WORLD WAR II-TYPE PROGRAM

Plan For Rationing Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's contingency plan for rationing gasoline envisions a World War II-type program supervised by 6,000 local boards which would dole out coupons to each motorist.

But just how much gasoline each motorist could expect still has not been decided.

The plan, developed by the Office of Emergency Preparedness and modified over the years, is one of various options now being considered by the Nixon administration if gasoline rationing is required.

EARLY NEXT YEAR

Both John A. Love, director of President Nixon's Energy Policy Office, and Secretary of the Interior Rogers C.B. Morton have said that rationing may be needed early next year.

Basically, the contingency plan calls for issuance of rationing checks or coupons to all motor vehicle owners. There would be two kinds of coupons, one for essential, the other for nonessential use.

The plan at this stage does not answer the question in the minds of most motorists how much fuel will each individual be entitled to. That decision will be left to the administration to determine as supply demands.

Kenneth Lay, deputy undersecretary of the interior, said Tuesday a basic individual ration of 10 to 15 gallons per week for each motorist "is the most likely range, at this point."

SET LIMITS

Lay also said "active consideration" was being given to an early extension of mandatory fuel allocations at the wholesale level, which already apply to heating oil, to include gasoline and other petroleum products.

Mandatory allocation, however, would control gasoline distribution only at the wholesale level and motorists would still be free to buy gasoline wherever they can find it, until direct consumer rationing comes along to set limits on their purchasing.

The government figures that the gasoline-rationing contingency program would cost an estimated $170 million a year, including about $64 million for staffing the local boards with two clerks apiece.

The coupons issued would be non-transferable and a signature would be required when a sale was made.

COLLECT COUPONS

To get resupplied, local gas stations would have to collect these coupons and give them back to the government.

According to the plan, the program would be run by an Energy Rationing Agency. There would be a national office with 150 employees, 10 regional offices with a total of 150 staff members and 100 district offices with 900 people working.

The local rationing boards would be set up in cooperation with state governments, which would use members of local draft boards to help select the members.

To get the program started, the plan suggests that the President ban the sale of gasoline nationwide for several days so that the rationing plan can go into effect without consumers rushing in to hoard supplies during the last hours.

Israel, Egypt To Exchange Prisoners

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel and Egypt are to begin exchanging prisoners of war Thursday morning, the International Red Cross announced today.

The exchange would remove one of the key barriers to full implementation of the U.S.-sponsored truce along the precarious cease-fire lines between Israel and Egypt along the Suez Canal.

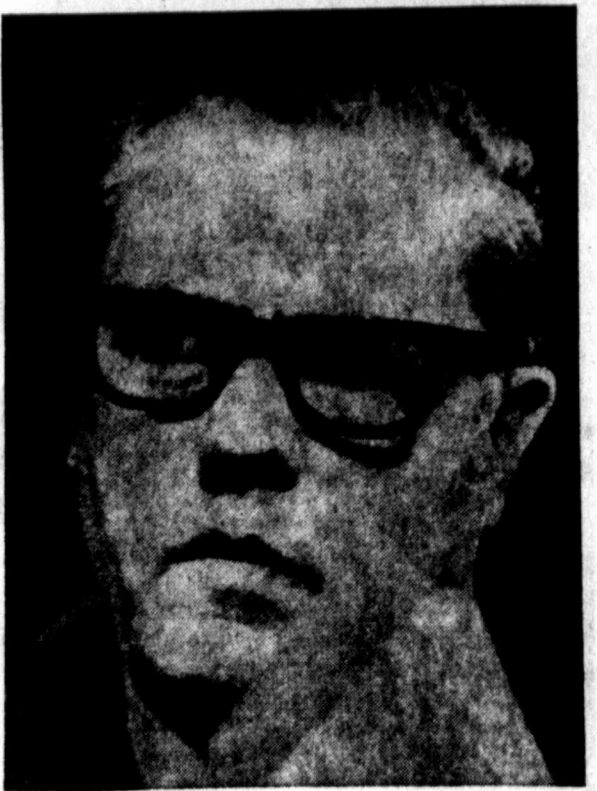

Premier Golda Meir of Israel has demanded agreement on return of Israeli war prisoners before moving any further in carrying out the accord signed Sunday.

The Red Cross representative in Israel, Michel Convaire, said an agreement to begin the trade at 8 a.m. Thursday came out of a meeting on the Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire line between generals of the two sides.

The swap will be performed by direct flights between Egypt and Israel, Convaire said.

Israel says it holds about 7,000 Arab prisoners from the October war — about 6,900 Egyptians and 100 Syrians, Moroccans, Iraqis and Jordanians.

The Israeli command says Egypt holds about 350 Israelis, while Syria holds another 100.

SAYS HE WAS TOLD TO LIE — Robert Bartomeo, secretary of the American Shipbuilding Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, tells members of the Senate Watergate committee Tuesday on Capitol Hill he was ordered to lie to the FBI about funneling illegal corporate contributions to President Nixon's 1972 campaign through a bogus bonus scheme.

CAMPAIGN Fund Raising Borders On Extortion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of Ashland Oil Co., who has admitted making an illegal $100,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign, testified today that campaign fund raising in America borders on extortion.

MORE OR LESS OBLIGATED

Orin E. Atkins told the Senate Watergate committee current fund-raising methods should be abandoned in favor of public financing of political campaigns.

Atkins said former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans telephoned him in early 1972 and asked for a $100,000 contribution to the Nixon campaign and a $10,000 advertisement in a Republican brochure. Stans never asked specifically for a corporate contribution or made any threats or promises, Atkins said.

"I felt more or less obligated," Atkins said. "We were not seeking any privilege or benefit because only a small amount of our business is with the government."

COSTLY CALLING CARD

"We wanted to assure ourselves a forum, a calling card to get us in the door to make our point of view heard in the executive branch."

Committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., asked Atkins if he would agree that "the method of raising campaign contributions borders on extortion."

"Very much so," Atkins said. Atkins, whose firm was fined $5,000 and who personally was fined $1,000 for making an illegal corporate contribution, said: "There was never any doubt in my mind where the money was going to come from. I know what I had in the bank, and it didn't come anywhere close to that ($100,000)."

Atkins said he discussed the Stans request with three other top Ashland executives and it was agreed that Clyde Webb, external affairs vice president, would stop in Geneva during a trip across Europe and pick up the money in cash from a Swiss bank.

The funds were drawn from a Gabon subsidiary of Ashland and carried on Ashland-Gabon's books as an investment in an undeveloped lease hold, he said.

That way, Atkins said, the withdrawal would not be noticed and would not be written off for tax purposes.

Coahoma Residents Help A Neighbor

J. L. Baugh, Coahoma cotton farmer, is in serious condition in Hall Bennett Hospital, suffering from results which occurred after he spilled acid from defoliant on the lower part of his body Thursday.

But he's in good shape for friends. Tuesday afternoon they stripped a defoliated field, hauled it to the Shive Gin in Coahoma, which operated into the night to get out 78 bales which came from 37 acres.

Baugh was preparing to defoliate one of his cotton fields and spilled the defoliant. It apparently infiltrated into the blood stream and he suffered kidney blockage and other complications and was in critical condition within a few hours after the accident.

Among friends and neighbors who furnished strippers were Charlie Wolf, Sammy Buchanan, Donald Lay, Travis Reed, Clay Reed, Charles D. Reed, Charlie Mettralf, Carroll Choate, Narcicio (Cecil) Cavallios, Wendell Shive, and Rodney Brooks. Others operating equipment included Buster Bond, Joe Best and John Best. Haulers included Charlie Wolf, Donald Lay, Melvin Choate, J. W. Broughton, Earl Hull and Floyd Hull.

Strippers moved into the field at 1 p.m. and in little over three hours had it cleaned and the cotton rolling to gin. Shive halted operations there to give the Baugh cotton priority until the last bale rolled out of the press.

'Thrift Days' Get Under Way Today

"Thrift Days," the annual pre-Christmas sale of the downtown merchants, begins today and will continue for six weeks.

Special bargain buys will be offered and 100 silver dollars will be given away in a 4 p.m. drawing each Saturday in front of Prager's Men and Boys' Wear.

Registration for the drawings may be done at the following participating stores: C. R. Anthony, Big Spring Hardware, Carter Furniture, City Pawn Shop, Franklin's, Gibbs and Weeks, Good Housekeeping, The Kid's Shop, J. C. Penney, Prager's, Sears, Smallwood Western Wear, Ward's Boot Saddle and Western Wear, Wheat Furniture, Zales, Jack Lewis Buick Cadillac, Settles Coffee Shop and Jimmy's Men and Boy's Wear.

'Chased' By UFO

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Two Cameron County deputies said they were "chased" by an unidentified flying object as they drove early today between Brownsville and San Benito in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Deputies Eddie Gonzalez and Frank Lopez were taking three prisoners to the state prison at Huntsville and had just left the north city limits of Brownsville on U.S. 83 when they radioed the sheriff's office here that they were being followed.

The officers described the object as being brightly lighted with a red light on the top and bottom. They said the object stayed directly above their automobile at an altitude of about 50 to 60 feet for the entire 20-mile trip. The officers said the object speeded up and slowed down each time they did.

The sheriff's department said they received reports of sightings of similar objects from Port Isabel and Laguna Vista.

A man from Poteet in South Texas stopped a highway patrolman Tuesday evening and reported a UFO had hovered above his car and tried to stop him. The Department of Public Safety reported.

The man said he could see "tall, thin and green" occupants in the UFO, which he spotted two miles east of Poteet on Farm 1470.

According to DPS, the patrolman inspected the car top and something apparently had dropped on the vehicle, stripping the paint away.

The prisoners kicked a door open and dashed away after reaching the first floor of the courthouse via the dumb waiter, officers said.

The man asked that his name not be made public, the DPS said, because he was afraid people would laugh at him.

Four Young Inmates Flee

GRAHAM, Tex. (AP) — The search continued today for four young inmates of the Young County Jail who escaped the unguarded facility Tuesday afternoon after making their way down an elevator shaft.

City police dispatcher Forrest Lasater said they escaped Tuesday afternoon while Sheriff John Edwards, who lives at the jail, had been called away by a death in his wife's family.

Officers said the quartet seized a car parked outside a bank near the county courthouse and roared away toward Wichita Falls. There were a 30-30 rifle and a .22 caliber pistol in the auto, police said.

'THERE'S GOING TO BE TROUBLE' Didn't Know Gun Was Loaded, Sobbing Ex-Officer Testifies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former Dallas police officer Darrell Cain, sobbing on the witness stand, testified today that he thought the pistol was empty when he held it to 12-year-old Santos Rodriguez' head and fired the bullet which killed the boy.

Cain said the shooting was unintended and accidental.

Under cross-examination by Dallas Asst. Dist. Atty. Doug Mulder, Cain said he had never used his gun while questioning witnesses before.

ACCIDENTAL

Cain said, he removed the .357 magnum pistol from his holster and opened the chamber, pushed the cylinder ejector and glanced to see if it was empty before locking the weapon and pointing it at Rodriguez.

"No, I didn't know there was a bullet in there," Cain replied to a question.

"Was it intentional, accidental or how?" defense lawyer Phil Burleson asked.

"It was accidental," said the slender ex-policeman.

Cain's attractive brown-haired, brown-eyed wife sat with a stricken look on her face, her lips parted while her husband testified.

TROUBLE

Security around the courtroom was tightened today with sheriff's deputies using a metal detector. Women's purses were searched.

Sheriff Raymond Frank said there have been rumors that "There's going to be trouble" if Cain is acquitted.

Santos Rodriguez was killed while he and his brother, David, 14, were being questioned by Cain and Patrolman Roy Arnold about a service station burglary. Both boys were handcuffed and sitting in a squad car when Cain held his .357 magnum pistol near Santos' head and pulled the trigger around 2:30 a.m. July 24, David Rodriguez testified.

Arnold and Cain both have been dismissed from the Dallas police force.

FRONT SEAT

Patrolman Jerry Foster, who also was investigating the burglary, said "the front seat lit up just like daylight" when the pistol fired.

He said Cain leaped out of the back seat screaming, "My God, my God! What have I done? I didn't mean to do it."

"He just kept saying, 'I didn't mean to do it, I didn't mean to do it,'" Foster testified.

Attempted Jailbreak Is Thwarted By Policemen

Sgt. Claude Morris narrowly escaped being shot while on the stairwell of the City Jail this morning. James L. Fisher, 19-year-old prisoner from Lakewood, Ohio, suddenly knocked Morris to the floor, and seized his pistol in a scuffle. The incident occurred at approximately 9:15 a.m.

Fisher, picked up yesterday morning on the edge of IS 20 unconscious, was charged with drunk in public.

Fisher had just appeared in municipal court and had pleaded not guilty and was to remain in jail until Wednesday of next week when he would appear for trial.

The youth knocked the sergeant to the stairway landing as they rounded the corner of the walk-up and began to hit him on the side of the head. He then reached under the officer and grabbed his pistol.

The sergeant was appealing for help in muffled tones. Mrs. Frankie Marstrand raced from the front desk to see what was wrong and the sergeant warned her that the prisoner had his gun.

She ran through the station screaming for help and Capt. Sherrill Farmer, Det. Avery Falkner and Jimmy Wallace ran to the scene.

The prisoner fought all four men briefly before being subdued and replaced in jail. Additional charges will be filed today.

Morris was bleeding from the side of his face and ear following the affray.

Jones said tests showed the bullet was fired six inches from the boy's head.

Fred M. Jenkins of the Dallas police department's crime scene search bureau, testified at length concerning the burglary about which the Rodriguez brothers were being questioned when Santos was killed.

He said he had lifted fingerprints from "anything I could dust," including the cigarette and soft drink machines that had been broken into.

"Did you find anything to associate David or Santos with the burglary of that service station?" asked Dallas Assistant District Attorney Doug Mulder.

"No, I didn't find anything," Mulder said.

Princess Anne Weds Captain

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, the only daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, married a commoner cavalry captain today in a televised spectacle that gave Britons a brief respite from economic crisis and threats of an oil shortage.

Anne, 23, became the bride of Capt. Mark Phillips, 25-year-old son of a wealthy food company executive. The queen did not give her a new son-in-law a title, at his request, and her daughter became "The Princess Anne, Mrs. Mark Phillips."

Anne still is fourth in line for the throne, but with three healthy brothers she's not likely ever to occupy it.

Fifteen hundred guests jammed into Westminster Abbey for the ceremony, and more than 500 million persons around the world were expected to tune in to the live telecasts. British schoolchildren were given a holiday, and cheering crowds watched the royal family drive to the Abbey in state coaches — the queen with Prince Charles, her eldest son, and Anne with her father, Prince Philip, in a glass coach.

Troops of the Coldstream Guards, the Irish Guards, the Gurkha Rifles, the Royal Air Force, Navy and Marines, and from Phillips' regiment, the Queen's Dragoon Guards, lined the route down the flag-draped Mall and past St. James's Park, the government offices in Whitehall and the Houses of Parliament.

A typically dry, cloudy and

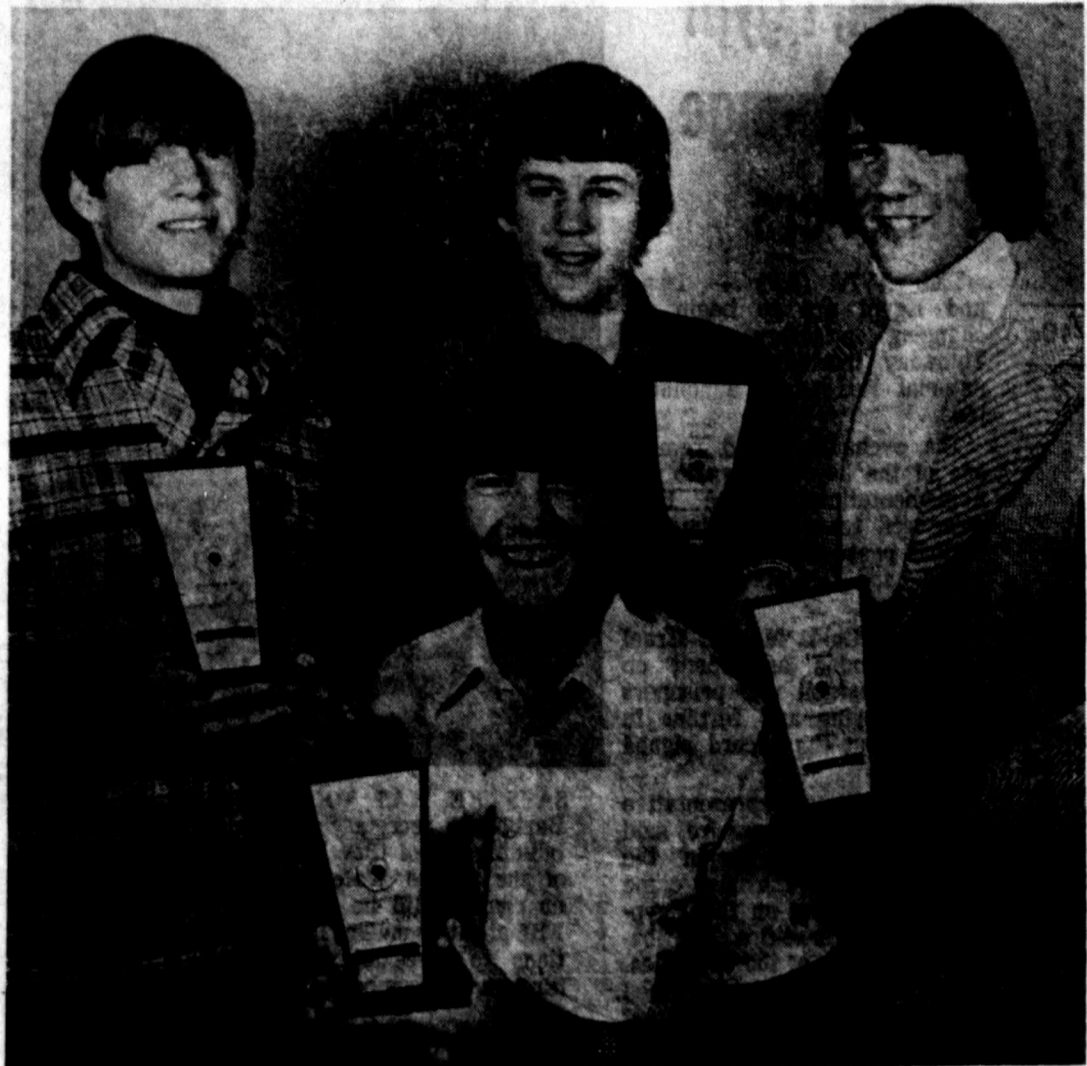

"rather cold" November day was predicted for the wedding, but instead it was bright and sunny for the princess.

"Never mind the cold, dear," said an early arrival outside the Abbey, Mrs. Elsie Sharpley of Beckenham. "I wouldn't miss being here for worlds. Takes you right out of yourself, a wedding does. Especially a royal one."

For her wedding dress Anne passed up such royal couturiers as Norman Hartnell and Hardy Amies and went to the ready-to-wear house of Susan Small for a white silk gown cut on the princess line with a high Edwardian collar of tiny pin tucks, and Elizabethan sleeves edged with pearls and mirrored jewels over finely pleated white chiffon undersleeves.

THAT JUST MARRIED LOOK OF JOY Capt. Mark Phillips and Princess Anne

Hospital District Gets Commission's Blessing

SWEETWATER — Sweetwater city commissioners adopted a resolution Tuesday that a hospital district be organized in Sweetwater. The vote was unanimous. The resolution was signed by Mayor Tom Wideman Jr., and attested by city secretary Leslie Wooten and city attorney Charles Griggs. In other business Simmons Memorial Hospital administrator Ken Dickson and board members Ken Waddell and Jimmy Waddell addressed the commissioners seeking their annual subsidy of $35,000 which the commission will pay. The commission said it would pay $20,000 now and the remainder when it is needed. The commission also approved giving supplementary appropriations to crime prevention coordinator Robert Barron. They also approved more money for police communications equipment. The commissioners passed on first reading an ordinance designating certain areas to be zoned for mobile homes, and that a mobile home district be formed. They also accepted the bid of $31,775.42 for nine vehicles for the 1974 fiscal year. Mayor Wideman reported to the commissioners that he had sent a letter to the Criminal Justice Council to get the ball rolling toward receiving grants for a new jail in Nolan county.

DEATHS

Essie Daily Services for Mrs. J. J. (Essie) Daily, 95, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in River-Welch Chapel with the Rev. Billy Hendrix officiating, assisted by the Rev. J. E. Meeks, Baptist Temple Church. Burial will be in Mt. Olive Cemetery. Mrs. Daily died at 5:50 a.m. today in a local nursing home after a lengthy illness. Born Aug. 18, 1878 in Hopkins County, she married James J. Daily Dec. 4, 1898 in Goldthwaite. They came to Howard County in 1928. Mr. Daily died Aug. 19, 1959. She was a member of Baptist Temple Church. Surviving are two sons, Perry Daily and Orbin Daily, both of Big Spring; three daughters, Mrs. Earl J. Davis, Big Spring, Mrs. Grady Nourse and Mrs. Velma Chambers, both of Stockton, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Faulkner, Goldthwaite, and Mrs. Ollie White, Brownwood; a brother, Earl Perry, Goldthwaite; 11 grandchildren, 23 great-grandchildren.

C. C. Kilway C. C. Kilway, who served as superintendent of the Texas and Pacific's Rio Grande division here around 1930, died Sunday 2:30 p.m. in a rest home at Dallas. He was 93. Arrangements are in charge of the Gerome-Crane Funeral Home, 6534 East Northwest Highway, Dallas. Survivors include two grandsons, John Carter Kilway and Charles Taylor Kilway; and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harold Harts, Dallas, the former Mildred Taylor of Big Spring.

Mrs. Gonzilas SLATON — Services for Mrs. Milady Gonzilas, 64, who died at her Slaton home Tuesday after an apparent heart attack, will be at 9 a.m. Thursday in St. Joseph's Catholic Church here. Graveside services and burial will be at 4 p.m. Thursday in Nelson Grove Cemetery in Gainsville. Among survivors is a daughter, Mrs. John Paul, Big Spring. A son and two other daughters also survive.

Wildcat Staked Near Oil Field

Basin Oil Co. of Big Spring will try to reactivate the Canyon reef field in the Luther East (Canyon) area. Basin No. 1 Anderson will be located 800 feet from the north and 1,850 from the east lines of section 15-31-2n, T&P, one location southwest of the reef opener. The location is 14 miles northeast of Big Spring. When the field was opened by Goldston Oil No. W. D. Anderson in 1955 it rated 187 barrels per day through quarter-inch choke and open hole 7,708-14 feet. James P. Dunigan No. 1 Belew Unit, four miles west of Flvanna, pumped 204 barrels of 30-gravity oil daily from 7,855-59 feet as a northwest Borden Lower Strawn opener. This puts it nearly a mile southeast of a Mississippiian producer.

Health Club Fills Post

Louis Smith, 20, was hired Tuesday to be director of the new YMCA health club scheduled to open next week, according to Pat Owens, physical director. Smith, a Big Spring High School graduate, is now in Odessa being trained for the position by the Y health club director there. He will be responsible for supervising use of the club facilities, developing physical fitness programs and giving massages. To be known as the Dora Roberts Wing, the health club attached to the present Y building contains 6,000 square feet of space and houses a heated swimming pool, steam bath, sauna bath, men's and women's locker rooms, therapeutic whirlpool, massage area and two tanning rooms. Construction work, being handled by Basin Construction Co. of Odessa, will wind up this week with only finishing touches left to be done, according to Owens. Cost of the project was $160,240. The club, intended for adult use only, is expected to attract some 100 women and 150 men as members, Owens said. More can be accommodated, however. Membership in the health club will also entitle a person to use all other Y facilities.

Blandford Is Award Winner

DENVER, Colo. — B o b Blandford, 22, of San Antonio, has been named pro rodeo's 1973 Rookie of the Year, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said. The award goes annually to the man who wins the most money and exhibits the greatest potential as a rodeo cowboy during his first year in the association. Blandford, who competes in bareback, saddle bronc, bull riding, calf roping and steer wrestling, won $14,024 during the season. His best event was calf roping, in which his earnings totaled $10,750; he finished 17th in the standings. The 5-11, 160-pound athlete comes from a 900 acre ranch near the small town of Stockdale, Tex. His family raises cattle on the spread, and Bob spends his time working on the ranch when not competing. Bob's ingredients for success in rodeo, he believes, include mental and physical conditioning, "and constant try." He began his career while in high school, and moved on to college ranks. In 1972 he won first in the bull riding average at the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Finals. His favorite event is calf roping, but he also believes it to be one of the sport's toughest events. "Now days, a man has got to have a good horse, a lot of ability and a lot of luck to win in roping," he said. "I learned my events by practicing with people who knew what they were doing, and by doing a lot of observing." He traveled part of the season with such pros as Ernie Taylor of Hugo, Okla., who is winning his first calf roping championship this year. Final, audited figures for the season show these event leaders: All-around cowboy — Larry Mahon, Dallas, Tex., $37,992; Tom Ferguson, San Martin, Calif., $41,002; Leo Combs, Donnell, Ore., $37,899; saddle bronc riding — Bill Smith, Cody, Wyo., $24,581; John McWeth, Burden, Kans., $20,993; C. Bonine, Haysboro, Mo., $19,762; bareback bronc riding — Joe Alexander, Mineral, Calif., $28,870; Jack Ward, Odessa, Tex., $18,257; Bull riding — Bobby Steiner, Austin, Tex., $25,701; Don Gay, Mesquite, Tex., $25,537; Larry Mahon, Dallas, Tex., $22,514; Calf roping — Ernie Taylor, Hugo, Okla., $36,900; Barry Burk, Duncan, Okla., $24,314; Bob Rogstad, Chowchilla, Calif., $21,429; Ronnie Sewell, Chico, Tex., $20,254; steer wrestling — Bob Marshall, San Martin, Calif., $28,349; Billy Holt, Checotah, Okla., $24,366; Tom Ferguson, San Martin, Calif., $20,789; G.R.A. barrel racing — Gail Patrick, Tecumseh, Okla., $17,212; Jeana Doy, Woodward, Okla., $13,686; Carol O'Rourke, Livingston, Mont., $9,795; and Terri Himes, Big Spring, $5,028, 11th place.

Craddock's Term Here Probated

Mitchell Denny Craddock, 18, Clute, waived indictment and pleaded guilty in 118th District Court to burglary and theft over $50. Craddock was given two concurrent 10-year terms of probation. He was found guilty of the Oct. 2 burglary of a house belonging to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and of taking welding equipment belonging to John Sullivan on Oct. 8. Police said several recent thefts and burglaries have been cleared following Craddock's arrest in Freepport. The list includes the American Restaurant, Wesley Methodist Church and a motorcycle stolen from a Kentwood apartment. The department has recovered $800 in stolen goods and expects to obtain more within the next few days, detectives added.

Chavarría Given Six-Year Terms

Raymond Lopez Chavarría, 18, 206 NE 10th St., pleaded guilty late this morning in 118th District Court to burglary and theft of an automobile. On the recommendation of District Attorney Bob Moore, District Judge R. W. Cato assessed punishment at two concurrent six-year sentences. Chavarría was convicted of robbing Larry Sanders of a gold pocket watch Sept. 29 and stealing a car belonging to Roger Terry Oct. 13. Police said several recent thefts and burglaries have been cleared following Craddock's arrest in Freepport. The list includes the American Restaurant, Wesley Methodist Church and a motorcycle stolen from a Kentwood apartment. The department has recovered $800 in stolen goods and expects to obtain more within the next few days, detectives added.

Thugs Drive Him Out of Business

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — At 78, craftsman cabinetmaker Edwin Westlin has decided to throw in the towel. Three burglaries at his shop — located a block from a police station — and the loss of about $100 in tools all within the space of two weeks, have forced him to give up. "I worked for everything I got," Westlin said Tuesday. "And now, damn it, they drive me out of business."

Wood-Burning Stoves In Short Supply Here

By ANN STEVENS
Wood-burning stoves and portable lanterns are in scarce supply here as local citizens, worried about the energy crisis, have put their money where their fear is. "There is definitely a shortage," said Richard Atkins, general manager of Big Spring Hardware, about the wood-burning stoves known as tin heaters which he usually stocks. Atkins, who has none of the stoves in supply now, said, "We've had dozens of calls for them, while in past years we usually have had only two or three." Buyers of the wood-burners are no longer limited to the poor but now also include those who can afford other means of heat but are frightened that other fuels may be in short supply this winter, Atkins said. Although he has ordered several of the tin heaters, Homer Shankle of Stanley Hardware said he has received only one from his suppliers. "We would stock more if we could get them," he said, noting that one of his suppliers already has 200 such stoves on back order. Shankle attributed the low supply available to the very few firms which manufacture such stoves. "I think only one or two firms in the country make them any more, and they can't begin to fill all the orders," he said. Atkins, who echoed the thought that not enough wood-burning stoves are being manufactured, said he expects the shortage to be only temporary. "I think the supply will catch up with the demand in about three years," he predicted. He went on to note that portable battery-operated lanterns have become a fast-selling item in the past two weeks as people begin to prepare an alternative means to electricity for lighting their homes.

Auto Recovered, Youth Charged

William Craig Forshee, 17, Garden City Route, was in county jail this morning pending bond setting. He is charged with theft of an automobile belonging to Air Force Lt. David Morrow. The automobile was recovered at the scene of an accident in Austin. Deputy sheriffs found at Forshee's house one rifle and one shotgun reported stolen earlier from the John Paul Amos house north of Big Spring, Sheriff A. N. Standard said. A tape player and radio stolen from the Amos house were located at a local pawn shop, Standard said. The Amoses reported discovering the theft Tuesday, the sheriff said.

School of Banking Is Discussed

LUBBOCK — More than 50 bank presidents and other top banking executives of West Texas Tuesday participated in a discussion of plans for Texas Tech University's first Intermediate School of Banking to be conducted by the College of Business Administration May 13-17 next spring. Be combined resources of the academic community and the banking industry, courses have been developed to present important principles and concepts of the industry to provide participants with a vital educational experience, Jack Steele, dean of business administration, said.

Charge Lodged

Thomas S. Hastings, 41, 403 NE 9th St., was in county jail this morning awaiting bond setting. He is charged with defrauding with worthless checks.

City Code Enforcer Can Remove Abandoned Cars

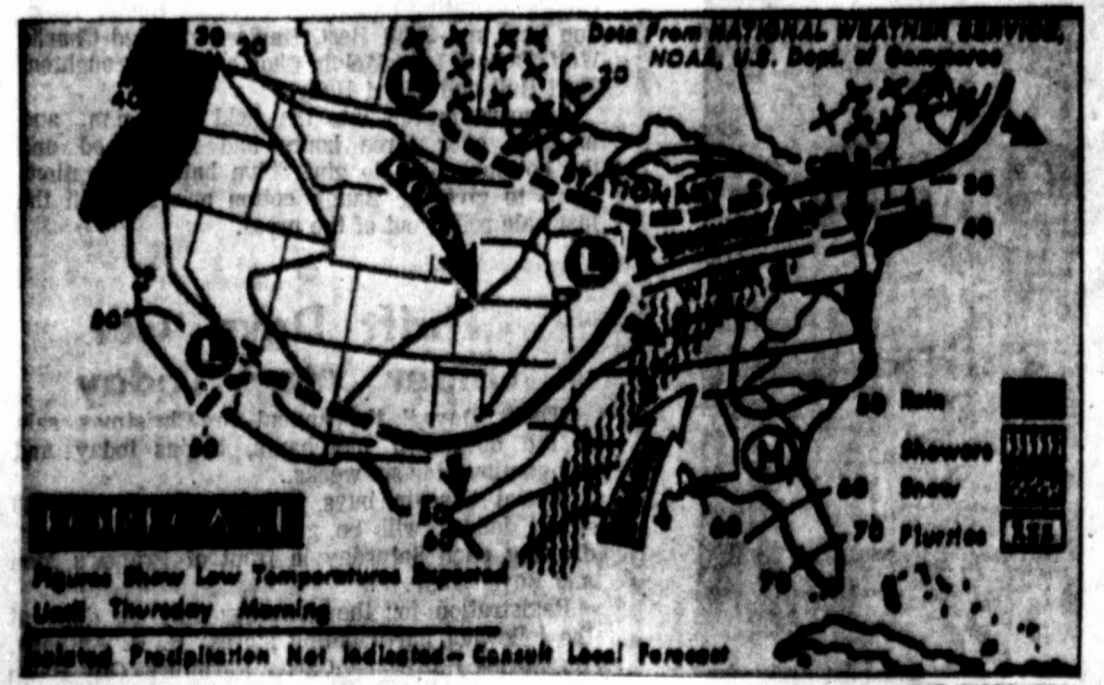

City Manager Harry Nagel Tuesday authorized the code enforcer to haul off abandoned cars on private property without first notifying the property owners. Code Enforcer David Zellars said this policy will apply only to vacant lots, which frequently are owned by persons living outside of Big Spring. Nagel announced the new policy at the City Council meeting following a report by Jack Watkins on progress of the city's Clean Up Shape Up beautification campaign. Watkins, a campaign chairman, said he is clearing away abandoned, junk cars being "sabotaged" at some municipal level, probably by the police department whose job it is to see that junk cars located by Zellars are hauled off and impounded at a wrecking yard on U.S. 87. In defense of the police department, Nagel said that as far as he knows every car has been hauled off as ordered. The delay in getting some hauled off in the past, he said, was trying to locate owners of the property involved. "It's just been eating us up," he commented. With the initial alley cleaning phase of Clean Up Shape Up due to be completed by the end of next week, Nagel indicated that emphasis will shift to clearing weedy lots. Both the hauling off of junk cars and the clearing of weedy lots are allowed by city ordinance. Most property owners contacted in the past about mowing weedy lots have expressed willingness to comply, Nagel said, but have been unable to find someone to do the work for them. The city does not want to get into the business of mowing lots itself, Nagel indicated. "Telling the city staff to start 'gearing up,'" Watkins said the 100-plus volunteers working in Clean Up Shape Up will begin next month submitting to the city lists of unsightly or dangerous conditions throughout town which need to be rectified.

Eysen Mute About Plans

County Attorney W. H. Eysen Jr., today declined to say whether he planned to prosecute in cases, most of them concerning traffic tickets, which have been appealed from Municipal Court and justice courts. "I have no comments to make at all," the county attorney said. "My court's open five days a week and eight hours a day for the bar association and the prosecuting attorney," County Judge A. G. Mitchell said. Representatives of the city have publicly criticized county court for dismissal of cases appealed.

Yanez Retained In County Jail

Jimmy Padilla Yanez, 24, 806 N. Nolan St., came into the police station Tuesday afternoon, surrendering to face charges of murder with malice. Yanez is charged in connection with the shooting of Abraham Lopez, who died in a local hospital Saturday from a gunshot wound in the chest received in the early morning hours of Nov. 1. Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena Jr., set bond at $10,000 and Yanez was still in the county jail this morning.

Mike Dennis Is Now At Home

Mike Dennis, who lost both feet in operations following an accident at a car-wash here last Sept. 4, has returned to Big Spring from a San Antonio hospital and can see visitors at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benny Hatfield, at 1106 Sycamore.

Young Dennis faces more surgery but is doing as well as can be expected, according to his mother.

BENTSEN RAISES $300,000 KITTY '76 Campaign Under Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 presidential campaign has already started, three years before the next election and one year after politicians vowed to prevent a repetition of the seemingly endless 1972 campaign.

If anything, the preliminary maneuvering is ahead of the 1972 pace with both parties involved in the initial soundings. The basic reason for the advance planning is a belief that it takes several years to put together the kind of organization needed to capture the presidency, and a fear that any candidate who delays may find someone else has gotten there first.

Among Democrats, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington is the most active. Some say he never stopped campaigning after his unsuccessful 1972 bid.

Two others who have expressed interest, Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio and Sen. Birch E. Bayh of Indiana, face 1974 tests at the polls before they can decide whether to embark on a presidential race.

Early Start

The early start indicates that the long 1972 campaign of Sen. George McGovern, in which he declared formal candidacy a full year ahead of the usual starting time, may become the rule next time around.

Among the Republicans

Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Democrat John Connally of Texas and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois have started moving around the country, making speeches and extending their GOP contacts.

NEWS STOPPED

Percy is the farthest advanced towards a candidacy. He has announced formation of an Exploratory Committee to guide his decision and has started research on a possible race.

Magic Show Is Set Nov. 17

The Big Spring Police Reserve unit will sponsor a magic show Saturday, Nov. 17 at 10 a.m. at the City Auditorium.

The show is called "Wonderland on Parade" and is a two-hour fantasy show which often is a treat for youngsters while bringing back pleasant memories to adults.

Vince Carmen, the visiting magician, has his hands insured with Lloyd's of London for $100,000. He has appeared on the old Ed Sullivan television show on several occasions and at several of the shows and revues in Las Vegas.

Carmen's hands have been seen as "close ups" performing tricks with playing cards in various television shows and such movies as "Waterhole 3" and the "Flim Flam Man."

His favorite illusion is the levitation mystery, in which a young lady seemingly floats up and over the heads of the audience.

Garage Sale Set By Scout Pack

Cub Scout Pack 63, Den 1, will have a garage sale from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Delator, identified as the seventh house on Gail Road.

Sponsoring organization is a group of residents on North Birdwell Lane, consisting primarily of cub parents.

Way Is Cleared For Crop Loans

All Howard County gins have signed the specification bagging agreement and agree to stamp tare weight on gin bale tags, the county ASCS office has announced.

This means that cotton ginned at any of the gins in Howard County will be eligible for loan unless the gin should be disqualified subsequently.

The ASCS office needs 1973 cotton production records as soon as practical, said Gabe Hammack, county executive director. Sales documents are preferred, but ASCS-503 forms will be accepted. It is important to furnish the records as soon as the crop is gathered in order to establish yield base for 1974. This will be done on the present formula.

Hammack reminded that applications for wool and mohair incentive payments must be filed soon, and not later than Jan. 1, 1974.

Lowrys Visit In Annapolis

Midshipman Fourth Class Cal D. Lowry Jr., recently celebrated Parent's Week-end at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Lowry Sr., Rt 2, Box 243, Big Spring.

Cal Jr. was a 1971 graduate of Big Spring High School, where he played four years of football, starting at tight end in 1970, and serving as the Steer's co-captain, and an offensive and defensive starter at end his senior year.

In addition, he was a National Honor Society Member, President of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and president of the Youth Council at St. Paul Presbyterian Church. He was recruited to play football at Navy by Coach Pete McCulley and was assigned to the Naval Academy Preparatory School at Bainbridge, Md., for the 1972 season. While at Prep School, Cal Jr. started at defensive end in every game of the NAFPS' ten game schedule, against such freshman teams as the Universities of Pittsburgh, Maryland, Temple and Penn. and the Naval Academy frosh.

He was appointed to the Class of 1977, U.S. Naval Academy by Congressman Omar Burleson and entered his Plebe Summer July 1973.

Paving Program Here Is 60 Per Cent Complete

Work in phase one of the city's long-range paving program is 60 per cent complete, according to engineer Roy Crim who reported on paving progress at Tuesday's City Council meeting.

Target date for completion of the initial phase is Dec. 31, Crim said, reporting that 21,000 feet of 35,000 linear feet of curbing and guttering has been completed, so far.

Difficulty with utility companies has slowed progress of the paving, he said. Work is being handled by Price Construction Co., which was awarded a $289,000 contract in June.

Residents living on dirt streets who wish them to be paved may pick up petitions at City Hall, have them signed by other residents of their streets and return them to the public works department, said Mayor Pro Tem Eddie Acri.

These streets may then be included in the second phase of the project.

In his city manager's report, Harry Nagel told the council that the staff is now studying another possible landfill site just west of the present landfill.

He received the council's go ahead to seek county commissioners' court approval of the site. The court rejected a site proposed last month by the city. County approval is needed, Nagel explained, because of health department regulations.

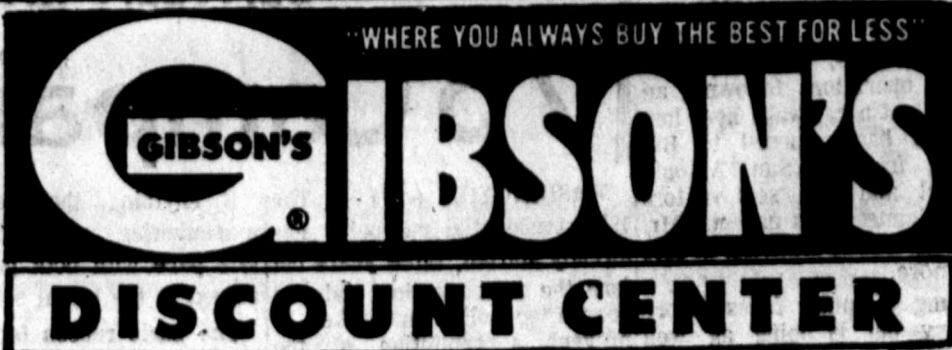

VANDALISM

Rube McNew reported that while he was out of town, extensive damage was done inside a rent house, which he owns, at 1212 E. 19th. Holes were broken in the sheetrock walls, light bulbs shattered and electric wiring torn out of the walls.

Not A Lot Has Changed

Our eyes have been turned to our domestic problems and toward the Middle East; we've about removed Vietnam from our national consciousness. But we could be jangled back into attention, if suspicions of the Pentagon prove true.

According to estimates by U.S. intelligence, the North Vietnamese have moved more than 70,000 troops and 200 cannons into South Vietnam since the cease-fire was signed nine months ago. That gives the Communists an attack potential roughly equal to that employed in their March 1972 offensive.

Too, the Communists have constructed a new all-weather highway system to facilitate the moving of men and material from North to South Vietnam and around South Vietnam once they arrive in zones under Communist control. So Hanoi's strategic position, if it chooses to mount an attack, is greatly improved.

The big question is, if the North Vietnamese decide to push for a military conquest of South Vietnam, what would be our response? The Communist offensive of 1972 was blunted only with the help of massive U.S. aerial support, both on the battlefields and by bombing North Vietnam itself. Without that support, the ability of South Vietnam to survive a like attack is certainly suspect.

At any rate, the circumstances show that what we negotiated was not necessarily peace for Vietnam but an opportunity for us to disengage ourselves with what little honor we had left more or less intact. The issue of Vietnam's future is still very much up in the air; the peace-keeping machinery dictated by the Paris agreement is futile and nearly bankrupt; Cambodia remains in danger of total collapse.

About all that has changed is that South Vietnam is a bit more able to defend itself — and we are done with Southeast Asian military adventurism. Whatever the provocation, we should at least cling to the latter accomplishment, for there is no point in walking back into the quick sand pit.

Saving Grace Of Humor

In matters of diplomacy Secretary of State Henry Kissinger can be a very serious man indeed. But he has the saving grace of humor, one that has been absent in so many men who have filled that office.

Before he was made secretary of state not long ago, Kissinger was President Nixon's secretary of state in all but name. Now he has both the title and the close personal relationship with the President.

He was asked how this arrangement was working out.

"Well, we in the White House are certainly pleased with the leadership at State," he said.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

My wife and I recently saw the movie "Brother Sun-Sister Moon." It was a moving story of the life of St. Francis of Assisi, who appeared to be a tremendously compassionate Christ-like person. I would appreciate your comments on his life style of poverty and love for his fellow man.

Francis of Assisi was in the beginning an unruly, rebellious son of a rich man. Through a series of experiences, he was converted to Christ, and from that moment became one of the world's most totally committed Christians. The secret was that he took the work and teachings of Jesus seriously. I share your enthusiasm for him because he was one of my early spiritual heroes.

There have been a few others like St. Francis who felt compelled to assume a posture of poverty in their special ministry for Christ. Kagawa of Japan is one example. The rigorous self-denial these men practiced commended their message to a goddess and flagrantly apathetic society.

We need to be careful, however, not to practice poverty for poverty's sake. This would only detract from the message, and would deserve the criticism of hypocrisy, as much as the flaunting of wealth.

God wants His followers to be poor in spirit (Matthew 5). It's the attitude of the heart that counts most (1 Peter 3:4). Jesus had friends among the rich and poor alike.

As for love of one's fellow man — this is a commandment Jesus gave that was to be of equal importance with love for God.

I congratulate you on admiring a value system not geared to materialism or self-aggrandizement.

FIRESIDE CHAT

'The Blue Knight'

Hal Boyle

By JAY SHARBUTT
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — "Support Your Local Police," says the poster hanging in Bumper Morgan's locker. Three words spray-painted on the poster sum up his idea of support: "Be a Smith."

It's one of many casually realistic touches scattered about "The Blue Knight," an excellent four-part mini-series NBC-TV is running this week, with the second episode airing tonight.

You ought to catch this show if you've the time, because it's one of the few on TV that really works at trying to honestly depict the attitude and emotions of an ordinary cop on the beat.

Based on the best-selling novel by Sgt. Joseph Wambaugh, a Los Angeles policeman, the TV version of "Blue Knight" is a far, far cry from the clean-cut saintliness of "Adam-12." It has William Holden perfectly cast as Bumper Morgan, a sardonic, hard-as-nails Los Angeles patrolman whose 20 years on the downtown beat have honed his skills to a fine edge while leaving him an emotionally weary man who operates mainly on reflex and instinct.

At 49, he's the kind of cop whose breed is dwindling. He'd rather walk a beat than patrol in a car. As he puts it, "all the good busts come from walking and talking and looking."

He smokes cigars on duty and accepts small freebies. And he often bends, if not violates, Supreme Court guidelines for probable cause, search and seizure if he thinks it's warranted.

His fiancée (Lee Remick), a college professor, kids him about his "police discounts" and devotion to work: "You're my blue knight in a black and white charged . . . you joust and live off the land."

"Try roust," he wryly suggests, using the police term for harassment of suspects.

The four shows concern Morgan's reluctant decision to "pull the pin" — retire — at the end of a week he begins by finding the body of a murdered prostitute, in the Los Angeles River.

The lady turns out to be one of his "snitches" — informants — and he vows to find her killer before he hands in his badge.

He conducts his private search while on his regular beat in a sleazy downtown arena of pimps, junkies and hustlers. It's more than a search, though. It's a farewell tour.

"I just love the battle," he finally admits when asked by one informant, a stripper, why he's pushing so hard on the case.

Eating Habits Can Be Changed

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our 5-year-old son is very attached to her, at her suggestion, for three weeks at a time, but he pines and is so lonely I finally give in and take him to see her.

He plays with children in the neighborhood and goes to nursery school three days a week. He is very bright. He asks each day if it's Friday so he can go see her.

She doesn't spoil him, this I know. He likes my dad, but

We have kept him away from her, at her suggestion, for three weeks at a time, but he pines and is so lonely I finally give in and take him to see her.

He plays with children in the neighborhood and goes to nursery school three days a week. He is very bright. He asks each day if it's Friday so he can go see her.

She doesn't spoil him, this I know. He likes my dad, but this thing about my mother is starting to worry us. Last fall we found out he is inclined to asthma and emotional upsets are not good for him.

Mom baby-sits a lot and all the kids are crazy about her. I try to give him the same TLC that mom gives him. Is he abnormal? — A.M.

I doubt that he's abnormal, but she obviously has a gift of handling children. Tender loving care usually makes a big impression on young ones.

Your son has spent his life with her and in formative years he found that she gave him a sense of security.

He's still only 5, and that feeling of security remains very important to him. So what's abnormal about that?

No doubt he will remain strongly attached to grandma, but as time passes he will sense your attention and devotion to him.

His playing with other youngsters and going to nursery school would indicate to me that he has a reasonable amount of self-reliance for his age.

Probably he presently will want to do something on a weekend — visit a zoo, go on a picnic, or whatever happens to be fun for a small boy with you and his father. I dare say he'll want to get on the telephone and tell grandma about it. But the bigger he gets, the less dependent he will be on the sense of security he now finds in her.

Junk Mail Gems

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

Were it not for my junk mail, many nuggets of knowledge would pass me by.

FOR INSTANCE, I am informed that soap gets its name from Sapo Hill in ancient Rome. Grease from animals given as burnt offerings to the gods got mixed with the ashes from sacrificial fires, and then rain washed this mixture down to the Tiber River where women did their laundry. By golly, they discovered that this odd mixture actually made their garments cleaner.

Apparently, they never noised this discovery about, because centuries intervened before the art of soap making seemed to get beyond the Italian borders. My informant advises that soap was so scarce that even Queen Elizabeth could bathe only once a month. I had understood that the Elizabethan age was ripe for many things, and now I know just how ripe.

To continue this bit of intelligence and allay your suspense, it is chronicled that in the 18th century a pair of Frenchmen came up with methods which rendered soap-making commercially profitable. Nicholas Leblanc developed a method for making alkali-yielding soap cheaply from salt; Michael Eugene Chevreul, thinking to analyze the nature of fats and oils, introduced certain acids into the process, thus assuring more precise controls. But still, soap involved slow cooking (just like grandma's lye soap) into the 1960s when Dial (my, how they sneak in these trade names) developed a tower that produces a batch within minutes.

Similarly, I learn that our oral cavities got in trouble when we went off camel's milk and dates. A varied diet brought on teeth and gum trouble, combatted by crude toothpicks which damaged the gums. Since fingers were not always effective, a happy solution was found in the siwak, a piece of root from the arrak tree. It cleaned and polished teeth and had a good taste. Some primitive tribes are said to still use this bit of oral hygiene. Refinements brought on use of the licorice, lucern, myrtle, dogwood, and mallow root, or tender shoots of the peach tree.

Early texts on dentistry (circa 1726) recommended wet sponges, although some held out for herb roots or a wet hankerchief dipped in salt. Toothbrushes came on in the early 1880s and were more decorative than functional. The U.S. was too busy pushing westward and fighting a civil war to worry about such refinements, but in 1866 manufacture of toothbrushes began, making use of hog bristles (the finest were from the boars of Northern China) and the upper leg bone of an ox for handles. Celluloid proved easier for the handles, and then came nonflammable plastics. It wasn't until about the time of World War II that the use of nylon came on, and now virtually all tooth brushes employ this soft-textured producer (if I am to believe Py-Co-Pay).

So you see, discovery didn't end with the Charles Lamb essay on roast pig. No, indeed, it continues to this day in the form of these junk mail gems that push back the horizons of learning. And now, I can hardly wait until someone swings the conversation around to soap and toothbrushes.

No Real Policy Yet

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — An group of 32 business men invited to the White House last Wednesday for an advance peek at the new energy program also became witnesses to a momentary clash between President Nixon and his domestic counselor, Melvin R. Laird, which reveals much about both the administration's handling of the energy crisis and its general strategy.

LAIRD was listing energy legislation now in the congressional pipeline when he was interrupted by an obviously irritated President. "But there's nothing on my desk now, is there?" Mr. Nixon asked his counselor. The impression given the businessmen: while Laird was trying to solve the fuel shortage in close cooperation with Congress, the President wanted to blame Congress for causing the crisis.

THIS CONTRAST between the President and his counselor transcends the energy crisis. But in this case, the presidential attempt to lay blame on Congress particularly infuriates Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill who believe their early warnings about the energy crunch were ignored by the White House. In truth, key administration officials admit the President delayed until it was too late to prevent disaster. Even at this eleventh hour, the administration's handling of the crisis seems fuzzy and uncoordinated.

SEN. HENRY M. Jackson of Washington, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, can claim to be the leading Cassandra. His June 13, 1972, letter to the President warning about U.S. dependency on Middle Eastern oil was ignored. So was Jackson's Dec. 10, 1972, call for Mr. Nixon to name an energy czar.

ONE REASON why Jackson's warnings went unheeded was that domestic policy chief John D. Ehrlichman then tightly controlled decisions on energy. Ehrlichman was busy attempting to keep from going down with the Watergate wreck when energy decisions were needed. When Ehrlichman finally fell last April, the dominant administration voice in the energy field became William Simon, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury. A Wall Street investment expert, Simon at first opposed mandatory fuel allocations but later was convinced by Jackson and other congressional leaders of their necessity.

BUT ON June 29 Gov. John Love of Colorado was appointed energy czar and quickly ruled against mandatory allocations, delaying for weeks what Democrats in Congress long had been urging.

Love, popular and well regarded as governor, has been an almost totally unrelieved disappointment here. Even administration officials admit he lacks the background, temperament and governmental powers to be energy czar. In fact, he does not want the power.

THERE IS, therefore, a one-word answer to the question of who is running the government's energy policy: nobody. When Jackson on October 17 unveiled his legislation for fuel self-sufficiency, Love's office replied it would soon send up its own bill. That same day, Love told the Senate Interior Committee the administration had no contingency plans in case of an Arab oil cut-off.

MR. NIXON might not have avoided the crunch even had he heeded Jackson's first warnings. In any event, it is too late now to avoid terrible painful economic consequences. Nevertheless, almost everybody concerned believes Mr. Nixon should belatedly put somebody in charge of the crisis to at least minimize the economic dislocation.

You'll Look Less Like A Vagrant

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The University of Arizona's student handbook gives long-haired students a tip on how to get into Mexico without encountering trouble: bribe the Mexican border guards.

Under a paragraph titled "Getting into Mexico with Long Hair," the handbook says:

"If you are male and have long hair or a beard, you should not expect too much trouble getting into Mexico if you obtain your tourist card at the border. Sometimes a friendly dollar or two can clear up any question in this area that might come to the mind of the border personnel."

The handbook is distributed to the 25,000 students on campus. The Mexican border is about 65 miles south of here.

In the past, some students have had trouble getting across the border because Mexican authorities have been trying to keep young vagrants out of the country.

Fishless Day

SYDNEY (AP) — Sydney is especially short of fish one day a year.

It's supposed to be the fishermen's annual picnic, but there never is a picnic. However, the fish market is closed under the regulations.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect. (Matthew 5:48)

PRAYER: Eternal God, fill our minds with clean and holy thoughts, our hearts with love akin to Thine. Kindle in us a desire to develop fully a true Christian character, that by example we may lead others to Thee. Amen.

Day Care Center To Open In December

West Side Day Care Center has been incorporated, licensed by the state, and will begin operation Dec. 1 at 1308 W. 5th.

Enrollment will be limited to 30 and only children from six months to four years of age, residing within the Cedar Crest schools lines can be accommodated, if their parents meet qualifications.

Basically, these qualifications are that the mothers be from low income families, be either working, training for work or actively seeking work. The day care center will operate adjacent to, but separately from, the West Side Community Center, 1308 W. 5th.

Mrs. Don Wiley, who has been named director of the day care center, said if the program succeeds, perhaps it may be enlarged or even other centers established in other school attendance areas.

There will be a small fee charged, but this will be worked on individual cases and geared to schedules suggested by the state. Mrs. Wiley stressed that the program is licensed by the Texas Department of Public Welfare and subject to its regulations. The state funds 70 per cent of the cost; local gifts 30 per cent.

All local funds have been used in completely renovating the former West Side Center building. All new wiring and plumbing have been installed, along with new flooring, complete repainting and new equipment. The center can still use donations of toys, etc. brought to the center and, certainly, cash (mailed to 1308 W. 5th).

The program of the center, which seeks to provide a good home environment away from home, will give unstructured or informal training and provide a hot meal and two snacks daily for the children. Hours tentatively will be 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., but these are flexible and will be made to fit needs of the mothers. Objective is to give working mothers freedom to earn family income and freedom from worry about their babies and small children.

Julian Patterson is president of the West Side Center, Inc., and Mrs. Adrian Randle is the secretary. Board members include Dr. Ray Owen, Rev. Jim Collier and Mrs. O. A. McBrayer.

The Cedar Crest attendance district lies west of Gregg, south of the Eleventh Place extension and north of the Texas and Pacific tracks. The western terminus is approximately along Hillcrest. Applications may be made now to the Center, 1308 W. 5th.

Local Eagles Auxiliary Hears State President

"People helping People" was the topic discussed Monday evening by Mrs. Erle J. Robertson of Midland, state president of the Eagles Auxiliary, when she spoke to local members at Settles Hotel.

Mrs. Robertson described philanthropic projects supported by Texas aeries and auxiliaries, such as the High Sky Girls Ranch, Midland, and two boys' ranches. On a national level, the groups assist the Jimmy Durante Crippled Children's Fund and the Max Baer Heart Fund.

"Think Big" is Mrs. Robertson's theme for the year, and she urged increased membership. A charter member of Permian Auxiliary in Midland, she has held several district and state posts.

Dinner Held At Masonic Temple

Guests from Big Spring and Odessa, including Sir Knights, were in attendance Monday evening when the Social Order of the Beauce held a Thanksgiving dinner at the Masonic Temple. The invocation was by Sir Knight Wright Vickers.

The program included a vocal solo by Mrs. W. C. Fryar, accompanied by Mrs. L. R. Mundt, and a talk by Sir Knight Alfred Tidwell, Imminent Commandry No. 31. Mrs. Ralph Lalonde, president of Big Spring Assembly, spoke briefly and read a poem.

After the dinner, the women held an initiation ceremony for Mrs. Ray F. White. The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 26.

Reception Fetes Two In Odessa

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Smart, 904 E. 25th, Odessa, were honored at a 50th wedding anniversary reception Sunday in their home. The couple lived for many years in Coahoma prior to moving to Odessa 10 years ago.

Hosting the reception were the honorees' four children and their families. They are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Odum, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Smart, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smart, Shawnee, Okla.; and Miss Loraine Smart of California.

Mr. and Mrs. Smart were married Nov. 8, 1923 in Oklahoma. Prior to retirement, he was employed by Sinclair Oil and Gas Company. They are members of Odessa Rebekah Lodge and attend Free Will Baptist Church.

Mrs. Smart was presented a corsage of gold orchids and her husband received a carnation boutonniere. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a gold linen cloth and featuring a gold coffee service. The centerpiece was an arrangement of carnations and mums in fall colors.

Triple L Club Plans Dinner

A Thanksgiving dinner for the Triple L Club of First Baptist Church is scheduled at 8:30 p.m., Thursday in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Patrick, 2810 Coronado. Dr. Patrick is pastor of the church. Members are to bring a salad, dessert or vegetable. Guests are welcome.

Well-Padded

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for five years. I've always told her that I prefer well-filled out girls to skinny ones. My wife is really overweight, but knowing that I like a well-padded body has given her an excuse to get sloppy fat.

She is 5 feet 2, weighs about 170 pounds, and is still gaining. I've hinted that she should start reducing, but to no avail. How can I get it across to her that I would like her to lose about 40 pounds?

AIR FORCE HUSBAND DEAR HUSBAND: Quit hinting, and tell her that by "well-filled out" you do not mean, "bursting at the seams." Tell her, too, that carrying around all that excess weight is unhealthy, and you'd be heartbroken were she to drop dead of high blood pressure or heart trouble, because then you'd be forced to replace her with a younger, slimmer, healthier woman. (THAT should do it!)

DEAR ABBY: I would like to get the opinion of some hairdressers. My mother passed away, and a few hours later I got a phone call from a hairdresser saying she had heard the sad news, and wanted to come to the funeral home to fix my mother's hair. She said she thought so much of Mom she felt that this was the last favor she could do for her. I thanked her, and told her I appreciated her generosity. (No mention was made of money.)

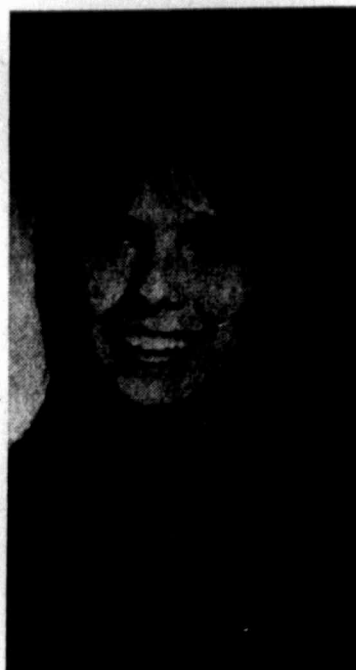

After the funeral, this

International Club Convenes

Two new members were introduced when International Women's Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Gudrun Sharland, 208-B Hunter. They were Mrs. Gudrun Burton, Germany, and Mrs. Tonny Burks, Denmark.

Mrs. Christel Martinez presided, and members brought gifts to be given to patients at Big Spring State Hospital. Also, they agreed to prepare a food basket and collect clothing for a local family at Christmas time.

Tentative plans were made to have a Christmas party Dec. 15. Guests were Mrs. Molly Della Camera, Wales, and Mrs. Wally Moreno, Germany. The next meeting will be at 8 p.m., Dec. 12 in the home of Mrs. Joann Gilbert, 1101 Lamar. Persons interested in further information about the club may contact Mrs. Martinez, 263-3098.

Considerations Told For Buying Clothes

"Clothes have a psychological effort on the wearer," said Miss Sherry Mullin, Howard County home demonstration agent, speaking Friday to City HD Club. "Clothes have a lot to do with the way we feel throughout the day," she continued.

Miss Mullin said women must learn to dress for the occasion, whether its business or social. Being "over-dressed" or "under-dressed" is equally uncomfortable. Also, she said it is important to know what is not only comfortable, but also becoming to a particular body style. Individuality is necessary, but a well-selected wardrobe will accent a person's good points and "cover the flaw."

"Clothes that are worn comfortably and in good taste for the occasion will give a person self-confidence," concluded the speaker. "First impressions are important, and they are often made from a person's appearance."

Mrs. Merle Hodnett presided during business. Members agreed to purchase dominoes for Big Spring State Hospital. Also, the women will lead games Nov. 21 at Big Spring Nursing Inn.

Miss Mullin won the attendance prize. The group will meet for a Christmas party and gift exchange at 12 o'clock noon, Dec. 12 in the home of Mrs. Alton Underwood, 601 E. 16th.

Hawks Rout LCC, 107-63

Howard County's Jayhawks, giving the home fans a glimpse of what to expect in the coming year, exploded in the final 10 minutes Tuesday before 850 fans in the HCJC gym and routed the Lubbock Christian College Junior Varsity 107-63.

It was the fourth straight game in the HCJC gym and routed the Lubbock Christian College Junior Varsity 107-63.

It was the first home showing following a three-game sweep of Gulf Coast last week, and brief bursts of greatness overshadowed the home-opening jitters that resulted in more than 20 turnovers. Taylor Williams led the offensive show with 18 points and Leroy Lumzy hit 16, as six Hawks hit in double figures and 13 players made the scoring column.

The Jayhawks, averaging 106 points a game, take their high-powered offense to Odessa Thursday for the Odessa Chamber of Commerce Basketball Tournament. Temple Junior College provides the opposition for the opener of the eight-team meet Thursday at 7 p.m., while finals are set for Saturday at 9 p.m.

"I think the story of the game was our good balance," said Jayhawk Coach Harold Wilder. "In the first half we got the ball through the press and we had our fast break going pretty well, but we didn't capitalize. We've got to get organized in the scoring area."

That might be hard to understand for some, since 13 players got into the act — including 11 in the first half. "We like to play the guys that don't ordinarily get in a lot when we have a chance like this, because later on down the line when he have some tougher games they probably won't see as much action," Wilder said.

The Hawks earned a 49-39 halftime lead, despite a not-so-impressive beginning. Their shooting was off, the HC fast break was sporadic due to 14 early turnovers and the new man-to-man defense which replaced last year's zone allowed the Chaparrals plenty of easy scoring opportunities.

There was also an overabundance of fouls on the part of both teams as officials spotted 51 personals — 29 for the Jayhawks and 22 on the visitors.

But Williams and Thomas Bledsoe, who hit 13 points, were too much inside muscle for the visiting Chaps and the defense was on much more than it was off.

minutes into the game, and that was the biggest lead of the half until Alfred Gladden hit a jumper to give the hosts a 27-17 edge with 9:10 remaining in the half.

It was the fourth straight game in the HCJC gym and routed the Lubbock Christian College Junior Varsity 107-63.

Lubbock Christian bounced back on three baskets by John Harris and four free throws by former Big Spring Steer David Carter, and the lead was sliced to ten points at the half.

Lumzy tossed in three field goals in the first three minutes of the second half to push the Jayhawks to their biggest bulge, and when Williams — who hit only four of 12 free throws — sank a charity shot with 14:22 remaining, the race was on.

Randle and Williams each got three baskets in the next seven minutes as the Jayhawks put the game out of reach at 81-56, and then the "second unit" went to work.

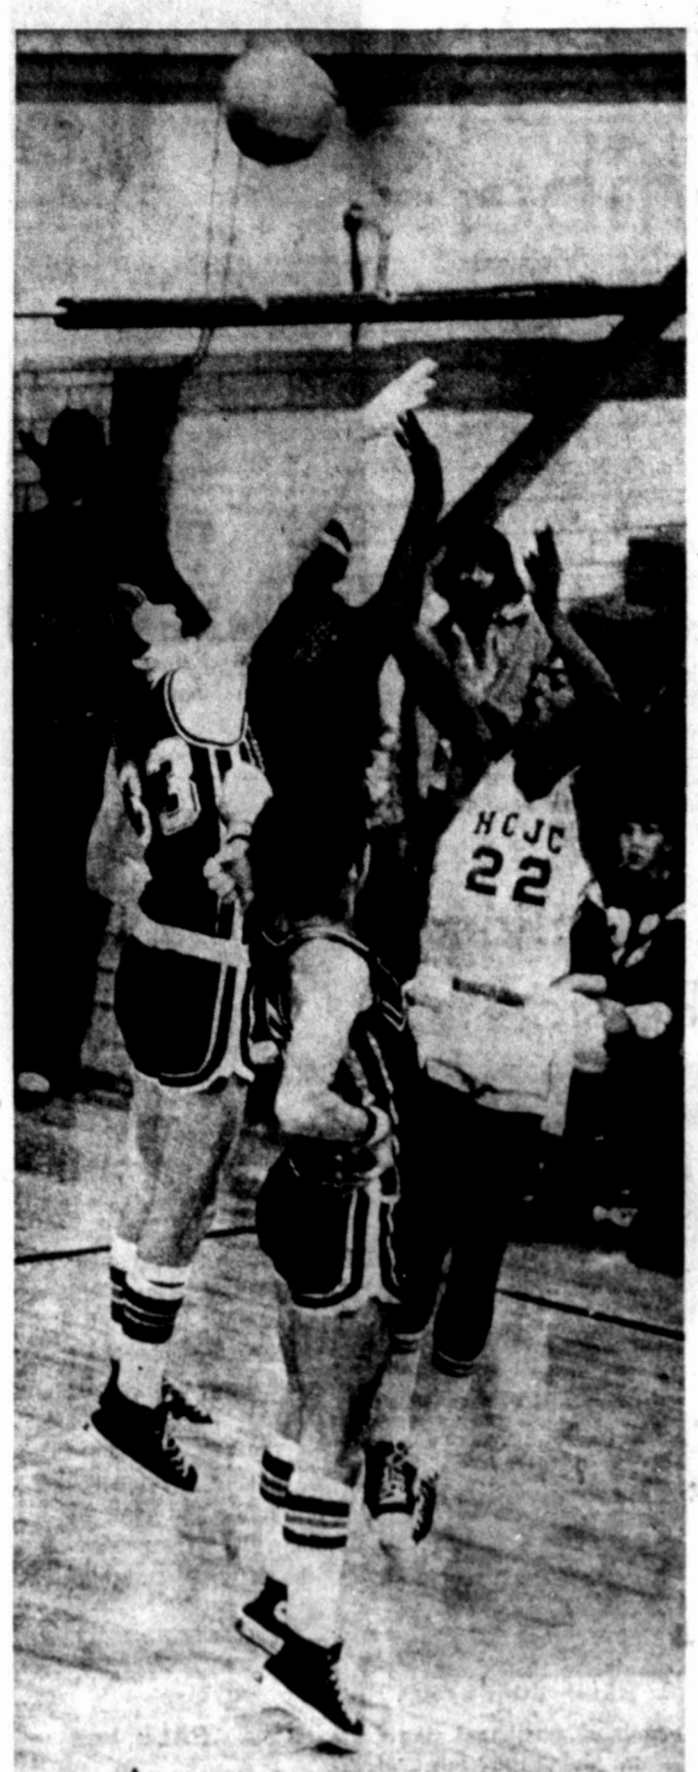

Lubbock Christian didn't score a point for the next six minutes, and meanwhile 6-4 post man David Tolliver connected on four quick baskets to get the Hawks near the century mark for the third time this year.

Then Bobby Beall, who had reserved himself for directing the fast break in the early going, lofted an 18-footer from the baseline as his team went ahead 101-56 with 2:43 showing on the clock.

For the Chaps, Harris was the only scorer in double figures as he rang up 18 points. The LCC crew dropped to 0-2 with the loss.

Cowboys' Fandom Lacks Enthusiasm

DALLAS (AP) — There's been much discussion about a dearth of fan enthusiasm at Dallas Cowboy games this fall in Texas Stadium, but Coach Tom Landry says that's what happens when you become a winner.

After a goal line stand against Cincinnati two weeks ago, the "Doomsday Defense" received polite applause when it trotted to the bench. During the charges to Super Bowl V and VI, such a performance brought helmet-ringing roars.

Asked about the crowd reaction Tuesday, Landry said, "I only know what I read. I seldom hear the crowd so I'm no judge."

"It's unusual to have rabid crowds like Pittsburgh and Washington. But our crowds when we started winning back in 1966 were really alive."

Landry said "professional football fans mature in what they see. If they watch a team win and win, they become subdued in their excitement."

Brazoswood Leads Poll; Permian 5th

OAKLAND (AP) — Reggie Jackson, winner of the 1973 American League Most Valuable Player award, now is turning his thoughts to his baseball future.

There are a lot of things I can do that I haven't done yet. Until I do them, I'm short-changing myself, the fans and our team owner," the slugging, 27-year-old Oakland A's outfielder said Tuesday after being chosen unanimously as the MVP.

"I've never batted .300 or hit 50 home runs in a season. I haven't won two MVP awards or played on three world championship teams."

The Baseball Writers Association of America, with two writers voting in each American League city, honored Jackson for a season in which he batted .283, hit 32 homers and drove in 117 runs.

Earlier, he had been named the Most Valuable Player in the World Series, after batting .310 and driving in six runs, as the A's beat the New York Mets for a second straight world championship.

The National League MVP will be named next Wednesday. "I'd be feeling a little low over this award if we hadn't won the title," said Jackson. He missed the 1972 World Series because of an injury.

Baltimore Orioles pitcher Jim Palmer, the Cy Young Award winner, was second to Jackson in the MVP voting, with 172 points to Jackson's perfect 336 score.

Kansas City outfielder Amos Otis was third. Minnesota second baseman Rod Carew, Detroit reliever John Hiller and A's third baseman Sal Bando tied for fourth.

Jackson, whose 1973 salary was about $75,000, hinted he would be asking A's owner Charles O. Finley for about double that figure next season.

MVP Jackson Looks To Future Success

OAKLAND (AP) — Reggie Jackson, winner of the 1973 American League Most Valuable Player award, now is turning his thoughts to his baseball future.

Looking at the figures, one could only guess that with any kind of decent weather early this year gate receipts at Big Spring Steer football games would have shown a big rise over one year ago.

Of the nine games the Steers have played this year, only three have been in what you'd call good football weather — and only one of those at home.

Former Big Spring Coach Clovis Hale has been getting rave notices at his new job at San Angelo Lake View the last three weeks. The Chiefs, Dist. 3-AAA's whipping boy for years, have upset Brownfield, Lubbock Dunbar and Lubbock Estacado in their last three outings and bid for a share of second place in the league standings against Colorado City this weekend.

Tommy Jackson, Steer backfield coach last year who accepted the head coaching job at Electra this season, is featured in the "Do you remember..." section of the November issue of Texas Coach magazine.

Mustangs Drop Opener; Forsan Girls Top Sands

ACKERLY — The Sands Mustangs dropped their season opener to Westbrook, while the girls varsity was dropping a 55-50 decision to Forsan in basketball action here Tuesday.

Westbrook roared back from a 17-7 first quarter deficit to hand the Sands cagers a 60-59 setback, as Rich hit 27 points in the victory. Danny Coldiron and Frosty Floyd each notched 10 points to pace the Ponies, who just ended their football season Friday.

Janet Ellis threw in 21 points and Letha Strickland managed 16 as Forsan earned its second victory over Sands this year. For Sands, now 5-3 on the year, Rene Roman connected for 25

LAST GAME AHEAD — The Forsan Buffaloes close out their 1973 football season Friday at 8 p.m. when they visit the Bronte Longhorns in a Dist. 3-B affair. The Buffs, coached by Jack Woodley, are 2-7 on the year and 1-7 in league play. Jayton's Jaybirds have already wrapped up the district title going into the final week of action.

White NFL's Top Defender

NEW YORK (AP) — They call Dwight White "Mad Dog." The Oakland Raiders found out why last Sunday.

Pittsburgh's defensive end chewed the Raiders to bits, intercepting two passes, sacking their quarterbacks three times and making nine other individual tackles to throttle Oakland's attack and help the Steelers to a 17-9 victory.

"I used to play as an individual. I was wild and reckless," the 6-foot-4, 225-pounder said, explaining how he picked up the ferocious nickname. "But now I realize you play as a team and you win as a team. Winning the Super Bowl is my main goal, not what I do individually."

Nevertheless, for his outstanding individual effort, White was named today as The Associated Press' Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

Daryle Lamonica was the victim of both interceptions by White. On the first, White got some help from big Joe Greene, who swatted at the ball and deflected it.

AREA PLAYERS OF THE WEEK

Buff's Brown Standout Runner

Stanton's Elvin Brown closed out the season like a senior playing his last high school game Friday during the Buffaloes' 18-14 loss to Dist. 7-AA foe Ozona.

But he's just a sophomore, and he'll be out to match performances like his 201-yard output for two more years in Dist. 5-A. For his efforts he was named the Buffs' Back of the Week — the sixth time this year he's been honored.

"That's the best running I've seen since I've been at Stanton," said coach Bill Young. "As a matter of fact, it's the second best effort I've seen in the 13 years I've been coaching." Brown got the 201 yards on 16 carries, mostly through the middle.

Many of the yards were over the tackle spot manned by H. A. Schuelke, who claimed Lineman of the Week honors for the second straight week and the third time this year. Young said that Schuelke, a senior, was outstanding both offensively and as a defensive tackle for the Buffaloes, who closed out their season with a 5-5 mark.

Coahoma coach Norman Roberts, though unhappy with his team's 14-7 loss to McCamey, found bright spots in the performances of halfback Eddie Padron and tackle Frank Coats.

Coats, named Lineman of the Week, also played defensive end and "did his usual consistent job," Roberts said. "Frank is a real competitor, and he's played real sound ball for us."

Roberts praised Padron mainly for his blocking show from the halfback spot, although he picked up 23 yards on nine carries for the Bulldogs. He also had a good game on defense as the Bulldogs' rover, the coach said.

Quarterback Mike Battal scored his team's two touchdowns and ran for two extra points as the Garden City Bearcats suffered a 30-16 loss to Borden County. He also had 85 yards rushing in gaining Back of the Week plaudits from Bearkat Coach Greg Henderson.

Garden City's Lineman of the Week was Joe Wooten, who "played real well on defense at noseguard and also turned in a good game for us at center," Henderson said.

Owls' Linebacker Gets SWC Honor

HOUSTON (AP) — The Rice of Coach Al Conover's antics, University band, called The Mob, set the tone at halftime with a salute to the banana.

Owl linebacker Richard Hollas further contributed to the theme in the fourth quarter when he returned an interception 29 yards for a touchdown that ended a five-game losing streak and assured a 17-7 victory over Arkansas.

By the time Hollas reached the end zone, the entire Rice team had gone bananas.

Coaches, players, and trainers all mobbed Hollas in the end zone in an emotional outpouring that had been building up for five weeks. Freshman player Billy Neal, taking notes

In Forsan, Coach Jack Woodley said he didn't think any players were outstanding in the Buffaloes' 44-8 loss to Dist. 3-B Champion Jayton, so he turned it over to the team — and the players couldn't decide either.

"It's not something I'm down on the kids about," Woodley said. "We just didn't think anyone played that well, and the players felt the same way. I think they were sincere about it, so we won't have players of the week this time."

Know why Plymouth Duster keeps on winning 'em over?

Your Chrysler-Plymouth dealer tells me that, in the last several years, more than half a million people have been won over to Plymouth Duster. I'll tell you: there are a lot of obvious reasons. For a small car, Duster's pretty big. Inside, it's got plenty of room for five. And behind all those people, you might not get a trunk that holds so much, you might not believe that it's part of an economy car. Yes, sir, Duster's just big enough, just small enough to be just right... and so's the price. I figure that, with all the great features Duster offers, and the fact that it's nice and easy on regular gas, this '74 Duster's gonna keep that winning streak going for a long time to come.

CHRYSLER Plymouth We're out to win you over.

Crime Syndicates Push Pornography?

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Films shown locally in so-called adult movie houses have depicted every form of moral depravity the human mind is capable of except cannibalism," a special grand jury report says.

A grand jury empaneled almost three months ago to study alleged pornography operations here filed a report Tuesday with State District Court Judge John Benavides.

The grand jury said it believes 11 of 13 of Bexar County's adult movie houses and all of the adult bookstores are controlled by state and national crime syndicates.

One group of operations, the grand jury believes, "appears to have definite Mafia connections while another group is strongly suspected of organized mob connections."

Other conclusions of the report, which follows the returning of 34 indictments Friday, are:

- Officials of one national organization planned a bombing assassination of an adult movie house competitor.
- Male and female prostitutes, some of them teenagers, have solicited business and performed sex in some theaters.
- Films shown locally go beyond "the old stag or party film" to show sodomy, bestiality and sexual abuse of children.
- Local theaters have routinely violated city health and fire safety codes and state corporation laws.

Principals, Some Teachers Attending Workshop Here

This would be a good week to be sent to the principal's office at the Big Spring schools. The principal isn't there. He and all of the local principals and some of their teachers are in school themselves at the Dora Roberts Community Center. Their school day is even longer. They have been attending a special workshop from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The workshop is called the Instructional Development Institute and is taught by a team from the regional education center at Midland.

Dr. Vernon Stokes, high school curriculum counselor, David Mitchell, special education librarian; Bill Whitfield, early childhood specialist, Mrs. Sue Ashwood, art and media counselor, Mrs. Bruce Weddie, individualized program coordinator, and Paul Brooks, migrant program consultant, are conducting the institute.

A total of 46 administrators and teachers from the Big Spring schools are taking the course, along with seven members of the regional center staff who have not heretofore taken the course.

Simulated problems are developed and the workshop participants take part in different roles to ascertain first hand the many developments in education.

For instance, on Tuesday morning they were assigned roles in committees to do typical curriculum studies and built-in problems were used in the study.

They were graded on their study and then viewed a film showing similar problems and how they were handled by another school committee. They were then returned to the desk to complete the task set before them, but using the guidelines from the film on how to successfully approach a committee's problem.

People in the film are typical of many school systems and include a principal who delegates the committee to do what they thought best and then adds the thought that "You all know what the superintendent and school board want."

They also show an office receptionist who is the self-appointed guardian of school records and has no intention of helping anybody with any kind of a study.

Problems used in the institute are taken from real-life school situations and are designed to improve the initiative of the administrators and teachers taking the course and giving them a process whereby they can attack school problems rather than standing around "talking about the direction in which education is going."

Lynn Hise, assistant superintendent of instruction here, stated, "I am well pleased with the results of this institute and I think it will be time well spent in the amount of knowledge obtained by local school people."

Steer Band Opens Fruit Cake Sale

The Big Spring High School Steer Band and other school band are conducting its annual holiday fruit cake sale.

The bands are selling the Manor Texas fruit cakes which have become so well known in recent years.

The two pound bar cake sells for $4.10, the two pound tin for $4.65, the three pound tin for $6.45 and the large five pound tin for $9.95.

All band members are selling the cakes. Anyone desiring one can call the band hall at school and leave their name.
