Select Pepper and Acala as Cotton Seed for This Year

Floyd Producers Choose Two Best Kinds for County

One-Variety Movement Culminates Successfully At Saturday Meeting

Successful Here

Pepper Variety Undergoes Improvement at Aiken in Past Ten Years

Selecting the "Pepper" variety of cotton as the No. 1 cotton seed to be planted by Floyd County producers this year, representatives in each community in the county gathered here last Saturday afternoon.

Acala was selected as the second best variety of cotton to plant the county, according to the consensus of opinion among community representatives who had been appointed to sound out opinion in their respective communities at a meeting the preceding Saturday.

We are contacting all sources available pepper cottonseed in this section and made a great step forward in putting the county on a one-variety basis," D. F. Bredthauer, county agent, said following the meeting.

Lon M. Davis and J. W. Lanier, Floydada ginners, are making arrangements to procure a seed planting, Mr. Bredthauer said. The Pepper variety of cotton originated in the Delta country of the Mississippi and has been planted in the Aiken community for a period of about 10 years, making that community the only one-variety section in the county. During the time this variety has been planted at Aiken, continued improvement has been brought about until now it is recognized as the most desirable variety of cotton for this part of Texas.

It has a staple of between thirty less than an inch to an inch and one-sixteenths. The one-variety movement was started in this county several months ago by Mr. Bredthauer in effort to improve the merit of cotton grown in this county, so that the cotton farmers would receive a better price for it. Mr. Bredthauer said that he was highly pleased with the enthusiasm shown for the one-variety movement and the realization of the benefits of the farmers of the benefit to be derived in agreeing upon a variety to be planted.

L. Angus Returns from Annual Meeting of Armour Managers

L. Angus reached home Monday from Chicago where he attended a conference of Armour Producers Department managers during the mid-week, reporting along with some 150 other managers of agencies and produce houses on the state of business conditions and marketing and manufacturing methods.

Whirlwinds Take Pampa Harvesters to Camp, 32-25

Ending up their season with an victory over the Pampa Harvesters Tuesday night, the Floyd whirlwinds hung up their unit until next year.

Local boys defeated the Harwinds on the Pampa court by a score of 32-25, having previously defeated the same team earlier in the season on the local court while the harvesters were making a tour of the part of the country. Orba Miller, who was on the all-district team, his scintillating play in the district meet at Lubbock last night, was high point man in the night's game, making 21 points out of the total 32 scored by the team.

Safety Leader

C. J. Rutland has been named chairman of the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee, organized last week in a conference. It is the aim and hope of the committee to formulate a program that will curb traffic fatalities on streets and highways. Rutland has a background as an outstanding authority on traffic safety.

$75 Threat Note Occasions Postal Inspectors Visit

T. F. Huggins, Principal of Ward School, Gets Mailed Threat

A mailed threat to T. F. Huggins, principal of Andrews Ward School of Floydada, last week has resulted in the beginning of an investigation by postal authorities into whose hands the matter was given Thursday afternoon by Sheriff Fred N. Clark.

The note, demanding $75, was postmarked Monday of last week and was given to the local authorities by the school man shortly after its receipt Tuesday at noon. The note gave detailed instructions as to the delivery of the money in small bills at a culvert on Highway 28 northwest of the Santa Fe stockpens on pain of scandalous exposure to his wife and the public and told the principal he was to be dealt with if the matter came into the hands of the law. The note was handwritten but was addressed in long hand. Mr. Huggins said. It was put into the hands of the postal inspectors by the sheriff Friday. It called for delivery of the money on Thursday night between 8 and 12 o'clock. It was signed "Us."

An attempted ruse to capture the note senders Thursday night failed in its purpose. A tobacco can, as per instructions, but minus the money, was placed under the culvert by the principal while members of the sheriff's department, in hiding, watched. The note-senders did not appear to get the can and its contents during the night to reward the watch maintained.

A quintet of local girls, out joyriding at about the time the can was put in the cache by the principal of the school, got the scare of their lives when their car, driving by the scene was ordered to stop by the watchers on duty. Frightened by the sudden appearance of men in the bright lights of their car the girls instead made all speed possible back to town, while the officers, unable to see the occupants in the glare of the lights made an attempt to halt the car for questioning. Two shots were fired unsuccessfully in an attempt to blow out a tire.

Paul Sims Victim Gunshot Wounds Friday Morning

Magistrate's Verdict That Gunshot Wounds Were Self-Inflicted

Funeral Sunday

Prominent South Plains Stock Farmer Succumbs Friday Morning

J. Paul Sims, 52, resident of Floyd County for more than thirty years, succumbed at the Lockney Clinic in Lockney Friday morning of last week about 9 o'clock, the victim of a gun shot wound. Death came within a few minutes after his unconscious body was brought to Lockney by his wife, his sister, Miss Anna, and Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Smitherman, neighbors. Floyd County Judge Tom W. Deen, acting as magistrate for Justice of the Peace D. C. Lowe, of Lockney, who was ill, said the death was due to injuries self-inflicted. A 32 calibre automatic pistol of an old style, was found at the scene where the fatal wound was made.

The funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from The First Baptist Church in Lockney and interment was made in Lockney Cemetery.

Surviving the deceased are his bride of three months, his mother, Mrs. J. W. Sims, four sisters, and two brothers. The sisters are Mrs. Chas. Plack of Plainview, Mrs. E. J. Thomas and Mrs. Guy Sims of Lockney and Miss Anna Sims of South Plains. The brothers are Willie of Plainview and Charlie, a resident of Miles City, Montana.

All were present for the funeral except the Montana brother.

The deceased was born in Clay County, North Carolina, June 24, 1885, but was reared in McLennan County. He moved to Floyd County in 1905.

He was prominent as a stock-farmer and in business circles of the county. At the time of his death he was a director in the Consumers Fuel Association of Floydada, and a member of the current grand jury for Floyd County District Court.

His wife the former Mabel Teague, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Teague of the Baker Community.

Rev. A. L. Shaw, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Lockney, officiated at the funeral service held for the deceased farmer-stockman. He was assisted by Rev. G. I. Britton, of Plainview, a pioneer minister who during many early-day years had been associated with the Sims family, and Rev. C. A. Joiner, of South Plains, also a friend and neighbor of the family for many years.

Pallbearers were Gilbert Bean, John Ernest and Jack Smitherman, all of South Plains, Winfred Newsome of Floydada and Frank Brown of Lockney, Crager Funeral Home, Lockney, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

At the graveside, following the funeral at the church, Lockney Lodge, A. F. & A. M., had charge of the burial rites, with E. S. Ransderson of Floydada acting master.

Funeral Is Delayed

The funeral, originally scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, was delayed for two hours, when, upon insistence of members of the family the incidents and facts surrounding the death were gone into for the second time by Tom W. Deen, County Judge, acting as magistrate for Justice D. C. Lowe, of (See Paul Sims, back page)

Red Cross Campaign For Disaster Funds Closed On Wednesday

The list for the flood disaster relief funds in Floyd County were closed at the end of the business day yesterday, according to Geo. A. Linder, acting chairman for the county, with $582.49 actually in the hands of the treasurer Chas. Bedford and outstanding unreported amounts expected to make the total in excess of $600.

The early campaign for funds was completed ten days or more ago, but additional funds have been coming in to swell the total from over the county. $500 of the funds have been forwarded, the remainder being held temporarily until the first of the month to allow for all reports to come in. $600 remitted was $175 more than the county assigned quota.

Floydada Bar Protests Bill To Cut 110th

Send Telegrams, and Resolutions to Senators and Representatives

Same Expense

Bill Would Put Floyd and Briscoe Counties in 64th District

Telegrams and resolutions of protest against the bill proposed by the judiciary committee of the House of Representatives of the State of Texas which would eliminate several judicial districts, including the 110th district, have been sent by members of the local bar and other lawyers in this district to state senators and representatives.

Members of the local bar point out that the bill, which is designed to cut down on judiciary expense in the state and to facilitate disposal of litigation, would not materially affect the lowering of taxes to Floyd County citizens, inasmuch as new districts in other parts of Texas would be created and the taxes which go for the support of the judiciary system would remain the same.

The bill, as would affect the 110th district, would group Floyd and Briscoe counties in the 64th district, and would put Dickens County in an already created county to the southeast. The proposed disposal of Motley County was not indicated by local lawyers.

If the bill was passed, the number of weeks in which court would be held each year in the counties of the district would be quite a bit less than at present, and would entail an increase in the cost of litigation and have a tendency to slow down the court's processes, local lawyers said.

13 More Indictments Made By Grand Jury

The grand jury for Floyd County returned 13 additional indictments Tuesday afternoon, including 10 burglary indictments and 3 thefts from the person indictments. The grand jury is called back for Friday, February 26.

Bill Shippy and Arthur Dirden, both of Lockney, waived trial by jury, pled guilty to 6 burglary charges each, and were given sentences of two years each in the state penitentiary.

After waiving trial by jury and pleading guilty to a charge of swindling, J. F. Mitchell, was given a two years suspended sentence Monday. In the Aubrey A. Bishop vs. Q. A. & P. Railroad case, judgment was awarded the plaintiff in the amount of $500, the suit evolving from an injury received by Mrs. Bishop some time ago on the Q. A. & P. tracks here.

Petit jury list for the fifth and last week of court is the same as the list used for the second week of court.

Civil War Veteran, Ninety Today, Is Remembered with Present From Bank Workers

Thos. Montgomery is Alabama Mountain Boy, Who Made Good Cattleman

Thos. Montgomery, who is ninety years of age today, celebrated the event by declaring his fealty to the plan of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the reformation of the federal courts, declaring the president is "right as he can be, because the way the plan is now the average citizen has no chance whatever in the federal courts."

"The big lawyers who handle the big estates and other big accounts want the courts left alone, a thing the average citizen needs changed," the veteran declared.

Birthday Present

Col. Montgomery's associates in The First National Bank had just presented him with an expensive two-tone all-leather, suede-lined Gladstone that was a joy to behold, a birthday present, when the reporter saw him. Officials, directors and employes joined in the presentation. The reporter began plying questions. "Now, are you going to use this fine new outfit or will you use that little bag you've had these thirty-odd years?" he was asked.

"I guess I'll use the new one, but the old one certainly was convenient to pitch around wherever you wanted to and no danger of anybody swiping it," he answered.

The "new one" has a lot more room than the old one, and to save it being swiped it is branded with his ranch brand TMBAR. It has a zipper gadget and a little lock at one end you have to know the combination to.

The colonel has been chairman of the board of the First National Bank since 1918 at a salary of a dollar a year. "I'm going to collect my salary some of these days," he said. His unusually successful career as a cattleman began in Floyd and Crosby Counties in 1887 when he came west, bought the "outfit" where he now lives in southeast Floyd and northwest Crosby Counties and began all over again after having gone broke at the age of 45. Previously his first remembrance was as a plowboy in the Alabama mountain country where five streams were within two miles of his home. Then it was as a soldier boy in the Confederacy in which he fought some four years, including bloody Gettysburg. He surrendered in North Carolina. (All the family were in the war including the foreman of the farms. One brother was killed before he was twenty in the fighting at Atlanta but had been through three years and some odd months of it. Another brother had his leg shot off at Chickamauga and couldn't march in line of battle so they made him a commissary clerk, while another shot through the groin was serving in the same capacity around Atlanta, when the war ended.)

"The head of the family into which I married also was a stayer in the war. He was General Ector, a brigade commander when he got wounded. He lost a leg in early 1864, but was still with his command when the surrender came in 1865. He didn't go home on leave. We all knew what we were fighting for, and when one got wounded he got back into it as quick as he could get well enough."

New Crosbyton Lions Club Charter Night Observed On Tuesday

Charter night for the recently-organized Crosbyton Lions Club was attended by J. C. Gilliam, president of Floydada Lions Club. Mr. and Mrs. Edd Johnson, and the Cowboy Quartette, of the local club observance of delivery of the new club's charter coming on Tuesday night of this week.

Lions from Floydada said the new organization at Crosbyton is destined to be one of the district's best. Elmer D. Elliott, of Dalhart, district governor, was the featured speaker of the evening and presided at the formalities of charter presentation.

The Cowboy Quartette, composed of Roy Holmes, Claude Hammonds, Woodie Guthrie and Garlan Glover, were given a big hand on their numbers and personal praise from District Governor Elliott.

$3 Per Capita School Money Here This Week

Receipt of $3 per capita for the available funds of Floyd County schools this week at the First National Bank brings the total to date in the school year to $8, with $11 more to be paid before the end of the fiscal year. If the state board of education the $11 amount allowed as forthcoming last fall.

Ninety Today

Thomas Montgomery, an institution in Floyd County, is ninety years old today, and celebrated his birthday by announcing he is for the president in his effort at federal court reform. His TMBAR brand has been in evidence here since 1887 when he came to this country broke except for a watch and a good name.

Mrs. Bollman Is Car Wreck Victim Sunday Afternoon

Former Barwise Resident Killed Near Lubbock; Husband, Daughter Hurt

Funeral services for Mrs. Henry Bollman, 29, who died early Monday morning after an automobile wreck Sunday afternoon, 12 miles out of Lubbock on the Brownfield highway, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First Methodist Church here, with Rev. C. R. Matthews, assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church at Lubbock, officiating. Interment was in Floydada cemetery under the direction of Harmon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Bollman died about five hours after she had been brought from the scene of the accident to a Lubbock hospital. She suffered a broken neck and back and a fractured skull when the car, driven by her husband, left the pavement and turned over several times when it was crowded from the road by another car, according to eyewitnesses of the accident.

Mr. Bollman also received severe but not fatal injuries. His pelvis bone was broken in three places. His injuries were so severe that he was unable to attend the funeral for his wife.

Doris, five years old, their daughter, received severe cuts and bruises and a light fracture of the skull. She is believed to be in a serious condition.

The Bollmans, who had been making their home in Carlsbad, New Mexico after having moved there from Hobbs, New Mexico a few weeks ago, were enroute to Floydada where they had planned to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bollman of Barwise preparatory to a planned trip to California. They had moved from their home in the Barwise community to Hobbs last November and were well known in this part of the county.

The deceased was born July 22, 1907 near Waco and had made her home near Floydada for many years. Besides her husband and daughter she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Poe of Petersburg; three sisters, Mrs. I. J. Lloyd of Kellerville, Mrs. Oliver Anderson and Mrs. Ezelle Sargent, both of Plainview, and a brother, Eddie Poe of Plainview.

Pallbearers were Roy Holmes, Roy Foster, Irvin deCordova, J. R. deCordova, Leslie Greene and Ruth (See Mrs. Bollman, back page)

Texas Hi'way Planning Aid Being Sought

Floyd County Citizens to Join In Giving Information Needed

To Plan System

Highway Department Planning Survey Seeks Just Distribution of Work

Car owners of Floyd County can aid tremendously in furnishing official information to the State-Federal Highway Planning Survey for use in working out a logical plan on which future road and street construction will be based. F. L. Moore, Assessor and Collector of Taxes, has been given a number of post cards which ask for fundamental information that is needed in road planning, thus affording the motorist opportunity to participate in outlining his future road program. These cards, to be distributed to car owners as they pay their 1937 registration fees, require no postage and are self-addressed. The number of cards which have been furnished Mr. Moore was judged according to the number of motor vehicles which were registered in the County during 1936. The number of cards allotted to Floyd County is as follows: 2750 for passenger automobiles, 750 for trucks, and 50 for trailers and motorcycles, and 50 for owners of five or more vehicles, the State Highway Department advises.

The business of constructing and maintaining highways, streets, and roads has become a tremendous task within recent years, and it now affects the well-being of every citizen, it is declared. Obviously, every effort should be made to plan our public road system so that it will serve all car owners in an equitable manner and so that the tax burden for roads will be distributed justly. The information sought on these cards is vital to the establishment of an equitable, well-rounded program. In order to work out such a program, the Texas Highway Department and the United States Bureau of Public Roads are conducting a State-Highway Planning Survey, and it is to the advantage of each County to participate to the greatest extent possible, the department urges.

ATTRIBUTES OF A GOOD CITIZEN

There are many definitions of a good citizen, one of which we ran across recently, in which it is said he would be one who walks uprightly, does good, speaks the truth in his heart, does not gossip nor do evil to his neighbor, swears to his own hurt when the truth demands it, and does not change from it.

Such a one, it is declared shall dwell in the holy hill and shall never be moved. It is an ideal well worth striving after by any man who aspires to be known among his fellows as a good citizen.

THE REIGN OF SUDDEN DEATH

Deaths so numerous and so poignant, bodies torn and made useless by traffic accidents, so many good needed citizens speeded into eternity in the reign of "sudden death," are bringing home to Texans the need for action, a war on their causes.

Governor Allred's committee of 100, named last week, ought to help. The tragedy of it has come close to the governor as to others. Texans simply must awake to the need for a "relentless war on traffic accidents."

LOWERING WATER LEVELS

Water levels on the broad plains area from the Canadian line to the Mexico border have been dropping the past twenty years, increasingly so the past five, presenting for every landowner a job of water conservation that should be the answer to the problem.

It is the water that is permitted to roll off in a swoosh to the lowlands, there to do another type of havoc, that needs to be conserved. Land owners are awaking to this situation. It can be controlled. If our supply is not from the rocks as we are told, but instead from the sands to the north and west and from the faults in our own earth's surface, as for instance on the Blanco in northwest Floyd County, then our job is, in addition to making the supply serve to make better crops, to raise the water level for ourselves and our neighbors.

SEEK THE COUNTRY'S WELFARE

It is heartening to note the deep thread of patriotism and love of country repeatedly found running through the conferences of farmers who gather to study an agricultural program for the country. At few, if any, of these meetings and conferences is it suggested that solution of all the agrarian problems is known, but as they go along the answers are being sought in an orderly manner with the public interest and the country's welfare at heart.

While they seek an income and prices for their products sufficient to their prosperity and security as of prime importance to the country, the "public welfare must be considered" is a thought that comes through in almost every utterance.

The most deeply patriotic people of the country are the farmers. High financiers, industrialists, labor leaders, have taken advantage of this fact to exploit farmers, who get credit for being radicals but, far from that, are the country's most conservative and substantial element, the rock on which the nation's welfare is laid. Sounds stilted, but there do not seem to be any words to cut out.

SURPLUS EGG PURCHASES

In what is described by Secretary Wallace of the U. S. Department of Agriculture as a part of a sound farm policy, several hundred thousand dollars have been expended during the winter for eggs by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. These activities, he points out, have been influential in cutting the spread between the wholesale price and the retail price in the big cities, and worked to the common interest of the producer and the consumer.

Many agricultural leaders, including Mr. Wallace, are convinced that the "long time interests" of the farmers and consumers coincide.

Says he, "The egg purchase program is a good example of the way the government helps the consumers when it helps the farmer with a sound program. By stopping the sudden sharp price decline through removal of a portion of an unusually large surplus from the ordinary commercial trade channels, the government encourages the poultrymen to maintain their flocks nearer to normal numbers and discourages excessive increase in egg prices later on."

While Mr. Wallace does not say so, it is true that the present agricultural program is an experiment and should be reviewed as such, hopefully, of course. Too many things have been wrong with agriculture too long for all the things to be found in the brief period of some four years in which it has been sought. It will be quite awhile before the final "sound farm program" will have been evolved. It is most encouraging, however, as has been said many times, to see the thing attacked in what appears to be a fundamental manner.

NO NOT CURB AMBITION

In Europe history is repeating itself, where the incentive of the individual to forge ahead on his own initiative in the hope of personal gain is being taken from him. Wealth persecution is killing the free play of ambition and enterprise of the individual. In these countries national stagnation is setting in, like it has done in other nations back to the dim, distant first records of mankind.

Persecution of groups will spread until it hits every class. This is an inevitable fact, believe it or not. Class taxes must be passed on. There is no avoiding it. The popular but fallacious tune of "soak the rich" must be discarded sooner or later unless we want our country to follow in the steps of those whose unwisdom already has brought signs of decay.

Newton's Discoveries

By Charles Newton

I'm still old fashioned enough to get a little riled when I run across copy that has words spelled like people talk it when slinging slang. For instance using "ya" instead of "you," "puh-lenty" instead of "plenty," "ole" for "old," "sez" for "says," and "hen" for "eh." It's so rare that I encounter a person who even tries to pronounce words correctly that I almost go into an ecstasy every time I meet such a person. However, one shouldn't be so pedantic about things.

I've discovered that this part is about the best part of the plains when it comes to seeking refuge from sandstorms. I used to think the Floyd County variety of sandstorms were pretty bad but I've changed my ideas about that. You don't have to go very far in every direction except East from Floydada to get into a real man-sized sandstorm any time the dust is even a little bit bad here. I honestly believe we ought to be proud of our little flurries of sand when we know that not very far from us a real storm is raging. The trouble is that most of us seldom get off the town section and see what is happening in other parts of the country. Therefore, we think that what's happening to us is the worst that can possibly happen. Just drive around some time a sandstorm is raging, within a radius of about 60 miles to the south and west of Floydada and you will come back, if you can get back, much more pleased with our sandstorms.

Sandstorms are like the poor, we will always have them with us. Statistics have proven that the farm home is the scene of more minor accidents than the home in the city or town. Statistics also prove that a living can be made easier on the farm than in the city. Thorns must grow among the roses.

Thwarted ambition is the bitterness in the fragile cup of life. The cup must be broken if the bitterness is to drain out. Then the cup may be mended but must be handled carefully and with respect.

Editorial Briefs From Other Newspapers

We have had a suspicion for some time that 'Madam' secretary of labor wasn't going to be a very appropriate title when a big strike like the eastern automobile strike developed, and 30 days of idleness in auto factories hasn't changed our opinion that a good, strong man is none too big to fill the job.—Amherst Argus.

Sometimes we wonder if we have not suspended good judgment too long on the theory or excuse of "the emergency." Many practices, which we recognized at their inception as contrary to our individual and mass experiences, and as contrary to good judgment, were embraced on the theory that they were expedient at the moment and desirable in our desperation over "the emergency."—Plainview Herald.

Presented at the opportune time these new designs in women's headwear should, in the case of many men, accomplish the blighted purpose of prohibition.—Matador Tribune.

President Roosevelt is urging many needed changes in the judiciary, which is opposed by many lawyers accustomed to depend upon technicalities instead of law. The situation in a nutshell is that our jurisprudence is based upon the old English law of two hundred years ago. In England obsolete laws have been done away with but over here the law-making body has remained reactionary and are still woefully behind the times. Mr. Roosevelt's proposed changes have been advocated for years by the best lawyers in the country.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

There are no finer people in the world than right here in Briscoe County. It speaks extra well of the folks, who are nearly on relief themselves—who have suffered dust storms and drought for so these many years—to raise nearly 400 hard earned dollars to send to the Red Cross. It makes a fellow feel right proud to live among, and be one of, such fine country folks.—Quitaque Post.

Reno is no longer the only pebble on the beach. A number of other states of the Union are trying to "cut in" and take from the wild and woolly Nevada some of the divorce business that has been going that way for many years. Like all other businesses, when an institution thinks they have a corner on things someone always bobs up to try to get some of the profits.—Paducah Post.

The greatest hope for labor, for industry, and for the American people generally lies in a vision of a standard of living and an industrial level far above that achieved in 1929.—Shamrock Texan.

It took the depression to wake some of us up to the fact that Christ was at one time on this earth, and that there are teachings to be found in the Bible. Many of us had forgotten all this in the era of get-rich-quick.—Chillicothe Valley News

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON — It seems definite now that the president may be expected to be as full of fight in his second four years as he was in his first.

There were those who thought the president's second inaugural speech, promising that he would carry on the way he had been going, lacked the punch he had put behind his earlier fight talks. They concluded that the battle between Wall Street and the New Deal was temporarily off and began to talk of "an era of good feeling."

Proposals were made to curb the jurisdiction of the supreme court, and to introduce a constitutional amendment which would give Congress powers over general welfare, but none of these carried the stamp of White House approval. As a result, many people decided the president was willing to wait until death or resignation removed from the high bench some of the most bitter antagonists of the New Deal program.

Then, on the eve of consideration by the supreme court of the Wagner act, the president sent to Congress his recommendations for a sweeping reform of the judiciary. The Wagner act guarantees to employees freedom to organize and bargain collectively, and it outlaws company unions. It has been widely defied and ignored by corporations, whose lawyers advised it would be declared unconstitutional. Their forecast is shared by many in the administration, too.

Before he can score a point against the conservative element of the court, or big business interests which oppose him so bitterly, the president must win the first round in Congress. It isn't going to be easy to make this bill to revamp the supreme court a law of the land.

The division for and against the bill is generally the line between liberals and conservatives rather than the line between Republicans and Democrats. Conservative Democratic senators are combining with regular Republicans to defeat the bill. Some liberal senators may join them on the strength of their conviction that this plan resembles dictatorship and Fascism more than it does true liberalism.

A middle group which hasn't yet decided with which side it will join forces will probably decide the issue.

Administration liberals are confident they can persuade most of the liberal and progressive members who have expressed doubts about the proposal. Several methods of persuasion will be used, but the most effective factor probably will be the unanimous opposition of the die-hard conservatives.

The extent to which it will be necessary to bridge the middle group with patronage and favors to bring them around to the administration side, remains to be seen. Possibility of creation of new federal judgeships in the supreme, circuit, and district courts if this bill succeeds will not be overlooked as a tempting bit of bait.

President's Supreme Court Plan Revives Historic Issue

Most powerful tribunal in the entire world, the United States Supreme Court daily comes to grips with mighty issues. And now the court itself becomes an issue. Will the six justices shown here be supplemented by six new and younger appointees if the president's proposal is approved by Congress? Will they resign? What will the president's plan mean to New Dealism?

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The supreme court issue, which first sprang into prominence with the death of NRA in 1935 and has grown steadily more heated with each New Deal reverse on constitutional grounds, can no longer be sidestepped. The president has brought the question squarely before Congress.

He has proposed that the president be empowered to appoint one new justice for each member failing to resign within six months after reaching 70, the court not to exceed a membership of 15 justices at any one time. Therein lies a proposition fused with dynamite—a central problem for Congress.

For six of the nine justices would automatically be affected should Congress approve Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation. Chief Justice Hughes is 74; Justice Van Devanter, 77; Justice McReynolds, 75; Brandeis, 80; Sutherland, 74, and Butler, 70. The remaining three are approaching 70. These are Justice

Stone, 64; Roberts, 61, and Cardozo, 66.

THE time has come, the president pointed out in his surprise message to Congress, to broaden the whole system of federal courts in the interests of efficiency and in "accord with modern necessities." Accordingly, he also urged presidential power to appoint a maximum of 50 new judges in the lower federal courts to supplement judges past 70 who refuse to resign.

"Modern complexities," he wrote, "call for a constant infusion of new blood in the courts. . . . A lowered mental or physical vigor leads men to avoid an examination of complicated and changed conditions. Little by little, new facts become blurred through old glasses, fitted as it were, for the needs of another generation; older men, assuming that the scene is the same as it was in the past, cease to explore or inquire into the present or future."

PROMPTLY introduced into Congress in the form of a bill, the president's recommendation had immediate and wide repercussions. Charges of "packing" the court came from the opposition. Proponents pointed out the proposal is the only one which does not weaken the power of the court.

Increasing the size of the court for that matter, is by no means a new idea. As originally constituted in 1789, it had only six members. In 1801 there were only five members. Exactly 100 years ago the number rose to nine.

At the outbreak of the Civil War, however, the membership was raised to 10 because of justice was a Confederate, and was not sitting.

Later it was reduced to seven and increased once more to nine under Grant. And, like Roosevelt, he was accused of "packing." He had appointed two new justices who, he knew, would reverse the 4-3 legal tender decision.

Public Still Unaware Of Facilities Of Air Mail Service Offered

Despite the remarkable progress, a study of the statistics it is evident that the public generally is unaware of the advantages of the use of air mail or of the speed service which it provides. Jack Henry, Air-mail Clerk local post office, has declared that there are 16 air mail stops in 16 states which is more stops than any other state, he said. "Air mail costs an additional three cents per ounce or a total of 6 cents per pound. Almost any point in the States may be reached within 24 hours from the time of dispatch."

Special delivery air mail does not go through the regular routine of delivery at point of destination but is delivered by special service provided by the U. S. The cost of this service is 16 cents. This is particularly desirable for reaching destinations on Saturday or holidays.

It is not necessary for a person to go to a stop point to utilize the Air Mail Service. By means of train connections to the nearest airport, the Air Mail Service is available to all sections of the country.

The United States now has the most extensive air-mail system in its history, with a route system covering 29,000 miles on which planes fly on the basis of 40,000,000 miles annually on the fastest schedules in the world.

Smiths - Browns' Majority

46 Of Both Kinds Hold Family Reunion

Acceded In Cousins Club

Smiths or Browns? Well there were both, Smith-Browns and just Browns, when 46 of them met Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fuller, south of Plainview for a reunion and to perfect an organization of the Smith-Brown cousins. Three of the families of children are double cousins, their mothers were all Browns and their fathers were all Smiths and the fourth family of descendants at the reunion are just plain Browns.

They have been having the reunions for several years but not until Sunday did they perfect an organization and they called it the Smith-Brown Cousins Club. Bob Smith of Floydada, was elected president; Bob Brown of Estacado, vice-president; Mrs. Joe Smith, of Silvertown, secretary; and Ham Smith, of Floydada, historian.

One of the main attractions on these occasions is a big dinner and they certainly have it. Each one brings a basket dinner of the famous food of each family and dinner is served at noon buffet style. The table is fairly loaded with baked turkey, and dressing, baked chicken, baked ham, salads, pies and cakes of every variety.

During the afternoon an impromptu program was given. A letter was written to three aunts of the cousins and was signed by all of the relatives present.

So Juanita says she always comes straight home from plays. Are you sure you did, Juanita?

Mr. Cass seems to think he can manage for some candy, but the girls don't think so. Ara Sue and Ella especially.

The fifth grade is getting as unruly as some of the high school, so Mr. Cass says. Could it be the tenth grade he is saying this about?

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

Work on the various events is progressing rapidly. The literary events are in full sway, with all entrants working diligently. Practice on tennis will begin this week; also practice will begin in track. There have been four volleyball games—three were won by Floydada. The opposing team was Sand Hill and their team was really good. Our girls worked hard, but Sand Hill won.
 There were not many out to see the volleyball games Friday. Let's support our team and give them all of the assistance we can.

CHAPEL

Last Thursday at chapel we were honored with the presence of Rev. Vernon Shaw of the First Baptist Church. After a song led by Mr. Kiker with Mr. Potter playing the piano, Rev. Shaw gave the invocation.
 He then made an interesting talk, his main subject being how to measure man, not by his money, but by his convictions, his sympathies, his ideals and his activities.
 He also talked about life and what we can do with it. He illustrated this very well by substituting a piece of raw iron for your life.
 We enjoyed his talk very much and wish to welcome him back any time.

Everyday Manners

Following are a few important points to remember in conversation:
 Never interrupt another speaker. Be courteous to those of dissenting opinion.
 Never whisper or raise your voice unduly.
 Avoid undue exaggerations in conversation, for example, "perfectly gorgeous," etc.
 Do not try to be "funny." If you have no conversational humor, don't create something in order to appear funny.
 Devote your mind to what is being said. Don't listen with half an ear or half a mind.
 Apologize if you are compelled to cut short what another is saying.
 Do not drag in subjects when you talk. Let others suggest a preference.
 Never indulge in conversational matter in the presence of others that deals with the experiences of only a few of the group.

Four Classes To Have Special Editors Of Paper In Near Future

Staffs Appointed for Special Class Issues of Hesperette Before School is Out

The four classes in high school will be allowed one page in the Hesperette before school is out. The paper for that week will be turned over to the staff of the respective class and the sponsors. The entire page will be only the news of that class. The Hesperette will furnish the paper and typists for these editions. The sponsors are asked to read over all items turned in as they will be typed just as they are turned over to the typists.

The pictures of the presidents of both the Junior and Senior classes are wanted about three weeks before their respective edition is published.
 The classes have been assigned the following weeks for their paper: Freshmen week March 11, all reports due March 5 and 8. Sophomore week March 25, all reports due March 17 and 22. Junior week April 13, all reports due April 9 and 12. Senior week May 6, all reports due April 30 and May 3.

The major editors for each class have been appointed and with the aid of their respective sponsors will select all other members of their staff.
 The Freshmen appointed were: Editor, La Nell Harmon; assistant editor, Laverne Russell; society editor, Mary Frances McRoberts; sport editor, Billy Brown.

 Juniors appointed were: editor, Marguerite Leonard; assistant editor, Marjorie Kirk; society editor, Beth Newton.

The Senior staff will include the following: editor, Betty Newell; assistant editor, Alice Rawlings; society editor, Worth Shipley; and sport editor, Alton Morse.
 Each class is requested to make all of the articles in ink on white paper. By doing this it will greatly help the typists and cut down the amount of errors.

Favorite Sayings

The following sayings are ones heard in the halls and rooms of the building and are collected and compiled for the readers of the Hesperette.
 Virginia Simpson: Oh, you big horse.
 Mr. Williams: It is possible.
 Semer Hollingsworth: Shoot, I reckon.
 Worth Shipley: Gee, why do Monday's ever come?
 Leo Coward: Type for me.
 Mr. Potter: What are you doing?
 E. Ray Smith: I don't care.
 Irvin Allen: What's the lesson?
 Eldon Howard: I can't get this shorthand.
 Louis Boothe: I wish it was Saturday night.
 Reid Strickland: Typing is wasteful.
 Mary Frances McRoberts: Let's have a party.
 Miss Rees: Are you chewing gum?
 Emogene Lackey: What did he say about me?
 Billy Stanforth: Have you got today's bookkeeping?
 Billy Jack Parrish: I got the car.
 Gloria Hammonds: Hi ya Smitty!
 Estelle Gray: Oh, boy!
 Mary Emma Collins: (as usual) I'm starving to death.
 Elizabeth Hollingsworth: Good Gracious!
 Harold Cothorn: Gosh, Algebra's hard.

Poison Ivy "Fights"

Poison ivy is the only plant that actually "fights" anything that disturbs it, dexterously using the hollow, tanglike tubes which fringe its leaves, says a writer in Collier's Weekly. When a leaf is gently touched by some harmless object it quickly aims the nearest tubes toward the irritant and ejects poison on it for a distance of three inches.

Home Economics Club In Formal Initiation

The Home Economics Club held its formal initiation Wednesday night, February 10, in the Clothing Lab.
 The room was lighted with candles and pot flowers were used to help decorate the room. The old members were seated in the room when the ceremony began. The new members were escorted to their places by the treasurer Doris Jordan, and Iva Elmore Smith. Those taking part in the ceremony were, Ethel Westfall, president, Virginia Simpson, Emogene Lackey, Florene Brown, Jewell Hennessee and Earnestine Dillard. All the new members lighted a small candle and gave a pledge to the club.
 The program which followed the ceremony was "Welcome to Club," Ethel Westfall; "Response to Welcome," Albert Lyles; "Advantages of Club Work," Miss Rees; "One, Two, Button your Shoe," Muriel Pagan and Maurine Hart; "Partnership," Mr. Cummings.
 The Valentine motif was used in serving the refreshments. Ice cream was served with a red heart as decoration.
 The next club meeting will be February 22 in the form of a party along with the F. F. A. boys.

Kampus Kaypers

Can it be that all the excitement Saturday night was caused because of the Soph party? It seems that some of the lads and lassies really stepped out for that occasion.
 Billy Brown has been giving the girls a break and is really becoming a regular "man about town."
 It seems that a certain little girl was disappointed because a certain person didn't come from Paducah for the week end. What about it Gloria?
 We know plenty of people who think falling down in the Andrews Ward gym is rather embarrassing. Kack says "Nothing like chocolates." We agree especially when it's from the one and only.
 Mr. Potter received quite a few valentines from his youthful admirers.
 Olin Watson's philosophy about an ace: "A tennis ball that is never returned after having been served."
 Speaking of tennis, Fleecy Norman is a chip of Ellsworth Vines. That little man wallops a mean backhand.
 Beth Newton seems to have a new heart interest. The young fellow who causes Beth's palpitations is over six feet tall. Quite a change.
 This game of Michigan is quite the popular pastime now. Perhaps Dorothy Dell Gloria, Kack and Worth could give you a few pointers on it.
 Some people prefer small thrills but there are some that like large thrills, such as venturing through the old academy.
 Valentine has served people very good this year, or so it looks.
 Billy really gets a kick out of pumping up tires. Oh gosh, it all happened when he had a date with his best girl, too.
 At an other place Saturday night, pillow fights were the main attraction. I imagine Ruth could give you the lowdown on that. And ask Ruth who gave her the nice box of Valentine candy.
 Viva Lala and Adeline you are stepping some aren't you? And Peck, Jiggs, and Billie Tad, aren't you guilty of helping them step?
 Lanell are you returning into the fold of a hero of your younger days?
 Albert and Kay you two are getting to be staid and calm old steadies and not even a grand quarrel to cause some excitement. How about one just for the Super-Snoopers?
 Miss McRoberts, how did you like that lovely box of candy, which some chap gave you for St. Valentine's?

Sophomores Disport Themselves At Party

The Sophomores had a hilarious time Saturday night at a Valentine party given for them at the gym. The entertainment started off with a thrilling game called "Murder." Three detectives were appointed and they set out to find the murderer. At last the guilty one was found to be Evelyn Groves and the cloak of mystery was removed.
 After that game was concluded, others of as much entertainment were played and I have heard it said that several dainty little Soph lassies fell down in the gym. When every one was tired of playing games the Valentines in the pretty red and white valentine box were distributed. After this four large valentine shaped cookies were served with a large red apple to each person present.
 Everyone had a grand time and the Sophomores who were not present missed the time of their lives!

COMMERCIAL LAW CLASS

The Commercial Law class in Floydada High School is having some very interesting work the seventh period. Beginning before all of the students had obtained their books, we had a trial in the class. It was carried on just as a real trial in the district court. Many things carried on in the court systems that we did not know of, were brought out in the trial.
 Later—after the majority of the students obtained their books—we studied what law is and the various kinds of law. We have four different tests and each one gives a different view to the kinds of law. We finally divided the laws up into seven different kinds. They are: moral, natural, municipal, international, statutory, common and commercial or business law. The latter is the law that we are going to study very thorough in class. This law deals with something everyone who intends to enter the business world should know, that of dealing with contracts, stocks, bonds, etc.
 After studying ownership and property we have started the study of contracts. As this is one of the main principals that our great business structure is built on we are going to spend much time in learning the various phases of the contract. Thousands of people do not know the value or the harmful effects of signing a contract. In the study of contracts the first thing to know is what a contract really is. After learning the definition and the various kinds of contracts, we divided a contract up into four parts or elements. The four major parts to a contract are: (1) the parties, (2) the subject matter, (3) the consideration, and (3) the agreement. After learning these parts we are better able to know whether or not we should sign a contract. Also we studied whether a contract is valid or void in the eyes of the law as far as our text carried us.
 To further increase the interest of the class each member has bought a workbook on Commercial or Business Law. Along with this book are the tests that are given at various times throughout the year. By the use of this workbook and the tests many points of law are cleared up in our minds.
 Each day problems are discussed in class. Different members bring before the class some problem regarding some law question. If possible the question is answered in class, if not the answer is found out and reported to the teacher—Mr. Williams—the next day. As court is now in session, various members of the class are excused to go and listen to the cases. By these various methods the students taking this course are becoming very interested in the operation of the laws.

Guess Who?

A senior boy who has red hair and is very tall. He is a pretty good basketball player and played football in the Fall. He lives in a little town east of Floydada.
 A sophomore girl who has a grand personality. She plays the piano, sings, and is a promising volleyball player now. As a hint to you; she drives her own car to school.
 A sophomore girl who has blond hair and blue eyes. She tap dances and is a good actress. Her latest hobby is good-will trips.
 P. S. She has a pet flea named "Oscar."
 Answer to last week's guess who. Mary Frances McRoberts, Lella Faye Hicks, Joe Conway

Who?

Who let all the air out of who's tires last Thursday night?
 Who sent Valentines to Mr. Potter?
 Who received four boxes of Valentine candy?
 Who threw milk bottles and flower pots at a certain house the night of the Soph party?
 Who is too young to have dates?
 Who has been having visitors from Houston lately? Ask Brooksennell.
 Who is looking for a long black mustache? Any luck Leeman?
 Who dearly loves Geometry?
 Who thinks she's important?
 Who was promised a box of candy for Valentine and hasn't received it yet?
 Who thinks Lincoln was lazy?
 Who looks like Henry Ford?
 Who changed the locker keys around?
 Who likes ox-tail soup?
 Who hinders Dorothy Dell's literary genius?
 Who thinks a quarter is twenty five minutes.

Local Basketballers Make Good Record In District Tournament

Advance to Finals, Only To Lose To Meadow High School, 26 To 20

The Floydada High School five made an excellent showing for Floyd County in the district meet at Lubbock. The team playing in Tech gym both Friday and Saturday made the local people feel proud of them by their superior basketball playing.
 Coach Winter and eleven players left Friday morning to enter the district tournament as the representatives from Floyd County.
 The players making the trip with Mr. Winter included Orba Miller, Truman Dillard, Dee Adams, James Roy, Avon Powell, E. Ray Smith, Irvin Allen, Ham Smith, Billy Stanforth, Lilburn Cox, and Moody Williams.

The whirlwinds started off in excellent form Friday by badly defeating the team from Bula by a top heavy score of 43 to 17. This great game established our boys as one of the favorites to win the tournament.
 In the second round of the tournament they had to meet the strong five from Morton. This game was a very fast and thrilling one. Finally when the final gun ended the game, the score stood 20 to 19 in favor of the local boys. As these teams were very evenly matched, until the final score was turned in it was doubtful as to who would win the game.

By defeating Morton the Floydada team now had to meet the district favorites—Lubbock High School. As Lubbock has had a very good basketball team the Floydada team didn't stand much of a chance to beat these boys. The local men started off with the first whistle determined to win this game. Led by Orba Miller they soon took an early lead in the game. After some of the best playing in the tournament, the Floydada team came out on the large end of a 30 to 17 score. Orba Miller was high point man with 14 points to his credit.

By winning this game we reached the finals. We had to play the winner of the Ralls-Meadow game. Meadow won this game.
 Saturday night we met the five from Meadow in the game that decided the championship of this district and the ones to go to regional. The Floydada boys were not playing their best brand of basketball, but they were not going to lose without a fight. Both teams fought very hard and each one at different times had the lead. Finally the game ended with Meadow the district champion by a score of 26 to 20.

Even if we did not win the tournament, we won eight small silver medals for placing second. The boys that received these medals were: Miller, Powell, Roy, Adams, Allen, Dillard, Stanforth, and Smith. We placed one man on the all-district team—Orba Miller. Orba received a gold basketball in addition to his silver one for making the team. The Meadow players received gold basketballs for winning the tournament. Also they received a large gold basketball.
 Finley of Meadow was voted the most valuable player of the tournament, and received an extra gold

 This closed one of the most successful seasons in basketball ever experienced in Floydada High School. The cagers were undefeated on their own court. All during the season we lost only three games—these being to Jayton, Carey and Meadow. We played twenty-eight games, winning twenty-five. This is something to be proud of, and all of this success we owe to the eleven boys and Coach Winter.

HI-Y MEETING

The Floydada chapter of the Hi-Y Club met last Tuesday night and approved the constitution submitted before them. Only one change was made in the constitution of the club. Our sponsor approved the constitution and the final vote on it was unanimous. All of the members present signed the constitution and became charter members to the club. This Constitution is to be filed and kept as the laws of the club as long as it exists in Floydada High School. Also it was voted by the entire membership to join the state and national organization as soon as possible.

Owing to the basket-ball game on the same night the members absent will be allowed until next Tuesday night to sign the constitution—although they have to sign it as it now stands. All persons that have not signed the constitution by then will be dropped from the list of membership.

In the constitution the laws and regulations governing the club were made clear to all of the members. Also a fine for missing a meeting without an acceptable excuse was voted on.

The club under the guidance of Mr. Williams promises to be one of the best organizations in high school.

PROGRESS OF THE YEARBOOKS

During the past week a great deal of progress on the yearbooks has been made. All of the pictures—which number more than in last year's book—have been made. The band, saxophone quartet, and the basketball team are the new organizations that have their pictures in this year book.

A report turned in by the business managers—Billy Stanforth and Irvin Allen—show that they are working hard and have nearly reached their goal in obtaining advertising from the local merchants. The staff is very proud of the splendid cooperation given the book by the advertising of these business firms.

 Mr. Kiker mailed an order for fifteen hundred extra pages to go in the year book. This is a total of fifteen extra pages in each book more than the number sent by the publishers. The club and classes can put them together. The order will probably reach here by March 15. Mr. Potter will start cutting the stencils for the books immediately.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School lesson for February 21. The Power of Jesus Over Death.

Golden Text.—I am the resurrection and the life. John 11:25.

Printed Text.—John 11:23-28, 32-44.

23 Jesus saith unto her, Thy brother shall rise again.

24 Martha saith unto him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day.

25 Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.

26 And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believest thou this?

27 She saith unto him, Yea, Lord: I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world.

28 And when she had so said, she went her way, and called Mary her sister secretly, saying, The Master is come, and calleth for thee.

32 Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

44 And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

Time and Place.—The raising of Lazarus, February A. D. 30, Bethany, near Jerusalem.

Lesson Comment

Thus far we have studied the miracles which symbolized the power of Jesus to give life, to heal, and to bring light to the darkened souls of men. The ultimate miracle of the power of Jesus over death, attested in His own death and resurrection, is the subject of this lesson.

It is a very human story that is presented, of two sisters in Bethany, Martha and Mary, who were very unlike in their dispositions, but had in common a loyalty to the Master and a love for Him that made Him an honor guest in their home.

Into this home sorrow had come in the death of their brother, and the deep sympathy of Jesus, as well as His intense devotion to that hospitable home, is found in the simple words concerning His coming into the house of death—"Jesus wept."

In the division into verses in our English Bible, it is the shortest verse of all; yet it is full of expression and significance.

The story of how Jesus brought Lazarus forth from the tomb is familiar to us all. It brings to every thoughtful and inquiring mind some very poignant questions. Why did

Bankheads' First Reunion Since 1925

The speaker of the House, William B. Bankhead, declares time out from his heavy congressional duties to stage the first reunion with his famous daughter in two years. The speaker and his daughter, Tallulah, star of stage and screen, are shown here as they visited at a party given in their honor in Washington, where Miss Bankhead was seen by her father in a finished play for the first time.

Jesus weep, if He had the power to bring Lazarus from the dead? Why was the power of Jesus not exercised in more homes and circles of sorrow in His own day?

There must have been many, many cases of bereaved disciples, and yet the stories of Jesus bringing the dead to life are few. Why is the same power of Jesus not manifest in homes of death and sorrow today, where the devotion to the Master is as intense as it was in that home where Martha and Mary loved Him?

These questions we cannot answer, any more than we can explain the miracle. The rationalist might say that these stories have come from traditions that arose around the life of the Master, as they have arisen in some form around the lives of other great teachers and prophets.

But we cannot dispose of the miracles quite so easily. The miraculous records are imbedded in the story of a wonderful life, and one cannot feel that the life and salvation that Jesus brings to men have their ending in death and the tomb.

We have suggested that the miracles beyond the literal record have the symbolism or spiritual truth, and this is surely true concerning the miracle of restoring the dead to life. That is what Jesus does spiritually in the souls of men. His recreating and reviving power has everywhere been manifest, both in the days of His life on earth, and all the years since, in the times and places where His gospel has made its power felt.

In His earthly life and teaching, Jesus never promised His disciples immunity from pain and sorrow: He never told them that they would have unlimited physical existence. What He did promise was that eternal life would be the portion of those who found in Him the Way and the Truth.

EARLY-RISING QUINS EAT OATMEAL EVERY DAY

The five little wonders of the world, the Misses Dionne, are great advocates of the old slogan, "Early to bed and early to rise makes you healthy, wealthy, and wise." They awaken sometimes as early as 5-30 a. m. and are always in bed at 7 o'clock every night. They like to eat their meals at regular hours, too. A healthful breakfast at 8 o'clock, dinner at 12 and a light supper at 6 o'clock. And never let it be said that a Quin had to be forced to eat her food. For in Quinland it's "one for all and all for one." Whether at the table or at play, no Quin will allow the others to out-Quin her.

The daily breakfast cereal which the Quins eat is Quaker Oats. Active little boys and girls need the food energy and minerals which oatmeal with milk supplies them. And children need oatmeal for its abundance of Vitamin B to protect them against those dangerous enemies of childhood — nervousness, constipation, and poor appetite due to lack of Vitamin B in the diet.

So, the early-to-rise Quins eat their big bowlful of Quaker Oats every day. Proving that they are what the slogan says—wise.

The Old And the New

By Nellie Witt Spikes

My friend and I stood at the end of the rows and watched the tractor pull the four-row planter down the long straight furrows. I could visualize the cotton as it came up, then as it was covered by blooms as beautiful as flowers, then I could see it when the bolls would burst and be full of soft white cotton. In another field maize and hegrira pushed their tender green sprouts to the warm sunshine.

My friend took me to the farm house—a place of beauty and comfort, with electric lights, bathroom and running water. Floors were covered with linoleum which made cleaning easy. Stoves were ready with a touch of the match.

A radio brought the latest news and a car, wonderful as the magic carpet of fairy tales, stood ready to take the family to church and to towns both near and far. A paved road ran by this farm—a mail box told that Uncle Sam's mail route went by. A school bus stopped and let the farmer's children out.

In this home I found contentment and love and the inmates had a vision of even a better country and a desire to give their children every possible advantage.

We looked at the barns, the fat hogs and fine chickens. A large irrigation well was pumping and a stream of water was flowing into ditches and carried over a field. Something caught my eye. I stooped and picked it up. "Well, that is a lid from an old iron teakettle. Wonder how it got here," my friend exclaimed. But I know. Instantly the scene before me changed as if in a moving picture, and other scenes of other days took place.

I saw a full dugout and nearby a room 10 by 12 feet, both enclosed by two wire fences on which flapped the week's washing. There was a windmill with a surface tank and a barrel into which water was running. A beaten path to the house told of many buckets of water carried over it.

A few chickens of mixed colors scratched an old sorghum stack. In a small fenced pasture known as the "starve out" a saddle horse grazed. A horse was needed to go after the mail, take the children to school or to be at hand in case a doctor was needed.

Some range cows (no telling whose) with young calves in the milk lot to supply a little milk during the summer months. A cow country but very little milk.

In the dugout I saw a woman cooking dinner. Her stove was the type known as a "bachelor" and the fuel tub of "cow chips." An iron teakettle, its lid jumping up a tad down, kept company with a pot of red beans. In the "drum" was a batch of sourdough bread.

A bed, with a trundle bed underneath, some cane chairs, bottomed with undressed rawhide, and a fine table with oilcloth cover were the furnishings. The upstairs room was covered with a rag carpet and there was another bed covered with a patch work quilt. Pillow shams worked with turkey red thread covered the pillows. A marble topped bureau, beloved of the pioneer woman's heart, and a rocking chair, a neat crocheted tidy on the back finished the furnishings.

These pictures faded and I saw the man or "nester" as he was called, getting ready to put in his crop so he would have a few bundles to feed his horse during the winter months. (He never dreamed this would be a farming country).

The man is hooking up three ponies to a sod plow. One of the horses is badly loosed. His planter is an ingenious affair and serves its purpose well. It is a great deal better than planting with a spade or dropping seed by hand. A round wheel was sawed out of a plank, the wheel larger than the wash pan to be used. A small door was cut in the wheel and fixed to open and shut. A hole was bored in the center for a bolt, the bolt to the axle. Six or eight holes were made in the wash pan and the pan was nailed to the wheel. The wheel was fastened to the plow. The seed was put through the door into the wash pan. When the wheel revolved, the seed were dropped in the furrow near the sod land and covered the next row. One row the man plants, then chains up the wheel while he makes two more rows. He will break the sod and plant it at the same time. Sod could be planted in the fall and the maize and can seed would come up in the spring.

The picture changed again and I saw this same man cutting his tall sorghum with a knife tied to a stick, then piling the feed in windrows. Later he would learn to fasten a long knife to a slide, and as the slide was pulled down the middle, the man would put his arm out and catch an armload of cane, piling it in windows. In this humble home, with its few comforts, I saw contentment and love, and knew the inmates had a vision of a better country and had a desire to give their children every possible advantage.

SAFETY---OR THIS?

DEATH, in the guise of heavily loaded motor trucks, rides the highways of Texas every day and every night. The toll of human death and injury of these vehicles is appalling.

In the five-year period, 1932 to 1936, inclusive, trucks in Texas have participated in 8,416 highway accidents in which 2,195 persons were killed and 11,962 injured. In 1936 alone, their record stood 2,208 accidents with 3,323 persons injured and 576 killed. These actual records of people killed, as shown by Texas newspapers, compared with the number of deaths resulting from all motor vehicle accidents, as given by the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Austin, show that the average Texas truck participates in twice as many fatal accidents as the average passenger car.

Likewise, as might be reasonably expected from their greater weight and size, and as shown by the records of the Texas Railroad Commission, the Carrier-for-Hire truck accidents, during 1936, have resulted, vehicle for vehicle, in three times the number of fatalities as for the average passenger car.

Increased liability to highway accident forms an inseparable result of BIG truck operation. But even now, the threat of greater highway hazards hangs over the people of Texas. Newspapers report that operators of BIG trucks have organized for the purpose of securing an increase in weight and speed limits, already too large. These are the elements, weight and speed, which, in highway accidents, spell "D-E-A-T-H."

The right to grant, condition or deny the use of the highways for profit, belongs to you, the people of Texas, notwithstanding the attempts of the operators of BIG trucks to take it away and give it to the federal government instead. Your present laws, limiting the size, weight and speed of trucks, were enacted by reason of your insistence, and by your insistence they have remained on the statute books. Their amendment would serve the sole purpose of increasing the profits of operators of the BIG trucks, with the certain results of also increasing the mounting injuries, deaths and property losses now taking place on your highways.

Public welfare and public safety demand that existing highway regulations shall be retained and enforced.

Hillburn, Plainview publisher and one of the vice-presidents of West Texas Chamber of Commerce, has consented to address members of Floydada Chamber of Commerce at their annual meeting on Tuesday night of next week, when a banquet and an interesting program will be followed by the selection of officials for the ensuing year.

Hillburn is one of the outstanding civic workers of this section, and long has been associated with local and regional chamber of commerce activities.

Plans for the annual meeting are being made by Walton Hale, Baird Bishop and J. A. Arwine, and Secretary R. W. Cothran, who announced this week the banquet will be served by ladies of the First Christian Church at the former Henderson Variety Store location on west side square. It was originally planned to hold the meeting in the Christian Church Annex.

Lon M. Davis, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will preside at the banquet and a complement of officials for the ensuing fiscal year will be chosen.

Musical and other variety numbers are scheduled for the evening. Plates will sell at fifty cents, the committee announced.

The District Court of Honor leader will be introduced to the Scouts of the Northeast District, and the place of the Troop rung will be determined by the amount of advancement that is received by the troops, Hamilton stated.

A Boy Scout Leadership Training course will also begin in the Northeast District Monday at Floydada and continue through the week in the different towns that have Scouting. U. L. Willie, Chairman of the Promotion Committee of this District said.

The first session will be a group session of scouters representing the three towns in the district. The following two sessions will be held in the towns with local scouters attending and the final meeting will bring the entire district together for an outdoor meeting and the completion of the course, Willie said.

Thos. Montgomery—

"I recall all this in particular because I have just had a questionnaire about my service. The State of Pennsylvania and the federal government are going to try to have a reunion of the blue and the grey who were at Gettysburg on the next anniversary of that battle. They wanted to know whether I was a G. A. R. or a U. C. V. I didn't have but one answer to that. I filled out the questionnaire and told them I'd be there, but you know I am not physically able to go and undertake a march, so I guess I won't be there, although they want to pay my expenses and the expenses of an attendant. Lately I have gotten to where I can't walk and can't eat. Although the doctor tells me he can't find a thing wrong with me I have never been well since I had the influenza a few years ago. Down at Mineral Wells for several weeks I didn't run into anybody but grey-haired people and most of them from north and west of here. Most of them seem to be right clever people. One fellow from Kansas said he believed I was all right from the neck up.

"I got to Fort Worth in 1871 from Alabama by way of Arkansas where I served as clerk of one thing and another for a few years. In the mercantile business I did not do so good. In fact, I found myself broke after several years. The only thing I didn't give to my creditors was my watch. I appealed to my brother in Rome for help and he sent me $4,000. That's what I started on plus what credit I could get." And the colonel (who never was more than a private until 1910) came "out west," went to plugging away at the cattle business and now is considered one of the country's wealthy men. After twenty-three years (in 1910) he had enough money to feel like he was independent enough to begin taking in the annual Confederate re-unions and he hasn't missed one since except one year when he was sick with influenza.

But the colonel (on the Confederate staff) is not a garrulous old man, as you think of them, at the age of ninety. He knows all about his business, attends to it in a business-like, old southern sort of manner. He thinks that prohibition was a "great force," is a Roosevelt man from the word go. ("No other man in the United States could have taken hold and done what he has done for the common man"), is not "against" the many scientific discoveries and innovations of recent years, still likes the simple things of life and believes that "none of these changes have affected the sacredness of the given word." It is a disgrace to Texas, he thinks, because the Confederate pensions are not paid promptly.

Mr. Montgomery had just returned from a greatly enjoyed six weeks stay at Mineral Wells and visited briefly with relatives in Fort Worth. At Mineral Wells he enjoyed the company of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Johnson, of Garden City, New York. His next little trip, according to his present plans, is to be for a few days to Fort Worth where he will see the Fat Stock Show and Live Stock Exposition.

VETERAN NEWSPAPERMAN SUCCUMBS AT PLAINVIEW

J. M. Shafer, 94, veteran newspaperman of the plains section, was buried Tuesday, February 9, in Plainview.

With his sister, Mrs. Whitlock of Los Angeles, California, the two were believed to be the oldest living twins in the United States. Shafer established the first printing office in Plainview and instigated many of the leading papers in this part of the country. He was a brother-in-law of Mrs. G. W. Brewster of Lockney.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. James Standridge, minister of the Plainview Church of Christ.

Paul Sims—

Lockney. He was assisted in the examination by County Attorney Winfred P. Newsome, Sheriff Fred N. Clark and Kenneth Bain, a member of the Floydada bar. The verdict of the previous Friday was re-affirmed by the acting magistrate. Persistent rumors of possible foul play were ferreted out in this examination.

Among the out-of-county relatives and friends here for the funeral of Mr. Sims were two aunts, sisters of Mrs. J. W. Sims, Mrs. Bob Simpson of Duncan, Oklahoma and Mrs. J. W. Dodgeons of Santa Fe, Oklahoma, together with Mr. Dodgeons, Mrs. Sam Simpson, of Duncan, and Mrs. Bill Pullbright, of California; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Plack of Plainview, a nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Darden, of Plainview, a niece and her husband; Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Schwartz of New Home, Lynn County, cousins; and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fry, of Hereford, Mrs. W. B. Adkins, Mr. and Mrs. Jack West and Claude and Clyde Tatum of Lubbock; Mrs. M. F. Brashear, Mrs. H. C. Darden, Bob Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. Lewallen and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith, of Plainview.

Mrs. Childers died Wednesday morning at 9:20 at the family home on West Kentucky street, following a lingering illness of several months. She has been a resident of the county for fifteen years. She is survived by three children by a former marriage, who are: a son, Lester Mershon, of San Diego, California, and two daughters, Eva Mershon, of New York City and Mrs. Hazel Link, of El Paso. Mrs. Link has been at her mother's bedside for two weeks and will attend the funeral. The other two children will be unable to attend.

Other survivors are her husband, E. A. Childers, and one step-son J. A. Childers, of Waco, and four step-daughters, Mrs. Lottie Weiffer, of Amarillo, Mrs. D. E. Smith, of Floydada, Mrs. T. C. Hunt, of Plainview and Mrs. R. M. Yarbrough, of Plainview, all children of Mr. Childers. All of them will be here for the funeral with the exception of the son who will be unable to attend.

Interment will be made in the Floydada Cemetery.

TRY TO KEEP CONDOR FROM JOINING DODO

To keep the giant California condor from the same fate that befell the dodo, the passenger pigeon, the great auk, and the heath hen, Forest Service officials of the United States Department of Agriculture are trying to preserve its last retreat.

Frequently seen circling the craggy peaks of California's mountain ranges not so many years ago, the giant bird gradually has retreated until its only known habitat now is in the Los Padres National Forest of California.

The National Association of Audubon Societies assisted the Forest Service last year in gathering information about the big bird and its habits. In a recent report to the societies, Cyril S. Robinson, Associate Forester, said that "the bird is so constituted as to be handicapped by the very factors that make for its magnificent importance."

"Its size," he declared, "calls for space and easily accessible landing places. The peculiar conditions that must make up its permanent place of abode, and the fact that it returns to the same place to nest and roost year after year, are a few reasons that make it so important that the situation does not change for the worse."

The condor has diminished largely because of its eating habits, Mr. Robinson avers. It lives upon carrion, particularly the flesh of large animals. Back in the days when a cowhide was worth more than a carcass, the condor was supplied with plenty of food. More recently food conditions have become a problem.

The Forest Service is planning to provide undisturbed roosting and nesting places which will have an elevation sufficient to provide timber, and opportunities for bathing and drinking. The study indicated that complete isolation and proper protection from forest fires and invasion of people are necessary if the condor is to survive.

DUSTY REUSE DANGEROUS WHEN DUMPED CARELESSLY

If an apartment-house housewife dumps dusty refuse into an incinerator chute when there is a fire in the box at the bottom, she is likely to get the surprise of her life and will be lucky if she escapes injury. Dr. David J. Price, chemical engineer of the United States Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, who has made many reports on dust-explosion hazards on the farm and in industry, now calls attention to this hazard in the home.

Many instances where such explosions have occurred are on record as this type incinerator is common in apartment houses. One such explosion took place when a woman, having started to bake a cake and found the flour to be wormy, decided to dispose of the mixture of flour and sugar. She dumped the mixture down the incinerator chute and closed the hopper door. An explosion followed that blew open the door, burned the woman seriously and damaged property throughout the building close to the incinerator inlets.

This type of explosion, Dr. Price explains, is similar to the more publicized industrial disasters which have occurred in flour and starch mills and grain-milling plants. In some of them there has been a heavy loss of life as well as of property.

Other domestic incinerator explosions have happened when the dust bag of an ordinary vacuum cleaner or dust from a floor-sanding machine were dumped into the incinerator. In this way fine dust particles are left suspended in the air all the way down to the bottom of the chute. This dust burns so quickly in the limited space that the pressure forces fire and gases through the incinerator doors and vents.

To prevent such explosions, Dr. Price says, all dry dust should be wetted thoroughly and placed in a strong paper bag or carton, one that will not burst in falling down the chute.

Mrs. O. B. Olson went to Sweetwater Wednesday morning to be with her daughter, Mrs. Leroy McDonald, who is ill with the flu.

WEATHER AND CROPS

Not so much ground pressure from winds of the past week in the high plains area has been effective in Floyd County and little blowing of crops has resulted from the week of unseasonably weather, according to reports from the farms. However, a light deposit of fine sand or dirt has been evident each morning for the past four, apparently drifting out of a cloudy murky sky.

The sand deposits have been accompanied by light sprinkles of moisture also, insufficient to be of value to crops in this county.

Temperatures of the week beginning last Friday morning have been above freezing throughout, the gauge of the West Texas Gas Company indicate. Lows have run from 37 above to 33 above, the last figure being this morning's 7 o'clock temperature. High for the week was 67 on Sunday afternoon.

Made Wooden Eye Shields

The first eye help invented in the New World was the mask which the Eskimo made to fight off snow blindness and these could be made only when a certain drift wood, or "Ik-shaut," was swept across by the polar current from north of Siberia. These wooden shields were about four by seven inches, with walrus hide things and an interesting arrangement of slits which must have taken time to perfect. At last, says the New York Sun, after our workmen had made some spectacles from poor glass brought from England, a jeweler, working evenings above his store, disproved the theory that steel spectacles could not be made here and brought forth a product which resulted in America's taking the lead in spectacle making.
