WHAT ARE THE FACTS

People of the State of Texas are wondering where it is that graft and corruption are in the operation of the state government.

Governor O'Daniel said weeks ago the department heads had been "slamming the door" in his face every time he called and more recently gave the people to understand by way of the radio that strange things are happening.

The state auditor is the latest to say that the "fourth division" of the state government has been added by the bureaus and commissions who are independent of governor, legislature and courts.

Irresponsible people say many things that are supposed not to be true—the further from the source the un-truer, the more ignorant the talker the more likely the fabrication.

But these statements, these references that indicate graft, corruption, favoritism, waste of the people's money, come from the state governor, the state auditor.

Let's have the light. Let's know the facts.

WHO IS THE SAFEST DRIVER

Reading every day about deaths and horrible accidents on the highways that maim and cause suffering for life, makes the question of who is the safest driver a pertinent one.

On the other hand, we are told comparisons are odious, which means that it would be an ungracious thing to say that one is better than another.

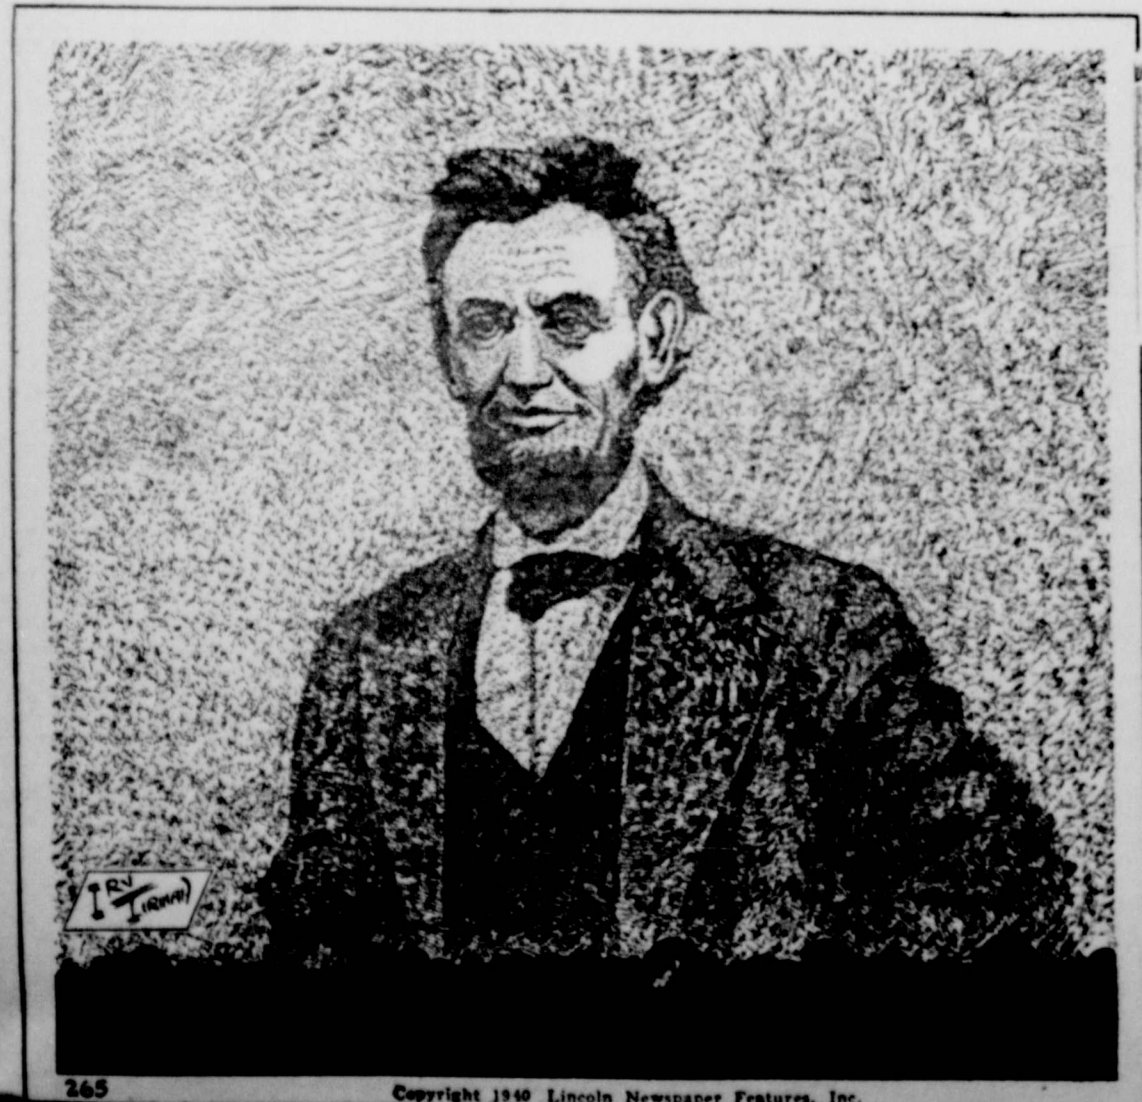

At the same time, if you'll note, the safest, sanest and most courteous man under the wheel is that fellow who is handling a big truck on the highway. He takes his half of the road on his side, he blinks his lights when you meet him, he signals in proper respect for fellow travelers. He takes the middle of the road and jaunts along or makes high speed according to his feelings at the moment. But take the truck driver by and large and you're safer on the road with him than with any other.

Shadow Of Greatness

OIL MEANS MUCH TO TEXAS!

How the beneficent influence of the oil dollar has spread to all portions of Texas was recently indicated by a map given wide publicity by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association.

This map shows there are only seven counties in Texas in which:

(1) Either oil or gas is not now being produced; or

(2) Land owners are not receiving some benefit from the activities in leasing and exploration.

With Texas' 254-county area one can only imagine just how big the above statements are.

Additionally, to give further idea of the bigness of the oil industry in Texas, note that oil paid 45 per cent or 32 million dollars of the state's tax bills in 1938, the last year in which these figures have been made available. And this is exclusive of the 4 cents per gallon of gasoline that is collected for road building and maintenance.

Truly the oil business in Texas is big! And is it helping to oil the machinery of government!

DUMB ONES HERE, TOO

Why Russia does not over-run Finland in three weeks instead of taking months at the job may be explained by the fact that the Russians, aside from Mr. Stalin and a few others, don't know what it is all about. Millions of Russians do not know there is a war nor whom it is being fought against, if they do know. They do not know who runs Russia and have no way of finding out.

The great majority of Russians have been serfs for generation on generation. They do not know who Rasputin was nor what the man's name is now who rules them with an iron hand. Sad commentary that there are citizens of the United States who actually would fasten on their country a rule like that.

They're just plain dumb, too.

RABBITS IN MARYLAND

Is this correct that there are states in this union of ours where there are closed seasons on rabbits, too?

Untravelled and just plain Texas, we'd have to ask somebody. Anyway we read a bit of a story somewhere last week about somebody being fined for killing rabbits out of season up in Maryland.

We ought to turn loose a few hundred of our mule ears on those Maryland softies. They'd take the state and turn it back to the Indians before the Maryland legislature could meet and pass a law to protect themselves.

JOHN L. LEWIS HATES EFFICIENTLY

Mr. John L. Lewis, who heads the Committee for Industrial Organization in the United States seems to be a good hater. His blasts against everything and everybody in high place recently at the national convention of his organization, gave him ample opportunity to prove himself.

Mr. Lewis might be talking about his betters. You don't make friends and influence people that way.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

Nellie Witt Spikes

Each drop of the recent rain glittered and shone in the eyes of the farmers like brand new dimes from the mint of the heavens. And we hope this fall, they will be real dimes, that will bring us comfort and supply our many needs. Every day I am more and more convinced that one man doing right causes others to do right, and if a man does a wrong it causes some one else to do wrong. Some how I am not able to make my thoughts very clear, but every bit of right, spreads out, as the ripple from a stone flung into a still clear pool spreads far as the reach of the pool. A bit of hate spreads, also, and we should be careful not to sling the rocks of hate into the pool of life.

From New York Day by Day, Charles B. Driscoll: "Memory—Clabbered milk, scooped up by the saucerful from crocks in the cellar. Liberally sprinkled with sugar, what a grand dish, out under the maple trees, on a summer day."

Wonder if Mr. Driscoll ever had to swallow a black coated pill, hidden by the white clabbered milk?

My mind is about as blank as this sheet of paper on which I am trying to write. I get up, read the paper a little, see about the oil for the stove, wonder why the electric line is so slow getting here. Sit down to the typewriter again, start the heading, a knock at the door and company comes in, giving me a good excuse to quit. They stay till too late to write in time for this to be mailed. The mail brings much of interest, two letters, two new magazines, the daily paper.

"It has been bad weather here in Maricopa, California since the first of the year," write Dave and Helen Luttrall. "David weighed 20 lbs about a month ago, and he is thirty inches long. He is a big boy for seven months. Helen Jo is growing now." Isn't it nice to hear from friends who were once your neighbors?

The other letter is a new year's wish, author unknown, sent me by my friend Mrs. Orle Furguson, bless her dear heart for thinking of me and sending the wish.

If you have ships upon the seas May every friendly wind and breeze Return full-freighted argosies. If you have caravans afar—May they—beneath a lucky star—Bring back their wealth to where you are.

Or if the treasure that you hold Is not frankincense and gold. But all your stores of precious things Are cherished dreams and visionings. Hopes long deferred and kept apart, Dear inner secrets of the heart, Then the future bring to you, Like homing ships across the blue, Each wish fulfilled—each dream come true. How simple life is becoming! A young man can buy an auto horn that will play a dozen tunes; this will save him long hours learning to play a guitar. He can drive up by his sweetie's window and play a serenade to her. When the old folks get enough and warn him by coughing and rattling the window, the lover can tune up on the Old Oaken Bucket, thus bringing the days back to pa and ma when they were young and in love.

Each window in the house this beautiful morning frames a picture which holds my interest till my housework is slowed up. The picture in the east window: Brown slender limbs of the graceful pecan trees, etched against a pale-blue sky, smoke rising like a long white plume from the house of my neighbors, the Crumps. I can almost smell ham frying, and coffee bubbling in its pot, see brown biscuits, tender with homemade lard; near our barns the little herd of woolly sheep lie on the ground, made warm by their bodies, they chew so funny, and their breath looks like steam on the cold air; a huddle of ducks, chickens sitting on red feet to warm them; the horses and cows eating the dry sorghum with crunching sounds; the old gobbler struts and gobbles at a sudden loud noise; a bank of dark gray clouds hug the sky near the ground, but they are edged with shining silver, and the rising sun hunts the torn ragged places in them, to put on patches of flaming red from the south. Many houses are drawn on the horizon as if with huge charcoal pencils, the brown fields, lie resting in the early morning, waiting for the plow and the seed, windmills clank and glitter like mirrors as the sun throws its giant spotlight on them; birds feed on the seeds of the broom weed; the rock fence separates the yard from the road, where so many friends have driven in to see us. The pictures change from day to day, from year to year, but they are always of interest and delight to me.

Mr. Tvis of McCoy visited us Sunday afternoon. We were very glad to have him.

Mann Rules Guffee Must Make Race

Legal Tangle Created By Appointment And Creation Of Office

Ed. Note: The legal tangle occasioned by the appointment of Clarence Guffee last year as county superintendent of public instruction to fill the unexpired term of office of Walter Travis, resigned, in Floyd county, and the subsequent creation of the office of county superintendent by vote of the electorate, has been unraveled by a ruling of Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, in his brief, holds:

(a) That the office must be filled at an election to be held in 1940;

(b) That the person so elected will hold office for a period of 4 years.

The opinion given to County Attorney John Stapleton last week appears below.

We are pleased to reply to your letter of December 30, 1939. We quote from parts of your letter:

"Will it be necessary to hold an election for County Superintendent of Public Instruction in Floyd County in 1940? If so, will the person elected at such election be elected for a full four year term?"

"Prior to November 4, 1939, no office of County Superintendent of Public Instruction existed in Floyd County, the scholastic population of Floyd County being about 3000. On November 4, 1939, after due petition, order of election, etc., are required by Article 2688, V. A. C. S., at an election held to determine whether or not the office of County Superintendent of Public Instruction should be created in Floyd County, a majority of the qualified taxpayers voting at said election voted for the creation of said office in said county. On November 13, 1939, at its next regular term after said election, the Commissioners' Court of Floyd County created the office of County Superintendent of Public Instruction and appointed Clarence Guffee County Superintendent."

That part of Article 2688, Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes, 1925, which is pertinent to the facts which you present provides:

"...and, if a majority of the qualified property tax-paying voters voting at said election shall vote for the creation of the office of County Superintendent in said county, the Commissioners' Court, at its next regular term after that holding of said election, shall create the office of County Superintendent, and name a County Superintendent who shall qualify under this Chapter and hold such office until the next General Election..."

As far as we have been able to ascertain, there is no Texas case construing the above quoted portion of Article 2688. In investigating the cases of other jurisdictions, relative to the phrase "next general election," we have found none with facts analogous to those which you have presented. These cases refer to appointments made for the unexpired terms of various offices and are not relative to the appointments made to fill newly created offices.

After considering these cases, we find that the courts are in conflict as to the meaning of "next general election." Numerous jurisdictions conclude that this phrase relates to the "general election" which is next in point of time. Other jurisdictions adopt the rule that "next general election" refers to the next general election at which a successor to the office would have been elected had there been no vacancy. The wording of the Constitution or the Statutes of the particular jurisdiction appears to be the controlling factor in each instance.

These statements are verified by the many cases which we have considered (too numerous to mention here) and by the note in 50 L. R. A. (N. S.) 359, which states in part:

"The courts are in conflict as to the meaning of the phrase 'next general election' or similar expression, used in the statutes providing for the filling of vacancies in public offices. In the absence of specific constitutional or statutory construction, some courts take the view that such phrases mean the election next in point of time, while others hold that such phrases refer to the next election at which a successor to the office would have been elected had there been no vacancy."

"As was stated above, the term 'next general election' has been held to mean the general election next in point of time, although, had there been no vacancy, no election to the office would have been held until some subsequent year.

(Citing cases)

"On the other hand, it has been held that the phrase 'next general election' refers to the general election at which the office would have been filled had there been no vacancy. (Citing cases)..."

In view of these conditions and circumstances, we must resort to a construction of our own statutes to determine the meaning of the phrase "next general election," and not blindly adopt the rule of another jurisdiction whose particular constitution or statutes are worded differently from our own.

In construing statutes, as a general rule, words in common use, when contained in a statute, will be read according to their natural, ordinary and popular meaning. Also, an act should be given a fair, rational, reasonable and sensible construction, considering its language and subject matter. These rules are so well established and familiar that no authority is necessary.

"It is" also, "the general policy of the law to fill vacancies in an elective office at an election as soon as practicable after the vacancy occurs. State vs. Schroeder, 79 Neb. 759, 113 N. W. 192." State ex rel. Roerick vs. Board of Comrs. of Lyman County, et al. S. D. 1914, 145 N. W. 548; See also 46 Corpus Juris, Sec. 121, p. 974, and cases cited.

This rule is followed in Texas as is shown by the case of Dobkins vs. Reece, Civ. App. 1929, 17 S. W. (2d) 81, where the court, on p. 83, said:

"As was said by Judge Moore in Wright vs. Adams, 45 Tex. 134. It is believed, moreover, to be a sound rule of construction, which holds, when the duration or term of an office which is filled by popular election is a question of doubt or uncertainty, that the interpretation is to be followed which limits it to the shortest time, and returns to the people at the earliest period the power and authority to refill it..."

Article 2930, Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes of 1925, provides in part:

"A general election shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1926, and every two years thereafter, at such places as may be prescribed by Law, after notice as prescribed by Law..."

By virtue of the last quoted portion of Article 2930 and the rules of construction above set out, it is the opinion of this department that it will be necessary to hold an election for County Superintendent of Public Instruction for Floyd County in 1940. Such is the conclusion reached by giving the quoted portion of Article 2688, supra, its natural, ordinary, reasonable and sensible construction, and returning to the people at the earliest period the power and authority to refill the elective office.

The word "next" in common parlance means "nearest" and is so defined in Webster's New International Dictionary. The general election to be held in 1940, in compliance with Article 2930, supra, is the general election "nearest" to the time of appointment of your present County Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The construction we have placed on that portion of Article 2688, supra, which is pertinent to the facts which you have presented, is supported by an opinion rendered by this department, No. 0-1664. The statute under consideration in that opinion was Article 2355, Vernon's Revised Civil Statutes, 1925, and its terminology is very similar to that portion of Article 2688 which we are considering. We quote Article 2355:

"The Court shall have power to fill vacancies in the office of: County Judge, County Clerk, Sheriff, County Attorney, County Treasurer, County Surveyor, County Hide Inspector, Assessor of Taxes, Collector of Taxes, Justices of the Peace, Constables and County Superintendents of Public Instruction. Such vacancies shall be filled by a majority vote of the members of said Court, present and voting, and the person chosen shall hold office until the next general election. As amended Acts 1927, 40th Leg. 1st C. S., p. 248, ch. 90, S. 1."

The facts presented in Opinion No. 0-1664 were stated as follows:

"In my special case, my husband's term would have expired January 1, 1943, since this is a four year office and he had served not quite one year of his term. I am told that I can hold it until the next general election, but it seems to me this should be interpreted as meaning until the next general election for this office, which would occur in 1942. Which interpretation is correct?"

On the basis of these facts, the opinion stated:

"Prior to 1931, the office of county school superintendent was for a term of two years. Since 1931, the office of county school superintendent has been for a term of four years. The other county offices enumerated in Article 2355 are for terms of two years. There are numerous district and state offices for longer terms than two years, and irrespective of the length of the unexpired term of the appointee's predecessor, the appointee may only hold office until the next general election. There has been no judicial construction of Article 2355, aforesaid, as to the office of county school superintendent. However, the language is clear and is not subject to a contrary construction than that the appointee must be up for election, and that the office is open to election at the term of the appointee will expire on January 1st following the next general election. That is, where an elective office is vacant and is filled by appointment of the Governor or Commissioners' Court, such appointive power is only a matter of expediency in that the will and power of the people will prevail to name the incumbent at the next general election."

In answer to your second question, you are respectfully advised that, in our opinion, the person elected to the office of County Superintendent of Public Instruction at the next general election will be elected for a term of four years.

Nowhere, have we been able to find any provision in the Statutes or Constitution of this State requiring the County Superintendents of the various counties to be elected at the same general election; nor have we found any provision that would require the county superintendent to be elected at any specific general election, and then at the end of regular intervals thereafter.

Attention is directed to that portion of Article 2688, supra, which provides:

"The Commissioners' Court of every county having three thousand (3,000) scholastic population or more as shown by the preceding scholastic census, shall at a General Election provide for the election of a County Superintendent to serve for a term of four (4) years..."

This provision clearly indicates that county superintendents are not required to be elected at any specific general election, but, on the other hand, such officers may be elected at any general election prescribed by Article 2930, supra, provided, of course, all other necessary requirements are met.

In view of this provision, and conclusion, and by virtue of the fact that the present county superintendent of Floyd County was not appointed to fill an unexpired term of a previous officer, there is nothing which would limit the person elected at the next general election to a term of less than four years.

Article 2688a, Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes, 1925, provides:

"In all counties in which the county superintendent of schools is chosen by popular election the term of office shall be four years."

Since the County Superintendent of Public Instruction is to be elected at the next general election, and since such officer will not be elected until the unexpired term of the previous superintendent, it is our opinion that such duly elected officer will be entitled to a four year term as provided for in Article 2688a, supra.

The opinion is signed by Walter R. Kock, and Harry Shuford, assistants and by Attorney General Gerald Mann, and is indicated as approved by the Opinion Committee. Following the receipt of the ruling County Superintendent Guffee this week made his formal announcement for the office.

Sunday School Lesson

The Perils of Rejecting Christ
Interscholastic Sunday School Lesson For February 11, 1940.

GOLDEN TEXT:—I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me" (John 14:6)

LESSON TEXT:—Matthew 21:28-43
28 But what think ye? A certain man had two sons; and he came to the first, and said, Son, go work to day in my vineyard.
29 He answered and said, I will not; but afterward he repented, and went.
30 And he came to the second, and said likewise. And he answered and said, I go, sir; and went not.
31 Whether of them twain did the will of his father? They say unto him, The first. Jesus saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, That the publicans and the harlots go into the kingdom of God before you.

32 For John came unto you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not; but the publicans and the harlots believed him; and ye, when ye had seen it repented not afterward, that ye might believe him.

33 ¶ Hear another parable: There was a certain householder, which planted a vineyard, and hedged it round about, and digged a winepress in it, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a far country:

34 And when the time of the fruit drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, that they might receive the fruits of it.

35 And the husbandmen took his servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

36 Again, he sent other servants more than the first: and they did unto them likewise.

37 But last of all he sent unto them his son, saying, They will reverence my son.

38 But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said among themselves, This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and let us seize on his inheritance.

39 And they caught him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him.

40 When the lord therefore of the vineyard cometh, what will he do unto those husbandmen?

41 They say unto him, He will miserably destroy those wicked men, and will let out his vineyard unto other husbandmen, which shall render him the fruits in their seasons.

42 Jesus saith unto them, Did ye never read in the Scriptures, The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner: this is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes?

43 Therefore say I unto you, The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof.

His district is composed of Floyd, Motley, Briscoe and Dickens counties.

Floydada Cagers—

(Continued from page one) The first half of the game was close, however, reminiscent of the extra-period battle between the two quintets before the conference season opened; but the Floydada lads forged ahead in the third quarter and turned the game into a virtual rout in the final. Leading by one point, 4 to 3, at the end of the first period, the Whirlwinds stretched their lead to 17-12 at the half, and pushed ahead 31-22 at the end of the third period. In the final quarter, the green and white clad quintet went wild, hitting the basket from all directions, to sweep into a commanding lead. Both Jackson and Linder hit the basket with freak shots calculated to take the heart out of any team, and Rushing, Newberry and Patterson collaborated with their teammates to turn the Whirlwind into a scoring machine. The five starters played virtually the entire game. Starters for Crosbyton were Freeman, Simer, Blackwood, Reed and Howell.

The Floydada "B" team, playing in the opener Monday night, overwhelmed the Crosbyton second-stringers by a score of 36-16, displaying some plain and fancy goal tossing while maintaining an airtight defense. Starters were for Floydada, Love, Johnston, Minor, Arnold, and D. Patterson; and for the Chiefs, Moore, McMillan, Scott, Cash and Stockton. Mrs. Lowell Gamblin and daughter, Lonita, returned to their home in Clovis, New Mexico, Tuesday after visiting since Saturday with Mrs. Gamblin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Borum and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gamblin. Mr. and Mrs. Vert Readhimer of Dallas spent the week-end with Mrs. Readhimer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Heard. Sunday they visited Mr. Readhimer's parents in Plainview.

Manifold papers. Hesperian.

Boy Scouts—

(Continued from page one) Organization with a birthday party at Fellowship Hall in the First Christian church. On the same day, Troop 64 will present a demonstration for their sponsors, the Lions club, and will be entertained at the noon luncheon of that organization. Wednesday is Government Day, and on Wednesday night, Troop 64 will be entertained with a party at the home of the Scoutmaster, D. W. Fogerson.

A hike has been planned for Troop 64 Sunday afternoon as a part of the week's celebrations. Tonight (Thursday) both troops will gather with their scoutmasters to listen to a radio address by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the nation's Scouts. The White House broadcast is scheduled at 10:30 p. m. (EST) or 9:30 Floydada time over a national hook-up. Troop 57, the senior troop, was organized on February 28, 1934, under sponsorship of the Floydada Post of the American Legion. The late Paul Connor was post commander at that time. Bill Sharp, present post commander, is now official sponsor. The troop was known at that time as No. 1, before the organization of the South Plains council. Rev. Gordon Voight, pastor of the First Christian church, is scoutmaster, and John Farris is assistant.

The troop has four full patrols, numbering 32 boys. J. A. Arwine is troop committee chairman for 57. The troop now has two Eagle Scouts, James Willson, now at SMU, and Edward Wester who is attending NTSTC at Denton; and 12 Life Scouts, Carl Arnold, senior patrol leader, Robert Arnold, Joe Arwine, Kenneth Bishop, James Bishop, Emmett Henson, Junior assistant Scoutmaster, Frank Jones, Carl Minor, Joe Dick Moore, Randolph Rutledge, James Turner, Jr., and James Wester.

Troop 64, organized under sponsorship of the Floydada Lions club last November, now has 19 boys in three patrols. D. W. Fogerson is Scoutmaster, with John Stapleton as assistant. J. C. Wester, district chairman, is a member of the executive committee of the South Plains council, and J. M. Willson, another local scout sponsor, is vice president of the South Plains council and representative from the council to the National council.

STATES REPORT BIG GAIN IN FREEZER LOCKER NUMBERS. A gain of about 550 freezer locker plants—where farm families and others store fresh foods in season for out-of-season use—was reported by State Agricultural Extension services for the year ended in July 1939. The survey shows over 1,850 plants operating in 38 states, compared with 1,300 in 33 states last year. The increase is scattered over 27 states, as five of the 33 with plants last year reported increases, and one state lost its only plant. Five states reported plants for the first time this year. Major increases were reported in Wisconsin, going from 65 to 153, Minnesota from 114 to 179, Idaho with 50 to 85, Pennsylvania from 5 to 20, and Tennessee from 2 to 12. Iowa still leads with a reported total of 350 plants and Washington is second with 260. Locker plants operated in connection with some other business made up 77 percent of the total. Ten percent of the plants were reported as cooperatives. Minnesota has more cooperative plants than any other state, reporting 57 of the 179 as being operated in connection with some cooperative organization.

Only a few incompletely equipped plants were in operation 10 years ago, says Kenneth F. Warner, extension meat specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture. The count this year, as in years past, is not an absolute census, but is believed to reflect the rapid growth of freezer locker plants as a means of preserving food. TREE PLANTING ENCOURAGED BY A. A. PROGRAM. Tree planting on farms is encouraged by a special provision of the 1940 A. A. farm program which enables any farmer to earn up to $30 by planting forest trees and shrubs. This allowance is exclusive of the regular soil-building allowance for a farm. Since 1936, tree planting has been emphasized in the soil-building practices of the A. A. agricultural conservation programs. During the 3 years, 1936, 1937, and 1938, farmers participating in the A. A. farm program planted a total of 122,750 acres of trees. National figures for tree planting under the 1939 A. A. farm program are not available, but emphasis on this soil-building practice was continued. The special $30 allowance follows recommendations of A. A. farmer-committee members for increasing tree planting under the 1940 program. Farmers find trees of value for control of both wind and water erosion. On steep slopes, trees hold down the soil and retard runoff of water. Field wind-breakers protect crops from spring and summer winds and serve as snow catches to build up moisture in the soil. Farm woodlands furnish fuel and material for fence posts and poles. Planting and protecting stands of trees and shrubs is also encouraged by provisions of the 1940 A. A. farm program aimed at improving conditions for wildlife.

JAP BEETLE CHECKED BY "MILKY DISEASE". One of two infectious organisms that attack Japanese beetles is emerging as one of the most promising natural defenses against the injury this pest does to lawns. Known as "milky disease," it gets the name from the milky-white appearance of the infested grubs. Federal entomologists at the Moorestown, N. J. laboratory have known of the disease for several years and have been investigating possibilities. They sought answers to questions such as: Will the disease attack other insects or plants? How deadly is it to Japanese beetles? Is it effective only when the beetles are thick or can we get it started while there are only a few beetles working? Will it live through unfavorable weather?

As test in southern New Jersey has returned favorable answers to most of these questions and extensive experiments are now under way in New Jersey, both to remedy conditions there and to develop protective methods for use in areas now threatened. In the test, infested grubs were planted in small areas of a golf course where beetles were thick enough to ruin the sod. An unusually severe winter followed and killed 80 per cent of the beetles, but did not kill out the bacteria. This test became the equivalent of planting the disease while the beetles were still too few to be highly destructive. The bacteria have gradually spread over the whole golf course. As the beetles have again multiplied in more favorable seasons, the original treated areas have had fewer grubs than turf at a distance—too few to ruin the sod. And as the disease has spread, more and more of the golf course has escaped destructive attack. At times nearly half the beetles have been fatally infected. One encouraging fact is that the disease can pass through the digestive tract of a bird or animal without being destroyed. So birds hunting grubs help spread the disease to new areas. Entomologists have learned how to infect grubs and spread the infection to new centers. The department has no infested grubs for distribution outside the present experimental area. They are not yet ready to predict how effective this disease may be. It is likely to be more effective in preventing the ruin of sod by grubs than in protecting shrubs, trees, and flowers from attack by adult beetles. Under favorable conditions, a lawn can maintain itself in spite of a moderate number of beetles by growing new roots as fast as the grubs destroy old ones. Even moderate numbers of beetles emerging as adults may cause considerable damage to the plants they prefer to attack.

MOTOR DRIVEN NET AID CONTROL OF INSECT PESTS

In studies of insects as a guide to control campaigns, entomologists frequently need to know when the first insects of a certain variety are flying, and to have definite indications of how the numbers increase and decrease during the season. A motor-driven rotary net devised by F. R. Lawson and J. C. Chamberlain, of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine for studies of the arrival of migrating beetle hoppers has proved useful in providing this type of information. A cone of fine wire screening is mounted on a driving arm turned by a small electric or gas motor. It swings in a circle to catch a sample of all the insects that are on the wing at the height it is operating. At the tip of the cone a small removable cloth bag catches the insects. By changing the collecting bags frequently it is easy to find out the hours when certain insects are most active—often a valuable guide to apply control measures. Capture of the first insect of a destructive species may be the signal for launching control work. By operating the device through the season the entomologists can compile a progressive calendar of insect activity. In a California orchard one of these nets was operated for several months, traversing a 12-foot circle once a second. At this rate the net traveled slightly more than 600 miles a day and strained the insects from more than 6,500,000 cubic feet of air each day. This rotary net has definite advantages, entomologists find, over light traps or bait traps, since it samples all the insects that are not attracted by either insects in range day or night. Some lights or baits.

ACCIDENT STUDIES SHOW FARM WORK IS HAZARDOUS

Farming may not seem a hazardous occupation, but accident studies of farms and other occupational groups reveal a higher ratio of accidental deaths on the farm than elsewhere. In a recent year, fatal accidents in agriculture numbered 4,500 compared with 2,300 in manufacturing and 2,800 in construction activities. S. H. McCrory, of the United States Department of Agriculture, who has made a study of farm accidents, finds one reason they are more serious is that the victim is likely to be working alone. A factory worker caught in a lathe usually has a fellow workman nearby who can cut off the power. But a farmer caught in a power take-off of a tractor, attacked by a bull, or kicked by a horse, is likely to be alone. Farm machinery manufacturers are equipping more and more machinery with protective devices, and the safety of old models may be improved by having parts put on them, says Mr. McCrory. Among other causes which he found conducive to farm accidents are the need for haste in the rush seasons, which often means working after dark or with makeshift repairs, and occasional attempts to use "home-made" electric wiring. A recent study in Kansas of fatal road accidents found that 29 percent of the deaths were caused by machinery, 20 percent by animals, 12 percent by excessive heat, 8 percent by vehicles, 9 percent from falls, 5 percent by lightning, and 17 percent from other causes. Most of the farm accidents, Mr. McCrory believes, could be avoided if the farmer is his own "safety inspector" in seeing that neither he nor his employees take chances. Miss Helen Dunlap, student in N. T. S. T. college at Denton, was a week end guest of her sister, Mrs. W. M. Culwell and family. W. T. McKinney, C. Russell Cook and Miss Allie Mae Tipps of the local Farm Security administration office, attended a regional conference of the FSA in Lubbock Friday.

MANY AMERICAN WEEDS ARE NATIVES OF EUROPE

Europeans traveling through the American countryside are likely to be shocked by the weediness of American fields and fence rows, says L. W. Kephart, weed specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture. What the European rarely realizes is that with the exception of the sunflower, a great part of the more conspicuous weeds on American farms are not natives, but have been introduced from Europe. A principal explanation of the relative weediness of American farms, according to Mr. Kephart, is that here each farm worker tills a much greater acreage than he would in Europe. American farms average about 150 acres, with 50 acres in crops, or at the rate of 100 acres for each worker, 40 of which are in crops. This does not allow for such close weed control as in more intensively cultivated areas. Many of the more conspicuous weeds are annuals, and are not so serious as they look. The really serious weeds are the perennials that are difficult to destroy by cultivation. Many of what are known as "noxious weeds" are perennials—bindweed, Johnson grass, quackgrass, Canadian thistle, Bermuda grass, and nutgrass. In recent years whitetop, horse nettle, Russian knapweed, and leafy spurge have been giving increasing trouble. In at least a dozen states weed specialists are now studying methods of control—by cultivation, by chemicals, or by competition of other plants. Most of the annual weeds are regarded somewhat tolerantly by American farmers. In tilled fields they fight these annuals by cultivation until crops such as corn and cotton are "laid by". Then the weeds are allowed to grow. Recently some of the weeds have been getting some credit for control of erosion after the crop is harvested. Carbon paper, typewriter ribbons. ## Wheat Loans Will Mature April 30

All 1939 wheat loans mature April 30, 1940, and it is not contemplated that any of the loans will be extended beyond that date. A. A. Hoots, ACA secretary said Wednesday. In most instances notes and other documents are still in the hands of local lending agencies. Producers should consult the local lending agencies and arrangements for the forwarding of loan documents for payment.

INSECTS PREY ON INSECTS BUT THERE IS NO "ENMITY"

No insect is really an enemy of another insect. But persons familiar with the several successful efforts to control insect pests by introducing other insects that kill them may not realize this, and so expect too much from this sort of "biological control." Entomologists are aware of the great quantities of insects that are the victims of other insects. But the victims are not killed because of enmity. "One insect," T. E. Holloway, of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, said recently in explaining this difference, "may be the food of another insect, that is all. Man eats meat, but is not the enemy of cattle. The insect does not need to. But if it could, it would not want to exterminate the species it feeds on." Casual observers of some common insects see them leading seemingly varied lives—flies feeding on various foods, bees flitting to different flowers. They do not realize the intense specialization in the existence and reproduction of many insects. Some of the most effective parasites are strictly one-insect parasites. Unless the egg-laying parasites can find a certain stage of the insect on which it preys, it does not even place its eggs. The progeny will develop only in a particular host and in a certain stage of the host. Other parasites prey on a goodly number of species and sometimes the presence of more than one kind of host in a locality has an important bearing on the success of the parasite in the control of the species which is destructive to cultivated crops. Entomologists working to control the Japanese beetle are seeking earnestly to determine if some parasites of the beetle can also reproduce by preying on native white grubs that are very similar to grubs of the Japanese beetle. If they could find one among those introduced from abroad that could live under conditions here—it would be most valuable. Such a parasite could be liberated in advance of the first Japanese beetles to arrive, and multiplying on the native grubs would be ready to attack the first Japanese beetle grubs that become established. Such a parasite might even retard the spread of the beetle. Prospects are not bright for finding such an insect treasure.

Southwestern Life Shows Big Gain In Insurance Policies During 1939

With a gain of $18,151,115 for the year, Southwestern Life Insurance company now has a total of $360,768,441 insurance in force, according to F. C. O'Donnell, president.

R. E. FRY

Announcement of the continued progress of this Texas institution is contained in the company's 37th annual financial statement which has just been received here by R. E. Fry, local representative of Southwestern Life. Numerous items in the annual statement reflect the strength of Southwestern Life. Assets are $67,189,220.43, representing an increase of $5,988,920.90 for the year. This is the largest gain in the company's history. The company continued its enviable record of never having had a default of either interest or principal on any bond owned by it.

In releasing the annual statement, Mr. O'Donnell called attention to completion during the year of a new insurance service commensurate with growth of the company. This new development involves plans for an extensive agency program, launched in full swing on January 1.

"In order to be in position to render the highest degree of efficient service to the public," Mr. O'Donnell said in commenting on the program, "the company's purpose in such a plan is to develop thoroughly trained agents of the highest type, qualified in every way to offer a truly professional service."

The annual statement stresses the double function of the dollars invested in life insurance by at once building secured protection and playing a significant role in the economic progress of Texas. The report indicates that with the exception of funds invested in United States bonds, practically all investments of Southwestern Life are in Texas bonds and real estate loans. It is pointed out in this connection that Southwestern Life investments in bonds for municipal enterprises, public utilities, street paving, sewerage systems, or for county and state improvements, create pay rolls for wage earners, and advancement of economic conditions generally within the state.

An indication of the service Southwestern Life has performed is shown by the sum the company has paid out since organization in 1903 to policyholders and beneficiaries. Such payments total $65,882,066.24.

Press Club Sells Tags for Annual Birthday Drive

On January 30, the members of the Press Club were dismissed from school to sell tags for the infantile paralysis drive. Small red tags were sold at 10 cents each or whatever the person cared to pay for them.

Netha Denson, Florene Cates, Evelyn Elliott, Frances Keim, Geneva Gordon, Mary Frances McRoberts, Dick Moore, Robert Conner, Martha Yearwood, Mildred Stovall, Lela Lee Teal, Alice Bell, James Wester, and Joe Wilson, were the group that covered the town, divided into groups of two.

This was done at the request of Claude Henderson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the paralysis campaign in this county. Each member was glad to be able to do this little part toward aiding the crippled.

LIBRARY

"Who wrote...?" "Who wrote...?" "Hurry up, I've got to go to a class!" This is the way the students rush into the library and begin asking about books. Some of the librarians were almost driven to distraction, because it is impossible for them to remember all the authors of the books that the students ask about. There is no question now. The new inventory has been taken and the books have been arranged alphabetically. A list of these books has been filed in the library so that the students can quickly and easily find the names of the book and the author that they want.

Some of the books that the students call for most are "Gone With the Wind," "And Tell of Time," "Northwest Passage," "West of the Pecos," "Green Light," "The Citizen," "Oil for the Lamps of China," "Tappan's Burro," "Raiders of the Spanish Peak," and "Lost Wagon Trail."

The "chute" that Mr. Davis made for the students to put the books in that were checked out is proving more satisfactory as the days go by. It is very seldom that a book is misplaced or lost now. This chute opens into the study hall and the students return the books from there.

She: I consider, dear, that sheep are the stupidest creatures living. He: (absent minded) Yes, my lamb.

It was a ridiculous sight to see a Social Club pledge come hobbling down the hall last Friday, (and I do mean hobbling, for with one high heeled shoe, and one low heeled shoe on, wouldn't you hobble?) But the funniest thing that happened was when Betty Jo and Mary sang to Mr. Linder—"Oh, Robert, oh, Robert, how you can love!"—substituting his name for "Johnny's".

Heard—

That Robert Arnold is one of those people that God put on the earth to make everybody happy.

Miss Cade has some trouble when she calls the roll in English 11-5. Incidentally, there are three girls named Margaret, three girls named Laverne, and two boys with the name Carl in that class.

A new fashion is seen around high school these days. The superintendent has given the girls permission to wear slacks to school, with the consent of their parents.

Thought of the Week:—

For as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.

GUESS WHO FROM SOPHS

Who is a certain little Sophomore boy that plays a cornet in the band? He is always cheering people with his wisecracks.

What Soph girl has a grand personality, makes good grades and is the class poetess?

Do you know who the goofy guy is of the class? He plays a snare drum in the band and is always at least thirty minutes late.

Now guess who this is. She plays a cornet in the band and also plays the piano. She has brown hair.

Who is a soph boy that plays baseball and was the class president last year? He has brown hair and a good personality.

Be sure and see the answers next week.

Social Club Has Plans For Pledges

The Social club met Wednesday afternoon after school. The meeting was called to order by the club president, Mary Frances McRoberts, and discussion included the informal and formal initiation of the five pledges: Mary Denison, Jane Graham, Betty Jo McCleskey, Nelda Fagan, and Arlene Fyffe. It was decided that they would wear purple and gold, the club's colors; carry a tin can tied on a string around their neck; carry a sack with an onion and a piece of bread in it; wear different kinds of socks; one high heeled and one low heeled shoe; no make-up and freckles; all the jewelry they could find and their hair was to be combed out and not pinned or tied back in any way.

The club is planning a George Washington costume party for February 16, the first social event that the new members will participate in.

SENIOR NEWS

Stop me if you've heard this: Mildred Stovall had a hard time getting out of the mud Friday night, so we heard.

What is the sudden interest in Lockney? It seems to be spreading all over school.

Some people have enough nerve to go into a drug store and borrow an alarm clock in order to get home in time.

T. W. is seen with a dark brunette Junior quite often.

La Verne Russell and Junior Womack just can't seem to get any peace. There are people pestering them all the time.

Every time drums are me,ioned, Evelyn Withers just blushes; Could it be that a certain Senior boy plays drums?

Glee Club Ready For Second Big Program Feb. 18

The Glee club girls were "all-a-flutter" when they made their first public appearance at the Teachers' Banquet last Tuesday night. Nevertheless, their performance was worthy of praise, as they appeared in their prim little black taffeta dresses.

The girls are looking forward to their next appearance which will be at the First Baptist church, Sunday, February 18. They are working on some hymns to sing at that time.

Since Glee club work is to become affiliated in F. H. S., Miss Caldwell has begun teaching the girls theory. Most of the girls welcome this opportunity to learn more about music, although it may not be as much fun for them as just singing.

And, incidentally, the girls are eagerly awaiting another opportunity to show the student body how much they have progressed since they sang in assembly in the early fall.

The Speech Class walked into class Monday morning at 9:45 with spirits lowered at the thought of having to give book reviews. But when Mrs. May walked in they knew something was wrong. When everything was explained it was learned that Miss Smith was sick in bed that day.

The class gave book reviews anyway.

Here's hoping that Miss Smith will soon be back with us because the class misses her helpful, well-meant criticism.

RAINFALL LOW IN WEST DURING 1939, BUT ABOUT NORMAL IN MOST OF EAST

Reports from all parts of the country, compiled by J. B. Kincaid, of the United States Weather bureau, show that precipitation last year was about normal to a little above normal rather generally from the Mississippi Valley eastward, except in the northeast.

But west of the Mississippi river all states, except Arkansas, had below-normal precipitation for the year. Colorado was relatively driest, with only 65 percent of normal, followed closely by California, with 67 percent. The relatively driest of the Great Plains states were Nebraska, with 69 percent and Kansas, 75 percent of normal.

Alabama with 59.33 inches, had the most rainfall for the year, and Nevada 8.45 inches the least, though this was only slightly below normal. The total yearly falls in the Great Plains and central Rocky Mountain states were: North Dakota, 14.15 inches, the smallest since 1936; South Dakota, 15.71, also the smallest since 1936; Nebraska 16.28 and Oklahoma 20.08. Colorado had only 10.68 inches, somewhat less than the previous driest year of record, 10.89 in 1934. The average for Wyoming was 9.48 inches, also somewhat lower than the previous driest year, 9.81 inches in 1902. The California average, 15.85 inches, was the least since 1932.

TAPPING OF UNDERFLOW CUTS RESERVOIR SILTING

Until recently little was known of what engineers now refer to as "underflow" or "density currents." Once regarded as something rare, underflow is now recognized as a generally prevalent occurrence in which the muddy water carried into a reservoir by a silt-burdened stream hugs the bottom of the basin and follows the old course of the stream before it was dammed.

While much further study is needed, progress has been made in the last 4 or 5 years in studying the cause and effect of underflow. Scientists of the Soil Conservation service report that many engineers are now considering the possibility of using this slowly moving current of silt-burdened water to prevent deposits of silt which do so much damage by reducing the storage capacity and the service value of reservoirs.

In most reservoirs there is a seasonal or constant overflow of waste water, ordinarily as a fall over the face of the dam. This overflow is usually clear water from which the silt has settled. As a result, the reservoir fills with damaging silt. However, by arranging for gates, pipes, or flumes that discharge water from the lowest levels of the reservoir, it would be practical in many cases to draw off much of the silt carried along by the underflow and thus prevent the tremendous damage caused by heavy silt.

For best results this drawing off of silt-laden water should start when the reservoir is new. There have been many unsuccessful efforts to clear reservoirs after a great quantity of silt has accumulated by opening gates and letting the water run free. The usual result has been that the renewed current cuts a gorge or channel through the accumulated silt without clearing out more than a fraction of the deposit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chapman and children visited Sunday in the home of their son, Ray Chapman and Mrs. Chapman at Seagraves.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School lesson for February 18, 1940. Good Citizens and Good Neighbors Golden Text: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Matthew 22:39.

Lesson Text: Matthew 22:15-22:34-40.

15 Then went the Pharisees, and took counsel how they might entangle him in his talk.

16 And they sent out unto him their disciples with the Herodians, saying Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou regardest not the person of men.

17 Tell us therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar or not?

18 But Jesus perceived their wickedness, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

19 Shew me the tribute money. And they brought unto him a penny.

20 And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription?

21 They say unto him, Caesar's. Then saith he unto them, Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's.

22 When they had heard these words, they marveled, and left him, and went their way.

34 But when the Pharisees had heard that he had put the Sadducees to silence, they were gathered together.

35 Then one of them, which was a lawyer, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying.

36 Master, which is the great commandment in the law?

37 Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.

38 This is the first and great commandment.

39 And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

40 On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

Lesson Thoughts
Jesus was teaching in the temple and the Jewish rulers had questioned His authority. He was assailed by one delegation after another of Pharisees, Sadducees, Herodians, chief priests, and lawyers in their determination to trap Him with entangling question, hoping that He would make a slip in His replies that would arraign Him before the Roman court, or prove Him a heretic, or discredit Him as a prophet before the people. But Jesus turned upon the questions with the Parable of the Two Sons and exposed their hypocrisy. Then with the Parable of the Wicked Husbandman He showed up their wicked designs and murderous spirit. The chief priests and Pharisees perceived that Jesus was referring to them, but what they desired to lay hands on Him they were afraid of the great mass of people who believed Jesus was a prophet.

Then Jesus related the Parable of the Marriage Feast (Matt. 22:1-14). A king made a marriage feast for his son, sending his servants with invitations, but was mocked with refusal, and some of his servants were maltreated and some slain. The king sent his army and destroyed those murderers, burned their city, and then filled the wedding hall with guests from the highways. Even of the latter guests one went into the wedding hall without a wedding garment and was thrust outside into the dark. Thus Jesus pictured the Jews' rejection of the prophets and His own rejection by the Jewish leadership. He showed plainly that those Jewish leaders, who thought themselves such good citizens and good neighbors, would be cast out of God's presence because of their rejection of Jesus, and God would make up His Church of the humble who respond to His invitation.

ing honors with 12 points each. Milton Morris of West Texas State college, Canyon, officiated.

The Longhorns took an easier victory in the opening game of the series at Lockney Monday night, though the game was closer than the score indicates. The Lockney cagers, however, led all the way in a fast-paced game which was featured principally by an amazing exhibition on the part of Bill Jackson of the Whirlwinds.

While his team-mates were off-form and unable to hit the basket consistently, Jackson turned in a performance both offensively and defensively that had the fans on their feet with enthusiasm. Leading the scoring with 13 points, the Whirlwind forward hit the net from all angles and time after time leaped high in the air to snare a Longhorn shot off the rim of the basket or carry the rebound from the backboard away from his opponent's goal.

The game was fast and rough. Joe Rushing, Whirlwind guard fouled off shortly before the end of the first half, and was replaced by Love Jackson was forced out of the game on fouls in the final minutes of the last period. Minor going into the line-up at that point.

Whirlwind starters for both games were Patterson, Linder, Jackson, Rushing and Newberry. For the Longhorns, the line-up was Weather, C. Kelly, Hartley, V. Kelly, and Owen.

Officiating the game at Lockney were Sidney Reeves of Dimmitt and Charles Holmes of Friona.

Both games were featured by long shots. Defensive play by both teams was so close and effective that few goals were made close in. Long shots from beyond the circle accounted for most of the scoring.

Homebuilders Hear Talk By Agent On Home Decorations

"One of the first things to remember in working out your color scheme for your bed room is to have the ceiling light, the walls a little darker, and the floors darker than the walls," Miss Edith Wilson, county home demonstration agent, told members of the Homebuilders club in a demonstration of interior decorating at a meeting last Friday at the home of Mrs. W. A. Cates.

"Anytime you use a large amount of color in a background of a room repeat it in some small object such as a chair cover, vase, or book. Let the wall paper remain quietly in the background, and when you start to redecorate a bedroom, start with the floor and build your color scheme around the rug," Miss Wilson advised.

During a business session, the president, Mrs. John Lloyd, was in charge. Roll call was answered with "My favorite color scheme for a bed room."

Mrs. W. F. Weatherbee conducted a parliamentary drill.

Attending the meeting were Mesdames Ed Moore, T. J. Heard, John Lloyd, P. F. Bertrand, Mabel Sims, C. W. Denison, Dick Attaberry, Ben Johnson, D. D. Shipley, W. F. Weatherbee, Raymond Teeple, F. F. Fuqua and the hostess. The next meeting will be on February 23 with Mrs. Ed Moore.

He takes
on Texas
telephones

Each day this Texas telephone man flips keys and watches sensitive indicators as he searches for a clue to possible trouble on Texas telephones.

And one result is that despite the increasing complexity of telephone equipment, telephone customers report troubles on their telephones only half as often as they did 10 years ago.

He appreciates the wisdom of a stitch in time in finding and fixing troubles—or weak spots that might result in trouble. That is one way we safeguard your telephone service in Texas.

A stitch in time saves nine. These words in action contribute their full share to the accuracy, dependability, and low cost of your telephone service.
