White House Reports 2 Tapes Nonexistent

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Secret Service technician testified today that presidential aide Stephen V. Bull checked out a controversial tape recording last July, months before President Nixon is said to have learned the tape was incomplete.

The technician, Raymond C. Zumwalt, said his logs show Bull checked the tape out of a safe in the basement of the Executive Office Building July 11 and returned it July 12.

UNAWARE

The White House said the tape contains Nixon's conversations in his Executive Office Building quarters for April 15, 1973 and some preceding days. But the White House said the tape ran out before Nixon's hour-long meeting with his now-exiled counsel, John W. Dean III.

Dean has testified that Nixon admitted complicity in the Watergate cover-up at the meeting.

The White House said Nixon had been unaware until last weekend that the meeting had gone unrecorded.

Technician Zumwalt said White House aides checked out batches of sensitive recordings on numerous occasions during the time the Watergate scandal was breaking.

Also today, the White House offered to let U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica listen to the April 15 tape so he could hear for himself that it ran out prior to the Dean meeting.

CHECKED OUT

Sirica requested that lawyers for the White House and the Watergate prosecution force give him advice on how to get technical help to determine if White House recordings had been altered.

A second crucial Nixon conversation also went unrecorded because it was made on a telephone with no recording device attached, the White House said. This was a call from former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who was then Nixon's campaign director, on June 20, 1972, just after the Watergate burglary.

Zumwalt said that according to notes he made at the time, presidential aide Bull checked out 22 tapes, covering a period in late February and March of 1973, on April 25. That was 10 days after the President learned that Dean had begun offering to give damaging testimony against top administration officials.

Zumwalt said Bull returned the 22 tapes later that day, checked them out again the following day and returned them May 2.

ANOTHER BATCH

Another batch of 26 tapes was checked out by Bull June 4, 1973 and returned at some unrecorded date, he said.

On June 25 a Secret Service official, Lou B. Sims, checked out a tape that included a telephone conversation between Nixon and Dean in middle to late March and on July 11 Bull checked out a total of six tapes, Zumwalt said, including the controversial April 15 tape.

Zumwalt said also that three other tapes were checked out to Bull. Among them were two reels of Sept. 15, 1972 meetings.

H. R. Haldeman, formerly the President's chief of staff, testified at the Senate Watergate hearings that he had listened to that Sept. 15 tape, on request of the President, because that was the day that Dean said he felt Nixon knew of the Watergate cover-up.

COURT FIGHTS

Through all the court fights, high-level statements and eventual agreement by Nixon to comply with court orders in the tapes dispute, the existence of the nine tapes sought by Watergate investigators was never questioned.

Presidential counsel J. Fred Buzhardt asked Sirica to employ electronic experts to determine "that the tapes are complete and have not been tampered with in any form."

Richard Ben Veniste, a Watergate prosecution force lawyer, concurred in Buzhardt's request and the judge asked both the prosecution force and the White House to suggest an expert.

"It was not until several weeks ago when the President considered disclosure that review of tapes by him was commenced," Buzhardt said.

APPROVED — Houston attorney Leon Jaworski today was approved by President Richard Nixon to take over as the special Watergate prosecutor's assignment. Jaworski succeeds Archibald Cox, who was fired by the President, Jaworski is the past president of the American Bar Association and was on his way to work where he called a news conference.

Dayan Dodges Napalm Death

TEL AVIV (AP) — Napalm dropped from an Egyptian helicopter exploded within 60 feet of Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan during an Oct. 19 visit to the Suez Canal front line, an Israeli combat photographer said Wednesday.

Photographer Nahum Gutman said Dayan was inspecting a small date plantation on the west bank of the Suez when a helicopter with Egyptian circle markings came in low.

EDIT VOICES Can Tape Doctored Be Detected?

NEW YORK (AP) — The release of the subpoenaed Watergate tapes to the court almost certainly will set in motion efforts to verify the authenticity of the recordings. But will a definitive determination be possible?

In many instances tape doctored probably could be detected, a number of audio experts agree. But there is also the possibility that tests would be inconclusive.

Experts can edit a voice in or out, rearrange words to alter meaning or dub in a voice faked by a skillful actor. Rerecorded, the splices no longer show physically and the ear cannot detect them.

REAL TEST

The real test for the covert tape doctor is in the laboratory where his work must be detected by experts using sophisticated electronic equipment like a signal correlator and sound spectrographs.

Aides to U.S. District Judge John Sirica in Washington have said he probably would hire experts to check the tapes that former special prosecutor Archibald Cox subpoenaed before he was fired.

Several audio experts said only a handful of persons were skilled enough to doctor those tapes. "And many of the few there are working for the government itself," one noted.

Hardest to detect would be the removal of entire conversations from the tape, especially if the voice was voice actuated.

"It would be almost impossible to detect the removal of entire conversations by editing at the points where the recorder had stopped, said one at the 3M Co., a major manufacturer of tape.

Shooting Of Four

STAFFORD, Tex. (AP) — Police searched a wide area around this Fort Bend County town today for the person responsible for shooting four members of a Stafford family.

The victims of the late Wednesday shootings were Hinoiosa Trevino, 66, Yolanda Trevino, 29, Nora Trevino, 29, and a woman who was not identified at once.

All the wounded were taken to a hospital at Sugar Land and then transferred to a Houston hospital.

The unidentified woman and the elderly Trevino were listed in critical condition and the other two in poor condition.

SHOT BY WIFE'S LOVER, BEATEN

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A Brazilian man was shot by his wife's lover, beaten by three men and run over by a car and still survived, police said here Wednesday.

Police said it started when Orlando Silva, a 31-year-old carpenter, came home from work early Tuesday and surprised his wife and the couple's best friend, former state trooper Celso Bernardino, 39, in bed. The police said this is what followed:

Silva threatened to call the police. Bernardino pulled a gun and shot the betrayed husband in the ear. He then fled, telling Mrs. Silva he would go for a doctor.

He returned hours later, alone. Learning that Silva had not died, Bernardino left again and came back with two friends. The three men dragged Silva to a road, beat him and drove a car over his body.

Silva was taken to a hospital by a passing priest. Police said he was apparently out of danger. Bernardino was arrested.

Very Few Can Identify All Members Of Nixon Cabinet

By ANN STEVENS

MARJ CARPENTER

In the yesteryears, school children were often made to memorize the various members of the President's Cabinet as part of their government or history courses.

Not so today. Most adults can't keep up with the rapid changes in Cabinet appointments.

In fact, a poll this week showed us that right here within the Big Spring Herald's editorial staff, we could not name them all without some double checking.

Neither could the Dallas branch of the Associated Press without first calling Washington.

KISSINGER EASIEST

Herald staffers were able to quickly name much-in-the-news Henry Kissinger as Secretary of State, and we knew that Department of Agriculture's Earl Butz is still holding down his post. We could also identify George Schultz as Secretary of the Treasury.

PO Issues No Food Stamps

Although the post office officially opened its doors today for food stamp issuance, no stamps were given out.

Issuance hours began at 10 a.m. and will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday from now on.

No stamps could be bought today, however, because authorization forms which stamp buyers must present were not mailed out from the State Welfare Department in Austin until yesterday and thus will probably not be received here until Friday, according to Postmaster Frank Hardesty.

The blanks are being mailed from Austin in bunches with one fourth going out yesterday, one fourth today and the remaining half Friday and Saturday.

Hardesty said he expects Monday to be the first big day for stamp issuance because some local customers will have received both their authorization forms and their social security checks which are scheduled to arrive in Saturday's mail.

A state welfare worker helping the post office get the program under way said most of the 571 local families eligible for the food stamp program are also on social security.

Hardesty said the post office has received from the government food stamps worth $59,000 in buying power. He said he anticipates assigning three clerks to work at two special stamp issuance windows.

These stamps, which come in several different denominations, may be used to buy any food for human consumption with the exception of alcoholic beverages. The stamps will serve as money in participating grocery stores.

Then we began to bog down. A recent newspaper informed us that James Schlesinger was the Laird successor to the Department of Defense post and one staffer was able to name Rogers Morton as Secretary of the Interior.

Several knew E. T. Klassen is Postmaster General but there was some disagreement as to whether that office still comes under the cabinet heading. A call to local postmaster Frank Hardesty determined that it is not.

A query to School Supt. Sam Anderson, who has had recent dealings with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, as to who is secretary of that department brought a sigh and the remark, "They change so fast that I'm not even sure."

ONE IS ACTING

A call to the local HEW office brought a reply of "just a minute." A few minutes later a voice reported, "Caspar Wineberger," but admitted the spelling is unsure.

We then agreed that as of this morning, Robert Bork is acting as Attorney General in the wake of Elliott Richardson's resignation.

That left us wondering who headed up the Departments of Transportation, Labor, Commerce and Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

We discovered that Claude Brinegar has replaced John Volpe in the transportation spot and that Peter J. Brennan is head of the Labor Department.

Toughest were Commerce and HUD. No one seemed to know them. A phone call to the Federal Housing Authority eventually brought us the name of George Romney as HUD chief, but we later found out (from Washington) that he has been replaced by James T. Lynn.

COMMERCE HARDEST

Calls throughout town failed to produce the identity of the Commerce secretary. Neither did the Associated Press know until someone called their Washington office which supplied the name of Frederick B. Dent.

In an effort to see whether the local public is any smarter than we of The Herald staff are, we polled a few private citizens, asking them to name as many Cabinet members as they could.

"I'm too confused; I'm not even sure who the vice president is," said government employee Nile Cole, a clerk at the local post office. However, he was quick to name Postmaster General Klassen.

When told Kissinger is secretary of state, Cole quipped, "Is that right? All I ever hear about Kissinger is about these parties he goes to."

City Councilwoman Polly Mays, a past president of the local Republican Women, fared little better than Cole getting only Agriculture Secretary and Interior Secretary Morton correct.

LAIRD NOW OUT

Asked who is Secretary of State, she ventured, "Laird." She also guessed Laird as Defense Secretary and put forth Elliott Richardson's name as both HEW Secretary and Attorney General, both posts he formerly occupied.

While we were still seeking the name of the Commerce Secretary, we called a government teacher at the high school who said she thought there was a list of members in her room and she would call us back.

"We don't make the kids learn those names any more. They change too quickly," she added.

Actually, the only person we reached who was able to name a majority correctly was Ken Lord, a pilot trainer at Webb AFB. He correctly listed all but the Secretary of Transportation.

Spooks Here Could Have Set Two Houses Afire

At least one group of spooks got a little carried away in what they termed Halloween mischief and apparently set two vacant houses on fire in Big Spring Halloween night.

Fire officials reported that a vacant house at 206 NE 9th which belongs to Lupe Lara of Garland apparently was set afire when something was thrown into the building, starting a blaze in the back of the house. This fire occurred at 8:33 p.m.

At 8:20 p.m. a vacant house at 607 NW 4th apparently was also set afire. The fire department was still trying to locate the owner of this building.

Both houses had been vacant for a number of years, according to fire officials.

WATER BALLOONS

While one group was apparently zipzaging around town starting fires, another was busy throwing water balloons.

Several reports were turned into police about persons throwing water balloons but the only known damage was at 1401 Wood where a water balloon broke out a front door glass causing $20 in damages.

Mack Moore at Southwest Pest Control at 2008 Birdwell reported two plate glass windows broken at that facility and some damage done to furnishings inside with damage estimated at $28.

THROWING EGGS

Four groups reported persons throwing eggs with one woman holding the culprits who threw eggs at her residence. Police made the group clean up the mess.

One person was arrested at HCJC at 10:22 p.m. for disorderly conduct. There was one minor wreck at HCJC at 9:43 p.m. when a vehicle driven by Dr. James Matthews, 2405 Cindy and one driven by Patrick O'Conner, 106 11th Place collided.

MAJOR WRECK

One major wreck occurred Wednesday at 3rd and Birdwell at 4:37 p.m., apparently unrelated to Halloween tricks. A vehicle driven by Robert Earl Byrd, 1010 N. Main and one driven by Linda Darlene Burnett, Scotsdale, Ariz., collided. Byrd was treated at Hall Bennett Hospital and released.

Somebody threw a rock through a windshield of a vehicle at 66 Truck Stop at 7:17 p.m.

One group in a red Volkswagon was reported to be harassing trick or treaters by adults in the neighborhood.

STOLEN CAR

Halloween tricks began early for Mrs. Bob Davis who parked at Foodway at noon and came out to find her car stolen. It was a 1969 gold colored model.

In the meantime, Sam Becker of 1218 NW 3rd reported that a woman was trying out a 1961 red and white Oldsmobile which belonged to him and never returned.

Last notable activity of the night was at 1:36 a.m. when Cowper Clinic reported that Abraham Lopez was being treated for a shot in the lower rib. Lopez told police that he did not know "who shot me or how."

WINDY

Sunny, windy and a bit warmer today, fair and mild tonight. High today mid 80s; low tonight low 50s. Increasing cloudiness, windy and colder Friday with a high in the upper 70s and a 20 per cent chance of precipitation.

CAREFUL THERE — Officers Tommy Acott and Ernest Lee gingerly handle a cat involved in an automobile wreck at Third Street and Birdwell Lane Wednesday, trying to put a collar on the animal. A local car and a panel truck were involved in the mishap, with injuries resulting to one person. Robert Byrd, Big Spring was the injured party.

Sons Of Pioneers Tumblin' Along

Copley News Service

DALLAS, Tex. — Happy people were surging around the stage of the Texas State Fairgrounds, thousands of them, with little absentminded grins on their faces. They were lost in a sound, cocking their heads and tapping their toes in time to music. The sound was amplified but it was not the heavy electric throb of rock or the twang of country; it floated over the crowd in soft nostalgic waves. Teen-agers were there in the crowd with the grayhairs, both claiming this music as their own. The Sons of the Pioneers, the ones who sang "Cool Water" and "Tumbling Tumbleweeds," were pouring it on again.

KINGS OF ROAD

They are kings of the road over the scenic expanse of middle and western America.

They sing a litany of uncomplicated yesterdays and the great outdoors, and there is something in the message that grabs everyone from the cradle to the grave.

Lloyd Perryman is the lead man, the one with the straight blue-eyed gaze that makes you feel you too should be wearing a cocked western hat. He has the jaunty smile, the shy, humble line of patter, and the weathered wrinkles that create a slightly naughty father image.

He joined the Sons of the Pioneers in 1936, three years after the group was formed at KFWB in Hollywood with Roy Rogers and Bob Nolan, Tim Spencer, and Hugh and Carl Farr. Now Perryman is the nearest to an original Son.

KNOCKING AROUND

"I'd been knocking around with different western groups," he said in an interview between shows. "I worked with the Beverly Hillbillies for a year. The original ones, you know. I was a pinch-hit man. Sometimes I filled in with the Sons of the Pioneers."

"The Sons were invited to play the Texas Centennial in 1936 and they asked me to go along and fill in for a guy who couldn't quite make it. I went back to Hollywood afterward and got a phone call asking me to be a regular member. It was sure a big day for me, I'll tell you."

Perryman reckons the biggest night for the group was in 1952, when they were the first country or western group to appear in Carnegie Hall.

SCARED US

"The symphony orchestra played for 30 minutes," he said, "all white tie and tails. Why, it half scared us to death. When we came out in our western hats and stuff. We were real stiff the first 15 or 20 minutes, and then things started to loosen up. We did 30 minutes beyond our allotted time with eight curtain calls. I tell you, the acoustics were so good, the sound so good, why, we were all just elated."

Each time it has seemed that time was running out on the Sons, they've had a new burst of life.

Two things have contributed to a current rejuvenation for the group: the national hunger for nostalgia, and the interest of young people in the outdoors. "Why, we've had ecology songs written for us by Bob Nolan and Stan Jones before the word ecology ever became known to most of us," Perryman said. "Songs like 'Redwood Tree,' 'Woodsmen's Prayer,' and 'All the Wild Things.'"

COOL WATER

For 30 years, the Sons recorded for RCA. "Cool Water" has sold over five million records. "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" is in the millions. Just now the group is negotiating a new recording contract. But their meat and potatoes come from the road, and they know the route through the Midwest and western America better than most.

One night last August they sang for an hour before the Society of American Travel Writers in Grand Teton National Park.

It was a seasoned, blasé audience, and many members had planned to leave the banquet hall at the end of dinner when the lights went down and the Sons came on. No one left, and a tumultuous series of ovations brought them back time after time. They sang "Red River Valley" and "Streets of Laredo" and "Strawberry Roan" and "Ghost Riders in the Sky" and barely managed to work in their newer numbers.

DROVE ALL NIGHT

Then they drove all night to Puyallup, Wash., and played for four days at the Western Washington Fair, one of the oldest in the West (first held in 1900). The next week, after brief visits with their families — who are scattered from Burbank, Calif., to Beaumont, Tex. — they joined Roy Rogers and Dale Evans to work a rodeo at Hutchinson, Kan. On to Bloomsburg, Pa., for a fair, and to Hillsdale, Mich., traveling all the way with Rogers and Evans. A few days at home again, and then back for a two-week run, two shows a day, at Dallas.

Perryman calls the Sons a cooperative group.

"I'm a straw boss," he said. "I tell the fellows what to do and they do what they wanna."

Among those who do what they wanna to the vast satisfaction of all is Billie Armstrong, a fiddler out of Illinois, who's been voted outstanding fiddler for eight successive years by the Academy of Country and Western Music. He comes on like a junior Burl Ives.

SHOWMANSHIP

But his superb showmanship does not tower over the group. The Sons were elected into the Cowboy Hall of Fame a couple of years back, the only group of its kind ever so honored.

"We really don't have much competition," Perryman said. "We're the only western group that's survived through the years. The years have taken their toll, I guess. I find it a little harder to hit those high ones. But I wouldn't think of quitting. This is all I know. And people are really just getting to know us."

"The people who get the letters think I am a man and it gets better results," she said.

Pfc. Connie Kalvick, 19, 5-2 and about 120 pounds, is the came here wearing combat gear and a fatigue uniform. She is from Minot, N.D.

Both she and Lt. Thornton have been in the Army since the beginning of this year. Pfc. Kalvick will serve for two years and the lieutenant for three years.

LET'S PRETEND

Lt. Thornton was commissioned a second lieutenant after being graduated from Washington College in Delaware in 1972, a drama major in liberal arts.

Her father is a banker and her mother a teacher.

She joined the Army, she said in an interview, because, "I didn't think there was much happening at home."

The airlift that brought the two women to Germany came from Ft. Riley, Kan., home station for the 1st Division. A reverse airlift takes them home in November.

"I hate wars," the lieutenant said. "I would not want to go to one. Pretending like here is okay. But not the real thing."

A&M Receives Meteor Machine

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M has been loaned equipment for meteor analysis by the Johnson Spacecraft Center.

The meteor radiation analyzer will be used under the direction of Dr. Ronald Schorn, Dr. George Kattawar and Dr. Edward Fry of the Physics Department. They and Dr. Gilbert Plass, department head, conduct a variety of astronomical research.

A one-of-a-kind system, the unit was constructed for NASA contract. NASA budget cutbacks prevented planned observational programs. The equipment is valued at more than $200,000.

The equipment detects light-emitting meteor trails through nine photometers that permit study of the meteor's chemical composition.

Howard County cotton growers are conditioning a bountiful crop, as are all surrounding counties.

Fired Lawyer Swears Dairy Group Disguised 'Donations'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fired lawyer for the nation's largest dairy cooperative swears the group disguised illegal corporate "campaign contributions" as legal fees.

The allegation is being investigated by the Senate Watergate committee, the Watergate prosecution force, the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service and the General Accounting Office.

Investigators are seeking to find how much of a reported $384,000 legal bill went into the alleged contributions, who got them, and whether any of the money was used for any other purpose.

HIS STORY

The ousted lawyer, Joseph A. Rose Jr., 35, was fired from his job as the San Antonio-based Associated Milk Producers Inc. in September after he told part of his story to FBI agents.

A spokesman for the group said Rose was fired for "failure to carry out his duties."

Rose testified in a lawsuit that the milk producers funneled political money through an Oklahoma City lawyer, Stuart Russell, and that Russell converted it to checks and cash and gave it to the milkmen's chief political staffer, Robert Lilly.

Court filings show Russell received $384,000 in a 10-month period ending April 30, 1972. At least part of the money apparently went for legitimate legal costs, since Russell performed legal services for the milk group during that period.

Rose said Russell acknowledged passing money to Lilly for "political contributions," and became nervous about the arrangement when IRS agents traced some of the money to Lilly. Federal law prohibits use of corporation money for political donations.

BROWN BAG

Rose said Lilly indicated he knew who got the money, and that he left open the possibility it had gone for something other than campaign funds.

Rose said he felt it was his obligation as a lawyer to get the money back, but that Lilly told him "it can't be recouped because it didn't go to something like the Committee to Re-elect the President. It went direct."

Rose was asked, "By direct, you mean like hundred dollar bills in a brown bag, is that the way you understood it?"

"That is my conclusion," Rose said.

He testified in a tangled lawsuit in Kansas City, Mo., on Oct. 23, and a transcript of his statement became available in Washington Wednesday.

Rose and Lilly couldn't be reached for comment. A spokesman for the milk producers declined to comment on Rose's allegations.

The milk producers have been at the center of another political controversy. Public-interest groups have alleged in court that the milkmen bought favors from the Nixon administration in return for campaign donations.

Move To Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Slightly more than 22,000 West German workers moved to Berlin in 1972. Fifty-six per cent were men and three-fourths were under 30. One in four was married. Only 27 were blue collar, the rest white collar.

The biggest single attraction was the city's night life, museums, parks and general ambience. For 19 per cent, the deciding factor was money. Only 19 per cent took a cut in pay to come to Berlin to work.

FOES STARE ACROSS THIRD STREET Little Sign Of Hatred

SUEZ, Egypt (AP) — Es-Musallas — Suez's Third Street — is about 15 paces wide and three blocks long, ending in sand dunes. The north curb is held by Israel, the southern by Egypt. In between are U.N. troops.

From a trench at the corner of Es-Musallas and the Suez-Ismailla road, the Israelis watch dozens of Egyptian soldiers and local residents on the opposite curb staring back.

The civilian population of Suez was once 300,000, but has dwindled to about 15,000 in the more than six years since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war closed the Suez Canal.

feels friendly toward the Arab troops; the fighting is still fresh in the soldiers' memories.

"There are bodies of our men still lying behind Egyptian lines," said one Israeli. Others said they have seen Egyptian soldiers across the street carrying Israeli submachine guns and wearing Israeli webbed belts.

BURNED-OUT

The Israelis have planted two burned-out Egyptian trucks on their side of the street in full view of the Egyptians.

But a Canadian U.N. officer said he has spotted occasional exchanges of greetings across the street. One Israeli soldier hissed at a reporter who approached the truce line.

"Get out of here or the Egyptians will shoot you." Another soldier laughed and said: "Go ahead and talk to them — peace is breaking out all over this place."

"The Israelis are the same as us," said an Egyptian officer chatting amiably in the middle of the street, "no difference. I also have a wife and kids at home and I want to see them."

Behind an apartment house, Israeli troops brought out living room furniture that had survived the shelling and played checkers in the hot sun.

SHATTERED

Eight blocks of drab, shell-shattered apartments at the northern end of Suez are in Israeli hands. The Israelis say they also control all the land exits from the town; the Egyptians hold the rest and the port.

If there is hatred, it is not apparent. The clusters of Israeli and Egyptian on opposite sides of the street resemble pedestrians at a traffic light that doesn't turn green.

In the middle of the street, two blue-helmeted Finns from the U.N. Emergency Force sit by a field telephone. They might pass for traffic cops, but the only traffic they have to direct is an occasional Red Cross car.

ESCAPE ARTIST 'Houdini Was Watching Me, Wherever He Is'

NEW YORK (AP) — Escape artist Mario Manzini, who sees himself as the heir of Harry Houdini, broke one of the legendary master's records Wednesday.

As television cameras turned and an advance man delivered a carnival spiel, Manzini poised at the eight-foot end of a hotel swimming pool.

"If I can't get out," he proclaimed, "I don't want anyone jumping in to get me."

Then he plummeted to the bottom, fettered by 13 sets of handcuffs.

Wiggling and twisting in silver-studded bikini swim trunks,

Manzini struggled with the restraints on his arms, about 40 pounds of deadweight metal.

And, swoosh, back to the surface—free, in 46 seconds.

"Forty-six seconds. Whew!" exclaimed Manzini, 29, who grew up in the Bronx. "Houdini was watching me, wherever he is."

Houdini's own best effort at this event is said to be 90 seconds underwater, six sets of handcuffs, 1925.

Halloween was chosen as the date for the new record. It was the 47th anniversary of Houdini's death at the age of 52.

Estranged Judge

SAN DIEGO, Tex. Because the Nueces sheriff's office in Corpus refused to take custody of Jody Martin Parr, up spending the night in Duval County jail here.

The estranged wife of County Judge Archer sentenced to five months Wednesday after being contempt by District Judge Magus Smith.

The contempt stemmed from her intentional and knowing violation of an order from District Court, which was a divorce suit involving Parr.

FEAR

The court held that had interfered with Court-appointed Emilio Davila by him and refusing to property in her possession also was accused of property from Cor which was under receiver and his age.

Mrs. Parr went to Christi Wednesday after drawing the sentence.

She said the chance was prompted by "I would never leave County jail alive would have an accident Judge Smith pl Parr in custody of

Testimony Starts In Treasure Suit

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Testimony was to get underway in federal court here today on a suit to determine ownership of 16th century artifacts recovered from a sunken Spanish galleon and valued at almost $300,000.

Both the State of Texas and Platoro Ltd., a Gary, Ind., salvage firm, claim ownership of the treasure trove which was recovered from a galleon which reportedly sank north of Port Mansfield, Tex., during a hurricane in 1554.

TO PRESIDE
U.S. District Court Judge Reynaldo Garza is to preside at the trial which is expected to last less than two days.

Platoro started the recovery operations in 1967 and was later halted by a state court injunction. The Indiana firm claims it signed a valid contract with then Texas Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler providing that Platoro would split the treasure with the state on a 50-50 basis and Platoro would be able to continue salvage operations for one year.

SALVAGE
Platoro officials say they signed the contract "in good faith" and mailed it to Sadler in Austin. Thomas G. Sharpe Jr., a Brownsville lawyer who represents Platoro, said Sadler later said he never signed the contract.

When the salvage operations got under in 1967, Platoro contends, there was no Texas law requiring salvage firms to obtain a state license before starting treasure hunts. The Texas Antiquities Law, which requires firms to obtain licenses and turn their find over to the state, was passed later.

In their answer to Platoro's suit, the Texas attorney general's office contends the state should get the treasure and Platoro should get nothing.

The Indiana firm wants the entire treasure, but if they can't get it all, they want 50 per cent plus $139,302.74 spent in recovering the treasure.

Platoro seeks the entire treasure on grounds that it was a simple salvage operation, not covered by any state law at the time.

Why Chairs In Pairs?

The next time you're considering new chairs for your home, you might think about "chairs in pairs".

There are many advantages to buying twin chairs.

A main advantage is that chairs in pairs help to unify a room, leaving you free to assemble other distinctive pieces you want for contrast and individuality with the two chairs bringing desired unity. Chairs in pairs help give you harmony if other things are mixed. This can really give you the best of both decorating worlds.

Another advantage of chairs in pairs is that they help you simplify furniture arrangements in a room. By their very nature they can suggest a beautiful setting.

It's wise decorating to seek out twin chairs. They can be more practical for you, and add new dimensions of splendor to your home.

And chairs in pairs do not necessarily have to be exactly identical. Manufacturers make chairs that go together but are still somewhat different and stand on their own, so to speak. Either way, whether the two chairs are exactly identical, or are just related twins, be sure to look for chairs in pairs when you go furniture shopping. And we'd be happy to have you do your shopping here. Stop in.

Estranged Wife Of Duval Judge Spends Night In Jail

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP) — Because the Nueces County sheriff's office in Corpus Christi refused to take custody of Mrs. Jody Martin Parr, she wound up spending the night in the Duval County jail here.

The estranged wife of Duval County Judge Archer Parr was sentenced to five months in jail Wednesday after being cited for contempt by District Court Judge Magus Smith.

The contempt charge stemmed from her "continued intentional and knowing" violation of an order from 229th District Court, which was issued in a divorce suit involving her and Parr.

FEAR

The court held that Mrs. Parr had interfered with the work of Court-appointed receiver Emilio Davila by assaulting him and refusing to surrender property in her possession. She also was accused of removing property from Corpus Christi which was under control of the receiver and his agents.

Mrs. Parr went to Corpus Christi Wednesday afternoon after drawing the 150-day sentence.

She said the change in jails was prompted by "reports that I would never leave the Duval County jail alive ... that I would have an accident."

Judge Smith placed Mrs. Parr in custody of the Duval

County sheriff and approved her transfer to the Nueces County jail to serve her sentence. But Nueces County Sheriff

Reconstructed Terrible Beast

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — The Bucharest Natural History Museum has on display the only complete reconstructed Deinotherium Gigantissimum. Latin for "Gigantic, terrible wild beast."

This ancient relative of the elephant was 18 feet tall and had huge upcurving tusks. It was a scourge of southeast Europe during the Pliocene Age. The skeleton was found at the turn of the century in the Romanian province of Moldavia by Prof. Grigorian Stefanescu of Bucharest University.

Bonus At End

ROME (AP) — Every Italian who works from factory hand to bank president, receives by law a liquidation payment of at least a month's salary for every year of work when he quits, retires, or is fired. His heirs receive it if he dies. For executives, private or public, this often runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars on top of handsome pensions.

Suspected Corruption In Laos Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee is seeking to determine whether the State Department deliberately underestimated its embassy staffing needs in Laos to Congress in order to minimize the U.S. presence there.

For whatever reasons, the General Accounting Office (GAO) said here, the U.S. embassy in Vientiane, Laos, violated State Department staffing practices by supplementing its personnel with dozens more hired locally.

Norman Cornish, deputy staff director for the House Government Operations subcommittee on foreign operations, told a hearing Tuesday that the State Department apparently violated personnel regulations "in order to keep a low profile in Laos."

"Now they're having to admit they didn't ask enough money to do the job and they had to violate the rules with local hires," Cornish said.

Frank C. Conahan, associate director of the GTO's international division, said the embassy did have an abnormally small American staff.

He said he had no idea what Congress would have done if it had known the true extent of U.S. involvement in Laos between 1971 and 1973.

HEIRS WILL APPEAL

People In The News

DECATUR, Tex. (AP) — Heirs named in the will of Mrs. Ruth Cole of Paradise say they will appeal a decision by a Wise County judge to keep the document intact.

Richard Stark, attorney for two heirs, Mrs. Laura Freeland, 89, and her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Gee, both of Gainesville, claimed that the second page of the will was a forgery.

But Wednesday, Judge John A. Winder upheld an earlier decision to keep the will intact.

The first page of the will was dated Aug. 8, 1970, and was signed at the bottom. The second page of the document, which the principal heirs claim is the forged document, also has the date of Aug. 8, 1970.

A Dallas handwriting expert testified Wednesday that the fourth paragraph, beginning the second page, previously held another erased number.

James L. Lewis testified that the date on the second page had been traced from the first page of the will.

The quality of the second page of writing was better than the first, which indicated that page two had been written prior to page one, he added.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Rock singer Jerry Lee Lewis has been jailed, fined and given a probationary four days and put him on 364 days probation.

Lewis, 38, pleaded guilty Tuesday. He was fined $50 by City Court Judge John Getz, who also jailed Lewis for our days and put him on 364 days probation.

Lewis was detained by police Oct. 17 after his car swerved as it approached the scene of an accident.

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Edith Irving, whose husband's attempt to write a bogus biography of Howard Hughes landed her in jail, has been freed pending a new trial.

Mrs. Irving, who was convicted March 8 on a guilty plea, acted as a courier in Swiss bank transactions involving $650,000 in advances given her husband by McGraw-Hill, the New York publisher victimized by the hoax.

Mrs. Irving appealed, contending she was denied benefit of a rule favoring defendants on doubtful points. She said her only motive in helping her husband, Clifford, was to save a faltering marriage. Irving also is in jail.

The new trial could mean a lighter sentence.

A FAMILY'S GRIEF — At demonstration on behalf of Israeli POWs outside U.S. embassy in Tel Aviv, Wednesday, mother, right, wife and son of an Israeli soldier whose whereabouts are not known make public their grief. Egypt Has Missiles Capable Of Hitting Israeli Cities?

WASHINGTON (AP) — After initial skepticism, U.S. officials are virtually certain that Egypt has Russian-built missiles capable of hitting Israeli cities.

Hitchhiking Grandmother

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Elaine S. Camfield, a 72-year-old grandmother, hitchhikes eight miles to classes every day.

She's convinced she can earn a college degree while thumbing rides with her best "old lady's smile."

"I've got it down to a science," says the communications major at Florida Technological University. The technique has worked for two years already.

Mrs. Camfield, who figures she has "30 years of living yet," each day rides a bus to a busy Orlando intersection. "Then I walk up to a car and request a ride the remaining eight miles," she said.

Last week, while standing at her favorite intersection, she smiled at the wrong car. An Orange County sheriff's deputy told her she'd have to find a new spot where she wouldn't disrupt traffic.

A former nurse and part-time tutor, she says she took to hitchhiking when bus transportation proved inadequate but has learned a lot about people in her two years.

"It gives you a terrific perspective about people," she said.

She said she was once refused a ride by a man holding a gun on her while she inquired.

"I had a minister change his mind about picking up hitchhikers," she said of one ride. "He even did a sermon about me."

Mrs. Camfield left college to get married years ago and doesn't know when she will complete her degree requirements. "I always get off on special projects which aren't for course credit," she said.

For young people, Mrs. Camfield says, "College is like hors d'oeuvres... for me it's like after-dinner coffee and I have a lot of sipping to do."

Intelligence sources reported about 20 mobile SCUD missiles with a range of up to 200 miles have been identified as being in Egypt. Missiles with such a reach probably could hit Tel Aviv and Jerusalem if fired from northern Egypt, they said.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim refused to comment on the reports.

There were strong indications the guided missiles are armed with high explosives rather than nuclear warheads.

Even so, the missiles could cause significant damage and bring the war to Israeli civilians.

American intelligence specialists are unable to say whether the missiles are manned by Russians or Egyptians.

Either way, the reported appearance of the SCUDs in Egypt adds a serious new military factor to the unresolved Arab-Israeli dispute. For the first time it puts in Egypt a major offensive weapon that can be aimed at Israeli cities.

It also increases the possibility that the Israeli air force might launch a pre-emptive strike to knock out that missile threat in any new flare-up of tension in the Middle East.

U.S. intelligence sources and other government officials tended to brush aside the claim of President Anwar Sadat of Egypt when he said Oct. 16 that the Egyptians have missiles "now ready for firing... to the very depths of Israel at any moment."

As a matter of prudence, U.S. intelligence took a closer look after the Sadat claim. Sources said this turned up persuasive evidence that there are major Soviet missile bases in Egypt.

It is believed that the SCUDs arrived in Soviet ships not long before Sadat's speech.

The SCUD is part of a family of heavy Soviet artillery rockets. Publicly shown for the first time about eight years ago, the 37-foot SCUD weighs at least five tons at the time of firing.

'Bebe' Says Nixon Motivated By Character, Principles

MIAMI (AP) — President Nixon's fight to keep the White House tapes confidential was a stand on principle and was not made in fear of incrimination, The Miami Herald quotes Nixon's closest friend as saying.

In a copyright story, the Herald in today's editions quotes C. B. "Bebe" Rebozo as saying in a rare personal interview that Nixon was motivated "by the same character and same high principles" which he exhibited in refusing to contest the Illinois vote in his 1960 loss to John F. Kennedy.

IT'S HARD

"I'm fairly logical and it's hard for me to conceive that a man would sit there talking to people, being the only one that knew that it was being recorded and say something that might incriminate him," Rebozo was quoted as telling Herald reporters.

"I believe again he was standing on principle and he didn't want to not only violate the separation of power but he didn't want to condemn future presidents to the same situation by giving in."

The Herald said Rebozo made his statements in an

Wednesday interview, the first granted by Rebozo since Nixon became president in 1969.

Rebozo, a close friend of Nixon's since 1950, said, "He's not the kind of man that you would necessarily warm up to immediately," the Herald reported.

The newspaper said he characterized the President as "a unique person... a very deep thinker... dedicated to his country."

"But he is so dedicated to his country and his job that he doesn't have time for the normal small talk that people frequently relax indulging in."

The Herald said Rebozo denied that his Key Biscayne bank had operated a private investment fund on Nixon's behalf and that he also defended his handling of a $100,000 camaign contribution from billionaire Howard Hughes.

He said a 12-week investigation by the Internal Revenue Service had cleared him of any wrongdoing in the contribution, the paper said.

The Herald quoted Rebozo as saying he did not tell Nixon of the Hughes money until almost two years after receiving it in 1969 and did not return the money until "well after" the IRS probe began.

He said if the IRS had not become interested "the money would have been used in the '74 Congressional campaign," the newspaper said.

The Herald said Rebozo complained during the interview that he and his bank have suffered "just unbelievable" harassment by investigators from the Senate Watergate committee.

Kleindienst Denies Telling Fibs About ITT To Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Attorney General Richard S. Kleindienst denies he committed perjury by failing to tell the Senate about President Nixon's order to drop an antitrust suit against ITT and his own threat to resign rather than obey.

Kleindienst repeatedly stated under oath during 1972 hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee that there was no White House pressure on him to halt the antitrust suits against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

He acknowledged in a statement Wednesday that Nixon telephoned him on April 19, 1971, and, "without any discussion, ordered me to drop the appeal" of one of the three parallel lawsuits.

NOT ASKED

He defended his Senate testimony by saying he "was not asked whether I had had any contacts with the White House at the time of this decision, and I did not deny any such contacts."

But an examination of the two volumes of the hearing record shows that Kleindienst was asked repeatedly about the sequence of events on April 19.

And he was asked several times if he had ever had any contacts with the White House concerning the ITT case. He repeatedly denied any contacts amounting to pressure or directions and conceded only that the matter may have been mentioned in some of the many casual conversations he had with White House officials.

Kleindienst disclosed for the first time that the controversy forced him to the brink of resigning.

By his account, former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman called him on April 19 and stated that the President directed me not to file the appeal in the Grinnell case. I informed him that we had determined to take that appeal, and that he should so inform the President.

Kennedy Could Defeat Reagan, Poll Indicating

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Respondents to the latest Gallup Poll chose Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for president over Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

In the poll, 50 per cent of the 1,576 adults questioned picked Kennedy. Reagan was named by 43 per cent. Five per cent were undecided, and two per cent said they would choose neither candidate.

The survey was conducted between Oct. 6-8, and the respondents were asked: "If Gov. Ronald Reagan were the Republican candidate and Sen. Edward Kennedy were the Democratic candidate, which would you like to see win?"

In another poll taken early in October, Reagan was the leading choice of Republicans for their party's 1976 nomination, with 24 per cent naming him as their favorite candidate. Second in that poll was New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller with 16 per cent.

SENT WORD

Nixon called moments later, repeated the order, and Kleindienst then "sent word to the President that, if he persisted in that direction, I would be compelled to submit my resignation."

April 19 was the deadline for the government to notify the Supreme Court of its intention to appeal a lower court decision against the government's challenge of ITT's acquisition of the profitable Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

The controversy has focused on allegations that the deal was struck in return for ITT's pledge of political funds.

The Special Watergate prosecution force is investigating whether perjury was committed during the Judiciary Committee hearings in March and April of 1972.

Thank You For Advice

LONDON (AP) — Motorcyclist R. C. Staines was irked when a patrolman stopped him and told him to fasten his crash helmet properly. "I thought it was just plain petty," he said.

But, soon after being stopped, Staines, of Chingford, northeast London, was in a crash. He escaped with cuts. Staines wrote his neighborhood precinct house asking that his thanks be passed on to the policeman.

In Britain, the law says that riders of motorcycles and similar vehicles must wear crash helmets.

DEEPER VOICE Radio Woman Broadens Appeal

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Radio Woman, a Sao Paulo station that wanted nothing to do with men for four years, has decided to deepen its voice and broaden its appeal.

An all-woman staff has run the radio since it was founded in 1969, aiming its broadcasts at an exclusively female audience.

Now the 40 women at Radio Woman are getting 40 male coworkers. New programming, scheduled to go on the air next Monday, is designed to attract a mixed audience.

GOOD MUSIC

"We want to reach a larger public," said Walter Guerreiro, the station's new general manager. Guerreiro said Monday that the old format of popular music with women-only news and talk shows was reaching a small, low-income audience.

"We will raise the level of the music," he said. The station will play "good Brazilian music" most of the time, Guerreiro added, with classical music one day a week.

News and other information will be of general interest, presented by both men and women.

The name of the station, "Radio Mulher" in Portuguese, will stay the same. Guerreiro predicted that the name won't discourage male listeners if they like the new programming.

MARRIED

The station's male majority stockholder, Roberto Montoro is the power behind the change. But women employees of the organization have supported it.

Aparecida da Silva, who has worked at Radio Woman for three years, predicted that the addition of male voices and new programming will be welcomed by women listeners.

"The station was well married," Miss da Silva said. "After all, men can also do good programs for women."

Aurora Portela, former artistic director of Radio Woman, said the new manpower situation will improve efficiency at the station.

"Women claim all the rights of men for themselves, but they don't assume their obligations as well," Miss Portela said. "We had many employees who tried to powder their noses and arrange their hair while they were working."

"With men, no, things are more serious."

'Dixie' Pulpwood Output Revealed

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The South produced just under 70 per cent of the nation's total pulpwood supply in 1972, the Southern Forest Institute reported Tuesday.

During the year Southern forests also yielded 30 per cent of America's total plywood output and almost 35 per cent of its finished lumber production—enough lumber to build nearly half of the two million housing units expected to be built in the United States this year.

The total value of pulpwood harvested and delivered to the South's 112 pulp and paper mills during 1972 was $1,106,989,500. It was the third consecutive year the South's forests have produced more than $1 billion worth of pulpwood.

The total represented 44,270,500 cords of pulpwood, an increase of six per cent over 1971 production.

The Institute said that by the year 2,000, projections are that the South's forests will be producing about 55 per cent of the nation's total annual wood needs, more timber than any other single region of the United States.

Dr. Benton H. Box, executive vice president of the Atlanta-based institute, said that despite the record harvest, "we still have more trees growing in the South's 198 million acres of forests today than any time since the 1930s."

To help renew the forests, the South's pulp and paper, plywood and other timber-using industries planted a record 513 million new pine and hardwood seedlings during the past tree-planting season, the institute said.

A state-by-state breakdown of total value of pulpwood harvested in the South in 1972: Georgia $189,127,500, Alabama $174,795,000, Mississippi $114,610,000, Louisiana $103,442,500, South Carolina $86,847,500, Arkansas $84,847,500, Florida $34,832,500, Texas $83,077,500, Virginia $55,165,000, Tennessee $14,847,500 and Oklahoma $11,740,000.

Her Teaching Shortcomings Fostered Desire To Learn

By BARBARA LORD

"After I did my student teaching, I decided I hadn't lived enough to be an effective classroom teacher," said Mrs. Don Schwendiman. "I decided I needed to get some of life's experiences to take back into the classroom before I could help students with their particular problems."

That explains why Mrs. Schwendiman (Marcia), after earning her BS degree in biology from the University of Washington, is now taking required or recommended courses at Howard County Junior College to become a medical technologist. When her studies at HCJC are completed, she still faces a year of on-the-job training at a hospital school.

Mrs. Schwendiman is at HCJC five days a week facing such awing subjects as organic chemistry and physics. Her husband, Lt. Don Schwendiman, is assistant staff judge advocate at Webb Air Force Base. This is AF terminology for lawyer. He also graduated from U.W. The couple has been in Big Spring for seven months.

In addition to studying, Mrs. Schwendiman has a multitude of hobbies that keep her more than busy. "They can't really be called hobbies," she said. "I've tried a lot of different things once, but many of them I never get back to on a regular basis. I've made one afghan and one crewelwork embroidery picture."

HOBBIES

Activities she does enjoy on a regular basis include sewing, refinishing furniture and general home decorating. Also, she likes to work in the yard where she cultivates pretty flowers and tasty vegetables. The vegetables are put to good use in her kitchen.

"I'm not the greatest cook in the world," said Mrs. Schwendiman, "but I really love trying. I like to try new things, and my favorite recipes are those I get from friends because I know they are 'tried and true.'"

Mrs. Schwendiman claims chemistry has helped her learn to cook. "For one thing, I know what to expect when I add baking powder to something," she said. "Plus, it helped me learn to measure accurately."

The Schwendimans spent three months camping throughout Europe and visited eight countries. They acquired a taste for several foreign cuisines and particularly liked Austrian foods. "They were similar to German, but with more pizzazz!" In Denmark, pastries and fish pleased their palates, and in the German-speaking sections of Switzerland they like the spicy sauces which accompanied much of the food.

Camping in Europe was a unique experience. Mrs. Schwendiman said they could set up their tent almost anywhere. They even had places for campers right in the middle of some of the cities. The only exceptions were in countries behind the Iron Curtain where they usually stayed in people's homes because "the governments like to know where their visitors are."

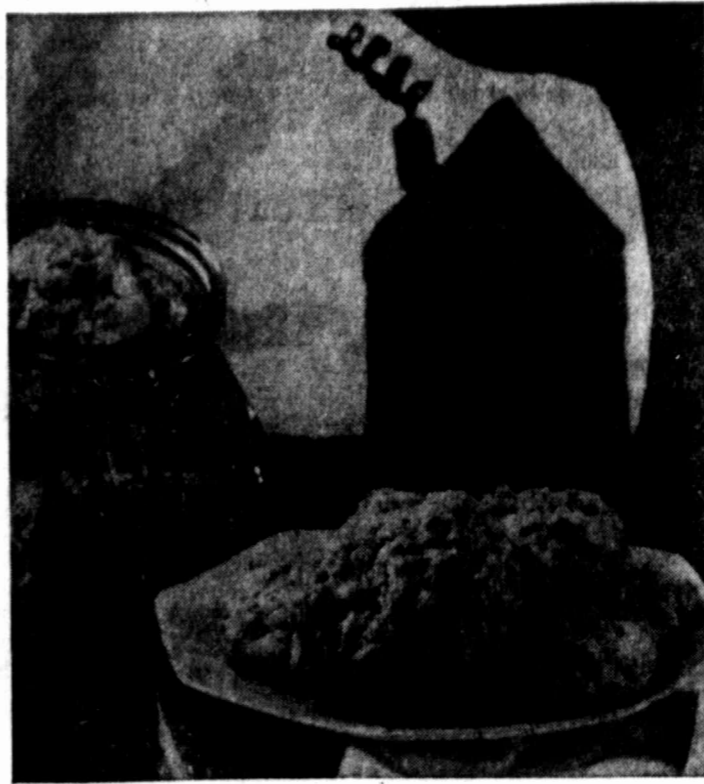

SPORTS

Camping and hiking are the favorite sports of the Schwendimans, and in their home state of Washington they have spent much time exploring the various mountains and out-of-the-way places. They don't like mobile homes, because they want to camp in places that are hard to get to.

"We are both struck with wanderlust," said Mrs. Schwendiman, "but we like it on a temporary basis, knowing we'll be coming back home. We just like to visit other places, not move there."

Capt. and Mrs. Schwendiman are both sports minded. They play a lot of tennis, and have both been snow skiing since they were young children. Mrs. Schwendiman began learning when she was five years old and rode on the back of her dad's skis. She also likes swimming and water skiing and she plays softball on the women's league at Webb. They have both done some technical rock climbing "with the ropes, petons and all that stuff," but they prefer hiking.

When Capt. Schwendiman gets out of the Air Force in 3½ years, the couple plans to return to Washington where he will set up law practice. He was born in Moscow, Idaho, but reared in the Seattle area as was Mrs. Schwendiman. They have been married about two years.

COOKIES SPELL FUN
Even for breakfast

Cookies With Sunrise Will Surprise Family

Cookies always seem to spell fun — like the fun of watching a parade, bringing home a new puppy or painting a picture of your very own house as the sun comes up.

For all the good times tomorrow may bring, be ready with breakfast-flavored Just-For-Fun Cookies. What could be tastier than plump raisins, crumbled bacon and golden flakes of corn all together in a crispy-chewy cookie.

Serve them as part of a nutritious morning meal combined with other favorite breakfast foods, but save a few for later. Just-For-Fun Cookies will brighten up lunches, snacks and desserts as well.

Just-For-Fun Cookies
½ cup margarine or butter, softened
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup sifted regular all-purpose flour
2 cups corn flakes
½ lb. bacon, fried crisp, well-drained, crumbled
½ cup seedless raisins
Measure margarine and sugar into large mixing bowl; beat until light and fluffy. Add egg; beat well. Add flour; mix until thoroughly combined. Stir in corn flakes, crumbled bacon and raisins. Drop by rounded measuring-tablespoon onto ungreased baking sheets. Bake in 350 degree oven about 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove cookies from baking sheets; cool on wire racks. Makes 2 dozen.

Pantry Pickups

Pare and slice a cucumber; add to sour cream. Serve with canned salmon and salad greens for lunch.

Tomato juice in the refrigerator? You can use it in a meat loaf instead of the milk or water usually called for.

Leftover roast pork may be used in a salad. Cube the meat and combine it with diced celery, grated onion and a little salad dressing. Serve the salad on lettuce and garnish with tomatoes.

When you are simmering a small fresh beef brisket, cover it with water and add salt, onion and celery leaves. Count on cooking it for 30 to 35 minutes per pound. Sliced thin, the cold brisket will make delicious sandwiches.

A standard coffee measure equals two level measuring tablespoons.

FRUIT SALAD GOES ELEGANT
Nice way to end a meal

Americanized Trifle From English Recipe

Tropical Fruit Salad inspires an elegant Tropical Trifle. The old English trifle featured spirit-soaked sponge cake combined with raspberries and a baked custard, then covered with whipped cream and handsomely decorated to the nth degree.

Tropical Trifle is a less elaborate version which combines ladyfingers and jam with convenient canned Tropical Fruit Salad, gelatin and pudding. It need only be accompanied by coffee or tea for a perfect finale for any occasion.

Although this fruit is delicious just as it comes from the can, it can be used in almost any recipe that calls for mixed fruits or canned fruit cocktail. Serve it dramatically flaming over ice cream for Tropical Jubilee. For Bali Hai Crepes, thicken the syrup with cornstarch, add fruit and serve over cream cheese-filled crepes. It can be parafaited with ice cream, pudding or left-over cake. A simple addition of coconut makes it Tropical Ambrosia.

Fruit compotes, gelatin and tossed fruit salads and many desserts are enhanced by Tropical Fruit Salad,

The product combines exotic papaya chunks, pineapple tidbits, banana slices, passion fruit juice, guava puree and cherry halves.

TROPICAL TRIFLE
1 pkg. (12) ladyfingers
Raspberry jam
¼ cup dry sherry
1 can (16 oz.) Tropical Fruit Salad

1 pkg. (3 ½ oz.) orange-pineapple flavor gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 pkg. (3 ½ oz.) vanilla pudding mix
¾ cup whipping cream, sweetened and whipped
¼ cup toasted sliced almonds

Split ladyfingers; spread with jam and put back together, sandwich-fashion. Arrange in glass bowl or 9-inch pie plate. Saturate each ladyfinger with sherry. Drain fruit, reserving syrup and several cherries. Spoon fruit over ladyfingers. Dissolve gelatin in water; stir in reserved syrup. Pour over fruit and ladyfingers. Chill 1 hour. Cook pudding mix as package directs. Cool 5 minutes. Pour over gelatin-fruit layer. Chill. Top with whipped cream; garnish with reserved cherries and nuts. 6 to 8 servings.

'Host With Most' Is New Club Manager

By JO BRIGHT

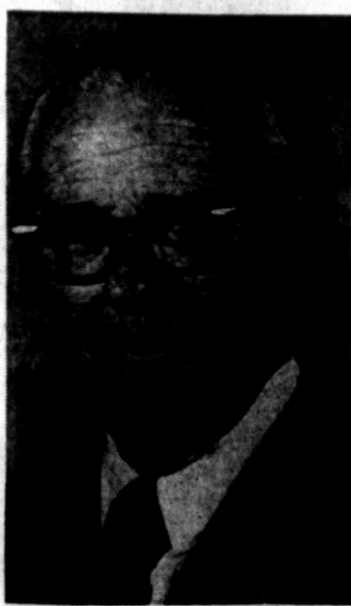

It's pretty hard to retire when people think of you as "the host with the most." At least, that's how it is with O. T. Brewster, who was known as the "in" innkeeper in these parts during the years he managed the Holiday Inn.

Brewster ended his active association with the local inn when it was sold several months ago, but he remains under contract to the company until December. The contract however, did not stipulate that he could not accept another job.

So Brewster is "back in business." This month he became manager of Big Spring Country Club and is busy putting into effect his easy-going brand of hospitality.

Actually, Brewster never intended to retire when he ended his career with Holiday Inn. Other fields were beckoning, and he spent the latter part of the summer in Corpus Christi attending a real estate school. In preparation for obtaining a real estate license, he studied professional standards, law, appraisals, selling, construction, etc. His main interest was in commercial property, farms and ranches.

Brewster, who was born in Lincoln Parish, La., attended Dubach High School, near Justin. His career in the hotel-motel business began at the age of 18 when he got a job as night clerk at the 80-room State Hotel, owned by the James Hotel Company, in El Dorado, Ark. Nine months later, it burned to the ground.

"That was my first day job," mused Brewster.

But not for long. He soon found a job at a smaller hotel, the Comco, where he remained until January, 1929, when he accepted a job with the 130-room Randolph Hotel. A year later, he went to Fort Smith, Ark.

"That was my first day job," said Brewster. "I was with the Ward Hotel, working under Dan James, an uncle of D. R. James who

When the company bought the Black Hotel in Oklahoma City, Okla., Brewster transferred there, leaving in 1933 for Henderson, Tex., where he became manager of the Randolph Hotel. The biggest benefit of his stay in Henderson was that this is where he met the former Lila Krebs, a young school teacher from Terrell. They were married in 1933.

The following year, the Brewsters moved back to El Dorado to remain for 20 years. At first, he managed the Randolph Hotel, then later, joined with seven partners to purchase the "Flamingo" and "Town House" motels, both of which he managed.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewster came to Big Spring in 1963 when he took the job as manager of Holiday Inn, which has 104 rooms, dining room, coffee shop, banquet room, lounge, pool and its own laundry.

During most of their married life, the Brewsters have lived in hotel or motel apartments, but two years ago, they purchased their present home at 112 Canyon. They have one daughter, Mrs. C. W. (Ann) Dobie, 15, and Charles, 14. The Dobbies reside in Lafayette, La., where he is an oil operator.

In recalling experiences during his career working with a mobile public, Brewster said the main problems in managing hotels or motels are "skippers," hot check writers and drunks.

"If a guest became boisterous enough to disturb others, I warned him one time, then called the police," said Brewster. Smiling, he recalled that things got a little rough during the oil boom days in Oklahoma.

"I had to fight my way out three or four times during those days!"

In regard to travelers who try to defraud innkeepers, Brewster said, "If they eat big, tip big and just sign tickets, you better watch out."

Although travelers are the backbone of the business, Brewster said it is the local people who keep the restaurant going so he always emphasized good food and service. In conjunction with the local inn, Holiday Inn operates apartments which were constructed while Brewster was manager.

Mrs. Brewster has retired from a teaching career; the last eight years at Big Spring High School where she taught Spanish, English, French and, in the summer, a humanities course. Her teaching is now confined to a Sunday school class at First United Methodist Church and a Bible study class (all-faith) which meets in various homes every week. Their daughter followed in her mother's footsteps and is teaching at the University of Southern Louisiana. She spent the past summer at Columbia University working on her doctor's degree.

The Brewsters are members of First United Methodist Church and he holds membership in the Big Spring Shrine Club, Chamber of Commerce and Texas Restaurant Association. Mrs. Brewster has been a member of various educators' organizations.

Announcement of the comedy program was made at a Tuesday meeting of Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 at the IOOF Hall. Mrs. E. J. Adcock, noble grand, presided.

Certificates of perfection for unwritten work were presented to Mrs. Joe Awtry, and Mrs. K. L. Nielsen. Making the presentations was Mrs. Ivan Collins, lodge deputy.

A LOVELIER YOU Breakfast Makes Dieter's Job Easier

By MARY SUE MILLER

Many young women write that they just cannot lose weight, even though they skip breakfast and have a light lunch. Most of them are in the campus and career contingents.

Before the cause of overweight can be pegged, those seemingly abstemious girls must tote up their daily calorie intake for one week. What about the office coffee break — with Danish? What about between-class gatherings in the Sweet Shoppe — the hot chocolates and fudge sundae? And let no one forget to count the candy bar stashed in the purse against emergencies. The weekly total of those snacks will stagger you and add up to many more calories than a nutritionally sound breakfast and lunch. Approved reducing diets stress the necessity of breakfast. The meal staves off hunger and fatigue, the cause of snacking and overeating at other meals. So why not get up 10 minutes earlier and eat it? The answer to that question too often is, "I just can't face any more stale toast and dry cereal."

Well, if you have access to a kitchen or dormitory toaster-grill, you can concoct proper goodies in a few moments: Pour tomato or orange juice over cracked ice and stir in a splash of soda water. Melt a bit of honey in comb on whole wheat toast. Slice one hard spoonfuls of canned cream of chicken soup.

Use your imagination and you will find dozens of delicious ideas that come in under 300 calories, the dieting allotment. And do make your breakfast space attractive. Enjoy, you'll be losing weight.

LEAN, LIGHT, LOVELY

Here's a painless way for teens and adults to reduce! Just send for my booklet, "Leaner, Lighter and Lovelier." It includes menus for delicious meals and snacks; calorie counter and nutrition chart; diet shortcuts; spot reducers. For your copy write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin.

Doesn't Lassie really eat steak every night?

"I've been asked that question time and time again. And the truth is, Lassie could afford to eat steak every night. But I'm not about to let him."

"The simple fact is that animals need a good balanced diet — just the same as you and I do. And as far as I'm concerned, the best way to make sure they get it is a proper balance of protein, carbohydrates, fat, vitamins and minerals."

"These Recipe brand balanced dinners I feed Lassie give your dog every bit of meat he needs. But they're not just meat and vitamins."

"Each is a good balanced dinner with vegetables that provide the nutrients so important to his health."

"I've only got one Lassie; I'm not about to feed him anything less."

Moral View

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm going to have to disagree with you on this one. Obedience to one's parents is not the highest and greatest good, not even for a 13-year-old.

Anyone, even a child, is morally obligated to disobey authority when authority demands something that violates the conscience. This principle was brought home to me by my eldest daughter when she was seven, upon her hearing the story of Abraham and Isaac for the first time. "It's wrong to kill," declared my precocious moralist, "and you should never do what God tells you to." By the same principle, it is similarly wrong to refrain from doing good because one has been forbidden to do it.

Susan's friend, if she is sufficiently courageous, should tell her mother that she regrets the necessity of being disobedient, but that she cannot conscientiously be obedient in this instance. She should then offer to accept whatever reasonable punishment the mother may care to impose, and then endure the punishment with as much courtesy and stoicism as she can muster.

The kind of obedience you advocate for Susan's friend is qualitatively the same as that of the Nazis who were "only obeying orders" when they slaughtered Jews. The matter involved is not so serious as murder, that's all.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
DEAR FOOD: Your letter is more than "food for thought" — it's an intellectual banquet.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has the women in his office running errands all over town in his 1973 limousine. When I tell him it looks bad, he says their own cars are either falling apart or their gas tanks are empty.

I suggested that he buy a company station wagon and put the name of his company on the door, and have the girls run his errands in that. He says: "I'm not letting the small town gossips run my business just because they've poisoned your mind about how it looks." I told him I poisoned my own mind on the subject. Meanwhile, I drive a small economy car to run my errands.

What do you think about this?

THE POORER HALF
DEAR POORER: I can understand your annoyance at having your husband's women employees driving his '73 limousine all over town on errands, but there's a better reason for suggesting he get a company car. It would be a legitimate company expense — and save gasoline!

DEAR ABBY: A mother wrote saying she was "30 WTS END" because her 30-year-old widowed daughter let her housekeeping go while she did "useless" things like writing poetry, planting flowers, taking ballet lessons. And she dragged her six-year-old son to museums and art exhibits. ("What can a six-year-old learn from an art exhibit?" she asks.)

I endorse your reply in which you defended the daughter, and would like to add that my parents dragged me to concerts, museums, and art exhibits when I was a toddler.

I was awakened one night to "come see the Northern Lights," and told of the Aurora Borealis. I saw Sousa in one of his last concerts, and heard Mark Twain in his last appearance in his native state. I was reading at the age of four, and soon afterwards my father opened his entire library to me, showing me how to handle books carefully — they were precious.

Abby, I bless my parents for showing me the beauty of the world. I continue to find life interesting and exciting. I am 79.

Three cheers for daughter!

NANCY AYERS SWORN IN
Officiating, Col. Meisenheimer

Nurse Nancy Ayers Now Air Force Lieutenant

Miss Nancy Ayers of Big Spring was recently sworn in to the United States Air Force by Col. Robert A. Meisenheimer, Base Commander at Webb AFB. Miss Ayers was commissioned a First Lieutenant in the Air Force Nurse Corp.

According to T. Sgt. Donald Sisco, Air Force Recruiter, Nancy will attend a two week orientation course at Sheppard AFB, Wichita Falls, Tex., then will proceed to her first duty station at Vandenberg AFB, Calif., where she will work in the Intensive Care Unit at the Base Hospital.

Lt. Ayres resides at 1613 Bluebird and was employed by

Rebozo Bank Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision on whether to suspend President Nixon's close friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, as chairman and president of a Florida bank will await completion of an investigation, probably within three weeks, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. says.

FDIC Chairman Frank Willie said his regulatory agency's three-member board had approved the policy unanimously. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., had asked the FDIC to suspend Rebozo immediately from leadership of the Key Biscayne Bank & Trust Co., but Willie said the board wanted to comply with "elemental standards of due process."

The investigation — begun last Friday and expected to be over within three weeks — involves a $195,000 loan issued by Rebozo's bank in 1968.

Rebozo accepted 900 shares of stock, later discovered to be stolen, as security. Rebozo spokesmen have denied published reports that the banker cashed 300 of the shares after learning they had been purloined.

Willie said a second FDIC investigation, involving the hiring of Franklin S. DeBoer to head the trust department of Rebozo's bank, should be completed next week.

Months before joining the bank DeBoer had been accused by the Securities and Exchange Commission of appropriating money of a public company for his own use.

Willie would not say whether the FDIC was looking into secret cash payments of $100,000 to Rebozo by billionaire Howard Hughes in 1969 and 1970.

the Veterans Administration Hospital in Big Spring. Lt. Ayers stated her reasons for entering into an Air Force career were to take advantage of the travel opportunities and to broaden her knowledge in nursing.

Full Audit Of How Cop Funds Spent

DALLAS (AP) — A full audit of how funds received from the Police Foundation in Washington have been spent for the city police department has been ordered by new Dallas Police Chief Don A. Byrd.

The action was a result of "not knowing what has been going on there," said Asst. Police Chief Don Steele.

He spoke for Byrd who was in Washington. Steele said contracts were being reviewed "to find out what services were to be received and if they were received."

Grants of around $2.2 million had been announced in Washington as being made to Dallas but much of it had not actually been received.

Dallas was one of the few city police departments which accepted the funds. The Police Foundation was created in 1970 by the Ford Foundation and granted $30 million to help improve law enforcement.

Byrd's order included confiscation of records, contracts and letters from the departments Management Services Bureau, which administered the funds from a separate Dallas office.

Steele said he had met with officials of the Management Services Bureau and discussed the funds with them. "I asked them very pointed questions about where some of the money had gone and what services had been received," said Steele. He added that "some of the responses were not very satisfactory."

He said the records are now in the charge of Lt. Margaret Hill, and there was no evidence that the funds had been mis-handled or misappropriated.

The former head of the Management Services Bureau, Asst. Police Chief Troy Moore resigned last week along with two consultants. Their resignation came shortly after that of former Police Chief Frank Dyson.

Americans Don't Panic In Times Of Crises

OMAR BURLESON, M.C.
The District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Crisis is not new to America. When it has occurred, Americans have not panicked. We remember from the past that the most splendid accomplishments of our nation have been under just such conditions — crisis.

It is evident that America and her people are now in one of these infrequent combinations of challenges and dangers which traditionally have called for our best. And our best — a very good "best" indeed — has always been forthcoming. History indicates that not until the Nation's security or its way of life is imperiled will it gather its strength and organize its potentials to keep the triumphs of its destiny.

In two wars in the first half of this century, the American people were moved as they had not been moved for many years before. It was under terrific pressure that Americans in each of these world cataclysms called upon their inner strengths in times of crisis and developed, through unlimited commitment to their goals, the results which brought about needed victories. The crisis now is one of confluence in government, coupled with our economic well-being. In the latter, ill-starred Government policies are sapping our economic strength, preventing it from a renewal of itself to continue serving the public interest and for continued sound growth. Strait-jacketed controls on business, some well intended, are resulting in shortages by crippling production.

Out of the pressures of crisis of confidence can come a rebirth of understanding and of reawakening which will contribute to making this a stronger nation than ever. It can come about because people will have been aroused to fundamental wrongs and dangers that have been threatening the good of the country.

We have confidence that a reordering and a correcting of priorities will develop through new conjunction of two great American assets — its rich and still available store of natural resources and the driving genius of the American individual.

What is happening may represent for America and its people a true opportunity to meet and overcome another of its traditional great challenges.

Vodka Is Nickel A Belt But China Frustrating

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Vodka is only a nickel a shot, and even heavy eaters will have a hard time spending all their daily meal allowances in a Peking restaurant.

But throwing ice cubes at a dinner companion may get a Western visitor kicked out of the country. Playfully patting a waitress could draw the same penalty and backslapping is considered "in extremely bad taste."

These are some bits of advice in a just-published manual for businessmen traveling to mainland China, the rapidly growing commercial partner of the West.

Business newcomers to China should be ready for frustration, the 124-page guide makes plain. "Doing business with the People's Republic of China has never been easy," it says. "Latecomers — and all U.S. firms must be included in that category — may find it hard to displace competitors who established themselves as suppliers in the past two decades."

Failure to observe the special set of rules for China, the manual notes, can turn frustration into failure as it did for one European businessman "who playfully flipped a piece of ice from his drink at a companion." The cube missed the target and landed on a nearby official. The businessman was sent home and "so was another visitor who playfully patted a waitress."

"Flirting with Chinese women, even in the mildest and most innocent way, is definitely out," says the manual. Also: "Do not touch any part of your acquaintance's anatomy . . . Shaking hands is the exception, but shoulder-slapping, button-holding and arm-gripping are in extremely bad taste."

And the first rule of etiquette: "Don't discuss politics and never, never speak lightly of Chairman Mao."

Executives from 13 countries polled for the survey seem to agree with this evaluation, supplied by the Geneva-based Business International, S.A., which compiled the manual.

"The Chinese are extremely honest and dependable. Their word, once given, is their bond, whether or not it is embodied in a formal contract. It is wise to reciprocate."

Plans To Sue Teamsters?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has served notice it intends to sue the Teamsters Union and the nation's trucking industry unless they halt alleged discrimination against blacks and Spanish-Americans.

The union and the industry have resisted government proposals to change the seniority system to make it easier for minority workers to transfer to higher-paying jobs and to adopt a recruitment and hiring program for such workers, the department said.

Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger disclosed the threatened civil rights suit in similarly worded letters Tuesday to the Teamsters, 514 trucking companies and Trucking Employers Inc., which represents the firms in collective bargaining.

Department spokesman John Wilson said the government was giving the union and companies 30 days to reply, and "then what we contemplate is a suit involving the union, the employers' organization and five or six individual companies as representatives of the class of defendants."

The department said trucking industry employment now is 7 or 8 per cent black and 2.5 per cent Spanish-American, with the minority workers typically assigned to such jobs as janitor or dockman.

The "pattern and practice" of discrimination has kept the minority workers from attaining "higher paid, more desirable jobs such as road driver on an equal basis with white Anglo persons," Pottinger's letter said.

Eight Film Nude Movie In Yard

MIAMI (AP) — Police say they arrested eight persons after breaking up the filming of a nude movie in the front yard of a Miami house.

Police said six of those arrested Tuesday were performing sex acts that could be seen by passing motorists.

Two men, police said, were cameramen, were charged with producing obscene material. The six others, arrested in various stages of undress, were charged with lewd and lascivious conduct.

"We think a few got away," a police spokesman said.

Police said the owner of the home, Sepy Dobronyi, told officers he had given the film crew permission to shoot pictures on his property but was unaware what sort of film was being made. He was not charged.

DIRECTOR OF NIXON'S RE-ELECTION WIN CLAIMS:

He Was Kept Ignorant Of Watergate Cover-Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clark MacGregor, who directed President Nixon's landslide re-election victory, testified today that he was deceived, used and kept ignorant of the Watergate cover-up that was going on around him.

Appearing before the Senate Watergate committee, the former Minnesota congressman and White House aide contradicted the testimony of an earlier witness who swore he repeatedly tried to warn MacGregor of high-level involvement in the Watergate affair.

TOOK CHARGE

MacGregor took charge of Nixon's re-election committee two weeks after the June 17, 1972 break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate. He replaced former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Robert C. Mardian, a former assistant attorney general and Nixon re-election committee lawyer, has told the committee that he tried several times to tell MacGregor that previous committee denials of official involvement in Watergate were untrue but that MacGregor refused to listen.

On one occasion at the Republican National Convention in August, 1972, Mardian testified, he went to MacGregor to tell him there was serious "exposure" of the committee and that MacGregor didn't have all the facts. Mardian also said MacGregor refused to listen to him, saying he didn't want to hear it.

MacGregor testified there was only one occasion on which Mardian attempted to warn him and that he didn't turn off the conversation.

He said it caused him to renew his inquiries of other re-election committee officials, "who assured me they were telling the grand jury under oath what they had told me previously" — that they had no involvement in Watergate.

MacGregor said that in retrospect he can see how the cover-up conspirators used him by coaxing him to issue repeated denials to the press.

"I was kept ignorant," MacGregor testified. "It doesn't make me happy to subsequently learn that one has been used."

He indicated that those who were using him included White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III, Mitchell, Mardian and re-election committee deputy Jeb Stuart Magruder.

But he specifically excluded President Nixon from that group.

"I think I ought to make it crystal clear I do not include the President of the United States in the category of people I say used me," MacGregor said.

The appearance of MacGregor marked the close of the so-called dirty tricks phase of the committee's investigation.

MacGregor was summoned to appear today after Sen. Lowell F. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., suggested the panel should probe allegations by some lower-level agents in the Nixon campaign that political sabotage and espionage are usual ingredients in American politics.

Campaign managers for Democratic presidential candidates George McGovern and Edmund S. Muskie have testified they never financed or permitted such acts against their opponents.

POLITICS

And several members of the committee, including Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., have insisted that dirty tricks simply are not "politics as usual."

MacGregor, now a United Aircraft Corp. executive, has denied any involvement in the Watergate cover-up that followed the break-in, even though his deputy in the campaign, Jeb Stuart Magruder, and other re-election committee officials have admitted taking part in it.

No evidence has surfaced that would link him directly to the events, but Robert C. Mardian testified before the committee that he tried on numerous occasions to warn MacGregor that the campaign chief hadn't been told the whole truth about the committee's involvement in the scandal.

FIRST DAY

Mardian, a former assistant attorney general and a lawyer for the Nixon committee, said MacGregor "didn't want to hear any more about it" and insisted on accepting an assurance he was given when he took the job that no one then employed by the committee was involved.

On Wednesday, the first day and sabotage led to his running the events "resulted in de- and even their treachery. into the councils when it came unable to adequately manage a he hearings weren't televised, "something in the nature of a organization who purloined vital moralizing distrust, in de- effort because, not knowing events certainly helped to un- appear as sieve-like amateurs staff which had been made to committee campaign manager, "police state" inside the cam- strategy papers from Muskie roneous accusations of my own staff members for what I be- whom one could trust, fewer determine the image of Sen. Bad News For Peanut Butter Sandwich Fans

By LOUISE COOK, Associated Press Writer
 Families who have been feeding their kids peanut butter sandwiches in an effort to beat the price spiral got some bad news in October. An Associated Press marketbasket survey of cities on March 1 and has released a bit from September, but remain well above their after the beef freeze ended in September. The AP checked the price of 15 food and nonfood items in cities on March 1 and has released a bit from September, but remain well above their after the beef freeze ended in September. The Department of Agriculture reported Wednesday that the price of raw farm products showed a drop of 4 per cent in October, which is expected to be reflected in lower supermarket prices later. The agency said lower prices for cattle, hogs, wheat, broiler chickens and eggs contributed most to the decline.

On the other hand, worldwide demand for almost all commodities including oils, pushed the price of peanut butter up. The Department of Agriculture reported Wednesday that the price of raw farm products showed a drop of 4 per cent in October, which is expected to be reflected in lower supermarket prices later. The agency said lower prices for cattle, hogs, wheat, broiler chickens and eggs contributed most to the decline.

UNCHANGED

The AP survey showed that from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1, the total marketbasket cost declined in 9 of 13 cities. The decreases ranged from almost 6 per cent in Salt Lake City and Chicago to a fraction of 1 per cent in Atlanta and Seattle. The average decrease was about 2 per cent.

A comparison of March 1 and Nov. 1 prices, however, showed the marketbasket was up in every city checked. On the average, prices were 8 per cent higher on Nov. 1 than on March 1. On Oct. 1, prices were about 9 per cent higher than on March 1.

A check of the number of items increasing and decreasing showed that from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1, 29 per cent of the 195 items checked went up in price; 25 per cent went down; 37 per cent were unchanged; and 9 per cent were not available on one of the survey dates.

EATING OUT

From March 1 to Nov. 1, 68 per cent of the total number of items checked increased in price; 13 per cent declined; 6 per cent were unchanged; and 13 per cent were not available.

Peanut butter was up in more cities than any other item in October, rising in 10 of 13 cities, with increases averaging about 5 per cent.

Chopped chuck, in comparison, declined in eight cities, dropping an average of 13 per cent to about $1.15 cents a pound in most areas.

Consumers found little to cheer about as they scanned the supermarket aisles, however.

One recently married New York man who made his first major shopping expedition this week commented sarcastically: "I went shopping Wednesday and racked up $22.93 in grocery bills for my wife and me. That should get us through Friday."

Mrs. Joe Stewart of Albuquerque, N.M., shopping for her husband and three children, said: "I'm buying as little as I can. We're eating out of stocked up canned goods and we're cutting down on meat even though it's dropped."

Frysak Meets With Group

August M. Frysak of Garden City will participate on Nov. 12-13 in a Waco meeting to prepare a rough policy draft for consideration by delegates attending the 70th Annual Convention of Texas Farmers Union. The farm organization's annual convention will be held at the Ko Ko Palace Convention Center in Lubbock on Dec. 7-9. At that time, the rough policy draft will be given thorough consideration by delegates representing all chartered county organizations.

The Program Drafting Committee on which Frysak serves is charged with the responsibility of compiling, classifying and organizing the resolutions which have been received by the TFU state office from annual meetings held by county organizations during the fall months.

Frysak and wife, Jerline, have five children. They are active farmers in Glasscock County. They own an extensive ranching and farming operation and produce cotton, milo and sudan in addition to cattle. Frysak is a member of the Glasscock County Coop, is vice chairman of North Concho S. and W. Conservation District 208 and is presently serving his county as secretary-treasurer of Glasscock County Farmers Union. The Frysak family are members of the St. Lawrence Catholic Church.

'OUR GANG' MEMBERS BACK TOGETHER — More than 30 years ago, cute little kids acted together in an "Our Gang" comedy series on the motion picture screen. Two of the surviving members got together in Philadelphia on a television show. Darla Hood, who was the group's only girl member for seven years, looks at a pair of pants that George McFarland wore when he played the role of "Spanky." That's how Darla and Spanky looked, left and right, back in the late '30s.

Mounting Pressures Are Foreseen For Education

Great pressures for changes in higher education are being felt, and these will mount sharply during the next 10 to 20 years, college and university heads were told at a regional conference in Lubbock last weekend.

Tony Wynn, vice president, represented Howard County Junior College at the American Association of Higher Education meeting on the Texas Tech campus.

Dr. Lyman Glenny, director for the center of research and development on higher education for the University of California at Berkeley, said that clearly changing priorities will affect the money available for post-secondary education.

The phenomenon of the 1960's, when enrollments doubled and funding tripled, has passed the highwater mark. During this period, the amount going to higher education rose from one to two per cent of the Gross National Product; now it has slipped half a point.

DARK OUTLOOK
"Colleges and universities will not regain their favored position of the 1960s," he warned, and promise of greater federal aid won't materialize for another 15 or 20 years, if at all. Moreover, the trend appears to be toward student, not institutional support.

Unless continuing education becomes an accepted pattern in our society, he observed, more and more colleges will find increasingly harder sledding, and some may go out of business. Already signs of intense institutional competition for students are flourishing.

Entry of industrial post-secondary education has complicated the picture, even affecting the community college. Industrial giants like IBM, General Electric, etc. are offering degrees, and industrial programs now have some two million enrollees. This underlines the shift toward occupational and career training. Only 20 per cent of jobs now require college education, but 50 per cent of high school graduates go to college, he noted.

Another complicating factor may be the trend toward tenured or unionized faculty which he says cannot or will not respond to the demand for rapid changes.

"Clearly, an institution which finds itself with a tenured faculty exceeding 60 per cent is courting trouble, and if the tenured number is 70 per cent or more, that institutions may find that student numbers drop rapidly as programs fail to respond to new and changing needs."

Presidents also may find themselves reduced to ministerial roles, he cautioned.

All this does not necessarily mean the demise of liberal education, he concluded, but this type must adapt to "in-and-out education . . . by changing requirements and entrances so as to allow the more mature students to become 'regular' students."

The "New" student is more interested in how to improve his personal economic status, Dr. Glenny said, but as he gains security in his field, the students are a likely candidate for continuing education to "fill an ill-defined vacuum in their lives, . . . to become free human beings," said Dr. Glenny. Consequently "one can expect that the world of education beyond the high school will undergo radical transformation," or like the dinosaur, may find itself passed by.

Nixon Seems To Have Egyptians, Israelis Where He Wants Them

WASHINGTON (AP) — For today, at least, President Nixon seemed to have the Egyptians and Israelis where he wanted them — in the same city talking about a Middle East settlement.

However, despite their presence here at the same time, Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy did not come to Washington to talk to each other. Instead, they came separately to plead their own special interests and to obtain as much support as possible from Nixon for positions that appear to be in direct conflict.

MORE PROBLEMS
Before her breakfast meeting today with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and a noon session with the President, Mrs. Meir told reporters that problems and questions had arisen out of her country's relationship with the United States. She asked to talk with the President and Kissinger to "seek answers and clarifications," Mrs. Meir said upon her arrival Wednesday afternoon.

She described as "an oversimplification" reports Israel had been subjected to undue pressure from the United States concerning cease-fire lines.

RELIEF OPERATION
Meanwhile, in Tel Aviv Wednesday, an Israeli military command spokesman said dozens of trucks carried emergency supplies for the Egyptian 3rd Army through Israeli Suez Canal lines.

A relief operation for the 20,000 men of the encircled military force was in its third day on the southern end of the waterway. The Israeli military spokesman said the cargoes of about half of a 125-truck convoy had been shipped to the east bank of the canal.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat continued to refuse to exchange Israeli war prisoners until Israel pulled back to the Oct. 22 cease-fire lines established by the U.N. Middle East truce.

He also said that, once the Israelis withdraw, Egypt would be willing to "start immediately with peace talks" in an international peace conference under U.N. sponsorship.

U.S. officials privately acknowledged they would prefer an Israeli pullback and Mrs. Meir didn't deny being aware of the American position. In fact, some Israeli sources said one of the goals of her visit is to convince Nixon not to back her government against the wall on the issue.

DEMOCRACY
They said the United States should realize Israel is a democracy and subject to popular pressures, particularly on matters involving prisoner exchanges and territorial gains.

Mrs. Meir also was expected to seek assurances that the United States, in its effort to appear even-handed, is not wavering on its position that outside powers should not impose a settlement on the Middle East.

Egypt continues to insist publicly that it will not negotiate directly with Israel, although it would attend an international conference once the Israelis withdrew to the Oct. 22 lines.

Privately, there are indications Egypt may be more flexible. U.S. officials said they were pleasantly surprised by Fahmy and predicted important progress within weeks.

In fact, it was Fahmy's visit and the reports of his friendly reception that caused Mrs. Meir to suddenly come to Washington.

She is said to have felt it was time to re-establish the image of her close personal relationship with Nixon.

INFLUENCE
Mrs. Meir will stay in the United States until Saturday, taking advantage of the opportunity to talk with influential businessmen and members of Congress.

U.S. sources agreed with suggestions that these contacts will result in public and private commitments of support.

This will help Mrs. Meir both at home in reaffirming her government's position as still holding major influence in U.S. policy making and in applying indirect political pressure on Nixon, the sources said.

Fahmy has been in the United States since Monday and has seen Kissinger twice and Nixon once, on Wednesday.

The Egyptian official, who was formally named foreign minister Wednesday, spent 45 minutes with Nixon at the White House shortly after his appointment was announced.

As he had about his previous conversations with Kissinger, Fahmy said his talk with Nixon had been useful. No details were available about the meeting, but Fahmy reportedly gave Nixon a message from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

GOOD TALKS
Kissinger told reporters earlier Wednesday that "we believe we are making progress" on the Middle East problem. He later told Nixon that he and Fahmy "have had some very good talks."

Although she made no secret of the "problems and questions" her government has concerning U.S. policy, Mrs. Meir said at her airport arrival ceremony that Israel and America are steadfast friends.

"I've come to Washington, come to a friendly country, a friendly government and a friendly President," the 76-year-old prime minister said.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠
Generally, there is nothing in bridge that disturbs me more than a partner who lays down an ace on opening lead against a contract and remarks: "Just to take a look at dummy, partner!" As a rule, its costs one or two tricks, a heavy price to pay for satisfying one's curiosity. But there are times when it can be right, as the great Italian star Pietro Forquet demonstrated when he held the West hand at the recent First Monte Carlo International Bridge Festival.

South's opening bid of three no trump was the old-fashioned version of the "gambling three no trump" convention. It showed a hand containing a long, solid minor suit, with two of the three outside suits stopped. The theory is that it is easier to make nine tricks in no trump than eleven in a minor suit.

Correct defensive technique is to try to take your tricks quickly. If you lead a normal fourth-best, the odds are that declarer or dummy will win and you will have to face a barrage of cards in declarer's long minor, often resulting in discarding problems. Therefore, the lead of an ace is sound procedure—this is really a case where you want to study dummy to see if you can find declarer's weak spot.

Forquet led the ace of spades on which East played the ten and declarer, the king. However, Forquet was not taken in by the false card, for he knew his partner would have played the queen from a holding of queen-jack-ten. Thus, the spade suit offered no hope of quick tricks.

From looking at dummy, it was obvious that declarer was going to take at least seven diamond tricks, the queen of spades, and the ace of clubs, as soon as he gained the lead. Therefore, the heart suit offered the only prospect on defense. Obviously, if declarer held the ace of hearts, the game was irreparable. Forquet also worried out that if South had a guarded jack of hearts, the defense was equally helpless. If South had the jack, the only hope was that it was singleton. To cater for this slight possibility, Forquet made the brilliant shift to the king of hearts! This collected South's jack, and the ten of hearts continuation let the defense collect four heart tricks in addition to the ace of spades.

Small wonder that his fans consider Forquet to be the world's greatest bridge player.
