drill a wildcat oil test near Whiteley switch in Briscoe county at an early date, according to reports out of Pampa, which are to the effect that operations will begin at an early date and that a 6,500-foot test will be made

The location as given by N. D. Bartlett, oil editor of the Amarillo News, is 1980 feet from the east line and 660 feet from the north line of Section 6, Block B-4, AB & M survey.

The report followed filing notice of intention to drill by the company with the Texas Railroad commission at its Pampa office.

Location as given above places the drilling site about one and onehalf miles southeast of Whiteley switch, and slightly less than onehalf mile west of the Siverton highway, and about one and one-half mies north of the Floyd county line. dertaken by the West Texas Chamber of have, to win, a man from among us who goes Commerce in the spring of 1938 has arrived at another crucial stage in its development. The serious barriers presented to the normal flow of commerce and the normal development of the southwest country makes the fight one of vital interest to all types of industry in this section. One interesting thing is that the states of New York and Michigan, in "official territory," (meaning in the zone where a shipper gets preferred rates over a similar shipper in some other area, like the southwest) have joined in the fight against equity and fairness. Many other respondents in the north and east who have built huge enterprises based on the inequities which give them advantage over their neighbors are spending money to fight a rate readjustment.

One reason these freight rate fights are lost is that they are not properly financed and that those who have the responsibility are unable to get sustained support. In this instance the West Texas Chamber of Commerce made plans for a long fight and arranged for adequate financing to the last ditch of a fair presentation of the matter. At this time the organization's Freight Rate Equality federation has been joined by the motor carriers of America, the public service and railroad commissions of all southern states, all the southern governors and many shippers' organizations. With all this, however, the fight is a sort of David and Goliath affair. Pressure is tremendous to get the pressure taken off on account of the national emergency, to get the matter smothered in dark chamber procedure, in other words for the Interstate Commerce commission to cease functioning for the present. About the only hope that the procedure can be taken to a final conclusion is that the public will take an interest and through various contacts with the governmental agencies insist that the matter is one of inequity and unfairness. Shippers, producers and consumers alike should help see that the matter is not dropped at this stage.

We can't help but wonder what really happened when the president and Mr. Churchill met somewhere out on the Atlantic last week. That they are to fight against the Nazi tyranny we had already been told and that they would help Russia all possible is already a matter of record in the public prints. How much the public should know. under the circumstances, may not be for us to ask. But the public should have more than a pronouncement of the same theme that has run through their messages in the past several months. Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen if their stories were full and complete it probably would not be necessary for him to go on the air in a fireside chat millions of the world. again soon. What he gave them about the ence that undo than a ringing declaration against tyranny. | into dust." We've been against that a long, long time.

The fight for freight rate equalization un- velves consuls or emperors. And if we must out into mid-ocean to make momentous decisions for us in collaboration with representatives of foreign powers, then we must have it. Our country by force of circumstance must be turned into a military and ordance camp. And such are the circumstances we must trust our leaders, military and political. The time to look back is past. What point we make, if any, is that the leaders also must trust the people, who, after all, will make the Doctors who usually find little or no illness due to exposure in the summer had about packed away their lunglistening apparatuses when of a sudden they had to shoo the mothballs out of the package and begin listening all over again. Hospitals have just about been run over, some of them, rooms all full, special nurses hard to get, doctors too few.

-0-BRYAN ON IMMORTALITY

"If a man die shall he live again?" The answer to this question, so oft repeated, was given by William Jennings Bryan in the following manner:

"Christ gave us proof of immortality-and vet it would hardly seem necessary that one should rise from the dead to prove that the grave is not the end. To every created thing, God has given a tongue that proclaims a future life.

"If He touches the cold and pulseless heart of the buried acorn and causes it to burst forth from its prison walls, will He leave neglected in the earth the soul of man made in the image of His Creator? If He deigns to stoop and whisper to the rosebush, whose withered blossoms float upon the autumn breeze, the sweet assurance of another springtime, will He refuse the words of hope and cheer to the sons of men when the frosts of winter come? If matter, mute and inanimate, though changed by the forces of nature into a multitude of forms, can never die, will the spirit of man suffer annihilation after it has paid a brief visit, like a royal guest, to this tenement of clay? No, I am as sure that I shall live again as I am that I live today

"turns over" in the community ten times in each twelve months period.

If a family spent but $50 per month, or $600 per year, that $600 "turning over" or being spent and re-spent in the home community, would mean the equivalent of $6,000.

If those sales of $6,000 yielded a profit to the different merchants of only 5 per cent, it would mean a possible profit of $300 for home business men. But that isn't all—the money would still be here in town—where you would still have a chance to get some of it BACK IN YOUR OWN POCKET, maybe to pay for chickens, butter, eggs or other produce if you are a farmer—or a payment for your day's work if you are a laborer.

Other suggestions for most effec-tive scattering and handling of the Mrs. Roy Anderson bait are pointed out by the county ghter are spending several days with agent as follows:

A prepared mash should be thinly and evenly scattered over infested fields at the rate of 10 to 15 pounds wet basis per acre. It is most commonly spread by hand. Every pre-caution should be taken to see that t falls apart into flakes. Casting it into the wind with a snap of the wrist helps to accomplish this. Several casts should be made with one handful of bait.

Vit-a-Way Does Not Wash Away When It Is Put In Troughs or Other Contain-

One Plains Cattleman gives Vit-a-Way credit for saving his cattle from dying. Here's what he writes:

"I have about 1,100 head and I have not lost any cattle at all, while some of my neighbors, who had half as many, lost as high as 40 head in one week. "Everyone around my pasture lost cat-tle but me, so I know definitely that Vit-a-Way was the thing that prevented my loss.

"The way I see things you surely better plan to enlarge the size of your plant to make Vit-a-Way."

Other cattle raisers with smaller herds have reported equally good results. It will pay you to investigate Vit-a-Way.
