversy. His paintings were called ugly and unworthy of the word art. The artist had an answer: "Everyone wants to understand art. Why not try to understand the song of birds? Why does one love the night, flowers, everything around one, without trying to understand them? But where art is concerned people think they must understand it." In the end Picasso won the argument, a success with the critics, the general public and the museums and wealthy art buyers who could afford his prices.

Picasso first came to France in 1901 and settled in Paris in 1904. He made frequent visits to his native Spain until the end of the Spanish civil war, when he vowed never to return as long as Generalissimo Francisco Franco was in power. However, he attested to his love of the Spanish people with the gift in 1970 of 900 of his works to a museum that had been founded in his honor in Barcelona. And he gave his antiwar masterpiece inspired by the Fascist bombing in the civil war, the mural "Guernica," to the people of Spain with the provision that it should not be delivered "until civil liberties have been restored." Meanwhile, it remains in the Museum of Modern Art in New York, where it has been on loan since 1939.

VERY POOR
Picasso joined the Communist party in 1944, but never participated actively in party affairs. He told an interviewer in

"When I was a boy in Spain, I was very poor and very aware of how people had to live. I learned that the Communists were for the poor people. That was enough to know. So I became for the Communists." Picasso's chief contribution to the Communist cause was probably the design that was adopted as the "dove of peace" by the Communists' world peace movement that flourished during the 1950's. It was an outstanding example of Picasso's skill in creating a work of beauty with a few simple lines.

LAST MISTRESS
Picasso was married twice and between his marriages had a series of well publicized liaisons. He married Olga Khoklova, a ballet dancer, in 1918. She bore him a son, Paulo, before they drifted apart in the late 1920s.

His wife was succeeded by Marie-Therese Walter, who bore him a daughter, Maya, in 1935. Dora Maar was the painter's next mistress, and she was succeeded in 1944 by Francoise Gilot. During their 11-year liaison she had a son and a daughter, Claude and Paloma.

Jacqueline Roque became Picasso's last mistress in 1955, the year his wife died, and he married her in 1961, when she was 35 and he was 79.

JP At Westbrook Completes Study

WESTBROOK — Justice of the Peace George T. Sweatt successfully completed a 20-hour advanced in-service training course in Midland March 13-16.

The program provided information as to the proper conduct of the office and included hypothetical situations and role playing, group discussions and problem solving.

Funds for the program were made available through the Texas Criminal Justice Council and under authorization of the federal Omnibus Crime Control Bill and Safe Streets Act.

STANTON WINS IN BIG WAY—Stanton FFA members won three firsts out of five in team competition and three out of five individual competition at the First Annual West Texas Invitational Judging Contest. They were vying with FFA and 4-H Club members from as far away as El Paso and Vernon

Committee Highlights

By The Associated Press

Four bills to create a presidential preference primary in Texas are scheduled for hearings this week by legislative committees.

The House Elections Committee will hear bills today by Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline creating a winner-take-all primary; Reps. Joe Pentony, D-Houston, and Luther Jones, D-El Paso, creating proportional split primaries; and Rep. George Preston, D-Paris, creating a direct primary and direct election of delegates to state party conventions.

Also today, a House environmental affairs subcommittee will hear a bill by Rep. Fred Agnich, R-Dallas, creating a land management use policy.

The Senate Jurisprudence Committee Tuesday will hear the "open files" bill which would require most government offices to open their records to the public.

The Jurisprudence Committee will also hear a proposed "consumer Protection Act," by Sen. Charles Herring, D-Austin.

Sabbath Sale Of Beer, Wine To Be Discussed

Possible repeal of an ordinance prohibiting alcoholic beverage sales on Sundays will head a lengthy agenda facing the new City Commission at its meeting at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Canvassing of returns from last Tuesday's election and installation of newly-elected commissioners Mrs. Floyd Mays and Charles Tompkins will preface consideration of the ordinance forbidding sale of beer and wine in the city from 5 p.m. to midnight on Sundays.

A petition with 492 signatures requesting the repeal was submitted to City Hall Thursday contending that the state gives sellers outside city limits an "unfair advantage" over those within the limits.

In a discussion on the Dora Roberts Community Center and tennis center, commissioners will consider setting duties for a tennis pro-manager and purchasing equipment for the community center.

To come up for first reading will be a resolution to join the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council and an ordinance granting a $3000 homestead tax exemption to citizens over 65.

Purple Dye Ban Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's ban on a purple dye suspected of causing cancer may force U.S. businesses and meat inspectors to fall back on a red dye suspected of interfering with reproduction.

The Food and Drug Administration announced it will prohibit further use of Violet No. 1 in foods, drugs, cosmetics and meat marking.

Thirty-three tons of the color additive were used last year, 30 per cent of it by Agriculture Department inspectors stamping the familiar USDA mark of grade and wholesomeness on meat.

Industry mixed much of the remainder of Violet No. 1 with Red No. 40 as a substitute for Red No. 2, which was linked in recent Russian studies to widespread reproductive problems.

USDA said it will switch to temporary alternative methods of marking, including tags, brands and other colors such as Red No. 2.

The FDA said it was basing its Violet No. 1 ban, effective next Tuesday, on preliminary data from two Japanese studies made available in late January.

Japan banned the dye within the last few weeks because research consistently produced cancer in rats fed a 5 per cent diet of Violet No. 1, an FDA spokesman said.

The dye is used widely in the United States to color candy, beverages, bakery goods, ice cream, sherbert, dietary supplements, pills, pet foods and various cosmetics including lipstick.

Chief Of Uganda Praises Nixon

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — President Idi Amin of Uganda has had some high words of praise for President Nixon and his own relationship with the Chief Executive.

Describing himself as the "best friend" of Nixon, Amin called Nixon one of the most "brilliant leaders of the Western world" and said history would record that Nixon brought peace to Southeast Asia.

Amin made his comments during a meeting in the Ugandan capital of Kampala with acting U.S. Ambassador Robert Keeley. He gave Keeley a personal message for Nixon. The contents were not disclosed.

Amin has been critical in the past of Nixon's decisions on Vietnam but Uganda radio said Amin expressed the desire to maintain very good relations with the United States.

Nuts About Horses

Jean Adams

TEEN FORUM

HORSES: (Q.) I am 13 and I am going with a boy 13½. We like each other a lot but there is one problem: he has a thing on horses.

Every day he goes up to the stable. If he would come home around 7 o'clock it wouldn't be all right and I wouldn't mind. He stays at the stable until late at night, especially on Friday, when he is supposed to come to see me.

He says he likes me and I believe him. Would you please advise me what to do — Poor Second in Pennsylvania.

(A.) It is natural for a boy of 13 who likes horses to want to spend more time with his horses than with a girl. This will not be true later, but it is now, and you should accept it.

If you push the issue you may lose his friendship and be worse off than you are now — sharing him with the horses.

SECRET PLAN: (Q.) My sister is 16 and has been running around with a 29-year-old man for a month now that I know of. They plan to run away and get married next month because my parents would never sign for her.

In fact, they don't even know she is seeing him. If they did they would beat her to death.

I've told her she's crazy and it won't work out, but she just tells me to shut up and walks away. I'm scared to tell my parents because I'm scared of what they will do. Please tell me what to do and hurry! — Afraid in Virginia.

(A.) First try reasoning with your sister again. Try to get her to see that in marrying at 16 she is making a mistake that she may regret all her life.

If she continues to refuse to listen to you, tell her that you feel obligated to discuss what you know with your parents. Invite her to go with you. I believe parents will be seriously reasonable.

Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions and comments to Jean Adams, care of The Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 2462, Houston, Texas 77001.

British Unknown Leads By Three In Masters Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A young 30-1 dark-horse from England, Peter Oosterhuis, a three-stroke lead and the prospect of blustery British weather today into the final round of the Masters — the golf tournament they're calling the Who's-He-Open.

"They say there's a strong chance of wind and rain Monday — that should be perfect weather for an Englishman," the towering gypsy tony said after breaking out of a logjam with a four-under-par 68 and taking charge at Augusta National with a score of 21.

Someone asked him in passing because Jack Nicklaus is eight shots behind.

"I really don't know where Nicklaus stands," the 24-year-old Oosterhuis said, raising an eyebrow. "I really didn't notice."

The powerful Nicklaus, a 5-2 favorite at the start of the tournament to capture his fifth Masters, followed his putting collapse of Friday with a triple-bogey eight on the 15th hole in the third round Sunday and shot a 73 for 219.

There were 14 players in front of Nicklaus and three others, including amateur Ben Crenshaw, even with him as the field prepared for the final 18 holes over rain-drenched Augusta.

One of these was Gay Brewer, the snub-nosed battler who won here in 1967. Brewer was asked if he was happy that a bunch of lesser knowns were ahead of him instead of Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer or Lee Trevino.

"Yeah," Brewer replied. A pause. "Hell, yeah."

Some of those in main contention for the 37th Masters green champion's jacket not only have unfamiliar names, such as Oosterhuis. They're almost unspellable and unpronounceable. What's Ozaki's first name? It's Masashi.

Is it Jamieson or Jameison? It's Jamieson.

Sneads in there. But it's not Sam.

Here's how the leaders stack up going into the showdown round, to be telecast CBS-TV weather cooperating, between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m., CST with a two hour delay in the Pacific Zone:

211 — Peter Oosterhuis, England.

214 — Jimmy Jameson, Bob Goaly, J. C. Snead.

215 — Gay Brewer, John Miller, Tommy Aaron, Chi Chi Rodriguez.

216 — Masashi Ozaki, Japan; Gardner Dickinson.

217 — Bruce Devlin, Dave Stockton, Bob Dickson.

218 — Bob Charles, New Zealand.

219 — Jack Nicklaus, Frank Beard, Babe Hiskey and amateur Ben Crenshaw.

Out of range of Jack's big blunderbuss, some of the boys are feeling scrappy and talking big.

"I'm so relaxed, it scares me," commented Miller, the rangy cottontail from San Francisco. "I'm no more excited than if I were playing in the Hershey Bar Open. I know I can beat the guys ahead of me. I don't believe even Nicklaus can spot me three shots a round."

The intense Rodriguez — all Latin fire and fury — said: "I feel if I was in Oosterhuis' shoes. He won't sleep. But you have to worry about Goaly and Brewer. They've been up there before."

Oosterhuis is a 6-foot-5, 205-pound son of a Dutch father and British mother. He is one wanderer who picks up cash wherever he can find it.

His 68 Sunday, on a course which played extremely heavy from the drenching rains that washed out third round play the day before, was a monument to some incredible putting. He lagged in a 60-footer for an eagle on the 555-yard second hole, sank a 15-foot assignment on the eighth and climaxed his round with a pair of 18-foot snakes on the 15th and 17th holes.

"I don't deny it," he explained afterward. "I am more confident than I have been in my past two Masters. I shall retire early and sleep until 9 a.m. and then — I promise — I will come out charged up to play."

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Third round scores Sunday in the 37th Masters golf tournament on the 6,960 yard, par 72 Augusta National Golf Club course: Oosterhuis 21 — 21 — 68; Snead 72-71 — 74; Bob Goaly 72-71 — 75; Chi Chi Rodriguez 72-70 — 75; Gay Brewer 72-74 — 75; Tommy Aaron 69-74 — 75; Johnny Miller 72-72 — 77; Gardner Dickinson 69-73 — 76; Masashi Ozaki 72-76 — 77; Bob Dickson 72-74 — 77; Bruce Devlin 72-74 — 77; Bob Charles 72-74 — 77; Frank Beard 72-74 — 77; Ben Crenshaw 68-77 — 79; Jack Nicklaus 74-73 — 219; Babe Hiskey 74-73 — 219.

Evert Claims First Federal

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Chris Evert, who says she doesn't "have money signs" in her eyes, has tucked an additional $5,000 into her purse by winning the $20,000 First Federal of Sarasota USLTA Open Tennis Championship.

Miss Evert, 18, defeated Evonne Goolagong, 6-3, 6-2, Sunday to take the first prize. Miss Goolagong, 1971 Wimbledon champ from Australia won $2,500.

"It feels good," said the Fort Lauderdale tennis sensation of her winnings which now total $31,000. "But I don't have money signs in my eyes. When I go out on the court, I think only about winning."

It was her fourth victory in five tournaments on the USLTA tour.

The doubles championship Sunday went to Pat Hogan of Lajolla, Calif., and Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, Calif., who defeated Prague's Maria Neumannova and Martina Natratilova, 7-6, 5-4.

Petty Nabs Easy Triumph In Staley

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Richard Petty held his red and blue Dodge in front of the pack for 387 of the 400 laps that made up the Gwyn Staley Memorial Stock Car Race.

At the end, he appeared to be no more tired than any 36-year-old millionaire who had taken his yacht out for a Sunday afternoon cruise.

He was asked the usual questions about retirement, after 14 years of powering 3,800-pound stockers around big and little racing ovals, winning $1.41 million in prize and bonus money, four Grand National driving titles and just about every trophy available.

"Well, some people are saying it is time I started going down hill," he laughed off the question. "And I'll admit that I get a bigger kick out of winning now than I did several years ago."

Petty captured his 151st career Grand National victory in the easiest possible fashion — simply by getting the jump on his competition, building up a good lead, then coasting the rest of the way before a record 16,000 at the tightly-banked five-eighths of a mile North Wilkesboro Speedway.

He finished his Sunday afternoon ride in two hours, 34 minutes and 17 seconds for a speed of 97.224 miles per hour.

And at the end he had an easily manageable lead of four laps over second-place Benny Parsons in a Chevrolet. Five laps over third-place Buddy Baker in a Dodge and fourth-place Bobby Allison in a Chevrolet, and 10 over fifth-place Cecil Gordon in a Chevrolet.

Even Without Roberto, Pirates Still Winning

By The Associated Press

Aside from the loss of Roberto Clemente, the Pittsburgh Pirates haven't changed much. They keep doing things the hard way — which is the best way for them.

They won the National League's East pennant last year by pulling out almost half of their 96 victories with late rallies.

And Sunday, they continued to do what comes naturally with a 4-3, 5-3 doubleheader sweep over the St. Louis Cardinals fashioned on comebacks.

Losing 3-2 going into the ninth inning of the opener, they tied the game of Manny Sanguillen's sacrifice fly and won it on Bob Robertson's home run in the 10th. In the nightcap, the Cards held a 2-1 edge until the Pirates struck for three runs on circuit shots by Milt May and Gene Alley in the fifth.

In Sunday's other NL contests, the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the San Diego Padres 4-0; the Cincinnati Reds defeated the St. Francisco Giants 3-1; the Montreal Expos stopped the Chicago Cubs 5-2; and the Houston Astros beat the Atlanta Braves 10-3 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second game 4-3 in 10 innings. Rain washed out a game between Philadelphia and New York.

In the American League, the Boston Red Sox nipped the New York Yankees 4-3 in 10 innings; the Minnesota Twins defeated the Oakland A's 4-2; the Kansas City Royals tripped the California Angels 6-5 and the Detroit Tigers blanked the Cleveland Indians 4-0. Rain washed out two AL games — Milwaukee at Baltimore and Chicago at Texas.

Reliever George Culver choked off a bases-loaded threat in the eighth inning and Joe Ferguson contributed a two-run double as Los Angeles bested San Diego. Culver combined with Dodger starter Tommy John to pitch an eight-hitter. The pair stranded 10 Padre runners.

Cincinnati's Ross Grimsley whipped San Francisco for the fifth time in five career decisions. He needed last-out relief help from Pedro Borbon. The Reds got a pair of runs in the second off loser Tom Bradley, making his first start in the National League. Rookie Pepe Mangual drove in three runs with his first major league homer and a single to power Montreal past Chicago. Mangual tagged a two-run shot in the first inning and then singled home the winning run in the second.

Mike Lum was the hero of the Atlanta Braves' 4-3 10th-inning victory over the Houston Astros Sunday, but the 27-year-old utility outfielder didn't know then how close he came to being benched moments before his game-winning single.

Lum had just smacked a two-run homer in the Braves' half of the ninth to tie the Astros 3-3 and Atlanta pitcher Jo Hoerner held Houston scoreless in the 10th.

As Lum prepared to go to the plate following Darrell Evans' double to right, Braves' Manager Eddie Matthews had second thoughts.

"I actually called Oscar Brown over, considering him as a pinchhitter for Lum," Matthews said. "But I decided to stay with Lum against a left-handed pitcher."

Lum stroled to the plate and stroked a single off Houston's Jim Crawford to score Evans and hand the Braves a split of a doubleheader. The Braves dropped the first game 10-3.

In the first game, slugging outfielder Cesar Cedeno clubbed a two-run homer in the first inning and then added a pair of doubles in an eight-run Houston sixth inning.

Steers Eye Share Of First Half Title

Keeping one eye on a raggedy band of Bobcats and the other on a possible upset in Midland, the Big Spring Steers close out Dist. 5-AAAA first half play in a 4 p.m. battle with the San Angeloans at Steer Park Tuesday.

The hard-hitting Steers, seeking their first baseball crown ever and thumbing their noses at an expected seventh place finish, take a 4-2 league mark and a 9-7 season standing into the match with the Cats. San Angelo, meanwhile, has lived up to its expectations by losing all six of its district games on the way to a 5-10 season mark.

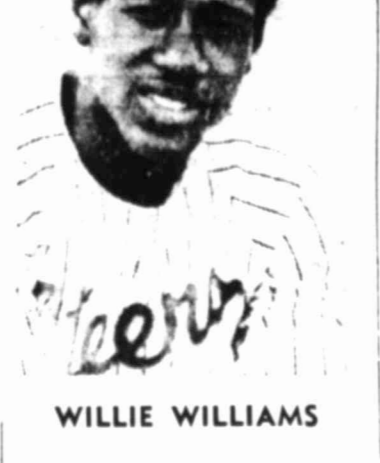

A Steer victory, coupled with a Midland upset of Midland High Tuesday, would give the Big Springers a share of the title. Abilene Cooper could also get in on the top spot with a triumph over Abilene High, and Odessa, which has played one less game, could also have a chance by defeating Permian.

Orlando Olague, 2-2, will be on the mound for the Longhorns, while Greg Crawford will be behind the plate.

The Steers carry impressive 317 season and 341 district batting averages into the game, with 1972 league leader Ricky Steen leading the way. Steen, playing at shortstop, is hitting .453 on the year and .647 in league play. Right fielder Gilbert Pesina is close behind, with .387 and .165 marks. Olague is next at .404 and .400.

Rounding out the lineup will be Mike Tredaway (.289 and .278) at first base, Willie Williams

Goalie Sparks Bruin Victory

By The Associated Press

Goalies Ed Giacomin of New York and Ken Dryden of Montreal drew raves Sunday night but there was one big difference — Giacomin won and Dryden lost.

"We could have changed things around in the second period, but Giacomin killed us," said Boston Coach Bep Guidolin after the New York goalie kicked away 33 shots in a 4-0 victory over the Bruins, his first shutout in 44 National Hockey League career playoff games.

"If I wasn't playing against Dryden I would have had twice as many goals," said Buffalo's Gil Perreault, who scored twice in the Sabres' 5-1 triumph over the Canadiens.

Elsewhere, the St. Louis Blues remained alive by beating Chicago 5-3 and cutting the Black Hawks' lead to a similar 3-1 while the Philadelphia Flyers, behind Doug Favell's perfect goaltending, blanked Minnesota 3-0 and evened their series with the North Stars at two games apiece. The action resumes Tuesday in Chicago and Philadelphia.

In World Hockey Association playoff action, the Winnipeg Jets downed the Minnesota Fighting Saints 5-2 for a 2-0 lead, the New England Whalers made it two in a row over the Ottawa Nationals on Brit Selby's overtime goal and the Cleveland Crusaders turned back the Philadelphia Blazers 3-1.

Pirkle Wins In Handball

A. J. Pirkle defeated defending champion Tito Arcencibia 9-21, 21-16, 21-18 in the Finals Sunday to capture the singles title in the Big Spring City Handball Tournament played at the YMCA.

Pirkle's win was in the A Division, the top classification for local handballers.

Bob Faas claimed the B Division Honors by stopping Ben Danley 14-21, 21-13, 21-20 in the title bout.

John Preston was the Class C consolation winner by defeating Ben Bancroft 21-11, 21-10, and Pat Owens took the B consolation prize with a 16-21, 21-15, 21-12 decision over Gary Goswick.

Knicks Perform Magic; Poof - - Bullets Vanish

By The Associated Press

Earl Monroe performs magic on the court; Jerry Lucas is a professional magician off it.

Sunday in New York City, Madison Square Garden, playoffs, the defense gets better — but ours got weaker instead — something magical: they made the Baltimore Bullets disappear.

By virtue of the Knicks 109-99 victory, Baltimore was not only eliminated from the National Basketball Association playoffs, the NBA. Next season the franchise will move to Largo, Md., a suburb of Washington D.C.

In Sunday's other NBA action, Chicago topped Los Angeles 98-94 while the Atlanta Hawks 38 points and sparked a fourth-quarter rally to overcome the defeated Boston 97-94. All the active NBA playoffs, including Golden State and Milwaukee 2-1, which resumes play Tuesday.

"Our defense is geared to our night in Madison, Wis., are forwards," acknowledged Bulls' coach Dick Motta, "and when in the NBA on Sunday, Utah, who defeated the San Diego 120-99. Love has to do his thing."

With Walker connecting on only one of his first 10 shots, Baltimore's weaknesses on defense and on the bench basket midway through the final caused the Bullets' downfall. A period put the Bulls ahead of despondent Coach Gene Shue, stay 87-86.

Obviously Atlanta's Pete Maravich has a similar philosophy. He scored 13 of his 37 points in the fourth period to hold off the Boston Celtics.

"Maravich was up for the game," said a smiling Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmon.

"He played a super game."

The Hawks had spurred to a 77-63 lead after three periods but the Celtics came roaring back with 14 consecutive points, six by John Havlicek, before Maravich took control. Atlanta's Lou Hudson added 28 points while Havlicek finished with 21.

Utah's victory over San Diego was its 12th straight first-round victory over a three-year period. Ron Boone and Willie Wise combined for 19 points in the third period, equalling San Diego's output, and 49 points overall.

USC Takes AAU Title

CINCINNATI (AP) — "You never look back over your shoulder," maintained University of Southern California swimming Coach Peter DeLand, who now can face the Trojans' team banquet tonight with his head held high.

Southern California, which finished a disappointing third in the NCAA meet two weeks ago, rolled to its second straight AAU men's title Saturday night and beat NCAA Jim Indiana University in the process.

The Trojans piled up 666 points to 255 for the Hoosiers, who have won the last seven collegewins.

The women's AAU title again went to the Santa Clara Swim Club, the 37th for the Californians. Santa Clara earned 328 points to 194 for the host Cincinnati Marlins.

Twelve American records fell in the four-day meet. Nine of them going to the women.

HCJC's Alcocer Gains San Jacinto Semifinals

PASADENA — Howard County's Bill Alcocer advanced to the semifinals of the San Jacinto Invitational Tennis Tournament to highlight action for the Jayhawks.

Alcocer was beaten by Robert Koch of Blinn 6-2, 6-2, after the Open Senior classes Sunday disposing of three foes. The Hawk ace stopped Gonzalo Pozo of Blinn, Charles Leiva of San Antonio College and Sterling Adams of Schreiner in first straight sets before bowing out in the eight-team affair.

Manny Flores and Jay Boe claimed the third round before falling.

Flores was defeated by Spencer, Sunday in the 250cc 6-4, while Box fell to Greg Gillespie of San Antonio 6-4, 4-6, are in Odessa for their final in the 125 cc Kenny Jr and 6-2. Box had played three sets WC match, and the conference Brian Ferrell third in the mini-tennis tournament will be played April 12-13 at Hobbs, N.M.

Weir Wins Two At Odessa Races

ODESSA — Big Spring's Danny Weir captured first place finishes in the 250cc Senior and Open Senior classes Sunday disposing of three foes. The Hawk ace stopped Gonzalo Pozo of Blinn, Charles Leiva of San Antonio College and Sterling Adams of Schreiner in first straight sets before bowing out in the eight-team affair.

Tracksters Confident Pro Competition Here To Stay

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — time amateur track stars had a Professional track — a daring experiment — but will it succeed?

Most observers asked about the future of the International Track Association after its stop here Saturday night were cautiously optimistic, while most of the participants said they believed the ITA is here to stay.

A crowd of 6,665 warmed to the performance by some of the world's greatest athletes, including such names as Kenya's Kip Keino, Jim Ryan and Bob Seagram.

One observer with more than a passing interest in the ITA's future was Ralph Tate, veteran thousands in Oklahoma City, coach of the Oklahoma State said one insider. "They gave me about $15,000 in prize money and had to pay travel expenses for his four-minute flat performance. I couldn't have paid the bills from the gate but I don't know how much they get from commercial sponsors."

At any rate, ITA officials said it will be full speed ahead and with optimism as to the organization's future.

"Our meets so far have been a success athletically and artistically," says ITA's Jim Terrell, director of the Oklahoma City tournament. "This is the first time around. We have to get exposure and create crowd interest."

Many participants are equally confident. "I'm real excited about it. It'll be a great success," said former Kansas State runner Jerome Howe, who edged out Keino Saturday in the mile run and picked up $600 for his four-minute flat performance.

TLC's Choir To Sing Here

SEGUIN — Sigurd Christiansen said today that arrangements have been completed for the appearance of the Texas Lutheran College Concert Choir in Big Spring April 18.

The concert of sacred choral music will be given at the Veterans Administration Hospital starting at 1:30 p.m.

The 47-voice choir, directed by Christiansen, presents a concert of sacred choral music from the great heritage of the Church.

Now in its 44th year, the TLC Concert Choir has appeared in hundreds of cities in the United States and Mexico, and in 1969 presented concerts in seven European countries from Norway to Switzerland. It has earned an enviable reputation among both laymen and professional musicians.

BOOKED HERE FOR MAY 4 CONCERT — The famed U.S. Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus (above) will give a free performance at the Municipal Auditorium the evening of May 4 here under the auspices of The Herald. Free tickets can be obtained at The Herald, Hemphill-Wells, First National Bank and the Chamber of Commerce.

Indians Refuse To Give Up Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hearings will be the prelude to Congressional hearings on the lengthy investigation of the Wounded Knee affair open today. Militant Indians refused and the Bureau of Indian Affairs over the weekend to surrender their arms and peace talks were broken off between protest leaders and White House aides.

The House Indian affairs subcommittee has scheduled three days of hearings on the seizure of the historic South Dakota reservation village by members of the American Indian Movement AIM. Hearings also will cover occupation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, building in Washington last year.

Russell Means, leader of the Wounded Knee group, was to be the main witness today. Rep. Lloyd Meeds, D-Wash., chairman of the panel, said the Means arrived Friday for what was scheduled to be a negotiating session with Leonard Garment, special consultant to the President. But Garment refused to negotiate until Means telephoned Wounded Knee to tell his followers to lay down their arms. Means refused.

Death Count Includes 11 In Motor Vehicle Crashes

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A toll of youth was taken over the weekend in violent fatalities reported in Texas.

Of 18 violent deaths reported to The Associated Press from around the state, at least seven of those dead were under 20 years of age.

The death count included 11 persons killed in motor vehicle crashes, six in shootings and one in a drowning.

The death tabulation, which began at 6 p.m. Friday and included deaths that occurred before midnight Sunday, included these persons:

BOAT SWAMPED
Hector Lopez, 16, drowned Sunday when a boat in which he and two companions were fishing was swamped at Houston's Sheldon Reservoir. His two companions were rescued.

David Clark, 64, a Dallas pool hall operator, was shot to death Sunday in what police believe was a robbery attempt. He was dead on arrival at a hospital with three bullet wounds.

Garry Lynn MacMillan, 19, of Gober was killed Sunday when he lost control of his car on a rainswept country road. Officers said the accident occurred about a mile and a half east of Bonham.

John Henry Lacy, 17, was killed and another youth injured when their car skidded across Farm Road 45 and hit a culvert. The accident occurred about 12 miles south of Brownwood where both youths resided.

DISCOVER BODIES
Two Bexar County officers discovered the bodies of two men Sunday on Farm Road 1518 southeast of San Antonio. Authorities withheld the men's identities. Each had been shot several times in the head and body.

Vivian Goad of Wadaska, Ark., was killed Saturday in a two-car accident near Mount Pleasant. Five persons were injured. The mishap occurred on U.S. 67 about six miles east of Mount Pleasant.

The body of L. C. Morton, 27, was found in a ditch in the Houston suburb of Pearland Saturday after he was stabbed repeatedly and shot several times. Police Chief M. L.

Singleton said Morton probably had been killed elsewhere and his body dumped in Pearland.

FIVE INJURED
Leandra Johnson, 62, of Mart, and R. J. Taltom, 45, of Rule were killed and five other persons injured Saturday in a two-car collision near Waco on U.S. 84. The two persons killed were the drivers of the autos.

Mrs. Bertha Clay, her two-year-old daughter, Billie Jo, and Robert Carter, 9, were killed Saturday night when they were struck by a pickup truck on U.S. 59 near Goodrich in Southeast Texas. The Department of Public Safety said 10 persons, eight of them children, were pushing a stalled vehicle off the four-lane highway when the accident occurred. The children were pronounced dead at the scene. Mrs. Clay died several hours later at Polk County hospital in Livingston.

Danny L. Moon, 19, of Bridgeport died Friday night in the North Central Texas town of Chico in a two-car crash. State police said Moon was thrown out of his car after it was struck on the side by another vehicle.

STRUCK BY CAR
Brenda Travis, 10, of Lufkin died Saturday morning at Houston Memorial Hospital in Lufkin of injuries received in a two-car collision Friday night in Lufkin. The mishap occurred at the intersection of Loop 287 and Pershing Ave. No one else was injured in the crash.

Johnny Max King, 44, of Snyder, Okla., was killed Saturday night when he was struck by a car on Texas 380 near Tahoka.

Los Angeles (AP) — Anthony J. Russo, who once said he wanted his day in court to talk about the Pentagon Papers and the charges against himself and co-defendant Daniel Ellsberg, was scheduled to get that chance today.

Russo, 36, was listed as the first witness of the day to be called by the defense. He was expected to testify about his role in the copying of the top secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war and about his transformation from "establishment" researcher to antiwar activist.

Russo was indicted six months after Ellsberg and is named in only three of 11 counts charging espionage, conspiracy and theft. He has said he thinks he was indicted because he refused to testify in secret to a federal grand jury investigating the case.

About that refusal, which led to his being jailed for 47 days in 1971, Russo has said: "My testifying in secret would have been collaborating with a star chamber proceeding. I had a story to tell and I wanted my day in court, but I wanted it to be public."

Ellsberg, 41, has admitted publicly that he "leaked" the papers to the news media in 1971, but the charges against him and Russo involve only the copying of the documents in 1969.

The government has shown that the two defendants both worked as researchers at Rand Corp. in Santa Monica, Calif., that they knew each other and that they went to a Hollywood advertising agency where pages of the Pentagon Papers were copied.

The defense claims that the alleged acts of Russo were identical to those performed by Russo's undicted former girl friend, Lynda Sinay Resnick, who testified that she helped copy the Papers. She was named as an undicted co-conspirator.

She said Russo helped in the copying but did nothing more.

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS"

they even kneel in public!

Right! A lot of Episcopalians (not all) kneel during parts of the service.

They have a funny way of looking at worship. They don't attend church for the primary purpose of enjoying stirring sermons or beautiful hymns. "This is no spectator sport," they say.

Worship, to them, means offering a bit of themselves to God. Their first thought is one of giving...not receiving. Kneeling sometimes helps.

Sure! Episcopalians, too, have music and "messages from the pulpit." But if the choir is lousy—or the sermon something less than eloquent—the hour isn't really wasted. Every individual gives a bit of himself. And if kneeling seems to help, then God probably doesn't mind.

Maybe you, too, would find some of the Episcopal "peculiarities" more acceptable if you understood the reasons behind the rather formal services, refraining from chit-chat inside the church, reading from a prayer book, and offering guidelines—not straight-jackets—for Christian living.

The Episcopal minister would be flattered to discuss the reasons—without ever "twisting your arm."
