Land Use Planning School Nears

Resigns Work

Announcement of his resignation from the faculty of Floydada Public schools, effective July 1, was made this week by John H. Myers. In the system for 12 years he has served as principal of Andrews Ward school the past five. He plans to take up another line of teacher's work.

John H. Myers Resigns Place On Faculty

John H. Myers, 12 years in the Floydada school system as a teacher, five years of which he has served as principal of Andrews Ward school, has resigned his place with the school effective July first, he announced this week. He plans to go into another line of teaching, he said. Mr. Myers came to Floydada to take school work from Altus, Oklahoma. Graduate at Jacksonville, Alabama, in 1910, Mr. Myers took his degree from State Teachers college at Weatherford, Oklahoma, in 1924, and has done work at Texas Technological college at Lubbock toward his master's degree. He had served as superintendent and principal of schools in Oklahoma before moving to Floydada. His future plans will be given at a later date, Mr. Myers said.

Latta Consolidates M-M Line With Grocery Store

The S. J. Latta Implement company was moved this week to the S. J. Latta store, three miles east of Floydada. "Due to the shortage of help and tires, I find it necessary to consolidate the stores," Latta said. He has been in the grocery business at his home place located on the Matador highway for the past fifteen years. A complete display of Minneapolis-Moline machinery was moved Tuesday, from the location 204 East California street. The business is now complete with car supplies, Conoco Gas and Oils, groceries and the M-M line. Clay Anderson, machinist and repairman will continue to be located in the building vacated by Mr. Latta.

Auto License Deadline Is April First

If you are operating an automobile on the highways of the state the deadline for the payment of annual license and delivery of your plates is April 1. Operating a car without the new plates after that date will be in violation of the law. One important must of the regulations now is that you must present your certificate of title to your car or truck before the license can be issued by the county assessor's office. Sometime during the winter months was spent by the office force there notifying owners who apparently had no legal title to their cars under the new law. On February 28 there had been 55 passenger car license plates issued in the county. B. B. Gully the first buyer, 15 farm plates, W. E. Anderson the first buyer, and four commercial license plates, Willson & Son Lumber company the first buyer.

Wide Interest Evident In Two-Day Study At Lockney Mar. 10-11

Wide interest over the county in the forthcoming Land Use Planning school on March 10 and 11 presages an attendance that will equal if not considerably exceed any of the past three schools held.

The program is scheduled to be held in the City Auditorium in Lockney and the two-day program, taking the place of one day, makes it possible to widen the scope of subjects covered. Experts and specialists, who will speak from actual experience, are due to be at the school in numbers, Ben Quebe, general chairman, announces.

Sponsored by the Land Use Planning committee for all people in the territory, the school will continue the study of previous years on special subjects and crops such as alfalfa, fertilizers and cover crops sugar beets, potatoes, irrigation, grasses, live stock feeding, et cetera. Birds Eye View Of Speakers At Land Use School

The Land Use Planning School sub-committee has arranged an outstanding educational program for the people in Floyd county and the territory March 10 and 11. The speakers are well known and thoroughly familiar with the subject which has been assigned. The past two years the Land Use Planning committee has sponsored an irrigation school. It was the opinion of farm men and farm women that the program should encourage and develop other subjects which would foster a better agriculture in Floyd county. The name has therefore been changed from Irrigation School to Land Use Planning School and will feature irrigation dry land farming, and livestock feeding.

Explosives Again On License List In The U. S. A.

Another reminder that America is at war is seen in the bit of news from the court house this week where Miss Emma Louise Smith, county clerk, is in receipt of information that she has been appointed explosives licensing agent for Floyd county. The act, effective December 26, 1941, is similar in all respects to the Congressional enactment that was effective during the World War I. Miss Smith's appointment empowers her to issue vendors, purchasers and foreman's licenses to persons and foreman's licenses to citizens of the county and whose work makes it necessary for them to use the explosives. Bureau of Mines, U. S. Department of Interior, is the federal agency which has the duty of enforcement of the law. Temporary licenses automatically given in December to the county assessor's office. Now you users expired on March 2. Now you can neither buy nor sell nor use explosives without a permit, which are issued for one year at a time unless the war should terminate before their expiration date. Not included in the order are cartridges for small arms or shotguns, fire crackers, top torpedoes, sparklers, etc., in small quantities.

Your Farm Can Help

A farm "ground crew" waves a comradely salute to America's air forces while loading a truck with the kind of food that will help "keep 'em flying." The picture is from a popular U. S. Department of Agriculture poster entitled "Your Farm Can Help." And it's true that every farm in the United States can make a valuable contribution to the national victory program by producing more milk, eggs, pork, and vegetables, says the department. A record production of these foods is needed to feed soldiers and sailors, keep families properly nourished at home, and give strength to Allies overseas.

Pioneers To Meet March 14; Plan For Re-Union

G. L. Snodgrass, president of the Floyd County Pioneers association, has called a meeting of its executive committee for Saturday, March 14, in the county court room at Floydada, for the purpose of planning for the 1942 re-union of the old-timers. In addition to members of the committee other pioneers interested are cordially invited to be present, the association head said.

Emmons Is Called To Active Duty In U. S. Army

L. Clyde Emmons, who has been junior agricultural engineer with the CCC Soil Conservation camp here since last September, has left for active duty with the army. A reserve officer in the infantry, subject to call, he departed in company with Mrs. Emmons for Camp Barkley, Tuesday afternoon. Later he will go to Camp Roberts, Calif.

Farmers Shoulder Nation's Big Job Of Feeding Country At War

Floyd county farmers, aware that the things they grow on their farms will help win the war, are backing up the nation's victory program by pledging a record food production for 1942.

"Plant for Victory" is their slogan as the spring planting season approaches, and in line with this slogan they are making preparation to plant and harvest the maximum of the high-energy foods which they pledged last fall to produce.

At this time begins the intensive check-up on preparations as the planting begins.

Milk, meats, eggs, and vegetables are first on the list of "Victory foods" which local farmers will be turning out at top speed, according to Paul Snodgrass, chairman of the County USDA Defense Board. In a recent sign-up campaign, a total of 1760 farmers in the county made the patriotic pledge that they would produce these foods to the best of their ability during the year. Mr. Snodgrass points out that Floyd county's food contribution will be an important one:

- First of all, high-energy food by the carload and shipload is needed for America's fliers, marines, soldiers and sailors.
- Second, highly nutritious food is needed for those in home civilian work.
- Third, food from U. S. Farms is needed by Allies across both of the oceans.
- Finally, stockpiles of food are needed so that hungry people of other countries can be fed the very minute they are released from totalitarian enslavement.

Biggest Job Ever Undertaken

"Our Food for Freedom program is about the biggest job that American farmers have ever undertaken," Mr. Snodgrass declares. "We're the first big industry to get everybody working together to meet the nation's full needs, item for item. We're proving to the entire world that democracy can plan and get results better than any dictatorship that ever existed."

Every farmer in the county was visited last fall in the sign-up to determine how he could help out. AAA Farm Program committee did the major part of the contact work. In reality, the sign-up has proved to be a "census" of expected production. Since similar campaigns have been held in every county in the nation, the U. S. Department of Agriculture now knows months in advance what will be grown on the American farms this year. The information is valuable in planning how to meet the food needs of wartime campaigns.

The defense board chairman points out that the present food expansion drive is distinctly different from the food campaign of the first World War. In both cases, an unusual need for food existed.

Back in 1916 to 1918, the farmers were urged to plant every available acre and especially to increase their production. The response to this request resulted in plowing up thousands of acres better adapted to grass. Today, however, the expansion is definitely a planned one. There is no need to plow up the hill-sides. Efficient production on about the same total acreage for the whole country was planned to crops this year should make it possible to meet 1942 goals.

While farmers are stepping up the production of foods needed, they will be well protected on the market, the chairman says. The Secretary of Agriculture has announced that prices of hogs, eggs, evaporated milk, dry skim milk, cheese, and chickens will be supported at an average of not less than 85 percent of parity within the limit of funds available until December 31, 1942. This assurance of adequate prices means that farmers are able to expand production on a business-like basis since they have a green light for a full year ahead, he declares.

NAVAL RECRUITERS COMING

Yeomen W. N. Walker and R. L. Yeargin, of the Navy Recruiting service, will be in Floydada tomorrow and will interview interested young men at the Post Office building. They plan to spend the entire day here.

Whirlwinds Lose Tough Series To Lakeview And With It Basketball Regional Title

Floydada High School Whirlwinds basketball team lost by six points in their final and crucial battle with Lakeview, Hall county, last Friday night. And thereby also went the team's hopes to represent the Class A district in the state tournament at Austin this week-end. Score of the Friday night game, played at Lakeview, was 41 to 35. The Green and White boys led briefly toward mid-game and closed dangerously at two other intervals. However, the Lakeview lads were shooting the basket from all corners of the court and would not be denied. The Floydada quintet, in the second game of the series, won 38 to 30, on the Lakeview court, to get a third and final chance at the flag. They lost the toss for location of the final game and journeyed back to Lakeview on Friday night. Best of the team in eliminating all opponents to go into the finals for regional honors was a duplication of the school's team which 14 years ago fought into the finals only to lose to Lubbock for regional honors and the trip to the state contest.

Ranch Girl

Mary Ellen Barton, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Barton, of Flomot, is one of seven ranch girl honor guests for the 1942 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show in Fort Worth. She sponsored in the Floydada show last year and won the prized saddle as first prize. "Dude" is a better hand with stock than a good many of the cowboys.

Farmers Getting Machines Ready For Job Ahead

COLLEGE STATION, March 1.—The farmers of Texas, in general are getting their equipment in order for the production job ahead, but in most areas of the state farmers still need to order more repair parts.

This was indicated by a survey just completed by the Texas USDA War Board in which county boards were asked to determine the status of the farm machinery repair program throughout the state.

The survey indicates that farmers and dealers already have ordered a great many more parts than by the same date last year. B. F. Vance, state board chairman, declared, County board estimates of the percentage increase in number of parts ordered ran as high as 300 percent, although most counties reported increases ranging from 25 percent to 75 percent.

At the same time, the reports indicated that in only a few counties have farmers ordered all the repair parts needed. About half the state's counties reported difficulty in obtaining parts, while only thirty counties reported delays in the repair program because of a shortage of machines, welders, or blacksmiths. "We must have all farm equipment in shape in ample time to avoid serious breakdowns at critical moments," Vance pointed out. "Production is what counts and any slowdown of production by breakdowns which could have been avoided is inexcusable. The thing to do is to order repair parts now so as to be ready for any emergency."

GOOD GOVERNMENT LEAGUE WILL HOLD POSTPONED MEETING SATURDAY

The Good Government association meeting scheduled last Saturday was postponed to next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The announcement was made by Representative Tom W. Deen. The general public is invited to attend this meeting. New officers for the year will be elected and there will be good talks that will be of interest to young and old. Tom Black, secretary of the association said.

THUNDER IN FEBRUARY MEAN FROST IN APRIL?

Does thunder in February mean Frost in April? Mark a note of the question and watch during April to see what the old saying may mean. For it definitely thundered in February—Wednesday afternoon of last week, to be exact—a good loud whack that was unmistakable. Believers are as confident it will frost in April—almost—as if it had already happened. No rain save a light sprinkle fell during the afternoon but it was the forerunner of Saturday's snow.

Set down on the docket for that date is the case of Grady Wright vs. Franklin Fire Insurance company of Philadelphia, agreed to by court and attorneys representing both clients. A special jury panel for the court was drawn by the jury commission. During the term of court judgments not previously reported included the following:

In the case of J. C. Thomas, Jr., vs. Anna Leona Thomas the court awarded the custody of a minor child, Harold Wayne Thomas, to his mother for the period of the next 12 months, the father given the right to visit the child at reasonable times during the period.

A petition for the adoption of Betty June Baxter filed by Floyd Wayne Jackson, joined by his wife, Rexine Jackson, together with change of the name of the child to Betty June Jackson.

The legal disabilities of Eula L. Barbee as a minor were removed on petition by the court as were the disabilities of Billie Joe Burgett, a minor.

A decree of divorce was granted Leighton Teeple in his suit against Billy Jeanne Teeple, and the defendant was granted the restoration of her maiden name of Billy Jeanne Lowe.

A judgment was entered in the suit of the First National Bank of Lockney against J. E. Gordon, giving the plaintiff title to lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 14, 15, and 16 in Block No. 36 at Lockney, together with house and other improvements thereon;

Three Cases Dismissed
Two criminal charges were dismissed during the term of the court for the lack of evidence on which to convict. They were titled the State of Texas vs. H. K. White and the State of Texas vs. Q. C. Swain. The latter was on a statutory charge and the defendant had been held in default of bond for several weeks.

An aggravated assault case against B. B. King, based on grand jury indictment, was dismissed on application of the defendant had been convicted on a similar charge during the same term of court.

Briscoe Cancels Road Bonds In Sat. Election
By a practically unanimous vote last week-end, Briscoe county taxpayers cancelled a $180,000 issue of road bonds which had been voted previously by something more than a year.

The bonds were to have been issued and sold contingent on getting assumption of the bonds by the State County and Road District Bond Indebtedness board, and would have been used according to plan to build hard-surfaced roads had the legislature passed enabling statutes.

North Ward pupils of Floydada Public schools have a job of answering a letter they received last week. It was written from one of the schools in the Philippine Islands—Cayeyuan Barrio School at Daet, Camarines, Norte.

Receipt of the letter was made through Miss Rita Rhodes, county junior Red Cross chairman. Mrs. Annie Taylor is teacher of the North Ward school.

The letter was the foreword of an album of first grade drawings of products of the Philippines, houses of that country, boats, fruits, dishes, etc. Says the Philippine correspondence:

"Dear Far Away Friends:
"We have made you Red Cross album. In this book you will be happy seeing the pictures. Send us your views and work too, in your school."

Teacher in the Philippine school who supervised the first graders there is Miss Felisa de La Cruz.

Phillips Through On Briscoe Test At 7,400 Feet

Announcement was made last week that Phillips Petroleum company had decided to suspend operations at their South Briscoe county oil test at 7,400 feet.

The well, a mile west of Highway 207, had been planned for a depth of 6,500 feet, but the exploration was continued on account of the interesting formations encountered, it was said.

Continued reports are current that another test near Petersburg is in prospect and rumor also has it that a test will be made by Pure Oil company on a block of acreage in the general vicinity of Center, north-west of Floydada.

No confirmation of these reports had been given the first of the week.

That geophysical tests are favorable for the continued search for oil in this section is indicated in the fact drilling still continues on Matador lands in Motley and Dickens counties.

The test in Briscoe is the first on the plains in that county and is one of four deep tests made in this area in the past two years, with others indicated as above as probable.

REPORTS FROM CHEESE FRONT

The importance of cheese in the American effort to bolster Britain with food is reflected in new comparisons in weekly reports on cheese making, issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Assembled by the Agricultural Marketing Service, the new report compares changes in cheese making by geographic divisions. Wisconsin figures are given separately because Wisconsin makes more than half of all the cheese and her weekly record is a highlight.

The figures from the cheese front compare production with the previous week and with the corresponding week last year. In general production is up about 20 to 25 percent compared with last year, which is good news for a Britain of habitual cheese eaters cut off from Denmark and Holland.

For the first week of October, the report showed a slight seasonal decrease from the previous week. Compared with the first week of October, 1940, however, production was up 26 percent.

Pork Taken Off Blue Stamp List For March

Foodstuffs available during March to families taking part in the Surplus Marketing Administration's food stamp program in Floyd county were announced today by Wynn S. Goode, SMA Area Supervisor.

Pork has been removed from the list for March because of the sharp advance in prices in the past few weeks. Eggs, however, will continue on the list and will offer a readily available substitute for meat during a time of year when egg production is heavy and prices decline seasonally.

With the exception of this change, the blue stamp foods for March are the same as those listed for February. The complete list of blue stamp foods, as issued by the Surplus Marketing Administration for the period March 1 through March 31 in all stamp program areas, is as follows: shell eggs, butter, fresh grapefruit, pears, apples, oranges and fresh vegetables (including potatoes), corn meal, dried prunes, hominy (corn) grits, dry edible beans, wheat flour, enriched wheat flour, self-rising flour, enriched self-rising flour, and whole wheat (Graham) flour.

Blue stamp foods listed are those obtainable nationally and locally by stamp program participants during March at local stores participating in the program.

February Figures Given
Blue food stamps in the amount of $1,867.00 were issued during February to stamp program participants in Floyd county it was reported today by Wynn S. Goode, Area Supervisor, Surplus Marketing administration. The total of blue stamps issued since the beginning of the program is $6,275.50.

Orange stamp clients were required to buy at the local issuing office amounted to $2,454.00, bringing the total of food purchases with food stamps in February to $4,321.00. There were 231 cases representing 782 persons participating in the program last month according to the report.

The benefit of the program to farmers as well as participants was pointed out by Wynn S. Goode. Blue stamp purchases represent food marketed the farmers would not have otherwise had since clients are required to purchase each month the amount of orange stamps they would ordinarily spend for food. Clients are then issued blue stamps enabling them to purchase additional food.

"Now, Willie," said the teacher to a rather stupid pupil, "listen to me very carefully. If I had five eggs in this basket and laid three eggs on the table, how many eggs would I have?"

John McKinney, employed at Duncan Field aircraft, at San Antonio spent the week-end here with Mrs. McKinney who underwent an appendicitis operation Wednesday of last week at the Floydada Hospital and Clinic. WIDE CHOICE IN CHEESES

Cheese ranks high on the list of concentrated foodstuffs this country is sending to Britain. Quantities of American cheese are now crossing the Atlantic, and war conditions have reduced imports of cheese almost to the vanishing point.

However, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reminds that we can make most of the popular types right in this country. A few European cheeses owe their flavor to sheep's milk, but most of those were unsuited to shipping, and were consumed at home. So were most of the oddities such as the Italian cheeses made from buffalo milk or the Laplanders' reindeer-milk cheese, or camels' milk cheese of the Asiatic steppes.

In the United States the cow milk used in cheese is produced under carefully controlled, clean conditions. Research by the Bureau of Dairy Industry has resulted in improved methods of making American Cheddar-type cheese, a highly satisfactory domestic Swiss-type cheese, domestic Roquefort-type cheese—made from cow's milk instead of sheep's milk as in France—and American Camembert-type cheeses. Nearly all of the Italian types of cheese are now made in this country.

Housewives may use the perishable cheeses like cream and cottage cheese, freely, as they cannot be sent to Britain. Even with importations cut off, American cheese-makers offer variety to suit all tastes.

PLAN FOR LABOR SHORTAGE

Before crops are planted next spring an acute shortage of labor the nation over is almost certain to occur. New plants and factories by the hundreds are under construction. To operate these, and to provide raw materials for their operation, will require 3,000,000 new workers.

Farm plans should now be made with such a shortage in mind. Every farm boy with any bent toward mechanics is going to have a chance at a good factory job.

Steel for the manufacturer of farm implements has been placed high on the priority list and must be kept there. Farmers cannot send their surplus youth to industry and produce as they are asked to produce without the aid of modern machinery of all kinds.

Bill Baker, who for the past month has been employed with a sheet iron company at San Diego, California, returned home Tuesday. Mrs. Baker and children made their home with Mrs. Baker's mother while he was away.

There must be lots of reason before any excuse can be offered for the most elaborate and intricate job of sugar rationing that is being prepared for in our country. One of these reasons, the OPA says, is protection of the sugar supply so that women can have what they need this spring and summer for their canning. The canning supply may be somewhat limited but it is being arranged for and will be sufficient for actual needs. One of the reports the OPA speaks of receiving is that some housewives are buying more than their normal needs, explaining they want to be sure of having sugar for canning next summer. Unnecessary and unwise, says OPA, because canning needs are being provided against. To show how elaborate the plans are for the 28 weeks of rationing, account is being taken of unborn babies.

No wonder the paper supply is being used up and printers are having to watch their step in order to have a supply. Over seven hundred million forms, cards and booklets are being used on the sugar rationing job, between 11 and 12 million pounds of paper, over 300 carloads, six paper mills working their full capacity for some days and 23 printing offices on a 24-hour basis printing. It is, indeed, to be a "monumental structure of self-sacrifice," one in which all must join wholeheartedly, whether they believe it is or is not necessary. The time has come when we have to follow the leader and let the leader be wrong at times, the same as you and I.

Census of the automobile graveyards of the nation is being taken. Jalopies are to come into their own once more, but this time as warships. The prospective shortage of steel scrap at steel mills and foundries is around six million tons, say authorities which declare some mills have had to curtail operations and others to close open hearth furnaces. The work of doing the census will be completed quickly, it is claimed, and in addition to the steel and iron scrap on the farms, in fence corners and about, will furnish a source for about three million of the six million needed tons of scrap iron.

Will thousands go broke as a result of this war? Such is the freely made prediction of some who have given careful study of causes leading to the severe agricultural depression which followed World War I preceding the one that Wall street knows about, by four to six years. Heavy expansion investments, a big increase in the price of the land used for farming operations, bigger barns, bigger feed storage equipment. This source, which claims to qualify to advise farmers, dairymen in particular, says the soundest advice to any dairyman now is to make a great deal more milk from the cows which they now have accommodations and feed for. From the farmer point of view the labor situation is growing more crucial by the hour, cost of building material and skilled labor is skyrocketing, machinery for growing and producing crops are available in more and more limited quantities. If you have the money to pay your way you can chance expansion. You may have years and years in which to profit. But for the man with unpaid obligations "the smart thing is to step up to full capacity production on his present producing ability," and no further. It makes interesting reading, anyhow. Who knows but the man is correct? Leastwise, something to chew one's cud over.

If you would like to know what is happening in the printing world along about the beginning of World War II, a reference to magazines of the trade would be interesting. Plants all the way from little enterprises in the $5,000 and less class, representing the investment of ambitious printers who have invested in the past year or two, on up to the $500,000 Goliaths of the trade, whose mortgagees are holding sales on the premises. Largely on account of the fact there is no automobile business any more.

One country newspaperman who had too many subscribers solved his troubles with regard to too many subscriptions by cutting off some of the folks and not letting them back on again. Trying to be fair, he decided not to cut off all at one end of the list, so he took his scissors and clipped out every name down to and including the D's, then he skipped over to the S's and clipped all of them off from there on down to and through the W's. A cranky sore of cuss he is still making the rule stand.

The deadline for income tax reports is March 15, this year the 16th because the 15th comes on Sunday. The fact is that the government is wanting you to pay only that which is rightfully yours to pay. Millions of dollars returned to overpaying taxpayers every year is testimony to this fact. But there is another side. The government definitely must have, in fairness to all taxpayers, so as to treat all alike, all the taxes that each of us is due. And in order to continue to have the fear of prison and disgrace in the minds of those who would cheat the government there will be thousands of investigators going abroad in the land, studying reports, looking into rumors, wondering all the time. Their job to ferret those out who try to cheat. We suggest you do not assume that a good hardworking fellow like you should not have to pay an income tax. With all its faults this country has some laws that must be respected and the income tax law is definitely one of them. This country is the best on earth today. It is in a death struggle for existence, regardless of what unfair things may be happening that people are mad about, or are most certainly going to be. And it is entitled to have your cheerful payment of a tax which your neighbors are paying. Don't forget the deadline and find out for a fact if you owe anything.

Training of women for work in the National defense industries is being accelerated. The Defense industries, like the maw of some giant animal, are going to swallow up the work of millions of hands, more hands than the males can furnish while at the same time manning the guns. The adeptness of women with their fingers—operating power sewing machines, repairing aircraft instruments, aircraft riveting and similar jobs—enables them to become very proficient. In a few months the movement of women to defense schools of various types seems altogether probable, the same as the movement of men to defense jobs began a year ago.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

By Nellie Witt Spikes

As the dark mantle of night wrapped around a cold gray world February went cold bitter tears, then at midnight came, she folded a white mantle around her disappearing form, left white calling cards on the earth and was gone forever, leaving March in possession of time. Perhaps she was weeping because the few short days of her stay did not see the victory of the Allied nations over the wrongs of dictator nations. But she did see a great nation aroused and at work.

The mazes of the past where one had to keep hold of a string unwinding from a ball to find their way were nothing to the mazes of the income tax report. Just as soon as one has something to put their hand on, or rather seems to have figured out the puzzle, somehow it does not work. It seems so simple before hand. You put down the actual cash you have taken in, then add up your deductions and there you are. But somehow I cannot find the places that farm folks understand, cream and eggs and hogs and cotton. You owe or you do not owe; that ladies and gentlemen is the question before the house and your Uncle Sam wants to know the right answer by the fifteenth of March.

As my husband nods by the warm fire, he is dreaming of cowboys clad in half-frozen slippers, creaking like tin paper in the cold rains of spring. Of pulling cows out of bogs, then having to tail them up and feed day after day 'til strength came or death conquered. Dead or alive the critter was not worth much at that time, but if they lived they would walk up the trail to their own market, making a little dinero for their owner and twenty-five a month for the cowboy, who pulled them out of the bog and guided them to the buyers. Jeff loved the cowboy life as a boy now loves the football game.

I will miss the kindly courtesy of the fine old gentleman, Mr. Wilkinson when I go to Floydada. My father was laid to rest March 3rd some ten years ago. May the lessons our fathers taught help their children through life.

One day last week was an unfortunate day. We were coming down the canyon hill from town. The trailer tire went flat all of a sudden. While the men were fixing it, Joe Ellis and I decided we would climb a little hill. When about a third of the way up we slipped down to the bottom, twisting my knee. When we got home my husband discovered he had lost his purse with the cream money in it. Back to the canyon Wilma and I went, hunting in the almost dark of a cold norther. The place was easy to find where we had stopped for Joe and I had marked the spot where we slipped. Back home we came empty-handed only to be told M. Spikes remembered he left the purse where he had taken some nails from his pocket, forgetting to put it back. I was too crippled to get my eggs, it was dark. Wilma went for me. Someone had moved the corn sheller from its accustomed place in the barn. Wilma fell over it and thus ended the misfortunes.

Mr. Spikes remembers when his folks bought a barrel of sugar after years of scarcity and of having to sweeten with sorghum molasses. He says the children wore down the planks going and coming from that sugar barrel.

Good thought for the week by C. H. Von Bogatsky. "He commonly brings his help in our greatest extremity, that his finger may plainly appear in our deliverance. And this method he chooses that we may not trust upon anything that we see or feel, as we are always apt to do, but only upon his bare word which we may depend upon in every state."

The stormy March is come at last With winds, and clouds and stings I hear the rushing of the blast. That through the stormy valley files.—William Cullen Bryant: March.

Below is a copy of the lovely poem written by Katherine Lee Bates. I trust it will be a comfort to the family of Mr. Wilkinson as well as to others in grief for loved ones.

Yesterday's Grief
The rain that fell yesterday is ruby on the roses,
Silver on the poplar leaf, and gold on willow stem;

The grief that chanced a-yesterday is silence that incloses
Holy loves when time and change shall never trouble them.

The rain that fell a-yesterday makes all the hillsides glisten, Coral on the laurel and beryl on the grass;
The grief that chanced a-yesterday has taught the soul to listen
For whispers of eternity in all the winds that pass.

O faint-of-heart, storm-beaten, this rain will gleam tomorrow,
Flame within the columbine and jewels on the thorn,
Heaven in the forget-me-not; though sorrow now be sorrow,
Yet sorrow shall be beauty in the magic of the morn.

Aunt Clara Wheeler had a very interesting letter in the Ralls Banner last week. I hope she writes again and tells of her fun for land in the Old Indian territory.

Poet's Corner

(Edited by Mary D. Waters, 727 N. Main Street, Borger, Texas)

This is a very pretty picture of a little boy. It was written for Billy McReynolds on his third birthday. This local poet seems to truly understand children.

A LITTLE BOY JUST THREE
When a little boy is only three
He's just as cunning as can be;
He wants to know so many things.
Why birds have beaks and feet and wings.
Why worms just writher along and crawl.
Why—in fact—there are any worms at all.

Where bugs get all their bites and stings
The why and wherefore of every thing.
He's full of questions of all ages,
But as wise as the ancient sages,
Innocent and sweet as a baby lamb,
But wise and serious as any man.
Young and pliant, this babe of three
But as old as time itself can be.

Expecting his parents to love and guard
Until life shall measure his full reward.
Knowing no fear nor dark outlook
He calmly opens his own life's book—
Write wisely on the precious pages,

He may be the man of all ages

A touch of the starter, and your engine rolls into action with split-second speed. It's got to, because any engine in good mechanical condition will start provided the gasoline in the tank is "hot" enough.
And Phillips 66 Poly Gas is extra hot! . . . without a penny of extra cost!
Try a tankful. Compare. See if Phillips 66 Poly Gas doesn't give you just about the fastest cold-weather starting, and the finest way to find out what a difference high test makes.

Victory At Stake As Planting Is Planned In Texas

COLLEGE STATION, March 3.—What is done at planting time may mean success or failure of the Food for Victory program.

That's why Texas farmers must be more careful than ever before during this planting season, B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USDA War Board, said today in inaugurating Plant for Victory Week, March 1-7. "Victory may hang in the balance as the farmers of America plant their crops this spring," Vance declared. "You may not feel that crop failure or success on your individual farm will make any substantial difference in the amount of food for our army, navy, workmen and allies, but a crop failure on your farm multiplied by crop failures on thousands of other farms would seriously damage our war effort."

"We must not fall in this greatest food production job in history. Our own people are depending on us. Our Allies are depending on us." Vance emphasized the importance of planting ample supplies of food crops in order to meet production goals for livestock, eggs, and milk; more oil-bearing crops such as peanuts; and more food crops such as rice and vegetables.

Good Results Felt From Church Of Christ Revival

J. G. Malphurs, Minister
Our meeting closed with good results for the church. There were nine additions to the local congregations. We now feel much stronger for the work ahead of us.

There is a great need for a better understanding of the Lord's day. If men know more of what took place on that day of the week, and why it is designated the "Lord's Day," rather than the Sabbath or Sunday there would be less business and labor, but more church-going. Our text will be for the noon sermon, 11:50: "I Was in The Spirit on The Lord's Day." (Rev. 1:10).

The subject for our evening sermon will be: "The Conversion of the Chief of Sinners." We appreciate the splendid attendance at our evening services. We hope many more will visit with us at that hour.

THINKS CHEESE FACTORY LOCATED IN FLOYDADA WOULD BE UNWISE NOW

Floydada, Texas, March 3, 1942.
Seeing a news item in this paper last week put this writer to a very serious task-thinking. And as we thought it occurred that other farmers might profitably do some thinking also, even though it might be an unusual performance for most of us. The news item in regard to the cheese factory in Floyd county. True the money is available for any venture of that kind that farmers are interested in that it can be shown has some promise of succeeding. It is doubtful, however, if the material and equipment could be had at this time, but saying that it could be, then why should the farmers place themselves under that much more obligation when there is at their service just those facilities without the additional debt that must be incurred?

First, the volume of milk must be guaranteed before the funds might be made available and we believe that Floyd county is not producing more than half the milk that could be produced in the county. The milk might be had and in case it can be produced, then that is what should be done.

The creamery in Plainview, Plains Incorporated, since January 1, 1941, more than doubled the amount of whole milk processed into cheese and butter and is now running at about three-fourths of its capacity. At present and for the past two months there has been made into cheese and butter at the plant 65,000 pounds whole milk per day and we learn from the manager this morning the plant could handle 90,000 with the ease and the disposition of the product is already taken care of just as fast as it can be made available. A little history of this plant will show why the products are already sold when made.

First, the manager, Wallace Louthan, farm-raised, creamery-broke, but still living on the farm, can do any job around the plant as well as the party that is employed to do that particular job. The desire to raise the standard of living of dairy farmers, one of whom was his father, by making the best possible out of the milk that they produce, is his life's work and also his past-time. Very few creameries have that kind of manager.

How well he has succeeded is the following record. Ninety percent of the butter that is produced at the plant is 92 score or first grade and all of it could have been if the cream taken to the plant could possibly have been made into that quality. In competition with all the creameries on the west coast, Plains Gold butter was given first prize at the San Francisco fair. The same was true at the Memphis, Tennessee fair. In competition with 59 other cheese plants, Plains, Inc., received a $100 prize given by the Kraft cheese company. These plants were all making cheese under contract for the Kraft Corporation and one of the plants was owned by the Kraft Company.

With this plant already available to Floyd county farmers, products already disposed of for as far as any one can see into the future and the chance to own a share in the same by just patronizing it, I see no need for a further indebtedness of $30,000 for more cheese plants. All it takes is your patronage and you will be given your participating certificate at the end of the year not a dollar down.

The hard part of this job was taken care of by the father of Wallace Louthan, Hon. A. B. Tarwater, R. B. Mitchell, the father of Mrs. Bob McGuire and others. Now you Floyd county farmers can step in and participate. Why become a competitor?

The Floyd county picture as regards whole milk at present:

The truck which gathers milk coming into the county at Petersburg, delivers 3800 pounds milk per day. The one gathering west and north of Lockney 3900, the one gathering north and east of Floydada 1700. That is my reason for saying that Floyd county is not producing more than half what could be produced and that the Plainview plant, which is partially owned by Floyd county farmers could for some time to come make into cheese all that will be produced.

Just what more do the farmers of the county want? Any farmer wanting a copy of the last audit of the plant may get one by writing Plains, Inc., Plainview, Texas. It will start you to thinking!

German Machine Gun Will Be Sold By Legion Post

After fifteen years of quiet repose on the American Legion grounds, the Mottor-type German Machine gun, relic of the first World War, is to be sold. The decision was made at a meeting of McDermott Post Tuesday night. The gun is to be sold for junk iron and steel, at the suggestion of the United States government, and the proceeds used to buy defense stamps.

The gun was captured in France by the Allies and shipped to Austin soon after the close of the war. It was shipped to the local Post fifteen years ago and has been in the custody of the American Legion since that time.

At the business meeting, plans were made for an Anniversary American Legion party to be held soon. At this time the Auxiliary members will have parts on the program. W. G. Collins, post commander said.

PINK LUNGS SHOW POISON

Pink lungs reveal carbon monoxide poisoning in baby turkeys and chicks. In a poorly ventilated brooder house, a farmer may actually gas his turkey poult or baby chicks while trying to shield them from drafts in stormy weather or at night. A sooty brooder stove, combined with bad ventilation, may cause deaths that might be blamed on other causes.

Investigating the high percentage of loss among baby turkeys delivered in good condition from hatcheries to local poultrymen, the Denver Branch Pathological Laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture found no external symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning—even when they suspected it. Chemical blood tests, however, were conclusive. Physical examination confirmed the positive cases by showing the abnormally pink lungs that result from carbon monoxide poisoning.

The laboratory recommends that turkey growers give special attention to good ventilation in their brooder houses, to admit enough air for safety while still protecting the young birds from drafts. Before placing baby birds in the brooder house it is also important to clean coal, wood, or oil burning brooder stoves thoroughly to remove all soot that might clog the burners and help form dangerous carbon monoxide gas.

A city boy went to work on a farm. One cold morning before daylight the farmer told him to go down to the barn and bridle the horse.

In the dark the boy got hold of a cow and was trying to put the bridle over its horns.

"Hurry up!" shouted the farmer. "I can't get the bridle over its head," replied the boy. "Its ears are frozen."

Biddy Goes to Work Early

America will need millions of eggs this winter, as part of the "defense food" production. Kathryn Hines, pretty 4-H club girl, shows biddy that soldier hours will be expected. Many poultry producers follow this practice of turning on electric lights in laying houses early in the morning during winter months. The practice compensates for the fewer hours of daylight and gives hens a full day of eating and laying.

THE STORY OF FOOD TAPIOCA, CASSAVA—FROM JAVA

The story behind the foods we eat day by day is often as thrilling as the latest mystery story.

Among the list of food romances was a grocery staple which our grandmothers seldom allowed themselves to be without. It came in a little brown paper bag and the grayish-white pellets were known as "pearl" tapioca, destined to fill a leading—and not very exciting—role in a tapioca cream or in a baked pudding. Preparation was by soaking the product overnight. Results were a rather stodgey desert pudding and often disliked by the family. But today—with the transformation of tapioca into a stream-lined modern product in a comparatively few minutes—it blossoms into scores of delightful desserts.

So without further ado, lets put on our seven-league boots and journey half way around the world to far-away Java. Java is the most important group of islands known as the Malay Archipelago, which constitutes the Dutch East Indies, belonging to the Netherlands. In the islands of Java, "Garden of the East" rugged volcanic mountains lift their grey-misted peaks as if to escape from the steaming jungle, surrounded by valleys luxuriant with the dense growth of banyan and bamboo and jungle forests that gleam with the brilliant colors of a million exotic flowers.

Here, in this wonder island set in a sea of tropic blue, grows the plant from the root of which tapioca is made. The plant is known to botanists as "manihot," but it also bears such names as cassava, cassia, amylo, manioc, mandioca, and other names. The plant is also native to the West Indies and South America, and probably came originally from Brazil. The word tapioca comes from a Brazilian word meaning pudding.

This useful plant, which is the source of the various forms of tapioca used all over the world, grows in a belt approximately 2,000 miles on each side of the equator. Growing on fertile plantations, surrounded by dense jungles, the full-grown cassava or tapioca plant is from four to ten feet in height. Above ground the plant consists of one or more woody stalks which are from an inch to an inch and a half in diameter at the base and from these stalks branch slender leafy stems. However, none of the portion above ground enters into tapioca. The above-ground stalk is used only for cutting into "strips" for planting new crops. When a new crop is being planted these cuttings are merely inserted in the ground to a depth of two or three inches and they require little attention until the crop is ready to harvest, which is a year to a year and a half after planting.

It is the underground or root part of the plant which concerns us. It consists of one or more tubers closely resembling a sweet potato although much larger, since some of the tubers weigh as much as twenty to thirty pounds. At maturity these tubers are pulled out by hand from the light sandy soil, or dug out with a heavy hoe, then are taken from the field to the factory where the tapioca is extracted.

At this time of harvest the Javanese people hold a great festival, they feast, dance and sing to their native gods for routing the demons which sometimes ruin the precious cassava crop.

There are several things that happen to the bagged tapioca after it reaches America. There are three principal forms in which we use it. First, is minute tapioca, then flake tapioca and pearled tapioca. The story of their journey is interesting indeed. However, space will not permit the telling save a little story of how minute tapioca originated.

A sick sailor was at the home of one Susan Stavers and she was desirous of fixing something for him to eat.

It chanced that this sailor had sailed the Seven Seas and he remembered a delicious pudding he had eaten at a certain port. He asked Susan to grind the chunky lumps of tapioca through her

"INCIDENT" DAMS UP CHINA'S TUNG OIL

Exports of tung oil from unoccupied China to the United States, reported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, reflect Chinese persistence in the face of the "incident." Exports to this country rose rapidly from an average of less than 30 million pounds a year prior to the World War 1911-15, to an average of more than 90 million pounds for the 1926-30 period and continued this average in the first years of the depression here, increasing to 141 million pounds in 1937.

During the last 3 years, not nearly so much Chinese tung oil has been reaching the United States on account of the Japanese blockade. In 1939 this country imported 70 million pounds and in 1940 about 91 million pounds, but 1941 imports are expected to decline to the lowest level in many years. The Burma road is now the only route left open for the exportation of Chinese products.

Tung-oil production in the 12 provinces of unoccupied China is reported at about 500 million pounds for 1940 and the government is actively encouraging still greater production. In this section most tung trees grow wild and a large number of trees have not reached bearing age. Still higher production is anticipated. The Chinese are now utilizing at home as much of the oil as possible and will have huge supplies to export whenever transportation is available. China is repaying with tung oil a U. S. loan of $25,000,000 made in 1938.

INNERSPRING MATTRESS GREATEST IMPROVEMENT

Did you know that we've done more to improve sleeping equipment during the last 100 years than was done in all the many centuries preceding? Bedding authorities say that the 100 years since 1841 have seen the evolution of the mattress from a bag filled with cornhusks to the modern innerspring.

The cornhusk mattress was followed in about 1875 by one filled with excelsior from the sawmills of Wisconsin. Ten years later, moss from the marshes of Georgia and Alabama was introduced as the best possible of mattress fillings.

Cotton mattresses didn't come into popularity until the turn of the century. The biggest step forward came during the World war when the innerspring type was introduced, although it was not until the early twenties that they were marketed generally. Since that time it has been the comfort ideal of most sleepers, though in eastern states hair mattresses, not popular elsewhere because of the heat, are considered very fine.

Get the Want ad habit.

THINGS TO REMEMBER WHEN YOU BUY CLOTHING

1. Read the labels on ready-made as well as piece goods. Thread count is the number of yarns per inch both lengthwise and crosswise of the material. Sanforized-shrunk means the material or garment has been shrunk. Vat dyed tells that the material is fast to washing and light.

2. If you buy goods at sales, be sure to check price and quality with values offered regularly and in other stores.

3. When buying shirts for Dad and the boys, look for:

- a. Firmly woven, strong, and durable materials.
- b. Full cut for comfort.
- c. Sanforized-shrunk.
- d. Colorfast to sun, tub, and perspiration.
- e. Triple stitching on all seams subject to strain.
- f. Firm buttonholes and good buttons.
- g. Neat, interlined collars.

4. All ready-made clothing should be cut on the straight of the material. Seams should be 1/2 inch wide, straight and neatly stitched, zippers and other fasteners firmly attached, facings cut on the bias and lying flat, buttonholes firmly worked, hems not skimpy. When garment is tried on it should fit properly, hang properly and feel comfortable.—From Progressive Farmer.

Gas & Sourness Find Defeat In Hoyt's Compound

Mrs. L. M. Martin, 1211 Ninth St., Lubbock, says: "For years I was bothered with sour stomach, gas pains and indigestion, I could hardly do my own work. My elimination was irregular and I was really a sick woman. I am getting wonderful results from Hoyt's Compound. "The weak spells, sourness in my stomach, and heartburn is almost gone. My bowels are active and regular now. My food digests perfectly. My nerves are quiet and I sleep well. I really enjoy myself and can do my housework with a zest." Hoyt's Compound is recommended and sold by the Bishop Drug Store, and by leading druggists in this area.

Modern Betsy Ross, Artist in Needlecraft, Makes All Army Flags

Betsy Ross, 1942

The year 1912 marks the 165th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes, today a battle-flag proudly carried by American armed forces in every continent on the globe.

Embroidering Quartermaster's Banner

Millions of people who are thrilled by the sight of glorious banners fashioned from their delicate stitches, they are rewarded by the knowledge that the flags they have wrought are today the signals of liberty and freedom afar amid the fogs of Iceland and in the battlesmoke of the Philippines.

The most stirring sight at the Quartermaster Depot is the making of the flag. After thorough inspection of the cloth to insure that it comes up to rigid specifications, the bunting is marked and cut with an electrically driven cutting machine into strips of two lengths for making the flag. One hundred strips are cut in a single operation. The blue field for the stars is cut in the same manner. The material for stars is stamped out with a steel-cutting die on an electric-driven stamping machine. The alternate red and white stripes are joined together on a double-needle sewing machine.

Each blue bunting field is carefully marked for its stars, and the stars are stitched on with a special machine that produces a zig zag stitch. Other operations complete the making of the flag of the United States.

Must Convince Citizens On Bond Buying

Floyd county citizens must be convinced that they must think of their country first and their own afterwards. If once all Americans realized this the war will be half won on the financial front. This is the opinion of the Defense Savings Bonds and stamps committee as expressed by its chairman, Glad Snodgrass, this week.

"We are going to have to stop pulling punches, as people or persons who won't cooperate in financing the war either don't realize the situation, think more of their money than of their country, or are disloyal," he said, adding that many citizens are waiting for the other fellow to do their fighting and giving. Continuing he declared:

"We must look at the cold facts on our own home front and patriotic citizens must sell the country on saving itself by saving in the form of defense bonds and stamps.

"It is said that if every school student purchased a dollar stamp it would purchase two battle ships, but the school children and the people drawing salaries can't finance this war.

"Profits from any business should be secondary. Our thoughts must be how much we can put into this struggle.

"It is the moral obligation of every citizen in our midst and living under our government to help in every way possible in the persecution against unwarranted attack in our Nation, including the purchase of Defense bonds."

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and little daughters Myrna Woodnyne and Sonja Beth, left Thursday for San Diego, California, where Mr. Wilson is employed in defense work. They were accompanied by A. G. Tyler, who drove the car for them and plans to secure employment in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCleskey spent the week-end at San Antonio with their daughter, Mrs. Rex Brown and family.

All-Risk Cotton Insurance Plan Is Now Ready

Floyd county cotton farmers are advised that the county AAA office is now in a position to write cotton insurance on every cotton farm in the county. Such insurance will guarantee 50 or 75 percent of their average yield according to A. A. Hoots, County Administrative officer. Cotton insurance protects cotton farmers against all unavoidable hazards such as drought, insects, boll weevils, flood, plant disease, wind, fire and hail.

Premiums and guaranteed yields will be figured in terms of pounds of lint cotton and the premiums will be based on the crop-loss history of individual farms adjusted to reflect the crop-loss history of the county.

Premiums for individual cotton growers will be figured on a lint cotton basis. Payment of premiums will be made with a commodity note which is non-interest bearing either before or after maturity and each grower will be required to sign same guaranteeing payment of the premium on or before maturity date. The maturity date in Floyd county is October 20.

The note may be paid either in cotton or the cash equivalent. In the event the note is not paid when it matures, the case amount of the premium will be deducted from the indemnity paid the grower, or from the first Government payment he receives.

At this time, we are unable to offer insurance to irrigated cotton farmers in Floyd county but we expect to be in a position to do so within the next few days and an announcement to such effect will be released as soon as the special practices for irrigation are approved.

As March 31 is the closing date and it definitely will not be extended, the county committee and the AAA personnel would like to have an opportunity to present to each individual farmer the figures on cotton insurance for every cotton farm in Floyd county.

Levelland Clinic Big Success For Band Members

The band students of F. H. S. returned from Levelland with valuable knowledge gained under the direction of Col. Earl D. Irons.

Col. Irons proved to be a great inspiration to the students attending the clinic and helped both the brass and the reed sections in his demonstrations and advice.

The mass band proved to be very colorful with six different bands represented: Floydada, Littlefield, Seagraves, Brownfield, Ralls, and Levelland.

A night concert was presented by the students from each band. Those selected from Floydada were Florene Cates, Gene Loran, Mary Lee Thacker, Randolph Rutledge, L. W. Bridges, Maudene Moore, Frances Keim, Arla Vee Bishop, Floy Jean Hale, Dorothy Tye, Evelyn Elliott, Preston Malphurs, Bryan Collins, Johnnie Ruth Belcher, Mary Helen Mickey, and Eddie Duncan.

Forty music awards were presented after the concert and Floydada brought home eight of the 40. Those from Floydada who received awards were Florene Cates, Gene Loran, Mary Lee Thacker, Randolph Rutledge, L. W. Bridges, Maudene Moore, Frances Keim, and Arla Vee Bishop.

The bands presented a street parade in the afternoon, then returned to high school for further rehearsals under Ralph King, baritone player, and the conductors from Seagraves and Levelland.

Levelland invited all the bands back next year for a bigger and better clinic.

Talented Teachers Presented By Home Ec At Assembly

Mr. Erman Grey and Miss Georgia Mae Hall proved their musical ability in assembly Wednesday, March 4. Mr. Grey played numbers on the saxophone that were popular in 1928. He was accompanied by Miss Hall on the piano.

Other musical numbers were also played by these two talented teachers.

The home economics department presented a dialogue entitled, "A Practical Use For Peddlers." The cast of characters consisted of four girls playing the parts of both men and women. They were Sarah Jane Wheeler played by Franke Wright; Peter Wheeler, her hen-pecked husband, played by Francis Ruth Garrett; soap peddler, Roberta Medlin; and the minister, Margaret Camden.

'Minister' Marries First Male Couple; Assembly Program

"This is the first time I've ever married two men," said Reverend Frank Jeter after he had married Henry Martin and Harold Norrel in the assembly program last Wednesday.

Reverend Jeter married two men in the play "Henry's Mail Order Bride," when Harold Norrel dressed up like a woman to play a joke on Henry. Henry's real mail order bride appeared on the scene and admitted the joke. Rev. Jeter had a very busy day when Henry's friend, Wendell Johnston, and an old maid, Fay Nell Ginn, a neighbor, got married.

N. E. Tyler, accompanied by Miss Hall on the piano, gave two vocal; "White Cliffs of Dover" and "By-U-By-O."

Whirlwind-Eagles Games End In Loss For Floydada Hi

The Floydada Whirlwinds seldom play "second fiddle" to anyone. The boys ended up in second place in the regional contest after having lost a hard tussle to a scrappy Lakeview team. The last game was played last Friday night at Lakeview.

The Whirlwinds won the second of three games.

The second and third games were played in the Lakeview gym to a sell-out crowd.

The Winds won the second battle of a three game series by a score of 30 to 38.

Scott, of Lakeview, was high point man of the contests with 48 of his team's 106 points.

Rushing was for Floydada with 24 of Floydada's 96 points.

The Lakeview Eagles have thus earned a crack at the state championship title in Austin this week.

Starters for Lakeview in all three games were Davis, Bounds, Scott, Johnson, and Gibson.

Starters for Floydada were Dubois, Conway, Rushing, Chowning, and Boetler.

Classes Study Business and Summarize News

During the past two weeks the American History classes under Miss Rea have been studying "Technology and Big Business." Reports were given on Andrew Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller, the "Captains of Industry."

Current events were given from weekly magazines and newspapers in order to keep up with the world news.

SO EARLY IN THE MORNING

You hear some students saying these days, "Ho-Hum, I'm sleepy. I had to get up so early this morning."

Why do they say this? The reason for this is that school starts half an hour earlier. So when you gotta get up, you just gotta get up.

This new time started Monday, March 2, 1942.

Greetings gate

Let's evacuate! Speaking of evacuating reminds me of blackouts. Some of these girls think a blackout might not be a bad idea, (especially with the right boy).

Harold Thornton and Jeanne Edwards like snow, or at least they appeared to Saturday night.

Could it have been jealousy which caused Florence and Jeanne to write about Harold Bertrand and that Lakeview girl?

Who were those Lubbock boys that came to Floydada Friday night that Topsy and Joy were so thrilled over?

I wonder if James Alexander will ever make up his mind? He finds a new crush every day.

Junior Simpson, just why would you like to be the hero in a romantic picture?

Frankie Wright wishes Melvin Ross would keep his promises. Wonder why?

Effie Marie Ford and Troy make a cute couple.

Wonder why Lela Faye Neff looks so threatening at anyone. When they call her "Kinky." Could it be because she can't take teasing and her pet boy friend calls her that?

Grace Walker seemed very happy last week. Could it have been because of the certain visitor Friday night?

Some people mistake army suits for CCC suits, don't they Inell?

Who is that certain boy that La Faun Hodges wants to go with from Starkey—catch the hint, any of you guys?

Is this getting to be a habit? Junior and Ruth have a good time in library the 5th period.

Estelle seems blue. Could it be because Dagwood hasn't been here in several days?

Quite a bit of noise on the band bus last Friday wasn't there? Those little horns were good entertainment.

Ploy Jean and Dorothy had quite a time keeping La Juana and Randolph posted.

Euna Fawver sure was blue Monday. Wonder where Ploy was?

Of course it is purely in the interest of "business" that a certain senior keeps in close contact with Oran Beck.

Dorothy is still in a daze about what happened Saturday night. (You shouldn't have turned the lights out so soon.)

Bryan Meredith can never make up his mind about which girl he wants.

Tressman Glover is getting along all right with Veletta Sparks.

W. T. Eliza seems to like Avanelle Moss; its either her or someone else that is causing that look in his eye.

This is getting too complicated for me. Tella Jo Smart is wearing Harold Thornton's ring and Boob Patterson is wearing Tella Jo's. Wonder who is wearing Boob's?

What is the matter with this Garley-Martin romance? From the looks of the letter Lois wrote Friday there is something wrong. Could this mean it is all over?

Leona Parrish really enjoys her telephone calls, especially those that are purely co-incidental.

What was wrong with Bearl Ferguson Saturday night? Could the reason have been Polly Cardinal from Plainview?

Did everyone enjoy the snow during the week-end? Dora Barbee did, I'll bet. At least it seemed that way Sunday afternoon.

What is it about snowballs that are so funny?

Who is it in geometry that Margaret Conner is interested in?

Juanella Amburn and David Graham seems to be getting along o. k. Could it be a new romance.

La Ferne Eubanks told a certain boy he was going to take her and Thula Moore to Lubbock to the basketball game Monday night. Did it work La Ferne? If it did, other people might like to try it.

Why does Alice Helms act so sweet and gentle when J. C. Griggs' name is mentioned. Is that the type of girl he likes, Alice?

Why should Lila Mae be so jealous because Leona Parrish went with Paul Woody? We thought they were through.

Wonder why Mary Lynn was so interested in Muleshoe. Could it be the boy they call Pinkie that caught her eye?

Wanda Withers had a wistful look in her eye as the basketball players left for practice the other day. Maybe she has some definite interest.

Why is Myrtis Sargent always winking at Bob Bratton in the fifth period English class? Could it mean love.

Lucille Thompson seems to enjoy

Foods II Girls Make Reports On Shortages

Reports on shortages were made last week in the Foods II class.

By making these reports the girls have found that there will be a shortage of all electric equipment, burlap, rubber, sugar, lipstick, needles, hairpins, bobbie pins, dressmaker pins, seeds, vanilla, spices, tin, cork, coffee, cocoa, coconut, wool, paper, oil, napkins, refrigerator, stoves, aluminum, batteries, buttons, soap, matches, leather, fruit jars and lids, meat, cheese, and baking powders.

"Eat it up. Wear it out. Make it do. Or do without!"

Is a poem that was given by one of the girls in her report. The girls are studying ways and making experiments to conserve these things. Keep all furniture, clothing and electrical appliances clean.

Miss Hall is going to give all of the girls a recipe for making soap.

The people are making sacrifices now to keep from making greater sacrifices later.

Experiments Prove Tasty

The girls of the first year foods class tested cookie recipes this past week substituting honey for sugar.

They found that more flour than the amount called for was needed for drop cookies and the same amount of flour was used in roll cookies and a less amount of flour called for was used in cookies of the pour batter.

The recipe below is one tested by the girls and found to be satisfactory. You will find that it is the flavor rather than the texture that changes. Some cookie recipes tested were sugar cookies, fudge squares, ginger snaps, oatmeal drop cookies and ranger cookies, which is a cookie including oatmeal, rice krispies, raisins and coconut.

In making cakes or cookies containing sugar, cut the amount of chocolate 1-4 the given amount and add the honey.

Oatmeal Cookies One-half cup fat, 12 tbl. honey, 1-3 cup sour milk, 1-2 cup rolled oats, 1 egg, 1-2 cup flour, 1-8 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. cinnamon, 1 cup chopped raisins or nuts, 1-2 tsp. soda, 1-2 tsp. baking powder.

Cream butter, add honey, and well beaten egg and milk.

Flour raisins and nuts with small amount of flour. Mix and sift all dry ingredients except oatmeal. Add oatmeal. Add gradually to butter mixture add nuts and raisins, drop by spoonful in greased pans or baking sheets.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees to 375 degrees Fahrenheit) for 15 to 20 minutes.

Ginger Snaps One-half cup fat, 6 tablespoons honey, 1-2 cup molasses, 1-4 cup water, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-2 to 1 teaspoon ginger, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon, about 2 1-2 cup flour.

Mix like other cookies or butter cakes, adding enough flour to mix stiff dough. Roll thin on a slightly floured board, cut with cookie cutter, place on greased pans and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for about 10 minutes.

NEW TYPEWRITERS IN OFFICE

Two new Royal typewriters have been placed in the offices of Mr. Linder, principal and Mr. Travis superintendent.

The typewriters arrived last Monday, February 14. The old ones have been put in the outer offices.

If someone was crying at school last Tuesday night, please look over it. They had a good reason. After all, how would you feel if one of your favorite teachers was leaving?

The teacher was Mrs. Lila B. Owen, and the certain parties with the tears were the Senior English classes and Journalism.

All of the students regretted seeing Mrs. Owen leave, as they all realized what a wonderful person she was, as well as a wonderful teacher.

The English classes presented to her her pair of white kid gloves and a rhinestone lapel pin.

The Journalism class sent her a corsage Tuesday morning, and also gave her a white silk blouse, a white silk scarf, and a white handkerchief.

Joe Rushing, Randolph Rutledge, La Juana Leibfried, Floy Jean Hale and Dorothy Tye presented her with a box of Pangburn's chocolates.

Mrs. Owen has been sponsor of the Hesperette this year, and has led in the improvement of the paper. She has set a wonderful example by her splendid work with the paper.

The English classes have struggled through literature, including McBeth and six weeks of grammar with Mrs. Owen after going through trials—such as these, a beautiful friendship cannot help but exist.

Mrs. Owen left for Grandfalls, Texas, last Wednesday, to teach there.

Miss Zelma Elliott spent the week-end at her home in Wheeler.

Miss Reba Copeland spent the week-end at her home in Amarillo.

Mrs. Sam Thurmon left Saturday for Harlingen for a visit with her daughters, Mrs. R. J. Rogers and Mrs. C. W. Riley.

W. History. Could it be Winfred Payne?

I guess that is about all the talking I'll do this week as I was just informed that if this wasn't a free country I probably would be hanging from a tree or something worse.

Mr. Linder, Mr. Barber and Mr. Travis went to Lakeview Friday night to see the basketball game between Lakeview and Hereford. They also arranged the games between Lakeview and Floydada which will determine regional championship.

Josephine Britton, who is in the hospital recovering an operation, received a basket of fruit from the girls who are working in the library.

The Gamma Sigma Kappa expresses its wish for a speedy recovery to one of the members, Josephine Britton.

Miss Margaret Stuart spent last week-end in Fort Worth visiting Miss Elizabeth Howard.

Miss Norton's 5-A class gave an interesting chapel program Thursday morning.

Troy Cummings was the only student who attended the game at Lakeview Friday night.

Herschell Hinson and Kenneth D. Johnson spent the week-end with Emmett Hinson of Lubbock.

Miss Sibyl Poteet spent last week-end in Lubbock.

Betty Merle Boteler returned to school Friday after an illness of several days.

Mr. Gray spent the weekend in Lubbock.

Miss Fannie Mae Bail was a Lubbock visitor Saturday.

Florene Jones went to Crosbyton last Sunday and visited relatives.

Another 'Dust Bowl' Problem Unnecessary

Erosion-Resistant Crops Are The Very Ones Needed In Emergency

Farmers and ranchers of the Southern Great Plains can produce their share of the food needed by the nation and its allies at war without exploiting the land and causing another "Dust Bowl," in the opinion of Edgar H. Kemp, District Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service at Floydada.

In fact, the Conservationist insists that the best way for Plainsmen to increase their production of the concentrated foods needed for the war effort is to continue to follow the soil and water conservation practices that have proved successful in the past. He warns also against the dangers of plowing up large acreages of sod land that is not suited for cultivation.

"Research and demonstrations by the Soil Conservation Service show conclusively that where the best soil and water conservation practices are used, crop yields are increased."

Kemp stated, "Now, of all times, when dependability of increased production is essential to the national welfare, conservation work should be emphasized and expanded."

He pointed out also that safe conservation farming methods for the Plains call for an increase of sorghums and other feed crops necessary to grow the pork, poultry, dairy and beef products now needed. In other words, the erosion-resistant crops that have stopped dust storms in the old "Dust Bowl" are the very crops that are now needed to produce the livestock products demanded by the emergency.

Second Time This Generation
"All of the Nation's farmers and ranchers are being asked to 'retreat their plows' and go all-out for the production of livestock products and other concentrated foods for the duration of the war. This is the second time in one generation that they have been called upon to produce the agricultural products needed to win a war," Kemp stated.

"It is not more wheat and cotton that are needed this time, however, but livestock and livestock products. Fortunately, the production of these foods can be increased on the Plains without exploitation of the land," he continued.

"Beginning with World War I, and continuing for the decade following off the good lands of the southwest and much sod land that was not adapted to cultivation was broken out and numerous ranges were seriously overgrazed on the Southern Plains. During the 1930's the effects of this misuse and overuse of the land became obvious. Drought, crop failures, and resulting dust storms became common phenomena on the plains. Soil erosion by both wind and water accelerated at an alarming rate.

"This must not and need not happen again. The war must be won at all cost. But increased food production does not necessitate such waste of our basic soil resource. National defense requires the conservation and more efficient use of these resources.

"To day we have the knowledge and the facilities for conserving the soil and preventing a recurrence of the old 'Dust Bowl' while expanding production. All agricultural production goals can be met, with a reserve to spare, if the capabilities of the land are respected and conservation farming is practiced. In addition to assuring the goals, savings will be made in labor, the wear and tear on machinery and costs of production at a time when labor and equipment shortage and profits are all important factors."

May Flow Too Much Sod
"Kemp has some fear that if more wet years like 1941 follow and the prices for farm products become high that much sod land in the plains which is unsuitable for cultivation may be broken out for the production of crops. He sees also the possibility that some rancher encouraged by the excellent grass growth of the past year and the high prices of beef, may overstock this range."

If these things occur, the Conservationist warned that we will see a recurrence of the dust storms that plagued the country from 1934 to 1938. He stated that there is no need for farmers of this section to plow up shallow range soils and place them in cultivation.

"There are now five and one-half million acre-feet of water running off the good lands of the southwest every year. This water could be held on the land and used to produce crops, and thus we could meet all the war goals of agriculture without touching the shallow grass lands that are unsuited for cultivation," he said.

"Most of the grass land of the southwest can be left in grass with far more profit in the long run than can be made by plowing it up."

Grazing for Meat Program
He pointed out also that the beef and mutton production goals can best be met by conservative grazing of the range lands. All experimental results show that ranges which are not overstocked will produce more pounds of beef per acre, and a better quality of beef than will ranges which are overgrazed.

"The Food for Victory goals do not call for an increase in the near record size of the beef cattle and sheep herds on southwest ranges. These food goals call for an increased slaughter of beef and mutton during 1942 and 1943. Obviously, we cannot attain an increased slaughter if ranchers are holding back most of their stock for breeding herds," he said. "If we slaughter the amount of beef and mutton that is needed during the next two years, the ranges will not be overstocked. Then, if drought years follow, we will not face the danger of many ranges being almost ruined as they were during the middle 30's."

Kemp warns farmers and ranchers against depending upon other wet years following 1941, because the records show that dry years usually follow wet years. The only safe procedure, he stated, is to be prepared for either a wet or dry season at all times.

"We have proved in this country that we can overcome the adversities and grow profitable crops in a series of drought years. Now we must prove that we can behave intelligently also in a cycle of wet years, if they come," he concluded.

Pat Collins and Douglas Pitts, students of John Tarleton college, Stephenville, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Collins and Dr. and Mrs. Donald H. Pitts.

Sugar Rationing Probable Latter Part Of March

DALLAS, March 3.—State rationing administrators in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, the three states in the Southwest region of the Office of Price Administration—have made public the manner in which sugar rationing books will be issued, probably during the last week of March.

A sugar rationing book for each man, woman and child will be issued during a four-day period.

Thousands of school teachers, in each state will serve as registrars under the direction of local rationing boards. Family registrars will be the elementary school of the district in which the family lives. While retail merchants will register several days earlier at high schools. Registration dates probably will not be set for another week or so.

One adult may register for each family unit; and a family unit, generally speaking, will be considered to be a group, related by blood or marriage, living and eating together under the same roof. Servants, lodgers and others who live in a household must register individually.

Meanwhile, state rationing administrators have appealed to sugar growers to avail themselves of the opportunity now to sell back to retail stores any excess sugar they have, at the daily shelf price. If they do not from one to eight stamps may be torn from their books at the time they register, and they will not be able to buy more sugar until their excess supply has been used up. No amount has been determined yet for a "normal supply," but it is expected to be a figure near two pounds per person.

Special provisions will be made later to provide householders with sugar for home preserving and canning.

Probability that work on the five mile stretch of road north of South Plains will start around April 1, was indicated by the engineer, who said that while the contractor had 60 days in which to start after getting a work order, Plains Construction company, the contractors, have a crew and machinery working nearby who will finish in the next two or three weeks, weather permitting, and are likely to hit this job immediately thereafter.

Moisture Ample Following Snow On Saturday

Moisture ample for all present needs in Floyd county and high plains soils this week, following snow that fell over a wide-spread area Saturday and Sunday night. Furthermore mild temperatures accompanied the fall, with little wind and only moderate freezing. Precipitation here was measured at a half inch with varying amounts reported from all over the area.

The snow first began falling by spurts in the morning hours of Saturday, and in the late afternoon further fall was recorded. Saturday night for nearly two hours the fall was heavy with melting temperatures that sent moisture on down into the warm earth. An inch to three inches of snow remained on top of plowed grounds with more indicated on prairie lands.

Lower and upper moistures have sealed in the young wheat that has a good root system and should do excellently throughout March now wheat growers report.

Sunday and Monday, sunny days, saw most of the snow melted except in shade-protected spots and in wallows.

Cold Not Very Severe
Cold that followed the Saturday night snow was not serious, in fact about the same as on Saturday morning when the low was reported at 24. Monday morning the drop was to 20 degrees on the wings of a norther and Tuesday morning the low was 21. Wednesday barely freezing weather prevailed at the coldest and this

You will hear a lot about methods employed, kind of power, and water distribution in the discussion "Economic Application of Irrigation." To Explain Breeding Program
D. L. Jones in his work at the Experiment Station has developed special varieties for special purpose crops. Mr. Jones will explain the breeding program of the station relating to feed crops and discuss varieties and yields of grain sorghums.

W. L. Stangel knows the livestock field because he is a livestock feeder and a livestock judge. He has supervised many experiments in feeding beef cattle, hogs and sheep and can explain the difference between "profit" and "loss" in a feeding venture. Floyd county can grow the feed but will she be a livestock feeding center? Hear Mr. Stangel and make the decision.

O. B. Howell can identify the insect trouble and explain and demonstrate effective control measures. Advance information from Mr. Howell indicates his discussion would appeal to any gardener.

You will need a notebook, pencil, and a clear mind if you retain the information disseminated at the Land Use Planning School, remarked L. A. Williams, chairman of the Floyd County Land Use Planning Committee.

TEUTSCH IS CALLED TO MOTHER'S BEDSIDE
Mrs. M. H. Teutsch of Texas City, mother of Tucker Teutsch of Floydada, is critically ill in a hospital at Galveston. Mr. Teutsch drove to Galveston Tuesday to be with his mother. He was accompanied from Dodson by his brother Floyd Teutsch.

CCC Camp Out March Twelfth Says Spencer

Assumed 95 Boys From Floydada Camp Will Go To Morton

Announcement was made this week by Lieut. Robt. L. Spencer, commander of the Floydada CCC camp that orders have been received to disband the company of boys here on March 12.

Officially he has had no further instructions, but unofficially he has learned the boys are to be taken to Morton where they will join the Soil Conservation service company there.

What disposition will be made of the government property here is not known. Upward of 15 buildings were erected last summer and fall on the leased ground provided by city and county and a considerable quantity of equipment is here.

Spencer said he had a crew of several men at Lamesa the past several days where they have been putting a former CCC camp in condition to be turned over to the armed forces. According to his instructions the camp there is being put in condition to house 200 men. He does not know by whom it will be used or when.

District Work Continues

The sudden closing of the camp here is a heavy blow to work that farmers had arranged to have done with labor from the camp and its corps of agricultural engineers working with and through the officials of the Floyd County Soil Conservation district. However, the disbanding of the company will not affect the functions of the soil district, it was pointed out Wednesday by Edgar H. Kemp, district conservationist. Work which has been provided through the CCC company will under the new situation have to be provided for by the co-operating farmers as before the establishment of the camp here.

The Morton camp where the boys from the Floydada company are being sent, has a side camp in New Mexico. Political pressure is believed to account for the preference given that camp over the Floydada camp. The information which is the basis for this belief was obtained by The Hesperian from a source in touch with Washington.

Please mention The Hesperian when answering advertisements.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abernathy of Lubbock and their son Sgt. Jason Abernathy of Brownwood, visited in Floydada Monday with Mrs. Abernathy's sister Mrs. S. T. Harris, who returned home with them to spend the remainder of the week.

Pfc. Truett Spence, of Cleburne formerly of Floydada who has been stationed at Camp Walters, Mineola, Texas, has recently been transferred to San Francisco, according to a letter received from him this week by his sister, Mrs. Herbie Stanley.
