10 Farms to Be Used For Experiments

Water Facilities Program To Arrange Demonstration Projects In County

Edgar H. Kemp, acting project manager in the Water Facilities program in this area, advised County Agent D. F. Bredthauer last week that Floyd county has been allowed ten farms to be used as demonstration units under a co-operative agreement between the Soil Conservation Service and the Extension Service.

The ten farms, he pointed out, must be located outside the Water Facilities area, which includes only the northern portion of the county. Eligible farms selected for the experimental work may receive assistance from the Farm Security administration.

The proposed experiment was reported to members of the Floyd County Land-Use Planning committee, meeting at the District Courtroom in Floydada Wednesday afternoon of last week, and on a motion by County Judge G. C. Tubbs, five of the ten farms were tentatively selected at that time.

Farms belonging to H. M. Houston, W. F. Ferguson, Carl W. Smith, R. H. Ratjen, and E. L. Thomas were proposed by Judge Tubbs for tentative selection in order to speed up operation of the experiment. Bredthauer pointed out that so far he has received no official notification of the agreement through the regular channels of the Extension Service.

Judge Tubbs proposed that the remaining five farms be selected at the next meeting of the committee. Twenty-five members of the planning committee attended the meeting. L. A. Williams, chairman of the committee, was in charge.

County Agent Bredthauer gave a brief report on the progress of two shrub demonstrations in the county, and suggested the farms of L. L. Jones of Lakeview and W. W. Cooper of Lockney to be used as possible wind-break demonstrations.

On a motion by R. M. Battey, Herman Stowe, Henry Schacht, Henry Graham, O. C. Glassmeyer, W. H. Brock, and Ed Teuton were elected to serve on the County 4-H club sub-committee for 1940.

Ben Quebe, Buck Sams, and J. C. Henderson gave reports on the recent irrigation school and the results obtained.

On a motion by R. M. Battey, the county agent gave a complete summary of the District Soil Conservation law, explaining and stressing the advantages that Floyd county farmers could derive from this service if they vote in favor of creating the district in the election on March 9. Bredthauer pointed out that by creating a district Floyd county farmers will be better able to work directly with the federal government.

Judge Tubbs, adding to this report, emphasized the importance of landowners showing a good vote at the election, stating that the interest shown at the election will probably be a determining factor in the amount of assistance received from the federal government.

Trio Arrested In Stolen Car After Midnight Chase

Three 16-year old Lubbock youths were held in County Jail here Tuesday awaiting arrival of Lubbock officers after giving Floyd and Motley county officers a 60 mile chase Monday night.

The boys, Cynthon Ray Whitworth, Calvin Walker, and Charles Bylly, were arrested at Paducah early Tuesday morning by Sheriff Carlisle of Matador after they had filled the car with gasoline at the Jettin Service Station in Floydada and fled without paying the proprietor.

Motley county officers, notified of the theft by Sheriff Fred Clark attempted to halt the speeding trio at Matador and chased them into Paducah before a breakdown of the fugitive car permitted their arrest.

Sheriff Clark took possession of the boys at Matador and brought them to the local jail where he discovered that the car which they were driving, a 1938 Chevrolet, had been stolen in Lubbock Monday night. Lubbock officers were notified Tuesday morning and claimed the prisoners.

Clark said there would probably be no charges filed in this county on theft of gasoline, since the boys will face charges at Lubbock for theft of the automobile. One of the lads, he said, had recently been released from the state reformatory at Gatesville.

Food Stamp Plan For Surplus Commodities May Be Placed In Operation In Floyd County Soon

Floyd county commissioners have made formal application to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation for operation of the Food Stamp Plan in this county in a district which would be built around Hall county where the plan has been in operation since January 15, including Floyd, Motley and Briscoe counties, Judge G. C. Tubbs revealed this week.

There is a good chance that the three neighboring counties may be included with Hall county in the administration of the surplus commodities plan, Judge Tubbs said.

Hall county officials, business men, and the relief clients themselves are all highly pleased with the operation of the Food Stamp plan in that district, the Judge reported Tuesday morning after returning from an inspection trip to Memphis with Commissioners A. S. Cummings and M. H. Taylor Monday.

Judge Tubbs stated he believed that the operation of the plan in this county would save several thousand dollars annually to the county in funds now expended for distribution of commodities to relief clients.

The Food Stamp plan takes the place entirely of the present system of distribution of surplus foods to relief families by the county and state agencies. All persons now receiving surplus commodities are eligible to participate in the stamp plan, and in addition, all people working on the WPA projects and all persons receiving any form of public aid may get stamps if they want them wherever the plan is in operation.

Surplus foods are purchased with the stamps through local stores, local merchants receive the business and clients are afforded a greater variety of foods than is distributed through the Relief agencies.

The Hall county project was the first in this state, and one of the first in the nation, to be set up in so small a district. The Food Stamps are in general, in use only in a few larger cities throughout the nation.

Cost of administration is a major factor, and for that reason, county officials believe that by combining the four counties under a single administration set-up the plan can be operated economically and satisfactorily to all concerned. Officials of the four counties will meet next week to discuss the plan.

Two kinds of stamps are issued. Blue stamps are given free by the Federal government to clients on direct relief. Each is good for 25 cents on the purchase of surplus commodities. Orange stamps, also in 25-cent denominations, are sold at face value and will be good for the purchase of any foods.

Certain clients receiving old age assistance will be required to buy (See FOOD STAMP PLAN page 5)

Polk Goen, President of the Floydada Lions club, was named by that organization as delegate to the International Lions convention at Havana, Cuba, this summer.

Polk Goen Named Lion's Delegate To International

Lions of Floydada club Tuesday selected President M. P. Goen of their club as their delegate this summer to the meeting of Lions International in Havana, Cuba.

Plans also to have representation in the district meetings this spring were begun. District Deputy Ed Johnson is the probable selection to be made as one member of the delegation to the annual spring district meeting.

A pleasing quartette of girls from Floydada High school sang for the club. The quartette, composed of Frances Fields, Martha Yearwood, Mary Frances McRoberts and Margaret Tubbs, was adopted by the club as their official songsters. Garland Glover had charge of the program.

Visitors included G. L. Snodgrass, of Harmony, Carl Sammann of Providence, A. H. Kreis of Dougherty, Fred Hall of Lockney, and R. M. Battey of Pleasant Hill.

An estimated $647,916.48 will be offered to Floyd county farmers and stockmen by the Agriculture Adjustment administration during 1940 for compliance with the program and for putting into effect soil building and range-improvement practices.

The amount represents a decrease from the approximately $840,000 paid in this county by the AAA in 1939, but is considerably larger than the appropriation for any other year since the federal farm program was placed in operation.

Only full cooperation with the Triple-A will result in payments reaching the maximum figure, Fred Battey, chairman of the County ACA committee, explained, since the amount is estimated on the basis of all farmers and ranchmen in the county earning all available payments, including maximum soil-building and range-building allowances.

Amounts available under the 1940 program include $115,929.62 for cotton parity payments, computed at the rate of 1.55 cents per pound of cotton average yield; $120,164.49 for agricultural conservation payments at the rate of 1.6 cents per pound for cotton; $144,495.74 for wheat parity payments at the rate of 10 cents a bushel; $129,374.09 for agricultural conservation payments on wheat at the rate of 9 cents per bushel; $78,367.58 for general crop payments at the rate of 0.81 cents per acre; a maximum soil building allowance at $53,799.24, and a maximum range-improvement allowance of $5,785.72.

In addition, the county chairman pointed out, a certain amount is available for increases in small payments. Under the Agricultural Adjustment act of 1938, if the total payments to a farm are less than $200, the amount is increased according to rates set in a graduated scale.

In general, provisions for earning payments are the same as for 1939.

Minor changes have been made, however, in some provisions. The regulations state that a producer, to be eligible for payments, must plant within the total of the acreage allotments of corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and wheat established for his farm, and must not offset performance on the farm by overplanting the five commodities on other farms in which he has an interest.

Payments from the money set up soil-building allowances are made only to those farmers earning payments by doing approved conservation work. In addition to the maximum soil building allowance, the program this year provides that each farm can earn up to $30 at the rate of $7.50 per acre by planting forest trees.

Sleuths to Get Last Chance at Contest Prize

Mrs. C. B. Lyles of Fairview community led all entries in the Hesperian's Mis-spelled word contest this week with 92 errors corrected, winning first prize for the rural division, for the second successive week. Nelda Fagan led city entries, finding 89 mistakes on the merchant's page.

The contest closes with this week's edition, and Floyd county's amateur sleuths, who have been pouring in corrections by the hundreds during the past three weeks, will have their last fling at the prizes. Other winners and the business establishments who will award their prizes are Mary Pearl Cowan, Box 80, Hale Center, Texas, Jackson's studio; Mrs. Chloma Williams, Farmers Grain company; La Rue Williams, White Drug company; Mrs. J. E. Eubank, Wester's bakery;

Business Men Guests When Farmers Put Big Pot In The Little One Thursday Night

Farmers of Floyd county Thursday night put the big pot in the little one for their friends in the stores and the business houses.

The only event of its kind was staged by the farmers who indicated deep interest in a common meeting ground on problems of the area. And the subject was freely talked about following a sumptuous meal served by members of five of the county's home demonstration clubs at Fellowship Hall in Floydada.

A. H. Kreis, Dougherty farmer, who presided, was easily the hit of the evening. Which is not to detract from the pleasant entertainment of the Tubbs trio (daughter and sons of A. A. Tubbs) nor from the singing of the high school quartette, who helped to enliven the evening.

C. H. Day, senior field representative of the A. & M. Extension service, said in the principal address of the evening, the most important

County Agent D. F. Bredthauer struck the keynote of the Farmer-Business Men's Banquet Thursday night when he asked for intelligent suggestions from the banquetees.

FSA Offers Loan For 4-H And FFA Projects In 1940

Farm boys and girls in Floyd county will be enabled to participate in 4-H club and FFA junior educational and demonstration farm projects during 1940 with loans advanced by the Farm Security administration. New regulations making such loans possible were announced by W. T. McKinney, FSA rehabilitation supervisor in Floyd county, this week.

"All young people enrolled in these junior farm groups, and whose parents are among the FSA borrowers," McKinney said, "may secure loans of not more than $75 for the purchase of a calf, sow, poultry, or other young livestock as well as seed, plants, and fertilizer for projects approved by the county extension agent or Smith-Hughes instructors in charge of the projects."

McKinney pointed out that by making loans available to young people with no other source of credit the program is expected to bring the families more into normal community life, sponsor useful farm projects, and contribute to rehabilitation. The new loan plan will enable county agents and vocational agriculture teachers to broaden their activities and reach a larger number of rural young people who heretofore have been unable to participate in such projects because of limited funds.

Loan applications must be made to the county FSA supervisor and approved by the project leaders. Security on loans will include a note signed jointly with the parents, and chattel or crop mortgages with interest at 5 percent.

Wilson Cowen Assigned April 1 To Amarillo As Regional Director

L. H. Hauter, regional director of the Farm Security administration, will go to Washington April 1 on an assignment to serve as a member of the Administrator's staff, according to word received here by William T. McKinney, County FSA supervisor. Mr. McKinney learned that Wilson Cowen, former member of the regional FSA staff, with headquarters at Amarillo, Texas, will return from Washington on an assignment as acting regional director.

Landowner To Vote On Soil District

Election Will Be Held Saturday; Bredthauer Urges Heavy Vote On Question

Floyd county landowners will go to the polls Saturday to vote on the question of establishing a Soil Conservation District in this county under the provisions of the state law passed by the legislature last year.

County Agent D. F. Bredthauer estimated today that there are approximately 1200 persons in the county eligible to vote in the election. A 75 percent majority of ballots must favor the proposed measure before the district can be established.

All landowners and their wives are eligible to vote if they have a poll tax receipt. Polls open promptly at 7 a. m. Saturday morning, closing at 7 p. m. Voting boxes will be set up at the district courtroom in Floydada, with J. T. McLain as presiding judge and T. E. Leach and W. F. Ferguson clerks; at the Lockney Beacon office in Lockney with F. L. Brown as presiding judge and Henry W. Schacht and Robert W. Smith, Jr., as clerks; at Cedar Hill school house with J. C. Lacey presiding and C. V. Lemons and T. S. Brown clerks; and at Edgin schoolhouse with J. A. Taylor presiding, Cecil Purcell and George H. Pigg as clerks.

Voters residing in Dougherty, Antelope, Baker, Pleasant Hill, Lakeview, Starkey, McCoy, Allmon, Harmony, Sand Hill, Floydada, Blanco, and Campbell school districts will vote at Floydada. Trick, Pleasant Valley, Muncy, Aiken, Lockney, Ramsey, Roseland, Sterley, Lone Star, Providence and Prairie Chapel school district residents will cast ballots at Lockney.

Voters in Cedar, South Plains, Center, Fairview, Hillcrest and Liberty districts vote at Cedar Hill, and residents of Edgin Fairmont school districts will ballot at Edgin.

In answer to numerous questions regarding the proposed district, County Agent Bredthauer has made several talks to farmers explaining the operation of the conservation district.

"A district, when organized, is a governmental sub-division," he explained. "The districts and their supervisors do not, however, have the power to vote bonds or levy taxes. Supervisors, elected by the landowners, will have charge of the district and decide on the kind of program to be carried out. They will be the authority of the subdivision. The supervisors will be paid at a rate of $4 per day not to exceed 20 days a year."

"The district does not take the place of nor do away with the assistance and services of vocational teachers and county agents. Any farmer who does not wish to enter a cooperative agreement with his district can still have the services of these agents. However, these services can be employed more effectively where group of farmers are working together in a conservation district."

"The fear that some farmers have expressed that they may be forced into a co-operative agreement after a district is organized are groundless," Bredthauer pointed out. "The land use regulations would only be in effect where group of farmers are working together in a conservation district."

What Depression? Survey Indicates That Business Is On Upgrade In Floydada

Is the Depression over?

Facts and figures collected during the past month by Alyce A. Hooks, secretary of the Floyd County ACA, and presented at the Farmer-Business Men's banquet here last Thursday night, indicate that, as far as Floydada is concerned, the upswing started in 1933 after business had touched bottom in that disastrous fall of '32.

Bank deposits at the First National bank in Floydada have risen steadily from a low mark of $314,000 in 1932 to reach and hold a million dollar mark for the past two years. Business has been on the upgrade too. Estimates of gross sales supplied by six local merchants who have been in business in Floydada during the past decade, have moved steadily upward from a 1932 depth of $265,245 to swing steadily above the half-million mark for the past three years.

Postal receipts have risen from $10,806 in 1932 to a high mark of $15,495 in 1938, dropping slightly to 14,886 last year, and tax collections have been going steadily higher while the amount of delinquent taxes due the county dropped proportionately.

There's more money in the city, more money on deposit at the banks, and more money going through the tills at local stores. And there's a reason:

In 1932 not a single dollar came into this county from the AAA farm program. In 1932 the alphabet was still something you learned in school and the Triple-A, the ACA, SCS, BAE, and other related alphabetical agencies had not been heard of.

Last year AAA payments in Floyd county reached a new high total of $940,000. Over the period since 1933 when the first farm payments were made, the federal government has poured more than two and one-half millions of dollars into the pockets of Floyd county farmers. Bank deposits and other signs of prosperity have risen accordingly.

But the biggest boost for prosperity came in 1937 when a single wheel crop brought more than four million dollars in cash to Floyd county farms. More in a single year than the huge farm appropriations have brought in during the entire decade.

The Triple-A has had a significant part in the upswing of business, however, as comparative figures reveal. Payments in 1933, the first year in which the program was operative, totalled $372,524. In 1934 the federal funds dropped to $109,626 and the drop was reflected immediately in bank deposits and tax collections. Later in gross sales. In 1935 the appropriation climbed to $183,957 and in 1936 to $285,871. In 1937, the year of the bumper wheat crop, the federal funds had jumped almost to the 1933 figure with $320,952. Bank deposits that year jumped from a 4-year average of $600,000 to $1,000,000. (See WHAT DEPRESSION? page 5)

WHERE DOES THE MONEY GO?

Where does the money go is a thought uppermost in mind of the taxpayer after the close of the taxpaying period. Having strained to get the money ready to meet his tax bill, be a good citizen and prepare himself to vote he thinks of it most all as a burden he might as well be rid of, incidentally deciding in his mind to be "rid of them fellers" that socked it to him the last time.

Two things for which most everybody pays most are highways and public school education. Most of the money goes that way. We complain of the commissions and bureaus by the score we think of as taking our hard-earned cash to make good jobs for a lot of people that ought to be doing something else. But in the check-up we wonder just which one of all we would be rid of, and finding that it is the school system and the highway principally, cool off until another taxpaying day comes along when we start wondering all over again where does the money go.

TO STICK TO YOUR RIBS!

Remodeling the ills of the human race is a course upon which our government and people seem to be determined. Let us modestly suggest that the government does not have available all the money you may think it has. That is, unless it assesses taxes above which the ordinary corporation and individual can pay.

In Russia, everything and everybody was to have been taken care of by some bureau or other that gave you a card for potatoes and bread and meat. A card against an empty meat larder, an order for a loaf of bread that wasn't there, left you just as hungry as hungry!

A piece of ham from the neighbors, a mess of spinach from the frame garden of an adjoining farm will fill you up, it is certainly true, we think. An order from Washington isn't anything but an order from Washington. Boil it and it still does not have any savoriness!

NEED MORE COTTON ACREAGE

A news report a few days ago said the Floyd County Agricultural committee is working on ways and means of getting better cotton acreage allotments.

Well they may, for the cotton acreage in the county is getting too low for a balanced farming program. About one-third all the way round for cotton, wheat and feedstuffs was the way the planting was done during the period that Floyd county had its best years financially. The thing's all "whonker-jawed" now if those days made good criterion to go by. Furthermore, the low acreage in cotton is jeopardizing many a small man's farm and several gin investments that were doing fairly well when the Department of Agriculture started the farmers on the plan they are following now.

FOR THE HOTEL MAN

There are not any hotel men in Floyd county, we assume, who will be interested in this, and all the farm folks know and have known for many moons the things we have to say here. Nevertheless, newspaperman-like, we have to pass this information on:

It costs a lot less to feed a bunch of folks family-style than it costs to feed them individually. As for instance, in serving sweet potatoes, you put out five dishes to take care of forty family style, or individually you serve up forty portions. Steak the same way, ham the same. Turkey likewise.

Of course, if every man who comes in is a potential king or president or something, you've got to kow-tow to his vanity and give him a personal and individual helping — and charge him for it.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we all got back to earth and recognized the fact that food is food, cleanliness isn't anything but cleanliness, and a pot of porridge or a slab of bacon puts fat around the ribs from whencesoever it may come.

Two things the man on the street favors so strongly one wonders why they are not already part of the state law. Fully 60 per cent of the people want the old folks to have their pensions and do not care what kind of a constitutional means is taken to raise the money to pay the bill and do not care how the money is raised. An increase in the legal load limit for trucks is the other change wanted. They want a fat increase from 7,000 pounds. Perhaps the per centage of people who think an increase in the truck load limit would be beneficial runs as high as 75 per cent.

People of Floyd county are beginning to get "sorter shamed" of their court house. It has served its purpose long and well and can continue to do an equally good job. However, it has been done over and worked on one way and another until it will be difficult to make it "look like anything." A repair job on the dome and roof is in the offing and can't be put off too many winters.

Business men from over the various parts of Floyd county had an unusual experience last Thursday night when they were guests of their customers who live on the farm. The "farm program" was talked about in a "come, let us reason together" sort of way.

The spokesmen all favored some sort of officially recognized co-ordination of farm management under a law that will afford the farm people a chance compared with the already well and long-protected industrial areas.

The drawings indicate the new agricultural building on the southeast corner of the square will look very business-like and be the same. The building will be an elegant one and apparently well worth the contract price.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

Nellie Witt Spikes

A trip to the city always gives me a thrill, even if I did have to spend most of my time at the yards where my husband was selling hogs. This was a busy part of town, trains switching, whistling shrilly for the crossings, and puffing out thick, black smoke; the hogs squealing and grunted as if in their pens at home. (Did you ever hear of a homesick hog, if he got plenty to eat). Near us were the stock yards, where fat yearlings and cows waited their turn to be sold for tender steaks and juicy roasts.

Golden grains of wheat were turned into soft white flour to make flaky biscuits and pastry. The smoke poured from the big smoke stacks at the mill, where cotton seed was being crushed into oil to season the biscuits and fry the steak.

One thing I noticed, the man who once was clad in blue gingham shirt and blue denim overalls had given place to the man clad in suits of soft tan. Farmers were bringing heavy cream cans that the world might have butter on their bread, boxes of eggs, that they might have cake, also. Chickens squawked as they were brought in, their legs tied together; mighty engines purred as they did their work; a sour smell of grain, cotton lint over the ground where lay heads of maize with the grain gone—these sights and sounds told of a nation being fed from the farms and ranches.

By a fortunate chance, we had dinner with an old friend, J. D. Caldwell. Not many are left that were here when he pulled up the caprock in a covered wagon to make his home on the plains. He settled at Estacado in 1888. Had a little store, was a barber and carpenter. The lumber for the new court house was hauled from Colorado City, Clayton was the contractor. His folks got sick, he quit to go home. White, a brother-in-law of Caldwell's from Dallas took the job. His folks got sick and he left.

Judge Swink was the county judge. He said, "Caldwell, can you build that courthouse?" "I think I can," was J. D.'s reply. "Do you know you can?" the old judge insisted. And Caldwell could and did.

It was begun the first of May 1888 and took four months to finish. Capt. Weedon, a Confederate soldier, and a man named Smith helped. Dignified, the new courthouse white as the summer clouds stood on the green treeless prairies, a house of justice in a brand new country.

But a new enterprise beckoned J. D. Caldwell. He loaded his family and furnishings and his house on four wagons and moved it as it stood to Lubbock county in 1890. Two towns had been started. North and South towns. J. D. went on with his story of that time. "We went to see Judge Covington over in Crosby county to which we were attached for judicial purposes. He told us if we would start another town and get 150 signers, who they were he did not care, we could get the county organized. Otherwise we would have to get 150 bonafide names of voters, to organize with two towns. Now, many herds were coming through. Every time we got a few names. Names on that petition were from men from the Rio Grande to Montana. I remember well when the Nicollette was known far and near as the finest hotel west of Fort Worth," J. D. continued and his eyes shone as blue as the prairie skies he scanned in days long passed. "Jeff, you remember Old Tom Harrison, the cowboy who was an expert roper and a good singer? Well one time when he was on the outside works he come to Lubbock with his bed roll. Somebody asked him if he stayed at the hotel. He said "Yes, sirc. It has got three lofts and I slept in the top one." Old Tom now must be a slinging his rope around the stars." As my husband and J. D. talked of cowboy days, a steady stream of cars passed near us, but to these two pioneers, they were herds of cattle. Whistles and honking cars were only bawling cattle, the big busy stores housed in brick were no more. Only small wood buildings with white painted fronts, general merchandise on the sign, with J. D. in one in shirt sleeves as proprietor, a few other wood buildings, the big grand hotel and the fine courthouse were in these two friends minds as we sat and enjoyed being together.

On my desk near me as I write, is a blue glass holding six jonquills of yellow gold. From the gardens of Mrs. Hollman of Memphis, Tenn. these bulbs came and were planted near my door. When the snow melted away, there they were ready to open their yellow cups to the sun. I wonder if they do not miss the tall trees and singing birds, the soft winds from the lazy muddy Mississippi that opened them softly, instead of the rough plains winds that tore them open without a moment's warning.

I am very grateful to Mrs. Scoggins for taking me back to her childhood days in New England. She took my hand and showed me the cellar, sweet with dried fruits, sweet apple cider, elderberry and raspberry "crush." There were the vegetables in bins, and apples buried in sawdust from the nearby sawmills.

I climbed the high "oldest" apple tree in the garden and read with her Pilgrim's Progress, walked behind the snow plow to school, drank the clear pure water from the spring whose water came warm from the Blue Ridge mountains, and had to be carried up hill and through "two gates with very complicated latches." I warmed by the numerous stoves in the ten room house, watched the boys bringing in rich pine knots to feed the greedy things. I helped her gather the narcissus and arbutus, the wood violets, the chinquapins, wild berries and wanuts. But best of all, I sat near when the family gathered round the old piano after supper and sang the good old songs. The guitar kept time with the fiddle, the zither and the accordion. Thank you, my dear lady for taking me back with you to your girlhood days.

Death has swung his sharp sickle, once more in our family. This time cutting down a man of eighty-three, the husband of my husband's sister, Ella. Andy Paschall was one who loved life. I heard him say once while he looked at a picture with a road running far into the dark background, "I wish that I could travel that road. I want to see what is by the side of the road and what is on the other end." Roads had always enticed. One through a wilderness, across prairies, uninhabited, covered with grass and pieces of sky made into acres of bluebonnets, over swift, rushing rivers. Indians lurking in the forest depths. A road that was only a cow trail at times. Andy on a two year old and another lad riding by his side from Texas to Mayfield, Kentucky. He traveled a road across the desert to Florida in early days, his wagon slouched and rumbled ever on towards the new Paradise. But the road that took him west, brought him to Van Zandt again. We went in his buggy filled with garden truck to market, to his singing schools. The dim road to the Plains found him riding over its rough dry rocky way. Over the rough cow trails, he hunted the swift antelope, his keen eye on the moving target, his unerring finger on the trigger. He loved the road to the waters which held the yellow cat and the fat sun perch. He traveled over white glistening pavements. To use a favorite expression, he "batted" it on in his car, a steady hand on the wheel. But the roads loved the best were the ones that led to the doors of his friends. He kept the kin together by telling of his visits in this and that home. Carried words of praise and love from one to another. Now he travels a new road, a road shining with gold, no miry detours, no way unmarked. The signs are in God's own handwriting the road goes by the doors of friends who have gone on before. This road leads on eternally, through a shining world of peace and joy and happiness. To my way of thinking, Andy was like an old oak tree. Tho the branches were broken and gnarled, they still pointed to heaven, and birds built their nests in them. Tho the bark was rough, children laughed and played near, lovers sat hand in hand and were happy, and when the old tree was taken to the sawmill, to be prepared for future usefulness, the heart was found solid and firm.

The storms of life had tried Andy.

but children and animals found him to be kind, and I think when the Great Master Builder saw his heart, he found it solid and firm as that of the old oak tree, and had use for it through endless time.

First Farm Census Was 100 Years Ago

The census of 1940 provides for collection of detailed information on the state of agriculture, and is also the centennial of the first agricultural census in 1840. In a review of agriculture 100 years ago, and now, Dr. Arthur G. Peterson, senior economist of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, compares agricultural statistics of 1839 with current information.

"A hundred years ago," he says, "about the only current statistics relating to agriculture were those on international trade and the local market prices quoted in newspapers. Some newspapers recently had begun to report local receipts or sales of livestock and some other farm products. Sporadic attempts had been made by agricultural societies and agricultural journals to collect statistics on acreage, yield, and production."

"The three New York States censuses of 1835 and earlier contained agricultural statistics. The first agricultural survey of a comprehensive nature was authorized by the Massachusetts Legislature in April 1837 and was conducted by Henry Coleman between 1837 and 1840. Several states had made geological surveys before 1839."

"The sometimes unreliable news brought by a ship captain regarding crop conditions in Europe often created a panic in our eastern grain markets. The lack of current and reliable price information placed producers in a weak bargaining condition."

"Henry L. Ellsworth, Commissioner of Patents, urged Congress a century ago to provide for the collection of statistics on agriculture and expressed the opinion that information of this kind would tend to prevent 'unjust speculations of the monopolists.'"

"Our abundant agricultural statistics, up-to-the-minute radio reports on market news, and agricultural and outlook information are in marked contrast to the situation a century ago. The 1840 and 1940 census schedules relating to agriculture are about as unlike as a flea and an elephant."

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, March 10, 1940. Gethsemane: Triumph Through Surrender

Lesson Text: Matthew 26:36-46. Golden Text: "Not as I will, but as thou wilt." Matthew 26:39.

36 Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.

37 And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy.

38 Then saith he unto them, My soul is exceedingly sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with me.

39 And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me; nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt.

40 And he cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Peter, What! could ye not watch with me one hour?

41 Watch, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation; the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.

42 He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying O my Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done.

43 And he came and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy.

44 And he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words.

45 Then cometh he to his disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest; behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners.

46 Rise, let us be going; behold, he is at hand that doth betray me.

Lesson Thoughts
Our subject for today is "Gethsemane: Triumph Through Surrender." It is our Lord's experience in the Garden of Gethsemane. The life of Jesus is given in the Gospels merely in outline. John closes his Gospel by saying: "There are also many other things which Jesus did, the which, if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written." But as the story of Jesus approaches the cross it slows down, and the "events" of the day are recited in detail, giving even the sentences and the words as they marked the passing of the hours on the day of the crucifixion. Vincent says it is the intention of the Holy Spirit that the greater meaning is to be attached to Christ's death rather than to His life.

Floydada Garden Club Exerting Efforts For City Beautification

How the Floydada Garden club hopes to help in beautifying the community was discussed by Mrs. L. J. Wellborn and Mrs. Geo. V. Smith of the club before the Rotary club Wednesday.

The Garden club already is making advance plans to help make the spring clean up in Floydada a worthwhile effort and they also will continue their work of beautification at the city park in northwest Floydada.

In co-operation with the State Highway department, the Garden club hopes to make a triangle of beauty out of the bleak area enclosed by the wye at the intersection of Highways 70 and 207 in southwest Floydada, the club women told the Rotarians. Their appropriation for the work already has been made.

The Garden club also has a dream of a playground for children at the tabernacle park and something of this was suggested to the Rotarians. Mrs. E. L. Angus sang as a part of the program presented by Dr. C. M. Thacker.

Superintendent Irvin Hancock, of Ralls Public schools, Robert Medlen, and John Stapleton of Floydada, were among the guests for the meeting, as were M. T. Camp, Nancy Ann Hadsell and Grady Thomas of the Floydada school system.

 Tubbs also pointed out that the result of the election may determine whether or not the south part of the county is included in the Water Facilities program, and expressed himself as favoring the formation of the district.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown of Silverton were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Fred Brown Sunday.

What Depression?

 In 1938 the federal appropriations jumped to a new high at $480,000 and with the full force of the wheat boom in effect, bank deposits rocketed to the million dollar mark. Last year, the Triple-A appropriations were almost doubled, totalling $840,000.
 And in 1939, gross receipts of the six local merchants queried totalled more than a half million dollars, the percentage of taxes paid was the highest of the decade, and postal receipts were still hovering near the $15,000 mark.
 Business is definitely on the upgrade, these figures say, whether from the effects of the farm program stimulus, the boom of a 1937 crop year, general improvement in conditions, or a combination of all three.

Food Stamp Plan—

 The orange stamps before they will be eligible to receive the free blue surplus food stamps, and will buy at the minimum rate of four dollars per month. The orange stamps are to be purchased at $1 per person per week.

Persons working on WPA projects and receiving pay twice a month would purchase the orange stamps twice a month on the same basis. All persons receiving blue stamps free would get them once a month.

For each dollar's worth of orange stamps purchased, 50 cents worth of the blue surplus food stamps are given free. The orange stamps insure that regular food purchases are kept up so that food secured with the blue stamps would be in addition to, and not in place of, the regular purchase.

Surplus foods are listed by the Secretary of Agriculture, and at present include the following commodities: Butter, pork lard, corn meal, shell eggs, dried prunes, raisins, fresh onions (except green onions), dry edible beans, snap beans, wheat flour and whole wheat (Graham) flour, and pork. Pork includes all cuts, fresh, included chilled or frozen, pickled, salted, cured or smoked, but not cooked or packed in metal or glass containers.

The list of surplus foods is changed from time to time. Orange stamps, according to provisions of the act, can be used to buy household articles usually purchased in grocery stores as well as food.

The stamps are valid in all grocery stores which wish to take part in the area where the plan is in operation. They cannot be used to pay old accounts, must be used for purchase of foods, for current use. The stamps are accepted by co-operating grocers at their face value, and all foods purchased with them are the same as those purchased for cash and at the same price.

No surplus commodities are distributed in counties or cities where the Food Stamp Plan is in operation. Under the plan, clients are allowed to select the foods which they wish to buy from the stores, and are thus offered a wider range and variety in purchasing than under the present distribution system. The only cost to the county under the plan, Judge Tubbs explained, would be the salary of a local representative to take charge of distribution of the stamps. His assistants would be supplied by the WPA.

The county is required to set up a "revolving fund" ($3,000 in Hall county) but the money is replaced regularly by the Federal Government and is returnable to the county at any time when the Food Stamp plan should be discontinued. In addition to surplus foods, there is a proposal now under consideration by the Surplus Commodities Corporation to issue stamps for purchase of cotton goods. At the present time, however, there is no provision for purchase of any commodities other than foods.

 neighbors," said Mr. Williams, "and we invite the business men to help us solve the problems which mean meat and bread to us mutually."

D. F. Bredthauer, county agent of Floyd county, presented Mr. Day, Rev. O. B. Herring, Methodist minister of Lockney, said the invocation

A question box presided over by A. H. Kreis, toastmaster, elicited responses from L. C. McDonald, Judge G. C. Tubbs, F. L. Brown, Mayor Glad Snodgrass of Floydada, F. L. Every community in Floyd county was represented in the meeting. The farmers, as their names were called, introduced their business men guests. More than 100 persons, representing practically every line of activity in the county, were present.

A delightful dinner was served by the ladies of five home demonstration clubs. Table favors included bright-hued acacia and the speakers' table was adorned with calenda.

The attendance list included the following from Floydada, H. G. Barbour, J. D. McBrien, R. M. Battey, A. B. Clark, G. C. Tubbs, Elbert Norman, D. F. Bredthauer, E. L. Angus, W. H. Brock, John R. Gray, R. E. Smith;

 Visiting agricultural specialists included District Agent K. J. Edwards, C. H. Day senior field officer, and J. Lynn Maulk principal field assistant, College Station.
 Talks that were especially enlightening included that by F. L. Brown, who pointed out that the program of the Department of Agriculture is one of obtaining parity of price for farm products and not one of getting more government checks; Glad Snodgrass who pointed out the problem that confronts the land owner who is seeking suitable tenants; Lon M. Davis and R. E. Patterson who said that six men are "going along" with the farm program although it is tremendously reducing the possible volume of the ginner, and J. M. Willson, who declared that some sort of program commensurate with the needs of the farmer is sure to be included in enactments of congress regardless of whatever political party may be in power.

Soil District—

 considered after most of the district is protected by conservation measures, and then only if a particular farmer's methods are considered a nuisance or menace to other farms in the district. Ninety per cent of the landowners in a district must favor the land use regulations before they can be put in effect, and then the farmers still have the right to appeal.

One of the principal points favoring formation of the district, the county agent pointed out, is that the act provides that one of the duties of the State Soil Conservation board is to secure cooperation and assistance of the United States and any of its agencies, and the agencies of the state, in the work of the various districts.

Soil Conservation technicians of the Department of Agriculture cannot assist farmers except in designated work areas such as would be created by the organization of a Conservation District, Bredthauer pointed out.

The Conservation District may secure assistance from CCC camps, and can also sponsor WPA projects. Districts will be in a position to borrow equipment which may be available and needed within the district.

"One of the chief advantages of the district," the county agent told farmers meeting here Saturday, "lies in that fact that working together makes it easier and cheaper for farmers to solve their soil and water conservation problems."

LIONS ARE TOLD ABOUT POSSIBILITIES OF CCC CAMPS IN FLOYD COUNTY

D. F. Bredthauer, Floyd County Agricultural agent, told members of the Floydada Lions club last week that possibilities of getting a Citizens Conservation Corps camp here depends upon development in the area, particularly as regards the soil conservation program.

What may prove the wishes of the citizenship as to the establishment of the soil conservation district here is a matter to be determined on March 9, he pointed out. However, even should the land owners determine in favor of the district plan of conservation the matter of a CCC camp location will still depend on what work may be provided for such an undertaking, he said.

The Land Use Planning committee of the county will have a large scope of authority and will be influential in determining in the policies in the area, Mr. Bredthauer believes.

Bredthauer was presented by L. W. Chapman.

FHS And Plainview Debaters Win In Local Tournament

The Floydada High school boys' team and the Plainview High school girls' team were the winners of the debate tournament held in Floydada Saturday, March 2.

Eighteen teams competed in the contest, which began with three rounds in the morning, and the quarter-finals, semi-finals, and finals were held in the afternoon. The coaches of the teams present judged the matches. In the finals the decision given the Plainview girls team, Bonnie Faye Goodrich and Edith Poole, over Margarie Davenport and Doris Grim the Lubbock B team, and to the Floydada boys' team, Bruce Foster and Bennie Crawford, who met the Abernathy boys, Noel Johnston and Rudolph Upchurch.

Robert Linder, coach of debate at F. H. S. was director of the tournament, and he states that his boys and girls were greatly benefited by the practice debates. Louise Willson and Mary Frances McRoberts were defeated by the Lubbock B and Plainview A girls and were the winners of the Kress-Floydada debate.

The coaches and debaters present were from Ralls, Miss Hazel Potter, Louise Davis, Mary Carol Denton, and Odell Herring; from Lubbock Kline Nall, Margorie Davenport, Doris Krim, Wendell Addington, Jeff Lewis, Kenneth Duke, Berry Squires, Fred Brewton, and Robert Kent accompanied by Dr. Kent, vice president of Administration of Texas Tech; from Dimmitt, J. M. Hear, Jane Kirkpatrick, Lois Carpenter, Glen Exter and Tommie Fowlkes; from Plainview, Ellis M. Wills, Bonnie Faye Goodrich, Edith Poole, Lois Reams, Martha Thomas James Smith and Charles Book; from Abernathy Miss Margaret Carver, Charlotte Price, Ruth Lutrick, Noel Johnston and Rudolph Upchurch; from Roaring Springs W. W. Jarrett, Jack Nichols and James Harmon; from Kress, Sally Hamilton, Louise Tankersley, and a boys' team; and W. E. Sherman from Silverton brought a girls' and boys' team to the tournament.

At my first interview with J. J. I became convinced that he was quite innocent.

However, later that evening I became concerned about my decision, and grave doubts as to the man's innocence entered my mind. (To preserve continuity of the story I might note here that the prosecuting attorney had telephoned me, saying that there was no doubt that J. J. was quite guilty as charged, and offering a fee of five thousand dollars to help prosecute him). This is just one more example of how real justice must rest upon scientific thinking, and mature deliberation.

I was convinced after a second interview that J. J. was quite guilty. The defendant at once resorted to a last resort to Geo. P. Lader, a man whose brilliance, integrity, and ability have always been questioned. My only reservation with respect to Geo. Lader would be that he is villainous crook whose interest is mainly in the size of his fee, and I know that on reading this he will accept my little criticism in the friendly spirit in which it is made.

The case now settled itself into a simple, clear issue; it only remained to be determined whether J. J. was guilty as charged and should be sent up the river, or innocent and entitled to be released. The defending attorneys were Geo. Lader aided by D. Patterson. The prosecuting attorney were Eddie Brown aided by myself. In view of the fact that there was honest lawyers on both sides of this question—the jury naturally had no trouble in reaching a verdict.

The course was clear. The jury after deliberating for three days handed in a verdict of "guilty" with a modified clause of "not guilty."

Judge Turner thereupon imposed a sentence of execution, to hang, be hung, or go hang, with the understanding that J. J. would thereafter be paroled in the custody of his attorney. At request of J. J. this sentence was later amended to specify "vanilla custody."

Judge's political adv: I will gladly mow your lawn, trim your hedge, clean your furnace, repair your watch, or keep your baby for a very small allowance.

Lawyer's note: Consult us about your crimes. Our slogan is, "Let's win fair if we can, but first let's win."

Author's note: This was the first in a series of trials being held in the Kangaroo court of F. H. S. in an attempt to bring law and order to Floyd county.

Kangaroo Court Cleans Up School But Lawyers Simply Clean Up, According To Intimate Notes From Back of Book

(Reported by B. Crawford)

The regular term of Kangaroo court started with a bang Wednesday, February 27. James Johnson's trial occupied most of the time. J. Johnson, who plead innocent was charged with mis-treatment of dumb animals. This case was recorded as the "Case of one dumb animal vs. another dumb animal."

Possibly the reader's memory will be refreshed when he is reminded of a striking headline which appeared in the Hesperite a few weeks ago: "Killer of Six Shoots Dog, Maims Seven, Slays Self, Flees." The adventurous individual was none other than James Johnson (alias Jailbird Johnson).

The prosecution (Eddie Brown, D. A.) studied the case and determined to base his approach on the theory that J. J. was quite sane (this was later proved to be false), that he deliberately planned, had planned, or was about the plan to kill, slay or otherwise disturb said canine belonging to Jack Smith. The district attorney believed, said, stated, made mention of, and did maintain that J. J. killed the animal simply out of malicious mischief and conscious dislike, but that these later crimes were immaterial and his whole intent in this case was to protect the dogs of Floydada.

I was called upon to defend J. J. I recall particularly my desire to procure and establish justice shortly after learning that the fee was to be one thousand dollars payable in real-estate, or bonds, or both, or neither.

At my first interview with J. J. I became convinced that he was quite innocent.

However, later that evening I became concerned about my decision, and grave doubts as to the man's innocence entered my mind. (To preserve continuity of the story I might note here that the prosecuting attorney had telephoned me, saying that there was no doubt that J. J. was quite guilty as charged, and offering a fee of five thousand dollars to help prosecute him). FHS Band Attends 2nd Annual Band Clinic Friday

The second annual band clinic was held in Littlefield last Friday, with seven of the Floydada band members playing in the clinic band under the direction of D. O. Wiley of Texas Tech. Those playing were: Billy Brown, solo clarinet; Randolph Rutledge, third clarinet; Mary Frances McRoberts, first horn; J. L. Nichols bass, T. W. Salisbury first trombone, Edith Shirey, tenor saxophone, and Lula Lee Teal, baritone saxophone.

The band rehearsed during the day and played a concert Friday night at 7:30. The program consisted of a vocal solo, a piano solo, a trombone solo, a bell lyre solo, and band numbers "Niobe," "Scenes from the Sierras," "Dreamnaught," "Westward Ho," "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Ten cars accompanied the band members to Littlefield and seven of the cars returned when the sandstorm was at its height. The students that remained until after the concert, however, were surprised when they came out of the concert to find that the sand had stopped blowing. The scheduled parade took place and 16 of the F. H. S. band members took part in it. Minus a bass drum, and only one snare drum, and a number of each of the other instruments, the band marched well enough to receive a trophy, as all bands that took part in the parade received gold trophies.

The clinic was beneficial to all who went, especially to those who played in the band, and they are looking forward to other such trips.

Mr. Camp took five band boys to Lubbock Saturday to attend another clinic. The numbers there were played by the Tech band, the Lubbock Senior High band, and the Lubbock Junior High band. Col. Irons, of N. T. A. C. at Arlington, directed some of the numbers and also gave demonstrations on brass instruments.

After the trip to visit Lockney's band, the next planned trip of the Whirlwind band is to Shamrock, for the St. Patrick's day celebration March 13.

HOW TO DYE OR NOT TO DIE IS PROBLEM FOR CLOTHING HI STUDES

"I would like for a group of you girls to dye the fourth period today," said Miss Rees to her clothing III class. "To die! To die! Why? What have we done?" came the hearty response from the girls.

Then Miss Rees explained that the feed sack had been laundered and was ready to be dyed for the overing for the new bulletin board for the department.

After the feed sack had been dyed a dark green, and then pressed, the girls tackled the covering over the board Mr. Boelter had made for that purpose. Now the Foods Laboratory has a bulletin board and the girls are still living!

Tennis Teams Are Working Out For County Meet Now

The boys who have been coming out for tennis have been working hard on the courts and have them in good condition. The boys and girls have been practicing every day (when the weather permitted). Miss McCarty coach for the girls tennis, has the girls to practice every day at the fourth period.

Mr. Russell, coach for the boys, watches them whenever the boys can practice. There is a need for more players, both boys and girls. Plans are for the teams to play several match games before the county meet, so if you want to enter tennis, see the coaches now so you can practice and then play in the match games that are coming up soon.

Students In Foods Classes Serve In Continental Style

A Russian Service was used in a five course dinner that was planned, cooked and served by a group of the second year foods girls.

Odessa Poore acted as host, Verona Miller as hostess, Anna Cates and Bernice Colston as guests, Virginia Lee Wigginton and Opal Knight as Children, Dulon Sargent and Jean Sims as servants.

The girls had new experiences using cocktail forks and finger bowls. The color scheme of white and pink was carried out.

Hospitality, rather than formality, is emphasized in the English Service of meals, as was seen in the demonstration given Monday noon by six Foods 11 girls, as part of their class work. The group of eight girls planned, prepared and served the dinner. The rest of the class watched them cook, eat and clean up.

The dining table was laid with a white damask cloth. Green fern was used for the center piece, while the room was lighted with four tall white tapers in crystal holders. Place cards with the Shamrock leaf colored in one corner were used. The color scheme of green and white was further carried out in the menu.

The girls who ate acted the parts of famous people of our country. They demonstrated the correct usage of the silver napkins, rising and seating at the tables, service of food and topics suitable for conversation at the table. The dinner was served in four courses.

The Compromise Service will be demonstrated Wednesday noon by the girls who did not get to eat dinner with the Russian or English service demonstrations. The Compromise service, as the name indicates is a cross between the Russian and the English service. Some of the courses are served from the table and some from the pantry.

GOURDS DRAW ATTENTION

"Oh, how pretty! Well, what are they? Who did that?" and many more questions have been asked by the first students who visit the foods department. The cause of the excitement and the questions are the bright green, orange, blue and yellow gourds that have been painted. The old gourds that once were found on the garden fence are now used as a center piece for one of the tables in the laboratory. Three of the larger gourds have had a slice taken from their sides and are now ready to be hung by their crooked necks in the windows as flower containers.

Baptist Pastor Shows Marked Improvement; Revival Is Postponed

Although Rev. Vernon Shaw, pastor of the First Baptist church, has begun to show marked improvement this week, the probabilities are he will not be sufficiently recovered soon to undertake the arduous task of conducting a revival meeting. Accordingly, the congregation Sunday voted to postpone the revival formerly planned to begin on March 17 to an indefinite date.

Due to the illness of the pastor no preaching service was held on Sunday, either morning or evening. Yesterday Rev. Shaw was spending part of his time out of bed. He narrowly escaped an attack of pneumonia, it was said.

Late yesterday it was indicated that Rev. A. C. Huff, missionary of Plainview, is expected to fill the pastor's pulpit in Floydada Sunday. Should it develop Rev. Huff cannot be here, a substitute will be found, Rev. Shaw declared.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Fred Litton of Lubbock were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson.

Mrs. R. E. Fry is in Houston for a visit with her sister, Mrs. H. W. Dumas and family.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Guimarin left Wednesday of last week for Denver, Colorado, to spend some time visiting with their daughter, Mrs. H. P. Shrader and family. Mr. Shrader came for them.
