Farmers Will Vote On Quotas Dec. 7

Nineteen States To Determine Cotton Quotas For '41

Two-Thirds Majority Necessary To Place Quotas Into Effect

"Every cotton producer who believes in democracy should go to the polls Saturday and voice his opinion on the cotton marketing quota. For the marketing quota referendum is a part of the democratic process," Fred Battey, chairman of the ACA committee, pointed out this week.

Reviews Referendum Background
Reviewing the referendum background, Battey points out that there are two important facts for growers to consider: First, that a marketing quota is provided by the AAA of 1938 when cotton supplies are 7 percent or more above normal, and, second, that a two-thirds majority of the growers voting in the Cotton Belt is required to put quotas into effect.

Today's cotton supplies are 37 percent above normal, he states. The world supply of American cotton is estimated at 25 million bales, as compared to the normal supply which is made up of normal exports and domestic consumption plus an adequate allowance for carry-over—of about 18 million bales.

Battey declares that increased world consumption of American cotton is not indicated in the immediate future. Past history shows that war conditions not only cut down the nation's cotton exports, but also reduce world consumption, he says.

"Each grower has a vital interest in working toward the best price possible for his cotton," Battey states. "He needs to consider marketing quotas in terms of surplus cotton supplies and reduced consumption due to the present European war."

Loans Hold Price Up
Cotton loans, which has helped this year in maintaining cotton farmers' incomes, can be made available to cotton growers in 1941 only if marketing quotas are approved in the referendum. The act of 1938 specifically provides that if quotas are proclaimed and then voted down, loans cannot be made, points out Battey.

"With the present restricted export outlets, and in spite of an expanding domestic consumption, cotton today probably would be selling for the lowest price in history, were it not for loans which have placed a floor under the price," Battey asserts.

He pointed out that if marketing quotas were not approved in the referendum on December 7, the 1940 cotton loan program would have to cease at the time ballot results are announced, and a loan could not again be available until August 1, 1942.

If quotas are approved, and if loans are made available, growers who plant within their acreage allotments are eligible for loans on all cotton they produce in 1941, Battey says. Those who overplant their allotment are eligible for loans only on (See QUOTAS, back page)

TOM W. DEEN SPEAKS TO ROTARIANS WEDNESDAY

Tom W. Deen, representative-elect, spoke to the Floydada Rotary club at their weekly luncheon Wednesday on "National Good Roads Week." G. C. Tubbs was in charge of the program.

Richard Stovall acted as head of the club due to the "absence" of President Walton Hale, who according to reports had gone out with a fellow Rotarian to secure sufficient birds for a "quail" roast at the next meeting.

E. Esten Day Visits In Floyd County Rural Schools

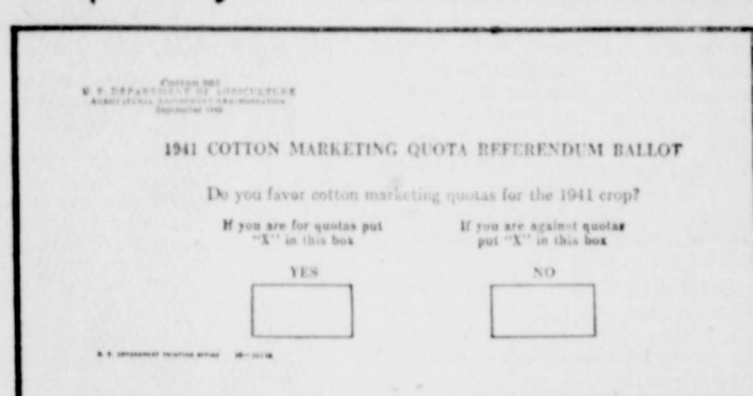

E. Esten Day, deputy state superintendent, whose headquarters is at Texas Technological college, Lubbock and County Superintendent Clarence Guffee have been visiting the various schools of Floyd county this week in the annual inspection required by the state department.

Tuesday morning the schools visited were Sand Hill, Harmony, Allmon, McCoy and Starkey. During the afternoon Erick, Aiken and Providence were visited.

Yesterday the two superintendents were visiting at Sterley, Cedar Hill and Liberty.

Today they will visit in Center, Dougherty, Pleasant Hill and Lockney.

A report will be made to the state superintendent, a copy of which will probably be sent to the county superintendent at the same time.

Cotton producers will have the opportunity on Saturday, December 7, to decide whether cotton marketing quotas, which have been in effect during the past three years, will apply to the 1941 crop. Every producer of cotton should go to his community polling place where he will be given a ballot, like the one shown above, on which to express his opinion. It is both a privilege and a duty of each producer to cast his ballot in the referendum. Whether the referendum is really representative of the farmers' thinking depends upon the number of producers who vote on December 7.

Floydada Basketeers Are Working Out Under Hale

Eight Experienced Hands Report For Service Monday Afternoon

Basketball Coach W. V. Hale has shifted his activities from the football field to the Andrews Ward gymnasium, and instead of showing Floydada boys how to throw an effective block or tackle on a man, he is teaching some 18 boys how to master the technique of good basketball.

As a nucleus he has Joe Rushing, Gordon Patterson, Carl Arnold, Jess Michael, H. C. Love, Dillon Patterson, A. Womack, and Bud DuBois. These boys have seen service in previous years with the green and white on the mapleboards and should give a good account of themselves this year.

Other boys out, but about whom less is known, are Chowning, Smith, Kropp, Jr., Conway, Rutledge, Bote, Fawcett, Cardinal, Johnson, Griffin and "playing-manager," R. E. Goughly.

Gordon Patterson has been an outstanding forward in this basketball area for the past three years. Joe Rushing has been playing guard alongside Arnold, and both show promise of developing into good ball players. Cardinal looks like he might become a "ball hawk" and possibly crash the starting line-up unless someone gets "hot" pretty sudden.

Coach Hale has definitely shown, however, that no positions are sewed up because practice has just begun and he is introducing a new system of play. Hale played some pretty steady ball for Texas Tech while in school there, and has coached some fifty high school basketball teams, the best of which was at Whittharrel.

Three games are planned for the "pre-holiday" season, but the opponents are not known at present. The Texas Interscholastic League has "ruled" that no man may play in more than 20 games without losing his eligibility. A number of schools in lower Texas have "rebelled" at this foolish ruling and are not playing along with the league.

Robert Lee Smith, Lockney, is a member of the Texas Tech crop judging team which competed with ten other outstanding colleges in Kansas City this past week.

Three Thousand Masons On Hand For 105th Meeting Of Grand Lodge

A delegation of Floydada Masons have been present this week at the annual convention of the Texas Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. in Waco. They are Ike Finley, worshipful master; Roy Patton, senior warden; Taylor Leach, junior warden; Herschel Green, junior deacon, and B. Hatley and E. S. Randerson and H. O. Cline. Randerson and Cline went to Waco Sunday to attend preliminary sessions.

C. L. Anderson, Lockney, will represent his lodge at the convention, it was learned here this morning.

Three thousand master masons were present at a free banquet Wednesday under sponsorship of the Masonic Education and Service committee. Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas was the speaker.

The Grand Lodge was formally opened Wednesday morning by a salute to the flag by Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, grand junior warden. An inspirational address by Rev. Max Strang of Dallas was heard Wednesday morning. Another program feature was the Hella Temple quartet of Dallas.

The Grand Lodge will close this evening with installation of officers.

Tuesday afternoon December 3 Grand Master Leo Hart conducted a master's conference at which time masters and secretaries of the Masonic Blue lodges of Texas were present.

As a pre-opening feature Waco Masons entertained Tuesday evening with a barbecue and a Waco degree team conferred a Master Masons degree in the Grand Lodge Temple.

Re-Open WPA Jobs Wednesday With Crew at Cedar

Resumption of public works in Floyd county to afford work for upward of 50 men on the WPA rolls was started Wednesday.

Louie Laminack is project supervisor and a job of filling and setting grade and drainage structure on the Randolph lake near Cedar is the first to be undertaken. Work on the Fairview road is also a part of this project set up by the county and the Works Progress administration.

All public works have been closed down for 60 days during which time jobs have been afforded in fairly ample numbers in cotton and feed harvests.

Swift Justice

Sometimes the hands of blindfolded justice moves quickly, and sometimes without the law ever taking action. It happened that way in Floydada Saturday night. It seems that two sons of the colored race appeared in one of Floydada's stores, apparently one desired to purchase a pair of trousers, while the second shopped around over the store.

While the first was being "soid," the second casually slipped a suit from the rack and placed same under an overcoat which he was carrying draped over one arm. W. L. Fry, local tailor, noticed the action and called the attention of Ed Johnson to the fact.

The colored boy with the overcoat and suit made a dash for the open spaces but didn't get the necessary lead over Johnson, who snaged the overcoat and suit with clutching fingers. The boy who was "buying" trousers also left hurriedly during the excitement.

This week Mayor Glad Snodgrass was still the owner of the suit, plus one perfectly good overcoat. Sheriff Fred Clark and Deputy Walter Hollums are keeping an eye out for two colored boys, one of which is enjoying the chilly South Plains weather sans an overcoat.

Three Entries From Floyd County At Turkey Show

Best Quality Birds Of Any Previous Show, County Agent Says

Three entries from Floyd county were listed among the many entered in the seventh annual Southwestern Dressed Turkey show held at Plainview Tuesday and Wednesday. The Floyd county contestants were D. S. Battey of Harmony, Harry Morckel and Mrs. Herman King.

Judging began at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning with tables covered with huge dressed birds and coops crammed with huge live ones, all being displayed in the hopes of claiming a part of $400 in prizes.

Turkey specialists from all parts of the country were on hand to judge the turkeys and to indulge in "turkey talk" with other specialists and breeders who were present for the show.

Home demonstration club women gave a demonstration and educational display on preparation of turkey for different occasions. Every phase of turkey from baked to hash was included in the demonstration.

At 10 o'clock this morning turkey specialists will conduct a special program for breeders. Points in development of the Plains type of turkey will be discussed and dressed birds will be used as examples of what growers should or should not achieve.

The auction sale is scheduled to begin at 1:30 this afternoon with T. C. Meinecke of Plainview doing the auctioneering. Last year D. S. Battey sold his grand champion turkey for $2 a pound. The bird was then sent to the Texas Aggies who were in New Orleans for the Sugar Bowl game for their Christmas dinner.

County Agent D. F. Bredthauer said today that the turkeys displayed this year were of a much better quality than those of any previous show and that the entries from all over the country were much better and competition was much keener than heretofore.

McAdoo Eagles Win Six-Man Crown 38 to 12

McADOO, November 30. — McAdoo's Eagles, long one of the outstanding six-man football teams of Texas, added another to their long string of triumphs yesterday by defeating the New Home Leopards, 38 to 12, in Tech stadium.

With the victory went the unofficial South Plains title. McAdoo was champion of the Dickens county league, New Home winner of the Lynn county loop.

Clinton Formby started the scoring for the victors by pitching a first-period touchdown pass for six points and another for the extra point.

soon took back the lead on a pass, Austin Rose to Cathey. A bit later Rose recovered a fumble to score a third McAdoo touchdown.

Scoring continued with unabated fury in the third period. Cathey started it by running back an intercepted pass for a touchdown, a little later Formby crossed the line running for another touchdown, then ran the extra point across.

New Home scored this quarter on a pass, McCormick to Spence. McAdoo added another counter in the final period, Formby passing to Cathey.

Starting lineups: McAdoo, Cathey and Brown, ends; McWilliams, center; Formby, Rose and Robertson, back.

They have divided up the microbes you used to know about and now you have to watch your health on the one-yard line as it were. Pneumonia is catching. Pneumococci, streptococci, and all the other little varmints that always have been after the human race and the domestic animals that serve them, are still on the job. Their twentieth century descendants are working now. Trying to preserve their line as the scientists feverishly work to extinguish the last trace. Watch your step as best you can. Dodge the scientists and dodge the poly-sected microbes, too. Both are dangerous.

The football season nears an end for colleges. High school football, except for a few championship games in Texas is over. Now it is the time for the football feasts and the accompanying toasting of football heroes. Youth will be served, as ever. Fine work we live in, here in America. Still no blitzkrieg, still safety and happiness are in the range of possibilities of the humblest American. God bless America we pray, with life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness as the goal.

What about the road bond election? Our point of view is that it means we shall have the good roads we have wanted for a good many years or we shall have none. Years ago Floyd county should have voted good road bonds, and built the needed highways the same as was done in all neighboring counties with one or two exceptions. We should have then been in position to ask for other roads and obtained them that subsequent developments have demanded. As it is we are asking and not receiving, while other areas demanding and getting. Find the difference, we suggest, between the economic position of the farmer or business man who lives in a county where they have an ample sufficiency of good roads (and bond issues) and the position of the farmer or business man in Floyd county, where we want good roads but have them not. The difference is not there so far as we can see, except perhaps in Hale and Lubbock and Crosby, nearest examples, the economic conditions are better, as also in Motley.

Right now the matter revolves around the question of whether the bond issue to build Floyd county roads will be assumed by the State Highway department, when and if the bonds are issued. The answer to this is that the bonds will not be issued unless formal assumption is made by the State Highway department and the State Board of County and Road Bond Indebtedness. Floyd county people have a chance to get something for nothing, the way it works around. We have the nothing already. The something hinges on whether we adopt the plan of a bond issue to get our roads. We are positively convinced of this fact. You back your judgment and vote the way you think is right. You take responsibility if we get no roads, we take it if the county goes busted.

Let the other fellow talk occasionally; you can't learn much by listening to yourself all the time.

Don't forget that American preparedness is going to cost—it is going to cost you, too. Directly as well as indirectly. You are going to have to put your pocketbook where your mouth is, as the slang goes. Economists tell us the kind of preparedness we are making will be so many billions worth that it will lower the standard of living in America. Already there are many who cannot afford the cost of new cars but pay for used cars on which their more fortunate brethren have worn off the depreciation that goes with the first year of use.

The thirty-hour work week is actually seriously sought by organized workmen as a part of the solution of the present-day dilemma American society finds itself in. The thirty-hour week means you work five days a week, six hours a day, and draw enough wages to keep up a family. This will be fine maybe in that day when you are a part of the state instead of the state being your creature. It is not looked upon with as much horror now, however, as the forty-hour week was twenty years ago. The forty-hour week has not solved any individual problems and the thirty-hour week will not. If you are working, to get ahead, figure out a way to gainfully employ that other otherwise wasted time, unless you expect the perfect state of Utopia in your life time.

Aliens in the United States must register on or before December 26. In the middle of November it was estimated by the U. S. Department of Justice that about 800,000 aliens in this country had not registered. Of these some are still ignorant of the law, some are negligent and some are reluctant or unwilling to comply with it. There are few aliens in this area but any such should be reminded by their friends that there are no fees of any kind, no use to pay any racketeer any money to "fix things," and that the Post Office department and the Department of Justice are ready to answer any individual questions and to render any assistance possible. Even sample registration forms will be provided so that no alien will be unprepared to furnish the information required. Failure to register, if an alien, subjects one to a thousand dollar fine or six months imprisonment or both.

Eggs and cream and other commodities showing a rising price in the past few weeks presage similar rises all along the line. If you have in mind to put your money into something you "can look at" now wouldn't be a bad time. To buy a home, for instance.

Apparently poultry owners are selling their flocks down to the minimum in Floyd county, and if we are correct those who have kept their laying flocks will reap a rich harvest this winter and spring, especially after the hatching season begins. The same is true of those who have good milk cows now producing. Peculiarly enough swine prices just will not advance to the point where they show a good profit as feeding investments. Possibly the competition of other fats with lard has something to do with this.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

Neille Witt Spikes

It is time to begin making wreaths of spiced cedar. Cedar seems so typical of the western prairies growing in our own beautiful canyons. I like it better than the spruce and pine from the tree-covered mountains of New Mexico. The smell itself makes you feel Christmas.

And there is another decoration we should all see about, that of our hearts. Go through and take out all the hate, the useless worry, and the old grudges. See how much room you will have to bring in love and smiles and well wishes. It is queer but the more of good things you want to use there will always be room for. The spirit of Christmas the loving spirit of the gentle Christ. May we all eagerly lay in abundant stores of this beautiful spirit, not only for the holidays before us, but for all the coming year.

White frost was spread smoothly over all the brown earth as we slept last night. This morning gold sunshine spilled from a blue sky, turned the white frost to silver and gold, sparkling like jewels in a jewelry store when the lights are turned on.

In "Just Folks," by Edgar Guest, last week was a poem that put me to thinking. What do they say when they've gone their way? What do they think when the name they hear? "Talked with a smile for a little while?" Or "drove away with a bitter sneer?" Could we or couldn't we lend them aid?

How did we answer the spoken plea? How did we say to them eye or nay? What of us now will their judgment be? Matters it not what they think or say. Beggar or salesman or stranger

FLOYD COUNTY 14 YEARS AGO

News items taken from files of the Floyd County Hesperian published in Floydada fourteen years ago.

(Thursday, December 2, 1926)

Approximately twenty thousand bales of cotton have been ginned in Floyd county during the 1926 season up to the present, according to reports from the twelve gins in the county.

Joe Yearry and Miss Fay Frances Fortenberry were married Wednesday, November 24, at the home of Rev. R. E. L. Muncy with Rev. Muncy officiating.

Grady Hall of the P. C. Harmon Furniture and Undertaking establishment, last week was given license by the State Board Examiners as an embalmer.

Little Gene Loran, the year old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Loran, is convalescing this week from a rather serious illness caused last Tuesday evening when the child drank a small can of kerosene.

Geo. M. Finkner, "Cotton would be a much better price now, in fact there might be a shortage of the staple, if the women wore as much clothes as they used to."

Bill Dally, who is attending Simmons college at Abilene, spent Thanksgiving day here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Dally.

Miss Pauline Rushing, who spent the week-end in Lubbock, returned home Saturday, accompanied by her sister, Miss Lula and Miss Richmond, who are teachers in the Lubbock High school.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Henry and children left this week for Dallas, where Mr. Henry will spend several days in a school for Fordson tractor salesmen. The family will be guests of the W. J. Burke's while in Dallas.

E. L. Norman and family spent Thanksgiving in Childress visiting.

Byron Rogers, a former star on the Floydada High school football team, was recently elected captain of the 1927 Abilene Christian college Wildcat eleven. Rogers played tackle on the Floydada team in 1922 and was a star played throughout the year.

Little Margaret Conner, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Conner, sustained rather serious cuts and bruises in the face on Tuesday of this week when a mule kicked her while she was playing at their home 18 miles northeast of Floydada.

W. F. Daniels and family are riding in a new Ford since last Tuesday.

Rev. Joseph L. Henson, now pastor of the Sweetwater Methodist church, was a business visitor in Floydada the first of the week.

lone? Matters it not at the meeting spot Whether our best or worst was shown? By the light of the eye and the smile or frown, By the every tone of the words we say, Who comes to the door will forever more Remember us when they've gone their way.

I remember sitting in front of a well-dressed beautiful woman one night in a crowded railway car. She seemed to be trying to help an elderly woman who was sitting by telling her just how to do when she got off the train. I always put the bus drivers and porters in their places at once," she advised in a shrill voice. "You must let them know at once you are on their way of trying to beat you." She went on and on to tell of her various times of having to put people in their places. You would have thought she was some kind of gravity that if removed from the earth would let all the working people fall into utter disintegration. No, I do not want the people whom I come in contact with day by day going their way and saying, "That was an awful woman."

It takes so little time to smile and tell the ones that knock on your door whether or not you are interested in what they have to say or to sell. One of the lovely things I have to remember was when strangers stopped me on the way to my mailbox and asked the way to where they wanted to go. If I had given them a jewel, their thanks could not have been sweeter, and the smile of the woman lingers with me and warms my heart.

We like our cars cushioned so soft, the fast moving engine greased with the finest oil. Why not cushion the hard parts of life with understanding and grease the daily life with smiles?

Looks like I have almost preached a sermon. But it is for my own life I was thinking as I put down my thoughts this morning and may it help you.

Hint to make a drum for a little boy: Cut both ends from a gallon tin can. Cut two circles from a tolerably good inter tube about an inch or so larger than the bucket top. Stretch tight over both ends of the bucket. Lace together with cord. Cross the cords like lacing a shoe. Add a beater. Then listen to the noise on Christmas.

It was as comfortable as putting on a pair of old shoes, to have Rev. C. E. Armstrong step into the pulpit last Sunday as his sweet wife took her place in the audience. We knew them and they knew us. We could pay all our attention to his fine sermon on Thanksgiving without having to wonder how we would like them the coming year. May this year bring much fruits for their earnest untiring efforts to make the community a better place in which to live. Unafraid of telling the truth, deeply spiritual, Brother Armstrong fills his mission and we welcome him another year.

POET'S CORNER

She Hath Done What She Could
When my life's work is over
And I have done my best:
When at last my hands are folded
And I close my eyes and rest.

I'll like to have my friends say
Not that I was good—
But that, when duty pointed
I did what'er I could.

That I had proven faithful
To the task laid out for me,
To trust and love and labor
'Til the Lord shall set me free.

When I walk the path of duty
And I reach the end, I would
That my friends should say of me
She hath done what'er she could.

"Bulldog" THRIFT

Many a man fails because he "lets go" too easily. Money slips through his fingers lightly to no purpose. At 40 he doesn't have anything because he never learned to hold on to anything.

On the other hand, the thrifty man holds on like a bulldog to his principles and to his possessions. He keeps a firm grip on his home. He doesn't let go of his life insurance. He builds a bank account and holds tightly to this precious reserve.

Thrift is a strong virtue. It leads to wealth and success.

Avalanche-Journal Names Its District 4-A Stars

Floydada Places Four Men On First Eleven To Lead Paducah

District 4-A has its first "All-Star" team, this time it is selected by Collier Parrish, sports writer for the Avalanche-Journal at Lubbock. Floydada, Paducah, Matador and Spur took care of all positions on the first eleven, although an extra tackle and two extra backs were named.

Floydada's Whirlwinds placed four men on the starting eleven. They are Grigsby at end, Dillon Patterson at tackle, "Big Foot" Turner at center and Golightly in the backfield.

The team is selected by sending questionnaires to the coaches of the schools which make up the members schools. The selections of the coaches are tabulated and made into an "all-district" team, and this means of selection is free of any "political" or trading out.

The all-star team:
End Grigsby, Floydada End Patterson, Floydada Tackle Jack Martin, Matador Tackle Phillips, Paducah Guard Maxey, Paducah Guard Stanley, Spur Center Turner, Floydada Back Mobley, Paducah Back Berryman, Matador Back Golightly, Floydada Back Gilbert, Spur Back Smith, Ralls Back Davis, Lockney Back Honorable mention: Ends: Lee, Paducah; Green, Matador; McLean, Spur; Biddy, Paducah; Simer, Crosbyton.

Backs: Allsup, Matador and Kelly, Lockney.
The official District 4-A "all-district" team is expected to be selected at a meeting in Matador this week.

AS I SEE IT

(By Bill Hams)

A Problem Solved

A certain Tennessee mountaineer and his son had experienced a surprisingly successful year of business and were taking their long planned trip to the "big city."

"Been high on to thirty years since I been down to th' valley," Zeke told his son, Elmer, "Never seen any use driving ninety miles just to run into a heap o' furriners and city slickers, when I could get everything we'uns needed at Jed's store."

"Must be heaps of folks in the city, looks like they'd get in each others way," Elmer wondered, "I'm shore glad we had such a good crop year, so we could make this tour."

"Yup, taint every year we brew out 50 jugs o' white lightnin' off'n a scre o' corn, and only have to shoot two o' three revenooers," Zeke figured.

It was late evening when the mountaineer and his son hit the "big city," for the ride was through rough and muddy roads, as pavement had not extended in the direction of the mountain people. Soon however the two had driven their "Lizzie" into the business section and had alighted.

"Well I'll be darned," Elmer exclaimed, as he rasped his toe over the freshly paved street, "No wonder these city fellers built their town right here the dern ground is so hard 'n dry taint fit to grow nothing."

Still Wondering

Matador's Bullfighters and Clarendon's Bronchos played last Friday for a "sweater fund". The money so obtained was to go toward buying the team sweaters, and the athletic fund could go hang.

Floydada fans have been sort of let down because Floydada stopped with nine games... especially when the football followers were strong for a final game and seemingly the football boys also favored a last fling with nothing at stake but a ball game.

Twenty-five or thirty fans from here were present for the Flomot-Amherst game last Friday... just because nothing was available here.

The Floydada folk have been right loyal in times past, and this year they dug deep in their jeans and bought some right fancy uniforms... and to date no one has complained about that either... but a lot of them feel that Floydada should have had a "second Thanksgiving" annually on all taxable property in an ad valorem tax shall be levied said Floyd County, Texas, for the purpose of paying the interest on said bonds, and to provide a sinking fund for the redemption thereof at maturity, and after due consideration Commissioner E. R. Harris introduced a proposed order.

WHEREAS, it appearing to the Court that said petition is signed by more than fifty of the resident...

Some talk is still being made about a "runch bowl" game here on or about Christmas, with the Whirlwinds meeting some other outfit. We doubt however that the school officials will see eye to eye with the town on that plan however... even though such funds obtained would go to charity or some other equally worthwhile cause.

Two things generally stand in the way of post-season games. First: The Texas Interscholastic League which operates out of Austin. The rules of that body and the technicalities set up from that bureaucracy would make a Philadelphia lawyer seek cover. It seems probable that in a few years that body will sell the tickets, take them up, and instead of the teams playing, the "head men" at Austin will flip a coin and decide the winner of the game without a man suiting out or appearing on the field.

Second: Sometimes post-season football games are flops financially and no school official or other organization likes to "dig deep" for the difference.

The Interscholastic League

No doubt the League has accomplished a great deal for Texas High school football, but it seems time for that body to cease its dictatorial tactics or Texas fans are going to get disgusted. The fans still pay the toll at the gate and should have some little say-so... just for courtesy's sake.

This year they whacked deep into the fans pleasure by knocking off 3 minutes from each quarter... which means that a ball game is actually only a little over two-thirds as long as it used to be... 48 minutes instead of 60 minutes. They claim it cut down on injuries or something, but to date there isn't any definite proof on that point.

If a player has graduated from three-cornered pants with safety-pin suspenders, he is much too old to play Texas High school football, the League says. Besides that, if he has attended high school for over eight semesters he is also a gone goner.

Fan sentiment seems to favor scrapping the good-for-nothing eight semester rule, and (if the League can't sleep without some sort of a semester rule) at least make it a "ten" semester rule.

And to allow a boy to play football through his nineteenth year. At the rate the League is going Texas football players will be wearing lace, and playing tag because all the boys big enough and old enough will be ineligible to play the kind of game the fans want.

The T. L. L. is just about as up-to-the-minute on fan opinion as Jack Benny's Maxwell is to the motor car industry.

I've been wanting to get this off my chest for a long time, now it's done... and I feel better.

Last Inute Flashes

Flomot is Class-B bi-district champs. The Longhorns won over Amherst with 7 first downs to 5, penetrations even, and score 6 to 6.

Matador dropped their "sweater fund" game to Clarendon 13 to 0. Clarendon was runner-up in District 3-4 and Matador was ditto in District 4-A.

Paducah will meet the Shamrock Irish tomorrow afternoon at Shamrock for bi-district honors, and if Mobley is feeling well, Paducah should win by 19 to 7.

What ever happened to the Ralls-Lockney game?
All-district teams will likely be picked this week.

Tax Payers Get Story On Funds

Where License Tax And Gas Tax Funds Go Is Explained Here

The individual's investment in state highways, his returns and other points of vital interest to the tax-paying motorist is being stressed by The Texas Good Roads association during the state-wide observance of Highway Week, Dec. 2 to 6.

In addition to turning the spotlight on the present status of Texas' highway situation and pointing out the future needs for development of an adequate network of good roads according to modern standards, special emphasis is being given to the part which the highway user can play in guaranteeing the quantity of highway tax funds for use in highway construction.

It was pointed out that to the citizen to today a method of transportation is vital to his welfare; that without it industry and commerce would be stopped and our national economy would dry up. Of all modes of transportation the average citizen's chief form and it is in the highways that his chief interest lies. His interest in highways is such that he has contributed millions of dollars for construction and maintenance of a system of highways. Every time he drives his automobile or truck into a filling station a substantial portion of the amount he pays out is a direct tax contributed to further improve and expand his highway transportation system. And it is to the direct interest of every highway user to be interested in his highway system and to know where the money goes and what he is getting for the enormous highway user tax he pays.

The ordinary user of highways might not realize it but he pays in $60 Per Year direct and indirect taxes an average of between $55 and $60 per year. He might be interested in knowing just what he's getting for his money and he's entitled to know. It might be that he will not be satisfied with the manner in which his road taxes are being used. If he's not, that falls under the heading of his business and, collectively, he can do something about it.

In the first instance, an entire one cent of the state gasoline tax is allocated by law to the available free school fund. Thus, ten and one-half million dollars is accounted for. Another one cent of the gasoline tax is allocated to a "road bond redemption fund" to pay interest and principal maturities on bonds voted by counties and road districts to aid the state in constructing a system of state highways. This takes another $10,500,000 in round figures. Two cents of the gasoline tax is allocated to the state highway fund for application to the construction and maintenance of state highways.

Of the total net license fees collected, the counties retain 60 per cent or approximately $12,000,000. This constitutes an important source of income for the construction and maintenance of the local roads in each county. The remaining 40 per cent or about $8,000,000 is allocated to the state highway fund.

29 Million Available
Thus, from motor vehicle registration fees and gasoline taxes, the State Highway department has available about $29,000,000 from state sources. From additional federal aid grants the department receives about $9,000,000 and for all purposes about $38,000,000. The annual maintenance charges on the highway system aggregate about 8,000,000 dollars. The State Highway Patrol also is supported from highway funds. After maintenance costs, highway patrol expenditures and other charges are taken out, the highway department has about $29,000,000 for construction of the state's roads. This sounds like a lot of money, but it is insignificant compared to the demands that must be met if the state is to have a good highway system. Because, it is estimated that a grand total of $370,802,000 is needed as of today to complete the minimum requirements of the highway system. Based on the present income it would require 19 years to do the job that needs to be done today.

Diversion of highway revenues must be checked if Texas is to carry forward a sane, well-balanced and normal highway construction program. So long as no constitutional safeguard is thrown around these funds so they can be counted on from year to year for highway construction and maintenance, the danger of diversion exists. All highway users should join in the movement being sponsored by the Texas Good Roads association to guarantee the sanctity of these funds. That's their business!

Land Use Committee Holds Important Meeting Wed.

Forty-seven persons were on hand for the meeting Wednesday of the Floyd County Land Use planning committee which was held in the district court room. Nine visitors were on hand for the meeting.

L. A. Williams, chairman, directed the proceedings. Tom W. Deen, representative-elect, spoke to the membership on the value of "farm to market" roads and the efforts that are being made to secure improvements upon them. His talk was followed by "open house" discussions of the problem and a number of views regarding the road situation in Floyd county were expressed.

A concise report of the one variety cotton program in this county was made by Henry W. Spielman, representative of the cotton division of the Surplus Marketing division, Washington. His reports showed that 13 gins cooperated with the program, some 10,313 bales had been classed and 6,300 bales had gone into the one variety marketing program.

One variety cotton, Spielman said, have been running an average of 31/32 inch staple length. He urged farmers to begin thinking in terms of their 1941 program and begin planning now to participate in it.

The committee went on record as endorsing the one variety program as it has been conducted in this county.

W. L. Broadhurst, state board of water engineers, asked for the cooperation of the committee in helping with their survey, offering to trade some necessary information which that board had for some data which the committee would be able to supply. The committee agreed to such cooperation between itself and the state board.

Legion Post Seeks Names Of Floyd Co. Men In Armed Forces

Every Boy Will Be Sent Christmas Card As Reminder From Folks Back Home

Parents of sons in any branch of the armed service of the United States are asked to help McDermott Post, American Legion, compile a list of these men, probably 80 to 100 in number.

Harry Morckel, commander of the post, said Tuesday the Legion post wants to remember each of these with a Christmas card to remind their friends back home not forgotten. What the Legionnaires want is the name and the unit in whatever branch of the service the boys are in respectively.

Some of these are on the high seas, some are serving in insular possessions, some in training camps at nearby or distant points.

Names of the men can be given to any member of the post, to Mr. Morckel to J. E. Turner, post adjutant, to J. C. Wester, T. P. Collins, J. C. Gilliam, or the names can be telephoned or handed in to the Hesperian office to be relayed to the proper authority in the Legion.

Another thing McDermott Post members talked about at their meeting Monday night was the erection at a future date of a monument of some type to the men of the county who have served in the armed forces of their country. Right now the post does not have funds available, but it is their plan to obtain names to file away against that day when they will have funds and can put up the monument in some suitable place.

The form the monument can or will take is left also to a future time

How to Be Perfect In One Easy Lesson Is Explained

Edgar Smutney Is Visitor At High School Rally

Edgar J. Smutney, world traveler, visited Floydada High school Wednesday to make a talk to influence boys and girls.

His father was Bohemian and his mother was a Czechoslovakian, but he was American born. Mr. Smutney was born in Boston. When he was only a small boy, he traveled extensively in Europe. He has been a very successful man; he has made many friends with both the rich and poor. He always travels incognito so that he can see people as they really are.

He has traveled 200,000 miles per year and has met 250,000 people in the three years he has been traveling on these tours of schools. He has traveled in Texas, Wyoming, Colorado and Oklahoma. He enjoys making speeches very much, and he uses music to influence people more or to make them remember his speech better; he also uses animals and relics to illustrate more effectively the points he is trying to put over.

Mr. Smutney says that boys and girls don't take life seriously enough and he enjoys trying to influence them to be more thoughtful by telling them the lives and experiences of great persons he has been associated with. One of his main points came from an old proverb and that was to ask someone the way who had already traveled it.

Mr. Smutney gave up a large business in New York City to start his travels. He has a wife, mother and daughter living in New York, a son in military school in Denver, Colorado. He has a large estate in the east, which is located near the estate of Lowell Thomas. Mr. Smutney travels during the summer and makes tours during the winter.

He told one of his experiences which was very impressive. He went to Alaska on 24 cents. On his way he visited the fair in San Francisco and many other places of interest. When he came back, he had enough money to pay his son's tuition of $50 in the military school and had $50 besides. This proves that one doesn't have to be rich to do the things he wants to do, if he wants to do them badly enough.

Mr. Smutney is a great musician; he played in the New York Symphony orchestra in New York City.

To be perfect in the eyes of the students and teachers of F. H. S., you must be able to coach football as well as Mr. Winter or Mr. Hale.

You must be able to kick a football like Dillon Patterson, run like Gordon Patterson and make a touchdown as easily as R. E. Gollightly; and get going as fast as Goen, be able to block as well as Bruce Foster and be as good material for next year as Herschel Hinson or J. K. Morrison.

You must have a personality and a mustache like Bennie Crawford, have hair like Doyle Walls, have and wear clothes like Kenneth Hodges. Get around as easily as J. L. Nichols and go with a girl like Louise Willson, Martha Yearwood, La Fern Hodges or Frances Fields. Be like Joe Rushing or Oran Beck and add the things mentioned above and you will be almost perfect in the eyes of the faculty members and students of F. H. S.

Whoops, Big Banquet Is Scheduled For Saturday Nite

The season's sensation will take place December 7 at 8 p. m. at the R. C. A. gym. The largest number will be all the history of F. H. S. will attend this football, pep, and band banquet.

The football boys, faculty and school board will be guests of the pep squad and band. A football motif will be carried out in decorations. At this time Martha Yearwood will be crowned football queen. The co-captains and yell leaders will also be announced. The football jackets will be presented to the boys lettering in football this year.

What Uncle Sam's postmen's burdens couldn't tell isn't worth listening to. I'll bet those letters from California and certain military schools are more than just interesting.

While on a super-zooping raid I discovered that Mona Ruth Blackman's heart was all upset last Wednesday. Must have been because a handsome ex-graduate from out Sand Hill way was around.

Who is this dark-headed girl who calls a certain person (not her papa) her "old man?"

Notice: Reward for the returning of the Shadows cloak. To the person who returns this cloak we will promise silence about his affairs. One other thing and a little advice... Girls don't be fickle. I am referring to the way people make and break dates to banquets.

You'll be next if you are near. So watch your step, careful, my dears.

WELL, WELL, HERE ARE THOSE EX-STUDENTS BACK AGAIN

High school was greatly honored Friday when ex-students came to speak with teachers and former class mates.

Billy Henry of Shriener Institute Kerville, expressed his appreciation of high school. Both Billy Henry and Pat Collins are graduates of 1940 class.

Pat is attending A and M college. Bailey Switzer, graduate of 1939 class, says that he has visited high school several times this year and enjoyed each visit more than the previous one.

Leeman Norman of Cameron college, Lawton, Oklahoma spent Thanksgiving in Floydada with his parents.

Helen Woodward, a junior here last year, spent her Thanksgiving with Maxine Officer. Helen is living in Alma, Oklahoma.

Garnet Ezell says "hello" to everyone too. Garnet has never attended Floydada High school, though he has been a resident of this city for some two years.

BASKETEERS BEGIN TRAINING UNDER COACH W. V. HALE

Now that football is over, everybody is beginning to talk basket ball. There are about twenty or twenty-five going out for the team. The first week shows that there are prospects of a good team.

Coach Hale is coaching the team, and he says that no date has been set for the first game. Last week was used in getting the boys "rounded up" and this week they are going to work out.

Brand New Achievement of Home Ec. Recited

Shadow Loses Out But Spy Carries On

Dear Dopes: There has been quite a lot of sparking taking place in the first period study hall. While looking through a hole in the window shade last week I saw that Melvin Ross and Paye Lackey were certainly breaking the record.

More fun, more people killed, more hats smashed, more instruments ruined. Thus the bands trip to Flomot might be described. Calling all cars! Watch out for a dilapidated model A Ford driven by Phil Steen! He is accompanied by Maurice Steen and Gene Loran. Be careful, they are dangerous. They stole the cloak of the Shadow while he was snooping around a dark alley and all rumors will have to be reported by the Spy until the cloak is returned.

Hear ye, hear ye. It seems that someone has at last found the key that unlocks the heart of Tommy Griffin. Evelyn, where in heck did you find it? Wayland certainly seems occupied lately. A little whisper said that Floy Jean Hale certainly has taken a liking to telephone booths. While snooping around the dark passages of F. H. S. during the first period developed a decided interest in one of the flag-bearers for the band.

My first impression of Miss Swepton was: She has a pleasing personality, a high temper, strict, but kind and friendly. She expects you to do what you are told to do, she will not tolerate disorder in the classroom and I'm not sure, but I believe she means what she says.

REPORT CARDS

Thursday is the day that some pupils dread to see. It is report card day. Why should we have report cards? They bring more heart aches and bad feelings than any other one thing can.

Those little white cards with those little black numbers can surely deal some students misery. You can ask this question, "What good are report cards?" How would your parents know what you have done in school? So it's best to carry those little cards home with you and bring them back signed.

STUDENT GIVES IMPRESSION OF MISS SWEPSTON

My first impression of Miss Swepton was: She has a pleasing personality, a high temper, strict, but kind and friendly. She expects you to do what you are told to do, she will not tolerate disorder in the classroom and I'm not sure, but I believe she means what she says.

(Editorial)

Many girls, it seems, make a hobby of breaking dates. Girls who break dates also break hearts, and a girl who does a thing like that is sure to get herself into trouble.

If a girl wants to go with a boy, but because of something that has come up since she made a date with him, she can't go, she should let him know why she is unable to go and he will understand.

However, if a girl has a date with one person, and because she likes another better, she breaks the date and goes to the same dance but with another boy, then this is where the common little phrase comes in "don't break a date."

"Boys who get mad when a girl breaks a date should think for a minute, and if they will think hard enough, they will find the reason for her, "breaking the date." Sometimes girls are to blame for breaking a date, but they are not to blame every time.

Therefore, if boys are smart, they will not get in a rage because a girl breaks a date and girls, "Be-ware! Do not break dates."

BAND TRIP

The high school band journeyed to Flomot Friday afternoon for the Flomot-Amherst game. The trip was made in a bus furnished through the courtesy of the Flomot schools although a little crowded the trip was an enjoyable one.

There were no other bands present. At the half the band did the same formation they did at Crosbyton. The Flomot schools showed their appreciation by thanking the band for coming and asking them to come back again.

Thus a tired but happy crowd of students arrived home late that afternoon. The game came out with Flomot the victors.

Homemakers Name Achievements For 1939-40

In looking back over the years preceding this one, we find that our Homemaking department has made a great many achievements since the school year 1935-36. In that year the department sent the girls and one teacher, Miss Wilton, to the state rally at San Antonio and returned with the honor of having won four places.

During the next year our department was represented at the Texas Centennial and Fair at Dallas. Then later in the year this department helped to send four girls to the state rally in Fort Worth. Two of these girls, Miss Wilbanks and Miss Rees, also attended.

During 1937-38 a definite step toward higher goals was reached when they began to save money to help to pay for a refrigerator.

In 1938 the refrigerator was purchased and $70 was paid down. Later in the year $35 more was paid on the bill. Also during that year the girls were aided in attending the rally, where four places were won. Miss Rees and Miss Fouts accomplished the girls.

Last year the final payment of $45 was paid on the refrigerator and the girls were aided with the expenses of attending the rally at Dallas. They were accompanied by Miss Rees and Mrs. Russell and were given three places in the contest.

A great improvement has also been made in the general appearance of the department during the last few years. The table tops in the clothing laboratory have been mended and refinished. The dining room floor was refinished and new curtains and a four-drawer filing cabinet were added to the dining room.

A silence cloth and one large, white table cloth and napkins were also added. The refrigerator, which has probably been the greatest addition, a new screen, a bulletin board, three magazine stands and a drying rack were other additions. Plans for converting the old book room into a teacher's room were made by the department, and the necessary funds for the improvements were received from a play sponsored by Miss Grace Cade and Mrs. Clinton Fyffe.

To aid in furnishing the room, the homemaking girls made new curtains, sheets and pillow cases for the bed. Last year the mattress was removed by the club girls.

These improvements and achievements are of lasting importance to the department and also to the entire school. Homemaking is one of the most popular subjects among high school girls and it is interesting to note the outstanding things which they are doing.

Bond Vote—

Gaines, carried, $350,000
Cochran, carried, $190,000
Counties planning to get campaigns under way soon are Croeby, Lynn and Garza. A great number of counties in other parts of Texas have voted for bonds and many others have elections coming up this month.

The bonded indebtedness will be assumed by the Texas State Highway department under a law passed in 1939 and will be paid from money taken if from gasoline taxes.

A series of meetings are being conducted over the county this week by the Land Use Planning committee, and although the committee is taking no part in the "pros and cons" of the question, have invited County Judge G. C. Tubbs to "go along" and explain the ramifications of the bond issue to the voters as a matter of public service.

Whether or not Floyd takes a part in the state wide road building program depends entirely upon the voters of this county.

Quotas—

cotton produced in excess of their marketing quotas, and then only at 60 percent of the loan rate for co-operating producers.

Polling places in Floyd county will be located at:

Beacon office, Lockney
Cedar Hill school, Cedar Hill

State Committee Hopes For Big Vote on Quotas

Votes of cotton producers in nineteen states will determine whether quotas will be in effect in 1941, whether the farmers who cooperate with the AAA program will be protected from those who refuse to comply, and whether non-cooperators will be penalized for their failure to plant within their acreage allotments.

That's what the Texas AAA committee, meeting in College Station, pointed out to the cotton producers of Texas, all of whom are eligible to vote in the referendum.

"It is not necessary to point out again that we have on hand a two-year supply of cotton or that the war has deprived us of nearly all export market, but every cotton farmer should bear these facts in mind when he goes to vote," the committee said. "Ample information has been supplied farmers in regard to these factors. Farmers already are familiar with quotas and know how they operate. Understanding these matters, they will realize why it is important that all who are eligible to vote do so."

Exceptions Mentioned
The committee reminded farmers that everyone who shared in the proceeds of a cotton crop in 1940 is eligible to vote, regardless of whether he is complying with the AAA program.

Two exceptions to this rule were mentioned; (1) those producing cotton 1 1/2 inches or more in staple length, which is not subject to quotas, and who are not producing other cotton, and (2) those, such as husband, wife and children, who participated in the production of cotton under a single rental or cropping agreement or lease. In the latter case, the person who entered into the agreement or lease is eligible but the others are not.

No absentee voting by mail, proxy or agent will be permitted, but the voter who is outside his own district on referendum day may deposit his ballot in any authorized marketing quota ballot box.

No farmer, whether an individual, partnership, corporation, association or other legal entity, shall be entitled to more than one vote, even though he may have been engaged in the production of cotton on two or more farms or in two or more communities, counties, or states. In case two or more persons were engaged in producing cotton in 1940 not as members of a partnership but as tenants in common or joint tenants or as owners of community property, each such person is entitled to one vote, the committee declared. No poll tax is necessary.

After the balloting the votes in each community will be reported to the county committee which will then transmit them to the State AAA office where they will be tabulated and reported to Washington. A two-thirds majority of all votes cast favoring quotas is necessary for quotas to be in effect in 1941.
