we do think it prudent to keep a rescue operation capability, said Skylab project manager William Schneider.

In Florida, Kennedy Space Center director Walter Kapryan reported more than 1,000 men had immediately swung into a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week operation to get the vehicles ready in case the rescue mis-

"It's a very serious problem," Apollo spacecraft manager Glynn S. Lunney told newsmen soon after the problem was discovered Thursday. "If we did not have a rescue capability, we would be moving in the direction of getting the spacecraft down as rapidly as we could."

MONEY CHANGES

Bid To Phase Out Interest Rate Ceilings

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon today proposed major changes in the country's financial system, including phasing out interest rate ceilings on savings and other bank deposits over a 5½-year period.

The recommendations include inducements to banks and financial institutions to lend more money for home mortgages by providing a tax credit on the amount of mortgage loans.

In addition, savings and loan associations would be able to offer checking account services and the so-called NOW accounts would be authorized for both commercial banks and savings and loan associations. NOW stands for Negotiable Order of Withdrawal and provides for negotiated rates of interests on checking accounts. There were seven major changes in the financial package released at the White House. They followed a study of the country's financial institutions initiated by the President in 1971.

PROBE CONTINUES Turner Submits To Tests Here

A polygraph test was scheduled for 1 p.m. today for Rayfield Turner, a Texas Electric Service Co. employe who said a black male robbed him of over $1,500 in company money Wednesday and forced him to drive to Midland.

Capt. Jack Jones of the local police said Turner willingly submitted to take the test which was administered in Midland. Results should be available by Saturday, Jones said.

Jones said he ordered the polygraph (lie detector) test because there were a few points in Turner's account of the incident that did not seem "quite right." The test will save the police a lot of time and effort, he said.

If the results show Turner is not telling the complete truth in his account, local police will stop searching for a man 6-1 with an Afro hairdo, goatee and mustache, fitting Turner's description of the thief whom he said ran off in Midland with the three money bags of Texas Electric funds and the keys to the company car.

Turner said the man jumped into the car with him Wednesday afternoon near the State National Bank where he was going to deposit the funds for TESCo. Exact amount of the money missing is not known. However, it is believed that there was $1,500 in cash along with some checks.

While no witnesses to the incident have been found, one man did tell police Thursday that he had seen a black male fitting the alleged robber's description standing on Main Street Wednesday

Capt. Jones said police are keeping that report in mind as the investigation continues.

He also said that Texas Electric is now working with First National and Security State Banks in order to determine the exact amount of money and the specific checks that are missing.

Turner, on a deposit run to all three banks, had already delivered company money to those two banks and was about to make the final stop at State National when the robbery reportedly

Jobless Rate For Blacks Up

WASHINGTON (AP) - Unemployment in the United States declined slightly to 4.7 per cent of the labor force in July, although the jobless rate for blacks went up sharply, the Labor Department reported today.

Total employment was listed as 84.6 million in July, about the same as in June, while unemployment dropped from 4.3 million in June to 4.2 million in July on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Getty Grabbers Seek $17 Million

ROME (AP) - Kidnapers are demanding a $17 million ransom for J. Paul Getty III, 16-yearold grandson of the American oil billionaire, a family lawyer disclosed today.

But he said the youth's parents can't pay that much, his grandfather won't, and the kidnapers have rejected a counter-offer.

"His mother is desperate," said the lawyer, Giovanni Iacovoni. "The grandfather doesn't want to pay a penny and she must depend only on her own money and that of her ex-husband, which

'FOLLIES'

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, in office only about a month, opened fire on congressional budget trimmers Wednesday. He accused them of "follies" in voting drastic cutbacks in military manpower, arms aid to South Vietnam and Laos, and other programs.

Thursday, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., returned Schlesinger's fire in a speech advising the new Pentagon extract his foot from his mouth."

McIntyre, a veteran member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, spoke of "Pentagon follies" as primarily responsible for the diminishing support for the defense effort. He accused the Pentagon of advancing "ill-conceived . . . extravagant . . . redundant programs."

FOUR DEATHS

Orders New Kent State Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) - Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson today ordered a new Justice Department investigation of the deaths of four Kent State University students shot by National Guardsmen

Richardson said his decision was based on "the need to exhaust every potential for acquiring facts related to this tragedy.

He gave no indication whether a federal grand jury would be convened to assist in the probe.

Richardson ordered J. Stanley Potting assistant attorney general in charge of the department's Civil Rights Division, "to pursue the additional inquiry by such means as he feels are appropriate so that we will both be completely satisfied that the department knows as much as can possibly be learned concerning possible violations of federal law."

Richardson reopened the Kent State investigation after studying the findings of Pottinger's preliminary review of existing files.

Richardson initiated the preliminary review on the heels of a White House statement last May which reaffirmed the August 1971 decision by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to drop the case without a federal grand jury probe.

In a statement, Richardson said the resurrection of the investigation "does not mean that we have reason to believe that the prior decision to discontinue active investigation was wrong or made for improper reasons, nor does it mean that we think the additional inquiry is likely to lead to a different prosecutive judgment." However, he said he has found "some areas where an additional inquiry is desirable." Pottinger had said previously that his initial re-examination showed no substantial allegations that had not been investigated.

Fire Kills At Least 40

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man (AP) - A fire roared through a crowded seven-story hotel and entertainment center on the Douglas seafront Thursday night, killing at least 40 men, women and children and injuring more than 80. Police said the death toll may go as high as 50 as workers continued today to search the upper floors of the Summerland, a multimillion dollar "Coney Island under one roof" of bars, dance halls and hotel rooms.

MILITARY · INTELLIGENCE

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. has turned over to three Senate committees documentary evidence that U.S. Army intelligence units in West Germany spied on supporters of Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern and other American civilians, Senate sources said today. The sources said that an investigator on Weicker's staff, during a trip to West Germany in June, collected evidence of wiretapping, photographic surveillance, infiltration and the opening of mail carried out by U.S. Army intelligence units.

Jail Prison Revolt Leaders

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Corrections of-ficials said they have apprehended and jailed two alleged ringleaders of a week-long inmate revolt at the Oklahoma State Prison.

The two were identified as Danny Kuykendall and Marvin R. Gibson Jr., who were arrested Thursday as they carried an ailing inmate from the industrial area to a prison gate. They were placed in a Tulsa jail. Kuykendall is serving a term for assault with a deadly weapon and Gibson a sentence for a murder conviction. Inmates evacuated their cell-blocks Sunday and have been contained on the prison grounds in

Too Costly Alternate

Another fatality has occurred at the intersection of State Highways 137 and 176 in central eastern Martin County. At least two other lives hang in the balance as a result of this collision.

There have been a number of fatalities at this intersection, one of them claiming three lives. In an effort to reduce the hazard at this intersection, it was made into a four-way stop; then the traffic on SH 176 (Big Spring-Andrews) was required to halt for through traffic on SH 137 (Stanton-Lamesa). Presumably traffic count indicated heavier flow on the east-west stem, so the stop was put on SH 137.

But stops are of no avail unless the vehicle is stopped in accordance with the sign. And when one driver assumes he has the right of way and that an approaching car will stop, the consequence of human failure is most likely to be fatal.

What's the solution? Obviously a grade separation. There was a similarly disastrous intersection on SH 175 with SH 349 (Midland-Lamesa) until an overpass was installed. Such a structure is admittedly costly — but so is the toll in human state highways. Pornography Hot Potato

Since the Supreme Court of the United States in effect washed its hands of the matter, cities and states are left with the problem of defining pornography. A community consensus is difficult to achieve even under favorable circumstances.

The complexity of the problem was suggested last week, after officers seized three films being shown at a Texas theater. A justice of the peace held a hearing on the subject, during which the films were shown. In the end, he ruled that he could not say that the films were "totally without redeeming social value." He ordered the films

His decision was based on an earlier opinion by the Supreme Court of the United States that material (film, books, photographs) cannot be prescribed as pornography unless they have no redeeming social value and appeal solely to prurient interest. That interpretation may or may

life for not having a separation on intersection

not prevail in the light of the Supreme Court's later opinion that communities themselves should have the authority to determine what local standards of pornography are.

The case is but one of hundreds of thousands of tests that will be made in communities throughout the United States. The search for community agreement on what is, or what is not, pornograpny will be a long and most difficult process. The Supreme Court, in an unusual opinion, declined to set standards of pornography, turning the problem over to Icoal communities to settle.

But, in the end, the court may be obliged to be the final arbiter, and thus the setter of standards, if any.

Answer BILLY GRAHAM

Many feel that the end of the world is near, but that's not what bothers me. It's simply that my husband and I both want a baby very much. A friend, however, who knew this said that somewhere in the Bible it said when the world ends, any child of less than accountable age would be condemned to hell. I wouldn't want to run the risk of that. What do you think? D.M.

First, let's talk about the matter of God's view of infants who can't discern right from wrong. R's always been one of love, protection and guarantee of heaven.

Conversion, which is the prescribed Biblical method for salvation, is not possible for an infant (Deuteronomy 1:39; Jonah 4:11.) There can be no conscious intent to obey Christ's command, so God shelters infants with a providential care. Should the world end, and your child (before the age of accountability) die, you can be sure the infant is an heir of salvation. Several Bible verses speak of this, including Matthew 18:3-6.

God recognizes in the infant a certain relative innocence. Were this not true, it would be strange indeed that no prophet or apostle, no devout father or mother ever has expressed a solicitude as to a child's welfare should he die in infancy. There are no instances of prayer for children taken away in infancy.

It is significant that David ceased to fast and weep when his child died, for he said, "I shall go to him, but he will not return to me." II Samuel 12:23. As great as is the guilt of original sin, no human soul is eternally condemned solely for this but rather that they have not consciously and wilfully accepted Christ.

Great Legal Burden

Marquis Childs

Court of the United States has in these turbulent times encountered heavy weather. Both within the law and for individual justices drafted for outside assignments the authority of the highest tribunal of the third branch of government has been eroded. For the court now to be required by the President to resolve the greatest constitutional crisis in the history of the Republic, with all its political implications, is to impose a burden with unforeseeable con-

IN THE WEEKS ahead, until the court hands down its fateful decision, interest will be concentrated on the nine men who must reach a decision. Rarely in recent history has the court had such a mixed bag of judges representing the choices of four separate Presidents, with four men nominated by Nixon and five selected by three previous administrations.

The polarity on the court is reflected in the oldest justice, both in age and term of service, and the youngest and most newly appointed. William O. Douglas was nominated by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in March of 1939. In October he will be 75 years old and, while this is not ancient in comparison with veterans in the past who have stayed on the bench into their 80s, his 34 years of service equals that of the late Justice Hugo L. Black, who died in 1971 a week after he resigned from the court at the age of 85.

DOUGLAS HAS voted with few exceptions against any and all restraints on information from government or private sources. This comes out in his repeated dissents, one of the latest being a vigorous dissent from the opinion of a majority of five justices giving states and local communities the right to set their own standards of what is obscene. This, Douglas held, puts "an ominous gloss on freedom of the press." On the basis of his record Douglas would almost certainly vote against "executive privilege" as grounds for withholding presidential tapes and documents. However, early in August Douglas and his wife are flying to China for a long-delayed visit of three weeks to the People's Republic. His absence from the bench, when the court must reach a decision, would further complicate an already fearfully complex situation.

THE NEWEST member of the court and the youngest is Justice William H. Rehnquist. Forty-nine years old, he was Phi Beta Kappa and first in his class at Stanford University Law School. From school he served as law clerk to the late Justice Robert

In Phoenix, Ariz., where he practiced law he was an ardent Goldwater man and a protege of former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst. He tangled with Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., when he appeared before the senator's constitutional rights subcommittee saying that, while it would be inappropriate and a waste of the taxpayer's money, it would not violate the senator's rights for the government to put him under surveillance. With rare exceptions Rehnquist has voted with the three other Nixon appointees on the strict constructionist side.

BETWEEN THESE two poles the other members have shown a wide range of opinion. What the court will finally decide in this constitutional crisis is anyone's guess in light particularly of the often-unpredictable outcome in cases where observers had thought the result was foreordained.

WHEN THREE newsmen claimed the right of confidentiality to protect their sources, the four Nixon appointees were joined by Justice Byron R. White, the sole appointee of President Kennedy, in denying that

Year Of The Bird

Around The Rim

John Edwards

Barring bad weather before fall, this looks like the year of the bird for Permian Basin hunters.

DOVE, QUAIL and turkey hunting appear they will be productive, Herbert Kothmann, local game biologist for Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, reports. Deer surveys have not been completed. Permian Basin antelope surveys revealed a disappointing 9 to 12 per cent decrease in the size of antelope herds. Kothmann termed this "not a critical decrease" but noted anticipations of minimum antelope hunting permits. There was both a reduction in the numbers of surplus bucks and decreased production of fawns.

By contrast, officials observed a slight increase in antelope numbers in the Trans-Pecos area fective and old ones expire Sept. 1. FROM OCT. to Dec., 1972, Colorado reported 59 Texans arrested for hunting violations. The majority of violations, about 73 per cent, were for carrying a loaded firearm in a vehicle.

Colorado requires mandatory hunter safety training for everyone born after 1946. Some 21 states have similar mandatory hunter instruction. Kothmann said numerous hunters in the Big Spring area trek to Colorado. During the last season, some discovered they could not hunt once they arrived. "I heard some pretty sad tales this last year," the game biologist said.

Whether a hunting safety course is available in the Howard County area could not be determined immediately.

THOSE INTERESTED in the department's voluntary hunter safety program are urged to contact their local game management officer, J. C. (Curtis) Thomason. Thomason could not be reached at press time.

Banded doves have been released in this area. Hunters bagging banded birds are asked to send the bands to the address indicated. This in-Mourning Doves - Sept. 1-Oct. 14 formation helps the department

Laird's Cleanup

Rowland Evans

"LAIRD WAS amazed to find in Ehrlichman's office two concealed microphones in the ceiling and communications equipment, including tape recorders, hidden in a cabinet behind his desk. Thus, while unseen sophisticated equipment was recording all of President Nixon's conversations, Ehrlichman also could bug visitors to his office without their knowledge. Just how many Ehrlichman conversations about the Watergate scandal were taped is anybody's guess.

JOHN MITCHELL recently told the Ervin committee he suspected Ehrlichman was surreptitiously taping one conversation in Ehrlichman's office concerning Watergate. But a check of senior White House aides, past and present, produced universal ignorance that Ehrlichman had bugged his own office. Thus, while Ehrlichman apparently was not informed by chief of staff H, R. Haldeman that Mr. Nixon was secretly wired for sound, he had his own secret.

SOME PRESIDENTIAL aides view

In contrast, Ehrlichman policy chief, he issued an abrupt and controlled his own tapes, whose purpose may well have been much more immediate than helping future historians.

A footnote: White House counsel Leonard Garment learned of the presidential bugging several months ago and began quietly lobbying to end it. At this writing, he has not

In a surprising show of Deep South political muscle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy ran a mere 2 percentage points behind Vice President Spiro T. Agnew when pollster Oliver Quayle matched them head-to-head in Alabama shortly before Kennedy's Decatur, Ala., speech July 4. Among Alabama Democrats Kennedy ran six points ahead.

What makes this all the more imressive is the timing of the poll. Coming before the Decatur speech, it probably did not reflect momentary pro-Kennedy sentiment resulting from his panegyric to Alabama's popular Gov. George Wallace.

The embattled milk lobby, having lavishly contributed to President Nixon's re-election, is covering its bets during the Watergate mood of Washington by giving to the Democratic National Committee.

Treasury Bonanza

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) - Rising interest rates in recent weeks might be bad for home buyers and other borrowers, but they mean a bonanza for those with money to lend, including those who lend to Uncle Sam.

THE AGED gentleman, the world's most prolific borrower, is now paying about 8 per cent on Treasury bills, attracting a growing number of savers who once thought the bank was the one and only place for their

Here, in question and answer form, is how you obtain these bills, which are just as good as the cash in your wallet and which, in addition, pay you interest:

What are Treasury bills? A. They are IOUs of the U.S. Treasury, offered in denominations of $10,000 to $1 million, with life spans

Q. HOW DO I buy them? A. By submitting your offer, or tender. The big commercial buyers submit competitive bids and generally set the price. You also can submit a competitive bid, but you'd probably be better off simply accepting the

Q. Where do I send my tender?

A. Directly to the nearest Federal Reserve Bank or branch, by mail or in person. Or you may ask a commercial bank or securities broker to submit it for you. The latter, however, may charge a fee. There's no charge if you deal directly.

Q. When do these auctions occur? A. Auctions for new three-month and six-month bills are held weekly on Mondays. To make certain your bid is received in time, submit it on any business day the week before the auction.

Auctions for 12-month bills are held each month on a business day after the 20th of the month, the exact date being announced a few days beforehand.

Q. HOW DO I PAY?

A. In cash or by certified personal check. If you have Treasury bills that are maturing on or before the new bills you might also use them in

Q. How do I figure the return? A. Bills are sold at a discount. That is, a $10,000 bill with a three-month maturity might sell at $9,800, making your profit $200. Divide the $9,300 by the discount of $200. The result will be about 2.04 per cent.

Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart. (I Samuel 16:7) PRAYER: Father help us to take time to listen to the words of wisdom that You offer to us in many ways. Thank You for them. Amen.

Pay The Rent

Dear Abby

brother is 21. He just graduated from college, and has a job that pays him $100 a week. Brother wants to live at home with our parents. They think it will teach Brother a sense of responsibility if he pays them $75 a month for his room and board.

Since Brother is the oldest of six children, what goes for him will probably go for the rest of us.

We don't think children should have to pay to live with someone they love. Our whole family would like to know how you feel about this. THE OTHER

DEAR KIDS: How long should an able-bodied, gainfully employed 21-yearold expect to live with Mama and Papa for free? Six months? A year? Forever? Circumstances and opinions differ in all families, however, reasonable people should be able to agree to terms that will satisfy both the lover and the lovees.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20year-old girl, living alone. I date a guy who is 20 and lives at home. He called and some relatives had come in from out of town and wanted to stay all night, but they were short of room at his house so he told his mother he would sleep at a friend's house. Well, the "friend" happened to be me.

When he asked if he could sleep here, I said: "Sure," thinking I'd put him up on the sofa. When it became apparent that he thought he was going to share my bed, I said: "Nothing doing." He said I was "undersexed" and I threw him out of the house. He hasn't called me since. Am I undersexed? LINDA DEAR LINDA: No. He's over optimistic.

DEAR ABBY: A mother wrote that her daughter wanted to be married in the park by a justice of the peace. She says her daughter doesn't believe in anything, and neither does the young man. Your answer was absolutely right. A civil ceremony is the only appropriate one.

What puzzles so many of the clergy today is why so many people completely ignore the church, but when it comes to being married and buried, they want a

I am a reired Episcopal priest and admit that I have officiated at many such weddings and funerals, but I am still not sure whether I was showing Christian charity or moral cowardice by doing so.

ESISCOPALIAN PRIEST DEAR PRIEST: I would be inclined to say you showed Christian charity.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, Opening lead: Jack of * There is a bridge maxim called the "Rabbi's Rule," which states: "When the king is singleton, play the ace." However, when an expert drops a singleton king offside, he usually has a sounder reason for his play than the one above.

Tho South has only 14 points in high cards, his concentration of honors in his long suits gives his hand enormous trick-taking potential. Thus, despite the fact that his partner's single raise could show a relatively weak hand, South made a general try for game. North felt his ruffing value in hearts, four trumps and an ace and king in the side suits were value enough to accept.

West, reluctant to lead away from his unsupported honors, attacked with the jack of clubs, and when that card was allowed to hold the trick, continued with the ten. East overtook with the queen and shifted to the queen of diamonds, won by declarer's ace.

Declarer's first thought was to cross to dummy's ace of hearts to take the spade finesse. However, deeper analysis showed that, even if the finesse succeeded, the contract would probably fail. West's shift to the queen of diamonds marked that card as a likely singleton, so declarer would have to surrender a diamond. At that point, the defenders would be able to cash a heart for the setting trick.

Thus, South saw that his only legitimate play for the contract was to hope that the king of spades was singleton in either defender's hand. Accordingly, he laid down the ace of spades and was gratified at the result. It was now a simple matter to draw the remaining trumps and concede a trick to the jack of diamonds. Declarer's fourth diamond was used to discard a heart from dummy, and his losing heart was ruffed. In all, declarer lost two club tricks and a
