Light But Cooling Showers

Light but cooling and helpful showers have been the rule in Floyd county communities this week following helpful rains last week in much of the area. The unusual phenomena of rain a few minutes before sunrise began Sunday morning in Floydada and continued through to Wednesday morning.

West, southwest and northwest of Floyd county rains have been more generous and in portions of the western half of this county the rains have been ample for all present needs. However, there are areas in which the need for moisture is quite serious.

Most of Lubbock, the greater part of Hale and the south half of Swisher county, closest neighbors on the west and north, have had ample rains, and parts of Crosby county, particularly the west half, have been visited by ample rainfall in the week.

Heaviest rain at Floydada was on Thursday afternoon last week when .93 of an inch of rain fell. The showers here during the week have added only a tenth of an inch to the total, but have served to refresh growing crops.

Every farm has its own report of crop conditions, which reports range from extremely poor to excellent. This is true both as to cotton and feeds. Temperatures during the week have ranged from a high of 94 on Saturday to a low of 61 on Friday. For the most part temperatures have run in the high seventies and low eighties, according to official figures at the Rural Electric Co-op office.

Yesterday afternoon some sections of the county which had little moisture previously this month were in the belt of thunder shower, particularly in the north and extreme northeast sections.

Aug. 31 Last Day To Insure Wheat On All-Risk Plan

Wheat farmer intending to take out all-risk insurance on their 1941 crops must do so either before they see their wheat or by August 31, whichever is earlier.

Anticipating a last-minute rush to sign up for crop insurance E. R. Duke, state crop insurance supervisor with headquarters at Amarillo, warned that absolutely no extension could be made of the August 31 deadline, a month earlier than the deadline for the 1940 program.

Blondy Finley Named Leading Salesman In Group For District

Blondy Finley, salesman for Bishop Motor company, Ford dealers, is off for a two-day vacation picnic today and tomorrow at Eagle Mountain lake, Fort Worth, as a result of outstanding salesmanship for his firm during the months of June and July.

West Texas Reunion To Open Today

Two-Day Program Of Fun And Re-Union Started This Morning

Old man weather permitting this year's gathering of the West Texas Old Settlers' association will be the biggest and best in a long series of annual gatherings that mark the birthday of Hank Smith, builder of the old rock house and pioneer settler where Hank Smith Memorial park has been dedicated at Mt. Blanco.

Recent rains have put the grounds in excellent condition. White River has been cleaned out by the nice rains which fell last week, all the concessions and fun-making devices for the picnic are on the ground.

This morning the registrations are scheduled to begin, with several old-timers already on hand last night and waiting for the opening of the picnic. Mrs. Evelyn Smith Lowry, secretary of the association, of Crosbyton, and Mrs. Jeffie Smith of Floydada, will be in charge of the registration booth on the grounds.

Little change has been made in many of the programs of fun and re-union. One substitution on the speakers' list has been made for tomorrow afternoon. Hop Halsey, newly-chosen nominee for representative of the 119th district, will speak at 2 o'clock Friday in place of Mary L. Cox, of Plainview, who cannot be present at that time, according to General Manager R. B. Smith, who announced the change Monday.

EDITORIALS

Third term antis who have been collar-bound democrats for many years now can realize the dilemma of the Republican back when it appeared Mr. Coolidge was their only logical candidate and they were building up his candidacy until that day he announced he "chose not to run." That Mr. Roosevelt should have made a similar announcement at the psychological time before the Democratic convention this summer now is apparent. But precedent breaking seems to be a Roosevelt characteristic. It was that way with Teddy.

What grass and feed mean to a high plains country is readily seen when one views the need where rains have not fallen as contrasted from the areas where Mother Nature has been more generous. Grass is nature's great cure for the earth's man-scarred surface. After man departs the great scheme of things puts grass back in the fields and beasts to consume it.

How irrigation is proving beneficial to the country is illustrated in the reasonable plentitude of feedstuffs which are leaving Floyd county fields. Alfalfa hay and forage bundles from irrigated fields are helping to balance the feed supply with the needs of the live stock of the country. While making the power money the feedstuffs help save the dry land farmer's herd while he waits for more favorable seasons.

Speaking of grass and grasslands one wonders what final benefits can come from plowing up the shallow lakes over the country. Something in the soil conservation program makes it worth the while of the landowner to plow up the lakes, the grass that is in them and around the rims. While there may be immediate gain in this activity what the country needs is more grass and not less. A little takey plot in the corner of the field will help keep up a few cows.

Every year about election time, especially the time for the run-off, everybody realizes the need for re-vamping the election laws in several minor ways, including a provision that will avoid conflict in the dates set for various official actions. However, by the time the legislature meets everybody is heated up over old age pensions, the truck load limit or whatever the burning issue of the time may be. The housekeeper who scrubs to shiny brightness out in the middle of the floor and neglects the cobwebs under the bed and in the corners is still not a good housekeeper. Revising the election law to comply with actual conditions would be another little way the legislature could help keep the respect of citizens for the laws of the country instead of adding another reason for their contempt.

Tendency to read the Willkie-crats out of the Democratic party is an activity in which The Hesperian will not be inclined to indulge. The anti-third term idea is bigger in many minds than their loyalty to Candidate Roosevelt—not the president. And while our view is that taking Mr. Willkie hook, line and sinker before he even so much as demonstrates himself is poor policy, we can sympathize with those who see it that way, the same way we sympathize with those who bolted the party in 1928 and turned thumbs down on Al Smith on account of their religious convictions.

In West Texas the customary newspaper headline for a "rain story," which always has the best position on first page is "Beneficial rains fall in west Texas," according to Boyce House, former Fort Worth Star-Telegram reporter. Once, according to tradition, House records, floods cost a number of lives, but, true to custom the headline ran: "Beneficial rains drown seven in West Texas." At that, it could be true, he said—"if you would let me pick out the seven."

Two persons the country still sorely misses, although they are gone these years, are Will Rogers and Arthur Brisbane. Their brilliant minds did a great deal to keep the thinking of the country balanced. Brisbane's column a day was a distinct contribution to the country's thinking, and Will Rogers could say a volume of wisdom in half a dozen words. He was the master of the genteel art of puncturing stuffed shirts.

Col. Lindbergh has given himself an extremely unpopular role to play, against the advice of friends. He calls attention to the realities of European politics and economics in plain, unvarnished manner. Europe has never and will never be guided by the type of common sense which America sees as the only way of doing. The powerful on that continent always have and always will impose on the weak. Col. Lindbergh would have us see this fact and act on it. He will be called a German sympathizer and ostracized in many quarters for his trouble.

The small business man is beginning to have his tax worries. Some were caught in the trap earlier than others. All are beginning to feel the pinch now. Not only the bill to pay but the necessity of getting the reports properly made out and the government satisfied to let you continue in business. If you are a small business man you watch the clock to catch the last mail with your report and your remittance while the customer pats his foot and wonders why you do not wait on him.

SHOCKING MOTHER NATURE

Shocking plants to juggle their chromosomal arrangement is the very latest "stunt" in plant magic, one that opens a brand-new vista, not only for the plant breeder, but for gardeners as well. It not only enables the plant builder to cross distantly related specimens, but it also increases the percentage of mutations, or sports, a thousandfold. Every good flower in your garden has been bred from a sport that occurred somewhere . . . In my father's time a "break," as the plant breeder usually calls a sport, was supposed to occur once in every 900,000 plants. But now, by artificial stimulants, we can turn them out once in every 900 plants.—David Burpee.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

Nellie Witt Spikes

I have been thinking a plenty today, but I have had not time to wipe the grape jelly off my hands and write my thoughts down. Then when I got through, I was too tired to even think. But tonight, the jelly is all made and looking like purple bits of rainbow imprisoned in clear sparkling glass. Bottles and jars of sour-sweet garnet juice hold company with green beans on the pantry-shelf, but I have had no time to wipe the grape jelly off my hands and write my thoughts down. Then when I got through, I was too tired to even think. But tonight, the jelly is all made and looking like purple bits of rainbow imprisoned in clear sparkling glass. Bottles and jars of sour-sweet garnet juice hold company with green beans on the pantry-shelf. Colors of the rainbow, stored up for winter, and like the rainbow giving promise.

The highways always have a fascination for me. Cars coming and cars going. Moving resolutely toward some destination. Driving from a given point to another given point. Business, pleasure, illness, death—one of these was sending all these cars of people scurrying over the face of the earth.

Our particular business on the highway the other day was for the purpose of taking some stock to market in Lubbock. And these are some things of interest I found along the highway and at its end:

Cars with New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma plates, fields of irrigated alfalfa, its perfume sweeter and more fragrant than richest perfumes in costly bottles; irrigated cotton, green and lush side by side with fields parched and dried by hot winds and sun. A little home made bright and gay with flowers, an old motel T with motto painted on its rutsy sides from teaching of Confucius. Letters queerly formed by an untrained hand. A deep blue sky, soft gray clouds like swans-down puffs.

A cool wind, homesick bleating of lambs, grunting of pigs, rootings crowding each other for the shadiest side of the trailer. A boy, peddling for dear life up the canyon hill, a man with a battered suitcase wanting a ride, holding up a new Bible, another with a tousled haired baby with nothing on her head in the hot sun, wanting to go where only he knew.

There was an old mule in the trailer being carried to the hog pens to be sold for a few pennies for hog feed. His old bones stuck out almost through the old sunbaked leather. He seemed resigned to his fate, he was through. No longer could he eat the good grass and gold maize, his teeth were gone. He was too weak to even switch off the hungry flies.

As I waited for the hogs to be weighed I looked about. Would I be bored and tired of waiting, or would I hunt something of interest? My eyes fell on the junk yard of old cars. Nothing here, but was there

FLOYD COUNTY 14 YEARS AGO

News items taken from files of the Floyd County Hesperian published in Floydada fourteen years ago.

Continued dry weather for the past month has damaged cotton and feed crops to a marked extent in certain sections of the county. While the need for moisture is pronounced, there are no indications at present of the situation being serious.

"Available road funds of Floyd county are limited and are barely sufficient to meet the demands made upon them at this time."

Next winter there's going to be all kinds of good things to eat on the tables of Floyd county farmers. Housewives in the rural communities, assisted by their daughters, are busily engaged in canning.

Floydada produce will begin moving from its present location on West California street the latter part of this week to the building formerly occupied by the Hesperian on West Missouri.

E. S. Randerson and A. J. Folley are in Slaton this mid-week where they are being examined in the esoteric work of the A. P. & A. M. lodge by a member of the Grand Lodge committee from Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Kirk and children left Monday for Fort Worth. Mrs. Kirk and the children remaining for a visit until September 1 with relatives.

G. N. Shirey and family are expected home this mid-week from San Angelo, where they had been on a brief vacation trip.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Neil spent the week-end in Amarillo as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Allison.

Mrs. E. P. Nelson left Wednesday afternoon for Long Beach, California to see her little grandson, Otto Paulkner.

Miss Mertice Handcock is visiting friends and relatives in Memphis. She left Thursday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. Ruth Brown Hall returned the latter part of last week from eastern markets where she purchased fall and winter goods for the Hat Shop.

not? Cars lying there, stuffing falling out of once soft seats, horns once haughty and blaring were still and silent. A delivery truck, still on faded green wheels, flaunting a faded red rose on a once green side; The cab of a truck, flaming red, now fading to soft rose. A rich man's car, salable parts all gone, a car the pride of the owner's heart and also of the town to be pointed out to visitors. Now it had to keep company with the cheap. These cars were once moving down the highway, carrying the world to and fro.

Here is a school bus with stop sign still bright, but no cars now stop for it, no eager laughing boys and girls wave to others from its many windows.

The next place of interest was found in the commission house. The cracking of whips to keep the animals moving, was no sharper than the staccato voice of the auctioneer as he called and sung out the bids. The beating of scared cattle, the summing of the fans, the click of the opening and closing of the gates letting in and out the stock. These sounds fell like hail on a tin roof in our ears as we sat, listened and looked.

The whiff of cigar smoke was thick in the room. Farmers seemed to find a special holiday in the place. Herefords and Jerseys, Holsteins and mixed cattle, cows and calves and bellowing brutes of the opposite sex, poor and fat, speckled and white and red and black, they scurried across the sandy floor to be sold. Fat calves fed from mothers, poor calves fed from the separator handle, passed through.

But I missed something. Where were the farmers clad in sun faded shirts and blue overalls? As soft blue a sky in distant horizon? Trim khaki suits, starched pants and shirts, even overalls were stiped.

The auction is over for the day. Men hurry to the pay window for the checks. Mary and Tommy will have money for new shoes. Groceries will be bought. The shuffling of feet, the sound of men's voices like women's at a sewing bee, begin to fade and get weaker as the crowd disperses to go various ways.

Now the end of the highway was the beginning and soon we were at home again.

A colored boy told us the other day that he was passing a cemetery one cold night when things were covered with snow. "I saw a man dressed in white riding a snow white horse. I could even see the bridle. I started running so fast that it looked like I was coasting."

My brother Joe Witt who is a court reporter in Judge Gee's Cicil district court at Amarillo, his wife, Mary, and our mother, Mrs. J. M. Witt of Lubbock are visiting us this week. Brother Guy from Plainview and his wife were here Sunday. We almost became hysterical as we talked over funny incidents of childhood days at home.

I HAVE WALKED IN THE RAIN

I have walked in the rain;
Felt it's cool caress;
It stirs my heart again
And brings me happiness.

Thoughts go helter skelter,
Troubles all seek shelter,
The rain upon my brow
Make them a memory now.

Drops pattering from the sky;
Wind croons a lullaby—
Tiny riverlets up and roar;
Like the mighty Thor.

Rain is life to mother earth
Trees sway in ecstasy;
Flowers are filled with mirth
When raindrops patter merrily.

By Mary Dean Waters.

AUTUMN RAIN

Through the long hot summer,
(If only the rain would come)
My flowers bloom so bravely
Around our little home.

Through days of sultry heat
And searing winds that blow;
They have held their shining bloom
Though the ground baked in each row.

The sky has filled with clouds;
Our prayers are not in vain,
And on our thirsty gardens
The rain will fall again!

Flora Smith Dean.

Clever Woman MY WIFE

"Yes, sir, she really knows how to get the most out of life—and our budget. I've got to give the little woman credit for putting out such swell meals that cost so little—and still have time to 'go places and do things!'"

Tsk, tsk, Henry, that's no secret. Her new Westinghouse CHIEFTAIN deserves a little credit, too. Come to and get wise, old boy. That's why the little woman wanted—and why you bought—her new CHIEFTAIN.

What Would You Think?

If the Boss Came to You and Said:

Well, John, you have been with me several year—you have made a mighty good hand—been on the job early and late—you've always been courteous, considerate and thoughtful of everyone—and you have been loyal to the community and to all the worthy organizations in the county—BUT

Sanitation Problem Of Poultrymen

Agriculture Agent Finds Many Flocks Have Bad Watering Conditions

In visiting the poultry flocks of some twenty Floyd county egg producers last week the County Agricultural Agent, D. F. Bredthauer, found the number one problem confronting 95 per cent of these farmers to be poor watering conditions thereby causing a run down condition of the poultry flock together with sick birds and low egg production.

The county agricultural agent would like to quote extracts from poultry bulletin, B-71, "Poultry Yard Equipment," and bulletin C-69, "Common Worms of Poultry," as follows:

A worm infestation is costly. There is a great loss of egg production, a loss of birds, besides the time and expense of control measures. Prevention is much cheaper than control. Effective prevention consists in keeping the soil, the houses, and water and feed vessels sanitary. Poultrymen who direct their efforts to proper sanitation will not have to resort to worm remedies constantly.

The soil around the poultry premises should be well drained. The ground should be plowed at least three times a year including thorough plowing close to the buildings and fence corners. After leaving the plowed ground exposed to sunlight for a week or so, the runs should be planted to some sort of green feed, which helps to destroy worm eggs as well as to furnish a very necessary part of the flocks ration. The range should be divided so that the flock may run in one part while the other part is plowed, aired out, and again started with green feed.

Good houses with dropping boards should be provided. These should be cleaned each week and the dropping disposed of away from the flock range. To prevent birds pecking in the droppings on the dropping board, place two-inch poultry netting just under the roosts. Litter should be used on the floors of the houses as it is a good way of collecting the filth as it accumulates. The floor litter should be cleaned out monthly and disposed of away from the flock range.

Dirty, sloppy water vessels and wet ground around them are two of the most common sources of infection. Water vessels should be of a type easy to clean, and should be cleaned daily. The ground or floor around these vessels by all means should be kept dry. If a continuous flow or constant drip water system is used, some provision should be made for proper drainage in case of over flow. Sloppy, wet places and stagnant pools anywhere on the flock range should be avoided.

To avoid a sloppy, disease-breeding floor around the bucket, set in a pan, protecting the hens from the dirty water that will slip into the pan by a wire covering. To do this get a tinsmith to make a square pan about two feet square. Build a square wooden frame to set down over the pan and cover the frame with one half inch mesh hardware cloth. Cut a hole in the center large enough for the bucket to set through. Some sort of wire guard over the top will keep the hens off from the bucket.

Most poultrymen are discarding flock treatments in favor of the more effective individual dosing. Flock treatment still has its place, however, on many farms infested with round worms only. This treatment consists of mixing pulverized tobacco in the mash feed. The tobacco dust used should be from 1 1/2% to 2% nicotine content. Care should be taken to get fresh goods, as tobacco loses its strength when it is left in the open or has been on the shelf too long. Mix the pulverized tobacco thoroughly with the mash feed at the rate of two pounds of tobacco to each 100 pounds of mash. Feed this mixture to the flock for three weeks, stop the tobacco for three weeks, and feed again for the same period.

Mrs. Lowell Gamblin and daughter, Lonita Beth, of Clovis, New Mexico, returned home Sunday after a visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Borum and her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gamblin.

Mrs. Bill Fowler and Mrs. Ernest Carter visited Mrs. Lewis Norman and baby son in a Lubbock hospital Saturday afternoon.

New Senator

Marshall Formby

My Friends Elected Me, -Marshall Formby

"My friends elected me!" This was the statement issued at Dickens last week by Marshall Formby who on July 27 was nominated State Senator of the 30th district on the Democratic ticket. Judge Formby, serving his fourth year as Dickens County Judge, defeated Alvin R. Allison of Levelland approximately 8,000 votes in the 24-county district.

"I am deeply thankful to my friends who elected me," Judge Formby said. "A man is helpless working alone, and I shall always be thankful for my friends who came to my aid. I could not have possibly won without my friends and I am grateful to them all in this county and in the district. I ask for the cooperation of every man, woman, and child in this district to help me make the kind of a State Senator you want."

Judge Formby said he expected to visit Floyd county as soon as he catches up with his work at Dickens.

TABERNACLE "A SORE EYE" TO OUR CIVIC PRIDE

Who should feel the responsibility of the care of our tabernacle? Are we all content to leave its condition to our disgrace? Could not the Chamber of Commerce, the various clubs, the citizens, or the boys and girls of our town do credit to the town by looking this matter over?

Plans could be made and followed in such a way as to give our town something to be proud of. Let's have some discussion on this matter. Who will be the first to speak? Jno. L. West.

FARMING IS A GAMBLE: HOOTS POINTS TO VALUE OF ALL-RISK INSURANCE

To all Floyd County Wheat producers:

As a wheat grower, you are well aware of the fact that farming is a gambling proposition. If you harvested a good crop this year, you will only have to think back a few years to the time when you were robbed of a year's income by drouth, hail, insects, wind, or some of the other natural enemies which are continually ganging up on the farmer to make his business the hazardous proposition which it is. If you had crop insurance on your crop either 1939 or 1940, you are well aware of the production which this phase of the program offers and how it may absorb the shock of a crop failure. If you did not have an insurance contract, a large number of your neighbors did and can tell you from actual experience how this insurance contract gave them a lift when their crops failed.

A crop insurance contract with the Federal All-Risk Crop Insurance corporation will protect your investment and guarantee you at least three-fourths of an average crop each year.

We are now writing applications on the 1941 crop, and all applications must be filed before August 31. Therefore, it will be necessary that you act right away. You can secure this insurance without paying out any cash at the present time, since the premium may be paid by deduction from some of your future benefit payments earned under the Agricultural Conservation program.

We should like an opportunity to explain the program in detail and answer any questions which you might have. We hope, therefore, that you will call at the county ACA office at your earliest convenience, and, in no event, should delay this visit until August 31. If the weather brings you good luck this season, you can well afford all-risk crop insurance; if it brings you bad luck, you cannot afford to be without it.

Secretary, Floyd County ACA

SHERMAN MAN POINTS OUT WEAKNESS IN HIGHWAYS SYSTEM, STATE OF TEXAS

Honorable Brady P. Gentry, Chairman, Texas Highway Commission:

I have just read with a great deal of interest your excellent article entitled "Highway Taxes and Good Roads" appearing in the March issue of Texas Parade.

It is indeed gratifying to note therein that you are taking cognizance of the fact that something must be done for the highways in and around our cities. This point is also forcibly brought out in an article entitled "Motor Transportation Hits a Snag" by Charles E. Simons appearing in the same magazine.

As you well know, the cities in the past have, through direct ad valorem taxes, built and maintained paved streets primarily for the use of the citizens therein, there being one tax to pay off the bonded indebtedness and another tax to maintain the investment. "This of course with absolutely no state aid except in a few instances, although the thousands of vehicles driven exclusively on city streets are forced to pay the state gasoline tax and in addition the license fees which are divided between the counties and the state and in addition state, county and city ad valorem taxes on the vehicles. Here in our little city are scores of delivery trucks that never leave the city limits and a great percentage of the miles traveled by all automobiles owned by residents of cities are traveled within the corporate limits upon streets built and maintained as above mentioned although still paying this state gasoline tax and automobile license fee.

I am a firm believer in gasoline tax and think it should not be diverted, but I also believe that at least some of it should be spent in the city limits for those who may have but little use for the highway system outside of the city limits and for the use of through traffic.

But as said above, it is gratifying to know that men such as you are taking a broad viewpoint of this problem knowing that any bottle neck or congestion or poor construction whether it be within a city or midway between cities will affect all of the traffic over that particular highway.

In this connection, we at Sherman are particularly interested in the elimination of grade hazards on Highway No. 82, application for which has been before the Highway Commission since 1933 and which you and your commission are now giving serious consideration.

Alfalfa Good Soil Builder If Inoculated

Inoculation Of Soil Important Factor To Insure Soil-Building

(By D. F. Bredthauer)

Each year additional acres are being seeded to alfalfa in Floyd County and it has been surprising to learn that farms are being very little benefited by this crop with the practice that the being used. It might be said that as far as soil-building is concerned, about the only effect that this crop has on the soils other than giving a deep penetration is very small when not inoculated. As this is a very important factor, farmers having alfalfa fields should examine the root system of their plants. If they are slick similar to those of the cotton plant, they are soil depleting in every sense of the word. But if these roots possess nodules they have a plant that is storing up nitrogen and is really and truly a soil-building plant.

To overcome this difficulty in the new plantings this fall, it is hoped that farmers will take sufficient time and inoculate their seed. This can be done by securing nitrogen bacteria which is in a commercial form and can now be purchased in Floyd County. Fair results have been obtained by mixing equal amounts of alfalfa seed and soil from alfalfa fields with root systems that possess nodules.

Many farmers are planting alfalfa with the thought in mind of seed production, but it must be remembered that the local demand can be easily saturated and that very little demand is for uncultivated alfalfa seed outside of the county and state. Farmers cooperating with the State Department of Agriculture can certify their seed and it is probable that they can work into a rather satisfactory and profitable business. But farmers should by no means overlook the sight of soil-building in planting alfalfa as this fits into the crop rotation practices and building up of our soils.

Another point in the seed development, for obvious reasons, it is doubtful if our surplus seed will be moved to northern regions and that we will be able to sell our surplus seed in the eastern latitude and from a practical standpoint our seed will be in demand with these eastern farmers.

As many of the farmers have become interested in legumes, it may be profitable to suggest other legumes which have proven equally as beneficial such as clover. Ladino clover, for instance, yields far more roughage and stands frost much better than alfalfa. Hubam clover is a rapid growing annual sweet clover. Crimson, black Medicago and bur clover, such as early giant Southern, all promising results in this section. Vetch planted in the fall offers a splendid forage crop under irrigation as well as being recommended as one of the best soil-builders and the seed is also in big demand.

MUCH KNOWLEDGE, LITTLE WISDOM, PRESENT-DAY RULE MINISTER TELLS LIONS

Much knowledge, possibly more than ever before in the history of the world, but less wisdom with which to apply it, is one of the ailments which afflict the social body and body politics of the nations, Rev. C. A. Joiner of Spur, told Lions club members Tuesday at their noon-day luncheon.

Leaders of the world are confused and many of them with warped minds preach and practice strange doctrine, the speaker said. He suggested a return to the Bible as a guide for all, as a remedy that would prove helpful.

Bradford Corrigan, singer here in the revival, sang "God Bless America."

Mrs. Preston Badgett was dismissed from the Floydada hospital Tuesday following the birth of a son born August 8. The little boy was named Michael Zell.

Mrs. H. K. Cates was dismissed from the hospital Sunday. She had been in the hospital some time following an operation. She is improving slowly, according to hospital attendants.

Mrs. W. J. Rhoads underwent an operation Tuesday and is improving nicely, her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Graham said this morning.

LEISURE TIME

Any clock can tell us, there are twenty-four hours for use in every day's cycle. And we have been taught to divide them into three equal parts whereby we find eight of them for sleep, eight for work and eight of them, in general, for our personal use.

The proper selection, proper distinction, and proper enjoyment of a progress of leisure time is one of the most important problems that anyone has to solve.

I saw a cartoon, one day, showing a man sitting by a stream fishing. Under the cartoon was the legend, "But make it a pleasure, Not a Business."

"Civilization follows the plow," was the motto frequently quoted in support of the homestead policy of the United States, says H. A. Miles, U. S. Department of Agriculture economist. "Today," he comments, "we find that in some places degradation follows the plow. Land has been put into cultivation that was not suited for permanent cultivation."

Mr. and Mrs. Newt Wheeler of Plainview, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McCauley Monday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Watson and son, Olin, Jr., left Sunday for a two weeks vacation trip to Fort Worth and other points.

J. D. Porterfield left yesterday for Vernon, where he will visit several days with relatives end friends.

Miss Evelyn Coleman of San Antonio is visiting Lois Beard.

Lois Beard visited her aunt in Lubbock several days last week.

Few Days Left To Get Crop Insurance On 1941 Applications

Floyd County Agricultural Conservation Association Anxious To Go Over Policy With Farmers

With only a few more days left in which to obtain 1941 Crop Insurance, we would like for you to call at the County A. C. A. office and go over a policy with us, and if you think the premium rate is too high on 75 per cent, we have a 50 per cent policy which would give you a lot of protection. The 50 per cent insurance premium rate is 41 per cent of the 75 per cent.

To help you see the value of crop insurance, in 1940 five hundred eighty nine policies were written and 417 of these received a total or partial loss, which amounted to 148,626 bushels of wheat or $66,101.64 and 77 applications for proof of loss have not yet been paid. There were 6,510.8 acres of insured wheat released in 1940.

If you are unable to come to the office, why not mail us a card or letter and state whether you want 50 percent or 75 percent insurance and we shall be glad to mail you a policy if you will act at once so the application will be returned in time to reach this office by August 31.

Farmers Can Preserve Produce With Electrical Cold Storage

Apples are just one crop that refrigeration keeps for better markets.

By IRA MILLER

Farm Electrification Bureau

THERE are few farmers in this country who do not raise more perishable produce than is needed to fill their immediate wants. If the excess is not large, it may be canned or stored in cold cellars for future consumption. Or, if a convenient market exists, it may be sold for what it will bring. Otherwise, of necessity it is fed to the stock or allowed to go to waste. Large surpluses, intentionally grown, generally are sold to commission merchants for whatever prices are offered as it is impossible for most farmers to hold such products for higher markets.

With the continued extension of high-line service in farm areas, more and more farmers are turning to electrical cold storage not only to obtain higher off-season prices but also to maintain the quality of their fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, dairy products and meat.

The capacity of the average electric household refrigerator is limited to the foodstuffs that the family will consume in a relatively short period of time. However, units of greater capacity—up to 45 cubic feet—have been specially developed for farm use. In addition to providing space for the storage of considerable surplus food, they was waver as the newer small models—include a special low-temperature compartment for the storage of frozen meats and vegetables.

For those whose sole or principal income is derived from truck and fruit farming, much greater capacities than those already mentioned are essential if they are to hold their produce between favorable marketing periods.

The walk-in cold storage cabinet, ranging in capacity from 100 to 600 cubic feet, can be purchased ready made, knocked down at the factory, or constructed on the farm. It is easily assembled and may be placed in existing buildings or set up in the open and roofed over. If desired, a large quick-freezing compartment can be installed within the cabinet. These units have ample capacity to meet the usual requirements of all farmers except the largest fruit growers who must either convert an old building to cold storage or erect a new one especially for the purpose.

The cost of an electric cold storage plant for the farm is determined by its capacity, varying from about $20.00 per cubic foot for the small household refrigerator to less than $1.00 per cubic foot (everything included) for the largest buildings. Complete information on cold storage can be obtained without cost or obligation from the various manufacturers or the extension division of your state college or university.

They Will Be Farm Week Stars

Two Texans will help entertain hundreds of thousands of farmers who will visit the New York World's Fair during Farm Week, which begins August 12. ## Brooks In Campaign Speech Here Yesterday

Severely arraigning the political czars who he charged control the present Railroad commission and promising relief to the people when he takes office next January, Pierce Brooks, candidate for Railroad commissioner, spoke in Floydada late Wednesday afternoon.

"The people of Texas, in the July 27 primary, routed the professional politicians who had conspired to gain control of the governor's office," Brooks said. "Having been roundly defeated this same gang have centered their efforts upon defeating me in this runoff, knowing if they do they will have one last haven of refuge in this elective body, which is beyond control of either the governor or the legislature."

Brooks said he would go down the line with the governor in his efforts to restore the government of the state to the people and in all his efforts toward economy.

He advocated raising the truck load limit and promised to work to that end, declared he would lower gas rates, and wants the expenses of the State Railroad commission cut 25 per cent. He is for uniform and fair proration alike to all the oil fields, he said.

Brooks predicted he would win in the August 24 primary by an overwhelming vote.

America Has Difficult Defense Problem, Says Famous Combat Flier

Own Borders To Police And Responsibility For Territory From Alaska To Cape Horn

"We have not only our own borders to police, but the territory from Alaska to Cape Horn are our responsibility," said Jack Leon Echols, internationally famous combat pilot, during an address at the Floyd county court house Monday night.

"Our defense problem is the greatest of any nation of the world and the responsibility of making our defense for this vast territory so formidable that no warring nation will cast an envious eye in our direction is at hand. Added to this responsibility, is our duty to assist England to hold her own in the air. We must build 3,000 airplanes each month for the British to keep abreast of their contracts with American aircraft factories; and in the same effort, build an additional 3,000 aircraft monthly for our own defense needs.

"Tooling up operations in American aircraft factories; the first step toward mass production, has been underway for the past year. Billions have been invested by the French and British in this program, and our own government is now investing additional billions in order that the American privately owned aircraft industry might step-up its production to meet this staggering 72,000 unit annual production demand.

"Where aircraft factories and training institutions totaling 250,000 trained aircraftmen would suffice to supply their anticipated needs a year ago, a half million such young men are now being sought to take their places in this, the most essential of all industries to our defense.

"The young man who finds his way into this industry now, training himself at his own expense, in preparation to assume a duty which will increase his usefulness to the defense of his country a hundred-fold, is also making secure his future in this, most dynamic of all industries in the world today. The aircraftman will not be compelled to start looking for a job when the crisis is over—he will have enjoyed promotions, and still have his greater opportunities ahead of him, with no time spent which has not contributed substantially to his future.

"Hundreds of Texans have already completed their training and are now employed in the aircraft factories of the Los Angeles area, and have been found to be the type of men most acceptable to this work. Owing to the fact that the foreign element of ancestry is negligible in Texas and neighboring states, little difficulty is experienced in qualifying these young men, whereas, in the industrial districts of the nation, heritage has proven one of the stumbling blocks in the path of those candidates for employment.

"The Texas Panhandle area has contributed substantially in man-

Connecticut Man Sends Regrets To Old Settlers Here

J. C. Goddard Recalls His First Vote Cast In Texas In 1876

(Ed. Note: A man now 88 who cast his first vote in Texas in 1876, recently wrote to R. B. Smith, an old-time friend, regretting his inability to attend the West Texas Old Settlers reunion today and tomorrow. The letter addressed from Salisbury, Connecticut, is given below.)

My dear Fellow Citizen:
As I cast my first vote in Texas in 1876, I am entitled to call you by that honorary title. I am exceedingly appreciative of your invitation to the 15th reunion and would like nothing better than to greet you all at Blanco canyon, and grasp your horny hands of toil. Perhaps I would be the "oldest citizen" on that occasion, for I would be within a month of 88 years of age.

I have never forgotten my love for Texas and enjoyed a splendid reception by the people of Lawrence and Terrell last year in April. They gave me a public gathering, made it a school holiday, met me with a uniformed band (playing my college song, "Boola, Boola,") had a public dinner, presented me to the "prettiest girl in town," who gave me a kiss, saluted me with three addresses and gifted me with a "ten gallon hat"—what more could a man want?

Then they wrote me up in the San Antonio magazine, gave me two network broadcasts at Fort Worth, and numerous audiences from Galveston to Dallas and across the state. It was "the time of my life."

I told them of my brush with the Comanches in Hale county, November, 1877, when I just escaped with my life. The Panhandle was then full of buffalo and wild horses, with

Important for Women

A weak, run-down condition often gives a foothold to functional dysmenorrhea, causing much periodical distress from headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain for women. CARDUI so often helps in such cases, for it sharpens appetite, boosts flow of gastric juices; so improves digestion, helps build physical resistance. CARDUI, taken a few days before and during "the time," is another way to help periodic distress. Used 50 years.

LAND

We have land to Sell and to Lease for Farming, Stock-Farming and Grazing purposes, from about 80 acres up, in Floyd, Briscoe, Hall, Motley and other counties. Also large list of Lots in Floydada.

Commissioner Precinct No. 1

In my campaign for the office of Commissioner in the Majority Primary, I have covered most of the precinct, but with many yet to see. These I expect to see in the remaining time before the election on August 24.

Meanwhile, I would appreciate your earnest consideration until such time as I get to see you and present my candidacy personally.

If you see fit to elect me I will make the Commissioner work my job and responsibility and will give it all the time necessary to handle the affairs of the precinct and county right, as far as my ability goes.

I can assure you you will have no complaint on my not giving the important office my careful attention on account of other business affairs.

I want this honor and will appreciate your votes, and will make you the very best commissioner I know how.

Yours very truly,
