LOTS OF WATER — Three to five feet of water cover the community of Smithville in Clay County, Mo., just north of Kansas City. The floodwaters are from the nearby Little Platte River, a tributary of the Missouri River. Many of the 1,779 residents were evacuated from their homes after the rivers started to rise Thursday.

Jordan Joins War In The Middle East

By The Associated Press
 Jordan said its troops joined the Arab war against Israel on Saturday but the Israelis claimed their tanks smashed an Iraqi force in Syria and drove farther down the road to Damascus.

The Jordanian Information Ministry said King Hussein's forces already were fighting on the Syrian front in an apparent effort to bolster the Syrians and Iraqis, who Israel claimed were folding back in savage tank fighting.

GESTURE PERHAPS
 But the ministry gave no indication how many Jordanian troops were being dispatched and diplomats suggested Hussein might be making more of a gesture of Arab solidarity than an all-out commitment.

A Lebanese newspaper said King Faisal of Saudi Arabia messaged President Nixon he will break relations with the United States and cut off oil supplies if Washington provides new arms to Israel.

U.S. government sources said in Washington that the Nixon administration will start replacing some Israeli planes, tanks and other military equipment in a few days. They cited heavy Israeli war losses and a growing Soviet supply airlift to Egypt and Syria.

An Israeli military analyst in Tel Aviv indicated the Israeli objective was to destroy the Arab war machine on the northern front and then turn on the Egyptians in Sinai.

But Jordan's entrance into the eight-day-old war could slow the advance into Syria or open a new 250-mile front to Israel's east, draining Israeli forces from the Golan Heights and the Sinai.

Hussein has an estimated 52 combat planes and a 75,000-man army, including tough and highly trained desert Bedouins backed by more than 400 tanks.

Some Western diplomats in Amman said Hussein's move might be a symbolic commitment and did not necessarily mean he planned to attack.

Several other Arab countries, including Tunisia and Morocco, have sent token contingents as a gesture of Arab solidarity.

The Israeli state radio said more than 15,000 Iraqi troops were in Syria to aid the Damascus forces but did not say how many were fighting on the front. The Tel Aviv command claimed most of the Iraqi expeditionary force was "eliminated" Saturday morning and was retreating along with Syrians falling back toward Damascus.

The Israelis had punched more than 15 miles beyond the Golan Heights cease-fire lines drawn when Israel seized the 1,250-square-mile area from Syria in the 1967 war.

NEAR CAPITAL
 Associated Press photographer Paul Roque, who spent the night with Israelis at the 15-mile point, said Israeli spearhead tanks were about nine miles farther up the 40-mile road, within 16 miles of the ancient Syrian capital.

That would bring the seat of President Hafez Assad's Syrian government within the 20-mile range of Israel's U.S.-built 175mm howitzers.

Damascus communiques ignored the Israeli advance into Syria and concentrated instead on what they depicted as fierce tank and air battles in the Golan area.

"Ground battles still are violently raging between our forces and the enemy since dawn along the entire front line," one communique said, without pinpointing where the fighting was taking place.

Long Battle Over Tapes Is Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate grand jury is a court decision closer to tape recordings of President Nixon's conversations about the scandal but the road ahead could be a long one filled with legal twists and turns.

The White House remained silent about the U.S. Court of Appeals decision ordering Nixon to let U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica examine the tapes in private.

But it was learned that within 30 minutes of the announcement at 6 p.m. Friday of the appeals court ruling, Nixon met with J. Fred Buzhardt, one of his chief lawyers in the tapes' dispute, and Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., presidential staff chief.

CHIEF TOPIC
 As the nation waited for Nixon to announce whom he would nominate as his new vice president, he met with the two advisers for nearly one hour and the chief topic of discussion was the tapes decision.

The President is regarded as certain to appeal the ruling to the Supreme Court. The appeals court gave him until Friday to do so.

Nixon has said he would abide by a definitive decision of the highest court.

It took six weeks for the appeals court to uphold Sirica's ruling that the judge had the authority to determine if the President's claim that the tapes must be kept secret was valid.

Should the Supreme Court take as long, it will be near the end of November before its decision is known.

This would ensure that special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox will need the authority he has sought from Congress to extend the term of the grand jury investigating the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

That panel's 18-month term expires Dec. 5. The only evidence of any significance that it still must hear before deciding whether to return indictments is the tapes.

Cox has argued in court that the grand jury needs the nine tapes to determine the extent of the conspiracy to obstruct the investigation of the break-in, including whether the President was a participant.

One tape sought by Cox is of a Sept. 15, 1972 meeting between Nixon and ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III.

River On Rise At Junction

New rains on already-soggy soil caused flooding and evacuations of residents in Texas Saturday with serious flooding at normally dry Junction northwest of San Antonio.

The heaviest rains late Friday and during Saturday were in an area from the Hill Country southeastward to Corpus Christi, but the downpours moved into Southeast Texas to cause more trouble.

Residents in the scenic Hill Country town of Junction were preparing Saturday for a 35-foot crest on the Llano River, described by Evelyn Laxson as "the worst I've seen and I've been here since 1945."

The Department of Public Safety sent a helicopter to help.

Dayan Is Proved Right Once More

Reviewing the . . .
Big Spring Week
 . . . with Joe Pickle

The big and good news of the week was word that the House has passed the military construction authorization bill which contained $3,150,000 for buildings at Webb AFB. The Senate previously had passed a bill with the almost identical funds for Webb. The bills go to conference committee and are almost certain to be approved finally and go to the President. Still, there remains the critical step of actual appropriations, but we're much further along than before on these much-needed improvements for the base.

Not so far along is the effort to upgrade the U.S. Experiment Farm into a regional research center, which most civic leaders believe is necessary not just to hold it but more to meet a tremendous research need. Already the station is speaking to perform basic research for 40 million dryland acres. If the estimated 60 acres of grassland go back to cultivation to meet burgeoning food-fiber demands (the need for wind erosion research will be all the more critical.)

The United Way campaign although making substantial strides, is nearing that double-tough period of trying to get in lagging reports. It's still a substantial way from the homestretch. (See THE WEEK, Page 2-A, Col. 1)

Veteran Coughs Up Sniper's Bullet

PASADENA, Tex. (AP) — After 25 years, Ernest Young of Pasadena finally saw his World War II souvenir—an 8mm bullet that had been lodged in his right shoulder since 1945.

Saturday he coughed it up. Young said that after breakfast he started coughing then gagging.

He walked to his bedroom to lie down and began coughing blood.

"I bent over and coughed and that thing fell out of my throat," he said.

When he felt the weight of the object, he said he knew what it was—a German sniper's slug. Young said he was wounded Jan. 16, 1945 as his unit pushed forward after the Battle of the Bulge.

Doctors at Bayshore Hospital said the bullet had worked its way into a lung, then up a bronchia tube to Young's throat.

California Poets Want Special Day

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a display of poet power, California's rhymemakers are bombarding Gov. Ronald Reagan with pennies and poems urging him to proclaim Monday as Poetry Day.

Michael Frane, a San Francisco bartender, wrote: "Poetry Day? Good governor — Give voice and pen — To Poets' pennies — That petition you — To now proclaim it!"

Since 1950 when Gov. Earl Warren signed the first proclamation, Oct. 15 has been Poetry Day in California. In 1960 the state legislature gave it official sanction.

But in 1970, citing the cost of preparing an illuminated parchment, Reagan stopped all state proclamations. The parchments cost more than $300 each.

The state's poets, led by the California Federation of Chaparral Poets, began a campaign of penny jar politics to pay the costs.

Diogenes Can Douse Light In Lantern

"Finders keepers" is not always the case as Mrs. Estelle Wozencraft discovered Saturday afternoon after losing her billfold containing $95, several credit cards and her driver's license.

The billfold apparently fell off the hood of her car while she was driving down Goad. She said she had placed the wallet atop the car while paying a bill at a Goliad Street shop.

About an hour after the incident, the billfold and contents were returned by Nat Roll of the American Red Cross who found them lying on the street.

"I realize how very lucky I am," Mrs. Wozencraft rejoiced afterwards.

TEL AVIV (AP) — Moshe Dayan once observed: "It is our destiny to be in a state of continual war with the Arabs."

He subsequently was bitterly criticized by many Israelis who felt he should give peace a chance.

Dayan countered by saying he was a realist who recognized the vast gulf dividing Jews and Arabs in the Middle East.

Now, with the region embroiled in its fourth war in 25 years, Dayan appears to be political enemies to be infuriatingly right.

At 58, the short, balding former general with the black patch on his left eye not only fights the Arabs, but less than two months ago, battled his own political party led by Premier Golda Meir, forcing it to swing to his own hard line.

WON'T NEGOTIATE
 That philosophy: hold on to territory captured from the Arabs, because they will fight rather than negotiate for its return.

Dayan bluntly declares Israel will "teach Syria a severe lesson."

In domestic politics he is a loner, believing he has little chance of becoming premier despite his popularity.

Dayan's military career has been marked by gambles.

GOOD TRAINING
 As a young officer in 1948, he used bluff to capture two Arab towns, proclaiming victory to the startled populace by driving a convoy of jeeps through the main streets.

In 1956, judging the Egyptians to be ill-organized for war, he exhorted his outnumbered troops to charge them head-on, and captured the Sinai Peninsula in 10 days.

In 1967, he banked his victory on Israel's ability to wipe out three Arab forces on the ground in one day.

And now, he is sending his soldiers on daring missions straight at the enemy's throat — to blow up Syria's oil installations, and fight naval battles far from home near the Nile Delta or behind Egyptian lines.

Egypt Claims Violations

CAIRO (AP) — An Egyptian military communique said two reconnaissance planes of a type "possessed only by the United States" flew over Egypt on Saturday for a period of 25 minutes.

It identified the aircraft as SR71As, which the U.S. Air Force uses for purposes of reconnaissance, according to "All the World's Aircraft," the authoritative British journal on planes.

SR71As fly at three times the speed of sound.

The Egyptian communique said: "The two reconnaissance planes violated Egyptian airspace at 11:05 GMT over Port Said, went deep into Egypt at Nagaa Hammady, 590 kilometers — 366 miles — 'south of Cairo, turned back over the capital and flew eastward in the direction of Jordan and Syria, then back to the Mediterranean Sea."

"Flying at an altitude of 25 kilometers" — 15 miles — "the two planes made the round trip in 25 minutes."

"This is the first time Egypt's airspace has been violated by this type of plane," the communique added.

It did not specifically say the aircraft were American planes, but after identifying the aircraft as SR71As, the communique said: "This type of plane, flying at three times the speed of sound, is possessed only by the United States."

Ford Due Clear Sailing In Bid For Veep's Job

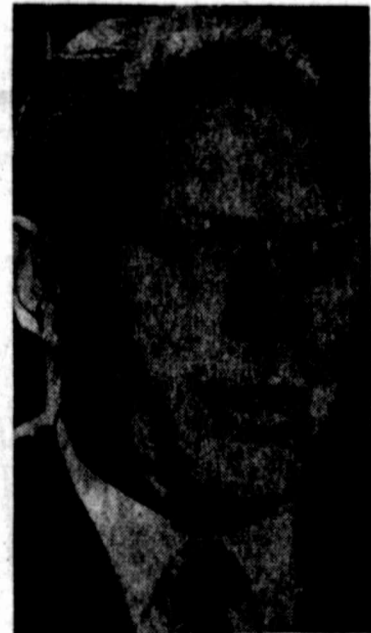

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pledging full financial disclosure, Rep. Gerald R. Ford said Saturday there is nothing in his background that should prevent his expected confirmation as the nation's vice president.

There was virtually unanimous praise announced for President Nixon's nominee, but members of the House Judiciary and Senate Rules committees made it clear they will scrutinize Ford carefully.

An Associated Press survey showed there were more than enough favorable votes in Congress to confirm the House Republican leader as vice president.

Meanwhile, Nixon said that even before Congress acts on the nomination, Ford will receive daily intelligence briefings and participate in meetings of the National Security Council and Cabinet.

SLIGHT DELAY
 Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., said it should be about two weeks before his Rules panel can start public hearings on Ford. It will await receipt of a full FBI check on the 60-year-old Michigan congressman.

In the House, Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said his Judiciary Committee would begin public hearings within two weeks with full television coverage permitted.

Ford, smiling and relaxed, paid a visit to the House Press

Gallery. For about 30 minutes, he answered questions about his finances and political plans.

Although President Nixon announced his formal intelligence briefings would start immediately, Ford said he plans to hold onto his House seat until Congress completes the confirmation procedure under the 25th Amendment.

He repeated "as emphatically as I can" that "I have no intention of being a candidate for any political office in 1976," including the presidency.

Ford was asked if there was anything in his background that might come up in confirmation hearings and replied "not to my knowledge." He said "I certainly intend to make a full disclosure" and will make his income tax returns available to the two committees.

But Ford said President Nixon hadn't asked anything about his finances before choosing him to replace Spiro T. Agnew who resigned Wednesday. Agnew pleaded no contest to one count of income tax evasion in the wake of charges he had taken kickbacks.

THE WEEK

Meanwhile, one good example workers doubled their giving — was reported — U.S. postal do without hurting in the least.

The City of Big Spring, by having promptly completed its filings as required, was one of the first to receive its federal revenue sharing check, this one for $94,117. Howard County got its check for $69,299.

Joey Shaw, Knott, and Darla Buchanan, Luther, are the new 4-H Gold Star winners for Howard County. No finer honor could come to a young person. Cited at the 4-H recognition dinner were J. E. Peugh and Mrs. Ovis James, adult leaders. Cindy Bartlett, Lamesa, won the state 4-H revue for best cotton dress.

Tourism committee set a budget last week of $23,000, based on estimated receipts from the 3 per cent motel occupancy tax. Among proposed items are full color brochures, placements with Big Spring attractions, advertising, trade and travel and booths, billboards, etc., also going after conventions.

The Sacred Heart Catholic congregation, pastored by the Rev. James Delaney, dedicated its handsome $130,000 new sanctuary. Bishop Stephen A. Leven came here for the occasion. This worship center, as well as the youth and parish center across the street, is a far cry from facilities a few years ago.

We got our usual Friday rain — but this time not enough to cut any figure. Earlier in the week there had been about half an inch to fall over the area. This had little effect one way or the other, but the cooler weather slowed growing. Meanwhile, the cotton harvest will begin getting into high gear within two weeks; many won't wait for frost.

Gerald Miller, an indefatigable worker who helped to revive the Howard County Fair, was named president-elect and general superintendent for the 1974 show at the post-fair meeting of trustees last week. James (Buddy) Barr steps up to president.

Air conditioning seems to be an issue that won't die for Big Spring trustees. It was back on the agenda last week but with the familiar story: A fine thing, but where do you get the $750,000 to put in it, and then funds for operation? One possibility a 11-cent increase, but this sparked no enthusiasm.

Building permits for the past month amounted to $308,650 thanks largely to $200,000 for the foundations of the New Hospital Corporation of America plant in western part of the city. The main building permits may not be taken out until early next year. Total permits for this year are $2,838,500.

Winston Wrinkle, owner-operator of KBST, has been elected president of the Chamber of Commerce for 1974. He will succeed George A. McAlister. The chamber isn't going back to the annual banquet, but it is going back to an annual meeting. A big country-Western jamboree will follow the business session at the city auditorium.

Rules for the detoxification unit were announced last week, including one that it would be used only for rehabilitation. Drunks will continue to be sobered in jail. We hope that rule is not too rigid if it would be medically indicated for intoxicated people to be handled elsewhere.

Connally Can Mark Time In Politics

FLORESVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The day President Nixon named his vice presidential nominee, John Connally roamed his grass-green prospering Texas ranch. His time was not now.

"Mainly, I have John at home," was the reaction of his wife after she, her husband and family members watched the President announce Friday night that Rep. Gerald Ford was nominated.

Connally, a superstar whose political stock has not fallen like some others have, was at once adamant about his feelings and then a tinge evasive about any role he played in the vice presidential nominating.

NO QUESTION
"I would have been confirmed without a question," he said to a gallery of newsmen he invited into his masculinely appointed family room here to watch Nixon's network address.

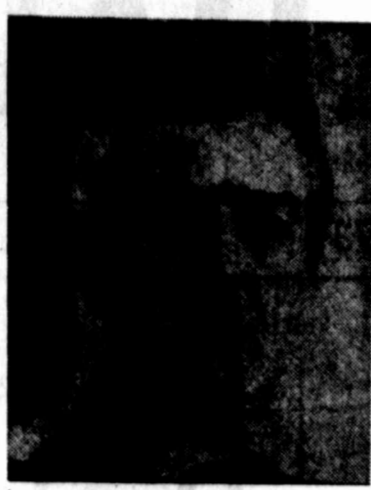

He admitted there had been some conversation between him and the White House Thursday night but he wouldn't say with whom he talked, except that it was not President Nixon.

Connally said flatly when pressed about whether he refused to accept the nomination: "No, I didn't say I wouldn't take it. I have never made a categorical statement that I would not serve my country."

He answered every last question from the 40-odd newsmen. Then he extended his hospitality to a late evening social hour.

It was one of his domestic helpers who here first gave a clue Friday afternoon that her boss was not the man this time, although her statement conflicted with his subsequent assertion that he was not offered the job.

only as Mrs. Lorocho, she said before he arrived at his ranch. "He's not going to be it. He turned it down. He told me last night."

Mrs. Lorocho, who was guarding the locked gate to Connally's ranch before he arrived, also was the one who said he was not coming to Floresville and who then later said he was flying in on his private airstrip.

After he motored from Houston, Connally said he "rode around and looked at a bunch of weaned cattle and went down and talked to my foreman about fall planting and then I came back and fell asleep in a chair."

He planned to attend a cattle sale Saturday where he said he has his eye "on a bull or two."

OF OTHER THINGS

As the television was warming up for Nixon's speech in the White House, Connally talked about Floresville's annual celebration which was in progress downtown a few miles from the Picusa Ranch.

At 8 p.m. CDT, the moment the White House ceremonies began, Floresville was crowning the king and queen of its peanut festival, honoring its traditional cash crop. Connally recalled how he was named King Reboog of the original festival in 1938 and a woman who is now married to an Army officer in Massachusetts was his queen.

"Reboog" is "goober" spelled backwards.

Prior to and after the Ford nomination, Connally reiterated he was not now a candidate for anything. His wife Nellie said maybe newsmen would believe that now.

Connally praised Ford. Asked if Ford might emerge as a Presidential contender, he said: "You know any time a man gets exposure of this kind, it either helps him enormously or it does him in. There's very little middle ground in American politics."

Maternity Leave Policy Due Study

FORSAN — School trustees will consider revision of the district maternity leave policy in the wake of new federal requirements that it be handled like sick leave at the Forsan County Line District's board meeting at 7 p.m. Monday.

Supt. Herb Smith explained that under present policy a pregnant teacher must resign although she will be rehired after the birth.

Also up for discussion is litigation insurance for board members and a possible change to Texas Electric Service Co. power for Elbow Elementary, now served by Cap Rock Electric Co-op.

A report will be given on the joint convention of the Texas Association of School Boards and the Texas Association of School Administrators in San Antonio in late September. Several Forsan school officials attended.

IN WEST TEXAS Harvest Cotton, Grain Sorghum

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Unfavorable harvest weather the past several weeks has kept many crops in the field, Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

One bright spot has been in the South and Rolling Plains where the grain sorghum harvest is gaining momentum, he said.

Cotton and grain sorghum are being harvested in Far West Texas, and some cotton is being stripped in West Central Texas. Some cotton is also being harvested in the Central Texas Blacklands but rainy, humid weather is causing delays.

Some peanuts are being harvested in central counties where field conditions are dry enough, Hutchison said. The soybean harvest is increasing in the South Plains and Panhandle.

This year's pecan crop will be short due to late freezing weather this spring and heavy damage from insects and diseases, he said.

Good soil moisture is allowing wheat and oats to make good early growth but armyworms and greenbugs are invading some small grain fields, Hutchison said.

Pasture and range conditions are above average in many counties, he said.

District agricultural agents gave these reports:

South Plains: About 30 percent of the grain sorghum crop is in and yields are generally above average. More warm weather is needed to mature late cotton. Some dryland and early irrigated cotton is being defoliated in preparation for harvest. Small grain planting is about complete.

Rolling Plains: Grain sorghum harvesting averages more than half complete over the area. Cotton is being harvested in about half the counties. Some peanuts also are being harvested. Planting of wheat and oats is past the half-way mark. Pasture and range conditions are mostly above average.

Far West: Cotton and grain sorghum harvesting are making good progress. Pecans are beginning to mature. Some counties are boasting a good crop. Ranges have a good grass cover.

West Central: The grain sorghum harvest is about complete. Some cotton stripping is under way. A few peanuts have been harvested but rains have caused delays. Many pastures and ranges are in above average condition. Harvesting of a light pecan crop should start soon.

Southwest: Harvesting of corn and grain sorghum is complete. Late peanuts are progressing well. Cabbage, carrots, spinach and other fall vegetables are making good progress. Small grain plantings are making good growth. Pastures, ranges and livestock are in good conditions.

South: Cotton still in the field continues to deteriorate. Extensions for stalk destruction have been granted through Oct. 15 in the Rio Grande Valley. Flax will be planted soon. Higher prices have stirred interest in the crop. Cattle are in excellent condition despite continued heavy numbers of ear ticks and screwworms.

More Young People Want No Children

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer

More and more young single people, convinced they will never want to have children, are asking to be sterilized. Hospitals in cities such as Boston, Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and St. Louis say they have noted definite increases within the last few years in requests for vasectomies and tubal ligations or laparoscopies from the under-30 and unmarried. In most cases, the operations are irreversible. "In the last five years, there has been a four-to-five-fold increase in tubal ligations, mainly among single women. Vasectomies have increased too," said Dr. Clay Burchell, staff physician at Hartford Hospital. The Association for Voluntary Sterilization reports that almost five million men and women in America have been sterilized. In the past, this form of birth control was sought primarily by older, married people with several children.

LOTS OF THOUGHT
The association says that now 50 per cent of requests for information about sterilization come from the single and childless.

The singles who have been sterilized say they gave the operation considerable thought before going through with it. They say they don't want children because of concern for overpopulation, career priorities, or lack of interest in raising a family. Most have no plans to marry.

Few worried that they would ever regret having been sterilized and said they could always adopt if in the future they wanted a child. Sterilization is legal in all states, but the unmarried often encounter difficulties when asking to be sterilized. Some hospitals have restrictive policies concerning the age and marital status of applicants and doctors say they are reluctant to sterilize someone young enough to possibly regret the operation within a few years.

"Sterilization is strictly an agreement between the doctor and the patient, but I think most doctors would feel that a young, unmarried person is just not in a position to make that kind of irrevocable decision, in view of the long-term social, emotional and physical repercussions," said Dr. Ervin Nichols, associate director of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology. Even doctors who say everyone should have the right to be sterilized if so choose often urge psychiatric counseling for the young and single before a final commitment to perform the operation.

HEADS TOGETHER
"Some people really do have their heads together at age 25 and can make rational decisions about such important matters," said Ira Niger of Planned Parenthood in New York, which now performs vasectomies in some of its clinics. "But every case is judged on its individual merits. In-depth interviewing and counseling is very important," he said.

New Inflation Club Is Asked By President

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — President Nixon may send to Congress next year a bill that would give him flexible new power to raise taxes as a tool to fight inflation, a top White House aide says.

Melvin Laird, the President's chief domestic adviser, said, however, that it would take four years for Congress to approve any kind of broad grant of authority even if Nixon sent the bill up next year.

Laird said he referred to proposals that would permit the President to raise or lower the investment tax credit or to increase personal income taxes when the economy is booming, then refund the money when the economy has cooled off.

When Laird suggested a similar idea a few weeks ago, Treasury Secretary George Shultz said that Laird "should keep his cotton-pickin' hands off economic policy."

Only a few hours after Shultz left here after speaking to the Business Council, an organization of the top 100 U.S. corporate executives, Laird was at it again.

Asked if Shultz agreed with him, he said the secretary "should speak for himself."

Laird said the time will come for the tax legislation he is suggesting, adding that either Congress will do it by simple resolution or the President will initiate legislation.

Asked whether Nixon would send up a bill incorporating his ideas next year, he replied, "I would hope so." He said it would not be approved within the next 12 months, but "I would say it would be within four years."

Laird also disclosed that a proposed 7 per cent increase in social security benefits may be vetoed unless Congress also approves an increase in payroll taxes to finance it.

Pentagon Mum But U.S. To Offer Israel Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will start replacing some of Israel's severe battle losses in planes, tanks and other military equipment in a few days, U.S. government sources said Saturday.

The Pentagon refused to discuss the matter.

But Nixon administration sources said the basic decision has been made and that movements of major U.S. military gear to Israel would begin soon.

Sources said details on numbers and quantities still are under discussion.

There were indications that the United States would draw from its Air Force and Army resources in the United States, possibly Europe and other regions of the world.

A wide variety of military equipment was said to be on the list.

The action, much more significant than an ammunition resupply airlift already under way, comes against a background of mounting Israeli combat losses, a growing Soviet supply airlift to Egypt and Syria and a widening of the Middle East war.

Meanwhile, U.S. intelligence analysts estimated that Israel's war supplies might last only another two weeks if the fighting continues at the tempo of the first week's air and ground battles.

Since last Saturday, American intelligence reports, the Israelis have lost at least 90 of their fighters and fighter-bombers, nearly one-third of the Israeli air striking force. Israel's tank losses have ranged around 650, or more than one-third of its armor strength, U.S. sources said. Arab losses also have been heavy. American analysts calculate Syrian arms stocks might last less than a week. Egyptian supplies perhaps 10 days more unless the fighting slackens.

Creditors Just Don't Understand Clients

By JOHN MOON
Copley News Service

My creditors don't understand and love me.

They want to become pen pals, and they and their computers feel rejected when I show signs of hostility.

For example, public utilities like to bill me in the middle of the month.

And they wonder why I am not standing with checkbook akimbo to pay them immediately.

I pay my bills between the 1st and 10th of each month, according to tradition and the good old American way.

But public utilities insist upon payment within 15 days, just because some fool legislators passed a law.

So, near the end of the month, I get a little envelope containing a message and a drawing of a finger with a string tied around it.

SILLY MESSAGE
A silly message, such as, "Did you forget?" is written beneath the drawing.

I toss it aside.

Then, sometime between the 1st and the 10th, I whip out my checkbook and pay all bills.

However, before my check reaches the utility company, the bookkeepers and computers spew out a message, threatening to turn something off.

But the public utilities aren't the only nonunderstanding creditors.

Other computerized and clerk-controlled firms really rob me.

They put a late charge assessment on my bill.

I call up and hassle the clerks. They explain that my payment, although it arrived on time, took several days to process. Hence, the late charge.

And no amount of hassling will undo the $4 or $5 assessment.

My wife, though, beats the system. She waits until the very last day and appears in person at a branch store to make the payment in cash.

HOSTILE
That causes the clerk to call the main headquarters to head off the late charge assessment.

That store and its clerks show a definite hostility to my wife.

It is one of those department stores that enjoys sending a bill, then a reminder that a bill was sent, then a warning that a warning has been sent — all before I get to sit down to pay my monthly bills between the 1st and 10th.

But other department stores are just as bad.

They all send out return envelopes for payments.

INTO ENVELOPE
But they put in a horrible flap with advertising all over it. It has to be torn off, somehow, without ripping the envelope. I usually had it up, after I have scribbled a nasty note on it, and chunk it into the envelope with my check.

But sweet revenge is missing. I get that sweet revenge sometimes.

Whenever I move, I write on the bill each month — for several months — that my address is changed. I get ignored by the clerks and computers.

Finally, I take a pencil and jab a hole in the middle of the machined holes.

Then I draw a circle around the new hole, reminding them to change my address, or else face more mutilated cards.

That causes the computer to spit out my card, causes the clerks to go into a rage, and delights and pleases me.

Oh, sweet, sweet revenge!

Nothing Stops Mike Raydar

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — Neither the floods of Vermont nor a man trying to kill himself stopped Mike Raydar from doing what only 124 others have done — hike the 2,035-mile Appalachian Trail.

Raydar, 22, of New Britain, began the trek in Georgia and arrived at Mt. Katahdin in Maine five months later. At the finish, he was 50 pounds lighter.

Raydar said he had to work especially hard during the last 600 miles from Connecticut to Maine, because he ran into 10 straight days of rain in Vermont, along with freezing weather in the White Mountains.

"The trail was solid mud and water, often like a stream," he said. "My boots weren't dry until I was half way through New Hampshire."

Only once did he leave the trail, when he spent a night in a Manchester, Vt., motel. "I had to stop," he said. "I had had enough rain and had to dry out. I try it was a smart move, because my morale was getting low."

Victim In Wreck

COLEMAN, TEX. (AP) — Jesse Smith, 66, of Novice, Tex., was killed Friday in a two-car collision 13 miles north of Coleman on U.S. 84.

Tons of Waste Paper Gathered

LAMESA — "Sixteen Tons and What Do You Get?" That's a country western song of some years back, but it fails to tell the tale for the Dawson County 4-H, which collected 20 tons or 40,000 pounds of waste paper in Lamesa and the surrounding area. They took turns collecting by clubs every second Saturday for 11 weeks.

What they got for their 20 tons was money which they plan to donate to the state 4-H Headquarters to be constructed in Brownwood.

A Key Goal

The Goals for Big Spring task force is gearing up for a penetrating study designed to yield a harvest of goals, possibly with some priorities and timetables indicated.

This is nothing new, but it is fundamentally sound, and therefore, from time to time, really necessary for the community which wants to maintain and even enhance its place in the scheme of things. This is commonsense. Few are they who would embark upon a journey without a destination in mind. Successful hunters point their guns at specific targets.

This principle is applied to the business world, to use today's jargon, through management of objectives — decide where you want to go, how you think is the most practical way to get there, and then gear things for action within this framework.

The processes of the task force in identifying goals for the community likely will involve the various segments and strata. This is essential, for if the community is to feel that the goals belong to it, then its members must have had a part in defining these goals.

Each of us could sit down and make a list, then weigh our proposals one against the other, and come up with a reasonably good list of things we need and ought to have. Probably the combined list of a score of people would embrace most of what will come out of the far larger participation by our people, but the point is that planning through involvement is a prime key to the ultimate success of the exercise.

Which leads us to a goal or objective we hope will not be overlooked in screening the field for projects or programs. It simply is not what or how — but who. One of the best things that could happen is for the search for goals to find men and women who are willing to see that something happens.

Certainly we all are motivated by self-interest — what's good for us, but in the long run. But no greater thrust, personal or public, can be sustained by this alone. The stimulating, the persisting, the fermenting force is working for others out of a sense of personal responsibility, of belonging, of fulfilling a sense of purpose.

If we are perpetuate the momentum generated by the study, we must find and develop the people to do it.

Potentially Unifying Choice

President Nixon's nomination of Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan appears to be an astute choice, particularly from the political mechanics of the situation.

The President avoided bitter confrontations which might have ensued had any of the front-runner presidential aspirants been singled out. Although most any of them could have been approved, the margin would have been so slim as to reduce effectiveness and perhaps promote divisiveness.

In Rep. Ford the President has a man with a sound record of party loyalty, of congressional achievement, and without apparent significant opposition. He is, as the President suggested, a man who invites unity. Moreover, while he might become a viable candidate for the office of the presidency, he has not to this point been mentioned seriously. This does not mean that he is not capable of filling the post — no one knows that until the moment comes.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

This is a very serious problem. Our minister is a fine preacher, and very good looking — and he is married. I am a good friend of his wife. The problem is that I am in love with him. I don't mean as a pastor, but as a man. At first I thought it was a silly crush, but it persists. Please tell me what to do.

One of the problems a clergyman faces lies in the area of what we call "role-expectation." People expect him to be many things — spiritual leader, youth advisor, marriage counselor, community activist, church administrator, etc. Some are proper, others questionable and some totally improper. Your expectation of him is obviously in the latter category.

The first place to attack this problem is within your own mind and heart. I know you said in your letter that you've prayed about it, apparently, however, with no success. Keep praying, and be specific in your prayers, but take some definite steps to implement those prayers. You must eradicate that naive concept of the pastor as a "lover." That comes from an immaturity which you have tolerated, and even encouraged. Try the thought control method Paul suggests in Philippians 4:8.

You sound like a young person, perhaps a teenager. Get actively involved with a youth group, where healthy peer group relationships can supplant this other attachment.

If it is necessary, as a last resort, discuss this with the minister. He has handled more difficult problems than that, and it may terminate the whole fantasy to hear him tell you personally that it is an impossible idea. You might also read chapter 7 of Romans.

IBM May Get Dollar, Not Basic Relief

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The antitrust suit International Business Machines lost last month to Telex Corp., returned to business deadlines this past week and the readings this time were at least partly favorable to IBM.

Federal Judge A. Sherman Christensen said he would reconsider the size of the $352.5 million damage assessment he levied against IBM, conceding there had been "substantial error" in figuring the award.

Christensen didn't say whether his adjustment, due at a hearing this coming Tuesday in Tulsa, would be up or down. But attorneys and analysts expected a reduction.

IBM is appealing Christensen's Sept. 17 ruling, which held the computer giant had violated antitrust laws and competed unfairly against Telex. Christensen's announcement did nothing to change that basic ruling.

Nor did Christensen indicate he would change his orders that IBM alter some of its operating practices to give Telex and other smaller makers of computer-related equipment more of a competitive break. IBM has asked for a new trial on the issue of Christensen's injunctions

The Week's Business

- Court indicates it will reconsider size of award to Telex
- Most think adjustment will be downward, basic ruling stands
- Computer world waits to see if IBM's dominance will remain
- Midwest bank cuts its prime interest rate to 9.5 per cent
- FED easier credit policy may presage general interest rollback and motions on that request also were scheduled to be heard at the Tuesday hearing.

MAY REDUCE INFLUENCE. Christensen's September ruling was seen as potentially of major importance to the computer industry. If it survives appeals, many believe IBM's dominance could be considerably reduced. There is also the question of what effect, if any, the ruling might have on a pending Justice Department suit asking that IBM be broken up into smaller units.

The Justice Department suit will draw even more attention. Some businessmen contend that breaking up IBM might end American leadership in computer manufacturing.

INTEREST REDUCED. Another Midwest bank trimmed its prime lending rate

Who's Catching Up?

William F. Buckley Jr.

It is not difficult to see why Walter Cronkite is, on the authority of Dr. Gallup or whoever, listed as the man most Americans trust most. He recently paid a tribute to Sen. Barry Goldwater which I happily reproduce, both as a testimonial to the man who received the tribute and to the man who made it. Mr. Cronkite said on his CBS broadcast:

"IF GOLDWATER now sounds like the voice of moderation and reason, in this current crisis of public confidence, perhaps it's because on Watergate he seems to be one of the few outspoken individuals who belong to no faction. Whether you agree with him on specifics, he seems to plead no special cause, right now, except for frankness and honesty. No wonder he seems like such a loner in Washington these days. Once, his many critics told us Goldwater's approach to government was overly simplistic. He was ridiculed as an anachronism. But now, without fundamental change he seems to strike a responsive chord in wider circles than just those right-wing groups which always venerated his name. Is Goldwater catching up to changing times? Or, asked more properly, are the times catching up to Barry Goldwater?"

THE LATTER, says this venerator. For the record, here is what some of the voices of moderation said about Sen. Goldwater in 1964, decriing the senator's lack of moderation.

The Rev. Martin Luther King: "We see dangerous signs of Hitlerism in the Goldwater campaign. If Goldwater wins, I am absolutely convinced we will see the dark night of social disruption and such intensification of discontent and despair by Negroes that there is certain to be an outbreak of violence."

POSTMASTER GENERAL (at that time) John Gronouski: "We know what Sen. Goldwater is talking about. Extremism is hate and divisiveness. It is spitting on the ambassador of the chief justice of the United States Supreme Court a traitor and a Communist... It is justification for turning dogs loose on demonstrators, or bombing churches, or pouring acid in swimming pools."

PRESIDENT LYNDON Johnson: "You (i.e. the United Steelworkers) know it takes a man who loves his country to build a house, instead of a raving, ranting demagogue who wants to tear down one."
Sen. William Fulbright: "Goldwater Republicanism is the closest thing in American politics to an equivalent of Russian Stalinism."
George Meany: "(There is) a parallel between Sen. Barry Goldwater and Adolf Hitler."

Jackie Robinson: "I would say that I now believe I know how it felt to be a Jew in Hitler's Germany."

DREW PEARSON: "The smell of fascism has been in the air at this convention (in San Francisco)."
Gov. Pat Brown: "Goldwater's acceptance speech had the stench of fascism... All we needed to hear was 'Heil Hitler!'"

Democratic National Chairman John Bailey: "(Goldwater's platform) looks like a John Birch magazine... the platform writers have drawn up an exercise in fantasy, fear and hate."
C. L. Sulzberger: "Democratic information contends that in January 1963 a dangerous group of financial supporters including racists and labor-baiters began to push Goldwater's candidacy. This is held to remind the President rather grimly of the kind of business backing behind the Nazis in the early thirties."

JAMES RESTON: "Goldwater must know that most of the extremist tyrants of history, from Caesar and Napoleon to Hitler and Stalin, ended in the name of liberty and justice. The Birchers and the Ku Kluxers think they do the same, and so do the white extremists in Mississippi and the black extremists who follow Malcolm X."

It would be pleasant to hear others speak as Walter Cronkite has done.

Lack Respect, Self-Respect

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Roger Powers of Keep America Beautiful delivered the speech to the opening session of the Keep Europe Beautiful Conference on Littering here.

He said: "If we can solve the human behavioral problem of littering, we may be able to find answers to many other social ills. Littering is a symptom of a great malady affecting all nations. Littering shows a person's indifference, lack of respect and even insecurity."

PRESIDENT LYNDON Johnson: "You (i.e. the United Steelworkers) know it takes a man who loves his country to build a house, instead of a raving, ranting demagogue who wants to tear down one."
Sen. William Fulbright: "Goldwater Republicanism is the closest thing in American politics to an equivalent of Russian Stalinism."
George Meany: "(There is) a parallel between Sen. Barry Goldwater and Adolf Hitler."

Stunning Surprise

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — As a stunning surprise to Washington and the nation Vice President Spiro Theodore Agnew resigned his office. It can only be assumed that he acted, despite the round of official denials, at the request of President Nixon.

UNDER THE 25th Amendment the President may now name a new vice president subject to approval by majority vote of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

The widespread belief is that he will name John Connally, the former governor of Texas and former Secretary of the Treasury. The spate of denials has never put a stop to the speculation that this was the course the President planned from the beginning of Agnew's troubles.

The 25th Amendment says nothing about how a new vice president shall be brought before the Congress for consideration, the sparse language merely setting forth the requirement for confirmation. Congressional leaders have discussed the possibility of extended hearings into the appointment.

OTHER NAMES of possible successors have been mentioned, among them Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California. Reagan's monied supporters are convinced that their man will be the President's choice.

One argument advanced during the prolonged speculation is that the President name a nonpolitical figure for the unexpired balance of the term. This is because it is evident that an ambitious politician pointing toward the Republican nomination would have a big leg up if he were in the vice president's chair and at Nixon's side for three years. This perfectly fits Connally.

UNTIL RECENTLY a Democrat, head of Democrats for Nixon during the 1972 campaign, Connally's appointment would create dissension among Republicans. That would be particularly true of the right wing where support for Agnew has been fervent. Ten days ago addressing a national federation of Republican women in California he drew a standing ovation and repeated cheers.

On the day after the charges against him surfaced, Agnew said at a press conference he would never be indicted and he again and again denied rumors of resignation. By pleading guilty to a count of income tax evasion he has apparently escaped indictment. His no contest plea was held equivalent to a plea of guilty.

UNTIL QUITE recently those close to Atty. Gen. Elliott Richardson believed that Agnew meant to touch it out for the three remaining years of his term. They based this on the belief that he would carry his challenge against any criminal prosecution to the highest court. At his most recent press conference last week President Nixon had said Agnew was under no compulsion to resign even should he be indicted by a grand jury in Baltimore.

IN SUBPOENAS brought against newsmen and news magazines the vice president had only three days ago demanded to know the confidential sources on which they based their reports.

The vice president had made a vain attempt to get the House of Representatives to investigate the charges against him, but Speaker Carl Albert balked. What now becomes evident that Agnew, trapped in his past, has been thrashing about in an effort to find a proper exit. The income tax charge was only of many — including bribery and conspiracy — under consideration by the grand jury.

BASIC RULE SAME

Christensen didn't say whether his adjustment, due at a hearing this coming Tuesday in Tulsa, would be up or down. But attorneys and analysts expected a reduction.

Change Injection Location

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In a column on diabetes you asked someone if insulin injections were made in different areas of the body. Please explain advantages and disadvantages of making injections in different areas.

A.F.
Making injections in the same area too often can cause changes in the fat under the skin. Commonest problem is the formation of unsightly hollows. (This is called insulin lipotrophy.) Less common is a swollen area somewhat resembling an ant hill.

Either way, repeated injections in these areas slow the absorption of the insulin.

Scattering the injections to various areas avoids these complications. Most convenient places are the inner or outer thighs, various sites in the upper arm, the side of the buttocks, even the abdomen.

Many folks are squeamish about using the tummy, but if the skin is pinched and a quick jab made with the needle, there is no more discomfort than anywhere else.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in my late 50s and have been smoking since I was 13. I have a heart condition and emphysema and cough constantly. When I dance I get out of breath; also from walking or climbing stairs. Some of my friends have quit smoking and some are like me — no will power.

I have gone to three five-day smoking withdrawal clinics in the last year and even saw a lung that was removed from a heavy smoker who had lung cancer.

I have taken tablets to help stop smoking, even threw the cigarettes away — and then get up at 2 a.m. looking for butts, then go out to a drug store or bar to get a pack of cigarettes.

If doctors can treat drug addicts and alcoholics in a hospital, then why don't the doctors find a way to cure people like me? Can't they put me in a hospital and give me medication until the nicotine is out of my system?

I am sure if I could get treatment and get off cigarettes I will never go back to smoking. I want to quit so bad but I am the nervous type and have no will power. Is there any hope? — Mrs. C.B.

Sure doctors can treat drug addicts and alcoholics in hospitals — but it won't work unless the patient is truly determined to stay off the stuff.

Same with smoking. When your emphysema and heart trouble make you miserable enough, you'll quit — and wonder why you didn't do it sooner. Drugs, alcohol or tobacco — you've got to do the quitting.

Texas Law Takes New Peek At Pornography

By ROBERT E. FORD
 Associated Press Writer

The Supreme Court's June decision on pornography unlocked the handcuffs which kept Texas law enforcement officers from raiding what they consider dirty movies.

They moved in, closed some places, arrested anyone connected with the movie houses, confiscated film.

Now they are taking a second look.

Was one attorney, a defender of alleged dirty films, correct when he said there is now no law regulating what the public can see?

Confusion stemming from the new decision hinges on the court's ruling that each local community may determine its own standards on pornography. It thereby threw out any vague national yardstick.

THROWN OUT

Dallas' Bob Fain, a prosecutor of an exhibitor of "The World of Susie Wong," said the high court decision: "The court was merely saying a rural, more conservative town shouldn't be forced to conform to the standards for New York City, and vice-versa."

So many pornographic cases had been thrown out of court earlier that officers were coming to believe the lid was off.

But the Supreme Court's apparent change of view in June gave officers new heart and they began raiding again in Texas.

Raids took place in Abilene within a week of the high court ruling. In Dallas, three hardcore sex film places closed and at least two switched to what prosecutors call "soft-core" movies.

Fort Worth officers confiscated nine films, and a grand jury returned 19 indictments.

U.S. District Court Judge John H. Wood Jr. in San Antonio refused to stop raids on porno movie houses.

'LAST TANGO'

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy took part in a Lubbock raid on "Last Tango in Paris" during a showing before a packed house. Another 500 persons waited outside in the rain for the second showing.

An Austin grand jury returned eight indictments. Yet everything wasn't going smoothly for prosecutors.

Police in San Antonio seized two reels of film which Dist. Atty. Ted Butler called "new low." The movies showed adults molesting children.

Three persons were arrested and their films confiscated in Odessa. The three were back in operation the next day. Houston officers moved slowly, waiting for clarification of conflicting laws.

DEEP THROAT

Dallas won one and lost one. A Dallas jury took only 16 minutes to find "Deep Throat" obscene, resulting in sentences of five years in prison and $5,000 fines each of three men and two women.

A short time later, another Dallas jury deadlocked and was discharged in the trial of "The Devil in Miss Jones." Two professors who are family counselors said they sent patients to the movie as therapy.

One point of the Supreme Court ruling is particularly interesting. Prosecutors no longer need call experts to testify on whether a movie or anything else is dirty. The high court said jurors can decide without outside help.

SOCIAL VALUE

Also, the court threw out its old standard that a work must "be utterly without redeeming social value" to be declared pornographic, and substituted whether the work "taken as a whole lacks serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value."

Houston's ambivalence hangs on the "social value" issue.

A Harris County (Houston) assistant district attorney commented: "Although the Supreme Court says we do not have to prove obscene material is 'utterly without redeeming social value,' we are still bound by state law which uses this definition."

A Houston theater owner has appealed a conviction, demanding clarification of the apparent conflict between state and federal law.

A spokesman for the Texas attorney general's office appears to believe the state law is the dominant one now. He said the state law, if it stands, is stronger than federal rulings.

ANOTHER WAY

The attorney general's spokesman notes that the state law has a three-pronged test: is it of prurient interest, is it patently offensive to the community, and does it lack any redeeming social value. He said the prosecutor's job is made easier because he no longer must prove it has no social value.

But does a state law reflect community attitudes? Can one law apply to Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and other metropolitan areas the same as it applies in some more conservative towns and cities?

And if state law doesn't apply, is any jury of 12 men and women a sufficient cross-section of a community to reflect its attitudes?

Justice of the Peace McCroy at Lubbock is aware of the problem of defining obscenity locally. He said a jury probably will be named from a "broad spectrum" of the community to try a pending case.

Fort Worth's Dist. Atty. Tim Curry approaches the local viewpoint another way.

Curry wants to get some pornography cases tried, see what the juries decide and thus determine Fort Worth's "community standards" so the district attorney's office will know what sort of cases it can successfully prosecute under the new Supreme Court ruling.

Word Goes Out To 'Nappers: Deals Nixed

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — Family members held only faint hope today that two prominent Guadalajara men might be found safely after the Mexican government refused to negotiate with their kidnapers.

"This has signed his death warrant," the brother of the honorary British Consul here Dr. Anthony Duncan Williams, said after the federal attorney general refused to modify his position against such dealings.

Williams, 47, and industrialist Fernando Aranguren, were abducted Wednesday morning by a gang which demanded $200,000 cash and asylum in North Korea jails.

Jalisco state Gov. Alberto Orozco Romero left his home early today on what his press and very delicate mission to where he thought the kidnapers might have been holding the men. But there were no indications anyone was found.

The government's refusal to negotiate was a sudden change in public policy for the regime of President Luis Echeverria. Previously the government has given in to similar demands for humanitarian reasons.

Atty. Gen. Pedro Ojeda Paulada said in a nationwide broadcast that "dramatic experiences in other countries" have showed that this policy leads to more kidnappings.

Luis Enrique Williams, brother of the Mexican-born physician, said efforts toward a compromise to save the kidnaped man's life had been in vain.

Both families offered to pay ransom money and said they would try to induce the government to grant the kidnapers safe conduct out of the country if the men were freed.

Williams received a letter Friday which he said was written by his brother giving assurance he was unharmed.

President Sure To Veto Bill Curbing Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stringent curbs on presidential power to make war have been delivered to the White House for a near-certain veto.

President Nixon has 10 days to accept the measure or send it back with his veto to Congress. The House gave its final approval Friday by an overwhelming 283-123 vote.

That would have been only three votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto. But with 74 congressmen absent, it was not a good test of whether Congress could override a veto.

The Senate passed the bill Wednesday, 75 to 20, well over two-thirds.

President Nixon already has told Congress he would veto any bill with two provisions he called "dangerous and unconstitutional restrictions." They remain in the final bill.

Those provisions would: —Require a president to pull back any U.S. forces abroad in 60 days unless Congress approved his war commitment by then, or 90 days if the president certified he needed it for safe withdrawal.

—Assert Congress' power to halt the war any time during the 60 or 90 days by approving a simple House-Senate concurrent resolution that is not subject to a president's veto.

The bill takes a small step toward meeting Nixon's first objection. It contains a stiffer provision than previous House and Senate versions to try to assure that Congress would vote for or against the war commitment before the 60 or 90 days were up.

Motive For Bombings Is Mystery To Officials

READING, Pa. (AP) — Two bombs built into small wooden boxes and left on the hoods of parked cars exploded early today, killing one person and injuring two others, police said.

A third bomb — a pipe-type — was found in a housing project not far from where the other two exploded. It was isolated by the city bomb squad.

Detectives said they had no idea who distributed the bombs or why.

"It's fairly clear the same person made the first two bombs, but we have no idea about motive or anything else," Lt. John Habecker said.

In recent weeks there have been two other bombings in Reading, the county seat of Berks County about 35 miles northwest of Philadelphia. The Jewish Community Center was bombed Aug. 28, and a pipe-type bomb was found several weeks ago.

indication that the incidents were connected.

Police warned residents to watch for any suspicious packages, and police checked playgrounds before they opened today.

Both of the wooden-box bombs were left in low-income neighborhoods, police said. The first explosion occurred about 1 a.m. Police said Larry McClary found a box about 8 or 10 inches square on the hood of his car. When he picked it up, it exploded. He was hospitalized at Community General Hospital.

The second bomb was found by Jose Gonzales, 28. He carried the box into his house and tried to pry it open, police said. That triggered the explosion. Gonzales died in Reading Hospital about 6 a.m.

A woman in the house, Dorothy Ortiz, 35, was injured. She was hospitalized at St. Joseph's Hospital in satisfactory condition.

CAB Wants Airline Help In Fight To Save Fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board has given the nation's airlines permission to get together and decide which flights each would eliminate to combat the fuel shortage.

The authorization came only minutes after President Nixon's Energy Policy Office imposed a mandatory fuel allocation program on home heating oil, jet fuel, diesel fuel, and kerosene Friday.

TWA immediately announced it would unilaterally cut back about 5 per cent of its domestic flights until the airline industry could decide how many flights each carrier would eliminate.

A jetliner, such as a Boeing 707 or a Douglas DC8, burns between 1,500 and 1,800 gallons of jet fuel per hour while cruising. The consumption rate rises during landings and take offs.

Jetliners such as the Boeing 747 burn about 3,000 gallons of fuel per hour.

Cutting back on the number of flights not only will save fuel but also could increase airline profits. The CAB long has promoted capacity reduction agreements, where airlines reduce the number of seats available in selected markets thus increasing the number of passengers per plane, as a means of increasing profits.

However, this is the first time it has given the industry authority to make cuts in any domestic or overseas market that it chooses.

The board said it was granting authority for the discussions because the allocation program means diminished fuel supplies "which may affect not only the production and profitability of the airlines but service to the public."

"To assure that any required competitive schedule adjustments do not result in service inadequacies, the board, on its own motion, will authorize discussions to consider adjustment of schedules to the extent necessary to accommodate the President's fuel allocation program with the least possible reduction of service to the public," the board said.

Final Rites Set Today For Roloff's Homes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Radio evangelist Lester Roloff said Saturday that he would hold final rites Sunday for three child-care homes which he runs in south Texas.

Monday is the deadline to obtain a state license to operate the Rebekah Christian Academy for Girls, near Corpus Christi, and the Lighthouse and Anchor Homes for Boys.

The Lighthouse Home at Corpus Christi was closed earlier except for recreational purposes. The Anchor home is at Zapata.

"The demise of these homes lies on the hands of state officials who mistakenly believe their power to aid the troubled is greater than that of Christ our Savior," Roloff said in a news release. "In their lack of faith in Christ's teachings they have made me their target. "But the real target is the countless troubled children—those on dope, those involved in witchcraft, those subjected to prostitution—who will be denied their right to find their place in the family of God."

Roloff said the final rites will be held at 2 p.m. at the People Church, next to the Rebekah campus.

"Following the services," he said, "we will erect signs announcing that our ministry of Christian kindness toward young people at Rebekah, Lighthouse and Anchor has been closed by the state welfare department."

Roloff has refused to comply with welfare licensing rules in operating the institutions, insisting that the rules violate constitutional guarantees of religious freedom.

Better Batteries Will Be Built, Scientists Say

Copley News Service

It used to be that the man who built a better mousetrap had to install a traffic light at his front door. Today the man who can build a better battery will have the world on his doorstep.

Now two highly respected industrial firms have come up with claims that they have developed better batteries to help solve the nation's approaching energy crisis and run its electrical appliances.

Scientists at Rockwell International Corp.'s Atomic International Division (AI) say they which long has blocked development of a powerful new super-battery.

This key, they insist, opens the way to development of an advanced, lithium-sulfur-type battery. It was discovered at AI, then used during work on a project supported by the Edison Electric Institute, the Tennessee Valley Authority and Rockwell.

TARGET OF PROJECT

Target of the project is a commercial storage battery with a prolonged life to be used to store electricity generated during slack consumption periods for use later when power demands reach their peaks. Today's commercial batteries either lack the operating life cycle required for the task or are too costly to be practical.

The problem is that elemental sulfur in one electrode constantly is being lost. AI scientists solved it by substituting a metal sulfide compound for the sulfur. While the substitute reduced electrical energy slightly, the new battery still could be several times more powerful than the conventional lead-acid battery, AI scientists claim.

"Although much work remains to be done, we have now cleared a fundamental hurdle in the development of an advanced battery that promises to be more economical and efficient than present systems, in addition to being noiseless and clean," says Dr. Laszlo A. Herydy, project development engineer.

At the General Telephone &

Electronics Laboratories in Stamford, Conn., scientists say they have developed an experimental battery which produces eight times more electrical energy than a conventional flashlight dry cell and lasts more than twice as long.

GREATER STORAGE

The revolutionary battery, they claim, uses an inorganic liquid as the electrolyte or current-conducting substance, making possible greater storage of energy. This is combined with carbon and lithium metal electrodes to produce higher voltage and higher power output than the traditional dry-cell types, says Dr. Lee L. Davenport, president of GTE Laboratories.

The new inorganic lithium battery, he explains, has more than twice the shelf life of conventional batteries because its energy source — the inorganic fluid — is used only when a circuit is closed. In a flashlight, for example, the battery would discharge only when the flashlight is turned on. Unlike conventional dry cells, Dr.

Davenport says, there is no power leakage or reduction of cell life when the new battery is not being used.

The GTE scientist says the inorganic lithium battery produces 250 watt-hours per pound of battery, compared with the conventional dry cell's energy output of 30 watt-hours per pound. Dr. Davenport believes it shows promise for flashlights, portable radios and television sets, cameras, calculators, wristwatches, hearing aids and other portable, battery-powered appliances.

TRAGEDY LATER

Unnoticed damage to buildings, bridges and other structure from earthquakes or heavy traffic often has caused death-dealing accidents. At the federal space agency's Ames Research Center, Mountain View, Calif., a computer analysis method has been developed to detect structural damage by sensing vibrations.

A computer developed at Ames in 1968, called Randomize, is programmed to analyze vibrations caused by random disturbances such as quakes or the heavy pounding of highways or bridges by vehicles. It is being tested now at Ames for possible applications to detect structural weaknesses in bridges.

For a year, monthly readings will be taken on the heavily traveled bridge at the Highway 85 and 101 interchange in Northern California. Accelerometers, tiny devices which sense vibrations, are attached to the bridge to transfer readings to a tape recorder.

The tape is then fed into a computer for analysis to detect any structural weakening. Ames engineers believe the same methods can be applied for analysis of structural weaknesses to buildings after quakes.

Judges Endorse Amendment No. 1

AUSTIN — The judicial section of the State Bar of Texas endorsed proposed Amendment No. 1 to the Constitution which calls for annual sessions of the Legislature and increased annual salary and per diem allowances of legislators.

The proposed amendment, to be voted on in the general election Nov. 6, calls for annual sessions of the Legislature and a salary-increase of members to $15,000 a year.

'Preacher' Hot As Oklahoma Destroys 'Horns, 52-13

DALLAS (AP) — Sixth-ranked Oklahoma, led by sophomore Steve Davis, a 20-year-old licensed Baptist minister who is a Wishbone-T wizard, handed Texas Coach Darrell Royal his worst licking in his career Saturday, 52-13, in a nationally televised embarrassment.

The bad news for the Longhorns doesn't end there because all seven Oklahoma touchdowns in the slaughter were scored by players with at least two more years of eligibility remaining.

It was the most points surrendered by the Longhorns since 1968.

Davis threw two touchdown passes and ran for two more scores as Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer dreamed up "a special scheme" for the fast-reacting Texas secondary.

Sophomore flanker Tinker Owens, who caught two touchdown passes, said: "We noticed in the films that (Texas safety) Tommy Keel always came up fast when he read a run. Their safety read the center to key for a pass or a run so we had the center fake the run and when Keel read the run I got behind him up the middle. It worked twice on Keel for touchdowns."

A somber Royal said: "They caught us asleep twice."

Royal added: "About all you can say after a defeat like that is that you lost to a vastly superior football team. We came totally apart . . . totally unglued."

Joe Washington, another of Switzer's corps of talented sophomores, gaffed Texas with his first collegiate pass. It twirled 40 yards to Owens and the bruising Oklahoma quickly led 7-0.

Texas rallied on field goals of 36 and 44 yards by Billy Schott and the sellout crowd of 72,204 fans in the Cotton Bowl began to stir.

Davis victimized Texas safety Tommy Keel on a 63-yard pass play to Owens who scored his second touchdown.

The cool Davis struck again with only 29 seconds left in the first half when he nailed tight end Bill Brooks with a 47-yard scoring pass over the outstretched fingers of the hapless Keel.

Davis put the game out of reach with two third-quarter touchdowns and turned the day over to the reserves.

The five-foot-10, 183-pound Davis, who had completed only nine passes in three games, finished the day with five of six passes completed for 185 yards.

Texas Coach Royal's worst previous defeat was 39-7 to Mississippi in the 1958 Sugar Bowl.

The undefeated Sooners now own a 3-0-1 record while Texas is 2-2.

The point total was the most Oklahoma has ever scored in the 68 years of this series.

It was the third worst defeat for the Longhorns in their proud football history.

A Texas team had given up 50 points or more only twice previously — in 1964 and 1968.

Even an offensive lineman got into the scoring act for the Sooners. Offensive guard Jamie Melendez recovered a Sooner fumble in the Texas end zone for a touchdown.

Quarterback Joe McReynolds dashed nine yards for a touchdown with 1:39 remaining for the final Big Red points.

Second-string Texas quarterback Mike Presley finally denied the stout Sooner defense with a 31-yard touchdown gallop late in the fourth period.

Oklahoma defensive back Clyde Powers twice intercepted passes to set up Sooner touchdowns as the hard-pouched Longhorns threw the ball at will in the second half, trying to catch up.

Holtzman's Bat Helps Oakland By Mets, 2-1

OAKLAND (AP) — Pitcher Ken Holtzman, who didn't have an official at-bat all season, doubled and, with the aid of a Felix Millan error, scored Oakland's first run Saturday, helping the A's to a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets in the opening game of baseball's 1973 World Series.

Holtzman, a 21-game winner during the regular season, pitched only five innings but earned the victory with shutout relief from Oakland bullpen ace Rollie Fingers and Darryl Kintner.

The A's, champions of the American League, scored both their unearned runs with two outs in the third inning against Mets' starter Jon Matlack, who allowed only three hits—all of them in that inning.

With one out in the third, Dick Green walked. With Holtzman trying to bunt, a pitch got away from New York catcher Jerry Grote and Green tried for

Barnes Leads Tech Past Aggies, 28-16

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Joe Barnes, seizing on Texas A&M's miscues, winged three touchdown passes and scored once himself as Texas Tech gunned down Texas A&M in a 28-16 Southwest Conference football duel Saturday night.

The senior Tech quarterback stunned the Cadets with two quick touchdowns in the second period, hurled another in the third quarter,

Steer Netters Place Second

ANDREWS — Randy Mattingley won boys singles and Vicky Murphy finished second in girls singles action to pace Big Spring to a second place finish in the Andrews Invitational Tennis Tournament this weekend.

Lubbock Coronado was the team champion, totalling 92 points, while Big Spring was 10 behind in the runner-up spot and Amarillo Tascosa was third with 76.

Mattingley won 6-4, 6-4 in the finals over Bill Bailey of Tascosa, a player he lost to in the Big Spring Invitational a week ago, and also had victories over David Jones of Tascosa, Mike Wilfield of Coronado and Martin Cleveland of Amarillo Caprock. He didn't lose a set in claiming the title.

Murphy lost in the finals to Lisa Bewley of Coronado 6-2, 6-2, after victories over Armanda Hamm of Tascosa, Susie Wright of Coronado and Linda Anderson of Monahans.

The girls doubles team of Linda Little and Judy Jordan managed a third place finish, defeating Gerken and Morales of Caprock 6-1, 6-4 for the honors. The pair lost to Vivian Farmer and Nancy Crawford of Andrews in the semifinals, 6-3, 6-1.

Bob Fielder, competing in boys singles, won two of four matches, as did the No. 2 girls singles entry, Dori Crooker. The boys doubles duos of Hugh Porter-Max Hill, and Ron Mercer-Stephen Arnold also won two and lost two, while Karen Jenkins and Terri Gilliland won one of four matches.

Yancey Leads Pacific Golf

INZAI, Japan (AP) — American Bert Yancey, playing through strong winds, forged a two-over-par 73 Saturday and held a one-stroke lead after three rounds of the $300,000 Pacific Club Masters Golf Tournament.

Yancey bogeyed the sixth, 13th and 15th holes and birdied the 14th for a 54-hole total of 208 on the demanding 7,187-yard, par 71 Sobu Country Club layout east of Tokyo.

One stroke back at 209 were former U.S. Open champion Gene Littler and a pair of Japanese pros—Masashi "Jumbo" Ozaki and Toru Nakamura. Littler vaulted from 7th place with one of the day's best rounds, a four-under-par 67. Ozaki cared a 71 and Nakamura had a 68.

Another American, Dave Stockton, the 1970 U.S. PGA champion, also shot a 67 for 210, only two strokes back. He was deadlocked with Lu Liang-Huan of Taiwan and Fujio Ishii of Japan.

Veteran Billy Casper of the United States remained in contention with a 73 for 211. Also at 211 was American Lee Elder, after a third-round 72.

Defending champion Gay Brewer of the United States was eight strokes behind following a 72 for 216. Australia's Bruce Crampton, the second leading money winner on the U.S. tour this year, fell out of the running, shooting a 75 for 219.

Angry Holtzman Recalls Criticism

OAKLAND (AP) — Ken Holtzman had two strikes against him when he came up with the Chicago Cubs in 1965. He was Jewish and a left-hander. So immediately everyone tabbed him a potential Sandy Koufax.

"There is nobody as great as Koufax," said the 27-year-old Holtzman after pitching five tough innings for the Oakland A's and beating the New York Mets 2-1 in the first game of the World Series Saturday.

"The way some of the Chicago writers wrote about me and my career I wouldn't even read it," said Holtzman, who obviously read it. His super-sensitive nature made him cringe from the criticism.

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas' Dickey Morton raced for two long distance touchdowns and piled up 271 yards rushing as the Razorbacks defeated Baylor 13-7 in Southwest Conference football Saturday night.

Ninth-Ranked Notre Dame Hands Rice 28-0 Setback

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ninth-ranked Notre Dame overcame four fumbles with two one-yard touchdowns runs by Wayne Bullock and a 21-yard touchdown pass from Tom Clements to Dave Casper to spark the Fighting Irish to a 28-0 victory over the Rice Owls Saturday night.

Notre Dame gave up the ball on fumbles the first two times it had the ball in the first quarter, but took advantage of two Rice fumbles to take a 14-0 halftime lead.

Rice freshman quarterback Tommy Kramer, starting his first game, fumbled midway in the first quarter to set up Bullock's first touchdown run. A 21-yard run by Clements, who rushed for 99 yards in the game, kept the drive moving.

In their second quarter Rice's Bruce Henley fumbled a Notre Dame punt after being hit by linebacker Greg Collins and Joe Alvarez recovered at the Rice 16-yard line.

After a five-yard delay of game penalty Clements found tight end Casper all alone in the end zone for the 21-yard touchdown pass on the first play from scrimmage.

Notre Dame, now 4-0 for the season was hampered by intermittent rain but took the second half kickoff and marched 52 yards for Bullock's second touchdown.

Steers Come Close Again; Midland Overcomes, 27-20

By JACK COWAN

MIDLAND — The football gods thumbed their noses at Big Spring's Steers once again Friday in Midland's Memorial Stadium, and as a result Bulldogs continue on their way towards a possible Dist. 5-AAAA crown following a 27-20 victory.

The Purple Pack, now 4-0-1 on the year, dominated the first half of play in the style that may have cracked ribs, while Sorley and tight end Vicky Woodruff were both badly bruised, though it won't keep them out of action.

The Bulldogs opened their assault in a hurry, driving 50 yards for a score on their first possession following a short Doug Robison punt. Wilford Burns, who had 113 yards for the night, went the final three yards on a pitchout around the left end with 7:30 remaining in the first quarter, after he had set up the tally with a 37-yard scamper to the three yard line.

Ronald McKee saved the TD with a body block that knocked the speedy Burns out of bounds. Reddell's PAT attempt was no good.

Their next march covered 80 yards, with the six points coming on a 45-yard toss from Reddell to Norris Johnson, the same combo that had burned Permian twice in that upset. Reddell ran for two bonus points as 48 seconds remained in the first quarter, and the 14-0 lead looked like it might multiply quickly.

But the Steers battled back, and on their next possession drove 73 yards to the Midland three-yard line but couldn't punch it across. A fourth down pass from the five fell incomplete as Sorley aimed at Woodruff.

The Bulldogs mounted one last challenge in the first half following a Derrick Michael interception of Sorley's pass, but the hosts could get no closer than the 20.

Midland's Mike Gaddy gave up the first of five Midland fumbles on the second play of the second half, and after four

Steer downs Robison lagged a punt to the seven-yard line. Reddell lost six yards on first down, and on second down at the one he fumbled the ball to Big Spring's Stan Partee at the five.

From there Sorley carried three straight times, getting the score from one yard out on a bullish maneuver with 8:23 left in the third. Doug Smith's try for the PAT was wide to the left.

Midland appeared to put it away in early in the fourth quarter with a 70-yard, 13-play drive that ended on a one-yard TD note for Burns. Carl Thomas did most of the damage in the march, carrying five times. Reddell missed again on the conversion attempt as 10:02 remained in the game.

Ferrell returned the ensuing kickoff 40 yards to midfield, and from there it took seven plays for the Steers to get on the board. Sorley got the visitors in position with a 20-yard toss to Woodruff, and then nailed John Smith from 15 yards out for six points with 8:22 remaining. A pass for two extra points to Smith was incomplete.

The Big Springers got another break moments later when Thomas fumbled at midfield, and the Steers did the TD march again, this time in five plays and this time Sorley hitting Smith from eight yards out. Sorley drilled Woodruff on the try for two points, and with just over six minutes remaining it was tied at 20-20.

Midland appeared angry on the kickoff, and the suspicions were confirmed on the second play as Reddell ran the option to the right side of the field, cut back against the grain and blew 60 yards for the tally. Terry Copeland added the final point as 5:51 showed on the clock.

Taylor Mayne recovered a Sorley fumble at the Big Spring 34 soon after, and it looked like the Dogs might explode yet. But on second down from the seven Thomas broke through the middle and fumbled into the endzone following a collision with John Smith, and Partee was there again.

That break came with 3:20 left, but the Steers weren't able to move in two more possessions.

WHERE'S THAT OPENING? — Big Spring's Danny Ferrell (41) hunts for a hole in Midland's defense Friday during the Bulldogs' 27-20 victory over the Steers. Midland's Steve Widner (10) moves in for the stop. Ferrell was the Steers' leading rusher, picking up 75 yards on 13 carries.

Lamesa Rips Chiefs, 54-6

LAMESA — The fifth-ranked Lamesa Golden Tors rolled to a 40-6 first half bulge and then walked the rest of the way Friday during a 54-6 smacking of San Angelo Lake View's winless Chiefs.

The Tors rolled up 435 yards total offense in marking up their fifth victory without a loss, and 402 of the steps came on the ground. Meanwhile, the Lamesa secondary survived an aerial blitz from Chief quarterback Doug Phillips, who connected on 22 of 51 attempts. The Tors intercepted seven Chief passes in the marathon tilt that lasted almost three hours.

Jim Roberts, who picked off three Lake View passes during the affair, got his first with eight minutes left in the game and returned it 30 yards for the first touchdown of the game.

Quarterback Kyle White added another on a 30-yard keeper with 2:44 left in the first, and then big Kent McCurley went to work.

McCurley, who had 173 yards rushing in the romp, scored from two yards out just seconds into the second period, and before the half ended he added another six points on a 15-yard romp and caught a 19-yard scoring pass from White minutes later.

Down 34-0, Lake View managed its only score of the night as Lynn Hemphill tallied on an 18-yard pass reception from Phillips with 5:06 left in the half.

McCurley ended the first half scoring with an 85-yard blast, but he came back in the third stanza and went 30-yards for his final TD and a 47-6 advantage. Charles Jackson ran two yards for the last score and Jerry Williams, who kicked eight conversion points, tacked on the final point.

Joining Roberts in Lamesa's interception parade were Jerry Burleson, who picked off two, and Mark Hansard and White who got one apiece.

Bronte Longhorns Batter Sands 69-0 In 3-B Clash

BRONTE — Halfback Alan Barbee scored six touchdowns here Friday night and led a Bronte rushing attack that netted 446 yards as the Longhorns bombed Sands' Mustangs 69-0. In all the Horns mounted 558 yards total offense, while holding the visitors to minus rushing yards and allowing just two pass completions for 18 yards.

Missouri Upsets Huskers By 13-12

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Safety Tony Gillick intercepted Dave Humm's pass on a two-point conversion try with one minute left and underdog Missouri preserved a 13-12 upset victory over second-ranked Nebraska Saturday.

A stadium record crowd watched the visiting Cornhuskers knock furiously at the Missouri touchdown doors three times earlier and the Tigers turned them away.

Missouri, ranked 12th, went into the lead with 2:01 left when Tom Mulkey scored on a one-yard run after the Tigers were given their opportunity seconds earlier when Scott Anderson recovered Randy Borg's fumbled punt at the Nebraska four-yard line.

Mulkey took it the rest of the way and Greg Hill converted to boost the Tigers into a 13-6 advantage.

Nebraska wasn't through, however. Humm passed the Cornhuskers 72 yards on four plays with Humm hitting Rich Bahe for 22 yards, bringing up the two-point conversion try in a last-ditch effort to win the game.

Midland JVs Dump Steers

The Midland High Junior Varsity scored three times in the second half and dumped Big Spring's JVs 19-0 Saturday at Memorial Stadium.

The hosts reached Midland's five-yard line on their first possession, but bogged down there and had to settle for a 24-yard field goal by Greg Spears.

Midland went to work in the third stanza, scoring first on a 10-yard scamper and adding another six points following a Big Spring fumble at the two-yard line. That made it 13-0, and the visitors tacked on another marker in the fourth period on a 35-yard scoring jaunt.

Big Spring got its final tally on a 45-yard scoring play from Mike Valenzuela to Spears, and then Spears kicked the PAT.

Defensive ends Terry Treadway and Celestino Correa, noseguard Edward Pekowski and linebacker Lanny Howell turned in good performances on the defensive unit for Big Spring.

The Steer JVs now stand 1-2-1 on the year and 0-2 in District 5-AAAA play. Next action is Saturday at 7 p.m., when they visit Odessa to battle Permian's JVs.

Roby Thumps Forsan, 26-0

ROBY — The host Roby Lions put 13 points on the board in the first and fourth periods and held Forsan's Buffaloes to less than 70 yards total offense in posting a 26-0 Homecoming victory Friday.

Carlos Jones scored a pair of touchdowns for the Lions, the first on a 30-yard reception from quarterback Dale Evers and the last a 31-yard romp with 1:20 left in the game.

In between came a 10-yard run by Donnie Stephens, with 50 seconds remaining in the first quarter, and a 21-yard TD shot from Evers to Frank Castor.

Roby, now 4-1 on the year and 2-0 in District 3-B play, totaled 350 yards offense against the young Buffs, who were held to minus rushing yards and 74 aerial steps on eight completions.

MIDLAND — The football gods thumbed their noses at Big Spring's Steers once again Friday in Midland's Memorial Stadium, and as a result Bulldogs continue on their way towards a possible Dist. 5-AAAA crown following a 27-20 victory.

The Purple Pack, now 4-0-1 on the year, dominated the first half of play in the style that may have cracked ribs, while Sorley and tight end Vicky Woodruff were both badly bruised, though it won't keep them out of action.

The Bulldogs opened their assault in a hurry, driving 50 yards for a score on their first possession following a short Doug Robison punt. Wilford Burns, who had 113 yards for the night, went the final three yards on a pitchout around the left end with 7:30 remaining in the first quarter, after he had set up the tally with a 37-yard scamper to the three yard line.

Ronald McKee saved the TD with a body block that knocked the speedy Burns out of bounds. Reddell's PAT attempt was no good.

Their next march covered 80 yards, with the six points coming on a 45-yard toss from Reddell to Norris Johnson, the same combo that had burned Permian twice in that upset. Reddell ran for two bonus points as 48 seconds remained in the first quarter, and the 14-0 lead looked like it might multiply quickly.

But the Steers battled back, and on their next possession drove 73 yards to the Midland three-yard line but couldn't punch it across. A fourth down pass from the five fell incomplete as Sorley aimed at Woodruff.

The Bulldogs mounted one last challenge in the first half following a Derrick Michael interception of Sorley's pass, but the hosts could get no closer than the 20.

Midland's Mike Gaddy gave up the first of five Midland fumbles on the second play of the second half, and after four

Steer downs Robison lagged a punt to the seven-yard line. Reddell lost six yards on first down, and on second down at the one he fumbled the ball to Big Spring's Stan Partee at the five.

From there Sorley carried three straight times, getting the score from one yard out on a bullish maneuver with 8:23 left in the third. Doug Smith's try for the PAT was wide to the left.

Midland appeared to put it away in early in the fourth quarter with a 70-yard, 13-play drive that ended on a one-yard TD note for Burns. Carl Thomas did most of the damage in the march, carrying five times. Reddell missed again on the conversion attempt as 10:02 remained in the game.

Ferrell returned the ensuing kickoff 40 yards to midfield, and from there it took seven plays for the Steers to get on the board. Sorley got the visitors in position with a 20-yard toss to Woodruff, and then nailed John Smith from 15 yards out for six points with 8:22 remaining. A pass for two extra points to Smith was incomplete.

The Big Springers got another break moments later when Thomas fumbled at midfield, and the Steers did the TD march again, this time in five plays and this time Sorley hitting Smith from eight yards out. Sorley drilled Woodruff on the try for two points, and with just over six minutes remaining it was tied at 20-20.

Midland appeared angry on the kickoff, and the suspicions were confirmed on the second play as Reddell ran the option to the right side of the field, cut back against the grain and blew 60 yards for the tally. Terry Copeland added the final point as 5:51 showed on the clock.

Taylor Mayne recovered a Sorley fumble at the Big Spring 34 soon after, and it looked like the Dogs might explode yet. But on second down from the seven Thomas broke through the middle and fumbled into the endzone following a collision with John Smith, and Partee was there again.

That break came with 3:20 left, but the Steers weren't able to move in two more possessions.

Reagan Smacks Stanton

STANTON — Reagan County's fifth-ranked Owls rocked Stanton 47-7 here Friday in the Dist. 7-AA opener for both teams.

It was a series of second half breaks that led to the Owls' runaway as the team upped its season record to 6-0 and knocked Stanton to its second straight loss and a 4-2 standing.

"I thought our kids played them a real good first half," said Stanton coach Bill Young, "but we just had a letdown in the second half. They're a real good team. I'm sure they're as good as their ratings. Now we just have to try to get our kids' heads up for Coahoma."

The Buffs visit Coahoma Friday in their second 7-AA outing.

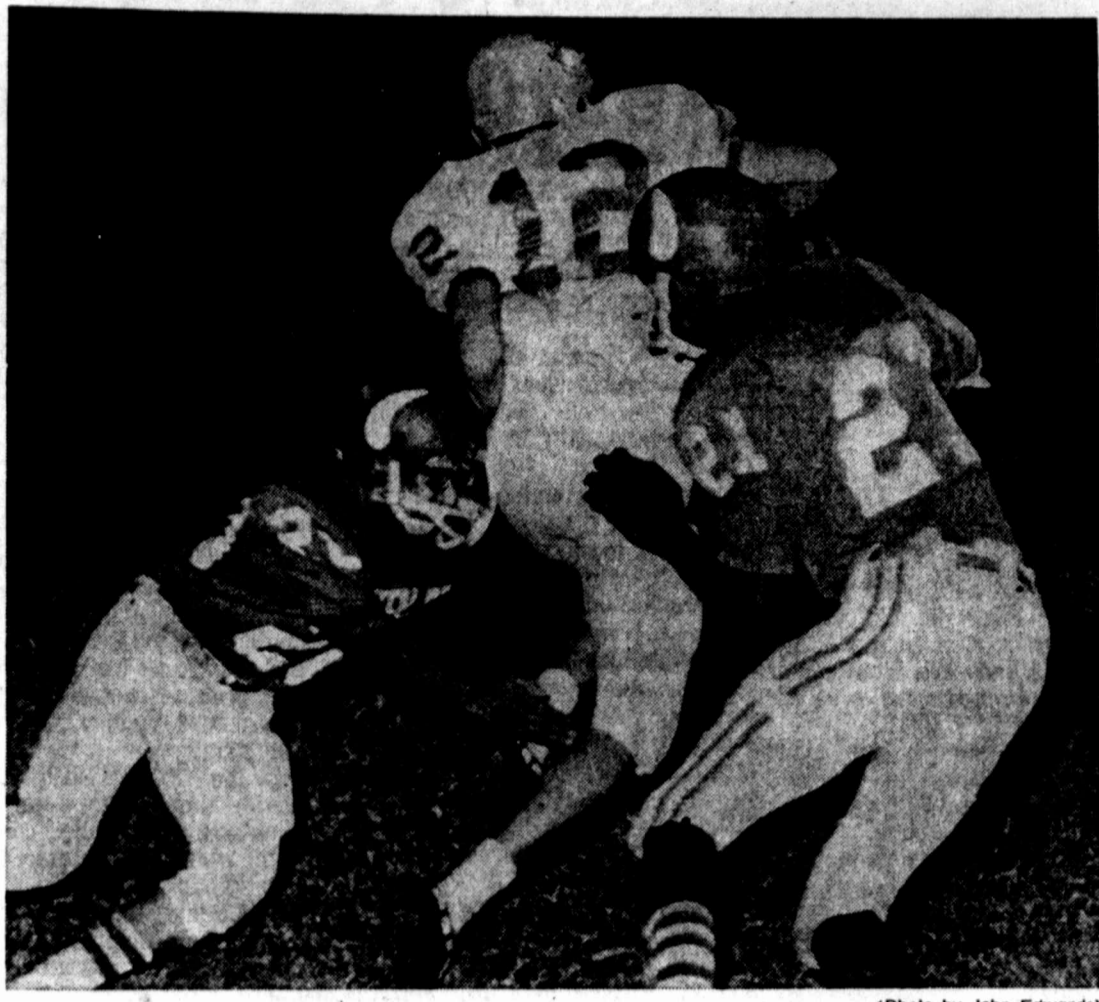

Reagan County's Johnny Hickman opened scoring in the first period on a 15-yard run, but the hosts fought their way into the lead on a one-yard run by Elvin Brown that capped a 60-yard drive. Gordon Eiland booted the PAT for a 7-6 edge.

But George Thompson broke loose for 33 yards early in the second period and quarterback Ken Stout hit paydirt from six yards out to give the Owls a 19-7 lead at the intermission.

Stout came back in the third with another one-yard scoring run, and Hickman continued the runaway with an 11-yard dash to the endzone.

A pair of fourth quarter touchdowns, one a 16-yard pass from Stout to Tim Turner and the other a 12-yard run by Thompson, completed the blitz.

Hickman led the winners with 132 yards on 22 carries, while Steve Bird chipped in 92 steps on 11 runs. For Stanton, Elvin Brown managed 104 yards in 24 attempts and Mark Eiland added 51 steps in three runs, one a 46-yard burst which set up the Buffs' TD.

MOVING IN FOR THE KILL — Stanton defenders Crespino Luna (20) and Vernon Brown (21) close in on Reagan County receiver Monte Barnes (12) who had just hauled in a pass from quarterback Ken Stout. Reagan County, ranked fifth in the state, upheld their lofty place with a 47-7 smacking of the Buffaloes.

Batla Directs Garden City To 38-14 Win Over Wellman

WELLMAN — Quarterback Mike Batla rushed for three touchdowns and passed for another to spark Garden City's 35-yard TD pass from Gary Ham to Brent Tankersley, but the PAT kick was blocked. Batla then gave his team another lift with an 11-yard scoring scamper and David Smith ran four two points as the Bearkats took a 16-6 advantage.

The hosts made it close again, however, as Terry Kirtcher took the ensuing kickoff and returned it 60 yards for a touchdown, and Hamm's run for two extra points made it 16-14.

With nine seconds showing on the clock Batla added a five-yard touchdown run, and Smith's two bonus points made it 24-14 at the half.

Garden City began to put it away in the third as Charles Puga hit paydirt from four yards, and Batla added two more points. Batla's final marker came in the fourth period on a three-yard dash, and the PAT failed for the first time.

Garden City coach Greg Henderson also praised the play of Batla on the defensive unit, along with Chris Hirt, Smith and Wooten.

The Bearkats are at home for another district meeting with Dawson.

Cougars Rally To Rout VPI

HOUSTON (AP) — Fourteenth-ranked Houston spent two quarters showing 21-703 Astrodom fans how to fumble Friday night before demonstrating what they're more famous for — scoring.

Winless Virginia Tech, now 0-6, gobbled up four of the Cougars' seven first half fumbles and turned them into a 17-14 halftime lead.

The Cougars struck for two touchdowns in the first 1:41 of the third quarter—a 95-yard kickoff return by Larry Jefferson and a five-yard run by quarterback D.C. Nobles to set in motion a 54-27 rout of the upset-minded Gobblers.

Gobblers quarterback Rick Popp hit speedy Ricky Scales on touchdown pass plays of 29 and 40 yards and Wayne Latimer kicked a 51-yard field goal for Tech's first half lead.

Houston scored on Joe Rust's 53-yard punt return and an eight-yard run by Reggie Cherry.

A 36-point third quarter was the difference however, as the Cougars, ranked fourth nationally in total offense and rushing offense, buried Tech under 471 yards in total offense.

Coahoma Bulldogs Slap Ballinger In Rain, 7-0

BALLINGER — The Coahoma Bulldogs overcame Ballinger's Bearcats and rainy days Friday, posting a 7-0 victory in their final non-district game of the year.

Jody Bennett capped a 66-yard drive with a five-yard scoring burst as eight minutes showed on the clock for the only score of the game, which was played in rain from start to finish. Dean Woods kicked the PAT following the score.

The wet ball caused 13 fumbles in the contest, eight by Coahoma and five by Ballinger as each team lost two of the bobbles.

The Bulldogs' defense was a big weapon in the victory, as the visitors bounced back from their lone loss of the year and upped their record to 4-1. Ballinger failed to dent the Dogs' 20-yard line, and Coahoma coach Norman Roberts said "Everybody made big plays for us."

Putt Choate added 55 on 19 carries, Gary Roberts ran six times for 23 yards and Eddie Padron picked up 18 on five attempts. Bennett also hit on two of seven passes for 14 yards.

Ohio State Rolls, 24-0

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Archie Griffin rushed for 169 yards on 29 carries and Ohio State's defense smothered Wisconsin's vaunted rushing attack as the top-ranked Buckeyes rolled to a 24-0 college football victory Saturday, their fourth win in as many starts.

Griffin, last year's freshman sensation, injured a leg in the fourth quarter but earlier he ran for a total of 82 yards to spark a pair of long Buckeye scoring drives in the first and third periods.

just four points to second-ranked Nebraska two weeks ago, fell to 1-4, including 0-2 in the Big Ten.

Wolves Notch First Victory
COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Wolves put a pair of touchdowns on the board in the fourth quarter Friday and collected their first win of the year, a 15-7 decision over the Brownfield Cubs.
 Brownfield held a 7-2 edge at the half, after the Wolves had scored their first points of the year as a bad snap from center on an attempted punt gave the hosts a safety.
 But in the fourth stanza the Wolves went ahead when Arnold Parker scampered 82 yards for a score and an 8-6 edge.
 With 29 seconds remaining Amador Guerrero put the game away with an interception of a Mark Adams pass, and he ran it back 20 yards for a touchdown.
 Colorado City is now 1-1 in Dist. 3-AAA play, and Brownfield stands 0-2.

Penn State Rips Army By 54-3

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Unbeaten Penn State exploded for four quick touchdowns midway through the first half, one on a 66-yard pass play and two on runs by reserve fullback Tom Donchez, and rolled to a 54-3 victory Saturday over Army.
 It was the fifth consecutive triumph for the Nittany Lions, the nation's seventh-ranked college team, while Army suffered its fourth setback in a row.
 Although Penn State had the ball for only five minutes of the opening quarter, the Lions built a 19-0 lead after scoring their second and third touchdowns 13 seconds apart thanks to an interception.

For What It's Worth

Jack Cowan

There has to be an end. A team can't get that close that many times and lose them all, can it? I don't think I can take five more games like the last five, myself.
 Midland High, the best team the Steers have faced this season spurred ahead Friday, saw the aroused visitors tie things up in the fourth quarter, and then coolly raced back into the 27-20 lead it held when the game ended. The plot was strikingly similar to those in four previous Steer losses.
 There is one cliché that fits this Big Spring team. If anybody tells you this is the best 0-5 team in the state, believe them. In fact, I sorta wish we were playing one of those 0-5 teams this week instead of Odessa Permian . . .
 Wow. The World Series. Far out. Oakland and the New York Mets. The New York Mets and Oakland.
 At times like this, I think sports writers are supposed to spout statistics, rehash each team's strength and weaknesses (which are generally pretty much the same), make a prediction and then tell why. It's the American Way.
 304, 96 RBIs, 42 stolen bases and 12 ejections. Pretty impressive, huh? The statistics, I mean. I don't know whose they are, but the guy can sure play on my team. Now for the strengths and weaknesses — fast, strong, good pitching, wild, ugly, bad fielding, etc.
 As for a prediction the New York Mets, and I have no idea why. They're luckier, I guess . . .
 This is truly an historic time of the year. Look around if you don't believe me.
 Sports fans have more to waller in than at any other time — there's a pro basketball season that was interesting because it almost didn't happen this week, there's college football (highlighted by OU-Texas, always one of the top attractions), add to that the ever-popular pro football onslaught, and of course the World Series. And then there's hockey, if you're one of those folks.
 All in all, it's a pretty mixed-up mess . . .
 A couple of weeks ago I passed along the fact that Football News Magazine was conducting a poll of college football playoff plans, in which readers were allowed to vote for either of three plans, or to leave things the way they are.
 Naturally enough, 64.8 per cent backed the FN plan, which called for a 16-team playoff starting the first Saturday in December and ending with a national championship tilt on New Year's day. This included champions of the major conferences, plus some un-major league titlists and a few independents.
 Then there was Duffy Daugherty's Plan (9.3 per cent) which decreed that eight teams should meet in playoffs, using the champions of the seven largest conferences, plus one at large slot for the independents. Second on the list was Beano Cook's Plan (17.2 per cent) which sent the Nos. 1 and 2 teams in the final poll into a battle for the title the Wednesday night before the Super Bowl.
 While the FN plan was popular, many suggested that the playoffs not be limited to the conference champions, pointing out that it wasn't but a couple of years ago that Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado of the Big Eight finished 1-2-3 in the final poll.
 Curiously, there was no mention of my own plan, which called for a nation-wide drawing at Madison Square Garden after the season had ended.

Together at last.

The car that talks. The computer that listens.

One half of the most advanced automotive check-out system is already built into every new Volkswagen. The other half, the Computer, has finally arrived. Together they can tell you what's right or wrong with vital parts of your car. Quickly, accurately, and in language you can understand. Plain English.

If you own a new Volkswagen, bring it in for a heart-to-heart talk. If you don't own a new VW, maybe you should.

'Continuing Education'

By JO BRIGHT

Education can, and should, be a continuing process for adults, and it is made easier when the means to do so is provided by community colleges.

Howard County Junior College, headed by Dr. Thomas Salter, has placed increasing emphasis on this area of education.

Theron Lee, director of Continuing Education at the college, is a man who likes to see people learn — about anything in which they have an interest.

The purpose of continuing education is to provide learning opportunities for life. The thrust of the program is directed at the out-of-school individual, with opportunity in almost any area that is relevant to him.

This includes occupational training, upgrading of skills, personal development, family courses, social and civic classes and recreational activities.

All courses are non-credit and are open to interested persons without regard to eligibility for admission to the college credit program. Courses may vary in length from a few weeks to a full semester. Short one or two-day seminars are also offered in special areas.

The four major areas in the college continuing education program are Special Interest, Distribution and Marketing, Related Arts and Industrial-Technical.

The Special Interest classes might include anything from art and languages to bridge or photography. In Distribution and Marketing, subjects range from banking to real estate or secretarial arts. Related Arts, or general education, features anything from communicative skills to occupational and vocational orientation, while the Industrial-Technical courses offer such things as electricity, welding, refrigeration and mechanics.

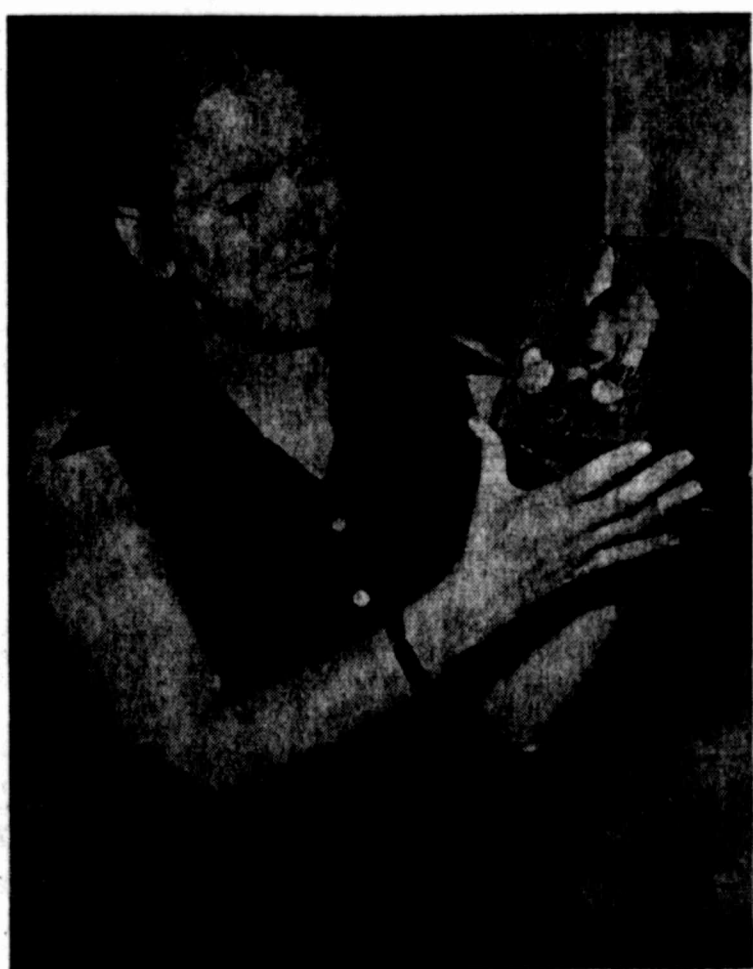

Special Interest courses now in progress are defensive driving, oil painting, cake decorating, flower arranging, driver's education and conversational Spanish.

In 1972, about 50 classes were offered, with almost 800 people participating. This year, Lee hopes to make 100 classes available, aiming for a total enrollment of over 1200.

The coming months will see the addition of new classes, all of which are advertised in the newspaper prior to their starting dates. Nominal fees will be charged, based on the length and supplies needed for the course.

For further information concerning continuing education programs, interested persons may contact Theron Lee at Howard County Junior College.

TOLE PAINTING is one of the courses which have been offered at HCJC, as Mrs. Sandy Miller shows at left. Underway now are night classes in cake decorating, right, with Mrs. Janie Harmon serving as instructor. The college is willing to provide facilities and instructors for "almost anything" if people show enough interest.

Education Fund Gets Donation

The local Altrusa Club donated $37.50 to a grants-in-aid program sponsored by the national organization during a meeting Thursday at Coker's Restaurant. The donation represents proceeds from a Mexican dinner held recently at the home of Mrs. Homer Petty. Assisting with the dinner were Mrs. Willard Sullivan and Mrs. Norman Read.

The grants-in-aid program was started in 1944 to help Latin American women doing graduate work. The grants range from $250 to $750, and the fund is maintained by contributions from Altrusa clubs or individual members.

The poem, "Touching Shoulders," was read by Mrs. Willard Hendrick for those celebrating birthdays in October. They included Mrs. Udonia Bass, Mrs. Ruby Billings, Mrs. Read and Miss Jeanette Barnett.

Members agreed to furnish Christmas gifts for patients at Big Spring State Hospital. It was announced a district conference is scheduled Oct. 19-21 in Pampa. Miss Barnett, member-at-large, plans to attend.

Ralph Mendez' Visit Relatives

Weekend Offers Art Show, Indian Display

A week from today the Don McCully Fine Arts Galleries is to open at Heritage Museum a week's showing of a large collection of outstanding paintings, some valued into the multiplied thousands of dollars. Much of the works will include those by Western painters, both contemporary and past, but the range will be considerably broader.

McCully will be remembered for having staged a similar and highly successful show at the museum here a year and a half ago, almost symbolizing a resurgence of major interest in art in this vicinity. Now, with his own galleries, he is back with another free show. You'll hear more about this during the week.

But, this is a reminder that the Howard County area oil development exhibit, in place for the past six months, will be coming down at the end of the week. If you haven't seen this, you need to go to the museum this afternoon or early in the week. Around 3,000 have visited it, and Gerri Atwell, curator, estimated equally as many — perhaps more — have stopped to inspect the Fort Worth spudder, furnished by Robinson Drilling Company of Texas, located across the street.

The Benny Goodman concert, sponsored by the Symphony Association, will be held Oct. 22 in Ector County Coliseum, Odessa. Tickets may be had at Gibson's in Odessa Oct. 15-21. Also at Odessa, the Globe of the Great Southwest production of "Angel Street" opens Friday evening.

The first annual exhibition-auction sponsored by the Carlsbad (N.M.) Area Art Association is set for Oct. 21 at the Rodeway Inn in Carlsbad. Thirty-eight artists will have 85 works on display, including two recent water colors by Peter Hurd.

Speaking of Peter Hurd (we always brag about his fresco mural in the Howard County Free Library), he and Mrs. Hurd (Henriette Wyeth) will be at Baker Gallery of Fine Art, 13th and Ave. L in Lubbock, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. today. The exhibition and sale of their new works will continue from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday. Hurd is one of the most famous painters of the Southwest, and Mrs. Hurd, daughter of the famous N.C. Wyeth, is one of the nation's most sensitive artists.

Martin Link, museum and research department head of the Navajo nation at Window Rock, Ariz., will present slide programs at 2:30 p.m. today at the Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Missouri, Midland. The outstanding program on Indian Culture comes in part through sponsorship of the Midland Archeological Society. Charles Long, silversmith, James Cody, artist, and Glenmae Tsoisie, rug weaver, will be demonstrating skills from 2-6 p.m.

Texas Tech Music Theatre has chosen its autumn vehicle, the musical, "Most Happy Fella," a Frank Loesser Broadway hit. The show dates are Nov. 1-4 in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Antique buffs may want to jot down Oct. 26-28 as dates for the Central Texas Antique Show and Market at the National Guard Armory in Temple.

While on the subject of dates, another one for your book is the 45th annual Southwestern International Livestock Show and Rodeo in El Paso Feb. 2-10. Information may be had by writing PO Box 10239, El Paso 79993.

Dallas Museum of Fine Arts has a new director. He is Harry S. Parker III, currently vice director for education of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. He will take over Jan. 1. The museum, incidentally, last week announced the acquisition from Mr. and Mrs. George V. Charlton of a bust of Bodhisattva from Pakistan, dating to the second or third century and in the Gandharan style.

Entries are being accepted by the Sons of the Republic of Texas for the Presidio La Bahia award, which carries a $2,000 gift. Bob Weddle, former Menard newspaper man won it in 1972 with his book, "Wilderness Manhunt." This award is to encourage original research into Hispanic culture in Texas. Information may be had from Mrs. J. B. Haus, 2426 Watts Road, Houston, 77025.

The Department of Interior has projected a one-year study of Old Cattle Trails of the Southwest. It will concentrate on the Chisholm, Great Western and other famous trails, pinpointing them and spotlighting the route and attractions of today.

Dig Summer Bulbs; Plant Spring Types

By SHERRY MULLIN
HD Agent

It's time to dig and store summer bulbs. Bulbs of caladium, tuberous begonia, calla and other tender types should be dug before frost. If tops are still green when you dig bulbs, leave them attached to the bulb until they have dried out.

To cure bulbs, place them in a single layer in a dry, airy place for about two weeks. You can speed up drying by spreading bulbs in the sun, but they'll have to be moved inside to protect them from dew or rain.

After bulbs have cured, clean them to remove clinging soil, dried roots and tops. Then treat them with a good multipurpose garden dust, or mix your own, to protect them from insects and diseases. Seven is a good insecticide. Phalton, maneb, and captan are good fungicides.

For storage, bulbs can be hung up in mesh bags or packed in boxes with dry peat moss, vermiculite or sand. Best storage temperature is between 50 and 60 degrees F.

Dahlias should be dug after the first frost. Dig carefully so that tubers are not damaged or broken from the underground stem. It is this stem that contains the growth buds, or eyes, for next year's plants.

COOL STORAGE

Dry clumps for a day or two and then store in a cool place. It is not necessary to remove soil from between tubers. Clumps can be stored uncovered in a damp basement where they will not freeze. But a better method is to pack the labeled (variety) clumps in larger boxes and cover them with peat moss or vermiculite.

Late October through November is the best time to plant most late-winter and spring-flowering bulbs for indoor and outdoor flowering. And there are many types and varieties to choose from — tulip, daffodil, narcissus, crocus, snowdrop, hyacinth, Dutch iris, Madonna lily, as well as anemone, ranunculus and lesser known and rarer sorts.

Whether you buy from a local garden center or order your bulbs from a mail-order house, it's time you were deciding what you'll need. Early buying will give you the pick of varieties and will ensure fresher, better quality bulbs. Tulips need to be bought early so they can be pre-cooled for six weeks before planting. (The vegetable drawer in your refrigerator provides ideal temperature conditions — about 38 degrees F.)

To get the most from bulbs, do a good job of preparing the soil. The first step is to spread a 2-inch layer of manure, peat moss, rotted sawdust, or compost over the bed. Then spread 10 to 15 pounds of ground limestone and 2 to 3 pounds of low-nitrogen fertilizer (0-10-10, 6-12-12) per 100 square feet of bed area and thoroughly mix them into the soil to at least 8 to 12 inches deep.

HOW DEEP?

Most gardeners have questions about how deep to plant bulbs. One way is to use the old rule of thumb of two times the bulb's diameter in heavier or clay soils and three times the bulb's diameter for lighter or sandy soils.

For that something extra to brighten dark winter days, plant bulbs of tulips, daffodils and hyacinths in pots for forcing into early bloom. These should be planted the same time bulbs are planted outdoors. Use any size pot that can be easily handled. Use coarse gravel or broken pottery to keep drainage hole open; then fill pots with good woods dirt that is well supplied with organic matter or use a 1-to-1 mixture of clean garden soil and peat moss. Plant bulbs so that tip of bulb is just under the soil, and water well.

Bury potted bulbs in a trench in the garden, or better still, make a boxlike frame around pots and cover them with 6 to 8 inches of damp sand, peat moss or sawdust. Leave them for six to eight weeks to allow root systems to develop before forcing. By that time bulbs should show about 2 inches of yellowish leaves. They should be gradually brought into bright light, but not direct sunlight. Temperatures at the beginning of the forcing period (until bloom buds can be felt in the developing shoot) should be between 50 and 60 degrees F.

For final forcing, give plants plenty of light and raise temperature to 60 to 70 degrees F.

Don't let pots dry out; keep soil moist from potting until after blooming.

Miss Kelly Traces Genealogy

Miss Frances Kelly presented a program on the history of her various family lines, stressing the historical interest, when the Genealogical Society of the Big Spring met Thursday evening in the Conference Room of Howard County Library.

Miss Kelly, a school librarian, displayed articles passed down to her from ancestors. Among them were such things as a child's dress made during the 1800's, family albums, diaries, old newspapers, letters, etc. Miss Kelly has been able to trace many of her lines for at least five generations and has stories of historical events that transpired during the Civil War.

Presiding at the meeting was Mrs. Margaret Barnett, and prayer was by Mr. A. A. Porter.

Plans for a workshop were discussed, with a decision to postpone such a program until new books are received which have been ordered for the genealogical section of the library.

The next scheduled meeting for the society will be November 8 at the Howard County Library. All interested parties are invited to attend.

Miss Burke Weds Albert L. McDaniel

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Sherrie Lynn Burke, Monahans, and Albert Lowell McDaniel, Big Spring, at eight o'clock Friday evening in the First Baptist Church of Monahans.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Burke Jr., Monahans, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McDaniel, Big Spring.

Performing the rites was the Rev. Jimmy Low, Plainview, cousin of the bride. Mrs. J. W. Thrasher Jr. was organist, and Mrs. William H. Browning was soloist.

Framing the altar were candelabra entwined with greenery and flanked by baskets of palm leaves. In the center background was an arched candelabrum, and pink and white votive candles completed the setting.

The bride's gown was styled in oriental silk with embroidered Alencon lace and pearls forming a scroll design. The fitted bodice featured a round neckline and bishop sleeves with lace accents. The A-line skirt was embellished with a chapel-length train which was detailed in lace and pearls. A lace and pearl headband held her elbow-length illusion veil, and she carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and babies' breath.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Miss Terrie Burke. Miss Roxie McDaniel, Big Spring, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid.

The attendants wore floor-length bright pink gowns; the empire bodices highlighted with rounded necklines and full, gathered sleeves with lace trim. The headpieces featured pink illusion flowers and pink net. The women carried nosegays of assorted pink carnations backed with pink lace and long pink streamers.

Everett McDaniel, Levelland, was best man, and Ernest McDaniel, also of Levelland, was groomsman. Serving as ushers were Peter Larko, Big Spring, and Lance Hopper, Knott.

Following a trip to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, the newlyweds will reside at 810 1/2 W. Sealy, Monahans. McDaniel is employed with Burke Welding Supply and Tool, Inc. He is a graduate

Girl Scouts Short Of Supplies

There has been a shortage of certain Girl Scout troop supplies in this area according to Mrs. Lin Bell, field director.

"Our equipment supply store, Hemphill-Wells, has done its best to meet our needs and has ordered the necessary stock," said Mrs. Bell. "They, as well as many other equipment outlets in the area, are waiting to receive shipments."

Mrs. Bell said she is able to directly order basic, necessary supplies, if the demand is great enough. This would include items such as leaders notebooks, Junior handbooks, certain troop record forms and books such as "Paths to Action", "Moreabouts" and "New Challenges" for Today's Cadettes.

Leaders or Scouts should check with Hemphill-Wells, before contacting Mrs. Bell, to see if shipment of these items has been received. If not, take or send money order or check, the stock number listed in the catalog, and amount of items needed to the Girl Scout Office, 220 1/2 Main, Big Spring. Tax and postage should be included with the order, and the supplies will be mailed to the home of the person placing the order.

For further information, call Mrs. Bell at 263-1364.

Wedding Plans Are Announced

The Rev. and Mrs. Richard Payne, Abilene, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Diana Lynn, to Leslie Eugene Butler.

The wedding will be Dec. 28 in First Baptist Church, Stanton.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Stanton High School, attended McMurry, and is not enrolled in Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, Lubbock.

Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eugene Butler, Stanton, also graduated from Stanton High School and is presently attending Howard County Junior College and is employed at White Motor Company, Stanton.

New Focus Updates Girl Scout Program

Many changes have taken place in the past year to update the Girl Scout program throughout the nation, to meet the changing needs, attitudes, and trends of the young girls of today. More can be expected as new trends continue to come into focus within society.

"It has been the desire and goal of the organization to keep in pace with the national and local concerns of this generation, and those that follow," said Mrs. Lin Bell, field director.

Some of the changes have affected the fashion world. Brownies, Juniors and Cadettes now have attractive "mix 'n' match" outfits that they may wear in place of the past uniform. Several different pieces such as jumpers, shorts, blouse, pants, turtle-neck sweaters, knee socks and other items can be interchanged to meet the different needs and styles of the times. The Cadettes have cast aside their badge sash in favor of a matching vest jacket, to display their achievements.

Prior to this change, the Senior Girl Scouts had changed into a good-looking princess dress or pantsuit. The women Adult Girl Scouts also have a pantsuit they may add to their wardrobe, and male adult volunteers may wear a sharp-looking green blazer which displays the Girl Scout trefoil on the breast pocket. Men also have a miniature Girl Scout pin that can be worn on the collar of their jacket or shirt.

Just recently, the age level for Brownies was lowered from second grade to include the first grader. They just need to have entered the first grade to qualify.

"There has been enthusiastic response throughout the community to this change," said Mrs. Bell. "Big Spring has either intermingled the three grades together or formed first grade troops, according to the need, number of girls registered, and amount of adult leadership help available."

Girls who are unable to join a troop, but want to continue their membership, can do so now by becoming an Associate Member of the Girl Scouts. They continue to receive all benefits of being a Girl Scout other than those related to troop activities. It is encouraged that a girl join a local troop, however.

There are new supplements to the handbooks also, adding to the Girl Scout program. The Brownie leaders have "Moreabouts" to work from along with the Brownie handbook. The Junior girls have "New Paths to Action," the Cadette Scouts have "New Challenges for Today's Cadettes," and the Senior Scouts will receive "Options," available this spring. These supplements offer new expansions and explorations into the community, international friendships, self-interests and many new concerns.

The girls are given the freedom to work from their handbooks, try new suggestions given in the supplements, or create and explore other interests with guidance from adults.

"More can be expected to change, as the world around us changes," said Mrs. Bell. "The Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. will keep up with the new trends of interests and remain an organization of the young."

SETS DATE — Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Kidwell, Rt. 2, Midland, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Karen Denise, to John M. (Dusty) Choate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Choate, Rt. 1, Big Spring. The wedding is scheduled Dec. 28 in First United Methodist Church, Big Spring. Miss Kidwell is a student at West Texas University where her fiancé plans to enroll this fall.

Agents will be involved in professional improvement, recognizing outstanding achievements and exchanging teaching innovations and methods.

Included in the program are a keynote address by the Rev. Oddvar Berg, national lecturer, along with numerous workshops, question-and-answer periods and "crosstalks" during which agents can exchange ideas. Agents also will hear addresses by Dr. Ira Proffog, director of Dialogue House Associates, Inc. in New York City, and Dr. Marjorie East, head of the Department of Home Economic Education, Pennsylvania State University.

In addition they will participate in a tour, view exhibits and attend a fashion showing.

and demonstrate preparation of nutritious, low-cost foods.

The educational phase, subject of the two-day meeting, is designed to help limited-income people utilize resources.

Extension and the other agencies are cooperating in this program to avoid duplicating efforts between various government agencies at both state and national levels.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Some time ago I read in your column about a woman who said she bought 25 pounds of flour and baked up a storm of bread and rolls, and froze them.

I have always wanted to do this but, Heloise, I'm the most impatient woman there is when it comes to waiting for bread to rise. Putting it in the oven isn't even fast enough!

But I have found the fastest way yet!

I made five batches of bread dough, then I filled the bathtub practically full with hot water. I turned the heat up a little bit so that the room was so muggy I could hardly stand it.

Then I put my pan of dough in the bathroom, covered it with a cloth and closed the door.

And guess what? Forty-five minutes later my dough had more than doubled in size and I could start forming my loaves and rolls.

I put everything back in the bathroom to rise again for about a half hour. In four and one-half hours (from the very beginning), I had baked eight loaves of bread, two dozen rolls, 14 hamburger buns and one large pizza crust!

And if you don't want to waste that water in the tub, warm it up and take a nice long bath.

How's that for saving time? ... Kathy Schulters

Dear Heloise:

My stretch jeans were worn through the knees. Not having any commercial patches to mend with, I made my own.

I used a scrap of perma-press fabric (lined with white dots) and lined it with a bias underfacing. Cut the patches into oval shapes basted by hand to the knees of the jeans. Then machine-stitched, using a zigzag stitch.

If you want to do a super job, wash patching fabric before you cut the oval patch to avoid shrinkage and puckering. ... Mrs. E.

Dear Heloise:

After chasing a 22-month-old toddler around, holding a teaspoon of medicine in one hand, I decided to measure the teaspoon of medication and then transfer it to a tablespoon. Saves temper and money and wiping up spills! ... Shirley O'Hara

Most kids don't like to take medicine, so when he sees you coming with the spoon, he heads for the hills!

Me think it might be a little easier on you to corral that toddler first, and then measure out the medicine for him into one of those plastic medicine glasses, in case he gets away from you again! ... Heloise

Dear Heloise:

The other day while cleaning my dresser drawers, I noticed I had several empty roll-on deodorant bottles. I decided to see if I could find some use for them.

First, I snapped off the roll-on top and cleaned out the bottle thoroughly. Then I filled the bottle with alcohol and snapped the roll-on top back on.

I had a simple way to apply alcohol without making a big mess. You don't even have to have cotton. Just uncapped the bottle and roll the alcohol on! ... E.F.B.

Hyperion Members Study Supernatural

An exploration of the supernatural was introduced Tuesday by Mrs. Tom Locke and Mrs. Ron Medley for 1970 Hyperion Club at the home of Mrs. O. H. Ivie, No. 3 Coachman.

According to the speakers, a belief in life after death dates back to the Neanderthals, forerunners of man who buried their dead in a fetal position to prepare them for a rebirth. Other civilizations, such as the Egyptians, buried household goods and deceased servants with their dead "in order to make afterlife more comfortable."

Mrs. Medley said Ancient Greeks believed a chosen few lived on after death in "Elysium," (paradise) and that the people of India today view death as a release from earthly existence rather than as an end. People in India believe man is reincarnated to a higher or lower form of life after death.

"Recently, spiritualists have forwarded the idea that certain gifted persons termed 'mediums' can communicate with the dead," said Mrs. Locke. The speakers agreed that the ultimate in the belief of life after death came with the advent of Christ who promised a "final judgment and punishment of the wicked."

The club's study theme for the year is "Man, Myth and Magic." Programs will include study of astrology, fate, black magic, witchcraft, extrasensory perception, zodiac, horoscopes, superstitions and palmistry.

During Tuesday's business meeting, Mrs. Ivie was elected treasurer, and Mrs. Ray Owen was named historian-reporter. The next meeting will be Nov. 13 in the home of Mrs. Medley, 2805 Golliad.

New Club Holds Dinner Meeting

An organizational meeting of Big Spring Chapter 839, Council for Exceptional Children, was held Thursday evening at Furr's Cafeteria under the leadership of Gene Adkins.

Locally, beef educational material is being distributed to all area homemaking departments in schools and to 4-H club cooking groups. Beef promotional place-mats are being made available to local restaurants, and a display will be set up at both the Concho and Sweetwater Hereford shows and sales. Speaker Tells How To Revitalize Lawn

"Summer sometimes has havoc with lawns, and garden makers are faced with difficult problems," said Mrs. Paul Guy Thursday to Planters Garden Club. Meeting at the home of Mrs. Luke Fortenberry, 1207 Lloyd, Mrs. Guy outlined steps for building a new lawn.

Removal of weeds is the first process in starting a lawn, according to Mrs. Guy. This must be followed by grading, evaluation of top soil, preparation of the seed bed and the actual planting of seed. She stressed the importance of using high-quality seed of a mixture adapted to locality. During the business meeting, members agreed to change the regular meeting day of the club from the second Thursday to the first Tuesday of each month, the next one being at 2 p.m., Nov. 6 in the home of Mrs. Cass Hill, 406 Circle.

Mrs. Guy announced projects of the Council of Garden Clubs, and members voted to support the council.

Webb Chapel Scene Of Friday Ceremony

Miss Ragena M. Rutledge became the bride of Sgt. John M. Ortag Jr., during a ceremony at 6 p.m., Friday in the chapel at Webb Air Force Base.

The Rev. Dan McClinton, educational director at Baptist Temple, performed the nuptial rites, and a prelude of traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Dan McClinton, organist.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh N. Rutledge, Rt. 1, Big Spring. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Ortag Sr., Cleveland, Ohio.

The bride wore a formal-length sleeveless gown fashioned in pink knit with princess lines. Sequin trim accented the V-neckline and encircled the empire waistline. Her lace-edged illusion veil was held by a pink Dior bow, and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with pink carnations.

Mrs. Tommy Rutledge, Lubbock, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Her princess-style gown was fashioned in pink and white brocade with accents of pink satin on the bell sleeves.

Maj. M. J. Willett, Webb AFB, served as best man, and the bride's brother, Tommy M. Rutledge, Lubbock, was the usher.

The newlyweds, who are residing in Big Spring, plan a delayed honeymoon to Hawaii. Mrs. Ortag is a graduate of Coahoma High School and attended Howard County Junior College. She is currently employed as a stenographer in the Civil Engineering office at Webb therapy program at Moss School was scheduled Thursday with Mrs. C. V. Wash, Mrs. Odom and Mrs. J. F. Skalicky teaching the children to plant and grow bulbs.

AFB. Sgt. Ortag graduated from Parma Senior High School, Cleveland, Ohio. He is assigned with the Air Force as a heating specialist at Webb AFB.

Mrs. J. D. Leonard presented a program on preserving flowers, describing the three methods generally used. She said they may be dried on the stalk, or may be cut, cleaned, trimmed and tied in bunches to be hung inverted in a warm, dry place. The third method, good for roses, zinnias and mums, is to use a commercial drying agent. She said leather-type foliage may be preserved by crushing the stems and submerging them in glycerine for at least two weeks.

The gardeners examined various flowers grown in West Texas which had been dried by the first method.

The next meeting will be at 9 a.m., Nov. 14 in the Odom home, 2615 Lynn. The program will concern decorative ideas for the Christmas season.

Textbooks Approved

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Rejecting protests by Mr. and Mrs. Mel Gabler of Longview, the State Textbook Committee has approved two psychology and two sociology books opposed by the couple.

The committee approved five sociology and four psychology texts Friday.

Before the texts can be used in high school classes, they must be adopted by the State Board of Education Nov. 10, after screening by State Education Commissioner J.W. Edgar.

Mrs. Gabler had called one of the approved works, Oxford Book Co.'s "Psychology for You" revolting. "This book equates the Bible with a myth."

These books were recommended for adoption: "Sociology" (Ginn & Co.), "Sociology: The Study of Human Relationships" (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc.), "Inquiries in Sociology" (Allyn & Bacon, Inc.), "Modern Sociology" (Holt, Rinehart & Winston) and "Sociology for High School" (Oxford).

"Psychology: Living" (Webster), "Psychology: Understanding Ourselves and Others" (American Book Co.), "Psychology: Its Principles and Applications" (Harcourt) and "Psychology for You" (Oxford).

The Gablers, perennial critics of proposed texts, had opposed "Sociology: The Study of Human Relationships," "Inquiries in Sociology," "Psychology for You" and "Psychology: Its Principles and Applications."

Two psychology books opposed by the Gablers were rejected, while a sociology book they had protested was withdrawn by its publisher as "too mature" for high school pupils.

One of the rejected psychology books was "Behind the Mask," which the Gablers said contained a chapter that was an "All out play for homosexuals."

Each of the books adopted also was criticized in varying degrees by the Continuing Task Force in Education for Women.

Among the reasons given by the Gablers for opposing "Psychology: Its Principles and Applications" was the inclusion of works by B.F. Skinner in a list of suggested outside reading.

Hollywood Star Works With Florida Mission

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Lash LaRue, whose whip and six-gun once punished bad guys in the movies, is now an evangelist whipping drunks into line behind the Lord.

The Cheyenne Kid has put a lot of miles on his boots since that day in Miami seven years ago when he thought he had come to the end of the trail. Arrested for vagrancy with just 35 cents in his pocket, he said he asked the arresting officer to shoot him and put him out of his misery like a old cow pony that has seen better days.

But LaRue's back in the saddle again, helping round up maverick souls at the Mission Power Headquarters and Home of the Apostles.

The mission, founded by evangelist John 3:16 Cook, works with derelicts in the city. Cook takes his middle name from the biblical passage. "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believes in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

One project at the mission which LaRue favors is the Hol-

'Day Of Jackal' Soon

A suspense-packed thriller of a professional assassin hired to kill General Charles de Gaulle, Fred Zinnemann's film in Technicolor of the Frederick Forsyth best-selling book "The Day Of The Jackal," comes Wednesday to the Cinema Theatre.

Released by Universal, the John Woolf production stars Edward Fox as "The Jackal," Alan Badal, Tony Britton, Cyril Cusack, Michel Lonsdale, Eric Porter and Delphine Seyrig.

For almost a year, veteran director Zinnemann worked with screenwriter Kenneth Ross to distill, without blunting, Forsyth's fluid story into acceptable cinematic terms. Once Ross completed the screenplay, Zinnemann and producer Woolf started the search for a cast and the hunt for locales that, while existing today, could fit the period of the film — 1963.

Zinnemann cast the relatively unknown Fox, brother of established star James Fox, as "The Jackal." He had seen him in "The Go-Between," a role which brought him the British Academy Award for 1971 as Best Supporting Actor. For the rest of the major roles, Zinnemann called upon established screen and stage actors of both England and France. Intentionally performers of star status were avoided in casting the story which treats a thin line between fact and fiction.

WHICH IS REAL DE GAULLE? — French actor Adrian Cuyia-Legrand achieves a startling likeness to the real General Charles de Gaulle (left) in "The Day of the Jackal."

Tomato juice, salt, pepper, tobacco sauce, a lemon and some vodka, in a big glass. A not uncommon piece of dialogue in a European bar as voiced by Americans abroad, but a bit unusual coming from a stunning French girl in a tiny public house on the west coast of Ireland.

Dutifully, the Irish barmaid produced the requested ingredients and Dominique Sanda, Europe's newest female superstar, set to work creating a Bloody Mary under the dumbfounded gaze of a half dozen red-faced Guinness drinkers.

As meticulous in her acting as her drink mixing, this haunting 21-year-old has set Europe's film-makers panting along her trail, following her stunning performances in Bertolucci's "The Conformist" and Desca's "The Garden of the Finzi-Continis."

For the past months the world's film-makers have had to wait their turn, because not only was she busy making Bloody Marys in the wild Irish west country, but she was working in her biggest film to date, "The Mackintosh Man," as the leading lady of Paul Newman under the direction of John Huston, a Newman-Foreman production for Warner Bros., now showing at the Ritz Theatre.

Surrounded by layers of sweaters and sheepskin during one sequence, she sipped the fruits of her labors and relaxed from the strains of long dialogue scenes she and Newman had just played on a windswept jett. John Huston wandered into the tiny bar. "That was very good, honey," he reassured Dominique, "just the right level."

Behind the bar, the barmaid was telling two tourists she lived in Los Angeles six years before returning home. "Anybody who lived in Los Angeles for six years should bloody well know what goes in a Bloody Mary," said Dominique under her breath.

Depression Siren Returns To Films

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty years after her retirement, Binnie Barnes, one of the Hollywood sirens of the 1930s, is back on the screen as Liv Ullmann's young-spirited mother in "40 Carats," a movie version of the Broadway play of the same name.

The picture was produced by her husband of 34 years, M. J. Frankovich, but Miss Barnes says he has nothing to do with her getting the part. "The director and the writer wanted me in it," she said. "My husband didn't know anything about it until I got it. I rehearsed some young girls for the part, and they liked my reading, and they wanted me for it."

The London-born actress remembered for suchi insas "The Private Life of Henry VIII," and "Man about Town," is a now a 63-year-old grandmother of four, but her face is as fresh as that of a milkmaid that she once was — rosy, unblemished and uncrinkled. "I don't like to see old women with a lot of makeup and four layers of eyelashes," she said. "I use hardly any makeup. I wash my face with soap and get on with it. Over makeup, you look much older."

NO LIFT

"I haven't had my face lifted yet, but I think I will eventually," Miss Barnes said. "When I reach 80, if I live that long, and I think I will. Why not? Facelifting is such a marvelous thing. I think every woman should make her best of her face."

How did she feel coming back in front of the camera?

"A little nervous to start with, and then the role was such that you can have a very good time doing it — dancing with Gene Kelly, you know — I enjoyed it. I was a little stiff doing the discotheque number, but once I got back into it, it's like eating. You don't forget how to eat. I came back, danced and worked again. It was simple. "I look much younger than my age, and that's very good. Older people who see me in the picture can say, 'if she can do it, so can we.' It gives them hope."

Showing still shapely legs under a flower patterned dress, Miss Barnes said she has a "very young, very modern mind, and has always been way ahead of what's going on." She is not at all shocked by the tory of "40 Carats" in which a 40-year-old woman falls in love with a young man.

'Jackal' Reveals Too Much: Forger

Author Frederick Forsyth has promised his underworld contacts to be more careful of information they give him in the future.

The process by which a man obtains a false passport is fully revealed in Fred Zinnemann's film "The Day Of The Jackal," a Universal release in Technicolor of Forsyth's best-selling book which comes Wednesday to the Cinema Theatre.

"My forger contact is rather upset and has reproached me very strongly for taking bread from an honest villain's mouth," says the author.

"Furthermore, since the book was published, the British Passport Office has tightened up on security considerably."

The John Woolf production stars Edward Fox as "The Jackal."

WHY DID IT HAPPEN IN BOSTON?

What Was Behind Slayings Of Two Whites By Blacks?

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Why did it happen in Boston? Two people were killed here last week. A young woman was burned to death. A retired man was robbed and stabbed to death. Police say he had been pelted with rocks. Both victims were whites killed by groups of young blacks.

ISOLATED INSANITY — "Isolated insanity," said Mayor Kevin White, "Boston is still the most walkable, livable city on a comparative basis with any city in the country." Boston has a liberal reputation stretching from the 1830s, when it was the home of the antislavery abolitionist movement.

So why did it happen here? Some of the answer might be found along a three-mile stretch of Columbia Road in the city's Dorchester section. It begins at Franklin Park, on the border of black Roxbury, and ends at a traffic circle near the racially troubled Columbia Point housing project and white, Irish South Boston.

It was about 800 yards from where Columbia Road runs into Franklin Park that Evelyn Wagler, 24, died Tuesday night. Carrying gasoline to her stalled car, she was stopped by six young blacks, forced to douse herself with the gasoline and was set afire.

And it was only 600 yards from the traffic circle at the other end that Ludovic Louis Barba, 65, went fishing Thursday. Police first reported he had been stoned to death by 40 to 50 young blacks. The medical examiner reported Friday he died of stab wounds.

BLACK FACES — In between, Columbia Road runs through Dorchester, its sides flanked by "three decker" wooden houses, red brick public buildings and small stores and shops. In the middle is Uphams Corner, a commercial and shopping area.

There are sheets of plywood in the windows of the stores where Columbia Road begins at Franklin Park. A decade or two ago, it was an area where Boston's Irish Catholics coexisted with Boston's Jewish community. Now almost all the faces on the street are black. Boston was nine per cent black in 1960, 16 per cent black by 1970. Long confined to the dilapidated South End, the black community spread through Roxbury and into the tightly knit Dorchester neighborhoods that Boston's Irish and other white ethnic groups long had called home.

There is a scattering of abandoned houses along the Franklin Park end of Columbia Road, but not the desolation of some inner city areas. If there is glass in the streets or rubbish on the sidewalks, blacks will tell you it's because their neighborhood gets the short end of city services.

WITHOUT FEAR — Along Columbia Road cruise the blue-and-white cars of the Boston police department. There is almost certainly a white man inside. The department is 98 per cent white and the source of much bitterness among blacks who say they are denied the protection they need

Retired Teachers Hear Mrs. B. Bolin Tuesday

Mrs. Billy Bolin, San Angelo, will be the guest speaker for the Howard County Retired Teachers' Association luncheon meeting at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Downtown Tea Room.

All members and retired teachers of the county are being urged to be present for the meeting. Mrs. Bolin currently is serving as an appointed member of the TRTA Informative and Protective Services Committee of Texas. She was selected as Texas representative to the White House Conference on Aging, Washington, D. C., a meeting called by President Nixon. She is also appointed a member of the Governor's Committee on Aging in Texas.

Mrs. Bolin holds a BS from East Texas State University, an MA degree from Texas Tech and has done extensive graduate work at the University of Texas. After retirement, she received the Outstanding Teacher of the Year award from the San Angelo Retired Teachers to live without fear of crime and violence. "You ever try standing in the street and stopping one of them?" asked Charles Warrington, a window washer. "They look across and just go right by. They don't care." A mile down Columbia Road, in front of the A & D Bar-B-Cue, young black people gather. The first generation to grow up hearing "black is beautiful," they are different.

RASCISTS — "These young black kids nowadays, they don't take no crap," said Robert Johnson, a middle-aged black man. Many young blacks, here as elsewhere, are frustrated and angry, about schools they say don't educate them, jobs they can't find and a system they see as racist and not giving ground.

Their feelings find expression in many ways, in drugs and violence that prey on their own communities.

Another few hundred yards down the street, under a railroad bridge, Columbia Road changes. From the Radeal Hernandez School to Uphams Corner, blacks and whites live together.

The school, relatively new with every type of recreation equipment, could stand as the physical embodiment of something that riles many of Boston's whites. Many of them feel the city gives too much attention to blacks and that they are paying for it.

POLITICAL POWER — "I figure I am working two jobs just to survive and they are not working and they're doing better than me," said a white fireman.

To many of the city's blacks, the school system represents everything they say is wrong with Boston's racial attitude. They point to the five-man School Committee—all white, and all but one Irish, lawyers and politicians—as proof of their isolation from political power.

In 1965, the Massachusetts Legislature passed a Racial Imbalance Law. No school could be more than 50 per cent black. Since it passed, the number of "imbalanced" schools in Boston has risen from 45 to 67.

Beyond Uphams Corner, Columbia Road twists through neighborhoods where black faces are still rare and resented. The houses are physically the same, but a few more have fresh coats of paint.

There is anger, resentment and fear here also, just as at the other end of the road.

IT'S CHANGING — "You are afraid to open the doors at night. You don't know what might be standing there," said Tom Dunner, a young white city worker who lives there. "I've lived in Dorchester all my life. It's changing. I guess it has to, but you don't have to like it."

If black kids are more ready to tangle than in times past, the white kids on their end of Columbia Road are no less willing. While many adults, both black and white, would rather see things worked out peacefully, they often appear powerless to check their children.

MRS. BILLIE BOLIN

Association and in 1972 was honored as Texas Retired Teacher of the Year, with Gov. Preston Smith making the presentation.

After teaching 45 years, her special interest still is "continuing education for older Americans."

Cotton Harvest Begins In Dawson In Few Days

By MARJ CARPENTER

LAMESA — That number one county in cotton — Dawson — is planning to begin the harvest in earnest this week, if it has a few hot, dry days.

A lot of the farmers in the Lamesa area had applied defoliant last week. They usually wait around five days after application to bring in the mechanical pickers and go after the heavy loaded cotton stalks. Thursday night's shower washed off some of the defoliant and some farmers had to reapply later in the week.

Gins in the county all stand ready and cotton trailers can be seen ready and waiting in farm and gin yards.

Another bumper crop is predicted by agricultural experts in the county, although they are not sure yet whether or not they will be able to keep their production title.

Almost all cotton now is picked by mechanical picker. A small group was hand picking last week west of town, in an area where there had been hail damage, which made the harvest scattered.

A quarter of a century ago, migrant workers from the Lower Rio Grande Valley and the Coastal Bend area used to begin their year picking the home crops and work northward across the state.

They used to board up the windows and doors on their homes and ride in trucks following the cotton harvest.

As one migrant worker put it back in 1947, "We follow the cot' and we get to Lamesa and Lubbock about Halloween and plan to finish up there and get home by Christmas."

This annual exodus used to present special problems to schools in the South Texas area who would receive a great influx of child labor back just before the Christmas holiday, three months behind in their studies.

Although Lamesa started out years ago as a dairy county, it soon turned to cotton and has been a name in the Texas cotton production for the past 30 years.

This year will be no exception. The "white gold" is expected to bring another stable year to Dawson County economy — barring disaster at this point, the crop looks "like a topnotch harvest."

It Cost $70,000 A Year To Keep Big Park Clean

Trustees To Get Report On Audit

GAIL — Borden County school trustees will review the audit report for the past fiscal year to be presented by Dale Newberry, CPA, Lamesa, at the board's meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the school board room. Also on the agenda is a review of the building program, a report on a personnel change and a discussion of the self-evaluation study.

'Police Call' Means Debris

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Generations of former GIs remember being called out by seemingly uncaring sergeants for what the Army termed "police call."

Sent out in early morning dew, mid-day heat or dusk, these GIs usually were instructed to "salute it if it moves, pick it up if you can or paint it green if you can't pick it up."

So instructed they scoured parking lots, lawns, company areas, roadsides and the like for cigarette butts, paper, bottles and other trash. The Army Corps of Engineers has a police call operation in Baltimore Harbor that can't quite follow those classic instructions.

The Corps has a boat, the Patasco, assigned to collect drift and debris in the Baltimore harbor and the Patasco River as far down as its confluence with the Chesapeake Bay.

The craft has been picking up more debris each year. In 1970 it collected 32,580 cubic feet of debris; in 1971 the total was 38,159 cubic feet, in 1972 it soared to 72,355.

No figures are available for the 1973 collection, but it's expected to be up again since the cost was $80,000, up a third from the cost of the 1972 collection.
