County Canning Plant Opened Monday Morning

HDC Plan Adopted By Commissioners; Mrs. Griffith Supervisor

The county's canning plant was opened Monday morning in Lockney with Mrs. Sallie Griffith employed as supervisor under a plan adopted by the Commissioners court that was worked out by a committee of the County Home Demonstration council.

Under the plan adopted the county pays rent, utilities bills and supervision cost. The county receives no surplus foods from the cannery (since the food stamp plan is in operation in the county) but also the county furnishes no containers of any kind.

The cannery is operating at this time on green beans, beets, squash and greens. Corn will be ready for canning soon.

The plan adopted contemplates that the canning plant will operate for a period of four months. An important point is that only perishable fruits and vegetables will be canned. Thus potatoes and dry beans would not be included in the list of items that could be canned. Another important point is that everybody furnishes his own containers.

The committee from the Home Demonstration council which made up the rules adopted by the court given below, was composed of Mrs. Lester M. Honea of the Lockney club; Mrs. Harding Jackson of the Sand Hill club; Mrs. Raymond Teeple of the Home Builders club and Edith L. Wilson, home demonstration agent. The rules are as follows:

- 1. The Floyd county canning center shall be used by Floyd county people only.
- 2. The plant will open at 8 a. m.
- 3. Only perishable fruits and vegetables shall be canned.
- 4. Those desiring to leave food to be canned may do so and receive 60 per cent.
- 5. Women who work at the plant shall receive 40 per cent. (They must furnish their containers).
- 6. Those desiring to can their food themselves may have use of the equipment and receive 100 per cent.
- 7. Everyone shall furnish his own containers (either glass or tin).
- 8. Appointments for canning food must be made ahead of time.

Dr. Guthrie Not Presently Up For Army Duty

Dr. A. E. Guthrie, of Floydada hospital, is not presently up for military duty and has not been made available for the service as yet, he announced this week. He has applied for a commission in the medical corps and anticipates that sometime in the future he will be called. How soon this will be, or whether it transpires at all will depend upon what the physicians' procurement service may determine as to the army's need.

V-Mail Service Inaugurated For Armed Forces Abroad Conserves Space On Our Ships

V-Mail just inaugurated for use in writing men overseas in our armed forces is explained below. Questions (the ones you will ask) and the answers to them are given by Mrs. Barbara H. Smith, of the Floydada postoffice:

Why has V-Mail service been inaugurated? To reduce the bulk and weight of mail for our armed forces abroad in order to make available more space for transportation of vital military material and to provide the quickest dispatch and handling of mail to and from our armed forces abroad.

What is a V-Letter? It is a combination of one sheet and envelope.

How should a V-Letter be written? The message and address may be typewritten or written with dark ink or dark pencil. Nothing may be enclosed with this letter.

Two Principals And Commercial Teacher Named By School Board At Tuesday Night Meeting

Campaigns Here

A principal at Floydada High school to take the place of Robt. Linder, and a principal at Andrews Ward school to take the place of J. H. Myers, both resigned, were named Tuesday night by the board of trustees of Floydada Independent School district.

In addition the board also named a head for the Commercial department, where a vacancy also has existed since the result of resignations.

Principal elected for the high school is Wesley W. Jones, former teacher in this county, who has been principal of the Ralls elementary school for the past four years, considered a strong man in teaching circles of this area.

At the Andrews Ward post D. W. Cooper, of Hillsboro, was chosen by the board. Cooper was for six years superintendent of public instruction in Hill county and for the past seven years has been principal of the elementary school at Piles Valley.

For commercial teacher the school board named Marguerite Leonard, recent graduate of Texas State college for Women at Denton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Leonard of this city.

The meeting of the board was the first general session of the district's trustees since the beginning of the new school year on July 1. In the meeting J. B. Houston, clerk and assessor-collector of the district, presented the facts of the district's financial position, including outstanding taxes due the district, and other budgetary matters. Superintendent Walter Travis of the school system sat in at the meeting.

Robt. Linder, whom Jones was named to succeed as principal of the high school, formally resigned early in June, when it was announced he is taking a place in an industrial plant at Borger.

J. H. Myers, whose place D. W. Cooper is taking, resigned early in the spring, effective as of July 1, announcing that he will undertake work in another connection, after 12 years with the school system here.

With Henry will serve as major officials of the fire department Carl Rodgers as first assistant chief and Buck Hickerson second assistant. Orval Poore was elected secretary.

Many faces which have been seen at the regular meetings and at the fire calls in the city have disappeared from the ranks of the department during the past several months as defense work and calls to the armed forces have been answered. This has necessitated practically a complete re-organization of the department and a number of new names have been added to the rolls.

The department spent sometime last winter and spring training auxiliary firefighters from the high school student body and among young men about two against probable need of their help during the emergency.

Amburn Funeral Rites Will Be Held Late Today

Victim of Street-Highway Intersection Crash Wednesday Afternoon

W. A. Amburn, sr., 65, of this city, received fatal injuries late yesterday afternoon on Highway 70 at the intersection of West Virginia street when he was struck by a truck driven by Willard Bennett, of Lubbock, and died within a few minutes after he was taken to the Pitts hospital by a Harmon ambulance.

The accident occurred shortly after 5 o'clock, the fatally injured man being on the way to his home at 230 West Virginia street from Andrews Ward school where he was employed. The truck, witnesses said, came up behind Mr. Amburn who was bicycling southward from Jackson street. Another car or truck which crossed Virginia street the instant before the accident may have diverted Mr. Amburn's attention from the approaching vehicle behind him.

Twelve or 14 men were in the truck, highway workers being delivered home from the construction job on Highway 707. The truck had come by way of Lockney where workers also were delivered. The truck owned by Willard Bennett, the driver is operated for the State Highway department. One witness said Mr. Amburn either turned to look over his shoulder or to make a turn into Virginia street and veered sufficiently to get into the path of the truck which knocked him violently to the ground unconscious. A blow behind the left ear resulted in his death a few minutes after he reached the hospital without regaining consciousness.

Funeral rites will be held late today from the First Baptist church, where Rev. L. A. Doyle, pastor, will be assisted by Rev. R. E. L. Muncy. W. A. Amburn had been a resident of Floyd county since 1907. He came to this county from Jack county, a native of Illinois where he was born August 28, 1876. He came to Texas at the age of 13. He was a Baptist and a Mason. For several years he farmed east of Floydada and owned a farm in Campbell community at the time of his death. He had been caretaker of the Andrews Ward school building for 14 years.

Survivors include his wife, the former Texas Foster, daughter of a pioneer Floyd county couple, two sons, Foster Amburn, city, and W. A. Amburn, jr., Childress; three daughters, Mrs. Leon Hart, Friona, Mrs. Bernard Carter, Stratford and Mrs. Alva Jackson, city. Thirteen grandchildren also survive, as well as two brothers and a sister. The brothers are A. L. Amburn, Lubbock and J. O. Amburn, Jacksboro. The sister, Mrs. R. G. Spence, lives at Muleshoe.

Funeral services will be conducted at Olton today and interment will be made in the Olton cemetery. Those attending from here include Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Cates and baby, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cates and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wadding and family and Clark Cates.

O'Kelly of Garden City and the present Methodist circuit pastor Rev. C. A. Hartley. Mr. Lyles died Wednesday at his home in the Campbell community.

Survivors include his widow, two sons and three daughters. The children are C. M. and C. B. Lyles, Mrs. E. J. Barker, Mrs. A. O. Beck and Mrs. E. B. Chesnut. 18 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren also survive.

The deceased had been in poor health the past several months and grew suddenly worse Wednesday last week when he suffered a stroke from which he never rallied.

The body was prepared for burial by the Harmon Funeral home attendants and the body carried (See J. W. LYLES, back page)

Four Names Added To Rationing Board

Convention Not Cancelled; Date August 18-20

COLLEGE STATION, July 9. — Unlike many organizations which are cancelling conventions for the duration, the Texas Home Demonstration association will hold its annual state-wide meeting in August to forward the war work of farm and ranch women. The convention is to be held in Fort Worth, August 18-20.

Despite transportation difficulties leaders expect home demonstration clubs in 192 counties to be represented at the meeting.

Only out-of-state guest invited to appear on the program is Mrs. Claude R. Wiekard of Washington, D. C. wife of the Secretary of Agriculture. In addition to numbers of rural women who will participate other speakers include Dr. Robert Sutherland of Austin, director of the Hogg Foundation, University of Texas and Miss Mildred Horton of College Station, vice director and state home demonstration agent of the A. and M. College Extension service.

In announcing plans for the meeting Mrs. W. G. Kennedy, Muleshoe president, explained that the 40,000 members of the Texas Home Demonstration association will plan to reach and serve all of the 418,000 farm and ranch homes in Texas.

One unusual feature of the program will be dramatization of the association's work during the past year. Among the activities to be portrayed in a colorful pageant are increased use of whole grain cereals, promotion of the community school lunch program, first aid instruction and the Food for Freedom movement, and support of the Victory Demonstration of the A. and M. College Extension Service.

That rationing of additional items other than sugar and tires may be in the offing is hinted as a possibility by the letter of Mark McGee to Judge Tubbs asking for additional names on the rationing board list. According to the plan advanced the constantly increasing and broadening of the local board's duties are such as to require the use of the panel system by the board, that is a system where responsibilities would be divided, one set of three men taking half of the work and another set of three taking another half.

Kinard State Examiner In Optometry

He is in charge of the work this week in the absence of Dr. Kimble who is on a vacation trip to points in the eastern states.

Co-operative Gin Company At So. Plains Sought

An effort to keep the South Plains gin plant in operation at its present location to serve cotton growers a large and productive area is being made by farmers at South Plains, where they are negotiating for the Thornton gin and plan a co-operative.

Whether sufficient interest will be manifested by the cotton growers and whether an advantageous arrangement can be made for the plant are the two questions uppermost at this time, said Billy Standforth, one of the cotton raisers of the area who is interested in keeping the plant in operation.

The first job in sight is getting enough acreage contracted on a basis that will make financing possible, it appears. A meeting was held recently at which considerable interest was manifest. Right now one of the problems is to find a farmer or committee of farmers who have the time to canvass the situation, and get acreage pledged as a basis on which to base negotiations.

The plant is one of the most modern in the county and the area which will be without near-by ginning service is a large one, should the effort to keep the gin fail, either through failure to get sufficient acreage pledged or through failure of negotiations for the plant itself.

Firemen Make Three Calls This Week

Grass fires have caused considerable damage to property in Floydada the past week. Of three calls made by the Floydada Volunteer Firemen, two were from grass fires of undetermined origin.

The first call was made to the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber yard south of the office building when approximately $100 damage was done to cedar posts that were in the yard. Ernest Fowler, manager of the yard said.

At the home of W. H. Seale, a chicken house fire caused considerable damage Friday at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday at 8:30 a. m. a similar fire in the chicken house at the home of Mrs. Maude Merrick was extinguished by firemen. Considerable damage was done as it destroyed some trunks and boxes in which things were stored by Mrs. Merrick.

Nearly everybody who planted wheat in this area this year realized some profit. Some who planted early and got by the grasshoppers last fall realized a big profit. The grasshoppers this summer haven't cost half as much as they cost last fall. A man who waited from late September until late November or early December on account of the hoppers can tell you this. Together, counting last fall and this summer, the bill in Floyd county alone probably was a million dollars. Will the farmers let the same repeat this fall? All depends, of course. The season, we imagine will be one factor. And things don't always come around one year the same as they did another. Forgetting the grasshoppers, everybody now realize that they'd had a lot more net profit if they had left their land alone, let the wheat come voluntarily through the straw of last year's crop, grazed it all winter and took what was there this summer. Hindsight is always the best.

One good thing about last year's too good a season is that it is making a dry year crop where no rain is falling this year. Cotton and feed that got a good root this spring still grows even where the crop has had little or no showers. We've heard it said about this country that a good bottom season makes a crop with two showers and one good thunder. And where the rains have fallen and the man doesn't get in there and cultivate right now—that is if he wants to cultivate—will come back in a few days and find his crop too big to work. This rich soil sure does push feed up fast toward the sky.

A little story out of Lubbock this week gives you an idea about what you may expect if you misplace your Social Security card. A farmer wouldn't know about this except by hearsay, but others will because you don't offer to work in a factory or store now without showing your Social Security card or proving that you've got one. Anyway unless you have the time to spend making out a new form and letting it go through the routine, don't lose your Social Security card. Remember, you don't call Uncle Sam up and get action like you do in the business world. The first thing you do is commence filling out a form and—then you wait awhile.

Times have changed since the memorable time back in the 1760's and 1770's when patriots began to band against the tyranny of the mother country's ruler. In that day and time they put a tooth doctor (and others, too, of course) in jail for not paying his bills. Now they go to jail for advertising. For about 20 years before the revolution or war of independence they had a depression that was the real thing in the colonies that later became the United States. Times really got hard. Benjamin Franklin, who was in printing, a new type of business that was growing, fared well, but fellows like Paul Revere, in silversmithing, just naturally went hungry or found something else to do. Their customers had run out of silver to be hammered. Paul cast about for something else to do and hit upon engraving as one sideline and tooth-making as another. In tooth making dentists of that day had been having trouble finding animal's teeth that could be used satisfactorily for human beings. But Revere evidently was a pretty good workman for he advertised teeth that could be used both "in eating and speaking," with some degree of satisfaction. He made enough money that way to keep a jump ahead of the sheriff who was about to jail him on an old account. Fortunately his workmanship and his advertising made it possible for him to keep his horse through the depression and so he had one to ride that fateful night. What if this transported Frenchman had not been a resourceful duck and or had been a non-advertiser?

It is interesting to ask people questions about the war, get their ideas of what is being done. The other day a friend decided to ask everybody he got into conversation with how many men there are now in the United States army and how many of the number in the army are somewhere overseas. Nobody knows, of course: Out of thirty men questioned the lowest estimate of the total men in the army was 2 and a half million, the highest 4 and a half million. One man estimated 100 thousand American boys are on foreign soil. His was the low answer. The high was by a man who estimated a million and a half have left continental United States for the wars.

The Hesperian is glad to see Senator O' Daniel back at home getting firsthand information in a battle on the hustings of what the people are saying and thinking. Although he is absent from his office in Washington that does not mean to us he is neglecting his job. We, in fact, think it is definitely his business to be back here at home testing out his policies on the public forum with the people as the judges, the ballot box to give the fateful verdict. We do not think you need a $10,000-a-year-man (with office and hired help thrown in) to be at his desk all the time answering the telephone. Some of the very best managers on the farm rarely ride a plow themselves and some of the biggest businesses in the country are handled by men who spend few hours of the day at their offices. You can readily understand, then, that we disagree with the idea that a man in office should not spend his time seeking to be elected either to that office or some other to which he might aspire. Our country's history is full of instances of men we call great who sought office while in office. How could a man be re-elected or gain a promotion otherwise? Our exgovernor and our other critics of men who offer for office answer themselves when it comes time to prove up before the people. They just naturally get out and get busy and what business the office force can't attend to while they are gone can just wait until they get back.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

By Nellie Witt Spikes

I have just come in from the garden after a couple of hours plowing and hoeing. The ground is soft and damp and the new plow was easy to push. The garden has been all green, every shade, from the pale green of the lettuce ruffles through the medium shades of beans and tomatoes to the dark color of the butternut squash. Against the reddish brown of the earth the greens look so cool. Now much color is being added. Red beets with handsome tropical looking leaves, splashes of yellow in the cucumber vines, purple dots in the beans, onions of pearl, ruby red almost hidden among the strawberry plants and the creamy-white dainty blossoms of the last year carrots. I like to see clear cool water running down the rows, giving life to the thirsty plants. My garden will be late. But only a few days ago, the crooked necks of peas and beans were only pushing up from the ground and tomatoes will soon shade the earth. Nothing gives more pleasure to me than making a garden. It is a place to relax one's mind while the hoe reaches here and there to get a weed that would destroy the vegetables. John Noble said he missed my picture from the Hesperian last week. Had to hunt and hunt for this column. But don't worry, John, if you want to see some one very pretty you only have to look at your sweet wife, Bernice.

Old remedies. Eye Affections—Louse in the eye. Lapidarians made use of the louse in eye complaints. The reasons were emiracle and magical. A louse was placed under the lid. Irritation resulted, followed by increased fluid secretion that washed out both the louse and incidental foreign substances. The magical conception consisted in the louse eating the sickness, which then left the eye with the louse.

The growing fields of cotton make me wish I could have said what Private Otto Davis of Camp Shelby

Mississippi, wrote when he went home on leave and came upon a field of cotton prospering in a field he had plowed. Says the Farm Journal and Farmers Wife. "Glistening glossy with the warm sunlight, waving slightly with the breeze... it looked so honey, so friendly, so beautiful, I knew a release so warm, peaceful, and uplifting from the troubles of an upside-down world that I'll never be able to forget that patch of beauty and what it did for me not ever." May Private Otto Davis do the work he has to do now to make a free American and come home again to find peace and happiness plowing in his patch of cotton.

It is a sultry day; the sun has drunk the dew that lay upon the morning grass; There is no rustling in the lofty elm that canopies my dwelling, and its shade Scare cools me. All is silent, save the faint and interrupted murmur of the bee settling on the sick flowers, and then again Instantly on the wing—Bryant.

Your Choice For DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Here are some facts which you should know about my candidacy for District Attorney:

I have practiced law 12 years, the last 8 as a County Prosecutor. I do not represent any special interest, and my law practice is confined to representing the people.

I am 33 years old, married, and have a family. At the present time I am classified in 3A by the Draft Board and ready to go to the Army as a Buck Private when Uncle Sam wants me. The office of District Attorney does not exempt any person from military service. The other candidate has the same classification with his Draft Board.

If I am elected your District Attorney, I make you this solemn pledge: I will be a District Attorney for all the people, and not just for a chosen few.

I will prosecute all cases, shown by the evidence to warrant it, in a vigorous manner, keeping in mind at all times that a prosecutor should be fair. I will spend my entire time working at the job, and no matter how humble or how great your station in life, your problem will be given my prompt attention.

I will remain humble in manner, keeping in mind at all times that I am your District Attorney, and that the office does not belong to me.

Respectfully submitted,

L. D. RATLIFF, Jr.

Candidate for District Attorney

Last Minutes of Famous Plane

Nephew of John Haney Was in Coral Sea Battle

Carrier Told by Lieut. Edwards

Senior Naval Lieutenant Thomas Edwards, Jr., of Wichita Falls, nephew of John W. Haney of Allamore, was a member of one of the last squadrons of planes to leave the ill-fated Lexington when the Japanese carrier was sunk following a bombing attack that started on May 7 in the Coral sea.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Edwards of Wichita Falls, with whom he recently visited while there he related the story of the battle in the sea in which most of his clothing and personal belongings went down with the Lexington. His father, salesman for one of the leading calculator makers, makes regular visits to Floydada and has many acquaintances here. He and his family have visited the Haney home many times.

Tells of Attack
The final hours of the Lexington started about an hour before sunrise on May 7. He, with other members of his dive-bombing squadron, were standing by in the ward room between 9 and 10 o'clock scouting planes reported Jap carriers ahead.

"We got our position and the planes took off immediately," the young flyer said. The dive bombers came over the Jap ships at 1,800 feet and then peeled off one by one to blast the enemy vessels from the Pacific.

The skipper of Lieutenant Edwards' squadron was first to roar down on a Jap carrier. Seven minutes after the first American plane had attacked a Japanese carrier had gone down. After the initial sweep at the Jap fleet the planes returned to the Lexington.

Japs Try To Land.
"I was out on deck that night at dusk when nine Jap planes came by mistake and tried to land on the Lexington. They were pretty good and I thought at the time, 'I hope they are friendly.' They were flashing landing lights. One of our own fighters came over about that time and then we realized there were more planes in the air than we had.

"About that time a destroyer recognized the Jap insignia and we all started shooting. The Japs lost sight of a new plane. The next morning Edwards joined his squadron at dawn on observation flight looking for the enemy carriers. "We found them and them found us," he said.

"We were somewhere between 150 and 180 miles apart. And while we were attacking them, they were attacking us," Edwards, meanwhile with his squadron had been ordered back to the Lexington after the enemy carriers were found.

Return To Reloading
"We had been back from the scouting mission about 30 minutes before they hit us. We were ordered up and the attack lasted about 15 minutes.

"Little damage was visible aboard the Lexington when we landed, Edwards said. We came in for more ammunition and gas, some of the men were up forward repairing deck damage but it didn't look bad at all. "Meanwhile, however, fire was being battled below decks. Edwards told of returning to the air in case the Japs returned. They no sooner had gotten in the air when the Japs returned and explosions started on the Lexington. He told of seeing smoke coming through the forward elevator. Later the order was given to abandon the ship.

For the third time Edwards, with other squadron members, took their planes to the air and flew to another aircraft carrier. Most of the men lost everything they had, he said but they were too busy to think about clothes.

Lieutenant Edwards after a ten-days leave expected to return to duty and another crack at the Japs, he said.

Mrs. Whatley Died After Calling For Funeral Director

After a rather odd coincidence Mrs. Lizzie Whatley died and the condition of her sister Miss Annie Landrum, who is seriously ill in an Amarillo hospital, is unchanged. The sisters, who reside at Lockney, summoned the Arch Crager ambulance Monday to carry Miss Landrum to the hospital. Wednesday when it was thought advisable to bring her home, Mrs. Whatley called Mr. Crager to come to Amarillo for Miss Landrum. Immediately after the telephone call Mrs. Whatley became unconscious and died within a few minutes in the reception room of the hospital.

Mr. Crager returned to Lockney with the body Wednesday night. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at this time awaiting a son, Raymond Whatley of Los Angeles, California, who is expected to arrive today. The son and Miss Landrum are the only survivors of the deceased.

A brother of the deceased lost his life in World War I and the Willie Landrum Post American Legion of Lockney was named in his honor.

Cut Out Driving Faults To Get Driving Economy

DETROIT, April 16. — Maximum mileage from your motor car is linked in exact ratio to the manner in which you drive it, for storing a car will not necessarily increase either its life span or the miles you will get from it, advises Ed Hedner, national director of service for Chevrolet.

While the condition of your tires may very directly indicate the number of miles you can expect from your automobile, he points out, they deteriorate faster in storage than in use, and the same can be said of other vital parts of the car.

But even today, most motorists are guilty, unconsciously as a rule, of minor driving faults that take their toll of car life, increase repair bills and waste gas and oil. Among these habits are the following:

Pumping gas at traffic stops. "Fidget-footed" drivers who pump the accelerator like an old-fashioned organ waste many gallons of gasoline each year. Because of nervousness or simply from a habit of mis-use of their car, these motorists increase their fuel bills and waste precious resources. Driving experts advise that you let the motor idle at stop lights or other traffic halts and let yourself "idle" along with it.

Increasing Brake Life
Mis-use of brakes. Braking a car simply means converting "speed energy" to "heat energy." Once the forward progress of the car has been transferred into heat energy and thrown off by the brakes, the car comes to a stop. Obviously, the heat is a result of friction, which, in turn, means brake wear. Stopping your car in such a way as to minimize wear means longer brake life. Although brakes will stop a car in 50 feet or less at 30 miles per hour the wise motorist allows at least 100 feet in order to come to a gentle stop, letting the car's deceleration take some of the stopping load from the brakes.

Sudden starts—"jackrabbiting"—are expensive. A gradual application of power insures you full value from every drop of gasoline fed into the engine. Conversely, flashing away from the traffic lights is almost certain to use more fuel to the motor than it can handle, with a consequent waste. Most motorists realize that this is no time for waste.

Driving In Traffic
Weaving through traffic. In a city at peak traffic hours, virtually every driver has the same thought in mind—getting home in the minimum time. Since drivers are in a hurry and out of traffic in an attempt to beat your neighbor home. The irony in the situation is that no matter how you dodge mid-block, the car you strove so hard to pass inevitably rolls alongside at the next traffic light.

Mis-use of low gear. The lower the gear, the greater the power at the expense of speed. Drivers who habitually try to flash away at the traffic light and "gun" up to the speed limit in first or second gear waste gas. By shifting to the next highest gear as soon as practical, maximum operation economy is attained.

Finally, a driving habit probably well established but always worthy of emphasis, is the sound plan of "engineering" your motor car operation. Since your automobile is your own private transportation system, it deserves the same careful check-ups and attention any bus or train or plane receives. Periodic inspections, regular lubrications (always cheaper than repair bills), and constant attention to the air pressure in your tires will pay real motoring dividends.

If you see Highway Maintenance Section Foreman A. J. Hamilton carrying his fingers crossed, it's because he wants to keep his section's jinx on Old Man Accident in full force and effect.

A record of 1488 working days without a lost day from accident, working from a minimum of 10 to a maximum of 63 men eight hours.

The accident on Highway 70 yesterday afternoon in which W. A. Ambrun was killed by a State Highway department truck did not involve any of the section maintenance crew which has made such a high record.

A day on every working day, is something to shoot at. That was Hamilton's crews' record Monday morning when they had their regular monthly safety meeting at the maintenance warehouse.

"We welcome all comers to our safety meeting, especially anybody who has good ideas about safety and how to promote it among workmen," said Hamilton Monday. Then he told the huge figures of their safety record the while he kept fingers crossed.

While Hamilton did not have the figures at hand at the minute, he said 10 minimum to 63 maximum force of workers on the section, and averaged 22 workmen for every one of the 1488 eight-hour working days on this section. In terms of man-hours worked this represents 261,888 hours. Asked how it was done, Hamilton said probably a bit of luck was mixed in with their big record, but declared, "We hit the ball while we're on the job, but we observe the safety rules. We try to make it a habit just not to be careless and forgetful for one minute of what the safe thing to do."

The period covered by the good record runs back past last year's floods and long hours incident thereto, and covers all kind of maintenance and repair work you see the men doing as they whizz (some still do) by them on the highway.

THACKERS ON VACATION
Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Thacker and daughter and Maurine Medlen left Sunday for Mineral Wells and other points east for a brief vacation trip. They are expected home this week-end.

James Thurmond Bishop went to Amarillo Sunday where he is employed at the Pantex plant.

Dr. W. E. Houghton of Amarillo, spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. W. M. Houghton.

ELECTRIC IRONS CALLS FOR CARE
Three "don'ts" for owners of electric irons—which, like other electrical appliances, are practically irreplaceable now—are: "Don't overheat—do not put in water—and don't drop. The U. S. Department of Agriculture points out that a few simple precautions recommended by the Bureau of Home Economics will prolong service.

Use the iron on the right circuit, preferably from a convenience outlet, not a light socket. The name plate usually gives the voltage and the kind of current required—direct or alternating. Irons with thermostats operate only on alternating current and plugging into a direct current circuit may ruin the thermostat.

Repeated overheating may injure the heating element and is likely to discolor the soleplate. Overheating of the element in a thermostatically controlled iron is caused by using it on a circuit in which the voltage is too high. The most common cause of overheating of an uncontrolled iron is attaching the iron too long before starting the ironing or leaving it connected while doing something else.

Keep the iron clean, especially the soleplate, but never put one into water. Let it cool, wipe with a damp cloth, dry thoroughly, store in a clean, dry place. Wax occasionally with beeswax. Dropping an electric iron may break the heating element or thermostat. A fall may also scratch the soleplate so that it catches on the fabric to be ironed.

Pulling on the cord to disconnect an iron instead of taking hold of the plug is another common mistake, as it is likely to pull the wires loose inside the plug. Irons with detachable cords should be disconnected first from the wall outlet. Pulling the plug from the iron first will in time cause pitting of the terminals. These are likely to be hard to replace as they are made of strategic materials.

Texas has a maximum length of 801 miles from the southern tip near Brownsville to the northwestern corner of the Panhandle.

How To Re-Place Lost Social Security Card

LUBBOCK, June 30.—“Some workers are under the mistaken impression that when a social security account number card is lost, a duplicate may be obtained by writing a letter or sending a long distance telephone call to the Social Security Board field office from which the number was secured,” said John D. Palmer, manager of the Lubbock office of the Social Security Board.

He explained that if a worker wishes a duplicate account number,

Form SS-5, which may be secured from a post office or a Social Security Board office, should be completed exactly as the original application with an additional statement that a duplicate number is desired.

Palmer's statement was made because of requests, particularly long distance telephone calls, which have been coming into the office from persons needing duplicate account number cards.

The Form SS-5 is easily completed and need not be mailed to the office from which the number was originally secured since any Social Security Board field office will take the proper steps for security the duplicate. It is necessary to have the same information as originally given in order that the worker's account number will not be confused with those of others having the same or similar names.

A Statement By E. R. HARRIS

To the Citizens of Commissioners Precinct No. 2:

Realizing that the burden of taxes to carry on the war is going to be very heavy and that the most rigid economy in local government affairs should prevail, I have decided to offer my services again for Commissioner of Precinct No. 2.

The commissioner's job, in these kind of times, I believe is the most important in the county.

I appreciate the co-operation I had from the people when I served you before, and will appreciate your consideration in this campaign.

Farmers and business people who know my record as a commissioner know that I can and will say "no" when necessary. In view of the warning the governor and comptroller have given us that loss of gasoline and automobile license taxes will force increased valuation on real estate and personal property, I am sure the commissioners court during the next two years is going to be forced to cut down every expense possible.

The record I have made in the past as your commissioner is well-known and I pledge to continue expense-cutting in every way possible if you elect me. I will demand value received for every cent of the precinct's money that I spend.

Whatever debts a commissioner's court creates must be paid by the taxpayers, and I pledge to do my best to exercise common sense; bearing in mind that much of the county's revenue is very likely to be cut off as the demands of war continue. This is a warning that was given us several months ago.

The records are open for the citizens to see, and it is the duty of the taxpayers to investigate and see for themselves which candidate is best qualified for the office before they vote.

HEARTS and FLOWERS

TOM: Gosh, Ann, I'm glad I could get back in time for our wedding anniversary. Being on the road as much as I am, it seems like I'm never home. Here's something for you.

ANN: You darling! Flowers!

TOM: It could have been a new hat if that blamed car of mine hadn't had to have a new set of piston rings.

ANN: I know wives shouldn't interfere in their husband's business, Tom, but Mrs. Reardon was telling me how much money Jack saved on the maintenance of his car. He drives even more than you do.

TOM: What all did she tell you, Ann?

ANN: Well, Jack Reardon uses Conoco Nth motor oil. That's the oil that OIL-PLATES the engine and saves a lot of wear and tear. And it contains a new synthetic that helps keep the oil from fouling up, too. Mrs. Reardon says Jack has to make his car last two or three years longer now and Conoco Nth motor oil will help him do it!

TOM: That settles it, Ann! I'm going to change right now to Conoco Nth!

ANN: Good boy! And maybe I can still get that new hat?

You'll agree that it's orchids to Conoco Nth motor oil, once you prove to yourself how it is so economical, clean-running and wear-saving. See Your Conoco Mileage Merchant today! Continental Oil Company

Harvest Nears End In Floyd Co. This Week

Harvest of the Floyd County wheat crop neared its end this mid-week and will be a matter of history within a few days.

Even the latest grain is dead ripe and only awaits the harvesters.

Elevator operators yesterday expressed doubt that it would even be necessary for the elevators to remain open Sunday.

In all, probably 225 cartons had been shipped out from all points in the county yesterday, with one or two shipping places not definitely checked. More wheat than has been shipped is in storage either in commercial elevators or in privately-owned granaries, it appears.

Yields ranged from 5 or 6 bushels in greenbug ravaged crops to 30 bushels in other fields, with an average of about 15 bushels per acre. Generally the crop has represented a good profit to operators.

METHODIST TO TRY 6 P. M. AS NEW SERVICE TIME

After discussion, the Methodist congregation Sunday decided to have the evening service at 6 o'clock. They believe it might induce more people to attend. Farmers can be at the evening worship and return to their homes before night. Those who do not like to drive after night can make the round trip in daylight, and those who need a long night for sleep on Sunday will have the whole of the night for themselves.

Several other churches have successfully tried the plan, and most of them have found that it works. An invitation to join this early hour of worship is cordially given to the public, the pastor stated.

County Is Below War Bond Sales Quota for June

Floyd County failed to make the assigned quota for June, Glad Snodgrass, county chairman, said here this week. The exact figures he did not have at hand, he said, but is certain the total anticipated sales were not made.

The July quota for the county was announced as $35,900. "Make your arrangements to buy war bonds and stamps today and let's keep Floyd county where she rightfully belongs," Mr. Snodgrass urged citizens of the county. Mothers' sons who have been called to the service have no choice. Maybe we've waited on a wheat crop; maybe this, maybe that. The boys can't make excuses. We have no right to do so. We need to have our country's full part in an enterprise which so clearly demonstrates a working democracy."

All sales committeemen in the county are asked by the chairman to turn in their pledge books so they may be copied by July 15.
