

JUKE BOX TYCOON'S GO-BETWEEN SAYS: Made Payoffs To Two Texas Solons

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Speaker Price Daniel Jr. and the chairman of a House subcommittee have publicly played a tape in which a man of challenged credibility says he was a Dallas juke box tycoon's go-between in making payoffs to two legislators.

Daniel, amid much fanfare, made public most of the records of a 1968 House committee investigation of the coin-operated amusement machine industry.

SECRET DATA

He was accompanied by Rep. Buddy Temple, D-Diboll, whom Daniel has appointed to head a renewed inquiry into the industry and the laws regulating it.

Some of the documents and tapes in the three boxes of records were withheld, however, for a decision by Atty. Gen. John Hill on whether they can legally be released to reporters.

The Texas Department of Public Safety has held the records in secrecy since the investigation ended in 1969, subject to release by a speaker of the House.

BUT IT DIDN'T

Following the investigation by a committee chaired by former Rep. R. H. Cory, D-Victoria, legislators passed a law imposing state regulation on the juke box industry. Most lawmakers thought the bill outlawed financial ties between juke box operators and taverns, but it didn't, and the practice continues.

Late Wednesday, Temple itemized for newsmen the documents sent to Hill. Included were criminal records on certain persons, whose names were lined out; reports on prostitution; interview sheets; police notes; and arrest reports.

The tape consisted of what was labeled as testimony in secret session by Pete Martinez of Austin, a former employe of Raymond B. Williams of Dallas, one of Texas' biggest amusement machine operators and former chairman of the Texas Vending Commission.

FUNDS FUSS

Martinez told the Cory committee in 1968 he had paid money on Williams' behalf in the early and mid-1960s to Rep. Ben Atwell, D-DeSoto, the late Sen. George Parkhouse, D-Dallas, and Judge W. A. Morrison of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Morrison could not be reached immediately for comment. At a news conference last week, Williams denied the payoff allegations, which had been reported without the use of names.

Williams said he had fired Martinez in 1967 because an audit showed he had embezzled funds.

Col. Wilson E. Speir and former First Asst. Atty. Gen. Nola White said Martinez had been given the chance to carry his accusations to the Austin district attorney and grand jury, but refused.

"We administered him a polygraph test, and they were inconclusive. They did not substantiate that he was telling the truth. We just don't use the word 'funkt.' We just say 'inconclusive,'" Speir said.

Martinez said in his taped testimony that he had handed Morrison $2,500 to $3,000 in $10 and $20 bills but this "might have been a political contribution" since Morrison was running for re-election at the time.

He said he knew of no "services" performed for Williams by Morrison.

POOL TABLE BILL
But Atwell, Martinez said, was given $2,200 in 1966 "for services rendered." Martinez said he believed "that time they were trying to promote the pool table bill which Mr. Ben Atwell was very instrumental in getting the proper personnel to go with him."

In 1963, the legislature repealed the law against pool halls, which could have affected coin-operated pool tables. In 1965, lawmakers exempted de-regular session in 1966, nor were any amusement machine bills considered by a special session in that year.

Martinez said Williams told him to pay Atwell $1,800 but the legislator insisted on $2,200. Martinez said eventually recognition will be Dr. Bevington Reed, Texas commissioner of higher education since 1968; Charles W. Woodbridge, Dallas, chairman of the board of Texas Power and Light Company; Dr. Earnest E. Glavin, dean of the college of engineering at the University of Texas at Austin; and Mrs. Homer C. (Rilla C. Payne) Lovell, educational administrator and business education consultant for San Diego, Calif., city schools.

More contracts are lost thru hasty play to the first trick than for any other reason. On this hand, South was guilty of an extreme case of "flying fingers," and paid the penalty.

South's hand does not quite measure up to an opening no trump bid. The five-card suit and two tens bring the hand up to the equivalent of 16 points, the weak doubleton spade is a flaw.

However, once North responded in spades, South could show the balanced nature of his hand with a no trump rebid, and North invited game. South was delighted to accept.

Dummy had hardly appeared on the table when South called for the heart ten and followed with the deuce from his hand. A diamond was led to the ten, losing to West's queen.

Back came a spade, taken in dummy, and a diamond to the king forced the ace. West returned another spade, and since declarer had no more entries to dummy, he was forced to cash the remaining spade honor.

From this point declarer was unable to develop an additional winner, so he had to be content with eight tricks - three in each major and one in each minor.

Had South bothered to count his tricks before playing to trick one, he would have realized that he could come to nine tricks by giving up two tricks in the diamond suit, thereby setting up dummy's nine as the ninth trick. The diamond finesse was unnecessary; what was important was enough entries to the table.

Therefore, South should have won the first trick in his hand and played the king of diamonds. West can take the ace and attack dummy's entries by leading a spade, but declarer remains in control. He wins in dummy and leads a diamond to the jack and queen. West continues with spades, dummy winning again.

A diamond to the ten frees the nine in dummy for the ninth trick. The queen of hearts, carefully preserved as an entry from the start, is the means of getting back to dummy to take a high spade and the diamond.

Mule Lady Teaching New Husband Business

WEAVERVILLE, Calif. (AP) - Ethel Pettis, the mule-packing grandmother of Northern California's Trinity Alps, says her new husband is an apt student of the business she's been in for 41 years.

Mrs. Pettis, a spry 56, got into the mule packing service in 1932 with her first husband, Nate Steele.

After Steele's death in 1965, she continued operating the business by herself until she married William Pettis a year ago.

"I'm teaching him, although he knew something about it before we were married. He is learning fast," she said in an interview here.

The couple handles 40 to 50 mules during the mid-June to mid-October packing season when their teams take parties into the Trinity Alps. The rest of their time is spent on their cattle ranch.

Strict Secrecy At Agnew Inquiry

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) - The special grand jury probing alleged political corruption in Maryland resumed work today under conditions of unprecedented secrecy.

Federal court house corridors leading to the grand jury room were sealed off by U.S. marshals with walkie-talkies who refused to allow newsmen within sight of the grand jury room or a nearby elevator.

"No public trials and no public hearings are in this area and it is closed to the public on the orders of the United States attorney," one assistant marshal told a newsmen.

The grand jury is investigating allegations of kickbacks and conspiracy which may involve Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

U.S. Atty. George Beall refused to comment earlier in the day on the grand jury's plans for today, but courthouse sources indicated one or more indictments, probably of other local officials, might be forthcoming.

Asked why the strict secrecy provisions, never before undertaken during this investigation, Beall replied: "By tradition and statute."

CRMWD Can Divert Water

The Texas Water Rights Commission granted Wednesday afternoon a permit to the Colorado River Municipal Water District to divert water from playa lakes on the upper reaches of Beal's Creek.

In a brief session, commission members questioned O. H. Ivie, CRMWD general manager, after his general statement and description of the project to divert brackish water from the lakes, and hence the stream that eventually leads to the Colorado River.

The district was given the right to divert 2,000 acres for mining (oilfield repressuring, etc.) purposes, and another 2,200 acre-feet for diversion into alternate storage.

The board of CRMWD meets here Friday at 10 a.m. to open bids on approximately six miles of transit pipeline and pumping equipment. The plan is to intercept the highly mineralized water in the natural lakes two miles west of Big Spring and pump it back to the Natural Salt Lake on the Wilkison Ranch. This lake is impounded by a natural dam.

By emptying the lakes and then pumping the underflow by means of wells, Ivie said the district hopes to improve the quality of water which goes down Beal's Creek. About half of the quality problem at Lake E. V. Spence is due to the Beal's flow.

Ron McNeill, chairman of a commercial exhibit space, sounded one last invitation since space is about exhausted.

Fair Plans Are Ready

The Howard County Fair Association executive committee met Wednesday afternoon for a last-minute survey of plans for the 1973 Fair.

Johnie Walker, president, said that it appeared that everything was moving along well. Grounds will be ready and the commercial exhibit tent will go up Friday, and perhaps the booths Saturday, along with other decorations.

Most exhibits will be moved in Sunday afternoon or Monday morning. Formal opening is set for 6 p.m. Monday.

Ron McNeill, chairman of a commercial exhibit space, sounded one last invitation since space is about exhausted.

Coed Tried To Kill Her Baby Aboard Airplane

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) - A 23-year-old Louisiana coed has been sentenced to two years in federal prison for attempted manslaughter for trying to kill her newborn daughter aboard an airplane.

Betty Jean Anderson of Garyville, Ind., a senior at Southern University in New Orleans, was sentenced Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judge Leroy J. Contie Jr. However, Contie delayed execution of sentence pending an appeal and released Miss Anderson on $5,000 personal bond.

Miss Anderson was convicted last month. Federal authorities said she gave birth to the child in the plane's restroom during a flight between Pittsburgh, Pa., and Youngstown, Ohio. Miss Anderson testified that she did not know she was pregnant or had given birth to the baby.

The child, which was rescued from a toilet by airline maintenance workers, now is in a foster home in Trumbull County. Miss Anderson has asked for custody.

'International Room' Evolves From Military Assignments

By BARBARA LORD
"I call this my 'international room,'" says Mrs. Dallas (Joan) Nash as she sits in the comfortable confines of her living room at 2500 Rebecca. "It's furnished in everything we picked up in our travels."

The Nashes have traveled extensively throughout the United States and in South America. Nash is retired from the Air Force and is owner of Nash and Associates, an electronic data processing service. The couple has one son, Tony, who lives with his wife in San Angelo where he is vice president of First National Bank.

The Nashes speak fondly of the memories of their Air Force days. The travel involved became habit-forming, so they bought themselves a trailer and take off on weekend trips as often as possible. They have lived in Big Spring for six years. They like it here and have discovered or resumed a vast array of hobbies.

TEACHER

Mrs. Nash, a congenial and likeable woman, teaches first grade at College Heights Elementary schools. She finds the job challenging and rewarding, and "filled with surprises every day."

"I love teaching them," says Mrs. Nash. "First graders start out wanting to come to school. They're so eager and enthusiastic that they really make the teacher's job easier than other grades. I've been lucky so far, because I've never gotten the 'cryers' people always talk about the first day of school."

In her spare time, if she can't get away on a trip, Mrs. Nash is most comfortable sitting before an easel with a brush and palette of paints in her hand and an idea in her mind. She paints primarily in oils. Prior to receiving her bachelor's degree from

MRS. DALLAS NASH

Concord College in Athens, W. Va., Mrs. Nash studied commercial art at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh, Pa. "Painting is an excellent way to relax and unwind after a hard day," says Mrs. Nash. "I don't know how good I am, but I put my feelings into my paintings, and I enjoy them."

HOBBIES

Other methods of relaxing for Mrs. Nash include playing the organ, gardening and reading. She and her husband share a hobby of "finding interesting places to eat." They're always on the lookout for a new restaurant or some unique cuisine. "We eat out quite a lot," says Mrs. Nash, "but I really do like to cook. Sometimes it's just too much of a chore after I get home from school." Mrs. Nash is herself an artist when it comes to unique cuisines. Many of the recipes included with this article are ones she collected and particularly liked while living in Panama and Ecuador.

"The South American recipes all take time to prepare," says Mrs. Nash, "so they are saved for weekends or summers. When I don't have much time, I'm one of those '30-minute cooks'."

Mrs. Nash says her husband is a good cook and can actually make up and improvise recipes better than she can. He handles all of the outdoor cooking, and when he feels extra ambitious, he may make four or five loaves of bread. His leisure time is filled with a number of hobbies, including rock collecting, yard work and ham radio.

Mrs. Nash was born and reared in Bluefield, W. Va., and Nash is from Louisville, Ky. They both speak fluent Spanish, and he also speaks Italian. The Nashes are active members at First Baptist Church where both sing in the choir and are former Sunday school teachers. Also, he does lay ministry work.

Fears Pain

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am absolutely terrified of going to a dentist. I know I need some work done, but I can't get up the nerve to go. The only times I've ever gone to a dentist were when the pain got so bad I couldn't stand it any more.

I have made and broken so many appointments I am ashamed to make another one, but Abby, I've got to get my teeth taken care of.

I heard that it's possible to put a patient to sleep before doing any work on him. Could you please find out if there is a dentist near me who does this? I live in Beaver Dam, Wis., but I'd drive 100 miles if I could find a dentist who wouldn't hurt me.

Please, don't tell me to "grow up." I am a married woman with two small children who I'd have to take to the dentist with me, and I'm so afraid my fear will show, and rub off on them, too. Help me.

TERRIFIED IN WISCONSIN
DEAR TERRIFIED: I

consulted an excellent Minneapolis dentist, Dr. William B. Nienaber, who suggests that you contact your State Dental Society in Madison. Ask them to recommend one or more dentists who use the "relative analgesia" method of sedating fearful patients with nitrous oxide and oxygen to reduce their fears.

You are to be commended for your concern about passing on your fears to your children. Not all parents are so wise and thoughtful.

DEAR ABBY: Being a quiet, shy person, I am in somewhat of a quandry about a situation that has arisen where I work.

A divorced man, with whom I have hardly spoken, keeps sending me flowers (at the office) without signing the card.

I know he is the sender because I've checked with the florist. How can I get it across to this man that his attentions are neither wanted nor welcome? I have even told the florist that I do not want any more flowers from that party, and to please send them to one of the hospitals. But still the flowers come!

The situation has gotten entirely out of hand, and I'm tired of it.

I would appreciate your advice. UNAVAILABLE.
DEAR UNAVAILABLE: If you want to nip the situation in the bud, tell the sender exactly how you feel. Don't blame the florist. He can't send flowers "to a hospital" when he's been instructed by the buyer to deliver them to you. What you do with them after they're delivered is your business. (P.S. The sender must be an idiot. Send him a bachelor button!)

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

100 years, and she illustrated typical business agendas and duties of officers.

In other business, the club agreed to donate supplies for an activity box for 4-H girls. The national observance of 4-H Club Week is slated Oct. 8-12. Also, a donation was made to the United Way, and the club planned quilting or patchwork as a fund-raising venture in December.

TEEN FORUM

AGGRESSIVE: (Q.) Wow! On our second date this girl asked me if I would do something for her and I said yes, if I could. So she took me up to her bedroom, and we had a wild time. Please tell me if it's ok for me to be doing this with her. She is 21 and I am 16. — Surprised in Massachusetts.

(A.) If you thought what you did was ok, you would not have written me. You know it is not all right to be playing house with an aggressive grown woman who does not love you but wants you only for kicks. Get back in your age group and do decent things with decent girls.

SHAVED: (Q.) I really love Caroline and until recently I thought she loved me, but now I am afraid to call her. Here is why. I joined the Army and got my head shaved. I sent her a picture of my "haircut" and have not received a letter from her since. She is all I think of. I love her very much.

I am home on leave but have not called her. What should I do? — No Hair, No Girl in Georgia.

(A.) Caroline may not have received your letter. She may have gotten it but did not answer it for some reason completely apart from your shaved head. She may still care for you as much as she ever did. Your head won't be shaved forever. If Caroline lets a shaved head stand in the way of caring for you she must not care much.

All these are possibilities. Call Caroline and talk to her. If she is interested, have a date with her, shaved head and all. If she is not interested now and indicates she won't be after you get your hair back, start looking for another girl.

CURSE: (Q.) This is Saturday night and I don't have a date — again. My problem is this. Some people call it acne.

I have a repulsive amount of it. I am only 14. By the time I am 16 I will be a monster.

I have acne all over my face and neck. I have blackheads and scales all over my shoulders, arm, chest, back, legs, feet and a couple of places I won't mention.

My parents say I will outgrow it. They think they can't afford to buy any medicine for it or send me to a doctor. Please give me some advice. — Infested boy in New Jersey.

(A.) Start now looking for an after-school job. Save the money you make. Take it to a dermatologist and ask him to rid you of your curse. He can.

TWO GIRLS: (Q.) I can't even begin to explain how much I like Jane. We have been going steady for six months. But I like Brenda, too. I dated her a few times before I started liking Jane. Also, recently, when Jane and I had a fight I went out with Brenda three times.

Jane found out and really gave Brenda a hard time. So I quit seeing Brenda. But I still think about her and how sweet she is. Brenda is a brain, and no one but me has ever dated her. Jane can get a date any time she wants one. I have been trying to decide if I should keep dating just Jane, or try to date Jane and Brenda both, or drop Jane and go out with Brenda regularly. What do you think? — Thinking It Over in Virginia.

(A.) You should not go out with Brenda just because you are sorry for her.

You should not go out with Jane just because she bosses you around, which I suspect she does.

Those are wrong reasons for going out with girls.

You should go out with the girl you like better. If you can't decide which you like better, go out with both. If Jane won't stand for that, drop her.

I think I like Brenda better.

SAYS HUMOR DESTRUCTIVE

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Will Rogers Jr. says today's political humor is destructive.

He recalled that his father, the author and humorist, "used his voice and philosophy to try to unite the country." He added:

"My father was critical of President Hoover, but he did not blame him for all the country's problems."

Rogers, a lecturer and humorist who was formerly a U.S. congressman and a newspaper publisher, spoke to delegates attending the Midwestern Conference of The Council of State Governments.

FAMILY WAITS — Mrs. Gene Howard Williams, whose husband may be serving another man's sentence at the Oklahoma state penitentiary due to a clerical mix-up, plays with their two children, Netsha and Sheldie.

Viet-Era Vets Worse Off Than Their Dads?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asserting that Vietnam-era veterans are worse off than their fathers, an independent committee urged today that GI Bill educational benefits be increased substantially. A gap between post-World War II and current benefits "serves to reinforce the belief of today's veteran that he fought an unpopular war and must deal with public apathy about his future," the Special Veterans' Opportunity Committee said. The committee, chaired by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., was formed by the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors. Its 39-page report was based on an eight-month study of veterans' problems, including public hearings at Newark, N. J., Cleveland and Seattle. The committee found that "Many veterans simply cannot afford to use the G. I. Bill." It also concluded that: "Public reaction to the Vietnam war has been a severe obstacle for GI's trying to adjust to civilian life."

Now It's Legal To Play It Safe

BRUSSELS (AP) — Belgium has legalized contraceptives for the first time in its history, but they may be obtained only on a doctor's prescription. Laws dating back to 1905 made the sale of contraceptives, and their advertisement, a criminal offense in this predominately Catholic country.

What Are Alternatives?

If the oil-exporting Arab states of the Middle East make good on their threat to use their oil to blackmail the United States and Western Europe into denying support to Israel, what can our response be?

That question is on many more minds than those in Washington. Its answer could determine not only world economics, but world peace as well.

Western Europe and Japan are much more dependent on Middle East oil than is this country. We are only beginning to have to rely in part on imported oil (6 per cent at this time) to meet our energy needs; it is already a matter of survival to Western Europe and Japan.

Therefore, we are in much better position to resist pressure and remain firm than are our allies — at least for a time. We can believably issue a counter-threat to the Arabs — that we will respond to any attempt at petroleum blackmail with an embargo against Arab oil. It would hurt us; it would pinch already short supplies of petroleum products. But it would not be immediately fatal.

Western Europe and Japan have no such capability. Without Middle East oil, the economies of Japan and the Western European nations could not long prosper; wheels would begin to stop turning entirely.

Can we make in that case a plausible firm stand? Only, it would seem, if we can finally reach the compact among petroleum importing nations we have already proposed with less than rousing success. That might mean, in addition to mutual resistance to higher Arab prices at bargaining time, a commitment by this nation to supply from our own domestic petroleum production as much of the needs as possible of our trading partners and allies. In other words, we most probably would have to agree to climb in the boat with them, and endure shortages comparable to what they would experience, to ensure their cooperation in a common boycott. This will call for a lot more self-discipline and sacrifice than we have thus far evidenced.

The Reverse Twist

Ironically, the lessening of marijuana penalties in Texas may lead to more punishment of marijuana offenders. That is the opinion of Nueces County Attorney Franklin Smith, and it is an opinion held by most observers.

Previously, before passage of a new drug-abuse law by the Legislature, Texas marijuana-possession punishment was totally out of line with reality. Mere possession was a felony, punishable by up to life in prison.

As a consequence, many Texas juries were reluctant to convict a young offender, or if a conviction was obtained, the usual first-time sentence was probated, meaning no prison time was served. Now, with the offense reduced to a misdemeanor calling for fines and possible county jail terms, this reluctance to apply the law will probably vanish.

As a result, more — not fewer — persons will probably face jail terms of a few months, plus fines, than when the more severe penalties were in effect.

This should add up to a more effective deterrent to marijuana use, which is what opponents of the old, outmoded law contended would happen. Too, the stigma of a felony conviction — carrying with it the loss of numerous citizen rights, including the right to hold many jobs for which licenses or bonds are required — will be removed from youthful experimenters with marijuana. A felony conviction, even if sentence is probated, can amount to lifetime punishment.

Few Can Survive

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

Certainly, the Good Lord knew what he was doing when he made it where young people have children.

Just — for one item only — take slumber parties as a subject. If your children ever had one, you know what I am talking about. Only the young, or the near young can survive them.

I CAN remember numerous slumber parties as my children grew up, hours of giggling girls and then when the boy came along — ho-hoing boys.

They ate hundreds of sacks of chips, hundreds of cans of bean dip, drank gallons of soda pop, and slept very little.

I remember one particular night, when eight little girls attempted to slip out of the house at 3 a.m. and I jumped up and said "Where do you think you're going at this hour?"

After numerous giggles, it was revealed that Mary had not come to the party because she told them she liked her horse better than any of them and they wanted to slip up to Mary's house and leave a note in the mailbox from her horse. That seemed fair enough, so I let them go with dire warnings about what terrible things would happen to them if they did anything else.

BOTH BOYS AND girls when they reach junior high age love to wrap bushes with toilet paper and throw water balloons.

Trails of water reach from the sink to the yard across carpet or anything else that is in the way. Sooner or later in the process of the night, the slumberers will come running into the house with the message, "Boy, did we hit him and he didn't catch us." Which brings gales of hilarity from the crowd.

I decided this weekend that I was either getting old and deaf, or my last child was finally getting quieter.

Because after working late on the paper, I trucked across to Andrews and being very, very tired, went to bed. There was a note from my son telling me where he was and when he'd be home. I was pleased and not worried and conked out. Sometime in the night, he came home, and came to the door and said, "Mama, blerk, blerk, blerk" (or at least that's what it sounded like to his tired Mama), and I said, "Good."

At 10 a.m. Sunday, the phone rang, and a voice said "Is Ronnie up ready to go to church?" I thought, "Hmmm, I wonder if Ronnie spent the night," and I answered, "I'll see."

SO I LOOK in No. 1 son's bedroom and five boys pop up their heads and say "Is breakfast ready?" And I say "Romie, you're wanted on the phone" and go in and start breakfast.

Later I asked the son, "What did you say when you came home last night?" And he answered, "I said, 'Can Ronnie, Dale, David and Scott spend the night?' and you said, 'Good.'"

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

Our daughter's husband, while drinking, shot a man and later the man died. Our son-in-law is in jail awaiting trial. Our problem is that my daughter's minister, whom we have known for years, has never visited her since the incident. She thinks that he considers her an outcast. Could you explain this?

M.R.N. I believe I know ministers very well, for I count them as brethren in a common task, and have worked closely with them all my life. They are human like anyone else, and make mistakes, but there are few professional groups which have the dedication that clergymen do. I cannot conceive of a minister purposely slighting a person who has undergone the anguish of spirit your daughter has. Pastors are used to all kinds of human problems and are not shocked by anything, and as God's servants, are quick to respond in love to anyone in need.

I'm sure you will find there is some other reason for your daughter's minister not visiting her during this time of trouble. I knew of a member of a church who had a tonsillectomy, and was quite bitter because her minister had not visited her in the hospital. Later she found out that her pastor had suffered a heart attack and while she was recovering from a minor operation, he was lingering between life and death.

The most common reason for an oversight in the pastor's calling is that nobody told him of the problem. In the case of your daughter, friends may have been reluctant to share this kind of news — and if your daughter didn't call the church office, how would he know?

You phone your lawyer, your doctor and your plumber. Try the same procedure with your minister and you'll find him eager to help.

You're An Old-Timer If . . .

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — You may not be quite ready to answer that roll call yonder yet, but there's no hiding the fact that you're an old-timer if:

You still keep in your clothes closet an old outer coat or sport jacket you wore before Pearl Harbor.

Common sense is the virtue you value most highly because you see it so seldom in people. Cocktail parties make you sleepy, and you no longer go up and talk to strange blondes at them.

As a matter of fact, you rarely speak to any woman at all, including your wife, unless she speaks to you first. You've quit taking exercises to pep you up because they tire you out.

The barber hasn't tried to sell you a bottle of hair lotion yet.

For 10 years. You'd rather take a quiet walk in a country cemetery and look for unusual epitaphs on tombstones than go to an expensive night club and gawk at the celebrities.

There are now more things in your life that make you yawn than make you laugh.

It amuses you to see a small child pick its nose, and it doesn't occur to you at all to tell the kid to stop it.

Somewhere in your desk is a tentative draft of the epitaph you have written for yourself, but you doubt it will ever be carved in stone, as it is 40 words longer than Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

You never chewed bubble gum in your youth because it hadn't appeared on the scene yet.

If you had to, you could probably still strum "Sweet Adeline" on a mandolin. Certainly you're the only one on your block who remembers all the words to the tune.

You are not as afraid of death itself as you are afraid of dying.

The doctor and you share an unspoken secret — the knowledge that there is no real cure for what ails you: the simple erosion of time.

But you go right on taking a patent medicine the doctor didn't prescribe and doesn't know about.

When you see three male teen-agers approaching, you cross to the other side of the street. Better be safe than sorry. Yep, old-timer, there's no doubt it — you're an old-timer.

Kissinger And Tapes

William F. Buckley Jr.

As of the moment, the endorsement of Mr. Kissinger's nomination by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations is frozen, pending action by the Justice Department. "I think it is very clear that the committee will not be in the position to act on the nomination until that report has been received," Sen. Clifford Case told Mr. Kissinger, and Sen. Fulbright added, "I agree with the Senator."

NOW PAUSE for a moment.

1. Nixon takes office, hires Kissinger, and proceeds to conduct foreign policy, including a war in Southeast Asia.

2. In short order it is discovered that secrets are leaking to the press, including conversations held within the National Security Council.

3. Nixon calls in the Attorney General and the head of the FBI, and asks what do they propose in order to stop these leaks. They propose tapping the telephones of everyone who has the secret information — at both ends. I.e., everyone who has that information legitimately, and everyone who has that information illegitimately. That way, if you fail to catch A giving the information to B, you might catch B receiving the information from A.

4. SINCE HENRY Kissinger is the top dog in the National Security Council he is of course appraised of the decision. There is no reason to suppose that he was given a veto power over a decision based not on Henry Kissinger's preferences, but on the imperatives of national security. (If you want to know, my own guess is that Kissinger's own telephone was tapped — and quite properly so. You either do these things right, or not at all.)

5. Kissinger then received, over a period of about a year, reports on the conversations of his colleagues insofar as they related to secret material. The idea, obviously, was to determine whether loose telephone-talk to outsiders might be the source of the leaks to the press.

6. BEGINNING IN 1970, the FBI stopped reporting directly to Kissinger when one of his colleagues mouthed secrets into the telephone (by the way, most secrets are leaked inadvertently, Nixon himself has leaked, inadvertently, one or two lollapaloozas), but but to Haldeman instead.

7. The transcripts of course reside in the Justice Department, and Sen. Case in particular has this extraordinary interest in seeing them, for reasons that a) aren't clear; and b) hardly relate to Henry Kissinger. Kissinger is not in physical control of the transcripts, nor should be.

8. HERE IS what one is driven to thinking: that some of the senators suspect that other information about the tappings was recorded than such information as death directly with national secrets. That is probably true. If a tape recorder is transcribing a telephone call, it doesn't know to shut itself off when you are talking to a friend about your mistress, and to turn itself back on when you are talking about what happened at the last meeting of the National Security Council.

One supposes that the FBI, excerpted only the relevant information to send along to Kissinger and then to Haldeman. But if he did not — if he thought (let us say) that the mistress, in more intimate conversations, might have got the secret information and served as the conduit — that is really something the Senate Foreign Relations Committee wants to get into.

Getting Rid Of Lice

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How do you get rid of lice? I hear there is an epidemic of them here. Is this true? — W.P.

The epidemic isn't just local. It is all over the country. Since lice infestation isn't a "reportable disease," there are no public health figures on the amount. However, doctors know how much often they are getting cases, and the sales of remedies (good and bad) are indicators.

Dr. Leslie Norvins, of Atlanta, estimates that the problem has increased 819 per cent in the last 10 years. He puts the number of cases at 2 million a year, and that's a lot of itching.

Main increase is in the crab louse, or "crabs," a type of louse which primarily infests the hairy genital regions but can spread to other body areas. The body louse, which is not that choosy about where it will settle, also is increasing.

The epidemic of crab lice parallels the epidemic of venereal disease. This doesn't mean that V.D. has anything to do with getting crab lice, but merely that the same factors have a good deal to do with the spread of both.

The crab louse (or its eggs) one person to another by direct contact, but can also be transmitted by exchanging clothing, or using bedding in which the lice or eggs have been left by someone else. This has to be an immediate, or a prompt exchange. It is doubtful that either eggs or the louse itself will survive in clothing or bedding, even if unwashed, after any period of time.

Swapping clothing, living in "communes" and close physical contact with others all contribute, evidently, to the spreading epidemic.

As to getting rid of lice, there are any number of home remedies which may or may not do the job in a given case, but keep this in mind: getting rid of the lice will be only temporary if they have laid any eggs that later will hatch a new crop.

They lay eggs by attaching them with a very sticky substance to shafts of hairs, so it is extremely difficult to wash the eggs away.

Most effective remedy, which kills both lice and eggs, is a material called Kwell, but as it requires a prescription, you'll have to get it through a doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several years ago a book was published about a "grape cure" for cancer. Yesterday a group of family and friends were discussing the curative power of grapes. I say you might as well eat a banana or an orange, and the effect on the cancer would be the same. Is there any proof of this grape thing? — K.E.

No, none. There is no evidence that diet of any sort can cure cancer. (But surgery, radiation and chemotherapy often can.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If the uterus has been removed by hysterectomy but the cervix remains, is it still necessary to have a yearly Pap test? — R.R.

It's a very wise precaution to do so.

Low blood sugar — a puzzler until correctly identified — is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of his booklet, "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Labor And Strauss

WASHINGTON — Organized labor's operatives who helped elect Robert Strauss Democratic national chairman nine months ago have a private new grievance against him: his formula for distributing funds from the national party telethon will benefit "new politics" forces dominating the state parties in California and New York.

THE SEPT. 15 telethon, expected to net over $2 million and possibly twice that amount, is Strauss's pride and joy. He sees the healing balm of money joining party regulars and reformers in joyous solvency. But sharing precious dollars with his foes, Strauss's labor supporters grumble, is only the latest example of his compulsive desire to appease his enemies while neglecting his friends.

This is the heart of the steadily escalating unhappiness between Strauss and Alexander Barkan, head of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE). Big labor's political operatives feel Strauss was elected not as a unity candidate but as the vehicle for traditional Democrats to regain control following the McGovernite revolution. Consequently, they resent Strauss's role as honest broker between all factions.

COPE IS not Strauss's only ally within the party. Moderate governors who worked hard to elect him — particularly Govs. Wendell Ford of Kentucky, David Hall of Oklahoma and Dale Bumpers of Arkansas — are delighted with his efforts at conciliation. So are congressional party leaders.

Thus, growing alienation between Strauss and political representatives of AFL-CIO president George Meany is certainly not fatal. "Like sinus," explains a Strauss lieutenant, "it hurts like hell, but won't kill you". However, the split ultimately undercuts the common goal of both Strauss and COPE: returning the Democratic party to the center in time for the 1978 election.

JUST HOW much this alienation involves tactical disagreement can be seen in the current, largely concealed irritation over distributing telethon funds. Strauss's formula: one-half to the Democratic National Committee, one-half to states in proportion to their contributions to the telethon. In his opinion, that distribution will energize state party organizations and bridge ideological gaps. Labor critics grumble that the effect of the Strauss formula is to turn money contributed by traditionalists in California over to Burton's new politics.

FOR FEAR of endangering the telethon, that particular complaint is not being formally voiced.

Moreover, well known is Barkan's unhappiness over Strauss's neutrality in intraparty contests lost by COPE: elections of a national Young Democrats president, the head of the national state chairmen's organization and new members of the party's executive committee.

Valenti Notes Film Ratings 'Acceptance'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The five-year-old film rating system has been criticized by outraged religionists and confused parents. But the system's parent, Jack Valenti, claims that the ratings have reached their highest level of acceptance. Valenti, former White House aide and now president of the Motion Picture Association, announced results of a nationwide survey of 2,600 Americans. —55 per cent of all citizens found the ratings useful, a rise of 11 points over 1972. —64 per cent of regular movie-goers found the ratings useful, a nine-point rise. "This survey by Opinion Research Corp. shows that in spite of the flaws in the rating system, people like it," Valenti said. "The most encouraging part of the survey is the indication that after five years the ratings have accomplished almost saturation in public awareness. Eighty-seven per cent of the total public was aware of the ratings, and 96 per cent of the movie-going public. With teenagers who go to the movies, it was 97 per cent."

The ratings were instituted in November, 1968, after Valenti took over as head of the association. For a half-century, there had been no restrictions on theater attendance in America. When film makers sought more freedom to deal with adult subjects, Valenti introduced the tag of "Suggested for Mature Audiences." Movies became more mature — and sexier — and the rating system was established. Films are classified G (general audiences), PG (parental guidance), R (restricted, children must be accompanied by adult), and X (children forbidden).

There was confusion in the early years of the ratings. The second rating was changed from M to GP to PG. Some citizens thought the G meant a children's picture (not necessarily). Others thought the X denoted a porno film (not necessarily).

"One of our biggest problems has come from the fact that the X is the end of the line," said Valenti. "Many people do not differentiate between an X for a genius like (Stanley) Kubrick and an X for a two-bit porno maker."

Another problem has been the public's failure to distinguish the reputable film companies from the porno makers. "Our companies don't make obscene films," Valenti declared. "But many people lump all film makers with the kind of people who make 'Deep Throat.' A public relations campaign to correct that notion would be difficult to achieve."

Stock Theft Arrest Made

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A Dallas, Tex., man has been arrested by the FBI here after he reportedly attempted to sell stolen Westinghouse Electric Corp. stock certificates valued at more than $270,000. FBI spokesman Joe D. Jamieson said Ralph Waldo Heffler, 49, was arrested after he offered to sell the certificates to an undercover FBI agent.

Jamieson said the 8,000 shares of stock Heffler allegedly offered to sell were identified as part of a shipment of certificates stolen in Illinois nearly five years ago.

Heffler was to be arraigned today on charges of interstate transportation of stolen property.

He Lost That Magnetic Touch

BOSTON, England (AP) — A thief tried to steal a safe containing $7,500 in a scrap merchant's office here by hoisting it through the roof with a giant electro-magnetic crane. He was caught before completing the job and was fined for causing damage to the roof.

Eucalyptus Bill Running Into Fire On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (AP) — An emergency eucalyptus bill, aimed at avoiding a big blaze in the East San Francisco Bay Hills, is running into fire on Capitol Hill amid a battle over federal aid.

Backers argue the bill is needed to avert or lessen the possibility of a disaster from dry trees filled with highly combustible eucalyptus oil. Opponents claim the legislation would set a dangerous precedent and is inflationary.

PICK UP

"If the people of California believe that these eucalyptus trees represent the threat that they seem to think they do, we maintain that the state of California should pick up the $11 million tab out of its $850 million treasury surplus," said six Republicans on the House Agriculture Committee. They urged the House to kill the bill.

But the bill's supporters, including a majority of the Agriculture Committee, contended the legislation would help solve "an extraordinary problem not addressed under current interpretations of federal law — a threat of forest fire sweeping through a populated area carrying with it a high probability of major federal disaster despite exhausting local efforts to abate the threat."

Last December, an unprecedented freeze left a ghostly brown forest of some two million eucalyptus trees in the hills above Oakland and Berkeley, Calif. Thus, the committee reported to the House, 2,700 acres of trees ranging as high as 150 feet have been "transformed into a volatile fuel that carries the potential of a holocaust." Rather than "providing an unwelcome precedent in a direct grant of federal funds without additional local participation, the committee... feels that the more proper course is to provide additional federal funds, contingent on matching efforts within the state of California," the report said.

"Therefore, a Senate-passed bill was revamped by the House committee and is due to be put to a House vote on Tuesday.

TREE REMOVAL

As approved by the Senate, the bill would authorize up to $11 million in grants to state and local governments for fire suppression, tree removal and reforestation work on public and private land. In addition, it would authorize whatever money would be needed to reimburse property owners for costs of removing trees from their

Brokerage Raises OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission has approved increases in brokerage commission charges on all but the largest sales and purchases on the New York Stock Exchange.

The raises, 10 to 15 per cent, had been sought by the exchange, which said they would add as much as $300 million annually in revenue for member firms.

Many of the brokerage firms have reported falling revenues and operating losses since the first of the year.

The exchange said the new rates must be formally approved by its board of directors, who will meet next Tuesday, and by its members. Thus it is expected the higher rates will not take effect until about Oct. 1.

The new rates were approved by the SEC through March 31. They will remain in effect after that if the exchange meets certain conditions, such as allowing member firms to grant commission discounts on trades on which brokers provide only limited services.

The SEC said it will also act promptly to require that all brokerage commissions be competitively negotiated rather than fixed after April 30, 1975, if the exchanges themselves do not work out an end to fixed rates before then.

Currently, brokerage commission rates are fixed on all transactions up to $300,000 in value. The new plans approved by the SEC called for a 10 per cent increase in commissions on sales between $100 and $5,000 and 15 per cent on trades from $5,000 to $300,000.

Will Impose Allocation For Propane Gas Friday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The federal government will impose a nationwide allocation program for propane gas Friday and is considering the same controls on all petroleum products, an Indiana official says.

Robert C. Morris, executive director of the Indiana Department of Commerce, said he attended hearings in Washington last week on the propane allocation plan.

Morris said former Colorado Gov. John Love, President Nixon's energy director, told him at the time the propane allocation would be announced Sept. 14.

Morris said it will be implemented by the U.S. Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas under authority of the Economic Stabilization Act.

Some states, including Indiana, have expressed concern that a propane shortage might hinder grain drying, especially if it's a wet fall. Morris said the propane allocation is intended to equalize states' supplies in relation to their demand.

MAN WILL GO TO THE STARS? People In The News

DE KALB, Ill. (AP) — "Technology doesn't pollute, people do and technology is only answering the needs of people," says Skylab I commander Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr.

Conrad defended technology's growth at ceremonies Wednesday celebrating the 75th anniversary of Northern Illinois University.

Paul J. Weitz, Skylab I pilot, also attending the ceremonies, said he firmly believes that some day man will go to the stars.

"We have to do it. We have the means and civilization must reach out," he said.

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Refugio Sanchez, 70, and his blind wife are contemplating a vacation, perhaps a trip to Mexico, on a $500 reward he got for returning $6,000 in lost cash.

Sanchez, a retired railroad worker, found an envelope containing the money in downtown Billings last week.

"I look, I think at first maybe $200. I go home to find out," he recalled in halting English.

He and a son talked the situation over and decided to turn the money over to a bank. The bank found the owner.

"The bank man says he was a big farmer. He is an old man, about 80, and pretty rich," Sanchez said.

He mentioned the trip possibility when asked about what he plans.

Two Scholarships Made Available

ODESSA — Two $300 scholarships for creative writing students at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin in Odessa have been given by Arlington couples.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ware and Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt C. Turner are donors of the grants, which will be made annually. The funds may be used to cover tuition, fees and others expenses at UT Permian Basin, the only university in Texas to offer an undergraduate degree in creative writing.

Information about the scholarships may be obtained from James C. White, assistant professor creative writing, at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin, Odessa, Tex., 79762.

UT Permian Basin, an innovative, upper-level university offering only junior, senior and graduate level courses, is in its first year of operation. More than 1,000 students are enrolled in the first classes.

More Are Signed For Cub Scouts

More than 50 boys and a dozen leaders registered during the Cub Scout night observed Tuesday in various Big Spring elementary schools.

Guy Griffith, district Scout executive, said that the distribution was even and that interest was good. Parents of boys who could not be present are asked to call Griffith (263-7032) on how they can still register their boys (8-9-10 years of age) in Cubbing. Individual units will have membership rallies later.

A new unit which will serve the Cedar Crest area appears probable as a result of the Tuesday meetings.

A leadership training session will be held Tuesday 7:30 p.m. in the First Christian Fellowship Hall, Tenth and Goliad. All Cub leaders, and particularly those new to the program, are urged to attend, said Griffith.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A four-alarm fire caused an estimated $325,000 in damage late Wednesday to the Gateway Plaza Apartments under construction near Lackland Air Force Base.

Investigators blamed hot tar falling on a wood frame for the blaze, which required 75 firemen and 17 pieces of equipment to extinguish.

Weigh Executive Branch Proposals

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Members of the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission met again today, this time to consider proposals for a new constitution that would affect the executive branch of government.

In previous meetings the 37-member citizens commission has considered and made so-called "final" decisions on constitution provisions affecting finance, education, and the legislature. Still to be considered are recommendations for the judiciary, local government, and general provisions of the new constitution.

The commission has a deadline of Nov. 1 for complete proposed draft of a new constitution that can be sent state legislators in preparation for the Jan. 8 Constitution Convention.

Commissioners began work on the executive branch last Saturday with a 17-9 vote that said the governor shall be the state's chief executive and the executive department shall consist of the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, land commissioner and such other officers as the legislature may provide.

The governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general would be elected for four-year terms and the secretary of state would be appointed by the governor, subject to Senate Confirmation. The legislature would decide if the land commissioner would be elected or appointed.

Salaries of the officials in the executive department would be set by law and could not be reduced during their term of office.

OIL SHORTAGE — R. B. Phillips of Houston, executive vice president of the Gulf Oil Company, said in New Orleans Wednesday that figures indicate the entire oil industry is about 700,000 barrels a day short of distribution requirements for distilled products.

Finds TV Star In Hotel Eyeing Huckleberry Finn

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's newest star lay on a bed in his hotel room here, watching "Huckleberry Hound." His chin rested in his hands. He was deep in thought.

"Ricky, come here a minute," the star was told. "We've got someone we'd like you to meet."

Whereupon Ricky Segall, age 45, got up, clicked off the TV set and made as grand an entrance as one can make when he's only 3 feet 3 and weighs in at 40 pounds.

UW Chairman Stays Busy

J. D. NELSON

"If you want something done right, look for a busy man." This is an old saying and it certainly holds true in the selection of the chairman of this year's United Way fund.

The fund drive is headed by J. D. Nelson, president of Security State Bank and very active in civic affairs the five years he has been in Big Spring.

He currently is chairman of the public affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, president of the congregation at St. Paul's Lutheran Church and vice president of the Country Club.

This is in addition to helping with the industrial foundation and many other civic projects that arise. He has been active in the Kiwanis Club "but haven't had much time to attend in recent months."

He and his wife, Pauline, have two children, Sandy, 11 and Scott, 8.

Born in Dublin, he started his banking career at the First State Bank in Abilene. He also has been with the state banking department in Austin and the City National Bank and Trust in San Antonio and was president of Stonewall National Bank in Corpus Christi and Tarrant State Bank in Fort Worth. "I have a lot of faith in Big Spring and the generous attitude of its citizens and feel sure that everyone will join together to make this year's campaign a success," Nelson stated.

Scout Camporee Opens Oct. 5

A Scout camporee for the Lone Star District has been set up for Oct. 5-6.

The overnight campout will be at the Roundup grounds off Driver Road just south of the VFW Hall. Units will register from 4 p.m.-7 p.m. and have campsites assigned.

Saturday will be given over to games and contests, and at 2 p.m. (Oct. 6) Cub Scouts will join the group and have a field day. Both will have a big campfire program in the evening to climax the camporee.

Murder Charges Hit 'The Old Man'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A Bexar County grand jury has indicted Federico G. Carrasco, reputed narcotics figure, in the death of a peer who police have said kept $87,000 of Carrasco's underworld receipts for himself.

Carrasco, 33, nicknamed "The Old Man", was indicted on charges of murder in the March 10 slaying of Gilberto "The Cow" Escobedo, 32.

Carrasco also was indicted Wednesday on charges of unlawfully carrying a firearm July 22 when officers swooped down on the El Tejas Motel and arrested him. He was wounded in the fracas.

More than $1 million in bonds are hanging over Carrasco's head, as he sits in the Bexar County jail. Before July 22, he was the local authorities' No. 1 name on their wanted list.

Escobedo was killed by a gunman who burst into a South Bexar County bar where Escobedo was sipping a beer. Escobedo was one of five men police listed as Carrasco associates who died in the past several months.
