

CALLS FOR STUDY OF PUBLIC SCHOOL FINANCING

Briscoe: No New Taxes In 1975

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe has set out to collect the information he needs to recommend a top-to-bottom overhaul of Texas' public school system to the 1975 legislature.

Briscoe responded Tuesday to the defeat of a compromise school funding bill in the legislature's final hours by calling for two "mammoth" studies by state agencies.

He also said "no new taxes" would be his rule for the 1975 session as it was for the one that adjourned Monday night.

MUST BE DONE
"I am convinced that not only it can be done but it must be done," he said.

He told a news conference he wanted these two investigations to help him meet "my responsibility—and duty—to the 2.7 million school children of Texas."

—A total re-examination by the Texas Education Agency—possibly with outside help if the money can be found—of the full range of public school education, from courses to expenditures.

"The study will... take a complete look at what we are now doing in public education, how well we are doing it and what needs to be done in the future," Briscoe said.

—A study by the Legislative Property Tax Committee of posals would cause school districts with low property values to get more state aid, while rich ones might get less.

While Briscoe has no legal authority to compel either the TEA or the property tax committee to perform a study, he said his office has sufficient persuasive powers to get the job done.

"The governor is pretty good authority if he is asking somebody to do something," agreed State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar.

Briscoe acknowledged the TEA, a giant bureaucracy that oversees the entire state system of public education, might not be entirely objective about the present system.

"It would be well if we could get an unbiased outside viewpoint. I don't know where we could get it but, I am going to hunt for it, and if the funds are available, we will do it," he said.

Briscoe had asked the legislature to order a study of taxable market values to make recommendations for a new school finance system in 1975. The same bill contained $39 million in one-year emergency grants for the 113 poorest school districts, which have 25 per cent of the state's pupils.

70-70 VOTE
But the House wanted full-scale revision of the school finance system now. A conference committee succumbed, apparently, to pressure from the State Teachers Association and voted to spread $44 million among all districts, rich and poor alike.

The compromise was rejected by a 70-70 vote in the House when Speaker Price Daniel Jr. refused to break the bill-killing tie.

MARIJUANA BILL
Briscoe also said he was trying to learn whether state expenditures would rise if he signs a bill providing free public kindergartens for all five-year-olds starting in September. Sponsors claimed a half-day full-year, or full-day one-semester program would not boost kindergarten costs over what they are now.

The TEA has sent questionnaires to all school superintendents, he said, asking if it would raise their costs. Already, he said, the Killen Independent School District has estimated a $92,000 increase.

On other matters, the governor said:

—He will have an announcement in "the next few days" whether he will allow a bill extending full adult rights to 18-year-olds to become law.

—He is sticking to his campaign promise to veto any bill passed without a public hearing and has instructed his staff to investigate the legislative history of each bill for that purpose.

—He will sign a bill reducing possession of four ounces of marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor.

—Both the lobby control and conflict of interests bills passed in the closing hours of the session are "very good" measures.

HEALTH HEAD — Dr. Robert Stone of the University of New Mexico was named as director of the National Institutes of Health by President Nixon Tuesday. Stone, 51, a pathologist, worked on the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission in Hiroshima and has been dean of medicine at the University since 1968.

Midland Voters Reject Bonds

MIDLAND — Bond proposals to air condition 21 school buildings and to construct a multi-purpose athletic facility on the Midland College campus were defeated by Midland Independent School District voters Tuesday.

Air conditioning was turned down by a vote of 2,751 to 2,655. The multipurpose facility was nixed 2,986 to 2,388.

A Shell Oil Co. announcement that the firm is moving exploration and production operations from Midland to Houston was said to have a negative effect on consideration of the bond issues.

Enrollment Skids In Schools Here

Heading down the home stretch, Big Spring school enrollment slipped 12 pupils last week to hit 6,571, or 251 less than the comparable date a year ago. Marcy school had six withdrawals to account for nearly all the net elementary loss of seven, leaving 3,465. Secondary schools lost nine, leaving 3,025, while hospital homebound enrollment was up four at 83. Peak enrollment for the year was 6,846.

News of Big Spring Business and Industry

4-A Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Wed., May 30, 1973

Gibson's Staff Selects Best

Gibson's Discount Store has just gone to market and returned with merchandise to fill up the gap in the increase of sales being enjoyed at the store.

They bought summer fashions, piece goods for the woman who likes to sew during the summer months, additional fishing and camping equipment for the sports enthusiast and also made purchases for the back-to-school events next fall and began selecting toys for Christmas.

Al Stevens, manager, said there were some 2500 buyers at the Dallas market to make their selections from the 1500 name brand businesses offering the very latest in merchandise.

Going for the Big Spring store along with Stevens were Mrs. Betty Rogers, co-owner, Mrs. Nor Mays, soft goods department, Joe Campbell, hardware and auto department, and William Steagald of the sporting goods department.

MANAGER — Al Stevens, manager, and Wanda Denson, office manager; Betty Rogers, co-owner; Nora Mays, soft goods buyer; Joe Campbell, assistant store manager, and Bill Steagald, toy and sporting goods all went to market in Dallas to bring back the very best in merchandise for Big Spring customers.

Gibson's has a wider selection of merchandise than any store in Big Spring — with everything from a complete pharmacy, clothing, dishes and houseware, sporting goods, clocks, cameras, curtains, drapes, piece goods, and an endless line of "everything."

The Big Spring customers are especially urged to drop by Gibson's during the next few weeks because they have trucks backed up to the door moving in the new selections made at market.

The Gibsons' staff went to market with the Big Spring customer in mind. They tried to select items that they knew would be needed and wanted locally.

Drop by their store soon to look for your summer needs — whether you are needing camping and fishing equipment

Ways To Keep Cost Overruns Down

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — If American industry can get back with relatively few mishaps along the way, why can't American industry perform that reliably for the Defense Department?

In both the space and defense programs, industry has been dealing with new technologies put to new uses. And the space program probably was the more difficult of the two. Yet it experienced minimal cost overruns and equipment failures.

LOOK BAD

"One reason our cost overruns always look so bad by comparison is that we always make our first program cost estimates unrealistically low," said David Packard, former deputy secretary of defense. "The space people have always been more realistic with the Congress about what a program was going to cost."

"The story I've heard is that someone made an estimate of what the Apollo program was going to cost and then to be safe they asked Congress for twice that much. You don't get overruns that way."

There is another major difference: the way the hardware is produced for the space program.

"Our hardware is built by the ones and twos," George Vecchietti, director of procurement for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said in an interview. "So almost everything we get is, in effect, hand made. We don't have, a production line that has to turn out 25 destroyers or 1,000 aircraft.

MORE FAILURES

"If the Defense Department had the time and money to buy every piece of equipment they bought put together by hand, they might not have any more failures than we've had. But they can't afford that luxury."

Given the limitations on military procurement, what, if any, alternatives are there to the system which has created so many problems?

Interviews with defense officials, critics and contractors have produced these ideas:

—Fly before you buy. This is the Melvin Laird-David Packard concept of having one or more companies build prototype equipment that can be tried, tested and improved upon before huge sums of money are committed to full-scale production.

—Give contractors incentives to keep costs down in the planning and development stages of a project, but allow them to recoup their costs. After development, when it is reasonable for a contractor to determine what production is going to give him a fixed-price contract with the understanding that he will have to absorb all losses himself, even if it means bankruptcy.

EXPENSIVE

—Speed up the procurement process so there is not such a time lag between the design stage, the development stage and production. In those gaps, which can range from several months to years, a contractor must lay out the bulk of the project's work force because there isn't enough work to keep them busy or pay their salaries. Later, trying to round them up again is an expensive, time-consuming, highly inefficient way to operate.

—Design to cost. Under this concept, the Defense Department has a contractor build the best piece of hardware possible for a predetermined amount of money. For example, for $100 million the Army could buy 100 simple helicopters or 50 complex helicopters, whichever it preferred, as long as the cost didn't exceed $100 million.

—A number of contractors feel that, given the shrinking volume of defense and space work available, their industry is due for a shakeout. They feel some of their own numbers must go out of business, either by merger or bankruptcy, but that those remaining will be able to give the Defense Department more for each dollar spent.

Industry people say they feel the strongest about getting a change in contracting procedures.

"Under total package, fixed-price contracts, you would have seen a couple of bankrupt companies if they had been forced to adhere to their contract," said Robert Anderson, president of Rockwell International. "There's no way you can make a firm price commitment on something you're not going to be building for another five years."

NO BUSINESS

"If you have cost and incentive contracts in the early research and development stages, a contractor has a good foundation for making production price judgments. That's the time for the fixed-price contract. And if a contractor can't judge right at that point, after he's built a few prototypes, he's got no business being in the business."

Among all the suggestions, fly before you buy is the only one formulated into Defense Department policy. The implication of fly before you buy is that two or more companies will get research and development contracts to produce prototypes of a new piece of equipment, and that after tests of all the prototypes, the company with the best one will get the production contract.

To date, fly before you buy has been used only once, in a fly-off between Fairchild Industries and the Northrop Corp., both of which built prototypes of the AX, the Air Force plane designed to provide close air support of ground troops. Fairchild won the production contract.

GOOD POLICY

On at least two other airplanes, the B1 bomber being built by Rockwell International and the F15 Eagle jet fighter being built by McDonnell-Douglas, there were no multi-company flyoffs. Defense Department officials say the fly before you buy policy was used, but critics say otherwise.

"I'm sure fly before you buy would be a good policy if they'd ever try it," said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. "But the Defense Department makes commitments to certain contractors in advance and when they do that, the policy is a charade."

"The policy statement implies that the service involved can fully test and evaluate finished airplanes before committing itself to buying a whole production lot. That implies the service will have prototypes for more than one company in the test."

"If you lock yourself in with only one company getting a research and development contract, you're indulging in make believe to say if you don't like their prototype you won't go into production."

You'll have invested too much not to go into production."

CASE IN POINT

The F15 is a case in point. In February, the Air Force went ahead with its first order of 30 F15s despite the fact that the aircraft's engines have failed to pass several ground tests.

Asked why congressional appropriations committees don't force the Defense Department to use fly before you buy on pain of having its appropriations cut back, Proxmire said, "We've tried, but we can't get members of Congress to vote to do it."

Packard disputes Proxmire's contention that the Defense Department isn't enforcing the policy and the senator's contention that more than one company must be involved in the prototyping.

DOOMED

"You can't prototype an aircraft carrier," he said. "They're so expensive you couldn't afford to have more than one company involved. The B1 bomber is too big and expensive for that kind of treatment."

One thing all sides agree on is that some major changes are going to have to be made in defense procurement procedures, or the Pentagon will be forever doomed to buying things in the manner described by Gordon Rule, a top civilian procurement specialist for the Navy and a critic of procurement policies.

"We never seem to have time to do things right the first time. But we always seem to have time to do them over."

Troublemaker?

Jean Adams
TEEN FORUM

SUMMER FEAR: (Q.) I just love Bert. We have been going out together for 11 months. Bert says he can't stand Trudy. Trudy says she can't stand Bert either, but I know for sure that whether she likes him or not she would love to break us up.

What should I do now that summer is coming. Trudy hangs around with Bert's sister and she will always be over at their house and she will wear clothes that she thinks will impress him. I will be over there too and I will get jealous and say something and a fight will start. Trudy is a troublemaker. What should I do about her? — 14 in Connecticut.

(A.) You say Trudy is a troublemaker. You seem to be a trouble hunter. A trouble hunter can make as much trouble as a troublemaker.

Do not be one. Do not expect the worst. If you do, you will almost certainly find it.

If Trudy can dress attractively, so can you. Do your best to be appealing to Bert and stop worrying about what might happen.

Next Orthopedic Clinic Set To Begin Saturday

The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, in cooperation with the Howard County Easter Seal Society, will conduct its next orthopedic clinic Saturday beginning at 9 a.m.

Parents of children may pre-register by calling the center, 267-4857, or register the day of the clinic until 12 noon.

The clinic will be under the supervision of the center's medical advisory committee comprised of Dr. Pete Rhymes, chairman, Dr. Roscoe B. Cowper, Dr. W. A. Riley, Dr. Nell Sanders, Dr. Louise Worthing and Dr. Robert Sheldon. The medical director of the clinic will be Dr. Rhymes, orthopedic surgeon. Dr. Worthing will be the pediatrician for the next clinic.

All new patients to the clinic must be seen between 9 and 10 a.m., otherwise the pediatrician will not be able to see them.

Warning Issued Of Stolen Titles

AUSTIN — The Texas Highway Department today warned car dealers, banks, finance companies and the public to be aware of stolen negotiable automobile titles that probably will be used on stolen or converted vehicles.

One hundred and 34 "original" blank negotiable titles with inventory numbers 16461082 through 16461215 printed on the back, were taken May 21 in an armed robbery from the Motor Vehicle Division district office in Houston. In addition, 24 "duplicate original" blank non-negotiable titles with inventory numbers 619090 through 619303 printed on the front were taken in the same robbery.

Anyone spotting one of these titles should notify the local police and the Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department immediately.

from this clinic. No charge will be made for services rendered.

Parents of children who wish to have their children seen in this clinic should contact their family physician in order to have them referred. If they do not have a physician they should contact the center or register the day of the clinic.

Purpose of the clinic is to offer a diagnostic and evaluation service to crippled children through the team approach. The team will consist of an orthopedic surgeon, pediatrician, physical therapist, occupational therapist, speech therapist, public health nurse, and brace man. The clinic will help to determine what kind of or combination of treatment is best for the child. Another objective is to locate children who have so far not been treated so they begin treatment. Children who attend this clinic will be eligible to apply for the state crippled children's program.

BY MILKING NATURAL LAKES? Can CRMWD Boost Quality Of Water In Reservoir?

Will milking a couple of natural shallow lakes dry improve the quality of water in a huge man-made lake?

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District believe that it will and are prepared to invest around $160,000 — possibly more — in an effort to improve quality of water reaching its main reservoir, Lake E. V. Spence.

They gave their blessing to a project outlined Tuesday by O. H. Ivie, general manager, in which wells would withdraw water from at least two playa lakes west of Big Spring and boost the water back upstream for impoundment behind a natural dam on Sulphur Draw.

Had the district been able during the past two years to stop all the flow coming through the chain of shallow, natural lakes on Beal's Creek above Big Spring — and Ivie acknowledged that stopping all this is hardly probable — water in Lake Spence might have nearly 100 ppm chlorides today.

POLLUTION WOES

He and Paschal Odom, assistant general manager who has supervised studies on the Beal's Creek problem, detailed how a series of test holes have indicated that most of the Beal's Creek pollution stems from the chloride and sulphate residuals which have accumulated in the depressions over eons of time. When rains come, these flow from one lake to another and finally into the creek channel to finally reach the Colorado River and Lake into revenues — and Ivie said he doubted that even heavy consumption during June, July and August can entirely close this gap. However, on the plus side, he said the SACROC repressuring unit is using more water, and Texas Electric Service Company is due to begin to take about four million gallons per day from the Water County field starting possibly in October.

The Ward County wells were activated Tuesday for the first time this season and then will be pressed into intensive service June 1 in order to enable the district to continue operating within its off-peak electric power pattern. All equipment is in excellent shape and should be able to meet any sort of water demands this summer, said Odom.

Ivie reported that a $200,000 appropriation for the biennium had been voted by the Legislature for the Texas Water Development board to evaluate the District's water modification project, now in its third year. A meeting Wednesday in Austin is to attempt to set this in motion. Ivie praised Rep. Renal B. Rosson, Snyder, for helping obtain the appropriation.

Clyde McMahon, Big Spring, was welcomed as a new board member, and P. C. Harbour, Odessa, president, praised Jimmy Taylor, McMahon's predecessor, for his service on the board.

An unprecedented run of persistently cold and wet weather during the first four months of the year has cut sharply into water consumption — and thus

Agents Snag Break-In Quiz

LOS ANGELES (AP) — FBI agents have impeded a Los Angeles County grand jury probe of the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, the Los Angeles Times reported Tuesday.

But a Justice Department official, Kevin Maroney, told the paper that a problem regarding FBI agents' telling witnesses not to submit to questioning by investigators has been resolved.

Marine Corps Commandant Robert E. Cushman Jr. is scheduled to begin testimony today before the grand jury. He was the deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency at the time of the break-in.

Cushman was to testify before the probe, officially begins because of prior Marine Corps commitments.

Maroney said: "there was some misunderstanding, but it is straightened out now. Any witness who was under the impression that the FBI did not want them talking to other investigators has now been told otherwise."

The grand jury is to begin officially an investigation June 5 on the break-in at the Beverly Hills office of Dr. Lewis J. Fielding, Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Testimony at Ellsberg's Pentagon papers trial disclosed that men hired by a White House security unit had broken into the offices in September, 1971 in an unsuccessful effort to secure Ellsberg's records.

A federal court judge several weeks ago dismissed charges of espionage, conspiracy and theft against Ellsberg and codefendant Anthony Russo for copying the top secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

Altho North had six-card trump support for South's one heart opening bid, his remaining distribution was not especially attractive, and his attempt to buy the hand at any cost resulted in a sound trouncing on the deal.

South opened the bidding with one heart and West overcalled with one spade. North did not hold the singleton usually stipulated for an immediate raise to four hearts, but we would not object to this call in the present instance, for by so doing, he would have spoken his piece with one bid and could leave any subsequent decisions to his partner's discretion.

East recognized that, with good trumps and a near solid suit of his own, he had an excellent fit for his partner, so he jumped directly to four spades. South and West passed and North perished to five hearts, a highly doubtful call. His distribution is too balanced despite the fact that he holds six trumps, and the sacrifice could exceed the value of the opponents' game.

East passed and West chose to carry on to five spades. North refused to give in gracefully, however. His decision to bid six hearts was not far removed from madness and could only serve to offer the opponents a fielder's choice on the deal. East was not inclined to carry the contest any further, and he doubled to extract a full measure of compensation.

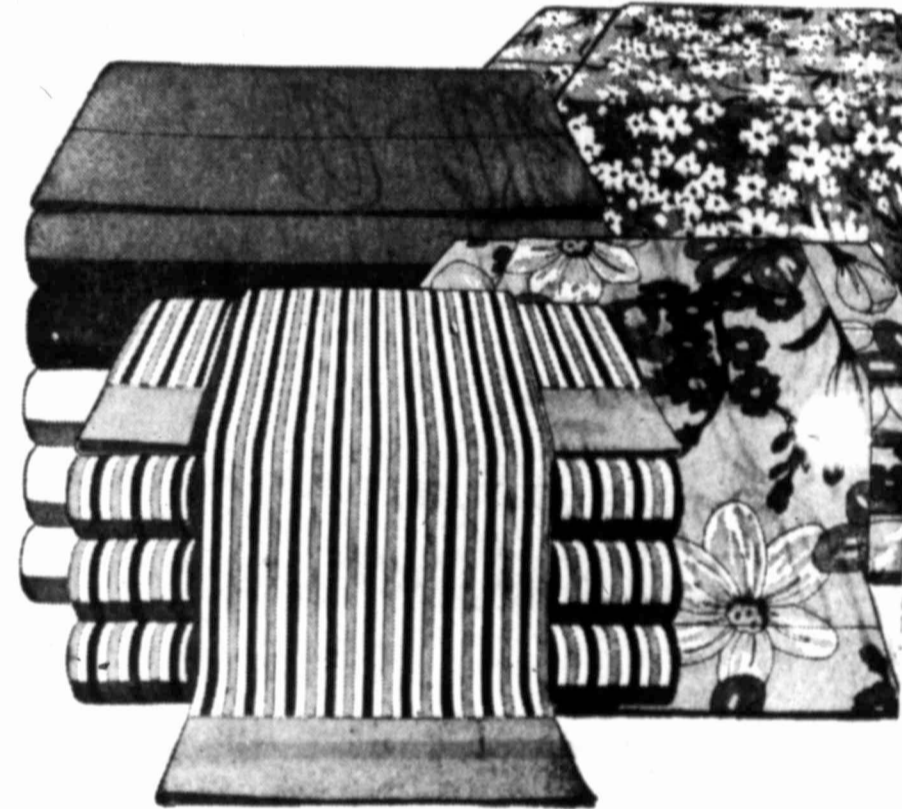

West led the king of spades on which East signalled encouragement with the nine. West continued with a low spade, since he wanted his partner in to return a club. East put up the ace of spades and dutifully shifted to the nine of clubs. South played the ten and West was in with the jack.

West exited with a diamond and East cashed two tricks in that suit. Another club came back and South had to lose one more trick in clubs. The total damages on the deal amounted to 900 points. This was a little less than it would have been had East and West carried on to six spades, which cannot be defeated, however, it was considerably more than the opposition would have scored had they been permitted to buy the contract at a lower level.

BIG SPRING HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, MAY 30, 1973 SEC. B

Multipay Prospect Is Bottomed At 8,125 Ft.

Santa Fe Petroleum Co., Los Angeles, was bottomed at 8,125 feet, logging and preparing to run 4 1/2-inch production string at No. 1 Collins Estate, north Sterling County multipay prospect, 17 miles north of Sterling City.

A drillstem test in the Ellenburger from 8,072-8,125 feet, on which the tool was open 28 minutes at the rate of 127,000 cubic feet per day. Oil surfaced in 12 minutes, flowing to pits, no gauge reported. Recovery was 7,172 feet of free 50-gravity oil and 15 feet of heavily oil- and gas-cut mud.

Flowing pressures were 2,535-3,004 pounds; one-hour initial and two-hour final shut-in pressures measured 3,637 pounds each.

Sample chamber recovery on the test was 2.5 cubic feet of gas and 2,000 cubic centimeters of oil, with pressure of 325 pounds.

INDICATED

Mississippian production was indicated with the flowing of 350,000 cubic feet per day, and recovery of 1,600 feet of free oil, 300 feet of heavily oil- and gas-cut mud and 170 feet of filtrate water on a drillstem test from 8,025-8,046 feet.

A test in the Wolfcamp from 5,781-6,050 feet recovered 900 feet of gas and 618 feet of gas-cut and slightly oil-cut mud.

The project spots 660 feet from south and east lines of section 72, block 17, SPRR survey, 1 1/2 mile southwest of the depleted Ellenburger opener and 1 1/2 mile southwest of the Mississippian opener, which is producing marginally from the Ellenburger, in the Spade field.

MOTOR IS STOLEN

Eddie Simer reported an out-of-county theft to the sheriff's office. He said a 20 horse power motor was stolen from Lake J. B. Thomas over the weekend.

THEFT REPORTED

Pauline Chinske, 200 NE 9th, reported to police at 8:03 p.m. Tuesday that a black male had taken $20 in cash from an ice cream truck.

Shell Moving Personnel

MIDLAND — Shell Oil Co., exploration and production functions now centered in Midland, Los Angeles, Calif., and Denver, Colo., will be relocated in Houston beginning this summer, it was announced Tuesday by R. C. Knecht, general manager of Shell's mid-continent division.

The moves are part of a general realignment designed to increase flexibility, and they reflect shifts in exploration opportunities domestically and intensified activities outside of the United States.

More than 500 workers will be affected in the relocation which will begin this summer in Denver and Los Angeles and in 1974 in Midland. Final relocation is expected to be complete by mid-1974.

A great majority of employees affected are expected to be eligible to fill positions in the Houston-based operations if they wish to move. Special severance and retirement programs will be offered along with aid in seeking other employment to those who do not wish to move, company officials said.

The Midland, Denver and Los Angeles offices now are division headquarters in Shell's western exploration and production region already directed from Houston.

Shell spokesmen said that in addition to relocation of the three offices, the firm's international ventures organization will be strengthened and a new special projects group established within the head office.

EL PASO IS CHARGED HERE

Virgil Duane Amos, 22, El Paso, has been charged with possession of marijuana in Peace Justice Gus Ochotorena's court.

Texas Highway Patrolmen arrested Amos and a 20-year-old woman from El Paso 11 p.m. Thursday three miles west of Big Spring on IS-20. Patrolmen Kenneth Maxwell and Bill Priest stopped Amos for speeding.

The woman has not been charged.

THE BLOB—Mrs. Marie Harris of Garland, pokes at a blob that she said appeared in her backyard. When she first spotted the unidentifiable growth she said she cut it in half with a garden hoe and thought it would disappear. Two days later, Mrs. Harris said the blob returned and was twice as large.

Gas Firm Seeks Higher Rates

WASHINGTON — El Paso Natural Gas Co. has asked the Federal Power Commission for authority to increase its rates to wholesale customers on its Northwest Division to compensate for higher costs in providing natural gas service.

The increase is necessary, said the company, because of higher costs of borrowed capital, labor, materials, supplies and taxes. The increase does not reflect the higher costs of operation which will attend divestiture of the properties with consequent operations by a separate company.

Under the application to the FPC, rates to El Paso's Northwest Division customers in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado and northern Nevada would be increased by an average of 3 1/2 of a cent per thousand cubic feet of gas.

Students Nabbed For Experiment

MESQUITE, Nev. (AP) — Two students at Virgin Valley High School here have been arrested for growing marijuana plants in the school's greenhouse, authorities say.

More Time Is Granted To Prepare Case Brief

EASTLAND — The Eleventh Supreme Judicial District Court here has granted an agreed motion for extension of time to file a brief in the civil case involving a car confiscated from Michael Keith Fryar, Big Spring.

Dist. Judge R. W. Caton ordered the vehicle forfeited to the Texas Department of Public Safety because of evidence the car was used to transport marijuana. This is the first of two times new Dist. Atty. Bob Moore has succeeded in getting a vehicle containing drugs forfeited.

The Texas Supreme Court today left standing as a law a lower court decision that will make it harder for authorities to confiscate cars used to transport illicit drugs, the Associated Press reports.

The court dismissed for lack of jurisdiction an appeal by the state from a San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals decision that said the "reasonable doubt" standard applies to such cases.

Adrian Cavitt's 1971 Volkswagen convertible was seized after Balcones Heights San Antonio police found a passenger in it was transporting marijuana, case records show.

Cavitt went to court to get it back after a trial judge, without a jury, ordered its forfeiture. The appeals court struck down the forfeiture because the trial judge decided the case merely "on the preponderance of the evidence." It said the law governing auto forfeitures for transporting drugs requires the state to prove its case as in "other penal cases."

"In penal cases, the violation of a statute must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt," the court said.

Under the new drug law passed by the legislature Monday, cars cannot be seized for transporting drugs unless it is proven the drugs were intended for sale.

Careful, Gal!

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a married man. It began two years ago when I went to work for him. I am married and have two children, six and eight. My husband is a nice guy, but nothing special. We don't communicate at all anymore. His whole life is sports.

Abby, I want more than anything else in the world to have my lover's child because I know I can never have him. He says he loves me, but he will never leave his wife because he loves her, too — in a different way. Also, he says having an affair is one thing, but he doesn't believe in breaking up another man's home.

I have expressed my desire to have his child, but he says it would be the worst thing I could do to myself. I don't agree with him. I feel that if our affair ends — as most affairs do, at least I will have a part of him to remember him by. Who would that be hurting as long as nobody but us knew it?

MY DREAM
DEAR MY: Your "dream" sounds like a plot for a grade "B" movie. Wake up! You're courting disaster with such hazardous notions.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I invited a friend to dine with us at a family restaurant to celebrate her birthday. Across from us sat a couple, their son, who looked about 4 years old, and another adult.

The child talked loudly and incessantly. At one point he amused himself by loudly saying the ABC's over and over, making it impossible for us to converse.

When our guest went to the restroom, the boy followed her and tried to get in. Fortunately the door was locked. The boy's parents witnessed the whole thing and didn't say a word. After our guest vacated the restroom, the boy didn't go in, which indicated he didn't have to use it, he only wanted to annoy her. That child ruined our evening. When we left we spoke to the owner about it and he said the parents and that child ate there often and there was nothing he could do about it.

Please print this to let parents know that they should either train their children to behave in public or leave them home. They have no right spoiling an evening out for others.

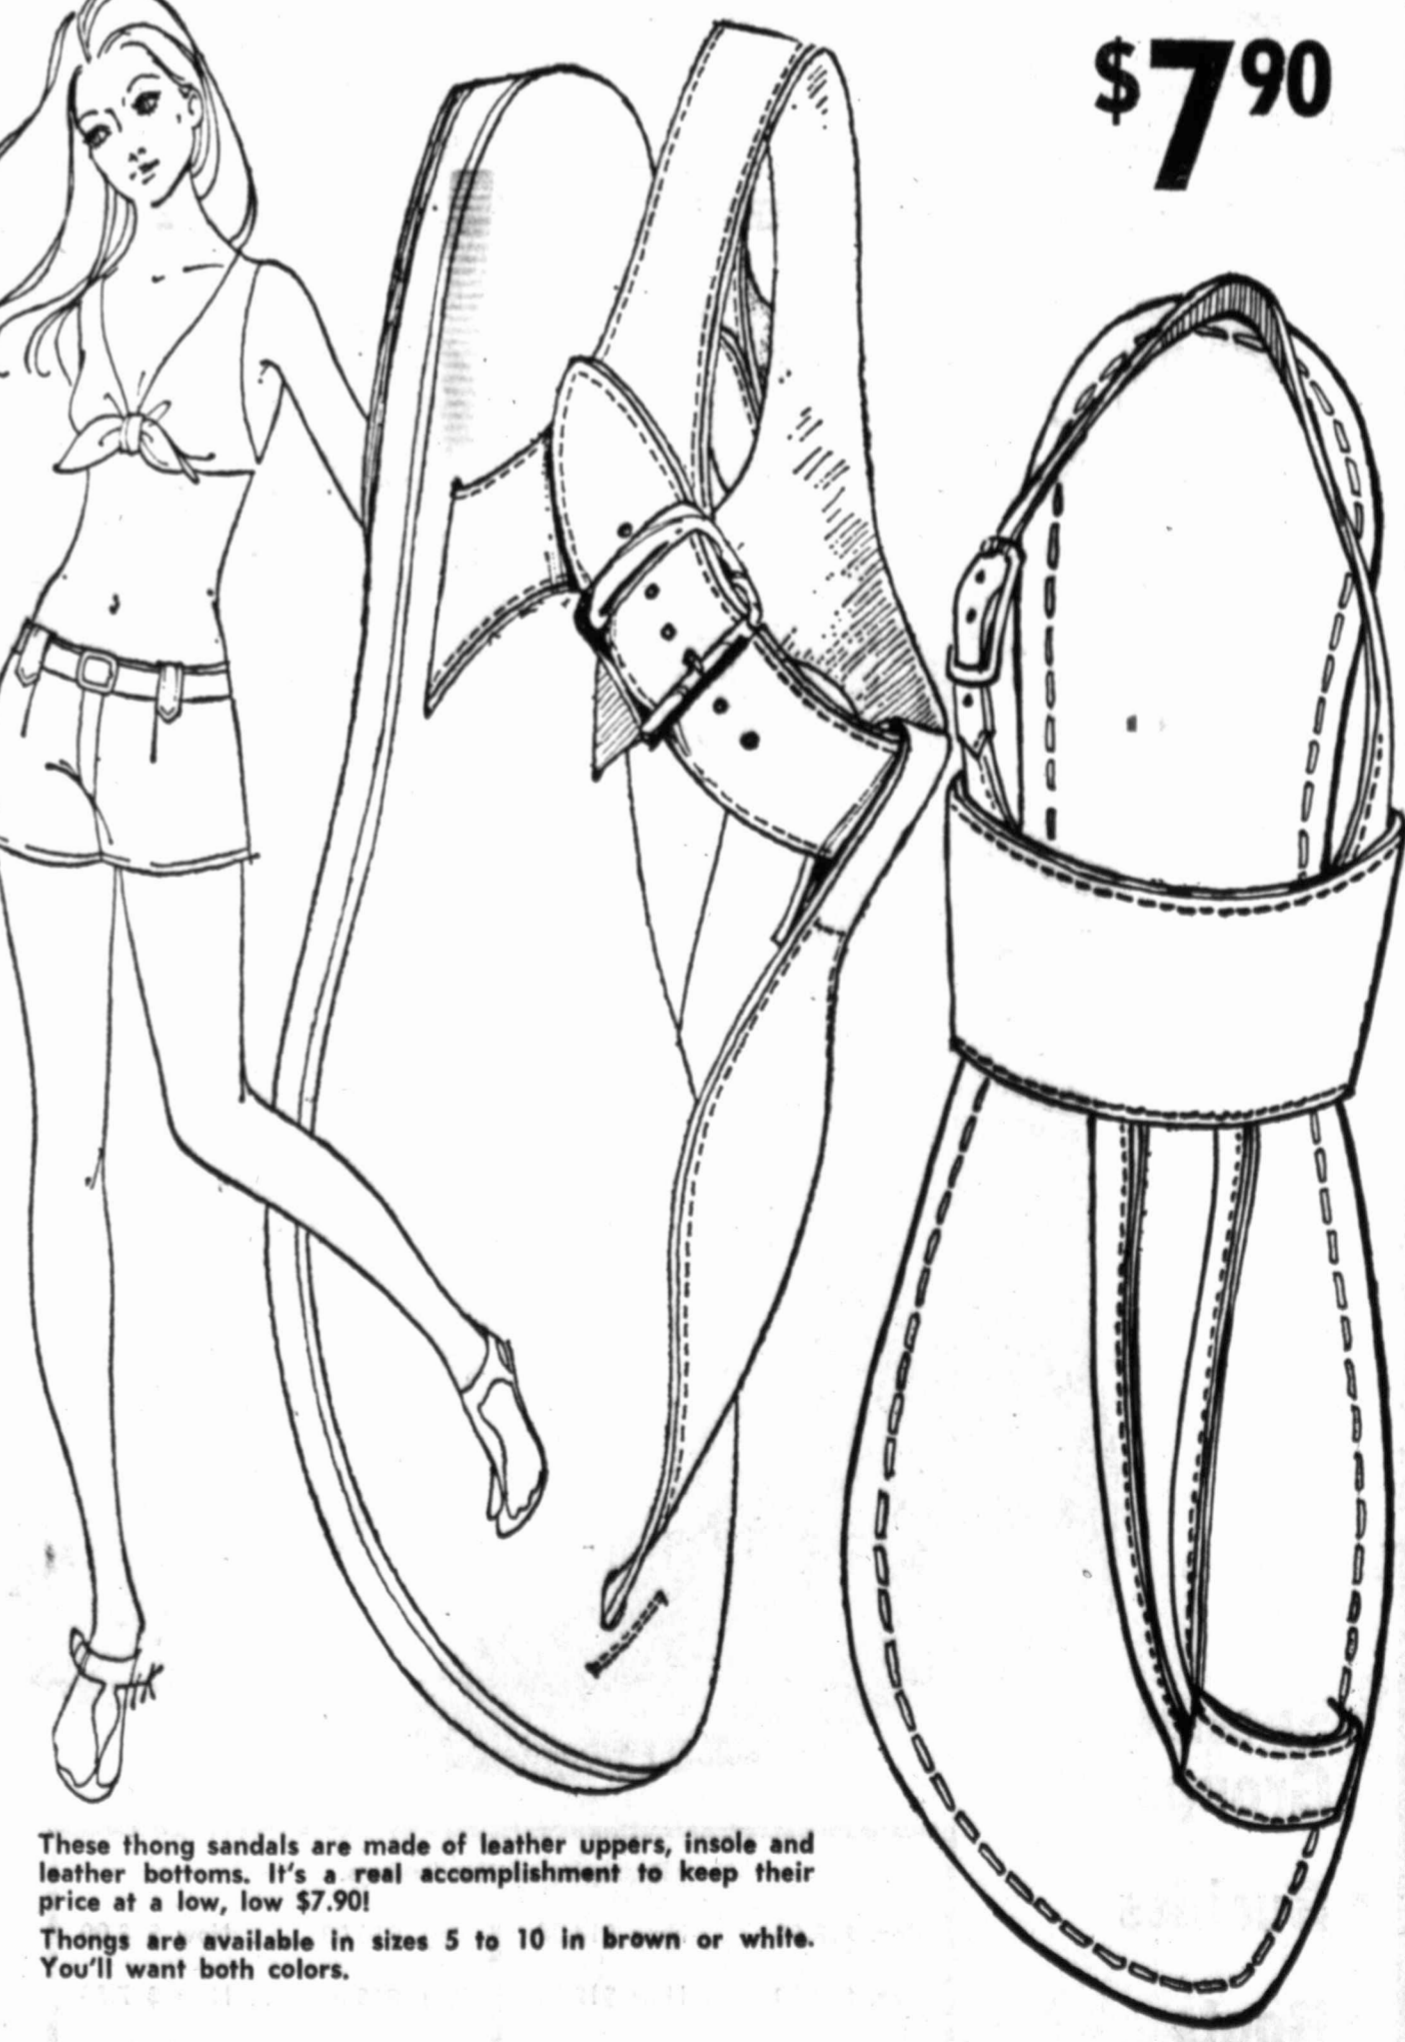

NAMELESS
Parents of ill-mannered children don't care whose evening they spoil. You should have complained directly to the parents or to the management earlier in the evening, and when it became clear that nobody cared, you should have gone elsewhere.

DEAR ABBY: A woman signed "IGNORED" wrote to complain that her husband made it plain that he preferred the TV set to her, and you replied: "Maybe it's because he can turn off the TV when he wants to."

You should have added that he can also turn the TV "ON" when he wants to.
ROBERT B.
DEAR ROBERT: I would have, had I thought of it. Thanks for the assist!

Firehouse Six Offers Help With Problems

"Firehouse 6," an organization developed to help people with drug or other problems, was discussed Thursday by the Rev. R. Earl Price for Altrusa Club at Coker's Restaurant.

The Rev. Price said the Firehouse began functioning in February, 1971, and since that time, 3,223 people have come to the building to discuss problems and workers have received 780 telephone calls.

The Firehouse is open Wednesday and Saturday nights. The Rev. Price said the "most useful quality" of volunteers at the Firehouse is love. Volunteers are trained by professional doctors, counselors and psychiatrists. The Rev. Price stressed it is a self-supporting organization and operates on less than $100 per month. Operating expenses are covered only by contributions made by individuals and organizations.

Mrs. Thurston Orenbaum, community services chairman, introduced the Rev. Price. Guests included Mrs. Jeanette Barnett, member-at-large, and Mrs. George M. Nixon.

Penney Reports Income Boost

SEATTLE, Wash. — J. C. Penney Company, Inc., has reported a 23.9 per cent increase in net income for the first quarter over the same 1972 period. The company had net earnings of $24.5 million for the 13 weeks ended April 28 against $19.8 million last year. This amounted to net income per share of 43 cents compared with 35 cents in 1972.

The department store and catalog chain's sales for the quarter rose 17.5 per cent to a record $1,299.6 million from $1,106.0 million, an increase of $193.6 million.

Board chairman William M. Batten attributed the volume increase to a high level of consumer spending coupled with a strong Penney promotional program and generally favorable weather which gave added impetus to buying for the late Easter.

Stewardess Says Hijacker Saved Life During Incident

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A stewardess has testified that one of two men accused of hijacking a Miami-to-New York airliner last July saved her life during the incident.

Linda Joiner, 25, one of four stewardesses assigned to the aborted National Airlines flight, said accused hijacker Michael S. Green, 35, of Washington talked his partner out of shooting her and another stewardess.

According to her testimony Tuesday in U.S. District Court, Lulseged Tesfa, 25, an immigrant from Ethiopia, demanded that she be shot to convince federal agents surrounding the plane at a Texas airfield that the hijackers meant business.
