REASSURED OF U.S. SUPPORT — Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel tells a Washington news conference Thursday after a meeting with President Nixon that she was reassured of U.S. support in trying to achieve "a true and lasting peace" in the Middle East.

SS COMPUTER GOOF

Borrow Money, Beg Groceries

MADILL, Okla. (AP) — Social Security officials have apologized for the "inconvenience," but to Mr. and Mrs. Barney Pedigo a computer error that cut off their retirement benefits was more than just an inconvenience.

Mrs. Pedigo said Thursday she and her disabled husband had been barely able to get by on their social security income of a little more than $200 a month.

THREE HEART ATTACKS

Then, through an apparent malfunction, a Social Security Administration computer marked her deceased.

The Pedigos' social security checks stopped in January and the next one which came, in May, was for a reduced amount. After the May check, they received no more payments until October.

"We've had to borrow money, beg groceries and do everything else we could to get by," said Pedigo, who has suffered three heart attacks and has been hospitalized three times in the past year.

Mrs. Pedigo, who had a stroke last May, fell recently and broke a wrist and thumb.

Pedigo said he was paying $20 a month on "the hospital and doctor bills before the social security mixup, but hasn't been able to pay anything since."

'SOMEWHERE UP THE LINE'

John Theising, social security representative from the Ardmore office, said the only explanation he could give was that someone punched the wrong button "somewhere up the line."

Theising said the Pedigo case has been given priority attention by his office since he was informed of the problem. He said he thought the matter has been straightened out and the Pedigos soon will be getting their monthly check again, plus back payments.

Meanwhile, the Pedigos received a form letter from the Social Security office in Baltimore, Md. It said:

"Due to a processing error your benefits were delayed. We regret any inconvenience this delay may have caused you."

Routes For Sunday Air Lift Defined

Local citizens will have an opportunity to see Big Spring from the air in an airlift Sunday to raise money for the local March of Dimes chapter.

Citizen pilots will take the public aloft in their own private planes and in planes donated by local companies.

Flights will last 15-20 minutes each and will cover a route south from Howard County Airport over the Country Club, west around Scenic Mountain, north over the Big Spring State Hospital and back to the airport.

Cost will be $1 for those under 16 and $2 for adults with all proceeds going to the March of Dimes.

Pilots donating their time and private planes are Mal, Margaret McFarland, Bob Dugan, Lee Turner and Vaughn Martin. Ruston Weaver will pilot a plane donated by Forsan Oil Well Service. Other planes are being donated by Jack Lewis, Big Spring Aircraft, Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. and Bill Wilson Oil Co. which is also donating fuel for the flights.

Vaughn Martin is serving as coordinator of the airlift, an event which has proved successful for the MDD in the past.

Shotgun Death

WACO, Tex. (AP) — William Neal Hinsley, 54, of Waco suffered a fatal 16-gauge shotgun blast at a residence late Thursday. Police arrested a woman, 56.

Ford Says Inquiry Of Nixon Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford says the House should go ahead with its investigation to determine whether President Nixon should be impeached.

The Michigan congressman said he doubts there are grounds for impeachment, but conceded the basis for such action can be anything a majority of the House considers it to be.

"The House of Representatives should proceed with consideration of impeachment to help clear the air," Ford told the Senate Rules Committee Thursday as the panel opened hearings into his nomination to succeed Spiro T. Agnew as vice president.

MORE TALK

The public hearings will resume Monday with more testimony from Ford and from members of Congress, who generally have praised the selection of Ford, a House member for 25 years and Republican leader for nine.

In four hours of testimony, Ford said it might have been better had the White House disclosed earlier that two of the nine tapes subpoenaed in the Watergate investigation did not exist. The disclosure was made Wednesday.

—Said that on issues of executive privilege, a president should seek a balance between confidentiality and the public's right to know.

LIES

—Denied being a conduit for dairy-industry contributions to members of Congress.

—Repeated that he will not be a candidate for any political office in 1976.

NEED LIGHT

In his opening statement and at several points during the hearing, Ford said he wants to "be a ready conciliator and calm communicator between the White House and Capitol Hill, between the re-election mandate of the Republican President and the equally emphatic mandate of the Democratic 93rd Congress."

Ford expressed the hope that "some of the damage" caused by Nixon's handling of the Watergate case can be repaired by the choice of Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, for attorney general and Leon Jaworski for Watergate prosecutor as well as the surrender of Watergate tapes.

Ford, who made no apologies for being a strong Nixon supporter, said that on at least two occasions he had recommended to top-level White House aides that the President turn over the tapes to the courts to see if the recordings could shed light on any presidential involvement in the scandal.

'Mummy Bandit' Killed In Abilene Shootout

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Officers shot and killed a Dallas ex-convict identified by Abilene Police Chief Warren Dodson as a wanted holdup man shortly after midnight today.

The slain man was known in Dallas as "the Mummy Bandit" because of the tape he used on his head to prevent identification.

A second man was arrested at the scene and his case was taken directly to the grand jury which currently is sitting here.

Dodson said the slain man was Bobby O. Vardeman, 40.

Police records showed he was paroled from state prison last Aug. 23 while serving a 50-year term for armed robbery in Dallas. Officers said he faced a charge of robbing a Dallas liquor store since his release and was wanted for an Abilene supermarket robbery.

A Texas Ranger and state police undercover agents teamed with city police to spring a trap for Vardeman and his companion as the pair emerged from a war veterans' club.

Officers reported the two men ignored a shouted command to surrender and both pulled pistols and started firing. Vardeman fell dead as the policemen shot back. His companion gave up.

St. Lawrence Residents Prepare For Festival

By MARJ CARPENTER

The men of the St. Lawrence Catholic Church, who all happen to be farmers, are this week rearranging their farm chores in order to help get ready for the Sunday's big St. Lawrence Festival.

On Saturday, they will all gather at the Alfred Schwartz farm to prepare the sausage for the annual country sausage barbecue, which their church holds each November. Eugene Hirt, Wayne and Ross Halfman and Robert Latzel compose the committee in charge.

Dinner will be served from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in this community located 14 miles southwest of Garden City. Diners will also be served to go.

The church usually hosts thousands of West Texans at the all-day event.

During the afternoon, there will be all kinds of games and there will be a special booth prepared by the women. This year, it includes the traditional fancywork which makes beautiful Christmas gifts, but they have also made plans to include home canned goods and baked goods in the women's booth.

The committee in charge is Mrs. Clifford Hoelscher, Mrs. Alfred Schwartz, Mrs. T. O. Midkiff and Mrs. Leroy Wilde.

Supper will be served from 5:30-6:30 p.m. and an auction and dance follow.

Profits from the event traditionally go to the church in a kind of annual harvest festival.

However, the festival is ahead of the harvest this year as the cotton harvest in Glasscock County is a few weeks behind the harvest in Martin and Dawson counties.

They have some grain harvested and more to come and defoliation is beginning on the cotton crop.

But the St. Lawrence Festival will be held on the traditional first Sunday in November. The sausage is being prepared. The fancy work is ready. And a Country Western band is coming. The public is cordially invited to attend, committeemen say.

SINCE 1970 Lowest Jobless Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate took a sharp and surprising downward turn last month, falling to 4.5 per cent of the work force, the lowest jobless rate since March 1970, the government said today.

The unemployment rate matched the predictions of the Nixon administration, which had forecast earlier this year the jobless rate would drop to 4.5 per cent by the end of the year. The unemployment rate had remained stuck at 4.8 per cent since June.

ECONOMY STRONGER

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the big decline was posted because employment was extremely strong in October, rising by 570,000 to a total of 85.7 million on a seasonally adjusted basis.

It was the second straight month that the number of people with jobs had risen, indicating that the nation's economy is perhaps much stronger than even government economists have been saying.

The economy has been slowing down its rapid pace of the first part of the year, causing government economists to predict that unemployment would probably rise in the months ahead rather than go down as happened in October.

In the past year, the nation's unemployment rate dropped a full percentage point from the 5.5 percentage point level of October 1972. In March 1970, the national jobless rate was 4.4 per cent.

Watergate Questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Watergate prosecutor said in court today many questions remain to be answered about White House claims two tape recordings don't exist, but a presidential lawyer said that apparent discrepancies could be easily explained.

The prosecutor, Richard Ben Veniste, said he intended to call at least eight present and former Nixon administration officials, including former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, to testify about the White House's claim that two crucial Watergate conversations went unrecorded.

Triangle Sparks Double Shooting

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — A shootout stemming from a marital triangle left two men dead today, one of them a former Texas highway patrolman.

Dead are Malcolm Bolinger, 47, the former officer, and Lawrence Alvin "Jimmy" Barnett, 40, owner of an oil field-related business in Odessa.

Mrs. Bolinger in a statement to officers said she was at home when she heard a weak gunshot followed by a loud gun report.

Officers surmised that Barnett went to the Bolinger home, was standing on the porch near the front door and fired a .380-caliber pistol bullet into Bolinger's chest. Bolinger then shot him in the head with a 30-30 rifle. Both men were dead when ambulances arrived.

Deputies said Barnett earlier came to the sheriff's office and said that Bolinger had married Barnett's ex-wife and they were in the process of discussing a property settlement. Barnett said he had been invited to the Bolinger home Thursday night, the time of the shooting.

Sources here said that shortly after Bolinger divorced his first wife he moved into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett. The Barnetts then began having family problems and were divorced.

Bolinger was transferred to El Paso, then to Pecos and married Barnett's ex-wife last Oct. 23.

Bolinger and his bride were in the process of moving from Pecos to Barnett's former home in Odessa.

Officers classified the deaths as "face-to-face" shootout where both men were hit.

Unique Tax Voted Out Only Recently

Included in the recent charter amendments which Big Spring citizens approved, they voted to eliminate an on "street tax." It hadn't been enforced since 1929 anyway.

Phraseology of the tax stated that all men in the city between the ages of 21 and 45 would either pay a $5 tax or work five days on the city streets, unless they served as volunteer firemen.

In the last two years it was enforced, a city council reduced the tab to $3 or three days of street duty.

This week, Williard B. Sullivan of Settles Drug sent City Manager Harry Nagel a copy of his last "street tax" receipt dated June 24, 1929 and signed by Seth Pike, then a city patrolman and tax collector.

When the Great Depression hit, city councilmen at that time apparently abandoned the tax although it actually became obsolete only after this year's vote.

WORLD NEWS AT-A-GLANCE Venus Probe Shapes

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Mariner 10 spacecraft is ready for launching early Saturday on a five-month journey to probe Venus and Mercury. It is the first spacecraft built to explore two planets and the first slated to inspect Mercury, smallest planet in the solar system.

A two-stage Atlas-Centaur rocket is to roar away from Cape Canaveral at 12:45 a.m. EST, thrusting the $98 million payload toward the distant targets at 25,400 miles an hour. Mariner 10 is to pass within 3,300 miles of Venus next Feb. 5 and come within 625 miles of Mercury on March 29.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Security Council members report some progress in negotiations on the makeup of the U.N. military force to patrol the cease-fire lines along the Suez Canal. However, the United States and the Soviet Union are deadlocked over participation of countries from the Soviet bloc and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Protestant extremists were blamed for the bomb death of one Roman Catholic, the fatal shooting of another and the wounding of about a dozen persons in attacks Thursday night. One source said the Protestant terrorists were retaliating for the helicopter rescue of three leaders of the Irish Republican Army from the exercise yard of a Dublin jail. "They felt compelled to counter the IRA's success, show them they couldn't get away with it scot free," the source said.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian armed forces say they are making progress in their drive to clear Khmer Rouge insurgents from Kep, a resort town at the tip of a peninsula on the south coast about 10 miles from the South Vietnamese border. A military spokesman said the government force has cleared the insurgents from the western approaches to the town, which has been held by the Khmer Rouge since April.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three recent public opinion polls have produced different results on the impeachment question. The Oliver Quayle organization found 44 per cent favoring impeachment, 43 per cent against and the rest undecided. But a George Gallup poll reported impeachment sentiment little changed from the 23 to 26 per cent favoring impeachment in earlier polls. The Lou Harris organization found 63 per cent favoring President Nixon's resignation or impeachment if White House tapes implicate him in the Watergate cover-up.

Undeveloped Labor Force Here May Total 3,400

An undeveloped labor supply potential of 2,000 to 3,400 workers exists in Big Spring according to a labor market survey completed this week by the Texas Employment Commission district office in San Angelo at the request of the industrial team.

Women make up a large source of potential employees for incoming industries and businesses, the report says.

Since 20 per cent of the female workers in the state's five largest metropolitan areas are involved in manufacturing, the report reasons that the local percentage of women in manufacturing jobs, 11 per cent, will likely rise to match the metropolitan percentage.

This could be accomplished, it says, if new suitable factory jobs opened up. New manufacturing jobs would attract not only currently unemployed women but also those now employed in lower paying service and clerical occupations, it claims.

The report contends that while participation of Howard County males in the labor force is quite high, "experience in recent months has shown that when new jobs for males become available, there is an adequate supply of workers."

Regarding unemployment the report estimates 550 workers were unemployed in the county in September. Of these, 150 can be considered "functionally unemployed," while the remaining 400 have aptitudes, skills and abilities which make them available and suitable for employment.

EVERY FOR YOU

14,000 WORD DOCUMENT Draft Of Constitution Delivered To Lawmakers

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The job of writing Texas' next constitution has been turned over to the 181 state legislators who make up the 1974 Constitution Convention.

"It is with this feeling of satisfaction in a job well done that we present to each of you on this occasion a copy of our proposed revised constitution, which we have titled, appropriately we hope, 'A New Constitution for Texas.'" Robert W. Calvert, chairman of the Constitutional Revision Commission, said Thursday at the climax of an hour-long ceremony in the Texas House.

NEXT STEPS

The action completed the work of the 37-member citizens commission that was created by the 1971 legislature and later approved by Texas voters. The next step calls for Texas senators and representatives to be briefed on details of the 14,000 word document on Dec. 7-8, before the convention formally begins Jan. 8.

"In essence, we have maintained the three branches of government by strengthening all of them," said Mrs. Malcolm Milburn, Austin vice-chairman. "The legislature was unshackled, or if you prefer, unleashed, to do things it could not do before the executive branch was strengthened by giving the governor more budget authority and more veto power... the judiciary was reorganized and reordered into a unified court system."

EASY TO READ

Mrs. Milburn, a prominent Republican leader, also said the proposed constitution strengthens local government and gives cities and counties the right to reorganize if they wish, that it provides equitable support for schools and it gives the legislature broad taxing power.

School Man Talks

As explanation of comprehensive special education in Texas was given to Kiwanians Thursday by Gene Adkins, supervisor of individualized programs for the Big Spring School District.

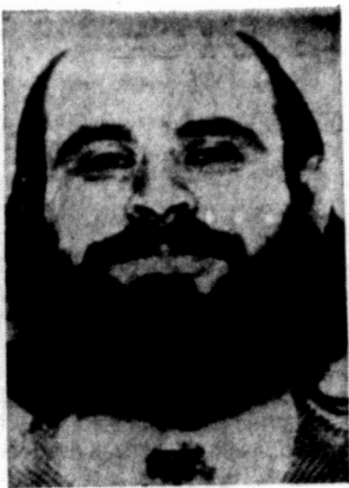

Tommy Johnson was a guest.

"The citizens of Texas will find this easy to read, easy to understand... we hope you will find at least parts of it acceptable and we wish you God-speed," she said.

Speaker Price Daniel Jr., who is expected to be elected chairman of the 1974 convention, said "it is already evidence that the vast majority of the delegates favor using this document as the point of beginning."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby recalled that delegates to the 1875 convention, which wrote the present constitution, "faced a crisis of confidence" following Reconstruction. "The delegates to the convention of 1974 also face a crisis of confidence. The people no longer trust government because so much corruption and villainy have been uncovered," Hobby said. "We must act to end this crisis at least so far as state government is concerned."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe presented each commission member with a special certification of appreciation "on behalf of all the people of this state."

Cub Activities Are Scheduled

Two important sessions for unit leaders in the Buffalo Trail Council have been scheduled for this month.

The annual Cub Pow Wow for all Cub leaders — a type of show and do program — will be held Nov. 10 at the Hood Junior High School at E. 38th and North Tom Green in Odessa.

Then on Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the Scout Service Center at 111 North D Street in Midland, the annual Exposition Clinic will be staged. This is for the purpose of formulating plans for the 1974 district expositions. Brochures on this activity are due to be in the hands of unit leaders by the end of December, but the overview of the program will be given in the Nov. 15 parley.

Presidency Not Monarchy

Writing in Fortune magazine, Dan Cordtz brings the "imperial life style" of United States presidents under critical review.

The progression of frills and services for the White House has accelerated in the past two generations and has reached its zenith under the Nixon administration. Cordtz says that official figures of the cost of providing for the presidency add up to little less than $13 million a year. Yet, if all the various agencies (Secret Service, Park Service, military, etc.) involved in providing services are added in, one official estimates that the cost of the presidency is nearer $100 million a year.

For instance, the White House staff numbers 75, including butlers, cooks, stewards, maids, plumbers, electricians, etc., plus a large number supplied by other agencies (like 21 gardeners from the Park Service). This doesn't even touch the administrative staff nor such things as transportation (which carries a laughable $75,000 budget provision) that includes five lavishly outfitted Boeing 707 jet liners, 16 sound-proofed helicopters, 11 Lockheed Jetstar courier planes, and a fleet of automobiles and drivers. The cost of these, let alone the maintenance and operational crews and other personnel, is staggering.

There seems to be a penchant for adding or remodelling, although in the White House itself much of the refurbishing is done from funds from sale of a booklet (a practice instituted by Jacqueline Kennedy). But the practice of construction and renovation extends to many other areas, including the private homes of the president. President Johnson, who spent most of his time away from Washington at his Texas ranch, required $250,000 in airport improvements (although instrument landing gear was returned when he left office). President Eisenhower had Camp David upgraded to a sort of second White House although he lived most frequently in a borrowed house near the Augusta, Ga., golf course. President Truman used a Navy base in Florida. President Nixon has some nine offices, including a couple in Florida hideaways (which required $1.6 million upgrading) and the celebrated San Clemente where GSA's original report of $68,000 expenditure was ultimately admitted to be $6.1 million (said largely for security and communications, etc.).

All of this is aside from the president's $200,000 salary and $50,000 expense allowance. (Britain's Prime Minister Edward Heath, who gets $50,000 a year, plus $7,500 as a member of parliament, pays his domestic help and gets a $20 per diem travel allowance; Japanese Prime Minister Tanaka has to drive his own Dodge to and from work and goes by commercial airline; Russia's Leonid Brezhnev gets a five-room apartment in Moscow, a summer dacha near there, and shares summer accommodations on the Black Sea).

Cordtz's analysis is that presidential opulence results from the "advance man" syndrome that "the president must be protected from every annoyance... shielded from the press and exposure to unpleasant reality." He adds that "in government as in industry, the attitude of the man at the top of his perquisites is generally a reflection of his conception of his role and power. The deliberate expansion of presidential benefits tends to confirm and re-inforce a monarchical vision of office."

Which brings up two other quotations he used, one from George E. Reedy's book on the presidency: "No nation of free men should ever permit itself to be governed from a hallowed shrine... Government should be vulgar, sweaty, plebeian, operating in an environment where a fool can be called a fool." And from Oliver Wendell Holmes: "The rewards of the general is not a bigger tent, but command."

The presidency is not a monarchy — a prospect which revolted our founding fathers — and it's time we restored some sanity to the provision for the president and first family.

Disenchanted State

Around The Rim

Ann Stevens

DST and RMN have left me confused, bitter and generally dissatisfied. And I suspect I'm not alone in these feelings.

It might seem a little late to be sounding off about DST now that it's over for another year until next April when once again we have to start waking up in total darkness and going to bed at dusk.

DESIGNED TO give the public more leisure time to spend outdoors in the summer, in actuality DST leaves many bored and restless, not knowing what to do with themselves during such elongated days.

During DST there is most likely an increase of cases of ennui, sleeplessness and general fatigue. It just doesn't seem right to go to bed at 10:30 p.m. when it's only about an hour after sunset. And it's even more miserable to wake up at 7:30 a.m. feeling it's still the middle of the night.

But, the real shame of DST is that it makes us dissatisfied with regular time, the time we lived with all our lives until just a few years ago.

A little hour can make a lot of difference. So can a little power, and that brings me to the second set of initials.

WHEN THE mill house crept under the covers with the water gate, the bottom dropped out of the public morale (as if it wasn't already low enough what with Vietnam and inflation.) But, like they say, politics makes strange bedfellows.

I find myself increasingly dissatisfied in these post-Watergate, post-Spiro, post-Cox days.

Dissatisfied with a man who expects us to believe a second prosecutor will be given a "free hand" when the first one was not.

Dissatisfied with a leader who for months refused to turn over presidential tapes and now tells us that several of them don't even exist.

Dissatisfied with a "law and order" administration apparently riddled with corruption and unethical practices.

Dissatisfied with a president who shouts "separation of powers" and then impounds Congressionally-approved funds.

Dissatisfied with a man who claims peace with honor in a country in which many are still dying on the battlefields.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

I have a friend who believes in witches. She says that witches are mentioned in the Bible. Is that true? S.H.

Some of the popular ideas we attach to "witch" and "witchcraft" were unknown to the Hebrews of Bible times. They were aware, however, of a class of persons, otherwise called magicians or sorcerers, who had some sort of superhuman power over living creatures and nature.

Contrary to popular belief, the phrase "witch of Endor" is not found in the text itself. It comes from the heading in the Authorized Version. A more liberal rendering of I Samuel 28 would be: "a woman that has a familiar spirit." We would call her a necromancer (consultants of the dead) or a diviner. The Septuagint version (LXX) uses a word like our "ventriloquist," implying she was imitating the voice of the deceased Samuel.

Paul in Galatians 5:20 classes witchcraft with uncleanness and idolatry. Your friend is probably aware that worship of evil spirits, and even the devil is becoming more common. What she may not know is its danger, since it is diametrically opposed to the truth in Jesus Christ. Deplorable as this is, such deception

No Political Advice

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — When President Nixon was about to trigger his shuddering crisis two weeks ago, he consulted the two senior aides with the poorest credentials for forecasting the mood of Congress or the public: chief of staff Alexander Haig and press secretary Ron Ziegler.

HAIG, ZIEGLER and the President's three lawyers handling Watergate legal affairs were the only advisers sought out by Mr. Nixon. Sage political practitioners on the White House staff, some brought in at the President's pleading after the Watergate crisis broke last spring, were ignored.

Thus, in today's bad times as in yesterday's good times, Mr. Nixon's aversion to seeking counsel from Republican politicians remains undimmed. He prefers non-political technicians whose loyalty he trusts and whose disagreement he considers unlikely. This tendency helps build Republican pessimism that Mr. Nixon will not rehabilitate himself politically.

THE ADVISER held by Republicans to be most responsible for Mr. Nixon's disastrous course is Prof. Charles Alan Wright, the constitutional lawyer from the University of Texas who for months has led the President's Watergate defense. Besides Wright, assistant White House counsel Fred Buzhardt and, to a lesser extent, counsel Leonard Garment consulted with the President in devising a strategy on the surreptitious tape recordings which was bound to force out Archibald Cox as special prosecutor.

HAIG AND Wright, each with a brilliant record in his own field, are total neophytes politically. Garment and Ziegler have been involved in politics only as Nixon campaign aides. Buzhardt, a West Point graduate-turned-lawyer, has a background in conservative politics in South Carolina, but other White House staffers consider him a blunderer in national politics whose miscalculations have deepened the President's Watergate problems.

FAILING TO perceive the probable impact in the Justice Department, Congress and the nation, Mr. Nixon had to retreat in disorder by surrendering the tapes.

What makes this bumbling so unnecessary is the abundance of political wisdom at the doorstep of the Oval Office. Presidential counselors Melvin R. Laird and Bryce Harlow, imported to return to government by Mr. Nixon last spring so he could avoid future blunders, were not consulted. Nor was William Timmons, his unsure but sensible and experienced chief congressional lobbyist.

IF THE President scorns his resident politicians, he naturally has not consulted Republicans outside the White House. For example, Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, set to replace Gerald Ford as House Republican leader, never sees the President alone. He was not asked his views in advance two weeks ago.

The iron ring around the President has not been breached since Haldeman's fall. William Ruckelshaus, a proven Nixon loyalist until forced out by Cox's dismissal, never consulted with the President from the time he became acting FBI director April 30 until he was fired as deputy attorney general Sept. 20. Nor have the latest convulsions changed anything.

It's Music To Their Ears

At the school, which opens in September, students will follow a regular academic program as well as receive music instruction.

When Yesterday Was Today

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is like the miraculous pitcher in Greek mythology.

No matter how much milk was poured from the pitcher, it immediately filled up again.

My mind is completely empty today, people say. But their memo never is. It never runs out of things to recall.

Your own memory is pretty good if you can look back and remember when—

Motormen on streetcars used to stamp impatiently on a clanging floor bell to warn those newfangled automobiles to get out of the way.

There was enough material in the petitions worn by a woman to make a fair-sized tent.

When every house had an attic, a housewife on a rainy day could climb the stairs to one, sit among the dusty heirlooms of her family's past, and have a good satisfying cry all to herself.

Stray dogs that ran in packs were more of a public nuisance than gangs of juvenile delinquents.

Adventurous Theodore Roosevelt became the first president to ride in an automobile in 1902 — and, in 1910, the first ever to ride in an airplane. In 1957, off Newport, R.I., Dwight D. Eisenhower became the first president to submerge in an atomic-powered submarine, the Sea Wolf.

Before peanut butter became so popular, a Midwest child's ideal afternoon snack was a piece of bread spread with chunks of butter and gobs of molasses or, if an epicure, a piece of bread covered with butter and mustard, then sprinkled with sugar. Somehow, the kids who ate those things managed to grow up.

Harari anyone ever used the word environment, and only a few college professors knew what the word ecology meant. And children in a large family had their little wars and truces without ever realizing they were engaging anything so awesome-sounding as sibling rivalry.

Only boys went in for summer freckles and tans. Girls avoided the sun and washed their faces with milk to keep down their freckles. In summer as well as winter, a lady's complexion was supposed to be as pale as a ghost or a snowbank.

A nickel cup of coffee tasted just as bad as a 15- or 20-cent one does today.

Those were the days — remember?

Questions On Dieting

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a female, age 23. I have been engaged for six weeks in quite serious dieting, limiting myself to between 500 and 600 calories daily, sometimes less. I have lost 26 pounds.

Many dieting sources conflict, so I would like to have your opinion on the following questions:

1. Can such limited intake be harmful over prolonged periods?

2. Is it possible to eat under 500 calories daily, do strenuous exercises and not lose weight while not having any glandular problems?

3. What causes dieting "plateaus"? — M.C.P.

I'll take your questions in the order you pose them.

1. The answer is yes, it can be harmful, particularly if there is deficiency of protein or carbohydrate (starches) in your diet. Hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) might be one result, as well as a tendency to tire easily.

It is essential to use a mixed-vitamin supplement when going into a dieting program with such low intake as the one you describe. A 500-calorie diet will get you started with weight loss, but it can be mighty tiresome after a week or two and, carried to extremes, could very well make you the slimmest girl on the ward.

2. Less than 500 calories is hard to achieve and, with that low an intake, you would have very little energy in reserve to do much if any exercising.

3. Weight loss involves the using up of stored fat and the release of excess water from the tissues. By plateaus, I'm sure you are referring to the fact that many dieters find "instant success" followed by a discouraging period when weight loss is likely to be measured in ounces rather than in pounds or with no loss at all.

The early loss is usually attributable to the release of water, particularly in dieters who have decided to cut out things such as beer. All the plateau means is that the body has given up about all of the liquid it wants to for the time being.

After this plateau period, the dieter usually finds that his weight loss is resumed. Many people can't get over this psychological plateau and despair of ever losing more weight. Those who persist, however, usually find success.

Incidentally, I don't know, in your specific case, how much you could safely afford to lose, but I can make a generalization. For the average person, your 500-calorie diet is pretty low. I would say that a 900 to 1,000 calorie intake would be more reasonable, and probably just as effective in the long run.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level that best suits your individual needs. For a copy, write to him, care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope.

Robins 'Hero'

OTTAWA (AP) — John Diefenbaker, a former prime minister, wants the Canadian government to stop the shooting of robins in the province of New Brunswick. Blueberry farmers have been allowed to destroy robins that feast on their crops. One grower said he killed 7,000 birds last year. "It's scandalous that we would ever think of the wholesale destruction of these song birds," said Diefenbaker.

Accommodation Needed

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — George Meany of the AFL-CIO, a bull who carries his own china shop with him, has been huffing and puffing at President Nixon whom he helped, if only in a negative way, to be re-elected in 1972. In his latest blast he said the President was in a fragile mental state so overwhelmed by the cares of his office as to be on the verge of a breakdown.

SUCH A reckless statement by a public figure is a profound disservice. In the opinion of this observer Mr. Nixon intends to stay in office for the duration of his second term and, therefore, anything that further cripples him can only add to the plague of doubt and uncertainty hanging over this capital.

I say this hesitantly, since I was wrong about Soiro Agnew. I wrote that the vice president would tough it out, since that was the opinion early in the Department of Justice. Agnew was, of course, privately bargaining to avoid a jail sentence under a five-count indictment.

SHORT OF some new disclosure of wrongdoing in his administration dwarfing what has already come to light, the President will not be impeached. Congress doesn't have the heart for it. In his speech to the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach, Mr. Hubert Humphrey talked common sense, pointing out the hazards in the impeachment process. This was in contrast to other orators who got cheers and applause by calling for Nixon's scalp.

There is, however, a Rubicon the President will cross at his own great risk. That is to insist that the prosecution of all the charges left hanging by the firing of Archibald Cox be kept in the Justice Department and, therefore, remain a subordinate part of the administration. No amount of rhetoric about independence will make such an arrangement credible.

OPINION IN Congress is overwhelmingly in favor of an independent prosecutor created by act of Congress with appointment by Judge John J. Sirica and responsible to the grand jury. To oppose that sentiment will be to give a new upsurge to impeachment, which was damped down by the decision on the tapes.

A monstrous undertaking awaits the special prosecutor. It alone will require weeks of diligent effort to ready a case for presentation to a grand jury. One memorandum appears to involve the President directly in calling off the antitrust bloodhounds and allowing a giant conglomerate merger.

EACH DAY brings new reports of strange financial flingings. The President's close friend, Bebe Rebozo, and the $100,000 in cash from Howard Hughes in Rebozo's safety-deposit box and more recently the million-dollar stock portfolio, including allegedly stolen securities, are two glaring examples. All this touching an intimate Nixon friend deserves the closest investigation, and if the inquiry warrants it to be followed by prosecution.

Cox had only begun to take up the cases involving illegal campaign contributions by corporations and corporation executives. A start has been made in this area, but many more cases require preparation and ultimate action.

HARDLY HALFWAY through when he was fired, Cox had done a splendid job. He was hitting close to the man in the White House and his best friends.

To find a successor will not be easy. But a guarantee of independence in an act of Congress will help, for Nixon's press conference remarks hardened the opposition in Congress to a prosecutor appointed by a President.

What the President does not seem to understand is that only an independent prosecutor's findings would be accepted by the public.

Letters To Editor

DEAR EDITOR:

PTA is alive and doing wonders. Just this past week, Oct. 27, the spirit of PTA was demonstrated overwhelmingly at Marcy Elementary School; it had the most financially successful chili supper and carnival in its history. PTA has received very generous publicity through your newspaper, and I believe this in part is responsible for the general awareness motivated in each and everyone who supported us. Thanks to everyone who is making PTA "The Real Thing."

Sincerely,

DEAR SIR:

I don't want to leave without writing about how wonderful the people are. We are just here one day, because my sister's daughter came here to college.

I have never had such wonderful treatment. The lady at the desk of Holiday Inn gave me a glass of iced tea, even though I was not staying there. Next, the man at Grantham's put my watch crystal on and didn't charge. Also, I took my car to the Chrysler place for repairs and received prompt service.

In this day and age when so many people don't seem to care, this was a revelation to find so many kind and considerate people in one town.

Dear Editor:

Last Saturday I had the pleasure of attending a choir party at Goliad Junior High School.

This party was planned and executed by the choir director, Mr. Patrick Bizer, for the benefit of the choir students and their parents. The turnout by students and parents was tremendous and the function was highly successful. It was most gratifying to personally experience this refreshing innovative endeavor. Mr. Bizer is certainly to be complimented for his initiative and courage to pursue his idea to a successful conclusion.

With the lack of structured activities for the children in our community there is a real need for more such functions. It has been called to my attention that there is no deficit of parental interest or willingness to actively support similar such functions. Hopefully Mr. Bizer's example will be a stimulus for more faculty induced and sponsored functions.

"Don't Sit And Wait" Is Speaker's Advice

Older persons need to plan ahead for retirement, promote leisure habits and continue their education, said Miss Bessie Love, president of the Howard County Council on Aging, when she spoke Thursday

Forsan Couple Returns Home

FORSAN (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McCall have returned from Fresno, Calif., where they visited their son, Leon Archer, who underwent surgery recently. Guests of the McCalls were the Wayne Davis' of Houston.

Guests of Mrs. H. H. Story last week were her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stockton, Colorado City.

Visitors in the home of the Don Murphys were the Joe Adkins' Seminole, and the Frank Boechlers of Gates, Ore.

Mrs. J. D. Gilmore, who underwent surgery Oct. 25, has been visited by her children, Mrs. Charlie McGuire, Monahans; Tommy Gilmore, Tyler; Mrs. Floyd Griffith, Los Angeles, Calif.; and a granddaughter, Mrs. Wayne Bohannon, Odessa.

afternoon to Elbow Home Demonstration Club.

In explaining problems which accompany aging, Miss Love said senior citizens need motivation to get them to keep active.

"People of retirement age have time on their hands," she said, "and they should decide what they can do for the community instead of sitting and waiting for someone to do something for them." She noted that women's leisure time is not nearly as extensive as men's and suggested that men learn to help around the house or spend time fishing, reading or working on various collections.

"Roles must change," she said. "Retirement sometimes comes early, and it's a new style of life after retirement. One should watch the diet, eat properly and exercise."

The club met in the home of Mrs. L. M. Duffer, and the speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ross Hill. Mrs. Duffer showed handicrafts which members will work on at the next meeting, Nov. 15. Place of the 9:30 a.m. meeting will be announced, and a Thanksgiving luncheon will be served.

Mrs. Rufus Rogers was a guest.

GOOD NEWS — Mrs. Ardath "Dolly" Saxbe, wife of Sen. William Saxbe, smiles as she learns her husband was named as attorney general by President Nixon Thursday. Mrs. Saxbe was given the news after an interview in their Washington home.

Lunch Break

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We just moved to a place that's close enough to my husband's job or him to come home for lunch every day, and that's my problem.

I don't want to sound like a selfish wife, but, Abby, having George home for lunch every day has upset my whole routine.

For years, I have given my family (four school-age children) a good hot breakfast every morning, and I never saw them again until the kids came home from school, and George came home for supper. Now, here comes George home for lunch every day! It cuts into my day something terrible. He's not the kind of man who can get his own lunch. I have to prepare it and serve it to him. (A little "snack" won't do for him. He likes a MEAL at noon.) Also, he gets amorous when we're home alone, but that's another letter.

DEAR RUINED: Tell George you married him for better or worse — but not for lunch. A lot of women would welcome your problem, but since you feel otherwise, honesty is still the best policy. So level with George, and hope for a fair compromise.

DEAR ABBY: About that Jewish girl who was selected to represent her county at a horse show, which happened to fall on the Jewish High Holy Days: Even if the girl can't participate on a Jewish holiday, why not let the horse participate with a non-Jewish rider? Surely, the horse isn't Jewish. Half the team is better than none.

AC IN RIO RANCHO, N.M. DEAR A.C.: Maybe so, but another reader suggested that scheduling an important sports event on a Jewish holiday was a thoughtless and inconsiderate. "In fact," he said, "it was downright UN-CHRISTIAN!"

Halloween Celebrated With Parade, Dance

Residents, staff members and volunteers participated in a Halloween parade and dance Wednesday at Big Spring State Hospital.

The parade featured a Halloween queen, riding in a convertible driven by a volunteer, Mrs. Pete Rhymes, followed by the queen runners-up, riding in a car driven by Adolph Supak. Clowns were led by Frank Wharton, and a pom-pom group was led by Mrs. Jane Powell.

Forsan Band members participated, directed by Mike Neal, and there were "hobo" entertainers from Unit 10. Some residents rode in a bus driven by Rodney Hammack, and the rest of the parade proceeded on foot. Mrs. Otillie Van Vleet, director of nursing service, and other nursing and staff personnel joined the group.

Leon White's band played for a dance which began at 7:15 p.m. in the auditorium of the Allred Building. Decorations by a volunteer, Mrs. Dal Smith, included two large black witches surrounded by a mount of assorted Halloween masks. During intermission, various games were played, and fortunes were told by Mrs. Van Vleet. Refreshments were served by Charlie Voight, director of food service.

Welcoming Tea Held Wednesday

Newcomers and other residents of Big Spring were introduced at a welcoming tea Wednesday at Texas Electric Reddy Room, sponsored by Newcomers Handicrafts and Newcomers Bridge clubs.

A Halloween theme was used for decorations. Gold tablecloths were accented with black crepe paper runners and place-markers shaped like orange pumpkins. An arrangement of fall flowers around three orange candles centered the table.

About 20 guests attended, in addition to club members. Mrs. Jane Hendrix won the attendance prize.

A meeting of the handicrafts group is scheduled at 9:30 a.m., Nov. 14 in the home of Mrs. Linda Colosimo, 2612 Larry. Demonstrations will be given on hooked rugs, broomstick lace, crocheting and knitting. Anyone interested in joining the club may contact Mrs. Colosimo, 263-0018.

Middle East War Brings End Of World Scriptures

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Exponents of Biblical prophecy keep an articularly fateful eye on the Middle East. Among them, the new trouble there has fanned further feelings that the world is nearing its end.

"Doomsday talk," it's sometimes called. It interprets Scripture to predict a final, terrible war among the world's nations over Israel, the battle of Armageddon, climaxed by the coming of the Lord to rule the earth.

"The great day of God the Almighty," Revelations 16:14 calls it. The present situation in the Middle East is "part of the picture," pointing to the last days, says the Rev. Dr. John F. Walvoord of Dallas, Tex., a specialist on literalistic applications of Bible prophecy.

However, he says some of the immediate conjectures about it are "just emotionalism. Many people who don't understand Bible prophecy jump to a lot of conclusions. It's a difficult field and we don't have all the answers."

Nevertheless, he says the end-of-time mood is "a phenomenon of our age." Hal Lindsey, whose "The Late Great Planet Earth" has sold more than two million copies and who forecasts the end in this generation, is quoted in the current issue of the evangelical weekly, Christianity Today, as saying of the Middle East situation:

"This is a continuation of the priming of the fuse which will finally ignite the last war."

Sunday School Faithfulness Stressed At Evangel Church

The Evangel Temple Assembly of God will kick off their Sunday School "Loyalty Month" Sunday, Nov. 4, with services at 9:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. Loyalty and faithfulness to Evangel Temple's Sunday School will be stressed in various programs throughout the four Sundays of November.

Special opening exercises by Sunday School superintendent R. G. Nelson will begin the day's activities. Later, a skit directed by Pastor Calvin will be presented, stressing being on time and being faithful. The Maddux Team returns to Evangel Temple for these two special services by popular demand, having just returned from revival with First Assembly of God, El Paso.

The public is invited to attend these two special services which will stress faithfulness to Sunday School classes and being punctual, at the 9:45 a.m. hour.

Texas Churches Schedule Special Training Labs

AUSTIN — Two new laboratories will be offered at the 6th annual Southwest Training Laboratories — scheduled Jan. 25-Feb. 1 — according to spokesmen of the Texas Conferences of Churches.

The event will be held at the Presbyterian Mo-Ranch, near Education and Consultant- Trainers Southwest.

Basic and advanced labs, as well as an interne program designed to help future trainers prepare themselves, will be offered. Deadline for registration is Jan. 3, 1974.

Southwest Training Laboratories events are designed for men and women active in churches and organizations on a volunteer or professional basis. Those active in religious education, church committees, community development and social action can use learning opportunities available through these events.

Particularly attractive and helpful is the ecumenical variety found, among participants and staff, according to spokesmen. Local sponsorship permits specific focus on types of Laboratory Training most useful to the Church in the Southwest, as well as savings in tuition, travel and time. Sponsors are especially interested that an increased number of representatives from ethnic minority groups will apply.

The two new laboratories to be offered are Designing for Experiential Learning and Explorations in Human Development.

Other laboratories offered are Basic Human Interaction, Basic Organizational Development, Creative Management of Change, and Explorations in the Applied Behavioral Sciences. The Interne Program, which will begin Jan. 20, is for persons seeking trainer certification.

Descriptive information brochures and registration applications have been distributed to TCC-member judicatory administrative heads and other interested organizations and persons. Additional information and applications are available upon request from the TCC office in Austin.

Southwest Training Laboratories are recognized nationally as a major training event that employs rigorous standards and a staff of tested quality. All members of the staff are Consultant-Trainers Southwest trainers.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass
4 ♠ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠

To many players, the sight of 100 honors is like a red rag to a bull. For a handful of points, they are prepared to play in the wrong game contract. Today's South let honors blind his judgment, but fortunately he possessed the skill to redeem himself in the play.

Not even the strictest theoretician could take exception to the first two bids in the auction. However, South's rebid is open to question. His hand almost certainly will produce seven tricks at a no trump contract, and nine tricks usually are easier to make than ten. He should have been prepared to give up on his honors and simply rebid three spades, offering North a choice of contracts.

With North as declarer at a no trump game, ten tricks can be made on any lead. West led the jack of clubs, and declarer was faced with the prospect of four losers in the minor suits. It was unlikely that West held the king of clubs, but the finesse couldn't cost, so declarer tried the queen from dummy. East won the king and returned the four, West's seven forcing dummy's ace.

The queen-jack of hearts offered some hope, but declarer needed two entries to dummy to establish a heart trick, for he would first have to unblock the ace of hearts in his hand. Unfortunately, the club attack had removed one of dummy's entries prematurely. The only chance for an extra entry lay in the trump suit—declarer could finesse the eight and, if West held the nine, he would have a second entry. This play risked going down two, but the extra 100 points was a small price to pay in an attempt to win the game.

Since this was the only hope, declarer crossed to his hand with the ace of hearts, led the deuce of trumps to dummy's eight and closed his eyes. When he opened them he saw that East had followed with the three.

The queen of hearts was led and declarer discarded his remaining club as West won the king. The club return was ruffed in the closed hand, a trump was led to dummy's ace and the jack of hearts was cashed, declarer discarding a diamond. He returned to his hand with the ace of diamonds to draw the last trump and then conceded a diamond trick. His only losers were one trick in each plain suit.
