Floydada-McLean Bi-District Contest Friday

Game Will Be Called 2:30 Tiger Field

Floydada Whirlwinds and McLean Tigers decide their bi-district football quarrel tomorrow afternoon on the Tiger field at McLean. The game is set for 2:30 o'clock.

Several hundred Floyd county fans are expected to attend the game. This morning the estimate is that 300 persons, including the Whirlwind band, will be on hand when the whistle blows.

Three hard days of practice this week have been put in by Coach Murry's charges, here, and Coach Cox at McLean indicated last week-end that his boys would also be put through their paces Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Today the teams are tapering off with skul practice and light drills. With influenza and colds general over the area this week Coach Murry has had tongue in cheek all week, but had not had a serious illness on the squad. Several boys have colds but none of these have been indicated as serious. The team has got to be lucky to get into and through their bi-district tussle without any illnesses. Barring this chance the Whirlwind team is ready to go, the Floydada coach said.

Buses for Team and Band
The Whirlwind football squad will leave Floydada in the morning at 8 o'clock in a specially chartered bus for McLean, and at the same time the band will leave in one of the district's school buses. The squad should reach McLean at noon-time and the band about 1 o'clock. Superintendent Walter Travis said late yesterday. A squad of 28 players will make the trip. The band will make the trip first of charge and is planning to give a demonstration between halves.

Ends Conway, Battey and Bradford; Guards Gray, Hinson, Furrow, Kennamer, Lovell; Guards Colville, Lyles, Trowbridge, Center Pyffe; and Backs Ross, Allen Conner, Cardinal and Womack are expected to make the trip in addition to the starting squad.

In spite of the fact that District 3-A rated as playing a better brand of football than District 4-A, the team yesterday gave every evidence of confidence they would make a good showing against the north plains squad and with the breaks would return home winners.

Plans to run a special football train over the Santa Fe and Rock Island from Floydada to McLean for tomorrow afternoon's game, "blew up" Wednesday noon, Agent V. Williams announced the special train would not be run "because of lack of interest."

On account of the fact that the special had to run over two railway lines the train had to have a guaranteed passenger load of at least 300 persons before 11 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

It was at first announced the special would be put over the rails leaving Floydada at 8 o'clock Friday morning, arriving McLean at 12:30. Floydada High's football squad and band had agreed to make the trip on the train, a price of $2.75 round trip was announced, and everything was all set until it developed later somebody had to guarantee something over $800 worth of passengers this morning.

The train would have been run over Santa Fe lines to Amarillo, thence via the Rock Island to McLean.

J. J. Jackson, 50, of Atoka, Oklahoma, and Claude Alexander, 44, of Floydada, were the victims. Holder and Jackson were old friends and neighbors.

Holder and Jackson were enroute to south plains points in search of cotton picking, when their car and that of Alexander collided. The latter was started home from work. His route home traversed the highway for a mile.

Holder was driving and according to allegations of state's officials, was at fault in the fatal wreck. He suffered severe bruises and foot and head injuries from which he is still suffering at Pitts hospital. His plea of guilty was taken by the judge at the hospital.

The other meeting will be held in the grammar school auditorium at Lockney on Wednesday, December 10 at 7 p. m. All cotton farmers of Floyd county are urged to attend one of these meetings. Last year, Floyd county cotton growers voted 92 percent favorable on quotas. Texas farmers approved quotas by 88 percent.

Cotton acreage allotments, strengthened by marketing quotas, which made 85 percent of party loans possible, is the triple reason for increase in the price of cotton this year, according to G. B. Johnston, vice-chairman of the Floyd county AAA committee.

Two Are Injured In Wreck On Highway Turn

Jake Wolf and Carl Nelson were hurt last night when Nelson's car, driven by Wolf, failed to take the turn on Highway 207 a mile southwest of Floydada adjacent to the Harry Morckel farm.

Final figures on the Red Cross annual roll call in Floyd county are not complete as yet, but the reports today show above 600 members accounted for, County Roll Call Chairman A. B. Clark said Wednesday.

Mrs. W. C. Wright, chairman for Lakeview, was the first to complete her canvass, and Mrs. W. C. Cates of Blanco and Mrs. Jess Sandusky of Muncy also finished and made their reports early.

Mr. Clark expressed doubt that the county would reach the assigned quota of 1200 members this year.

Stymied Rural Light Lines Wait On Copper

Rural electric line construction in Texas is stymied behind the copper problem. The Office of Production management and will be until enough copper is released for the rural electric co-operatives to proceed with the construction.

The plight of Floyd County Rural Electric co-operative is typical, according to L. W. Chapman, superintendent. Here a contract let some weeks ago for construction of lines to serve upward of 300 customers cannot be carried out until copper is available.

Texas congressmen who are insisting that the supply of copper is ample for both military and civilian needs have gone to the bat with OPM, declaring that an impressive margin of supply is shown by the latter's own figures. Lyndon B. Johnson and W. R. Poage in whose district a great deal of rural electric lighting is being done, are taking the lead in the fight for copper for the rural areas, a news story from Washington late in November said.

Residents Urged Help Beautify City At Night

Residents of the City of Floydada, as well as business establishments, are taking an interest in the contest announced last week by the City Light and Power division for the most attractively lighted homes and windows.

While the work of lighting the downtown business section was being carried on this week by V. L. Elliott and L. D. Britton and business houses were digging out and brushing up their street lighting materials and equipment, the plan of the home and window lighting contest was creating interest among the residents of the city.

In the contest prizes are being offered in two divisions, in the first of which all retail business establishments of all kinds are eligible to enter their windows. First prize of $5 will be awarded in this division, second prize winner will be awarded $3 and third place $2. Similar prizes are offered to residence owners for the most attractively lighted homes.

For the sake of the city's holiday attractiveness and appeal to the esthetic senses of the home people as well as visitors, city officials this week were urging many entries in both divisions of the contest. Entry cards are available at the city hall, at downtown drug stores and at other convenient places. Messrs. Elliott and Britton have general charge of the contests.

Sand Hill P. T. C. Society Plans For Christmas Night Play—Eighteenth Annual

SAND HILL, Dec. 1.—The P. T. C. was reorganized Friday night with H. Holmes, president; Truett McClung, vice-president; Frank McClung, sergeant at arms; and Mrs. Truett McClung, secretary-treasurer.

We normally have been presenting eight plays but this time we decided on four plays with the price 50c plus a tax of 25c for adults and 25c plus a tax of 25c for half tickets.

We are going to try a little harder to put on a good play for our annual Christmas night play this year.

We usually bar any play that has over 10 characters but this time we have selected "American Eagle" even though it has sixteen characters.

This is a new play just off the press, a melodrama in three acts and the story and dramatic actions in the play could easily take place in one of our airplane factories tomorrow—It is that modern.

The best play we can get for Christmas night is none too good for the large auditorium full of people we usually get for that annual occasion.

We have several of the old timers—since 1924 listed in this year's cast along with some very promising new ones.

We ask that you make your plans to see a very patriotic American story presented on the stage at Sand Hill Christmas night, 1941. Some of the tight spots will raise me hair on your head.

Whether we will have rationing in the United States or will not will be determined by the congress soon. The likelihood is that this cumbersome way of keeping things on an even keel during the emergency will not be followed, but that instead a number of expedients will be, among them price control laws, labor control laws (industry is already pretty well controlled and one might say throttled) and measures by the Federal Reserve board of governors that are calculated to head off inflation. The subject matter is too deep for one who lacks a wider understanding to say a great deal. However, the experience of the English might be worth reflection in this country. In that nation they have a general rationing of all kinds of foods, automobiles and all the things that go to make up living not related to war. The rich get rationed along with the poor. Your wealthy man does without along with the poor man. Money doesn't buy things, except in proportion, for one that another cannot have as he proves his need. This, they say, is the secret of the popularity of the war in England. All are fighting the same kind of battle for the same end. The big folks are taking it on the chin with the small ones. The policy runs contrary to the history of all ages, where the wars have been the big man's wars and the little man's fight, the big man's profits and the little man's sacrifices, with the white collar man ground in between. That it what they say is happening in England. And the folks are going about their war happily to save extinction of their nation.

With most of their wheat in the ground Floyd county grain growers this week are reporting varying results as to stands. Some say good stands and no insects at work. Others indicate only partial stands and others poor stands, some showing signs of insect infestation, possibly green bugs. Grasshoppers now are too cold to operate successfully, they say. Little or no new wheat is being grazed, the volunteer wheat furnishing most grazing acreage. Whether this volunteer crop offers a hazard that will prove serious next spring in greenbug time remains to be seen.

Texas farmers, we suspect, are taking too much for granted in connection with their farm program. One must remember that the program is outlined by congress and made into law by that body. With no organization worth the name—that is as representing the whole body of farmers—Texas, we would say, will have about as little voice in the type of farm program that is to be made up,—that is the policy of the government toward farming with respect to industry and labor—as it is possible for a state to have. Whether we want it or not, the farmers must have a well-financed voluntary organization that is properly financed, one whose voice will be listened to respectfully. In other states, notably Iowa, farmers have not been so lax in organizing themselves. The Farm Bureau federation really speaks with authority for the farmers.

A speaker we heard the other day mentioned the Texas state government as one of the best in the country—and we agree to that statement. It is amusing to have a visitor from a distant state, especially if he proves to be a somewhat pompous visitor, give Texas laws and Texas ways of handling government affairs scornful treatment. And imported writers quite often try to muckrake in Texas, too. They make charges, many of them, but they do not make their charges stand up. Many things that could be bettered, of course. Many things about our county governments that could be made much better and will be as time goes on. But to find downright thievery on the grand scale or to find a "ring" that has Texas in its vestpocket, like in Pennsylvania or New York or New Jersey. That is to laugh.

Weather: Nothing to report at this time so far as wintry weather is concerned. Lots of big storms, far up north, are due to be cooked up during the winter, so the weather folks say. However, these warm office predictors don't say how many of the storms will get on down into Texas and out on the high plains of our state. Had we time to bide a bit with nature—to get out and commune with the small things of this earthly dwelling we share with them, we could give a lot of good information. What few pointers we have had a chance to get are all contradictory. The ducks and geese, for instance, have the heaviest feather and down coats in years but they don't act unhappy or dissatisfied in their Floyd county habitats, to indicate they expect to migrate any time soon. Most of the grasshoppers didn't plant their eggs very deep although the ground was soft and moist and a hopper could have drilled halfway to China before beginning to deposit eggs. However, the eggs per "hill" are not particularly numerous. Cattle have put on heavy coats of winter cover but they have had a hard summer and that does not necessarily mean anything. So it goes. What we need are signs that cannot be answered, and that is what we do not have now. Lack of information makes one halt between opinions.

It begins to appear the cotton crop in Floyd county needed more fine and more dry weather to mature. Many fields are going to be disappointing, although many others are producing well. Some cotton fields, planted only five days ahead of other fields, are producing much more. Last year government reports show, nearly 8,000 more bales had been ginned on December 1 than this year. But there will be long and general gathering of the crop far into next year, it is said. Cotton will help a lot in Floyd county but it won't make the yield all of us had hoped, speaking of the county as a whole.

For the first time in many, many moons several of the railroads are beginning to show a profit. The Santa Fe almost alone among railway companies operating in the southwest, by fortunate connections and wise building years ago, have made a little money all along, in spite of all the meddling with its affairs that has gone on in the Interstate Commerce commission. Now the others, according to reports, are coming up with a little money made in this quarter and that. Mighty good thing for many a small community and thinly settled county (like Floyd, for instance) that they are. Thousands of schools will stay open that stood to be closed if the losses had kept up.

The Food Stamp plan continues to work very smoothly for dealers and orange and blue stamp patrons alike. The change to buying through retail outlets from the commodity warehouse disbursement is helping in many ways. Especially is it helpful to many aged who were unequal to the task of a visit to some central location. Now they can trade with the grocer where it had been their habit in prior years, or where they feel they can get the most for their stamps. It works out fine for others as well, and retailers are saying they like the idea, too.

Science Finds a Way — Rubber can be made from lime, carbon, salt, petroleum, and water. That fact, together with what is now known about reclaiming rubber from old tires, tubes, and so on should make the Americas less apprehensive about a possible loss of rubber from the Far East. There was a time when men might have fought for rubber. The scientist believes that time is past.—Harrison E. Howe, editor of Industrial and Chemical Engineering.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

Nellie Witt Spikes

As this is the Special Ralls Banner Edition Week I will try to recall those far-away days when this hustling town was new and houses looked like yellow cheese in the sunlight of the west. That was such a busy happy time to me. I was a young wife on a farm trying to learn farm ways and duties. The wagon ruts, cut deep in the mesquite grass when the lumber for the house was hauled in, had not filled up, the trees were only small canes stuck in plowed ground, the lawn was a small pasture coming right to the front door where white daisies nodded and rippled in the waving grass. The prairie sod was only fresh broken for a field, white faced cows hunted up sleeping baby calves in the pasture. The future lay ahead, shining and promising; a blue-eyed baby boy told every visitor, "There is another there is another, when they looked at a tiny girl baby asleep by its twin sister's side.

Yes, Emma was being moved away to start a couple of towns on the rail road, that had at last come to Crosby county, one of them named in honor of its founder, John R. Ralls, a man of vision, building well for the future of his chosen plains home. Ralls was far away from the Spikes home at that time, a day's trip in an open Spaulding hack. Not many trips from a busy farm woman with three little children.

There was a big washing to be rubbed out on a board each week and ironed with sad irons heated on a coal range. There were uncovered pine floors to be scrubbed with hot lye water and a broom, all chickens raised to be hatched at home, a garden to be made all shirts and underwear, dresses and aprons to be sewed and a million button-holes made. Days were not long enough, thank goodness the young woman had strength. Hog killing time also brought its hard work. Then the cooking for the thresher crews, sometimes twenty or more in number, a work that was a pleasure, an event in one's life, no wonder a body did not keep in close touch with the new town whose yellow roofs were graying in the sun. A day's shopping in the spring, another in the fall, a picnic, maybe in the summer. Then there were children to send to school which meant early rising, plaiting and combing long braids, of hair, fixing up school lunches and hunting for hats and gloves; watching anxiously cold stormy evenings for the sound of horses' feet that would bring the children in from a four mile ride; helping in the field, binding or heading maize. How quickly the time began to pass.

The automobile came, chuffing and spluttering down the dirt roads, scaring horses, but moving us closer to town and bringing pavements and better roads. Stores put in plate glass windows, beauty parlors began to heat curling irons for millineries straight bobbed tresses, toys began to appear all through the year and not only at Christmas, smoke poured from smoke stacks all over the land, cotton was the new King crowding out the white faced cattle on the plains. Ever changing, ever advancing with the times, good

"My country tis of thee, Sweet Land of Liberty"

"I asked Joe Ellis what I should write about this week and he immediately replied, "Why, about Christmas." And so it should be, for Christmas happiness is helping crowd out the blackness of the war. Let us light every candle of joy that is hidden by the press of every day duties, see that they burn with a clear light, set one in the window of our soul so that the wayfarer may see its light and know that he will not fall in the darkness of doubt and fear. It is not too soon to make fragrant cedar wreaths to hang on our doors, to set a spicy, nut filled fruit cake to bake. It is not too soon to search our memory for friends that would like to hear a word from us. In fact it is just the time to get the spirit of Christmas at work. The following about Christmas we have copied from the American Home magazine of Christmas, 1936.

"An old legend records the translation from a pagan to a Christian symbol. In the eighth century St. Winfred came to a place in Germany where a human sacrifice was to be offered to the great oak that they worshipped. He raised his arm and ordered the ceremony stopped and the great tree was chopped down. There was fir tree growing among the fallen branches of the "thunder oak" and St. Winfred said "This little tree, a young child of the forest, shall be your holy tree tonight. It is the wood of peace, for your houses are built of fir. It is the sign of endless life for its leaves are ever green. See how it points to heaven. Let this be called the tree of the Christ Child; gather about it, not in the wild woods, but in your homes; there it will shelter no deeds of blood, but loving gifts and rites of kindness."

After wondering why editors have quit writing fiery withering editorials like they did when the country was young, I came to the conclusion it was like the necessary and dynamiting of new roads, when this was done, the way would be smooth and easy travelled. The old time editorial blasted easier ways for their followers, the editors of today.

POET'S CORNER

(Edited by Mary Dean Waters, Becton, Texas)

Man's best friend is his dog, and though the world be against you, he is loyal, ever.

"TO MY DOG"

Ten years ago I bought you With me your life to spend; Not knowing how much comfort You'd bring ere it should end.

You shared my every pleasure, My sorrows and woes no less; The days and years have swiftly gone That you spent my life to bless.

No, not entirely gone.

Your goodness lingers still To cause me to try harder Your mission to fulfill.

A mission of love and patience, Cheerfulness, loyalty, No greed, no hate, nor harshness, Forgiving, constantly.

How oft I'll miss your footsteps, Your little bark so low, The tug at my side, so gently, And the touch of a warm, moist nose

If there is a Heaven for doggies And who dares say there is not, We shall meet on the sunlit pathways, And ramble o'er each lonely spot.

Your life was an inspiration; You lived and died the same; Never a favor asking; Never known to complain.

I shall miss you, my companion, And long for your presence near, But I shall be better and kinder, For the time that you spent with me here.

—By an anonymous Hesperian reader.

All things must end sometime, but it is human nature for regret when we read the end. And winter is seldom welcomed on the plains.

END OF THE SEASON

Go, bring in the pumpkins and squashes And store them safely away, And gather the late tomatoes There's a chill in the air today;

And bring in the last of the peppers And one more picking of beans, And gaze with regret on theokra, On the mustard and turnip green

And pick a last arm full of flowers For I loved the bright days that a past, But winter brings one consolation I'm through with my canning last.

VERY SATISFACTORY FRUIT
MUFFIN RECIPE SUGGESTED

A large percent of home makers have canned a good many containers of fruit during the summer. Making the best use of these canned fruits sometimes presents problems to rural homemakers, and practically every home demonstration club woman in Floyd county knows that she needs every day one serving of fruit in addition to a serving of citrus, tomatoes, raw cabbage or strawberries. Club women who have tried the following fruit muffin recipe have found it very satisfactory, says Edith L. Wilson, home demonstration agent.

2 cups flour
 3 t. baking powder
 1 T. sugar
 1/4 t. salt
 1 egg
 1 cup crushed fruit
 4 T. melted shortening
 Sift dry ingredients together. Beat egg and add fruit and shortening. Add to the flour mixture and stir just enough to moisten the flour. Fill greased muffin pans half full and bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes.

Miss Sybil Poteet coached the play and the following pupils had roles in the skit. Dorman Stanley, Bonnie Roe McCleskey, Hope McIntosh, Barry Rossos, Rose Marie Scoggins, Bryant Middlebrook, Juanelle Reasoner, Charlene Harris, Letha Mae Mallow, Ilene Rog-

Good Practices Aid To Soil Building

Important Steps To Take While Waiting For Technician's Help

The application of soil conservation practices is considered by many farmers of the Floyd County Soil Conservation District to require the aid of specially trained technicians. W. H. Nelson, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the district,

"While there are many difficult problems involved in the application of a complete and coordinated soil conservation program on any farm, there are also a number of soil conservation practices which any farmer can do," the supervisor continues.

Many soil and water conservation practices are really nothing more than just good farming practices, according to Mr. Nelson. He cautions, however, that some advice as to certain fields usually will be needed. He points out that the district, with the aid of the Soil Conservation Service, is prepared to furnish such advice to farmers who want to start the immediate application of the conservation measures without waiting until the Service technicians have time to develop complete and detailed farm plans for them.

Among the conservation practices that the district is recommending and which can be applied by most farmers without any specially skilled assistants are: (1) a diversified, flexible cropping system (or improved crop rotations); (2) the growing of cover crops or border strips; (3) the application of lime or fertilizer needed to grow some of the legumes or other soil-holding crops used in the rotation; (4) controlled grazing on pasture land; (5) good woodland management; (6) the retirement of eroded lands from cultivation, and planting them to grass or trees; (7) the protection of woodland, meadows, pastures and fence rows from contour cultivation; (8) simple strip cropping; (9) the construction of contour pasture furrows, and simple gully control measures.

Some of the conservation practices enumerated may require a limited amount of assistance from technicians or others trained in running contour lines, the supervisor concludes, but as a whole most good farmers of this district can put these into effect immediately without waiting for technicians to develop complete conservation plans for their farms. He states that the district is always willing to assist farmers in getting the required help in running contour lines or doing other simple survey work as soon as they are called upon to do so.

It was emphasized that if the soil is to be saved in the Floyd county district before much of it has become unproductive, it will be necessary for many farmers and ranchers in the county to start applying the simple conservation measures of which they are capable as soon as possible. He estimates that it may take 25 years before technicians of the Soil Conservation Service are able to draw up complete detailed conservation plans for all farms and that while this is going on, many of the farms may be ruined by erosion.

Sammie Goodwin Writes From N. Carolina

The following is a letter from Sammie Goodwin to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Newberry of Lakeview, with whom he made his home. He is stationed at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, 80th TNP-9th Division.

He attended school at Lakeview, and was a member of 1940 graduating class of Floydada High school: 80th T. N. F.—9th Division Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Dear Mrs. Newberry:

We left Camp Wolters at 10 a. m. Saturday and arrived here Monday night at 10 o'clock. We came through Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina. Why we came all of that way out of the way, I can't understand. The state of Illinois was really beautiful, and the state of South Carolina is beautiful also.

We have just been hanging around the barracks waiting for something to happen, and to get orders. Most of Fort Bragg is out on maneuvers, and I guess we will go on maneuvers in a few days, and be gone until December 15 from what I can hear. We are only sixty or seventy miles from the coast they tell us. The largest city around us here is Fayetteville, but we haven't been able to leave camp since we came here.

Georgia a Funny State
Coming up here, we would eat one meal in one state and the next meal in another. The state of Georgia was a funny one, the farms were only two or three acres, and it seems if one tried to work the fields he would fall out of them, for they were on the mountain sides, and they still use the walking plows and a mule.

I really wanted to see the state of Kentucky, and did see a little of the towns at night, but I went to sleep in Indiana and awoke in Georgia the next morning; so I didn't get to see much of Kentucky except when I would awake in some little town.

The camp here is covered with pine trees. The ground has about a half inch of real white sand, and under the sand it is real black soil. It is really a beautiful country; but I still wouldn't trade Texas for any state in the union.

Most of my friends were sent to Fort Jackson, South Carolina; but my best buddies and I are still together.

I was reading a little poem the other day, and it really appealed to me, so I memorized it, and will write it to you.

Let's Get Together
Let's get together and make a stand.
And see this thing through.
Let's all do our bit
For the red, white and blue.
Let's show the world
That we are joined hand in hand
Let's get together, yes
Let's make a stand!
Let's keep the wheels turning
Make use of our tools
And let the tyrants know
That Democracy rules.
Let's get together
Write those words in the sky.

Valtin Lecture At Plainview Saturday Night

Valtin, a former Communist agent, who operated in America and was later arrested in Germany and confined to a concentration camp, will speak here on Hitler's army in America. Nor can this country murder its full strength in the present emergency unless you and your fellow citizens are "financially fit," too.

Build up your bank account now — both as a national duty and as a wise policy of personal preparedness. America needs the invigorating discipline of thrift. You need a bank reserve as a safeguard for your own future.

St. Louis Sure Nice To Boys In The Army

R. V. Bartlett, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bartlett, who is in the army and stationed at St. Louis, Missouri, writes an interesting letter under date of November 24, to his parents here. Says the letter in part:

I am just fine, and sure would like to see you. How is everything out there? It snowed here all day Saturday and some of the snow is still on the ground. We went to school Saturday; to make up for Thanksgiving. We were in a parade here last Tuesday that was really good. Is it still raining out there? I hope it is pretty so the people can get their crops out.

I have been to church twice since I have been here. And I have been to several church socials. The people sure are nice about giving the boys parties. There was a man and a lady that I met at one of the socials that showed us the town Sunday evening, and drove us out to one of the big parks. We really enjoyed it. There sure is lots to see here; but we don't have time to do anything only on Saturdays and Sundays. Boy, we really have to study here. We have to go to school from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m., and just get an hour for noon. I sure do like this work; but it is kind of hard the way they teach it.

It has been pretty cold up here for the last three or four days. I guess this country agrees with me. I weigh 170 pounds. I gained 8 pounds the first two weeks I was here. I can't even wear my suit I have with me.

Enjoy Visits in Homes I have been invited out to three 6 o'clock dinners in people's homes. They really are nice to the boys and sure do have lots of good eats. We really enjoy going in different homes. St. Louis is a pretty town. The town sure is smoky every morning and evening. There are so many factories here.

Is the cotton opening yet? There are some people here who have never seen cotton and wheat. They wanted to know what it looked like, and I have had lots of fun out of some of them.

I had a letter from William Hinton Saturday. He wanted me to meet him out at the Ice Arena Sunday night. Boy, I sure will be glad to see him. I am about five miles from here.

First Baptist Church News

WANTED—Men for a new Sunday school class. If you have not been enrolled in S. S. or have not attended your class in the past year, you are just the person we are looking for to build a new men's class. The pastor will teach this group and they will meet for the first time Sunday morning in the auditorium. It is not the purpose of this movement to take any from any other class but to build a new class. All adult men are eligible and we hope to find a great group who really want to study the Bible but for various reasons have not been enrolled.

Our attendance on Sunday school has been off for the past two Sundays on account of the weather? However the Training service has made up for it by having the best attendance in some time. May we try to make next Sunday a great day in our church. There are many of our people who have gotten out of the habit of coming during the bad weather of the summer and fall.

We hope that you will make a special effort to be in services Sunday. Every member should be in church services every Sunday unless provisionally hindered.

Co-Captain Carlton Fawver Likes Agriculture, Beef Calves, And Hunting

Carlton Fawver, the 175 pound guard and whirlwind co-captain, was born in the Lakeview community on July 6, 1925.

Several years later the Fawver family moved to Campbell where Carlton went to school for six months after which they moved to Hillcrest and Carlton went to school there until he came to Floydada High as a sophomore.

Carlton has played football ever since he entered FHS and he has lettered two years.

Having been a member of the Ag club for three years explains why agriculture is his favorite subject and his beef calf is his favorite project.

His hobby, hunting is certainly a boyish one. Living in the country has its advantages for such a sport.

Carlton has a physique that might well be the day dream of every high school boy. He is five feet, ten and half inches tall and weighs 175 pounds.

He plans to enter college next year and go into the field of mechanical engineering.

Carlton has a physique that might well be the day dream of every high school boy.

Home Ec And Ag Students On Broadcast

The local units of home economics and agriculture boys sponsored a program on National Defense over the radio, station KFYO at Lubbock Tuesday at 3:15.

The program was carried on in panel discussion by the boys and girls. In this they told the things that the home economics department and the FFA chapters are doing toward National defense.

Nelda Fagan played a solo, "I Don't Want to Set the World on Fire."

Those who were on the program were Margaret Camden, Roberta Medina, Lois Burgett, Nelda Fagan, and Kenneth Cates, Miss Georgia Mae Hall and Mr. Barber also went.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB WEINER ROAST

The Home Economics club had a weiner roast Thursday night, November 27 in the back yard of Mary Lee Thacker's home.

As the girls arrived they roasted their weiners over an outdoor fire place. These were made into sandwiches. Punch, apples, potato chips, cookies and marshmallows were also served.

Each girl had brought 10 cents Thursday morning to buy the food.

Interviewing The 'Winds About Coming Bout

Just to let the readers know what the coaches and boys think of the Whirlwind-Tiger game, a student interviewed these athletes and was given these responses:

Coach Murry "Our boys are ready to go."

Assistant Coach Kelly: "If they beat us, they'll know they've been through a ball game!"

Harold Sparks: "They've got a good club, but we've got a better one."

Joe Rushing: "A game is not won until after it is played."

Carlton Fawver: "They've got a good club, but we are going to try to beat them."

Randolph Rutledge: "If we play hard football, we can lick them."

Roy Baxter "I think we'll beat them."

Virgil Boteler "I'll do my talking Friday evening."

Eddie Wayne Conner: "A team that is overconfident is often slipped up on."

J. D. Morrison: "If our team plays ball as it should, we'll win."

Gene Loran: "If everybody plays hard, we'll beat them."

N. E. Tyler, Jr.: "If we play hard, we can beat them."

Everett Patterson: "I think we can beat them, if we play heads-up."

Johnnie Cardinal: "I think we can beat them."

Nosey Reporter

"I came, I saw," and boy! Am I going to tell—!

"Oh, me! Out of one trouble and into another!" In case you're wondering, that's Francis Keim. She has so many boy friends it's hard to keep them out of each other's way.

Just last Friday she and Joe Rushing were on "outs" because he had seen her with Donald Cornelius.

Arla Vee Bishop turned down a date last Friday night and then regretted it. Who was it? You might ask J. D. Morrison.

"Did you see all those uniforms marching down the hall Friday?"

"Yes, and to think, I used to know the boys wearing them."

The above is a typical conversation between two high-school girls, heard in the hall Friday. The conversation was carried between sighs and exclamations. Funny, how the uniforms always gets 'em isn't it?

Helen Young seems to go for these uniforms, too! Phil Steen might be the reason.

Being as they are twins, you can't mention one without mentioning the other; so I might as well tell all. Yes, it was Johnnie Ruth Belser that he was with after Frances' dance Saturday night.

Let me think! Who was it that Evelyn Elliott went to the midnight show with Saturday night. It couldn't have been Doug Pitts—could it?

La Juana Jo Sharp, may be only a freshman but that doesn't stand in her way; for instance she seemed to be having a wonderful time with Eddie Wayne Conner last Friday night.

B. H. FHS ex must have good looks, money, or a wonderful personality because Betty Eakin was certainly "cooing" over him at Arwine's one night last week. Now Billy!

Why is it that Kenneth Johnson and Harold Sparks can't keep from chewing gum in the 2nd period English class?

If you'll notice, you'll find a new couple in the halls. Instead of George and Maudene, it's Melvin and Maudene.

It is rumored that if the Whirlwinds beat McLean Friday that the boys get to bring their girls home. This may be more than a rumor; so if you girls don't want to come back otherwise, get busy and get a football boy for yourself.

Pep Malphurs just loves to feel of corduroy. Why Pete! (I'm not a bit surprised, or are you, Margaret?)

Wow! Blow me down! Guess whom I saw in the show Friday night together. Well, I'll tell you 'cause this is new. It was Joe Wilson and Mary Lee Thacker.

Robert Warren and Wayland Hale were doing all right with those two Amarillo girls at the mid-night show Saturday night.

Who was the lad in the green uniform with Ruby Poore? It certainly was not Robin Hood.

SPANISH CLASS PRESENTS PAN AMERICAN PROGRAM

The Spanish class presented in assembly a Pan-American program, featuring the products of the Spanish speaking countries of the Western Hemisphere.

Nadine Powell was Miss Pan-American. Gene Collins was herald, announcing each country as they laid their product at the foot of the queen's throne.

Aline Tandy and Joyce Ward sang "Cielito Lindo" and Betty Yearwood played a piano solo "Sobre Las Olas."

Carbon paper, typewriter ribbons, Hesperian office.

Hardwycke-Etter Dryer Installed At Co-Op Gin

A new style Hardwycke-Etter dryer, which is proving quite helpful in handling damp cotton, was installed recently by the Farmers Co-operative Gin company in their Floydada plant. It was announced this week by J. W. Lanier, manager of the gin.

Arranged so that the seed cotton travels at high speed through a blast of air the temperature of which can be controlled, the new dryer handles the cotton in such a way that it is dry before it reaches the cleaners and burr extractors, Lanier said. The dryer thus becomes a great aid in bettering the sample of lint that goes into the finished bale.

Dried Fruits High In Food Value, Says Chairman Of Floyd County Food Industry Committee Warring Against Malnutrition

DRIED FRUITS

Dried fruits are one of the naturals in concentrated food values and should be included in every diet. The use of dried fruits in the daily menu will aid local homemakers in improving the health of the community, thereby building America's health defense, in the opinion of Carl Minor, Chairman of Floyd County Food Industry committee.

The chairman explained the national education drive to improve America's diets was progressing rapidly and local homemakers were doing their part. He said the surplus Marketing administration and other government agencies with the aid of farmers, food industry, professional and business men in all walks of life were working together in this united effort to make America strong by wiping out malnutrition and "hidden hunger."

He gave an example of what is being done by the SMA through the Food stamp program. Thousands of low income families are now able to purchase more health-building foods with their orange and blue food order stamps in hundreds of communities throughout the nation. Dried fruits can be purchased with blue and orange food order stamps. However, he said "the problem of hidden hunger and malnutrition was not confined to low-income groups, but to approximately one-third of the nation. By homemakers serving proper well-balanced diets this evil can be overcome."

Mr. Minor said the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of agriculture gave the following facts and receipts concerning dried fruits. He urged local homemakers to try some of them.

"Raisins and other dried fruits outshine fresh fruits in minerals, especially iron," the Bureau discovered. "Dried apricots are very rich in iron. Dates, figs and raisins also supply this mineral needed for good red blood. Figs are a good source of calcium."

The dried fruits are also a source of certain vitamins. Dates furnish both vitamin A and B1. Dried apricots and yellow peaches retain part of their original rich store of vitamin A value. Figs supply vitamin B1 and G.

Following are recommended recipes from the Bureau of Home Economics using raisins:

Steamed Pudding

2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon, if desired
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 cup water, or milk if available
2 tablespoons fat, melted

Sift the dry ingredients together.

add the raisins. Mix the molasses and water and melted fat together and stir into the first mixture. Fill well-greased tins two-thirds full of the mixture. Cover tightly. Cook in boiling water for about 2 hours. Serve hot with a lemon or vanilla sauce.

"Diluted evaporated milk may be used; or if dry skim milk is available, sift 1/2 cup with the dry ingredients.

Raisin Bread Pudding

2 cups small pieces dry bread
2 cups milk*
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup raisins

Add the bread to the milk and heat over water. Add to the beaten egg, sugar and raisins. Pour into a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until lightly browned (about 45 minutes).

"Diluted evaporated milk may be used; or if dry skim milk is available, blend 1 cup with 2 cups of water and use for the milk in the recipe.

Creamy Rice With Raisins

2 cups milk*
1/2 cup rice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup raisins
1/2 cup sugar

Heat the milk in a pan set over hot water. Add the rice and salt and cook for 20 minutes. Stir in the raisins and sugar and cook until the rice is tender and the raisins are plump.

Diluted evaporated milk may be used; or if dry skim milk is available, blend 1 cup with two cups of water and use for the milk in the recipe.

Hot Cereals With Raisins

One-half cup raisins will be enough for six people. Stir the raisins into the hot cereal about 15 minutes before serving so that they will be plump and tender.

Raisin Sandwich Filling.

Raisin and peanut butter. Mix cut-up raisins with peanut butter before spreading or sprinkle whole raisins over the bread after it has been spread with peanut butter.

Raisin Bread

When yeast bread is baked at home, make one loaf of raisin bread. Use 1/2 cup soaked, drained raisins for each loaf and knead the raisins into the dough when it is being shaped for the pans. Raisin bread makes good sandwiches with a simple filling such as peanut butter, cottage cheese, or apple butter.
