ASTROS SAFELY HOME FROM MAN'S LONGEST SPACE JOURNEY

Mission Completed

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (AP) — Skylab's astronauts came home safely today from man's longest space journey and shunned stretchers to walk smartly but unsteadily across the deck of this recovery carrier.

EXPOSURE

The wobbly 60 steps from the Apollo ferry ships to a medical laboratory indicated Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz had suffered some effects from a record four weeks' exposure to space weightlessness.

But Commander Conrad reported as the Apollo parachuted toward a pinpoint landing in the Pacific after an 11-million-mile journey: "We're all in good shape. Everything's OK." They splashed down right on target, just 6½ miles from the Ticonderoga.

Thirty-nine minutes later, still inside the Apollo, they were on the carrier deck.

Doctors, not knowing how they might react to earth's gravity after their long weightless exposure, were prepared to lift them out on litters.

But, after consultation with doctors, Kerwin, a physician, said they could walk to the medical trailer where they began six hours of extensive medical debriefing.

UNSTEADY

They emerged smiling from the hatch and saluted as the ship's band struck up "Anchors Aweigh" for the all-Navy crew.

Conrad walked with hesitant steps at first but gradually picked up steam as he reached the medical lab door. Kerwin was slightly stooped and both he and Weitz were somewhat unsteady in their steps.

Doctors assisted both Kerwin and Weitz by holding onto one arm of each.

Experts immediately began removing thousands of feet of film and tape and equipment from medical, earth resources and astronomy experiments, that may tell man much about his earth, his sun and his physical being.

How well Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz fared in the weightless world will play a major role in determining if man can function efficiently in future long-duration flights. The first of the two 56-day Skylab missions is scheduled for launch July 27.

FIERY DESCENT

The astronauts almost were held over in orbit today to try to repair a refrigeration problem in their space station. But Mission Control decided there was nothing the astronauts could do and told them to come home.

Ten minutes behind schedule, Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz undocked their Apollo ferry ship and executed a series of maneuvers that sent them slamming into the atmosphere above Thailand for the fiery descent.

The Apollo craft hit the calm blue waters at 9:50 a.m. EDT about 830 miles southwest of San Diego, Calif. It was just after dawn off the West Coast.

The 42,000-ton Ticonderoga quickly steamed alongside the three-ton Apollo and tossed a line to frogmen in the water. A crane then lifted the craft and the astronauts to an elevator for a ride to the hangar deck.

Hundreds of white-clad sailors on deck and millions watching television around the world again had a ringside seat to a U.S. man-in-space landing as the Apollo craft floated down through low-hanging clouds and dangling under three huge orange and white parachutes.

"Everyone's in super shape," Conrad said as the spacecraft bobbed on the water awaiting pickup. Frogmen immediately leaped from helicopters to secure the spacecraft with flotation collars.

TOUCHDOWN

The Ticonderoga reported the astronauts had landed 6½ miles from the ship and that the ship was 6½ miles from the target point, indicating a perfect touchdown.

The Ticonderoga steamed to pick up the Apollo capsule with the astronauts still inside, in contrast to most earlier U.S. flights when the spacemen were lifted to the carrier by helicopter.

Airmen Turn Calf-Dresser To Delight Rodeo Crowd

By MARJ CARPENTER
Four squadrons of Webb Air Force Base almost stole the show at the second performance of the Big Spring 40th Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo on Thursday night.

The Organizational Maintenance Squadron team defeated three others in a special calf dressing contest, which will also be held tonight and Saturday night, before a final winner is determined.

The airmen held down a calf and placed bloomers on the animal and led it across the finish line in a record time of 86.2. The other three groups had terrible times of 101.3, 129.3 and 189.9.

MAYO WINS

Paul Mayo, Fort Worth cowboy, who was twice world champion in bareback riding, moved into second place in that event and was top scorer for the second night with 72 points. Bobby Berger, Norman, Okla., scored a 67 Thursday night, for the only other ride on a group of tough broncs.

With a 9.2 the leading time in the first go-round of roping, the times on Thursday night were all over that. Richard Stowers, Madill, Okla., had a 10.7 for the best time of the night during the show. (After hour roping has been lasting until close to 3 a.m. at the rodeo arena where rodeo guests are welcome to remain if they desire.)

BARRELS WIN

The barrels won in the girls barrel race on the second night with nine barrels tumbling over during the show. Cowgirls cut in too close trying to beat the first night's time of 18.11 set by Vicki Henry, Brady, N.M.

The best time on the second night was good enough for third in the first go-round and belonged to Pam Upton, San Angelo, with an 18.51. Lisa Voss, Snyder, was second Thursday with 18.59, but that wasn't as good as her sister, Marie, who scored 18.34 on the opening night for second in the first go-round.

BONINE LEADS

J. C. Bonine of Hysham, Mont., was still ahead in the saddle bronc riding with his first night's score of 70. Ken Welch of Merkel went into second place Thursday night with a 68, riding old Sorrel Top. The young college boy moved ahead of some top cowboys in the event.

Other top times on the second night, which were less than the score of Del Helliger, Shawn Davis and Bill Smith, were Mark Sanchez, Farmington, N.M., 63 and Jon Day, Augusta, Kan., 62.

Michael Landon, "Little Joe" of Bonanza was again a crowd pleaser and in the actor's contest, Little Justin Amos won after he did a backward flip in the air when "shot by one of the Cartwright's."

STEERS ESCAPE

Rex Bland, McCaulley and Rickey Bradley, Burkburnett, were obliged to wait until after the show for steer wrestling after their steers climbed the fence and intruded into the Little Joe act ahead of the dogging event.

Top time for the evening in steer wrestling was Eugene Smith, Talcop, with 7.1, followed by Donnie Bowles, Burkburnett, 7.9, and Leon Bauerle, Kyle, with an 8 flat.

None of the second-night bull riders moved into the first three places. Top score Thursday was a 68 by Danzy Price, Phillipsburg, Kan., with Bradley Crumpler, Wichita Falls, with a 64 and Bobby Berger of Norman, Okla., with a 62.

Charlie Creighton, president, E. P. Driver and Toots Mansfield, rodeo officials, urged fans to return Friday and Saturday night for an action-packed show produced by Tommy Steiner of Austin.

Support at the gate has been encouraging thus far.

MONEY FOR 28 MILLION

Social Security Benefits Hike Clears Panel Hurdle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has voted a 5.5 per cent cost-of-living increase for 28 million Social Security beneficiaries, effective next January. Indications were that both the Senate and House would accept it.

The panel decided on an 11 to 2 roll call Thursday to add the provision to a debt limit extension bill, even though Nixon administration officials had objected to it.

Committee Chairman Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said he was certain the Senate would approve the rider when it acts on the bill next week.

And it was learned that House Democratic leaders were prepared to get their branch to accept it when the debt limit measure goes to conference. The House already has passed the bill.

Long said the pace of inflation has been so great since the last Social Security boost in October 1972 that Congress has no alternative but to give some relief to "these poor people who are the biggest victims of inflation."

The debt limit bill was chosen as the vehicle for the rider since the President must act on it by June 30.

Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz told the committee Thursday that Nixon might have to veto the measure if it contained costly riders.

But Long countered that Nixon always had supported cost-of-living adjustments in Social Security.

Present law provides for a cost-of-living adjustment but it would not take effect until January 1975.

The bill contains no increase in payroll taxes to pay for the higher benefits. Sen. Long said there were ample amounts in the Social Security trust fund to pay the $2.75 billion for one year.

However, there will be higher revenues in 1974 under present law because the taxable wage base, now $10,800, goes to $12,000 in that year.

NAB COMMIES Bloody Street Fighting In Paris

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leaders of the world's two nuclear superpowers pledged in a landmark agreement today to regulate their relations in a way to reduce the risk of nuclear war.

President Nixon and Soviet Communist party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev reached the accord in the fifth day of their summit talks and prepared to sign it at the White House before heading for California where they will conclude their meetings Sunday.

In addition to its application to U.S.-Soviet relations, the agreement applies also to the relations of either party with other countries. In this way, although technically bilateral, the agreement has multilateral implications.

The two leaders declared in the agreement that they were "conscious that nuclear war would have devastating consequences for mankind" and said they wanted "to bring about conditions in which the danger of an outbreak of nuclear war anywhere in the world would be reduced and ultimately eliminated."

They pledged their countries to "act in such a way as to prevent the development of situations capable of causing a dangerous exacerbation of their relations, as to avoid military confrontations, and as to exclude the outbreak of nuclear war between them and between either of the parties and other countries."

Odessa Bank Merger Okayed

FORT WORTH (AP) — Merger of Odessa's First State Bank with First United Bancorporation, Inc., has been approved, the holding company's president announced Friday.

The president, Paul Mason, said this is the second approval for such acquisitions by First United in recent months. Earlier approved was acquisition of the Cleburne National Bank.

Still pending before the Federal Reserve System is a plan to acquire the Longview National Bank.

First State of Odessa has resources of $33 million with deposits of $29 million.

Dollar Drops To Record Low In Frankfurt

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar dropped to a record low against the West German mark in Frankfurt today and weakened in other European centers.

West European countries stepped in to bolster the faltering Italian lira with up to $2.9 billion worth of support.

American money sank in value to 2.55 marks for $1 as the Frankfurt exchange reopened after a holiday Thursday. Wednesday's price was 2.567 marks.

Frankfurt dealers said the dollar was under selling pressure from New York, and from traders hedging against weekend uncertainties.

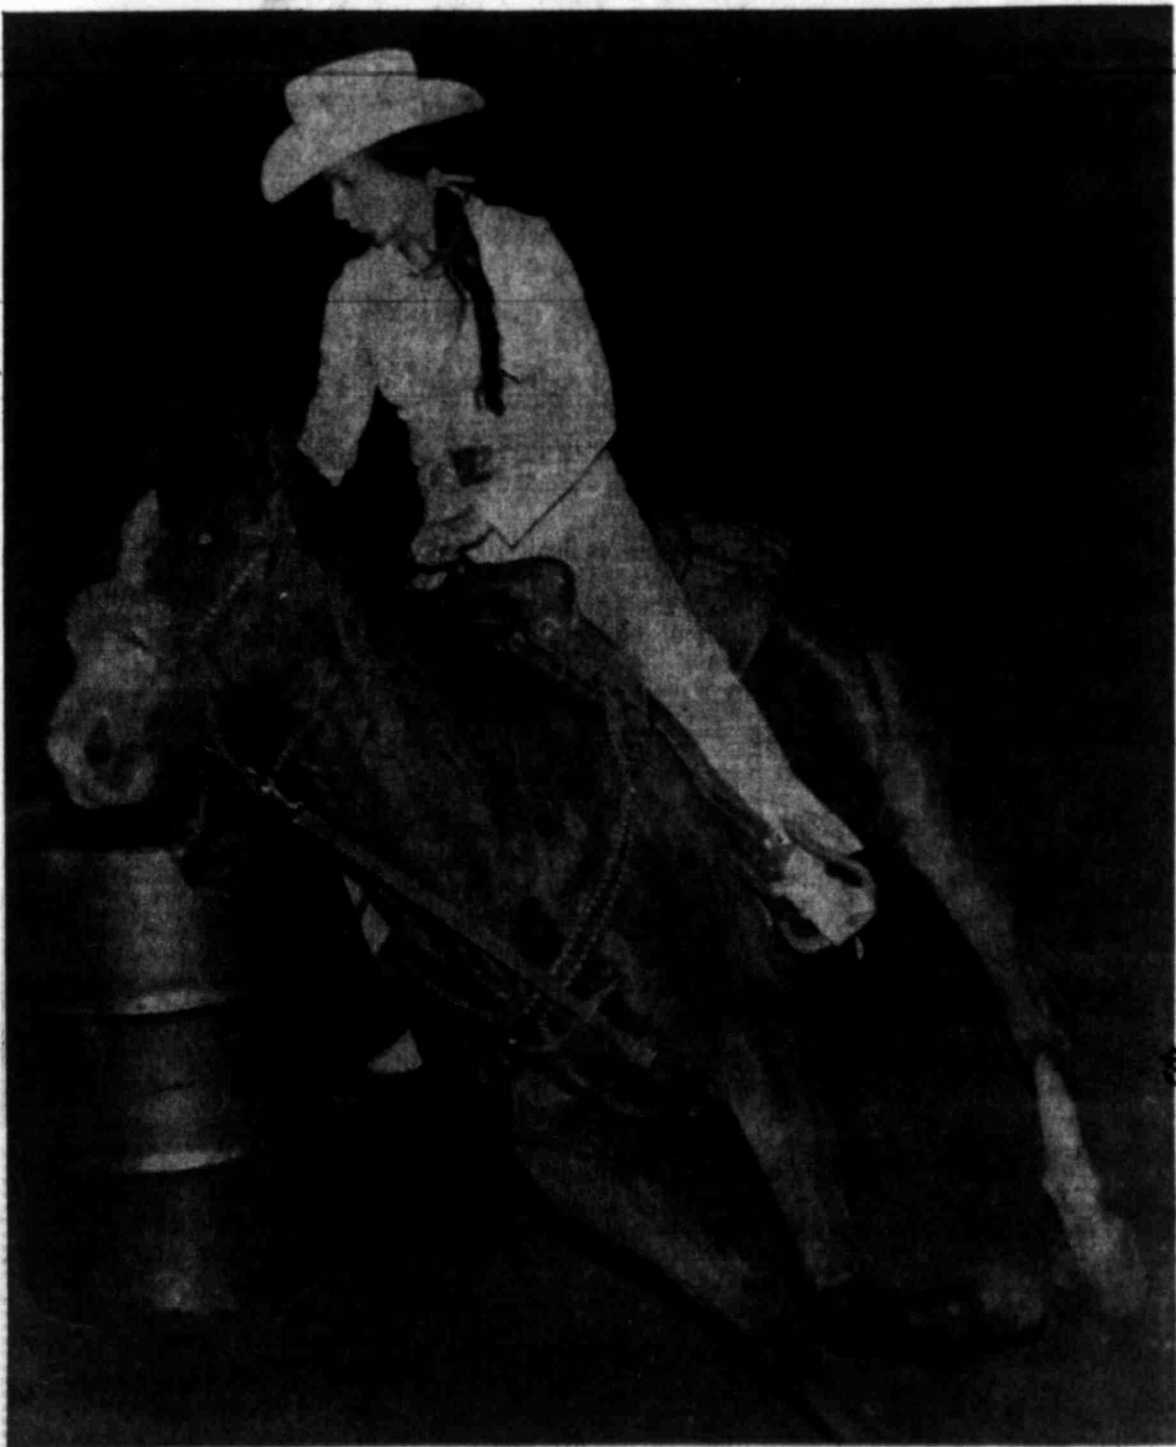

For much of the past week, the dollar has closed lower in New York than in European money markets, indicating that American companies are selling dollars for stronger European currencies such as the German mark and Swiss franc.

Dealers in Europe attributed the dollar weakness largely to the effect of the Watergate scandal on the Nixon administration and to inflation in the United States.

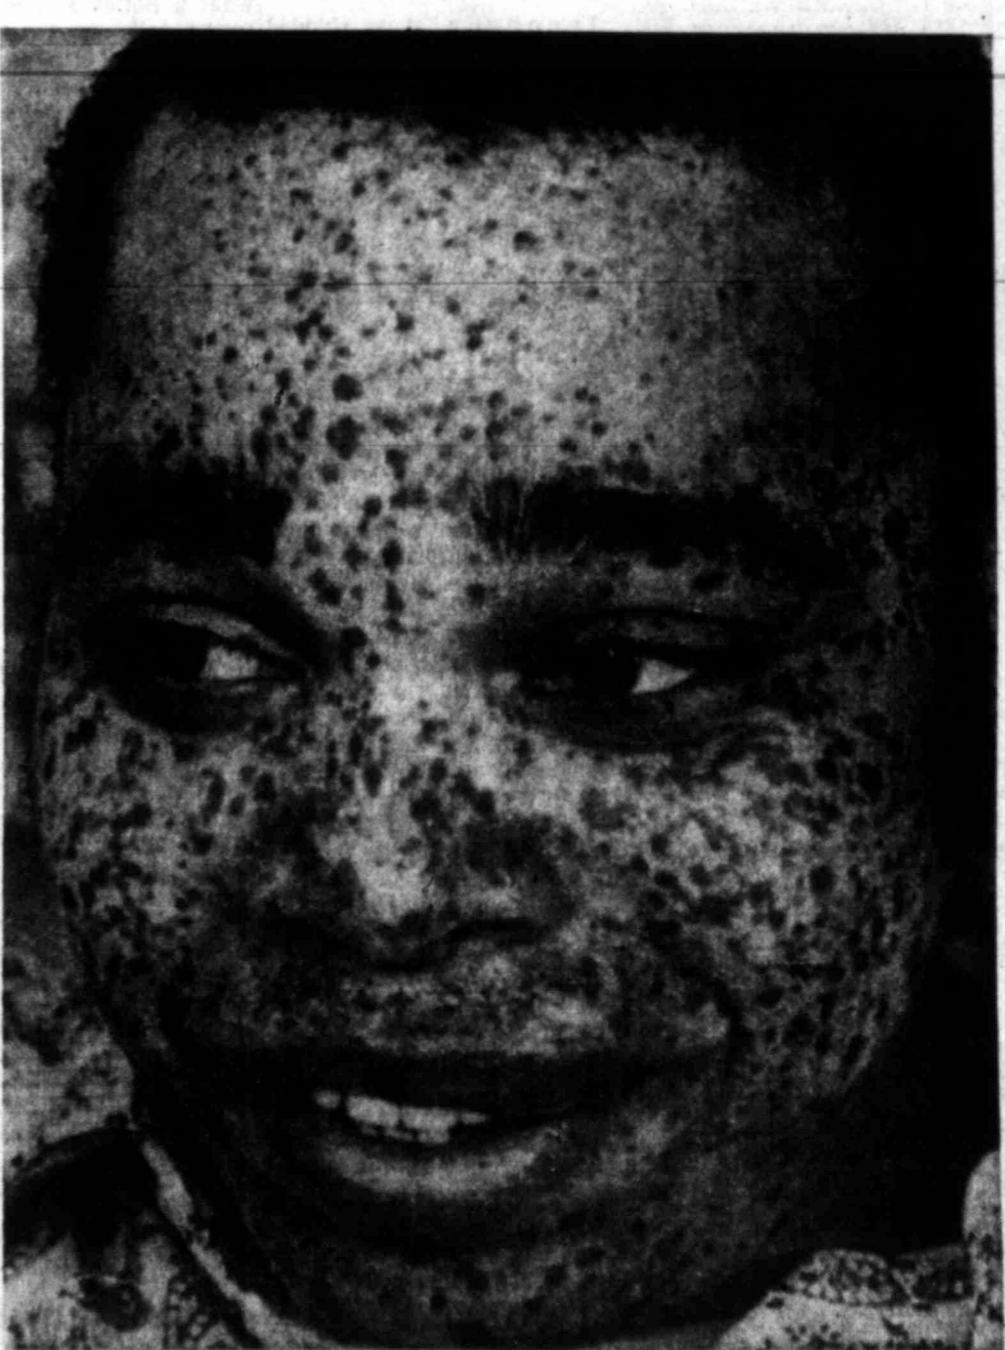

In Zurich, the dollar was down a small fraction at 3.087 Swiss francs.

In Paris, the dollar lost just over a centime, dipping to 4.22 commercial French francs.

In London, the pound improved by a small fraction to $2.5745, reflecting corresponding weakness in the dollar.

AROUND SHE GOES — Wanda Driver was one of many successful barrel riders on opening night at the Big Spring rodeo. On the second night, the barrels won as rider after rider was penalized for a falling barrel. There are two more nights of the big show with performances starting at 8:30 p.m.

FRECKLE BIAS? — Robert Driskell, 22, has complained to the Detroit civil rights office that his freckles might keep him from getting a job as a city bus driver. The man who interviewed Driskell for the job wrote "Excessive noticeable freckles" on his application. A city spokesman, who has freckles himself, theorized the notation might have been intended as a warning to check whether the freckles might indicate some kind of disease that would bar Driskell from the job. An investigation was ordered.

HUMOR IN HISTORY

Comrade Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the East Room of the White House, where presidents entertain and seven have lain in state, where the family of John Adams hung out their wash to dry and the children of Teddy Roosevelt roller-skated on the parquetry floor, Richard Nixon added four striking moments of history, humor and irony yesterday.

At 3:30 p.m., a deep voice announced: "Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States of America and His Excellency, Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union."

Nixon pretended to be racing Brezhnev to complete the signing, and raised his pen in sudden victory.

LAUGHS

No slouch at being upstaged, Brezhnev rose, leaned over and feigned a skeptical look at what was going on at Nixon's end of the table. The audience laughed.

GAGS GALORE

But in this week of grace, with the Watergate hearings postponed so that Nixon might negotiate with Brezhnev, the President had the centerpiece of their work to complete. And he quickly got to it.

He and Brezhnev first signed an agreement to expand cooperation on the peaceful uses of atomic energy. They signed in unison and exchanged copies and signed again.

Then they signed an agreement of principles designed to limit nuclear weapons permanently by the end of 1974.

Here Brezhnev's appetite for sight gags proved contagious for the President, who rarely succumbs. Looking to his left, he himself to be unattractive in posing for that photograph? asked Whitley Sessions, court-designated chief investigator of the probe, to be held up a "before" photograph of Mrs. Sheldon.

"Not to my knowledge, sir," Sheldon replied.

Sessions entered as evidence a photograph of another woman who had undergone the treatment and a glossy color photograph of the same woman during treatment in which her face appeared swollen, red and blistered.

Sheldon said he recognized the woman as a customer who left in the middle of her treatment.

Sheldon also was asked about other activities in the face-peeling business. He said he had discussed a possible arrangement in Fort Worth with For-ever Young International, a Dallas-based face-peeling firm.

Dr. Fox called skin peeling "a tedious, complicated procedure" which dermatologists generally perform only on small areas of the face.

Shown the color photograph of the woman who abandoned her treatment half-way, he said the condition of her face appeared to have been caused by some form of chemical irritant. He could not say if the irritant was the solution used in face-peeling.

Dr. Fox also said he had never seen a full-face treatment except when a patient came in "after two or three sleepless nights, looking like she's been hit by a blowtorch" and requiring treatment of the affected area.

The court is inquiring into what a Better Business Bureau report calls "excessive, illegal, irregular and 'gagging' practices by some beauty clinics.

'Face Peeling' Data Continues

DALLAS (AP) — Testimony about operators who "peel" the faces of clients to remove wrinkles was to be heard when a court of inquiry into the operating of Texas health and beauty establishments resumed here Friday.

Dr. Everett Fox, a Dallas dermatologist, said at a Thursday hearing that such operators are engaging in unauthorized medical practice unless they have medical backgrounds.

Robert Sheldon, who with his wife operates the Rejuvenation Center Ltd. face-peeling establishment in San Antonio, was questioned about "before and after" photographs of women said to have undergone the treatment.

"Did she specially prepare herself to be unattractive in posing for that photograph?"

Sheldon said he recognized the woman as a customer who left in the middle of her treatment.

Sheldon also was asked about other activities in the face-peeling business. He said he had discussed a possible arrangement in Fort Worth with For-ever Young International, a Dallas-based face-peeling firm.

'Stepped On' Anyone Willing To Hunt For Watergate Truth

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican member of the Senate Watergate committee says the Nixon administration has "stepped on" anyone willing to search for the truth about Watergate.

Sen. Lowell O. Weicker Jr., who made the claim Thursday, also said that fired White House Counsel John W. Dean III should be listened to when he appears before the panel.

Dean, who has said he discussed Watergate and a possible coverup with President Nixon, will be the lead-off witness when the hearings resume next week.

OWES IT "I think there is a great deal of credibility to a story that he is going to go ahead and tell, and I think the committee owes it to him to enable him to tell that story in full view of the public," Weicker said on a Public Television show, "Evening Edition." He was interviewed by Martin Agronsky.

"Is his testimony credible? I think it is. 'Nobody's attributing 100-per-cent credibility to him or any other witness, but he's got the guts to stand out there and that's no small thing when you were in his position and had all the pressures that obviously must have existed on this young man at the time to decide that you're going to step forward and tell the story to the American people.'"

Weicker was the sole opponent of the committee's decision to postpone Dean's appearance for one week last Tuesday because of the summit conferences this week between Nixon and Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

PERFECTLY CLEAR "It should be clear from various public statements that have been made that any institution, whether it's a witness, anybody that's willing to step out and try to find out the truth and try to tell the truth it gonna get stepped on by the executive branch of government," the Connecticut senator said.

He cited Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's recent attack on the Watergate panel as one that "can hardly hope to find the truth and hardly fail to muddy the waters of justice," as an example of the executive branch's efforts.

Meanwhile, the committee said it was considering a halt to the practice of talking to prospective witnesses in secret because so much supposedly confidential information is leaked to the media.

"I nearly despair of doing anything about it," committee Vice Chairman Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., said Thursday. "It means that the committee probably will end its closed-door sessions with witnesses, which until now have been held routinely in advance of public appearances."

News stories Thursday featured accounts of closed-door testimony by Dean and Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

Also Thursday, another congressional investigation into Watergate-related matters was announced, this one by the House Internal Security Committee.

Chairman Richard Ichord, D-Mo., said he wants to find out why the White House formed the "plumbers" group that burglarized the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist in 1971. President Nixon has said he ordered the "plumbers" to plug such news leaks as the secret Pentagon Papers, which Ellsberg gave to newspapers.

SCANDAL HURTS In New York, former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said the scandal has hurt both parties. He called for limits on how much candidates may spend in their campaigns and urged use of a new provision allowing taxpayers to designate a dollar of their federal income taxes to finance political campaigns.

He spoke as an assistant to special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox said a special grand jury may be convened to investigate whether President Nixon's fund-raisers used extortion to get campaign contributions.

Prosecutors are investigating, among other things, reports that the President's men vigorously solicited money from businessmen and other individuals involved in tax problems, securities investigations, contract disputes and other sensitive governmental dealings.

In a related development, Mitchell's wife, Martha, who has complained of being besieged by newsmen, left her Fifth Avenue apartment in New York in a station wagon loaded with suitcases.

Mrs. Mitchell complained Tuesday night about reporters clustered about her apartment building entrance. It was not immediately known where she was headed.

In Indianapolis, Sen. Barry Goldwater told a Republican gathering, "Your President will not resign and will not be impeached."

"TEMPORARY BLOT" Goldwater, speaking at a $100-a-plate dinner Thursday night, told Republicans their party "has been badly damaged" by Watergate, but he said it is not the time "to roll over and play dead."

Republicans must remove the "temporary blot" of Watergate, "even if it takes the caustic cleanser of public embarrassment," he said.

liberties," said Melvin Wulf, legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union. "That's a serious setback for freedom of speech and of the press."

KIND OF SCARY Jack Frantz, executive chairman of the National Book Committee, said his group has always argued that community standards meant the American community at large.

"It's absurd on its face that a book is deemed obscene, say, in Binghamton, N.Y., and not in Carmel, Calif. It's patently unfair to the reader," Frantz said.

Tom Ferrell, managing editor of Esquire magazine, responded, "I think for a national publication, it's kind of scary. If it means that there are going to be 50 laws governing obscenity, rather than one, it's going to be very troublesome for everyone."

In Chicago, a spokesman for Charles Levy Circulating Co., which distributes Playboy, Penthouse and similar magazines, said the company does not consider them "pornographic in any way, shape or form" and he foresaw no problems with the new law.

Ralph G. Hadden, 76, owner of an adult movie theater in Charlotte, N.C., criticized the decision.

"We don't make 'em come in here. We don't go out with a shotgun. It's supposed to be a free country," he said.

What They Needed To Lower Boom On Dirty Books, Films?

By The Associated Press

Prosecutors and police officials are delighted by the Supreme Court's new ruling on obscenity and many say it is just what they needed to lower the boom on dirty books and movies.

"If I operated one of those stores, I'd close like two minutes ago," Florida Asst. Atty. Gen. Ray Marky said Thursday after hearing of the ruling. "I think they are out of business."

Similar optimism was voiced by law enforcement officials across the nation after the high court widened the definition of obscenity and said community standards should prevail.

The new guidelines will permit states to ban books, magazines, plays and motion pictures that offend local standards, even if they might be approved elsewhere.

BALD KNOB Many officials felt the court had finally clarified the language of the law and they cited the difficulty and expense in the past of applying national standards of decency to local cases.

"I expect that in the immediate future local communities can determine for themselves what will and what will not be tolerated in the nature of explicit sexual material," said Larry Salmon, Floyd County district attorney and chairman of the criminal law section of the state bar of Georgia.

Arkansas Atty. Gen. Jim Guy Tucker concurred.

"What correlation is there between a block in the center of New York City and Bald Knob, Ark.?" he asked.

However, the 5-4 decision met with sharp criticism from civil libertarians, book and magazine publishers, movie theater and book store owners and patrons of the pornographic arts.

"That's no victory for civil

2,000 Show For Fink Day

FINK, Tex. (AP) — Things are looking up for the Finks of this world, at least for the ones who chose to settle in this little crossroads community of North Texas.

About 2,000 showed up Thursday for the eighth annual celebration of Fink Day. That's about double the crowd that made it last year.

"Next month we will have a doctor moving in," said Willard Albright, owner of the only grocery store and whose wife, Pat, is the town mayor, by default.

"There's two more houses going up in Fink and we just may double the population any day now," he said.

Albright didn't fink out on his promise of last week to serve barbecue to the throngs of visitors Thursday, who also got a ride on a fire engine.

"We had people from all over the State and even some from Europe who came down for the day," Albright said. "They wanted to show their kids there is a town called Fink."

Farmer Home Loans Revised

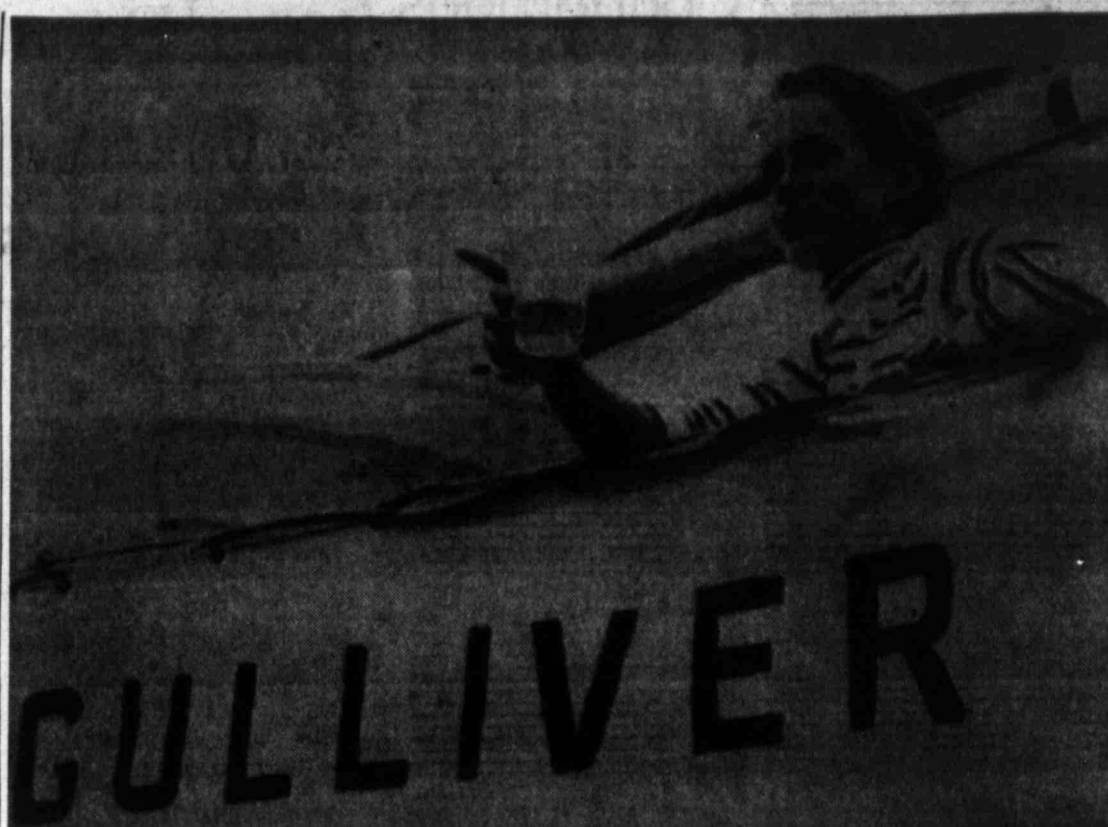

The Farmers Home Administration has recently revised its income limit upward for financing homes in rural areas.

The FmHA can finance homes in any rural area and in towns up to 10,000 population. Since FmHA is an agency of the federal government, if any private or cooperative lending agency can advance the funds at rates and terms reasonably expected, FmHA will not make the loan.

Homes financed through FmHA must be modest in design and cost. The present interest rate is 7 1/4 per cent, and the loans can be placed on as long a term as 33 years.

Information on this or any other FmHA programs may be had at Room 220 of the Federal Office Building, 501 Main St. in Big Spring Wednesday from 8 a.m. until 12 noon.

Abilene Area Residents Cite Constitution Faults

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Constitutional Revision Commission moves to North

Texas today for a hearing of Wichita Falls that will give citizens in that area to express their opinions on what should go into the new Texas Constitution.

The commission, headed by former Texas Supreme Court Justice Robert W. Calvert, was in Abilene Thursday.

Those appearing before the Commission Thursday reiterated opinions it has heard in previous hearings in other parts of the state. They want more power for the executive branch of government and a correction of "the inequities in the property tax system."

Tom Gordon, an Abilene attorney, said the power of the governor is diffused and the authority of the executive branch is decentralized.

"The governor is executive office in name only," Gordon said. "His authority is so diffused we have almost diffused him out of business. He has all the responsibility but no authority."

Others testifying before the commission asked for a revision of land taxation changing the system to assess land on its productive value instead of its actual market valuation.

Alton Smith, a Fisher County farmer, said there are "inequities in the taxation of rural property and items of cash value, such as savings."

"Those of us who own land," he said, "are being treated unjustly because we have made an investment (in land) while others get off lightly because they pump their capital into other securities."

The Commission's public hearings will end in Austin on June 29.

'Glamour Important' Say New Designers

By ANN HENCKEN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The theme was elegance when 12 young designers gathered to talk fashion.

They were a quiet, sensible group, short on bold ideas but long on adaptability, nostalgia or smooth-looking commercial concepts.

They discussed their fashion philosophy Wednesday and showed fall clothes at a luncheon sponsored by the Wool Bureau Inc., an organization for promotion and research in wool.

The audience was as interested in the rising wool prices — up 15 to 20 per cent — as they were in the styles.

However, some of the clothes were so nostalgic one viewer was prompted to ask: Why are you doing such old-looking clothes if you're supposed to be young designers?

"We think that glamour is important. Our contemporaries would like to have some of that back again. We love it. I don't see why we can't do it," said designer Pinky Wolman of Pretty Boy Floyd, who showed a slicked-up flannel tuxedo with top hat.

She added that her generation had never enjoyed the glamour of clothes done in previous decades.

Another designer who must have been inspired by the question was Jonathan Hitchcock of Hitchcock, Ltd., who showed an above-the-ankle skirt and pulled-down sweater. Several said they had done some longer skirts for fall.

There were several versions of the big Seventh Avenue trends: the wrap coat, the elegant day dress and the tweed pants suit.

"If we change things too quickly, we make it impossible for a woman to keep her wardrobe over a period of years," said Jane Janedis of Kelita, who featured a conservative green tweed pants suit.

"I think creativity is mostly in eliminating, paring it down and still having it look like something," said Scheck.

Designer Scott Barrie of Barrie Sport, Ltd., the best-known of the group, showed a full-skirted burgundy dress with yellow turban.

"Elegance is the way to define fashion. Everyone's glad to welcome it back," he said.

Coahomans Name Slate For Club

New officers for the Coahoma Home Demonstration Club were elected Wednesday in the home of Mrs. D. S. Phillips, with Mrs. Ray Swann as co-hostess.

The slate includes Mrs. Lowell Brown, president; Mrs. Swann, vice president; Mrs. Phillip Reid, council delegate; Mrs. Phillips, treasurer; and Mrs. A. D. Martin, secretary.

Mrs. A. C. Hale, outgoing president, presided, and three members of Coahoma 4-H Club gave programs. Topics were "What 4-H Means to Me," by Carol Holman; "I Am An American," by Linda Franklin; and "Happiness is 4-H for any Boy or Girl," by Gayla Roberts.

Members agreed to send cookies Tuesday to patients at Big Spring State Hospital. Guests at the luncheon meeting were Mrs. Jim Hodnett, Vincent; Mrs. Vernon Swafford, Big Spring; Mrs. Edith Byrne, Muskogee, Okla.; and Mrs. Dovie Britton. The group will not meet during July or August.

Mrs. T. Rosson To Head Class

Mrs. Tom Rosson was installed as president of Homemakers Class at its monthly luncheon meeting Wednesday in First Christian Church.

Serving with her will be Mrs. Earl Wilson, vice president; Mrs. C. G. Barnett, secretary and reporter; Mrs. Justin Holmes, assistant secretary; Mrs. C. A. Murdock, treasurer; and Mrs. O. G. Burns, card chairman.

Teachers are Mrs. Lloyd Brooks and Mrs. Helen Earley. The installation was conducted by Mrs. John Beard, who also served as hostess with Mrs. Murdock.

Devotion was by Mrs. Barnett. The women will meet again at 1 p.m., July 25 in the church.

Dreads Testimony

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago, while my husband was in the service, a man broke into my apartment and attacked me sexually. He had a knife and I was terrified so I made no effort to stop him. Now my husband is home. Two weeks ago I received word that they caught the man, and I am subpoenaed to testify. It was dark and the man wore a mask, so I wouldn't recognize him if I saw him. This man assaulted several other women, so I am not the only witness available.

I can't see what possible good my testimony would do. I am a very nervous person and this whole thing has upset me terribly. My husband knew that a man had broken in, but I didn't tell him any of the details as I didn't want to upset him.

Abby, I don't want my husband in the courtroom, but he insists upon being there. Is there some way I can get out of testifying? It's not just having my husband there, it's having to talk about what happened in front of other people in a courtroom. I'm sorry now I called the police.

I'm 21, and should probably have a more mature attitude, but I can't help how I feel. Please help me.

NO NAME, PLEASE
DEAR NO NAME: You must appear in court when subpoenaed or you could be cited for contempt of court. You can, however, ask the prosecutor to ask the judge to clear the courtroom while you are testifying. Unless the defendant's attorney objects to this procedure (and he is not likely to object in a sex case) the court will be cleared of everyone except the judge, the lawyers, the witnesses, and the defendant. That should take care of your problem.

DEAR ABBY: When traveling by plane, I invariably get the seat directly in front of a child who repeatedly kicks the seat in front of him. His mother can be sitting right beside him, but she seems unconcerned. Dirty looks don't help.

Should I ask the mother to please tell her child to stop kicking me, or ask the child to please stop it?

IRKED IN VIRGINIA

DEAR IRKED: Ask the stewardess to handle it and you'll have no kick coming. DEAR ABBY: You told a mother whose daughters needed to wear bras but refused to "drop the whole thing." Well, if they don't wear bras, that's exactly what will happen. The "whole thing" will drop.

For proof, one need only look at pictures of the women in African tribes who never wore brassieres. The American Medical Society even came out with a statement saying that the ligaments which hold the breasts firm and erect will stretch unless properly supported, and once the breasts sag, the damage is permanent.

I have put the message into verse:
"I think it is scandalous
That things should be so pendulous."

If a woman's a rag, a hank of hair, and a bone
Let the 'rag' be a bra —
for better muscle tone."

JUNGLE CRASH SCENE — Two Mexican village boys eye the smoldering wreckage of an Aeromexico DC9 which crashed in the jungle 20 miles from Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, Wednesday night. All 27 persons aboard were killed.

Rescuers Discover Flight Recorder

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP) — A new beach sandal ... a blue summer blouse ... a singed GI hat.

They all lay in a tropical rain forest among the smoldering wreckage of an Aeromexico DC9 that smashed into a mountainside only about two minutes before it was to land at this Pacific coast resort Wednesday night. All 27 persons aboard died, including 11 believed to be Americans.

NOSE UP

The pilot apparently pulled the nose of the plane up when he was about to crash, causing the tail section to hit first. The plane then appeared to have been carried a short distance up the mountain by the momentum. Most of the bodies were on the uphill end of the wreckage.

Capt. Augusto Ramirez Altamirano, a regional inspection chief for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, said the plane was too far south and not within the approach pattern for an instrument landing. Its 2,000 to 2,200-foot altitude was correct for where it should have been, he added.

At the time of the crash there was a heavy cloud cover at about 1,000 feet.

Rescuers also found the aircraft's flight recorder, which will reveal to investigators the plane's last moves and position when the crash occurred. But Ramirez Altamirano said it will have to be analyzed before any conclusion can be drawn about possible causes of the disaster.

BOAT TRIP

The plane left Houston, Texas, earlier in the day and stopped in Monterrey, where foreign passengers went through Mexican immigration and customs. It was scheduled to fly from Puerto Vallarta to Acapulco and Mexico City.

Rescuers started their trek to the crash scene with a boat trip to Chimo. No roads connect the village with the outside world and it has no electricity, telephones or streets. From Chimo to the wreckage, about 2,200 feet above sea level and about two miles inland, they waded through their way, many on hands and knees, up and around mountains and through steamy jungles for 2½ hours.

Low cloud cover and drizzle impeded air rescue efforts and sometimes cut visibility at the crash site to about 50 feet.

General Practitioners Shortage Noted In State

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — There is a "critical shortage" of general practitioners in this city which boasts at least nine major hospitals, some medical officials say.

"I'd say it is a critical shortage," said the dean of the University of Texas Medical School, Dr. Stanley Crawford. Ben White, assistant director of the Bexar County Medical Society, acknowledged there is a problem but doesn't think it's a crisis.

"Some of the doctors are just saturated and they feel like they just can't take any new patients," White said. "So often we'll give them people call here and we'll give them three or four doctors to call and they call back to say none of them are taking new patients."

•The shortage is not confined just to San Antonio. Crawford said. The Texas Medical Association said the 150 to 200 doctors in the San Antonio area is under half of what it should be. However, a study by the TMA shows Texas needs 2,500 more family doctors than it now has.

"People aren't always able to find either a general practitioner or a general internist to manage their health care," says Dr. Irwin Kurtz, a family doctor.

"So they will do self-referral and they may not come out too well for many reasons."

Kurtz says everyone needs a family doctor "who knows all about him and his family. The specialist looks only at one area of the body and may not look at the total patient."

Kurtz says he has been taking new patients only "to keep full."

Return Of Child Support Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Tony Curtis is seeking custody of his 14-year-old daughter, Jamie, and the return of $100,000 in child support from the child's mother, actress Janet Leigh.

In a Superior Court action filed here, Curtis said Miss Leigh's home is "wrought with tension and is otherwise an unwholesome medium for the emotional stability and welfare of the child." A hearing was set for July 18.

The actor said Miss Leigh failed to set up a promised trust fund for Jamie and took the support payments for her own use.

It Has Its Hazards

Reps. Bob Eckhardt of Texas and John Dingell of Michigan are sponsoring legislation in the House which would give the Environmental Policy Act more teeth. The bill would amend the act to provide for citizen suits against those responsible for creating "certain environmental hazards."

In short, it would open polluters to complaints filed in court by individual citizens; enforcement of pollution laws would not depend solely on action taken by governmental policing bodies or complaints handled by them. This has its hazards.

In a statement on the introduction of their bill, the two congressmen said, "The public is entitled to be heard on issues of environmental significance. The bill... gives the public clear right to judicial relief from actions of federal agencies, or their right to assist in the enforcement of federal agency regulations." To date, 30 environmental and consumer groups have endorsed the legislation.

Something similar — providing for citizen suits against suspected polluters — was proposed in the Texas Legislature this session, but failed. And opposition to the Dingell-Eckhardt amendment is bound to be great, particularly from industry.

Industry fears that a spate of nuisance suits would result, if the right of citizen court challenge to environmental practices is offered.

This is a valid fear, and there should be some balance element of responsibility to guard against frivolous or nuisance actions: For instance, a requirement that the filer post bond, or that he be liable for damages arising from an unproved claim.

None argues but what we have gone too long with little or no thought of the environmental consequence of many developments, but unreasonable reaction is not the answer. Developments, like people, should be considered innocent until proven guilty.

Citizens now have a right to go to state agencies with their complaints, and if ignored, should have the right of mandamus. Perhaps that would be a better way to handle it.

Spiro To The Rescue

Vice President Spiro Agnew is performing service above and beyond the call of duty in his now-frequent defenses of the Nixon administration and criticism of Watergate probers.

The vice president has been clear of the Watergate mud. His name was never linked to any of the questionable shenanigans, except by long distance in the case of diversion of some campaign funds to beef up receipts of an Agnew dinner.

And that was a comfortable position for the vice president, particularly if he intends to make a run at the GOP presidential nomination in 1976 as expected.

But Agnew has abandoned his comfortable seat on the sidelines, and resumed his role as the verbal cutting edge of the administration. In a series of speeches, he has roundly criticized the Senate Watergate investigation and the senators taking part in the hearings. He has criticized television coverage of the sessions.

What this will do to Agnew's chances in 1976 can't be seen; it could work to his advantage should the White House ultimately be absolved of much of the blame for Watergate and its coverup. But certainly the vice president is taking a risk, no doubt earning the gratitude of the President and perhaps improving his chances of having the President's support in 1976 — if that would be a help then.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

What became of those towns of Sodom and Gomorrah, so famous for sin? Is there any sign of the remains of these cities, destroyed reportedly because of their sexual perversion? M.A.H.

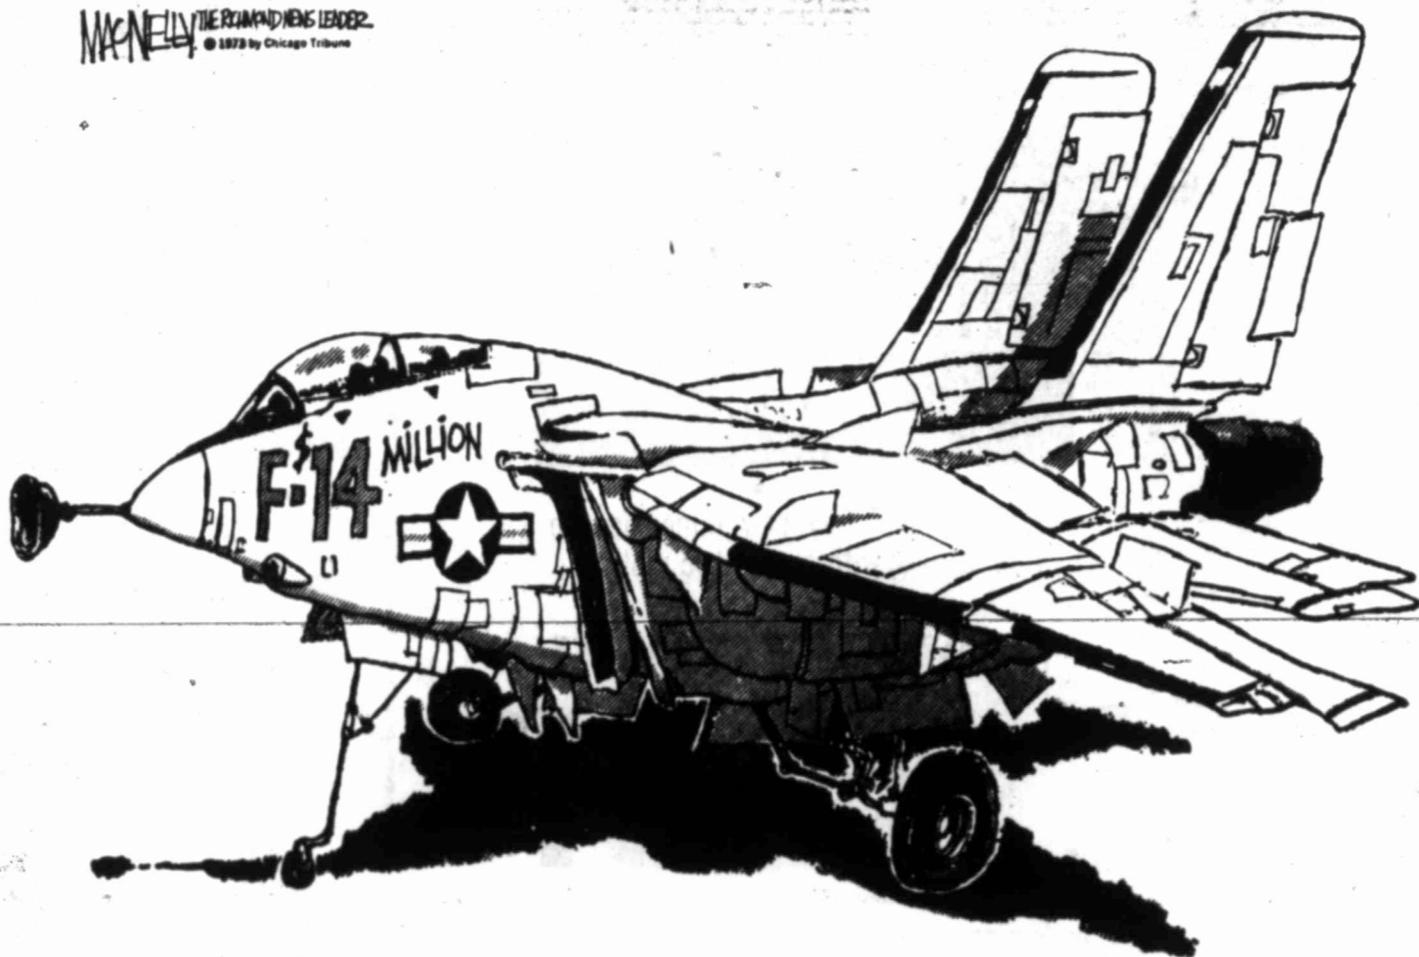

According to archeologists, both these cities now are probably under the briny waters of the Dead Sea. This area, the lowest spot on earth, 1,292 feet below sea level, brings thousands of tourists weekly.

Sodom and Gomorrah were two of the five Cities of the Plains destroyed in the time of Abraham and Lot, (Genesis 19). The wickedness and godlessness of these cities became proverbial, but their significance is more than archeological. In the New Testament (in Matthew, II Peter and Jude) their fate is used as a warning to those who reject the Gospel.

Frankly, I'm alarmed at the indications that America is embracing increasingly those same sexual abnormalities. They made the Sodomites and the residents of Gomorrah abhorrent in the eyes of a righteous God, and they will do it again. If there is one lesson of history, it is that you do not sin with immunity. But likewise, if there's one lesson in the Gospel, it is that forgiveness and restoration is available to sinners with repentant hearts.

WHEATLAND, WYOMING LEADER © 1973 by Chicago Tribune

Scoop Makes Hay

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — When a trend happens to coincide with the ambitions of a man with his eyes on the presidency the odds in the great game of politics are narrowed. The trend is toward a new isolationism. Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson is exploiting the nation's discontents with a shrewd appeal to reject the blandishments of the Nixon foreign policy initiatives.

THE STATE visit of Leonid I. Brezhnev, returning the Nixon mission to Moscow of a year ago, is for Jackson a golden opportunity. What he is saying has a familiar ring, recalling the dire warning of those who inveighed against American involvement in world affairs prior to World War II. Scheming foreigners would surely take Uncle Sam to the cleaners.

Sen. Jackson opposed the SALT I agreement signed in Moscow by the President and Brezhnev. That agreement, limiting defense ballistic missiles and with a five-year limit on deployment of offensive missiles pending the outcome of SALT II, was arrived at after lengthy negotiation. The American delegation was led by specialists thoroughly versed in the intricacies of nuclear weaponry. The agreement had at least the tacit sanction of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

SOUNDING THE alarm in the Senate, Sen. Jackson succeeded in putting over a resolution calling for numerical parity in any future agreement. This was the numbers game that conveniently ignored the over-all factors of nuclear strength as shown in the deployment of the multiple warhead on American missiles.

In his appearance on the "Face the Nation" television program Sen. Jackson carried this a step further. Since the President has been so weakened by the Watergate scandal, he suggested, anything that might be agreed to during the current visit is likely to be invalid. That is one way to build a hedge against approval of whatever may come out of the lagging SALT II talks.

BLOCKING most-favored nation status in trade with the Soviet Union, Sen. Jackson noted with pride that 77 of his Senate colleagues were signed up with him. MFN, providing for tariff rates equivalent with those of America's other trading partners, is essential if Moscow and Washington are to expand trade, with Moscow buying computers and the other advanced equipment urgently needed.

It is the key to the series of agreements covering a variety of exchanges in science, medicine, the arts. That Brezhnev has staked his standing in the Politburo on tangible results from the growing relationship is a fairly safe deduction. The hard-liners are said to be ready to prove the danger to Soviet security in relaxation with the West.

THE DEMAND Sen. Jackson is making that Moscow release the 100,000 or more Russian Jews who want to emigrate to Israel touches a deep emotional response. The hard-ships worked on Jews who ask to leave for Israel are one more evidence of the cruelties of a totalitarian system.

But what Sen. Jackson demands is far broader in scope. When he talks about the right of all persons to emigrate and then to return if they desire, he is calling for a complete change in the Soviet system. However desirable that may be, it is beyond the power of one sovereign state to bring about a revolution in another sovereign state.

If we are not to do business with the Soviet Union, how are we to justify extensive aid to the dictatorship of the Greek colonels? Jackson's response is to say that he opposed military help for the colonels. Or what about the repressive military dictatorship in Brazil? In a world of evil choices the United States cannot opt for purity in splendid isolation.

YET THE Jackson appeal seems likely to take hold, in the opinion of this observer. On the other hand, the immense weight of that position may in itself counter a retreat toward America's shores. In Jackson's own state of Washington Boeing is selling ten 707s to the People's Republic of China. The market for America's advanced technology must expand beyond these shores.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: It has been brought to my attention that if oleo margarine is used for frying eggs, potatoes, etc., I am defeating the idea of keeping down the cholesterol. My husband is on a low-cholesterol diet.

The point is made that heat increases the cholesterol in margarine.

Would other things, including vegetable oils, be preferable in such a case? — E.M.

You're cutting the cake a bit too thin. That is to say, heat can alter the fat content of oils somewhat, but that usually involves prolonged heating and higher temperatures than you are using.

In any event, there are other methods of frying. You can substitute a vegetable oil if it makes you feel safer — although I doubt there will be any substantial real difference.

Or you can fry in a pan lined with Teflon, in which case you don't need margarine, oil, or anything else — and you are thereby reducing the number of calories in the food. (The patient with high cholesterol sometimes is above ideal weight, and cutting out some calories does him some good.)

Or you can use one of those won't-stick-to-the-pan sprays, a lecithin preparation containing no fat or oils.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I enclose 35 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Please send me information on how to control arthritis.

Why do people lose strength? Why do muscles in the knees ache so I dread to get up and walk? I use crutches and my arms are so weak — Mrs. W. W.

Weakness may be something that comes along at the age when arthritis is most bothersome, but there can be a relationship to the arthritis, too. If it is the rheumatoid type, that is a disease that attacks the whole system. Pain is exhausting. And when the arthritis limits activity, then sheer lack of activity lets muscles lose tone.

As to muscles aching — the arthritis can cause this indirectly. Distortion of the shape of bones in the joints can put more strain on muscles. Also pain can make you remain tense and in time this tension tires the muscles and makes them ache. Arthritis just is not a simple ailment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We boil our drinking water but wonder if we are destroying the mineral content of the water that is needed to maintain good health. Many of our friends do likewise, but they cannot answer the question I ask here. — M.Z.

Boiling isn't going to destroy any minerals, and they won't evaporate. Some of the water will, of course. So the mineral content will, if anything, become somewhat more concentrated from the boiling.

Nitrates might become more concentrated — not desirable for infants.

However, since you live in an area which presumably has a perfectly safe water supply, I don't understand why you need to boil it.

If, by chance, you don't get city water but use a well or other private source, I'd most certainly have the health department test the water and see whether it is safe. If it's safe, drink it. If it isn't — then ask what needs to be done to make it safe.

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can to relieve the problem, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald requesting the booklet, "How To Deal With Varicose Veins," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Press Conference?

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON — While President Nixon deals at the summit with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, the subterranean conflict inside the White House over how he should deal with Watergate has broken out again. Mr. Nixon's press conference policy is a central issue.

SINCE EARLY this week, at the President's direction, Charles W. Colson, the ex-White House special counsel and political aide, has been tapping political sentiment outside the White House to test his own feeling that the President has far more to gain than lose by holding a full-blown session with reporters, his first since mid-March.

At the same time, a group of middle-level White House aides, deeply worried that advice Mr. Nixon is now getting from his new top-level staff is too "soft" and defensive, has quietly reconstituted the election-year "attack group" of 1972 to plot hard-line Watergate strategy.

THAT STRATEGY, the "attack group" believes, should not only rule out presidential press conferences for the foreseeable future. It also argues that Mr. Nixon has conceded far too much already in his public statements and should admit nothing more, no matter what his ousted White House counsel, John W. Dean III, or any future witness tells the Senate Watergate committee headed by Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina, next week. Ironically, the "attack group," formed in the summer of 1972 to keep the Democrats on the defensive and to pass political ammunition to Nixon surrogates campaigning across the country, was largely a creature of Colson himself.

NOW, HOWEVER, it is Colson, whose departure from the White House was not connected with the Watergate scandal, who is undermining the newly-reconstituted "attack group" and pushing hard for a new and more dynamic press relations policy for Mr. Nixon.

It is Colson's conviction that following Dean's testimony, certain to be the most explosive and probably the most damaging to Mr. Nixon, the President must hold his press conference. Colson's support for that policy is strongly backed by virtually every elected party officeholder.

MOREOVER, although not all public opinion polls agree, some samples indicate the existence of a comparatively high sympathy quotient for Mr. Nixon, despite a widespread feeling that he knew far more about the Watergate cover-up than he has so far admitted.

If the press conference turned into a ferocious attack by the press on the President, moreover, that sympathy might be considerably enlarged.

Bye, Bye Weevil

John Cunniff

By DOUG STONE (Substituting for John Cunniff)

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The boll weevil, popular in ballads but the vex of the cotton farmer, may soon be a thing of the past, a happening with a potential consumer benefit on cotton price tags and a 30 per cent reduction in America's pesticide use.

The prospect has Congress looking at the sex life of the boll weevil and at steps by researchers to sterilize male weevils and trigger a chain reaction that could wipe the insect out.

The National Cotton Council estimates that eradication of the boll weevil would cut cotton production costs by more than three cents per pound.

"THERE IS AN awful lot of pressure to reduce chemical spraying, so I think reducing national pesticide use by about a third would be one of the biggest benefits of this program," said Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., following a visit to Mississippi State University, site of the U.S. Agriculture Department's Boll Weevil Research Laboratory, the only one of its type in the world.

J. Richie Smith, technical research director for the Cotton Council, said the direct damage done by the boll weevil to the nation's cotton crop is as high as $200 million per year.

"In addition to this basic cost of ruining and consuming so much cotton, another $75 million is spent every year in suppression treatments," Smith said.

ABOUT ONE THIRD of the country's pesticide spraying is done in cotton fields.

Under the technique now being tested by the USDA lab, male weevils are chemically sterilized, then are released from low-flying aircraft into fields.

The sterile males mate with female weevils, but the eggs never hatch.

After trying the system for two years on 28,000 acres of test sites in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama, researchers told Sisk that weevils are down to "undetectable" levels in the experiment area.

Star Gridders See 'Changes'

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Two products of so-called collegiate football factories said today they thrived on the pressure and discipline of the win-oriented schools, but could see their coaches bending somewhat because of the liberal changes in society.

Greg Marx, a 265-pound defensive lineman from Notre Dame, said a relax in discipline may have cost the 1971 Fighting Irish, which were rated high in the pre-season polls but stumbled with losses to Louisiana State and Southern Cal.

Channel 8 in Dallas (WFAA) will telecast the Coaches All-America game beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

"I wouldn't want to change things the way they were at Notre Dame, but sometimes when you try to stay up with the times it can hurt you," said Marx.

Marx said since the 1971 collapse a strict order of rules has been followed at Notre Dame and the teams are living up to their potential.

At Alabama, defensive lineman John Mitchell said Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant was "getting more relaxed. We can even get boards in the off season. But discipline is strict during the season. I don't mind harsh discipline during the season—that's the way it should be."

And I like the pressure. It makes you a better player. What's wrong with a little pressure and discipline?"

Marx and Mitchell are members of the East team which will meet the West Saturday night in the 19th Annual Coaches All-America football game in Lubbock.

The national televised kickoff to the 1973 football season is set for 7:30 p.m. CDT.

Miller Keeps Charge Alive, Shares Lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "This," murmured Johnny Miller, "is a good habit I'm getting into."

The lanky blond had just put together a three-under-par 67—including a hole in one—for his first competitive round since he won the United States Open Golf championship with a record 63 last Sunday.

Miller's 67 on the long, tough Firestone Country Club course Thursday gave him a share of the first round lead in the prestige-laden American Golf Classic.

"It was an easy 67," Miller said. "I've been getting the absolute most possible out of my rounds. This one wasn't like that. I feel like it could have been a lot better."

He was tied with 23-year-old Forrest Ferler, an on-rushing tour sophomore, who also clipped three strokes off par on the lush 7,180 yards of the Firestone layout.

Arnold Palmer and three others were just one stroke back at 68.

Jack Nicklaus, who has collected a leading $190,000 and four titles already this season, topped a big group at 69. He reeled off one string of three consecutive birdies but dropped back with a bogey from a bunker on the final hole.

"That's not a bad opening round for me here," said Nicklaus. "I usually start off with 74 or 75. I played pretty well, but I'd feel better about it if I hadn't made that bogey on 18."

Bruce Crampton of Australia, winner of three titles this year, matched par 70 but streaking Tom Weiskopf took a far 74 and was well back in the field. Lee Trevino is not playing.

Wimbledon Boycott Gets Last Go-Ahead

LONDON (AP) — The international tennis rebels insisted on going through with their boycott of Wimbledon today and the world's most famous championship becomes a ghost tournament.

After a meeting lasting most of the night, the militant Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP) snuffed out flickering hopes of peace and confirmed that 78 of its members were walking out.

The announcement came exactly seven hours before officials of the all-England club sat down to make the draw. The tournament starts Monday.

It meant that dozens of lower ranked players who normally would have little hope even of qualifying for Wimbledon were thrown into a hunt for prize money totalling $2,000 pounds—about $130,000.

Ilie Nastase, ordered by Romania to play, became a runaway favorite.

With defending champion Stan Smith among the boycotters, Nastase found himself challenged seriously only by men like Jan Kodeš of Czechoslovakia, Alexander Metreveli of Russia and Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill.

Connors, 28-year-old left-hander is the only prominent American player who is not a member of the ATP.

ATP first announced its boycott plan two days ago after a British high court judge refused to interfere in tennis lawmaking and lift the suspension of Nikkī Pilic of Yugoslavia.

Pilic had been suspended by his national federation unjustly, said ATP because he refused to play for his country in the Davis Cup.

Wimbledon originally accepted 112 players for the men's singles and left 16 more places open for winners of the qualifying tournament which has been going on intermittently between rain showers since last Monday. More than half of the 112 were involved in the boycott plan.

Georgian Awakes, Nabs NCAA Lead

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — For awhile Georgia's Bill Kratzert's was playing in a foursome Thursday with Texas' heralded Ben Crenshaw. He might have been mistaken for someone in the gallery, the way he studied each shot by the twotime national champion.

But the soft-spoken Georgia junior caught himself just in time. After shooting a 35 on the front nine, Kratzert decided he had best concentrate on his own game and not Crenshaw's.

The result was a birdie explosion and a 32 on the back nine for a round of 67, vaulting him to a one-stroke lead over today's third round.

Kratzert has a trio on his heels at one stroke back including Crenshaw, who carded a 68 Thursday for his 137. Matching that total were Phil Hancock, Florida freshman, and San Jose State's Phil Barry. Florida's Andy Bean was alone at 158.

Kratzert said it was an honor playing with Crenshaw. "I was really watching him on the front side," the Georgian said. "I watched him hit some really good shots. But once I got my game going and made a couple of shots of my own, I stopped watching him. You have to play your own game."

He said there are benefits playing in Crenshaw's group, adding that the large gallery that follows the baby-faced Texas star has little bearing on his play.

"When you play with Ben, it gives you inspiration. You feel like you have to have a good game," he said.

Crenshaw remained the odds-on favorite to snare medal honors, but the Longhorn junior was disturbed that his team had fallen so far back in its bid for an unprecedented third straight championship.

Grid Gr at Leahy Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Leahy never wanted to be compared to his predecessor Knute Rockne. "They'll never be another Rockne," said Leahy who died in Portland Thursday at the age of 65.

But in memory, that's where he ended up, just a short step down from the Notre Dame football immortal of the late 1920s and 1930s.

"No question about it, he was quite a guy," said Red Blaik, former Army coach whose Army team battled Leahy's Irish to a scoreless tie in 1946.

"He was one of the great coaches of the last 25-30 years. He was a fundamentalist in the finest order."

"He had a rapport with the men that is hardly describable. They looked on him both as a great coach and as a character."

Leahy's 17-hour-a-day dedication to football gave him a record which fell only slightly short of Rockne's. He had a career mark of 107-13-9 as head coach at Boston College, and then at Notre Dame from 1941 through 1953. That's an .833 percent rate, barely below Rockne's .897.

At Alabama, defensive lineman John Mitchell said Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant was "getting more relaxed. We can even get boards in the off season. But discipline is strict during the season. I don't mind harsh discipline during the season—that's the way it should be."

And I like the pressure. It makes you a better player. What's wrong with a little pressure and discipline?"

SIX WEEKS AFTER BLOW Amateur Boxer Dies

BOSTON (AP) — Six weeks ago today young Mike Britton from Wichita Falls, Tex., was in good condition. Now he is dead.

Mike, who would have been a high school sophomore this fall, apparently was recovered. He was playing catch in a Wichita Falls city park Tuesday when he suddenly collapsed.

He was rushed to the hospital and underwent brain surgery. He died Thursday.

Britton, whose father is boxing coach of the Wichita Falls Boys Club, had won the local Golden Gloves novice title en route to the national AAU meet.

He appeared to be holding his own in the semifinal until Sandoval landed a hard right. Britton didn't go down, but the referee quickly stepped in and began giving the youngster a compulsory standing count, designed to prevent serious injury in amateur fights.

The count had barely reached four when Britton's legs began to sag. The referee grabbed to keep him from falling. Physicians jumped into the ring and Britton soon was on his way to the hospital.

Padres' Winfield Sparkles Again, But Astros Triumph

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dave Winfield's sudden emergence as a major league hitter and outfielder can best be appreciated by San Diego teammate Dave Roberts.

"We played on the same team in Alaska," Roberts recalled of his semipro career two years ago, when he was still a student at the University of Oregon.

"I didn't realize then that he could hit the way he does now," Roberts said.

Although his 9-1 pitching record this spring took the University of Minnesota to the semifinals of the NCAA tournament, it was Winfield's bat that prompted the Padres to make him their first choice in the draft this month.

So far the 6-foot-6, 225-pounder is making the San Diego scouting staff look like prophets.

Winfield hit two singles and his first professional homer Thursday in a game won by Houston 12-2.

Colts Claim 15th In AL

The Colts added another victory to their triumphant American Little League record Thursday night, smacking the Hawks 14-4.

Workman tossed a three-hitter and stroked three hits of his own in sparking the effort of the AL champs, who extended their record to 15-3.

In all the Colts banged out 11 hits, with Odom, Shaver, Christian, Davey, Howell, Gomez, Roberts and Vick getting one apiece. For the Hawks, Evans had two and Newsom managed one.

Kayser was the losing pitcher. Champions have been decided in all but the National League, where the Yankees and Rangers are still battling for the honors. The Tigers clinched the Texas League crown Tuesday while the Colts wrapped up the AL title over a week ago and the Comets nabbed the International pennant this week.

In the minor leagues, the Mustangs own the AL honors and the Hawks overcame in the NL in the only two loops with play completed, while the Falcons took the Texas League prizes. The International Minors are still undecided.

Lloyd Wasson aced No. 7 at the Big Spring Country Club, but it was not his first hole in one. He got his first one at Cloudercroft, N.M., several years ago.

Thursday afternoon in a four-some with Tommy Gage, Jasper Atkins and Amar Jones, Wasson took out his five iron and slapped his ball 165 yards dead to the pin — and in.

All in all, it seemed an experience worth recording. So, on June 22, the day after the fact, be it hereby recorded. I'd appreciate it if all of you would take this down and get it notarized within the next few days.

COURT RULES ON NUCLEAR TEST DISPUTE — Vice-President Fouad Ammon of International Court of Justice reads court's decision in The Hague today in Australian-French dispute over France's nuclear tests in South Pacific. Court called on France to refrain from nuclear testing in area pending final decision on legality of test series. By 8-6 vote, court ruled that Australia and France should not take any action in the meantime "which might extend the dispute or prejudice the final decision of the court." Newspaper Want Ads Law Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharply divided Supreme Court Thursday held that laws prohibiting sex segregation in newspaper want ads do not violate the First Amendment to the Constitution.

The 5-4 decision upheld an order by the Pittsburgh Human Relations Commission that barred the Pittsburgh Press Co. from designating jobs in its want-ad column by gender preference.

The newspaper publishing company had maintained that the First Amendment guarantee of freedom of the press prohibited such interference with its judgment.

Writing for the majority, Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. said the commission's narrowly drawn order prohibiting sex-designated want ad columns "does not infringe on the First Amendment rights of Pittsburgh Press."

At the same time, Powell emphasized that the court did not intend to allow government "at any level" to forbid the Pittsburgh Press to publish and distribute advertisements commenting on the Pittsburgh anti-discrimination order or its enforcement.

The newspaper published its want ads under headings of "jobs-male interest" and "jobs-female interest." The newspaper also published a notice that sex discrimination in hiring was prohibited by law.

The high court majority said the advertisements, as purely commercial advertising, are not protected by the First Amendment.

Texas Vehicle Commission Rides Herd Under New Code

"Know your dealer" is the substance of advice from William R. Crocker, Austin, executive director of the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission, for assurance of properly filed car titles.

Crocker was one of the witnesses subpoenaed by the grand jury which investigated reports of no titles by people who thought a non-defunct agency had given them titles. Reports here indicated that at least 24 were caught off base on that one. Abilene had several similar cases.

"The advice I would give prospective automobile customers is to deal with established, reputable dealerships."

He hastened to say that the vast majority of dealers are reputable, but "we are exerting every effort under the TMVC Code to reduce the likelihood of that 'one rotten apple in the barrel.'"

On Sept. 1, 1971, the commission began operation. Full-time staff consists of the executive director, another man and a secretary, and two part-time employees. The commission operates under an about $93,000 annual budget. Serving on the commission are six persons.

The TMVC requires licenses for dealers, manufacturers, distributors and representatives of manufacturers and distributors.

DEALERS LICENSED
Through a hearing, the commission may revoke, deny or suspend licenses.

Among the reasons a license can be revoked are these:
Proof of the licensee's unfitness; material misrepresentation in documents filed with the commission; and failure to comply with the act or commission rules.

"Willfully defrauding any retail buyer to the buyer's damage."
"Willful violation of any law relating to the sale, distribution, financing or insuring of new motor vehicles."

In a previous section, the law tells how a retail buyer can bring a complaint about defects covered by warranty before a commission hearing.

"A retail buyer of a new motor vehicle may make a complaint concerning defects in a new motor vehicle which are covered by the warranty agreement applicable to the vehicle. Such complaint must be made by certified letter to the dealer and must specify the defects in the vehicle which are covered by the warranty.

"After the dealer has had 30 days in which to correct defects covered by the warranty, the owner may make further complaint by an additional certified letter to the dealer with copies to the applicable manufacturer or distributor and the Commission. The Commission may hold a hearing on all unsatisfied complaints to determine whether there has been a violation of the Act."

FINES POSSIBLE
It is illegal for dealers to—
Fail, after complaint and hearing to fulfill warranty obligations;
Fail to deliver and prepare a new motor vehicle for sale as provided in the manufacturer's preparation and delivery agreements after complaint and hearing;
Require special equipment on vehicles purchased by retail customers, provided the equipment is not already installed;
Or use misleading advertising.

What's the penalty?
Violation of the act may liable an individual to penalties of $50 to $1,000 per day, and or an injunction against the dealership.

C-C Revising Warning System For Businessmen

The Chamber of Commerce is preparing to revise its S.O.S. telephone alert system designed to warn retail merchants of shoplifters, bad checks, stolen credit cards and other business hazards.

A chain system which currently involves 87 businesses, the phone program is only as strong as its "weakest link," according to Barbara Giles, Chamber secretary who starts the ball rolling when the Chamber receives tips of questionable activities.

Tips on suspicious persons, hot checks, etc., are often relayed to the Chamber by city police, the sheriff's department or individual merchants. When a tip is received, Mrs. Giles calls seven businesses, each of which calls three other businessmen; who also in turn call others until all participating firms are warned.

"We average about once a week using this system," said Chamber Manager Ron Mercer, who noted that the pre-Christmas season and the early spring are the heaviest periods of questionable activities.

"It's been going on several years since the '60s and it works," remarked Mrs. Giles. "Sooner or later it helps every business involved."

Letters were sent out this week to the entire Chamber membership to inform the 530 members of the yearly revision of the project to take place in July.

Opening lead: Deuce of ♠
A substantial swing resulted when the above hand was dealt in a recent team-of-four contest.

At one table, the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram and West made the effective lead of a trump against the final contract of four diamonds. Declarer played dummy's king and returned the four of hearts. East alertly put up the ten, South covered with the king, and West won with the ace.

West had no more trumps to lead, so he shifted to a small club in an attempt to put his partner in. East played the ace of clubs, felling declarer's king, and led a second round of diamonds. There was only one trump left in dummy, and South was unable to ruff out his losing hearts.

By leading diamonds at every opportunity, the defense was able to establish three heart tricks, which together with the ace of clubs spelled a one-trick defeat for North and South.

At the other table, South arrived at a contract of five diamonds which was doubled. West chose to open the king of spades and the ace was played from dummy. A low heart was led, and East made the fatal slip of following with the eight instead of putting up the ten.

Declarer merely covered the eight of hearts with the nine and West was in with the jack. The latter shifted somewhat belatedly to a trump—taken in the closed hand—and South ruffed a heart in dummy, observing the fall of East's ten. A spade ruff put declarer back in and this time he led the king of hearts. West covered with the ace, North ruffed, and East's queen fell.

South trumped a spade, drew the remaining diamond and then cashed the seven of hearts, picking up West's six—and establishing the five as the game-going trick.

In the end, declarer conceded a club trick and claimed his doubled contract for a score of 550 points [250 for the trick score and 300 bonus for a non-vulnerable game]. The net swing on the deal, counting the one trick set registered by his teammates at the other table, was 600 points.

price is about 10 cents less, he said.

Texas was about No. 6 in U.S. broiler production last year, according to Bill Cawley, poultry specialist for the Texas A&M University Extension Service. Cawley says that about 200 million chickens were produced.

CUTTING BACK
The Growers say this number will be greatly reduced. A severe shortage could occur in 8 to 12 weeks, when the eggs and chicks now being destroyed would have been ready for market, they say.

Moore, who was producing about 65,000 broilers a day last year, expects his output to be cut in half. Biddle says he will have a 20 per cent over-all cut-back. Roy Herder, owner of Herder Farms at Nacogdoches, Tex., says he is cutting back about 25 per cent of his broiler production. If retail price controls were removed the consumer might have to pay as much as 20 per cent more for broilers, Biddle said. He said his estimate was based on market response to smaller reductions in poultry supply.

Cawley says that official state statistics on eggs set for hatching show a sharp decline since the price freeze. The latest figures, for the week of June 16, were down 14 per cent from last year's figure and 10 per cent from the previous week.

Moore says he believes the sharp cutback in poultry production is not limited to Texas but also is occurring in the Southern states.

PRICES DOUBLES
Feed grain prices have doubled in the past year, the poultrymen say. Soybean which cost about $100 a ton last year are now more than $400 a ton, Biddle said. The price of corn also has doubled.

The broiler producers do not see any relief. Biddle says he foresees "an extreme shortage of feed and protein grain in September and October."

His cutback is partly to conserve some feed reserves against such a shortage, he said. He predicts that smaller producers unable to reserve feed bought in a lower market could be in real trouble.

The Texas A&M poultry specialist also believes the feed grain market will be tighter even if demand from poultrymen is reduced. Heavy spring rains have hurt the Texas grain harvest, he said. Export pressures and an increase in domestic demand for cattle feed could also affect the market.

DROWN 'EM
"There's nothing left to do but drown them," he said.

Moore, president of Home Foods of Nixon, Tex., said he lost $72,000 on poultry last week. Broilers cost about 45-50 cents a pound to raise, and bring only 40 to 41 cents at market.

Moore and other Texas poultrymen say that the President's latest 60-day price freeze on retail food products has left them unable to meet skyrocketing feed grain prices. The feed grains, a raw agricultural commodity, were not covered by the freeze.

Gene Biddle, president of Rite-Care Poultry Co. of Tena, Tex., said he is destroying hatching eggs to reduce his weekly output by more than 15 per cent.

NO WAY
"There is no way we can produce broilers at current feed price levels," Biddle said.

He estimates that he produces about 10 per cent of all Texas broilers, mostly distributed to the Gulf Coast area.

Bo Pilgrim of Pittsburgh, Tex., whose Pilgrim Industries is a major poultry distributor to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, says he is cutting back 100,000 broilers per week, or about 13 per cent of production.

"The question has become, 'How do we survive?'" Pilgrim said.

The broiler industry was caught at the lowest point of a 90-day price cycle when the latest freeze was imposed, he said. Producers who must buy feed grains at the current market price must spend about 50 cents per pound to raise a broiler for market. The market price is about 10 cents less, he said.

Porno Decision Triggers Outrage

NEW YORK (AP) — Outrage poured through Times Square like money through the tills of the area's sex cinemas and book stores after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that states could set obscenity standards.

In its ruling Thursday, the high court gave the states authority to ban books, magazines, plays and motion pictures that are judged to be offensive to local standards.

Maintenance man Joseph Belin of Brooklyn was angered: "Nobody's pushing me to see these pictures; I don't see any harm in pornography."

And book store operators said the ruling would cost them jobs. Some who manage the sex trade questioned the government's morality. Others complained that drug-pushing and nudging were bigger problems.

"They should clean up Washington before they clean up Times Square," declared the manager of a 42nd Street book store that displayed stacks of colorful, sexually explicit magazines.

"This has been going on for thousands of years," he said, gesturing toward a 25-cent live peep show. "Nobody gets mugged in here; nobody gets robbed. If people didn't want these, we would have been out of business years ago."

A Lynbrook, N.Y., plumber about to give $5 to the cashier at a movie theater said: "Why don't they crack down on the dope instead of this? These films won't hurt our children."

Then he and three companions in business suits went to see "Sticky Situation" and "All of a Sudden."

At a nearby theater, the manager said, "... Watergate is far more obscene than anything you might see on the screen."

"What about the deviants and homosexuals who buy these books?," a store manager asked from his perch overlooking the browsers. "If they aren't able to buy, what will they do then—take people in the street? Ever think of that?"

"Nobody forces anyone to come in these places; they came in here of their own will."

Book store employee Joseph Falma asked, "Does anybody know what obscenity is? We don't; we're only working folks... We're making an honest living. If you want to buy a book, do we put a gun in your back?"

On Top Honor Roll

Bob Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jones of Flower Grove, had been named to the dean's list at Texas Tech University for the spring semester with a perfect 4.0 (straight A) record. A graduate of Lamesa High School, he was a freshman electrical engineering student last year.

Citywide Youth Rally Set At Ampitheatre Tonight

By MARJ CARPENER
The College Baptist Church is hosting a citywide youth rally at the Ampitheatre in Comanche Trall Park this weekend.

The idea for the event arose from a Teen Lone Patrol which meets every Monday evening at 7 p.m. After contacting several fellow churches, the association began plans for the rally.

The meeting Friday begins at 7:30 p.m. with Jackie White, a junior at Texas Tech, leading the young people in singing. He is music director at a church in Lubbock. Special music will be brought by other young people from Lubbock.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Nathan Griffin, also a junior at Texas Tech.

On Saturday morning, starting at 10 a.m., singing and fellowship will be followed by small discussion groups. Topic of the discussion will center around dating and marriage.

Young persons participating are asked to bring sack lunches for the noon meal. A committee headed by Wayne Polny will serve soft drinks.

The program Saturday evening will center around a current religious musical presented by the youth group from the First Baptist Church in Jefferson. The group is en route to Glorieta Encampment. The name of the musical is "Come Together." Some 47 young people will take part.

Both evening meetings begin at 7:30 p.m. and Big Spring young people are invited to attend. Musical instruments for the rally are being provided by Mike Haynie, youth director at East 4th Street Baptist and from Thomas Music Store.

General theme of the rally, set by the young people is "Expect a miracle, something good is going to happen."

GARDEN CITY — Garden City United Spiritual Emphasis will start with services at 11 a.m. Sunday, June 24, and end with services at 11 a.m. Sunday, July 1.

Both the United Methodist Church and Cumberland Presbyterian Church are sponsoring the program, the Rev. G. D. Short said. Services will be conducted at the Presbyterian Church. Mid-week services will be held at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.

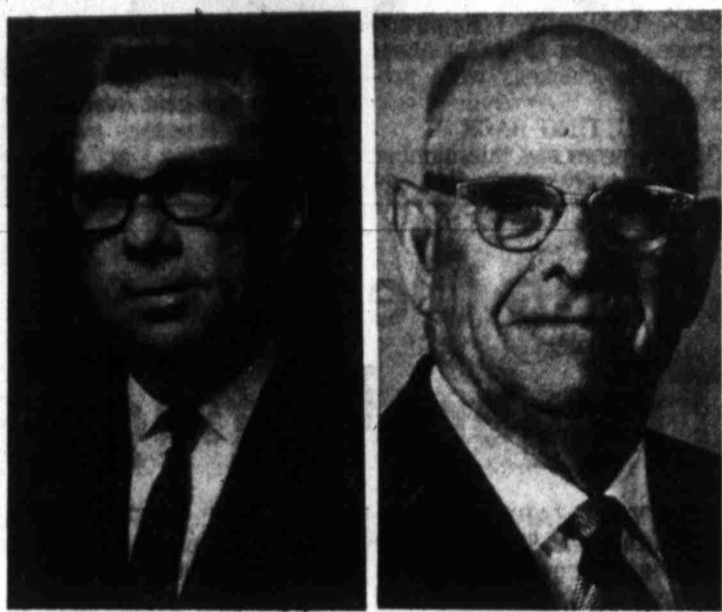

The Rev. E. Thach Shauf of Dyersburg, Tenn., will be the evangelist. Marshall Brown will lead the singing.

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York has revealed completion of plans for a series of international conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses in 1973.

J. L. Watkins, presiding minister of the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, said 54 local members would attend the convention scheduled for the Houston Astro dome in Houston, Tex., July 4-8.

Watkins made it clear that the conventions are not affiliated with any other religious movement. "The objective of these meetings and the purpose of convening is not remotely related to any other campaign planned for 1973."

GLORIETA, N.M. — This

REV. E. SHAUF MARSHALL BROWN

August the first bilingual of Spanish-speaking Baptists in the South-Southwest and the influx of Cubans in the Southeast has created the need for this type project, officials said.

As the demand for more Christian materials in the Spanish language increased in the latter part of the '60s, the board sought to meet this need by carrying limited inventories of Spanish materials in its 55 book stores. However, this proved inadequate.

Blocks Funds For Trains

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Vance Hartke, (D-Ind.), has blocked a spending bill to keep passenger trains running after July 1.

At the same time, the chairman of the Commerce subcommittee on surface transportation warned the administration that more taxpayer aid was needed to salvage the bankrupt Penn Central.

On Thursday, the Senate routinely passed a $185 million spending authorization for next fiscal year for Amtrak, the national passenger train corporation.

But Hartke had the bill pulled back for action at a later date, charging that Amtrak has refused consistently to request enough money to improve passenger train operations.

Hartke said that, instead of spending money to improve service, Amtrak, with administration consent, seeks to cut off service for lack of riders. "All they're planning to do is strangle Amtrak," he told a reporter.

Man Charged With Car Theft

PECOS - The Texas Highway Patrol arrested Ruben Navarrete Thursday, the same day he is accused of stealing a 1972 model car in Big Spring.

Navarrete has been charged in Howard County with theft over $50.

Preston Daniels owns the car which was stolen from Bob Brock Ford where it had been left for repairs.

Westbrook Church States Speaker

WESTBROOK (SC) - The Rev. Haskeel Wilson, San Angelo, will speak at First Baptist Church Sunday at both the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services.

The Rev. Wilson is a graduate of Howard Payne College and Southwestern Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth. He has been serving as associated pastor at Immanuel Baptist Church in San Angelo.

Members are asked to bring lunch for a get-together in Fellowship Hall, also to be on hand for a called conference Sunday evening with view of considering a call. The Rev. Billy Hendrix, Big Spring, has been serving the church as interim pastor.

Boerne Youth Pleads Guilty

Gary Eugene Bell, 20, Boerne, pleaded guilty in 118th District Court Thursday afternoon to burglary and was given six years probation.

He was convicted as one of two said to be involved in the burglary of the residence of Dorothy Martin, 1319 Mulberry Ave. on Dec. 18, 1972.

A black and white television was stolen, District Attorney Bob Moore said.

Ex-POW Files Misconduct Raps Against Two Officers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two fighter pilots have been formally accused of misconduct for actions during their years in North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps, Pentagon sources have disclosed.

They are the first officers to face such charges, which were brought by Rear Adm. James V. Stockdale, of Coronado, Calif., Stockdale, a captain as a POW, was promoted after he returned home.

PHANTOM PLANES

The two men are Navy Capt. Walter E. Wilber, 43, of Columbia Cross Roads, Pa., and Marine Lt. Col. Edison Wainright Miller, 41, of Tustin, Calif.

Wilber was the executive officer of a squadron of Phantom F4 fighter planes when he was shot down over North Vietnam June 16, 1968.

Miller's Marine F4 Phantom went down over North Vietnam Oct. 13, 1967.

The sources said Thursday that Stockdale mailed the formal charges to the 566 returned POWs. The accusations by Guy and Stockdale are made as individual servicemen charging other individual servicemen under the military code of justice. Both Guy and Stockdale were provided with military lawyers who helped draw up the legal papers, sources said. Officially, myself, where I was, what we were doing, I found out that my conscience bothered me," he said in a recent interview.

A Navy man since 1948, Wilber is married and has three sons and a daughter. Miller, a Marine since 1949, is also married and has five sons.

THE POSE THAT SHOWS - Prime Minister Trudeau has a good look at wife Margaret's tummy at the state dinner for Indira Gandhi Tuesday night when he obviously saw something nobody else did. Well, it's out now! Margaret is expecting her second child at the end of the year.

Reduced Hours Of Base's Service Station Avoided

The proposed closing of service stations at 17 Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) locations has been avoided with the announcement that the Shell Oil Company will continue to supply the locations on a month-to-month basis.

The Shell contract had been expected to end on June 22.

Gen. C. W. Hospelhorn, AAFES commander, said "I am happy to announce that some definite progress is being made in our negotiations with gasoline suppliers during the nationwide gasoline shortage."

Under the allocation program, stations at these 17 locations will continue to receive their pro rata share of gasoline according to consumption figures of calendar months last year.

TEC Has Many Agricultural Job Openings

Seasonal agricultural work is expected to provide summer job openings for some 50 individuals through the Texas Employment Commission, according to Ellis Britton, office manager.

With farmers soon to need extra help in cotton chopping and irrigation, many youths will be able to find summer work. Many farmers, Britton said, find their own help while others call the TEC.

Britton said the commission has received about 275 job applications from high school and college students. About 100 of these have been placed, he noted, adding that placement becomes more difficult as the summer wears on.

Board's Agent Visits College

Dr. Ray Hawkins, Austin, junior college program coordinator for the Coordinating Board for Texas Colleges and Universities, was on campus at Howard County Junior College today.

He came here to inspect the new 137-acre farm tract HJC has been given in Martin County, and which will be used in connection with an expanded agricultural program. Dr. Hawkins was also checking over the proposed agricultural curriculum changes with the view of determining whether to recommend this for approval by the coordinating board.

Also on campus was Mrs. Verlene Bankston, a doctoral student inspecting the college as a possible intern under the junior college administration program at the University of Texas.

Airline Competition Probed By Grand Jury

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - A federal grand jury was to continue its secret deliberations today concerning Braniff Airways and Texas International Airlines.

Court records show another former Texas International official has been subpoenaed in the investigation.

A subpoena made public this week named Clinton B. McCutcheon of Houston, a former Texas International vice president. He was to have appeared Monday.

According to court records, two other former Texas International officials were subpoenaed and then granted immunity from prosecution when they invoked constitutional protections against self-incrimination. The same immunity was granted another man, who was still with Texas International at the time of the court order.

Court documents indicate the grand jury investigation involves Texas International's and Braniff's competition with Southwest Airlines. The three airlines are in a fight for customers in Houston, Dallas and San Antonio.

Kenneth C. Anderson, a federal antitrust division attorney from Washington, D.C., has signed most of the grand jury subpoenas.

The grand jury was empaneled last September. It has taken no official action.

Cussin' Friend

TEEN FORUM

CURSES: (Q.) I have two girl friends. One of them curses, the other doesn't. I don't either. All three of us are 12. The non-cusser and I have a rule. When our friend curses we won't talk to her the rest of the day.

This makes her very mad, and she acts bratty toward us. It does not cure her, either. Should we put up with her cussing or stop being her friends? I know cussing is supposed to be catching and I don't want it to catch me. — Trying to Keep It Clean in Maryland.

(A.) There is another aspect to the use of rough language. If your friend uses it and you are with her, other people will connect it with you.

Do not stop being her friend. Do stop associating with her on a regular basis. When she gets a little older she no doubt will learn that her way of talking doesn't pay off. Then maybe she will clean it up.

Sands Looks For A Coach

ACKERLY — Sands High School is looking for a new coach, Supt. M. B. Maxwell Jr. said Friday.

Thursday night, the school board accepted the resignation of Bob Davis, head football and basketball coach. Davis is moving to Follet.

Other business included: —Renewing the oil and gas evaluation contract with Pritchard and Abbott for two years. —Renewing the contract for school building and teacherages with Henry Norris, Lamesa. Premiums will run about $3,667 the first year and $3,077 each of the next two years.

—Approving new floor covering for 12 rooms at a cost of approximately $3,900. Sherwin-Williams is the contractor.

—Discussing the laying of a new butane line. Maxwell said school employees are performing this work and estimated the project will cost $3,500. —And approving new curtains for the auditorium.

about 11 or 12, people called me "Fats." I am 17 now and have lost some of the weight, but the skin where it was still hangs loose. It just will not disappear.

For a boy I also have a very large chest. It is embarrassing. Please tell me, fast, how I can get in shape. — Too Big in Texas.

(A.) If by saying you have a very large chest you mean you have a big chest cavity, that is fine, and it cannot be reduced.

If you mean you have fatty deposits up front, you probably need to do some more reducing all over.

Go to your family doctor and ask him for a diet and a list of exercises. The diet will take off the excess weight and the exercise will help to tone your muscles and skin and minimize the flabbiness.

When school starts in the fall, go to your physical training director and ask him if he has a course of exercises that will keep you in trim. Weight lifting might be your answer, but get his advice first.

I am sorry if this doesn't sound very fast. Losing weight safely is not usually something you can do in a hurry.

SHE PASSED HIM UP — Anita Kaye Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Butler of Big Spring, is shown in the small picture at age three with "Bonanza" star Michael Landon in 1963. Now, 10 years later, Anita Kaye has obviously grown while Landon appears the same except for a longer hairstyle. The first shot was taken at a rodeo in Ardmore, Okla., while the other was taken Wednesday at the Ramada Inn where Landon is staying during the Big Spring Rodeo.

San Antonio Electricity Shortages Cut Activities

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Order is the San Antonio Brewers professional baseball team of the Texas League. The Brewers play their home games at St. Mary's University.

Players on city-owned baseball diamonds will be without lights and city parks will be closed at dusk because of electricity shortages, City Manager Sam Granata Jr. announced Thursday.

The two measures are part of a program which Granata says the city is implementing to save electricity.

He appealed to private citizens to take electricity conservation measures themselves or face restrictions that could be enforced by ordinance.

Granata said he is immediately ordering a 50 per cent cutback in downtown street lighting.

TURN OFF — Arterial and expressway lighting will not be turned on until 10 p.m. and will be switched off four hours later, he said.

He said ordinances, if needed, would be requested to halt air conditioning in buildings, except where it is necessary for ventilation.

Granata echoed an earlier plea by the city-owned utility company that citizens voluntarily set home air conditioning no lower than 80 degrees.

He asked the business community to turn off hallway lighting as much as possible and cut sign illumination and night lighting by 50 per cent.

Granata said he could see no end to the present energy squeeze.

WILL GET WORSE — "It will get worse with winter," he said. The city manufactures its electricity with natural gas, but its supplier, Coastal States Gas Corp. subsidiary, has cut the supply sometimes to one-third the normal daily commitment.

The Coastal States natural gas situation currently is before the Texas Railroad Commission and there have been predictions that Coastal States' deliverability will weaken even further by the fall.

Granata announced the city cutbacks and issued the pleas for voluntary cutbacks in the private sector after the San Antonio city council ordered him to begin forming plans for conservation of electricity.

Not affected by Granata's present mandatory curtailment

WARNED MIGHT BE SHOT DOWN Greatest Airlift Ever

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer

BERLIN (AP) — "It was November before I began to feel confident we won," Gail Halvorsen said. "We had zero-220 weather but we kept going anyway. The radar was working — we knew then we could really do something."

In November 1948 Halvorsen was a first lieutenant, U.S. Air Force, a pilot in the greatest airlift ever assembled, not for war, but to save a city, West Berlin and its 2½ million people.

Halvorsen, from Salt Lake City, Utah, joined the lift almost from its beginning on June 26, 1948, when the Russians imposed a land blockade on West Berlin.

BLOCKADE — Peter Downward, then a captain in the British army, also was posted to the airlift, joining Royal Air Force crews because of a shortage of transport pilots.

He agreed with Halvorsen. "There was a point when all pilots realized that the airlift operation could be broken."

Downward, 49, went back to the army after the blockade. He now is a brigadier and commands the British Berlin Brigade.

Each has the chance to compare the Berlin of 1948-49 with the Berlin of today.

Halvorsen, 52, now a colonel, commands the Air Force installation at Tempelhof Airfield, the main terminus of the airlift that ended formally Sept. 30, 1949.

'Plastic Pat' Or Warm First Lady?

NEW YORK (AP) — "Plastic Pat" or warm and human First Lady?

A magazine poll of a group ranging from the fashion writer who dubbed her "plastic" to her own daughters comes up with a unanimous verdict—that Mrs. Richard M. Nixon is for real.

Younger daughter Julie Eisenhower tells Good Housekeeping, which features the poll in its July issue, about her mother's pitching in as a typist in the campaign, using her maiden name, Patricia Ryan.

Julie says she laughed over an insistent telephone caller who said: "You're very nice, Miss Ryan, but I really must speak to someone close to the President."

And Candy Stroud, the Women's Wear Daily reporter who called her "plastic," says she no longer thinks that. "She's got a good mind, tremendous discipline, tremendous kindness," Miss Stroud says.

The Russians lifted their blockade May 12, 1949, but the allies kept flying in supplies to build a year's reserve that is maintained to this day. In all, 2,343,301½ tons of everything from candy to coal were flown in via three air corridors the Russians never tried to close.

Halvorsen spoke for both when he declared, "I can remember it all as though it were yesterday."

NO RADAR — "We had problems in the early days ... no landing radar ... then bad weather with planes pouring in from all over. They told you to hold at 10,000 feet and once, in the soup, we were suddenly nose to nose with another C54. We both yelled and the controller on the ground came back, 'Shut up so I can help.'"

The C54 was the Skymaster, a four-engine transport just coming of age in time for the airlift, a coincidence that some say made success possible.

The airlift pilots were warned they might be shot down if they strayed out of the air corridors where the Western aircraft still today have a right of way.

With the advent of ground radar and ground directed approaches, Halvorsen said, in the midst of extremely bad weather with zero visibility in any direction, it became apparent the Russians had lost their gamble to force the allies out.

Billy Graham Sued For Slander

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Madalyn Murray O'Hair, a champion of atheist causes, has filed a $3 million slander suit in federal court here against Dr. Billy Graham.

The civil suit filed Thursday alleges that the evangelist said on national television Sept. 13, 1972, that Mrs. O'Hair sent him a letter that contained obscene words.

Mrs. O'Hair, 54, head of the Society of Separationists, denied in her petition that she sent such a letter.

She also filed a lawsuit that resulted in the 1963 Supreme Court decision banning state-prescribed prayer in public schools.

The petition against the Rev. Dr. Graham asks $1 million in actual damages and $2 million in punitive damages, interest, court costs and "such other relief as the court deems just."

Underwriters Install Here

The Big Spring Association of Life Underwriters installed officers 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Coker's Restaurant.

Walter Stroup became the new president; T. A. Thigpen, vice president; Joe Dunn, secretary-treasurer; and Daniel Patterson and Garland Hill were named to the board of directors.

Stroup also became secretary-treasurer of the American Society of Certified Life Underwriters last week. That chapter is led by Carvel Mills, Midland, and Ernest C. Lynch Jr., Odessa, vice president.

Melvin Harbin, a Certified Life Underwriter of San Antonio, spoke at the installation here about the power of positive thinking used by successful men of business such as Andrew Carnegie, American steel manufacturer.

Harbin filled in for William R. Ballard, a Houston agent for American General Life and president of the Texas Association of Life Underwriters. Ballard broke two ribs in Houston about a week before the dinner, Stroup said.
