Dutch Can't Get Enough Of Show

Reviewing the . . .
Big Spring Week
... with Joe Pickle

The revival of the Howard County Fair, after a lapse of a score of years, succeeded beyond the most optimistic dreams. There's no way of pinning down attendance, but probably 20,000 — maybe considerably more — turned out during the six days of the event. None of this could have been done without the help of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo Association, which made its grounds and arena available, the Howard County Commissioners Court, and of course, the top fair officials and oodles of people helping them.

People like Johnnie Walker, president, Buddy Barr, president-elect and general superintendent, Gerald Miller — probably as much responsible for reviving the show as anyone — Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskins, Bruce Griffith, Ronnie Wood, M. A. Snell, Neil Fryar, Lloyd Robinson, Mabel Kountz, and many others simply took the week off and gave 10 to 14 hours a day to the fair.

After a crisp day Monday, it appeared that late summer had returned, much to the benefit of crops. But Friday unexpectedly, but dependably, came up with another shower which farmers would just as soon not had, but which brightened the

Pilots Criticize Biggest Airport

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (AP) — Members of the Air Line Pilots Association (ALPA) at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport dedication Saturday criticized the new facility, the world's largest.

"It is the most nearly perfect airport in the country but there still are problems," said Braniff International Capt. Bill Alford, chairman of ALPA's airport evaluation team.

Some of the problems outlined by Alford include the 11-story hotel being constructed in the center of the $700 million airport. Runways have been placed on each side of the hotel.

Alford called the hotel "a high risk encroachment" in the air space.

"It introduces an element of anxiety into the cockpit," he said. "We are opposed to the hotel. It should have been spread out over the ground like a motel—a low profile," he said.

Alford also complained of sharp, 90-degree turn taxways.

Yet, he said airport planners followed 75 to 80 per cent of ALPA's recommendations for design, and the airport will be far ahead of anything in the United States in the coming decade.

Houston Man Wins Texas Chilympiad

SAN MARCOS (AP) — Randy Fletcher of Houston was chosen the state's champion chili chef Saturday at the 4th annual Texas Chilympiad for his specialty, "just plain old chili."

He will now compete in the World Chili Cookoff at Terlingua in West Texas in November.

Death Of Fem On Capsized Boat Probed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two Seventh-day Adventist teachers were reported in high spirits Saturday after a British vessel rescued them from a two-month odyssey of hunger and death aboard a capsized sailboat in the Pacific Ocean.

The survivors, James Fisher, 26, of Auburn, Wash., and Robert Timinenko, 34, of Longview, Wash., told rescuers Friday that Timinenko's wife, Linda, 24, died Aug. 11 — one month after the 31-foot trimaran capsized in heavy seas off Cape Mendocino in Northern California.

The cause of death was not immediately known and the body was not aboard the homemade, tri-hulled Triton — bound for missionary work in Central America.

INVESTIGATED
"The death is under investigation. But we don't want to bring on a relapsed condition by mentioning it now. We speculate the body was jettisoned," said a Coast Guard spokesman here.

The two lived on canned sardines, peanut butter and rain-water as they huddled under a canvas shelter rigged between the main hull and one of the smaller pods, the Coast Guard said.

They were rescued by the British container ship Benalder "in a weak but unusually good condition despite their ordeal," said Lt. Cmdr. John Lynker.

Lynker said the two were not even sunburned. "If they had been exposed all that time to the sun, they never would have made it."

Car Interior Is Damaged

A leased car used by Mrs. Ann Groebel, who helped the police in developing a marijuana sale case here, was discovered with its interior smoldering Saturday morning.

Kitchen matches were found in the back and front seat of the car parked by the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Groebel Jr., 2100 Cecilia St., Leroy Spires of the police department reported.

Also found were burned paper and cigarette butts. Police believed a coat hanger or like instrument was used to break into the car.

A fire truck was dispatched to the scene at 11 a.m. Saturday. But Howard Dodd, fire marshal, who does not work weekends, had not been contacted late Saturday afternoon.

Would You Like To Join 22 Who Won At Bingo?

Newspaper bingo, the lucrative game which has already helped 22 local adults get something for nothing, goes into its eleventh week today with $50 in bingo bucks in the jackpot for the winner (s).

Readers of the Big Spring Herald may play by picking up free bingo cards, red in color, from any of the 30 participating merchants. Look for bingo bugs which appear each day in the newspaper ads of these merchants and in the classified ad section.

Each bug comes with a bingo number. Each time a bug appears with a number that is on your bingo card, cross that square out. If you can match all the numbers on your card with those of the bugs in that week's paper, you have a "bingo" and are a winner.

If you win, bring or mail your card along with your name, address, phone number and the store where you got your card to The Herald office, 718 Scurry, Box 1481 by 5 p.m. Monday of the following week. This week's game, Sept. 23-29,

Martha Mitchell: I Want John Back

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell says she wants her husband back.

The wife of John N. Mitchell, the indicted former U.S. attorney general, said in a television interview that she feels "abandoned" and "mentally tortured."

"Well I guess he's mad at me for throwing his clothes out for one thing," Mrs. Mitchell told Claire Crawford of NBC News in the interview taped here Friday for broadcast Sunday night.

"And then I think he just, he thinks that I'm just overly wrought and that I should have, have some kind of care," she said in her spacious Fifth Avenue apartment. "But I'm not, I'm not at all . . ."

"GOT MAD"

Mrs. Mitchell said the clothing incident involved throwing a "few ties and a few shirts" into a foyer because "I got mad like any woman does" after no one bothered to inform her about a postponement of her husband's trial.

Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans are under indictment on perjury, obstruction and conspiracy charges in connection with a secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign by fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco.

The former attorney general reportedly left his apartment two weeks ago.

Asked: "Would you like him to come back?" Mrs. Mitchell said: "Of course, of course."

"The suggestion of divorce has only been through the media," Mrs. Mitchell said, complaining that "somebody mimics my voice all the time." Late-night telephone conversations from Mrs. Mitchell to reporters have been widely published in the past.

Asked why she granted the interview, she responded:

"TAKE CARE"

"Well the reason I agreed was because of these, these nasty horrible stories that these lawyers have put out against me and, number two, that my mail has now begun to say they're sorry I'm in the hospital, to please take care of myself . . ."

Ancient Monastery Saved From Developer Machines

MIAMI (AP) — An 800-year-old Spanish monastery brought stone by stone to the United States 50 years ago has been saved from developers' bulldozers by a man who paid $400,000 to keep it in "the hands of the Lord."

The old building, brought over by millionaire-publisher William Randolph Hearst, was built near Segovia, Spain, in 1141 to celebrate Spanish victories over the Moors.

It had survived wars and revolutions for eight centuries, but the Miami churches that owned it ran into financial difficulties and it seemed developers' plans for high rise buildings would accomplish what cannons could not.

But Col. Robert L. Pentland made the donation to the Episcopal Diocese of Southeast Florida so it could take full ownership of the monastery, which had been owned jointly by three Episcopal dioceses.

"I thought it was a shame to let it get out of the hands of the Lord," said Pentland, who visited the monastery for the first time in August on his 74th birthday.

A condition of Pentland's gift prohibits the future sale or disposal of the monastery.

"The diocese here owns it until the Lord comes and closes it up," he said.

After the monastery was built in the foothills near Segovia by order of King Alfonso VII, it was occupied for almost 700 years by Cistercian monks.

In 1835 it was seized during a political uprising, and the Spanish government sold it to a farmer who used it as a stable and grainary.

In the 1920s Hearst bought the monastery for $500,000. Its 35,784 stones were dismantled, numbered, packed into 10,751 crates and shipped to New York.

The stones were packed in straw from an area in Spain where hoof-and-mouth cattle disease had been discovered. So the U.S. Department of Agriculture forced Hearst to leave the stones in quarantine while he spent $75,000 having the straw removed.

Hearst lost interest in the monastery, and when he died in 1951 his heirs turned it over to Gimbel's department store in New York City, which at one time advertised it for sale for $19,000 — marked down from $50,000.

The monastery was bought by two businessmen who turned it into a tourist attraction in North Miami Beach in 1952. But the tourists never came and in 1965 the Episcopalians bought the monastery and began holding regular services there.

HC Fair Draws To Close With Horses On Parade

You still had to walk around persons clustered at booths and about 500 were watching the cutting horse contest Saturday night as the first Howard County Fair in about 20 years drew to a close. Children and parents packed the Midway.

Rene Slape, a Big Spring girl, was injured in the pole bending contest Saturday afternoon, but fair association officials did not believe she was seriously injured. She was taken away for treatment by private automobile.

Even before the fair drew to a close, and it exceeded expectations in attendance and participation in every way, officials were making plans for an even bigger and better fair in 1974.

Cutting contestants were separating calves at press time Saturday.

Saturday's horse show results included:

already great outlook for ranchers. It couldn't have been better for the small grains.

Our United Way campaign is getting along well — already about a third of the way to the goal. The tempo, however, will need to step up if we are to complete on time, and the key to it all is your having a fair share. When you don't then that means you're shoving part of your load as a citizen on somebody else's back.

Representatives of a major manufacturing firm made a second visit here during the week to confer with members of the Big Spring Industrial Team. This unnamed prospect, however, is being courted vigorously by other West Texas points.

Our salutes to Jill Rhymes, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Pete Rhymes, and Terry Allison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Birt Allison — they were announced last week as National Merit Scholar finalists from Big Spring. That's being in the academically elite of the nation.

The Community Concert was near its minimum target Saturday to underwrite the budget for the season's series, but the association needed just a little more support from the community in the form of memberships. It is tremendously important that this contribution to our community life be sustained.

Trustees have a vacancy to fill on the Howard County Junior College board. Paul Adams, who farms in the north-west part of the county, resigned for reasons of health after 17 years of service on the board. In his quiet way, Adams made a fine contribution to the college during its period of great expansion, and few, if any, were more faithful than he.

Speaking of HCJC, the faculty is beginning its self-evaluation study, a year-long project which is required at least once a decade of approved colleges. Gary Grant is chairman of the group, which is broken into nine sub-sections on standards.

We were lucky during the week despite a rash of traffic mishaps. Several including one at Seventh and Gregg, could just as easily have resulted in serious casualties.

If the Big Spring Steers concentrate on playing the opposition instead of beating themselves, they may be a salty bunch. They had the game with Snyder seemingly won when serious mistakes and lost noise turned the game around. Before we could recover, it was too late. Nevertheless, fans can be assured they won't suffer from boredom while watching Bob Burris' boys play. They're getting better each game.

Crops Suffer Hail Damage

Spotted rains which brought hail to West Knott and East Knott hit Howard County Friday afternoon. Rain missed Ackerly, starting about three miles north of Knott. Mrs. John Jones, Knott, said, following a drive through the area.

In Knott, the John Jones measured 1.2 inches of rain with "lots of hail." Worst damage to crops was located west Knott in a strip about three-quarters of a mile wide.

Also getting hail was land between West and East Knott. Coahoma residents counted one inch of rain. Four and one-half miles northeast of there, Wendell Shive registered the same amount.

The Lomax Gin got 0.8 of an inch. None fell on the Muleshoe Ranch south of Vealmoor.

Near Forsan, on the Tubbs farm, 1.3 inches pelted the ground, while at Lee's Store, only a sprinkle was felt.

With around 2 inches were St. Lawrence, Midkiff and E. P. Driver's Ranch south of Midland. In Stanton, Cap Rock Electric Co-Op reported 1.3 inches.

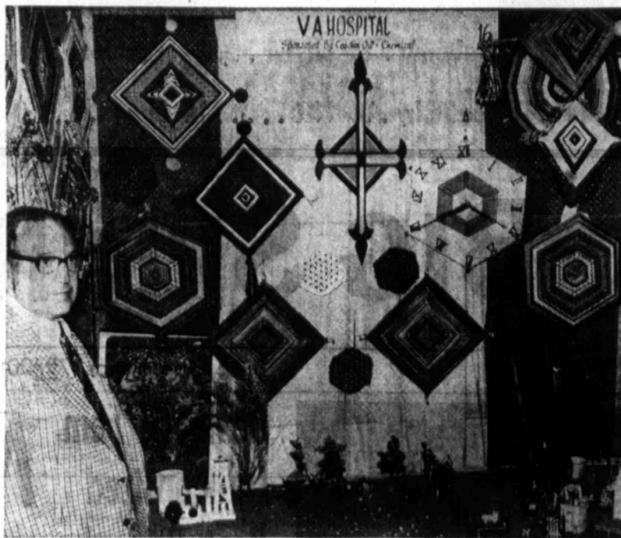

In Big Spring, Tommy Hart found 0.9 of an inch in his gauge, and a Western Hills home owner showed 0.7 of an inch.

Texas Electric Service Co. saw .69 fall at its switching station.

Man Hospitalized After Shooting

Richard Chavarria was in Medical Center Memorial Hospital with a stomach gunshot wound received at 10:30 p.m. Friday. Police said an unknown caller requested an ambulance pick up Chavarria on Lower Main St.

Further details were not immediately available. And investigation is continuing.

WINNING BOOTH — The sweepstakes award for best non-commercial booth at the Howard County Fair went to the Veterans Administration Hospital booth which showed the handiwork done by patients at the hospital under the recreational program here.

U.S. Is Keeping Distance In Chile Relationship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public suspicion about U.S. involvement in the downfall of the Allende government are likely to preclude overt displays of American friendship toward Chile's new military junta for the foreseeable future.

This is the assessment of informed American officials, who admit to a sense of frustration over the persistence of charges of U.S. complicity in the coup despite repeated official denials.

More than 15 countries have announced a renewal of relations with Chile in the wake of the change of command in Santiago.

But the United States is not among them, notwithstanding the ideological affinity between Washington and the junta's anti-communist rulers.

Officials say, however, that an announcement of a "continuation of relations" with Chile is expected shortly. There will be no announcement of diplomatic recognition per se because this often is interpreted as a gesture of approval of a new government, according to officials.

For the future, Washington is expected to offer only modest amounts of aid to Chile.

Among the reasons given is that the U.S. government, although cognizant of Chile's need for substantial outside assistance, must keep its profile down because of its continuing vulnerability to charges it inspired the coup.

So persistent have these accusations been that some U.S. officials say they find the coup more of an embarrassment than a political plus.

At least a dozen senators and congressmen have expressed skepticism over White House and State Department assertions of non-involvement in the coup. There have been two calls for congressional investigations of the U.S. activities in the days before the takeover.

There have been charges that the Nixon administration provoked the ouster of President Salvador Allende's through a policy of economic denial. The CIA was accused of financing a prolonged truckers' strike that contributed heavily to Chile's economic disarray.

He is survived by his wife, Ollie, of the home; a son, J. L. Christensen, Big Spring; a daughter, Mrs. Jeannette Bogard, Big Spring; three sisters, Mrs. Edna Wilson, Tyler, Mrs. Madge Pool, Lelia Lake, Tex., and Mrs. Elizabeth Snow, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A son, Edward G. Christensen, died during World War II in England. In addition, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren survive.

Each year the "Blue Danube," yellow brown and polluted, picks up an estimated 80 million tons of soil as it flows 1,900 miles from Freiburg in West Germany to the Black Sea. Along the way, it washes soil from West Germany, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Romania.

The silt is deposited at the delta, and of new territory created by the Danube dirt each year the Soviet Union gets 65 per cent due to the geography of a World War II land settlement. Romania gets the rest of the new land.

Fifty miles before flowing into the Black Sea the Danube breaks into three main branches, forming a triangular delta.

To the south is the St. George Arm. In the center is the Sulina Arm, dredged and straightened to handle ocean-going ships. These two branches, once the major delta land builders, now account for only 35 per cent of the Danube flow.

On the north, flowing between

And twice over the past week, the assistant secretary for inter-American affairs, Jack Kubisch, has had to rebut allegations he celebrated Allende's ouster at a sumptuous feast he shared with American businessmen within 24 hours after the coup. Kubisch says the luncheon had been on his calendar for a month.

The State Department has denied all charges. It has sought to depict its policy toward Allende as one of steadfast forbearance in the face of Chile's nationalization of $700 million in U.S. property and its defaulting on $100 million in debt repayments.

For Catherine, Nathan and Steven, it was the first time they had eaten orally. They had been fed intravenously since birth.

Strauss To Factions: Don't Rock The Boat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Party chairman Robert Strauss let the Democratic reform commission know Saturday that he expects it to come up with acceptable rules for selecting 1976 convention delegates.

In a speech to the Commission on Delegate Selection and Party Structure, Strauss also warned opposing factions in the ideological struggle not to rock the boat.

"Democrats are not battling now," Strauss said. "There are a few Democrats who would put up straw men to knock over, but most of us are moving in the same direction."

"I think there is 85 to 90 per cent accord in this room," Strauss said. "I don't think the rules you come up with are going to please me 100 per cent. I would be surprised if anybody is ecstatic with all of them. But I think we will be ecstatic with the over-all thrust of it."

STRONG ACCORD — Strauss told the commission to avoid ideological battle lines and labels and not succumb to what he termed a tendency to paranoia in revising the controversial delegate guidelines.

"We know we made mistakes in 1972," Strauss said. "And Senator McGovern suffered, the party suffered and, God knows, the nation suffered from it."

In a conciliatory move of his own, Strauss agreed to seek another legal opinion on the status of the commission, this time from former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg.

An opinion released Friday from party counsel Sheldon Cohen said the 1972 McGovern Commission guidelines are no longer in effect and that anything this commission drafts is subject to review by the Democratic National Committee.

The reform element of the party holds that the 1972 rules remain until they are revised or renewed by the present commission.

Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., who succeeded Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., as chairman of the previous reform commission, urged the new group to adopt a better method of settling credentials disputes.

Rep. James O'Hara, D-Mich., who was chairman of the 1972 convention's rules committee and the pre-convention Commission on Rules, suggested that major elected Democratic officeholders be made automatic delegates.

ABSENCE HURT — O'Hara said the absence of party regulars, many of whom were forced to seek election as delegates and lost in 1972 contributed to "a Democratic electoral disaster of unprecedented proportions."

The commission concluded two-days of discussions following six regional hearings held across the country during the summer. A drafting committee now begins drawing up the new guidelines. The commission will meet again next month to adopt the final rules.

Among those items almost certain to be eliminated or modified is the controversial "quota" system which required exact proportions of women, youth and racial and ethnic minorities at the 1972 convention.

The likely compromise will require every effort to enroll these elements but judge mathematical ratios.

Henry Kissinger First Jewish State Chieftain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger Saturday took the oath as secretary of state and pledged to work for "a world not based on strength but on justice."

President Nixon beamed his approval as Kissinger was sworn in by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger in the East Room of the White House.

Nixon said Kissinger assumed the office "at a watershed time in American foreign policy, at a time when America is at peace for the first time in 12 years, at a time when we recognize that the only thing more difficult than getting the peace is keeping it . . ."

Kissinger, 50, is the first Jew and the first naturalized citizen to serve as secretary of state. His father, Louis, his mother, Paula, and his brother, Walter, who fled with him in 1933 from Nazi Germany, were at the ceremony.

Mrs. Kissinger held the Bible for her son, a King James version presented and signed by the President.

"There is no country in the world where it is conceivable that a man of my origin could be standing here next to the President of the United States," Kissinger said in his brief speech. During the ceremony he received three standing ovations. Kissinger will work over the weekend on a speech to be delivered Monday at the U.N. General Assembly in New York. It will be examined in world capitals for any hint of change in American foreign policy.

Nixon named Kissinger last month to succeed William P. Rogers. The Senate confirmed the nomination Friday by a vote of 78 to 7.

Kissinger will remain a presidential assistant and divide his day between the White House and the State Department. He is generally believed to be the most powerful secretary since John Foster Dulles held the post 20 years ago.

The President, in introducing Kissinger, called him "a man who has the poise, the strength, the character to serve in this great position." Nixon added: "He can handle himself under considerable fire."

Kissinger said he and the President "have gone through many turbulent times" but never wavered in their objective: "to bring mankind closer to its eternal hope for a lasting peace."

Five Babies Show Gains In Struggle

DENVER (AP) — After nearly a week of an up-and-down battle for life, the five surviving Stanek sextuplets are becoming stronger by the hour, doctors say.

The doctors said Saturday that two of the tiny babies, Jeffrey and John, were in good condition and the three others, Catherine, Nathan and Steven, were satisfactory.

Dr. James Strain, a pediatrician, said he is encouraged by the steadily-improving health of the five. But he was reluctant to say the five have cleared all the hurdles faced by premature babies.

"Until they come off the respirators, I think we have to be cautious about them," Strain said. "As long as they need respiratory support, we have to be cautious." But he said "conditions are improving on all of them all the time."

Catherine, Nathan and Steven have been on respirators since birth. All three have shown symptoms of the lung ailment which killed Julia, the smallest of the sextuplets, on Tuesday night.

In the sophisticated nursery where the health of the five is monitored by as many as six doctors at a time, the babies were being fed donated mother's milk Saturday.

Seven Countries Losing Territory To Russians

PERIPRAVA, Romania (AP) — Ten miles east of this fishing village on the Danube River Delta, the Soviet Union is gaining territory from seven nations in West and East Europe.

Each year the "Blue Danube," yellow brown and polluted, picks up an estimated 80 million tons of soil as it flows 1,900 miles from Freiburg in West Germany to the Black Sea. Along the way, it washes soil from West Germany, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Romania.

The silt is deposited at the delta, and of new territory created by the Danube dirt each year the Soviet Union gets 65 per cent due to the geography of a World War II land settlement. Romania gets the rest of the new land.

Fifty miles before flowing into the Black Sea the Danube breaks into three main branches, forming a triangular delta.

To the south is the St. George Arm. In the center is the Sulina Arm, dredged and straightened to handle ocean-going ships. These two branches, once the major delta land builders, now account for only 35 per cent of the Danube flow.

On the north, flowing between

Traffic Pileup Is Nightmarish

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A gasoline tank truck that exploded after an accident at the juncture of two major freeways caused one of the worst traffic jams in the city's history, officials said. Authorities estimated that more than 100,000 commuters sat bumper to bumper — some up to six hours — after the accident halted traffic Friday at the interchange of the San Diego and Ventura freeways in the San Fernando Valley. The state Highway Patrol described the scene as "nightmarish." There were no injuries, authorities said.

Tough Recruiting Days Ahead For LS District

The Lone Star district for Scouting is virtually on target through August, but it has some tough recruiting goals ahead for the remainder of the year. Guy Griffith, executive, told the district committee at its monthly meeting Thursday at Coker's that the 850 boys now on roll is only 15 under the peg-point for end of August. But the goal for the year is 1,300 boys in Cub, Scout and Explorer units. The district is only three units off its goal of 50 for the year, and two ones are in sight, he said. It all boils down to a concentrated effort by boys to enlist other boys, and they will receive a Governor's patch when they do. Units, which now are setting recruiting goals, will get handsome banners when they succeed. A major event is coming up in the district Camporee Oct. 5-6 at the Roundup grounds off Driver Road. Scout troops will seek to meet certain standards in camping, meal preparation, skills and campfire participation. Cub packs will show up at 2 p.m. Oct. 6 for a big Field Day, and then Cubs and Scouts will join for the big campfire at 6:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend this, said Griffith. Arnold Marshall, district chairman, reminded that the quarterly Buffalo Trail Council meeting will be held here Thursday evening at the First Methodist Church. If there is sufficient interest, classes in environmental sciences will be organized, said Dr. Paul Koshi, conservation chairman.

Higher Prices, Bigger Imports In Rice Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rice growers can look forward to another year of high prices, spurred by rising export demand and more use of the food grain for U.S. consumer markets, says the Agriculture Department.

The 1973 rice harvest is expected to produce 93.4 million hundredweight, up 16 per cent from last year, but the department says that forecast was based on Sept. 1 indications.

Since then, officials said, some losses have occurred as the result of tropical storm Delia in the Gulf area.

But the indications now for rice exports in the year which began Aug. 1 to be recorded high at about 58.1 million hundredweight, up from 54.0 million in 1972-73 and above the old mark of 56.9 million set in 1971-72.

Prices of rice at the farm level recently have been more than $10 per hundredweight, a record, the department's Outlook and Situation Board said Friday in a preliminary report.

"Prices may weaken later in the season if Asia harvests a good rice crop, but for the full year ending next July 31 will likely average well above 1972-73's record of $6.73 per hundredweight," the report said.

Most U.S. rice is grown in Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and California, but there is lesser production in Mississippi and Missouri.

Domestic rice use in the 1973-74 marketing year was estimated at a record of 37.2 million hundredweight, up from 35.8 million last season.

Coupled with exports, that would mean a total use of 95.3 million hundredweight or less than the 1973 crop was estimated as of Sept. 1.

Assuming those figures, the rice reserve or carryover going into the 1974 crop next Aug. 1 would be 9.2 million hundredweight, up from 5.1 million at the beginning of the current season.

Trans-Atlantic System Could Be Overhauled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board announced today the start of an investigation that could overhaul the trans-Atlantic air transportation system and connect 16 new U.S. cities with Europe by direct flights.

Announcement of the hearings was made by CAB chairman Robert D. Timm during dedication ceremonies of a new international airport in Dallas-Fort Worth, Tex. The announcement also was released in Washington.

The investigation could bring new cargo carrying authority for chartered airlines and some changes in the route authority of airlines now flying the Atlantic.

Only 11 metropolitan areas now have direct passenger service routes across the Atlantic although Cleveland has direct trans-Atlantic cargo service.

The proposal before the CAB would add Dallas-Fort Worth, Hartford, Conn., Atlanta, Cleveland, Denver, Houston, Kansas City, Las Vegas, Nev., Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., New Orleans, Phoenix, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, San Diego, and Tampa, Fla., to that trans-Atlantic air system.

Residents of those cities who wish to journey to Europe now must take domestic flights to one of the cities with trans-Atlantic authority and change planes. With direct authority, the plane they boarded in their home town would take them directly to Europe, although it might stop in other cities before crossing the Atlantic.

The CAB also said Miami would be considered for new passenger services. Miami already has trans-Atlantic flights through National Airlines.

The board said it decided to investigate the trans-Atlantic route structure because of "increased congestion at many of the East Coast gateways and the continued increase in trans-Atlantic traffic."

Metropolitan areas which currently are served by trans-Atlantic routes are Baltimore-Washington, D.C., Miami, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia, Portland, Ore., San Francisco and Seattle. San Juan, Puerto Rico, also has a trans-Atlantic route.

Price Jump 'Temporary,' White House Reassures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says the latest jump in the cost of living is only temporary, and prices should soon taper off "to a reasonable level" under President Nixon's anti-inflation program.

However, Friday's report that consumer prices climbed another 1.8 per cent in August prompted sharp criticism of Nixon's economic programs by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Meany said the figures were "complete proof of the utter incompetence of this administration."

The 1.8 per cent increase — actually a 1.9 per cent hike on a seasonally adjusted basis — was the largest in 26 years, propelled upward by a 6 per cent increase in the price of food last month.

The government said these food price increases, especially sharp increases for pork, poultry and eggs, accounted for about 80 per cent of the August increase.

Gerald L. Warren, deputy White House press secretary, said Nixon "expects the steps we are taking to fight inflation... will bring about a decrease in the rise of inflation and solve this problem and bring the cost of living index down to a reasonable level."

Over the past six months, consumer prices have been climbing at an annual rate of about 10 per cent. But the Labor Department said grocery prices, seasonally adjusted, were higher in August than in any month since the government started keeping such records in 1946.

The report showed that meat prices increased 14.1 per cent, with pork alone climbing 28.4 per cent. The American Meat Institute immediately claimed the figures were "meaningless in relation to today's actual meat prices."

It said prices on many records have come down since records of mid-August. During August beef prices were frozen but prices of other meats soared.

Snyder Plans Celebration

SNYDER — The happy coincidence of the 25th anniversary of the discovery of the vast Canyon Reef oil field and the billionth barrel of oil to come from it will be celebrated here Oct. 8-13.

The reef formation, through which several wildcats had been drilled without detecting the fabulous reservoir, was tapped first in the fall of 1948. Now it appears that the billionth barrel of oil will surface during the celebration week.

Climaxing the week-long program will be the oil banquet Oct. 13 with television star Ken Curtis (Festus of Gunsmoke) leading a list of celebrities with Hi Buse and the Frontiersmen Quartet. Murphy Martin, anchorman for the WFAA-TV news room, will be master of ceremonies.

Ceremonies will include presentation of the "oil theatre," a parade, tours of oil facilities, a free barbecue, celebrity golf tournament and square dance festival. The banquet will be in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Heading the celebration committee are C. T. McLaughlin, oilman-rancher-banker, E. W. Schrader, H. W. Cargile, and Roger Mize, bankers. Pete A. Nikias, district superintendent for the unitized SACROC, is co chairman of oil exhibits.

UW Contributes $17,400 To Army

The Salvation Army serves as a clearing house for all transients and operates a transient lodge and clothing center in the county.

Salvation Army is one of various agencies supported by the United Way which has budgeted $17,400 for the organization next year.

Remainder of the Army's $42,500 yearly expenses must be financed through donations and proceeds of literature sales and church meeting collections.

Other services provided by the Salvation Army include visiting hospitals and operating a legal mercy service.

Three persons are on the payroll of the local branch. Capt. and Mrs. L. Z. Sullivan are commanders.

Mayor Candidate Gets The Sack

DETROIT (AP) — "I've been fired and I expected it," said Police Commissioner John Nichols, a candidate to succeed retiring Mayor Roman Gribbs in the November election.

Gribbs said he removed Nichols from office on Friday in an effort to separate the police department from politics after Nichols refused to resign.

Nichols emphasized the action was no reflection on Nichols' record as commissioner.

ACTRESS DIES — Diana Sands, an actress who gained recognition for her work in the screen and stage versions of "A Raisin in the Sun," the plays "The Owl and the Pussycat" and "Two for the Seesaw" and others, died Friday in a New York hospital at 39.

Eerie Death, Body Burning Investigated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The theft of a body and apparent burning of the corpse of a young rock singer has left authorities in two sections of Southern California searching for clues.

"It looks like something out of 'Transylvania, out of the legend of Count Dracula,'" one police official said Friday of the theft of Gram Parsons' body.

The remains were taken in a hearse from a loading dock at Los Angeles International Airport on Thursday.

San Bernardino County sheriff's deputies reported that a partially burned body and a casket were found 200 miles away Friday at a remote desert site near the Joshua Tree National Monument. A spokesman said the body was identified tentatively as Parsons'.

Even the death of the 27-year-old rock singer and musician — who played with such groups as The Byrds, the Flying Burrito Brothers and the International Submarine Band — has been shrouded in mystery.

Parsons was pronounced dead Wednesday at a hospital near the site where the body believed to be his was found.

An autopsy was performed, but authorities said its results were inconclusive.

The casket was taken from the airport while awaiting a flight to New Orleans for burial. Two men arrived at the dock in an old hearse and told attendants that Parsons' family had changed its mind and wanted the body flown from nearby Van Nuys airport, police said.

The body was turned over to the two men after they signed receipts for it, police added.

Parsons' relatives said later they had not changed their plans, said Los Angeles police Sgt. John Hamilton.

The burned body was discovered in the Mojave Desert after authorities were alerted by campers that "a log was burning near the monument."

Salem Cemetery Needing Funds

Salem Cemetery Association is in urgent need of funds, Earl Hull, secretary-treasurer, said Saturday.

The rain pattern has occasioned the need for frequent mowings and cleanup, so that all funds have been exhausted and put the association in the red.

He pleaded for those who have relatives or friends buried in the Salem Cemetery to send checks either to him at Route 1, Box 421, Big Spring, or to the Coahoma State Bank. Checks should be made payable to Salem Cemetery Association.

Borgnine Portraying Sadistic Conductor

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Ernest Borgnine wonders whether he would do as well playing the title role in "Marty" today as he did 18 years ago when he won the Academy Award for it.

Before "Marty," the burly actor was typecast as a villain. Since, Borgnine has played leading and supporting roles as well as — whenever he finds strong ones — villains. In his newest picture, "The Emperor of the North Pole," somewhere around his 60th film, he plays Shack, a sadistic freight train conductor.

"You don't find these kinds of villains every day," Borgnine said in an interview. "Villains are usually in Westerns or Vincent Price in a horror movie. When one comes along, shucks, I jump at it. It's another way of showing acting ability and versatility.

"I've never seen a man yet that didn't like to be a heavy. In a man's life there are times he'd like to kick somebody in the behind so badly it hurts. I've been able to take that out on fellow actors. Some men never get that opportunity. They have to go home and put a fist through a wall or take it out on the old lady.

"I will say, in my gallery of villains, they have become increasingly meaner. I thought Coley, who tormented Spencer Tracy in "Bad Day at Black Rock" was more brutal than Fats, who beat up Frank Sinatra in "From Here to Eternity." And Shack tops them all."

"Marty," Borgnine says, was made for a tax loss.

"They had made so much money from 'Vera Cruz' and 'Apashe' and 'Trapeze' that they had to lose some money somehow. So they figured they'd take a TV script, and although they couldn't get Rod Steiger they'd get hold of somebody — me.

'Tango', 'Tramp' Arriving Here

In "Last Tango in Paris," Marlon Brando is starring in the most emotionally charged role of his fabulous career. Starring opposite him is the new, young French actress, Maria Schneider. The picture opens Wednesday at the R-70.

When the Bernardo Bertolucci film for United Artists was being discussed it seemed unlikely that Brando, whose image as the virile sex-symbol of the fifties and sixties is scarcely diminished by time, would be willing to accept the role. Yet the star had just gone against all tradition to play the 63-year-old Sicilian-American crime chieftain Don Corleone in the screen version of "The Godfather." That performance won him the Academy Award for Best Actor.

Desolate at the unexplained suicide of his wife, he seeks to lose himself by completely obliterating his past.

Marlon Brando's screen career in 26 films has been meteoric and the highly personal acting style Brando brought to his roles were greatly to influence young American actors who competed with and later followed him. The early Brando screen image indeed still is reflected upon American youths.

The name was Mame, a down on her luck ex-showgirl with a heart of gold.

Mame was a character in Walt Disney's animated cartoon feature, "Lady and the Tramp," but the picture was in production during the Eisenhower administration and Walt decided on a definite change of name, so as not to offend the then first lady, Mamie Eisenhower. Tramp is billed Wednesday with "One Little Indian" at the Ritz.

All through the early stages of the film studio storymen called her Mame because of her predominant bangs, a characteristic of Mrs. Eisenhower. In the story she is a Pekingese and a former girl friend of the dog hero of the piece, who still carries a very bright torch for him and lets it be known during her sultry number, "He's a Tramp."

Walt looked around for a new name and Peggy Lee, who was giving voice to the vivacious blues singer, volunteered that she wasn't sensitive and he could call the character after her. Walt liked the sound of Peg and the switch was made.

In Cinema Scope and Technicolor, "Lady and the Tramp" is re-released by Buena Vista.

Although Brando had never met 31-year-old Italian director Bertolucci, one of the few films the actor had seen and greatly admired in recent years was Bertolucci's "The Conformist."

Brando responded immediately to the director's invitation to join him and producer Alberto Grimaldi in Paris while he was scouting locations for the new film written by Bertolucci and Franco Arcalli. Brando accepted the role without even reading the script.

Brando's Paul in "Last Tango in Paris" is an American who, after knocking around the world in a series of rootless occupations, finds himself in Paris. There he stays on in a run-down hotel to marry and help run the establishment.

Col. Theo Guy, Wife Separate

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Air Force Col. Theodore Guy, who brought court-martial charges in May against eight fellow returned prisoners of war, is divorcing his wife, Sue.

The Guys jointly filed a superior court petition here Thursday under Arizona's no-fault divorce law. The action came six months to the day after their tearful reunion following five years of separation.

The Guys, parents of three children ranging in age from 16 to 20, would have celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary Friday.

Guy filed charges against five Army and three Marine enlisted men he contended had "openly collaborated with the enemy." The charges later were dropped by the Army and the Marine Corps. One of the eight accused committed suicide.

THC Member To Address US 87 Group Wednesday

Charles E. Simons, member of the Texas Highway Commission, will address the business session Wednesday morning when the U.S. 87 Highway Improvement Association holds its 16th annual meeting here.

The gathering gets underway Tuesday evening with registration at the Ramada Inn, convention headquarters, and with a reception-buffet at 7 p.m. at the Big Spring Country Club.

Delegates are expected from Raton and Clayton, N.M., as well as from points in Texas all the way from Dalhart to San Antonio, Victoria and Port LaVaca.

Arrangements have been handled locally by the Chamber of Commerce highway panel headed by R. H. Weaver, and officers of the association, including Joe Pickle, president, and Charles Tompkins, secretary-treasurer.

Other program details will include the progress reports from vice presidents of the association; a film on highways, "The Turning Point;" and tips by Ed Colthrap, Abilene, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, tourist development specialist, on how to realize more from good highways.

A native of Indiana, Simons came to Texas as a young man when assigned to Austin as capitol correspondent of the Associated Press. In 1936 he took up dual duties of editor of the Texas Parade and director of public relations for the Texas Good Roads Association, and in 1942 executive vice president of T.G.R.A. He devised and managed the successful campaign for a constitutional amendment protecting highway-user taxes in Texas from diversion. He also was one of the fathers of the Texas public employe retirement program. From 1947-71, Simons served as executive vice president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association. Appointed in 1971 to the commission, he served until June 1973 as chairman of the Texas highway panel that looks after construction and maintenance of some 70 thousand miles of roads of all types.

Missouri Governor Turns Off Lights

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. Christopher Bond says he is turning off the lights in the governor's mansion each night just as President Lyndon B. Johnson once did in the White House.

There definitely is an energy shortage that will continue another five to 10 years, and Missourians must start conserving energy, Bond said Friday at a meeting of the Missouri Energy Council here.

He said he has urged that state-owned cars be driven no faster than 60 miles an hour to save gasoline, that state employes use car pools and that thermostats in state buildings be lowered in winter and raised in summer.

Publisher Dies

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Hazel Poole Sherman, 89, president of the company which publishes The Newport Daily News, died Friday. She was the widow of Edward A. Sherman, who bought the newspaper in 1918.

Aussies Buy Pollock Art

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York art collector has sold the Jackson Pollock painting "Blue Poles" to the Australian National Museum for $2 million. The price was the highest ever paid for an American painting, but Ben Heller said the deal nearly floundered because "I simply didn't want to sell it."

Heller, a close friend of the late Pollock, bought the 7-by-16-foot painting for $32,000 in 1956. He called it one of the best of the 20th century and said: "It has been a part of my life."

The collector said on Friday that he had closed the deal a day earlier with museum director James Mollison after "several months" of negotiations.

An official of the Australian government is to sign the papers next week, and the museum at Canberra will take delivery of the painting the following week, Heller said.

He said the museum had approached him to buy the work and credited the sale to "a key desire on their part."

"When I saw that they meant it, I was very uncomfortable," he said. "I was not anxious to part with it."

"Blue Poles" was acclaimed widely as a masterpiece at its unveiling in 1952. Pollock worked on the canvas for a year, using oils, duco and aluminum paint.

Heller earlier sold the Pollock canvas "One" to the Museum of Modern Art here for a reported $350,000.

The highest recorded auction price for an American painting was $250,000 paid in 1972 for "Steelworkers at Noon" by the 19th century artist Thomas Anshutz.

The Wyoming-born Pollock died in 1956.

Two Men Perish In Auto Crash

POTEET, Tex. (AP) — Two men died early today when their cars collided head-on eight miles north of this South Central Texas town on Texas 18.

Investigators identified the pair as Gilbert Vasquez, 24, of Poteet and Rudy Barentos, 18, of San Antonio.

Gas Dealers Demonstrate Ire Over Price Controls

Motorists had to cope with gasoline station closings in northern California and areas of Oregon and Washington State this weekend as thousands of dealers demonstrated their anger with Phase 4 price controls.

Protest closings also threatened to start next week in Maryland and Washington, D.C.

Tactics to deal with the federal price regulations were expected to be a prime topic when the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, representing gasoline dealers associations across the country, meets Sunday in Chicago.

The gas station operators are irked because Phase 4 controls currently bar them from passing on to customers recent hikes in wholesale gasoline prices.

In California, nerves were thin and minor traffic jams developed when motorists converged on stations still open Friday as word of the weekend shutdown spread.

Representatives of more than 3,000 northern California service stations had voted Thursday night to close until Monday to protest the price controls. In some areas north of San Francisco, as much as 90 per cent of the stations were reported closed.

In Glenden Beach, Ore., a shutdown by many local gasoline dealers prompted the takeover of an abandoned service station by National Guardsmen to supply fuel for cars of dignitaries during the Western Governor's Conference being held there.

The theme of the conference is "The Energy Crisis." A spokesman for Gov. Tom McCall said the conference was buying gasoline from Union Oil Co., which franchised the station until it closed recently.

In Ohio, officials of the Ohio Gasoline Retailers Association said the organization was not advocating shutdowns.

"We'd only be hurting our customers and, in the long run, ourselves," said Secretary-Treasurer Jerry Ives. "We have no quarrel with motorists who want to buy gas. Our fight is with our suppliers and the government."

Service station operators in Massachusetts were under a court order barring them from "acting in concert" in any protest shutdown over the Phase 4 controls.

A preliminary injunction issued Friday in Norfolk Superior Court extended a temporary restraining order granted earlier at the request of state Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn.

Dealers in some areas of the state had staged a three-day shutdown earlier this week. But the Automobile Legal Association said on Friday that it had no reports of gas station closings anywhere in Massachusetts.

Elsewhere, protest shutdown organizers in Utah predicted as many as 80 per cent of the state's gas stations would close over this weekend. Some 500 Houston, Tex., area dealers voted to close indefinitely starting Oct. 1. Houston has about 1,900 gas stations.

Revised Hospital Bids Accepted

COLORADO CITY — The Mitchell County hospital district board of directors in a special meeting this week voted to accept revised bids for the construction of two new wings on Root Memorial Hospital.

One wing will be a patient wing with 10 beds and the other will be a lobby wing. Both wings will be built on to the hospital along Chestnut Street.

Total cost of the expansion, including architect fee and furniture total some $370,000, all of which will be paid out of existing funds that includes a $100,000 gift last year from Mrs. Marion Bassham in memory of her husband B. D. Bassham.

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Ruby Newman, 70, longtime high society band leader and former music director and vice president of CBS radio, died Thursday. He was considered a close friend of Franklin D. Roosevelt and played at all the White House parties during that administration.

Two Catholic Schools Close

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — "The economic situation and not enough personnel" gets the blame for the closings of two schools in the Catholic Archdiocese of San Antonio.

A spokesman for the archdiocese disclosed Friday that a school in Seguin and another in Del Rio have closed. Last year, a school in Ganado and another in Hondo shut their doors.

Referring to the shortage of personnel, the spokesman said, "Some orders are pulling the sisters away from the schools and I guess there aren't enough people joining religious orders."

The archdiocese operates 77 parish, private and archdiocesan schools in South Texas, about half of which are in San Antonio.

Orioles Clinch AL East Title

By The Associated Press
The Baltimore Orioles clinched their fourth American League East title in five years by beating the Milwaukee Brewers 7-1 in Saturday's baseball action.

Baltimore's triumph, coupled with second-place Boston's 4-3 loss to Milwaukee, made the Orioles the first division-winner in the major leagues this season.

The Orioles earned a berth against the eventual winner of the Western Division in the American League playoffs starting Oct. 6 in Baltimore.

Rookie Al Bumbry tied a major league record with three triples to lead the Baltimore offense. He was the 32nd player in history to triple three times in a game. Only 13 others have done it in the American League.

Tommy Davis added four singles for the Orioles, supporting the seven-hit pitching of Doyle Alexander. Jim Colborn, making his third try for his 20th victory, was the losing pitcher.

The Tigers defeated the Red Sox with sharp relief pitching from Lerrin LaGrew. He struck out three batters with the bases loaded in the eighth inning to preserve the one-run lead.

Earlier, an error by Danny Cater at third base opened the door for four Tiger runs in the third inning. Mickey Stanley, Al Kaline, Frank Howard and Ike Brown drove in the runs.

Bert Blyleven registered his 19th victory as the Minnesota Twins won their fourth straight game with a 6-3 decision over the California Angels.

In the National League, the New York Mets beat the St. Louis Cardinals 2-0 and increased their lead to one game in the Eastern Division. The Pittsburgh Pirates dropped a half-game lower after their game with Montreal was postponed by rain.

Notre Dame Rolls, 44-0

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Junior quarterback Tom Clements scored a pair of touchdowns and passed for a third to lead a devastating Notre Dame attack Saturday as the Irish smashed visiting Northwestern 44-0.

The eighth-ranked Irish romped to a 37-0 halftime lead in their opening game of the season. The outcome was never in doubt after freshman defensive end Ross Browner blocked a Northwestern punt at the Wildcat 21-yard line and the ball sailed out of the end zone for a safety.

Notre Dame then took the Northwestern kickoff and powered 56 yards in seven plays for its first touchdown with halfback Art Best going for the final two yards.

Clements combined with split end Pete Demmerle for a nine-yard touchdown pass and scored on runs of one and three yards before retiring to the sidelines at the half.

Cincy Gains Tie For West Prize

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pete Rose slugged a two-run homer in the fifth inning, driving in the decisive runs in Cincinnati's 11-9 victory over Los Angeles Saturday, clinching at least a tie for the National League's Western Division championship.

The Reds lead the second-place Dodgers by 6½ games and can wrap up their third divisional title in the last four years by beating Los Angeles today.

Pack Scares Cornhuskers

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — North Carolina State fullback Stan Fritts hit Nebraska with a pair of touchdowns runs Saturday and it took a three-touchdown, fourth-quarter rally by the second-ranked Cornhuskers to defeat the Wolfpack 31-14.

Trailing 14-10 going into the final period, quarterback David Humm guided Nebraska on a 57-yard touchdown drive made good on Humm's one-yard sneak.

Sophomore back Tony Davis added another TD less than four minutes later, and Brent Longwell scored the final touchdown on an eight-yard pass from Humm.

For 14th-ranked N.C. State, the loss was the season's first after impressive victories over East Carolina and Virginia.

Quarterback Steve Runtz led Nebraska on two methodical downfield drives at the start, but both were halted by intercepted passes.

On the last play of the first quarter, Fritts found a hole in the center of the Husker line and rambled 59 yards untouched to score.

Humm was sent in then, and late in the second quarter guided Nebraska 99 yards on seven plays, capped by a 40-yard pass to a well-defended Frosty Anderson to tie the score. Twice thereafter, the lead changed hands before Nebraska clinched the win.

USC Claims 19th Straight

ATLANTA (AP) — Southern California's slippery Lynn Swann scored two first half touchdowns in leading the top-ranked Trojans to a methodical 23-6 triumph over inspired Georgia Tech Saturday and ran their unbeaten college football streak to 19 games.

The tough Tech defense, led by linebacker Witt Wisman, held highly-touted Trojan running back Anthony Davis to a mere 24 yards in 12 carries in the opening half.

Davis, considered a top Heisman Trophy candidate, got loose in the second half, however, and finished with 71 yards on 24 carries.

Southern Cal took a 14-3 half-time edge on the strength of Swann's touchdowns, while Tech received a 40-yard field goal from Cam Bonifay.

Quarterback Pat Haden of Southern Cal connected for his second scoring toss of the game with 3:09 to play, hitting John McKay on a 15-yard TD strike for some added insurance.

Earlier, Chris Limahetu booted a 20-yard field goal for the Trojans' other points. Bonifay added another 40-yarder early in the third period for Tech's other scoring.

Swann opened the scoring for Southern Cal's sputtering offensive machine by scampering 48 yards on a punt return with 1:06 remaining in the first period.

He later snared Haden's 15-yard scoring toss in the end zone with only 17 seconds left in the half.

Green 5-Shot Golf Leader

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Hubert Green fired his second consecutive course record equalling 65 Saturday for a 199 total after 54 holes and a five-stroke lead in the $100,000 B.C. Open Golf Championship.

As he did Friday, Green started out with a bogey five on the first hole, taking three putts. He birdied the second and fourth, then put together four from the mix through 12th and followed with another pair on the 16th and 17. His only other bogey came on the par-three 14th.

Going into the 18th, Green had a chance to break the course record which also was equaled in this tournament by Smith Thursday. But Green played carefully, and on the green in two and two-putted.

Green, of Panama City Beach, Fla., has won $80,801 this year on the PGA tour.

Greene bogeyed the fifth and sixth holes following a first-hole birdie and said: "The bogeys bothered me a lot."

He came back with birds on the 10th, 12th and 13th, with a bogey at the 11th. His last one-under regulation hole was the 17th.

Louisiana State Turns Back Texas A&M, 28-23

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — One-yard touchdown plunges by Brad Davis and quarterback Billy Broussard were enough for the Louisiana State Tigers, who held off a last-minute Aggie drive, to defeat Texas A&M 28-23 Saturday night.

The 11th-ranked Tigers fumbled the ball away several times in the first half and spotted the Aggies three points almost at the outset when A&M took advantage of a Tiger fumble, and kicker Randy Hadox kicked a 31-yard field goal.

LSU settle down in the second period as quarterback Mike Miley tossed an eight-yard touchdown pass to tight end Brad Boyd. With 52 seconds left in the half, freshman sensation Terry Robiskie ran it over from the one.

However, Hadox kicked two more field goals, one for 34 yards and another for 27, and the half ended with the Tigers in front 14-9.

LSU's Brad Davis drove over from the one early in the third quarter to seemingly ice the game at 21-9, but A&M quarterback Mike Jay opened up a 60-yard air attack and threw a potent TD pass to split end Carl Roaches to put the Aggies back in the game.

In the fourth quarter, LSU quarterback Billy Broussard ran it over from the one after an 80-yard, 13-play drive to make it 28-16.

But A&M began moving the ball again and halfback Skip Walker completed a 52-yard drive by scooting six yards into the end zone, and it was 28-23.

With just over one minute remaining, A&M started another drive, but the LSU defense stopped the Aggies cold on the Tiger 26, and time ran out.

LSU amassed 376 yards in total offense to the Aggies' 294, and had 20 first downs while the Aggies had only 12.

But the Tigers lost three fumbles to the Aggies' one, and had two interceptions while the Aggies had only one interception.

Tohill's Frogs Throttle UTA commands from the sidelines, as seven different players swept across the Maverick goal for touchdowns in the TCU season opener.

Doctors feared last March 14, as Tohill lay near death after a car wreck, that his coaching career had ended. The crowd greeted his return with a standing ovation.

Quarterback Kent Marshall, working from the new "I" formation, danced 20 yards to start a route punctuated by the running of ace back Mike Luttrell. Luttrell scored once from the one while netting 89 yards on 17 trips.

Gary Whitman and Jim McNeil skyjacked two UTA passes and returned them for touchdowns, Whitman 22 yards and McNeil, eight.

Interceptions Lead Mustangs To Victory Over Oregon State

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Southern Methodist turned three of four interceptions into touchdowns as the Mustangs mowed down Oregon State 35-16 in an intersectional football game Saturday.

SMU, 2-0, scored twice on interception returns. Safety Andy Duval ran 49 yards for a touchdown early in the third period and defensive end Clarence Danner went 11 yards for another score in the final quarter.

only a 7-3 margin over the pesky Grizzlies who had moved the ball surprisingly well although unable to score more than one touchdown.

Rice, of the Southwest Conference, also scored in the first on a 13-yard run by Gary Ferguson and added an insurance run on a one-yard plunge by John Coleman in the fourth quarter to put the game out-of-reach for the visitors from the Big Sky Conference.

Montana's points came on a 14-yard pass from quarterback Rock Svennungsen to Del Spear and a 49-yard field goal by Bobby Turnquist.

Rice had been expected to win handily but Sykes, kickoff return was one of the few highlights of the dull contest. The freshman halfback took the kickoff on the one, went up the middle, cut to the left about midfield and outran his nearest pursuer by several yards the rest of the way.

Rice scored on its first possession following a pass interception by Larry Medford at the Montana 42. Medford returned it to the 25. Quarterback Fred Geisler completed a pass to Ed Loftin to the 13, and Ferguson took a pitch-out and went around left end for the score.

Miami, Landry Seek Records

By The Associated Press
The Miami Dolphins go after the big number Sunday. And on Monday night, Tom Landry will be going after a pretty impressive number of his own.

Yes, Virginia, that streak is still alive. Miami may have been beaten twice in exhibition games—but exhibitions don't count. And in the ones that do count — regular season and playoff games — the Dolphins are still unbeaten and tied in the last 18 in a row.

When they beat San Francisco 23-13 in their season opener they matched the market set by the Chicago Bears in 1933-34 and equaled by the Bears in 1941-42. Now they go for No. 19 against the Oakland Raiders. And if they get it, they'll also tie the Bears' 1933-34 record of 17 straight regular-season victories.

The Raiders' first concern, meanwhile, is to even their own record this year. They're 0-1 after losing last weekend's opener to Minnesota.

Landry is one step away from membership in a relatively exclusive coaches club. Only nine of them have achieved 100 pro victories. Landry, for 13 years head of the Dallas brain trust, has 99, including last Sunday's 20-17 squaker over the Bears. The oddsmakers say No. 100 won't be nearly as difficult. They've installed the Cowboys as nearly three-touchdown favorites for Monday night's game against Sunday crusers, victims of Atlanta's 62-7 crushing last weekend.

Sunday's other games are Washington at St. Louis, Cleveland at Pittsburgh, Atlanta at Los Angeles, Minnesota at Chicago, Detroit at Green Bay, San Francisco at Denver, Philadelphia at the New York Giants, Buffalo at San Diego, Houston at Cincinnati, Kansas City at New England and the New York Jets at Baltimore.

Washington's Redskins wrecked Johnny Unitas' debut with San Diego by forcing seven turnovers — four interceptions, three fumbles — and sacking Charger quarterbacks eight times to establish themselves as the National Conference's defensive leaders.

Lacy Sparkles In Baylor Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Workhorse tailback Gary Lacy rushed for 167 yards on 39 carries — both Baylor records — and scored two touchdowns to lead the Bears to a 20-14 college football victory over the University of Pittsburgh Saturday.

Penn State Blanks Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Penn State, capitalizing on a fumble and two short punts, broke open their game with Navy with three second-period touchdowns and smothered the Midshipmen 39-0 Saturday.

The seventh-ranked Nittany Lions opened the scoring with just one second left in the first quarter as quarterback Tom Shuman hit split end Gary Hayman with a 17-yard pass to cap an 88-yard drive.

On the first play after the ensuing kickoff, end Greg Murphy recovered a fumble by Navy at the Navy 41-yard line, and the Lions took just 2½ minutes and five plays to get on the scoreboard again.

Penn State picked up two more quick touchdowns on drives of 60 and 51 yards after two short Navy punts.

The Lions added to the 27-0 halftime lead with a 22-yard field goal by Chris Bahr midway through the third quarter and went ahead 37-0 just before the period ended when substitute quarterback John Clark capped a 56-yard scoring drive with a one-yard keeper.

The final two points came on a safety when a snap from the Navy center sailed over Stufflebeem's head as he stood in the end zone to punt just before the game ended.

The loss spoiled the Panthers' home debut under Coach Johnny Majors, whose club tied Georgia in its opener. Baylor climbed to 1-1 after an opening loss to Oklahoma.

Baylor drove 91 yards for a touchdown in the first period, Lacy scoring from two yards out. He gained 66 yards in 17 carries on the march. The only pass on the 22-play drive was an 11-yard toss from Neil Jeffrey to Charles Dancer.

Lacy fumbled at the Pitt 24-yard line in the second quarter, but the Bears moved 68 yards for a second touchdown on their next series.

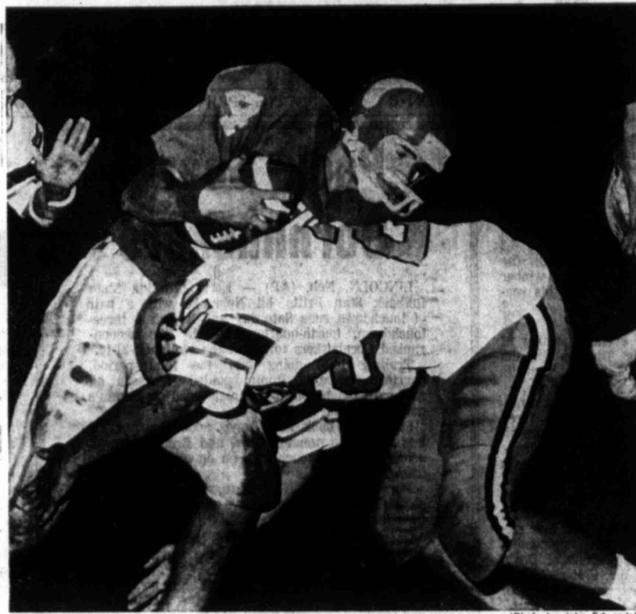

Jeffrey, who completed his only three first-half passes, keyed the drive with a 28-yard toss to Ken Townsend at the Pitt six. Pat McNeil took an option pitch from Jeffrey on the next play and slipped into the end zone.

Freshman Tony Dorsett countered for Pitt with a 32-yard touchdown run on the opening series of the second half, but Baylor put the game away with a touchdown drive that covered 99 yards in 18 running plays. Lacy drove one yard for the touchdown.

With 50 seconds left, Pitt quarterback Billy Daniels passed 34 yards to Rodney Clark for the final touchdown and Daniels ran for a two-point conversion. But Baylor ran out the clock after an unsuccessful inside kick.

When the Wildcats got to the seven, it was fourth and five yards for a first. David Standefer batted down a pass.

On the first Buff play, quarterback Bill Howard ran up the right sideline for the touchdown.

first half time. Scoring stood 13-0.

Breaking a tackle, Elvin Brown galloped 80 yards, stunning Wink on the first play of the second half. Eiland made it an even 20-0.

Wink Cats grabbed up 17 yards. Pressed for nine on third, Wink passed and the ball found Stanton's Crespina Luna. Luna darted for 16 yards with the intercepted pass.

Rushing stats grew on the Stanton side of the ledger although nothing came of the Buff drive, which ended at the visitor's 22.

Wink fumbled to Stanton a few plays later. The Buffs repeated this act. A low wobbly punt covered seven yards to the Cats good before bouncing back to the line of scrimmage, the Wink 23.

Standing up, Luna trotted three yards over to the goal. Eiland booted for the last point.

A Wink tackler almost had Vernon Brown snagged for a loss when the Buff reversed directions and sprinted 18 yards shortly before the game ended.

Alabama Rallies To Sink Kentucky In SEC Action

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Triggered by a 100-yard kickoff return by halfback Willie Shelby, Alabama overcame a surprising Kentucky lead for a 28-14 Southeastern Conference football victory Saturday.

The underdog Wildcats had built a 14-0 halftime lead, but after Shelby ran back the kickoff opening the second half to put the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide on the board Alabama completely dominated the rest of the game.

The underdog Wildcats made only one first down after intermission as the fired up Crimson Tide smashed every Kentucky offensive attempt.

Alabama, which had fumble trouble early in the game, was again driving toward the goal line at the end, but time ran out with the Tide on the Kentucky two.

Shelby also scored the Tide's final touchdown, capping a 31-yard drive in six plays.

Alabama drove 59 yards in eleven plays the second time the Tide had the ball in the third quarter to tie the game at 14-14. On its next series a 45-yard pass and a face mask penalty added a 75-yard touchdown drive.

Kentucky's only offensive spark in the second half came in the fourth quarter when the Wildcats drove from their 20 to the Alabama 14 but ran out of steam.

Kentucky's first touchdown was set up by an Alabama fumble on a pitch-out at Tide 30, and the Wildcats scored in five plays.

Red Raiders Crush New Mexico, 41-7

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech's Lawrence Williams struck New Mexico with two lightning touchdowns, including a 95-yard kickoff return, in the opening 93 seconds Saturday and the Red Raiders shocked the fumbling Lobos, 41-7, in a regionally televised football game.

Williams, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound junior from Wichita Falls, Tex., put two touchdowns on the board within a span of 74 seconds before New Mexico ran an offensive snap.

He was stopped at his own 20 on the game's opening kickoff, but New Mexico was ruled offside and had to kick again. Williams took the next kick and bolted up the sideline untouched thanks to a clearing block on the 50-yard line by guard Nick Cocas with 19 seconds elapsed.

Robert Davis of the Lobos bobbed the ensuing kickoff and Greg Waters captured the ball at the New Mexico 28. On third down, Williams slanted across the field and snared a 24-yard touchdown aerial from Tech quarterback Joe Barnes. The clock showed 13:27.

New Mexico fumbled nine times and lost five and suffered two interceptions.

When the Raiders, 10-point favorites, weren't recovering Lobo fumbles, they did a good job of making the best of their own miscues. Tech fullback James Mosley fumbled into the Lobo end zone, but tight end Andre Tillman was in the right spot to smother the ball for a touchdown, giving the Raiders a 21-first-quarter lead.

Tech's Don Grimes kicked two field goals of 41 yards each as the Red Raiders ran up a 27-0 halftime lead.

Sub Tech quarterback Jimmy Carmichael ran one yard for a touchdown and Mosley bulled across from two yards out for another score.

The victory gave the Southwest Conference Red Raiders a 2-0 record and an all-time 16-2 mark over the Western Athletic Conference Lobos now 1-1 for the season.

The only break New Mexico got all day was when tackle Fred Chandler recovered a fumbled punt by Randy Olson in the Tech end zone.

Football News Magazine has all kinds of neat things you can cut out and send back in to them if you're one of those kind of people who like to cut things out with scissors and send them back in. In this week's FN, you not only get a chance to win a free trip to the Super Bowl, but you can also help decide which college football player is best so they can send it in to the NCAA and the NCAA can then tell them to get lost.

On the playoff deal, you get your choice of three plans. Four, actually, if you decide you like the way things are now. There's Duffy Daugherty's plan, which would have all teams starting their season the first week in September and at the end of the 10-game slate representatives of the top conferences, and one at-large team, would begin a three-week playoff to decide the title.

Then there's the FN plan, which includes several minor conferences that Duffy's plan leaves out with a 16-game playoff format, and it incorporates the big bowl games into the system. And finally, Beano Cook (that's right, Beano Cook) says the top two teams in the polls should meet the week before the Super Bowl to decide the No. 1 team in the nation.

I think my plan is more exciting. It's colossal. It's all-American, it's, it's... it's a drawing. A huge raffle. At the first of the year every team that has ever aspired to be the national champion could buy a chance for $500, and in November they could hold this big drawing in Madison Square Garden. Maybe they could get Bobby Riggs or some other dignitary to draw the lucky team out of the barrel.

Don't you see? This way we'd break up the monotony of having either Southern Cal, Nebraska, Texas or Ohio State as the No. 1 team every year.

Can you imagine the excitement at D. C. Teachers College if their team, which would be a 117-point underdog if it were to play Nebraska today, could carry home the national championship plus a cool half-million dollars or so? And maybe the next year someone like Seton Hall or North Carolina A&T could win it. This could be a real shot in the head, er, I mean arm, for college football.

I'd better go down and get this copyrighted before someone else think of it...

Two ex-teammates at Big Spring High School, Jerry Knoepfel and J. T. Smith, will come together as enemies when the UTEP freshman take on the West Texas State Frosh Thursday at 8 p.m. in Midland's Memorial Stadium.

Knoepfel is a starting split end for the Miners, and will also be in on punt returns. The former Steer scored the only points for the El Paso school in a 34-6 loss to New Mexico last week, and he returned a punt 76 yards that was stopped just short of a TD.

Don't really know why they're playing in Midland, but you might like to see these two exes in action...

Speaking of former Steers, D. W. Powell has moved into the two-deep chart at East Texas State. The 6-4, 230-pound freshman is the No. 2 left tackle for the Lions. But Big Spring's Craig Brown, who has been listed at second team middle linebacker for three weeks, has been moved out of that spot.

Ropes Eagles Nab 26-13 Victory Over Mustangs

ROPEVILLE — Ropes jumped to a 20-0 first quarter lead and then held off the Sands Mustangs for a 26-13 non-district football triumph here Friday.

After the Eagles got to the shaky Mustang defense for the three quick markers, one of which was a 65-yard punt return, wingback Dennis Armstrong started Sands' comeback with a five-yard scoring run in the second period. Ray Franco's try for the extra point was no good.

The Mustangs got back into the game for good in the fourth quarter when David Zant hit Frosty Floyd with a 15-yard scoring strike, and Franco kicked the PAT to make it 20-13. But the hosts controlled the ball in the final minutes, and tacked on their final touchdown with six seconds remaining to 26-13.

Coach Jim Allen said the Mustangs' defense looked good "after it got cranked up," and singled out linebackers Victor Rodriguez and Andy Anderson, noseguard Terry Blakeley and tackle Domingo Cantu.

The offense continued to be mistake-prone, Allen said, making too many errors and getting too many penalties.

Sands, now 1-1, takes on the Buena Vista Mustangs Saturday in Imperial.

Loop Defeats Garden City

LOOP — Garden City's Bearcats turned their first possession of the night into points Friday night, but they couldn't follow up as the Loop Longhorns raced to a 26-3 1-B eight man victory.

Charles Puga rambled 15 yards with six minutes left in the first period for Garden City's score, and quarterback Mike Batla tacked on two extra points.

But Loop stormed back with a pair of second quarter tallies on a 45-yard pass from Johnny Frasier to Craig Ancinec and a two-yard run by Tony Hord to take a 14-8 lead at the half.

That's the way the score stayed until the fourth quarter, when Rod Hand put the Longhorns on top 20-8 with a three-yard run and Frasier hit Ancinec with an 11-yard touchdown pass for the final points.

Loop, now 2-0 in league play, had 281 yards total offense and 16 first downs, while Garden City had 12 first downs and 227 yards offense, most of it by halfback David Smith, who gained over 100 steps rushing.

Bearcat coach Greg Henderson praised the play of Smith and also said that the offensive line had its best night, while noseguard Joe Wooten, Smith at linebacker and end Mark Frysak all sparked the defensive effort.

Garden City is now 2-1 on the season. Henderson received word Saturday that a season-opening loss to Cotton Center has been reversed because the Elks had an ineligible player and must forfeit their victories.

Oddly enough, some football teams have done better without a coach than with one! For example, Yale played the 12 seasons from 1876 through 1887 without a coach and won 71 games while losing only 2—and that's the best 12-year record in the history of the school—better than in all the years they've had coaches!

Can you guess who is the only player in football history to make the official All-American football team as both a lineman AND a back? This unusual record is held by Bronko Nagurski... He was picked as an All-American at tackle and also at fullback when he played for Minnesota in the late 1920s.

Did you know that five of today's big league pro football teams had different nicknames when they first started? The Washington Redskins' original nickname was Braves... The Chicago Bears' first nickname was Staleys because they were sponsored by the Staley Starch Co. of Decatur Ill... The New York Jets started as the Titans... The Kansas City Chiefs' franchise originally was in Dallas where the team's nickname was Texans...

Sherrill Nabs Record Striper At E. V. Spence

A new record for striped bass was reported last week at Lake E. V. Spence when Y. J. Sherrill, Robert Lee, came in with a 11 lb., 9 oz. specimen.

This bettered the previous record of 10 3/4 lb. by Maxley and Mincey of Wink, back in early June. Just to prove this was no fluke, Rennels Bankhead, Odessa, boated a 9-lb. strip. Several other catches of this native salt-water fish introduced into Lake Spence were reported.

Black bass catches also were good at Lake Spence, but at Lake J. B. Thomas there were some impressive strings of crappie.

Reports from Lake Thomas included:

Billy Plyant, Snyder, two yellowcat 12 and 14 lb.; Chick Hale, Ira, 2 1/2-lb. black bass; Jack Dunn, Ira, 22 crappie to 1 1/2 lb.; Chris Humber, Lamesa, 30 crappie to 2 lb.; A. O. Ballinger Tips Pack

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City offense continued to forsake the Wolves Friday night, and Ballinger's Bearcats took advantage for a 20-0 non-district football decision.

Quarterback Tommy Parrish threw three touchdown passes to dump the Wolves, one each to Frederick Snell, Randy Hutchens and Frank Mata. Robert Buxkemper ran for two extra points.

Ballinger totaled 326 yards offense against the Wolves who could manage but 106 steps. The Wolves, now 0-3 on the year, have yet to score a point.

2ND GLASS-TRACK BELTED ROAD GUARD WHEN YOU BUY 1ST AT REGULAR PRICE! 2ND TIRE

2 tough fiber glass belts resist puncture and impact damage for lasting strength. Dual-belted construction also combats mileage-robbing tread squirm and scrub for long wear. Belts stabilize the tread and help keep the grooves open for road-gripping traction and response.

2 polyester cord body plies virtually eliminate annoying flatspottings and absorb bumps and shocks for a quiet, comfortable ride.

Sometimes we get the feeling we're being followed.

Everybody's getting into the act. Everybody's making a small car. And since we've made more of them than anyone else, we thought we'd pass along some things we've learned about the business over the years: First off, there's no doubt about it, the only way to make an economy car is expensively. So Rule No. 1, don't scrimp. Get yourself the best engineers in the business and then hire 9,000 or so top inspectors to keep them on their toes.

Next, try to develop an engine that's not a gas-guzzler. If you can get it to run on pins of oil instead of quarts, great. If you can get it to run on air instead of water, fantastic.

Work on things to make your car last longer. Like giving it 45 pounds of paint to protect its top and a steel bottom to protect its bottom.

Important: Make sure you can service any year car you make. There's nothing worse than having someone find out that a part they need to make their car is no longer available.

Finally, spend less time worrying about what your car looks like and more time worrying about how it works.

Perfecting a good economy car is a very time-consuming business. So far it has consumed 25 years of our time.

Hyperion Club Luncheon

By JO BRIGHT

The Hyperion Council, comprised of current presidents of the seven local Hyperion Clubs, will host a luncheon for all members Thursday at Big Spring Country Club. The luncheon is a traditional event which marks the beginning of another year of study and projects for all Hyperions.

Council officers are Mrs. Ralph McLaughlin, president; Mrs. Jack Cook, secretary; and Mrs. Garner McAdams, treasurer.

The units, named for the year they are chartered, are the 1905, 1930, 1946, 1948, 1953, 1955 and 1970 clubs.

The 1905 theme will be "Man in Respect and Reverence", and its projects are listed as the Big Spring State Hospital, Howard County Library and the Heritage Museum. Officers are Mrs. Miller Harris, president; Mrs. Lance Williamson, vice president; Mrs. Clement Jones, secretary; and Mrs. Thomas Salter, treasurer.

"Africa" has been chosen as the study theme for 1930 Hyperion Club, which will make a special project of helping needy families at Christmas. The officers are Mrs. J. R. Farmer, president; Mrs. Malcolm Patterson, vice president; and Mrs. Ralph Gossett, secretary-treasurer.

For the 1946 course of study, emphasis will be on "The Here and the Hereafter." Donations will include funds for scholarships and aid to a family at Christmas. Leaders for the group are Mrs. Robert Patterson, president; Mrs. Dan Patterson, vice president; Mrs. J. D. Nelson, treasurer; and Mrs. William Willis, secretary.

The 1948 club selected the topic, "The Era of Change", and its projects will include Youth Memberships at the YMCA and volunteer service at the State Hospital and the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Officers are Mrs. R. G. Botros, president; Mrs. Sidney H. Curtis, vice president; Mrs. Dan Wilkins, secretary; and Mrs. Earl Price, treasurer.

"Women" will be viewed by the 1943 club, as its meetings are held under the direction of Mrs. Clarence Peters, president; Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, vice president; Mrs. Harry Middleton, secretary; and Mrs. Bill Pollard, treasurer. The club will provide Youth Memberships at the YMCA and will determine a community service project this month.

Aiming high, the 1955 club has named its study, "Up, Up and Away" and its new officers are Mrs. C. W. Mahoney, president; Mrs. David Elrod, vice president; Mrs. Charles Bell, secretary; and Mrs. Walter Ross, treasurer. Members contribute to various charities and give community service in a number of different areas.

The newest of the group, the 1970 club, likes the theme, "Man, Myth and Magic," and its executive slate includes Mrs. Howard Carleton, president; Mrs. Robert Knight, vice president; Mrs. Harold Rains, secretary; and Mrs. Scott Davis, treasurer. The club intends to devote time to the state hospital, local nursing homes and the Boys' Club.

PLANNING TO ATTEND this year's Hyperion Council luncheon and participate in individual club activities are, from left, Mrs. Ralph Gossett, 1930 secretary-treasurer; Mrs. W. A. Moore, 1955 parliamentarian; Mrs. David Elrod, 1955 vice president; Mrs. Clement Jones, 1905 secretary; and Mrs. Lance Williamson, 1905 vice president.

Wedding Ceremony Performed Saturday

The wedding of Miss Karen Ann Schwartz and Gary Lynn Streicher was performed Saturday afternoon in the Catholic Church at St. Lawrence with the Rev. Augustine Lucca, parish priest, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schwartz, St. Lawrence Rt., Garden City, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Streicher, Rt. 3, San Angelo.

The wedding party stood before an altar accented with arrangements of white gladioli and carnations, and the setting was illuminated by candelabra. Mrs. Dennis Neihues, organist, accompanied Miss Cathy Batla and Miss Linda Batla, vocalists.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of Italian peau de soie with overlay of Chantilly lace. Appliques enhanced the stand-up collar, cuffs of the long sleeves, front panel of the gown and the chapel-length train. Her tulle veil was attached to a headpiece of beaded Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations centered with white orchids.

MAID OF HONOR

Miss Shirley Schwartz, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Joan Rohlfeld, Ballenger; Miss Betty Latzel, Midkiff; Miss Kathy Schwartz, cousin of the bride; and Miss Connie Schwartz, sister of the bride. They were identically attired in floor-length gowns of floral design; sequins accenting the high waistline and cuffs of the long,uffed sleeves. Matching fabric flowers adorned their hair, and each carried a nosegay of orchid carnations.

Best man was Herbert Schwertner, San Angelo, and the groomsmen were Dale Halfmann, Larry Wilde, Daniel Wilde and James Braden, all of San Angelo. Serving as ushers were Stanley Latzel and the bride's cousins, Ernie Schwartz, Floyd Schwartz and Jody Schwartz. Another cousin, Randal Schwartz, was the ring bearer, and the flower girl was Carol Schwartz, sister of the bride.

After the wedding, a

Club Helps Students In Garden Projects

The Oasis Garden Club has begun its 12th year of garden projects involving students in the individualized program at Moss Elementary School.

"The purpose of the program is to help the children develop an awareness of nature, the flowers, trees and birds around them," said Mrs. J. D. Leonard, a club member who worked with the children Thursday. Other club members assisting were Mrs. Boone Horne and Mrs. M. C. Stulting.

The women showed the students how to pot geranium cuttings, enclosing them in plastic bags, where they will remain for several weeks before being transferred to larger containers. The children become acquainted with the feel and fragrance of the flowers and will be able to watch them grow.

The next garden session at the school will be at 2:30 p.m., Oct. 18 with Mrs. C. B. Wash, Mrs. Charles Harwell and Mrs. Albert Hohertz. The children will learn how to plant and care for bulbs.

HD Officer Presented THDA Pin

Mrs. B. A. Bunn, past president of the Airport Home Demonstration Club, was presented a Texas Home Demonstration Association pin Tuesday in appreciation of her work with the club. The presentation was made by Mrs. Vern Vigar during a meeting in the home of Mrs. Doyle Gillihan, 1603 Lancaster.

Mrs. Gillihan presided and led the devotion. Committee chairmen and members were reported, with Mrs. Garland Irons named reporter, assisted by Mrs. Vigar. A brief discussion was held concerning the state meeting which ended Thursday in Waco.

The next club meeting will be at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 2 in the home of Mrs. Bunn, 507 E. 15th.

Fairview Club Plans Events

Upcoming events were announced when Mrs. Frank Wilson, president of the Fairview Home Demonstration Club, presided at last week's meeting in the home of Mrs. Ethel Van Pelt. The devotion was by Mrs. Lenora Hansen.

Members were reminded of the instruction in Mexican cookery which will be given by Miss June Williams at 2 p.m., Sept. 24 at Pioneer Gas Flame Room. The meeting is open to all interested persons.

On Oct. 2, Mrs. Dorothy Earhart will be hostess for a covered dish luncheon and work day for Fairview club members, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. Lois Jernigan will present a demonstration on crackle art.

An "Adam and Eve" gift shower honoring Miss Bridget Carr and her fiance, Greg Bostick, was held Saturday in the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Carr, Coahoma. Bostick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bostick of Denver.

Hostesses for the party were Miss Cathy Hill, who will be maid of honor at the Oct. 13 wedding; other attendants, Miss Karen Archer and Miss Grace Ann Lowe; and Miss Amanda Rose. The wedding is scheduled at the Four Square Gospel Church, Big Spring.

Miss Carr was attired in a white pantsuit, and similar attire was worn by the hostesses.

The refreshment table featured a white cloth and a centerpiece of roses flanked by crystal swans.

Dinner Party For Hyperion Club

The 1905 Hyperion Club had its first meeting of the current season Thursday at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Chesley McDonald, with members' husbands as guests.

A barbecued chicken dinner was served to approximately 40 guests, following an invocation by Mrs. J. B. Sharp. Following a brief business session conducted by the president, Mrs. Miller Harris, the evening was spent playing bridge and watching the King-Riggs tennis match on television.

The study theme for the year will be "Man in Respect and Reverence". The next meeting will be at 3 p.m., Oct. 18.

PLAN EDUCATION EXHIBIT — William R. Dawes, left, and members of the committee, talk over plans for the next major exhibit of the Heritage Museum — this one to spotlight 90 years of education in Howard County. From left are Mrs. Loy Acuff, Mrs. T. M. Dunagan, Mrs. Bill

FOR YOUR PLEASURE

Major Exhibit At Museum Will Salute School System

Not long after the T&P railroad pushed here in 1881 and opened the way for settlement of the area, pioneers set up the first schools. The first was reputed to have been held under a tent of buffalo skins near the present Comanche Trails Park entrance. A frame building was raised for a courthouse and school; some ranchers engaged brave tutors.

Things have changed over the years, and Heritage Museum hopes to tell this story in its next major exhibit. Plans began to take shape Thursday with a second meeting by a committee headed by Bill Dawes and including Mrs. T. M. Dunagan, Mrs. Bill Conger, Glenn Guthrie, Mrs. Loy Acuff, Dan Conley.

Walker Baily, Ruth Rutherford, Agnes Currie, Mrs. Dawes, and others. But they urgently need the help of everyone.

So — do you have or know where there are such things as old school desks, bells, slates, lunch pails, early readers, spellers, etc. "ancient" report cards, wood-backed erasers, book satchels, old costumes such as girls' bloomer gym suits, old football togs and tight-fitting helmets, footballs and basketballs of two or three generations ago, etc.

And pictures. Shots of early-day schools are needed, among them one of that first school under a tent, or the initial frame building (which later served as a lodge hall), first school buses or other forms of transportation, superintendents and board presidents.

If you have something you can lend or provide for the exhibit, please call Gerri Atwell or Edith Gay at the museum, or get in touch with members of the committee.

The Permian Basin Chamber Music Society, led by founder-conductor James John Gambino, inaugurates a new season today 3 p.m. at Midland Woman's Club on East Wadley in Hogan Park. This one deals with the classics, including passages from Handel, Mozart, (a flute quartet), Vivaldi and others. The ensemble includes five violins, two violas and two cellos. Other season programs (tickets not used for one are good for subsequent ones) will include Thanksgiving Nov. 18; Holy Season, Dec. 16; Contemporary, Feb. 17; Easter, April 7; and Composers, May 19.

Culture and local color combine Sunday, Sept. 30 at 2 p.m. on the O.S. Ranch 13 miles south of Post when a $15,000 cash jackpot steer roping event will be held. But — unlikely as it seems — will be preceded Saturday Sept. 29, with an extra-ordinary art exhibit and sale in the restored O. S. Ranch house. Paintings, drawings and sculpture by 32 of the nation's top cowboy and Western artists will be on hand. All of this is to benefit the West Texas Boys Ranch at San Angelo.

"LBJ: Images of a Vibrant Life" is a compendium of short quotes following the death of the former President, and of prayers and eulogies, including the one of Congressman J. J. Pickle, who grew up in Big Spring, voiced in the Capitol rotunda. It is $2.95, handled by Shoal Creek Publishers, Box 968, Austin, 78767.

Heading the Ice Capades, which plays Oct. 9-14 in the Odessa Coliseum will be Julie Holmes, the 1971 World Silver Medalist and on the 1972 Olympic team. Zsu Zsi Almassey is another new face with great skating credentials. She was eight times Hungarian champion. Also with star billing are Richard Ewell and Michelle McCladdie, first black skaters to move up to professional-ranks after holding the 1972 U.S. national junior pairs title.

"Last of the Red Hot Lovers" opens Friday, Oct. 5, to begin the Midland Community Theatre season. Bill Shaner, Jan Kelmann, Pat Lambie and Mary Frances Floyd have title roles in the Neil Simon comedy-farce. Other dates are Oct. 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 19-20. Coming next will be "The Man Who Came to Dinner," remembered for Monty Woolley's great role. The theatre's office is Box 4847, Midland 79701, or phone 682-2544.

The Lubbock Theatre Center begins Thursday, 8 p.m. with "The Unsinkable Molly Brown." Dates are Sept. 27-30 and Oct. 4-7; address is 2508 Ave. P, Lubbock, 79405, or phone 744-3681.

You may want to get the date of the 36th annual Texas Rose Festival in Tyler.

Twenty-five original oil paintings of lost and vanishing birds of North America, each a work of Australian artists and naturalist, Robin Hill, went on exhibit in the Museum of Texas Tech yesterday. Among the extinct American birds is the Great Auk, slaughtered by the multiplied thousands as provisions for whaling ships; also shown are the Passenger Pigeon; the Caroline Parakeet; Health Hens.

Genealogists are reminded of a great source for research — The Texas State Library's Archives Division. Gov. Dolph Briscoe visited it recently, and right inside the door he found his ancestor's signature — Andrew Briscoe — signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence. Others have found it a gold mine of information.

Girl Scout Program Needs Adult Leaders

Podiatrists Say Platforms Bad

Almost everyone knows something about Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., because it has been an integral part of the American scene for over 60 years.

It is taken for granted that any girl who wants to, can belong. That is true — but only up to a point. The unhappy truth is that, without enough adult leaders and assistant leaders, girls who want and need Girl Scouting have to wait.

Today, Girl Scouting serves one out of every seven girls ages 6-17 in the U.S.A. It could and would serve many thousands more if those adults who care about youth would volunteer to be a leader.

There is a mistaken tendency to believe you must be a parent of girls in order to be a Girl Scout Leader. This, of course, is not true. Thousands of women and men, from young singles to senior citizens, from every ethnic, economic, and educational background are in Girl Scouting.

Right now, Girl Scouts in Big Spring and the surrounding area need leaders. The organization is ready to provide leadership training, and give all the help needed, so that volunteers can share their skills, enthusiasm and time with girls who would like to join a troop.

The current adult recruitment campaign is being conducted in order that no girl will be left out of Scouting for lack of leaders. Girl Scouts represent a positive factor in the community.

Call or write the local West Texas Girl Scout Council, 220 1/2 Main, Big Spring, if you would like to be a Girl Scout leader or assistant leader. The telephone number is 263-1364.

Podiatrists are almost unanimous in decriing platform shoes, which they see as the worst thing to happen to feet since the Chinese gave up binding. If you must indulge in fads, find a healthier one.

NEW PROGRESS IN PRENATAL NUTRITION

Nutrition before and after birth may be a determining factor in mental capabilities. Evidence from on going research in this field is growing and it is leading to the conclusion that the size and number of a child's brain cells may be reduced by infant malnutrition. A newborn weighing two pounds under the normal birth weight may, when he reaches 7 years of age show a 6 month lag in learning skills.

Vitamin supplements during pregnancy are thus becoming more and more important. We carry a full line of those products that your physician might prescribe and will be glad to help you with any questions you may have on this topic.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Lin Bell Begins Duties As Girl Scout Field Director

Fall dates for training of Girl Scout leaders have been announced by Mrs. Lin Bell, new field director for West Texas Girl Scout Council, now serving in the Big Spring area. The training activities will be held at the First United Methodist Church, 400 Scurry from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on various days.

On Oct. 3 orientation will be held for all new and returning leaders. During this session, the purposes of Girl Scouting, its practices, policies and procedures of troop activities will be covered.

Brownie leaders will receive their specialized training on Oct. 5, and the junior-cadet levels will be offered Oct. 10. These sessions will consist of troop management, program ideas and activity information for the different age groups. The session on Oct. 12 will serve as a final "wrap-up," combined with outdoor training.

There are no fees charged to the leaders for this training and all interested persons are welcomed to attend. Babysitting will be provided by the church, at a small cost.

The new field director comes from San Jose, Calif. She has replaced Mrs. Arlene Stevenson, who is now a housewife and volunteer cadette leader.

EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Bell has been a member of the Girl Scout movement since she was a Brownie — a total of 22 years. Since 1963 she has been a volunteer, acting in several capacities such as program consultant, Brownie leader, cookie chairman, day camps and has worked several years in established camps as a counselor and program specialist.

While in college, she decided to make Girl Scouting a career and set out to gain many experiences through the services of other youth-oriented agencies, to later share in the Scout movement and to develop herself as a community leader.

young people and want to see the program remain attractive for them in our changing society, as in the past," said Mrs. Bell. "I have always tried to keep in trend with the young people's changing attitudes by being involved with them in their quest within society. I feel young people of today are our key leaders of tomorrow; it's a challenging responsibility to keep up with them."

Among her many experiences, she has been a board member for a local California youth agency, an assistant leader for a mentally retarded group (which involved remodeling the program to meet the girl's needs), and was actively involved in ecology research and development within her community.

As a final requirement toward graduation from college, Mrs. Bell worked with the Santa Clara County Girl Scout Council and was given the responsibility to develop, organize and direct a summer recreation program in a low-income, federal housing development consisting primarily of minority residents. Clean Pan That Collects Water

Where does extra water go in a self-defrosting refrigerator-freezer? It collects in a pan located behind the toe plate. Be sure to occasionally remove and wash this pan in warm suds.

Otherwise an odor may develop. When replacing, take care to insert the pan in the proper position to avoid vibration and possible interference with the performance of the refrigerator-freezer.

PTA Groups Urged To 'Become Aware'

"How many of us even know the names of political figures or office holders who administer or make decisions about our schools? How many of us write to them? How many of us telephone or voice our opinions in person?"

With those questions as a starter, Don DeLeeuw, president of the Big Spring Council of Parents-Teachers, urged members of Kentwood PTA to become aware and involved in matters concerning the education of their children.

DeLeeuw spoke to the group following an ice cream and cake social in the school cafeteria earlier in the week. Outlining the goals of the PTA council, he detailed the functions of the PTA and council, along with their joint objectives. This year the PTAs are working toward unification to enable the units to work as a body and have a greater part in securing "the best education possible for our children."

He discussed the goal of urging the school board to make a start toward air conditioning all the schools and asked PTA members to attend school board meetings.

Mrs. Max Moore presided, introducing the unit officers. Projects for the year will be a kite contest, a pet show, a tree purchased for the school ground, a Halloween carnival, Christmas program and end-of-school races. The Halloween carnival was set for Oct. 27.

The membership chairman said the unit has gained over 75 new members. Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Jerry Avery for printing the yearbooks, and the attendance prize went to Mrs. Loyce Phillips. The devotion was by Mrs. Avery.

Petitions concerning the air conditioning were circulated, and members were urged to attend the school board meeting at 5:15 p.m., Oct. 8.

Hospital's Gift Shop To Open

The Christmas Gift Shop at the Veterans Administration Hospital will be set up Dec. 2 and open for business Dec. 3 according to an announcement made at Thursday's meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary in the Legion Hall.

Mrs. Don McCraw presided, and Mrs. Zelda Rae was appointed hospital representative for 1973-74.

The shop is established in the hospital every year, with donations from organizations and individuals, in order that patients may send gifts to members of their families. The Legion Auxiliary, along with other groups, will provide workers in the shop.

Also, it was announced that Poppy Day will be Nov. 10, with sales being made locally by youth organizations. A game night is slated at the VA Hospital at 7 p.m., Tuesday with Mrs. Ollie Bransom in charge of arrangements.

Delegates were named to the 19th District fall convention Oct. 13-14 at the Holiday Inn, Plainview.

Members were reminded of the covered dish supper which will be held at 7 p.m., Thursday for Legion members and their guests.

DEAR ABBY: Herb and I just had our third baby. They are 13 months apart. Each time I went to the hospital to have a baby, Herb stayed at his mother's.

The first time, a neighbor drove me. The second time, I called the police station. The third time, I drove myself in our pickup truck. (The one we use for hauling horses.) Herb says he can't stand to be around hospitals. He says the smell makes him sick.

So all the time I'm in the hospital Herb stays at his mother's. Would you believe I gave the janitor at the hospital $5 to drive me and the baby home? I don't have any relatives living anywhere near me.

Herb is a Mama's boy even though he's ten years older than I am. (I'm 20.)

My doctor told me I should quit having babies and force my husband to get some counseling because he never heard of a grown man who acted this way. My doctor asked me what my husband's IQ was. What's an IQ?

DEAR MOTHER: IQ is "intelligence quotient," which means your doctor wants to know how "old" Herb is — mentally. If Herb won't go for counseling, go alone. If you're going to live with Herb and raise his family, you'll need some help.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 27-year-old married woman who has had a disgusting experience. The man in the next apartment is married, retired and 67. He's started following me around the apartment grounds and swimming pool area, telling me how "prettv" I am, etc. Once he actually forced a slobbering kiss on me!

Abby, this man is 15 years older than my father. He's fat and bald and unattractive to boot.

If I were a 67-year-old woman, I'd never dream of trying to have a fling with a guy in his 20's. Sure, I might see some young man and consider him attractive, but I'd take a good look at myself and consider how I must look to HIM, and I'd let it go at that. I'm sure most women think that way.

My question: Why can't men be more realistic? What makes these old goats actually believe that young girls could have a romantic interest in them? I'd really like an answer to this because it's been bugging me.

CURIOUS IN CONN. DEAR CURIOUS: Generalizations are dangerous. I'm sure there are young women who are madly in love with men who are older than their fathers. And young men who truly adore women many years their senior. Your neighbor could be senile, playing a longshot, or just a dirty old man. "Delusions of adequacy" is not a condition found exclusively in men.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old girl with two large problems. My feet! I wear an 11 Triple E shoe. I can feel people actually staring at my feet, and some strangers have even asked me what size shoe I wear. I'd like to wear pretty shoes, but they don't make them in my size. Abby, have you ever heard of an operation to make a person's foot smaller? How do so much with plastic surgery these days. I'd sure appreciate a prompt reply.

DEAR BIG: All the orthopedic surgeons I've consulted about your "problem" agree that the foot can be made narrower by removing the small toe and metatarsal, but they wouldn't consider a foot shortening job for vanity's sake.

If I were you, I'd get

Men Preferred By Centenarian

GENEVA, Switzerland — Amie Larue celebrated her 100th birthday here by sharing a cake with six male friends and announcing that her secret for long life is to keep calm. "I love women, but I stay away from them now because they always gossip and want to tell their problems," she said. "Old men are mostly quiet, congenial and easy to handle."

Clash Could Occur At Zoning Meeting

A classic clash in philosophies regarding zoning may develop at Tuesday's City Commission meeting between the city administration and residents of the East Park Addition off FM 700 E.

What ensues will likely be the same song, second verse of a debate which took place between the groups at the last commission meeting during which the city staff asked the commission to approve rezoning portions of 700 from retail to light commercial, and residents of the Marshall-Miami-Grafta Streets area protested against the change.

PETITIONING

Caught somewhat between a rock and a hard place, the commission passed the zone change on first reading but told residents of the housing addition near the zone change area they would have time to organize their opposition before second

UNDESIRABLE

Residents of the nearby housing addition feel the new zone classification might attract "undesirable" businesses such as automobile body shops or nightclubs to the area near the zone change area they would have time to organize their opposition before second reading of the ordinance this Tuesday. The Herald has learned that a petition opposing the zone change is being drawn up and circulated among residents of the area close to Carlton House.

Apparently goes like this: The city feels the slightly broader zone classification will make the now-unused land along 700 more attractive and available to developers. Besides, the state and federal governments sort of encourage commercial zoning along highways in towns.

On the other hand, the residents apparently question the need for a change if developers may already buy and use the land for business purposes.

'LEAVE AS IS'

"I feel like the neighborhood ought to be left as it is," said one resident. "Evidently, the city or someone has some type of plan to put something in there or they wouldn't be seeking this rezoning."

City officials at the last commission meeting told the audience that the city does not want to touch the zoning of the residential area but rather only the area west of the housing.

Campbell suggested placing a 150-200 foot buffer zone between the two areas as a compromise, but neither side seemed satisfied. A city official said it would merely create a waste of the land, while the residents claimed 200 feet would not be enough.

Debate on the whole matter continued for almost an hour at the commission meeting and may start up again Tuesday. Residents are expected to present the petition to commissioners at that time.

Grain Hybrid Is Due To Flourish

LUBBOCK — Triticale, a man-made cereal grain hybrid of wheat and rye, soon will take its place alongside the established cereal crops in world agriculture, according to Dr. E. N. Larter of the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg.

Larter spoke on "Progress and Development of Triticale in Canada" at an International Symposium on Triticale meeting in Lubbock this week. The symposium was sponsored by the colleges of Home Economics and Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Triticale has been under study for only about 50 years, whereas wheat has been studied for thousands of years, said Larter.

"In this brief period, it has risen from its very early status as a curiosity or research to one of considerable status," he said. "Work with triticale has shown it to be of superior nutritional value to wheat as an animal feed. It is also growing in importance as forage and has made an important step forward in development as a human food," said Larter.

Texan Dies In Roaring Flames

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Robert L. Chilton of Austin died in roaring flames Thursday after his gasoline tank truck missed a street corner, crashed and caught fire.

Firemen mopping 11 pieces of equipment battled the blaze, which quickly spread to nearby grass. Police dispatched 20 units to the scene. Officers found it necessary to force back spectators.

Girl Scouts Aided By UW

Girl Scouts are one of the agencies that is helped by the United Way in Big Spring.

Anybody who has raised a girl here who has taken part in the Brownie, junior scout, cadette or senior scout program knows what a wide variety of activities they offer.

Girls learn to do by serving and also learn handicraft skills, study community activities, learn camping skills, take part in outdoor activities and take part in a recreational program.

In Big Spring, the girls will attend summer camp go to Camp Booth Oaks eight miles from Sweetwater. Girl scout cookie funds each March go for camp improvements.

The funds donated to the United Way go to operate the actual program and to train and assist the volunteer scout leaders.

Serving on the West Texas Girl Scout Council from Big Spring are Paul Meek, Daryle Hertz, Mrs. Tom Ivey, Mrs. Preston Harrison and Mrs. Larson Lloyd.

A district executive has an office in Big Spring and the new one, who just took over this office is Mrs. Lynn Bell. She replaces Mrs. Tom Stephenson.

Girl scouting is primarily for the girls and is the only program of its type in Big Spring.

Hundreds of Big Spring girls learn high standards while enjoying service and having fun in the scouting program in Big Spring. It survives through the backing of the United Way.

Adult Education Classes To Begin Here October 2

Registration is set Thursday for the fall adult education program of the Big Spring Independent School District.

Enrollment for classes, which begin the following Tuesday, will be 7-9 p.m. Thursday on the first floor of Runnels Junior High.

Basic courses in reading and writing will be offered as well as typing, welding and English for foreign language speakers.

For the first time, the district will also offer a GED (equivalency of a high school diploma) preparation course.

All courses are free and will be taught 7-10 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday through May.

The district has been allocated $24,000 from the federal government through the Texas Education Agency to offer the basic courses.

Keith Swim, director of the program, said the district is also expecting to receive $15,000 in state funds to begin offering the GED preparation course.

Swim said Big Spring has been designated this year as the adult learning center for Reagan, Martin, Glascock and Howard counties. An additional center has been opened, however, in Stanton, and one got under way in July at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Enrollment in the Runnels program usually runs about 160, Swim said. Adult basic education has been offered by the district six years.

School officials are hoping, though, that enrollment will increase this year because of the GED preparation course which can lead to receipt of a diploma equivalent.

Anyone wishing further information about the program may contact Swim at the school district administration office, 708 11th Place, 267-8245.

Booming Business Cuts Auto Inventories Here

By ANN STEVENS
A boom year in car sales in 1973 and a greater demand than supply for new 1974 models has reduced the inventories of some local dealers as well as dealerships throughout the nation.

"Sales were so good this past year nationwide that all dealers are short," said Bob Brock, Bob Brock Ford. "We have the fewest '73 carryovers this year than ever before. Usually we carry over 50 cars from the past year to the next, but this year we're only doing 20."

"There's been a tremendous sale of '73 models," said Dewey Ray, Dewey Ray Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge. "That plus the fact that the manufacturers failed to start producing the '74 early enough has led to the lower inventories."

Ray has probably been hit harder than other local dealers because of the recent worker strike against Chrysler. "The week-long strike cost Chrysler some 90,000 automobiles," he said.

Because he simply does not have enough new Chrysler models in stock, Ray has moved his show date back from that originally scheduled Monday to a date not yet selected.

Ray suggested that an additional reason the '73 cars have gone so quickly in recent months is customer apprehension about the new seat belt-shoulder harness interlock system on all '74 cars.

"The customers don't like the interlock system," noted Jack Lewis, Jack Lewis Buick and Cadillac. "But we haven't had any real bad repercussions for it. They have liked the new cars so well, that they've gone on and bought them anyway." Whether or not a customer, likes the system, he must buckle it up in order to start the car.

There have been rumors that several local dealers have told customers they could have the "cumbersome" interlock system disconnected by service stations and thus cut out the "hassle" of buckling up.

Ray cautioned customers against trying this as a "way out" because it might do permanent damage to the wiring system of the car. Besides, he noted, Congress is considering making it federal law that the systems must be left intact and the Texas legislature may follow suit with a similar regulation.

The group of citizens serving on the board to set up a detoxification unit met this week and named a sub-committee to set up policies for the organization.

The committee includes Mrs. Myrtle Tatum, Jack Powell, Dr. Gerald Lively and Ed Mitchell.

Benefits Many For Nurses

The Army Nurse Corps is offering outstanding benefits to those who can qualify, according to SFC Alan S. Hunt, local Army representative.

Army nurses are particularly needed to work in obstetrics-gynecology, intensive care, medical-surgical, and pediatrics. Also, two areas of training that are available to registered nurses in the Army Nurse Corps are nurse clinicians and mid-wifery.

To qualify as an Army nurse, applicants must be a graduate from a nationally accredited school of nursing. Married persons with dependents may apply. Individuals must be between the ages of 20 and 33 years of age and have excellent professional, moral character, and scholastic references. Those initially accepted will be commissioned as officers in the Army in a grade dependent upon their education and experience, and will be required to serve on active duty for two years.

The army also has an outstanding student nurse program. Information may be had from Sgt. Hunt at 109 E 3rd or phone 267-8940.

Identify Victim

HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP) — It took a check of automobile license records for officers to identify Bernie Ethridge, 59, of West, Tex., as the motorist killed in a highway accident Thursday.

State police reported Ethridge, carrying no personal identification, died as his car cracked up just south of Hillsboro at the intersection of U.S. 77 and 81.

Cool Showers Slow Cotton Development

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Rains delayed the cotton harvest in parts of the Southeast and in extreme South Texas last week, but harvesting increased over West Central and Central Texas, Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

The rice harvest made some progress after windy and rainy conditions caused considerable losses in some counties, he said.

Grain sorghum harvesting is active throughout the plains where fields have dried from recent rains and yields are above average in most sectors, Hutchison said.

The late peanut crop is being harvested in Southwest Texas. Late crop yields and grades are generally above those of the earlier crop.

Hutchison said small grain planting is in full swing in many counties due to favorable soil moisture conditions. Some early plantings are up to good stands and will provide grazing soon.

Fall vegetables are making good progress in the San Antonio-Winter Garden area and in the Rio Grande Valley, he said. However, recent rains have stunted plantings in coastal counties.

Pastures and ranges should go into the fall in good shape in most areas, Hutchison said, although parts of West and Northwest Texas could use additional moisture.

District Agricultural agents gave these reports:

South Plains: Recent cool weather and showers slowed cotton development. Some cotton also was lost to hail storms. Early cotton is beginning to open. Soybeans are maturing rapidly. Grain sorghum and vegetable harvesting is active.

Rolling Plains Wheat planting, grain sorghum and hay harvesting are major farm activities. About 30 per cent of the cotton is open in some counties. Guar is making good growth and crop prospects are good. Range conditions are good.

Far West: Dryland cotton and grain sorghum are improving due to rains. Cotton is maturing rapidly. Small grain planting is active. Livestock, pastures and ranges are in good condition. Shearing of sheep and goats is active.

West Central: Cotton is opening rapidly. Harvesting will get under way soon. The grain sorghum harvest is about complete. Yields have been above average. Peanut harvesting has started. Range conditions are improving rapidly.

Southwest: The late peanut crop is being harvested. Fall vegetables are making good progress but some plantings are late due to rains. Ranges and pastures have excellent forage. Shearing of sheep and goats is in full swing.

South: Prolonged wet conditions are causing yield reduction and a lowering of grade in some cotton. Ginnings in the Rio Grande Valley are about 120,000 bales behind last year's pace. Citrus and sugarcane are making good progress. Pastures are providing good grazing.

Collins Is Given Probated Term.

Howard Wayne Collins pleaded guilty in 118th District Court to theft by baillee and was given a 10-year probated sentence with a required restitution of $750 for items missing on a pickup that he took here in recent months.

The pickup was later located in Eastland. Criminal cases continued in 118th District Court.

Sign Of Times? Size Of Tips Are Shrinking

Copley News Service
LOS ANGELES — At 8:30 in the morning, the meter reads $1.80, the restaurant passenger will give me $2," tipping is good if business is closely. Flowers says. "If it runs $1.90, good." "But the economy has made a lot of difference in what people order," she says. "Two years ago people were eating more expensive meals. They ordered dinners that cost $4 and $5. Now they are watching the meter."

VARIETY OF GROUPINGS — Montgomery Ward, located in the Highland South Shopping Center, has a variety of groupings and individual pieces ranging from the Traditional, Early American and Spanish designs to the popular Contemporary and Modern lines. Ella Philips, furniture department consultant, and Vicky Woodson, advertising assistant, are pictured here on the spacious showroom floor. Customers are being invited to stop by for a leisurely visit and see the many selections of furniture designed for comfortable living. Ward's has a convenient Charge-All plan.

BIG DIFFERENCE
 Jimmie has worked at Captain Ahab's coffee shop four years. She says two years ago she would get approximately 25 cents per head in tips from a table.

"Today it is half that," she says.

"Sunday probably is the best day for tips. Our steady customers still tip about the same. It usually averages out to be about 10 per cent of the bill."

Both waitresses said tips were heavier on the counter than at a table.

"That's because the turnover is faster. There's more customer volume at the counter," they said.

The waitresses think table customers tend to sit and talk longer.

"Teen-agers are the best tipplers if they like you," Lee says. Jimmie thinks that's because many teen-agers work as waitresses or busboys.

Don Newby has worked at the Camino Real Car Wash for two months.

"I've been washing cars for years in other places and teen-agers are the best tipplers."

He averages $2 or $3 in tips most days.

"A good day usually runs $4," he said.

Charter Election Points Up Changes In Document

During the first week of absentee voting in the city charter election, scheduled for Oct. 3, only two persons had voted. Absentee voting is taking place at this time at City Hall. The charter election will point up a number of changes in the present charter. It will change the title of commission and commissioner to council and councilmen or councilwomen. Instead of simply electing five commissioners and letting them choose a mayor, the new charter would elect four councilmen or women, each one to a numbered place and one person to mayor.

Thus a candidate, could choose to run against a specific councilman for a specific place on the council.

SPECIAL ELECTIONS

Another change is that if a vacancy occurs in either councilmen or mayor, the council appoints one to serve until the end of the term. If there are more than one vacancies at a time (say two were to resign at once), a special election must be called.

There is a section providing that after the official vote canvass, the council has the authority to call a special election if one or more of the candidates does not have a majority.

FILE FOR POSITION

When a candidate files, he must file for a certain position and not the council at large. Under the candidate qualifications, it has been changed that a candidate must have been a Big Spring resident for one year, where it formerly said two years. They also added a clause that a candidate cannot be in arrears in the payment of any taxes or other liabilities due the city.

Council To Hear Net Court Pleas

LAMESA — County commissioners meet in regular session Monday and will hear representatives of Lamesa Tennis Association in a request regarding tennis facilities in Dawson County.

They will also hear the Rev. Horn in connection with the Day Care Center and will consider repair of the Airport Runway lights.

The commissioners will also consider approval of the Mental Health Clinic report and hear Lee and Miller discuss equipment and personnel.

More Should Be Alerted Of Homecoming Plans

Help of former students and teachers in Big Spring High School is needed to develop a mailing list to advise more exes of plans for homecoming, Mrs. Paschal Odom said Saturday. She urged those who know of the address or whereabouts of exes, whether teachers or students, to telephone the high school office (7-7461) or mail the information to the school. "Most people here will be alerted to Homecoming," she said.

Name May Be Worth A Lot

LONDON — Would you have believed that two handwritten words could be worth $30,000? They were not long ago — when the words happened to be "Anne Boleyn" and the signature was put on the open market. It had been found in a 150-year-old atlas bought or $1 at a dusty bookshop by an ordinary member of the public. The big name game is being played with mounting enthusiasm these days, by collectors and speculators alike. The stakes are high and the odds are long, but the chance of making a good investment has increased as the value of money has fallen.

APPLIANCES FOR ANY NEED — Ed Bucher, manager at Cook's Discount Store, is shown standing near a display shelf in his establishment. Cook's has a wide choice of small appliances, including many "brand names." A choice of color is invariably offered. Homeowners in need of appliances should shop first at Cook's, which is located in the Coronado Plaza Shopping Center.

KING SIZE BED — Western Mattress Company, located at 1909 Greeg Street, offers king size bed ensembles which can be matched with any bedroom furniture group of one's choice. If buyers have not shopped for them, now is the time to stop at Western Mattress.

"NUISANCE"
What is a worthwhile signature? One thing it definitely is not is an autograph — a common misconception which Ray Rawlins, doyen of British collectors, quickly discovered when he asked the duke of Devonshire for his autograph. The duke wrote: "You are a nuisance."
Exalted it certainly is. For consider the sums paid in recent autograph auctions: $35,000 for a signed manuscript of Byron's poem, "The Prisoner of Chillon"; $13,000 for a letter sent by the late President Harry S. Truman to a music critic, threatening to rough him up for panning his daughter's piano recital; $2,600 for Mussolini's passport; and $5,000 for an Edgar Allan Poe.

More And More, Lifestyle Of Tuaregs Threatened

AGADEZ, Niger (AP) — The solution to a food shortage a century ago was bloody, effective and quick.

Mounted on bellowing camels, tough Tuareg warriors swooped down from the desert on the black farmers to the south, sacking granaries and looting villages.

Today the legendary "blue men" of the Sahara sit in wretched refugee camps, helplessly living on handouts of food from abroad.

The crippling West African drought has perhaps dealt the ancient Tuareg lifestyle, threatened more and more by a changing world, a final, mortal blow.

Roughly 30 per cent of Niger's four million people are considered nomadic or seminomadic, perhaps 400,000 of them Tuaregs.

HERDS LOST

Many have lost entire herds of cattle, sheep, goats and camels, the basis of their nomadic existence.

They are trapped in remote camps, unable to move from their water holes. They are wholly dependent on the food being rushed to them in a massive international relief effort.

They are not alone. Thousands are living on food pouring into West Africa to stave off starvation in six sub-Saharan nations — Niger, Chad, Mali, Upper Volta, Mauritania and Senegal.

Relief workers here say they will have to be fed by outside sources for perhaps two years.

Without animals, they are paupers, unable to trade with the southern grain producers or bargain in the market places.

One hope is that relatives who fled the dry inhospitable north to the lush south before it was too late have managed to preserve some of the herds.

But the rotting bodies of cattle and camels that litter the parched countryside suggest only a few will ever return.

The romantic portrayal of the Tuaregs has always shown them proudly astride their camels, defying the desert sun and sand, their robes billowing in the breeze.

But long before this drought, the worst in 60 years, the harsh realities of desert life made worse by historical, political and economic change have threatened the Moslem Tuaregs with slow extinction.

The nomadic lifestyle, according to Bruno Van de Walle, a U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization officer here, is "highly irrational" in 1973.

"People who say we should preserve their culture are condemning the Tuaregs to a situation similar to that of the American Red Indian," he says.

They would, he indicated, be forced to live on government reservations and become wards of the state.

Life is hard for the nomad in the best of times.

The endless search for water and pasture is the key to survival in the oppressively hot and arid zone the Tuaregs call home.

Rainfall from year to year is sparse, spotty and unreliable.

Where well water exists there may be no pasture for the herds.

Thousands of acres of pasture land are abandoned every year simply because drinking pools have dried up and wells are too few and far between.

The location and amount of pasture varies from year to year, depending on when and where the rain falls, making constant movement a way of life.

DROUGHT DEADLY

When drought strikes, as it has the past five years, entire herds are condemned to death unless they can reach the lush pasture lands to the south.

And there is growing demand for already sparse grazing land, which irritates the traditional hostility between Niger's nomadic and settled farming peoples.

The farmers of the south had been gradually expanding the amount of land under cultivation because of decreasing crop productivity per acre, says Van de Walle.

At the same time, nomads were increasing the size of their herds, sparking clashes over pasture land and water holes.

And times have changed.

The Tuaregs who once sold salt and dates for millet and sorghum have watched their terms of trade worsen in a modern cash economy.

The camel caravans that once crisscrossed the desert were gradually replaced by trucks.

Tuareg chiefs who levied taxes on agricultural produce coming in and leaving territory under their control have had their powers taken away.

A Tuareg protection racket, a system of demanding tribute for safeguarding workers at oases, has died.

In recent years, the Tuaregs have relied increasingly on their livestock as their main source of food and livelihood. The drought has all but ended that.

"They realized now that they are finished, that they can't survive," says Van de Walle.

Surplus Food Indictments

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The administrator of Starr County's surplus food program has been named in three federal indictments.

Gilberto N. Garza was accused in two felony indictments of making false statements and false entries in records and in a misdemeanor indictment accusing him of concealing property, Asst. U.S. Atty. John Smith said.

Smith said the felony indictments involve false statements allegedly made by Garza to the Surplus Commodity Credit Corp. and the making of allegedly false entries in records submitted to the surplus food organization and the State of Texas.

The property allegedly concealed by Garza and not immediately identified was valued at less than $500, Smith said.

Roofer Taken To Midland

STANTON — A Martin County deputy sheriff arrested Michael Dan Johnson, 19 of Midland, in Stanton Thursday and returned him to Midland law officers to face capital murder charges.

The murder charges were filed Thursday and Johnson was arraigned Friday morning before Justice of the Peace John Biggs. District Attorney Jim Masburn requested bond be denied and the request was granted.

The Stanton law officials arrested Johnson while he was working on a roof on a Stanton residence.

The body of Henry Moyah, 42, was found early Thursday in a residence in Northwest Midland. He had been shot through the heart.

Johnson and two other men — ages 18 to 21 — have been charged in the case. Moyah was a Canadian Indian who was working with a carnival at St. Ann's Catholic Church.

MOVING: (Q.) I like Judy very much. I have liked her for two years. We are both 11. My family is moving and I want to keep in contact with her. I'm afraid if I send her a letter and she sends one back my parents will find out. They know I like her but not how much. — Judy's Friend in Florida.

My problem is loneliness! Both my parents work until late, my older sister is in college, I can't join any school clubs because my parents can't take me and they don't like to bother other people.

I'm not very buddy-buddy with the other two girls. And because my parents are never home I can't invite friends. What else can I do? — Unhappy in Virginia

The Basic Element

Initial response of the beef industry to free pricing rules indicates what sound economists forecast; supply and demand will fix the price. Record harvests will ease the strain on feed grains and prices that are the result of that strain.

But this is still a hungry world. Norman Borlaug, father of the "Green Revolution," said of the global picture that "only a handful of people are aware of just how close we were to having 30 million to 60 million people die this year (of starvation)." He was pleading for an international food stockpile. He noted the "almost overnight disappearance" of American food surpluses because of shortages in the Soviet Union, China, India and several other nations.

Compounding the problem of food enough to go around when drought or floods destroy a year's crop is one of affluence which means more people eating more food. The machinery seems lacking to support an affluent world.

That paradox may be tested sooner than many realize. Fortunately, this year's experience could be the kind of warning needed to expand food production and re-examine ways to distribute it.

A disconcerting fact emerged during the year: America is thinly insulated from a world that demands better (or more) food and has an increasing ability to pay for it. The acute shortage, which seems to be easing, was produced by convergence of setbacks for wheat growers in China and Russia, crop failures in India and a change in the course of the Humboldt Current — and, with it, fish migrations off the coast of Peru. Western Africa is locked in a deadly drought.

Borlaug's appeal echoes a United Nations food program that would use food as a development resource. Those moves link up with another United Nations effort on environmental protection as it relates to human progress.

Secretary General Kurt Waldheim of the UN sees pollution as the partner of depletion working against earth's natural resources. He's right, of course. Rudolph A. Peterson, administrator of the Important Highway

Big Spring will be host Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning to the U.S. 87 Highway Improvement Association on the occasion of its 16th annual meeting.

By interest and persistence, and without the usual hoopla and promotion, the association has been successful in working with local officials at the Texas Highway Commission to upgrade steadily the route. From above Amarillo to Big Spring the route is divided highway, and from north of Sterling City south through San Angelo, this same type of road had been developed.

UN Development Program, says "development progress and environmental protection are really not separate concerns at all, let alone conflicting ones. Rather, they are interlocking facets of the same concern — how to improve the present conditions and future prospects for human life on this planet."

But food is at the foundation of this. Food for as many people as can be fed is national insurance for any country that can raise it. The American role is likely best served by being the most-productive place we can make it on the croplands, in the agronomists' laboratory, and in our government policies.

Elsewhere, the roadway is wide, and is getting progressively wider and better.

One section of it — from Amarillo to Lubbock, has been picked as the basic route for IS 27. The whole of the route from Canada south through Texas is an international route.

Obviously, this is a vital highway. Big Spring officials and other community leaders surely will take time to participate in this brief gathering, and to let the Hon. Charles B. Simons, member of the highway commission, know that we are grateful for the state's appreciation of U.S. 87 and for the exemplary Texas highway program.

Walt Finley

My dreams are getting badder all the time. Seriously, folks, I'm having a very poor caliber of slumbertime entertainment, and I've got to do something about it.

THE PROBLEM is that my dreams are dull — so dull, in fact, that they wake me up.

Dreams originate in the subconscious mind, as I recall. The way mine are going now, I think my sub has gone un.

The problem is all my dreams involve complete strangers. (The only way they could be worse, in fact, would be for them to feature incomplete strangers. And now that I've planted the idea in my subconscious, they probably will.)

Thursday night (shortly after the King-Riggs, Bonnie and Clyde capers) I seemed to be in the midst of the Joad family reunion. I have no delusions about my status, but rustic in the "Grapes of Wrath" tradition I am not. And I was trying to get out of that place.

I did — by waking up. That strikes me as the hard way. What I'd like to do is to buy myself a dream channel changer — like the thing you hold in your hand to change television channels.

But I'm not sure it's that easy. I checked with our dream editor, M-e-r-r-y Jo, and she said there are two types of brain rhythms — delta and theta. Delta is deep sleep, and theta is on the way into and out of sleep, and that's where the dreams occur.

So that's my trouble. I'm dreaming in Greek, and I don't speak the language.

Did I ever tell you my ice eating aunt, Fannie Everett, sent me a

My son, Kim, tells about the two Howard County Junior College rejects who went out to bury a friend at sea, and drowned while digging the grave.

And Kim showed up with a pencil with several matches taped to the top and a match book with two matches in it taped halfway down and identified it as "A Texas Aggie flashlight with two extra bulbs."

Always optimistic Walter Malone, ex-Herald reporter now attending Baylor, writes about OU-Baylor football:

"I could hear you laughing from Waco." Ex-Sport Editor Tommy Hart, one of my leaders, read the postcard and remarked:

"That's reciprocal — we could hear him moaning." Another one of my leaders Joe P who also witnessed the gridiron tragedy, has been unusually silent since returning from Waco. However, he did say something about "nowadays ever little meaning has a movement all of its own."

A. J. Vaughn, Sage of Scurry Street, says: "They say people get lost in the Pentagon, but I'd say not enough of them do."

One reaction to airplane hijackings is "They didn't used to do things like that!"

Of course not. They held up the stage coach.

Does one have to attend church to be a Christian? I have my own special places of worship. These are the forest, or the bank of a stream or on a high hill. I feel that I can talk to God more freely there without the distractions of the church. C.D.

I'm glad that you have communion with God, and I agree it is a beautiful thing to worship Him in the "sanctuary" of nature. Christianity, however, according to the New Testament, is not a solitary experience. Hebrews 10:25 warns against "forsaking the assembling of yourselves together." Notice that last word!

Being a Christian means being a follower of Christ. The thief on the cross was this, and obviously, he had no occasion to attend a meeting. But I believe he would have it he could. Sure, you can be a Christian and not worship with a congregation, but you would cheat yourself of certain benefits.

Selfishly, you would be cut off from the influences that contribute toward maturing in the faith. You spoke of "distractions" in the church, but these must be essentially in your mind. If you worship with what the Bible calls a "single eye" to know and praise God, you would find the environment to accomplish that — anywhere.

Another benefit of the congregation is that it affords a chance for you to share with others. Romans 12 says to "rejoice with those who rejoice, and weep with those who weep." That cannot be done in isolation.

Jesus Himself went out alone into the hills, but it was always to prepare Himself to return to the needs and fellowship of the people around Him. Try Christ's way.

Decision May Open Computer Field

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — International Business Machines Corp. lost at least the first round of an antitrust suit this past week, raising the possibility of major changes in the computer industry and elsewhere.

U.S. District Court Judge A. Sherman Christensen of Tulsa ordered IBM to pay Telex Corp. $352.5 million in damages for monopolistic practices. He also ordered Telex to pay IBM $21.9 million for stealing trade secrets.

ALLEGE MONOPOLY

Telex is a maker of so-called peripheral computer equipment, such as card readers and typewriters. Its lawsuit contended that IBM, the world's biggest computer maker, had tried to monopolize the peripheral market for its own products.

In a decision which marked IBM's first defeat in an antitrust suit, Christensen also issued orders dealing with IBM marketing practices. Among them was an order prohibiting "predatory pricing" aimed at

The Week's Business

- Federal court rules IBM engaged in monopolistic practices
- Industry giant ordered to pay Telex sum of $352.5 million
- Telex in turn, assessed $21.9 million for stealing secrets
- Chrysler reaches tentative pact raising labor cost 7 pct.
- Agreement also calls for 30-year pension, voluntary overtime

monopolizing markets. Another directed IBM to make public the details of "interfaces" between new products and peripheral accessories so that other manufacturers' devices could be made compatible with IBM equipment.

NEW COMPETITION If the decision survives appeals, many industry analysts predicted it could bring new competition into the business and a proliferation of firms like Telex.

With the Telex decision, other small data products companies were considering similar suits. "If we don't, we could be severely criticized by our stockholders," said an executive of one such firm.

More precedent appeared to have been set in Detroit, where Chrysler Corp. reached a tentative contract agreement with the United Auto Workers union, whose members had been on strike since late the previous week.

The contract, which was being put to a union vote this past week, is expected to raise Chrysler's labor costs more than 7 per cent and would provide first-year wage hikes of more than 25 cents an hour in its first year.

It would also provide a full pension after 30 years' work, regardless of a worker's age, and give employees the right to turn down overtime work under some conditions.

Minuses — Plusses

William F. Buckley Jr.

There was a wonderful article published a couple of years ago in Esquire by Garry Willis describing the events that, 21 years ago, preceded the Checkers Speech. In it Mr. Willis traced (he has, alas, like Andrew Kopkind, lost the art since his total ideological) the extraordinary political skills of the young candidate for the vice presidency, Richard Nixon, who transformed a slur on his record into a triumphant public vindication and in the course of his experience, fired a shot over the bow of Presidential candidate Dwight Eisenhower which that practised soldier did not misinterpret.

WHEN EISENHOWER welcomed Nixon back onto the ticket as a candidate in good standing it was both because Eisenhower desired to do so, and because he was afraid not to do so.

It was then that the vindicated Mr. Nixon began his celebrated Clean as a Hound's Tooth Club, and his friends and associates for many years carried about membership cards in their wallets. The resentment over Eisenhower's fitful backing never entirely dissipated, and one wonders whether Mr. Agnew, in his current plight, ponders Mr. Nixon's bitterness of yesterday, and sympathizes with it.

LET'S FACE IT, guilt in the political world is not, really, the same thing as judicial guilt. Thomas Eagleton was not legally guilty of anything, but he was kicked off Sen. McGovern's ticket for the "guilt" of not having divulged his record of nervous troubles to McGovern's managers. Sherman Adams was not guilty of anything much more serious than double parking, but as cabaret in the time-frame of the day, he was guilty, and accordingly he was dismissed.

Mr. Nixon's almost truculent defense of John Ehrlichman and Bob Haldeman is in sharp contrast with the formalistic defense of Mr. Agnew, and accordingly everyone rushes to the conclusion that Mr. Agnew is at least politically guilty. The rumors that Mr. Agnew will resign are unlikely to have originated other than from sources very close to Mr. Nixon.

LET'S FACE IT, if Mr. Agnew should indeed proceed to resign, Mr. Nixon could hardly be sorry. For one thing there would be a purgative feel around the White House from which he himself would benefit. For another, the most conspicuous conservative hardliner in the United States would be neatly removed, without offending the conservative constituency that insisted on his renomination in 1972. For still another, Mr. Nixon could move in someone appealing to many of his critics, thus strengthening his own embattled position.

BUT IT IS at this point that one needs to reflect on the strengths of Mr. Agnew, and they are a) institutional, and b) personal. As regards the latter, Mr. Agnew is a man of some backbone and has at least the normal man's indisposition to be pushed around. As regards the former, the vice president cannot be forced to resign by a show of displeasure from the President.

One hopes their personal relationship will not so deteriorate, but one could easily conceive of a situation in which the vice president informed the President through the press that he had allegedly committed while Governor of Maryland are surely less disqualifying than those allegedly committed while President of the United States.

'Strained Heart' Limits

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had an electrocardiogram and was told I had a "strained heart." My doctor said no more mowing the lawn or snow shoveling and that I should rest when I get tired. He advised giving up my job as he felt my housework was enough.

Could you explain this type of heart condition. The doctor said there is no medicine I can take for it. Do you agree? — L.M.

"Strained heart" is a somewhat ambiguous phrase, but the likeliest explanation would be that your ECG showed a decreased blood flow to the heart muscle. The muscle gets enough blood supply if you don't exert yourself, but it can't keep up if you put too much demand on it.

Hence giving up strenuous activity makes sense. As to giving up your job, that would depend on how much energy your job demands and how tired you are at the end of the day. Your doctor would be in a much better position to judge that than I am, of course.

The important point is this: that sort of heart can keep serving you for a long time if you don't overtax it.

As to medication — that depends. If there is any suggestion of heart failure (shortness of breath, cough, swelling of ankles) digitalis may be in order.

If there is chest discomfort with activity or after a meal, angina pectoris (chest pain) may require medication. Nitroglycerin long has been used to relieve these painful episodes, and sometimes other medications to dilate the coronary arteries temporarily and allow more blood to flow to the heart muscle.

More recently Persantine and small doses of aspirin have been used to ward off angina attacks by increasing the flow of blood by reducing the "stickiness" of platelets in the blood. Anticoagulants ("blood-thinners") may be used in some cases.

In any event, let your doctor judge that. Evidently you would not benefit by medication now. If you limit your physical activity to whatever your heart can support, you may postpone the time when, eventually, you may need medication to help it along.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it normal for light to hurt my eyes? I have had this problem for 11 years. I am 20 now. I can't stand light, sunlight or anything, shining in my eyes because it gives me a headache. Do you think I need glasses? Or is it just in my mind? — A.E.L.

Some people are more sensitive to light than others and resort to dark glasses.

But there are specific things that can cause photophobia (this intolerance of bright light). Refractive errors can cause it — meaning that you need glasses to correct your visual problems.

Diseases of the cornea and conjunctiva (outer eye coverings) can be involved. So can some inner eye disorders.

Grisly Parody

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's long-awaited message on housing, like so many government documents these days, amounts to a bizarre, almost grisly parody of itself.

IN ADDRESSING the problems faced by middle-income people looking for a home, the President's message said, in effect: trust the banks, which the government will further subsidize so that they'll loosen up some of that mortgage money.

For low-income people in search of housing, the message said: this study promises another study on that. (This portion of the housing message should have been in tarpaper to provide temporary shelter.)

"Credit is the lifeblood of housing," the President proclaimed as he turned his middle-class constituency over to usurious vampires.

MR. NIXON defined as one of his key goals "permitting homebuyers to pay market-level interest rates and still be eligible for federal insurance." How nice. This is like "permitting" people to buy diamonds, pearls and rubies with a government guarantee.

The price of borrowing has become astronomical and what is the administration response? Legislation to lower interest rates?

INSTEAD, Housing Secretary James Lynn says that state laws against usury are "archaic," making the 12 per cent loan the latest in suburban chic.

"We cannot relent in the fight against inflation," the President's statement said. "Nor can we expect to insulate housing from the effects of that effort."

But lending institutions will be cozily insulated by items like "forward commitments" of up to $2.5 billion in their loan liabilities.

IN THE COMING wintry freeze, no banker in America shall go homeless and no savings-and-loan tycoon need worry about a suitable roof over his head. Yet the freeze continues for nearly all low-income housing programs. When the President referred to "the challenge of low-income housing," the code of self-parody meant that the homeless were the ones being challenged, not the public officials whose job is to provide homes, and certainly not the banks.

Generation Of Heat

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — It is wrong to think that President Nixon's political future rests on what evidence is produced by the Watergate hearings or whether the Supreme Court decides he has to give up the White House tapes.

THE PRESIDENT'S rise or fall in the next six months will depend on whether the United States has a cold winter or not. With predictions for a heating oil shortage, the biggest political issue will be the weather.

Let us suppose that for some reason the elements have been unkind to us and the United States has a very cold winter. The Antrobus family is huddled in the living room. Mr. Antrobus has thrown all the furniture into the fireplace and is about to dump the television set in the flames when President Nixon, speaking from the winter White House in Key Biscayne, comes on the air.

"My fellow Americans, I wish to speak tonight on a subject that is close to many of your hearts. I am sure you are asking why is the United States, the greatest power in the world without heat? Why are the American people, who have the highest standard of living in the history of mankind, cold?"

"IF YOU recall, in my second State of the Union Message I asked Congress for a mild winter."

"I asked them to pass legislation that would make it unlawful for the temperature to go below 40 degrees. I demanded that they give me the authority to move in on any cold front that could cause chaos in this country.

"IT IS typical of Congress that they ignored my request. Instead of passing a law to guarantee a mild winter, they passed a bill that would have cost the American taxpayer one billion dollars in fuel costs. When I vetoed this bill in October, I told you that I would never sign anything that would add to the inflationary spiral in this country. At that time I said, and I still believe a vast majority of Americans feel as I do, that it's better to shiver than pay higher taxes. Your response was overwhelming in my favor.

Now, I know you're asking, 'Why are we having a cold winter?' The responsibility lies not only with Congress but with a press and TV media that for the past four months have been devoting endless space and time to weather reports that show the United States is a cold nation. Well, I can tell you tonight, my fellow Americans, you have been given a distorted picture of this country. There are great parts of the United States that aren't cold. Florida isn't cold; Texas isn't cold; Southern California isn't cold. But does the press write about these places? Do the network news programs show the sun shining over Arizona and New Mexico? All we ever see or read about is New England and Minnesota.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"You are the light for all the world." Matthew 5:14

PRAYER: Lord Jesus, may my response and my commitment be as simple as: "This little light of mine, I'm gonna let it shine." Amen.

Kid Star Of 'The Yearling' Is Approaching Middle Age

Copley News Service
HOLLYWOOD — "People ask me when 'The Yearling' was made," Claude Jarman said, "and when I tell them 28 years ago, they can't believe it. I can't believe it myself." Jarman, at 10, the winsome Jody Baxter of MGM's great motion picture about a youngster and a fawn, has become (if you can believe the calendar) almost middle-aged. Approaching 40, he's a husband (twice), a father (four times) and the director of the San Francisco Film Festival. At the same time, he's a nice-looking guy who retains a youth quality. Sitting in a Beverly Hills restaurant, sipping a Mai Tai, Jarman submitted to an interview as a courtesy to MGM which released "The Yearling" to television as part of a package called "The MGM Family Network." In addition to "The Yearling," the MGM Family Network will offer "The Glass Slipper," "Sleeping Beauty," "Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm," "National Velvet," "The Phantom of the Tollbooth," "Lilli," "Knights of the Round Table" and "Peter Rabbit and the Tales of Beatrix Potter."

NO INTERVIEWS
 Elizabeth Taylor is not doing promotional interviews to help "National Velvet" along; but Jarman has been cooperating to the hilt. Pulling at his Mai Tai, he explained that he had moved to San Francisco from his native Southeast in 1960 to be director of public relations for an insurance company. He worked first for the San Francisco Film Festival on a volunteer basis, and then five years ago began to make it his career. Jarman wasn't a professional child actor when Clarence Brown first chose him to play a critical role in "The Yearling." He was a 10-year-old fifth grader at Alken School in Nashville, Tenn., the son of a railroad accountant, at the time that he attracted the attention of Brown who was visiting the school in disguise.

City Budget Hearing Set

City commissioners Tuesday will consider on second reading an ordinance rezoning land along FM 700 to light commercial and another on emergency reading setting up a Big Spring Juvenile Department.

In other action, the commission will hold a public hearing on the budget for fiscal year 1973-74, will consider on final reading annexation of the Big Spring State Hospital and will review on second reading an ordinance granting Pioneer Natural Gas Co. a 15 per cent rate increase.

A report from the code enforcer will be presented and the Big Spring Rental Property Association will discuss matters with the commission.

Also to be up on emergency reading are two resolutions — one authorizing the mayor to sign a right-of-way easement for Texas Electric Service Co. and another authorizing him to execute a deed for Section 17 to Roger D. Brown, W. L. Wilson Jr., and Pamela Wilson.

A bid for a supply of activated carbon will probably be accepted and permission will be sought by the purchasing agent to advertise for bids on new police uniforms.

Muleshoe Area Raises Most Of Peas For Plant

By MARJ CARPENTER
 Beans and 'taters' have infiltrated the very heart of the cotton land.

Over in Lamesa, county seat of Dawson County, a potato farmer has grown potatoes for the past two years on an experimental basis and he has proven that spuds will grow in Dawson County.

The Texas Bean and Pea building at Lamesa which had closed down is open again, but the peas that they are processing were mostly grown around the Muleshoe area.

JUST IN CASE
 Dawson County is cotton country and last year they attained their goal of the No. 1 cotton producing county in the nation. However, there are some folks around that are eyeing diversification "just in case."

Recent hail storms seriously hurt around 6,000 acres of the county's cotton. It is thought by the cotton experts at this time that there is at least 1,000 acres around the Punkin Center area that have no chance for recovery. However, Dawson County may again gain the title of the No. 1 Cotton producing county.

SPUDS WILL GROW
 However, out at Welch, Dan Harp has been learning a lot about potatoes. He is one of four experimental potato farms in the Plains area.

Last year, he harvested around 200 sacks of potatoes and all indications are that this year's harvest will exceed that one.

Harp has grown several varieties of potatoes in several different demonstration plots. One thing he has learned for sure — potatoes will grow around Lamesa.

He stated recently that "Irish spuds will probably do the best although most of mine this year are the red, russet potatoes. These were planted in May and would have been harvested in August, but due to the inclement weather were harvested this week. Harp believes that potatoes may be planted as early as

March. He doesn't plan to market his potatoes at potato shed, but simply sell them a sack at a time to friends and neighbors like he did last year.

PORK AND BEANS
 The beans being processed in Lamesa at the Texas Bean and Pea building located on the Lubbock highway are operated under a lease-purchase agreement with Texas Sesame Co. of Muleshoe. The plant is managed by Oatus Roberts, Jr.

According to Roberts, the plant is currently cleaning and shipping the small pea beans being harvested around the Muleshoe area. The pea beans, currently bringing 10 cents a pound, are being trucked to Lamesa for cleaning and then shipped by rail to Stokley Van Camp in Dallas where they will be used in pork and beans.

So next year's pork and beans may have been grown in Muleshoe and processed in Lamesa. But the taters are being eaten by Dawson Countians.

And the cotton — it's growing in the No. 1 Cotton County.

Too Much Husband Can Be Bane To Household, Wife Discovers

By CAROL LOU HAYES
Copley News Service

The poet who wrote, "Grow old along with me, the best is yet to be," must have been a retired man, certainly not his wife, observes Mary L. wryly. "I'll bet even devoted old

Joan wished her darling Darby would get out of the house and leave her alone sometime," she adds.

Mary is one of the disillusioned wives who looked forward to her husband's retirement but was rudely awakened. "I have twice as much husband and half as much money," she complains.

Too much togetherness seems to be the big problem when hubby receives his gold watch from the company and doesn't have to punch a time clock any longer.

EXPLOSIONS

When a man who is delighted to be at last free of routine is home all day with a woman who's been accustomed to doing things her own way in her own time for years, pressures build up and sometimes explosions follow.

But you can survive your husband's retirement, and enjoy it too, agree several wives who offer hints on how to make the most of "the last of life for which the first was made."

"You can make things a lot easier for both of you if you can manage to be flexible," suggests a wife who's enjoyed her husband's retirement for many years.

"At first, it was hard having him around, because it interfered with my routine."

"I'm a methodical person and had my own way of doing things."

"He always seemed to be annoyed when he tried to apply his work-saving methods to the household routine she had followed 40 years."

"When he said I made too much noise banging the pans around when I washed dishes, that was — it brother!" she recalls. "He'd never done much around the house, but when I handed him the dish cloth and said, 'If you don't like the way I do it, do it yourself!' By golly, he did! Now he has taken over several little jobs and the work goes faster, leaving us more time to spend together."

Wisely, she lets him do his chosen tasks any way he pleases.

"It may not be done as well as I'd do it," she says a bit smugly, "but that's part of the compromise."

Don't be in a big hurry to sell the old family home and move to a smaller place when the children are grown, cautions Ida L.

"We were considering that till we visited friends who'd moved to a small apartment and the wife confided, 'There just isn't any room for us to get away from each other.' So Joe and I decided that the extra space offered by our old house was worth the extra effort to keep it up. He goes out to his workshop or den, so we each have a little privacy."

TWO BATHS NEEDED

If you do move, be sure to get a place with two bathrooms, advises Rose O.

"Adding an extra bathroom to our house was a great investment," she says.

"Fred's retirement was better in some ways and worse in others than I'd expected," reports Jane K.
