Autum Exhibit Days Find Floyd County In the Mood

Shows In County Exhibits Abroad On The Calendar

Agricultural Display At Amarillo Next Week, Lubbock September 27

Sept. 24-25 Here

One-Variety Cotton and 4-H Club Exhibits At Aiken Are Planned

Arrival of the fall days finds Floyd County people show-minded, as evidenced by the calendar of events laid out by local civic organization heads and officials.

In addition to the shows at Floydada and Aiken next week-end, the county will have an exhibit of agricultural products in competition in the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo, county and individual Jersey cattle entries in the dairy division of that show and the following week will have similar shows in Lubbock.

Floyd County on Parade

Beginning Monday exhibiting agricultural products and dairy cattle at Tri-State Fair, Amarillo. Friday-Saturday, Sept. 24-25—Community exhibits and individual farm products exhibits, Floydada, sponsored by Chamber of Commerce; and coincident with it. Fall Flower Show sponsored by Floydada Garden Club; Friday, Sept. 24—Aiken 4-H Club and One-Variety Cotton Show, exhibit of agricultural products and general get-together.

D. F. Bredthauer will have charge of the exhibit that has been assembled by himself and his force and farmers of Floyd County exhibiting in Amarillo. Some outstanding examples of the fertility of the soil of the county and the widespread diversification of farm efforts will be included in this exhibit. Mr. Bredthauer said, expressing appreciation for the fine support his office has had from all sections of the county. Mr. Bredthauer will return home in time to spend the day at the Aiken show, where the outstanding demonstration of the plains area is being made in the one-variety cotton plant. This week he said indications are the Aiken show will be one (See Exhibits, back page)

Dr. Wilson Kimble Elected President By Optometrists

Dr. Wilson Kimble was elected president of the District 2 Optometric Extension Program at a meeting held Sunday at the Hilton Hotel in Lubbock.

Each year the optometrists over the South Plains study some five subjects pertaining to their work at monthly meetings held in the various towns in the district. Fifteen optometrists were present for the Lubbock meeting.

Cannery, Started As Experiment, Is Declared Success

One of the interesting discussions which marked the meeting of the Commissioners' Court here Monday was the progress of the County Canning Plant, an enterprise in which the city also is interested, and which is being operated wholly without WPA or other federal or state aid.

How hundreds of cans of all kinds of vegetables and fruits have been put into cans on a toll or custom basis for farmers and others all over the county was an interesting topic. The women operating the plant take their pay in canned goods and after delivering the owners their share and the operators their share the county is gradually working up a supply of foods for the needy, which will be distributed through the County Family Welfare Agency, of which Mrs. Dot Slough is director.

Started as an experiment, the plant has been operating on full day basis since mid-summer and also in rush periods on night shifts, too. The outlook at this time is not for diminishing patronage but for an increase as fall canning needs arise. Mrs. Mattie Taylor is supervising the plant.

Grid Workout

Old automobile tires unlike old razor blades, can be put to good use, as is demonstrated by Temple University gridiron hopefuls, above, who use the tires for a little drill in sidestepping while preparing for the 1937 campaign.

One-Variety Plan Experiment Begun By Local Farmers

Production From About 3,200 Acres to be Ginned Pure, Kept Pure

A 'one-variety' cotton plan for local farmers, which as a matter of fact, however, embraces production in two varieties, is being experimented with by a number of raisers this year in the area adjacent to Floydada, and storage arrangements, including a 100-bale storage house, are being completed at this time.

J. W. Lanier, local ginner, and manager of the Farmers Co-Operative Gin Company, has been one of the leading spirits in the local movement. He said this week that the production from about 2,400 acres of purebred Acala cotton would be ginned pure and kept pure by block ginning and handling of seed and similar handling would be given the production from about 800 acres of Pepper cotton. Both of these acreages were contracted in the spring.

A cotton house to accommodate this cotton during rush periods and other cotton of customers of the farmers' gin, is now under construction. A number of the farmers are raising the two varieties under contract with commercial cotton seed growers.

1937 City Tax Rate $1.50, Set By Council

The tax rate for the city of Floydada, year 1937, as was generally understood would be the case, was formally set by the council at its Tuesday night session this week.

Of the tax levied $1.40 was ordered to be set aside to care for sinking the fund on bonded debt of the city and 10 cents for the general revenue fund.

Members of the council also voted to have attention given to several unpaved streets in the city where considerable damage was done by the heavy rains.

CIRCUS CANCELS DATE

Russell Bros. Circus will not show in Floydada on September 29, as advertised on another page of The Hesperian in this issue, J. Edwards, advance representative of the show, telephoned this morning. Cancellation here was made to fill a date at another point, he said.

Best Premium Paid First Bale Raiser Since Fall of '29

Clarence Reddy, Southwest Of Starkey, Sends First Bale To Market

Ginned Saturday

Sprinkling of Pickers To Get Into Cotton Fields During Next Week

Floyd County's first bale of cotton to be marketed and ginned, was turned out by Scott Gin Company Saturday morning for Clarence Reddy, who sent the bale to town late Friday afternoon. The best premium was made up Monday for the first bale that has been given for the first bale since 1929, indicating an eager and interested set of business men in Floydada, anxious to see the cotton season get under way.

The bale weighed 489 pounds and was sold by Mr. Reddy Monday on the local market. He was pleased with the premium made up—amounting to $58.63 and asked The Hesperian to express his appreciation to the business men of the community.

The field from which the bale was picked was the oldest cotton on his place. He has three or four more bales open and, barring further rains, expects to put pickers into the field this week-end and get the cotton that is ready for the gathering.

From other sections of the county come reports of opening cotton with indications that a sprinkling of pickers will be put to work from Saturday to next mid-week. Immediately south of Floydada, southeast toward Dougherty, and east around Camp, are nearly ready for the first pickers. There is a great deal of late cotton, however, and ten to twenty-five bales will probably cover all the cotton that will be harvested by the middle of next week. Following are the contributors to the first bale premium list in Floydada for Mr. Reddy:

Plainview Girl Wins Stenographer's Place In Dist. Health Unit

Helen Kreuger, of Plainview, Tuesday began work as stenographer in the Northwest Texas District Health office following examinations held Monday in which thirteen from over the district entered competition.

P. A. Kerby, administrative assistant out of the Texas State Health Office, Austin, conducted the examination here.

Mr. Kirby on his visit Monday complimented the quarters in which District One unit are located. "The offices are well arranged, amply commodious and comfortable," he said, hinting that they are the most desirable of any in the six cities where district unit officials are stationed.

Dr. H. H. Puckett, director of the district health unit, said the office has begun to function in a satisfactory manner. Among other activities of the week are the following: Clayton Billings, sanitarian, has completed a survey of food eating and handling places in Floyd County; J. C. Oliver, sanitary engineer, was called to Memphis during the week to confer on emergency problems there;

Mrs. Lillie Egbert, advisory nurse, conferred last week-end with officials in Lamb County, where the services of a county health nurse are being sought.

District 4-B Meet Held Thurs. Nite

Superintendents and Coaches From Ten Schools Held District Meet Here Thursday

Contracts Signed

Clifford Daniels and Gerald Lackey Ruled Ineligible By The Executive Committee

O. C. Thomas of Spur was elected chairman of District 4-B of the Texas Interscholastic League at a meeting held here Thursday night. Lee Vardy of Turkey was elected vice-chairman.

The meeting was held to get all the football schedules correct and straightened out. Contracts that were unsigned were signed for the football season.

Superintendents and coaches from Matador, Spur, Estelina, Turkey, Lockney, Silverton, Flomot, Paducah, Quitaque, and Floydada were present.

The executive committee refused to allow Clifford Daniels, Whirlwind halfback and Gerald Lackey to play ruling that agriculture and one other subject could not be counted as three units credit. Daniels will be eligible next year probably. Silverton asked that a player there be passed upon but the committee gave permission for him to play until all details could be worked out. It is believed that he is eligible.

The remaining of the 1937 schedule for the 10 schools in District 4-B is as follows:

Sept. 17 Matador at Crowell; Sept. at Spur; Chillicothe at Paducah; Floydada at Slaton; Flomot at White Deer; Turkey at Tulla; Lockney at Silver Springs.

Sept. 24 Silverton at Matador; Lubbock B at Spur; Paducah-Open; Floydada at Plainview; Estelina at Quitaque;

Oct. 1 Matador at Turkey; Estelina at Floydada; Spur at Flomot; Paducah at Crowell;

County Officials To Discuss Quitaque Dam

Construction of a dam and creation of a water conservation and recreation project on Quitaque Creek in northeast Floyd County will be discussed at a meeting of county officials and others in Plainview this afternoon. The meeting was called by Judge H. M. La Font of that county, in whose office the discussions will be held.

Invitations have been given to officials of Hall, Hale, Floyd, Briscoe, Swisher, and Motley Counties, it is said.

Opening of the Economy Dry Goods Store, west side square, at 120 South Main Street, for which the building has been in preparation several weeks, will be held tomorrow, when the stock will be ready for the inspection of the public. Charles Rosenberg, recently here from Snyder, Texas, said the first of the week.

"We welcome one and all to visit us and will enjoy showing our merchandise and our new store," Mr. Rosenberg said. A general stock of dry goods, shoes, furnishings, and ready-to-wear is included in the stock which is to be shown for the first time in the morning.

Walter Norris, of Fort Worth, will be associated with Mr. Rosenberg in the store here. Mr. Norris has been here sometime helping with the arrangement of the opening stock and his wife and young daughter, just entering high school, joined him here last week, to make their home.

Other stores of the Economy Dry Goods Company are located at Snyder and Brownwood. Mr. Rosenberg and his son, Henry, of Snyder, visited Floydada early in the summer and made their plans for opening business here.

West Texas Gas Company to Place Malodorant In Lines Tuesday, G. L. Kirk Says

Protective Measure Adopted Complies With Act Of The Legislature

Odorization of the natural gas used in gas distribution systems in Floydada District will be effected on Tuesday of next week, September 21, G. L. Kirk, district manager, announces this week, the action meeting the requirements of the statute enacted by the Texas Legislature in its regular session last spring.

As soon as the malodorant gas is introduced into the system it can be detected immediately, if the customer has any leaks in the pipes that bring the gas to his house and thus be warned of the danger of leaks, Kirk pointed out. The law is a direct outgrowth of the New London disaster in East Texas this spring when more than 400 children were killed in a blast that followed undetected natural gas escaping in the walls and under the building.

"This gas that will be put into the natural gas lines is so putrid to the smell that there will be no mistaking it," Kirk said. "And should there be any leaks in your house piping system there is no doubt you'll do something about it."

"The malodorant which we will put into the pipe lines, however, will be entirely harmless," Manager Kirk said. "It will be neither poisonous nor nauseating. It will be non-corrosive to steel, iron, brass, bronze or leather and will be insoluble in water."

The action to be taken by the local gas company is one that is being taken also by all other gas companies in the state. In several states of the east, Kirk said, the use of an odorant with a distinctive smell, has been common for a number of years, especially in those states where artificial gas is manufactured and sold.

Should the customer discover by the smell from his gas stoves or any connections that he has a leak the thing for him to do is to call his plumber and have the leaks stopped, since it will be warning that gas is escaping into the place of residence or business. Many small leaks, which are usually overlooked, will in this way be stopped, and the customer will not only be conserving the gas that flows through his meter but will also have the assurance that his health and safety are not being endangered through escaping gases.

700 Attend So'western Open House

Local And District Officials Hosts To Public 2 to 9 p. m. Tuesday

Explain Workings

Many at 'Party' Get First Inside View of Telephone Exchange

Approximately 700 patrons and friends of the local Southwestern Bell Telephone Exchange Tuesday afternoon and evening enjoyed the open house at the new office from 2 to 9 o'clock.

Bouquets of cut flowers in the lobby, made into a receiving room, and punch served by the Andrews Ward Parent-Teachers Association gave the affair a social touch, but the interest was none the less keen in seeing actual telephone calls being put through, the explanation and demonstration of the modern telephone equipment and the demonstration of some of the wonders of science as applied to the transmission of sound.

Mrs. Edith Rogers, chief operator, and W. G. Riddle, district manager, of Amarillo, met the visitors at the door, and passed them in parties of ten to J. F. Blount, district traffic chief, of Amarillo, who showed them the workings of the switchboard, and gave them an opportunity of seeing telephone operators handling actual calls.

From the switchboard the visitors were passed to F. H. Norwood, district plant chief, Amarillo, and M. E. Blakeley, wire chief, Plainview, who showed them the back of the switch board, the connections and main distribution frame where cabling from the various parts of the city terminate and cross connect to the individual telephone number. Here also were shown the storage batteries and ringing machine with a complete explanation of the workings of both.

G. N. Halley, district commercial supervisor, of Fort Worth, then took the groups and demonstrated and explained some of the inventions of the Bell Laboratories, including some very recent, others older, namely:

A model of the first telephone invented by Alexander Graham Bell 61 years ago, also the models invented down to the present telephone, together with the vacuum tubes which have made long distance telephone service possible. Mr. Halley also showed the visitors one of the large tubes used in transoceanic service and a piece of the new Coaxial Cable, which recently has been installed between New York and Philadelphia. This cable is only equipped with one pair of 19-gauge wires, this pair of wires having a capacity of 240 telephone conversations simultaneously.

At the conclusion of Mr. Halley's demonstration the guests were invited to the rear of the building where the Parent-Teachers Association served punch under a tent where they could congregate and visit without disturbing the conduct of the telephone operations on the interior of the exchange.

W. G. Riddle, commercial manager, said that completion of exchange old telephones in offices and residences would be made in two or three weeks. The work of making the changes was begun today.

MRS. SWINSON HOME Mrs. J. E. Swinson, who had been in a Dallas hospital for about three weeks, returned home Thursday of last week. Her condition has been improving steadily since her return. Mr. Swinson said.

Sleeping Sickness Widely Scattered Among Horse Stock

Sleeping sickness, the disease with the long name that is death to horse stock, has gotten widely scattered in Floyd and adjacent counties and is worse in this county at this time, possibly, than it was in 1933. At that time state and local veterinarians made a big fight to get it under control.

Communities in every direction from Floydada have cases of the horses sick with the disease, said W. U. White, who has been extensively dealing in the preventative anti-toxin for encephalomyelitis. A high mortality rate seems to have resulted from the fact that live stockowners have been slow to treat their horses until the disease is well under way.

Whether the heavy population of mosquitoes on the country has any relation to the gradual increase in number of cases, as has been speculated, has not been determined.

L. G. Withers Enters Cafe Business Again On West California St.

L. G. Withers this week is in the coffee shop business again in Floydada, having purchased the Ward Coffee Shop on West California Street. The exchange of ownership was made Tuesday. A. N. Ward expects to enter another line of activity.

Incidentally Withers' location now is the same as his location when he began here eight years ago. He is delighted to be back in Floydada from Kerrville, where he and his family moved the latter part of last year and where he had been in business.

Rotary Club Receives Plaque For Attendance

W. A. King had charge of the Rotary Club program at its regular Wednesday meeting in the First Christian Church.

Dr. H. H. Puckett, of the District Health Unit, explained the set-up for this district and what the duties of the office were. Charles and C. W. Denison gave some musical numbers.

Dr. C. K. Arnold was a guest of G. C. Tubbs and Arthur Barker was a visiting Rotarian.

Guests of the club were Miss Lois Pouts, Miss Reba Copeland, and Mr. Stockard.

A. D. Cummings, past president of the Rotary Club, received from the past governor of this area a plaque for the Floydada Rotary Club attendance record. This plaque was presented to the club.

WE NEED MORE HOUSES

With rents moving upward again in Floydada, too fast from one point of view, not fast enough from another, there are a hundred or more families who ought to have bought homes and didn't, who will begin to look around now.

When these hundred should-be home-owners move out of the houses they are in now into homes of their own there will be plenty of living quarters available for those who, by the nature of their occupations, cannot own homes but must ever be ready to move.

WHEN THE FIRST FREEZE?

A subject of deep moment to plains and near-plains people now is, when will the first freeze come? Looking to nature for signs some take the trees, others go by the prairie dogs, still others by the tarantulas and others the first "norther" of the season.

Taking this last "sign" would throw the first freeze of the season on November 10, a long time away, plenty of time for late cotton to develop and for the ground and the staple to dry out after September and its rains have passed.

Some of the other "signs" do not coincide with the first norther sign. It will be interesting to see what actually happens. In the panhandle of Texas the weather gets credit for "doing as it pleases," and no weather man has been able to predict it successfully.

WEEDS AND TICKLE GRASS

Since it continues to stay wet and very wet in a large portion of the county some of the farms where the cotton crop had been laid by with some weeds and grass growing, is beginning to disappear in the wilderness of high careless weeds and tall tickle grass.

Where the tall grass and weeds are will be as much cotton, perhaps, as where the fields are clean, but it will be considerably harder to get at, harder to hire hands to gather, more waste when the winds come and the careless weeds whip around and gather the cotton off the stalk.

When the time came to leave the weeds and grass or not leave them this summer it was a question whether to spend the additional money to clean the fields or not spend it. It works out, hindsightedly, that it would have paid to clean the fields.

ONE OR THE OTHER—BUT WHICH?

GRASS BURRS PUNISH PICKERS

Once on the plains the farmer planted his crop and came back in the fall to see if he had anything to gather. What he planted would be there or not be there ready to gather. Meanwhile, what we call civilization has moved along and nature has taken what it brought, planting winter weeds, pepper grass, Russian thistles, tickle grass, careless weeds, broom weeds, and grass burrs.

About the hardest thing on a cotton harvester is trying to pick cotton that is full of grass burrs. When a man tries to crawl on his knees and snap cotton it is hard for him to keep his mind on his business with a "goat head" sticking tenaciously through the knee pads and pricking him every move he makes.

STORIES ABOUT CHEAPER FUEL

Stories and rumors about this and that fellow who has equipped his car with a contrivance to burn a form of petroleum that costs less than regular gasoline and gives twice the mileage, have been going the rounds the past few weeks. You don't read of them in official announcements of any kind but they are extant just the same.

This is a changing world and mother necessity is going to find a way out of the heavy tax bill being paid on all the gasoline that is burned on the highways, if she can. It is another illustration of two things: First, of the resourcefulness of mankind; second, of the fact that the higher tax levy does not always get the most money.

TO BUILD OR NOT TO BUILD

When the depression hit building stopped, fires continued, foreclosures increased, marriages were postponed, families "doubled up," prices went down; now, with no building for years, rents are rising, prices are going up, population is increasing, marriages are increasing, families are spreading out.

As a result, the future holds out prospects of scarcer houses, higher rent, higher prices, building will be higher and material costs will go up. There are a good many men in Floydada who should build or buy a home because: Financing is easier; interest rates are the lowest in history, vacant property is cheaper, labor and material costs are down, prices, while already rising, are still low.

If everybody in Floydada who should build a home would do so, the next six months would see the end of a shortage of houses for those who by the nature of their occupations cannot spend money for a permanent investment in our town.

It isn't always advisable to be satisfied with things as they are. It is all right to advocate optimism and smiling faces and serene confidence for the future, but sometimes it's a good idea to be a grouch and register an occasional kick. In other words, don't accept halfway results and compromises as an easy way to solve problems. Be the devil's advocate and try to find out what is wrong with your surrounding conditions instead of taking it for granted that everything is "O. K."—George Ade, journalist and humorist, in the September Rotarian Magazine.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

NEELIE WILLIAMS

Old mother earth is in a gay mood and is flaunting a costume of rich green. Only on country roads is her brown body exposed. Her beautiful gown is woven of luxurious grasses, the shining leaves of cotton and sorghums. Even the weeds are woven in the exquisite cloth and add to the richness of the color.

The good earth's bosom is adorned with sapphires—the lakes. She holds gay flowers in her hand, and a wreath of them in her hair. Her green cotton bolls hold her dress together. Around the hem of her garment—tiny yellow flowers of the brom weed and the purple Kansas stars, make a pleasing pattern.

We thank thee, good earth, for your beauty and your rich harvest. Many times this year you have changed your gown. We like the one of you white trimmed in glittering icicles you wore last January. The rich dress of gold you wore during wheat harvest gladdened our soul. We look forward to your dress of autumn, the many rich shades of brown, trimmed with beautiful autumn leaves and bands of white cotton.

We country people live so close to you mother earth our very existence depends on your generosity. May we teach our children to care for you to love your beauty and to be glad their lives are to be spent in the country.

"Dear Nellie," my sister writes "Mother needs all of us to come to see her more often. I think mother never did demand any attention from us till we have gotten to thinking she does not need for much, but she needs a lot more than we realize." Our mothers have been so reliant on sacrificing, we take it too much as a matter of fact.

Let's go see them, write them letters of love and appreciation let them lean a little on us as we have leaned so much on them. God bless our sweet mothers, and do not forget the fathers. They labored long and hard that we might have a home and an education. God bless our dear kind fathers.

Joy and sorrow chase across our lives like the sunshine and shadow across the earth. Joy warms and lightens our lives, then sorrow casts its dark shadow and our hearts are chilled as the cold rain of autumn chills the world. While visiting with dear old friends, we learned a pioneer of the west had moved on to a better range.

John Allen moved to the plains long before most of us came. He and his wife picked up the bleached bones of the buffalo and hauled them with ox teams to Colorado City. Mr. Allen walked and broke the prairie land driving a loosed team. Mrs. Allen followed and planted the forty acres with a spade. Into the rich loam she would push the spade, drop the tiny seeds of the sorghum and the maize, then let the earth fall back and cover them.

A home in a dugout the Allen's made on the wind swept plains, no kind neighbor woman near to help when tiny babies opened their eyes to the brown walls of their under ground home. Their hearts were broken when their little girl fell in the fireplace and was burned to death, no doctor near to ease the suffering of the little child. But the Allen's never faltered—never gave up. Many children they raised up to bless the country in which they live. Oh, people of our beautiful plains—to-day stop a minute and give honor to the pioneers that stood the droughts and the cold that you and I might have a good land in which to live.

Oh dear old friend—John Allen—may your children radiate the same charm and hospitality that was as warm and unflinching as the sun of the plains country. We shall meet you in the new land where the pastures are ever green and the land is richly watered by the life giving stream flowing by the Throne of God.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON. — Resettlement and Agriculture officials here who will be responsible for the administration of the new Farm Security setup confide their fond hope that the bureau's new name will excite less prejudice than the public felt against Rexford Guy Tugwell's administration plan for resettling the nation's poverty-stricken millions.

Projects begun by Resettlement Administration and for which some $425,000,000 has been allotted, will be completed. At the same time, the machinery of the RA organization will be geared to spend $10,000,000 to help tenant farmers as provided by the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenancy Act. Another $10,000,000 will be used by a new division in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics to buy sub-marginal land which cannot decently support farmers.

No policy for helping farm tenants, laborers, and sharecroppers eligible for loans under the act, has so far been defined by the secretary of agriculture. There is, however, a background of one and a half year's experience of farm tenant problems to which the new bureau may refer.

Resettlement Administration has in operation 10 farm tenant security projects in the leading cotton states of the south: North Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Texas.

The plan followed was to buy farms already in operation and which already had some improvements. In most states where this experiment has been made, the farms were widely scattered to test the feasibility of reducing overhead costs by having RA county agents and rehabilitation agents supervise the tenancy projects as an adjunct to their regular work.

It is not expected that the new Farm Security Administration will require any expansion of personnel either in Washington or in the field. In their farm tenancy experiment constructive and entertaining addresses, cowboy songs and old fiddlers' contes, the announcement was made by Miss Laura V. Hamner and Thomas F. Turner, of the program committee.

Ira D. Gamble returned home Friday from a trip of a few weeks downstate, where he visited some thirty counties in a study of conditions and giving matters attention in connection with the eastern business of Gamble Land and Cattle Company and he is optimistic as to the outlook for the next few months in Texas.

A meeting of the cotton raisers of this section has been called for Wednesday, September 19, at the Court House in Floydada at 3 o'clock p. m. when the cotton prices will be discussed as well as the question of advertising for cotton pickers.

Cotton has been skyrocketing the past ten days and there was a frenzy of excitement on the exchange Tuesday when the Government's estimate of the crop this year went below 11,000,000 bales.

RA has been concerned with single family units as against the earlier more comprehensive plan which involved moving poor farmers to another section, sometimes to another state, where they would farm a large area on a co-operative basis.

The average crop acreage for each farm in most cases in from 40 to 65 acres. It has been found that this amount of land is sufficient to support the average farm family, and to make economical use of two mules. About 1000 tenant families are being given a chance in this demonstration project to prove in five years time that they can satisfactorily manage their farms with the government as landlord.

If at the end of the five years the tenant is considered satisfactory he has the privilege of renewing his lease or buying the farm he is operating from the government, under a 40-year purchase plan with interest at 3 per cent.

Farm Security Administration is a small-scale project as compared with the original RA which once had 16,000 administrative employees. The farmer's only function is to direct aid to tenant farmers as against the scope of Mr. Tugwell's plan for relocating city dwellers and farmers on fertile land, and it is proceeding cautiously by experimenting before spending.

By these standards it has a unique place in the long list of New Deal relief bureaucracies.

Legion Returns '20 Years Later' to March in Biggest Parade Ever Held in New York

THERE was a grim note to the sound of marching feet 20 years ago in New York City, as company after company of khaki-clad doughboys passed in review down Fifth Avenue. Bands played and flags waved as they swung down the main street of America.

On Sept. 20, just 20 years later, thousands of those very same feet will tramp down the avenue again. The flags will be flying and the bands will be playing, but the grim note will have turned into one of almost carnival gaiety. The American Legion will have "occupied" the city for its 19th annual convention.

The men who will pour into New York from every state in the Union, will recapture some of the spirit they had in their youth 20 years ago—they all ways do when the Legion comes to town.

According to Harry W. Colmery, national commander of the Legion, the so-called "Biggest Parade" on Tuesday, Sept. 22, actually will be the biggest parade ever held in New York.

It will start at 9 a. m. and will continue all day and perhaps all night. The long procession will form in the side streets east and west, and starting at 35th street will swing north two miles to 74th street.

The veterans will retrace the route of 1917, and the one of 1919 when they marched in the famous victory parade on their return from France.

HOTEL lobbies will resound with the familiar strains of "Hinkey Dinky Parlay Voo," "Madison," and the "Chef de Gare." Every battle in the war, practically, will be refought as the boys from Walla Walla, Wash., swap tales with the lads from Pensacola, Fla., Bangor, Me., and other points.

They'll all be there. Nearly every American Legion post in the Union will be represented when more than 100,000 Legionnaires take over the hotels, restaurants and theaters. Five hundred life and drum corps will lend their color to the parade, and about 150 units will add additional happy notes in the national drum and bugle call contest at the Polo Grounds.

But the four-day convention will not be one of merry-making alone. The Legion, since its first caucus in Paris, in 1919, has become an important part of the national pattern of events.

Its influence is felt in every village and town where a Legion post exists. It has helped hundreds of important projects and lent its aid and strength in time of need. Flood relief, rehabilitation in time of disaster and financial backing for civic enterprises are only a few of the Legion's activities.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN will be the scene of the opening session, with the Metropolitan Opera House having been

Hair turns white suddenly when sorrow, worry, ill health or shock affect the nerves, which halt production of color-giving hair pigment. This pigment determines color of the hair. Dark hair has lots of pigment, light hair, not so much. A white hair, none at all. In old age, observes a writer in the Washington Post, the color change is more gradual as the nervous system wears out. In just 45 minutes, the dark hair of a famous locksmith changed to white. Deep-sea currents almost killed him when he went down to open the safe of a sunken vessel, and the shock showed immediately.—Panhandle Herald.

Have you ever thought how many objects you pass without even noticing them; how many voices and sounds fail to register with you? It seems that one usually sees what he is looking for and hears that to which his ears are attuned. Perhaps this is what Emerson had in mind when he said that as one brings back from Europe anything which he did not take one with him. (Excluding merchandise of course.)—Ohio Farmer.

For how many people does your farm produce a comfortable living? If you or your tenants are not getting a comfortable living, it may be due to the production per acre of cotton or corn. If this is true, it is time to look for some other use to put these low yielding acres. Twenty cent cotton will not correct the situation, as all prices are very likely to advance accordingly.—Redland Herald.

Train your mouth to smile when the day is dark; your tongue to speak for the advancement of humanity; your nose not to sniff at those beneath you; your ears to hear nothing but good of other people; your eyes to see the needs of your fellow-men; your hands to supply those needs, and your feet to walk always on the upward path to stony and steep.—Gerald Gray.

engaged for business meetings. About 80,000 women are expected to attend the Legion Auxiliary, held at the same time. To New Yorkers, the four-day Legion convention probably will mean the best four-day show of the year, if preparation and past performances may be used by way of prophecy. The stoutheaded, baldish gentlemen, who 20 years ago could have run down the two-mile parade route with little effort, might wind up this year's march, puffing and a bit flushed, but they will prove that they can come back for more—and with just as much spirit.

Local Dealer Finds Advertising Makes Demand Exceed Supply

Hesperian Has Wide Circulation Since Area Is Combed For Readers During Summer

That advertising in the newspaper does create interest and produce sales was evidenced by Baird Bishop of Bishop's Pharmacy recently in a most forcible manner. Bishop advertised a special offer on fountain pens, for a two-day period. Stock thought to be ample—several dozen—was exhausted the first day and he had to turn down many would-be purchasers on the very next day. Very regretfully, of course, he had to add to the traffic across the door created by the fountain pen advertising, the pharmacy also advertised several mail orders which he could not fill. "We made an offer in good faith," he said, "and it certainly was not our intention to disappoint anyone. I will just have to put in a new order for The Hesperian and admit I ought to have had more of the merchandise, counted stronger on the pulling power and reader interest."

Rams Plane Into House For A Thrill

Timbers and wreckage sprayed through the air, above, as the plane flown by Capt. F. F. With wings shorn from the fuselage by the terrific impact, the plane, traveling five feet off the ground and at the rate of 60 miles an hour, is shown just at the split second it burst through the house. Frakes suffered only from shock.

Teacher Retirement System Explained By Folders Mailed Here

County Superintendent Walter Travis mailed to all teachers in the county a sheet prepared by Mortimer Brown, executive secretary of the Texas Teacher Retirement System, that explained the "why and wherefore" of the retirement system to the teachers.

The law defines a teacher as a person employed on a full-time salary basis by any of the school boards of the city or county, or school trustees. Colleges wholly or partly supported by the state are included.

Each member will contribute five per cent of his salary each month and the state will match the contribution, the money contributed by the teacher will draw three and one-half percent interest.

A teacher may retire at any time between the ages of 60 and 70 but must retire at 70. Teachers may retire under the age of 60 if they have 20 or more years of service and their disability is certified by a medical board.

A teacher withdrawing from the system for any reason other than disability will receive all the money contributed plus the interest compounded annually. Therefore the system acts merely as a saving fund for teachers not intending to remain in the system for the minimum of 20 years which is required to become eligible for the retirement benefits.

In case of death before retirement the accumulated fund will be paid as provided by the laws of descent unless otherwise directed.

Teachers between the ages of 60 and 70 when the act becomes effective must teach the year 1937-38 and retire on Sept. 1, 1938.

Further information on the system may be secured from the County Superintendent's office.

THE LAST YEAR

Well, Seniors, we are all gathered together now, for the last time—probably. Maybe we don't realize it now, but nevertheless, there will never be another year quite equal to the last year in good old F. H. S. So I offer this timely advice: "Let's make the most of this year, every day in every way."

First, let's do it by having more class spirit than would be possible if we were not enthusiastic Seniors. Let's stick closer together than gum to a study hall desk. We might well resolve to be united and undivided as a class throughout the year. Let's be as one in the selection of worthy and capable officers for our class. For without wise and discreet leadership our class will be as a ship without a pilot. If there are prejudices and ill will among class members, we can not expect our class to go ahead by leaps and bounds.

By all means should we cooperate with our sponsors, who are doing and will do everything possible to keep us going and going in the right direction. Thank you Miss Cade and Mr. King!

Now then—something absolutely essential to a real good Senior Class. And that is—recognize a senior any time anywhere you see one. Why not look around in check, see and learn the new faces, then their names? Then when Senior meets Senior, whether it be in the hall, on the campus, on the streets, at the game, or where be you, Senior will greet Senior by name. Let's try it. I believe it will work!

Incidentally, if we are good and as spirited as we hope we are this year, we might be making plans now for a homecoming, reunion, or what-you-call-it about four or five years from now. Or maybe we want to get together every year? What about it Senior Class of '37 and '38?

WE APPRECIATE THE SENIOR CLASS

Every organized group of people must have its leaders. We always look to the Senior Class to furnish us this leadership. The leadership furnished by the Senior Class is felt in every department of the high school. They are helping in no small way to guide the destinies of the football team, the pep squad, and many other organizations. But more than the places held by the Seniors in the different organizations is the influence they have on the spirit and conduct of the entire student body. The Seniors set the example for the rest of the student body. They are looked up to as important people—and they are. The freshman wants to act like the seniors he admires, and all freshmen admire some senior. The Seniors of Floydada High School are going to set the pace not only in activities but in scholarship. We have had larger classes in number, but this year's class is not going to be excelled in accomplishments. We appreciate the fine spirit you seniors have and we want to tell you about it. We are betting on you throughout the year and throughout life.

F. F. A.

The F. F. A. boys are going to strive to make this a banner year for the organization in Floydada. The boys have joined together in an effort to start it going early. Last summer three meetings were held with good attendance. During the first meeting it was decided that the members would take an overnight trip to the Palo Duro Canyon. The expenses were small, and everyone had an enjoyable time. Before they left the group visited a few of the hog farms around Canyon. Many prize hogs were also there. A large dairy barn was also visited. All the members enjoyed this very much as many of the new improvements were to be seen there. It was so arranged that the boys were admitted into the college swimming pool.

Now to get back to the new year: a meeting was called Thursday at one o'clock for election of new officers. James Gibbs was unanimously voted in as president. The other officers were as follows: Ralph Taylor—Vice President, Milton Weems—Secretary, Joe Smith—Reporter, Garth Morse—Parliamentarian, Truman Dillard—Watch Dog, and C. W. Denison—Historian.

It was the best of wishes that the organizer, J. S. Hale stepped from the presidency of the F. F. A. that he had held since last election. He has shown the ability and effort that makes a president worth while.

All the other officers have done well; among the best is James Gibbs, who now stands at the head of the organization.

The F. F. A. Chapter of Floydada is proud to say that they were the first to pay their area dues, Lorenna, being next.

New Faculty Members Start School Year In Floydada High School

From Whence They Hail, Their Likes and Hobbies; Reporter Anxious for Them of "Like Us"

A new school year with new pupils and teachers should really make the "wheels go round." There are just enough old pupils and teachers to help the new ones and just enough new ones to help the old. Miss Fouts, the clothing teacher, is with us for her first time. Her home is in Haskell, Texas. She attended school at North Texas State Teachers College in Denton. While in school she was a member of the Green Jacket, Mary Arden, and Ellen H. Richards Clubs. She was secretary of the senior class and, as you can see, was an outstanding member.

Her favorite: good chocolate cake, song, "Stardust", pastime, going to post office, sport, football.

When asked how she liked our school she replied, "Oh fine!" I like it very much. So here's hoping you continue to feel thus for that is our feeling toward you.

Miss Wolfe, the new librarian and speech teacher, is from Quinlan. She is a graduate of Wesley College, Greenville, and Texas State College for Women, Denton. While in college she was a member of the Woman's Athletic Association, the Dramatic Club, various departmental clubs and the Y. W. C. A.

Her favorite: food, ice cream; pastime, walking; sport, tennis; song, "put on your old gray bonnet."

C. Grummish, the band instructor, is a new teacher from Ft. Morgan, Colorado. He attended Kansas State Teachers College in Pittsburg. He was a member of College Band and Orchestra, the J. J. Richards band and also the Kansas City Railroad band.

His favorite: food, fried chicken; song, "The Eyes of Texas"; sport, tennis; pastime, fixing typewriters.

Both Mr. Grummish and Mr. Stockard seem to like our school. At any rate, we hope they do for we are very glad they are with us.

What "They" Did

Our teachers really scattered out for the summer. But they all had a good time, so we learned, whether studying, working, playing, or what have you?

Miss Cade, head of the English department, worked on her Master's degree in Tech this summer.

Miss Miller attended West Texas State Teacher's College at Canyon. Miss Wolfe, realizing that she would have to be away from home for nine months, tried to make up for it by spending her vacation at home.

Mr. Williams did research work in Dallas at S. M. U. this summer. Mr. King spent the most of the summer working with his P. F. A. boys.

Miss Copeland, anxious to know what Charleston, West Virginia looked like, spent the summer there with her brother.

Mr. Grummish spent part of the summer doing concert work in Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska. Mr. Cummings worked on his Master's at the University.

Miss Fouts spent the summer with her parents at Haskell and visited in Medicine Park, Oklahoma, and Carlsbad Cavern.

Miss Rees worked here until July then spent five weeks in Dallas, Mt. Pleasant, Texarkana, Longview and Austin.

Mr. Stockard also did work on his Master's degree at the University.

Miss Wilhite has been ill all summer and has not returned. Mrs. Jones is teaching in her absence.

Mr. Winter, being a home-lover and at the same time longing for "cool comfort" found employment with the municipal ice plant.

Miss Rex spent the summer in Lubbock working on her Master's degree from Tech.

Band Notes

The band has a number of new members this year; however we lost several that played with us last year. Everyone doesn't have instruments yet, but Mr. Grummish has some ordered and as soon as they come we will all get started playing.

We intend to have a real band this year and can hardly wait to show off. There will also be a beginners band this year.

New music has been ordered for us and we have hopes of getting new uniforms sometime this year. Our ambition is to make F. H. S. proud of us, and that's what we're going to do.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

Thursday assembly was opened by Mr. Cummings who briefly introduced Coach Winters, who in turn introduced all the football team. Every player received a hearty cheer from the student body. This was followed by a few announcements in regard to the game with Crowell Friday night. More announcements were made by Mr. Davis concerning school activities.

Hall Full of Peppers Greet Superintendent In Organization Meet

Only Change in Green Pepper Uniforms This Year in Headgear, Yell Leader Announces

The Green Peppers started this week with the intention of having a great Pep Squad for the coming year. There have already been three big healthy meetings, and over fifty girls have signed up. When Mr. Cummings came in to talk to us Tuesday he just looked at the room; all chairs full and girls standing up, and said, "Well."

The girls have really shown pep and willingness to cooperate with their leaders, and that's just what we need. Girls who are ready, willing, and able to cooperate.

The new members did not all have their uniforms ready to wear for the first rally and game, so as an initiation they all wore a bright green ribbon in their hair at the first rally. We are proud of our members, both new and old, and appreciate their pep.

The only change in the uniforms this year is the caps. Monkey caps seem a little odd so we're going to wear white and green wool toboggans.

We are also very proud of our sponsors, Miss Copeland and Miss Fouts. So with them to back us, and us to back the Whirlwinds—here's hoping for a very peppy and successful season during 1937.

Head Yell Leader, Marguerite Leonard.

SPONSORSHIPS ASSIGNED

It seems as if this may be the best year yet—since each class has such excellent sponsors. Mr. King and Miss Cade will lead the senior class, which is followed by Miss Copeland and Miss Wolfe junior sponsors. Mr. Stockard and Miss Wilhite have the sophomore class, while the freshmen have Mr. Williams and Miss Miller.

The pep squad have as their sponsors Misses Copeland and Fouts. Miss Rees is sponsoring the paper again and incidentally the whole staff, which is no easy task.

Many Useful Elective Courses Offered This Year In Floydada High

Home Economics, Latin, Spanish, Typing, Public Speaking And Others Are Listed

Floydada High School offers many very useful elective courses this year. A fact that is very helpful to the students who reported to the classes of Home Economics, typing, Latin, Spanish, Public Speaking and others. More students than ever before are enrolled in typing and are beginning to work steadily at this course under the direction of Mr. Stockard and Mr. Grummish.

Many girls are taking Foods and Clothing, and a large majority of Freshmen girls are enrolled in these classes taught by Miss Fouts and Miss Rees. This year Public Speaking, taught by Miss Wolfe, is open to Sophomores as well as juniors and seniors and a large number of students are enrolled in this class. Many of the old students and other new students signed up for band and orchestra. A choral club is soon to be organized. Mr. Grummish directs all the courses in music.

With these interesting subjects open to the students, a profitable year should be enjoyed by both pupils and teachers.

Home Ec Club

The Future Homemakers of Texas are losing no time in getting their club organized. The old members met Tuesday afternoon in the department with their sponsors, Miss Rees and Miss Fouts. The purpose of the meeting was to appoint a committee to nominate officers for this year, and to discuss the things for the new members to do in their informal initiation (which will be next week).

The club met yesterday at noon with both old and new members and sponsors in the study hall to elect the new officers.

High School Undergoes Changes Since June

Our school building has undergone quite a change since we closed the books and checked them in last year. The change, we think, is for the better.

The halls have been cleaned, floors oiled, and the lockers repainted a subdued gray, giving a restful effect to the atmosphere. The rooms have been thoroughly cleaned and the radiators and pipes have been painted a silver color. The rest rooms were refitted with a gray, giving a neater and cleaner appearance. The building in general is in good repair and looks as if more time and money was spent than the actual amount of both.

The exterior is also improved. Window casings and sashes have been repainted and the lawn has been done on the football field.

While we were away on our vacation trips, Mr. Boteler and Mr. Amburn worked all summer improving the buildings and grounds.

Since our building looks so nice and we have so many new students and several new teachers we are like we have a new school, so much on kids ad let's keep things as nice as they are now, and make this school year the greatest success in many years.

"These are especially strong shirts," said the clerk. "They really laugh at the laundry."

"Oh, yes," said the customer. "I had some of them which came back with their sides split."

Mrs. Clark: "Has your husband given up golf?"

Mrs. Foster: "Yes, but he still uses the language when changing."

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Himself Visits In Bronte

Jess Sanduskey Fools The Home Folks With Get-Up

25 In An Hour

The folks down at Bronte in Coke county will look twice at all "moochers" and "beggars" from now on since one of the home town boys came back to create such a furore among the residents.

It seems that one day a beggar appeared on the streets of that town about two weeks ago begging for nickles, dimes, and quarters from the unsuspecting citizens.

One of the towns citizens said, "He walked as though he had come a thousand miles afoot, and stooped as though his back was broke. Grey hair was braided in Indian fashion and crossed beneath his chin. From behind a scraggly beard a set of stained and snagged teeth protruded in a pugnacious manner, and in the sleeve of an old ducking shirt his forearm appeared to have been shriveled by some awful misfortune. In the other hand a tin cup wobbled, and contributors had a difficult time getting money to drop in it the beggars hand trembled so."

As the beggar made his way down the streets followed by raving children and snarling dogs the local yokels began to gather around. That was the set up for the biggest joke ever perpetrated in Coke county.

Jess Sanduskey is a Floyd County farmer of about 31 winters. He lives about nine miles northwest of Floydada but he grew up in Bronte until about ten years ago and claimed at one time to know every man, woman, and dog in the county and know as much about their business as their creditors did.

About two weeks ago Jess went to Merkel to visit his parents. He hit the hay after long hours of reminiscing with his folks and telling of his activities the last 10 years.

Next morning Judge and Mrs. Sanduskey of Merkel were alarmed early by a knocking at the back door. A man who looked in his 80's, with snagged teeth, and with braided hair asked for something to eat and Mrs. Sanduskey, though a trifle unnerved by the beggars appearance, was only too glad to get the man some victuals, so as to encourage his speedy departure with a full stomach.

But the beggar was particular. When Mrs. Sanduskey appeared with the food he smelled it over, turned away and remarked, "Taint worth a darn as food for me. Don't smell right."

Mrs. Sanduskey was surprised not to say astonished and Judge Sanduskey hearing the remark headed for the back door with his mouth full of harsh words.

But he was stopped before he could start. Jess Sanduskey threw off his disguise and straightened up to again surprise his parents.

Jess had arisen early and slipped to the barn where he had hidden his disguise, and was knocking at the back door as the Judge arose for coffee.

Jess later donned the disguise he had tested on his parents and headed for Bronte where he knew everyone on sight.

"Help out your feller man, and be saved from Hell, damnation, purgatory, and all them things", the beggar whined.

Deputy Sheriff Ollie Eubanks, seeing the stranger, went to take a closer look-see as the fellow might be a sharper and not needing to beg. But a closer look convinced the deputy that the man did need to beg.

As the beggar made his rounds some refused him help and in some cases the residents hid in back rooms, it was said, to escape the man.

From a blacksmith and a riling station operator he collected nearly half a dollar. When he ran into R. E. Eperon, the postmaster he said, "Sire, tell me your initials and I will tell you your name."

"Well, they are R. E.," he informed.

"Then let me see," said the beggar waving his hand as if to gather the spirits around him, "yer name then must be Eperon, R. E. Eperon, I'd say."

The postmaster agreed that it was his name and pointed to the undertaker, Frank Keeney, and said, "What is that fellows name?"

"What's his initials?" the beggar asked.

"F. K.," replied the postmaster.

"Well, lemme see—his name must be Frank Keeney, that was a fairly easy one", the beggar bragged.

The crowd continued to grow until the old prophet began to draw a map of some sort.

Ray Colston, another whose name had been "guessed, John Buckner and Charley Keeney, a brother-in-law of Jess Sanduskey; Austin Sanduskey, a full brother—these and others were sitting in the shade of a tree about three miles northwest of Bronte about to find where gold treasures has been buried, when the prophet spoke.

"If you could just tell me where an old live oak tree was grubbed up ten or more years ago, I could tell you fellows just where that treasure is hid."

Astin Sanduskey had his pencil out and scribbled a mark on the map "Right there's where she was grubbed up mister", he said.

"Now tell me is there a draw a leetle to the south of there and some trees off to the left?", he asked the men.

"Yes sir, I know the place well," someone volunteered.

And so it went on until the map was completed and nearly everyone in town was prepared to go to work on shares for the old beggar.

Jess Sanduskey began to chuckle and continued as friends and listeners waited for more words of wisdom.

Then it all came to light as he removed his disguise that had set friends and old school-mates to dreaming like Cornocado's children. Incidentally Jess gave all the money back to his friends and is still laughing about it.

Remember don't be fooled if you meet up with this "old beggar" in Floydada for Jess may pull it here any day—he has practiced on some of the court house officials already—and fooled them.

Lilburn Nelson, who is employed in Fort Worth with Swift & Company, was here several days last week and this on a visit with his mother, Mrs. E. C. Nelson.

Attractive Wool For Fall Wear

Ideal for spectator sports or travel wear, this fall costume worn by Gail Patrick of the movies features a navy, grey and white checked wool blouse worn with a navy blue wool skirt. The accessories are in matching tones.

On The Garden Path

For exhibit purposes, there are some basic rules that must be followed if the blossom are to appear at their best, no flowers in poor condition should ever be entered in an exhibit.

A sharp knife is the first essential in cutting flowers at all times. Cut your flowers as late as possible the afternoon before the show, so they may have the benefit of a night's rest in a dark, cool spot.

Place them loosely in deep cool water—so deep that the water comes within a few inches of the flower heads. Never wet the flower itself as this destroys the petal texture.

Dahlias, hollyhocks and other blossoms with hollow stems which bleed when cut may be made to hold up satisfactorily if about 3 inches of their stem ends are plunged in boiling water soon as cut. They may also be held over a flame to stop the bleeding. Afterwards place them in deep cool water to stand overnight. They may wilt at first but will revive.

If flowers are badly wilted in moving to the show the addition of 1 teaspoon of salt or camphor to a pint of water will help revive them. Remove all leaves below the water when arranging the flowers as leaves quickly decompose and form a poison that brings about quick decay of the stem. This is especially true of asters, zinnias and other garden types. The only exceptions are ferns which keep better if one leaf is under water.

Boquets should be arranged so that blossoms will show perfectly.

After a long absence we want to again do our bit with our community happenings. The people of Baker as a whole, have gone through one of the busiest summers of all times. It was not only a busy season but also a profitable one for the wheat farmers. Now since the fine rains it looks like we will have a bumper feed crop. The prospects are good and everyone should be feeling fine.

It has rained here so much lately that the chickens have about grown web feet. Farmers and teachers who have had mud grips on their cars have had to stay at home. There are a lot of good points to these rains, however and the best thought is that the more rains we have now the fewer dust storms we will have next spring.

Lack Of Funds Delay Finishing Work On 207

Work on Highway 207 is practically at a standstill due to the lack of WPA funds.

About 35 men worked for the last day Monday and were laid off until further funds were received for this area to carry on the work. A little grading and scraping was going on, the work being done by the regular highway workmen.

The WPA fund had been getting low for some time, making it necessary to cut the force little by little. It is expected that money will again be allotted in a short time and the work continue.

A 1000 foot strip of road north of the bridge and up the north rim of the canyon is yet to be completed. The caliche and fill is finished but the strip on the north rim may not be finished for some time now.

No work order has been received by the Highway department to commence the paving work on either the north or south part of 207.

Football News In Other Camps

(By Bill Hams)

Football season is under way at last. The Whirlwinds played and lost their first game before a pretty big crowd considering it to be the first game and only the beginning of a very torrid grid race in this district.

The Whirlwinds played a bang-up defensive ball game in their first half Friday night and a fair offensive game too but that second half should not be mentioned anywhere except in dark corners.

We must remember that most of the boys played their first game Friday night as regulars and in several cases it was the first. They were and are pretty green but a prediction is that they will season fast and when that seven-game list of district games comes on October 1 a number of coaches over the district are going to worry about Floydada.

Gleanings

Among those from out of town present for the game were Coach Leo Jackson of Plomot, Coach R. P. Terrell of Matador, Coach J. V. Hilliard of Plainview, and Cotton Neely of Slaton.

Slaton whipped Olton 45 to 0 in a conference game Friday night while the best Plomot could do was win 38 to 0 from Happy.

Leo Jackson says that he doesn't have enough men to scrimmage since only about 18 have been reporting the last week. Evidently they save their energy until Fridays if that Happy score shows anything.

Floydada will be the under-dog against Slaton by about 24 points if speculation among the fans means anything. That is quite a margin but not impossible to overcome.

S. Hollingsworth's run with that intercepted pass was a thriller. Raymond Joy of Crowell was misnamed so far as the Whirlwinds were concerned. Crowell says he will be "all district" and if he keeps on like he began he ought to be.

Cedar School Closes Temporarily As Case Of Paralysis Found

Cedar school closed temporarily last Friday following discovery of the fact that one of the children of the community, the small child of Mr. and Mrs. Vester Ferguson, had an arm and leg paralyzed following an illness of several days. Symptoms are very similar to those of infantile paralysis.

The Ferguson family live on the Ben Dillard place.

Hugh Jeff Ayres, who has been studying this summer in the engineering school of Texas Tech, returned home recently and is employed with G. R. Strickland & Son's Panhandle Refining Company agency. Ayres does not plan to return to school this fall.

Floydada Loses First To Crowell

Floydada's First Half Lead Is Swept Away By Crowell In Second Half

Score 32 To 19

More Experienced Team Too Strong For Coach Winter's Young Team

The Crowell Wildcats turned on the steam in the second half of the ballgame last Friday night to wipe out a 19 to 6 deficit at the half which had been built up by some head-up ball playing and defensive work by the Whirlwinds, and go on to win 32 to 19.

International Sunday School Lesson for September 19, 1937.

Golden Text: Choose you this day, whom ye will serve. Joshua 24: 15-18
Lesson Text: Deuteronomy 11: 15-18-22-32

Deut. 11: 8-12—

8 Therefore shall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may be strong, and go in and possess the land, whither ye go to possess it;

9 And that ye may prolong your days in the land, which LORD sware unto your fathers to give unto them and to their seed, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 For the land, whither thou goest in to possess it, is not as the land of Egypt, from whence ye came out, where thou sowest thy seed, and watered it with thy foot, as a garden of herbs:

11 But the land, whither ye go to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven.

12 A land which the LORD thy God careth for: the eyes of the LORD thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year.

Verses 26-32—

26 Behold, I set before you this day a blessing and a curse:

27 A blessing, if ye obey the commandments of the LORD your God, which I command you this day:

28 And a curse, if ye will not obey the commandments of the LORD your God, but turn aside out of the way which I command you this day, to go after other gods, which ye have known.

29 And it shall come to pass, when the LORD thy God hath brought thee in unto the land whither thou goest to possess it, that thou shalt put the blessing upon mount Gerizim, and the curse upon mount Ebal.

30 Are they not on the other side Jordan, by the way where the sun goeth down, in the land of the Canaanites, which dwell in the champaign over against Gilgal, beside the plains of Mo-reh?

31 For ye shall pass over Jordan to go in to possess the land which the LORD your God giveth you, and ye shall possess it, and dwell therein.

32 And ye shall observe to do all the statutes and judgments which I set before you this day. A nation's choice, and their consequences in that nation's life are set forth clearly and simply in this lesson.

The children of Israel were facing the prospect of entrance into the promised land. It offered them the opportunity of a land flowing with milk and honey; it was a land of hills and valleys, with fruitful fields watered by the rain of heaven.

But the children of Israel were facing this land with its opportunity with two clear choices before them, and with the alternative plainly stated of blessing or of curse.

If they gave themselves to the observance of God and other observance of right principles, there was before them the prospect of blessing; if they turned from these commandments to selfish and evil ways, if they established corrupt worship in place of truth and right, there was for them only a curse, rather than a blessing.

It turned out in the history of Israel exactly as these prophetic words foretold. Ruin and destruction came upon the people when they forgot God, and turned to their own selfish and evil ways. Yet, in exile and in adversity, when the people really turned to God, a glory shone upon the nation even in its seeming defeat.

These things have not changed. Nations and peoples today are confronted with exactly the same choice and with exactly the same consequences. Wrong and evil courses in modern America are just as sure to curse America society as they were in the life of an ancient people, while the turning of our hearts and minds to right principles and sound conduct will bring us blessing just as truly as the blessing that ever fell upon any people devoting themselves heart and soul to truth and right.

Sound laws and obedience to them, the setting of the welfare of all against the welfare of the few, regard for justice that may be done to the lowliest person in society, consideration for the weakest and most in need, the use of God's bounty to supply the widest and deepest human needs—these are the things that bring blessing in the life of a people. These are the things that are associated with a proper recognition of God and a manifestation of his goodness.

How can one teach and proclaim these things so that they will take deeper hold of our life today and turn the hearts of our people from selfishness and inconsiderateness to devote themselves more truly to the seeking of God's blessing on our national life?

A nation's choice has its roots in the choices of individuals, yet individuals are influenced by the whole attitude of the society in which they live. Sound choices are inextricably associated with right ideas and ideals. Here is where education and religion have a profound part to play—in so teaching and inspiring men that they may value things rightly and choose the things that bring blessing.

Mrs. C. W. Gound and her daughter, Mrs. Ted Sneed, Mr. Sneed, of Weslaco, and Mrs. Velma Brown, of San Benito, came Monday for a visit with Mrs. Gound's sister, Mrs. Fannie Montague of Floydada, and Mrs. Minnie Reeves, of South Plains.

Why in Missouri when a man plants corn he has to run to get out of the way, it grows so fast. A church meeting was called to raise money. A tightwad deacon in the back said, "I'll give five dollars."

A piece of plaster fell from the ceiling and hit him on the head. He quickly said, "I'll give fifty dollars."

A man in the back of the house raised up and said, "Hit him again Lord."

A negro who was talking to his neighbor, Mose said, "Ah is double good."

Mose—"How's dat Henry?" Henry—"Well I prayed for a chicken last night and today a turkey walked right into my chicken coop."

Twenty-Three Acres Of Immense Melons On Motley Co. Farm

How many acres is a patch of watermelons if they weigh in the range of 40 to 65 pounds each? An acre would be a "good many" as we say in West Texas, and ten acres would be a world full of them, but we've found a man who has twenty-three acres of watermelons.

They're down on the Bird ranch in Motley, southeast of Matador, and much like the rains we've been having it would be hard to tell a story about them and exaggerate. They're huge, immense, stupendous, these watermelons—and as good to eat as they look.

Gus Bird raised them and his brother, G. D. Bird, was in Floydada with a truck load of them Wednesday afternoon.

The Birds have been hauling the melons to all the local markets around for sometime and the cool weather and fine rains mean they will have them for sometime yet. Twenty-three acres of fifty-pound watermelons!

J. D. CHRISTIAN HOME

J. D. Christian returned home Tuesday from northern Mississippi where he visited at Amery with an uncle and at other points.

Business conditions in that state are good, although cotton and other farm products are damaging in the field for lack of laborers. At home he said he found in many years for fall planting operations.

Mrs. Lon V. Smith returned home Sunday after visit with her sister, Mrs. D. R. Preston, and Mr. Preston, of Electra. She was accompanied on the trip by her daughter, Miss Emma Louise, who went from Electra to Waco, where she has enrolled in Baylor University.

"What's the matter with Jimmie?" "Aw, he feels disgraced for life." "Why?" "His mother came out to the ball game yesterday and took him home off second base."

Cotton Loans

(Continued from page 1) the cotton to be represented in the loan papers. "What rate of interest will be charged and when will the notes mature?"

"The rate of interest will be four per cent per annum and the notes will mature July 31, 1938. "How are these loans made?"

"The procedure for obtaining these loans will be identical with the procedure applicable to loans made against the crop of 1935.

"May a producer place his cotton in the loan and thereafter receive the benefit of the 'Adjustment Payment' to be made by the secretary of Agriculture?"

"A producer may place his cotton in the loan and thereafter withdraw his cotton by paying off the loan, and may then sell his cotton and, if otherwise eligible receive the benefit of 'Adjustment Payments' provided the cotton is withdrawn and actually sold prior to July 1, 1938.

"Will the cotton cooperative association make these loans?" "Yes, the associations representative in the interior will furnish the producer a detail class on his cotton, place a market value thereon, prepare the loan papers and pay him the loan value at that time, for which a charge of fifty cents per bale will be made. The association will supply the loan forms as soon as they are available."

The letter continued to give the requirements of the Adjustment Program as outlined to them by the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Who are eligible for these adjustment payments?"

"Only those persons who, having produced and sold cotton from the 1937 crop, and who shall engage in the production of cotton in 1938 in accordance and in compliance with the 1938 adjustment program.

"What is the rate per pound of the adjustment payments?"

"The rate of the adjustment payments will be the difference between the average of the ten spot market on the day the producer makes a bona fide sale of his cotton and 12 cents, but not to exceed three cents per pound.

"Upon what part of the 1937 crop will adjustment payments be made?"

"These payments will be made to those producers complying in the 1938 program upon not less than 65 per centum of the base production from the 1937 crops as that base production of each producer was determined or may hereafter be determined, in accordance with the regulations applicable to the 1937 Soil Conservation program (Those who participated in the 1937 program know just what their base acreage and normal production figures are. Those who have not co-operated under the 1937 soil conservation program may obtain their designated base acreage and normal production by application to the County Agricultural Extension Agent, or to the chairman of the county committee administering the Soil Conservation program.)

"During what period of time must the producer sell his cotton in order to become entitled to the adjustment payment?"

"His cotton must be sold on or before June 30, 1938. Cotton that was held before the formulation of this program shall be eligible for adjustment payments to the same extent as that selling thereafter.

"When will adjustment payments be made?"

"The date payment will be actually made is problematical. Payments will be made only to those producers who comply with and cooperate in the application of such Agricultural Adjustment program as may hereafter be formulated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture under authority of legislation hereafter to be enacted by the Congress. You see from this that payment will not be made on a promise to comply with a program but upon proof that the 1938 agriculture program has been complied with. Therefore it will appear that payments will not be made earlier than July or August 1938.

Final Effort On Sims Test Well Due To Be Made During Week-End

At an early date, probably during the week-end, the pump will be lowered in the W. C. Sims irrigation test well east of Floydada and a final test given the lower strata of water bearing sands in the well. It was planned this week by the committee representing subscribers to a fund to help pay the expense of the well in the event it develops into a failure.

The decision followed a conference with representatives of Peerless Pump Division, a Plainview concern, which has contract for installing the pump and developing the well. First tests made with the pump set at 200 feet last week developed a flow of about 250 gallons of water per minute considered insufficient for use on an irrigation project.

The well has a twelve-foot strata of excellent water bearing sand, which, members of the committee and Mr. Sims hope, it will be possible to develop. Officials of the pump company are doubtful that the well can be developed into a profitable one.
