BORMANN MYSTERY SOLVED — Frankfurt Attorney General ruled Wednesday that a recently unearthed skeleton with certainty belonged to long missing Hitler deputy Bormann (right in wartime uniform) and pronounced him officially dead.

Reds Violate Cease-Fire

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government said Communist forces violated the cease-fire 147 more times in the 36 hours ending at noon today, and that 34 government soldiers were killed and 199 wounded. Civilian casualties were put at 19 dead and 19 wounded.

Most of the casualties were in small, isolated Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., President Nixon's special emissary, left Saigon today for his second visit to Phnom Penh, the final stop on his four-day tour of Southeast Asia.

Haig arrived in Saigon Tuesday night. He met skirmishes, the military command said. Today with Premier Tran Thien Khai for 45 minutes and reportedly discussed a request from the Cambodian government for South Vietnamese military help against Communist units in Southern Cambodia.

Darrell Royal's Daughter Dies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Marion Kazen, 27, daughter of University of Texas athletic director and Mrs. Darrell Royal, died today at 9:10 a.m.

Mrs. Kazen had been hospitalized and in a coma from head injuries since the small car she was driving and a passenger bus collided on March 22.

She had been listed as in serious condition most of the time but her condition changed to critical Tuesday night, the hospital said.

Two of her children, David, 3, and Christian, 5, were in the car with her and suffered minor injuries but had been discharged from the hospital.

Mrs. Kazen's former husband is the son of Rep. Abraham Kazen Jr., D-Tex., of Laredo.

Auto Pollution Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus today granted a one-year extension of the 1975 antipollution standards for automobiles, but established interim standards requiring some use of new anti-pollution devices.

Ruckelshaus set interim standards which, he said, would require the use of "catalytic converters" on all domestic automobiles sold in California in 1975.

A somewhat less strict standard was set for the rest of the nation and Ruckelshaus said it "will likely result in some catalysts used on some models nationwide by 1975."

City Wasting No Time Anteing Up

A check for $1436.75 was sent by city officials via County Judge A. G. Mitchell this morning to the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council as Big Spring's dues for its first year of membership in the council.

City commissioners unanimously approved a resolution at last night's commission meeting to join the planning council at a cost of five cents per capita. It was passed on an emergency basis due to several matters of local import pending before the regional body.

The city will officially become a member when the planning council formally accepts its application.

Dealers' Attorney In Austin Today

Roger Brown, a local attorney representing area butane-propane dealers, was to appear before a House Committee at the state capital today.

He will be speaking concerning a proposed resolution asking the Texas Railroad Commission to prevent discontinuing sale of liquid petroleum gas (LPG) to local dealers.

Skelly Oil Co. has informed area LPG dealers it plans to cease selling LPG locally after April 30. LPG is being piped elsewhere, reportedly.

In protest, some dealers and the partner in the firm of Brown, Hamby and Bancroft appeared before the Railroad Commission Monday. The Commission was reported to have shown sympathy for the position of area dealers.

The hearing was recessed until later when a witness for Skelly is expected to testify.

House Concurrent Resolution 103, proposed by State Rep. Renal Rosson, Snyder, and others, would ask the commission "to protect the rights of Texas citizens and industrial and agricultural consumers..."

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The West German government officially closed its books on Martin Bormann today when the Frankfurt attorney general ruled that a skeleton recently unearthed was "with certainty" the remains of Hitler's long missing deputy.

"Martin Bormann died on May 2, 1945, between 1 and 3 a.m. on the Invalidenstrasse railroad bridge (in Berlin) a short time after his accomplice Adolf Hitler," Attorney General Horst Gauf said.

He ordered that the 28-year search for Bormann be terminated and the warrant for his arrest lifted.

GAUF TOLD A news conference that if anyone is arrested on suspicion that he is Bormann, "we will be dealing with an innocent man."

Reports of Bormann being seen have come repeatedly from foreign countries since 1945, but none have been confirmed. West German embassies and missions abroad now will be directed to ignore any further reports.

War criminal hunter Simon Wiesenthal attended the news conference and told newsmen that he was 99 per cent satisfied that the skeleton unearthed in West Berlin last December was Bormann's. But he expressed one per cent continuing doubt, saying "there are still hairs in the soup."

CONCLUSION Gauf and investigator Joachim Richter based their conclusion on:

1. A comparison of the skeleton's teeth with an old sketch from Bormann's dentist.
2. Skull and bone measurements.
3. The discovery of mended fractures in an arm and collarbone, fractures such as Bormann had suffered.
4. Reconstruction of Bormann's face on the basis of the skull of the skeleton.
5. Discovery of glass splinters from a capsule like those used by leading Nazis to commit suicide by cyanide poisoning.

Bormann and Stumpfegger were among seven top Nazis who broke out of the Fuehrer's bunker late on the night of May 1, 1945, a day after Hitler committed suicide.

After running into a Soviet patrol and fleeing, Bormann and Stumpfegger found themselves in a "hopeless situation," Richter said.

Richter said Bormann's family, including his eight children, was satisfied with the results of the investigation and would receive the skeleton for burial as soon as a court order released it.

After Day In His Honor, Man Returns To Trade

LAMESA (SPL) — Naymon Everett is back at his clippers and scissors, a little flattered that O'Donnell last week declared a special day in his honor. Friends surprised him with a money tree.

April 5, 1917, he began barbering at the age 17, and 50 years later he's going strong. Reared in Borden County near Gail, he trained in Amarillo, then worked in Clovis, N.M., and Lamesa before opening his own shop in O'Donnell in December 1925.

Once there were seven groceries in this small community, but in the late 1920's when cotton was king, there were more than a score of barbers. Today, he's the only one. During the Depression, he administered a haircut and a shave for 25 cents, or a haircut for just 15 cents.

Everett has cut the hair of four and sometimes five generations among the families who are his customers. These "rage from a screaming

500 Pupils Protest Raid On Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Security forces in armored cars, on foot and wielding batons dispersed 500 demonstrating students trying to reach the American Embassy today to protest Israel's surprise raid on Lebanon.

The shouting, clapping students, who had been marching in the streets since early morning, scattered into side streets to regroup. Other students marched elsewhere in the troubled city.

NO DIFFERENCE Equipped with bullhorns, several students led the embassy demonstrators in chanting "Down with imperialism" and "There is No Difference Between Israel and the United States."

Extra security forces were moved up to the embassy in the wake of the Israeli attack. Demonstrators who tried to reach it Tuesday also were turned back.

Premier Saeb Salam, who resigned Tuesday night, cautioned the Lebanese and Palestinians against "exploiting funerals to stir up violence."

Public funerals are planned Thursday for the three Palesti-stinian leaders slain in their apartments by the Israeli commandos early Tuesday.

RESIGNATION

Informed sources said President Suleiman Franjeh has decided to accept Salam's resignation.

The United States meanwhile denied charges by the Arab guerrillas that it had a hand in the raid.

Salam, who has been premier since October 1970, submitted his resignation after a special cabinet meeting Tuesday. He said he was quitting in the higher interest of Lebanon.

There was speculation that Salam was dissatisfied with the failure of the army and the police to crush the Israeli invaders. Most local newspapers said he had asked for the resignation of a "prominent official," believed to be the commander of the army, Maj. Gen. Iskandar Ghanem. But Franjeh was said to have cautioned against premature action.

The Palestine Liberation Organization charged that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency helped carry out the Israeli attack, in which three Arab guerrilla leaders were killed, and that the U.S. Embassy in Beirut gave refuge to some of the Israeli raiders.

'MURDERERS'

"That allegation is utterly without foundation," said State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray in Washington. "It is mischievous and it has been denied categorically by our Embassy in Beirut."

The charge raised fears in some quarters that the guerrillas would attack American businesses in the Middle East.

Nixon's Veto Felt Locally

FORSAN — The $65,000 in revenue bonds city voters approved for a sewer system may not be issued.

The U.S. House of Representatives upheld President Nixon's water and sewer program veto Tuesday. Voting 225 to 189 for overriding the veto the House was short of the necessary two-thirds by 51.

Forsan had applied for $160,000 in a grant to help build a sewer plant and lines. Whether the veto signals the death of the sewer plant project in Forsan "remains to be seen," Mayor Curtis (Jack) Lamb said.

"It may just cut us off," Lamb commented.

Tuesday night, the City Council swore in three aldermen re-elected and passed a live-stock ordinance approved Saturday in a referendum.

Those with livestock inside Forsan city limits have six months to make other arrangements, Lamb said.

Taking the oath of office Tuesday, were Mrs. Susan Gaston, John B. Anderson and Bobby S. Wash.

The crash occurred when the plane struck a guy wire and plunged into a pasture.

Plane Crash Proves Fatal To Brad Cederberg, 19

The Cessna hit a guy wire, and the Department of Public Safety reported, plunged into a Hunt County pasture.

A utility customer reported power failure, and a utility company employe found the crash.

With Cederberg in the plane was Gary Dale Anderson, Greenville, who was in critical condition at Baylor Hospital in Dallas late Tuesday. Charles R. Gutierrez, 26, of Martins Hill and William Murray Daingerfield, 22, of Daingerfield were seriously injured.

All four were students at East Texas State University. The DPS said England was the pilot.

Ministers Lead Campaign Against Statute Repeal

By ANN STEVENS

Before a packed meeting room of outspoken citizens pro and con the proposed sale of beer and wine on Sundays, the City Commission tabled Tuesday possible repeal of an ordinance which now prohibits the sale from 1 p.m. to midnight on the Sabbath.

Almost 500 persons signed a petition turned in to City Hall last week calling for repeal on the present statute which allows sale of beer and wine only from noon to 1 p.m. on Sundays.

Action on the matter was tabled until the next meeting after two local Church of Christ ministers appealed to the commission for time to collect their own set of signatures against the new measure.

'NEED TIME'

"We haven't had enough time to get our signatures but given a little more time, we can just about double the number of signatures they have," said Ralph Williams, minister of the 14th and Main Church of Christ. Dr. H. M. Jarratt said that was taken on the matter of employment, but commissioners promised to consider the (See MINISTERS, P. 6-B, Col. 4'

Kniffen Boosted By Tennis Group

Spokesmen for a group called Friends of Tennis urged employment of high school tennis coach Novice Kniffen as pro for the new city tennis center at the City Commission meeting Tuesday night.

DeWitt Bunn read a petition containing 223 signatures endorsing Kniffen for the position of pro-manager of the Dora Roberts Community Center when the new tennis courts open May 1.

"Three years ago when Coach Novice Kniffen came to Big Spring, tennis was at a low ebb. Participation at the local high school had cooled. Adult interest was practically zero. Big Spring was a tennis desert in the midst of plenty," the petition read.

'SOLELY RESPONSIBLE'

"We feel that he (Kniffen) is responsible for the growth of tennis interest and for the grant from the Roberts Foundation that is making the center possible," it went on.

Although commissioners reminded the group that City Manager Harry Nagel is currently interviewing applicants for the post, group representatives said they had thought all along that Kniffen would be hired when the new tennis center opens May 1.

Nagel responded that he has the right and duty to interview all applicants seeking the post, but that Kniffen is being considered. Decision on employment should be made this month.

Friends of Tennis insisted that they need a decision right away so that they may advertise Big Spring's inclusion in the large Highway 80 Tennis Tournament set in early July. They said they need a chairman's name and address so that interested tennis players may send in entry forms.

The tennis enthusiasts also criticized the city for worrying over other aspects of the Roberts Community Center besides the tennis center.

"Our fear," the petition stated, "is that the tennis aspects of the Foundation's gift are being submerged to an over-all plan that will nullify any benefits that might come from the addition of six new courts."

City Manager Harry Nagel remarked, "We lose a great deal of money on the Community Center now because it is not fully developed." He and several commissioners indicated that while the tennis center will be the major aspect of the community center, it will not be the only one.

RATES SET

While taking no action on pro employment, the Commission did approve Nagel's policy suggestions of new equipment purchases for the community center and of subsidizing the pro-manager's salary for the first year.

Annual court use fees for the tennis center were also approved and hours of operation were set from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays and from 1 to 6 p.m. on Sundays.

Rates for court use are family, $50; adults, $30; public school students, $18; hourly daytime fee per player, $3 cents; and hourly nighttime fee per player, 50 cents.

Veteran Bank Employee To Be Honored Friday

Fifty short years ago, a young woman bent on career advancement, joined the staff of the First State Bank in Big Spring.

She did just that. Friday the bank will stage an all-day party at the bank to honor Edith Hatchett, vice president. All of her legion of friends are invited to come by and visit.

This doesn't mean retirement, but Miss Hatchett does admit to gradually divesting herself of many duties accumulated over the years. She's still in vigorous health and anxious to be occupied.

Technically, her employment dates from April 15, 1923, but she was completing work on a Big Spring brief appealing for location of Texas Tech here and reported for work the morning of April 16.

A native of Erath County where she was born near Stephenville to Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hatchett, she spent her early girlhood with the family on a sandy farm-ranch in Gaines County. Chuckle line riders (cowboys who followed a series of daily rides timed just right to pick up a free meal) always included the Hatchett place on their itinerary.

EDITH HATCHETT
Fifty Years in Banking

BUSINESS COURSE

When Mr. Hatchett retired from farming, he moved to Big Spring but did a considerable amount of land surveying. Edith attended schools here and when a former woman instructor from Draughon's Business College in Abilene moved here, she took a rather complete business course.

Her first job was with Rix Furniture Company, working with Harvey, Wallace and Jack Rix as bookkeeper and secretary. After 2 1/2 years she figured she had advanced as far as she could in that situation and looked for another. Wallace Rix, who had spearheaded the campaign to land Texas Tech, persuaded her to stay on and complete the bulky brief for this project, which she did in the two-day interval from ending her job with Rix Furniture and starting on with the State Bank (it became State National in 1925) as secretary, bookkeeper and as general helper.

situation was reversed — T. S. home in 1965, shattered bones and was kept out for seven months.

L. T. Deals was then president, and T. S. Currie, who was the executive head, was cashier. Others on the staff were all men: Johnny Driver and Robert McRae. During World War II, the home in 1965, shattered bones and was kept out for seven months.

Over the years she has handled all kinds of loans and services, but the ones she has gained most satisfaction from are those that help people.

"Maybe there were times when we helped them too much," she reminisced, "but her record proves her to be a sharp banker."

"I guess I've enjoyed making the loans to 4-H club boys and girls for projects more than anything," she recalled. "Not much money in it, but a lot of satisfaction in seeing them get started in business."

Miss Hatchett is a member of the First Baptist Church here, has been in the Credit Women's Breakfast Club, served as secretary-treasurer of the Red Cross chapter in the 1920's, later in a similar capacity for the Howard County Crippled Children's fund. She sought in 1940 to organize an American Institute of Banking chapter here, but there wasn't then sufficient interest. Later when it was set up she took several courses.

INTO "CAGE"

In 1926, she was made a teller and moved into the "cage," aptly named because grillwork extending to the ceiling separated the teller from customers. She was made assistant cashier in 1928 and served in this role until 1944 when she became vice president.

When Ben Carpenter resigned in 1938, she became a loan officer, although she had been making some small loans at the window.

Changes in banking, of course, have been tremendous. Then most of the work was done by pen and pencil and mental calculation. Today computers are taking over.

While she can now move or less set her own pace, at the insistence of Robert W. Currie, president, this was not always so. Through the 1920's and the Depression '30's there was plenty to do, but when the war years came on 12-14 hour days were not uncommon. Once when T. S. Currie learned she had stayed until 2 a.m. to clear the day's work, he almost threw a shoe. Except for a day here and there, she's not missed work — that is until she slipped at her

Coahoma Doesn't Receive Check

Coahoma, whose council rejected previous revenue sharing checks, did not receive such a payment this week.

The City of Forsan got $630 more for the first quarter of 1973. This amount and $2,146 received through revenue sharing previously is being used to pay for the new fire station, Mayor Curtis (Jack) Lamb said.

GMAC Officials Talk With Grand Jury

The Howard County Grand Jury subpoenaed officials of Pontiac and General Motors Acceptance Corporation (GMAC) in Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene and El Paso to testify this morning on the business operations of a former local car dealer.

Joe Hicks, a former Pontiac dealer here, is now working in a scrap metal business in Saigon, South Vietnam, his wife told the district attorney's office. Mrs. Hicks is still in Big Spring. Attempts to contact her husband have failed.

Jimmy Anderson, last dealer manager here appeared before the grand jury, said Guy Talbot, special investigator for the district attorney.

G. W. Waterbee, zone manager for Pontiac with statewide responsibilities came from Dallas to testify today.

Also subpoenaed were five representatives of GMAC: Frank Ludwig, district manager out of Fort Worth; Cato Hightower, dealer relations manager out of Fort Worth; Don R. Deyoung, area manager, and one of his subordinates, Kenneth Walters, both of Abilene; and E. W. Harris Jr., of El Paso and formerly responsible for the Abilene area.

Truck Gauges Accurate, Says BS Butane Dealer

Texas Railroad Commission regulations and a local liquid petroleum gas (LPG) dealer disagree with the Texas Department of Agriculture and National Bureau of Standards.

Use of metering devices on trucks rather than percentage gauges is proposed by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

According to Railroad Commission regulations, LPG dealers are not to use the gallon metering devices on their delivery trucks, said Tom McCann of T. H. McCann Butane Co.

Inspector of the State Comptroller audited 18 million gallons sold over two years by the local firm. McCann said the butane company could account for one but less than one-tenth of one percent or 599 gallons.

Meters work with fuels which are liquid under normal conditions, McCann said. But his firm found they became inaccurate after 30 days of use with LPG which is liquid under pressure.

After the months time, the meters invariably showed more LPG gas delivered than really had been, he said.

It cost $25 every time an agent of the State Comptroller recalibrates a metering device, McCann said.

On the other hand, an official of the Texas Agriculture Department warned:

"Most L-P gas dealers in Texas have installed metering devices on their trucks which give a numerical reading in gallons of gas delivered."

However, some dealers are still using a percentage gauge. The National Bureau of Standards no longer approves this type for small deliveries," said Ed Whitesides, head of the Consumer Services Division, Texas Department of Agriculture.

Plans Shaping Up For 'Oil Month'

LAMESA (Spl) — Members of the Chamber of Commerce have mapped for "Emphasis on Oil Month" for September with speakers available for all civic groups.

Travis King, chairman of the Chamber's oil committee, indicated that the information will be concentrated on three areas of the industry: drilling and exploration, pipeline and ecology, and well servicing. There will be some other areas of interest information on the water flooding operations.

Civic clubs, ladies' organizations, and other groups desiring to schedule programs are asked to call the Chamber.

Local news media will carry on an extensive campaign of information and data relative to the industry during September to acquaint residents with the importance of the industry.

Youth Injured In Face Here

Tony Cortes, 2301 Marshall, reported at 5:35 p.m. Tuesday that his son had been shot in the face with a bb gun.

A policeman checked out the area but could find no one with such a gun.

Working with the district attorney has been Texas Ranger Charles Hodges, Midland.

Will P. Edwards Jr. is foreman of the grand jury.

Other grand jurors are Pat Boatler, Ralph Proctor, Mrs. J. T. Dunnam, Billy J. Bowers, Richard R. Pfeiffer, Edna E. Womack, Ray N. Prater, Roy Brooks, Mrs. Walter L. Slate, Mrs. Robert J. (Jack) Cook and Billy F. Grigg.

In addition to the dealership investigation, the grand jury was presented cases against 23 individuals charged with assorted felonies. No formal complaint has been filed in connection with business operations of the now closed dealership.

Tax Equity Day To Be Monday

A press conference has been scheduled by D. L. Willis, president of the Odessa Central Labor Union, to focus attention on "Tax Equity Day."

Willis called in Midland 7 p.m. Thursday. The tax equity day observance is slated Monday on a national basis. Fred Harris, former Oklahoma senator, heads the effort to seek broad-based support from middle bracket tax payers.

Harris claimed that "the burden has shifted more and more from the wealthy to the working man. It is time to make ourselves heard on justice in our income tax system."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Trains may not have mothers-in-law but they do have backseat drivers.

High-speed Metroliners that run between New York and Washington, D. C., use an electronic "back-seat driver" designed by WABCO here to keep the trains from exceeding speed limits and for emergency stops.

The electronic system picks up traffic signals along the track, relays the signals to the cab and automatically slows or stops the train if the engineer fails to respond.

'This Town Died When That Plane Went Down'

AXBRIDGE, England (AP) — The blinds were drawn today at many of the houses in Axbridge, and behind them the villagers wept for relatives and neighbors who died Tuesday on a blizzard-swept mountain in Switzerland.

It was the same in nearby Cheddar, Congresbury and Wrington, all picturesque villages in the Mendip hills of Somerset county, in southwest England.

HOPE

Husbands and sons had risen at dawn Tuesday to see 109 persons from the four villages—most of them women and girls—off on a sightseeing and shopping trip to Switzerland from Axbridge.

which they had saved and planned for months. Their airliner, operated by a British charter company, crashed south of Basel and 105 of the 144 persons aboard were dead or missing.

Only 31 of the 109 villagers were listed among the survivors. But families of the others still held some hope because identities of four of the survivors had not been announced and 10 persons were listed as missing.

"This town died when that plane went down," said one Axbridge man. "None of my family were aboard, but I knew every one of the people who went shopping from Axbridge."

The men heard about the crash on the radio at lunchtime and spent most of the day and night waiting and praying some of them at nearby Bristol airport, for news of their loved ones.

NEAR TO TEARS

Philip Batt left the airport at midnight with no news of eight relatives, among them his mother, father and grandmother.

"My God, my whole family," he said, near to tears.

Dennis Gill sat up all night waiting for word of his wife Ellen, daughter Hazel, brother Ivor, sister-in-law Marie and 21-year-old nephew John. The two families lived next door to each other in Congresbury.

At dawn the airline reported a woman named Gill was among the survivors. But Gill did not know whether it was his wife or daughter.

All day Tuesday rumor and uncertainty swept the villages. Not until nearly midnight did the first few names of the survivors trickle in.

During the evening, the men of Axbridge crowded into the 12th-century village church to pray with the Rev. Anthony Martin for their relatives and friends. Many left in tears.

Martin turned his vicarage into an information center, telephoning the airline, Swiss authorities, anybody, to get word.

Cancer Society Plans Chapter

LAMESA (SPL) — An organizational meeting to establish a Dawson County chapter of the American Cancer Society will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Chamber of Commerce offices. Dawson County is in the 18-county area of the Midland district of the American Cancer Society and is one of only two counties that do not have an organized chapter.

Rebecca Levacy Valedictorian

LAMESA (SPL) — Rebecca Levacy has been named valedictorian of the '72-73 senior class at Lamesa High School, according to Neal Chastain, principal.

Rebecca edged David Corley for the top position of the senior class by a lead of a mere thousandths of a point. The top rank in the 162 member senior class has rocked back and forth for the past four years.

In announcing the outstanding students, Chastain noted: "These two students have two of the highest grade-point averages of any students since I have been here. Not only are both outstanding students, but what is even nicer, they are both well-rounded active young people — not bookworms!"

According to Mrs. James Maddox, counselor at the high school, the top 10 students in the class include Lee Kral, third; Bret Hamilton, fourth; Janay Purkale, fifth; Linda Moody, sixth; Sam Chiles, seventh; Randy Addison, eighth; Greg Cannady, ninth; Vicky Anderson, 10th.

Weed Bust

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A former McAllen police investigator was charged Tuesday with smuggling marijuana from Mexico into the United States.

Lonnie C. Key was arrested at Roma late Monday by U.S. Customs agents who said they found about 275 pounds of marijuana.

U.S. Magistrate William Mallet set bond at $20,000 and ordered Key to the Cameron County Jail pending bond. Mallet said he would appoint a defense lawyer for Key.

"GIRL-GETTER": (Q) I like Meg. She is in the ninth grade and I am in the eighth. I have a reputation of being a girl-getter at our school. Well, last night I went out with Meg and kissed her twice, but that was all.

I am trying to win her confidence that I really love her and not her body. Please tell me how — Not Much Luck in Tennessee.

(A) There's nothing wrong with having a reputation for liking lots of girls. That is healthy.

But your letter gives me the impression that — no matter how much you deny it — your chief interest in girls is physical. This can get an eighth grade boy into all kinds of trouble unless he keeps it under control.

Keep your physical self under control when you are around Meg and she will probably trust you more.

problem is that my class is having a banquet at a place a long way from my home. I don't have a license except for my beginner's, so I don't know how I can take a date to the dinner.

There is one way I have thought of. My brother is 24 and his girl friend has a sister that I could take — maybe. Should I ask him to take me? If he would, then I would have to ask his girl friend's sister. I have met her only one time.

What To Do in West Virginia.

(A) I am definitely in favor of your making plans to go to the banquet.

Your brother and his girl friend seem like a good choice to take you. You, would, of course, have to arrange for tickets for them.

If the girl you have in mind says no, by all means ask someone else.

Student Total Varies Little

Enrollment continues steady in Big Spring schools, according to the report of April 6. There were 6,640 pupils in school, a decline of two for the week. Elementary schools had 3,491, a gain of five, but senior high lost seven to drive the secondary total to 3,072. Hospital and homebound enrollments stood at 77, off one. The grand total is 236 less than a year ago at the same time.

The bidding: West Pass North Pass East Pass South 1 ♠ 1 NT 2 NT Pass 3 NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠

A pair of lawyers, Amalya Kearse of New York City and Rhoda Walsh of Beverly Hills, Cal., combined forces to win the Life Master Women's Pairs held in Lancaster, Pa., last fall. A big final session enabled them to pull away from the rest of the field.

Nimble footwork by Kearse and Walsh with the East-West hands enabled them to upset South's enterprising three no trump contract in one of the deals taken from the Championship Event.

East's third seat opening bid of one spade is primarily distributional in nature and is a common tournament practice to compete for a part score. South displayed good judgment in overcalling with one no trump. Holding a balanced hand with 27 high card points, there is little to be gained by bidding two clubs, inasmuch as the best chance for game is in a nine trick contract. Altho North held five hearts, she concluded that there was little point in showing her suit for, if partner had good support for the other major she would probably have made a takeout double over one spade. North accordingly raised partner to two no trump and South carried on to game.

West opened the ten of spades, East signaled encouragement mildly by playing the seven and South won the trick with the jack. Declarer counted six quick winners—five clubs plus one spade—and her second spade stopper might be relied on to bring the total to seven. There would not be sufficient time to develop dummy's hearts, so South decided to work on the diamonds for her eighth and ninth tricks.

The king of diamonds was led at trick two. Had West played the ace, the contest would have been over, for declarer cannot be prevented from taking nine tricks. West bided her time, however, by following with the five. South continued with the queen of diamonds and West now rose with the ace and continued with the ten to dislodge dummy's jack. By so doing, she was establishing the nine of diamonds, while East still retained control of the spade suit.

Declarer led a spade from dummy in an attempt to steal her ninth trick before the defense cashed out. East put up the ace of spades, however, played the ace of hearts next and then led a heart to West's King. The latter took the setting trick with the nine of diamonds.

Forced To Make Obscene Call?

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A Mobile man has been sentenced to six months at hard labor on a charge of making a 55-minute, long obscene telephone call to two South Central Bell

Cost Of Importing Water Too High, Study Reveals

A project to move water from the lower Mississippi River to West Texas and eastern New Mexico has been found by the Bureau of Reclamation to be economically unjustified under present project formulation standards. This was announced Thursday by the Bureau of Reclamation and the Mississippi River Commission at meetings in Lubbock and in Memphis, Tenn. The Lubbock meeting was held by the Bureau of Reclamation in 1968, established that the lower Mississippi River is the most favorably located source of import water for the High Plains.

Figures provided by the Mississippi River Commission indicate that flows near the mouth of the Mississippi, surplus to needs projected to the year 2020, might be available about one-third of the time. It is determined that diminished flows would not adversely affect the estuarine resources of the Louisiana Gulf Coast, a portion of which could be available for diversion from the Atchafalaya River in the vicinity of Morgan City, La.

Water diverted from the Mississippi River would be lifted by a series of pumping plants in a canal with a carrying capacity of 40,000 cubic feet per second, through water conveyance systems across Louisiana and east Texas to Twin Lakes, northwest of the Dallas-Fort to operations, maintenance, and replacement costs. Further findings of the study reveal that the ratio of direct and total benefits to annual economic costs is 0.14 and 1.00 and 0.27 to 1.00, respectively. Under present plan formulation and evaluation concepts, the project is not justifiable from national economic standpoint, said the Bureau report.

Vice Squad Officers Seize 'Deep Throat'

HOUSTON (AP) — Police joined a national parade Tuesday and stopped the showing of the movie "Deep Throat" after ignoring the film when it previously played here a year ago.

Vice squad officers raided the Cinema West Art Theatre as it opened Tuesday with a rerun of the film, which depicts various sexual acts.

DEGRADING

They obtained a warrant to seize the film after officer Troy R. Driscoll testified he found it "disgusting and degrading to women."

Capt. Jack M. Albright, head of the vice squad, said when "Deep Throat" played in Houston a year ago there was no attempt to stop it because police were awaiting the outcome of a decision on an obscenity case by an appeals court.

He said the raid was made Tuesday because courts had ruled in New York and Dallas that "Deep Throat" was obscene.

If the case against the film stands up, he added, his squad will attempt to close other movies which show similar sexual acts.

SEX TALK

Joe Speigel, manager of the theater showing the film, said he does not consider it pornographic, adding that it serves to stimulate open discussion about sex.

The film opened Tuesday and showed to packed houses four times before police arrived about 2 p.m. and put a temporary stop to the screening.

Then came the hearing before District Court Judge I. D. McMaster, who issued a search warrant to seize the film and any property used in showing it.

At the hearing, Driscoll said the film depicted sodomy "from all angles."

"Did you know that a New York psychiatrist recommended this film for his patients?" the officer was asked by defense lawyer Clyde Woody.

"If he said that, he needs a psychiatrist," Driscoll replied.

After obtaining their warrant, officers seized the film Tuesday night. They said they will present the case to the grand jury and ask for an indictment.

Must Serve Prison Term For Shooting Principal

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — An Idabel woman who was the focal point of a civil rights dispute in McCurtain County three years ago must serve a 10-year prison term for shooting a school principal, the state Court of Criminal Appeals decreed Tuesday.

Judge Brett said when Canant was shot and fell to the ground Mrs. Gist, who fired two shots, made no effort to further wound him.

Brett said, "If the defendant had the intent to kill the witness, she would have shot him while he was on the ground."

DRESS CODE

The shooting was the climax of a civil rights dispute in the southeastern Oklahoma County that at one point saw 170 black students walk out of Idabel schools in a boycott over a dress code.

Events in the county led to then Gov. Dewey Bartlett ordering an investigation and the governor then asked that all Vista workers be removed from the county.

Bartlett made his request for removal of the workers when James Hendrick Jr., a Vista worker, accompanied Mrs. Gist to the school where the shooting occurred.

Hendrick remained outside in the car while Mrs. Gist went inside to confront Canant.

Canant was wounded in the arm.

NO ERROR

The appeals court said it found no error in Mrs. Gist's

'Staggers' In Two States

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A cattle disease known as tetany, or "staggers" to old-time cattlemen, has reached near-epidemic proportions in Southwest Missouri and Southeast Kansas, according to veterinarians in the two states.

Months of virtually unbroken cold and wet weather are the chief contributing factors as the moisture robs pasture grass of vital magnesium. Veterinarians say the lower magnesium count in the cow's bloodstream after it begins nursing a calf is a contributing factor in the high death rate—estimated at one to five per cent among many herds.

Tetany can be a problem every spring, but usually fades as bright sunlight and warm temperatures strengthen the grass. Ranchers say their pastures have remained "waxy" this year because of the cold, wet weather.

Veterinarians say the highest rate of tetany is occurring where winter supplies of hay have been depleted and cows have been turned out to pasture. They recommended pasture feeding be supplemented with hay and also suggest a mineral feed that includes 60 per cent magnesium oxide.

Dr. Taylor Woods, Missouri state veterinarian, says farmers have at least 30 minutes but no more than 6 hours to act once they notice a cow nervous or trembling. If a veterinarian gets to the cow quickly there is a chance the animal can be saved, Woods says.

Brief Films Nice Way To Reply

By JAV SHARRITT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — How do you thank the Red Cross for its help during disasters? Three college students did it in two brief films that will start appearing on television stations around the country in May.

The films—one runs 30 seconds, the other a minute—are public service announcements that local Red Cross chapters will give television stations in the nation's top 50 markets.

They summarize how the Red Cross works during disasters and how it helped during last June's massive floods in the East that killed 134 persons.

The young filmmakers are radio-television students at Ithaca College in upstate New York. They are Harvey Zvansky, 22, the producer-writer; Bruce Levine, 21, the photographer; and Esther Grey, 20, the production assistant.

more than an exercise in filmmaking. Her family, which lives in the Pennsylvania community of Kingston near Wilkes-Barre, was hit hard by the June floods; their home sustained heavy water damage.

Members of the Grey family appear in both films.

Zvansky, a senior from Port Washington, N.Y., said the idea for the project came while he and Miss Grey were helping her family dig out after the flood.

"It was pretty bad then," he recalled. "There was no water, no electricity, no heat, no nothing. All there was was the Red Cross running around with bottled water and sandwiches."

"But what the Red Cross people were doing was really appreciated. And it occurred to us, since we're film majors, why don't we make them a spot? It'd be a nice way to say thanks," Zvansky said.

Intent Of Bill Obvious

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has called attention to a very dangerous bill introduced in the Senate. Backed by the Nixon administration, the bill could amount to blanket censorship of government activities, reducing the press to carriers of whatever tidings the administration saw fit to deliver to the public.

Sens. Roman Hruska, a Republican, and John McClellan, a Democrat, are the bill's sponsors-of-record. Their piece of legislation would make it a crime to disclose any classified information. Those disclosing such information would be subject to fines and imprisonment; newsmen and officials of broadcasting or publishing enterprises making use of such information also would be subject to criminal penalties.

The intent and likely results of such legislation should be obvious. Merely by applying a classified stamp to any information, the government could prevent its disclosure. The test would not be whether publication of the information would damage the nation's security, or whether classification was valid, but only that the government did not want it revealed. No doubt the administration would be spared a lot of embarrassment and criticism by such expedient action. But the public's right to know would be almost destroyed.

If the bill becomes law, about the only information forthcoming about government would be press releases prepared by the government.

Loophole To Close

The federal government is approaching a decision on welfare benefits for strikers.

This is a classic labor-management confrontation. Management argues that strikers should not be subsidized with welfare while on the picket-line. Labor says its members pay taxes and are entitled to aid when in need.

Here is the key difference: A strike is the result of a conscious decision to leave the job. It does not stem from accident, disability, poverty or misfortune.

When the government, via the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, makes the decision, it should bar welfare benefits for strikers. The public should not be made a party to either side of strikes.

Anything else could be classified; the lid of censorship could be lashed down tight.

The administration's penchant for closed-door government and its dislike of the press have long been evident. This bill would make it the law of the land that government's desires to cloak itself in secrecy take precedence over the right of the people to know what it is doing. Few pieces of proposed legislation can be more dangerous than this; it deserves short shrift in Congress.

The Gray Eagle

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

Several years ago Helen Wilson, who now lives in Fort Worth, brought in a picture. Here were two newsmen who looked like school kids, seated at their desks and battling our copy like mad. These were the likenesses of Robert W. (Bob) Whipple and me, pretty much the "staff" of the Herald back in 1935 when he came here. Truth was that neither of us were too far out of college.

HE WAS sharp as a tack, a fast and accurate writer, a rapid reader (and, he would not appreciate this, a not-so-good proofreader, in which role he served constantly). So he had my respect from the start; he won my gratitude when he took a little weekly column I had established and said it would henceforth become a front page Sunday feature under the title of "The Week."

Right off, we set about preparing a special edition commemorating the first 10 years after the first major oil strike. We wrote about every facet of community life we could think of, and only a sense of humor kept us from going. I composed some corry lyrics, he a corry tune, and we sang "Doded" (Decade of Development) as an anthem.

THE NEXT year the Herald's young society editor, Lucille Rix, and I were married, and Bob and Ruby had a dinner party for us, and he envied a couple of tickets from American Airlines so we could go to California for our honeymoon. That was in the day when commercial flying was a novelty if not a daredevil experience.

He got involved in community work and had a hand in getting Jimmie Green to come over from Colorado City (Bob's home town) to be the Chamber of Commerce Manager. Both had key roles in the campaign to land the Big Spring State Hospital.

THEN CAME the war, and when he got a Navy commission, I inherited his spot for the duration. I'll never forget the sinking feeling, when, in his smart uniform and white cap, he boarded the train. Not long after he returned, the town decided to celebrate the centennial of discovery of the "big spring." In addition to becoming a chief promoter as an executive committee member, he edited and headed the copy for the entire 200-page edition (probably the finest historical work about Big Spring ever produced), dunned in our 12-18-hour day regimen for some six to eight weeks.

THERE WERE fast friendships among the old guard such as Red McMahen, our peppery pressman who had a special gift in saying something that managed to make Bob's jaw twitch. Grammy Glenn, the composing room foreman who habitually made the pronouncement "It won't go," Tommy Hart, Oliver Cofer, Rusty Smith. Red, it was, I think who coined the title of the "Gray Eagle" on the Chief. This snatched over to the world outside, and from it came a similar sobriquet, "the Gray Fox."

ALL OF US at one time toyed with the thought of murder or threatened to quit more than once, but Bob poured oil on waters. I don't think I heard him say "I'm sorry," but you know he was because he bent so far the other way in being nice. There were little things you don't forget, like a call I got one evening before flying to Dallas: "Why don't you take Tommy (our oldest son)?" He knew Tom was nuts about planes. Or the time he sent me on assignment to Washington, knowing my family could go along and get to visit my congressman brother.

IF HE had a short fuse (and he did), he had a big heart. In times of trouble among the Herald family, he was early there and late to leave. About 15 years ago that heart suffered physical damage, and there were later flurries. He pushed himself too hard and his color grew ashen. But after retiring, he finally relaxed, looked great, had that old sparkle.

AS WHEN he was at the helm here, he came in, plopped down in a chair and opened the conversation: "Colonel Pickle, three things — then promptly enumerated them, added "you may not be able to do this." He knew darn well we'd break a leg trying.

Always he had the Herald at heart. I can just see him over on the other side of the river, smirking and shaking his head sanctily with pride. He died just right for the Herald's press time.

People 'Museum'

Robert E. Ford

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Hunted down a distinguished folklorist, newsmen and historian the other day in San Antonio.

He is R. Henderson Shuffler, who at that moment stood at the rear of the handsome Institute of Texan Cultures building puffing a pipe and waiting for a new fire engine.

SHUFFLER is devoting himself to helping persons of varied cultures understand each other.

He and the staff, including a lanky, sun-weathered Texan, O. T. Baker, are doing this through displays showing that many different peoples made Texas what it is. Baker is manager of projects, exhibits and the Texas Folklife Festival.

How many national, racial or ethnic groups got together to create Texas? The institute says 26 and has the facts and artifacts to prove it.

But, "this is not a museum," says Baker.

"We deal primarily with people — museums deal with things," he added. It is somewhat unfortunate that the institute is on the back lot of the HemisFair grounds. Yet hundreds of thousands find it amusingly.

First impression was that the place is inhabited by millions of birds, for a constant chirp, chirp, chirp filled the place.

What it was, it turned out, was hundreds of persons, many of them in school groups, exclaiming in wonder as they went from one display to another.

THE INSTITUTE was created for HemisFair. The legislature appropriated about $10.5 million to operate it for two years. Nearly three million persons saw it in that period. About 750,000 persons tour the place annually now, although that is just an educated guess since people just walk in.

The University of Texas System operates it. So you think there aren't many Lebanese in Texas? Well, 940 visited the exhibit last year, which must be a good segment of that nationality in the United States.

Also missed an important member of the staff, Rocky Stallings, a Tonkawa Indian. Stallings is the resident medicine man — off sick that day.

BAKER SHOWED a fishing reel the Indians used 5,000 years ago. Baker said Stallings can get great distances from it.

Also saw an arrow that must have been the inspiration for multi-headed nuclear missiles.

These arrows have up to seven points each. However the points do not fly apart like those on the missiles.

Baker says that the Indian exhibit is the favorite of school groups. The institute only recently received a mounted buffalo.

"Watch the youngsters," said Baker.

Almost every child walked up and felt of the eyes.

"I don't know why they do that," Baker admitted, shaking his head.

There is a cured buffalo robe hanging on the wall.

"Feel it," suggested Baker.

Your hand goes into the fur almost to the wrist. It helps understand how Indians could survive Texas' northers in an airy tepee.

There is a Negro exhibit, too, although not so complete as it might be, since some black groups object to depicting slavery days or anything which smacks of Uncle Tomism.

So the black exhibit largely is filled with pictures and stories of Negro politicians, industrialists, businessmen, inventors, artists and athletes.

Severest Test

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — At the formal preview of the great French Impressionists on loan exhibit to the National Gallery Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson took a wistful backward look at his origins. He remarked that once, as a very young man, he had collected reproductions of these same pictures.

THAT WAS when he had considered printing as a career. He continues to be a water colorist of no mean ability and when he has time, which is more and more in short supply in his new post, the secretary goes back to the avocation that might have been a vocation.

Perhaps the most cultivated and urbane of the men who have come through the Nixon years, Richardson has also proved in three widely contrasting posts to be one of the ablest. As secretary of defense he is confronted with demands that will tax all his abilities. Not the least is the burden put on him to defend the continued bombing by B-52s in Cambodia.

THIS IS becoming for the critics a constitutional issue of the gravest meaning. The use of American air power had been justified by the need to protect American troops on the ground. Now that all the troops are removed there can be no legal justification, say the critics with Sen. J. William Fulbright in the forefront, for pounding this shattered, largely ruined little country. If the President can do this, he can at any time and in any place use American military might to achieve his political-diplomatic ends. This is usurpation of the war-making power that must have the Founding Fathers revolving in their graves.

IN SEVERAL forums Richardson has given different reasoning for the accelerated daily pounding — as many as 60 B-52s — of Cambodian trails and highways. At one point he called Cambodia an "ally." No one had gone that far before.

On another occasion he said it was essential to clean up a lingering corner of the Indochina war. In his latest statement he said it might be necessary to airlift supplies, arms and gasoline to besieged government forces in Phnom Penh. The reason for the bombing is obvious enough — to try to shore up the faltering regime of Premier Lon Nol as his capital is increasingly cut off from all contact by rail and river.

RICHARDSON'S legal skill in this box cannot be discounted. Graduating from Harvard Law School with honors, he became a law clerk first to Judge Learned Hand in New York and then to Justice Felix Frankfurter, a connoisseur of law clerks out of Harvard. In elective politics in Massachusetts he was first lieutenant governor and then attorney general, a post he left to come to Washington at Nixon's bidding as under secretary of state, then secretary of HEW.

HIS ADMIRERS are now asking whether the Pentagon is not a booby trap. As defense secretary he succeeded that tough graduate of Congressional politics, Melvin R. Laird. A cynical House member put it this way: "You don't really think that Boston guppy can survive those sharks over in the Pentagon, do you?"

Good Day To Inherit Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Most men can't spell mayonnaise.

At any one time — except when they are asleep — no more than two out of every ten people are usually free enough from fear, passion, financial troubles or loneliness to be called as sane and normal as they should be. When they are asleep, the number of normal people probably rises to two out of five — on good nights.

If you are over 40 and want to be shocked by how far you have failed physically, simply play a game of hopscotch with a 10-year-old girl.

The cheapest millionaires are those who smoke cigars. They will generously take you to lunch, but when you return to their office for a talk they will fish a big cigar from an expensive box of them on the desk and spend the next hour blowing smoke in your face. Rarely will they hold out the box to you and invite you to have one or a handful. To them the cigars are a kind of symbolic reward which only they deserve. If you need a free cigar, ask a cab driver — not a millionaire.

On a rainy day, three times as many men as women will get their eyeball stuck by the point of an umbrella. Anyone who thinks this percentage is accidental doesn't know human nature — or the female gender.

The reason I haven't taken up yoga, as many of my friends have, is that I figure if God had wanted me to be a pretzel, he would have made me one.

The ordinary adult feels about teen-agers pretty much like Gelett Burgess felt about the purple cow — he'd rather see than be one. Speaking of Burgess, here are three more lines from this wry and partly forgotten humorist you may like:

"Many people live alone and like it, but most of them live alone and look it." "To be two years a widow exceedeth a college education." "If the Lord would only send something interesting, I wouldn't mind if it was only a plaid pig."

Any girl who sticks a guy for a sirloin steak three times in a row when he takes her out to dinner doesn't deserve marriage anyway.

One out of three people who take up an office collection for any cause doesn't chip in a buck himself. And it isn't because he forgets to.

Guys with white shoes don't wear very well either.

One of the things I feel sorry for about kids growing up today is that most of them never have put their ear to a railroad track to hear if the train is coming. Remember what a thrill and feeling of daring that gave you the first time you did it?

For that matter, how many alive now can recall ever having been switched by a buggy whip? Once was enough to improve any character.

No man really knows the mystery of life until he has owned two cats or had one wife.

The busier an executive looks the less he is probably getting done.

If a man lets his work give him an ulcer, he'd probably get two if he stayed idle.

No matter how bad the weather is, it's always a good day to inherit money.

Dizzy In The Morning

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Every few months or so I go to bed feeling fine but, on awakening, as soon as my feet hit the floor I am dizzy and the whole room seems to go round and round. This will last a few minutes. The same thing will happen if I lie down and get up again.

I have asked my own doctor and also been to a hospital and two clinics, but after blood checks and other tests they could give me no answer. Can you give me some kind of explanation? — A.M.P.

You've been checked — evidently thoroughly — for any health deficiency. In view of that, I would suggest postural hypotension (low blood pressure) as a likely explanation.

This is not as uncommon as you might think, and a good many people shrug it off. When you are asleep, your body functions slow down. That includes your heart. Blood pressure is at low ebb. The same thing happens when you are resting, but not asleep, although not to as great an extent.

It's a familiar experience to find a patient's blood pressure high in the later hours of the day, but find it low the first thing in the morning, and especially when the patient has just awakened.

So what happens when you've been asleep or resting? You wake up with your blood pressure substantially below what it will be as you become active.

If, at such a time, you suddenly stand up, your blood pressure does not instantly swoop up to a normal waking level. With this somewhat reduced pressure, you don't push as much blood up to your head (and brain). The result can be this transient dizziness, and the room spins.

For a person in ordinary good health, this is not harmful, not a sign of something going wrong healthwise. The only risk is that you might stumble and fall.

What to do about it? Don't get panicky. Just learn how to get up in the morning. Lie still for a minute or so. That is, staying lying down but flexing muscles in your arms and legs and any other muscles over which you have voluntary control.

If need be (try it and find out) then sit on the edge of the bed for another minute. Scratch your head and get arms moving. Give your blood a chance to start circulating, and you should have no more dizzy spells.

(There are, of course, other causes of dizzy spells, but they don't as a rule occur, as they do with you, ONLY after your feet hit the floor after lying down or sleeping.)

Fear Of Inflation

By Rowland Evans
And Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — The deepening resistance of Richard M. Nixon's White House to outside criticism of the disastrous course of the new Nixonomics was dramatized in a President's refusal to accept a prepaid telephone call from Dr. Pierre Rinfret last week.

RINFRET, Canadian-born head of the New York economic consulting firm of Rinfret Boston Associates, sometimes acts the brash iconoclast in the occult world of economics. But to President Nixon and the 110 gilded financial and industrial circles in Rinfret's consulting portfolio, he is more often regarded as a trend-setter whose advice politicians of all ideologies seek out.

Indeed, President Nixon thought so highly of Rinfret's ability to marry economics and politics on the speaking platform that he named him chief campaign spokesman for economics last fall. There never was any regret inside the White House over that decision.

YET, WHEN Rinfret attempted to telephone his galvanic alarm over runaway inflation to Mr. Nixon one day last week, he failed to reach not only the President but also his chief of staff, H. R. (Bob) Haldeman. Instead, Rinfret was deftly deflected to Haldeman's assistant, Lawrence M. Higby. Higby listened and said nothing when Rinfret, in a burst of exasperation, told him to inform Mr. Nixon that the new Nixonomics of rampant inflation — with no sign of serious preventive medicine either at the White House or in George Shultz's Treasury Department — mark the "political Waterloo" of the Nixon presidency.

RINFRET is not the only objective, outside economist now convinced that if Mr. Nixon does not plant across-the-board price controls on everything the American consumer buys — a major shift in administration policy which had not occurred as we write this — the American economy will be sucked ever deeper into ruinous Brazilian-style inflation, followed by recession.

ALBERT SINDLINGER, probably the nation's leading expert on consumer analysis, is telling his marketing research clients that his earlier prediction of an acceptably gentle economic downturn in the fourth quarter of 1973 has been prediction; a full-fledged recession.

MY ANSWER

Billy Graham

How can you continue to live with your husband after you find he's been unfaithful? I've tried forgiveness, so I need another approach. — D.F.

In the sight of God, the act of adultery uniquely breaks the marriage contract. Despite this, it is not a situation without remedy. I have known many couples whose lives and homes were shattered by this problem, but who were later reconciled and reunited to pursue productive and compatible lives.

It seems to me these four things are important. First, to face the fact honestly. Often, this is best done with a counselor, at least a trusted third party who can facilitate sharing objectively.

Secondly, there must be a mutual desire to make the marriage work.

This involves some painful introspection at times. Usually, it reveals that while one partner has committed the most obvious offense, the other has shortcomings which contribute to it.

Thirdly, for the Christian at least, there must be applied liberal doses of forgiveness. Who can forget the 70 times 7 formula of Jesus with Peter? Matthew 18:22.

Lastly, the help of God must be sought in correcting the wandering affection. The Bible promises this help "more than we could ask or imagine" (Ephesians 3:20). Now, whether you've taken some or all of these steps before, it doesn't matter. Repeat the procedure, expecting that this time it will work. Take the advice of many a lonely divorcee—that working out a solution is much better than walking out of the house.

A Devotion For Today . .

"Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you; not as the world gives do I give to you" (John 14:27, RSV)

PRAYER: Gracious Lord, we turn to Thee, seeking true peace which Thou alone canst give. We acknowledge our sin in running after our hearts. Amen.

'Garden Of Fashion' Bursts Into Bloom

By JO BRIGHT

"With the coming of springtime, let him who would drink deeply of life's contentment turn his thoughts to the garden."

With these words, Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall opened the swinging gate to Swartz' "Garden of Fashion" when the spring style show was presented Tuesday at Big Spring Country Club by the Women's Auxiliary to the Permian Basin Medical Society.

Mrs. Kuykendall was narrator for the show, as auxiliary members served as models. They were Mrs. R. G. Botros, Mrs. H. K. Butler Jr., Mr. R. B. G. Cowper, Mrs. C. B. Marcum, Mrs. Pete Rhymes, Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr., and Mrs. Robert Tinley. A highlight of the show was the surprise appearance of Mrs. Doug Orme as "Miss Big Spring, 1890". The audience applauded Mrs. Orme's interpretation of a turn-of-the-century bathing beauty.

Hostesses were Mrs. J. H. Fish, Mrs. Robert Griffin and Mrs. B. Williams, assisted by Mrs. John Hogan. Musical accompaniment was by Frank Wharton, pianist. The show was directed by Mrs. Ed Shive of Swartz, and shoes were from Barnes-Pelletier.

Joining the hostesses in greeting the guests were auxiliary officers. Mrs. William B. Allensworth, president; Mrs. Floyd Mays, vice president; and Mrs. Cowper, secretary-treasurer.

"Gardening is an art, a science and a craft," continued Mrs. Kuykendall. "The gardener should possess something of an artist, the eager, inquiring mind of the scientist and the skillful hands and diligent zeal of the craftsman. And so it is with good style. Beautiful clothing, like gardening, is an art near to the hearts of all females."

Fashions ranged from sun-seeking resort wear to romantic night life fashions to don at the change of the moon. Throughout the collection, the accent was on clean lines, feminine fabrics and unquestionable style.

Mrs. Butler's first appearance was in a pants outfit; the red and white checked pant worn with white blouse and red orlon shrunk. Her formal attire was a slender, halter-necked gown of white polyester lace with single ruffles circling the waist and hemline. In resort wear, she modeled a long, multi-colored beach dress (pink, purple and green) which covered a matching bikini.

Mrs. Thomas' day dress had a black, long-line top with high-rising neckline and cap sleeves to top a white pleated skirt bordered with black. For evening, she showed a rose red Trevira gown, made striking by the wide neckline ruffle which cascaded to form a flounce around the skirt.

Bright red was also chosen by Mrs. Cowper for a palazzo pant and matching v-necked vest teamed with a soft white blouse, bow-tied at the neckline. Her formal attire was a slender, stark-white, shirt-waist gown in white Trevira belted in black velvet caught with a white gardenia.

The popularity of pantsuits was re-affirmed by Mrs. Carl Marcum in chalk white pants teamed with a double breasted navy jacket brightened with military buttons and a gold crest. She showed a preference for the same colors when she appeared again in navy palazzo pants made feminine by a sheer white blouse, double-ruffled at the neck and wrists.

Black formed the background in a bouquet of a dress worn by Mrs. Danny Botros; flowers growing wildly but fenced at the hemline with black and white checks. For dancing, she showed a red and white plaid polyester organza skirt with draped red top featuring a cummerbund sash.

Mrs. Rhymes' first costume was a four-piece suit of warm, brown plaid, the belted coat teamed with either pant or skirt and complemented with a deep brown shell. Her evening choice was a pure yellow gown with matching cardigan sweater.

Spring's dominant color, green, was combined with blue and grey for a trim pantsuit worn by Mrs. Tinley. A navy shell completed the outfit. Making her last appearance in the show, Mrs. Tinley wore a white pleated polyester skirt with navy top styled with braided-trimmed sailor collar. The green covered refreshment table was accented with a green cloth and the centerpiece was a gold caduceus based in leather fern and coral and pink azalea blossoms.

Who's My Dad?

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old and reasonably well adjusted although I grew up without a father.

My mother told me that a few months after she married my father he was killed in the war. It didn't take too much intelligence to figure out that if my father had really been killed in the war he would have been considered a hero in the eyes of his widow, and she'd have kept his memory alive with pictures, letters and souvenirs to be shared with his family. It also seemed strange to me that I had never met one relative on my father's side.

I have concluded that I am illegitimate. Believe me, I love my mother and I am not judging her regardless of what the facts were, but I would like to know who my father was. Should I ask my mother?

DAUGHTER
DEAR CURIOUS: You say you "love" your mother, and I'm sure you do. For 30 years you've suspected that you doubted her explanation. Leave it that way, dear.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 14-year-old daughter who is so boy crazy she worries me sick. All she thinks about is boys. She's got boys' names written all over her books. And every piece of paper by the telephone is marked up with initials and boys' names.

When the doorbell rings she runs like lightning to talk to any delivery boy it happens to be. What really bothers me is she lies. I don't allow her to go in cars with boys so she walks to a girl's house and the boys meet her with a car there. I found this out by reading her diary. I asked her for the truth and she lied to cover up her lies. How can I get the truth out of her?

MRS. G.
DEAR MRS. G.: The only reason children lie is because they haven't the courage to tell the truth. Give your daughter the courage by assuring her that no matter what she has done you will understand and forgive her. Perhaps your threats are too frightening and your punishments too severe. Give your child plenty of love and expect the best, and you'll rarely be disappointed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old single woman. I am reasonably happy and normal in every respect, and believe it or not I am not desperate to get married. Nobody can believe this.

I have several relatives who are determined to find a husband for me. They have given my telephone number to dozens of men, from 25 years old to 60! I've been called by widowers, bachelors, and men who have been married from one to five times! I

Puzzle of Tuesday, April 10, Solved

Ministers Lead Campaign

requests of the Friends of Tennis.

On an emergency basis, the Commission unanimously approved a resolution for the city to join the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council. Nagel explained that emergency passage was necessary because several Howard County matters are pending before the planning council.

TAX EXEMPTION

Commissioners also passed on first reading a measure to grant a $3,000 homestead tax exemption in 1974 ad valorem taxes to citizens over 65 years of age. Nagel said the maximum amount of revenue that passage of the exemption would cost the city is $42,000 a year. A regional planning council study listed some 1,000 local residences as eligible homesteads for the exemption.

In other action, the Commission: —Approved on second reading Wade Choate for his two years annexation of 74.35 acres of city-owned land north of city limits.

—Approved on final reading an ordinance charging $3 for turn-off of city water service for repair purposes.

—Awarded a contract for a bank depository to Security State Bank.

—Appointed Mayor Pro Tem Eddie Aciri to serve on an advisory board to the Teen Center Committee now forming.

—Granted purchasing agents authority to advertise for bids on phase I of the street paving program which will pave 17,200 feet of street excluded from previous paving programs at an estimated cost of $175,000.

—Canvassed results of the April 3 city election and installed Mrs. Floyd Mays and Charles Tompkins as new commissioners. Outgoing commissioner Jack Watkins was presented a plaque by Mayor Wade Choate for his two years of service.

—Granted a $25 a month car allowance increase for Ed Cherry, juvenile probation officer.

—Granted a specific use permit to Kent Oil Inc. to sell beer at service station 401.

—Passed a resolution authorizing the mayor to execute a right-of-way easement to Texas Electric Service Co.

—Passed Nagel's request that windshield stickers granting exemption from parking citations be printed and distributed to convention groups visiting the city.

—Granted purchasing agents authority to advertise for bids on already budgeted equipment such as pick-ups, automobiles and motor graders.

Choate appointed Mrs. Mays to the Parks and Recreation Committee on revenue sharing and named Tompkins to the Water and Sewer Committee and the Audit Committee.

New Mexico Snow Damage

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The State Planning Office says that the spring storms that swept northern New Mexico recently ultimately could result in the loss of five per cent of the cattle and nearly half the calf crop in the area.

Planning Officer David King estimated total livestock losses caused by the deep snows could reach $30 million.

But Bob Broussard, assistant regional director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, said his helicopter tour of Union and Colfax counties, hardest hit by the storms, indicates losses probably will not be that high.

Broussard said the massive helicopter airlift to supply feed to the stranded range cattle was successful in cutting livestock deaths.

King estimated that some 26,000 head of cattle will be lost.

Broussard came to New Mexico from Dallas, Tex., to begin a federal state damage survey in response to Gov. Bruce King's request that the 11 northern counties be declared a presidential disaster area.

The federal official said the information and recommendations on which a presidential proclamation would be based probably will not be ready until May 1.

New Power Unit Ready June 1

BROWNFIELD — A $1,375,000 dual fuel turbine engine capable of generating 6500 kilowatts of electricity is set to begin operation here, June 1.

The Westinghouse gas or diesel run engine for the turbine will be a needed addition to the city's power plant when the air conditioner load comes in the summer, city manager Jake Geron said.

The new turbine unit will be housed in a new site one mile south of here. Funds for the unit will come from the approved December 1971 $1.5 million bond election.

J. L. Howard In Jail Here

James Lonnie Howard, 28, of North Glenn, Colo., was in county jail this morning charged with theft by bailee. Municipal Court Judge John Coffee set bond at $2,500.

Sheriff's officers in Hillsboro, Ore., have also filed a complaint of larceny by embezzlement against Howard in connection with the theft of a car in October 1970.

City police picked Howard up in Lovington, N.M., on Monday. He waived extradition.

Plans For Improvement Of Park To Be Heard

Gary and Hohertz, architects, are working in connection with the project. Cost of the project will probably be around $7,500 to include all expenses for preparation, research, labor, and materials for preliminary master planning.

Revenue sharing funds may be earmarked for the project.

Purpose of the improvements will be to preserve natural wilderness and environment of the area, develop the site of the original historical Big Spring area, and provide facilities to meet the variety of recreational needs of local people and tourists.

A committee meeting will be held Thursday afternoon to discuss proposals for improvement of the Big Spring Creek and Comanche Trails Park area.

Mrs. Floyd Mays has been named as city commissioner for parks, replacing M. R. Koger, and will represent the city in the study.

The proposal is for possible bridle trails and hiking trails from Comanche Trails through the site of the old original Big Spring and Cosden Lake area
