Asian B52 Pullout Scheduled

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) - Gen. Frederick E. Weyand, the U.S. Army's new deputy chief of staff, met with top leaders of the Cambodian government and U.S. Embassy officials today to discuss American military aid after the bombing stops Aug. 15.

Weyand came from Saigon and was to return there after his talks with President Lon Nol, the members of his High Political Council and U.S. Ambassador Emory C. Swank.

AIR SUPPORT

Weyand's visit, the first to the Cambodian capital by a high-ranking American official since May, came amid reports from Washington that the United States is beginning to withdraw its B-52 bombers from Asia. President Nixon has agreed that all American bombing in Indochina will stop on Aug. 15 unless Congress gives specific approval for further bombing.

It is the consensus among American and Cambodian officials and neutral observers that American air support is the only thing that keeps the Cambodian insurgents from overrunning the Phnom Penh government's forces. The Cambodian command today denied foreign press reports that 10,000 mercenaries from Thailand had been sent into Cambodia to fill the gap the bombing halt will create.

The teen-ager, J. Paul Getty III, had not been home for two weeks. He has been an habitue of Rome's hippie hangouts and has occasionally been seen selling homemade jewelry to tourists. The boy's mother, who is divorced from J. Paul Getty Jr., said she had a telephone call Thursday from a man who told her, "We have kidnaped your son. Get the money ready for the ransom. We will call you later." She said the man did not give any ransom

"I think the phone call was some sort of joke,"

she commented. Mrs. Getty said she had not known of her son's absence because she had been on a holiday until Thursday. The caretaker at her apartment said he hadn't been worried because the youth "used to come home late, and he didn't have what you would call a regular life."

Fire Destroys Records

OVERLAND, Mo. (AP) - A stubborn fire continued to burn out of control today in a building housing 56 million files on former servicemen.

The blaze, which became a day old shortly after midnight, gained momentum Thursday night as it spread from the uppermost floor of the Military Personnel Record Center down to the fifth floor. Portions of the roof collapsed.

Six firemen, who were among members of 20 suburban St. Louis departments fighting the blaze, suffered smoke inhalation and eye irritation. No other injuries were reported.

Watergate 'Blackmail'

House lawyer Richard A. Moore testified today that John W. Dean III said six weeks before being fired from the presidential staff that he intended to tell the truth about the Watergate affair.

Moore said Dean, who was then White House counsel, told him around March 15 that perjury had been committed by campaign deputy Jeb Stuart Magruder during the original investigation into the wiretap-

KIDNAPPING

Even before that, around March 1 or earlier, Dean told him that G. Gordon Liddy had proposed bugging and kidnapping as campaign tactics prior to the Watergate raids, Moore told the Senate Watergate investigating committee.

But Moore stuck to his statement that, so far as he knows,, President Nixon was unaware of the Watergate cover-up until Dean told Nixon about it March

Moore said he himself, despite what Dean had told him, believed until March 19 that the wiretapping was an unauthorized adventure by men who had $100 bills in their pockets and enjoyed playing James

CANCER GROWING

He said it was not until Dean told him that Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt was that he realized that the White House might be involved.

It was at that point that Moore said he urged Dean to tell the President. He said Dean was "happy and excited" the evening of March 20 when Nixon agreed to see him the next day. It was on March 21 that Dean says he told Nixon there was a "cancer growing on the presidency."

Moore supported many of the details of Dean's testimony, but disputed Dean's belief that Nixon was aware of the cover-up with the President last March Nixon was searching for ways to get the facts about the matter to the public.

Dean swore that Nixon had participated in the cover-up by discussing hush money and clemency offers. Dean said he deliberately kept Moore in the dark about that

TELL THE TRUTH Questioned by the committee's Republican counsel, Fred Thompson, Moore said Dean told him March 1 or earlier about the bugging and kidnaping schemes proposed by Liddy Jan. 27 and Feb. 4, 1972.

While in Europe, the Meistersingers along with many other choirs performed at the Festival of Three Cities in Vienna, Austria, Prague, Czechoslavakia and Budapest, Hungary. Although most of those making the trip went to bed a soon as they arrived in Big Spring this morning, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Dirks, two of the sponsors, and Jack Bowers, choir director, did comment on the trip. All three said the choir was well received and in Vienna received one of only two standing ovations given. "The people, the common man on the Dirks said the American judge, a top U.S. choir director and educator, and members of three-judge panel, rated the Meistersingers as the most outstanding choir he had ever heard in a critique of the choir.

Of the trip within the Communist-ruled nations, Bowers said some of the choir members were surprised at the amount of propaganda put out. Dirks said that the party in Czechoslavakia did not publicize the music festival so that no Czech people attended the performances of the American

Pneumonia Puts Nixon In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon experienced a "restless night" and is continuing to suffer chest discomfort from a viral pneumonia condition for which he is being treated at Bethesda Naval Hospital, the White House said today.

The report was given by Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler from the hospital auditorium in a 11:30 a.m. briefing, the first word about the President since he entered the hospital Thursday night.

The President was examined this morning by

He was reported to have a light breakfast. His temperature was still said to be running at 101 or 102 degrees.

When the President entered the hospital, Ziegler said he was expected to remain there for at least a week.

During that time, Ziegler said, the President while resting and recuperating. "will carry on his necessary work at the hospital A professor of medicine at Georgetown University, Dr. Sol Katz, was called in to join the White House doctors on the case. THE PERFECT PATIENT Dr. Katz said that the President is "moderately ill," described him as "the perfect patient," and said he expected the hospital stay would be between seven and 10 days. Nixon was described by his White House physician, Dr. Walter Tkach, as "champing at the bit," and wanting to do more. The doctor said it had been a battle to get the President to agree to go to the hospital. The 60-year-old President was reported ill and entered the hospital in suburban Maryland Thursday night, after carrying on a daylong schedule despite reported discomfort from his ailment.

A woman teller at the Silsbee State Bank said Thursday a man limped into the bank and shoved a note at her. It read, "Don't panic. I'm nervous. Place all the bills !n an envelope and hand it to me. No one gets hurt.' Police in Silsbee, Tex., said the man, apparently 55 to 60

Higher Interest Rates

Federal agencies have thrown a bombshell into the nation's financial world with sweeping changes in interest rates.

Because the changes affect both what the saver will get on money he deposits and the rate home buyers will pay on FHA and VA loans, many people will be directly affected. Indirectly everybody will be affected.

Banks are allowed to raise the interest on passbook savings and certificates of deposit. Passbook savings can draw 5 per cent as compared to the present 41/2 per cent. Rates on certificates of deposit were raised by from 1/4 to 3/4 per cent.

For the first time there is no limit on what banks can pay on $1,000 or more deposited for at least four years. There are estimates this might climb to 71/2 per cent.

Savings-and-loan associations can raise regular passbook accounts from 5 per cent up to 51/4 per cent. Certificates of deposit were raised generally by ½ per cent. Those reluctant to increase may experience a flight of savings.

The interest paid on savings should encourage savings. Substantial savings by the public could be an effective way of slowing down inflation.

For the individual saver, it's good. Nobody was ever hurt by putting something aside for a rainy day.

The American people are saving less than 7 per cent of income. In Japan the average person saves 20 per cent. Japan has financed much of its industrial development and world trade by birrowing from individual savings. Saving by the average person has been the backbone of Japanese

On the other side of the coin, the government raised the rate of interest it allows to be charged on FHA and VA loans. It is not believed by some this will have a very discouraging effect on home construction, but this is a belief better founded on hope than reality.

The over-all interest picture is not encouraging. Blue chip companies are paying 71/2 per cent and

But it is unrealistic to believe rates set by the government can be too far out of line with

NOT THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPER

After weeks of hesitation, I finally mustered up the courage to speak to an acquaintance of mine about God. I said: "Buddy. do you ever think about death, and having to give an account of your life to God?" He took me by surprise by saying: "No, I never give it a thought. Why should I worry about something I don't know anything about? I've got enough worries about things do know." I was speechless. How do I answer an argument like that?

Don't be discouraged in your witness for Christ. Jesus never commanded us to measure results, but rather to be faithful witnesses. Don't feel for a moment that your time and effort was lost. Probably, that man will long remember your words, although he seemed flippant at the

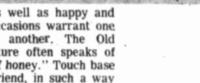

While the consideration of death and the after life may be the most powerful motivation in sensing our need of God, it certainly isn't the most popular. Our society, at least until very recently, went to great lengths to suppress and avoid the subject of death. Your friend's reaction is not surprising.

Constitutional crises come in the present turbulent time not singly but in pairs and it may soon be, as the weeks wear on, by the dozen.

The compromise on the bombing of Cambodia, which was agreed upon as the Chief Executive and the Congress teetered on the brink of a showdown, is likely soon to be followed by another confrontation. It is interesting, incidentally, that the compromise means, according to top decision-makers, that the Cambodian bombing will continue right up to the Aug. 15 deadline.

THE CONFRONTATION looming just ahead involves an issue charged with nearly as much emoti on as the bombing. It is the continued residence of 225,000 American troops in Germany, with another 100,000 scattered around the Continent.

Led by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, powerful forces in the Congress are bent on cutting this in half or even wiping it out entirely. Deputy Secretary of State Kenneth Rush is heading a list of Administration witnesses who will try to make the case that such unilateral action by the United States would undermine efforts to arrive at a balanced force reduction with the Soviet Union, shatter the North Atlantic Alliance and have other dire

RUSH ARGUES that bringing home the troops would mean a saving of at most $400 million. While the United States has around 300,000 troops committed to European security, the NATO powers in Europe have 3 million men in arms on active duty, according to Rush's figures

The Soviet Union would have no further interest in cutting back its in Eastern Europe Washington acts unilaterally. Mutual balanced force reduction - MBFR has the highest priority for Moscow. Short of eating mountain oysters at the Roundup after a Saturday night dance, stopping by the Hair Palace was the most entertaining diversion in Bee County, where I formerly reported.

BEE COUNTY is named for a Confederate colonel who never set foot in Texas but had an uncle who did. Biggest city and county seat of the South Texas county was Beeville, population 13,000 if you give the Census Bureau more credence than the Chamber of Commerce.

A number of barber shops called Beeville home, but most notorious of those male-only sanctuaries was the Hair Palace. You never knew what was going to happen at the Palace, which was run by Tulas and Lazerly, both about 30.

One thoughtful patron ran an advertisement offering $1 for every Christmas tree left at a certain address the day after Christmas. About 100 trees were piled by the Palace front door when Tulas, Lazerly and a photographer from the Beeville Bee-Picayune showed up the next morn-

The two hair stylists were scheming the day I got my first haircut there. Lazerly left for a drugstore across street where a fat, sixfoot pharmacist called Mogan work-

"HEY, MOGAN, you see that picture Tulas got of you," Lazerly asked. "Tulas aint got no picture of me," the druggist said.

"Yeah, he does," Lazerly said. "You're buck naked. Picture of you looking between your legs." "That can't be me," Mogan said, disturbed by the prospect. "Well, it might not be your body, but it's your face. Might be some of that trick photography," Lazerly suggested.

"That's what it is," Mogan gasped. "It's that trick photography." Like a mad bull, Mogan charged across the busy downtown street without looking either way. Tulas dropped his shears and locked a drawer just as Mogan threw open the Palace door.

"Gimme that picture," Mogan blurted.

"I don't have any picture," Tulas said. At this, Mogan pulled and yanked on the locked drawer until the wall shook. Frustrated, he grabbed Tulas'

electric shears. "I'm not going to give these back until I get that picture," Mogan threatened as he left. "That picture's worth a lot more than those scissors," Tulas called back, smug about a jeb well done.

He gave me a good haircut, too. Mac the chamber manager from Louisiana, never did forgive the barbers. He, among others, was gloating about a new industry which just broke ground in Beeville with golden spades when he stopped by for a trim one day.

LAZERLY ASKED if he could borrow one of the sacred shovels to spade up his garden. The idea made Mac mad. "You'll never get my spades," he growled. A couple of days later, the chief of police had a conference with the Palace pair and abscounded with the glided spades, himself. And a few weeks later, Tulas himself turned a little red when the first woman called about another bargain advertised in the "Bee-Pic." 'Hair Palace," he said, and the lady asked where his store was so she could stock up.

"What are you talking about?" Tulas wanted to know 'Why, the ad in the Bee-Pic," she

The Hard Line

WASHINGTON - President Nixon the Watergate scandal last week and personally shaped his hard-line refusal to appear before the Senate Watergate committee, sharpening conflict between him and many Republican politicians distraught over the President's deteriorating situation.

Sen. Howard Baker's suggestion of a dialogue is increasingly shared by Republican politicians, both around the country and in Congress, alarmed by the President's worsening political condition. But Mr. Nixon's active participation in the refusal to testify has cheered middle-level presidential staffers who have consistently advocated a hard line.

THE PRESIDENT'S letter was prompted by a request from Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina, Watergate committee chairman, for the papers of 35 past and present White House aides. When committee counsel Sam Dash then asked White House counsel Leonard Garment to immediately get papers of ex-aides H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson, Garment promised a quick

The President ordered that apers be refused. He expanded the refusal to embrace presidential testimony even though no formal request had been made by the committee.

THE ORIGINAL refusal was drafted in Washington but rewritten in San Clemente. The chief rewriter. Richard M. Nixon, imparting his special tone to the letter. "This is vintage Nixon," one high presidential assistant told us.

That overjoyed middle-level White House staffers who had been particularly enraged by John W. Dean's being permitted to rummage in his old files and feared those files next would be supplied to the Ervin committee as requested.

BUT THE President's letter dismayed Republican politicians who agree with Sen. Baker, a veteran Nixon loyalist. Just before the President's letter was released. Baker spelled out his views to chief White House lobbyist William Timmons and listed three possible ways for a Nixoncommittee "conversation": (1) written questions, answers and further questions: (2) interrogation (not under oath) at the White House; (3) interrogation (not under oath) on neutral ground. Whatever the arrangement, Baker urged some such dialogue.

WEDDING GIFTS-Becky Laughter opens another wedding gift for her and her fiance, returned POW Capt. James Ray of Conroe. They'll be married Saturday, and Becky feels she'll have an opportunity "to make up for some of the bad things he has gone through."

Ex-POW Wins Bride With Nice TV Smile

By JOHN LUMPKIN

SAN ANTONIO. Tex. (AP) - Becky Laughter's interest in former POW James Ray dates from the time his wide smile flashed screen as he came home from Vietnam. Afterward, she began their courtship barefooted.

Then, he proposed marriage in a place called Loveland, Colo.

She is aware of the problems that have cropped up in many POW marriages, but she is resolute as she prepares to wed "Jim" Ray, a bachelor who spent about one-fifth of his life in a Vietnamese prison camp "I just feel like I have an opportunity to make up for some of the bad things that he's had to go through and I'm looking forward to that," says Becky, 26.

The marriage of Becky the only daughter of a retired Air Force colonel from Houston, and Jim, an Air Force captain, takes place Saturday. Former POWs will make a traditional canopy of swords outside the military chapel here where the services will to get married. We hit it off right away.

Besides both being Air Force officers and from the same part of Texas, they are both Southern Baptists. and religious faiths as two of their highest ideals.

Becky recalls seeing Ray, of Conroe, Tex., for the first time in the televised return of the initial contingent of POWs released by Hanoi. "He made this victory sign on each side of his head and he had such a nice . Probably a lot smile of people remember him for the genuine smile that he had," Becky says.

She mentioned to several senior officers at dinner how she noticed Jim but I didn't make a big deal or anything." Nevertheless, word filtered across town to another air base where Ray was assigned after his

He arranged to see Becky within two weeks.

"I had a date already for that evening so we made sort of a Coke date," Becky "He supposed to be there at six and he showed up 15 minutes early.

"I was not ready so I had to make a choice of either lipstick or shoes. I went to the door barefooted."

Her first impression? "I always laugh about this because everybody seems to have the same reaction. I thought he needed a hug. I've had so many people say the same thing since then about him," Becky says.

In subsequent meetings, justed to freedom, to her surprise, because "as you know, they had everyone expecting the POWs to be other than adjusted to American life, let's say, maybe not accepting the changes, as well as some ,, person alat y other problems.

"I told Jim one time, 'We're making all these public appearances and here I am getting corsages and sitting at the head table and all this stuff."

"I said, 'Jim, it doesn't seem right, I didn't suffer with your family while you were gone. I didn't have all this to go through and why should I be getting all this? It doesn't seem right.

Ray's reply, according to Becky, was: "Becky, it's not that at all. You're sharing in our happiness. However, she was concerned at first about her own motivations. Everyone in the country, they were opening their hearts to these guys which I think is only right.

I was a little concerned that maybe that's what I was doing," she says. She has this rationale about the high divorce rate among POWs who had been married when they were captured:

"I feel as though they have enough problems without adding the problem of a bad marriage and even though I don't really approve of divorce as such, if that's going to be another burden for them, then I think they're better off to start fresh and build a new life for themselves now that they've just come back. I don't blame the husbands or the wives."
