President Gives Proclamation on War Loan

PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES

Considering the fact that in carrying on the war into enemy territory, we need greater amounts of money than any nation has ever known its citizens in all history.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby officially proclaim that on Thursday, the ninth of August, 1943, the Third War Loan drive will be launched.

As Commander-in-Chief, I hereby appeal to every citizen to give all his aid and support to this drive. The financial goal may be high, but to encourage and inspire our husbands and sons who are under the guns of our enemies on all the battle fronts all over the world, it is my earnest hope that every American will realize that in buying War Bonds in this Third War Loan drive, he has an opportunity to help voluntarily and under the guidance of his conscience, the cause which he will "back the American people supported in the first and second War Loan drives and in fact did even more than was asked of them.

Our money now is greater than ever, and will continue to grow until the very day that Victory is won; so we must ask far more sacrifice, far more cooperation than ever before.

Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed. At the City of Washington, on the twenty-sixth day of July, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and seventy-eighth.

Madam Chiang Inspects Instruments for Airmen

MADAM CHIANG KAI-SHEK, first lady of the oldest civilization on this planet, was an interested visitor to the modern plant of the Sperry Gyroscope Company during her recent visit to the United States, when she inspected the manufacture of many precision instruments which she immediately recognized from having seen them on the planes of the Chinese Air Force, whose wings the charming wife of China's chief of the armed forces proudly wears. In the above photo Madam Chiang pauses with Sperry's President, P. E. Gillmor, to inspect the A-5 pilot wiring assembly.

Checking Aluminum "Blades of War"

Careful inspection guarantees the quality of Chevrolet-produced war goods. Here a skilled metal worker makes the final inspection of aluminum propeller blade forgings, determines dead center in each blade, and measures to be certain that sufficient stock is included to allow for all machining operations.

Dr. Harmon Completes Field Service School

Carlisle Barracks, Pa., August 26.—First Lt. Franklin C. Harmon, Medical Corps, of 704 South Wall Street, Floydada, well trained for duty with troops in the field after six weeks of rigorous preparation, today was graduated from Medical Field Service School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Following the exercises in Tugo Hall, he left for his new station where he will put into actual practice the military training, medical tactics, military sanitation, logistics, field medicine and surgery, and administration which he learned thoroughly at this "West Point" of the Medical Department.

He was among a class of 450 physicians, and sanitary engineers who prepared themselves at this Army school to convert their professional skills from peace-time to war conditions. Lieutenant Harmon, 27, attended Baylor University where he received his M. D. degree. He interned at the City-County Hospital, Fort Worth, Texas.

Four hundred and forty-one of the officers in the class are all experienced physicians, drawn from 46 states, the District of Columbia, the Canal Zone and Hawaii. Other Medical Department officers in the class, which was the 33rd to graduate from this national Army post, held commissions in the Sanitary Corps, (Sanitary Engineers), six and Medical Administrative Corps, three.

New York had the largest representation with 61. Pennsylvania was second with 52, Ohio third with 36, Texas fourth with 28, and Illinois fifth with 22.

Lieutenant Harmon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Harmon of Floydada, and was reared in this city.

Mrs. Addie Thagard returned to her home at Elsinore, California, Tuesday after having spent the past seven weeks here visiting her daughter, Mrs. Oliver Allen and Mr. Allen. Mrs. Thagard visited in Altus, Oklahoma, with relatives while here.

Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Hammonds, of Lockney, are the parents of a daughter, born September 1, at Pitts Hospital. The child is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Hammonds and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Sims of Floydada.

Keeping Wartime Herd is Stressed By Thompson

College Station.—The critical protein feed situation is a compelling reason why dairymen should keep production records, according to O. W. Thompson, dairyman for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

Records point accurately to unprofitable cows and are a safe guide in culling inefficient producers from the herd. Records too, are necessary in feeding cows according to their production, Thompson says. In order to make the most efficient use of the feed available individual cows must be fed according to the milk they give. To do this accurately the milk produced and the feed consumed by each cow in the herd must be weighed and systematic records kept.

Production records also are essential if the dairyman expects to follow a constructive breeding and herd improvement program, Thompson explains. This applies whether he has grade or purebred animals. Furthermore, records are imperative to a breeder of registered dairy cattle because he sells breeding stock on the basis of established production or, in most cases, upon the production record of their ancestors.

Manpower shortage is making it difficult for some herd improvement associations to retain the services of testers having the qualifications required before the war. However, a group of dairymen in the Nacogdoches territory solved this difficulty by employing a vocational agricultural teacher for enough days monthly to test their herds.

In some cases older members of boys' 4-H clubs, or F. F. A. boys, may be qualified as testers and can be employed on part time, the dairyman suggests. In some northern states women have been employed as full time cow testers and are doing a satisfactory job.

Thompson recommends that dairymen who cannot become members of dairy herd improvement associations should weigh the milk and feed of each cow in their herds at least once weekly in order to be able to feed according to production and to cull unprofitable milkers.

Physical Fitness Club Program is Praised

Austin, September 2.—"The elementary and secondary school Physical Fitness Club program of the Health and Emergency Medical Service, Texas Civilian Defense, organized and sponsored by the University Interscholastic League is recognized throughout the Nation as one of the best of all state plans for sponsoring physical fitness activities in the schools," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Chairman on Health and Emergency Medical Service, recently declared in Austin.

This program is organized on a voluntary basis, and is threefold in its scope. First, it includes dental and health examinations; second, participation in the school's required fitness activities, and third, participation in organized games.

Such a program will make a valuable contribution to national fitness in that it will develop in the individual organic power, neuro-muscular skills, and endurance. In the first year over 200 clubs have been organized in Texas public schools with approximately 12,000 boys and girls participating. Nearly 400 boys and girls qualified the first year for the individual physical fitness certificate award.

With the beginning of the 1943-44 school term the University Interscholastic League will again actively promote the physical fitness club program in the schools throughout the state. The aim for the year will be to have one or more clubs in every school and to qualify thousands of boys and girls for the Texas Victory Fitness Certificate.

SPAAF Open House To-Day at Two O'clock

South Plains Army Air Field, September 2.—All residents of the South Plains are invited to attend the South Plains Army Air Field open house at 2 p. m. today, Thursday, for an exhibition of glider tactics and an incendiary demonstration.

The invitation was extended by Col. Norman B. Olsen, commanding officer of the big glider school. The open house will observe a year of operation, which was recognized by Gov. Coke Stevenson in proclaiming Thursday as "South Plains Army Air Field Day" in Texas. Col. Olsen's invitation read:

"This school during the past year has grown from a small experiment to a large production of glider pilots. The consistent, whole hearted efforts of all the soldiers, officers and civilians have made the progress possible.

"In recognition of the fine cooperation of all concerned, a demonstration of the proficiency of our students will be given. The demonstration will consist of a half-hour exhibition and explanation of the use of incendiaries, and preventive measures to be used by people subject to bombings. This demonstration will be educational, as well as interesting to observe.

"The flying demonstration will be from 3 until 4 o'clock, formation flying double tow, and landing in small spaces will be shown.

"September 2 has been proclaimed by the Governor as "South Plains Army Air Field Day." As Commanding Officer of this station, and to show appreciation to the citizens of the South Plains the public is invited to attend this demonstration. The reviewing stand will be located on the west side of the flying field, either at the north or south depending upon the wind. The public will enter the field from the Plainview highway either through the old municipal entrance or a special entrance at north end of the field which will be used for that purpose."

Business Shows Continuous Growth for 3 years

Austin.—The story of Texas Business during three years of world war has been one of steady growth, with business almost double that of 1940, a University of Texas business analyst has declared.

Since 1940, Texas business has shown an over-all gain of nearly 90 per cent, Dr. F. A. Buechel, statistician for the University's Bureau of Business Research, has announced. During the month of July, the Bureau's composite business index—composed of a half-dozen industrial and trade factors—showed a gain of 2.6 points over June and of 30.3 points over July of 1942.

Index figures on industrial payrolls and department store sales showed large gains, he pointed out.

WORKING for VICTORY

through these hectic days and busy nights, troop trains, regular trains with troop cars, and freights loaded with war materials keep rolling along the Santa Fe.

Watch a section hand grab his pick a little higher after a trainload of American fighting boys has rolled past. "We'll get 'em through" is his attitude these days.

moving millions of troops and millions of tons of materials needed for Victory, where and when they are needed.

They know that if you stop the wheels that move them, you stop everything that floats and flies as well!

And they never forget that thousands of boys in our armed forces came from Santa Fe ranks and from the families of Santa Fe employees, and these boys who are fighting for all of us have the toughest job of all!

You bet, we're backing them up in the best way we know—and that's by buying War Bonds, and seeing to it that movements essential to Victory come first on the Santa Fe!

Complete details of the enlistment can be secured by writing the Public Relations office at South Plains Army Air Field.

The youths will have to obtain the written consent of their parents. When he starts he will receive special aviation cadet wings and will be allowed to finish his present semester of education before being called.

Farm Income Con- tinues to Show Increase

Austin.—War time's steady gain in farm cash income was continued in Texas during July, as agricultural income during the month totaled $74,000,000 as compared with $57,000,000 during the same month of 1942, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has announced.

Higher prices for farm products rather than increased production accounted for most of the gain, Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the Bureau, pointed out. Farm cash income so far in 1943 has reached the figure of $461,000,000, or 38 per cent more than that for a corresponding period of last year, Dr. Buechel revealed.

"For the remainder of this year, the farmer's cash income will closely approximate that of 1942," Dr. Buechel predicted. "Earlier maturing of cotton and the slightly higher level of cotton prices may bring small increases, however."
