SOUTH TEXAS TRIP MADE INDICATES BOND DEAL MAY BE MADE FOR SCHOOL FUND

The south Texas trip of two Floyd County commissioners—Roe McCleskey and B. E. Cypert—and County Superintendent Walter Travis, accompanied by Sheriff Fred N. Clark, may culminate in a deal whereby the county school fund of Floyd County may be invested in Cameron and Hidalgo County bonds, it was indicated here this week on the return of the officials from their jaunt.

The officials went as far south as Brownsville and Port Isabel on the trip of the southernmost point in the state. In Edinburg they stopped to make a study of the financial set-up of securities voted in that and Cameron County which they considered as exchange for their notes and lien against lands in Cochran County in which the county school fund, totalling $132,500 is now invested. They also visited in Austin during their absence. They left Thursday and reached home again on Tuesday. The trip was an interesting one in many ways, they said.

O. M. Watson, J. M. Willson, Homer Steen, Marvin English, T. W. Quirk, W. Edd Brown, J. G. Martin, Glad Snodgrass, and Lon M. Davis are members of the local committee. Glad Snodgrass in the conference, presented figures on probable operating costs, income, and upkeep charges, and along with O. M. Watson and others on the committee, expressed the belief that the project could be made a successful one. The meeting yesterday was one of several which have been held successfully for the past several weeks.

The hotel is planned, to be the equal of any hotel in the southwest except in size, committee members declared, and enthusiastic support for it from the citizenship in general is anticipated. O. M. Watson, chairman, said.

J. C. Gaither Recalls Incidents In Life of State's Strong Man

(By Mrs. Robt. McGuire)
Judge J. C. Gaither, who has been a resident of Floyd County, for the past 29 years, is one of the few people living today who knew Sam Houston and rarer still one who could call him friend. For several years Mr. Gaither has been confined to his bed on account of paralysis in one of his limbs and has to be content with his books and the friends who have not forgotten to call. In his younger days he walked among the noblest men and no one was better informed on political affairs. His influence reached farther than the public ever knew for he is very modest and preferred to go about his work in a quiet way. Although ill and sometimes a bit discouraged over his reverses in his old age, when you are fortunate enough to get him to talk about his past experiences—and one of his favorite subjects is Sam Houston—his countenance brightens and his steel blue eyes fairly twinkle, and he lives again for a few minutes those glorious happy days again.

He is very courteous with kind and gentle manners but very reluctant to give out any information that might bring any publicity to himself. He says he is quite satisfied with the way the present generation is running things and is quite content to take his place among those who have served their time.

Poses Reluctantly
Oh, yes, very reluctant to grant an interview for publication. And to pose for a picture to be used with the story, now that just can't be. And only an appeal to his kind heart, that the reporter would be disappointed and would be failing in her work, if she were not able to secure the picture did he finally consent to pose.

And once ready his great pride was again manifested when he called for a comb and brush to put his short gray hair in place.

When the story of Sam Houston was given there were three reporters present, one of them being Miss Laura V. Hamner, of Amarillo, who has used the story in several leading newspapers.

One would never know that the gentle man himself had had no little part in shaping post-Civil War history in his state. For years (in the seventies, eighties and nineties) it was the thing to see the Gaither's, before throwing your hat in the ring for high political preferment in Texas, and it was a part of Gaither's strategy that elected Oran M. Roberts, the Old Alcald, as one of the state's outstanding governors, and J. C. Gaither served as his private secretary. But you just have to know this.

A Massive Man
"Yes, I knew Sam Houston," he replied to an inquiry, "Houston used to live at Independence, Texas, across Labadie Prairie from our home, a distance of thirty miles. My father's house was about three miles from the home of my grandfather, who lived on the road from Brenham to Austin. Sam Houston, while he was governor of Texas and also (See Gaither, back page)

Urges Attendance
"Any farmers who are unable to attend meetings in their own communities, are requested to attend at least one meeting at some of the other designated meeting places, so as to acquaint themselves with the program," County Agent Bredthauer said yesterday, when the meeting dates were announced.

"As there are thirty-two communities in the county it would take quite a bit of time to meet at each school district, hence the county committee has arranged for six meetings, trying to center these meetings so no one will have to travel outside of his trade territory to attend one of the meetings," Mr. Bredthauer said.

The county committee is composed of O. L. Allen of Sterley, Fred Battey of Pleasant Hill and A. A. Tubbs of Center. Important changes which have come up for this year's conservation program make it imperative that the information which the committee has should be put out to all producers at the earliest possible date, it was decided by the county board in making up its plans this week. Every producer should learn of these changes so as to be able to plan his farm operations to save embarrassment at the end of the year, the board believes.

'Wildcat' Water Well Begun East Of Starkey

What is taken to be a 'wildcat' operation was begun this week in the search for irrigation water for a Floyd County farm, when C. Y. Gorman, driller, moved to the Dr. Moore farm, a mile and a half east of Starkey School and about one mile south of Blanco Canyon, to begin drilling. It is almost due south of Floydada. The owner is a resident of Vernon.

Gorman had just completed a well on the Cooper lands near Lockney before moving to Starkey. He uses a rotary drill. He brought in the H. R. Patterson well two and a half miles southwest of Floydada that created quite a bit of interest in the area south and west of Floydada.

Crop Outlook Helped Again By Moisture

Cold Wave Follows Rainfall And Wheat is Held In Check

Week Of Cold

Fruit Believed Damaged; Portions of County Get Fine Rain

Crop outlook in Floyd County continued to brighten in the week ending last night, what with more moisture during the period, in some sections being an inch or more, and cold, which has held the earlier wheat in check.

A week of cold, with temperatures ranging below freezing through the time, followed rainfall Friday night, which at Floydada was around a quarter of an inch. A half inch was recorded in most communities. Only a few reports indicate little rainfall.

Petersburg, Lockney, Starkey, South Plains, Barwise, Fairview, and practically the whole north-west section of the county report beneficial to excellent rains Friday night.

Meanwhile, as weather conditions have permitted, crop land preparation has continued, reports indicating the land is working good. "The best sign for the wheat crop, it is generally indicated is the fact that, while it is beginning to show up and in a good many instances cattle and horses have been stopped from grazing it, the cold wave has held the growth in check, and other small grain planted since the first of the month have been kept from sprouting too fast and making too much early growth.

Fruit in many instances is said to have been damaged. Many early peaches and apricots had blossomed and on some trees the fruit was caught in the bud. Whether the damage is general and serious is to be determined later, it appears.

Monday morning the temperature dropped to the low for the week, 21 degrees. Saturday, Sunday and Tuesday also saw freezing temperatures and below. Yesterday's low was 35 and the high 70.

Mrs. J. C. Dickey Died This Morning At 12:30

No funeral arrangements had been made this morning by members of the family for Mrs. J. C. Dickey, whose death occurred at 12:30 last night. Billy Joe Welch, a grandson, said.

Mrs. Dickey had been ill for two weeks, but her condition was thought to be improved earlier in the week. She was 75 years of age. The family have been residents of the county for twenty years. Her death occurred at the family residence on West California Street.

Children of the family were notified during the night and had been gone to arrive here early this morning.

Re-Check Started By Investigators On Old Age Claims

All claims for old age pensions under the Texas Old Age Assistance Act have been completed in Floyd and Motley Counties and a re-check of the applicants has been begun, according to J. E. Collier, investigator in these two counties for the Commission.

The re-check is being done for the purpose of keeping first hand information as to possible changed status of persons now receiving grants. Mr. Collier said.

Mr. Collier spends Saturdays of each week in the office of the county judge of Floyd County, and Tuesdays of each week in the office of the county judge of Motley County, where he may be seen by those who wish to confer with him on the dates indicated.

As pointed out recently by H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, we people have left little undone to spread the violence of erosion and to increase the volume of floods.

"A direct relationship exists between erosion and floods," Mr. Bennett recently pointed out. "Gullies, caused by erosion become, in effect, man-made tributaries which speed up the concentration of surface water in headwater streams."

A right about face is thus seen to be the solution of the wasteful practice which we have followed ever since the country was first settled.

SCHOOL COSTS LOWER

If relief and conservation and general expenses of government cannot be reduced, which seems probable at present, it is a pleasure to record one item of expense that has come down.

At the present time the investment in school property in the United States is slightly above twelve billion dollars, the same statistician advises.

COOL WEATHER FOR WHEAT

Ample (for present needs) moisture and cool weather in March mean a lot to wheat crops in Floyd County.

Meanwhile the row crop situation is not hurt, nor is other spring sown small grain crops.

CLEANING THE FENCE CORNERS

How many million tons of junk iron is moving from interior America to seaports for export to foreign countries?

The total must be staggering, for in every town, in this part of Texas at least, there is a junk pile and a busy one at that where the junk is being unloaded from the years' accumulations in fence corners and around.

In the past few weeks there has arisen a problem for the farmer and other owners of junk in the form of the junk thief, who begins picking things up and is sometimes not as careful to leave a good cultivator alone as the owner might be.

THE ARMAMENTS RACE

After the junk man buys the scrap iron or steel—it is graded in three or four ways—he has to cut it up into lengths not more than five feet long.

It is said the armament race of the nations of the world is the cause of the sudden interest in old iron and steel and that junk from this area is going to Japan.

REVIVING A LOST ART

Reports of Extension Service workers of A & M College and others indicate that Texas farmers are reviving to some extent the lost art of tanning leather.

How much it costs Texans to go about doing things in the way that follows the line of least resistance can only be imagined.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON—When the President, Harry Hopkins, and the Budget Bureau agree on recommendations, Congress will be asked to appropriate between one and two billion dollars for relief expenditures in the next fiscal year.

For the first time in four years the WPA and federal relief rolls did not swell in the months of January and February. In February of this year there were 2,162,000 WPA employes, as against 2,188,000 in December, and 3,039,000 in February a year ago.

There is no promise that Roosevelt can work out a permanent unemployment relief program. The plan at this point is to cut the rolls down to 1,600,000 heads of families and single persons by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

To keep within their quotas for the remainder of this fiscal year, state administrators will, altogether have to drop 50,000 employes in March, 150,000 in April, 200,000 in May, and 200,000 more in June.

Hopkins insists that these cuts must not be made arbitrarily, and must not affect anyone in actual need. State quotas will be subject to review on this basis.

The plan for WPA curtailment was conditioned upon absorption by private industry of about 300,000 WPA workers; on continued recovery of business; on a good agricultural year; on more contributions from localities where WPA projects are under way; and on the possibility that relief rolls would not expand in January, February, and March of this year, as they had in the four previous years.

Relief rolls did increase very little through the winter months, but it is unlikely that many localities in the flood areas will be able to contribute more generously to WPA projects when local relief is costing so much. This was unforeseen and it is too early to know whether farm and business prosperity will lighten the relief load.

Improved agricultural and industrial fortunes are not always directly reflected in relief rolls. To illustrate the reason, insiders estimate there are now roughly 400,000 eligible employables trying to get the WPA jobs other men leave when they are returned to private jobs.

It is said that WPA employes hesitate to take temporary jobs in private industry because of the difficulty they have in getting back on relief. And while there are 875,000 fewer WPA workers than there were a year ago, no considerable reduction can be made at this point unless Hopkins abandons some of those actually in need.

South Plains P. T. A. Program By Cowboys Competes With Rain

Program of the Cowboy Quartette Friday night of last week presented at South Plains fine school auditorium under the auspices of the South Plains P. T. A., had competition for the interest of the crowd in a fine rain that was calling during the whole program.

Attendance was only fair due to the threatening weather, with light sprinkle falling as the crowd gathered.

With the Cowboys on the program appeared Frances Keim and Neida Fagan in tap dance and piano numbers respectively.

Proceeds of the entertainment are to be used by the P. T. A. to further their work for the school and community at South Plains.

Spirited International Race Drives Day of Trans-Atlantic Plane Service Closer

YOU can take it from the world's biggest airline operators that regular trans-Atlantic plane service is just around the corner.

If aviation's latest plans materialize, you will be able to make scheduled trips from New York to Europe early next year, and to Bermuda in a month or two. Established flight is due at last to crown the early years of pioneer exploration.

Such is the picture, one of feverish international effort to control the trade routes of a great ocean.

Pan American, Imperial Airways, the French, German, and Dutch figure in the race to criss-cross the broad Atlantic, first with mail, then with passenger lines. And impetus is given by the U. S. Postoffice Department's recommendation that $750,000 be appropriated to put an Atlantic air service into operation on a schedule of four times a week in each direction by Nov. 1.

PAN AMERICAN is already prepared for this type of operation with boats identical to those used in its Pacific service. Great Britain likewise is ready with its giant Short flying boats, 28 in all. Meanwhile, still larger aircraft are under construction in both countries, including six two-deck giants for Pan American which have a gross weight of 82,000 pounds.

The Germans, at the same time, are standing by with their huge Dornier boats—Diesel-powered and launched from a mother ship—which already have made successful Atlantic test flights. The French, too, have Operators and designers alike in each of these five countries, however, have a close eye on the stratosphere as the next field of schedule transport.

Freedom from storm, comparatively high speeds, and enhanced passenger comfort are the possibilities of stratospheric flight. Already Pan American, TWA, and United Air Lines are developing stratosphere ships.

But to turn back to the Atlantic. While the larger goal of the entire Atlantic is under attack, British and American interests are moving ahead to operation of a joint air service between Bermuda and the United States mainland. This is due to start in less than 90 days. At Ber-

Any talk of revolution in the country is absurd. Alarmists and irresponsible persons who are scaring folks have indulged in a lot of loose talk about revolution based upon nothing but sharp differences of opinion on public questions. That sort of talk, if continued, might possibly lead to bloodshed, but we are not in danger of a revolution until the revolutionists are able to back up their threats with superior force, which seems a very remote possibility.

Fulkerson Home, Finds Spring Plowing Done, Neighbors Take Hand

When C. P. Fulkerson returned home Saturday from long stay in the veterans' hospital at Albuquerque, New Mexico, he found his spring plowing done and about all he had to do before planting to take the knives and cut some winter seeds that escaped the lists.

The answer was that his fields, neglected during the winter of his illness, had been attacked on the previous Thursday by a score or more of his neighbors, with fourteen tractors and two teams, who not only cleaned up the fields and had them shining ready for spring operations, but turned in and fixed some windmill and stacked some feed, more than a hundred acres of land was put in condition.

The Fulkersons, in town Tuesday, hardly had words adequate to express their appreciation of the thoughtfulness of their friends on this occasion and others during the illness of Mr. Fulkerson.

Among the men who worked during the day preparing the land and working the place, to whom Mr. and Mrs. Fulkerson feel particularly grateful are the following:

G. C. Collins, Benton Bartlett, Clyde Burton, W. E. Miller, Gray Briggs, Bill May, Jake Brock, W. M. Knight, J. R. Holmes, Jack Hollingsworth, R. H. It's A Highway Paved With Gold!

Connecting Julian and Ramona, Calif. in the heart of San Diego county's mining region, this highway is literally paved with gold. Constructed in 1926, it was found recently to assay $7 a ton. Material for the road was obtained from a quarry, and Fred Koele and Orval Hammer are shown here searching for gold-bearing quartz on the quarry dump. County supervisors said it would not pay to tear up the road and sell the ore.

A Banks Business

PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY IN A BANK DEPEND UPON THESE THREE FUNCTIONS

consist of the sums placed in the bank for safekeeping by individuals and business firms. Savings and checking accounts provide the bulk of these deposits; interest, earned by other bank activities, is paid on savings accounts.

Loans

are the "business" of a bank; the interest paid by the borrower creates the income from which interest on deposits and the expenses of conducting the business are paid. Applications for loans must be carefully considered for the security of funds deposited with the bank.

Service

is represented by checking accounts, safe deposit boxes, commercial aids, foreign exchange and other activities that a bank is able to conduct through its experience and activities.

Result-Getters Among Those Who 'Strive To Excel' Yeakley Says

The successful club, business man or citizen in any vocation in life who gives the most to the world will be found among those who, as Paul admonished, "Strive to excel." L. Yeakley, minister of City Park Church of Christ, told members of the Lions Club at the club luncheon on Thursday last. The minister was making the point that those who are satisfied to be just average will be just average as a rule, but that the successes will be found among those who are not satisfied to be ordinary, in whatsoever undertaking they may be called.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School lesson for March 21. As John Saw Crucifixion.

Golden Text.—Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us. I John 3:16.
Printed Text.—John 19:4-9, 14-18, 25-30.
John 19:4-9—
4 Pilate therefore went forth again, and saith unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know that I find no fault in him.

5 Then came Jesus forth, wearing the crown of thorns, and the purple robe. And Pilate saith unto them, Behold the man.

6 When the chief priests therefore and officers saw him, they cried out, saying Crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for I find no fault in him.

7 The Jews answered him, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God.
8 When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he was the more afraid; and went again into the judgment hall, and saith unto Jesus, Whence art thou? But Jesus gave him no answer.

To Rest In The 'Graveyard Of Ships'

Rammed by the Dollar liner President Coolidge, the oil tanker Frank H. Buck is shown settling to its last resting place, the "Graveyard of Ships," off Land's End, San Francisco. Salvage attempts were practically useless. The Coolidge itself was badly damaged in the collision. Two tugs stand by as the tanker sinks.

10 And it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and he saith unto the Jews, Behold your King!

11 But they cried out, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Shall I crucify your king? The chief priests answered, We have no king but Caesar.

12 Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him away. And he bearing his cross went forth into a place called the place of a skull, which is called in the Hebrew Golgotha:

13 Where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst.
John 19:25-30—
25 Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son!

27 Then saith he to the disciple, behold thy mother. And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home.

28 After this, Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst.

29 Now there was set a vessel full of vinegar: and they filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to his mouth.

30 When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, It is finished: and he bowed his head, and gave up the ghost.

Time and Place.—Friday, April 7, A. D. 30, from the arrest at 1 a. m. to the death of Jesus at 3 p. m. From the Garden of Gethsemane, to Calvary, a hill just outside Jerusalem.

Lesson Comment
History has had many crucifixions. The crucifixion of Jesus is not unique in history, in the fact or manner of His death. Two men, in fact, were crucified with Jesus, one on His right hand, and one on the left.

Nor does the uniqueness of the crucifixion of Jesus lie entirely in His innocence. Other men, innocent of charges against them, have been executed.

What does make the crucifixion of Jesus unique and significant as the most tragic and challenging event of all history is the purpose of His death, the yielding of Himself to die in fulfillment of a mission of love and redemption.

It was the supreme goodness of Jesus, revealing in His earthly life the divinity of a God of love, and revealing in His death the fullness of the divine sacrifice that men might know the richness of grace, and be drawn toward God's redeeming love.

Could Jesus have avoided the cross? We cannot tell. There seemed a point in His life where the temptation to seek avoiding it was almost overwhelming. At the beginning of His ministry, there were temptations to turn from His divine mission to some scheme of earthly conquest or vain glory. The devil had lured Him with a vision of all the kingdoms of the world and the power that He might exercise over them.

At a later stage, there must have been an occasional temptation to lead a popular movement of revolt, such as many Jews wanted. And then, during the hour in the garden of Gethsemane, there came the earnest, agonizing prayer that, if it were possible, the cup might pass.

It was too late. The hour of destiny had come, but it did not find an unwilling victim. Deeply in that spiritual conflict Jesus had triumphed.

In His anguish, He had said, "Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt." The words that some had mockingly said of Him as He hung on the cross, "He saved others, Himself He cannot save," were literally true. It was the last supreme sacrifice of love and devotion to the truth.

For us the spiritual reality of the crucifixion depends to some extent upon the vividness with which we are able to reproduce the scene. In our contemplation of the suffering victims on the crosses, the Master and the two thieves, we perhaps are apt to forget that, standing by the cross among other women, was His mother.

Can we think of what that means? Mary, in the fullness and richness of her love, had followed her son even to the last agony. What deep and striking troubles she had experienced since the days when wise men had come honoring her newborn babe, and she had "pondered all these things, and kept them in her heart."

But motherly devotion had stood

Native Bamboo 'Hut' Gives Idea Of Hell's Breath Near Equator

A replica of the native bamboo huts of the equatorial regions has been set up in the Texas-New Mexico Utilities Company for use in demonstrating the economy and perfection of operation of their 1937 model Westinghouse electric refrigerator.

"Hell's Kitchen," the hut is labeled, because that is what a native kitchen is like near the equator where these new electric were tried out. A temperature of 110 degrees is created in the "hut" to simulate the "coolness" of the equatorial kitchen and test panes are used to indicate the number of operating units of power needed to keep the various compartments of the interior of the refrigerator in proper condition for preservation of food and for ice making.

R. C. Wakefield, Floydada district manager of the utilities company, has been kept busy during office hours showing the "hut" to the youngsters as well as their elders.

A Nature Lover at 83

When you are 83 years old, what will be the things which give you satisfaction?

In my 83rd winter I love most in the last quiet hour—

To sit before the huge crackling fire as my wife of 50 years nods from a day's work well done.

To picture chubby pickaninies asleep in rooms warm with glowing firelogs while their parents, carefree of the morrow, reluctantly go to bed.

To know that the faithful mules and lowly cows are resting in comfortable barns filled to overflowing with feed.

To remember the last peep at the baby pigs and their mother in the hoghouse with only their little noses poked above the leaves.

To estimate just how many acorns hickory nuts, and pecans each busy squirrel must have stored away and to feel assured that the farm can provide corn and oats for the hungry birds during the bitter winter days.

And then to realize that this is but the fulfillment of the plan of the All-knowing and All-powerful Father whose kind hand is plainly manifested, especially to the farm folk, in each successive season.

Thomas I. Doolittle, Newton County, Miss.

CASPIAN SEA RECEDES

Russia's government is being urged by a geologist to divert some of the waters of the Don and other rivers into the Caspian sea, which has lost 7,435 square miles of its area since 1925, due largely to irrigation works along tributary streams.

Rural Electrification Work Still Incomplete

Work of contacting residents of at least five communities in the area proposed to be included in rural electrification service in Floyd County had not been completed last night, according to a check up in the office of Secretary R. W. Cothurn at the Chamber of Commerce, and it was indicated that a campaign to complete the drive would be made by the rural electrification committee. In northwest Floyd County the work of signing up has been most thorough, Mr. Cothurn said.

County Agricultural Agent D. F. Bredthauer, who returned Tuesday from a visit to the Pat Stock Show, where he went in company with his family, said Wednesday several interesting contacts had been made in connection with the rural electrification program, the belief being expressed by one authority that the plan is entirely feasible.

Going To Market?

It's a bit difficult to steer this little porker, but that's the fun of it, Mrs. Paul Tison finds. Mrs. Tison is heading her entry into line for the spring "Pork Derby" held at Pinehurst, N. C. The derby proved that pigs, after all, "is pigs."

Lets Talk about Clothes

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE WOMEN (C1A)

Bright new daytime dresses that promise much relief to winter wardrobes are to be found in surprising new collections just unpacked in the stores. Because such dresses are so tremendously important, they go fast if they're different. And these, we hasten to tell you, are most assuredly that.

You'll like the thin wool embroidered in large red and blue field flowers and foliage. These also come in wool yarn. Short sleeves, vest necklines and a tie sash belt achieve a youthful manner hard to beat. Another sheer is of navy blue stuff that looks like silk tulle or fine net, and over this feminine looking material are splashed all kinds of white daisies, red roses, and other garden flowers, this time embroidered in silk thread. These are available only in black or navy, but they are the most interesting finds of the last few weeks.

Some bright person has combined colored linen with wool sheer and the result is especially chic. Try out the navy blue wool two piece effect, really a one-piece dress with short sleeves, cuffed in coral colored linen, and laced down the front with snapping black patent leather that matches the very narrow belt. The high collar is also of coral linen. Or the black redingote coat dress of black wool, with the cuffs on the long sleeves, the collar and the narrow panel at the front of the simulated skirt of stunning old gold linen.

Printed linen is also popular as a spring trim. In many instances the petals of the floral design are cut separate and loose from the background and then applied on. This gives a most interesting finished edge.

RICHER LANDS SHOWN TO BE NATION'S NUMBER ONE NEED

In spite of the fact that the prosperity of agriculture is a matter of vital concern to both town and country, it is doubtful whether many farmers or many business men could give an unhesitating answer to the question, "What is the first answer to the question, 'What is the first essential to the prosperity of agriculture?'"

"Adjusting farm production to consumer demands at a fair price is a 'must' condition to the prosperity of agriculture. So is a cropping system that will give two or more important sources of farm income instead of depending on one cash crop. More efficient marketing—cooperatively; more and better labor saving equipment; better financing with lower interest rates than have resulted from time prices; greater cooperation in production to insure a more uniform and higher quality of farm products—all these are also essential to farm prosperity. But no one of these needed improvements, nor all of them combined, will solve the South's agricultural problem.

"No matter how the preparation and cultivation of the soil, no matter how efficient the power and equipment used, no matter how pure and high in quality the seed planted, a maximum or profitable crop is not made from a poor soil and available to the plant roots and unless the soil also contains those other characteristics such as good tilth, rotting vegetable matter, and water-holding power—in short unless there is a fertile soil—the most profitable crops are not made.

"It is the duty of the farmer to take as much from the soil—as large crops—as he can, but he must put it all back in a less valuable or costly form. In fact, if he is to increase his soil fertility, he must put into the land more than he takes from it. He must not only replace what crops remove but also put back into the soil what is leached out by rains or allowed to wash away.

"The so-called worn-out or eroded soils of the South are not so hopeless as they are sometimes made to appear. Mostly they need nitrogen and humus. Legumes provide both. The hair of the dog is good for the bite" and the same warm climate that has made our soil fertility wash away easily will help us rebuild that fertility if we use that climate for maximum legume production. By sowing all possible cultivated land to lespedeza in February and March and setting kudzer in well-enriched spots around gullies and galled places, we can go a long way toward realizing Need No. 1 of Southern agriculture — 'Richer Lands for Every Farm'."

5,000 MILES OF FOOTBALL GAME

Five thousand miles over sea and land, more than half of it by air, is the journey the Marblehead (Mass.) High School football team must make this winter for an inter-sectional game with Roosevelt High School in Honolulu, reports the Pan Pacific Press bureau. The two schools have arranged a home-and-home series in which each team will travel to the extreme opposite side of America from its home grounds.

The cathedral at Rheims, one of the finest Thirteenth century Gothic structures in Europe, recalls the days of its medieval grandeur when the Kings of France were crowned within its walls, not the least of whom was Charles VII who owed so much to Joan of Arc.

Delicious Meals From Canned and Left-Over Meats

Canned meat on the store room shelf should be a source of never ending satisfaction. Dishes prepared from them take only a fraction of the time and attention involved in preparing a dish from fresh meats.

Canned meats made headlines recently in the flooded areas of the Ohio Valley. The Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation sent there four car loads of canned beef. In 1934-1936 during the drought healthy animals were bought and slaughtered and the meat canned for relief and emergency distribution.

Specialists of the Bureau of Home Economics at Washington say that the first thing to remember in using canned or left over meat is to reduce to a minimum cooking. That minimum is ten or fifteen minutes. The meat has already been well cooked. After this time the meat may become less savory.

Conserve the flavor by saving the broth or gravy for sauces or to cook vegetables in. No less important are the seasonings—the right ones used in just the right amount.

If you would enrich flavors combine the meat with various vegetables. A sturdy standby is the meat and vegetable stew. A good trio of vegetables would be turnips, carrots, and onions—all boiled in the meat broth until tender then combined with the meat. Dumplings could be put on top of the dish. Or the stew might be used for a meat pie with small rounds of biscuit dough or a sheet of mashed potato on top. The turn-over would be a good pie variation. The chopped meat could be seasoned with onion and celery or parsley and moistened with gravy or broth, tomatoes or chili sauce.

Then there are the spaghetti-meat combinations. Instead of spaghetti, hominy, hominy grits, cooked rice, or cracked or whole wheat may be used. A chopped green pepper with onion and tomato juice and some tobacco sauce is another possibility.

Chopped pork mixed with corn meal mush and seasoned with such herbs as thyme or a little sage or celery seed salt and pepper. The mixture is chilled then cut in slices and fried a golden brown. Our old friend scrapple.

And if you like Tamales try Tamale Pie. Top and bottom crusts of the pie are corn meal mush. The filling is made of an onion and a pepper chopped and cooked in fat and added to a pint each of tomatoes and any chopped meat, seasoned with salt and chili powder or cayenne pepper.

A combination less often thought of is shredded snap beans or cabbage with canned or left over pork.

Cabbage rolls make another dish. After the cabbage leaves have been wilted in hot salted water so they can be rolled each can be filled with a meat mixture, rolled up and baked in baking dish. The mixture may be ground meat with chopped onions and bread crumbs or cooked rice moistened with tomatoes and seasoned to taste. Over the cabbage rolls may be poured enough tomatoes or gravy or hot water to cover the bottom of the dish. As soon as the cabbage is tender the dish is ready to serve.

Browned hash is another favorite. Chopped or mashed boiled potatoes, chopped meat and onion seasoned to taste, mixed thoroughly and molded into cakes and fried until crusty—it's still a popular dish. Or this good mixture can be made into croquettes by adding bread or cracker crumbs rolling them, then dipping into beaten egg.

But remember three things: reduce second cooking to a minimum, retain all flavor in sauce or gravy; and add other seasonings and vegetables to bring out richer flavors.

Be sure to keep left over meats in a cold place so they will not spoil. From "The Market Basket" U. S. Department of Agriculture. Submitted by Ita E. Parrish, Home Supervisor Resettlement.

SPRING FEVER

This time of the year is the hardest time for most people to get along. These beautiful spring days and warm days give most of us the much dreaded "Spring Fever." Work both at home and in school seems harder to get and the hours to sleep are shorter for most of us. With the Interscholastic League County and District Meets not far in the future, we should work hard to try to overcome these sleepy days. Also this applies in our school work. There are over one hundred seniors who want to keep up their averages in order to get that much longed-for diploma on May 22. The other three classes must also work in order to make the required credits for the next year classes.

In the three summer months there will be plenty of time to rest after lunch or go fishing on the creek in the canyon. With the birds singing and the grass or weeds growing all around it is very hard to have to listen to our teachers tell of ancient history or how to divide, but after thinking it over and looking at your grades it is much better to listen than to look out of the windows.

Spring fever does not always affect people in the same way. Many of our students instead of wanting to leave school and go on a picnic want to work harder and make better grades. In this way Spring fever is a blessing. After school when all of the various events are being practiced both inside the building and outside the students on the warm days work harder and take a much greater interest in their work and activities.

Floydada Teams Win Volley Ball Tournney Held Over Week-end

Seven Schools Enter Both Boys and Girls Teams In Volley Ball Meet

A volley ball tournament was held Saturday, March 13, in the Andrews Ward gym. The following schools in the county sent both boys and girls teams: Lakeview, Muncy, Cedar Hill, Sterley, Sand Hill, South Plains, and Floydada.

The Floydada girls were victorious after defeating Sterley, South Plains, and Sand Hill. Floydada boys team also won over the teams of Lakeview, Cedar Hill, and South Plains. Sterley's girls team won consolation.

The following girls played on the Floydada team: Irene Reeves, Ruby Harrison, Nadeane Moore, Sarah Strain, Clea McClain, Irene Denison, Verna Phillips, Iva Moore, Verda Frances Turner, Ruth Kreis, La Nell Shirey, Jewell Fox, Elwanda Officer, Edith Grimes, and Lyndell Mae Glenn.

Playing on the Floydada boys team were: Irvin Allen, Estel Baker, James Willson, Orba Miller, Edwin Goughlighty, Dee Adams, Fred Cardinal, and Truman Dillard.

The money made at the tournament will be used for the girls volley ball suits. The suits will become permanent equipment for the school.

Who?

Who can't concentrate in the third period? Are there other diversions, Vera Nell?

Who hasn't been expecting who to weep this week?

Who says "How cuted" when she is reading and talking at the same time?

Who wrote "The Charge of the Light Brigade?" Norville seems to think Washington Irving wrote it.

Who is afraid to answer Miss Rea's questions?

Who won't argue?

Who was born to be a seamstress?

Who thinks it's too cold to see this P. M.?

Whose favorite saying is "Not a Pound?"

Who likes to stay in when the whole class stays in?

Who has a box of notes?

Who is so worried about having to wear her dress (the one she made in Home Ec)?

IN WOMANLESS WEDDING

Mr. Potter stepped out in a woman's apparel last Wednesday night to play at a womanless wedding at Dougherty. He wore a black dress trimmed in white braid with a string of red beads and a very-fashionable hat of bright aqua green trimmed with touches of pink.

Mr. Potter revealed exclusively to a Hesperite reporter that the stirring wedding march that he played was his own composition and that he made it up on the spur of the moment.

Others of the Floydada High School participating in the wedding were: R. V. Bartlett, William Hinton and Wayne Bloodworth who were flower girls. Special attention was called to Wayne's new coiffure.

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

The Interscholastic League is drawing very near and the students of Floydada High School are going to have to work very hard to beat Lockney or win county. The nearer the important date draws the harder the pupils should work. Especially is this true in the literary events. Lockney beat us last year just on winning the large majority of these events.

We usually win a very large majority of the field events—track, baseball, volley-ball and tennis. We lost volley-ball last year but our team promises that Lockney will have to work to beat it this year. As our school or enrollment is much larger than Lockney's we should win more of the literary events or declamation, essay writing, debates, extemporaneous speaking, spelling and other indoor events. If we win a majority of these we can count on the cup this year as the field events won't let us down. Let us make our motto this year as: "Beat Lockney" or "Regain that cup."

Kampus Kaypers

Hot Dill Mustard appeals to whom? We wish we knew—a lot depends on it—By the by if you're in bear of anyone who can stomach mustard and bananas for a combination, let us know. But how will you know who we are? Oh well, forget it. After those six weeks tests, we are all a little on the bally side of life—an appropriate theme song might be—"Oh Baby what I could do Without six weeks and you." Then there's always the near sighted guy who tries to cheat on the test and who puts up his mitts so they look like blunders on a nag. Random Thoughts: Judson Abernathy has ears like little boys who are written about in the story books; Bill Brown has very nice manners; Claudine Carpenter has a bit of a merry twinkle in that blue orbit known as an eye; Truman might well be called versatile when it comes to creating things, but in others he's a conservative; Margaret Hale reminds us of a tiny kitten—perhaps she appeals to our masculine instinct.

Best way to describe one's enemy "with a mind of mud and a heart of gold."

I know eight people who really had a swell time at a theatre supper the other night. Now who could that eight be?

Why do some people have to climb to the top of a hill, just to have their picture made? (And it was cold at that.)

Who was surprised last Sunday with a birthday dinner? Guess real hard, then if you just can't guess who it is I'll give you a hint. A. Senior girl. (She has a dog named Bismark.)

That girl that plays the saxophone the sixth period just goes around everywhere. She floats off to "Country Gardens" (as has been mentioned before in this column), then all of a sudden she happens up to "Winter Wonderland" and before the sixth period has ended she is at "The Mill in the Forest."

Why do some people always have to get left when a parade is beginning?

Chance For Win Over Lockney In Debate Is Brighter This Year

The debaters of Floydada High School are working very hard and hope to win debates in the county meet. They have not won either boy's or girls debates in many years. The prospects of this year's team is better than in many years.

One group of the debaters journeyed to Matador last Tuesday to repay the visit they made to us about two weeks ago. Decisions were not rendered but excellent practice was given to the debaters. Those who made the trip were: James Willson, Paul Barnard, Dorothy Dell Stovall, Brookesien Price and the coach, Miss Burrus.

On last Wednesday another group of debaters went to Plainview to debate their team for decisions. The girls debated first and won their debate. Next the boys debated and also won their debate. Both of these debates were close and many new ideas and points were brought out by both of the teams. Those making this trip included Alton Morse, Truman Kirk, Evelyn Hicks, Jessie Lee Hodges and Miss Burrus.

On Thursday Crosbyton came over to meet our debate team. They started debating at 2:30 but no decisions were given. Some of the teachers listened to the debate and criticized the debaters.

Next week the teams will probably debate everyday with some other team or within the group.

CHAPEL

The two prettiest girls and two ugliest boys were presented in chapel last Thursday by Billy Stanforth, and were called on for speeches. They were Beth Newton, Mary Frances McRoberts, Irvin Allen and E. Ray Smith.

Following this the band gave a program which was enjoyed by everyone. A march, "The Booster" was played first. This was followed by "Mary Had a Flock of Sheep." A novelty number was next when Mr. Kiker illustrated how the harmony section works by having the altos, basses, and trombones play the trio of "The Little Giant," then adding the other sections one at a time.

Robertine McIntyre gave a tap dance while Marguerite Leonard played an accordion number. The band then played "Them Basses" after which Muriel Fagan played a violin solo, accompanied by the piano by Sappho Ward. Following this Marguerite Leonard played an accordion solo.

The band played "The Chicago Police Band March" next. At the beginning a police whistle was blown and toward the last a gun was fired. Maybe you think some of us didn't jump, and then felt perfectly silly afterward.

The band played "Stars and Stripes" while we were returning to our classes.

Guess Who?

A senior girl who has brown hair and blue eyes. She is a member of the Home Economics club. She rides a bus to school and breaks her glasses on an average of twice a week. Her favorite study is typing.

A teacher of high school who has blonde hair and blue eyes. Her favorite sport is tennis. She likes to teach boys to do practical things.

A senior boy who has black hair and brown eyes. He is medium tall. He is real good in his studies and he likes to build things. He is partial to brunettes.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

Superintendent A. D. Cummings and Miss Miller attended the Northwest Texas Conference for Education held in Canyon Friday.

The principal speakers during the meeting were Dr. Carleton Washburne, superintendent of the schools in Winnetka, Illinois and Dr. Harold C. Hand, Professor of Education in Leland-Stanford University. Mr. Cummings served on the legislative committee and also on the executive committee of the conference.

YEAR BOOKS

Most of the material is here for the year-books. All of this is expected to be here by the end of this week. The work will begin on this project by the end of the week. Mr. King says there will be a few extra copies of the yearbooks. Anyone wanting a book had better see the editor or the business manager very soon or he will not be able to get one.

GOOD EDITION

We wish to express our enjoyment of the Hesperite last week. It was really good and the youngest class in high school edited it. The entire page was filled, which is really something! Every class is striving to do better than the freshmen, but they're going to work very hard. We were really surprised at the results of the efforts of this class. Don't you think they need a cheer?

Next week is the Sophomore's week. They will have to work hard to beat the Freshmen—but we'll have to wait and see how they come out.

Junior News

Every Junior in school was just "fizzing" Thursday, the ring salesmen had come and decisions were in order for color, type and extras on rings. About fifteen girls framed up for the beautiful "blue spinelle" ring, but about seventy-five others were framed for the "square ruby". It really is the prettiest one and we think that everyone of our class is going to be for it, heart and soul. The humor of the day was brought by our most beautiful girl, Beth Newton, when she was the only Junior who voted for a ring like our pens. But really we are looking forward to September first with watchful eyes because our Senior rings are expected.

J. C. Bolding Gives Ten Pigs To F. F. A. Members As Projects

J. S. Hale went to Fort Worth Friday morning as area representative of this area. He went to Lubbock and from there on to Fort Worth with the following: Mr. Ryan Gray—a state parliamentarian, Pat Strout, Howard Stretchers and Mrs. J. P. Sharp. One of these men was state president in 1932 and another was president in 1933 and 1934.

The F. F. A. boys, ten of them, really have interesting projects. Each of the following ten boys was given a pig by J. C. Bolding: Carl Parrish, F. H. Eavers, J. P. Poindexter, Neal Bertrand, L. H. Smith, William Bertrand, Woodrow Cates, Garth Morris, Louis Caffee and Clifford McLean. This gave these boys a fine opportunity to start in the livestock business. There are several provisions, however—the boys must keep the pigs until they are of marketing size. If the boys keep the pig that long, then the pig is to be theirs to sell or keep themselves. The pig are to be brought together soon and the pig that has been best cared for is to be chosen. This is a honor for the boy who has best cared for his pig. The pigs are now of weaning size.

The boys wish to express their appreciation to Mr. Bolding for making this project possible. The boys like their projects and will try hard to do the best job of raising their pigs.

Last Thursday Mr. Myers, who is with the Bureau of Entomology, talked to the agriculture class on the life habits and control of various types and kinds of flies that cause damage to livestock.

The method recommended for the control of the screw-worm fly is by treating the infected wound, with commercial benzol which may be purchased at local drug stores. After being so treated the wound should be plugged with a piece of cotton. This treatment should be followed by an application of pine tar oil, said Mr. Myers. Pine tar oil should not be confused with Pine Tar because it is an entirely different product. Mr. Myers discussed several livestock management problems with the class.

DEBATE TEAMS

Our debate teams are really working. The teams have been practicing their speeches and working hard and should win in the meet. This week Plainview is coming here to practice debating against our team. Our teams are to go to Crosbyton one day this week for practice. This is one of the most interesting subjects in the entire county meet.

She prepares a failing grade in the presence of my parents. Surely hard work and sorrow will follow me all the days of my life, and I shall attend F. H. S. forever.

HOMEMAKERS CLUB

The Future Homemakers had their regular meeting Wednesday with President Ethel Westfall presiding. A very interesting program was given by the boys of the club. After a short business session the club closed by singing the original club song, led by Ruth Tribble.

PINTAIL BANDED IN U. S. KILLED IN EASTERN ASIA

Recovery of a United States Biological Survey bird band in Asia has been reported to the Bureau for the first time.

A pintail duck killed last spring by an Eskimo near Indian Point, Siberia, about 100 miles west of St. Lawrence Island of the Territory of Alaska, carried the band, according to a report from a school teacher on the island. The bird was banded January 3, 1936, at Los Banos, California, by Dwight G. Vedder, a copartner of the Survey.

"Finding in Eastern Asia a pintail that had been banded in this country was not unexpected, although most of the American subspecies of this bird breed and nest in the northern regions of North America," says F. C. Lincoln, in charge of the Survey's bird-banding activities. "There are other records," explains Mr. Lincoln, "of the American sub-species that have appeared along the eastern coast of Asia, but such occurrences are rare. The European subspecies breeds and nests in the northern regions of Asia and Europe."

Banding thousands of birds annually in this country enables the Survey to accumulate valuable information on their habits, length of life, migrations, and abundance. Under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, bird banders are required to have a Federal permit.

the Bureau of Plant Industry.

Back in 1910 there were 151,300,000 apple trees of bearing age, 65,800,000 which had not reached bearing age, but the average production was only 1.02 bushels for each tree. By 1925 there were only 103,700,000 trees of bearing age, 34,300,000 which had not reached the bearing age, although the average yield per tree had been boosted to 1.76 bushels.

In 1935 the number of bearing trees had been reduced to 82,500,000 trees of bearing age, 17,500,500 of nonbearing age, and the average yield per tree was 1.04 bushels.

The decrease in the number of trees apparently has been in non-commercial areas, says Mr. Gould. This probably accounts for the improved average in production, and the result of better care for orchards in the commercial area.

Another notable trend reported by Mr. Gould is the shift in production leadership from the East to the West. In 1917 Washington first exceeded New York in production. Since 1921 Washington has held the lead consistently, now in producing two to three as many apples as any eastern orchard in the commercial area.

Despite the increase in population there has been no increase in the number of apples in the last years. Mr. Gould points out that orange production is up 155 per cent since 1915, and grapefruit production has jumped 118 percent since 1915.

Old Settlers Get Ready For Annual Re-Union May 28

Committees Chosen For Various Duties When Executives Gather

When the Floyd County pioneers gather for their annual re-union at Floydada again on May 28, it is expected that all arrangements will have been completed by committees named last Friday, when members of the executive committee gathered to lay advance plans for the occasion.

Mrs. Arthur B. Duncan, oldest living resident of the county, and president of the Floyd County Pioneers' Association, presided at the meeting, and among the first things decided was that the dinner or luncheon will be served on a commercial basis as it was last year instead of following the old-time basket dinner plan which was popular and pleasant to do in the days gone by. It just doesn't do any more, a majority of the committee decided. The committee to have plans in charge for the dinner feature are S. W. Ross, chairman, Frank L. Moore, Mrs. G. V. Smith, Ross Henry, Mrs. Jeffie Smith.

Dinner plans out of the way it was decided that badges, street parade, registrations, the relics and antiques and the old-fashioned square dance will be features again this year. For each of these a committee was named. Two additional committees also were named, one a glad hand or good will committee, to be sure none of the old-timers fall to get a hearty greeting, to be composed of Tom McLain as chairman, Mrs. Dan Shipley, Lee Rushing, Roe McCleskey, Joe McCollum and Mrs. Geo. A. Linder; the other 'new committee' is one to determine and arrange for suitable prizes for entrants in the parade and for any other features for which prizes may be given. This committee is composed of Mrs. Jno. N. Farris, chairman, Gad Snodgrass, Mrs. C. Sargner, Mrs. Victoria Asher, John Maxwell, and Mrs. R. Fred Brown. Other committees named were the following:

Committee on registration: Mrs. S. W. Ross, chairman; Mrs. L. M. Hones, Mrs. J. I. Hammonds, Mrs. Maud Burrus, Mrs. Joe McCollum; Business manager: Glad Snodgrass; Badge committee: R. E. Fry, chairman; Memorial committee: Mrs. Carl McAdams, chairman, Mesdames John L. West, Pearl Fagan; Street parade committee: C. L. Anderson, chairman; J. A. Fawver, Roy L. Sondgrass, Mrs. Glad Snodgrass, Mrs. Jack Henry, R. C. Bennett; Seating arrangements committee: E. P. Nelson, chairman, W. M. Windsor, Pink L. Maxwell, Arthur Edwards, Walter Edwards; Dance platform committee: Ben Guley, chairman, Bob Willis, John Fawver; Old relics committee: Geo. A. Linder, chairman, Mrs. Maud Hollums, Mrs. John Griffith, Mrs. R. C. Scott, Tom McLain, Mrs. J. J. Spikes; Cowboy songs committee: J. B. Jenkins, chairman, Homer Steen, Troy Leonard, Mrs. Dan Shipley, Mrs. Leona Bell, Mrs. Maud Hollums; Program committee: Tom W. Deen, chairman, Homer Steen, Geo. L. Fawver, John Maxwell, T. Z. Reed.

J. C. Gaither—

(Continued from page 1) while he was a member of the legislature at Washington, would often pass to and from his home, stopping at the home of my grandfather to wait for the stage. He would cut across the prairies and make himself at home at the house of my grandfather, Forrest Gaither.

"I have often seen Houston and talked to him. He would lay his hand on my head in passing and as a child I looked up at him with great admiration. He was a massive man. Massive. That's the word that fits him best. Massive but intellectual. He was eccentric in many ways.

"He loved to sit under the China trees in the yard so always we would sit there when the weather would permit.

"Houston was not patient when the stage was late. He would get restless, would get up and walk while then throw himself down on the ground under those trees and talk. I have seen him press his ear to the earth on the Bermuda grass and listen a long time and then sit up and say, 'She's comin'. We could not hear a thing but pretty soon the sounds of the approaching stage coach would reach even us.

"I remember many witty things said. He was noted for his humorous speeches.

"One cold winter night when I was about twelve years old, Pa said, 'Jim, don't you want to go to the postoffice with me to see Mr. Houston get off of the stage?' 'Naturally I wanted to go. I always did and this was an especial treat. I felt that I could hardly wait and was worried for fear my father would fool around and make us late. But I know now that I need not have been afraid of that. Pa had served in the Mexican War and was a strong partisan of Houston's. He was as eager to get to the postoffice as I was and when that magnificent form descended from the stage, wearing the shawl he always wore, we were among the crowd that rushed forward to greet the arrival. I was proud when he looked around and picked my father out of the group and said, 'Hello, Jim.'

School Days
When speaking of his school days Judge Gaither said he thought he had gone to school to every old Presbyterian minister in Texas. When asked if he joined the Presbyterian church he replied, "No I never joined the Presbyterian church but I am partial to it. My stately grandmother, Caldwell, was a Presbyterian in Salsbury, North Carolina."

He further related a little bit of interesting information in regard to his family: "The Gaithers have lived in Texas over a hundred years but they originally came from the mountainous parts of North Carolina, that part that is known as Burke County, the oldest county of North Carolina, on the border line of Tennessee. One of the counties that once planned to draw away and form the state of Franklin. A fellow once said to me that I was kin to nearly everyone in North Carolina, because I was kin to the Gaithers, Caldwell's. Avery's all those old families. He said I must be kin to Stonewall Jackson, because Jackson came from the Avery family."

"Carson County, Texas, was named for a cousin of mine, the nephew of my grandfather. Carson was secretary of State under Houston. Later he went back to North Carolina to live and was representative for North Carolina for a number of years. An uncle of mine, Burgess A. Gaither, of Morgantown, North Carolina, was in the Confederate Congress."

"Never as long as I live, shall I forget Houston's face that night as he smiled back at my father who referred to a recent time Houston had had with a northern senator, Corwin."

A Union Man
"Houston was a great advocate of the Union and was bitterly opposed to secession but he would allow no aspersions on the southern people. That caustic engagement with Corwin became important news for Houston certainly went for Corwin. On his way home Houston had come around by way of Cincinnati and had not seen the papers. He was thrilled by what my father told him of the newspaper reports."

"Senator, you certainly went for him," my father remarked in comment.

"Houston straightened up with that smile of his that always seemed to wreath his face which was usually sad. He stuck his fingers in his armpoles and said, with evident delight.

"Didn't I curry that old son of a—down?" "I never met Mrs. Houston though I understand she was an amiable and delightful woman. Houston was very fond of my mother, who was much younger than he and called her by her given name, Florida. She was a woman exceedingly well educated for her time and fond of reading. She kept up with the times and could discuss general topics with him.

"Six of my grand-uncles, all farmers, served under Sam Houston at San Jacinto. One, Joel W. Robertson, a boy of eighteen, by chance helped in the capture of Santa Anna. Uncle Joel was indifferent to any fame that this might have brought to him and spoke of it as a commonplace event. But when he told us of it, I was always thrilled to the core.

"Uncle Joel said that while the army was waiting at San Jacinto, the cavalry went out, picking up Mexicans wherever they could find them. Sergeant Sylvester, under whom Uncle Joel served, and my uncle Joel, were riding along together when they run upon a Mexican prisoner. Sergeant Sylvester ordered my uncle to take the man back to a kind of corral the Texans had built to keep the prisoners in, a picket stockade it was. The officer said that he would go on and search for others.

Capture of Santa Anna
"Uncle Joel turned back to camp, the swarthy man limping by the side of his horse. At last Uncle Joel drew rein and said, 'I hate to see you limping along like that. What's the matter with your getting behind me?' 'The man agreed gladly and the two moseyed along, talking in a friendly fashion.

"What do you reckon the Americans would do if they caught Santa Anna?" "I don't know," answered Uncle Joel. "Their blood is down a little bit now. I guess they wouldn't do nothing."

"As he turned around the corner of that long corral, all the prisoners began to cry out, as they crowded against the pickets.

"'El Presidente! El Presidente!' 'Well, I'll be darned,' thought Uncle Joel. 'Maybe I've caught Santa Anna.'

following the Mexican War. The Mexicans were eager to get rid of Santa Anna for they believed that if they did so the Americans would be willing to make peace. They sent Santa Anna down the road towards Vera Cruz where he wanted to set sail for Cuba and safety.

"The cavalry took after Santa Anna, passing through the Terra Caliente country trying to reach him. You need not put this down but they were afraid to send Texans after him for fear they would not respect his status as virtual prisoner and would kill him.

"One night near Orizaba, Colonel Jack Hayes of the Texas Rangers and Brigadier-General Layne of the United States Army held a conference as to what tactics to pursue.

"Captain Hayes said, 'Do you want to go, Gaither?' 'Yes, but I can't take my men,' Pa answered.

"On the National Road they overtook a group of Americans who were acting as escort for a party of Mexicans. It was Santa Anna who had surrendered in order to make a safe escape. When Pa rode up he found Santa Anna, Mrs. Santa Anna and their daughter in an ambulance drawn by fine mules.

"Layne rode forward and promised to furnish sufficient escort to get them to Vera Cruz. About the time Layne had finished, Hayes said to Layne, 'General, Lieutenant Gaither is a nephew of Joel Robertson, who captured Santa Anna at San Jacinto.'

"Hayes reported this to Santa Anna who turned eagerly and said, 'I would like to talk with him.'

"As Pa sat on horseback by the vehicle, Mrs. Santa Anna leaned out of the ambulance and patted Pa on the shoulder. She was grateful even to a member of the family of the boy who had been kind to her husband in the hour of his greatest distress."

Musical Comedy—

News reaches the village that a thief has been stealing choice bulbs of prize tulips; a hand bill describes the thief and offers a reward for his capture. Ned and Dick induce McSpindle to wear certain clothing, answering the description of the tulip thief. When the burgomeister beholds McSpindle so attired he causes his arrest.

With McSpindle out of the way, Ned and Dick quickly promote their friendship with the Dutch girls and learn that Christina's stock, unknown to her, is of immense value. They reveal the truth to her and thwart the burgomeister's attempt to grow rich at her expense. With the assistance of Christina's Aunt Anna Zutphen, the innocence of McSpindle is established and the latter declares his affections for her; and with the prospect of a triple wedding the grand "finale," "Tulip Time in Holland is a Time for Merry Fun," is sung by the entire company.

Rehearsals by the cast have been in progress for the past several weeks. Tickets for the presentation may be procured from any member of the cast.
