Gins Over County Hum As Harvesters Increase Supply

Ginners Estimate 1,500 Bales For All The County

Cotton Loan Expected To Help Farmers Over The County

Smoke from panting boilers, a steady hum of machinery, the steady stream of trailers, wagons, trucks and other vehicles indicate that the South Plains cotton crop is beginning to hit the cotton market.

Not yet have extra crews been added to the regular force so that a "norther" yesterday afternoon and last night, following warm weather for two weeks, did not bring the temperature down anywhere near the freezing point. West Texas Gas Company recording thermometer here showed a low of 48 degrees this morning. Thousands of acres of late feed and late cotton would be adversely affected by a freeze or frost.

Eight runs can be made but the regular crew has been operating one-time in a number of cases to catch the surplus cotton that was held over after the regular ginning had been done. One ginning plant in order to get caught up.

It is expected that over-time will become the order of the day within a short time at most of the gins. Extra crews will not be added in most cases until a week or two later. It is believed that this early start is due to the fact that much work was open and ready for ginning before pickers could be had. The sudden influx of pickers from the lower part of the state has (See Gins Hum, back page)

Howard Funeral Held On Saturday Morning

Funeral for Alvin P. Howard, prominent New Orleans banker and industrialist, was held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, W. M. Massie of W. M. Massie & Brother, was addressed in a telegram from his brother, J. M. who with Hollis Bond, accompanied the body from the plains to New Orleans.

No details of the funeral plans were given in the telegram, other than to give the hour and day.

Mr. Howard died last Thursday morning at Plainview while enroute to Floydada from his New Orleans home. He was planning to spend several days in this section. A sudden heart attack caused his death. He was 48 years of age, and one of the outstanding business men of the present city, where he was interested in widely varied enterprises, including among others, banking, publishing, and importing.

The body, having the plains on Thursday afternoon, reached New Orleans late Friday.

Government Loan Available on Low Grade Bales Now

Cotton In Lower Bracket Included In New Cotton Loan Plan

The Department of Agriculture in Washington has notified officials that a set-up has been arranged and provisions made to make loans possible on all West Texas and South Plains cotton.

Loans on the lower grades of cotton will be slightly lower than that figure set in the original provisions but the new regulation meets the request of many of the South Plains farmers whose cotton would not reach the minimum set in the original provision.

Lower grade loans are classified as follows:

Cotton 7/8 inch staple, strict low middling or equivalent in grade, eight and one-half cents.

Cotton shorter than 7/8-inch, strict low middling or equivalent in grade, seven cents.

Cotton shorter than 7/8 inch staple, low middling or equivalent in grade, six cents.

This new classification is expected to make all of the cotton raised on the South Plains and in the Panhandle tenderable for the loans. It is feared that all cotton raised with a staple shorter than 7/8 inch staple would be thrown upon the mercy of the market and could only be sold for four or five cents.

The gain can easily be seen when it is considered that 4,000 or 5,000 bales in Floyd County might be ranked below the original loan provisions. The amount of cotton raised in this county that would have been ranked in the untenable class depends a great deal upon what the weather does between now and the finish of the cotton gathering.

If wet, stormy weather sets in it is to be expected that the per cent of cotton in the lower grades will increase a great deal. Some of the cotton farmers are picking their cotton in an effort to raise it into the higher grade whereas pulling it would force it into the lower grade class.

This new provision for low grade cotton loans is expected to help materially in the section where the farmers have not as yet changed to a one variety, long staple cotton.

Joe Browning New Chief of Floydada Volunteer Firemen

City Council and Fire Boys Make Plans for Greater Efficiency

No Rift Apparent

Change in Personnel Follows Paid Employee's Resignations During Month

Joe Browning Monday night was chosen to succeed Burt Holt, resigned as chief of Floydada Volunteer Fire Department and J. W. Clonis to succeed L. D. Britton, also resigned, as secretary-treasurer. Other officials of the department continue at their posts.

Holt, who has been assistant to the city water superintendent, is to take training as salesman for the Oden Chevrolet Company and will begin work there soon, while Britton has begun work with Piggy-Wiggly as stock and sales clerk. They were on the city payroll and the appointment of two new men was made necessary by their resignations. Alva Redd has succeeded Holt and Ike Finley last week was named driver and will be on duty at the fire station in the place filled by Britton the past six years.

The city council, also in session at the city hall Monday evening, met by appointment with a committee from the fire department to make plans for future operations and betterments in the fire department. Rumors of misunderstanding between the council and the department personnel evidently had little foundation, the council and the department committee finding their aims very much in common. There was no indication of any rifts between the two organizations either at the council meeting or at the firemen's gathering which followed.

Aerial Maps Of Floyd Destroyed In Fire

The aerial maps made early this year of Floyd County were destroyed in a fire last week in San Antonio. The flames destroyed the building in which the maps were stored. It is believed the flames started from a laboratory where some experiments were being conducted.

County Agent Bredthauer has asked that farmers of the county assist in every way the supervisors which must be sent out to measure the land to check compliance.

A number of supervisors will be in the county to hasten the work but unless they are aided in every way the job will progress slowly and the compliance check should be finished as soon as possible.

Bredthauer and Watson Attend Lubbock Meet

County Agent Bredthauer and Olin Watson represented Floyd County at a meeting held Saturday in Lubbock with Congressman George Mahon. Approximately 60 persons were present from the South Plains area asking that the "red tape" be done away with and loans speeded up.

The group went on record in favor of every attendant contacting by telephone, telephone and mail, officials of the CCC and the department of agriculture and asking that official classifiers be sent to this area so that loans might be facilitated without having to send samples of cotton to the Dallas office of the CCC.

Construction Co. Begins Surfacing Hiway 207 South

Lone Star Construction Company's Crew Expects To Finish Job In Month

Work of hard surfacing Highway 207 from Floydada south to the Crosby County line, undertaken last Friday, is expected to be finished within the month of October, if weather conditions are favorable.

This is the belief of members of the Lone Star Construction Company's crew.

First top caliche roadbed built by the State Highway Department as a WPA project, will be scarified and shamed, then wet and rolled. Then will follow wetting and rolling the road and the application of the asphalt and gravel surface. The work will be done under a contract let late in August, but which has been held up pending the completion of the road bed. The total length of the improvement in miles from Floydada to the Crosby County line is 10.3 miles.

Work was started first on the south end of the road and the crew will work this way to the canyon, which they will skip and work this side until after the canyon work has been completed by the highway department. The north side of Blanco hill and a part of the roadway through the canyon yet has some work to be done before the construction company can begin work on it. Travel will not be stopped on the road, it is understood.

Earl Jones is construction foreman on the job, and Henry Stafford is superintendent.

Cannon of Paducah New Game Warden For This District

Jim Cannon, of Paducah, has succeeded Austin Auld, of Matador, deceased, as district game warden of a six-county area including Floyd. Other counties in the district are Motley, Cottle, King, Dickens and Crosby.

Mr. Cannon was in Floydada Monday and particularly calls attention to the fact that the open season on migratory fowls opens on November 27 and closes on December 26. The bag limit of ducks in the aggregate, he said, is 10 and of geese and brant 5, and shooting must be done between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m. There is no open season whatsoever on plover, he pointed out.

Generally the public is inclined to go along with the authorities in the preserving of wild game, Mr. Cannon said, but many things are done thoughtlessly and the citizen who violates the game law in this manner, without informing himself, should not feel "hurt" when he is called to account for his carelessness.

Two deputies are to be named for this county at an early date, Mr. Cannon said.

KNOCKING A STRAW MAN DOWN

All of us steamed up ten or fifteen years ago over the Kl Klux Klan, some on one side, some on the other. The Hesperian was an "aginer" and openly said and did things about it.

Thousands of good people saw in the Klan movement a chance to "clean up" had conditions and joined up to give their support to such an effort. Their thoughts, their efforts, misdirected undoubtedly, were nevertheless sincere and patriotic. We now see that. All many could see in the heyday of the movement was hooded hoodlums trying to take the processes of law into their own hands.

"DANGERS OF THE MAIL"

When it became apparent the organization was not spontaneous, that it was being used to prey on racial and religious prejudices for personal profit, the matter took a different aspect to thousands who had become members. These promptly withdrew. And to us, former membership in the Klan represents only a mistake made by some of our best citizens.

Those who oppose Justice Hugo L. Black on this ground, it seems to us, therefore, are only knocking a straw man down. If every man were held strictly accountable for all the mistakes he had ever made we wouldn't have anybody left to sit on the Supreme Court, including Chief Justice Hughes.

STAR-TEL MISSES THE CUE

Everybody likes the Star-Telegram, admires its spirit, and looks to it to set the pace for things in West Texas, but it has missed the cue right recently on the cotton situation. Or has it?

Cotton at 7 and 8 cents for a prosperity maker is not so hot if you happen to be sitting out on a farm trying to make it go around current expenses, living expenses, tax bills, interest bills, doctor bills, land payments. Fact is it does not represent a profit on investment and outlay of energy.

35,000 bales of cotton, for instance, will net Floyd County growers about $700,000, the pickers about $350,000 gross in wages and the gins each about $15,000 gross on an investment of around $30,000 each. Cut the production to 20,000 bales, the guess of some forecasters, and the figures look even more disappointing, and more difficult to make prosperity out of. Is this the talk of a griper or is it looking at things as they are?

ROAD SOUTH SURFACING

Road builders, at last on Highway 207 south from Floydada, say the work will be finished in three or four weeks and that only short stretches of the route will be kept closed at a time. Thrilled as they are at the prospect of a new hard-surfaced route out of Floydada, local business men have squirmed somewhat as they saw their neighbors across the canyon going elsewhere with their heavy loads of raw products, such as cotton, cottonseed, and wheat. These kind of things have to happen and the Highway Department has worked as fast as conditions would permit under its WPA project set-up. You have to put a highway in shape to be topped before it can be topped.

WAR ON SHORT STAPLE

War on short staple has been the order of the day in the cotton growing states this season, and the short staple grower is having to pay the fiddler for it. Economically sound, it seems, and probably the salvation of the south's biggest industry, the "war" does not keep a good many from continuing to grow the short staple just like they used to do in days when a low grade bale brought the same as a good one.

The answer is to be found in the expense bill. Short staple makes less pulling, less ginning, per bale, and a good many contend they can do better for themselves growing it. It seems to work out, too, when you put the pencil to it. Farmers are the individualists of our country. After all, a man has got to look out for himself. Seeing the industry as a whole while submerging oneself for the general good is a hard job for most of us.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

Nellie Witt Spikes

Last week I took a cold. Sore throat, weeping eyes and nose—my folks warned me I had better get to bed and be careful as there was a great deal of pneumonia. I decided to take their advice. I decided to bed the week's washing must be done. Never could I lie comfortably in bed till this was over. Then some light bread must be baked, the floors swept and mopped. My friends must not see my house in such disorder while I lay gasping for breath with pneumonia. Feverishly I worked, got everything ready for my stay in bed, but when I had gotten everything ready for my stay in bed—my cold was gone!

What the well dressed apricot tree is wearing this fall. Leaves of clear yellow, as soft and lovely a color as the delicious fruit the tree bears.

Clear sparkling water running into the water barrels this morning. After three days that the mill had not turned the sound of running water is music in our ears.

We had such a pleasant visit at the old ranch home of the Van Leonard's. Mrs. Leonard's daughter Mattie Glass, her husband A. L. Glass and daughter Joyce now live there. What a lovely view the canyon walls make in front of the ranch house. A silver stream glistens in the valley and reflects the trembling leaves of the cottonwood trees. Woolly sheep nibble at the tufts of grass. Baby lambs, looking like Christmas toys, cry like babies when they lose their mothers.

Buckskin, the smart little cow pony waited at the gate. Saddled and ready for his mistress after a runaway sheep or to hunt a little white faced baby calf. Spurs, riding trousers and shirts, hang by the side of filmy evening dresses and jaunty sports clothes in Miss Joyce's room. Tiny pots of cactus, hand painted pictures and colorful pieces of pottery add to the living room. The hospitality of the old ranch days are being carried on.

Memories, only memories it seems will soon be all that's left of the old west. Pioneers are passing on to new frontiers. Oh, the heartaches—we pick up a paper and read of another. Mr. Randolph, how we shall miss your cheerful voice at the reunions. Your hearty handclasp and twinkling eyes. We are glad that we have known you. I think of the time you rode so far after your lovely wife, of the days you camped under the hackberry tree and she sewed the strong white duck with her tender white hands to make a tent home. I see the cowboys bringing her hats full of ripe red plums, black shiny grapes, quiper rocks and tiny buds.

What a solid foundation the pioneers laid for this day; integrity, industriousness and stickability they had. Heroes of the west. Such men as John Allen and Mr. Randolph were. Not men who wore guns and killed were our true men of the west, but they were men who loved justice, who wanted homes and education for their children and went about making a great country in a peaceful, sane way.

The North side school building was burned to the ground during Sunday night's rain and electrical disturbance, less than $5.00 worth of fixtures being saved from the building although a half dozen persons saw the lightning strike and turned in the alarm immediately.

The fire boys were out on another call in the resident section at the time and when they reached the school building the fire had too much headway to be stopped with one stream of water. By the time the second stream was started the building was in flames all over the upper story.

WASHINGTON LETTER BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON — The poultry farmer won't get any benefit payments in the new "farm economy" but he will get a break elsewhere. Under the packers and stockyards act, the Department of Agriculture is authorized to license dealers, check weights and scales, and control unloading costs, at the point where poultry is received for purchase by the big slaughter houses.

New York City is the largest poultry market in the United States, probably in the world. It has a very large demand for kosher-killed chickens. An average of 375,000,000 pounds of live and dressed poultry comes to the New York market every year from some 42 states. This represents a $42,000,000 business. So the Agriculture Department's initial investigation was of the New York market.

It developed that the New York Live Poultry Company had a monopoly on local trucking of poultry from the terminal to the slaughter house at the rate of 30 cents per coop carried. Under the same ownership a separate but affiliated company rented coops in which the chickens were transported for 85 cents per coop.

The trucking company collected for each coop unloaded at the terminal whether or not it was hauled by company trucks. It operated on the principle of making a service charge, just as a public utility does, for making available at all times a fleet of trucks with capacity to haul the entire day's shipment if necessary.

Actually that was a situation they didn't have to meet. The need for a trucking service exists in the "wind-up" market, or for chickens received at the terminal and unsold at the end of the day.

The farmer pays for all these services. The trucking company and the company which rents coops, bill the receiver who in turn deducts these charges from his remittance to the shipper. So if a poultry farmer sent a carload, or 80 coops of chickens to the New York market, 20 of which were "wind-ups" he was required to pay $6 for trucking and $18 for the rent of coops, whether or not he used these services.

By the Secretary of Agriculture's order, the charge for the rental of coops has been reduced to 65 cents and the charge for trucking to 25 cents with further reductions in sight, and the dictum that these charges are to be made only when chickens the farmer sends to market are actually hauled by the companies involved.

The order also makes it unlawful for the trucking company to make more than a $5 maximum charge for carrying a carload, or 80 coops, which at the former rate would have cost the shipper $24 if he were unfortunate enough to have that many chickens overlooked by the buyers who met the train.

The trucking and coop renting companies have agreed to obey the order, which represents a saving of $200,000 a year to the poultry farmer who ships to the New York market. Another order designed to save the farmers who sell in New York some $100,000 a year in unloading charges, has been disobeyed.

Chickens come to market in "patent" railroad cars with permanent coops. Each car is unloaded by five members of the butchers' union. Union wages for this job are $9 per man per car. It costs $52 to unload a car, and the contractor gets $7 of this. The charge reverts, as in the other case, to the shipper. An order was issued to reduce unloading costs $11 a car, which would allow $7 per man per car for labor and leave $6 for the contractor.

When the order was issued the unloaders went on strike. They make the point that transportation by truck has so reduced the freight traffic that the average wage for each man on the job already was only $12 a week. They have gone back to work at union wages in defiance of the secretary's order, and the case will go to the Department of Justice.

Greenbelt Project, First of Its Kind, Expected to Aid Low Income Families

TWO years ago, Greenbelt, Md., was a desolate, almost worthless stretch of land. Today it is a clean, modern, thriving community of more than 800 families, comprising the first federally-built, non-profit-making community in the country. Springing from an idea by Rexford Tugwell, one of President Roosevelt's first brain-trusters, Greenbelt is a $14,227,000 project, is an experiment in model housing and town planning.

Greenbelt's citizenry has been drawn, for the most part, from Washington, D. C., and are in the lower income bracket of $1000 to $2000 a year.

Although actually an experiment, the town's architectural and physical development has not been a radical departure from the normal set-up. Three hundred of the 885 dwelling units now available are apartments, simple, small, but very modern and comfortable. The remaining housing facilities take the form of small, semi-detached homes. Average rent is $5.90 a room.

GREENBELT is meant to provide an inexpensive and more healthy existence for small income families; but that doesn't mean its populace will be deprived of modern conveniences, entertainment, and recreation.

Excellent sewage and electrical systems have been laid out. A grade school and first-class high school furnish adequate educational opportunities. A lake for swimming, fishing or sailing is also part of the development, along with gardens, woodlands, and an athletic center. Good roads and a telephone system give it an urban touch.

The plan is for the government to own and operate the housing facilities, act as rental agent, choose the tenants, and service the buildings.

The town's citizens will organize their own government under a city manager charter. The business of the community, established as a co-operative by the late Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant, will embrace a movie theater, garage, restaurant, bar, and other enterprises, all to be run on a non-profit basis. Stock will be sold to those townpeople who desire it, and the books will be strictly totaled at regular intervals.

GREENBELT will pay no state, county or town tax levy.

Shown in the excellent aerial view, top above, is Greenbelt, Md., built by the federal government as the first non-profit community in the United States. Below is one of the pleasant, modern semi-detached homes which is part of the housing development.

Surpluses from rent payments will run the community and pay the school bill.

Considered by many to be a step in the right direction, the development also has been criticized as too costly an experiment, has given rise to cries of "communism" and in the opinion of some critics may tend to make

F. H. S. Whirlwinds Start Right; Win Conference Game

The Decided In Favor Of F. H. S. On Penetrations And First Downs

The Whirlwinds started off their game conference schedule with a win over the Estelline Cubs, decided upon penetration after both teams fought to a 6 to 6 tie under the lights of Wester Field Friday night.

The Whirlwinds were named winners because they were able to fight their way across the Estelline 20-yard stripe three times while the Cubs were crossing the Whirlwind line once.

The Cubs were outscored on first downs 6 to 4 to lose on that decision as well as penetrations, if they had been even.

The Estelline team opened up with an attacking attack on the second down of the game but overthrew the receiver with him wide open on the end sideline.

The Cubs booting department kept the Whirlwinds on the short end of the field all through the first quarter but an end sweep around Estelline's right end by Willson followed by a lateral to McClung, when he was tackled, netted 22 yards for the first thriller from the F. H. S. team and the beginning of a threat.

The second quarter saw the Floydada boys turn on the power and head for pay dirt. A pass from McClung to Luder for 15 yards kept steam up when the going got tough within the 20 yard stripe. A series of power plays took the ball to the one-foot line. McClung lost 2 yards at left guard but on the next play went off right tackle for a touchdown. The kick for extra point was no good.

The Estelline team had been tossing passes in every direction during the first and second quarters but had been overthrusting the receiver or having them batted down.

The third quarter found the Cubs getting the range on their passes and one settled in a receiver's arms for 27 yards. Two line plays netted about 7 yards but a pass for 11 yards scored a touchdown. The pass was from Baucus to Cook. The kick for point was wide.

The Cubs nearly broke the tie in the fourth period when a Whirlwind pass was intercepted on the 20 yard marker and then lateralled toward the east sideline to another Cub who carried to the Whirlwind 49 where he was downed. Another Estelline pass netted 15 yards and a first down to again threaten the F. H. S. goal.

With the game growing near an end the Cubs took to the air in an effort to break the tie and go to a win. Four forward passes fell incomplete and the whistle ended the game. Score: Floydada 6, Estelline 6. Floydada 3 penetrations to Estelline's 1.

The starting line up for Estelline was H. Hood, and W. Adams ends; E. Ewen and Stilwell, Tackles; Hinton and Bourland, guards; Wise, center, Baucus, quarter; Spreddin, fullback, and Cook and Leatherwood, halves.

Floydada's starting line up was Orman and Hollingsworth, ends; Williams and Jarboe, tackles, Martin and Gibbs, guards, Rainer, center, McClung, fullback; Luder, quarter; and Willson and Beard, halves.

Spur Bulldogs Defeat Flomot 18 To 0 For A Conference Victory

The Spur Bulldogs had their hands full for nearly three quarters holding back the Flomot Longhorns but finally found the weak spot in the Longhorn line and marched 60 yards through the Flomot right guard for a touchdown.

A Flomot passing attack was nipped early in the fourth period when Spur intercepted a pass on their own 30-yard stripe and ran 70 yards for the second score.

A series of power plays through the right guard mixed with end sweeps collected 6 more points for Spur in the middle of the final period.

The first and second periods were played on fairly even terms. Both teams threatening but never being able to crack the other's defense.

What About Flomot?
The story and score of the Flomot-Spur game might have been different had Coach Leo Jackson had his regular right guard in the line-up instead of in the sidelines. That regular right guard was out with torn ligaments received in the White Deer game.

All of the power plays run by Spur went right over or around that right guard, which was played by a freshman in his first game. The Spur boys went 60 yards for the first touchdown through that weak spot.

Flomot saw "Lady Luck" turn her back more than once during the game. Every break went against Flomot. Don't be misled by these statements, Spur has plenty of power and is wide awake, she scored on a pass interception for the second score... a 70 yard runback through the Flomot team.

Incidentally Spur garnered about minus 100 yards from penalties. Five were of the 15 yard variety.

To keep your engine running smoothly, the oil you use must really do a job! Must cling to metal like the paper on the wall. Must supply a friction-fighting film that is tougher than tough.

That's where Phillips 66 Motor Oil comes in. It has high-degree oiliness. Its heat-resistant film does not thin out or squeeze out. It stays put in the bearings and on all moving surfaces. Stands up amazingly. Lasts longer. Holds your oil level high. All because it is specially refined from a costlier 100% paraffin base crude.

District Champion

It is a little early to pick winners for District 4-B but it looks like Spur is the team to beat for that championship title.

Flomot and Paducah are certainly contenders and if, note the if, Spur fades somewhere down the line Paducah and Flomot are going to be there to lay claim to the title.

Floydada may decide the champion, although it will literally run all the dope buckets in the district if the Whirlwinds finish better than fourth in the championship race.

Lockney, You Guess
The talk is already beginning about the Lockney game, which will be held on their home field Oct. 15. The Longhorns are going to be rough and tough to defeat.

Lockney is always out gunning for Floydada's goat and this is an excellent chance to get it. The Longhorn squad is full of vets and they are big enough to play football too.

My guess is that the fans will see something if they make the trip to the Whirlwind-Longhorn game.

Whirlwinds Work On Blocking And Tackling All Of This Week

Blocking and tackling, the fundamentals of football, are being drilled into the nose too gratifying Whirlwinds this week by Coach Odell Winter and Assistant Coach Thomas.

Although the Green and White came from the field victorious Friday night due to three penetrations to Estelline one, the touchdowns were even Blocking and tackling during the whole game was woefully weak and halfhearted, it appeared from the sidelines.

Line play by the Whirlwinds appeared much stronger than heretofore on defense but not a great deal of yardage was made through the Estelline line on the other hand. The Estelline line backers generally stopping the ballcarrier as soon as he crossed the line of scrimmage.

Estelline showed a strong left wingman but the terminal play by the Whirlwinds was well balanced by Orman and Hollingsworth. The passing department tossed eight aerials but completed only one and had, one intercepted to rank low in the per cent complete column.

The pass defense appeared weak and strong at different times during the game. Although one touchdown was made by Estelline via the air mail route their fourth period bombing raid fizzled out when it was needed most to win the game.

This week will probably be spent on perfecting the blocking and tackling of the line and backfield. Next week the Green and White will work out a defense against Lockney and at the same time brush up their offense.

The District 4-football menu this week is Quitaque at Lockney, Matador at Plainview, and Silvertown at Paducah. The Floydada fans can see two of those games by attending the Lockney-Quitaque scrap at Lockney in the afternoon and then go to the Matador-Bulldog battle Friday night on down the highway.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cates, of Lubbock were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Parker and daughter, Hazel Sunday.

Attractive Plaid

Ideal for fall wear is this blue and white wool plaid coat, which features the use of the diagonal for the swing back and sleeves. In contrast to the front, where the fabric is used on the straight. A blue felt hat trimmed in grosgrain makes a nice complement.

On The Garden Path

Use For Falling Leaves
Now is the time to arrange a place to store the falling leaves. A pit is best but a large wooden box will do. Sprinkle each raking with lime and wet down, as you place them in the pit or box and cover the top with canvas and boards. Next spring these decomposed leaves can be used to enrich flower beds or they can be used to protect peony and other tender roots during the winter.

Bulbs To Plant Now
Our thoughts turn toward tulips as October and November are the months to plant. If you would like a spring picture of color, tulips offer a limitless palette. Glowing reds, flaming orange and deep yellows, delicate pinks and mauves mixed with a few of the white varieties, will give you an early spring picture beautiful and unforgettable.

Lilies of the Valley
Why not plant some Lilies of the Valley. They are a shade loving plant and should be given a northern exposure, rich sandy loam, and a dressing of well rotted manure and leaf mold.

Narcissus
Plant Emperor Narcissus by the dozens and rejoice in Daffodil Time.

"The descent of the stars, daffodils, and take

"The winds of March with beauty." From the Winter's Tale.

NEW SUPERVISOR CALLS ATTENTION TO CANNING CONTEST AMONG WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Watson Jones who recently succeeded Mrs. Ita R. Parrish as home managements supervisor for Floyd County, last weekend called attention to the canning contest among the women of the Farm Security Administration families, pointing out the importance of the canning program for farm families and indicating that the canning program is to continue.

In addition to serving 45 families in Floyd County, Mrs. Jones also has been given supervision of similar operations for Farm Security families in Lamb County, where there are 235 families, and in Hale County where there are 135 families. Owing to the large territory she covers in the new plan, which attempts to handle the work on a reduced budget, Mrs. Jones has one day in the Floydada office, which is Thursday. Speaking of the work she is doing Mrs. Jones said:

"As a direct result of the Farm Security Administration's loan program to worthy farm families in this region, hundreds of farm women have been able to purchase cookers and sealers in order to preserve vegetables and fruits for the family's use during the winter months. Clothing, medicine and foodstuffs not immediately available to the needy families, also have been made possible by this federal agency's lending policy. These loans are being repaid on a one to five year basis as families are rehabilitated and made economically self-sustaining. The record of achievement is remarkable and this program is doing much to lower living costs and raise health standards among those people who were unfortunate in the social and economic distress during the past several years.

"Given better farm conditions in the future added to the experience and program achieved thus far, the results, in most cases, should be so great that the bitter experiences of the past several year will soon be forgotten in a new era of home and social security.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MET WITH MRS. TROUTMAN MON.

The Cumberland Presbyterian Missionary Society met with Mrs. Noel Troutman Monday at 3 p. m. o'clock.

A very interesting W. B. M. Day program was rendered. Mrs. J. L. King gave the scripture lesson from Psalms 51:10-12; Romans 12:1-2; Acts 1:8. The thought of her lesson was we must have entire consecration and endorsement of power before we can be successful witnesses for Jesus.

The following program followed: Song: "I Love to Tell the Story," Prayer by Mrs. Ned King. Song: "Power in the Blood," Prayer by Mrs. Archer.

"Christ Through the Ages" Mrs. Pierce King.

"Our Part in His Plan" Mrs. Troutman.

"Personal Evangelism," Mrs. J. W. Burgett.

"The House We've Built For Him," Mrs. McIntosh.

An offering was laid on the table as the song "Have Thine Own Way" was sung, after which Mrs. McIntosh dismissed with prayer.

The society will meet at the home of Mrs. Pierce King next Monday at 3 o'clock. The subject at this time will be "Preparation for a revival in our own hearts and minds in our town."

JAMESONS WRITE SECOND LETTER FROM ALASKA

Storms At Sea, Thirty Days On Boat, Arrive At Bethel Sept. 16

(Note: The following is the second letter from Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jameson formerly of Floyd County, who are under contract with the government to teach school a year in Alaska. Mr. Jameson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jameson who live in the Campbell community.)

Unalaska, Alaska, Sept. 8, 1937.
Dear Mama and Papa:
We arrived at Unalaska today. Unalaska is the harbor in the Aleutian Islands. There is a storm on and we will remain here until it is over.

We left Seward September 2, and have had very stormy weather all the way. The boat was tied up two nights because of high winds. The boat has done everything but turn over since we left Seward. Sometimes it stands on end and sometimes it lays on its side. In fact it had to go back to Seward after we started and unload some of its cargo as the water was running over the top.

It is a pity West Texas could not have some of the rainfall this country receives. People here talk of rain not in inches but in feet. Sitka and Juneau received about 185 inches a year. I asked one of the residents if it rains all the year like this and he said "No, it is more in the winter."

From here we go to the Kuskakwim river, then up the river two or three days and on to Bethel. We ran our watches back another hour here which makes us five hours behind you.

There are a great many missionaries here in Alaska. Many of them belong to the old church of Russia and if even a part of the stories of them are true the Russians were justified in destroying their church.

The Methodists have an orphanage at Seward and the Presbyterians maintain a good school at Sitka. These two schools are doing fine work. Part of Alaska has wonderful possibilities. The chief difficulty is that many of the people do not realize the gold rush is over, and that it usually costs a great deal to get merchandise in.

Matanuska Valley is only a short distance from Seward but we did not go to the settlement, but talked to many of the people who were familiar with conditions there. There is much criticism by many of the people in Seward on the way the settlement is managed. The Alaskan fishermen are also complaining because of the Japs fishing in the Alaskan waters and they say the Japs have not only fished here but have made maps of the entire Alaskan Peninsula and Aleutian Islands.

We have been at sea 22 days and everyone is anxious to reach Bethel. We could have come in half the time had we gone direct. It is very common here in the Behring Sea to see whales and seals. The seals are very gentle and will swim along beside the boat when one whistles.

We will be very glad to receive news from home. Sure hoping we will hear from you when we reach Bethel.

Love and best wishes from.
Roy and Ruby Jameson.
Bethel, Alaska,
September 16

We arrived at Bethel today. We hope to get out to Tundra in a day or two. We were 30 days on the boat. It has been a tiresome time. Bethel is a small place, in fact, all the towns in Alaska are small.

Tundra is 40 miles from Bethel by river and thirty miles by dog team. The ship had a great deal of difficulty in getting up the river. The river is so full of sandbars. There is a river boat that meets the large boats and pilots them in.

This may be the last letter you get from us for quite a while. It all depends on how often we can come to Bethel and the connections out.

Write often,
Roy and Ruby.

Only the finishing work of the carpenters, painters and decorators remains to be done on the Latta residence. This work, however, will require three weeks to a month to finish.

Gins Hum

When the pickers are well scattered and are able to set the cotton as fast as it opens, the gins will not operate on such a rush basis for a week or so.

Approximately 434 bales have been ginned in Floydada, 300 bales in Lockney, 160 bales have been ginned at Aiken's new gin, after a late start, 114 bales have been reported at Dougherty, 158 at McCoy, and 65 bales have been ginned at Lakeview.

have gone through the presses at Lockney, 160 bales have been ginned at Aiken's new gin, after a late start, 114 bales have been reported at Dougherty, 158 at McCoy, and 65 bales have been ginned at Lakeview.

Pickers Still In Demand

Floydada giners say that they have customers still needing pickers, and if there are any available they could place them. However giners at McCoy and Dougherty say that the demand for cotton pickers has been supplied in their area.

The Lockney and Aiken area could still use a few pickers and pullers but the supply of pickers is increasing so rapidly that it is doubtful that there will be any place for additional hands within a short time.

It is probable that when the first rush is over the hands that are in the county and those that will arrive within the next few days can handle the cotton situation fairly well.

Schools Turn Out

The demand for pickers and the rush of the cotton season has closed down a number of schools over the county. Pleasant Hill, Starkey, McCoy, and Baker have closed for the rush season already it has been reported.
