"Farm Record" Program For Floyd County Gets Approval

Plan Explained By Specialists Here Thursday

Subcommittee Members Of County Land Use To Be Committeemen

A "Farm Record" program for Floyd county was proposed and discussed in a call meeting of the Floyd County Land Use Planning committee held Thursday afternoon in the district court room. Fifteen farm men and women were present.

Among those attending were Miss Lida Cooper and K. J. Edwards, district agents, Extension Service; Mrs. Bernice Clayton, specialist in Home Management, Extension Service; George Turner, from the state office of Bureau Agricultural Economics; E. E. Reynolds, Soil Conservation Service, and representatives from the local Farm Security Administration, Soil Conservation Service, Water Facilities and Forestry department.

Mr. Edwards gave a brief outline of the proposed "Farm Record" program, stating that the program to be presented would be of benefit to agriculture in Floyd county. As an example of the need of a detailed farm system in Floyd county, Mr. Edwards used the problem of irrigation as an illustration. Many farmers are interested in this program and need information on this particular phase of agriculture, Edwards explained.

Origin of Program
Mr. Turner gave a concise discussion on how the program originated. He stated that all agencies had considerable records but that there was no procedure whereby those various data could be collected, and after a meeting of representatives of Federal and State agencies at College Station, a plan had been completed to use for this purpose.

Purpose of the "Farm Record" program is to obtain the following information: 1. Effect of cropping practices, 2. Information on farm organization, 3. Standards of living in Floyd county. In carrying out (See Page 5, "Plan Explained")

Verdict For Hanna
After three days on trial the jury last night at 10 o'clock turned in a verdict from which a judgement was rendered by the court giving right, title and possession to a 310-acre tract of land in the Harmony community to Walter S. Hanna. In this suit he was plaintiff and Mrs. Rosa Kelley Hanna was defendant.

The suit was in trespass to try title. In 1936 the property had been conveyed by W. C. Hanna to Walter S. Hanna and later deeded by W. C. Hanna to Rosa Kelley Hanna. The first deed was held to be valid.

The three day rodeo in Spur, to be staged beginning today and continuing to include shows Friday night, Saturday and Saturday night, is expected to draw a huge crowd from all over the area.

War Relief Fund Still Shy Of Goal

County Has More Than $150 To Go To Reach Amount Sought Here

Floyd county this week was still short of the goal for the special War Relief fund of the American Red Cross by more than $150.

County Chairman Cecil Hagood said that $689.03 had been accounted for up to Tuesday night of an assigned quota of $830—just double the amount originally asked for from this county. Some of this amount has been forwarded with the promise that other funds would be forwarded as the drive for this county progressed.

"We are not giving up and the response from those portions of the county where the campaign has been pushed has been satisfactory," said Chairman Hagood.

The War Relief dance Saturday night, in spite of inclement weather, netted the fund $80.50, and numerous neighboring cities and towns were represented in the crowd. Several bought tickets who did not attend.

"In view of the need of the civilian refugees in Europe at this time the Red Cross has a huge task assigned it which can be done by no other organization," local officials declared. "And we consider it highly important that we in Floyd county do our part."

30,000,000 Men Will Be Honored Sunday, Dad's Day

Thirty million American men will be honored Sunday when children of all ages observe Father's Day in the United States. The "Forgotten Man" is being remembered as the observance becomes annually more widespread.

Floydada stores for the past several days have been displaying attractive gift merchandise and urging that people of this area remember dad.

Several of the churches in Floydada will dedicate services to fathers Sunday. Many dads will be made happy as Floydada and Floyd county people join in paying tribute to the fellow who listens to many of the family woes and shoulders the financial cares.

Examination For Reporters, Planimeter Operators Given After Two Day ACA School

Rate Charge For Checking Farms For Compliance Is Reset Monday

Prospective ACA reporters and planimeter operators for Floyd County were given instruction in county performance in a school conducted Friday and Saturday in the AAA building in Floydada. Twenty two persons were in attendance.

Examinations were given Saturday to sixteen reporters and five planimeter operators. Fifteen of the former and four of the latter group, in addition to the county supervisor and assistant county performance supervisor, will be used in conducting the ACA program this year.

A regular monthly meeting of the county and community committees of the ACA was held Monday at the AAA building. Rate for re-checking farms on which cotton will be plowed up or farms on which producers are not satisfied with original measurements was set.

Under the provisions of the plan to be followed this year, the farm operator must be present when land is measured. In the case of out-of-town land owners, notices will be mailed giving visiting date of reporter and the owner must be present or represented by a duly authorized person.

Notices will be mailed to producers, are over-seeded on cotton and must plow up, the first re-check or second measurement will be made free of charge. In the event enough cotton has not been destroyed the second recheck will cost the producer $3.00 and the fourth visit, third recheck, will cost producer $5.00.

There will also be a charge made for checking total crop land in instances where producers are not satisfied with total acres. Plans have been completed to start checking performance in Floyd County and the procedure to begin between the present time and June 20.

Wheat Crop In Floyd Estimated At Million Bushels By Co. Agent

Barring more hail and any further inclement weather,—in other words, of this date—the Floyd county wheat crop should run slightly in excess of a million bushels. The penciled figures are a million and 8 thousand.

This is the estimate of D. F. Bredthauer, county agent, whose recent activities as agent have carried him to all portions of the county.

Counting the good, the bad and the indifferent wheat on the one hundred sixty-odd thousand acres of wheat seeded last fall, including the blown out portion of the crop, Mr. Bredthauer's estimate puts the average production for dry land wheat at three bushels, and for irrigated wheat at 20 bushels.

"A person could miss the crop a lot, of course," said Mr. Bredthauer. "For one thing, the crop is not uniform even in the same field. One spot in a field might show up for eight or 10 bushels and in the same field a spot appear on which the combine will not even be run."

The best wheat in the county, Mr. Bredthauer believes, is the irrigated crop around Barwise. In his opinion the total crop, taken the county over, will be less than it was in 1939.

3 New Teachers Floydada Schools Named In Meeting

Three new teachers, elected to fill vacancies in the Floydada school system, were named in a meeting of the board of trustees last mid-week. The action was a part of business transacted in a regular meeting of the board.

Miss Lois Wren, of Littlefield, was selected as instructor in the home economics department at Floydada High School. Miss Carolyn Wester, of Sulphur Springs, and Miss Marlon Honea, of Cleburne, will be on the teaching staff at R. C. Andrews Ward school.

Resignation of G. W. Russell and N. H. Bremer were accepted. The latter was employed about a month ago. Addition of the new teachers to the list practically completes the staff for the 1940-41 school year.

Delbert Eubank recently was named manager of the Piggly-Wiggly store at Seminole, where he takes over management of a business, after training in the Floydada store of the same company.

All precinct chairmen are being notified this week of the Monday meeting date and place by the county chairman.

HOMER STEEN, Editor

EDITORIALS

A fortunate turn of affairs for the city is the agreement reached last week and due to be ratified this week by which the city gets its indebtedness: (1) Re-financed on the basis of 4 per cent interest instead of an average of 5 1/2 per cent; (2) Gets the annual payments within the demonstrated ability of the taxpayers of the city to meet; and (3) Make the debt callable within certain limitations on a basis that will make future councilmen free agents within the limits of the statutes. All of which adds up to a sigh of relief for the taxpayer who six years ago saw bankruptcy staring the city in the face. The date is important enough on the city's calendar to entitle it to a red mark around it and designation as a holiday in the community. This is intended as warm praise for the city council and the mayor. They've done as good a job at refunding the city's debt as they did on the light plant proposition. Making money at one end and saving money at the other are equally important. It may, and could, turn out that their bonded debt trade beats their light plant trade. Not nearly so spectacular, of course.

We hope that Mr. O'Daniel, our governor, did not intend his article in the W. Lee O'Daniel News last week to reflect on the veterans of World War No. 1. We believe surely that he did not. Writers, and more especially writers of opinion, are wholly misunderstood many times. They say one thing, it is taken by the public as another. Anyhow, if one never in his life intends to vote for Col. Ernest Thompson for governor of Texas, it must be admitted that his war service was real war service and that he was not decorated for nothing. The fact is the red head engineered and directed the laying down of a machine gun barrage during the fall campaign of 1918 that was never before and not since equalled in the annals of warfare for completeness of planning and execution. His friends are taking exceptions to Mr. O'Daniel's newspaper article, thinking it is pointed at the former Amarillo mayor. We hope and verily believe this is incorrect. Surely he would not do it.

Who has the right plow with which to turn wheat ground? Or with which to turn summer fallow land? The subject is not one which is raging in the newspapers, but out in the fields there are half a dozen kind of plows that are seeking favor. The "one-way", the most cussed plow in the great central plains, seems to keep its favor with a lot of the farmers. The country newspaper man and all the soil workers (we assume) give it credit for creating the dust bowl. But it keeps on being used by hardheads who say it comes nearer getting the wheat raised than other kinds do. We have to let it go at that, except to say that we can't help believing that Mr. Angell played whaley when he gave birth to the thought that resulted in the perfected one-way.

Plows on rubber are doing the job better than plows on steel wheels. You'd not believe it if you didn't see it done. Less loss of power and better, closer plowing more easily done are some of the results of putting the plow on air and rubber. Slight years since rubber-tired wheels on tractors were "viewed with alarm." Now they are taken for granted. The same will be true of plows mighty, mighty soon. And free water in tires to give more weight and better traction than giant backbreaking lugs that cost much money. All ideas worked out by farmers in the field and forced on the technicians in the drafting room. Sometimes we think a farmer is nearly as dumb as a printer—until we see things like that.

The Hesperian spends hundreds of dollars every year getting somebody out seeing the folks and talking to them and getting their subscriptions and making friends for the newspaper and for Floydada. Last year the bill ran close to a thousand dollars. We are trying to cut the bill down somewhat this year, but not if it takes it to get the job done rightly. We really have the readers for the Preferred Newspaper over a really big and important trade territory. This pat on the back for ourselves in the hope that every advertiser will read, save themselves money by using our newspaper and make us money, too. So there, too, in the words of Betty Lou.

Chicken thieves in and near Floydada have taken the fat, nice ones and left the poorest for the owners to feed into good condition before they come and get them, too. Further from town the raids have not been so frequent, if we are sufficiently informed to report the situation rightly. One man in the outskirts of the city lost a nice flock complete that he had paid fancy prices for as baby chicks. Another had a flock of between twenty and thirty that has dwindled to four or five.

Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Everybody appreciates compliments and the newspaper man is the weakest and most willing listener there is to good, old-fashioned compliments and just plain flannel-mouthed blarney. A good bragger on the newspaper man can have him turning hand-springs any time. The Hesperian gets lots of compliments (along with amply justified criticism) from town and country people alike. The further out in the country they come the more sincere we sometimes think they are. Here's a good way to make a compliment for The Hesperian really effective. Tell it to the advertisers who use our newspaper. The advertiser spends much money and thought on their advertising. Naturally, it pays them or they would not continue the practice. And if it pays them it pays you. And a word of praise to them for the medium they use would help a lot. "Ain't The Hesperian a good newspaper", or "I like your ad in The Hesperian this week" are samples of the way you could say it. No town ever got much bigger or better than the newspaper it supports. The bigger and better you help us make The Hesperian the bigger and better you'll make Floydada and help it to serve a bigger and better trade territory. There's a lot of good, sound philosophy tied up in this extremely subtle appeal.

The people on the Atlantic seaboard, so much closer to Europe than the rest of the country, first went war mad in March, and by the last of May the madness has turned to a positive fright. Mr. Hitler's legions who have mowed down the English and French and now are due to give Britain itself a taste of bleitzkrieg as soon as they can organize. Britain has turned on the heat in the United States. Their propaganda paints a bad picture for this country as soon as England is sunk. To the seaboard people England and Europe is more than the hinterland United States, western half of which is attached principally for revenue purposes as they think. They may be right in taking the English version seriously. Pity the country if they happen to be wrong, for they are taking the rest of us with them, whence one cannot know.

If the shadow of war is hanging over the country now one could not have told it by the conversation and the way the old-timers and new-comers were enjoying the fiftieth anniversary of the county recently. Good rains and good neighbors to talk to about the rain and old times beats a war for something to talk about.

Floyd county candidates who already are seeking the voters on a systematic basis, will have arrived at the first mile post Saturday night when the time expires for formally filing for places on the ticket. The committee meets on Monday to estimate the costs and make their assessments for the primaries. Candidates have the week of June 17 to pay their assessments.

How have the mighty fallen and come into disrepute is illustrated by the fate of the King of Belgium, whose ideas of preserving his own nation have brought him into worldwide disrepute, at least that portion of it of which Americans have knowledge. Seen from this distance through the eyes of the allies his actions can denote only a predominating fear. This may be all wrong. Twenty years hence we may think differently.

A nation-wide searching out of aliens to learn what they are ostensibly doing and what they may be doing in fact, has been launched by the FBI, it has been hinted in the American press. America, with millions of aliens of all stripes, hopes not to be caught in the same predicament some of its European neighbors have been, with more effective enemies within than without. Doubtless there will be injury done to some aliens and some relatives of aliens but that would be only one of the hazards of war. Better that ruin should come to a few than that ruin should come to all of us. Americans are due to see a sifting out of the undesirable alien in the next several months.

Both the Atlantic seaboard people and the Pacific are said to be ready for America's entry into World War No. 2, but the middle-country from mountains to mountains are slower in coming to the conclusion that the war in Europe must be our war before it is done. A notable exception is William Allen White, of Emporia, Kansas. Mr. White wants American citizens to rise up and insist that their president and their congress take a hand in every way that a country can go to war against Germany and her allies. Who would have thought a year ago a man could have run a full-page advertisement in the nation's biggest newspapers advocating war for the United States and not be run out of his home town. It is happening this week. The pendulum of hysteria swings violently always, and there is no judging what the day may bring forth.

He that urges gratitude pleads the cause both of God and men, for without it we can neither be sociable nor religious.—Seneca.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

Nellie Witt Spikes

When Old Man Winter retreated to his northern home, he must have left a few cold winds on guard. This morning is cold, even if it is the ninth of June. The rains have made the weeds grow so fast, we may be able to keep warm, if we hoe fast enough.

The night was dark, and rainy, not a ray of light only that made lightning and by cars throwing long beams of light down the gleaming black pavement. We turned onto a dirt road, the car slid into the ditch. The lightning flashed like forked gold trees across the dark heavens. Rain threatened to fill the deep ditch. There we were, and something had to be done. While Wilda drove, three of us pushed. Every ounce of strength I gave as the car slowly backed to the highway.

My feet sunk in oozy mud. What did that matter? Pellets of soft mud slung on my dress. It could be cleaned, I thought. How intense are the minutes in a time like this. How solid the cement paving was! How thankful not to have to stay in a car all night in the dark and the rain!

We have some new neighbors in the Cope neighborhood, or rather I should have said old friends, as we have known the Heards for some forty years. Dick Heard and his wife came to Crosby county in 1899. These good citizens are still true to the best traditions of the old west.

Their son John and his wife are with them this summer. And we are sure they will carry on the banner of love and hospitality that will be handed them by the pioneers of this country.

Oh, these men and women of pioneer days! In slow moving wagons they came west. They were brave, they were truehearted. They knew hard work, they were undefeated. The women in calico dresses and big sunbonnets who sat on the wagon seats by the side of their husbands, their children and few household goods in the back, a grown son or so bringing along the poor little herd of East Texas cattle, lived with their husbands till death took one or the other.

Somehow this morning as I write, I do not see the wind shaking the trees, or the work that awaits my hands, but I see a covered wagon outlined in clear strokes, against the sky and the green grass covered prairies. A man, a woman, and children are gathered around a glowing campfire, the light of the moon, catches in the hair of a little girl and turns it to pure gold. The moonbeams play on the tin cups and tin plates and they are silver.

The newcomers listen as they see a cowboy ride away from the town in a gallop, singing to make himself feel alive. They shiver as the coyotes bark and the lobos howl. Far away from the old friends and the ways they have always known. How will they like this new home? Each wonders in his heart. They had driven into town in the middle of the day, watered their tired teams at the trough near the white court-house. They watched the dust rising from the north west as a long freight wagon rolled in from the railroad town. They saw the shadows lengthen as evening drew on. Their beds were spread on the soft grass. Lonesome and homesick, they were, as they sat around the fire. But what is that they heard? Serenading music, the serenaders, keeping in the dark of the wagon. People of the town bringing a welcome in sweet music. What

FLOYD COUNTY 14 YEARS AGO

News items taken from files of the Floyd County Hesperian published in Floydada fourteen years ago.

Delay in the paving program for Floydada streets came to an end this week when the highway construction company of Tulsa, successful bidders for the job here, put men to work moving dirt and tearing out old curbs and gutter work that has to be moved, to make ready for the permanent streets that will take their place.

Indication that grasshoppers are doing considerable damage to growing row crops, is given by the fact that the demand for ingredients for poison bran mash to combat the pests is growing. Local dealers have noted an increased demand for the ingredients, arsenic.

Work will begin Monday on the new Royal theatre to be located in the Boerner building at the corner of South Main and California streets. R. H. Lowery of Lubbock, who will be manager and owner of the play house said Wednesday, and he planned to open August 1.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clark and little daughter returned home Friday from Gunter, Hillsboro and Abilene, where they visited some two weeks during a vacation trip down-state.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bishop left Tuesday morning for Amarillo where they will make their future home. Mr. Bishop will be employed with the Ford agency there in the sales department.

a place to come to, what a people to live with. The hearts of the newcomers were filled and ran over like a spring that has caught the silver slanting rain of the summer.

Two fine pioneers have passed on to greener prairies, Marlon Hill of Amarillo, father of Grover B. Hill and W. T. Brown of Floydada, father of the Browns here. These men have been an inspiration to younger men. By their own strength and the help of God, they made them a place in the west and leave the imprint of good lives on the hearts of us who are left.

Nothing more fitting than this poem of the West, written by Josh Lee Congressman from Oklahoma, have I found to describe early days in the west.

I lived on the plains in an old sod house.

And I played in the sage and mesquite grass

I found the bear grass and gathered its pod

And I lived like a king in a mansion of sod.

For life was great in the early days Where wild antelope fed and cattle grazed.

You see, my father had staked a claim

And brought his family to prove the same.

Oh! the life was rough and sort of hard

But we went on without regard

To inconvenience western fare

And built a home of gladness there

Our house was built of native sod

But the hearts within lived close to God.

This palace contained a single room

And just one window dispelled the gloom.

But the souls within created the light.

And especially so on a winter's night

With mother and father and cousin Jim.

Sister and brother, and the rest of them.

Including Grandma, who furnished cheer.

They kept things merry most of the year.

It seems like a dream as I think of it now—

We lived in a house we built with a plough.

The fireplace served as the altar of love.

For which we thanked the Father above.

Then from the Book a chapter we read.

And after a prayer we scampered to bed.

I want to go back to those happy days.

And sit once more and stare in the blaze.

I want to go back and chase the antelope

And live once more in the old sod house.

Safe Easy Way To Lose Fat

How would you like to safely and harmlessly lose some of that ugly fat in a few weeks? How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent hips and abdomen and along with it get the increase in energy and improvement in health which so often accompanies excess fat reduction?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much you weigh. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of water first thing every morning. Then eat your fill of foods that lessen caloric intake. After 30 days, weigh yourself again and just see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Kruschen is a famous English formula made in the U. S. A. Kruschen comes in either the NEW pleasant bubbling form or PLAIN non-fizzy form for those who prefer to take it in hot water. A bottle lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. Money back if not joyfully satisfied. White's Drug Store.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Here's a laxative that generally acts thoroughly, but is a gentle persuader if used by simple directions. Take BLACK-DRAUGHT at bedtime. There's usually time for a good night's rest. Morning generally brings a thorough evacuation; relief for constipation's headaches, loginess. Try spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. It's economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

ONE MILLION Texans

One million Texans would have to find other means of livelihood if the Texas petroleum industry were to shut down tomorrow.

Steady employment, good working conditions, reasonable working hours and fair wages are the industry's responsibilities to its workers and their families—a million Texans in all.

It must maintain production, find and develop new fields, meet competitive markets for its products and pay its total expense bill of 750 million dollars a year, which includes its payrolls.

The Texas petroleum industry now has to pay 97 million dollars a year in taxes to Federal, State and local governments before it can consider wages and employment.

When expenses must be cut to satisfy increasing tax demands, employment suffers, and with it, the buying power that employment creates in our State.

Additional Subsistence Herds Help

Diversifying Farm Enterprises Found To Have Best Chance Of Success

Increased incomes, better diets and more properly balanced operating programs are found on many farms of Farm Security administration borrowers in Floyd county, as a result of additional subsistence dairy herds, according to William T. McKinney, FSA supervisor.

Maintenance of enough dairy cows to supply milk, cream, butter and cheese for family consumption with a surplus for market in encouraged as an important part of successful farming, Mr. McKinney said.

Although the FSA is making it possible for many low-income farmers to purchase dairy herds to meet their immediate subsistence needs, it was explained, this agency also encourages farmers to use good sires for their herds and increase the quality and production of their milk cows.

"Because well-bred bulls are a prohibitive expense for owners of small dairy herds," Mr. McKinney said, "the Farm Security administration encourages groups of farmers to use the services of good sires and to share the expense."

He said loans are made either to a group for joint ownership of a sire, or to an individual who agrees to make the services available to his neighbors at a reasonable charge.

Membership in an FSA sponsored cooperative is not limited to FSA borrowers. However, only farmers who cannot obtain adequate financing from any other source are eligible for loans from this agency.

Mr. McKinney said the history of the past seven years proves that the farm family who produces the greatest portion of its own food needs at home and who diversifies farm enterprises as much as possible, is the family that has the best chance to succeed.

Farmers desiring more information about organizing the financing group breeding services are encouraged to contact Mr. McKinney at his office in the court house.

Haggai Urges the Building Of God's House

Golden Text: "Let us consider one another to provoke unto love and unto good works; not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is." Heb. 10:24, 25.

Lesson Text: Haggai 1:2-12.

Haggai 1:2 Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying, This people say, The time is not come, the time that the Lord's house should be built.

3 Then came the word of the Lord by Haggai the prophet, saying, 4 Is it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your celled houses, and this house lie waste?

5 Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, Consider your ways. 6 Ye have sown much, and bring in little; ye eat, but ye have not enough; ye drink, but ye are not filled with drink; ye clothe you, but there is none warm; and he that earneth wages, earneth wages to put it into a bag with holes.

7 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Consider your ways. 8 Go up to the mountain, and bring wood, and build the house; and I will take pleasure in it, and I will be glorified, saith the Lord.

9 Ye looked for much, and, lo, it came to little; and when ye brought it home, I did blow upon it. Why? saith the Lord of hosts. Because of mine house that is waste, and ye run every man unto his own house.

10 Therefore the heaven over you is stayed from dew, and the earth is stayed from her fruit.

11 And I called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the new wine, and upon the oil, and upon that which the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon cattle, and upon all the labor of the hands.

12 Then Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the Lord their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the Lord their God had sent him, and the people did fear before the Lord.

Lesson Thoughts

The Scripture for our lesson today is from the prophet Haggai. The prophet in old times left many written sermons for future generations to read. Last Sunday our lesson was from the prophet Ezekiel, who prophesied during the captivity in Babylon. Today's lesson from Haggai is a prophecy after the Jews had returned to Palestine. Israel was taken captive to Assyria in 721 B. C., and Judah was carried away to Babylon in 586 B. C. For Judah, however, it was prophesied that she would remain in exile but seventy years (Jer. 25:11). The seventy years expired, and Cyrus issued a decree permitting the Jews to return to their native land. He had been shown where Isalah, 150 years before, had named him as the deliverer of the Jews, and Cyrus said: "The Lord God of the heavens hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he hath charged me to build him an house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah" (Ezra 1:2). He called up everybody, Jew and Gentile, to make contributions toward rebuilding the temple, and also gave the returning Jews the sacred vessels of the temple which Nebuchadnezzar carried away and which Belshazzar had impiously desecrated during his drunken revelry (Ezra 1:7, 8).

Cyrus, however, "revoked this edict in the second year of his reign through the evil advice of his courtiers and other enemies of the Jews. After his death, Cambyses renewed the prohibition; but after his death, Darius remembered the permission (Ezra 4:24), and Haggai was sent to encourage his countrymen to proceed with the work... which was the sixteenth year of their return from Babylon" (Clarke).

Big Egg Shipment From Local Firm To Breaking Plant

Described as the biggest egg shipment to leave Floydada any time in the past few years, a load of 415 cases of eggs, 30 dozen to the case, was sent out by Carmack & Jones to a Dallas breaking plant Saturday.

For some time their week-end shipments have averaged from 350 to 400 cases. Their first-of-the-week shipments have been running 100 to 200 cases. Last Wednesday their shipment totalled 136 cases.

"This 415 cases is the biggest shipment of eggs I've ever handled out of Floydada and so far as I know the biggest in recent years," J. V. Jones of the poultry and egg firm said.

Kind words continue to be received at The Hesperian office about the feature edition of The Hesperian, which bore the date of the county's fiftieth anniversary, May 28, 1940. Among the congratulatory expressions are the following: Anaheim, Calif., June 6, 1940. Mr. Homer Steen, Floydada, Texas. Dear Sir:

I would like to congratulate you on your splendid anniversary number which I have found very interesting.

I have written something on the European crisis and am sending the article and if you care to you may publish it in your paper.

Having traveled in most of the countries involved in the present war I have been interested in the change in their destiny and what will be the effect in the United States.

Very sincerely yours, Alice Paddock Wright.

Silverton, Texas, June 5, 1940.

Thanks to you many, many times, just cannot tell how very much I am enjoying contents, nice indeed to take a pleasant trip back to the early day, and see so many friends of long ago, and what a good time we had in your friendly city.

Very sincerely, Gertrude B. Arnold.

From Governor O'Daniel

Austin, Texas, June 7, 1940.

The Floyd County Hesperian, Floydada, Texas.

It has come to my attention that the pioneers of Floyd county have just celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of that county. I take this occasion to send my felicitations and my congratulations on the progress and development of your area since 1890.

It is my hope that the state industrialization program now underway may redound to the benefit of your area as well as other sections of the state. It is the plan to find all possible outlets and markets for the products of our basic industries of agriculture and livestock. For that reason we are encouraging the establishment of small industrial establishments at many places in Texas. These, it is hoped, will use our raw materials, provide more employment for our people, and increase the general well-being of the state.

Your county is important particularly for its wheat and other agricultural products and its livestock products. You will doubtless have an important part in the further development of our state.

To all of your citizens, I send my good wishes for every success.

Sincerely yours, W. Lee O'Daniel, Governor of Texas.

"I cannot resist the urge to let you know how much I enjoyed your Golden Anniversary edition of the Hesperian. I think you did a real piece of work in assembling the many interesting articles and pictures and I predict that this number will be cherished and preserved for many years to come by all those who are old settlers up there."

since I got him a MILE-DIAL...FREE

"Just like a man—with his superior air—he'd keep telling me any gasoline is the same as any other. But I argued there couldn't be much to lose, as long as they give you the Conoco Mile-Dial perfectly free.

"They certainly wouldn't tease you to take a thing that strictly counts up the mileage from their own gasoline, unless they're awfully sure of themselves. So I steered to the first Conoco station and in half a second the Mile-Dial was on the dash. Looks smart. Free, too.

"The total mileage on your speedometer goes on the Mile-Dial, so you know the start of your test. And you know the amount of your gasoline, by starting with just a full tank of Bronz-z-z. Then going along buying your 10 gallons more, or maybe 8, or 15 let's say, your Mile-Dial keeps count.

"Let's look. I'm up to 53 gallons. And... wait a second... it's 928 miles since starting this test of Conoco Bronz-z-z. Now watch this flip of the Mile-Dial. There!—it says better than 17½ miles from a gallon of Bronz-z, with a car this big. And do I hear any pooh-pooh?

"Even Henry won't say it's just luck any more, after all the different driving tests he's kept doing with this Mile-Dial... Luck?... It's just bad luck using mixed breeds of gasoline when Conoco Bronz-z-z is game to let you dial its true mileage. A smaller car like yours might even beat 17½.

SPEND MOST TO CHECK MIGRATION AT SOURCE

"While federal agencies have been acting to help the migrants already on the road, their main efforts," Secretary Wallace explained to the Senate Civil Liberties Committee, "have been devoted to checking migration at its source. For every dollar which the Farm Security Administration has used to aid migrants in California, for example, it has used twenty dollars for the rehabilitation of needy farm families in the five states from which most of the Pacific coast migrants originally came—Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Arkansas, and Missouri. Throughout the nation it has used nearly $480,000,000 in the last five years to help low-income farm families get a new foothold in their home communities."

WEATHER-WISE "VOICE" AID TO HOLIDAY TRIPS

Spring bloom of the Japanese flowering cherries around the Tidal Basin in Washington caused a peak in service by the mechanical voice equipment the telephone company has installed to answer telephone calls about weather forecasts. This service opened Monday before the week-end when the cherry trees were expected to be at their best. The following Friday more than 37,500 calls to get the latest weather forecast for the cherry blossom week end, many with a view to telephoning the information on to friends and relatives within motoring distance of Washington.

The mechanical device in the Washington office can be dialed by 160 persons at one time, and 4,000 calls an hour are possible. On two occasions in April there were more than 2,000 calls in a single hour, and this compared with about 1,500 calls in a day, which was previously the limit with the connections and staff available at the Weather Bureau. The robot relieves the bureau of the burden of routine calls and enables the information force to give prompt and more detailed service to the callers who need more specific information.

Automatic and mechanical response to routine queries, says the bureau, will help to prevent such a situation as occurred a few years ago when a hurricane threatened the Washington area. The White House was not able to get a call through to the Weather Bureau and had to telegraph. Up to early May the weather "voice" was available in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Baltimore, Newark, and Washington and will probably be extended to other cities.

BLUE STAMPS CENTER BUYING IN SURPLUSES

"One important agricultural aspect of the food stamp plan deserves emphasis," says Secretary Wallace. "By making the blue stamps good only for the twelve or fifteen surplus commodities which are in the worst price position from a farmer's point of view, an extraordinary high consumption of those products is brought about, considering the income of the families using the stamps. This would not be the case if the blue stamps were good for all of the several hundred items in a grocery store."

"A leading poultry publication recently made a survey of egg consumption under the stamp plan in Springfield, Illinois. It found that the consumption of eggs, among families using the stamps, increased 560 percent after the program was inaugurated. This is about the same percentage indicated by our own studies. Such an astounding result is possible because the blue stamps narrow purchases to the relatively few surplus products which are most burdensome from a farmer's standpoint. Those using the stamps, however, have a much more adequate and a much more varied diet than it was possible to make available through distribution from commodity depots. The effect of such an increase in consumption upon farm income will become apparent as the program expands."

GASOLINE HIGH EXPLOSIVE MUST BE USED WITH CAUTION FOR CLEANING PURPOSES

AUSTIN — Home fires could be reduced to a minimum if Texas housewives would refrain from the use of gasoline, especially for cleaning purposes, Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, warned today.

The commissioner reported that the explosive power of gasoline has been ascertained at 83 times that of dynamite, and that the flash point of gasoline may be as low as zero. "Static and friction should be avoided in handling gasoline," he said, "and people whose jobs involve its use should be thoroughly conversant with its dangers. Of course, its use is a commonplace as well as a necessity, but there's no need to ignore its power."

FSA CLIENT WAY AHEAD ON MORTGAGE PAYMENTS

Walter Collins, of Lamar County, Tex., gives diversified farming credit for making him first in the United States with his 1941 repayment on land bought under provisions of the Bankhead-Jones Act.

The Farm Security Administration which makes the tenant purchase loans provided by the act, has announced that Collins is now 2 years ahead of his repayment schedule.

Collins, farming 17 miles northwest of Paris in Lamar County, operates a 195-acre farm and leans heavily on livestock for his income. He bought the land in December 1938 with a Bankhead-Jones loan. Though he has as long as 40 years to pay off the 3-percent loan, Collins is now 2 years ahead of schedule in his repayments. He made his first full year's payment in June 1939 and his second in September. On January 2 of this year he made still another payment, the first farmer in the United States to make his 1941 payment on land bought through the FSA.

More than 7,000 of these loans will be made through the country this year. Each one will provide for a diversified program in order to get away from one-crop farming.

THE "BEST" CIGARETTE IS THE ONE YOU LIKE

Whether one cigarette is "better" than another is a matter of the individual taste of the smoker. Sweeping claims by manufacturers puzzle many buyers who have the idea that "tobacco is tobacco" and that "cigarettes all come out of the same barrel." According to J. V. Morrow, of the Agricultural Marketing Service, the tobacco in a cigarette usually comes out of several barrels—each tobacco of a definite type. The combination of these types, or the "blend," largely determines flavor, and a buyer calls for the combination that pleases him best.

Most of the popular brand cigarettes consist of a blend of flue-cured, Burley, Maryland, and Turkish tobaccos. Some cigarettes are made wholly of flue-cured and some of Turkish alone. The term "Turkish" is not exact. "Turkish" tobacco comes not only from Turkey but also from Greece, Bulgaria, and other Mediterranean countries and islands. It is an aromatic, light-colored, air-cured type and is sometimes called the "pepper and salt" or "seasoning" of cigarettes.

The cigarette, says Morrow, might be defined as "a small roll of finely shredded tobacco about one-fourth of an inch in diameter and about two and three-fourths inches long wrapped in thin tissue paper." This definition would apply to the so-called popular brand cigarettes and to the great majority of all cigarettes manufactured. The Bureau of Internal Revenue taxes them at the rate of $3 per thousand, or 6 cents for a package of 20. Tax-paid withdrawals indicate that more than 172 billions cigarettes were consumed in 1939—an average of about 1,300 per person.

LIVESTOCK ON NEW GRASS

The change in farming that follows a shift from single-crop soil mining to a well-planned program of soil conservation is illustrated, says the Soil Conservation Service, by experience in the Elm Creek project in the blacklands near Temple, Texas, one of the early demonstration areas. Livestock—beef cattle, dairy cows, and sheep—is increasing because there is now feed and forage to support the animals. Seven years ago 75 percent of the cultivated land grew cotton; last year only 38 percent. The area devoted to clean-tilled crops has been reduced from 44,278 acres to 36,389 acres. The area in pasture and meadow has been increased from 10,306 acres to 16,550 acres.

FARM LAND VALUES

Farm real-estate values the country over increased about 1 percent during the 12 months ended March 1, 1940, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported. These figures show that as a national average, farm real-estate values are approximately 16 percent below the average for 1912-14. The low point was in 1933 when the average of values was 27 percent below the 1912-14 average. In the last 3 years values have been practically stable.

BITING TEST BEST GUIDE FOR MOSQUITO CAMPAIGN

Mosquitoes, important both as disease carriers and as pests that make life miserable for men and for animals, vary so widely in their breeding habits that the treatment that will control one species may not be satisfactory for controlling another. By scientific study of the habits of mosquitoes, however, it is possible to devise a control program that will be effective against a group of species of similar habits. In planning mosquito control, it is first necessary to identify the kinds that are causing the trouble. Traps have been devised for collecting mosquitoes for identification, and fine-meshed nets are also useful. But Federal entomologists find it is almost essential to supplement such records to get a reliable index to the abundance of pestiferous species. They do this by baring an arm or leg in a mosquito-infested spot and collecting the attacking insects by means of a wide-mouthed killing bottle that can be moved quickly to cover the spot where an insect is biting. After a series of such tests, the mosquito specialist who knows the breeding and flight habits of the various species has information to consider practical control methods.

A recent publication on the mosquitoes of the southeastern states, by the United States Department of Agriculture, lists and describes 47 species of mosquitoes, of which only 7 are of serious economic importance. The southern house mosquito and the yellow-fever mosquito both breed near the place where they make their attack and local clean-ups can be made effective. The malaria mosquito is not likely to fly much more than a mile and the search for breeding places can be held to about that distance. Some of the salt-marsh mosquitoes are strong fliers or are carried by wind to a considerable distance, and so this account control operations usually have to be organized to include a whole county or several counties.

Chapman's Sister Mrs. Georgia Slaton Buried At Morenci

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Chapman returned home Friday from Clifton, Arizona where they were called June 1 by an emergency message from that place telling of the serious illness of Mrs. Georgia Slaton, a sister of Mr. Chapman. Mrs. Slaton died a few hours after the message reached here after the Chapmans had gone. They were accompanied by Miss Katherine Chapman of Amarillo, a sister of Mr. Chapman. The deceased was 39 years of age and died in the Morenci hospital after a short illness due to peritonitis. She is survived by two children, Georgiana, 5 and Jackie, 6. Her husband preceded her in death about eighteen months. The children accompanied their uncle to Texas and will make their home with another uncle and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Slaton of Lubbock. Funeral service was held by the pastor of the Baptist church and interment made in the Morenci cemetery.

MR. AND MRS. TRAVIS IN AUSTIN ATTENDING SCHOOL

Supt. and Mrs. Walter Travis left Wednesday of last week for Austin for the summer months. They previously had planned to go to Nashville, Tennessee, but changed their plans following an accident in which Mrs. Travis' brother of Austin lost the sight of an eye.

CANDLING TESTS QUALITY

More poultrymen — particularly those who sell direct to housewives or local retailers — should candle their eggs before selling them, says Rob R. Slocum, of the Agricultural Marketing Service. Sometimes an absolutely fresh, new-laid egg will be unsuitable for food, and if delivered will hurt the reputation of the producer, because of a bloody white, a blood spot, or meat spot. On the average farm, candling will take only a few minutes daily.

A length of stove pipe and a lamp or electric light make a convenient and inexpensive candler. Farmers' Bulletin 1378 gives simple directions for manipulating the eggs, and tells what the candler should look for in the illuminated egg.

"Why should a great strong man like you be found begging?" "It is the only profession I know in which a gentleman can address a beautiful woman without an introduction."

Harold Snell, young son of Mrs. Clyde Snell of Fort Worth, is visiting in the county with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Snell and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McKinney.

Harley Sadler, West Texas showman, is managing the campaign for Jerry Sadler, his kinsman, throughout this section of the state. The West Texas campaign headquarters are in Sweetwater.

Plan Explained

The bureau of Agricultural Economics will assume the leadership with assistance of the P. S. A. and the AAA. P. S. A. agreed to furnish one full time employee for the three Texas counties and for several counties in the adjoining state.

Advantages of the proposed program were emphasized in round-table discussions by several of the persons present. Mrs. Clayton stated that the information called for on the farm record sheet would be of great help in planning activities of the county.

Program Given Approval

Members of the Land Use Planning committee approved the program for use in Floyd county. It was decided that the subcommittee on the "Farm Record" program should be composed of all the farm men and women present, with the exception of those already serving in official capacity.

Mrs. W. C. Cates and Mrs. W. B. Cates, of Blanco, spent Monday visiting at Valleyview, Texas. Mrs. L. B. White, Mrs. W. C. Cates' mother, returned for a visit with her daughter.

100 AVERAGE CROPPERS ARE ON THEIR WAY UP

Two years ago the Federal Government invested $786,000 in the form of land, loans, and improvements for use by 100 farm families in New Madrid county, Missouri. Then the average worth of each family was $28; now it is $1,473, the Farm Security administration reports. The families have paid $95,000 on loans and in rent. Only five families are behind in their payments, a total of $500, due to loss of livestock. The 100 families now own nearly $110,000 in personal property and average $377 cash to finance the 1940 crops.

This group was not especially selected, but were the sharecroppers already on the 6,700-acre tract near LaForge, purchased by the government. The FSA divided the land into 100 equally productive farms to rent to the families, who represent a cross section of sharecroppers in the Delta region.

For each farm the FSA provided a 5-room house, barn, well, fences, storage for food, and sanitary toilet. The cost of land and improvements averaged $5,980 for each farm. FSA loans averaging $1,314 bought food, livestock, machinery, feed, and seed for the first years and are to be repaid at 5-percent interest in from 5 to 7 years. The FSA helped the families work out an individual plan for each farm.

The farmers themselves organized the LaForge Cooperative Association and leased from the government the cotton gin, warehouses, cottonseed houses, store and office building, blacksmith shop, manager's house, and large barn, borrowing $19,930 to start the enterprise. The cooperative operates the cotton gin and other services, including a registered sire service. The farmers now own hay, corn, seed, livestock, farming tools, and household furnishings. They have on hand 1,048 bushels of vegetables, 47,412 pounds of meat butchered on the farms, and 34,947 quarts of canned fruits, vegetables, and meats.

Many of these former sharecroppers used to raise only one crop—cotton. It is still the main crop, but they now have more dairy cows, hogs, and chickens, and plant more vegetable gardens, hay, and corn. Cash from cotton pays off their loans, and they get most of their living from other crops and from livestock.

GRANTS-OF-AID HELPFUL IN SOIL CONSERVATION

The new term, "grant-of-aid," has become a favorite with farmers participating in the AAA programs.

Farmers in 32 states use the term in connection with a special program of the AAA to furnish lime, phosphate, and other soil-building materials in place of the cash payments under the Agricultural Conservation program. The grant-of-aid program was started under the 1937 AAA Farm program as a means of helping farmers—who could not otherwise conveniently finance the buying—to get lime, phosphate, and seed of some soil-conserving crops. Farmers may use from 70 to 80 percent of their conservation payments for this purpose. Farmers cooperating in the 1939 AAA Farm Program received 660,610 tons of lime and 136,736 tons of phosphate as grants-of-aid.

Although the grant-of-aid program is an advantage to farmers in supplying soil-building materials without cash outlay, the greater benefits are the improvements to the farm which follow the use of such materials. In Pennsylvania, where much lime and phosphate is used on permanent pastures, one farmer reported to the AAA that an application of lime and phosphate so improved his pasture that its carrying capacity was doubled and he was able to turn his stock on it a month earlier in the spring.

The crowd was so immense that it was a hard matter to get in touch of one's old friends and we missed seeing some of those whom we had expected to meet. Late in the afternoon we did succeed in getting into a party of about forty of the oldest settlers when a group picture was shot, surrounded by the most intimate of our old time friends and relatives. We met many of the children of our deceased friends who could barely remember the trials hardships that were encountered in the early settlement of the plains country by their parents, many of whom were born and educated in the magnificent schools that have been promoted by the original settlers. Court houses have been erected in all those counties, magnificent church edifices have been erected in all the communities together with elegant school structures are in evidence all over the plains country, constructed of brick and masonry by a full quota of efficient instructors. Floydada, Crosbyton, Lubbock, Plainview, Tulla, and Dimmitt (county seats) and numerous smaller towns are ready for the beautiful churches and school structures. Another noticeable change in these towns and cities are the tree-lined streets and parks which are being made beauty spots to attract favorable comment from the visitors who love beauty and progress.

Wednesday morning Tom loaded us in his large car with his family and started to Dimmitt, in Castro county, to visit his mother and sister who were not able to participate in the celebration at Floydada on account of heavy rains in that section Monday night. We traveled the Lubbock-Amarillo highway for about forty miles and then turned west onto graded roads which were veritable bog holes for another forty miles. And it rained on us all the way over these graded roads which made the travel extremely difficult and almost impassable at places, but we managed to arrive at our destination in time for a splendid farm dinner, which we enjoyed to the delight of all present. At about five o'clock the roads had dried up sufficiently that we made the eighty miles back to Floydada in a couple of hours and were ready for another beautiful meal and a needed rest, which we proceeded to enjoy to the satisfaction of everyone concerned. However the car was not in as good mechanical condition as it should have been after that grueling forty miles of mud and slush which it had negotiated sideways, slanting and almost backwards, which caused Tom and extensive repair bill Thursday morning to the delight of the garage management in Floydada.

Thursday afternoon we again boarded the bus and arrived in Fort Worth in time to catch the city bus for our home with "barking dogs" and a weary body. We enjoyed the visit immensely and when we get the soreness and that tired lethargy rubbed out of our system we ought to have a great time telling of the funny incidents and experiences we encountered in traversing the old cowtrails which we had during the past sixty years traversed in and on

At Rome we changed buses and hit the highway for Bowie, Wichita Falls, and Vernon, where we again were transferred to a bus bound for Lubbock, on the plains. Decatur and Bowie have seemed to have decreased since our last visit to that section, but when we arrived at Wichita Falls we were met by the magnificent growth of that city of more than forty thousand progressive people and at Vernon again our surprise was heightened at the great changes that have taken place in the fifty years; established in 1880 on old Eagle Flats, in a sand bed; it has grown to a magnificent modern city.

From Vernon we traveled through Wilbarger, Foard, Cottle and Motley counties (our old, familiar stomping grounds in 1880's) and on into Floyd county, wholly on top of the plains, where we with our wife and baby, the town of Della Plain (now a ghost town) in the center of the county was being promoted. We found Crowell, Paducah and Matador prosperous looking little cities, much more modern than we had anticipated. In each of which we stopped off and inquired of old time chums and acquaintances, most of whom had passed from this life of trials and disappointments, and arrived at the capital of Floyd county, Floydada, where we were met by relatives and taken in hand and fed and housed during the celebration of the 50 years that had passed since our pioneering of that beautiful, grass-covered, wide expanse of level land as far as the eye could penetrate the pure atmosphere.

Tuesday morning Tom McLain (our cousin) after milking his fourteen Jersey cows and caring for about sixteen head of fine Clydesdale draft animals that he uses as farm power, drove back into town and began meeting old time neighbors and associates and helped to celebrate the golden anniversary of the organization of the county, in 1890, three years after we had first cast our lot in the first settlement. Old timers were there from almost every state in the U. S. to help make future history of the past fifty and the crowd was immense (estimated at twelve thousand); the streets being a jam all day. A barbecue was spread for the tired and travel worn visitors. Everyone there was served to his fulness at the tables while those who could not make their way through the immense throng sought refreshments at the several cafes and public eating houses. There was plenty of eats for all on the great spread of improvised tables in the streets but the crowd was so dense that hundreds of the more timid would not brave the crowd and repaired to the local enterprises for their refreshments. The entertainment facilities of the little city of Floydada were taxed to their limits all day long and late into the night. A professional rodeo aggregation began their performances Monday through Wednesday which was patronized to the limit of the exhibit grounds, kept the crowd milling around the streets which were roped off from the traffic in the main part of the town.

All manner of transportation facilities. One fellow who had been out in Utah and Colorado for several weeks having convivial teatates with casual companions. He started out from Matador in a new car which in some manner became involved in a fire and had come out of the experience in no fit condition to transport its owner and he had proceeded to drown his disappointment in the "squeezing" from corn and he was still in a dazed and unkept condition after irritating some of his fellow passengers on the train coming into Amarillo, he had indulged in a vicious physical encounter and was making for home where he could repair the damaged countenance and clothing. He was still in that condition of mental antagonism and drab thoughts that generally beset a fellow after the morning after the night before. Oh, you can just imagine how you would feel after a week's conviviality among the jolly fellows-well-met. He did not have a clear recollection of just what had happened to his friends during the two weeks travel through the mountain country of the Rockies, but he managed to attract the undivided attention all the passengers on the bus from Floydada to Matador.

At Bowie, on the return, another very talkative personage got on the bus and kept the passengers entertained all the way into Fort Worth.

Sixty years ago, when we came to Texas, there was not a fence from Graham, in Young county, to the Pacific coast but now the whole country is very generously populated and fenced up into small tracts which accounts for the vast changes in place since we were out there last. We had a most enjoyable trip, notwithstanding our sore feet and tired eyes from gazing at the wonderful changes that have taken place, and our memory will cherish the waiting the visit. We are hoping that we may be able to renew acquaintance with all the good people that we met and conversed with during this trip at the next annual celebration of the old settlers reunion at Floydada.

Ft. Worth To Floydada 1940 Style Contrasted With The Days Of 1887

Tree-Lined Streets, Magnificent Schools, Churches Rule On The Plains Of Modern Days

By R. E. L. McLain

Monday morning we left Fort Worth at 7 o'clock on the bus for the big celebration of old settlers at Floydada, Floyd county, Texas, for the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of Floyd county, to mingle and reminiscence over old times—1887-91—with old friends and neighbors who braved the hardships to build the new empire on the "Great American Desert"—a false name for the most productive region in Texas—that wide expanse of level plains country where you wear your eyes out looking at the beautiful panorama as it unfolds before your wondering gaze.

At Rome we changed buses and hit the highway for Bowie, Wichita Falls, and Vernon, where we again were transferred to a bus bound for Lubbock, on the plains. Decatur and Bowie have seemed to have decreased since our last visit to that section, but when we arrived at Wichita Falls we were met by the magnificent growth of that city of more than forty thousand progressive people and at Vernon again our surprise was heightened at the great changes that have taken place in the fifty years; established in 1880 on old Eagle Flats, in a sand bed; it has grown to a magnificent modern city.

SILLO IS GOOD KILLER OF NOXIOUS-WEED SEED

Put weedy hay crops in the silo instead of the stack or mow, to stop the spread of weeds. This is the substance of advice to farmers which T. E. Woodward, of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, offers on the basis of experiments with seeds of noxious weed buried in ensilage when silos were filled at the Beltsville Research Center. Of 26 varieties of weed crop seeds that went into the silo, 23 were killed outright, and the germination of the other 3—bindweed, Lepedeza sericea, and American dragonhead mint—was greatly reduced.

Many farmers have burned clippings from weedy pastures and hay from weedy meadows because they were unwilling to take a chance on fouling cultivated fields with the weeds in the manure hauled from the feed lot. When weedy material goes through the fermentation in the silo and then through the digestive process of animals there is no likelihood that weed seeds will be troublesome. The silo and the livestock will safeguard the cultivated fields, and the farmer can safely get rid of the weedy material any feed values that exist.

Johnson grass seed was one of the varieties killed completely in the silo and this suggests that making silage instead of hay provide a new and safe way of making use of the good feed values of Johnson grass without the danger of spreading the seed to cultivated fields through manure.

AM I MY BROTHER'S CREDIT KEEPER

(By Mrs. P. G. Stegall)
Are You? The average business man might dismiss this question with a hasty no. But is that the answer?

Dead beats, slow pays and credit bankrupts are made not born. You may say the average individual makes his own credit status. To a large extent that is true. But consider this: The average individual never ceases to want things, whether he is actually able to own them or not. But family ties are strong. Neighbor ownership stirs pride. That, together with the never ending pushing urge of the average business man to sell, plus easy credit terms, is a combination that sinks many a person up to the gills and over with credit obligations he cannot possibly meet out of his income.

What Happens? The person's desire to buy and own is satisfied. The dealer's desire to sell is satisfied. The deal starts off well. The pay day arrives. The dealer wants his money. The individual wants to pay but is unable to for lack of sufficient income, together with the fact that he owes too many others. Creditors make a grand rush for their money. He can't pay all of them. Some of the creditors cut him off. It seems as if the hand of every man is turned against him. He becomes bitter. He is refused further credit, his pride is hurt, often he becomes hardened. Your dead beat is born. The average man needs a credit counselor more than he needs credit. When a person is already loaded up with more than he can pay; it is a positive injury to sell him more. Your credit bureau can help a lot in getting these facts. A man's present credit should be known to keep him a good credit risk as well as a good citizen. The credit grantor is, in a large measure, the keeper of the individual's good credit record.

No Competition in Credit Granting
Competition is a fine thing when it comes to selling merchandise but there should never be competition in extending credit. Where merchandise is sold for cash the transaction is completed and the seller has nothing more to worry about in regard to that deal. When merchandise is sold on credit the transaction is only half completed. The account must be paid before the merchant has his part in the clear.

Regardless of the competition for business there should never be competition as to granting of credit. When selling merchandise or services on a credit basis, a very large percentage of the accounts must be collected. Every reasonable precaution should be made to find out if the one asking for credit is entitled to it before a charge account is opened. The man who is entitled to credit will not complain because an investigation is made regarding his past record. The merchant is better off not to have the business of the man with a doubtful credit record. Not only those who are engaged in credit business but the entire community is interested in seeing high credit rating standards maintained.

Accounts that are charged off will be a loss not only to the individual but to the community as well. The man who does not pay not only loses his credit standing but very often his feeling of confidence and self respect as well.

Starting A New Account Right
As a rule when a person moves to this city and applies for credit there is a careful investigation made of the credit standing of that person at his or her previous place of residence. This association handles many requests along this line and is nearly always able to give information needed. To get information on one who has lived here but a short time is, of course, the thing to do. No account of this kind should be opened without definite information. Just remember though that it is almost as important to get detailed information in regard to persons living here who wish to open a new account. This applies particularly to those who buy groceries and other necessities of life. Very often the prospective customer is merely seeking to increase his line of credit having exhausted it with firms he has traded with in the past. It is far better to lose an occasional account than to take on new customers who are already doubtful credit risks.

Credit A Privilege and Asset
Credit is a privilege and a convenience extended upon the merchant's or professional man's confidence that when bills are rendered, they will be paid promptly, according to terms or agreement. Pay each bill promptly and you establish a "Prompt Pay" record in the files of the Retail Merchants Association which, like money in the bank, will grow in value, or promptness in paying makes your credit good and keeps it good. Failure to pay bills promptly, of course works just the other way and one may thus lose quickly a good credit rating.

A Common Pool of Credit

Credit is one of the vital and powerful factors in business life to-

day. That applies equally to the one who seeks credit and to the one who grants it. Each person who meets his obligation is making a contribution to the credit pool. With an established record for debt paying, a man is entitled to credit, taking into consideration his income or earning capacity and future prospects. There is only one way in which the individual merchant can tell with any degree of accuracy who should have credit and if granted in what amount. That method is to go to a common pool of credit information, that will give the necessary facts. It is only when a large number of transactions may be checked and other necessary information obtained that the credit grantor can act with confidence. This Association has been collecting and reporting credit information for years and has gathered together credit facts of great value that cannot be had from any other source. In addition there is personal history, tax and mortgage records, that make up the sum total of information that should be had in all credit cases about which there is any ques-

Week's Social Life Centers Around June Brides

Miss Margie Norton Weds Joe Oldham, Thurs. June 6

In a pretty setting of spring flowers, Miss Margie Norton became the bride of Joe Oldham, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Oldham of Petty, Texas, Thursday, June 6, at 10:45 p. m. The ring ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. F. Norton, West Jackson street.

A pink and white color scheme was portrayed in the improvised altar with tall baskets of pink and white larkspur and fern. On the lace-covered table were four tall white candles in crystal holders.

Harold Thomas, minister of the North Side Church of Christ at Fort Worth and brother-in-law of the bride, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Ohmer Kirk played "Mendelssohn's Wedding March" followed by "I Love You Truly" played softly before the vows were taken.

The bride wore aqua and carried a bouquet of pink and white Sweetheart rosebuds. Miss Ruby Norton, sister of the bride, and the bride's maid of honor wore orchid and a corsage of pink and white. A. J. Jackson, a close friend of the family, was best man. He and the bride's maid led the way to the altar and lighted the candles.

Reception Followed
A tall three-tiered wedding cake and a large crystal service were circled with rosebuds and fern. Mrs. D. B. Rambo, sister of the bride, cut the cake as Miss Edith Wilson poured. Mrs. Harold Thomas, sister of the bride, presided at the bride's book.

The bride finished high school at Floydada with the class of 1929. She graduated from Abilene Christian college in 1932, taught school four years at Campbell, one year at Hill Crest and for the past three years has taught in the Andrews Ward school of this city.

Mr. Oldham graduated from high school at Pattonville, attended business college and junior college at Paris, Texas.

Members of the family including five sisters of the bride, and a few close friends of the family attended the ceremony. The sisters are Miss Ruby, Floydada; Miss Lola, Quinland; Mrs. Rambo, Huntsville; Mrs. Thomas, Fort Worth and Mrs. Alford Dye, Roaring Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Oldham left immediately after the ceremony for a short trip. Plans are incomplete as to where they will make their home.

Floyd County Couple Announce Wedding

In a quiet ceremony performed at Clovis, New Mexico on May 29, Hazel Probasco became the bride of Leon Horn of South Plains. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Probasco. She is a graduate of the Floydada High school having finished with the class of 1931.

Mr. Horn is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Horn. He too graduated from the Floydada High school with the class of 1930 and is employed at present in Plainview.

Mr. and Mrs. Daw Nix of Plainview accompanied the couple to Clovis and stood with the couple as the vows were read.

FIVE YEARS OF PROGRESS

"In 5 years," says Harry Slattery, Administrator, "the Rural Electrification Administration has financed the building — mainly through loans to cooperatives — of a quarter million miles of new rural power line, destined eventually to serve 750,000 farm families and other rural users — more than 2 1/2 million farm people. "And this," he continues, "is only part of the story. Private power companies, under the stimulus of the REA program, likewise stepped up their expansion of rural service. Today not 1 in 10, but 1 farm in 4 enjoys the convenience and the new incentive to better and more profitable production that low-cost electric power brings," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Colville and sons, Billy and Gene, of Bucklin, Kansas, spent the week-end here with his mother, Mrs. W. M. Colville.

BIRTH RATE IS HIGHEST ON MOST CROWDED FARMS

"Perhaps it is not generally realized," Secretary Wallace told the Senate Civil Liberties Committee investigating the farm-labor problem "that our population is growing far more rapidly in rural areas than in the cities, and that our farms already are crowded with far more people than can hope to make a decent living out of agriculture. The working farm population is now growing at the rate of about 45,000 a year — and the increase is fastest in those very areas which already are poorest and most overcrowded. In the Southwestern States, for example, the farm population has doubled since the Civil War, although there actually is less land under cultivation in those States today than there was in 1850. More so, damaged by erosion that it is far less productive than it was those days — As a result, more and more people have been crowded out of the poorer and poorer farms, and the standard of living is inevitably falling."

CLOVERS AND ALFALFA LEAD AS HONEY PLANTS

Four honey plants — alfalfa, alkali clover, sweetclover, and white clover — rank well ahead of competitors, taking the county as a whole. All four are favorites with the bees wherever they grow, but their primary importance as honey sources comes from their wide distribution as hay and pasture plants. In Circular 554, just published by the United States Department of Agriculture, a summary of reports from beekeepers shows that there are only five States — Delaware, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, and Texas — in which one of these four is not listed as a principal honey plant, and most States list two or three, and several list all four.

In the Southeast blossoming trees are more important as honey plants than in other sections of the country. South Carolina reports sourwood, tuliptree, basswood, locust, goldenrod, sumac, persimmon, and aster as principal sources of honey. Tennessee reports the same trees excepting basswood, but white clover heads the list and sweetclover is included.

Florida's semitropical climate is reflected in its list of primary honey plants — tupelo, mangrove, thistle, orange palmetto, sunflower, and tili. Texas beekeepers list cotton, horsemint, mesquite, huajillo, calceolaria, and marigold. The circular includes a seasonal chart for each State indicating the time during which some of the important honey plants are supplying the bees.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Caudle, of Amarillo, visited here over Sunday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bishop.

E. M. Deakins, of Snyder, is here this week on a visit with his son, Jack Deakins and family.

COOL REFRESHING SUMMER DRINKS

The first warm summer days seem to call for cool, tempting refreshments. After an afternoon in the open, a refreshing milk drink with crunchy butter cookies is just the "Snack" to tide one over until mealtimes. The refreshing coolness of milk combined with ice cream will give you renewed energy to finish the day's work.

At home with meals, at the soda fountain, at picnics, beverages made with milk have unusual appeal. Easily assimilated food value or "pick-up" plus a delightful thirst-quenching quality put these drinks in front for warm weather.

Orange Quench
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 cup orange juice
Combine ingredients, beat until thoroughly blended. Serve chilled. Makes 1 serving.

Variation: Add 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, for Spiced Orange Milk.

Ginger Flip
1/2 cup gingerale
1/2 cup milk
1 serving vanilla ice cream

Pour gingerale and milk into a tall glass. Add a serving of vanilla ice cream. Serve immediately. Makes 1 large serving. Root beer may be substituted for gingerale.

Fresh Banana Frosted
1 fully ripe banana
1 scoop vanilla ice cream
6 ounces cold milk

Peel banana and break it into pieces directly into shaker cup of mixer or mixing bowl. Add other ingredients and beat until creamy. Makes 1 serving.

Note: When an electric drink mixer is used which does not cut up and crush fruit as it mixes, the banana should be mashed before being placed into mixer cup. Place mashed banana with other ingredients into mixer cup and whip until creamy.

Places Open For Texas CCC Camps July Enrollment

A number of places will be open for July enrollment in the CCC camps. O. G. Evers, Floyd County Welfare administrator, announced that exact quota for the county is uncertain, Evers said.

However, Adam R. Johnson, state executive director, has announced that there will be 4500 places, possibly more, open to enrollment next month.

"We will take applications up to the last minute," Evers said, urging however that all boys interested in the work make their applications as soon as possible at the Welfare office. Deadline on applications will probably be set between the 10th and 15th of July.

Any boy between the ages of 17 and 23 1/2 years who needs employment is not in school, is unmarried and a citizen of the United States, physically fit and of good character, may apply for enrollment in the CCC.

"The CCC is a work program where boys learn by doing," state director Johnson pointed out. "It is not a military organization in any sense of the word. You have the president's word that it will not be militarized in any way. In the event that the army is increased for any purpose, the fact that a boy is a member of the corps will not automatically transfer him into army service."

IS THIS ANY WAY TO RUN A HOUSE? "Bills! Bills! Bills!" It's the first of the month again in the home without a Servel Electrolux. Of course, any husband knows he could run the house for a lot less than a woman, anyhow. "Look at this electric bill! Look at this grocery bill! We waste enough to feed two families!" He's got something there—unless you've got a Servel Electrolux. And if you have, you never hear these squawks about the unbalanced budget. It's a nice little royalty that Servel pays you, month after month, in grocery savings and operating cost. Let's see what Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Paducah, Texas, who used to own another type automatic refrigerator, has to say: "In the summer months, the cost of operating it would be $8.50 a month. Now our Servel operates for 60c a month." And Mrs. Travis Fore, of Nocona, says, "My ice bill alone ran from $5 to $7 a month before I owned a Servel Electrolux. It costs 70c or 80c a month." And about food savings, here's the story from Mrs. W. E. Tosh, Stamford, Texas: "My grocery bill has been cut to almost half. There is no more food spoilage whatever." So, next time your husband gets the "unbalanced budget blues," show him this little arithmetic problem—the savings in several hundred average homes like yours, where they spent $40 to $50 a month for food: Saved on leftovers, per month... $2.82 Saved on food spoilage, per month... 2.60 Saved on buying bargains, per month... 3.61 Saved on FOOD ALONE... $8.58 Now add what you now spend for ice or electricity to run the jolly you have in your kitchen now. Then subtract 2 or 3 cents a day, which is plenty for the operating cost on a Servel Electrolux here. Then see if he doesn't say, "Great Scott, we're paying for one—let's get it!" But wait... He doesn't know yet that Servel Electrolux is the refrigerator—the only automatic refrigerator—with no moving parts in its freezing system. No, not a one. Nothing to wear; to get rattly and noisy, to lose efficiency, to let you down without refrigeration in August or September, while you wait for the service man. He won't believe this "no moving parts" at first; so bring him to us. We'll show him. Just a tiny little SILENT gas flame. And as Mrs. Henry Brooks, Paducah, Texas, says, "any home, anywhere, can enjoy Servel Electrolux refrigeration. Yes, town, farm or ranch. She says, "The beauty of Servel Electrolux is, if you move to the country you don't have to trade it off; it operates on butane or kerosene, as well as natural gas. And if you live on a farm or ranch now, by all means come in and see how you can have ice cubes, ice cream and perfect city refrigeration—the same identical Servel Electrolux that a million city families use, except it uses butane or kerosene. And no matter—town or country—we can sure make it easy to own one. Come in and find out these things for yourself—or phone us and we will come to see you." NO MOVING PARTS in its freezing system PERMANENT SILENCE CONTINUED LOW OPERATING COST MORE YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE CONTINUED SAVINGS THAT PAY FOR IT C. H. LEARN YOUR LIMITS, ADVISE TO ADDICTS OF SUN BATHS

AUSTIN, Texas.—"Use caution in getting your suntan this season" is the advice of Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.
 "Under a misconception as to the amount of sun they can take without ill effects, many persons thoughtlessly submit their unprotected faces, backs and legs to over-exposure to sun and suffer painfully, sometimes seriously, as a result," Dr. Cox pointed out.
 Restraint in acquiring a suntan is advised. Exposure of ten minutes the first day should be ample, and the amount of time spent in the sun can be increased on a day-to-day basis as the skin becomes accustomed to sunlight.
 Advising sun-bathers to "learn their limits," Dr. Cox further pointed out that individual differences may determine the length of time that a person can stay in the sun without being burned.
 Before becoming too ardent over prolonged sunbathing, one would do well to remember that many a vacation or week-end has been ruined because the blistering and illness-producing power of the sun's rays on tender skin was insufficiently appreciated.
 Some persons are susceptible to sunburn but don't tan; other individuals tan over a longer or shorter period, but the same general rule applies to all—"don't overdo."
 Most sunburns, according to Dr. Cox, are similar to first-degree burns, but some, as the result of over-exposure, reach the blistering stage characteristic of a second-degree burn.

POWER LINES SERVING ONE OUT OF FOUR FARMS

About 1,700,000 farms, 25 percent of all the farms in the United States had highline electric service at the beginning of this year, more than twice the number having service when the Rural Electrification was established in 1935, REA announces.
 Electric service was extended to approximately 225,000 farm families and other users or about 1,000,000 persons during 1939—one for every 30 seconds ticked off from the beginning to the end of the year.
 Users receiving service from REA financed systems now total about 400,000. Of the 688 such systems, 500 are in operation with more than 180,000 miles of lines energized.
 During 1939 construction was equivalent to one average system completed per day, averaging about 400 miles of line per work day. During periods of favorable weather, construction has averaged more than 500 miles per working day, and at times it exceeded 500 miles per working day. The 180,000 miles of REA financed lines in operation at the end of 1939 were sufficient to span the continent from Washington to San Francisco 60 times. An additional 60,000 miles were still under construction.
 The average size REA financed system has an investment of $400,000, and serves 1,200 users from 400 miles of lines. Farmers cooperative constitute 84 percent of REA borrowers.

ONE-PIE PUMPKIN FITS NEEDS OF SMALL FAMILY

A small-family pumpkin large enough for just one pie has been developed at the United States Department of Agriculture field station at Cheyenne, Wyoming. The Early Cheyenne pumpkin is only 2 to 4 inches in length and 5 to 7 inches in diameter. Cut, pumpkin does not keep well, and, unless a housewife cans the ordinary sized pumpkin or uses it immediately for other pies, it goes stale. Bureau of Plant Industry workers at the station who have "tested" the Early Cheyenne in pies, say that in flavor and other characteristics it is the equal of the commercial variety New England Pie, from which it originated.

SWEETPOTATO RESEARCH BROADENS STEP BY STEP

Sweetpotato starch offers a good example of the kind of results that may come from scientific research, says James T. Jardine, Director of Research, United States Department of Agriculture.
 The original problem put to the chemists of the Department was to devise a practical and economical process for making sweetpotato starch. This part of the problem has met with considerable success, although scientists are still improving the process. The starch is a quality product in demand on the market, and manufacture is expanding. The byproduct pulp may be utilized advantageously as stock feed.
 The first starch making was seasonal and lasted only a few weeks during the harvesting season. This created problem two, to find a way to use the raw material over a longer season and thus cut overhead expense. Research was started to develop chemical and heat treatments to take out of the ground potatoes enough water so the product would keep. The work on this is already under way and has pointed to a third problem, using dried potatoes for livestock feed.
 If dried sweetpotatoes could be kept for year-round feeding the sweetpotato could come to be one of the most important feed crops of the south. Yields of sweetpotatoes compare favorably in total food values with yields of corn. If sweetpotatoes drying can be made cheap enough—perhaps through community drying plants—feeders may not need to depend on the byproducts pulp of starch manufacture, but may grow sweetpotatoes for drying without extracting the starch, thus producing a livestock feed that is cheaper for the south than corn.
 While the chemists are wrestling with these problems, plant breeders are developing new strains of high-yielding sweetpotatoes that are high in starch.

SOAP AND WATER TEST TELLS SILAGE QUALITY

A simple soap and water test is a good aid in judging the quality of silage. If, after handling the silage, soap and water will remove the odor from the hands it is an indication that the silage has undergone the right kind of fermentation, says T. E. Woodward, of the Federal Bureau of Dairy Industry. If an unpleasant odor lingers after washing, it is an indication that there has been an undesirable butyric-acid fermentation instead of the desirable lactic-acid fermentation.
 Ill-smelling silage, says Woodward, is the result of two conditions prevailing at the same time; high moisture and low acidity will provide the chemical conditions for desirable silage fermentation. With the growing importance of silage made from grasses and legumes—in part as a result of grassing areas liable to erosion—there is more need for farmers to understand this principle of silage fermentation. When corn has been the main silage crop it has furnished starchy material enough to make the silage acid enough to keep well. "Legume crops, and possibly immature grasses also, develop little acid in the fermentation process," says Woodward. This may call for adding either phosphoric acid or molasses which will ferment to furnish acid. But if the legume or grass is allowed to wilt until the moisture is reduced to 68 percent or less, no supplement will be needed to make good silage.
 Chopping the material fine so that it can be packed tight to force out air is the other precaution which Woodward recommends in silage making.

SOYBEAN ACREAGE EXPANDS

Another large increase—about 18 percent—in the acreage of soybeans is in prospect, as indicated by farmers who have reported their "intentions to plant" to the United States Department of Agriculture. Not until 1934 did American farmers plant as many as 5,000,000 acres of soybeans grown alone—that is, excluding plantings where soybeans are seeded with another crop, such as corn, to increase the feed, or for turning under for fertilizer. Last year the soybean acreage was about 9,000,000 acres and will probably exceed 10,500,000 acres this year.

BRUSH-OFF FLY TRAP COMFORTS LIVESTOCK

Farm animals soon learn to make frequent use of a device for brushing off and trapping horn flies that are such a pest to livestock in summer. It is a cage-like structure that fly-pestered animals pass through, leaving their tormentors behind in traps to be destroyed.
 The framework of the cage is a structure 7 feet wide, 6 feet high, and 10 feet long with a fly-tight roof. Canvas flaps hang from the ceiling and brush off flies on the back and sides of animals walking through. Other canvas flaps on frames attached to the floor brush the legs and bellies. Simple wire fly traps are arranged at the sides of the passage to catch the flies brushed off by the canvas flaps.
 The device is usually set up at some strategic spot through which the animals must pass several times a day—in a lane to the pasture, in the entry to a dairy barn, or on the way to the water tank or pond. Livestock soon learn to make for the "brusher-offer" when flies torment them.
 To acustom the animals to the trap, W. G. Bruce of the United States Department of Agriculture suggests building the bare frame several weeks in advance of fly

Some will plan a cruise of the Caribbean seas perhaps, others will visit the fairs in de luxe air-conditioned coaches. Many will "see Texas," the Davis mountains, the oil fields, the seashore at Galveston, the City of Palms with its leading citrus-producing region of the United States, Romance Mexico's call will be answered by thousands who will see the "land of enchantment."

Many aids are to be had from your local oil and gas stations. Among these are maps, tourists bureaus of information, routes and valuable information in servicing your car for extended trips. Other aids, such as dry ice for refrigerator in your car, new colored lens glasses that take the glare out of approaching headlights, the complete toolkit, the first-aid kit and how to avoid the two greatest kill-joys fatigue and overheating. Floydada merchants and information bureaus are anxious to help you with, in order that your trip may be a pleasant one.

At last, when the cat has been set on the porch, the note placed in the milk bottles and a farewell word to Old Rover, forget the cares of the day, relax and observe the scenes of nature. But, before you go won't you step to your telephone and call The Hesperian and tell us about your trip? Thank you, and... a happy vacation!

Insurance On Wheat Loss Being Paid

Progress is being made in the adjustment of crop losses suffered by Floyd county farmers who insured their 1940 wheat under the Federal Crop Insurance corporation program, according to Alyce A. Hoots, secretary of the Floyd County ACA. Adjustments have been made on 53 farms, and indemnity payments have already been received by 50 of these wheat growers.

Adjustment work thus far has been confined to total or "substantially total" losses, where the crop was entirely destroyed or so badly damaged that there was no chance of it producing a yield that would justify harvesting, Hoots said. Where total or "substantially total" losses have been determined, farmers have the use of the land for other crops. Altogether, 2690 acres of insured wheat land in the county have been released for other uses, the secretary reported.

Approximately 50 percent of the claims of losses reported thus far have resulted from drought.

"The settlement of 1940 crop losses demonstrates the manner in which wheat crop insurance is stabilizing wheat growers' incomes," Hoots declared. "The indemnities that farmers are receiving represent income that they otherwise would have lost. More losses may occur between now and harvest, but every insured grower is sure of income from at least 75 percent of his average yield."

McCoy 4-H Boys To Go To Short Course For Winning Contest

Junior Cummings, son of O. F. Cummings, and Carroll Johnston, son of Sidney Johnston, all of McCoy were selected by local 4-H sponsors and members of the County 4-H council as the outstanding 4-H team entered in the Dairy demonstration contest "The Value of Milk as a Food," held Monday in the agriculture building.

This team will represent Floyd county at the state contest which will be held during the A & M college Short course at College Station on July 6. Winners in the state contest will make a trip to the National Dairy show. Both the boys are active members of the McCoy 4-H club and by virtue of their winning of the contest will make the trip to College Station with all expenses paid.

For several weeks Floyd County 4-H club boys have been working on the demonstration. Two boys compose a team and with the aid of charts and white rats, which have been fed special diets for approximately 90 days, results of "The Value of Milk as a Food" demonstration were determined. All club members of the county were given an opportunity to enter this contest and put on a demonstration at the elimination contest held Monday.

Mrs. Haney Baker of Childress, and Mrs. Kittinger of Austin came Sunday and were guests until Wednesday in the home of their brother, I. R. Grundy and Mrs. Grundy.

Dougherty Gets First Wheat Tue.

Farmers, Grain Dealers Expect County Yield Increased Over '39

Barring unfavorable weather, Floyd County's 1940 wheat harvest is expected to get underway within the next few days. First load of the current year's crop was received this week but little volume is predicted before next mid-week.

The first load of 1939 wheat was marketed by Roe Jones, of the Center community, on June 5 of last year. This grain, purchased by Edwards Elevator, brought 63 cents per bushel. This year the harvest season is ten days to two weeks later than last.

Reports from various sections of the county indicated that farmers in the southeast portion, around Dougherty and in that vicinity, will start general harvesting activities about the first of next week. Some wheat has been received at elevators in Crosby county and W. S. Poole, who farms south of Dougherty, marketed a ninety bushel load of 1940 wheat at Dougherty Grain Company Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The grain tested 61, and was cut from a large field on the Poole farm. Mr. Poole, however, will not begin extensive harvesting for a few days.

In the irrigated district, south-west, west and northwest of Floydada harvesting activities will be underway by the latter part of the ensuing week. In this area the yield is expected to be greater than in 1939. Lateness of harvest in all sections of the county this year has been attributed to recent rains which ended a drought of several weeks duration.

Yield Increases

Although drought conditions have reduced wheat yield in some portions of the county, the county average is expected to be more than 1939. According to figures submitted by the Floyd County A.A.A., there was a total of 165,060.5 acres seeded to wheat in 1940. This amount is some 4,000 acres less than the allotment of 170,098.3 acres for this year. The 1939 average was 8.6 bushels per acre and this is expected to be exceeded substantially by the 1940 crop.

Hail damage to wheat in 1940 has been negligible to date. Many farmers and dealers believe it possible that "sucker" heads brought on by recent rains will mature and make some grain although this in most instances is reason for delay in harvesting.

Farmers, grain dealers, implement dealers, and repairmen and others, have been busy for the past several days in preparation for wheat cutting to begin. The season is expected to be short and the bulk of the grain is expected to reach the elevators within two weeks after harvesting is actually begun generally over the area.

A conservative estimate from farmers and grainmen in this area sets the wheat yield in Floyd County for 1940 at from 1,000,000 bushels to 2,000,000.

Implement dealers, oil companies, garages and service men are planning to give extra service during the harvest season so there will be no loss of time in harvesting activities.

FOR YOUR Vacation NOW!

Vacation Spots Calling As 1940 Becomes The "Travel America" Year

Vacation spots the nation over this year are calling motorists to make this "Travel America" year. With the war in progress, and travel other than that on the continent limited, 1940 bids to become the greatest national travel year in American history.

For people of the plains region, many beautiful and scenic vacation resorts are easily accessible. Within a few hours drive or travel by rail are Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico, cool Colorado, the Indian regions of New Mexico, Old Mexico with its many amazing sights, the lower Rio Grande valley, Galveston and the gulf coast, the Davis mountain and Big Bend region of south west Texas and hundreds of others.

As a part of a national program, every one of these vacation and pleasure spots are devoting extraordinary effort and time to make your visit a pleasant one. This is the year to see America and only America. There are many places in Colorado that rival the Swiss Alps in beauty and color, the fishing is good everywhere that fish abound, and you can take your pick of deep sea fishing or angling for mountain trout.

Perhaps the most enjoyable feature about your vacation trip this year is the relief from "nerves" that exists in spite of our spirit of optimism. It's hard to hear the roar of cannon when the rush of icy mountain water awakes you to a day of fishing and hiking.

Many Floydada and Floyd county people are away on vacation trips and others are making plans to visit places of interest and amusement in the southwest. It costs very little more to go than to stay at home, so be among those who go by air, bus, train or automobile to America's wonderlands. See your own country first—and now!

It is high time that the most grown problems of the war debts be adjusted some way. I have been interested in a suggestion that the debts be paid by furnishing this country goods needed here and thus keep intact our international economic system. The British might furnish us such metals as are necessary for our defence as tin which is for our defence as tin which is found so abundantly in her possessions.

Then too, perhaps we might be able to acquire air and navy bases on possibly Newfoundland and other possessions which would be a help for means of defense.

But why all this precaution? If by chance Germany should win is it likely there would be a "Blitzkrieg" against New York, Dallas, or Los Angeles? Probably not but at least our present economic world would collapse, our free trade would go and in place would be barter. Germany and her dependencies might be trading with South America and later followed by a military alliance with some of those countries.

Let us do all we can to help the Allies now with airplanes and necessary food supplies and in turn be helping ourselves and prevent the catastrophe of later sacrificing our man power.

IS CIVILIZATION IN DANGER

Is it not worth while for us to consider the greater importance of victory for the Allies and what would be the effects on our democratic ideals and principles should Germany be the victor.

Whatever our personal feelings are as regards the English and French, and though we may detect a lack of understanding of England's map of the street, who thinks of America as only a land of skyscrapers with no dignified Westminster Abbeys and though France has a different language and background, we must concede that should Germany succeed in crushing these democracies, we would lose a civilization for which we have worked ever since the beginning of our existence. In the defeat of England the world would be deprived of a country whose citizens have in the main been an influence for what is best in culture and decency. If France were destroyed there would be the loss of a democracy with ideals much similar to our own and of a country which, in our time of trouble during our early struggles for independence loaned us millions of francs, some of which authorities agree has never been repaid.

More man power is not needed by England and France. What the Allies do need is immediate shipment of airplanes and other war materials and it does seem imperative that the United States furnish at once this assistance. Increasing our own output of these materials might be accomplished by the unmerging of business of which we hear so much. For instance in the state of Texas there are no doubt opportunities for airplane factories which, after the war is over, might be converted into farm implement factories and thus eventually develop some of the states resources and aid unemployment at the same time.
