O'Daniel Is Easy Winner As Governor

Floyd County Electorate Gives Him Over 68.5 Per Cent Of Votes Cast

Although the sentiment of voters all over the state was hot as pronounced for Governor W. Lee O'Daniel as it was in Floyd county, which gave him better than 68.5 per cent of the votes cast in that race, the electorate of Texas returned him to the governor's chair by an overwhelming majority over all six of his opponents, a vote that represented nearly 54 per cent of the more than a million cast, fully justifying his forecast that there would be no run-off campaign for the governorship.

For United States senator the present incumbent, Senator Tom Connally was an easy victor over two opponents whose vote was insignificant and Congressman George H. Mahon of Colorado City, was a winner by a majority of more than three to one over two opponents, one of them a Floyd county citizen, M. D. Ramsey, and the other a state legislator from Dickens county, C. L. Harris.

Other winners in the first primary for state and district offices included Lieutenant-governor Coke Stevenson, State Comptroller, Geo. H. Sheppard, State Treasurer Charley Lockhart, State Superintendent, L. A. Woods, State Commissioner of Agriculture McDonald, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court W. H. Sharp, Tom L. Beauchamp was nominated over George E. Christian for Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Unopposed nominees for state office included Gerald C. Mann, returned as attorney general, and Commissioner of the General Land Office Bascom Giles.

Formby For Senator
McAdoo-reared Marshall Formby present county judge of Dickens county, ran away from his opponent Alvin R. Allison of Levelland in the race for senator of the 30th senatorial district.

Judge A. J. Folley, of Floyd county, ran without opposition to succeed himself as associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, Seventh Supreme Judicial district.

MOTHER SAVES LIFE OF BABY DAUGHTER AFTER SHE FELL IN WATER TANK

The cool thinking of Mrs. Raymond Rucker is credited with having saved the life of her small daughter when she fell in a water tank at their home near Lockney last week. The child had gone to the bottom when the mother found her. She pulled the child from the tank by the heels and shook her vigorously, put her in the car, got a nearby neighbor Mrs. J. Cox to drive to Lockney to a physician, while she applied artificial respiration enroute. After a few minutes assistance from Dr. Homer Thompson the child was restored to normal breathing. The physician said he could not have revived the baby if the mother had not have given the first aid treatment.

Mrs. Rucker was canning pickles at the time of the accident and further proved her resourcefulness by returning to the house to turn out the burners from the oil stove to assure the safety of her infant she left asleep in its crib. Mr. Cox, husband of the neighbor who accompanied her to Lockney cared for the infant until their return.

Off To Camp Manuevers Of Texas N. G.

Judge L. G. Mathews

Judge L. G. Mathews, who in military affairs of the state is a captain, left Tuesday morning for Craven, Louisiana, where he will assist in organizing the camp for the training of Texas National Guard units, artillery and infantry units of which are due to leave Friday and Saturday from the plains area.

The Texas troops will spend practically all of the month of August in the Louisiana camp and this year's manuevers are expected to take on much of the new spirit of army seriousness in training.

Specifically Judge Mathews has been assigned the duties of intelligence plans and training officer of the 11th Quartermasters regiment, a large assignment from which it is possible he will not be given leave of absence to come home and engage in his political battle for state representative of the 120th district.

Asked Monday night what his plans were Judge Mathews said he had asked for leave of absence and if this is granted he will be home within some ten days. Otherwise he will be in the training camp until a day or two after the primary is over, and said he would just have to leave his campaign up to his friends and the voters.

Floyd Co. Chorus Made Its Initial Appearance In '38

Organization's Appearance at A. & M. Short Course Gets Recognition

(Ed. Note: The recent appearance of the Floyd County chorus at College Station where they appeared on the "Songs of People of Texas" at the Short Course, has gained them wide recognition, making the story of their efforts one of wide interest. This story is given herewith.)

By Mrs. C. A. Caffee
The Floyd County chorus was organized in 1938 and is composed of members of the fifteen home demonstration clubs of the county.

Mrs. Raymond Williams was elected director with Mrs. W. M. Finkner assistant director, Mrs. O. G. Glassmoyer pianist, with Mrs. M. D. Ramsey, assistant.

The club's initial appearance was in November, 1938, as guests of the Floydada Parent-Teacher's association.

After a winter of straggling attendance, the club began the spring 1939 with new music. In April the chorus sang in the Floyd County council radio program, broadcast on station KFYO in Lubbock.

In May Mrs. Wm. Finkner was elected director. During this month the chorus sang on the programs of the District Home Demonstration association at Lubbock, the Bi-district short course in Canyon, the Floyd County Old Settlers reunion and the Federated Missionary societies of Floydada.

In September the chorus appeared on the program of the Texas Home Demonstration association when it met in a state meeting in Lubbock.

In December the chorus gave as a recital, a Christmas program at the First Baptist church in Floydada.

In the spring of 1940, at the suggestion of Mrs. C. A. Caffee, chairman, of district 2 of the Texas Home Demonstration association, (See Chorus back page)

EDITORIALS

Some irritation has developed, as expected, out of the Supreme Court's ruling that in a city like Floydada, where a city poll tax is levied, the city poll tax receipt as well as a state and county poll tax receipt must be held by the resident to qualify for a vote in the primary or general or special elections. This decision, handed down in December, was the cause of some concern on the part of local officials as soon as it became known. It is a matter that cannot be helped and nothing done about at present. Resentment against the city, we think is entirely unfounded if one knows all the facts. The city poll tax is not serving the purpose for which it was originally intended, however, and unless the legislature can be prevailed upon to change the law to permit the city to levy its poll tax without affecting one's vote in elections other than municipal, it will have to be abandoned as a means of city revenue in the interest of harmony and good feeling.

Taken by and large the election of last Saturday drew a heavier vote in this county than was expected, probably 200 votes in excess of the general guess. At this time it appears the vote will not be so heavy in the August run-off. The governor's show is over and many other contests settled. However, it is a long time until August 24 and there could be a change in interest. Fact is it is possible that the purely local races in Precincts 1, 2 and 3 may draw out as big a vote as was counted in the first primary. In addition there is the assessor-collector run-off and the two men long prominent in Floyd county affairs—Deen and Mathews—who are contesting for the office of representative for the 120th district, to add interest.

Regardless of which candidate is the winner in the race for state representative Floyd county will have a Floyd county man in the state legislature representing the eight-county district for the first time in its history. Of the long line of good to illustrious representatives the district has had it has never been this county's fortune to have a man in Austin before. It will be a novelty worth remarking about.

Texas' manner of conducting elections, somewhat antiquated according to some ideas, we believe, after all, is probably as conducive to a clean election, a fair shuffle and a square deal for all concerned as any. Many people think that anything that is "new" is better than what they already have. They forget there is nothing new under the sun. Some of the Texas procedure, we are told, grows out of legal customs descended from the Spanish and Mexican rule in this area. It is generally known that in many respects the tincture of the laws of this state with the Latin influence has been very beneficial. The old English common law is full of unfair and cruel injustices, although this is just a side thought from the original in this paragraph, namely that Texas election laws are more conducive to good government than are some of the new-fangled ideas which have grown up in other states to plague the populace.

We still believe that the poll tax as a requirement for suffrage is based on the wrong conception of good government and that it should be abolished and the funds thus obtained gotten from some other source.

Only one representative in the state legislature from the panhandle and south plains area now serving will go back to Austin in January. He is Jack Little, of Amarillo, who was in fact the only one of the whole lot who asked to succeed himself. Tarwater of this district, Harp of the district to the east and Settle of the Lubbock area, are among those who chose not to offer themselves. Tarwater, after some ten years of service as a legislator and one of the soundest who ever went to Austin, tired of the game. He almost decided to stay out of the race two years ago but finally decided to offer himself again at that time, so we hear. He was not spectacular but he was on the job and did good work.

Without exception the plains representatives at Austin will be pledged to oppose a sales tax in any form to raise more revenue for the state. The severance tax on petroleum products, they say, is the most popular idea among the legislators-to-be. Wading out into tax discussions is a bit deep for us. However, if it be true that all the millions of barrels of gasoline, crude oil and natural gas that are going to other states and to nations across the seas is escaping a tax which is, on the contrary, levied against the same products that are consumed in this state, then it is a rich field for the tax man and would raise ample revenue mighty fast.

To the generous mind the heaviest debt is that of gratitude, when it is not in our power to repay it.—Franklin.

AGAINST THE COMMON WELFARE

For the reason that efforts to prevent unfair competition by law is doomed to failure before the law is written, the Texas Press association, organization of country newspapers in the state, has gone on record as opposed to a Fair Trade and Anti-Discrimination act. Here is the manner in which the resolution of the press association was worded:

"The Texas Press association expresses its opposition to efforts to fix prices and otherwise restrict free competition under the guise of prohibiting unfair competition. The Texas Press association urges its members to request candidates for the legislature to carefully consider all such proposals in the light of their possible effect on the cost of living at a time when the people will need to conserve every resource and when the natural result of war conditions will be to increase prices without encouragement or stimulation from government. The Texas Press association is opposed to the passage of the so-called Fair Trade and Anti-Discrimination bills on the ground that they would not confer any benefits upon the people generally nor would they, in fact, afford the protection to the independent merchants claimed for them by the sponsors. These conclusions are based upon the experience in other states where similar legislation has been tried."

While the intentions of the sponsors are excellent, without doubt, and are pointed at some unfair practices, it is our belief the unfair practices in one form or another would remain and business would only be burdened with another set-up of regulation and the endless chain of bureaucratic government have another link welded.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

Nellie Witt Spikes

One day is so much like another, we hardly notice the passing of time. Men are up with their work, just sitting around hoping rain will come in time to make some feed for their stock this winter.

Gardens are holding out pretty well. Okra and tomatoes are making their appearance on dinner tables. And we are thankful for blackeyed peas.

Mr. and Mrs. People of Texas went to the polls last Saturday and made their choice of the ones who are to serve them another two years. It is good we soon forget the disappointments of an election. Do you remember when women suffrage was the main issue in many an election? And how some argued that they (women) did not have time from their home work to go to the polls to vote, not realizing that it would not take more than ten minutes of their time after they reached the polls. Some spoke of the polls like they were places to be shunned by good citizens. Time changes opinion.

I bought a new desk, set my typewriter on it, placed a bouquet of flowers near, sat down to write this column, all I could think of was my new desk and the vase of flowers.

Two stout little burros pulled the heavily loaded wagon down the smooth pavement, never even as much shaking a long ear as haughty fast cars honked shilly at them to pull over. Just as much composed was their driver, a largish man in blue shirt and overalls. Pots and pans jingled to the creaking of the wagon. A pair of rusty springs topped the load and swayed back and forth from their high perch. Who they were and where they were going I do not know. Time was when we would have stopped our wagon and had a talk with this mover. Wagons that passed each other, longer going separate ways, never more perhaps to meet, but the memory of pleasant talk as each stopped a few minutes lived on!

There is nothing I can think of this morning that has more appeal than the following clipping from the Amarillo News Globe. Vance Johnson has an appeal in his writing as has Bob Beverly of Lovington, New Mexico:

Faith
There is something mighty appealing about a letter Bob Beverly of Lovington wrote on Easter Sunday in tribute to an old cowpuncher friend of his, Joe Beasley, who died at Portales. The tribute was sent to Jack County Terrell of Portales, with the note that "you boys will understand it. No newspaper could print this is not English, just cowpuncher sentiment."

It is reprinted from the Portales News.
"Joe, I was looking over the paper this morning and I saw where you had cut out from the range wagon here and gone to work with the Great Range Boss, whose leaving this part of the range we celebrate this day. Or in other words, we keep this day in remembrance, on account of Him working this range for a few years.

"And He saw that He had to go on and fix up a range somewhere else for His old puncher. For He saw this part of the range would soon become overstocked, and began to fence the old punchers in too close. And that they would need more room for He knew they had been used to being scattered some and needed room to go and come without any fence or fuss.

"Wow Joe we had got used to having you around. Maybe we did not think of you quitting the range at this time, but I guess the Good Range Boss over on the other side decided he might be short handed this year. So he sent you word to bring your cut and mount and come to headquarters."

"Now Joe, you will find a lot of our old pals over there and I hope they are all getting by and making hands over there the same as they did here. I am sure you will draw a good job over there as you deserve, but we will kinder miss you for a while for we kinder depend on you here."

"I hope you will speak to the Range Boss, and tell Him all the good things you can for us old fellows left here. And tell him we are just old fellows doing the best we can. He will understand the things that has at times caused us to worry and fret. You tell Him we might never look up to Him through stained window panes or from painted houses but that when we stood on some lonely hill... and saw the flash of lightning and heard the distant rumbling of thunder, we knew that way off there is the great beyond, that there was a Supreme Ruler over all those things, and that we knew He was ever mindful and had a loving heart for the old puncher in all his weaknesses."

"If you get a chance go down by Dad's little camp. You will see a sweet little western mother there, and if it is about mealtime she will be glad to have you stay for dinner... And tell her for me that I have not amounted to much since her and Father left me a little boy, but that I have done the best I could."

"And if things is so you can, look up old Rig Johnson and tell him that Old Man Stone, Jack County, and I will be in just a few days, and if he finds any good gentle ponies around close to throw them in the horse pasture..."

"Us old punchers will be coming by pretty soon now.
"So long."

FLOYD COUNTY 14 YEARS AGO

News items taken from files of the Floyd County Hesperian published in Floydada fourteen years ago.

Additional delays in arrival of material has continued to delay the paving work during the past week, according to C. H. Nail, construction foreman.

Slightly browned from a South Texas summer sun but none the worse for their seventeen days outing, the Floydada boys who encampment held at Palacios returned Saturday morning.

Rain totaling one inch fell in Floydada and vicinity Sunday afternoon. The precipitation was heavier in the eastern section of the county, ranging as high as one and three fourths inches, and fell rapidly.

Following a small dust storm, the rain began falling in Floydada at 5:15 and continued until 6:30 o'clock.

Warning to local cotton men against the threatened danger to the 1926 crop by the fleas in East Texas have been sent out by the latest government bulletins. A. V. Haynes, one of the county authorities on cotton production, said in turning in a detailed description of the pests that gin men here would likely investigate the situation in the county at once. Crosby and Dickens counties are infested with the insects press articles say. The report which said to have been sent out in the bulletin reads:

"During the past few weeks, there has been a totally unexpected and unprecedented spread of damage to the cotton crop caused by what is known as the 'cotton hopper' or the 'cotton flea.'"

All but three counties in Texas, as of June this year, had some sort of gas and oil activity, the above map indicating where actual production is and where oil and gas leasing and drilling activity has been done. The map is from a survey of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association.

Fred N. Clark Thanks Citizens For Splendid Vote In The Primary

TO THE CITIZENS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for the splendid vote given me in last Saturday's election. This vote is an inspiration to me, and I shall do my utmost to merit your confidence and to fulfill your trust. With your help and the experience I have had, I feel that I shall be a better sheriff. I feel that I have defeated a good man, and for this reason I appreciate all the more the confidence expressed in me by the people. For Mr. Randerson, I can say that I have never had a cleaner or more fair opponent.

I consider it a privilege and a pleasure to be your public servant, and whenever I can be of any service to you, do not hesitate to call on me.

Again, may I say I am deeply grateful to all of you.

Sincerely,
Fred N. Clark, Sheriff.

I hope my friends can see their way clear to continue supporting me and that those who lost their man in the first campaign will make me their choice now.

I appreciate the wonderful vote the people of Precinct No. 4 gave me last Saturday that returned me to the office without a run-off.

Just a word to say that your help and co-operation have been helpful to me while in office and I am sure I can depend on you further. I hope to be the commissioner for everybody in the precinct, have no ill will against anyone who voted for either of the other candidates, and will do my very best to make one and all a good man in the office.

VOTERS OF PRE. 2

For the splendid support you gave me July 27, I thank you; for honoring me with first position in this four-hand race, I thank you again.

To my losing opponents and your supporters I regret that I cannot win but want you to know that I appreciate the high plane on which this campaign was conducted by all opponents.

And to all of you—August 24 is very near, and perhaps I may not see each of you again in house-to-house canvass. If not, then don't forget to vote in our second primary and if you want me to serve as your next commissioner accept this as a personal request for your vote and speak to your neighbor about it.

Yours truly,
N. E. Waller.

Fry-McCullough Engagement Announced Wednesday At Tea

Announcing the approaching marriage of her daughter, Maxine, to Hugh D. McCullough of Waco, Mrs. R. E. Fry entertained with a tea at her home yesterday afternoon from 4:30 to 7:30 o'clock. The wedding date is August 21.

Approximately 200 guests called during the hours designated. They were received by Mrs. Fry, dressed in turquoise jersey gown, the honoree, who wore a white jersey gown, Marilyn, sister of the bride-elect, who wore turquoise chiffon, and Mrs. Lillie Britton, grandmother of Miss Fry, dressed in a dusty pink crepe frock.

Roses and other garden flowers were placed in the receiving rooms. Pastel shades, chosen colors of Miss Fry, were used in all appointments. Plans are being made for a sunrise garden wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fry.

Announcement of the wedding was made as guests were served. A handmade pink organdy cloth, with wide ruffled flounces falling to the floor, covered the round table. The centerpiece, made to resemble a huge nosegay, consisted of amarillies lilies, blue delphinium, pompon astors, cornflowers, and maidenhair fern. Pink tulle and colonial paper frills formed the background for the nosegay. Each guest was asked to pick a flower from small or nosegays and on these flowers, consisting of chifon daisies, astors, and cornflowers, were tiny white satin ribbons, bearing the inscription "Maxine and Hugh—August 21."

Cakes served were miniature three-tiered wedding cakes with pastel decorations. Punch was served from a large crystal bowl, and pastel mints were served in a heart shaped cut glass bowl, a gift given to the mother of the bridegroom-elect before her marriage.

During the reception, Miss Selma Linder, cousin of the honoree, played a piano medley consisting of "Humoresque," "Leitstrraum," "Loves Old Sweet Song," "I Dream of Jeanne with all those Endering Young Charms," "Viennese Re-Train," and "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes."

This program was a colorful and rhythmic display of developments in "Songs of the people of Texas" beginning with the Indian dances and songs and progressing to the present day. The Floyd County chorus in costumes made three appearances singing Irish, Scotch and Texas Independence songs. And joined in the massed chorus which closed the program.

On the return trip Mrs. Wm. Finkner, director and Mrs. O. G. Glassmoyer, pianist, were presented gifts by the members of the chorus making the trip, for their untiring efforts and splendid work as officers of the chorus.

The Floyd County council which sponsors the chorus made it possible for the following women to attend the short course: Mesdames O. G. Glassmoyer, A. H. Kreis, Dean Hill, S. J. Latta, Menard Field, Herman King, Clarence Brandes, L. M. Honea, A. B. Muncy, Sam Hale, R. B. Gary, Marvin Jeter, Lon Blasingame, Robert Smith, D. D. Shipley, Tom J. Boyd and Wm. Finkner.

COUNTY CONVENTION WILL BE HELD NEXT SATURDAY

Conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties in Floyd county have been called for Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the court house by Homer Howard, chairman of the Republicans and Homer Steen, of the Democrats, respectively.

The Republican convention will be held in the district court room and the Democratic in the county court room.

No Precinct Conventions

Chairman of the Democratic party has received no advice indicating that any precincts in the county held precinct conventions last Saturday. Since the precinct chairmen are being chosen by vote and no activities are left for a precinct convention save possible resolutions and selection of delegates to the county convention generally a routine matter, little interest is evinced in them any more.

The convention roll of Democrats will be made up by precincts of those present who are qualified voters and democrats, the county chairman said yesterday, and the convention turned over to whomsoever the assembled democrats may choose as permanent chairman. It is assumed a slate of O'Daniel delegates to the state convention will be offered for election.

Pepped up by the turn of affairs in the past few weeks Republicans are expected to assemble here in more hopeful atmosphere than in other recent years. Delegates and alternates will be chosen to the state convention.

Ralls Man Proud Of Cancer Cure

"For the benefit of others who suffer from cancer, I would like to state publicly that I am indeed grateful to Mr. John DeVoll of Ralls, Texas, for entirely removing the large sore from my neck that had pained me much," stated J. R. Wilson of Ralls.

"Just three months ago DeVoll placed the first plaster on my cancer. I am now well. The treatment is mild, and does not harm other flesh. Again I thank him." Signed, J. R. Wilson, Ralls, Texas. (Advertisement)
