SHIRT TAIL ON THE OUTSIDE

Are you the wife of a man about 50 years old?

And has he gone modern yet? By which we mean is he wearing one of these suits where his shirt tail hangs outside? It doesn't look modest and not exactly honest to him, we know. But the world is whirling around and changing about. You'll have to make him get in line.

Apparently he is going to have to get that way if he is not yet, and it is our idea you should begin working on him now. He may have a run-away or two before you get him broke in, but as soon as he learns it is not immodest and not sissy, he will come around as he nearly always has.

A good many men 50 years old and not so old have refused to wear pajamas and have refused to wear the new underwear they call shorts with no undershirt. The women folks have got to work on this kind. They're busy trying to make a crop or run a grocery store, filling station or something of the sort and have forgotten that tempus fugit, and they better fugit, too.

COMMITTED TO THE NEW ORDER

Many women will not like to see their husbands gallivanting around over the country with their shirt tails hanging out, but such is the times they'll have to get used to. Principally because this is a movement to popularize the use of cotton. Most of these "suits" are nothing more than cotton bagging with the ropes or threads reduced in size and cut out into more or less fit for a human being instead of a bale of cotton.

The Hesperian, being progressive and up-and-at-em is positively for the shirt tail brigade, cotton bagging and all. We have no patience with these old-fashioned men and their modest and refined wives who think that a shirt tail was intended to be stuffed inside. Shirt tail be danged is our motto and we intend to stay hitched on this proposition to the last ditch—unless some of the customers come in and raise Cain, in which case we will ease off from the whole thing the best we can. At this moment, however, our resolve is high to let shirt tails hang low and outside.

MARRIED TO WHEAT AND COTTON?

The blessings of irrigation if the long run will not be for those who are married to wheat and cotton in Floyd county. We believe this very thoroughly.

Irrigation does not go necessarily, and possibly not at all, with huge acreages of any crop but rather with intensive acreages of other crops which might be termed specialties.

Thus the certainties of irrigation with alfalfa plus a wonderful climate in Floyd county might spell hogs for those who know how to handle hogs. It might mean dairy production for others, sugar beets or potatoes for those gifted with making these forms of farm production prosper.

But if you are married to wheat or cotton or any other crop that depends on huge acreage and big, loose production, irrigation may not be for you in Floyd county. Study yourself as well as the investment and the other costs that go along with it, if you hope to be successful with irrigation.

If your mind has quit growing, if you are "married" any type of crop you'll be the exception if you win in the long run.

GAS TAX EXEMPTIONS

The visit of the legislative investigating committee to the plains last week and this for the purpose of investigating the workings of the gasoline tax refund law, brings to mind a fact little known by farmers of this section, namely that West Texans representatives have to make a fight every biennium to keep the refund law on the books.

This explains a great many things, among them why our West Texas representatives did not make a harder fight for the increased load limit which ninety per cent of the people of this territory want and think we ought to have. No more did our representatives in the senate and the house start their fight for the increased load limit than they ran into this "booger" last January. And very shortly they were on the defensive instead of the offensive.

There was no change in the load limit law and there was a definite fight that had to be made to retain the exemption features of the gasoline law for fuel used to work the farm. At that some changes, were made in the refund law and now a dealer in petroleum products is going to have to be a "licensed" dealer—licensed out of Austin of course—beginning in September—before his customer can have the benefit of the exemption.

FINGER POINTING AT YOU

Those who have not lived up to the spirit and the letter of the gasoline tax refund law can take the blame for the fact that this wholly fair and equitable statute is continually under fire. At least they are to blame to a big extent. The visit of the legislative committee out to the biggest exemption area is one of the direct proofs. Somebody at Austin has decided that we need to be made to be honest about this matter, and looking at the books they have decided we have not been, altogether.

Gasoline you use to operate on the highways definitely is not entitled to the exemption. You may think it ought to be since you are a good, law abiding citizen, a producer and all that. But persistence in this attitude, you can be sure, is penalizing our territory.

This is not a lecture but a sort of a statement of fact.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS BET

You can't fish off of a bridge now. It is against the law. Such is the decree of the Texas legislature at the behest or suggestion of the Texas Fish, Game and Oyster commission.

Perhaps you won't care so much for that. Your right to fish off of the first bridge you come to has been an inalienable one all of these years, but you gladly give it up for the good of the many as against the right of the individual.

However, here is something that will make you mad. If you do fish off of the bridge against the law and you do catch some fish, you positively cannot leave them on the bridge. You must pick them up and take them home or throw them to one side. It is a statutory provision. Don't get careless in this respect, however mad you may be. Pick up your fish and carry them home or you'll have two fines to pay. Matters like this which this discriminating newspaper picks up and passes on are the kind that make it worth the price of a subscription.

Pay your subscription to The Hesperian and save two fines where you could get off with just one.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(By Nellie Witt Spikes)

It seemed that the work just would not get finished this morning. As I shelled peas, made light bread, changed the water every few minutes in the yard so many beautiful clever and entertaining thoughts crowded my mind but alas they are gone as I sit, tired out to write this column.

Shelling peas is not so bad but when you know the coal oil is running very low in your stove, have to stop and change the hose, the drip pan under the ice box needs emptying, flowers to be cut and put in cool water while they are fresh, the house not swept and beds unmade—well you get nervous drop the peas on the floor or put them in with the hulls, think perhaps they will not have time to cook before the men come from the field, hungry, worn and tired.

You breathe a sigh of relief as you push the last ones in the stew pan and remember the old tale of the piece of meat that was used to boil beans with in Central Texas during hard times many years ago. As the story goes the one piece of salt bacon was passed from home to home to season the beans for the household that time. But a mean man got it in his turn and put it in his pot of black eyed peas, thus ruining its usefulness to the neighborhood.

Old style gold wedding rings in favor again, says a style report. Women are taking out the diamonds they had set in their old fashioned bands and having the holes filled with gold.

Perhaps, who knows, that wedding rings got too narrow to hold love the last few years. When grandpa was young and tall and handsome he slipped a wide band of gold on grandmother's pretty white slim finger as he kissed her pink cheeks and some have the wide gold circlet held the love and the kisses till grandfather was stooped and grey and grandmother's finger was withered and bony and all crippled up with so much hard work but the wedding ring still remained—worn thin perhaps but still a golden tie that binds.

Just as I was getting along so well with this column the fire flickered and went out. Oil had to drain and hands to be washed and dried. The water ran out of the flower beds and wasted on a dry patch of goat heads outside that looked so dead. I had neglected to cut but now they will make a sticky carpet.

The silver notes of a plover came through the open window near

FLOYD COUNTY 14 YEARS AGO

News items taken from files of the Floyd County Hesperian published in Floydada fourteen years ago.

(Issue of July 30, 1925)

Three distinct earthquake tremors were felt in Floydada this morning at 6:15 by scores of residents who said that shocks followed each other in quick succession and all occurred within a half minute. Some of the persons who felt the shock were awakened from sleep by the rocking motion, while early risers felt the shock while at work.

Completion of the faculty of Floydada High school for the 1925-26 term was announced this week by R. E. Fry, secretary of the board, with the acceptance of Ike Jay, of Sylvester, of the place on the faculty as teacher of mathematics and boys' athletic coach.

R. B. Hatley and Miss Nora Cardinal were united in marriage Thursday, July 22. The marriage ceremony was said by Reverend Marvin Brotherton, pastor of the Floydada circuit, Methodist church.

Two inches of rain fell in portions of Floyd county Monday afternoon of this week and refreshing showers were reported from almost every section with greatly reduced temperatures. The showers followed one of the longest periods of heat recorded in this section in a number of years. The thermometer passed the 100-mark several times during the two weeks prior to the showers.

Lightening killed five whiteface hertfords on the farm of J. C. Bolding seven and one-half miles south east of Floydada on the Lakesview road Monday afternoon. There were 11 head of cattle standing near a barbed wire fence when the bolt struck and all of the animals were knocked to the ground, a witness said.

Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock twenty-six persons were baptized by Rev. Raymond Tennison following the closing of a very successful revival held at Fairview last week. Two more are to be received into the Baptist church by baptism as a result of the meeting, at which there were twenty-five or more converted.

With a general lessening of the damage done by lice to cotton over the county, reports begin to come in of crops that are good. High temperatures have not had a tendency to damage the crops, most of these reports agree, but in some instances the lack of rain is hurting the continued growth of the stalk.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Dooly of Sand Hill, a daughter on July 15.

where I sit. Immediately I was a girl again and we were getting ready to go plover and prairie chicken hunting again.

Two of father's boyhood friends their wives or children are there to go with us.

Mother washes our faces, braids our long smooth hair, sees that we have a clean gingham dress and blue overalls, lets us wear our "Sunday" bonnet of pink checked gingham with pink embroidery ruffles, puts the flour lard salt and soda into the chuck box with the tin plates and cups. Case knives and forks and tin spoons. Gets the bucket and puts coffee in ready for the water from the water pail. Sees that the onion potatoes and corn is in, hushes the crying baby, remembers to put in the quilt and pillows.

We are ready—Old Joe and Flaxy hitched to the surry—our friends in the big black hacks.

We are off—the harness jingles and the black fringe around the surry waves friendly in the cool wind of the early morning. White clouds float lazily above in a sky of deep blue. Down the hard prairie road we go, running as the surry passes over a bump, begging father to drive slowly so we can get out and walk. We see the gray green of the shinnery and then we get to walk as the sand is too deep to drive fast. Wild flowers—pink and white, blue and red are gathered in the hot sweaty hands only to wilt. Acorns are tasted only to be spit out because they are so bitter. Mesquite beans are nibbled.

Whirr of prairie hens rising to fly, only to be cut down with a shiny black gun. The silver notes of the plover, stilled with the little round shot and the smelly powder. Another and another till enough for dinner. This part I do not like but it is good to watch mother her long skirts swishing in the sands of the shinnery as she bends over the dutch oven of brown biscuits shielding her face with one hand, raising the lid covered with red glowing coals with the other, turning the fat plover frying in their own grease, showing the wood away from the fragrant boiling coffee.

The baby lies on some quilts under the surry, the men stand under the shade of the big hacks, the horses awkwardly jump from one patch of green sage grass to another as their front feet are hobbled.

The potatoes and onions and canned corn simmer, seasoned with fried bacon grease. Wild grape jelly red as the glowing coals, black jam of the wild grapes entice from the prisons of glass.

We hold our plate and cup, knife and fork ready for the food and coffee. We sit in the sand, cooled by the shade of the hack, and while we eat, listen to the talk of the grown people.

Oh! joy and pleasures of the pioneer child. How dear they are and how greedily we hold them to our hearts.

Mrs. Jim Crump brought me a rock from her grandfather's home in Old Van Zandt, to add to my collection. Mrs. Crump and I have been friends and neighbors for some thirty years. Have watched all depart from our immediate neighborhood but our own families. We have exchanged flowers and garden sassa and confidence. Have sat together by the sick bed of a neighbor in the long hours of the night. Have watched the wrinkles come in each others faces, but seen the wrinkles that sometimes comes even between friends, fade out and leave the path smooth. We feel the need of one another as the days go on. We are always happy when we see her and Woottie and Alma D. come.

Saving Peas, Beans And Grain from Weevil Damage

Early Start Necessary To Head Off Infestation, Says Allie M. Tipps

(By Allie M. Tipps, HM Supervisor, Farm Security Administration)

If beans, peas, and grain are to be saved from weevil damage, an early start is necessary. Infestation begins in the field and progresses rapidly in storage, especially in warm weather.

Various methods have been successfully used in destroying weevils. Beans and peas that have been allowed to dry on the vines may be shelled and spread to a depth of one half to three fourths of an inch in trays, or shallow pans, and placed in the stove for 20 to 35 minutes at 165 degrees to 180 degrees Fahrenheit, or a slow oven. This treatment will destroy insect eggs and weevils, thus reducing the possibilities of loss in storage, but it also destroys the vitality of the material treated, which consequently cannot be used for seed.

Another method frequently used, which also destroys the vitality of the seed, is that of scalding. The material to be saved may be dipped in boiling water until the seed has been thoroughly heated. Immediately after being taken from the boiling water, the beans or peas should be drained, thinly spread on wire trays, or a clean surface in the sunshine and stirred occasionally until thoroughly dried.

The successful way of saving these seed for farm use is by using a fumigant. Carbon disulphide, otherwise known as high life is one of the best fumigants used. As the fumes of high life must penetrate the seed, the air temperature must be 60 degrees or higher, preferably higher. The bin or container should be built tightly so that the gas does not flow away. Double walls and floors with building paper between, one wall consisting of tightly fitted lumber make an ideal fumigating bin. Grain piled on the floor or ground may be fumigated with reasonable success by covering with a tarpaulin, or heavy bag, and throwing dirt on the edges. Barrels, boxes, or tin cans can be used for small amounts.

One ounce of high life per barrel, computing not only the volume of the grain, but the capacity of the container is needed. The gas settles downward, therefore the material should be applied at the top of grain mass. As the efficiency depends upon rapidity of evaporation, the material should be applied in shallow pans, or saturated cloths that will provide a broad evaporating surface. If the grain is to be used for seed, the container should be kept tightly closed for 24 hours. If it is to be used for food, continue to fumigate for 48 hours. At the end of the fumigation period, as stated, ventilate thoroughly. This is of especial importance where the grain is to be used for planting. Where grain is fumigated in tight barrels, it will be well to tie a covering or burlap over it, and invert the barrel for an hour or two to permit the gas to flow away.

Fumigation does not prevent the seeds from being used as food, as the fumes are lost in the early stage of cooking. Nor does fumigation make the grain immune to attack by weevils later coming from outside sources.

Hence, careful watch must be kept, and treatment again applied, as found necessary.

POULTRY CONGRESS WILL BE MILLION DOLLAR SHOW

COLLEGE STATION, July 24.—A list of what to see at the World's Poultry Congress, scheduled for Cleveland, Ohio, July 28 to August 7, lends credence to the slogan "A million dollar show for a billion dollar industry."

The list, prepared by Geo. P. McCarthy, poultry husbandman of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, who will be one of the more than 300 Texas poultrymen to attend the congress, includes:

An exhibit presenting the history of poultry breeds from the original jungle bowl to their present development.

Seven thousand birds competing for blue ribbons.

More than 200 types of pigeons with each variety and various colors.

Hens from Chile that lay blue eggs.

A race between homing pigeons with more than a thousand entries.

A transparent kitchen (enclosed with glass) in which professional chefs will prepare egg dishes popular in foreign lands.

Famous peace gardens cultivated by twenty-five nationally groups now residents of Cleveland, to be dedicated on International Peace Day, July 30.

Exhibits and demonstrations by youth groups, including 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America, boy scouts, and others.

A talking turkey that gives a lecture on nutrition of turkeys.

A comprehensive exhibit explaining the services available from ten Federal Government departments for the poultry industry.

Poultry educational exhibits from 35 states and 8 foreign countries.

Jehoshaphat: A Life Of Obedience
Golden Text: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness." (Matthew 6:33).

Lesson Text: II Chronicles 17:1-6; 9-12.

1 And Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead, and strengthened himself against Israel.

2 And he placed forces in all the fenced cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had taken.

3 And the Lord was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his father David, and sought not unto Baalim;

4 But sought to the Lord God of his father, and walked in his commandments, and not after the doings of Israel.

5 Therefore the Lord established the kingdom in his hand; and all Judah brought to Jehoshaphat presents; and he had riches and honour in abundance.

6 And his heart was lifted up in the ways of the Lord; moreover he took away the high places and groves out of Judah.

9 And they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the Lord with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

10 And the fear of the Lord fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, so that they made no war against Jehoshaphat.

11 Also some of the Philistines brought Jehoshaphat presents, and tribute silver; and the Arabians brought him flocks seven thousand and seven hundred rams, and seven thousand and seven hundred he goats.

12 And Jehoshaphat waxed great exceedingly; and he built in Judah castles and cities of store.

Introduction

In our last lesson we saw God's blessings upon the good king of Judah and how He made him to triumph over the king of Ethiopia, who came against him in battle. Asa started off in a way that was pleasing to God, and his land had rest from war; but time brought its troubles. Asa made a league with Benhadad, king of Syria, and gave him treasures out of the Lord's house. This with other mistakes, displeased the Lord, and the rest which he had enjoyed ceased. There is always danger of one who has been used of the Lord, losing sight of the fact that the power comes from the Lord, rather than from human forces. So in Asa's declining years he became a great sufferer from gout. In our present lesson we are presented with Jehoshaphat as succeeding his father to the throne. In him we are to study a life of obedience.

STOVALLS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stovall have returned from a two weeks tour of the southern and eastern states attending the World's fair in New York. They were accompanied on the trip by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hull of Spur.

The party arrived home Sunday afternoon.

Billie Charles Carmack returned recently from a two-weeks visit in Amarillo. His uncle, H. C. Carmack and family accompanied him to Floydada for a brief visit, returning the following day to their home in Amarillo.

Floyd Bell, who has been attending the University of Texas, returned home this week, planning to spend the summer.

Petersburg Has Many Visitors For Picnic

The Petersburg picnic drew thousands of visitors last Thursday afternoon and night, the big free barbecue at noon Thursday attracting many for the mid-day who remained throughout the afternoon.

In a baseball game in the afternoon a Petersburg team won from a Lubbock team 9 to 7. At night a big open air dance and carnival fun drew a big crowd which remained until a late hour.

Jack Hall is secretary of the Business Men's league which sponsored the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chapman, Harold Chapman, Jack Stansell, Olin Watson, Jr., and Edwin Matthews of Tusculumbia, Alabama, were in a party who saw the Carlsbad cavern Sunday. They left here Saturday returning home Monday morning.

W. H. Sharp was in Roswell, New Mexico, over the week-end visiting with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Thomas. His daughter, Lajuana Jo, accompanied him home after visiting the Thomases since the close of school.

L. W. Tatum of Enid, Oklahoma, came Saturday for an indefinite visit with his niece, Mrs. C. B. McDonald and family. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald met him in Plainview.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer Christian, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Hollums and Mrs. S. D. Greer spent the past week-end in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Flynn Thagard. # Bottoms Up!

A BARREL ROLL!... Hard on the dare-devil air devil... Safe for his engine, because it's still well-oiled though it's upside down. Just think: Your motor car—newest model or veteran—would actually get better engine lubrication if somehow you could always park it upside down!... Silly notion?... Just the same, you can see that by standing "bottoms up" your engine would have to stay oiled to the top! Then it certainly couldn't start dry—oil-starved. And that one worst source of engine wear would be ended for you.

Get this same great benefit for your car without any "topsy-turvy"... Get your engine OIL-PLATED. And that takes patented Conoco Germ Processed oil, with its "magnetic" power of mating to the working parts as intimately as chromium-plating is mated to the bumpers. Chromium-plating can't drain down; OIL-PLATING can't either. All the way up in your engine—all the while it stands or runs—all the time you use Germ Processed oil—you've got durable OIL-PLATING.

Then every start is well-oiled—wear-proofed. Every stroke of your engine, every mile you go, takes place on lasting OIL-PLATING. And you're not adding oil every other time you stop, once you change to the only Germ Processed oil... at Your Conoco Mileage Merchant's. He knows your correct Summer grade. Today have him drain and refill, and at once your engine's OIL-PLATED. Continental Oil Company

To Make A Long Tale Short

We wonder why, as a friend told us yesterday, the honeymoon ended when wife gave him canned pork and beans for dinner and gave the pork-chop to the dog? We wonder how many people realize that a used car is not an old car that someone has discarded, many trade in their car every year for the latest model, and the old car is just nicely broken in.
