Kissinger, Key Soviet Leaders Meet

MOSCOW (AP) — In the fastness of a Kremlin leader's country home, White House counselor Henry A. Kissinger conferred with "high Soviet officials" Saturday about the increasingly improved relations between Russia and America.

Although sources declined to identify the Soviet officials, it was presumed Kissinger was talking to the Soviet Communist party general secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, whose trip to Washington this summer for a second summit with President Nixon is to be a symbol of developing cooperation between the superpowers.

The discussions were taking place at Zavidovo, a well-guarded complex of government dachas about 60 miles north of Moscow at the confluence of the Shosha and Volga rivers between forests of pine and birch.

NEWS BLACKOUT

At the center of Kissinger's conversations was an agenda for Brezhnev's U.S. visit and with it what Kissinger described on his arrival Friday as a "review (of) bilateral relations."

An almost complete news blackout was imposed by both sides.

Three British Soldiers Killed In Bomb Ambush

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Three British soldiers were killed and several wounded in an elaborate guerrilla bombing ambush Saturday near the border with the Irish republic.

"Our boys never stood a chance," one army officer reported. "The attack was cold-blooded and cowardly."

The ambush on a lonely, mist-shrouded road near Crossmaglen, a mainly Roman Catholic border town 50 miles southwest of Belfast, came during an otherwise peaceful day in the trouble-torn province.

The IRA's Provisionals later claimed responsibility for the blast and for a similar mine attack Friday on a paratrooper patrol at nearby Fort Hill. There was no casualties in that ambush.

'CRUSHER' WINS 500 Eye Shriners Parade

Despite the threat of showers, about 500 persons gathered Saturday morning to watch the Shrine Parade held downtown as part of the Spring ceremonial of the Suez Temple.

James R. Campbell, director of public works at City Hall, was chosen from the 19 new Nobles of the Shrine to be honored with the jeweled ring.

RING AND PIN

Campbell appeared as gridiron star "Crusher" Campbell with Jack Ed Irons as his coach. Winner of the ring was announced at a dance at the Cosden Country Club Saturday night.

Bernard R. (Johnson Grass) Johnson, Abilene, was the other ring candidate. Johnson won a diamond pin.

Two other new Nobles — Wesley L. Yater and Irons, both of Big Spring — received write-in votes for the ring.

Other Big Spring men initiated as Nobles included Melvin Coleman, Lewis T. Hargrove Jr., Travis C. Floyd, Charles O. Graham, Lloyd G. Knalls, Larry D. Mayfield, LeRoy W. Rorick, Denver Lee Pettitt and George D. Weeks.

In addition to Johnson, new Nobles from Abilene are Loye Lee Hilton Jr. and Bob T. Martin. Snyder men taking their final step into Shrinedom were W. H. Baldwin Sr. and W. H. Baldwin Jr. Gary Samad, San Angelo, and Beach Waters, Del Rio, were presented a fezz also Saturday afternoon.

RECORDER HONORED

George Bair, potentate, dedicated the ceremonial to Ben Godfrey, Suez Temple recorder of San Angelo. Godfrey is celebrating his 50th anniversary in Shrinedom.

Reviewing the . . . Big Spring Week . . . with Joe Pickle

The joint was jumping this weekend! A contingent of some thousand Shriners and wives kept it that way from Friday afternoon to midnight Saturday for the Spring ceremonial of the Suez Temple. Then area square dancers moved in for a big frolic Saturday evening. And paint horse enthusiasts rolled in, too, for their annual showing. It all worked out fine for the paint horse men didn't parade — at least not before the Shriners.

The governor's office for comprehensive health planning issued a certificate of need last week for a proposed new 150-bed hospital for Big Spring. This should clear the way for closing a deal for American Hospital Corporation to acquire assets of Medical Center Memorial Hospital and erect the new facility. Formal announcement could come by the end of the month, and start of work by the middle of June. Price tag: $7.5 million.

The request for construction funds at Webb AFB moved up a peg with the Department of Defense requesting the Senate finance committee to include $3,156,000 for the base. Most of this is for new airman's dormitories ($2.5 million) and

Newsweek Will Claim Nixon Knew

NEW YORK (AP)—Newsweek magazine said Saturday it will carry a story in its May 14 issue reporting that former White House counsel John W. Dean III is prepared to testify he can "associate" President Nixon with the attempt to cover up the Watergate bugging.

The magazine also said its forthcoming issue, which reaches newsstands on Monday, will report that Dean was told by former senior presidential adviser John Ehrlichman that Nixon promised executive clemency to convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

A high administration official, who was not named, denied both stories. Newsweek said the magazine did not say whether Dean would tell his story to a grand jury or a Senate committee investigating the case.

The magazine said Dean told investigators he was summoned to the White House's Oval Office last September after the announcement of the initial seven Watergate indictments and found Nixon and former White House Chief of Staff H. R. (Bob) Haldeman "all grins." Newsweek quoted Dean as saying they were pleased by his efforts "to keep the lid on."

'BUD' KROGH—Break-In Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — The reported admission by a former White House aide that he supervised the office burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist closed out a week of rapid-fire developments intertwining the Watergate and Pentagon Papers cases.

Sources said Egil "Bud" Krogh signed an affidavit Friday admitting he supervised the burglary and sent two copies to U.S. District Court Judge W. Matt Byrne, who is presiding at the Pentagon Papers trial of Ellsberg and Anthony Russo in Los Angeles.

One source said that neither President Nixon nor John D. Ehrlichman, Krogh's immediate boss, knew of the break-in in advance.

Mexicans Kidnap American Envoy

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — The president of Mexico said Saturday the demands of kidnapers will be met to save the life of an American diplomat abducted by guerrillas.

"The government accepts the demands of the kidnapers because it is essential that the life of this man be protected," President Luis Echeverria told newsmen in Mexico City.

Terrance G. Leonhardy, 58, the U.S. consul general in Guadalajara, Mexico's second largest city, was abducted by armed men Friday evening as he drove from his office to his home.

FREE BAD GUYS

A guerrilla group calling itself the Armed Revolutionary Forces of the People, or FRAP, demanded the release of 30 prisoners from Mexican jails, and exile for them in Havana, in exchange for the diplomat's safety.

Foreign Minister Emilio Rabasa said he had been in contact with the Cuban government and Cuba consented to give asylum to the 30 prisoners.

Echeverria said his government had not seen a list of prisoners to be freed but would comply with the demand as soon as the kidnapers provide the list.

The president also said he has given orders for federal and state law enforcement officers to suspend all investigations of the kidnaping, as the guerrillas demanded, although he called the kidnaping "a totally irresponsible, unlawful act."

PRUDENCE

"The important thing, above all, is to save the life of the consul," said Atty. Gen. Pedro Ojeda Paulada. "Local and federal authorities are working with prudence and discretion."

Although the kidnaping breaks the law, Echeverria declared: "The philosophy of my government is humanistic. The government accepts the pretensions of the kidnapers because it is essential to protect Part of the ultimatum laid down by the kidnapers was that the government not mobilize troops or police units to search for the guerrillas or Leonhardy would be killed.

The career diplomat, father of two daughters, Kathy and Eileen, was kidnapped shortly before he was to host at a small dinner party in his home. His guests arrived, not knowing he had been abducted. His wife was on a vacation trip in the United States.

Leonhardy was seized only four blocks from his home in an upper middle class neighborhood of Guadalajara. The kidnapers' demands were not made public until four days later, when they were read on Mexico's most popular night time television news program, as the kidnapers demanded.

"The publication of this document will indicate the acceptance by the government of our demands. If newspapers of May 5 do not publish this document as an answer to our demands we will proceed to execute the arrested," the document said.

MESSAGE

Newspapers, after checking with high ranking government officials, published the text as requested by the guerrillas. The group also demanded that at 8 p.m. Saturday the same television newscaster read a "message to the people" which the kidnapers said they would send him, and specified that the message must be published in Sunday morning newspapers.

WIFE RETURNS — Mrs. Lee Leonhardy, wife of Terrance G. Leonhardy, the U.S. consul general in Guadalajara, Mexico, disembarks from plane at Guadalajara Saturday. She broke off her U.S. vacation to return, after learning her husband had been seized by kidnapers who demanded release of 30 prisoners from Mexican jails in return for his safety.

Brave Walkers Collect $2,500

Braving rain and splashing cars, about 75 persons walked 11 miles through Big Spring for the March of Dimes Saturday netting an estimated $2,500 in proceeds.

Sleet was falling during the 1972 Walk-A-Thon, and 30 marchers drew about $1,500 in contributions, said Ronnie Smith, chairman of the Caprock District of the March of Dimes.

Jerry Christich, a high school tennis player, made it back first in one hour and twenty minutes. Next, Air Force Capt. Alan Carlson came, registering at one hour and twenty four minutes.

Only four needed the assistance of the "poop-out pickup wagon" driven by members of the Five Walkers, a citizen band radio club, said Eli Guinn, Walk-A-Thon chairman.

Both the oldest and the youngest completed the trek. Prissy Mann, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Mann, finished the walk in three hours and thirty-five minutes.

Starting with the others at 9:30 a.m., Lee Thackrey, 71, a geology instructor at Howard County Junior College, was one of the last to cross the finish about 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Five Walkers provided first aid and signed walkers papers along the route beginning and ending at Highland Shopping Center.

An awards program is scheduled for May 26. The Big Spring Police Association is donating a 10-speed bicycle to the person turning in the most money donated by sponsors.

Other categories include the walker with most sponsors, most unusually dressed, first and second walkers, second most money from sponsors for an entrant, oldest walker, youngest girl and youngest boy participating and winner of a drawing for participants.

Palestinian Rebs, Army Troops Clash

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas and army troops clashed Saturday in eastern Lebanon, rupturing again a delicate two-day-old cease-fire between the Arab antagonists.

Reporting later on the day's developments, Premier Amin Hafez told newsmen that peace had "almost completely been restored, but certain precautions are yet to be instituted."

BETWEEN BROTHERS

"We still are seeking means and arrangements whereby mutual confidence can be revived between the brothers," Hafez said.

The anti-Israeli guerrillas, while allowed to use Lebanon as a base, have resisted government efforts to control their operations.

Only civilian casualties were reported in Saturday's fighting. Each side blamed the other for violating the truce, which Arab mediators from abroad sought to preserve.

The Palestinians charged that two hours after dawn army tanks, covered by heavy artillery, began advancing on two of their positions near Rachaya, 30 miles east of Beirut on the other side of the Lebanon mountains.

Contacts with army and government authorities to halt the advance failed, the guerrillas said, and they opened fire to defend themselves, repelling the army attack.

TAKES FULL RESPONSIBILITY

White House 'Plumbers'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man in the Transportation Department, Krogh was in charge of the White House "plumbers" group set up to plug news leaks after publication of the Pentagon papers.

He testified under oath earlier this year that he hired G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt—both since convicted in the Watergate wiretapping conspiracy—and supervised their activities with the "plumbers."

Disclosure of the affidavit followed the revelation that Hunt implicated the White House and the Central Intelligence Agency in the burglary plot in testimony before the federal grand jury in Washington investigating the Watergate affair.

The resignation of President Nixon's top aides started the chain of events which followed in quick succession of events.

In an address to the nation by Nixon Monday night, the President assumed responsibility for the break-in and bugging of Democratic headquarters but said those criminally guilty must pay the penalty.

THEY QUIT

He announced the resignations of Chief of Staff H. R. Haldeman and domestic policy adviser John D. Ehrlichman and the firing of White House counsel John W. Dean III, who had announced previously that he would be made a "scapegoat" in the case.

Nixon also announced that Elliot L. Richardson, just getting started as secretary of defense, would replace Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, who was resigning because close associates had been implicated in the Watergate affair.

It was announced late in the week that Gen. Alexander M. Haig, Jr., would assume most of Haldeman's duties as interim chief of the White House staff and that former deputy defense secretary David Packard is the leading candidate for secretary of defense.

TWO PROBES

Haig, 48, became vice chief of staff of the Army in January after serving as deputy to the President's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger.

Meanwhile, the grand jury and a Senate Select committee continued their separate probes of the Watergate break-in.

Ehrlichman and Haldeman appeared for several hours before both panels.

Famed Lipizzan Horses To Appear In Odessa

A lost art will live again in Odessa when the Royal Lipizzan Stallions perform on May 12 and 13, Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m., in a two hour show featuring 20 Lipizzan stallions.

Advance tickets for the show can be ordered through Lipizzan Coliseum, PO Box 4124, Odessa. The duets sell for $6, $5, $4 and $3.

The lost art is the famous "airs above the ground," the great leaps of the white Lipizzan stallions, portrayed in so many medieval paintings and sculptures.

The "airs" were originally battle maneuvers, used back in the days when the great war horses fought with their hooves while their masters fought with swords.

The rarest, most aristocratic breed of horse in the world, the Lipizzans were the prized possession of the royal Hapsburg family of Austria. Originating from Arabian and Andalusian horses brought from Spain, they were never allowed to become common, and only a few hundred have been alive at any one time.

Only the aristocracy was allowed to own them, and the Hapsburgs gave Lipizzans to the nobles leading their armies in battle. For centuries the "airs" struck terror into the hearts of fighting men all over Europe. A 1200 pound white Lipizzan stallion flashing and kicking overhead was an unforgettable sight, and one mentioned in many memories of the times.

The capriole, where the stallion leaps straight up into the air and lashes out with both front and hind feet, was used to clear the way when the noble found himself surrounded in battle.

The courbette, where the stallion leaps on his hind legs like a kangaroo, was used to elevate the rider and shield him with the horse's body, while the stallion advanced on the enemy, striking with his front feet.

Each one of the "airs," the langade, the levade, the ballade, the piourette, had its special use. But the introduction of gun powder made them just one more obsolete weapon. Since the "airs" are very difficult to train, taking years, nobody took the time and they were almost forgotten.

Considered the greatest trainer of "airs above ground" in the world, Colonel Herrmann is of the school of Reitmeister Polak, who at one time was promoted to head Overbereiter because he was the only one in the Spanish Riding School who could teach the young horses the "airs above the ground." In 1942 Polak fell unconscious from his horse in the ring of the school, and died a short time later.

Colonel Herrmann came by his gift naturally — his family have owned and trained Lipizzans for over 300 years. He was born in the Sudetenland which at the time was part of Austria, but became Czechoslovakia by boundary changes of World War I.

During World War II Colonel Herrmann smuggled a group of his Lipizzans out from under the very noses of the Russians to the protection of the U.S. Army. Col. Alois Podhajsky took out the Spanish Riding School horses. General George Patton sent American troops in to rescue the Lipizzans of the Piber breeding farm.

The way the rare breed was saved was told dramatically in Walt Disney's "Miracle of the White Stallions."

The Colonel gives a short speech to the audience, telling the part he played in the evacuation.

Crowd Enthralled By Band, Chorus

A large crowd was enthralled for the better part of 90 minutes at the municipal auditorium Friday night by music and song offered by the U.S. Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus.

Lt. Col. Hal J. Gibson, commanding officer and conductor of the band, offered apologies for the musical troupe never having appeared in Big Spring before. The next appearance of the band and chorus here likely will be through a "command performance" — the organization was that impressive.

The program opened with a Patriotic Prologue, after which the band played arrangements of "America The Beautiful," "The Southerner," a prelude of Die Meistersinger, a theme from Robert Schumann, "Pas Redouble," "Hey There" (from the Broadway hit, "Pajama Game"), a psalm written especially for the band, a suite of old American dances and a Michel Legrand medley.

Soloist Robert Hildreth was vocalist for the number "Hey There" and received a standing ovation.

The Soldiers' Chorus, with the band providing musical background, then sang a variety of songs, including "I, Don Quixote"; a spiritual, "Let Us Break Bread Together," a spirited Armed Force medley in which members of the audience were encouraged to stand when the particular branch of the service to which they were closest involved through assignment or attachment; and, ultimately, the rousing "Stars and Stripes Forever."

The program was sponsored by The Big Spring Herald and W. S. Pearson, publisher, welcomed the musicians. Pearson, in turn, introduced Mayor Pro Tem Eddie Acri who presented Col. Gibson with a certificate of welcome to the entire band.

Former Fire Chief Billed

HOUSTON (AP) — A hold-over grand jury ended its term Friday with a second indictment against former Houston Fire Chief O. R. (Jake) Cook.

Cook, already indicted on felony theft charges, was hit with a new indictment charging him with conspiracy to solicit a bribe from a fire truck salesman.

Also named in the indictment with Cook were A. R. Taylor and R. H. Comacher, Taylor, a district fire chief, and Comacher, a low-level employee of the city health department, were named earlier in a similar indictment and Friday's charge replaces the earlier one.

Friday's indictment charges that Cook and Taylor asked for, and solicited, from Claude Wright Jr. a bribe to influence Cook's and Taylor's recommendation to purchase four fire trucks from American LaFrance in 1971. Wright was granted immunity from prosecution for his testimony.

Give People Light, They'll Find Way

HOUSTON (AP) — Cecil Moore says a $14.78 check he mailed to Houston Lighting & Power Co. made a trip to France and returned.

Moore said he mailed the check March 21 in a printed H.L.P. billing envelope.

He said he received the check with a letter from K. Belloni, who said he was an American studying in France under an evangelistic scholarship.

"I received an open printed-matter letter from Houston, Texas, and found the enclosed inside that envelope along with the letter," Moore said Belloni wrote, "I trust your letter coming from France hasn't caused you too much trouble with the lighting company."

Moore said H.L.P. took his word for the situation and canceled an overdue charge for his February billing.

EXERCISE IN PATIENCE, PSYCHOLOGY Writing Constitution Not Easy

Editor's Note: What is all this revised business of hearings held across the state by the Constitutional Revision Commission? And what good does it do? Associated Press Correspondent Mike Cochran attended some of the sessions and then questioned commission members. A situation and interpretive.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

It is an exercise in patience and psychology, sometimes frustrating, but the architects of a revised Texas constitution say it is working.

They become by choice a nomadic group, roving the state, taking the pulse of the people in a series of public hearings.

They want to know what the people want as their basic law, the instrument that determines the system under which they live.

This group, 37 strong, the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission (CRC), will draw up the basic document that, in some form, will be submitted to the voters next year.

AS IN WHISKEY

The CRC is headed by Robert Calvert of Austin, the former chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court, and he is indeed the moving force.

He is the one who comforts and cajoles the speakers, who silences the irrelevant. And he is a master at the task.

"My name is Wren," said a nervous youngster. "W-r-e-n, as in bird."

"My name is Calvert. That's C-a-l-v-e-r-t, as in whiskey," said the smiling chairman.

Calvert is, when it puts a witness at ease, a father, a grandfather with gout, a man who says he would enjoy farming or ranching or teaching or whatever.

He is all things to all people and he does it with flair.

He presides over what he calls his "road show circuit," a statewide fact-finding tour that so far has visited Amarillo, Lubbock, El Paso, Midland and San Antonio.

IS TO GO

Five down, 13 to go.

Is it working? Are the people responsive? Are there any surprises? What is being learned? What is the assessment of this mission after two weeks?

This is what commissioners say:

Robert Calvert: "I'm pleased with these meetings. They indicate a genuine interest on the part of a large number of our citizens."

"There are certain constitutional provisions which occupy the attention of most of those who have appeared."

"These include: annual sessions of the legislature, adequate salaries for its members, more power in executive government, judicial reform, taxation and land use."

SOME INTEREST

"There is some interest in other matters but these are the primary areas where people are expressing themselves."

"I think maybe we have or will get the information as such and we're getting it evaluated at these conferences."

"We know, for example, that there is a problem of land use outside the cities, in rural areas. But we need to know what the people think about the problem and how they would solve it."

Beeman Fisher, Fort Worth: "We feel good about the response the people have shown. People have come to express themselves on state government, some with much knowledge of the constitution.

"This is exactly what we'd hoped to get from these public meetings."

"The knowledge that the youngsters have shown have been a revelation, really, to some of the members. No telling how much study these youngsters have made of this subject."

GREAT SHOW

Mrs. Sybil Hamilton, Dallas: "I've been more than pleased with the interest of the citizens in each of these areas. We've had great turnouts and many diverse opinions on what should be retained in the Constitution and what should be written, and maybe some complete new additions to the Constitution."

"We've had all these views expressed on both sides; it's been extremely educational to hear what the person not actively involved in legislation or the political process thinks about his Constitution."

"The only way we can come up with some sort of a final document that will make sense to the people is by going out and listening to the people."

Jim Weatherby, Kerrville: "I've been especially interested in our youth at the high school level and those out a short time—their interests, their approach, their thoughts, their typical concern for the best interests of Texas. I do not always agree with their principles but I think that they've devoted a lot of time to studying these provisions. I will say this—we are going to have to have the young people to be able to pass the constitution after it comes up from the Constitutional Convention."

"We're getting a generally good approach. There are some features that we can't control, but we're trying to listen to all the people of Texas to find out what they want."

ONLY WAY

Mrs. Mary Beth Brient, El Paso: "I think that this may not be the only way to formulate a constitution; but it is probably the easiest way for citizens to get into our work and for us to give them an opportunity to have a say."

"I certainly think there are many other ways, but it's easier than for the commissioners to read stacks of materials. Also, we have the opportunity to ask questions which we wouldn't if we were seeing written material."

EXPRESS VIEWS

"I think it's important to know what citizens feel. I think we could write a constitution without knowing that, but I think that would be a mistake."

Tony Bonilla, Corpus Christi: "I think that overall the public meetings have been very helpful and informative and that sequent election."

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Legislative odds-makers would laugh at anybody who would bet on decisive action this session to equalize Texas public schools. The issue has bogged down with delay and ineptitude and might turn into unproductive confrontation between the House on one side and the Senate and Gov. Dolph Briscoe on the other.

TIME IS SHORT
Only a few days remain in which to act. And a few days aren't enough when such basic, emotional questions as equal opportunity and taxes are involved.

It took a federal court decision to arouse official interest in a problem that educators have known about for years: A child living in a school district with poor homes and little business or industry is less likely to get a good education than one living in a wealthy district with large taxable property values.

"Nor does state financial assistance serve to equalize these great disparities," a three-judge federal court in San Antonio found.

The U.S. Supreme Court took the legislature off the hook by overruling the San Antonio court's finding that this inequality was unconstitutional.

But even after making that finding, the court expressed the view that "the need is apparent for reform in tax systems which may well have relied too long and too heavily on the local property tax."

DO NOTHING
Four alternatives are now under discussion:

—Do nothing, a course favored by a number of legislators who don't want to upset a tax system that favors oil and gas, agricultural and industrial interests in some areas.

—Delay action in hopes that Briscoe will call a special session to deal exclusively with the school finance problem. Such a session would be limited to 30 days, a short time for handling the complexities involved.

—Briscoe's bill, written by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's executive assistant, Dr. June Hyer.

The measure would pump $39 million into the 112 poorest school districts in the 1974-75 school year only. It also would establish a permanent system for determining state and local shares of basic education costs, based on market value of real estate instead of the present economic index method, which has few defenders.

In addition, the governor wants legislative committees to study the problem some more and come up with recommendations for the 1975 legislature. It has been studied repeatedly for the past six years.

MARKET VALUE
—A bill (HB946) by Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, setting up the market value measurement for allocating state school aid and funneling huge amounts of additional help into local districts, particularly the poorer ones.

One innovation in Kubiak's measure would be a system of "leeway" or enrichment funds. Any school district willing to impose an additional property tax of 40 cents per $100 value could get the state funds it needed to make up the difference between what the tax would raise and $300 per child. It would be phased in until it took full effect in 1978-79.

Kubiak said he would place the governor's bill before the House Education Committee, which he heads, on Tuesday. He said he will even move to substitute Briscoe's bill for his own.

But Kubiak's heart obviously isn't in it. "Just an emergency grant is all it is," he said of Briscoe's bill.

He said the education committee members with whom he has talked "are lukewarm to the governor's proposals."

House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. reportedly opposes Briscoe's approach, and one source flatly said the governor's bill "seems to be in jeopardy in the House."

If Briscoe's approach is, in fact, unappealing to the House, Kubiak's is in no better shape in the Senate, according to Sen. Oscar Maury, D-Dallas, chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

"I don't think there is any movement in the Senate to pass House Bill 946. Nobody is really enraptured by it," Maury said.

He said he personally doesn't favor the Kubiak bill. "It doesn't solve the problem of equalizing the rich and the poor districts and making equal educational opportunity uniform throughout the state. It's like trying to cure cancer with a Band-Aid," Maury said.

Senators, he said, are about equally divided between those who favor Briscoe's bill and those who want a special session.

NO LIMIT
Kubiak's bill, which basically follows recommendations of the State Board of Education and the Texas State Teachers Association, imposes no limit on rich districts' right to spend as much as their taxpayers are willing to provide.

Maury indicated he favors a cut-off at 10 per cent over basic state-aided education costs.

"There ought to be some local leeway. But I also think the educational opportunity available to a child should not be determined by economic circumstances or the tax base where he lives," Maury said.

He also was critical of the delay in getting anything done this season to improve the school-finance system.

"There hasn't been the push that is necessary to bring about this monumental change. Those who've had a privileged tax position all these years obviously are not going to give up voluntarily. . . Obviously part of the responsibility for bringing about this kind of change is with the chief executive. I wish the governor had indicated the interest three months ago that he is indicating now," Maury said.

Photographer 'Remembers Monument To The Maine'

By MARJ CARPENTER
This week was the 75th anniversary of the Spanish American War. Right in the office here at the Big Spring Herald, it was discovered that photographer Danny Valdes, who came to Big Spring from Cuba, has pictures which he retook out of a Cuban history book surrounding the incident.

knowledge as to what became of the cannons and chain, but the beautiful monument of the Maine was taken to Arlington, since it is now apparently the only remains of the Battleship Maine. Valdes says he has no idea as to whether or not the pictures of the Maine are still in Cuban history books or whether the history has been changed.

REMEMBER THE MAINE — The American battleship is shown in the harbor at Havana, Cuba, before it was taken back out to sea ten years after the Spanish-American War. This photo was a retake out of history book in Cuba by Danny Valdes, photographer for the Big Spring Herald.

The sinking of the Battleship Maine in Havana harbor on the night of Feb. 15, 1898, brought indignation in America and the battle cry "Remember the Maine." The battleship lay rusting in the mud for more than a decade before the United States government raised the barnacle-covered hulk, towed it out to sea and resunk it with honors.

MAST AT ARLINGTON
The mast was taken to Arlington National Cemetery, where it was made into a monument honoring the 264 men and two officers killed there. The cannons were removed from the ship and along with the chain to the anchor were made a part of a beautiful monument raised in 1925 in Havana with twin columns, honoring the American victims of the disaster.

FLATTENED BY CASTRO
When Fidel Castro took over power in Cuba, he cleaned out the Plaza, Valdes added. The monument was flattened and towed away. There is no honoring Americans is gone. It is fortunate that the mast of the Maine was taken to Arlington, since it is now apparently the only remains of the Battleship Maine.

Perhaps the cry today by tourists, who used to enjoy the beauties of Havana, might be not only "Remember the Maine" but also "Remember the Monument to the Maine."

Livestock Firm Trio Charged
Tom S. Neff, C. A. Rees and James Cox, owners and operators of the Big Spring Livestock Auction and the Colorado City Livestock Auction, have been charged with violating fair trade practice requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced Friday. This is an administrative action.

Bill Raising Loan Rates

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A bill raising interest rates on $300 to $1,000 loans goes to the Senate floor following approval by the Senate Human Resources Committee Thursday.

Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, asked the committee to withhold final action on the measure until a transcript of its hearings could be typed. The hearings were tape recorded, and a seldom-involved Senate rule allows a committee member to request they be transcribed before a vote.

Innocent Pleas By Six In Arms Trial

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A trial date of Sept. 24 has been set for six men—including two Texans—charged with conspiring and attempting to smuggle arms and ammunition to Mexico.

The six pleaded innocent in federal court Friday.

The defendants present were Richard C. Harper and Marion Hagler, both of Eagle Pass, Tex.; Alder B. Seal, James M. Miller and Joseph Mazzuca, all of Baton Rouge, La., and Murray Morris Kessler of Brooklyn, N.Y.

A seventh defendant, Francisco Flores de Piedras Negras, Mexico, was not present for the arraignment and a warrant was issued for his arrest by U.S. District Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr.

The alleged plot apparently was aimed at helping overthrow a Latin American government, but which government was not determined.

Most of the defendants were arrested in July 1972 after the seizure of a DC4 airplane at the Shreveport airport.

Federal agents said over 13,000 pounds of plastic explosives and detonators were found on the plane.

The indictment said the case came to light when the undercover agent in Mexico City began investigating rumors that weapons were becoming available for sale.

It said he deposited $1 million in the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York and another $1 million in the Frost National Bank in San Antonio, Tex., as part of the probe aimed at flushing out the source of the weapons.

El Paso Gas Asks For Price Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — El Paso Natural Gas Co. has asked the Federal Power commission for authority to raise rates to wholesale customers in Arizona, California, Southern Nevada, New Mexico and West Texas.

The company said in its request Friday that the increase is necessary because of higher costs of borrowed capital, labor, materials, supplies, taxes and the lack of sufficient domestic sources of natural gas.

Under terms of the application, rates to the company's wholesale customers would be increased by an average 4.4 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas.

The proposed increase would bring in about $40 million annually in additional income with a 9.15 per cent rate of return on invested capital.

No Whistle Stops For Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — There are no Harry Truman-like whistle stop campaigns in Argentina's elections in 1973.

The Interior Ministry said the reasons range from the State of Siege Law to neutrality of the state-owned railroads.

The State of Siege Law bars public assemblies, so politicians can only meet with their supporters behind closed doors.

The Interior Ministry said railroad stations are public places and the State of Siege prohibits rallies in public places. And it said the government could not compromise its neutrality by permitting candidates to use state railroads.

PB Encampment Changes To Family Day Format

Men's Day changes to a Family Day format at the Permian Basin Encampment north of Stanton Friday, with emphasis on inspiration.

Choirs of the area will share in an hour's musical festival, followed by a climactic message from the Rev. Peter McLeod, pastor of the historic First Baptist Church in Waco and one of the state's outstanding pulpiteres.

While both the Men's (of Brotherhood) organizations and the Womens Missionary Union will be joining forces for the program which begins in the afternoon, the gathering will be for the entire family as well. There will be a recreation period from 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. when the meal ($2 and $1) will be served.

The program starts at 7 p.m. with Dr. H. M. Jarratt, president, in charge. He will be assisted by Judge Willie DuBose, Sam Robertson and Douglass Beggs, also the Rev. Don Worthington, Seagraves. There also will be a brief session for election of district men's and women's leaders.

Joe Whitten, minister of music at First Baptist, Big Spring, will be in charge of the music festival with solos, quartets, ensembles and choirs and the 50-voice First Baptist Choir, with brass accompanist, will sing the anthem: "The King is Coming," as a prelude to Rev. McLeod's message.

States as a student at Grand Canyon, Ariz., where he earned his B.S. degree before going to the Baptist Seminary in New Orleans, La. His first pastorate was in Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., but within two and a half years he had been called to the influential Second Ponce de Leon Baptist Church in Atlanta, then on to Central Baptist in Lexington, Ky., until being called by the Waco church in July, 1969.

There, as in his other pastorates, a period of growth in Sunday school and church membership, budget and activities has ensued. The Rev. McLeod has a delightful Scottish accent, which led some to quip that he "has Americanized the Scottish language."

KHCC-TV 3

New Voice Will Be Heard In Big Spring

A new voice will be heard starting Monday 6:30 p.m. when KHCC-TV 3 goes on the air. It is the television laboratory sponsored by the Howard County Junior College Radio and Television Club.

The club will plan the programs and provide the manpower, said Annette Couch, president. Faculty advisors will be Martin Landers, chairman of the drama and speech department, and Dal Herring, journalism instructor.

The project was made possible in April when the college trustees entered into an agreement with Big Spring Cable-TV, Inc., which has some 7,000 cable subscribers here, also outlets in Coahoma and Sand Springs.

Rodney Hammack, student program coordinator, said that the club will start with 30 minutes each weekday, maintain this schedule, and in the autumn with more operating experience, hopefully will expand the time. Others who will have a hand are Glenn Everett, engineer; Jack Sherbert, control technician; (Miss) Freddie Graham, correspondent; Richard Weidel, news anchorman; Preston Harris, police and community news; Larry Pierce, sports; James McCormick and LaVern Thompson, newsmen.

Dr. Thomas Salter, college president, said that the program could become the basis of non-credit and possibly later credit course over television. For the present, however, the project will serve as a learning laboratory.

A studio has been set up in the Practical Arts building, Room 107, for production of both live and video tape programming. Joining the faculty members as an advisory board will be several communications professionals including Ann Stevens, Charles Darwin, Doug Ables, Ron Stancill, Al Scott. Several business firms have furnished supplies for equipping the studio, including Rockwell Bros., Big Spring Hardware, Coca Cola, Aquarium Fish and Supply, and Big Spring Cable TV.

Cotton Farmers Start Planting In Cool Soil

About half the cotton farmers have started planting although the soil is not as warm as it should be, Ronnie Wood, assistant county agent, said Friday.

Those not planting cotton or grain sorghum now are preparing their land for planting.

Farmers who saw the last harvest delayed by weather all through winter are anxious to plant early, Wood explains.

COLD SLOW, WEAKENS

Cotton plants take longer to break the surface when the soil is too cold, Wood explained. When they do come up, the plant is weaker than it would have been sprouting from warmer soil.

With 7.11 inches of rain so far in 1973, compared to the 3.77 inch normal, Big Spring area farmers have plenty of moisture for planting.

Wood feels a general rain over West Texas of one and one-half to two inches would be beneficial. Such general rains are often followed by less wind.

Weeds only present a big problem when a rain falls right after planting, Wood said. Then, the precipitation may cause weeds and cotton to pop up at the same time.

While some farmers here broadcast herbicides, most are applying only strips or "band," Wood said.

Howard County gins received 47,436 bales of cotton last crop year.

SCREWORMS GONE

After a wet, cold winter, which is making pastures greener and killed screwworms in Howard County, ranches are in good condition.

Wood does not anticipate any screwworms to reach Howard County from South Texas and Mexico until around June.

Some cattle raisers are planting sudan pastures for grazing and hay.

Air Force Group Books Sen. Tower

Sen. John Tower and two of the highest ranking officers of the U. S. Air Force will be in San Antonio June 30 to speak before the state assembly of the Texas Air Force Association (A.F.A.).

Jack Alexander, president of the Big Spring Chapter of A.F.A., said that appearing along with Sen. Tower will be Gen. John D. Ryan, chief of staff of the U. S. Air Force, and Lt. Gen. George S. Boylan Jr., deputy chief of staff in charge of programs and resources, both of Washington, D.C.

Alexander said that plans in San Antonio are being made to present several major topics of concern to those directly associated with the Air Force, as well as the general public.

Topics such as the all-volunteer military program, the status of Air Force bases in Texas, military appropriations, and pending legislation affecting the Air Force will head the list of items to be discussed.

More than 600 A.F.A. members from across Texas are expected to attend the two-day convention.

PRUNE ENERGY DIET

THE SUCCESSFUL DIET FOR ACTIVE PEOPLE

LOS ANGELES (Special) — The most important key health food known to man, neglected and overlooked by all but a small percentage of men, is the Prune Energy Diet.

The Prune Energy Diet is a diet of prunes in their daily lives. Heavy quantities of Vitamin C and E plus iron, 100% digestible for all ages. This diet does not work wonders for men, women, children without pills, drugs or exercise.

Prunes give quick vital energy which is crucial in any diet. No tired, frayed-out feeling as with other diets.

10 Lbs. in 10 Days

Those who follow the simple plan exactly as directed, report a loss of 10 pounds in 10 days. Starting from the day they begin the diet. There is usually no weight loss for the first 4 days, but suddenly on the 5th day you can expect to drop as much as 5 pounds, and continue to lose about a pound a day up until the 10th day. Thereafter, you'll lose two days until you reach your proper weight.

Eat Almost All You Want

Better yet, you can still eat almost as much as you want of foods like steak, chicken, lobster. And you will continue to lose weight. Full money back guarantee.

The use of prunes as prescribed by the plan, will, through natural action, act to help your body release excess fat and body weight down and figure in firm control.

Children Can Now Enroll For Recreation Program

Enrollment now is open to Big Spring children who want to take part in the Citywide Summer Recreation program. This is a two-months schedule of activities made possible by the City of Big Spring, the United Fund, and the YMCA. It is open to all elementary school-age children without charge, however, a $1 registration fee is requested where parents can afford it. All children are welcome regardless of the nominal fee, which is for replacement of arts and crafts materials.

Preceding the daily outdoor recreation program at Comanche Trail Park and Lakeview, there will be one week of learn-to-swim instruction. This will begin Monday, June 4 at Comanche Park pool, and there will be half-hour instruction periods at 10 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. This is designed to overcome fear of water and to be able to float and move in it. There is a $1 pool use fee for the week.

The daily program, which begins June 11 will start at 9 a.m. and continues to 12 noon, Monday through Fridays. There will be such activities as fitness contests, softball, dodgeball, track and field events, quiet games, special events, nature studies, arts and crafts, story telling, and climaxed each day with a recreational swim from 11 a.m. to noon. A qualified lifeguard will be on duty.

Information on the programs will be distributed to children in elementary schools this week, with instructions to take the material home to parents. There is an application blank enclosed and parents are urged to begin now enrolling their children.

Early registrants can have choice of instruction periods for the learn-to-swim week. Enrollment is at the YMCA, which is the administrative agency, but the program is independent and open to everyone.

Integration Not Working

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas school district has told Texas congressmen in Washington that school integration is not working, it was learned Friday.

A report was compiled by Dr. William J. Webster, deputy assistant superintendent in research and evaluation, from studies by some of the nation's top social scientists. This was released to school board members in March shortly after the board adopted a resolution against forced busing in Dallas, but it was not released to the public at that time.

The resolution, which urged Congress to enact a law putting a moratorium on forced busing in urban areas until a constitutional amendment can be ratified, was taken to Washington by board president John Plath Green and School Supt. Nolan Estes.

"The 1954 decision by the U.S. Supreme Court was based on unproven theory," Dr. Estes said today. "After 18 years, social scientists are beginning to take a second look at desegregation in the schools."

RANCHER STOCKS POND

Well Tended Ponds Can Provide Good Fishing

Well cared-for ponds can provide many hours of fishing fun and good meals as well as water for livestock, said Chesley M. Wilson, range conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service.

Howard County contains at least 200 ponds, many of which are not stocked.

"Most ponds are built for livestock water, but a few have been built for fishing purposes," Wilson explained.

Many land owners start fishing a pond a year or so after stocking, Wilson said. Through proper care, they can enjoy larger catches and heavier fishing stringers.

Wilson outlined proper management:

FERTILIZING — Start when water reaches 55 degrees one foot below the surface. Continue from March through October, as long as water temperature is over 55 degrees.

Use 100 pounds of 8-8-2 or fifty pounds of 16-20-0 fertilizer. Repeat at seven to 10-day intervals.

When a six-inch white disk cannot be seen 18 inches below the surface, the pond has been fertilized sufficiently. It is time to fertilize again when the disk can be seen at this depth.

STOCKING RATES — Well fertilized ponds can support 150 Black Bass, 500 Redear sunfish and 40 Channel catfish per surface acre.

Stock with straight channel cat fingerlings at the rate of 1,000 to 1,500 per surface acre, supply food and you can expect the catfish to weigh one pound each after a year, Wilson said.

FEEDING FISH — It is practical to feed only Channel and Blue Cat. You should use a commercial pelleted feed containing 28 to 32 per cent protein, five per cent fat and 10 to 15 per cent fiber.

Daily between 7 and 8 a.m., supply three per cent of the weight of the fish in the pond or only as much as they can consume in 20 to 30 minutes. But never allow more than 25 pounds per surface acre.

FISHING — Fishing will increase the pounds of fish snagged at a sitting. Approximately 400 to 500 hours yearly should be spent fishing a pond to maintain a good balance in stocking rate per size of fish. The bigger the fish grow the more room they need.

Family's History, That Of C-City Intertwined

By MARJ CARPENTER
The Ford Merritt home in Colorado City, which is decorated with a historical marker, is being preserved with a metal siding that keeps the old wood look of the historic house, which is complete with spool trim porch columns and window awnings.

This is interesting, but the real interest in this home lies in the fact that four generations of one family have resided under its roof. And the even greater interest lies in the colorful past of D. N. Arnett, the first of the four generations of the family to reside there.

The house was built in 1899 by F. E. McKenzie who sold it in 1900 to a rancher, A. B. Roberts, who in turn sold it to Arnett in 1912.

CAME TO STAY
The turnover of the house ceased right there. D. N. Arnett lived there and then his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Merritt, and then their son and his wife, the Ford Merritts and then their three children, now grown and moved away to Tulsa, Connecticut and East Texas.

D. N. ARNETT
of the Spade-Renderbrook ranches, worked both ranches for many years, traveling often by buggy or horseback back and forth from Colorado City to Lubbock.

Ford Merritt recalls that his great grandmother, his grandmother, and both his parents "died in this house."

He also went on many cattle drives and once was paid for a herd of cattle in California with a leather trunk full of $20 gold pieces. The trunk is now in the museum at Texas Tech.

TEXAS RANGER
Arnett, who once was a Texas Ranger, and once was manager of the Spade-Renderbrook ranches, worked both ranches for many years, traveling often by buggy or horseback back and forth from Colorado City to Lubbock.

hay for the stage stands and have the women carry it in on their backs to sell it.

when Boyce and Cain walked up and punched him from behind, they would all jump up and start shooting."

One of his tales was about a fight on the trail when a man named Al G. Boyce drove a "good big herd to California."

This may sound like the plot out of a bad western movie, but they succeeded in killing the two outlaws before they killed whatever four men in the camp they had planned to kill. The two outlaws were wanted back in Burnet County, Tex.

"When Boyce got near Fort Yuma, he sent Al Kendrick on down to Fort Yuma to get some soldiers to come out and arrest Dixon and Carson. The two outlaws found out about it and came into camp one night and said they were going to kill five men that night."

Other tales related by Arnett told how some of the trail hands would steal cattle while the drive was in progress, and drop back after hiding them out to sell them.

SHOT IN BACK
"They asked Henry for dry clothes, since they had gotten wet crossing the Gila, and as he went to get them dry clothes, they shot him in the back. They then sat down by the fire and began to clean their six shooters, saying they were going to kill four more."

While reading through Arnett's handwritten memoirs of the trail drives, you can begin to visualize how television has been able to make entire TV series on incidents on the trail.

WILD STAMPEDE
Arnett told of a stampede and a wild ride for 18 miles, while the trail drivers tried to get the herd under control. They caught all the cattle but six and "those six steers went on into Apache territory. Six men had already been killed down there. We didn't follow," Arnett recalled.

He told of crossing the stretch of country from the Cuchos near San Angelo to the Horsehead Crossing on the Pecos River near Iraan. It was called Horsehead crossing because so many horses had died there after drinking the salty water out of the Pecos.

HSU Campaign In High Gear
Hardin-Simmons University's "Profile for Progress" campaign will be moving in high gear during the next several weeks.

Arnett retired in Colorado City, then called "The Mother City of the West." It was a dual personality town with a tough saloon district between Oak Street and the Colorado River, frequented by trail herders, former buffalo hunters and railroad workmen as the T&P came into existence.

The immediate goal in the campaign is to raise $1.5-million in pledges or cash to meet the J. E. and L. E. Mabee Foundation challenge grant of $500,000. Joe Mabee, Midland, chairman of the trustees of Tulsa, Okla., foundation, announced on April 20 that his foundation will give H-SU $500,000 in cash toward construction of a new library if H-SU will secure $1.5-million. Total cost of a new library including books and equipment is $2-million, according to leaders of the campaign.

On the other side of Oak Street was the residential area, the churches, most of the stores and the first school.

Cold, Wet Month Cuts Water Sales

April was not only the coldest month on record in Howard County but was somewhat wetter than the norm.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District can believe both claims. Its deliveries during the month amounted to 1,361,296,850 gallons, a decrease of 19.21 from the same month a year ago. This, coupled with a similar pattern in the three previous months, held the first four months total deliveries to 4,573,062,306, or down 20.20 per cent for this period from the previous year.

Weather has had a more pronounced effect on the municipalities than on the mining and industrial users. The cities took 846,090,090 gallons in April, which was 30.69 per cent less than a year ago. For the first four months, the total taken by cities was 2,720,156,000 gallons, or down 26.25 per cent.

By cities, the April record showed: Odessa 292,590,000, down 37.86; Big Spring 205,284,000, down 21.98; Snyder 55,813,000, down 25.34; Stanton 6,275,000, up 14.65; Midland 177,775,000, down 56.23; San Angelo 108,353,000, (it took only 403,000 gallons the previous April).

Mining and industrial users drew 839,907,710 gallons in April, and 1,853,906,306 for the first four months.

In terms of volume, consumption in the district is down by nearly a billion and a quarter gallons January through April.

Paschal Odom, assistant general manager for CRMWD, said that there are signs that consumption is climbing, but gradually. With all facilities in good condition and supplies the best in years, the system is able to meet any sort of peak demands when hot weather does return, he said.

Cambodian Units Grab Southern Villages

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) - The Cambodian government claimed Saturday it has retaken three southern villages near Takeo, a key provincial capital besieged for months by antigovernment forces. Col. Am Rong, spokesman for the military high command, said Phnom Penh troops recaptured and occupied the hamlets of Russey, Samrong and Barai, three miles north of Takeo, on Friday morning. Diplomatic and military sources say the Communist forces are mostly Cambodian rebels operating with strong logistical and leadership backing from the North Vietnamese. The Phnom Penh government maintains Vietnamese Communists are waging the war and censors will not allow correspondents to refer to the anti-government soldiers as Cambodian rebels.

Government soldiers retrieved on Saturday four more bodies from under the wreckage of a U.S. Air Force A7 bomber. The confirmed casualty count reached 11 killed, including two families and 20 wounded. The plane crashed into a Cambodian army hospital Friday and damaged nearby homes as it was attempting an emergency landing at Phnom Penh airport.

The injured American pilot was flown to his base in Thailand, where officials declined to disclose his identity or injuries.

A witness said he saw smoke trailing from the jet as it approached the runway and exploded 60 feet off the ground, indicating ground fire may have hit the plane during its mission.

The pilot bailed out seconds before the crash.

A Hanoi broadcast accused the United States of slandering North Vietnam to condition public opinion to "a still more serious violation" of the Paris cease-fire agreement. It said President Nixon was trying to justify future violations and cited the possibility of more bombing in Cambodia.

BLIND COUPLE - Married in 1952, Hattie and Charlie Boland are an active couple although both are blind. Mrs. Boland exhibits a Braille edition of one of her favorite magazines, while Susy, the couple's guide dog, looks ahead to a walk outside.

Blind Housewife Active Despite Her Handicap

By ANN STEVENS

Occasionally you hear someone refer to a funny situation as the blind leading the blind.

But for a Big Spring couple it's not funny - it's real. Because Charlie and Hattie Boland are blind, yet they have lead each other through life.

The life of Hattie Boland, 71, has not been that of an invalid or recluse. Blind since birth, she takes it well. "I can take it a lot better than someone who has had their sight and then lost it," she reflected.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK
"Some blind people have a morbid outlook on life. They think everyone is against them. But I think if you yourself are friendly, you will have friends, and if you have a bright outlook on life, people will pay attention to you," Mrs. Boland said.

Charlie Boland, 69, is blind in one eye and has only partial sight in the other. His legal blindness dates back to the age of three months old when a country doctor put an overly strong dosage of medicine in his eyes to help a soreness.

He claims "just live from one day to the next" as his philosophy, adding that he doesn't let poor eyesight bother him. He can read type with the aid of a magnifying glass.

GETTING AROUND
Boland presently works shining shoes at Center Barber Shop. He says he can tell the color of shoes and which polish to use, but noted that even a totally blind person can shine shoes if told the correct color.

Neither of the Bolands seems to have much trouble getting around. Hattie moves through the house as if she can see each piece of furniture.

Boland himself walks to work each day and can ride a bicycle. They both walk outside the house with the aid of their guide dog and favorite companion, Susy, a golden retriever.

KEEPS HOUSE
Mrs. Boland keeps the house clean and neat as a pin. She vacuums several times a week.

"A blind person has trouble sweeping," she noted. "People who see can spot clean wherever the dirt is. But a blind person must clean everywhere to be sure he has gotten all the dirt."

Besides keeping house, Mrs. Boland says she loves to cook. She said she learned to cook only after her mother died and that "it took several good burns before I learned how."

She also does all her own laundry. A friend with both sight and insight labeled the dial on the couple's washer and dryer with small holes filled with nail polish to distinguish the various settings.

Hattie demonstrated how she feels around the dial to pick out the proper setting.

NO ANIMOSITY
To listen to Hattie Boland talk, one might never realize she cannot see and never has. Stroking Susy who lay by her feet, she explained the different colorings of the dog's think hair and exclaimed, "Oh, she takes a pretty picture," and pointed to an 8x10" photograph atop the television.

"I feel it was the Lord's will for me not to see. I don't have animosity about things like that," she intimated when asked point blank whether she felt discriminated against or jealous of those who can see.

"When you are blind, your ears and fingers make up for what your eyes cannot do. If one of your senses is weak, the Lord makes up for it by strengthening your other senses," Mrs. Boland said.

PROFILES, COLORS
Declaring a love for nature, she said, "Profiles, colors and flowers - I have my own conception of what they look like. I have no idea, though, of what people look like. I go more by their disposition than their faces."

She expressed an interest in fashion, keeping up with trends by reading "Good Housekeeping" and other magazines in Braille. "Colors are something that don't bother me. Yet, I always ask about them when buying clothes and material."

The Bolands love gardening and walking. Mrs. Boland likes to read and to play piano.

CHAIR CANING
Charlie does antique chair caning for the public. Up until three years ago, he had played drums in bands including "The Star Lighters," which played country-western music.

"I quit playing when rock and roll started," he recalled. "The drummers started just beating the heck out the cymbals. When my band said they were going to go over and play some rock and roll, I said 'you'll have to find another drummer.'"

In short, the Bolands are an active couple who refuse to let lack of sight hinder their enjoyment in life.

When one meets them, one tends to feel sorry for himself rather than for the Bolands themselves. For, it seems that they manage to reap more from life than many who have both their youth and their sight going for them.

Boys' Club Helps At Motor Races

Board of Directors of the Boys' Club of Big Spring are helping the Hi-Noon Optimist Club in the concession sales at the MotoCross Races to be held today. The designated time for the workers is from noon until 6 p.m.

The board voted to pay the expenses for Bert Andries, executive director, to attend the Boys' Clubs of America National Convention which is to be held in Denver, Colo., May 28. This is the first time such a meeting has been held in the Southwest or that anyone from Big Spring has had an opportunity to attend.

A report was given on the club participation in the clean-up campaign sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce during the month of April. The boys cleaned the downtown area on Saturdays during the month.

Work is beginning on readying the north side swimming pool for the summer season. This will be handled by the Boys' Club as has been the custom for the past several years. The pool will open at the close of school.

Secretariat Claims Derby

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Secretariat set a new Kentucky Derby record Saturday as he charged from behind to win the 99th running of the Churchill Downs classic.

front at the wire with another eight lengths back to Our Native, the Flamingo winner earlier this year for Mrs. M.J. Pritchard, Dr. E.W. Thomas and trainer Bill Resseguet Jr.

marked the first time in Derby history that the same owner, trainer and rider have won the most famed race in the land two years in succession.

Sham, said he felt the colt was improving and that "maybe we'll get them next time. Next time I'll wait a little longer before making my move."

home "and I took advantage of it. He was running easy and I just let him go," he said.

IN THE CIRCLE — Jockey Ron Turcotte tips his hat as he rides Secretariat into the winner's circle at Churchill Downs Saturday. Secretariat won the 99th Kentucky Derby in a record 1:59.2.

Aussie Leads Derby Means By 4 Strokes Many Things

HOUSTON (AP) — Bruce Crampton benefited from a miracle par as he stretched his lead to four strokes—matching the biggest 54-hole margin of the year—with a five-under-par 67 Saturday in the third round of the $205,000 Houston Open Golf Tournament.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — What do you do with old losing mutual tickets at the Kentucky Derby? Well, you can use them to fire a barbecue pit, paper a wall or, as in the case of Carol Garrow of Miami, make them into a broad-brimmed hat.

The 37-year-old Australian, who held a two-stroke lead when play started on the cool, cloudy, windy day, made one of the biggest saves of his life on the par-four 17th hole—where he could have blown his entire advantage.

A big majority of them stand out in the hot for nine hours and are lucky if they get a fleeting glimpse of a horse and pour their dollars through the mutual windows.

He hit his tee shot out of bounds. The tight-lipped, grimaced veteran then went back to the tee to hit No. 3 and this time, drove it on the fairway.

The infield is a combination love-in and floating roulette table. Although a large force of security police attempt to discourage such operations, those customers who don't lose their weekly paycheck at the $2 windows often fall easy victim to the shell game.

That saved a three-round total of 205, 11-under-par on the 6,095-yard Quail Valley Golf Club course and a big margin over four sophomore Lanny Wadkins.

The kids take off all the clothes the law allows, gulp beer, apple cider and pop, play records and indulge in boy-girl scenes that would be expunged from X-rated movies.

Wadkins, the youthful winner of the Byron Nelson Classic last week, was the only man in the surviving field of 82 able to keep Crampton in sight. Wadkins had a 69 for 209.

On Derby Day, anything should go. But at 5:40 p.m. EDT, a big hush came over the old race track.

It was two more strokes back to former PGA champion Dave Stockton, who was alone in third with a 70-211.

The hand struck up the tune of the poignant "My Old Kentucky Home," and a frog came up in 100,000 throats. The race was on.

CIRCULATION TROUBLE ENDS LOWRY'S ATHLETIC CAREER

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Texas quarterback Alan Lowry, the most valuable player in the 1973 Cotton Bowl and a New England Patriot draft choice, must give up his athletic career because of circulation problems in his right arm.

"I can't play again," said Lowry, one of the few players in the Southwest Conference who made all-conference on defense and offense. He was a defensive halfback before switching to quarterback last year and guiding Texas to a 10-1 record and Cotton Bowl victory over Alabama.

Lowry said he had called the Patriots and told them of his medical troubles. Lowry had joined the Longhorn baseball squad and had hoped to play two years, but noticed at a recent game that "my fingers turned cold, and the tips of them became blue and numb."

Dr. Thomas Kirksey said Lowry has "a major blockage of the blood vessels in his right arm" with two blood clots in his right hand and one in his elbow. It could require an operation, Kirksey said.

Ironically, although Texas is known as a running team, Kirksey said the circulation problem was probably caused by "vigorous throwing."

First Cutting Of Alfalfa Under Way In West Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Several weeks of warm weather and sunshine are needed to allow Texas farmers to complete spring planting. Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says. Open weather is needed for crops already planted to stimulate growth, he said, and many crops are making slow progress due to cool, wet soils.

CORN PLANTING

Most farm activity last week was in the South Plains where some cotton and grain sorghum were being planted and corn planting was completed, he said.

The first cutting of alfalfa is under way in Far West Texas and cutting will also begin soon in the South Plains, Hutchison said.

Hutchison said pastures and ranges are providing good to excellent grazing in most counties. Poisonous range plants are causing some problems in a few western counties and screwworms are becoming more active.

District agricultural agents gave these reports: South Plains: Some cotton has been planted although the soil temperature is still below that desired for plant emergence. The first cutting of alfalfa will be made in a week or so. Small grains are making excellent progress. Onion yields expected to be down.

Rolling Plains: Small grains are heading and are in good condition. Hail damaged small grains in a few counties last week, and some freeze and rust damage is appearing. Many home gardens have been replanted due to the recent freeze. Pecans not damaged by the cold weather are nearing the mule stage.

VEGETABLES

Far West: Livestock are in good condition although poisonous range plants have caused some losses. Cotton planting is underway. The first cutting of alfalfa is being made. Small grains are heading. Vegetables are making good growth.

West Central: Hail and strong winds damaged some small grains. Grain sorghum planting is underway with some plantings up to good stands. Recent cold weather severely damaged peach and pecan crops. Screwworm cases have been reported in Llano and San Saba counties.

Southwest: Peanut planting is being delayed by cold, wet soil. The strawberry harvest remained active in Atascosa County with yield and quality above average. Harvesting of onions, carrots and cabbage was active as the weather permitted. Potato digging began in Frio County. Lambs and kids are being lost to coyotes in Kerr County.

GOOD PROGRESS

South: Cotton and grain sorghum is generally making good progress. Hail damaged some crops in Refugio County. Nutlets are appearing on some pecan trees. Range conditions are improving. Livestock are being bothered by hornflies and lice. Screwworms are becoming more active.

UTPB Courses For Vets Cleared

Allen Funt Aide Steals

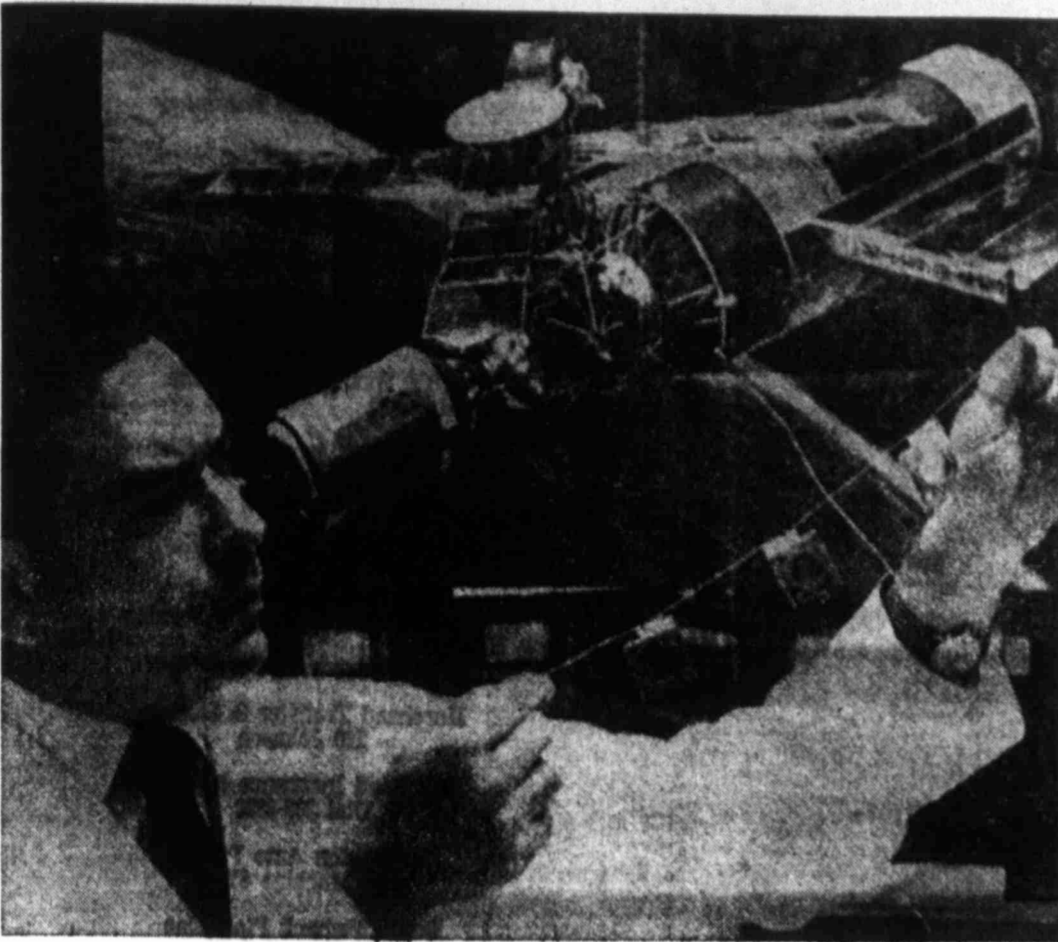

NEW YORK (AP) — An accountant has admitted stealing $1.28 million from film producer and television personality Allen Funt while serving as his financial adviser.

Seymour Goldes, 42, of Woodmere, N.Y., also pleaded guilty Thursday to the theft of $20,000 from film producer Gerald Feil. State Supreme Court Justice George Roberts set sentencing for Sept. 10 on two counts of second-degree grand larceny.

The defendant could receive as much as seven years in prison on each count and be fined as much as double the amount of the illegal profits in the crimes.

Veterans are encouraged to continue to apply for admission in the University of Texas Permian Basin even though they may receive denial letters in some cases.

These letters result from the timetable in submitting course descriptions to the Texas Education Agency. Both the Feil, State Supreme Court Justice George Roberts set sentencing for Sept. 10 on two counts of second-degree grand larceny. The course descriptions are cleared, said Joe Tave, UTPB financial aids director. Even if a letter of denial should come back to the veteran, a letter of approval will follow as soon as the course is cleared, he added.

Big Spring Consumers To Benefit From Move

Consumers of Big Spring will now have easier access to the Texas Attorney General's Office under a new program launched by Attorney General John L. Hill to create a regional office system throughout the state.

Hill's concept is the first of its kind to be attempted by a prior attorney general, and offices in Lubbock, Dallas, El Paso, and San Antonio are already functioning to extend the protection of consumer laws closer to the public.

Lubbock's office, which will serve the Panhandle-Plains including Big Spring, will extend its jurisdiction to Wichita Falls, Abilene, Lubbock and Amarillo. John H. Richards, formerly of Paducah, is in charge of the Lubbock branch which was the first of its type to open.

PROTECT CONSUMER

Protection of the consumer from the infinite varieties of fraud and deceit will be the initial purpose of the regional office system. This is a chore which previously has been handled out of the main Austin office alone, and the new offices should definitely ease the heavy burden of policing a state the size of Texas from the single capitol office as was previously the case.

Richards indicated that Hill's new office has been flooded since its Feb. 1 opening with close to 200 consumer complaints being recorded to date.

CALL IN COMPLAINTS

The consumer protection office operates on a complaint basis whereby individuals who run afoul of an unlawful scheme or who are cheated or defrauded should contact the Lubbock branch immediately by phone or by mail. Action is then initiated to ascertain the validity of the complaint and to further determine whether state consumer laws have been violated. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act is the primary statute enforced.

The attorney general is then authorized to seek restraining orders and injunctions to enjoin the continuance of a deceptive trade practice. Should a company or individual violate the terms of such an order, he is subject to civil penalties of up to $10,000 per violation. Such a penalties judgment was recently awarded for $35,000 against Credit Bureau of Laredo who was in violation of a permanent injunction obtained by Richards.

OFFICIAL INVESTIGATIONS

Official investigations into certain business activities are also authorized where a deceptive practice is suspected.

In addition, consumer information will also be made available to better educate the public, and Big Spring consumers are urged to inform the office of complaints. "The consumer is our first line of defense against fraud and deception, and if we can educate him as to the types of unlawful schemes to avoid beforehand, we are way ahead of the game. Prevention is the best medicine." However, legal advice concerning private legal remedies and rights cannot be given.

EVERYBODY WINS

"Such things as false advertising, contests and sweepstakes where everyone is a winner, pyramid or multi-level sales schemes, deceptive pricing, misrepresentations by salesmen as to services available, odometer tampering, simulation of court process and certain forms of debtor harassment, land fraud schemes, referral sellings, and false guarantees and warranties are among the countless number of practices covered by the Act," Richards said. He emphasized that any act or conduct with the capacity or tendency to be false, misleading, or deceptive would be a violation of the state law. Problems with health spas and overcharges on automobile and appliance repairs are also a source of concern.

"We encourage consumer participation as an aid to the attorney general's program to initiate more vigorous enforcement of consumer laws because after all these offices were created with the idea of bringing our services closer to the public," he said. Interested persons can notify Hill's Lubbock office by calling 806-747-5238 or by writing John H. Richards, Assistant Attorney General, 806 Broadway, Room 312, Lubbock, Texas, 79401.

'Let The Music Play'

By JO BRIGHT

Of all the "weeks" in the year, the most spiritually refreshing is surely National Music Week. Beginning today, and climaxed next Sunday, the fiftieth annual observance will be celebrated throughout the nation. Sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs, the golden anniversary event will "Focus the Spotlight on Music".

Music has been acclaimed as the only universal language. In his tribute to National Music Week, President Richard Nixon wrote: "We are reminded more keenly than ever of the indispensable role of music in our lives and in the life of our nation. We are encouraged to reflect on the bonds it creates, not just among Americans of all ages and interests, but between us and people of other lands."

Locally, churches are including in their service today the National Music Week hymn, "Lead On, O King Eternal".

The Westside Center Choir, composed of 30 children directed by Mrs. Joseph Dawes, will present a program for patients at Veterans Administration Hospital during the morning coffee hour Friday. Another musical program will be given next week by students of Mrs. Walter Wallace for Cedar Crest PTA.

Climaxing the week will be a Mother's Day Musicale at 3 p.m., May 13 in the parlor of First United Methodist Church. Presented by the Music Study Club of Big Spring, the musicale will feature the Belle Ringers Handbell Choir, Debussy piano duets, a mixed quartet and other piano and alto recorder selections. There is no charge for the program, which is open to the public.

Coordinating plans for the special event is Mrs. Carl Bradley, chairman, assisted by other study club members. Club officers are Mrs. Mike Skalicky, president; Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall and Mrs. Nena McLean, vice presidents; Mrs. Phil Adams and Mrs. James Little, secretaries; Mrs. Curtis Compton, treasurer; Mrs. Walter Osborne, historian; and Mrs. Clyde Cantrell, parliamentarian.

Organized in 1936, the club's purpose is the same as others in the federation, to "create an understanding and appreciation of the value of music in the home, community, nation and world." Contributions by members support a scholarship which the club gives to the Music Department of Howard County Junior College and members provide musical activities for children at Westside Center.

THE BELLE RINGERS, a handbell choir at First United Methodist Church, will perform May 13 during the Mother's Day Musicale at 3 p.m. in the church parlor. Choir members pictured, from left, are Mrs. Wade Bledsoe, Mrs. Bill Narrell and Mrs. Don Newsom. Others in the choir are Mrs. James Baum, Mrs. Clyde Cantrell, Mrs. Tommy Corwin, Mrs. Joseph Dawes, Mrs. Fred Haller, Mrs. Julian Patterson and Mrs. William Willis.

MUSIC STUDY CLUB members are sponsoring the local observance of National Music Week. Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall, left, incoming club president, gets a preview of the musical events from Mrs. A. E. Hyden, center, and Mrs. Charles Beil, social chairman.

"ONE PIANO, FOUR HANDS," and the compositions of Claude Debussy will be performed by Mrs. Ronald Mason, left, and Mrs. Jim Baum during next Sunday's Mother's Day Musicale. Here, the women practice "Petite Suite" which is included in the program.

Enhance The Beauty Of Decorative Metals

By SHERRY MULLIN
County HD Agent
Decorative metals, such as silver, copper, brass and pewter, can enhance the beauty of a home and add a special touch to festive occasions, and, cleaned carefully, will retain their beauty for many years. The following instructions on the cleaning and care of such metals are provided by Good Housekeeping Institute:

SILVER
Silver should be washed by hand or machine with hot water and detergent soon after each use, except for cemented pieces or hollow-handled knives, which should be washed by hand in warm water. Polishing silver takes time, but thanks to tarnish-retardant polishes now available, it need not be done as often as in the past. These polishes may be used on lightly tarnished silver, but heavily tarnished items should be treated first with a regular polish, then with the tarnish-retardant product. The length of time that the silver remains tarnish-free varies, but frequent handling or washing, or exposure to salt air, coal smoke, sulfur and gas fumes, greatly diminishes the effectiveness of the protective coating. Silver that you use infrequently should be protected from tarnish in chests or drawers lined with silver cloth, or in bags made of the same material. Liquid-type dip cleaners have been found to detract from the silver's appearance after several applications.

COPPER
Decorative copper products often are coated with lacquer. When the lacquer begins peeling, the products will tarnish unevenly. You then should remove all of the lacquer by rubbing the entire piece with acetone, which you can buy in a drugstore (wear rubber gloves to protect your hands and fingernail polish.) Next, using a spray,

PEWTER
Modern pewter does not tarnish, but stains can be caused by fruit juices and other acidic products. Use plastic or glass inserts if you are keeping plants in a pewter container, as plants also can damage the metal. To eliminate dust and fingerprints from pewter, wash it weekly in hot, sudsy water with a little ammonia added. Rinse carefully and dry with a soft cloth. Pewter polish will enhance the appearance, but regular polishing is not necessary.

Out In The Cold

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old single girl and have my own apartment. When I go out on a date and we wind up the evening at a rather late hour, the fellow will start with, "Man, am I ever tired. You're lucky you don't have to drive clear across town to get home tonight."

people, some of whom he hardly knows. Some folks realize it was the booze talking, and the next day they will return whatever he's given them. But most people just keep it.

I usually say something like, "I sure am," whereupon they feel snubbed and get even less subtle and start pressuring me to let them sleep on my couch, etc., etc.

Abby, that kind of situation makes me feel uncomfortable, but I really haven't hit upon a nice way of saying, "Sorry, but no." Then again I wonder what harm there would be in letting them sleep on my couch. I do feel sorry for them because they ARE tired, and it is a long drive across town. Can you help?

TURNING THEM OUT INTO THE COLD
DEAR TURNING: Don't let anyone get THAT tired. Before his indicator starts pointing toward a place to sleep, thank him for the lovely evening and turn in. Alone.

DEAR ABBY: My husband isn't an alcoholic, but after he's had a few he gets very generous and starts giving away things. (His cufflinks, expensive pens and pencils, even the necktie he is wearing.) He practically forces things on

Candle Decorating Art Demonstrated

About 25 people attended a demonstration on candle decorating and soap sculpturing Thursday at the Hobby Center. The demonstration, sponsored by Busy Bee Hobby Club, was given by Bill Huffaker. Following the program, members of the club went to Furr's Cafeteria for lunch. They will meet again Thursday, place to be announced. A program on gold-leaf inking will be presented.

'Quotable Women'

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:
"I'm proud of him and I have faith that he will do what is right. My father has done so much for the country and it's too bad that it's being obscured by Watergate," Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

"We appreciate it and accept it with pleasure, the administration was trying to undermine the credibility of the press for the last 10 months." Katharine Graham, publisher of the Washington Post speaking about the public apology the paper received from White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler for his past criticism of the paper's reporting of the Watergate conspiracy.

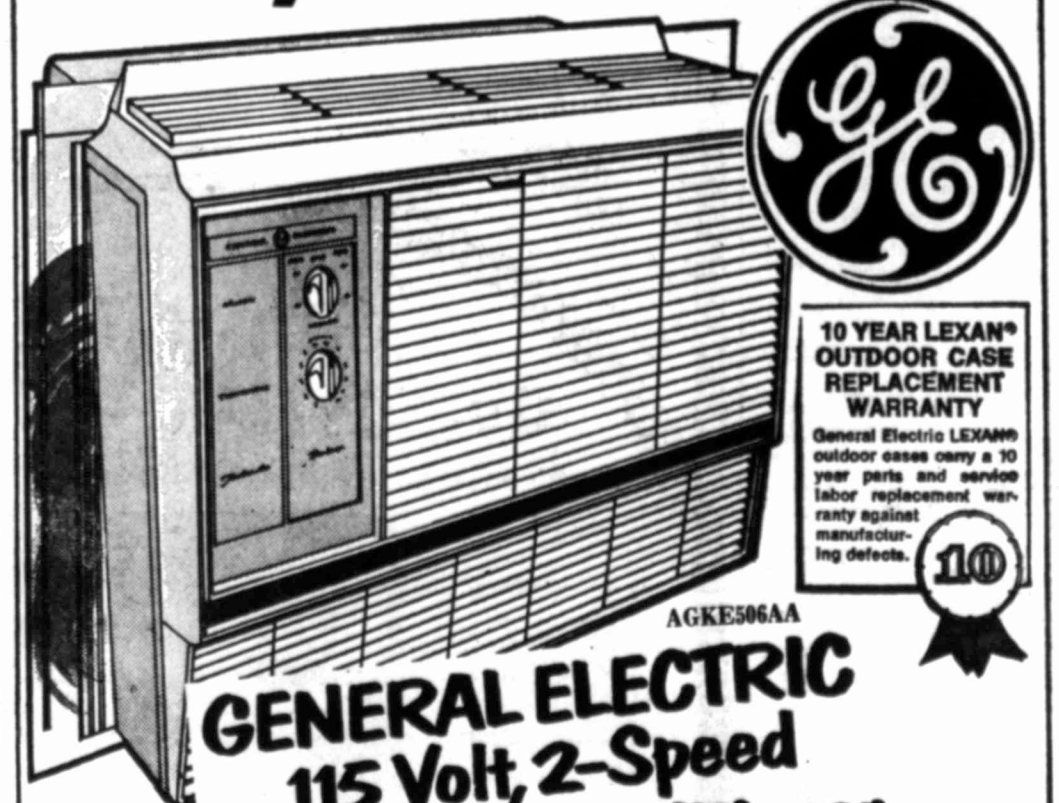

"I think they should play it up. They'd sell a lot more soap. I don't see why they have to be so uptight about it." Actress Marilyn Chambers, who modeled for Ivory Snow, a laundry soap for baby clothes in 1970, and is now starring in a hardcore sex movie.

"We want no war. One cannot say for certain what his (Sadat's) timetable for opening fire is. It will be a pity for the Egyptian boys who would be sent to the battlefield by a leader who knows that he can achieve nothing." Prime Minister Golda Meir, in a speech in Tel Aviv, reacting to recent saber-rattling statements in Cairo.

Just In Time Mothers Day

Miss Schaefer Weds Dennis M. Polinske

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Sandra Kay Schaefer and Airman I. C. Dennis Michael Polinske at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Webb Air Force Base chapel.

The newlyweds are on a trip to the Dallas and Fort Worth areas after which they will reside at 805 Johnson, Apt. No. 5. Mrs. Polinske, a graduate of Coahoma High School, attends the Academy of Hair Design. The bridegroom graduated from Bayview High School, Milwaukee, Wis., and is currently assigned at Webb as an education specialist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schaefer, Coahoma, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Polinske, Milwaukee, Wis.

The Rev. Bobby Chaney, pastor of Christian Temple, Colorado City, performed the rites as the couple stood before an archway entwined with emerald fern. Baskets of gladioli flanked the archway, and white branched candelabra, holding white tapers, completed the setting.

The bride, and her sister, Miss Cheryl Schaefer, sang a duet. Mrs. Chesley Wilson, pianist, provided a prelude of traditional background music.

The bride was attired in a formal-length gown of white satin with an overlay of silk organza. Appliqued Chantilly lace with high-lights of sequins and pearls embellished the gown, which was fashioned with long, tapered sleeves and a stand-up collar. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a band of pearls and lily of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of feathered carnations centered with an orchid.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Cheryl Schaefer, maid of honor, wore a floor-length light blue knit dress. A band of pearls outlined the empire bodice and scooped neckline, while ruffles accented the short puffed sleeves. She wore a dark blue shoulder-length veil and carried an arrangement of blue spring flowers.

Sgt. David M. Balkus of Webb was best man. Serving as ushers were Sgt. Donald B. Schrank, Milwaukee, Wis.; Sgt. Jerrold C. Treese and Sgt. Fred W. Deaver, both of Webb AFB.

Michele Horne, Odessa, served as flower girl and wore a dress styled similar to that of the maid of honor. Ring bearer was Terry Don Schaefer, brother of the bride. Altar tapers were lighted by Michael Bannister and Phillip Bannister, both of San Angelo.

A reception was held for the couple at First Federal Community Room following the ceremony. White net and lace covered the serving table which was centered with a candelabra holding assorted spring flowers. A tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and crystal appointments were used.

Refreshments were served by Miss Lisa Taylor, Miss Susan Dorn, Miss Patti Lee, Miss LaQuita Ross and Miss

Pam Foster, all of Coahoma. Guests were registered by Miss Evette Fisher.

GUESTS

Out-of-town guests, other than the bridegroom's parents, were Mr. and Mrs. Dink Hughes, Seminole, Okla., grandparents of the bride; Brian Polinske, Milwaukee, Wis., brother of the bridegroom; Debbie Rice and Mike Rich, both of Dallas; Mrs. Dewey Bannister, San Angelo; and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Horne and Mrs. Tom Tomblin, all of Odessa.

ENGAGED — The wedding of Miss Jackie Lynn Condron to Ronald Ted Banks has been scheduled for July 7 in Berea Baptist Church with the Rev. Gary Higgs officiating. The future bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Condron, Old San Angelo Hwy., and B. W. Condron, 1300 Birdwell. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William R. Banks Jr., 2109 Carl.

Winners Named For La Gallinas

Four tables were in play during La Gallinas bridge Friday at Big Spring Country Club, and taking first place were Mrs. Hayes Stripling and Mrs. Harold Davis. Mrs. Ross Boykin and Mrs. Joe Pickle tied for second and third places with Mrs. Bon Medley and Mrs. Jerry Jenkins. The group will begin its summer schedule June 1, when meetings will be at 1 p.m. each Friday.

Newcomers Club Winner's Named

A Juliet cap held her fingertip-length veil, and she carried a cascade of pink and white camillas, lily of the valley and English ivy.

The bride's attendants were identically attired in empire gowns of pink satin styled with scooped neckline and long sleeves ruffled at the wrists. Headpieces were pink bows with seed pearls and white daisies. Their nosegays of pink carnations were tied with pink streamers.

Hyperion Club Reviews Year

The 1953 Hyperion Club ended its current year with a salad luncheon Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Norman Picquet, 1600 Kiowa.

Hostesses were the outgoing officers, Mrs. W. P. Edwards Jr., president; Mrs. Clarence Peters, vice president; Mrs. Picquet, recording secretary; Mrs. Jim Bill Little, treasurer; Mrs. Wade Choate, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Pete Cook, reporter.

Mrs. Edwards was presented a silver Revere bowl as a gift of appreciation from the club.

New officers, who will assume duties at the first fall meeting, are Mrs. Peters, president; Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, vice president; Mrs. Harry Middleton, secretary; and Mrs. Bill Pollard, treasurer.

The program was a review and evaluation of the past year's studies which began in October with the program, "Drinking and Drugs" with Shelby Parnell of Big Spring State Hospital as guest speaker.

"Opportunities in the Military" was the November program which featured a guest speaker from the Public Information office at Webb Air Force Base.

In December, the Rev. and Mrs. James Collier of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church spoke on "Contemporary Christianity" and, in January, plans for the local tennis center were explained by Novice Kniffen, high school tennis instructor.

"The Dropout Dilemma" was viewed by Harold Bentley, principal, Runnels Junior High School, at the February meeting, followed in March by "Advantages of a Community College" discussed by Dr. Tom Salter, president, Howard County Junior College.

The final meeting, in April, concerned the topic, "And What Do You Do Now?" with Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith and Mrs. Harold Rosson, counselors at Big Spring High School, as the guest speakers.

Table decorations for the luncheon followed a spring theme. Mrs. Jack Elliott of Houston was a guest.

Miss Susan Smith Wins State Contest

Susan Smith of Big Spring has returned from Dallas where she was named state winner in the Youth Communication contest sponsored by Texas Garden Clubs, Inc.

The gardeners are holding their state convention in Dallas at the Hilton Inn where Miss Smith was a luncheon speaker Wednesday, discussing "Water, Wisdom or Waste."

Miss Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith, had previously won the district competition, and the state honor brought her a check for $50 and the opportunity to compete nationally. In the competition at Dallas, she competed with students from each of nine garden club districts in the state.

In winning the contest, Miss Smith added to an impressive list of honors, the most recent being named winner of the annual Zale-Herald Youth Award. A senior at Big Spring High School, she has been named to the school's "Who's Who" the past two years, is area president of Future Homemakers of America, is a member of the Thespians, on the annual staff, won district honors in poetry interpretation and also won a trip to Washington, D.C., in a speech contest sponsored by Texas Electric Service Company.

In Miss Smith's speech, a plea for pollution control, she said in part, "During the past 200 years, 180 dramatic and colorful species of mammals, birds and fish have disappeared from the face of the earth. Today many scientists are speculating that man himself may eventually become extinct — a victim of his own carelessness in despoiling his environment."

"Facing the danger of being interred in his own waste, man is frantically seeking solutions to problems that are almost beyond his control. Mountains of rubbish are peaking on the fringes of our major cities. Garbage dumping is poisoning our water supplies, inefficient incineration fouls the air around us. Bottles, cans and paper containers litter streets and highways and are dumped indiscriminately in parks and along rural roads. Industrial debris chokes our streams.

"However, much is being done today to control these conditions. Laws are being passed, plans are being laid, experiments are underway and a tremendous amount of money is being spent to clean up the United States environment. We have a long way to go.

"Perhaps, it isn't coincidental that this is happening in the years when man looked back at his planet and saw it alone and fragile and very, very small."

Forty-Two Club Meets At Forsan

FORSAN (SC) — The monthly Forty-Two Club meeting was held in the home of Mrs. J. H. Cardwell. Three tables were in play, and refreshments were served. Mrs. Cardwell recently visited her daughter and family, the T. D. Breithaupt, and her brother and sister-in-law, the Angus Edens, in Odessa. The Dave Knights visited recently in Stephenville with Mrs. Knight's parents, H. O. Greers.

Mrs. Nola Story has returned from a visit in Midland with her son-in-law and daughter the Jeff Barbers.

The A. J. McCalls were in O'Donnell as guests of their daughter and family, the L. D. Parkers, after which they went to Tahoka.

HD Club Told Uses For Synthetic Meats

Synthetic meats, convenience foods and traffic safety were all explored by Howard County home demonstration clubs in programs during the past week.

AIRPORT CLUB — "Analogues — Vegetable Meats of the 70's," was the topic explored Tuesday by Mrs. Vern Vigar for Airport HD Club. Mrs. Vigar displayed synthetic, high protein sausage, bacon and ham which she said are being used on an experimental basis in hospitals and training institutions in northern sections of the country. She said the idea of synthetic meats made from soy beans was originated by a religious organization.

Listing the advantages of the "vegetable meats," Mrs. Vigar said 43 pounds of animal meats can be produced on one acre of land, whereas the same acre could produce 450 pounds of vegetable protein. Mrs. J. F. Metcalf was hostess for the meeting which was held in the home of her mother, Mrs. Dick Clay, Midway. Mrs. Clay was a guest. The next meeting will be at 1:30 p.m., May 15 in the home of Mrs. Henry Tubbs, 601 Steakley.

ELBOW CLUB — New traffic signs and laws were outlined by Jack White of the Texas Department of Public Safety when he was guest speaker Thursday for Elbow HD Club in the home of Mrs. W. A. Allen, 1208 Main.

White discussed the future use of international traffic signs which will use pictures rather than words to instruct drivers. He said people should begin to acquaint themselves with the signs, and he emphasized that the signs would enable drivers to understand traffic signs when traveling in foreign countries.

The group will meet again May 18 in the home of Mrs. Gene Bowersox, 2408 Carleton.

COLLEGE PARK CLUB — "Soups are a low-priced, convenience food," said Mrs. Frank Walter Tuesday to College Park HD Club at the home of Mrs. Gerald Miller, 606 Baylor.

Mrs. Walter said soups allow the cook to prepare several quick dishes by simply blending and heating. A luncheon comprised of soup-based recipes was served. The menu included a shrimp dish using cream of shrimp soup; tossed salad with a tomato soup dressing; spaghetti casserole, using cream of mushroom soup, and spoon bread, using cream of chicken soup.

Club officers for the 1973-1974 club year were installed by Mrs. J. F. Skalky. Officers are Mrs. J. C. Williams, president; Mrs. Thela Edgar, vice president; Mrs. Walter, secretary; Mrs. E. D. Campbell, treasurer; and

Mrs. John Couch, council delegate.

Mrs. Campbell, outgoing president, presided, and Mrs. Williams reported on the recent Texas HD Association district meeting in Colorado City. She attended a recreation workshop which illustrated how to make bread-dough flowers and fake fur stuffed dogs. Also, she was elected delegate to the state THDA convention to be held during the summer in Waco.

The next meeting will be at 9:30 a.m., May 22 at the Pioneer Gas Flame Room, when Mrs. Campbell will present a program on salads.

Mrs. John Couch, council delegate.

Men's Wardrobe Prices Soaring

The big-ticket item in a man's wardrobe is usually his suit, and this year the ticket on the sleeve is going to show bigger numbers than ever before.

A shortage of wool fabrics and consequently higher prices are helping to drive up the price of suits by around 10 per cent, or even more, above last year's prices. For the consumer, it might mean that the suit he paid $125 for last fall might cost him as much as $145 next fall.

Merchants are getting the news right now, as they shop tailored clothing manufacturers for autumn and winter goods.

Officers Wives Hold May Day Luncheon

Mrs. Roy Peterson was elected president of the Officers Wives Club during the May-luncheon meeting Thursday at Webb Air Force Base Officers Club.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Clayton Cole, first vice president; Mrs. Roger Ward, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Craig, third vice president; Mrs. George Stilwell, recording secretary; Mrs. Cannon Randall, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Richard Missman, treasurer; and Mrs. Dave Miller, assistant treasurer.

Mrs. Fred Wertz, outgoing president, turned the traditional gavel over to Mrs. Peterson. Prior to this, she expressed appreciation to her executive board and committee chairmen, presenting each with a small potted plant.

Mrs. Stanley Umstead, honorary president, also thanked the board members for their work during the year. Each new officer was presented a carnation corsage by her outgoing counterpart.

Members of the outgoing

OWC board were hostesses for the luncheon, with Mrs. James Reese as general chairperson. She was assisted by Mrs. Charles Bernhardt, co-chairperson and publicity; and Mrs. Wilton Simmons, program.

Mrs. Wertz introduced new members, Mrs. Terri Price, Mrs. Marilyn Brown and Mrs. Loretta Mallar. Farewells were bid to Mrs. James Kmetz, Mrs. Ronald Catton and Mrs. Melvin Holme.

Mrs. Tim Danforth announced volunteers are needed for Girl Scout Day Camp scheduled from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., June 11-15. Anyone interested in helping should contact Mrs. Dennis Vander Ven at 263-6482.

In other announcements, the OWC House and Garden Club will meet at 10:30 a.m., May 16; OWC Bridge is scheduled May 17 and May 31; and a Hi-Bye Coffee will be held at 10 a.m., May 21 at the Officers Club.

It was also announced that Firehouse No. 6 needs volunteers, and anyone interested was asked to contact Mrs. Charles Dennison at 263-1805. The choral group, "Superphonics," practices at 9 a.m. each Wednesday morning at the Webb chapel annex. Those interested in joining the group are asked to attend.

Miniature May Poles with blue, pink and yellow ribbons were placed on the dining tables. Greenery encircled the base of the poles, and crepe paper streamers ran down the center of the tables. The head tables were centered with matching silver candelabra holding arrangements of yellow daisies, pink roses, mums and irises, flanked by pink candles.

THE MIRONs: SIMPLE WAY OF LIFE AFTER A LIFETIME OF WORK

She'd Like To See Nixon 'Try Living On Social Security'

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of stories on how people are living in 1973.

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

WESTLAND, Mich. (AP) — Home for Bud and Inez Miron is a back row of the Mohawk Trailer Court in this working-class suburb of Detroit. Theirs is a frugal life.

SIMPLE LIFE

The Miron, both in their 60s and on Social Security, are used to the simple way.

"We never did run up bills," said Miron. "If we didn't have it, we did without it."

But, still, there is the feeling that things could be better.

"What we're getting isn't really enough," said Miron.

"We're scratching to stay alive. I'd like to see Nixon and the other people in Washington try living on Social Security. It's rough."

Until Mrs. Miron began receiving a monthly $110 Social Security check in April, the couple's annual salary was $3,420 or $285 per month — $244 in Social Security and $41 from his pension.

"By the time you pay for rent, food, medicine and utilities, there's hardly anything left," Mrs. Miron said. "And the rising cost of all these things isn't helping matters."

Miron, 67, was forced to retire three years ago as a tool-grinder at a small machinery shop because of illness.

PENSION SMALL

His pension is small because fellow union members had voted against substantial union plans. "Most of them were young fellows, and they knew they weren't going to be there when they were 65," snorted Miron, a stocky, barrel-chested man with a booming voice.

Mrs. Miron's Social Security check, which started when she turned 62 this month, is regarded as a minor windfall.

They're worried, however, that the expenses resulting from their multiple medical problems will soon cancel out the additional income.

HEART TROUBLE

Miron suffers from emphysema, heart trouble and failing ears and eyes. His wife is a diabetic and has had recurring hernia problems.

Their mobile home is bright and simply furnished, with blonde wood paneling covering the walls and yellow and blue furniture placed neatly around the living room.

Pictures of grandchildren adorn the tables and a crucifix hangs on the wall.

The Miron paid off the trailer several years ago, but still pay $63 a month to rent the small plot of ground on which it sits.

PLUMP WOMAN

Mrs. Miron, a short, plump woman with carefully coiffed red hair, produced last month's rent bill. With electricity and school tax costs added, it totaled $76.

"When we came here, the rent was $35," said Miron.

Before moving into the trailer eight years ago, the Miron had lived in rented houses for the first 36 years of their marriage.

"We couldn't rent a home or apartment now," Mrs. Miron said. "It's just too much money."

The Miron eat simply, usually only two meals a day, but their monthly food bill comes to about $120.

Because of her diabetes, Mrs. Miron must have special dietetic foods, which are more costly.

NEED MEAT

"We need meat and we still eat it, but only occasionally and only cheaper cuts like hamburger," she said. "We eat a lot of salads now."

During the summer, Mrs. Miron grows tomatoes and onions in her tiny garden to save money. But she's not sure she'll be able to do it this year because of her health.

Once a month, they treat themselves to dinner out — a $1-a-plate meal sponsored by the city's parks and recreation department.

Their 10-year-old car sits outside the trailer, its fenders splitting and body rusting. The Miron say they don't know what they'd do if it broke down.

They have no money to get it repaired or to buy a new one.

"We were going to buy a second car and pay it off before his retirement but he got sick," Mrs. Miron said. "It took us too suddenly."

NO DEBTS

Asked if they have any savings, Miron retorted, "God, no. We don't have a thing."

But at the same time, they pointed out with pride, they don't have any debts.

"They don't have the money to do much now, they added, but it's not much of a hardship because they never did much.

Their entertainment consists primarily of playing cards on Wednesday and Sunday afternoons with other senior citizens. When they're at home, she watches television and he reads.

physical recently but she didn't," Miron said. "It cost $90 and we couldn't afford it."

WIPED OUT

She said the hospital charges about $85 a day for a semi-private room, but her medical insurance covers only $35 of that.

Medicare pays for 80 per cent of Miron's medical expenses, he said, but he still must pay for most of his medicine, which costs about $20 a month.

The recent 20 per cent increase in Social Security, he said, was practically wiped out by the loss of medicaid benefits. He estimates his net increase at $5 a month.

Commerce School Promotes Hansen

East Texas State University at Commerce has promoted Terry Hansen, son of Dr. and Mrs. Halvard Hansen, to the position of senior program analyst in the Computer Department. Terry is in charge of a number of the university programs while pursuing his master of business administration degree.

Terry Hansen is married to the former Wanda Heckler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Heckler. She is completing her degree in speech therapy, also at East Texas State.

The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Frederick P. Thieme, president of the University of Colorado at Boulder. The commencement program officially concludes the spring semester at Texas Tech. Registration for the first summer term is scheduled for June 4-5.

LUBBOCK — Approximately 1,900 spring graduates of Texas Tech University will receive their degrees in commencement exercises to be conducted at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

More than 2,000 others who completed requirements for their degrees in August and December 1972 are invited to participate in this spring's commencement program. The spring list includes approximately 230 master's and doctoral degree candidates and 75 law degree candidates.

THE POSTMAN RINGS MORE THAN TWICE—When pretty Linda Lindblom, of Lansdale, Pa., was pictured a week ago walking past Mailman Stan Cressman, taking a second look at his shorts, mail and phone business alike got a big boost. Linda has been getting special delivery offers to pose for magazines and ad agencies. Here she poses on a park bench as Stan hands her another letter. The first photo, published nationwide, brought some side effects: Linda's boy friend didn't like "the idea of flashing your legs all over the country." And there's this one chap who calls Linda every morning at 7 o'clock. "I just say 'good-bye' and hang up. At least it gets me to work on time."

LEAVING THE APES — Arthur P. Jacobs has made millions as producer of five "Planet of the Apes" movies in which actors in elaborate costumes and makeup play ape roles. But now he's bidding them farewell. "I have other films I want to make," says Jacobs, shown in front of an ape statue in his Beverly Hills back yard. His last ape film will be released this summer.

Ape Filmer Ape-Tired

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Arthur P. Jacobs, a man who has made millions with talking apes, is saying farewell to the creatures with a mixture of relief and regret.

Relief, because his five "Planet of the Apes" movies have been complex productions requiring more ingenuity with each one. Regret, because the films have been the producer's biggest successes.

"Naturally, I'm fond of the apes," said Jacobs, 51, "but it has become harder to find new plots that will work. Besides, I have other films I want to make. I don't want to keep turning out apes pictures like Charlie Chans or Tarzans.

"In both those cases, the first five or so of the series were excellent. Then, as the series fell into other hands, they became routine and not so good. I'd rather quit while we're ahead."

Live Televising Doubtful For Probe Of Watergate

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Senate committee probing the Watergate affair still plans to start hearings May 15 and live TV coverage still will be allowed, says a spokesman for Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., head of the committee.

Will the networks cover it live? You'd think so, now that President Nixon has accepted responsibility for the affair, fired one of his top aides and announced the resignation of two more and his attorney general.

But no decision has been made yet on live coverage of the Watergate hearings, according to spokesmen for the CBS, NBC and ABC television networks. They say it partly depends now on who will be called to testify.

And even that is undecided right now. An Ervin aide says the witness list may not be ready until "the last minute."

This is because of the possibility that prominent figures the committee wants to question about Watergate could be indicted on federal charges between now and May 15, he said.

If that happens, those potential witnesses probably wouldn't be called to appear before the committee, the aide said.

PRIME TIME REPLAYS

The National Public Affairs Center for Television has said it will cover the hearings "gavel-to-gavel." But an NPAC spokesman this week said that as of now, no live broadcasts are planned.

He said the hearings instead will be videotaped for broadcast during prime evening hours on national public television.

If there is indecision at NBC, CBS and ABC about live coverage of the hearings, there was none in the networks' correspondent commentary and analyses immediately following Nixon's Watergate speech. Virtually all of it was harsh.

The strongest words came at CBS, where Daniel Schorr and White House correspondent Dan Rather — both of whom have been sharply criticized by administration officials — hammered away at what they felt were major holes and unanswered questions in Nixon's speech.

The next day, on the CBS

Morning News, Schorr partially analyzed Nixon's speech this way: "The President in a sense last night was saying, 'let me off the hook on this one.'"

MEDIA ISSUE DEAD

"I'll be nice to the poor people, I'll be nice to the press and God, maybe I'll even be nice to the Congress if you just let me off the hook."

Victor Gold, who resigned in January as Vice President Agnew's press spokesman checked in on the other side of the commentary fence during an appearance on NBC's "Today" show.

He praised Nixon's speech as "very good" and, in discussing Nixon's brief praise of a "vigorous free press" in the Watergate case, said he believed that signified the administration now "is in a new ball game here with the media issue, as an issue for this administration, is dead tactically," said Gold, now a Washington-based writer and television commentator.

300 Families Flee Rupture

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — Three hundred families fled from a three-mile square area here during the night after a tank car ruptured when 12 Southern Pacific cars derailed.

The ruptured tanker carried an explosive and toxic chemical, vinyl chloride.

However, the chemical evaporated by dawn today and residents were permitted to return.

Connally, in fact, had been in a starter's crouch for the flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — So to the GOP since January, but his friends had urged a postponement until the storm of the Watergate scandal calmed.

GOOD TIMING

He claimed Wednesday that the timing of his announcement was not related to Watergate—and, moreover, that he seeks "no office, political or appointive." But there is speculation aplenty in Washington that Connally will be called upon to help fill the void created by the departure of White House aides John Ehrlichman and H.R. Hal-

POLITICAL THIRST UNQUENCHED

Profile Of John Connally

deman. Another possibility is being vacated by Defense Secretary Elliot L. Richardson.

Silver of both hair and tongue, John Connally won his first courtship of the public's favor with selection as the young King Goober of Floresville, Tex. And that crusade, in which he ran literally for peanuts—the area's cash crop—was followed by a political thirst still unquenched, four decades later.

GREAT TARGET

The presidency of the United States may be the only tap to quench it. For while his course remains as uncharted as ever, the White House looms into ever-sharper focus as Connally's last great target.

What tactics will he employ to try to get there?

The prudent politician doesn't answer such questions, not this early.

"I don't want to close any doors," he has said.

But Richard M. Nixon has been a bit more positive on the matter. First, he told the then-environmental administrator William Ruckelshaus that Connally likely will be the '76 nominee. Second, he told newsmen at the White House that any candidate would be "out of his mind" to begin activity before the off-year elections.

And, while Nixon said at that Jan. 31 news conference that he wouldn't endorse anybody until after the primaries, he singled out Connally as a man for whom he has "very high respect." As for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, the President noted only that "many have suggested the vice president would be interested."

HARD DRIVING

Like Lyndon Johnson, John Connally is disarmingly intelligent, hard driving and possessed of a commanding presence that is charming one moment and chilling the next. He also can be as stubborn, as playful and as prayerful as his political godfather. He shows less outward compassion, but he has two qualities that LBJ envied: a highly polished manner and rugged good looks, the latter of which he is considerably, perhaps justly, vain.

Connally has parlayed his personality, style and abilities into one of the most bizarre odysseys in American political annals. Poor boy, rich boy. Rancher, lawyer, three times governor of Texas. A lifelong Democrat. Wounded by a presidential assassin. A Treasury secretary who tells his staff he can forgive "almost any human frailty except disloyalty." He had joined the Nixon Cabinet without a word to his old mentor Johnson.

NEW FRONTIER

He joined the New Frontier as John Kennedy's Navy secretary, later rode—and fell—with that young president on the streets of Dallas. Now he has cast his fate with Kennedy's arch-rival, Richard M. Nixon.

As a leader among Democratic governors, he defended Johnson's escalation of the Vietnam war in the name of military victory. As a leader of the Nixon administration, he defended withdrawal in the name of peace with honor.

He has talked fondly of his roots among the peanut-farming folk of Floresville, where he now keeps an airport-equipped ranch he calls home. But that hardly has kept him from the highest councils of big business. One was the intimate relationship he enjoyed with oilman Sid Richardson—on whose estate Connally collected $750,000 in attorney's fees.

I'LL TELL HIM

He is now on the boards of Texas Instruments, the Hillburton Co., The Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. and Pan American Airways, among others.

He is not a man easily deterred, or even distracted. Soon after his appointment as Treasury secretary, Connally was told by one White House staffer that one of his ideas merited being "passed along" to the President.

Connally's eyes narrowed and he proclaimed with deliberate coolness: "I'll see the President this afternoon. I'll tell him myself."

Within weeks, he was the recognized strongman of an other-wise-Republican Cabinet. Not only did he see the President whenever he wanted, but on more than one occasion the President came to him.

Certificates Given Four

Certificates of completion were given to four women in garment industry sewing Thursday by Howard County Junior College.

The class began four weeks ago in conjunction with Big Spring Dress Company, Inc. and the college. Students were trained in the use of industrial sewing machines in a three-night-a-week program involving three hours each evening.

New classes begin each week, with six students to a class. Interested persons may call the college at 287-6311 Ext. 32 for details or to pre-register.

"The training program has been a success beyond our best expectations," said M. L. "Mel" Melton, dress company supervisor. "We will be hiring two of the graduates immediately."

Garment industry workers in Big Spring receive the minimum wage as a base salary, and then are paid at a piece rate for work done beyond quota.

The concept of in-house training of vocational students is a new rapidly growing method being employed in industry by community colleges, starting all over the state with the encouragement of the Texas Education Agency.

Trainees at Big Spring Dress Company receive 36 hours supervised instruction on industrial equipment, and at the end of their training are considered for employment by the company.

The first four graduates are: Pearl M. Klahr, Melba Nichols, Josefa Uribe and Josefina Ramos.

TAXES RAISED; HOUSE RAZED — Frank DuFault wins by default—he has his 160-year-old eight-room house in West Bridgewater, Mass., bulldozed to the ground to protest the city raising his property taxes from $800 to nearly $1400 in one year. "This is the last straw," said the 66-year-old former policeman and baker who moved in with his sister about 30 miles away.

Big Lie Used, Most Papers Ignored It

WASHINGTON (AP) — A journalism critic says "there isn't much reason for most of the American press to congratulate itself about Watergate."

The Nixon administration, "or at least its highest staff members, knew how to use the big lie, and precious few newspapers had the desire or the competence or the guts to do anything about it," Ben H. Bagdikian said.

Bagdikian, national correspondent for the Columbia Journalism Review and a former ombudsman for The Washington Post, told the American Society of Newspaper Editors: "The time when the Watergate and other subversive activities meant the most, before unearthing by the few or the many Labor Day and Election Day when the American public was deciding on their governments for the next four years."

most of the dailies in this country were looking the other way.

"The Washington Post more than any other paper, The New York Times somewhat belatedly, the Los Angeles Times, The Associated Press, Time magazine at the start and a handful of other organizations did all there was. The average newspaper did almost nothing."

With 2,200 accredited correspondents in Washington, he said, "as far as I can make out, no more than 14 reporters were put on Watergate full time for any substantial period during the fall presidential campaign."

He told the editors that, "even when Watergate stories were unearthed by the few organizations working on it, it had trouble getting on front pages elsewhere in the country."

Slay Suspect Denied Bond

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The accused slayer of an El Paso bank president will be held in La Tuna, Tex., Federal Correctional Institution pending further court proceedings, a U.S. Magistrate ordered.

Albert Garza, 32, was arraigned before Magistrate Jaime C. Boyd on charges of attempted bank robbery and murder.

A request for bond was denied.

Garza was arrested in the parking lot of the Border City Bank Tuesday. The firm's president, Richard Rogers, was shot at the bank before it opened. He died while undergoing emergency surgery.

Garza was brought from the William Beaumont Army Medical Center for Wednesday's arraignment. Police said he received a shoulder wound when he exchanged gunfire with policemen at the bank.

BREAK: (Q.) For about two years this guy and I have liked each other. At least we did like each other. We got along real well until I went to visit my cousin. When I came back everyone told me he didn't like me any more. I believed them, and got very upset.

A couple of nights, later, I was walking to a girl friend's house. He saw me and asked me to go to the beach with him that Sunday. I told him what I had heard. We got into a big fight, and I walked away.

Sometimes I see him now, in the street, and he always looks at me. Or when he drives by he'll fake like he's going to hit me.

Do you think I should give him a second chance? If so, how do I go about doing it? — Suffering in Florida.

(A.) It is unwise to accept hearsay evidence as fact. When possible, you should get facts from the source. In this case, the source was your boy friend, or former boy friend.

When he asked you to go to the beach with him, you should have gone, and you should have talked with him there, quietly and calmly, about what your friends had told you. Then you should have asked him what the truth was.

This would have given him a chance to tell you whether there was any truth in what they said, and if so what the facts were.

Give him a chance now. Call him and tell him you are sorry you started a fight. Tell him you would like to talk things over with him if he wants to. He may say no, but I believe he will say yes.

LOVE? (Q.) Is it possible to be really, truly in love with someone without him being in love with you? I really, really think I'm in love with this kid but I don't think he's in love with me, and I just can't ask him if he is.

Please, please write me an answer. — In a Whirl in Louisiana.

(A.) Yes, it is possible to be really, truly in love with someone who is not in love with you. This is not a good plight to be in.

You give no sign that you have dated this young man who appeals to you, or even talked with him seriously. I believe you just have a thing about him, that it is not real love, and that it will pass.
