11 HOSTAGES HELD BY RIOTING INMATES RELEASED UNHARMED

New Violence At Oklahoma Prison

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Violence erupted again Saturday night at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary as a group of inmates roamed through the prison hurling firebombs into cell blocks, authorities said.

The roof of the rotunda in the administration building was on fire along with the interior of a previously burned-out building.

50 INJURED
As many as a thousand of the prisoners had rioted Friday, burning 12 buildings. That violence left two dead and 50 injured. But authorities said earlier Saturday that the inmates had returned to their cells.

One of the guards said Saturday night that the new outbreak was by some inmates apparently looking for other inmates whom they considered informers. Those inmates had been placed in protective custody.

National Guardsmen and prison guards were attempting to quell the group while fire-fighting units battled the blazes.

Officials in the governor's office said "We knew there was still problems in the institution. We knew it would not be under control until there was an opportunity to search the inmates in cell blocks."

HANDLE IT
The spokesman said, "We've indicated all along that the prison would not be the easiest place to live for awhile."

"There are plenty of National Guardsmen and Highway Patrol troopers on the scene and I'm sure they can handle it."

Earlier, top state officials, including Gov. David Hall, met with a nine-member inmate committee after the rioting had ended and 11 hostages had been released.

"We have had an exchange," said Hall at a news conference after the meeting with the nine-member inmate committee.

"We're informed now as to what the consensus of the inmates is."

Hall said a new channel of communication between the prison administration and the inmates will be implemented immediately. He said one of the causes of the riot apparently stemmed from the inmates not being aware of recent policy changes.

RUSHED OUT
Hall would not elaborate on the improved communication plans.

When the hostages were released, they rushed out of the prison gate and were met by relatives.

"They showed the highest respect for us," said Deputy Warden Sam Johnston, the last hostage released. "They conducted themselves very well."

SCARED
Asked whether he had been scared, Johnston said, "I'd be lying if I said I wasn't scared."

The riot — the worst in the 70-year-old prison's history — began Friday afternoon when several inmates attacked two guards. Several hundred of the rebellious inmates surrendered early Saturday and eight of the original 19 hostages were released.

Officials said no concessions had been made. Hall had refused to meet with the inmates until the hostages were released.

Hardy said no more than 850 of the prison's 1,750 inmates had taken part in the trouble.

DRAMATIZATION — Demonstrators dramatize the fatal shooting of 12-year-old Santos Rodriguez by a Dallas policeman last Tuesday. The parade in downtown Dallas Saturday ended in a window-smashing motorcycle-burning melee. The Mexican American parade started with speeches at the Dallas City Hall.

France Fires Nuclear Blast

WELLINGTON (AP) — France exploded a small, low-yield nuclear device Sunday above Mururoa atoll in the South Pacific. New Zealand defense headquarters reported.

It was the second in the 1973 French atmospheric test series and followed the first by a week.

Observers on the bridge of the New Zealand frigate Canterbury said they saw no flash or fireball as is usual in nuclear explosions. But they did report seeing a huge cloud billow above the atoll a few minutes after the blast. Capt. Derek Cheney of the Canterbury said the blast produced a cloud "more like a question mark than the usual mushroom shape."

The ship was 20 miles away when the bomb was detonated at 7:03 p.m. EDT Saturday. Officials on board said the balloon from which the device was suspended was clearly visible above the atoll, 800 miles southeast of Tahiti.

A French military plane flew through the towering cloud soon after the blast, apparently testing the level of radioactivity, Cheney said. The Canterbury, sent into the danger zone by the New Zealand government to protest the tests, reported a few hours before the explosion that an 18-knot wind was blowing across Mururoa in conditions believed to be marginal for a nuclear test. A defense spokesman in Wellington said the test was carried out after three countdowns were aborted.

POSSIBLE

Slight chance of rain today (30 per cent) and Monday. High today and Monday mid 80s. Low tonight, upper 60s.

BAITING, LOOTING Marchers Protesting Gun Death

DALLAS (AP) — A memorial march by about 1,200 persons for a slain Mexican-American boy turned into a rock-throwing, police-baiting melee here Saturday when about 250 of the marchers partially looted the downtown area.

No one was seriously hurt, although six policemen were hospitalized. Most sustained injuries from a barrage of broken bottles, rocks and other missiles hurled at them as they stood in front of city hall.

Police later said 38 persons had been arrested. The crowd was made up of Mexican-Americans, blacks and whites.

LAD HANDCUFFED
The outbreak occurred during a planned memorial march for Santos Rodriguez, 12, shot to death last Tuesday as he sat handcuffed in a Dallas police patrol car. A patrolman, Darrell Cain, 30, was indicted on a murder charge and is jailed under $50,000 bond.

By 6 p.m., about four hours after the violence began, the downtown area was quiet, although off-duty policemen and extra highway patrolmen were standing by in the area.

The Dallas City Council met in emergency session after the incident and issued a statement saying it gave full support to the police, but that it "joins with all Dallas citizens in understanding the outrage and sorrow of the Mexican-American community."

OPPORTUNISTS
The council said the violence was caused by "a small group of opportunists."

Some Mexican-American community leaders later said leadership of the march had broken down, allowing agitators to excite the once-peaceful marchers.

The incident evolved from a noon assembly by about 2,000 persons at the John F. Kennedy Memorial Plaza, about 10 blocks from city hall in the downtown area.

The group then went to city hall for more speeches and started to return to the plaza. On the way back, a second group of 500 marchers were encountered.

"At that time, there were from 500 to 700 marchers who were too late to join the many who had already been to city hall," said Joe Acosta, a community leader. He said that was when "things started falling apart."

Astronauts Move Into Skylab Space Station

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Three astronauts on the longest space adventure ever attempted began turning on lights and moving into the Skylab space station Saturday to conduct a 59-day quest for new knowledge about man, his planet and the universe.

"We're coming along real well," said Skylab 2 Commander Alan L. Bean as he and astronauts Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma began awakening the complex orbiting laboratory from a month-long sleep in space.

LIGHTS ON
The men of Skylab 2 had been launched smoothly aboard their Apollo command ship and then guided the spacecraft through a series of rocket maneuvers to a successful docking with the space station.

Lousma was the first to move into the Skylab, which has orbited unmanned and powered down since the end of the 28-day Skylab 1 mission last month.

Bean reported Garriott was connecting power cables between the command ship and the space lab, but Lousma was out of sight.

"He must be down in the workshop somewhere," said Bean of Lousma. "I can see all the lights are on down there."

SHORT IN FAN
Lousma reported from deep within the space station: "Everything's going smoothly."

Senators Vote Whacks In Campaign Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted further cuts Saturday in the amounts candidates can spend in federal elections despite objections that the amendments would protect incumbent office-holders.

The Senate also agreed to vote Monday on final passage of the full campaign reform bill, spawned by the Watergate scandals and a growing desire to put a ceiling on massive political spending.

Adoption of two amendments had the effect of lowering by nearly 50 per cent a proposed limit on the amount that 1976 presidential candidates will be able to spend.

10 CENTS
First, by a vote of 70 to 11,

He did report that a screen over an air circulation system had picked up a great deal of debris while the space station was unmanned.

Lousma also said that an electrical circuit controlling a fan failed to stay on, indicating a possible short in a fan motor. Mission control said there was a spare fan motor on board and this presented no real problem.

Garriott was delighted with the ease of working in weightlessness inside Skylab.

"You find out real quick that you don't need much energy to move across the workshop," he said.

The astronauts will spend the next two days moving into the Skylab, the largest spacecraft ever orbited. They must turn on the air conditioning system, reactivate plumbing and transfer equipment from the command ship.

Just How Far Can A President Go?

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the Watergate case, the question of President Nixon's guilt or innocence has been eclipsed by the question of his power.

Last week he defied subpoenas for documents and tape recordings sought as evidence. A two-pronged court battle began that will almost certainly end in the Supreme Court. The White House said it would abide by a "definitive" ruling.

Meanwhile, former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman claimed the President had the constitutional right to commit burglary, and possibly even murder, in defense of national security. He sparked a debate that overshadowed his four days of denials before the Senate Watergate committee.

MORE GRILLING

Ehrlichman returns this week for more grilling by the committee. Following him will be former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, who has prepared a four-hour opening statement defending himself against charges of complicity in the Watergate cover-up.

The committee plans to go into federal court this week to present its reasons why Nixon should be ordered to comply with the panel's subpoenas. U.S. Dist. Court Judge John J. Sirica, who tried the Watergate burglars, has set Aug. 7 as the date when Nixon's lawyers must present their reasons for not honoring a separate but similar subpoena from special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The Supreme Court, in two recent decisions, has ruled that members of Congress and newsmen must supply evidence sought by a grand jury. Nixon claims, in essence, that a president doesn't have to give evidence to a grand jury or a congressional investigating committee, even when criminal matters are under investigation.

CONFIDENTIAL

For justification, the President cited the doctrine of separation of powers, which is implied, but not explicitly stated, in the Constitution. Said Nixon, "presidential documents must be kept confidential."

BED TIME

Bean, Garriott and Lousma, who started their long day at 1:55 a.m. EDT Saturday, were scheduled to quit work and begin their first sleep in space about 11 p.m. EDT.

Skylab 2's crew flawlessly maneuvered their spacecraft to a rendezvous with the house-sized, 85-ton orbiting laboratory in an orbit 271 miles above the earth.

The docking came while they were out of radio contact, but minutes later Bean announced: "okay, Houston. We're docked. That went real well."

Before docking, the astronauts guided the command ship to within yards of the 100-foot long space station and beamed television views to earth.

The result is that presidential candidates in 1976 would be limited to about $29.5 million in the primaries and general election. The limit was about $50 million in the bill approved by the Rules Committee and $70 million in the earlier version by the Commerce Committee.

NEW LIMIT

The new limit is just above the $25 million to $28 million spent in 1972 by Democratic nominee George McGovern, though far less than the estimated $50 million to $55 million spent by President Nixon's campaign.

The Senate also lowered from $100,000 to $25,000 a proposed limit on the amount one person could give in one year to all federal election campaigns.

Reviewing the ... Big Spring Week ... with Joe Pickle

The long-awaited formal confirmation that Hospital Corporation of America will build a 150-bed hospital here came Friday. The facility promises to be the largest single building project since the VA Hospital construction nearly a quarter of a century ago, and it promises to touch off other developments that will represent about $10 million. HCA acquired Medical Center Memorial Hospital, but the original name of Malone and Hogan will grace the new facility. For Dr. P. W. Malone (who with Dr. J. E. Hogan, launched the hospital nearly two score years ago) the announcement was most timely — 44 years to the day he came to Big Spring.

There is one thing our area can produce more than any place else — near-misses on good rains. There were several excellent chances, and one did result in an inch or more in spotted sectors, with one strip from eastern Howard through a strip just below Colorado City, getting rains up to 3.75 inches. Lake E. V. Spence caught a small amount of water. Meanwhile, crops here continue at a critical stage where a rain could make the difference between a fair and outstanding crop.

600,000 Rock Fans

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — As many as 600,000 young persons sprawled elbow-to-elbow over a 90-acre hillside Saturday for a rock music concert rivaling the proportions of the famed Woodstock festival.

A brief but heavy thundershower drenched the crowd and turned dirt paths into mud Saturday evening, but the music continued.

The mammoth crowd tried to squeeze within view of the outdoor stage, but at least a third of the mass had to settle for spots out of sight and almost out of hearing of the performers. Some persons were a half mile away from the stage.

A professional out-of-town photographer got too close to the action for a picture at the 28th Annual Howard County Junior Rodeo Saturday night.

A big black dehorned bull wouldn't even buck the young boy patiently holding his hand up as if they were a statue. Then, a mounted official popped the bull with his whip.

After a couple of jumps, the boy was on the ground. The bull bounded toward the photographer who apparently decided the bull was harmless and stood his ground by a gate.

His camera went two directions, and he got a stomach full of bull face and sand.

A little later, Dub Bryant, announcer, revealed the photographer was headed for Fort Stockton.

These first place winners had been announced at press time Saturday:

Calf roping, 13-15 years of age youths — Kirby Bingham, Hobbs, N.M., 11.7; calf roping, 16-19 — Clabe Pearson, Eunice, N.M., 11.8; barrel racing, 12 and under — Jamie Hataway, Snyder, 18.81; barrel racing, 13-15 — Lisa Voss, Snyder, 18.51; and barrel racing, 16-19 — Jackie Bob Riggs, Sanderson, 18.03.

Also, girls' breakaway roping, 13-15 — Fawna Lee Abel, Hobbs, N.M., 5.5; breakaway roping, 16-19 — Crill Pearson, Eunice, N.M., 4.3; ribbon roping, 12 and under — Barry Tubbs, Snyder, 17.8; ribbon roping, 13-15 — Jessie Doss, Big Spring, 11.8; ribbon roping, 16-19 — Tommy Smith, Hobbs, N.M., 9.1; and bareback bronc riding, James Ward, Odessa.

THE WEEK

Some say we lost our last, best hope for rain now that the junior rodeo is over.

There were indications at a pre-hearing last week that HEW may narrow its attack on Big Spring scholastics distribution to Bauer and Lakeview, dropping Runnels Junior High from the suit. The heat's on the two north-side elementary schools, however.

Residents in the Silverheels area, hard hit by dog poisoners, are now deeply disturbed over the use of snare traps, which frequently choke victims to death. Several pits in that area have been snared recently and left to die.

The United Way has adopted a $17,140 goal for the up-coming campaign, and J. D. Nelson, campaign chairman, has announced his division heads. The kickoff is Sept. 6, and Nelson is working to have it all buttoned up by Nov. 11.

It came near being a shrimp sale on a massive scale last week on the IS 20 railroad overpass three miles west of here. A shrimp truck hit an abutment Tuesday night and vaulted over two lanes of traffic and overturned. Next morning, a pickup was hit at the same spot from the rear by an oncoming truck, plummeting the pickup off the overpass and piling the large truck on the bridge.

City commissioners adopted an emergency reading an ordinance permitting the towing away of vehicles left parked more than 48 hours on public property (namely streets). Little time was lost in hauling off part of the 75 vehicles which Police Chief Vance Chisum estimated are in violation. Most of these are wrecked specimen or abandoned cars.

The traditional summer Starlight Specials are upcoming in a week, starting with a Gospel sing, followed by Black and White night, an inter-cultural program; Fiesta (with Mexican food); Western music night; teen-age night; and band night.

Michale P. Adams, 3206 Auburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Adams, is among only 50 students at University of Texas, Austin, named a Cactus Goodfellow for 1973. The student yearbook honors each for exceptional leadership and interest in the university.

Figures from the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association disclose that oil and gas production returns $209 million per year for Howard and its six contiguous counties. Of this, $26 million is in royalty payments to landowners, etc., and $17 million in holes that turned out to be dry.

Speaking of revenues, a report from Social Security reflected a rather hefty monthly "payroll" of $559,000 to beneficiaries of SS payments.

Howard County Commissioners court now has under consideration a request for establishment of a family planning clinic. It would be funded by the federal (90 per cent) and state governments.

It's difficult to believe, but start of school here in this area is only three weeks away. Although it eliminated 11 teaching positions, the Big Spring system is still short 12 teachers. Coalton also is looking for teachers as is Sands, and possibly other districts.

Aug. 22 has been set as the date for auctioning off the old Col-Tex refinery at Colorado City. Residents there would like to see it operative, but since that's not in the books, they'd sooner see the area cleaned up.

Hospital Expected To Attract Allied Firms

By JOE PICKLE
The Hospital Corporation of America is banking on its new hospital facility here being the center for an unfolding, comprehensive health complex. This is why HCA acquired 149 acres in western Big Spring, said Dr. Tommy F. Frist, vice president of HCA and who headed plans here Friday for a 150-bed hospital with a service center capable of supporting the target of 350 beds.

This will, he predicted, attract allied institutions and businesses. Among the first will be Malone & Hogan Clinic, which plans to erect a new facility adjacent to the hospital and share laboratory and technical equipment.

Other things will follow, Dr. Frist predicted to a Chamber of Commerce membership luncheon at the Big Spring Country Club, and he alluded to a $10 million expenditure although the first phase may run $6 to $7.5 million.

"We have learned it is a mistake not to have room to grow," said Dr. Frist in explaining the size of the prospective health-medical center tract. The deal was sealed after the luncheon when Dr. Frist and Rich Anderson, president of the Malone & Hogan Hospital Foundation, signed an agreement in which HCA acquired the assets and liabilities of Medical Center Memorial Hospital. This will continue to operate until the new plant is completed then likely will be liquidated.

QUICK ACTION
Meanwhile, little time will be lost in starting the 18-month hospital construction. The ceremonial groundbreaking is set for 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the site below Scenic Mountain and FM 700 and south of the west extension of Eleventh Place. By the middle of August dirt should be moving as the contractor establishes grades, etc.

Joe M. Rodgers, Nashville, Tenn., builder of many of the new HCA facilities, is the contractor but will use a number of local sub-contractors. Bob Jones will be job superintendent. Plans, which represent a refinement of the experiences of HCA in building more than a dozen new hospitals, are virtually complete and much of the basic material is on order.

To maintain personal identity (like Scott and White, Mayo Bros., etc.), the hospital will bear the name of Malone and Hogan, the original name of Medical Center Memorial Hospital. There will be no organic connection between the HCA's hospital and the Malone and Hogan Clinic, however, for the latter is a private association.

Dr. Frist emphasized that the aim is to make this a full service community hospital, completely open staff so that any qualified physician may apply for privileges. He stressed some of the basic philosophies of HCA, which he said, centers around patient care.

GOOD TREATMENT
"The patient may not really know what kind of a job the physician does for him, but he does know if he gets good treatment, if the nurses are pleasant and efficient, if the food is tasty and good, if the room surroundings are pleasant and clean."

Colorado River Up After Rain

The Colorado River on the Spade Ranch was running 3 feet deep Saturday night following rain the area, O. H. Ivie, general manager of CRMW, reported.

Other reports from the CRMW included 1.4 inches at Lake J. B. Thomas and 1.5 inches north of Colorado City. Misting and sprinkling had left only a trace inside Garden City.

In Stanton, W. A. Ringener had gauged 3 of an inch about 6 p.m. Saturday. Lightning struck a Texas Electric Service Co. line cutting off power to some Midland customers of Cap Rock Electric Co-Op Inc.

Wendell Shive found an inch drenching a place four and one-half miles north of Coahoma. Inside city limits, he estimated half an inch dropped.

Moss Creek Lake lost their gauge to thieves, but a guess placed the count at .3 of an inch.

Rainfall touched the .1 of an inch level in a Forsan gauge, Mayor Curtis (Jack) Lamb reported.

"Just a little sprinkle" is what A. P. Stallings, who lives near Lomax, reported.

Clouds dumped 1.2 inches on the Wilson Ranch North Place 32 miles north of Big Spring.

Around 6:30 p.m., a "slow steady drizzle" was continuing to soak the Muleshoe Ranch northeast of Vealmoor. Already, 4 of an inch had fallen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, Knott, discovered less than 1 of an inch and only "little showers" in the area.

Approximately 3 of an inch drenched the ground near Ackery at the Leonard Coleman residence. An electrical and sand storm was witnessed.

His leg was broken above the hip. Alert Ambulance took the injured man to Medical Center Memorial Hospital. He was still in the hospital Saturday night.

Alateens Mull Woes

About 70 members of Alateen groups around Texas are gathering at the St. Mary's Catholic Church and the Settles Hotel this weekend for the first anniversary of the New Horizons Alateens of Big Spring.

Before the end of the convention, around 100 youths are expected from Dallas, Austin, San Antonio, Greenville, Midland, Odessa and Abilene. Active members of New Horizons totals around 20.

Alateens is an organization for the children with alcoholic parents, relatives or friends. It is associated with Alcoholics Anonymous.

Youths interested in joining the anonymous Alateens should call the Alcoholics Anonymous phone number listed in the phone director.

This weekend, members will be holding meetings to discuss their problems.

Auto Lures Local Crowd Fast Like

Herman Quint has a car that will go 175 miles per hour, but it's against the law, so he can't. He could sell it for $15,000, but he won't.

Quint, who is en route from California to Connecticut, stopped here at the Sands Motel. He is driving a 1955 300 SL Gull Wing Mercedes Benz, which he has owned for five years.

And there aren't many of those around anymore. There are only 300 left in the world, and a recent Reader's Digest article says their value will increase to $25,000.

It cost $8,000 when new back in 1955. There were originally 1,400 built during the years of 1954-1957. And only 300 are left around.

Of the first 1400 cars, 1000 of them were sold in California. Californians apparently took an immediate liking to the car, and then, too, the main outlets were in that state.

Quint is a member of the World Wide Club in San Diego. His trip to Connecticut will put another 12,000 miles on the car — "but miles don't frighten this car."

Owners of Mercedes-Benz cars make the claim that they have very few problems with upkeep. Of course, when something does break down, parts are scarce. Some parts are similar to other automobiles of the same era, while others are Mercedes-Benz.

Wherever Quint stops with his unusual vehicle, he quickly draws a crowd. The owners and other patrons at the Sands were quite excited over having a Mercedes-Benz on the parking lot.

Judge Caton Draws Cases Involving Area Juveniles

Ralph W. Caton, 118th District Court Judge, will assume responsibility for trying cases in juvenile court in Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties, effective Sept. 1, information from State Rep. Renal B. Rosson indicates.

New legislation includes this sentence: "A court may not be designated as juvenile court unless its judge is an attorney licensed to practice law in this state."

County Judges A. G. Mitchell, Carol Yater and D. W. Parker are not attorneys, and the job of handling juvenile cases falls to Judge Caton in all three counties of his district.

Judge Caton is not happy about the added work load. He noted the Texas Legislature also gave district judges jurisdiction over some contested probate matters this session. At the previous session, original jurisdiction over condemnation suits went to district courts.

Friday, Judge Caton received a copy of the state legislation concerning juvenile courts. And Ed Cherry, Howard County Juvenile Probation Officer, showed Judge Caton information from an order issued by Federal District Judge William Wayne Justice of East Texas.

Judge Caton said the federal court order dealt with due process requirements in hearing juvenile court cases.

Because of previously enacted special legislation concerning Howard County only, Judge Mitchell will continue to be chairman of the juvenile board, Judge Caton said. Representatives of the city, county and Big Spring school system serve on this board which handles administrative matters.

Judge Mitchell held 11 juvenile court hearings during 1972, a look through juvenile office reports shows. He said he held one or two weekly for the first six months of his term as county judge, but, after six months of handing down judgments, the number dropped to about one monthly.

Also, the county judge said he unofficially counseled juveniles with the probation officer.

Judge Caton said he will hold only official court hearings in juvenile cases.

Pact Signed After Years Of Planning, Frustration

Years of talking, planning, maneuvering, frustration and action are represented in the announcement here Friday of a multi-million dollar health-care complex for Big Spring.

For more than a quarter of a century there had been overtures for a major community hospital, but with four private hospitals tailored to the needs of as many groups of physicians, this never materialized.

Two of the hospitals were operated by non-profit foundations. One of these had been established in 1936 by Drs. P. W. Malone and John E. Hogan and operated privately until 1951 when the clinic was separated and the hospital turned over to a foundation.

NEED FOR BEDS
Five years ago, trustees of the foundation declaring they were convinced that there had to be a major modern hospital, engaged a community survey by a leading consultant. This showed a dire need for beds which would meet state standards (only 22 out of 189 in the four hospitals qualified). An application was made for a Hill-Burton (federal) grant of a million dollars, and this was approved in 1970.

At this point trustees petitioned for a new operating vehicle, the Howard County Hospital Authority, which was created by order of the commissioners court. The authority would have no taxing powers, but it would be free from ad valorem taxes. Promptly, this was challenged on the grounds that it would give MCMH an unfair advantage, but after a stormy session, this subsided.

However, it lay smoldering. After the authority engaged architects and got a commitment for revenue bonds to put with the Hill-Burton money (and $150,000 by physicians and the Moody Foundation) for launching the new project, validity of the authority was brought under legal challenge.

Meanwhile, the authority had acquired the remaining half block where the hospital was located, plus a full block to the north, and had a pledge from the city to close Eighth Street (which separated the two blocks) when the hospital was built.

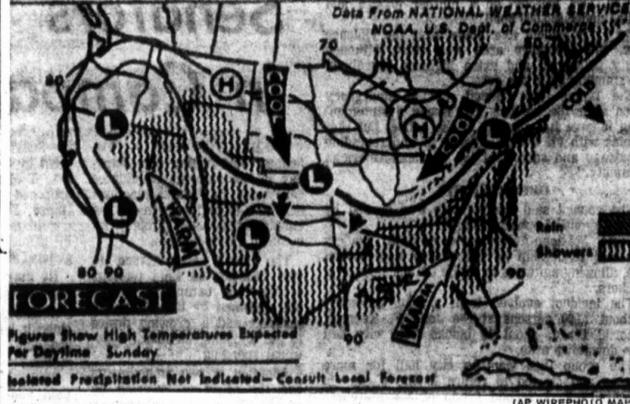

LEGAL HASSLES

The legal wrangle drug on for months. To clear the air, said the authority board, it petitioned the court to dissolve the authority and create a new one instead by meeting the disputed points in the first one. This was done, but promptly the new authority was challenged.

In a class action it was declared valid by the district court here, the appeals court in Eastland and the Texas Supreme Court. But by the time the issue had become almost moot, for time was running out on the Hill-Burton grant, costs were rising rapidly and the scope of the proposed new hospital appeared

TEXAS CROPS Cotton Fruiting, Looks Good In WT

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Dry weather has slowed crop growth in parts of Northwest and West Texas, Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

Summer heat also has shortened ranges on the plains and in many western counties, he said.

The state's cotton crop generally looks good although insect activity is increasing in southern and central areas, Hutchison said. Dryland areas of the high and rolling plains need rain to boost the crop.

Yields from early grain sorghum in South Texas are less than expected, but later plantings are expected to produce higher yields and grades, he said.

Early peanuts are being harvested in a few southern counties.

Vegetable harvesting is slowing and is confined primarily to the High Plains and North Texas, he said. Cantaloupes are being harvested in the Pecos area and watermelon supplies are increasing in East Texas.

District agricultural agents gave these reports:

South Plains: A general rain is needed for dryland crops. Early cotton is blooming. Irrigated grain sorghum and soybeans are making excellent progress. Harvesting of cucumbers and potatoes is active. Ranges are becoming shorter from lack of moisture.

Rolling Plains: Cotton generally looks good with older plantings blooming and some in the boll stage. Fleahoppers, boll weevils and bollworms are causing some damage. Early grain sorghum is heading and looks good. Guar planting is under way. Grasshoppers are damaging some ranges. Stock water is low in some counties.

North Central: Most crops are making good growth. Fleahoppers are damaging some cotton. Midge are active in some grain sorghum. Pecan prospects are only fair. Casebearers have caused heavy damage. Pastures are providing good grazing.

Far West: General rain is needed. Cotton is making excellent growth. Cantaloupe harvesting is in full swing in the Pecos area. Range grasses are short in most counties. Lamb marketing is increasing with the dry weather.

West Central: Cotton is fruiting and looks good. Home garden production also is good. Hay is abundant. Brown rot is lowering peach yields in Gillespie County. Insects and diseases have harmed pecan prospects. Rain is needed for pastures, ranges and stock water.

Southwest: Harvesting of melons, cantaloupes and onions is completed. Peanut harvesting will begin in Atascosa County in about a week. Preparations are under way for fall vegetable planting. Pastures and ranges are providing excellent grazing. Livestock are in top condition. Screwworm cases are increasing.

South: Grain sorghum harvesting is active with early yields lower than expected. Okra harvesting is in full swing along with hay and grass seed harvesting. Insect control and irrigation are active on citrus trees. Range and livestock conditions are good.

Construction Dip Posted In Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Construction authorized in Texas declined by 13 per cent from May to June, two University of Texas business researchers reported Saturday.

SCARCE MONEY
"In Texas, as in the nation, potential homeowners are discouraged from building or buying new homes by scarce money, high interest rates, and rising costs of labor, materials, land and taxes," said Mildred Anderson and Connie Koedige of the Bureau of Economic Research.

The June index of total construction was 166.9, the lowest level for that month in three years. For January through June of this year the index averaged 188, compared to 187.8 for the same period in 1972.

The estimated value of construction authorized in Texas in June totaled $278,151,000, a decline of $43,456,000 from May. The construction value for January-June is $1,869,944,000, a decline of $5,783,000 from the same period last year.

LAREDO LOGS
According to permits for new dwellings, 10 metropolitan areas registered declines during the first six months of this year and 15 showed increases. Decreases ranged from 51 per cent for Laredo to 2 per cent in Houston, and the increases ranged from 178 per cent for Abilene to 5 per cent for Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange.

Overall, residential construction declined by 19 per cent from May to June and nonresidential construction dropped by 11 per cent to the lowest June showed Austin's building dollars per capita totaled $492.99, followed by Houston $313.93, El Paso, $285.12, Dallas $186.59, San Antonio $186.17 and Fort Worth $165.18.

Kindergarten Students Will Register Aug. 6

Registration for all kindergarten students will begin Monday, Aug. 6 at 9 a.m. and last until 3:30 p.m.

Each student who is kindergarten age should register in the elementary school in the attendance area in which he resides. The parent registering the child is requested to bring a birth certificate with all students five years of age or before Sept. 1, 1973 eligible to attend.

Kindergarten will be operated on half day sessions with the morning session from 8:30-11:15 and the afternoon from 12:45-3:30 p.m.

Bauer and Lakeview kindergarten children attend Lakeview in the morning with Airport and Cedar Crest attending Lakeview in the afternoon.

Boydston, College Heights, Park Hill bus students and Gay Hill attend Kentwood in the morning and Park Hill intown, Washington, Kentwood and Moss attend Kentwood in the afternoon. Marcy will have a morning and afternoon session which will be divided according to age.

ELEMENTARY

Any new students in the Big Spring Schools, who either moved to Big Spring or moved to a new school district within Big Spring in grades 1-6 should register Friday, Aug. 10 between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. at their respective schools.

JUNIOR HIGH

All new students who have not attended the Big Spring Schools and who will be in junior high are urged to register at their respective junior high between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on August 1.

BIG SPENDERS VANISH Dollar Pinch Hitting Attractions Of Paris

PARIS (AP) — The French capital's hotels, restaurants and other tourist attractions are feeling the pinch of the devalued dollar. The free-spending American seems to have disappeared overnight.

"Fewer Americans are coming, and those that come tend to stay for shorter periods and spend less," the operator of one tour agency said.

"We get Americans in here now who sit down, take one look at the menu and walk out again," said the maitre d' of a luxury restaurant on the Champs Elysees. A plain grilled steak there costs about $9, and the dollar devaluation has meant fewer orders also for lobster and champagne.

Tourist agencies report a drop of 15 to 30 per cent in summer vacation traffic from the United States, while transatlantic charter airlines say the usual summer rush has slowed to a trickle.

There has been a substantial increase in the number of visitors from Japan and Germany, the two countries whose currencies have experienced the largest upward revaluation. But the manager of one tourist agency says the Germans and Japanese don't make up for the missing Americans.

Some hotels are trying to attract Americans by charging them at the predevaluation rate of exchange and absorbing the loss.

But the manager of one medium-price hotel charging $40 a night for a double room said he couldn't afford to cut prices—"Our overheads are going up all the time." Prices for the

DeMolays Offer Special Service

The Leon P. Moffett Chapter of the Order of DeMolay is now taking contracts for a flag display service they are offering, Phil Johnson, a member, said.

The organization will supply an American Flag and holder for 12 holidays a year, he said. The DeMolays will also put up and take down the flag.

The contract offers the service for a year for the 12 special days for $24, he said. More information can be obtained from the chapter adviser, E.A. Fiveash, at 267-5144.

Short Agenda

County Commissioners Court faces an unusually short agenda for the meeting beginning at 9 a.m. Monday. County Judge A.G. Mitchell's agenda shows only two items both of them routine.

Marvin Hanson, road administrator, will confer with the court as he does weekly and Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, is expected to present bills for approval.

TOWER CAN HARDLY MAKE ENDS MEET ON $42,500

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., says he can hardly make ends meet on his annual salary of $42,500.

"It is tough. It is hard. We are underpaid," he said during debate this week on a proposal to defer congressional salary increases.

But Tower said Congress should set an example of austerity by action "even though it will hurt us."

"It will hurt me, because I have three teen-age daughters, and they do not go to school free, and they do not get their clothes free. It costs me a great deal of money. I am delighted to spend every buck I can spend on them including a Neiman-Marcus charge account," he said.

Tower said, "We senators have to set an example for the rest of the people of this country and we have to do it by penalizing ourselves."

The proposal to delay pay raises for themselves narrowly passed by a vote of 49-43.

Tower voted for the delay and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., voted against the delay.

W. H. Kay Sues T&P Railway

William H. Kay, 67, has filed suit in 118th District Court for alleged damages resulting from his falling from a train engine. Texas & Pacific Railway Co. is cited as the defendant in the suit.

Kay, an engine fireman, alleges he fell from an engine, parts of which were icy, on Jan. 25.

Since the date of the accident, Kay claims to have been totally disabled. His petition mentions arm, shoulder and back injuries. Specified as the judgment sought is $60,000 plus court costs.

Judgment Is Finalized

FORSAN — An oil well pulling unit demolished a Forsan home and injured a mother and her son in March, 1970, resulting in a $25,000 judgment finalized this week in 118th District Court.

Jerry Franklin Price and his wife Fannie sued Forsan Roustabouts & Construction Inc., Cabot Corp., and Watson Truck & Supply Co. Inc. District Judge R. W. Caton now has accepted an agreed settlement.

In connection with the $25,000 settlement, the court judgment mentioned that the mortgage of the damaged home was subrogated for $4,984.65.

Included in the $25,000 were $8,325 in attorney's fees, $15,175 paid Mr. and Mrs. Price and Employers Liability Assurance Corp. Ltd. and $1,000 for Jerry Franklin Price Jr., the injured son.

The pulling unit rolled from a parked position at the business and into the defendant's home according to the plaintiff's original petition.

Regional Planners

Momentous Development

Signing of an agreement for the Hospital Corporation of America to acquire the assets and liabilities of Medical Center Memorial Hospital cleared the way Friday for the official announcement of plans by HCA to construct here a 150-bed hospital (designed for expansion to 350) beds as the core of a health services complex.

HCA also is negotiating to buy the physical facilities of the Malone and Hogan Clinic group, which means simply that a new clinic building will be built adjacent to the new hospital so that the two may operate on a shared — facility basis for laboratory and technical services.

There are other straws in the wind, which at this stage are conjectural but which will undoubtedly unfold. For instance, allied businesses such as pharmacus, handy housing, specialized therapy units, extended care facilities, (private practice offices,) etc. are all possibilities if not probabilities.

So when Dr. Tommy Frist, vice president of HCA and who made the announcement here, uses $10 million as an eventual developmental figure, he likely is quite conservative. No degree of imagination is required to assess the building and development impact immediately upon the community.

The larger implication, however, is that the two basic elements of good medical service are nailed down here for a generation, and longer. Modern facilities will be available for physicians to practice. These factors are both expandable because of resources and expertise of a vital national health care organizations such as HCA. This should make for continuity, if not perpetuity.

Existing medical facilities (with exception of Medical Center Memorial Hospital, which undoubtedly will be phased out with completion of the new hospital) will continue to fulfill their roles. These physicians and these hospitals have earned a loyal clientele. Perhaps a larger facility with specialized equipment and personnel, beyond the reach of the small hospital, will prove to be a convenient complement to these independent and long-established facilities.

Finally, it seems to us that the new hospital and the other things it will bring will give us a far deeper root in growth of our medical-health industry. A lot of other things may change, but people will continue to require medical service, and medical service will continue to be an evolving and increasingly complex one. Such a broad-based institution as HCA should be in an excellent position to stay abreast. And that will be good for us all.

Ugly Habit Of Eavesdropping

Disclosure of the White House tapings has focused public attention more sharply than ever before on a disturbing phenomenon of our time. This is the ease with which privacy can be destroyed by electronic surveillance.

The system for recording the President's telephone and face-to-face conversations was quite sophisticated. Some of the equipment was activated the moment anyone began to speak in this or that White House room and it was able to pick up remarks made barely above a whisper.

One must not suppose, however, that this is the last word in devices for listening in on what people say. There are gadgets now which make the White House system, as described before the Senate committee, seem quite elementary.

There has been talk about legislation to impose reasonable controls on the use of such means of surveillance, but little has come of it. Happily, the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, promises an inquiry into electronic eavesdropping by both government and private interests. There was a time when eavesdropping was considered crude; perhaps it will come to be illegal.

anywhere a TV camera shows up, people with signs show up too.

We've even had instances of raising funds to send groups somewhere to perform, and then raising a hubbub because television cut away to a commercial just at the time the people at home hoped to see them on the tube.

But they already know what they look like.

The thought for the day is from Bill Cosby: "If you stand still, you disappear."

GEORGE GRAFF, the author of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," died recently. He wrote more than 400 songs, but that was the most successful. It brought him about $10,000 a year in royalties.

He was 86, of Dutch and German descent, and had never been to Ireland.

That sounds like an item stolen from Paul Harvey, doesn't it?

The thought for the day is from Capsuled Comments:

"ACCORDING to Scientists, the average person blinks 25 times a minute and each blink takes one-fifth of a second.

"Therefore if you take a 10-hour automobile trip, averaging 40 miles per hour, you will drive 20 miles with your eyes closed."

Yeah, and that doesn't count the amount of time you look away from the road, into the rear view mirror, alongside at a passenger, and other little odds and ends.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

If our minister does tomorrow what he's been doing in recent sermons, we are going to be hit again by the sins of worldliness. He's out to make us pretty holy folk. I think he's going too far, however, when he calls a little innocent fun off limits. Why are you ministers always on the attack? D. L.

I'm glad that you didn't list specific things in your letter, because I don't want to have a conduct "countdown" in which we compare evaluations of worldliness.

The Bible, of course, deals in principles, although some matters of conduct are branded specifically as wrong. Worldliness, however, is not a list of prohibited activities. It is rather a spirit, an atmosphere, an attitude toward life. Jesus said, (Mark 12:30), "Love Him (God) with all your heart and soul and mind and strength." I like the definition that says anything you do contrary to that command is worldliness.

Dr. Griffith Thomas has said: "There are certain elements of daily life which are not sinful in themselves, but which have a tendency to lead to the sin of abuse. Measure is lawful, but unlawful in excess. Ambition is an essential, but it must be in proper proportion. Worldliness then, is an influence . . . permeating the whole of life . . . and needs to be guarded against constantly." If we ministers are on the "attack"

It's Tough—That Pinch On Meat

By STEPHEN H. MILLER

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Phase 4 rolled into its first full week this past week amid arguments that the lingering lid on beef prices was causing problems destined to grow worse.

"Our meat counter is cleaned out . . . We just don't have the products to put out," said a Dallas store supervisor as the week opened. Meat industry officials said his complaint would be heard more often if the beef price freeze is maintained.

As the week drew to a close, the Nixon administration warned the ceiling would be kept. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said there was "a tendency of crisis; certain people benefited from that."

LID TO STAY President Nixon lifted controls on all food prices except beef. Beef prices are to be frozen through Sept. 12.

Some of the loudest complaints came from about 100 meat industry representatives who met in Chicago and warned that the freeze could mean some of the wholesalers face a choice closing down for lack of meat or dealing with black market beef suppliers.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said the freeze could cause "some back-up" of cattle on feedlots awaiting sale, but did see some hope for later. "When the beef freeze thaws Sept. 12 there is likely to be a surge in cattle prices, but the expected selling off of backlogged animals and prospects of larger marketings will be a tempering influence."

PROFITS SOAR Second-quarter profits of American corporations were 29 per cent higher than those a year earlier, New York's First National City Bank said in one of its first major private soundings of the quarter's results.

Citicbank said it surveyed 926 companies. The Commerce Department reported the nation's trade deficit for June was only $15.5 million, seasonally adjusted, and $22.9 million for the second quarter, also adjusted. The second quarter marked the first period that exports exceeded imports since the first quarter of 1971. The American Automobile Association reported that gasoline supplies had improved for a third straight week. But there were new warnings from the oil industry. Chairman John E. Swearingin of Standard Oil of Indiana said continued increases in energy use would mean "widespread shortages and genuine hardships within two or three years."

Dr. James S. Cross, a Sun Oil economist, said the summer gas shortage had eliminated reserves the industry had built up to deal with the coming winter's heating oil needs and that an oil pinch might be in store when the weather changes.

The Week's Business

- Packers say cattle will stack up in feed lots pending thaw
- Ceiling won't be lifted 'til Sept. 12; supply may temper raise
- Second quarter profits zip up by 29 points; survey shows
- Trade deficit only $15 million for June; modest for quarter
- Gasoline shortage moderates for third consecutive week

Not Really Reform

William F. Buckley Jr.

Here and there, legislators are actually thinking in terms of reform: reform based on the lessons of Watergate. Senators Schweiker of Pennsylvania and Mondale of Minnesota have introduced a complicated bill the burden of which is to cut down the money any individual can put into a political campaign, and let "the federal government," which is a code word for the taxpayers, foot the bill on a matching funds basis.

THE SENATORS are off rhetorically to a very poor start. Sen. Mondale has said that the U.S. country must stop "putting our candidates up for sale to the highest bidders." This would suggest that Sen. Mondale commanded a higher price when he ran for the senate from Minnesota than his Republican opponent.

And Sen. Schweiker said that his bill would "insure that a future Watergate will not happen." This surely is grandly to miss the point of the Watergate that did happen. Never was so much corruption committed by so many in search of so little money. The critics of Mr. Nixon, however resourcefully they search for economic motivations, are desperately hard put. Mr. Clement Stone of Chicago has contributed so much money over the years to Republican causes that the wonder is he is not now serving simultaneously as Ambassador to England, Russia, France, Italy, and Terra del Fuego. But in fact he just stays there in Chicago, making money in the insurance business, and hasn't asked anybody for anything.

Distinterested political philanthropy is something that genuinely mystifies many Americans. Mr. Robert Abplanalp, not only a financial contributor but a close friend of the President, is absolutely untouched by scandal of any kind. All that money they talk about — $350,000 — that was skimmed off the funds of the Committee to Re-Elect the President, for the benefit of the Watergaters, can hardly be thought of as economic profiteering. The alleged agreement by which the families of the convicted burglars were to receive $1,000 a month while the breadwinner was in jail is hardly raffish. Most of the money obviously went to lawyers, and anybody who thinks that $350,000 is an implausible sum of money to pay lawyers of seven people is someone who is blissfully innocent of the cost of doing legal business.

IF SEN. SCHWEIKER wants to prevent future Watergates, the thing for him to keep his eye on is not the lucrative aspects of office, but the glamour of power. It is for the sake of power that the boys sat up at night, scheming to win the election.

My own sentiments are similar to John Mitchell's, that the alternative to Mr. Nixon's re-election was too horrible to contemplate. To suggest that cutting down allowable contributions to a political campaign will eliminate corruption deserves the scorn with which Dr. Wertheim dismissed the argument that the prohibition of couches would eliminate adultery.

BEYOND THAT, I would welcome a Joint Resolution to Deflate the Rhetoric of Sen. Ervin. When he said the other day that Watergate was the biggest thing in America since the Civil War — bigger, we are to understand, than the two world wars, the Depression, the Vietnam War, the assassination of Kennedy, the civil rights revolution.

He Has A 'Supper' Cough

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has a very annoying habit of cleaning his throat at the supper table while eating. What would cause a person to keep doing this? He is 45, his weight is good and he doesn't smoke.

He doesn't seem to realize he has this habit and I haven't let him know how nervewracking it has been to the rest of the family. Any suggestions? — Mrs. M.K.

First question is whether he does this other than at the table. If he does, then I certainly suggest examination by his doctor to see if some chronic irritation is the cause.

But if he does it only at the table, we can look for another explanation. The one that primarily comes to mind is the fact that some people have what is called an "active gag reflex." They sputter and choke when having the throat examined; they also gag when the dentist tries to work; some have this gagging occur as they try to brush their teeth. The back teeth, that is.

If that is his problem, this throat clearing may be a means of making swallowing easier for him. In that case, chewing his food more thoroughly and eating slowly should help.

Another possible, and not unusual, explanation is that the throat clearing is just a nervous habit which can be corrected with a little effort on his part — granting that habits are hard to break, but it can be done. Why not call it to his attention? Besides, if it annoys the family and if he does it elsewhere, it must annoy others at work or in any of his activities. For his own good he ought to do something about it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 11 years old and the nipples of my breasts go in instead of out. What is the cause and what is the cure? — N.N. P.S.: I'm scared.

Oh, let's not be scared. It would be important for me to know about your build and weight, but somewhat depressed nipples are really quite common at your age.

In all possibility, as you mature and fill out, the nipples will become more prominent, so just wait a year or two or three.

There is no need of treatment of any kind now. If, in the years to come, the depression is a problem (as with breast feeding) a plastic surgeon can correct that.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," write to him in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope.

Deathless Phrases

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Long after Watergate is over, certain phrases repeated during the hearings will remain with us.

Already they are being used by Middle America to cover various situations.

THE OTHER day at exactly 2:30 a.m. Mintonburger staggered into the hallway of his house. His tie was askew, there was lipstick on his collar and there was a strong odor of alcohol on his breath.

Mrs. Mintonburger in her dressing gown was waiting for him. "Do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help you God?"

"Yessir."

"Where have you been?"

"I'm sorry. I didn't hear the question."

"I said where have you been?"

"TO THE best of my recollection I was at Reilly's Bar & Grill."

"Whom were you there with?"

"I don't have all my records with me, but I believe I was there with Sam Carlsberg, Ed Tuborg and Charlie Schlitz."

"What was discussed at the bar until 2:30 in the morning?"

"WHAT MEETING are we talking about now?"

"The one you just came from."

"You must remember, Senator . . . I mean, Dear . . . that we're talking about something that happened several hours ago, and although I'm trying to be as candid as possible, it is very difficult for me to remember everything that took place last night."

"ALL RIGHT." Mrs. Mintonburger said, going over some notes she was holding in her hand. "Let's go on to another subject. What's that lipstick doing on your collar?"

"I never heard of any lipstick on my collar."

"It's right there."

"I believe we have to put this in the proper context. I recall during the evening brushing past a lady who had been pushed into me by a man. Her lips hit me right on the collar."

Sally has completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, Tex., and will serve at Chanute AFB, at Renton, Ill., as Airman First Class.

Former 'Bunny' Becomes Airman

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Miss Davis says she joined the Air Force because of equal opportunity for women. After her graduation, she goes to Chanute AFB, Ill.

Sally Ann Davis, 21, of Vinita, Okla., says she likes the Air Force because, "I'm not a sex object here."

She says, "I like the service because men and women work together on an equal basis. I get respect from the men at Lackland, which is something I didn't get in my previous job."

At the age of 18, she became a bunny in the Lake Geneva Playboy Club. She characterizes her job at Playboy as being "a glorified waitress."

"My work in the Air Force has definitely been different from my experience as a waitress at Lake Geneva," she says. "I was treated as a sex symbol there but I blame working there on the fact that I was young and very impressionable."

She says her parents were opposed to her joining the Playboy organization and are not sure she made the right move by joining up with Uncle Sam.

The one thing she says she had had trouble getting accustomed to in her six weeks of basic training is waking up at 5 a.m. and going to bed at 8 p.m.

"It was a lot different than when I worked for the Playboy Club. There I rarely got off work until two in the morning," she says.

Of the Playboy stint, she says, "Nonetheless, I would not have missed that experience for the world. I met people from an aspect of society, Hollywood types, that I would never have met had I not been affiliated with the club."

Quiet Time

TEEN FORUM

NO VISITORS: (Q.) My stepfather sleeps from 6 p.m. to midnight and then goes to work. When my sister wants to have a friend over during that time my mother says, "O.K." When I want to have a friend over my mother says, "No."

I think this is unfair. What do you think? My sister is 16. I am 12. — Misreated Boy in Maryland.

(A.) Both you and your sister should respect your stepfather's need to sleep at these unusual hours.

I suspect that your mother thinks you and a friend your age would not be quiet enough. Ask her again and promise to be very quiet. If she says yes, keep your promise.

MEMORIES: (Q.) I went out with Ted for three months. I fell deeply in love with him, but he was very casual about me. This hurt me badly and we discontinued dating.

After that I met Bernie and we both have been very happy together. We have been going together now for six months, and plan to be married in the distant future.

One night Ted saw me out with Bernie. Ever since then he has been calling me and asking for another chance. I tell him it's no use and not to call me again, but he just doesn't get the picture.

This is endangering my future with Bernie. I still have some feelings for Ted, but I have learned to love Bernie now and wouldn't want to lose him over this. I am 19, Bernie is 21. Ted is 24. — One Too Many in New York.

(A.) You seem to be working at loving Bernie. Love is not something you have to work at. It is either there or it isn't.

Do not marry Bernie until you test those feelings you have left for Ted and know beyond a doubt that there is none of that deep love left in them. The reason I say this is that if you now feel only casually about Ted I do not believe you would bother to write me about him.

Pulp Crisis Clips Mexican Papers

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The world paper crisis is seriously affecting Mexican newspapers and magazines, which this month began receiving 15 per cent less paper in their regular allotments.

The reduction was imposed by the Productora e Importadora de Papel (PIPSA), the Mexican government newspaper agency which controls sales and distribution of paper.

The curtailment affected expansion plans of many newspapers and has forced others to edit their publications carefully, often excluding stories that are not hard news.

PIPSA's director, Carlos Bermudez Limon, said the reduction was necessary because of worldwide shortages of pulp, paper and cardboard.

Sen. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, chairman of the Senate Administration Committee, attributed the reduced expenses to employ cutbacks and savings in printing the Senate journal.

Crops Are Not All Cotton In Dawson

LAMESA — Although Dawson County is almost fence to fence solid in cotton crops, one school teacher is experimenting with vegetables.

Richard Davis, who is growing four acres of mixed vegetables on one of B. J. Peterson's farms, believes "there may come a time when diversification is needed."

Included in his "big garden" or "small field" are tomatoes, onions, peppers, okra, and other vegetables which can all be used at Lamesa's relish produce plant.

Davis became interested in growing food after he began to hear the discussion of possible food shortages, stating, "There may come a time when we need to know how to grow food around here."

The hard spring rains in May washed out his first plantings and he quickly learned the woes of truck farming.

"But I still think there is as good a potential for truck farming here as around Dimmitt and Hereford," Davis added.

Ripps Discovers Justice Delayed, Justice Denied

After 35 years, two trips to the Texas Supreme Court and one to the U.S. Supreme Court, a condemnation suit involving a local man has been settled.

Although the family won, court costs and attorney fees exceed the judgment amount.

In 1938, the Texas Highway Department began implementing a plan to improve the San Antonio to Corpus Christi road.

NO DOUGH

Among the property condemned was 13 acres for right of way and three more acres for an interchange. This real property belonged to the father of A. M. Ripps, Big Spring.

Bexar County Court awarded the Ripps Family $1,000 per acre for 13 acres and $2,000 per acre for the other three, because of a building and improvements.

But neither the THD nor county would pay. "It was just pass the buck from one to the other while I was holding the sack," Ripps, a retired railroad engineer, said.

"When Dad (Anton J.) died in 1941, we had to start all over again," Ripps, 88, said. "He was only 81 years old." "The City of San Antonio got into it by extending city limits," Ripps recalls. So Bexar County tried to get the city to pay the bill. The city tried to avoid payment through the statute of limitations.

Fifteen years ago, A. M. Ripps' son, James, complained: "Ah Dad, quit that case you aren't going to get nothing out of it."

VICTORY AT LAST

"By golly, if I live long enough, I will," the veteran railroader replied.

On June 19, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the family be paid, and the state paid. Out of the estate, $15,000 had been spent to fight the county, city and state. Also, A. M. and his brothers, George F., 84, and August S., 74, recovered $550 each, less than they personally contributed to the court battle.

Two sisters have died and other funds went to their descendants.

"But I won. That's the main thing. That's the satisfaction I got, me and my brothers," A. M. Ripps said. "Me and my brothers we out-lived it. That's all."

On the defendant's application, District Judge R. W. Caton Friday granted James Reed a new trial and then dismissed the indictment charging possession of marijuana.

Reed has not violated the terms of probation ordered in a jury trial in Sept., 1970, the defendant's application claims. The jury found Reed guilty and set his punishment at five years probation.

Old-Timer Overlaps Ruth, Aaron Home Run Eras

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — After more than a half century in baseball, George E. "Duffy" Lewis spends much of his time these days at the race track, but he has more than a passing interest in Hank Aaron's surge toward Babe Ruth's home run record.

Duffy, a spry 85, is the only player in history ever to have pinch-hit for the Mighty Babe. He's also undoubtedly the only man alive to have seen Ruth's first and last homers.

Lewis' wonderful memories don't stop there, though. Aaron got his first major league meal money, and pay check, from Duffy.

"That was a long, long time ago," Lewis recalled the other day after walking a short distance from his home to Rockingham Park, where he has a VIP box to watch racing virtually year-round. "Henry was a terrific hitter from the time he broke in, but who ever thought he'd catch Babe?"

Lewis, a native of San Francisco, was a member of one of baseball's greatest outfields, playing with Tris Speaker and Harry Hooper with the Boston Red Sox, when a young left-handed pitcher joined the club in 1914. The pitcher's name was George Herman Ruth.

"He didn't really do too much that first year with us, but there was no question that he could throw the ball well and could hit the ball a mile," Duffy said in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press.

Lewis played with the Red Sox from 1910 through 1917, spent one year in the Army and then two with the New York Yankees before winding up his career with one season in Washington.

"It didn't seem like anything big at the time, but over the years it became funnier and funnier, me pinch-hitting for the Babe," Lewis chuckled. "It was in 1914 and I was on the bench nursing a bad ankle. "Babe could hit the long ball, but struck out a lot at the time. Bill Carrigan, our manager, sent me up to pinch-hit, although I could barely run. I got a hit, too. I used to think that the hit won the game, but I was told a few years ago it didn't."

Lewis vividly recalls home runs Nos. 1 and 714 by the Sultan of Swat.

"The only trouble I've had in remembering the Babe's first was whether it was 1914 or 1915, but I'm told it was 1915," Duffy said. "It was against the Yankees, of all teams, and in New York, no less. He hit the homer against a side-arm throwing pitcher, Jack Warhop. It was a long belt, but good.

"Then I was with the old Boston Braves as a coach in 1935, a year before I became traveling secretary, when the Babe wound up his career. He hit three homers in one game at Pittsburgh, his last three. I saw him hit the first one that day, but was busy and missed the second. Then I was watching when he nailed the next one. Of course, we knew he was making baseball history."

Lewis, who remained with the Braves in Boston and then Milwaukee until his retirement at the age of 73 in 1961, was on hand when Aaron joined the club in spring training in 1954.

"I clearly remember one writer (I won't mention his name) saying that Henry would never make it, he couldn't hit enough," Duffy said. "Most of us, though, were convinced we were watching a future star. It took only a few months to convince that one writer, too."

Did Duffy actually witness Aaron's first major-league homer?

"I honestly don't know," he said. "I saw him hit homers in training in Florida and I must have been in the park the day he hit his first one for Milwaukee. Whether I saw it or not, I don't know. I might have been watching or I might have been busy doing something."

Lewis admits to mixed feelings as Hammerin' Hank charges toward 714.

"Henry always has been a very nice fellow and I'm happy for him, but I hate to see Ruth's records broken," Duffy said. "Of course, the Babe will never be forgotten and records are made to be broken. As long as the home run record is going to be broken, I'm glad it's being done by a person like Henry."

Aaron has done a great job for many years and deserves everything coming to him. He's been a credit to the game."

Blalock, Palmer Win Four-Ball

MASHPEE, Mass. (AP) — Veteran touring pros Jane Blalock and Sandra Palmer won the $30,000 Lady Angelo's LPGA Four-ball golf championship for the second consecutive year Saturday in a playoff with Jan Ferraris and Sally Little at New Seabury.

Miss Palmer sank a clutch five-foot putt for a birdie four on the first extra hole to enable her and Miss Blalock to split the top prize of $4,800.

Earlier in the day, Miss Blalock started the final round on the same hole with a birdie. That got the twosome going after they trailed the Ferraris-Little team by two strokes at the end of 36 holes.

Misses Blalock and Palmer combined for a sizzling six-under-par 66 for a 54-hole total of 206. Miss Blalock got a birdie on the 53rd hole, eventually forcing the playoff.

Misses Ferraris and Little earned birdies on four of the last five holes, finishing the final 18 holes with a 68 and a 206 total. They bowed to Miss Palmer's birdie in the playoff, settling for second money for $3,600.

Reed Sparks 49ers To Fame Game Win

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Quarterback Joe Reed, who appeared in only one National Football League game last season, led San Francisco to two second-quarter touchdowns Saturday and a 20-7 triumph over the New England Patriots in the Hall of Fame game.

The second-year man from Mississippi State passed for one touchdown and nimbly directed the veteran 49ers' attack against the young, error-prone Patriots.

The nationally televised victory, before a record Fawcett Stadium crowd of 19,685, gave the National Football Conference a 2-1 series edge over the American Football Conference.

Prior to the first 1973 pre-season game between NFL teams, Jim Parker, Joe Schmidt and Raymond Berry were inducted into the nearby Pro Football Hall of Fame.

New England made a game of it for the first quarter, trailing only 3-0 on the first of two field goals by Tom Wittum.

Then Reed took command in the second quarter, rifling a 29-yard scoring pass to Nick Witcher after Jimmy Thomas scored on a two-yard run for a 17-0 halftime lead.

Wittum booted field goals of 12 and 17 yards while the veteran 49ers defense never let the Patriots any closer than the San Francisco 49-yard line until the closing minutes.

The Patriots scored a consolation touchdown with less than two minutes to play when No. 2 quarterback Brian Dowling pitched a 31-yard pass to Tom Reynolds.

The setback ruined the pro coaching debut of Chuck Fairbanks, who built a national college powerhouse in six seasons at Oklahoma.

Earlier in the day, Berry, Parker and Schmidt all thanked God and their families for the paths that led them into the Hall of Fame.

Berry, Parker and Schmidt spoke firmly and slowly and did not waver during their acceptance speeches.

"I thank God who gave me the ability, mental and physical, to play this game," said Berry, eight times an All-Pro receiver with the Baltimore Colts.

Pro Sports-To-Business Tough Adjustment For Some Athletes

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've always believed that sports is a means to an end," says George Mikan, who starred in basketball for the Minneapolis Lakers. "When you retire and you're still in your 30s, why, you've got to keep on living."

To the average professional athlete, retirement is a matter of finding himself born again in a world unbounded by end zones or a short left field wall. It is being forced by age—an age which is considered young to non-athletes—into a world in which the average person has already lived for many years.

For most professional athletes, retirement means leaving behind something they have been doing since they were children—playing ball. There are only so many coaching jobs and only so many scouting positions. When they retire, most athletes must make the sometimes brutal transition into dealing with an ordinary world.

"I always thought of baseball as something different from going to work every day," says Bobby Thomson, who in 1951 hit the home run that won the National League pennant for the New York Giants. "When you start out as a youngster to do something you love, it doesn't seem like work.

"The thought of retirement scared me to death," Thomson continued. "It scared me to think I'd have to get up out of bed every morning and go to work."

"Retirement was a barrier I was afraid to think about," says former New York Yankee relief pitcher Ryne Duren, who claims his ego was so busy searching for the big headline that his ability to think critically about the future never was able to function.

"Baseball is an unrealistic world in many ways," adds Duren. "There's a lot of emphasis on the man whose system is the pursuit of the ego. And it's awfully hard to get that ego's attention when you're riding high. That's why for a while after I left baseball, I hated that man on the mound. I hated him for the feelings he had."

Although Duren said his problems with his family, his insecurity and a drinking problem were present while he was playing, the process of getting out of baseball and having to adjust to a normal life speeded up the process which would put him in a Texas hospital four months after retirement because of alcoholism.

"Baseball was part of my identity—my link with respectability," said Duren, now an alcoholic rehabilitation counselor at the Stoughton Community Hospital in Wisconsin. "When I left, the only thing I had left to pursue was anesthetizing my brain with alcohol."

Other athletes professed the pre-retirement years were full of doubts brought on by injury and a failure to achieve their former starting roles.

"In the eighth or ninth year, you never know whether you're going to be started or whether you're going to be traded," said former Los Angeles Rams running back Jon Arnett. "Pro football doesn't give you a great deal of security."

Ed Sharockman, a former cornerback for the Minnesota Vikings, who retired after last season, described the injury which forced him to the bench as "the lever I needed to make the decision to retire."

The trade and the possibilities that exist in athletics of constant moving are, according to Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, reasons why ballplayers find difficulties in setting up jobs during the off-season.

But for the business-oriented athlete, the chances to establish an off-season occupation were taken early. Arnett worked as a stockbroker during his off-seasons, while Mikan, one of pro basketball's all-time great players with the Lakers, studied for his law degree and set up a practice.

"It gave me a chance to see the real world while I was still a player," said Arnett. "A lot of players weren't prepared for the fact they weren't going to make $40,000 after they retired."

This fear of falling income is a real one. Sharockman said that even in his first year out of football, his speaking engagements dropped from about 20 to one.

For the athlete, the money also stops coming because he no longer has the exposure needed to advertise himself.

"In sports there is a tendency to fall into the false illusion that people are going to give you something for nothing," Arnett said.

Weiskopf Streaks To Canadian Lead

MONTREAL (AP) — Tom Weiskopf, still on the incredible string that won him the British Open championship, swept into the third-round lead in the $135,000 Canadian Golf Championship Saturday with a four-under-par 68.

Weiskopf, winner of four titles in his last seven starts, stalked past youthful Forrest Fezler with 208 total, eight under par on the wet-and-wind-blown 6,905-yard Richelieu Valley Golf Club course.

Fezler, a 23-year-old tour sophomore who twice has blown 54-hole leads this year, fell back to second with a 71 and 209, just one stroke back.

He turned a backward somersault on the 18th green as his long birdie putt—the one that would have tied it—refused to obey his body english, curled around the lip of the cup and stayed out.

Bobby Mitchell also had a 71—including another fat seven—and followed with a 210 total. Jim Ferriell was tied at 211 with Chuck Courtney. Each had a 70. John Schlee was next with a 71—212.

Hubert Green, who shared the second-round lead with Fezler, fell back in the pack with a fat 76 for 214. Lee Trevino, in contention through two rounds of this national championship, also took a 76 and was nine strokes behind at 217.

Arnold Palmer had a 70 and 215 total.

Western Wins To Crenshaw

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Medalist Ben Crenshaw shot a 3-under-par 69 to win his first match and sank an 18-foot putt for the second in Saturday's quarter-finals of the 71st Western Amateur Golf Championship.

He took the first round, 1-up, from University of Florida's Gary Koch and birdied the 17th hole in the second to defeat Canadian Graham Cook, 2-1.

Crenshaw, who will debut on the professional tour next month in the USI Classic at Sutton, Mass., had to rally to win his two matches. He was down three strokes at the end of 10 holes against Koch who was runner-up to Crenshaw last month in the NCAA Championship.

Bill Rogers, 21-year-old Texarkana, Tex., eliminated Danny Edwards of Oklahoma State, 1-up, and will meet Crenshaw in one semifinal today while Jimmy Ellis plays 30-year-old Bruce Hollowell of Springfield in the other.

Cowboys Still Strong: Landry

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry said Saturday the former World Champions are not in a rebuilding year even though they've lost eight starters off last year's team.

"Our front line will be very strong," Landry said in a state-of-the-Cowboys message from the Thousand Oaks, Calif., training camp. "Injuries are the key. We don't have the experienced depth we've had the past two or three years, and we need to develop some young backup people. Our front line strength won't be behind anybody."

Landry also hinted the Cowboys aren't through making trades.

"We've given up anything that will help us win this year," he said. Landry said the Cowboy offense looks good.

"At this point there are no question marks in our offense," he said. "We have quality athletes in almost every position. I'm betting on some young backup people to establish themselves during the pre-season."

Cards Help Cubs' Slide

CHICAGO (AP) — Bernie Carbo lashed out three hits and drove in three runs Saturday to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-2 victory over the skidding Chicago Cubs in a nationally televised baseball game.

The triumph boosted the first-place Cardinals into a 2½-game lead over the Cubs in the National League's East Division. The Cubs have lost 12 of their last 14 games.

Six of the Cardinals' 13 hits were doubles, including two base hits by Lou Brock and Tim McCarver in a three-run first inning against loser Ferguson Jenkins, 9-9. McCarver had two of the doubles, while Carbo, Ted Simmons and Jose Cruz had one each. Reggie Cleveland, though needing help in the seventh from Al Hrabosky, picked up his 11th victory in 16 decisions.

stopped Pittsburgh on five hits Saturday and the Phillies ended a three-game losing streak by beating the Pirates 5-0.

Twitchell, 3-3, worked out of a first-inning jam and got excellent support afield, especially in the sixth inning when Greg Luzinski made two sensational catches in left field on drives by Willie Stargell and Richie Hebner.

The Phillies broke through loser Jim Rooker, 4-3, in the fifth when rookie Craig Robinson singled, was sacrificed to second by Terry Harmon and came home on Terry Harmon's double. Luzinski walked and scored in the sixth on singles by Bill Robinson, Jose Pagan and Bob Boone.

The Phillies added a run in the eighth against John Lamb when Luzinski tripled and scored when catcher Manny Sanguillen dropped the throw from shortstop Dal Maxvill following Boone's grounder. They picked up their final two runs in the ninth on singles by Del Unser and Terry Harmon, a sacrifice fly by Willie Montanez, a wild pitch and Luzinski's single.

'David Franchise' Going Strong

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — 25,000 fans in Arlington Stadium.

The man in his mid 50s with the golden locks and the expanding waist line patted the curly-haired 18-year-old on the hand and said "good going, David."

"Thanks sir, will you be following the team to California?" the lad answered.

"Believe me, I won't miss it," smiled owner Bob Short, like a rich uncle at his favorite nephew.

The above scene transpired Thursday night after young David Clyde pitched his first seven shutout innings of major league baseball before some Young David has received critical acclaim at every stop on the American League tour he's pitched—Milwaukee and Boston.

Ranger Manager Whitey Herzog continues to be amazed at the poise of the lad.

"We had a 5-0 lead against California and David had two men on base," said Herzog. "It was a three and one count on Mike Epstein and David kept shaking the catcher's signal off."

I went out and asked him what the problem was. He said 'sir, I want to throw a curve ball. I think they (the Angels) would respect me if I did it in that situation.'"

There's not much of a night life, but I don't mind."

This year's crop of Texas A&M football players may not even be old enough to understand the Aggie jokes. Of 103 on the roster going into fall practice, there are nine seniors, 21 juniors, 39 sophomores and 34 freshmen. And of the 17 lettermen returning, one is a senior, six are juniors and 10 are sophomores.

A&M may be the only major school in the country without a freshman or junior varsity team this fall. Everyone will be on the varsity. "If we were any younger we'd be illegal," says coach Emory Bellard.

The annual Texas High School Coaches Association clinic gets under way this week in Dallas, and several Big Spring coaches will be among the thousands in attendance.

Head coach Bob Burris may use the time to find a varsity replacement for Tommy Jackson, who accepted the head coaching job at Electra last week, or he may have already done it while vacationing in Oklahoma. (Go to Oklahoma for a vacation? Geez. Anyway, he'll have the company of Bob Glover, Ron Freeman, Larry Horton, Tom Adams, David Verner, Tommy Moss, Glenn Petty, Rex Scofield, James Griffin, Sonny Monroe, Ron Plumlee, Bobby Zellers and Ben Neel.

The clinic opens Monday and finishes with the North-South All-Star football game Thursday. A couple of 5-AAAA players, David Shipman of Odessa Permian and James Roller of Midland Lee, were named to the North squad, but that's about as close as they got to Big Spring.

Major league attendance figures can be very revealing. And thought-provoking. For instance, when the Washington Senators were suffering through a dismal year at the gate in 1971, drawing a fourth-worst in the majors 410,772 (through July 10 games), little did owner Bob Short know that the worst was yet to come.

Through the same number of games in 1973 in Arlington Stadium under the alias of the Texas Rangers, Short's charges have lured 397,219 through the turnstiles — and that's a pretty good drop for a guy who thought there was no way to go but up. The next figures released should have a little happier tone, however. In fact, there is talk of dividing the time in Arlington on either side of June 27 as BDC and ADC (Before and After David Clyde.)

In the days before the 18-year old lefthander arrived on the scene, the Rangers were averaging around 10,000 (I didn't believe it either, but that's what the figures said) a game. And in each of his four appearances since his storied arrival, he's drawn over 25,000, and it's actually averaged close to 30,000.

Folks seem to have forgotten that the Rangers are 20 games out of first place in the American League West, which really indicates the power this kid has. He could be the Chris Evert of baseball if he works this right . . .

And incidentally, the National League All-Stars proved their customers right by trouncing the AL 7-1 Tuesday night. Through 481 games the NL has drawn 15,364,259 fans, compared to the AL, with 7,016,126 in 474 games. Now that's what I call preferential treatment . . .

Thomas Topped By Ira Fisherman

Fishermen at Lake J. B. Thomas are finding good bass fishing, and Ralph Lindsay, Ira is a case in point. His string included 3 1/2, 5, 4 and 3 1/2-lb. specimens, complemented by a 3-lb. channel cat.

There was a good mixture of bass, channel cat, white bass and crappie at the Lake. The same picture held good at Lake E. V. Spence where channel catfish figured prominently in the catches.

Lake Thomas reports also included Ed Shuler, Snyder, 45 channel cat to 2 lb.; Don and Kellie Brown, Big Spring, 21 white bass to 3 1/2 lb., nine crappie to 1 1/2 lb.; Leonard Koenig, Ira, 22 channel cat to 2 1/2 lb.; Forest Beavers, Snyder, 30 white bass to 2 1/2 lb.; Chick Hale, Ira, 10 black bass to 5 lb.; I. J. Scrivner, Ira, 18 channel cat to 2 lb.; Harvey Schrimmer, Big Spring, five channel cat to 2 lb.; C. T. North, Lamesa, 15 channel cat to 2 lb.; Raymond Wilson, Meadow, 15 crappie to 1 1/2 lb.

COUNT'S BAIT — C. J. Brent and Billy Brown, Big Spring, hooked a 10-lb. yellow cat, a 6 1/2-lb. blue cat, and 32 channel cat up to 2 1/2 lb.; Paul Dawson and George Lane, Odessa, caught 12 crappie up to 10 lb., four channel cat to 1 1/2 lb., and a 2-lb. white bass; Mitchell McKee, Odessa, boated 10 black bass, the largest 3 1/2 lb.; Mr. and Mrs. K. Boucher, Lubbock, had a 5-lb. blue cat, 10 crappie to 2 lb., eight channel cat to 2 lb., and four blacks to 3 lb.; and Bob N. Casparis, Midland, had a 4 lb. black bass.

Y. J.'s MARINA — Pat Darnaby, Odessa, reported 10 black bass to 3 lb., Don Wiley, Odessa, had three blacks to 4 1/2 lb.; and Stu Recknagel, Midland had five blacks up to 3 1/2 lb.

EDITH'S STORE — Dale Whisnat, Odessa, six white bass to 2 lb., R. G. Phillips, Robert Lee, had four blacks to 3 1/2 lb.; O. H. Gibbs, Hobbs, N.M., had a 2-lb. black and a 2-lb. white bass; Bill Blocker, Hobbs, N.M. caught five channel cat to 3 lb.

McGinley's Station — H. G. Arnold, San Angelo, 20-lb. yellow cat, Frank and Ruby Bostick and Jack and Sue Trammel, Post, 32 channel cat to 4 lb.; Linda Cojburn, Lubbock, 2 1/2-lb. black; James Forsan, Slaton, 4 1/2-lb. channel cat.

SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By JERRY METCALF
Here's an interesting point to think about . . . When ever a father — or anyone — teaches a youngster how to hit a baseball, they always say to put your hands together on the bat. . . . Yes, did you know that two of the greatest hitters in the history of baseball used a different way of hitting? . . . Both Ty Cobb and Honus Wagner batted with their hands separated on the bat. . . . They each had one hand spaced apart a few inches from the other on the handle of the bat. . . . Isn't it strange that no one tries to bat that way today? . . . Cobb had the highest lifetime batting average of all time, .367 and Wagner's was .329.

And speaking of odd batting positions, one of the strangest belonged to Al Simmons who played in the majors for 29 years between 1924 and 1944. . . . He always stepped away from the plate with his left, or front, foot while hitting, or, as it's known in baseball slang, he "stepped in the bucket". . . . If any batter does that today, he's instructed not to be able to hit that way. . . . Yet, Simmons who did it all his career is in the Hall of Fame, and wound up with a lifetime batting average of .334!

NMJC Inks Papa To Cage Squad
HOBBS, N.M. — Dale Caton, head basketball coach at New Mexico Junior College, has announced that John Papa of El Paso Coronado High School will be joining the Thunderbird cage squad next season.

Papa, 6-4, averaged 14 points a game as a senior.

OUT OF SEASON, BUT . . . — Ron Plumlee gathers some young cagers for a brief bit of instruction Friday during an afternoon session at the HCJC Camp of Champs basketball clinic. Plumlee, Big Spring High School coach, was one of 14 instructors helping in the week-long clinic, which drew 65 youngsters from across the state. HCJC coach Harold Wilder was the clinic director.

CAROLYN ROAN

Nucleus Of Rodeo Team At HCJC Taking Shape

The nucleus of rodeo team, the latest competitive sport at Howard County Junior College, is taking shape.

Four scholarship awards have been announced by Byron Hedges, who will sponsor the team. He is receiving applications from other prospective contestants at his office in the vocational-technical agriculture section. He has seven or eight additional scholarships, and of course the team is open to non-scholarship students.

Carolyn Roan, Big Spring, who finished fourth in the American Junior Rodeo Association barrel racing in 1971-72, was the first to sign. This year she is standing second in the 16-19 division of AJRA barrels. Carolyn was the 1972 champion in the 16-19 class for the West Texas Junior Rodeo Association and she currently is fourth in these standings.

Wyatt Overton, Big Spring calf roper, is another team member. He was the 1971 chute dogging champion for WTJRA, and in 1972 was fourth in the WTJRA dogging, ribbon roping and team roping. Currently he is standing second in ribbon roping with the WTJRA, fourth in tie-down roping, second in dogging and is leading the pack for the all-around title.

Rawleigh McCullough, Big Spring bull rider, holds membership in the AJRA, has a Rodeo Cowboy Association permit, and also ropes as an amateur. For the last six years he has qualified for his division in the AJRA finals, and stands fourth in AJRA bull riding competition now. In 1971 he received the George Paul Memorial award for the highest score in the AJRA finals. Like Carolyn, he is a director of AJRA.

Billy Braswell, Lamesa bull rider, is another who is due to be on the team, transferring from Snyder where he was a member of the regional champion Western Texas College rodeo team. He also is a member of the AJRA, has a RCA permit and ropes in amateur rodeos. Recently he won at O'Donnell, was second at Floydada and placed in Seagraves, Snyder and other places.

Hedges, who was reared at San Angelo, was a member of the rodeo team at Texas A&M for two years, winning the team title in calf roping in 1968. Until recently he was on the staff of the field station here with the Texas A&M range department and recently joined the HCJC faculty as coordinator for vocational-technical agriculture.

'Creative Sewing'

By JO BRIGHT

Borne on the winds of fashion, the soft sound of sewing machines has swept across the land — leaving in its wake millions of well-dressed women who have created their own wardrobes.

Sewing, as a homemaking art, had its beginning as mothers taught their daughters the basic fundamentals of "a stitch in time." Later, sewing courses were offered in public school curriculums, and retailers who sold sewing machines included free instruction with the purchase of a machine. The latter practice has generally been abandoned, and aspiring seamstresses are often unable to find someone who will teach them to sew.

This need is being filled, locally, by the homemaking summer adult program offered at Big Spring High School.

This year, basic sewing, advanced sewing and tailoring were offered at the same time. In order to reach more women in the community, the two-week course was made available during the day and at night, too. No charge was made for the instruction, and sewing machines were provided, but participants furnished other needed equipment, fabric, pattern and notions.

Instructors were Mrs. Sue Willbanks and Miss Caren Chaney. Before actual sewing began, the women were taught how to take body measurements and how to choose patterns that were flattering to the wearer and suitable for the occasion. They saw demonstrations on altering patterns to individual needs, such as adjusting darts, shortening or lengthening waistline and increasing or decreasing inches in other areas.

Next, came the pattern layout and cutting, concentrating on knits and the rapid methods or short cuts in working with these fabrics. Then came pattern marking, making darts, applying interfacing and learning to do a padding stitch with a machine rather than by hand.

"There are always several methods of doing something in sewing," said Mrs. Willbanks, "and we teach women to choose what is best suited to the fabric. Also, we want them to learn the easier, time-saving methods of construction." The new ways include little or no pinning or hand basting, less use of hem tape and simpler installation of zippers.

In this year's course, which ended Friday, it was pretty much individualized instruction, for the women had free choice of garment to construct and set their own working pace. Some were beginners, and others were experts, but all learned more about sewing — and added something pretty to their wardrobe.

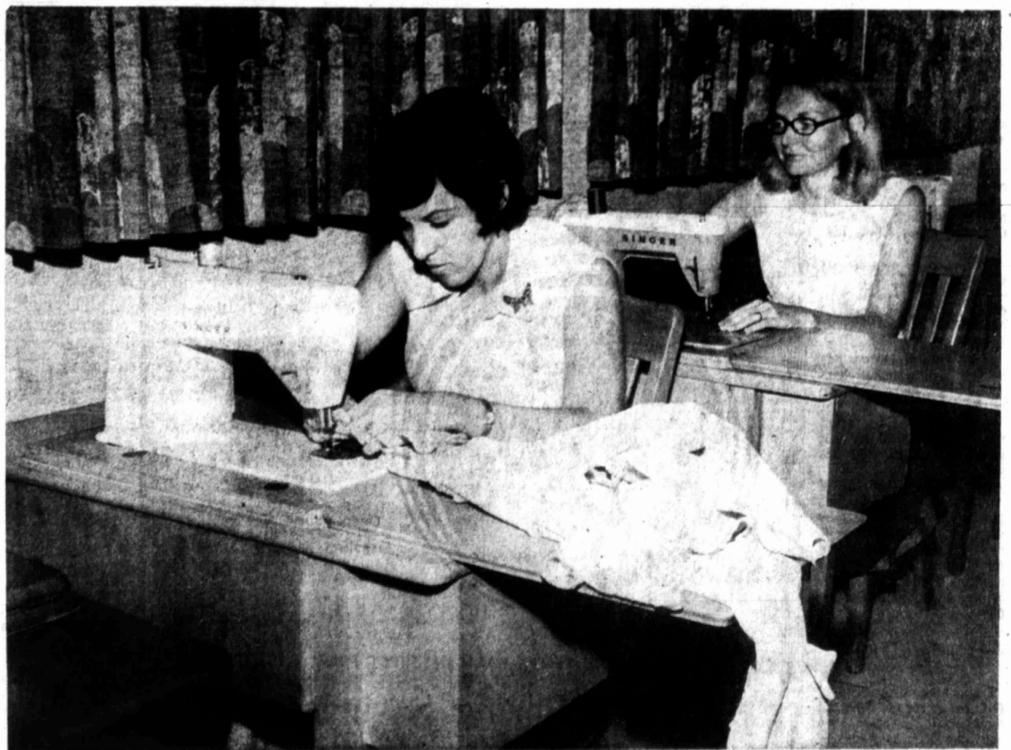

GETTING IT ON TAPE is Miss Caren Chaney, sewing instructor, who assists Mrs. Jewell Wheeler in checking final measurements for her garment. The dress was constructed by Mrs. Wheeler during the past week's sewing sessions.

PICKING A PATTERN offers a choice of endless variety in current women's fashions. However, practically all patterns must be adjusted to the individual figure.

Mrs. Sue Willbanks, instructor, points out new styles to Mrs. Fred Haller, left, Mrs. Grady McCrary and Mrs. Victor Kyrlyuk.

A FINE SEAM is sewn by Mrs. Claude Newland, left, as she completes a pantsuit, and Mrs. Larry Denning who works on a suede cloth jacket. The suede fabric must be handled in the same manner as real leather for it does not "heal itself" of punctures from pins and needles.

Casually Yours

By JO BRIGHT

Dr. Maple Avery is one of the most gracious men I've ever known. Years ago, while making a pastoral call, he unsuspectingly tried to cross my newly-planted lawn. Too late to warn him, I watched, horrified, as his white shoes sank slowly into the mud. After a moment of surprised silence, he laughed — and charmed away my distress.

At that time, he was pastor of East Fourth Baptist Church, but in the ensuing years, left the ministry to become an ophthalmologist in Houston. Dr. and Mrs. Avery, close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lyndell Ashley, were their houseguests here last week to attend the wedding of the Ashley's daughter, Terriann and Billy Ben Fishback.

The families have kept in touch by sharing occasional holidays on the Prio River. Had a good visit with Mrs. Roy Reeder Saturday morning. She returned Friday from Madison, Conn. where she visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cataldo. Joining them was her granddaughter, Julie Cataldo, who teaches in Hawthorne, N.Y. Mrs. Reeder made a brief stop at Moodus, Conn., to say 'hi' to her grandson, Tony Cataldo, who was in camp, then returned to Lubbock to overnight with her sister, Mrs. Ina Richardson, before coming home.

Stermy and Nancy Thompson went to Amarillo Wednesday to pick up their daughter-in-law, Jane, and 6-month-old grandchild so they could show the baby off here. Jody Thompson has been on active duty but was to arrive here today or Monday to join his family.

The Woner Robinsons must be pretty excited about having company, cause Woner didn't show up with our eggs Friday. Their son, the Rev. Darrell Robinson of Vernon, was to arrive today with his family for a week's stay while he speaks nightly at Salem Baptist Church. In August, the family will move to Pasadena, Texas, where he will pastor First Baptist Church. Their son, Duane, 18, won't be here. He's planning to enter the ministry and is working at the Baptist encampment near Wichita Falls. (Regardless, Woner, the office staff needs their eggs!)

Denverites Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Denning and son, Kenneth Michael, and their mother, Mrs. Lulu York of Eads, Colo., have been seeing Big Spring for the first time as guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larry J. Denning. Think a barbecue was planned in their honor.

The Jerry Manells left Friday for a mountain cabin vacation in Lake City, Colo., planning nothing more strenuous than horseback riding and fishing. They won't be able to stand it for more than a week, so hold the business till then.

Jim and Margaret Baum, who are always good for a giggle, have some hilarious stories about their vacation at Leaky. They finally got flooded out, so finished the time off at Fort Davis.

Understand there was an open bar and lots of lucious food at that recent promotion party for Col. Stanley M. Umstead and Lt. Col. Roy Ginder. Stanley's been selected for general, but not yet pinned, and Roy will become a full colonel. Deadline. Call me?

WEDDING RITES — Miss Jeanine Audrey Cozad and Phillip Darrell Gressett were married July 19 in Hwy. 80 Church of Christ with J. B. Harrington officiating. She is the daughter of Mrs. Barbara L. Cozad, College Station. Gressett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Gressett, 1002 Baylor, served in the Army and is now employed at the Veterans Administration Hospital. The bride is a junior at Big Spring High School. The couple reside at 1516-A Wood.

Brownfield Couple Announces Wedding

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Claudia Lynn Massingill and Walter Lee Mason, both of Brownfield, at 7:30 p.m., July 21 in the First United Presbyterian Church, Brownfield.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Massingill, formerly of Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Mason, all of Brownfield. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Hazel McCormick, Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Massingill, Vealmoor.

The Rev. A. J. Franks performed the rites. Pyramid candelabra flanked an altar centered with a large arrangement of summer flowers in shades of lavender and yellow.

Traditional music was by Mrs. Jack Brooks, organist, and Wayne Allen Dubose, vocalist.

Attending the bride were Miss Deby Wilburn, Lubbock, maid of honor, and Miss Kimberlee May, Lubbock and Miss Debra Barr, bridesmaids.

Serving as best man was Bobby Renfro, and groomsmen were Gary Burnett, Lubbock, and Bennett Jordan, Brownfield. Ushers were the bride's brother, Mark Massingill, and Wayne Sanders.

Marcia Jo Mason was flower girl, and Neely McCormick was ring bearer. Altar tapers were lighted by Lisa Goldston and Chandra Goldston, both of Fort Worth.

The bride wore a formal-length gown fashioned in silk organza with accents of Brussels lace and pearls. The molded Victorian bodice featured a sheer oval yoke edged in crystal pleated rucking and lace scallops, with a high duchess neckline. The A-line skirt was highlighted at the waist with a satin sash, and the chapel-length train repeated the lace and ruffles. She wore a matching lace picture hat and carried a colonial bouquet of assorted flowers.

Following a trip to Durango, Colo., the couple will reside in Irving. Mrs. Mason attended Texas Tech and plans to attend the University of Texas at Arlington in the fall. Currently, she is employed by a well company. The bridegroom also attended TT, and is now a student at Southwestern Medical School, Dallas.

A reception honored the newlyweds in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony. Serving were Miss Karen Morgan, Miss Carol Cleaney, Lubbock; Mrs. Terry Isaacs, Levelland; Miss Judy McCormick, Big Spring; and Miss Brenda Haggard.

Out-of-town guests, in addition to the bride's grandparents, were Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCormick, Big Spring.

Good Values In Men's Hosiery

The biggest fashion-dollar value in a man's wardrobe today is probably hosiery. Although the retail price of socks has remained fairly stable over the past decade, there has been a marked improvement in both wearability and appearance.

Stretch yarns have made it easy for a man to get a good, comfortable fit. Man-made fibers such as nylon and acrylic have increased the wear-life so that only a very finicky consumer could ever say socks don't last long enough.

Halters Are Tops

Halter tops are easy to sew and the many beautiful print fabrics make it possible to sew a whole summer's worth on one pattern.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I grieved when the pretty sound of jingling, tinkling charm bracelets was heard no more.

For awhile, I persisted in wearing mine, but to clink and clank all by oneself becomes embarrassing, you know.

Now comes this new fashion of wearing gold ornaments on a chain around the neck — the larger, the smarter (the ornament, not neck!).

So out comes my charm bracelet again. I leave the bracelet unfastened, with the ends dangling. It is caught by a link midway through its length by the clasp of the necklace.

Anyone following my example must be prepared for such admiring comment — and many imitators. Mrs. F. Flood pattern across the white line, you have the new embroidered look.

Dear Heloise:

Tell those who wear glasses for reading and other close work, but don't need them for housework, to please wear them in the kitchen and just see what they've been missing.

Also, before putting on that favorite, everyday dark costume, take it to the light and look at it with the glasses — chances are you'll send it to the cleaners instead.

That goes for the stronger sex, too, with their favorite black dinner jacket. . . . A reader

So right, my pet! My spotless kitchen turns into the proverbial dust bin when I don my glasses! . . . Love, Heloise

Child Learns From Creative Experience

Young children are on discovery missions — and parents have a role in the excitement.

"Children are naturally curious and involved in discovering the world around them," a family life education specialist noted this week.

Most young children learn through "creative and awareness" experiences, Jane Fleischer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, explained.

"It's necessary that parents recognize this. Parental attitude toward a child's interest establishes the atmosphere for future creativity and curiosity. In their role of encouraging the child to maintain and expand sensitivity, creativity and environment awareness, parents can provide helpful experiences. Best experiences for the preschooler are those most common and familiar — those practiced and reinforced every day. The simpler and more direct the experience, the better."

Miss Fleischer cited sense-of-smell experiences as an example. "Things to smell are always available — what does the grass smell like when it's just been cut? Do an onion and potato smell alike? Can you tell what food you're eating by its odor? How does the house smell when mother cooks dinner?"

"As the child gets the opportunity to identify and explain each question, he's more aware of senses often taken for granted, and he's encouraged to talk about them and increase his language skill. A child realizes his ability to use language meaningfully, and he enjoys the adult-child sharing of a creative and awareness experience.

"Encouragement, explanation, patience and awareness from adults can make already-exciting experiences more worthwhile and meaningful to the child — perhaps both will learn something of sensitivity as they become aware of the environment together."

Short Hair Is Great For Hats

Short natural hairdos for women are causing happiness in that factories across the land. The hat business, off in recent years, expects a 20 per cent increase in units sold this year.

The Millinery Institute of America says a dent was put in the hat business by wigs and teased hairdos — neither of which are meant for hats. That's why the cheering over the popularity of the short, natural hairdos.

Embroidery Tip

When embroidering facial features on stuffed dolls and toys made at home, use only one or two strands of cotton in needle so that features will keep their shape.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I had a date with a very handsome and charming fellow nearly three years ago. We seemed to hit it off, but he never called me again and that was that.

A month ago he called me out of the blue and the first thing he asked was, "Are you married yet?" I kiddingly said, "No, I'm still waiting for you!" He asked me for a date that very night. I accepted.

Well, we had a marvelous time. We danced and laughed and talked and just hated to say goodnight. Before we parted he asked if he could see me the next night. In fact, he dated me up for every night that week. Abby, I was in heaven! I never knew two people could fall in love so fast.

I saw each other every night for nearly three weeks, and then came the bombshell! He told me he loved me and would ask me to marry him, but he had leukemia and his time was running out. At first I thought he was giving me a line, but then he showed me all the books and medical journals he had collected on the subject, and he invited me to talk to his doctor. I did, and the doctor said he had maybe another year of health. He wasn't sure. He didn't know.

I have fallen deeply in love with this young man, Abby and want to make the rest of his life as happy as possible, but am I being fair to myself? Should I break it off now? Please help me. I am 25 and he is 29. I can't even tell my mother.

BROKENHEARTED DEAR BROKENHEARTED: Knowing that your days are numbered (aren't everybody's?) makes every day more precious. You would be less than fair to yourself were you to break it off now, if indeed you could, which I doubt. In enriching his life, you will enrich your own. Pray for a miracle, and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both 21. We've been married for nearly two years and we have one child. He joined the service out of fear of being drafted and now he's in Germany.

My question: Why do men (even married men) tell me I shouldn't think my husband is sitting in the barracks every night just thinking of me? They say he is only human and he is out for everything he can get over there. They say all the guys in the service cheat on their wives.

Abby, this upsets me terribly. Some of these men don't even know my husband so how can they pass judgment on him that way? TRUE BLUE WIFE DEAR WIFE: They can't. They are trying to suggest that if you want to cheat on your husband, you would be justified. Don't believe them. There are plenty of "true blue" men in the service, and your husband could be one of them.

DEAR ABBY: I did something terrible and I can't sleep nights. I wish I were a Catholic so I could go to confession.

I work in a department store which gives a discount to employees for items they purchase for themselves.

I have a relative who wanted a dress for her daughter's wedding, so I told her to come to the store, pick out a dress, and I would say I was buying it for her as a birthday gift, and I would get the discount. Then she could pay me what it cost.

She came in and picked out a dress, but when my boss rang up the sale he looked at me kind of funny, like he knew I was lying. I am not a very good liar because I don't lie often, and I am so embarrassed now because I am sure he wasn't fooled.

I'm afraid he will tell the other clerks about it, and I just hate to go to work and face them. Please tell me how to get this off my conscience.

GUILTY DEAR GUILTY: Tell your boss you'd like to return the amount of the discount. It won't be necessary to explain further. Then you'll both feel better.

CONFIDENTIAL T.O.: Interested in your thoughts on the matter? I'm glad you asked. To borrow a quote from Frank Vanderlip in The Forbes Scrapbook of Thoughts on the Business of

William E. Colters Leave For Bahamas

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Colter are on a trip to the Bahamas following their marriage at 8 p.m., Saturday in the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church.

Upon returning, the newlyweds will reside in Independence, Mo., where both are students at Central Missouri State University.

The bride is the former Nancy A. Martinez, daughter of Mrs. Frances V. Martinez, Walsenburg, Colo. and Colter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Colter, Mountain View, Mo. They first met in Big Spring while Colter was assigned at Webb Air Force Base, and the bride was living with her sister, Mrs. James R. Petty.

The Rev. Louis Moeller performed the nuptial rites at an altar lighted by candelabra and accented with baskets of white gladioli. A prelude of traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Leslie Green, organist.

The bride's gown was fashioned in white silk knit with long fitted inset sleeves and a softly-draped neckline and bodice. The princess lines extended to a flowing formal-length skirt. Her Camelot cap was of Chantilly lace with seed pearl trim, and held a lace-edged illusion veil which flowed to a cathedral train. She carried a cascade arrangement of aqua carnations, babies'-breath and daisy pompons.

Mrs. Petty, serving her sister as matron of honor, wore a floor-length gown of floral aqua chiffon with a scooped neckline and butterfly sleeves. Her bouquet was a nosegay of white daisies, cornflowers and pompon chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom's brother-in-law, Robert Reid of Independence, Mo., was best man, and ushers were John Price Petty and Mark Shedy. Ring and Bible bearers were Joe William Petty.

Mrs. Colter graduated from St. Mary's High School, Walsenburg, Colo., and from Howard County Junior College. She is currently a junior at CMSU, majoring in foreign languages. Colter graduated from high school in

"Sleep" Diet Is Best For Some

Scientists are closing in on some of the basic reasons why some people constantly have problems of overweight.

Too often, says the July Reader's Digest, diets simply don't work with such people. What does work is a new concept based on something called behavior therapy.

It owns that eating too much is behavior that you learn, and that the way to control your weight is to unlearn such behavior. For example, excess fatigue can become an eating cue for some people.

In these cases, taking a nap instead of a nibble may be a far more effective preventive measure than trying to refrain from eating through use of "will power."

A reception honored the couple in the Dora Roberts Community Center. Refreshments were served from a table covered with an aqua satin cloth overlaid with white tulle. A silver braced candelabra holding blue tapers and an arrangement of summer flowers centered the table.

The tiered cake was topped with doves and roses, and decorated with a silver wedding cross. Servers were Miss Jamie Lee Petty, Miss Hedy Danford, Miss Kamel Bunch, Miss Judy Colter and Miss Kay Daugherty.

Out-of-town guests, in addition to the bride's mother and the bridegroom's parents, were his sister, Miss Judy Colter, Mountain View, his sister, Mrs. Robert Reid, Independence and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ervin, Lubbock.

Sun's Rays Are Potent At Noon

Consider the time of day if you decide to sunbathe. Today's Health, publication of the American Medical Association, says the sun's rays are most potent between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., standard time.

The sun is most directly overhead then and you are most likely to tan or burn. There is little chance of getting either if sun exposure is before 8 a.m. or after 4 p.m., standard time.

CONSTRUCTIVE HOBBY — O. L. Nabors displays several pieces of original wrought iron art. He took up the hobby about two years ago, and makes decorative pieces for homes of friends and relatives, as well as his own home. He also made the coffee table shown, which is the only piece of furniture he has undertaken.

Wrought Iron Artist Works 'Free Style'

By BARBARA LORD
It's amazing what a lot of patience and talent can produce when a man is equipped with a few scrap pieces of metal or wrought iron and a welding rig.

O. L. Nabors insists there is very little talent involved, but he has made a wide variety of wrought iron items that require a vivid imagination and ability to create what he envisions.

Nabors calls his hobby "decorative wrought iron work." He makes wall plaques, lamps, sconces and figurines. Only once has he copied from a picture, and the finished product turned out identical to the photo.

Most of the time, Nabors works free style by just sitting down and beginning a project with only a vague and flexible picture in his mind of what he wants. Occasionally, he will draw a "very rough" sketch of what he intends to make, just to decide where he wants the curves. The ornaments he makes are styled to blend with any decor.

NEW HOBBY
Nabors first began his hobby two years ago. His works range in size from about eight inches to five feet. Most of them consist of various-shaped flowering trees. The wrought-iron stems and branches form a symmetrical shape enhanced by variegated bronzed flowers. In other pieces, he makes ornate ironwork with thread-like metal strings that waver in a breeze.

"You really don't need any artistic talents to do it," said Nabors "just the time and right equipment. Items like I make are pretty expensive to buy in stores, but they really don't cost much to make. It takes a lot of time, and I'm sure that's why they're expensive."

Nabors makes the pieces strictly as a hobby. He never sells items he makes but has given many of them to family or friends. He has no desire to make it a business.

"I can work for hours at a time," said Nabors, "but I wouldn't want to be out there because I had to be. Now, I can do it when I want to." He estimates that one item averages about two full days of work, but he works in spurts, so they take longer to make.

WORKSHOP
What used to be Mr. and Mrs. Nabors' back porch is now his workshop. Over the past two years he has collected a lot of equipment to use in his hobby, including an oxygen-run welding torch, vise, a horseshoe forge (which he estimates is 75 years old), hammers, files, safety glasses and gloves, metal shears and electrical equipment. His latest project was a chandelier which has 15 bulbs and 30

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING

Know How To Save Money On Meats!

By SHERRY MULLIN
(County HD Agent)

To budget your meat expenses, you must know how much you spend for all the foods you buy — not counting the cost of soap products, dog food, paper goods and all the other items that figure in the total of supermarket spending. Save all the weeks' receipts. Figure out how much of that total was actually spent for meat. You may be surprised.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's recent Household Food Consumption Survey shows that 33 to 50 per cent of the food money spent by U.S. families goes for meat foods.

If your arithmetic shows that you are close to the 50 per cent level for meat expenditures, it can mean two things: You may be consistently buying cuts that are too costly (while skimming on fruits, vegetables and dairy foods); or, you may be serving too much meat per portion (and consequently eating too many calories).

Think about your servings. Most of us eat more meat than we need. An adequate serving nutritionally is 3 ounces of lean cooked meat twice per day. This yields about 20 grams of protein. To maintain good health, 60 grams a day is sufficient, and that can come either from meat or other foods rich in protein such as breads and cereals, milk, cheese, dried beans, etc.

Consider rules of thumb to save money on meat! Depend on "specials" and the ordinarily less expensive meat cuts, served in moderate-size portions. Depend on the many interesting dishes made with dairy products, dry beans, cheese or eggs, both for meatless menus and in meals where a little meat has to go a long way.

To get the best value for your meat money, real economy depends on the number of cooked servings per pound. It is obvious that a pound of lean ground meat, or lean stew meat, or round steak yields more portions than a pound of spare ribs (and more protein, too — about 23 grams per 3 ounces).

However, some meats are expensive sources of protein — and calories — because much larger portions are required to provide needed protein. And that costs more money. For instance, it takes 3 frankfurters (6 ounces), or 15 slices of bologna, to provide as much protein as 3 ounces of lean ground beef. But, serve 1 frank with baked beans and the meal gets a big protein boost.

If shopping for one meal, never buy more meat than you need. When you repeatedly throw away little bits of leftovers, you are throwing away real money. Ninety-five cents goes into the garbage when you discard 1 cup (5 ounces) of leftover beef roast that cost $1.49 a pound as purchased. It may be a little thing like planning left-overs that can help budget your meat expenses.

FUTURE BRIDE — Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Franklin, 1902 Gollad, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sherida Kay Pace, to Michael Warren Tredaway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Tredaway, Gall Rt., Big Spring. The wedding is scheduled Sept. 1 in Crestview Baptist Church.

A LOVELIER YOU Shoulder-Slung Bag Is Travelers 'Must'

By MARY SUE MILLER
As every traveler soon discovers, a travel handbag becomes a home-away-from-home. It follows that one of the best investments a tripper can make is a bag with mansion status.

The primary specification for a travel handbag is that it be sufficiently commodious to house your needs in transit and compartmentalized for orderly "housekeeping." Inside pockets to hold such valuables as passport, travelers checks, jewelry and important money should be individually zippered. Across top or side the principal closing should be zippered or safely latched.

Outside pockets prove handy for items like glasses, touchup cosmetics, reading matter and small change. Those little outsiders also keep you from digging into and discommodulating the main section.

Looks come right after la'out, and you know it. To that end, materials and color have eye-appeal. Soft leathers, sturdy canvas and tapestry weaves seem especially appropriate.

Color ranges from dark neutrals — navy, brown and black — to splashy brights. White's the biggie, though, and a stunning traveler. It is not as impractical as you may think, when fabrics are treated to resist soil and welcome sponge cleansings.

Last but not least, an adjustable strap is wanted. You may not now be a devotee of shoulder-slung bags. You will be after a day's sightseeing.

LOVELIER HANDS
Do you have a hand problem? Send for

"Lovelier Hands," a booklet that covers every step in your quest for hand beauty. It tells how to keep the skin and nails groomed; how to overcome weak nails, polish chips, discolored knuckles, prominent veins, wrinkles; how to use the hands with posed grace. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

Styles Include Sporty To Spiffy

The new Sanchez collection is subdivided into three types: Rather sporty, Moroccan and undiluted luxury. The prices will be from $50 to $200.

The sporty part of the collection works just like daytime separates, with an infinite number of get-togethers between tops and slacks. Colorwise, tops of chamois, satin or stretch terry can be matched to the same or different fabric.

Perfect for a career-girl spending a rare night at home are the tailored robes plaid in gold Luxor or the comfortable terry sweat shirt with knit bands over Boy Scout shorts.

Nuptials Held Friday In Baptist Church

Miss Ernestjean Box became the bride of Richard Ray Pitts during a candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m., Friday in Berea Baptist Church.

Performing the rites was the Rev. Gary Higgs. The couple stood before a heart-shaped archway entwined with boxwood greenery. Heart-shaped candelabra flanked the archway, and a sunburst arrangement of summer flowers was placed in the center background.

Music was provided by Harlen Thornton, pianist, who accompanied Mrs. Gary Higgs, vocalist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Box, Sterling City Rt., Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Max Pitts, 3710 Caroline.

The bride wore a formal-length gown fashioned in white polyester organza with an overlay of Chantilly lace. The empire bodice featured a high ring collar and puffed organza sleeves which were gathered to shallow cuffs. The A-line skirt was set off with a white satin bow and streamers extending down the front. A chapel-length train swept from the shoulders. She wore a lace-edged mantilla veil and carried a cascade of white Sweetheart roses and lilies-of-the-valley tied with purple streamers.

ATTENDANTS

Serving as matrons of honor were the bride's two sisters, Mrs. James Hollis and Mrs. Ray Hillbrunner. Ridesmaids were Miss Gayle Moore, Miss Darlene Rister and Miss Debbie Pitts sister of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore floor-length gingham gowns of aqua, pink, purple, yellow and green, respectively. The gowns were fashioned with scooped necklines edged with ruffles, and matching ruffles bordered the skirts. Velvet ribbons, in the color of the gowns, marked the empire line and formed a bow with streamers.

The women wore white garden hats, with streamers to match their gowns, and they carried white fans topped with camellias.

Mike Murphy, Forsan, was best man, and groomsmen were Ray Hillbrunner and James Hollis, brothers-in-law of the bride; and Jimmy Trolinder and David Trolinder, both of Midland. Serving as ushers were Doug Cook,

MRS. RICHARD RAY PITTS

Webb Air Force Base; and Robert Simpson, Midland.

Dana Hillbrunner, flower girl, was attired in a blue gingham gown styled like the other attendants. Ring bearer was Mark Pitts, brother of the bridegroom.

The newlyweds are on a trip to Carlsbad, N.M., after which they will reside at 565 Nolan, Apt. C. They are graduates of Forsan High School. Pitts is employed by the City of Big Spring water department, and Mrs. Pitts works at Cook's Discount Department Store.

RECEPTION

A reception honored the couple in the fellowship hall of the church, where guests were registered by Miss Shirley Watkins at a table covered with a white lace cloth and accented with a purple rose in a white vase.

The serving table was laid with a white linen cloth, overlaid with white net. Purple shaded bows accented the cloth, and the wedding bouquets formed the centerpiece, flanked by purple candles. A miniature bride and groom topped the tiered cake. Serving were Mrs. Earl Hollis, Mrs. Rufus Rogers, Mrs. F. F. McElreath and Mrs. Tom Carver.

Relatives attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chappell, Forney; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Newsom, Bakersfield, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Royce Reynolds and Mrs. John Bruton, all of Jal, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Trolinder, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Trolinder, all of Midland.

"I think people with handicaps stick together too much and should mix more with hearing people and pick up qualities from them. There really should be more of an attempt in deaf education programs to mix the two groups." Betsey Love, a dancer with Brigham Young University's International Folk Dancers, and also deaf.

"Despite reports in the press, we have not yet reached the zero population growth rate in this country. We're 100 million people away from it, but it's tough to get people to listen to the mathematics of the situation." Judith Senderowitz, first woman president of Zero Population Growth.

Club Hears Chamber Manager

The recent restructuring of the Chamber of Commerce, along with future projects of the chamber, were explored by Ron Mercer, chamber manager, Thursday for Altrusa Club at Coker's Restaurant.

Mercer said the chamber coordinated activities of 16 previous committees and set them up under the current system which includes four vice presidents. They are Ralph McLaughlin, community development; W. S. Dub Pearson, economic & industrial development; J. D. Nelson, public affairs; and Don Reynolds, chamber improvement.

Some of the current chamber projects, according to Mercer, include revision of the city charter, obtaining fire protection for the city's outskirts, clean-up of city parks and other beautification, planning a convention center, and formation of a long-range planning group. He said the agricultural committee has been busy planning the Howard County Fair scheduled in September.

Mercer said 1973 may be one of the best years Big Spring has ever had economically, and that some retail stores show a 100 per cent increase in sales over the same period in 1972.

Mrs. V. F. Michael presided during the business meeting. Two members, Mrs. Willard Hendrick and Mrs. Jeanette Barnett, are attending the Altrusa International convention in Montreal, Canada.

Mrs. Ron Mercer was a guest. The next meeting will be Aug. 9 at Coker's Restaurant.

Occasionally, numbers in the "Bingo Bug" symbol may be found elsewhere in the paper. Check the classified ad section for additional numbers. IF YOU CAN MATCH (JUST CIRCLE OR "X" THE MATCHING NUMBERS) ALL 24 NUMBERS ON ONE OF YOUR BINGO CARDS WITH THE TOTAL OF THE NUMBERS PUBLISHED IN ALL ISSUES OF THE BIG SPRING HERALD EACH WEEK — YOU HAVE A "BINGO!" — AND YOU ARE A WINNER!!!

If there is only one winner, he wins all of the $50.00. If there is more than one winner, all winners will share the $50.00 equally. If there are no winners any week, the $50.00 weekly prize will be added to the following week's prize fund. CHECK EACH ISSUE OF THE PAPER: A new game will start each Sunday and be completed the following Friday. Be sure to check each day's issue of The Big Spring Herald because some of the numbers may appear in each day's issue. All numbers needed to complete each week's game will have appeared by each Friday's issue. A new set of Bingo numbers will be published for each week's game. A new color of Bingo cards will be available each week at the sponsoring merchants' stores. To be eligible to win, you must play Bingo cards of the correct color for that week's game. The color of the cards for each week's game will be announced each week on this page.

IF YOU ARE A WINNER: If you have a winning Bingo card, on which all 24 numbers have been matched with the total of numbers published during the week in The Big Spring Herald, print your name, address, phone number, and the name of the store where you got your winning card, on the back of your card and mail to: The Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry Street, Big Spring, Texas 79720, Box 1431 (the envelope containing your card must be received by 5:00 P.M. Monday of the following week) — or bring your card to the office of this newspaper at 710 Scurry Street, Big Spring, Texas, by 5:00 P.M. Monday of the following week.

NO OBLIGATION OR PURCHASE NECESSARY: There is no obligation or purchase necessary. A copy of the paper is available for playing the game at the office of this newspaper — also at the public library — also a Bingo card and/or copies of The Big Spring Herald, containing the Bingo numbers may be obtained by mailing your request to this newspaper (please print your name and address clearly). You may play as many cards as you wish — they are free. Get additional cards — one at a time — each day of the week — from the merchants listed below (ADULTS ONLY).

DIFFERENT COLORED CARDS EACH WEEK: The color of the cards change each week. To be a winner, you must play Bingo cards of the correct color for that week. Mutilated or altered cards will not be honored. ALL 24 NUMBERS ON A CARD MUST BE MATCHED TO WIN.

CHANCE DETERMINES NUMBERS: Bingo numbers for each week's game are drawn strictly at random at the office of this newspaper. Some duplication of Bingo numbers may appear in the merchants' ads — or elsewhere in the paper. This duplication does not affect the game or the total numbers drawn. All numbers for each week's game will appear somewhere in the sponsoring merchants' ads — and possibly elsewhere in the paper. Employees of this newspaper and members of their families are not eligible to win any of the prizes. KEEPING ADULT FILMS LEGAL — Dave Friedman, president of the Adult Film Association of America, talks about one of the reasons the group was formed, which is to provide legal defense of erotic movies. The Association met in Los Angeles this weekend with their declared purpose: to keep pornography alive, legal and lucrative.

Karate Flicks Coming

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Let's see now: Loong Da Chien's brother, the dare devil, is slain in a fierce duel with Kwan Chun, who in turn goes to the mountains to become a monk and renounce worldly affairs.

But Loong Da Chien, himself a nimble fellow with sword and karate, wants revenge, not to mention his brother's "devil sword," which Chun swiped.

Thus he engages in a series of blood-drenched battles, aided by his "monster sword," against the fighting Yi Brothers of Low Mountain; Chow Chi and his deadly umbrella; Moe Ji and his terrible hand, and all the "boys down at Tee Ching's fencing academy."

Naturally, he slays them all in vivid color to the accompaniment of horrible screams from the victims. One of the characters in this low budget Hong Kong offering remarks: "Loong Da Chien isn't really bloodthirsty, but he does have a strong character."

Titled "The Ghost Sword," this 1 1/2 hour blood and guts thriller has packed in fans of make believe mayhem in San Juan. Indeed, these cheap karate and swordsmen films have proved profitable in the rest of the Caribbean and several Latin American countries.

And now the movies have hit the United States.

"To say that they are popular here would be the understatement of the year," said Mayer supervisor for the Caribbean. "And the moviegoers in the United States are discovering these films."

Most come from Hong Kong and are virtually plotless with battles ad nauseum involving scores of persons karate-chopping and hacking each other to cube steaks.

The first productions usually featured swordwork set in a 19th century Oriental setting. Fists have since replaced steel with the sketchy plot lines brought up to contemporary times. An innovation is the use of a pretty girl as the star.

Leaps of 20 feet into the air are standard fare in the films with lingering close-ups of writhing victims pouring out tracks of make blood to a soundtrack of revving grunts and gurgles.

WEEK'S PLAYBILL Sawyer Dramatized

TOM

"Tom Sawyer," a musical adaptation of Mark Twain's classic has been brought to the screen under the aegis of a creative team with proven success in reaching the leisure-time public. It will open here Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

The picture is the first film venture of Reader's Digest magazine, which is presenting "Tom Sawyer" as a joint effort with United Artists, one of the leading motion picture companies. The film was made as an Arthur P. Jacobs Production and follows Jacobs recent successes, "Play It Again, Sam" and "The Planet of the Apes." The screenplay, music and lyrics are by the Academy Award-winning songwriters, Robert B. Sherman & Richard M. Sherman, who won an "Oscar" for "Mary Poppins."

Heading the cast is a company of talented youngsters and noted adult performers, including Johnny Whitaker as Tom, Celeste Holm as Aunt Polly, Jeff East as Huckleberry Finn and Warren Oates as Muff Potter. "Tom Sawyer" is an APJAC International Picture.

Don Taylor directed "Tom Sawyer" after completing "Escape From the Planet of the Apes," and Music Supervisor John Williams took on his assignment "fresh from his Academy Award-winning work on "Fiddler On The Roof," which, like "Tom Sawyer," is released by United Artists.

"Tom Sawyer" is based on Mark Twain's novel "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," which was first published in 1876, and for the past 97 years has continued to delight people of all ages, races, educational and social strata.

JET Now Showing THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE (PG). A cast of stars play in this movie about a luxury liner capsized by a 90-foot tidal wave.

Starting Wednesday TRINITY IS STILL MY NAME (G). A new Western hero was born in the person of Terence Hill with the release of "They Call Me Trinity." There was an immediate liking for this easy-going, handsome wanderer of the prairie and frontier town.

Together with his brother, played by Bud Spencer, they made up the most lovable, laughable, rambunctious adventurers that ever shafted a sheriff. And they're back again with more laughs and more fights in "Trinity is Still My Name."

Love Rush Dreaming Only Of Its Glory

NEW YORK (AP) — Love Rush, a group of youthful rock musicians with dreams of glory, is playing its first real date in a real night club.

The music is new, but the setting, the Riverboat on the ground floor of the Empire State Building, is very 1930s: crescent-shaped dance floor ringed by tiny cocktail tables, waiters with pencil-line moustaches, a revolving globe of mirror fragments that invites memories of long-past dance marathons.

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers would be right at home in the Riverboat. Love Rush, all flying hair and fingers, is not. But it's a job.

Love Rush is one of thousands of combinations of young people that aspire to the heights of rock. The chance that the name Love Rush will appear on a record album is small, the chance of the record making money even smaller.

Yet the group perseveres, practicing 20 hours a week, sometimes six hours a day, writing new songs, listening intently to the records of those who have made it.

"We've got to make some money soon in order to survive," said Patrick Malone, an elfin 19-year-old who is the group's lead guitarist. "At the same time we need money to buy more equipment, meet new people, invest in some recording."

Recording — a $2 billion industry that last year spewed forth some 4,000 albums and 5,000 singles. The trade publication Billboard estimates 60 per cent of the output was "contemporary," with a major portion of that classified as "rock."

For a group at the bottom, the world of rock appears a pulsating morass of agents, managers, unions, A&R men, promoters, groupies (with luck), roadies, copyrights, guitar bars and concert halls, contracts signed and contracts broken, tapes made in basements and some day, tapes made through 32-track spaceship mixing boards in million-dollar studios owned by giant record companies that will take the group and hurl it singing and strumming into the expanded consciousness of the young multitudes.

Don Heckman, head of East Coast artist and repertoire — A&R for RCA records, says: "I'd say the odds of getting on a record are 1 in 100.

Enter Love Rush, four guitar players and a drummer, white, shaggy-haired, no one older than 20, in existence two years. In the confines of a Brooklyn basement, the band works on a repertoire of hard rock, Latin rock, country and western, blues and jazz. About half the group's portfolio of 30 songs are original compositions, the rest by established bands such as Santana, the Grateful Dead and the Rolling Stones.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Photonoels — a hybrid of comic books and movies — are rapidly becoming a multi-million-dollar industry in Brazil, Latin America's biggest country.

Photonoels, as the Brazilians call them are photographed soap operas with comic book-style dialogue superimposed on each frame. They are published here in magazines with names such as Seventh Heaven, Caprice, Tenderness and Girl Friend. Their stock theme is that True Love is immutable, eternal and capable of overcoming all obstacles.

Brazil got the idea of photonoels from Italy, where they became popular after World War II. Most Brazilian photonoels still use imported Italian photographs and stories. The names are Brazilianized, and the dialogue is translated into Portuguese, this country's national language.

Home-grown photonoels, written by Brazilians and starring Brazilian actors, are winning an increasing slice of the market, however.

"NOT FOR YOUNG" Brazilian censorship laws require the words "Not Advisable for Minors under Sixteen" to be written on the covers of most photonoels. But publishers say at least 30 per cent their readers are girls between 12 and 16.

Editora Bloch, a major Brazilian publishing company, recently started putting photonoels in its TV and movie magazines. Bloch says it now sells a total of 1 million magazines containing photonoels a month.

An average-length photonoel of 150 pictures can be filmed in one day. In the battle to build an all-Brazilian photonoel industry, publishers here are going after top movie and TV stars, offering $350 a day.

Brazilian actors and actresses who appear in photonoels don't hesitate to admit that they like the pay. But they also say the magazine work provides a fun break from the grind of a TV serial or serious theatrical acting.

"It doesn't take any time or require preparation," said Dina Sfat, one of Brazil's most famous TV soap opera heroines and now also a star of photonoels.

Tower To Board

By ANN STEVENS
Municipal Auditorium could use air conditioning. The lake caretaker needs safe housing. And, several improvements might encourage more use of the amphitheatre.

Meanwhile, where oh where is the Parks and Recreation Board?

That is a question much upon the mind of Roy Anderson, assistant city manager, who represents the city staff at board meetings.

Anderson recently drew up a list of 16 of what he considers priority items regarding park and recreation facilities. He said there are several sources of funds for various projects, and they seem to be going a-wasting.

NO TOGETHERNESS

The problem is that the six members of the board just can't seem to get together. Business could not be conducted at the last three meetings because a quorum was not present.

The board is scheduled to meet the third Wednesday of every month, but for the last three months a majority of members have been either out of town, were previously committed or could not be contacted.

In June, city commissioners, once aware of the situation, appointed two alternate members to the board. These two were invited to the July 18 meeting, but along with the six regular members did not attend, causing the meeting to be called off.

Board members are Father James Delaney, Jim Zapp, Harold Davis, Mrs. Clyde Thomas, Mrs. T. A. Arencibia, and Calvin Daniels (who was appointed in June to replace Boyce Hale). Larry Willard and Cotton Mize are alternates.

Board appointees were reportedly contacted by one or more members of the City Commission before being nominated and agreed to serve.

Summer vacations have undoubtedly caused some of the poor attendance of late.

For the last scheduled meeting, however, there was important business at hand and the agenda reflected it.

NOT SINCE 1963

In a recent letter to the board members, Anderson wrote, "No capital improvements have been made in the parks and recreation area since the expenditure of a 1963 bond issue in the amount of $75,000 which was exhausted several years ago. This does not take into account the recently completed tennis center."

Attached was a list of 16 items which needed to be considered before being brought before the City Commission.

Among these items was a proposed new residence for the caretaker at Moss Creek Lake. Anderson said the present adobe structure in which the caretaker and his family live is in "woeful condition and presents safety hazards."

He explained that wiring in the house is buried so that it cannot be repaired. That poses several electrical hazards.

Other proposals on the list were installation of air conditioning in Municipal Auditorium, repairs to the plumbing and heating system of the Dora Roberts Community Center, construction of a covering for the amphitheatre stage and possible fencing of the area to control illegal entry, use of State Hospital land for a new softball complex.

'Hot' Fags Rap Filed

Montie Gene Shy, about 20, Snyder, was arrested here by Big Spring Police Tuesday, and 24 cartons of cigarettes were recovered.

These cigarettes were identified as having been in the possession of Merchants Fast Motor Lines Snyder, a spokesman for police said.

Shy, a former employe, has been charged with theft over $50 in Snyder. Peace Justice Gus Ochotorena Jr. set a bond of $2,500 here, and a Snyder police detective returned Shy to Snyder.

Local merchants had reported a man attempting to sell cigarettes.

Police Patrolman Stewart Datton arrested Shy at Edwards Boulevard and Gregg Street, and an investigation followed.

Furr's Ends Conclave

A three-day seminar for supervisors and managers of Furr's Cafeterias, Inc. ended Thursday at the company's general offices in Lubbock.

Management practices, operational procedures, equipment utilization, employee training, advertising and associated topics were on the agenda for panel discussion and viewing film presentations.

The seminar, headed by Don G. Furr, president and Clifford H. Andrews, vice president and general manager, is held semi-annually.

A conducted tour of the company's Quality Control Kitchen at 1001 East 33rd street in Lubbock, where origination of exclusive recipes and standardization of foods are developed, was one of the highlights of the seminar.

In attendance were management and department heads of the general offices, eight supervisors and managers of the 49 cafeterias and two pie shops operated by the company in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and Arizona.

Announcement was made of new cafeterias for Santa Fe, New Mexico; Glendale, Arizona; and Garland, Texas, that are scheduled to open in the next 90 days.
