Board Told By OPA To Refuse Tires To Eligibles Who Are Found To Be "Speedsters"

Scout Executive

Refuse tires and tubes to all speedsters, the Floyd County War Price and Rationing board was told in a recent ruling from OPA. W. Edd Brown, chairman of the board, said this week. The instructions make such the duty of the board. Explaining the ruling Mr. Brown said:

"In other words, Mrs. or Mr. A makes application for tires or tubes and it develops that he is one who 'burns up the road' by high speed, he will be denied the privilege of tire and tube purchase and placed on the 'black-list' of ineligibles, perhaps for the duration. So, the board suggests that all watch their speed."

Failure To Buy Car Use Stamps Draws Summons

Failure to buy the red Automobile Use Tax stamp or to have it displayed on windshield or other prominent place on the car drew a summons for numerous Floyd county automobile owners Saturday. These appeared Monday before a special representative of the Internal Revenue department in Floydada.

Every county seat town in the state will have been visited by collectors within the next few weeks, the revenue office announced.

The procedure here was to find a car parked on the street with the new auto use stamp, then to tag the car with a notice when and where to appear.

Ballots Tuesday For Absentee Applicants

Ballots for absentee voting in all probability will not be in the hands of County Clerk Emma Louise Smith before Tuesday of next week, although the printer may have an opportunity to deliver them as early as Monday afternoon.

This statement is based on the fact that the state portion of the ticket will not be canvassed until Saturday of this week. Following this canvass the state committee must complete and mail their certificate to the respective counties, which in turn then must make up the complete ballot form and turn it over to the printer. Apparently it will take hurry up work on the part of everybody concerned to do all of this from Saturday morning to Tuesday morning, said a member of the county committee this week. "Accordingly those who plan to vote absentee can hardly expect to get a ballot before Tuesday."

County Returns Canvassed

Floyd county returns were canvassed by the county committee Friday afternoon and the vote for state and district offices tabulated and certified to the state committee. Little or no change in actual figures and no change in standing of candidates was made by the official count from the unofficial figures given out last week. Certified as nominees of the Democratic party in the general election next November were the following:

- John Stapleton for county attorney;
- Mrs. P. G. Stegall for district clerk;
- Margaret Collier for county clerk;
- Leo Howard for sheriff;
- Geo. B. Marshall for assessor-collector of taxes;
- Mrs. O. M. Conway for county treasurer;
- W. D. Newell for county surveyor;
- W. L. Finley for public weigher, precincts 1 and 4;
- Henry Roberson for commissioner of Precinct 2;
- B. P. Wooddy for justice of the peace, precincts 1 and 4;
- Frank Perkins for justice of the peace, precincts 2 and 3.

County Majority Ticket

On the run-off primary vote on August 22 will appear the following names of candidates, according to the order of the county committee:

For County Judge: G. C. Tubbs, Morgan Wright;

For Commissioner Precinct 1: W. H. Bill; Precinct 2: A. S. Cummings; For Commissioner Precinct 3: W. C. Plumlee, A. D. Monk; For Commissioner Precinct 4: R. B. Calhoun.

In the last-named instance Mr. Calhoun has no opponent, C. M. Lyles, runner-up, having announced he would not be in the contest. However, the committee, having announced a majority primary would be held, are carrying the name of Mr. Calhoun on the second primary ballot, so that in fact he will have a majority vote in his precinct before his name is certified as the nominee.

Democrats Name Six Delegates To State Meet

Democrats of Floyd county in a very tame county convention Saturday named six delegates to the state democratic convention to be held in early September. District Judge Alton B. Chapman being named chairman of the delegation and T. G. Black vice-chairman. Other members of the delegation selected are Geo. L. Pawver, Tom W. Deen R. F. Stovall and S. M. Crawford.

As indicating the lack of fire-works in the convention the delegation was chosen largely without regard to whom they supported in the primary for senator or governor and the convention voted to send the delegation not bound by the unit rule.

Representatives of six of the county's 23 precincts were seated at the convention, held in the absence of any precinct conventions.

Wheat men are going to be approached in an effort to get them to figure out a way to produce "war foods" instead of wheat, that is to take some of their wheat acres and put them into production for some other type of food worse needed. The wheat man is not going to like that. He is much like the cotton raiser who for years has insisted that the market take all the cotton he could raise the way he wanted to raise it and put it on the market. It is a sort of an inertia and a state of mind. Why wheat wouldn't be wanted in ever-increased amounts is beyond the ordinary mortal's understanding. All our reading in world history has had the nation with bread winning the war, other things reasonably equal. Almost all the civil riots, the revolutions that have brought downfall to nations have had demand for bread as the core of complaint. And we, even in America, have not yet understood the changed state of affairs. The world no longer fears lack of production, but fears overproduction, unbalanced production, unbalanced distribution. Modern science has tricks with which mother earth can be tickled to produce three times what the people that inhabit the globe demand for their subsistence, both of clothing and of food. It is wheat in particular that has unbalanced the production scale, they say. The office farmer who raises two thousand, five thousand, acres of wheat has done the job. But he wishes they'd leave him alone. In fact he's going to grow a bit about it. With some reason, but not enough to convince the federal government that he should not at least make the effort.

People of the United States are reaping already in this war period some of the seed they have sowed in the past many years of creating bureaus and commissions. Jealousies that accompany throne room politics are largely responsible for the apparent lack of unity and one-ness in the national capitol. In that great city when the commander-in-chief, in an effort to achieve greater results from the war effort combines or changes authority, (as is often the case) creates a new "board," "management," "administration" or "authority" every head of an already-established bureau checks jealously to see if the new arrangement in any way affects his own set-up. If it does there is an immediate howl and the president must take time to settle the family quarrel. For every department head thinks of himself as potential presidential timber, and recalls that an appointment as chairman of the Belgian Relief commission resulted in Herbert Hoover's elevation to the presidency later. Hamstringing and throat cutting among ourselves would seem to be "out" for anybody with the many "fronts" in mind where our boys are fighting and dying. But you don't know bureaucratic Washington where patriotism comes after I have got what I want.

Guarantee of a price of $9.35 per pound for live pork at Chicago made by the Department of Agriculture of the federal government to create greater interest in pork production in America, means approximately $8.50 per head at Floydada. This should be kept in mind by Floyd county people who are going in for hog raising on a huge scale and will reap huge profits, investments considered, out of it. When the market becomes over-supplied and a million hogs are offered ready for slaughter, it might be well to keep the guarantee figures in mind and produce pork so it can be sold at the price, or at least be ready to get out from under with the least loss. Quite a slice of difference in eight and a half cents per pound and 13 and a half cents per pound. Floyd county can, and probably will, produce three or five times as many hogs as are now being produced, by the end of this year. Probably all other swine producing regions will do the same and Uncle Sam some morning is going to find himself buried under an avalanche of fats. That's the desired result, nationally speaking, but individually do not get wrong on the government's proposition. The present price of pork is not being guaranteed but a figure much less.

Something was done wrong or something was left undone, when butterfat reaches the market in bad condition. As we get well into the first year of our probably long and weary contest with the AXIS powers it is said that farmers are producing amply. "Too little and too late" will not be said of the dairy farmer's efforts. But something is going wrong with the quality of the butterfat between the time it is milked from the cow and the time it is put out in the creamery's package. The Food and Drug administration says that far from relaxing vigilance now that war is on there will be even stronger enforcement activities, with this added: Heretofore the enforcement division, acting for public health's sake, has confiscated and destroyed butterfat found unfit for consumption and let it go at that. But fats are so important and vital that any and all steps necessary will be taken to prevent the waste that comes with confiscation and dumping. In other words the Food and Drug administration is going back to the creamery and back further than that and even back further than that, if need be, to stop the waste.

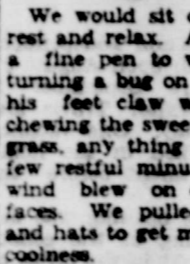

Everybody is exercised over the probability of gasoline rationing and the tightening up of tire distribution. In fact, over the continued rumor, which may become fact at any time, that those of us who are operating automobiles in lines not contributory to the war effort, will have to run our cars in the shed, chock them up on boards, two by fours or something, and turn our tires in so that more essential operators can have them. However, there may be one angle in the president's insistent attitude on the matter that has not occurred to us. This angle the president might ballyhoo very effectively. The president and his advisers might have in mind that if all the unnecessary automobile mileage being driven by all of us people in the United States could be reduced by half—just cut the unnecessary mileage in half—the people of the United States could take the savings they would effect and pay for a 70 billion dollar war in slightly less than eight years. This would leave enough trucks, tractors, cars, pick-ups, et cetera, operating to do all the needed things, including a lot of the real or imaginary recreation and relaxation. Of all the billions of waste we accuse our national administration of, it does not hold a candle light to the waste of the common-every-day people on automobile riding. The bill for unnecessary operation of motor vehicles runs from $10 per month by the very poor to a thousand dollars per month or more for the very rich. What do you think of the powers that be starting a campaign of making you and me shame-faced for all the unnecessary miles we put our cars through and the waste of it? If the administration could make a successful campaign like that it would certainly get the job done on tire saving, car saving, and money saving.

Peaches at three dollars and above per bushel does not sound like there'll be a lot of boughten peach preserves in Floyd county homes this winter. Peaches at $1.50 or even $1.75, but higher no. That's what the folks think and that's about the way it will be unless they change their minds. The who and why of peaches jumping that much in price this year is one of the things the indignant housewife would like to ferret out and give somebody a piece of her mind. It may be right but she doesn't think so—and she most generally carries the pocketbook and will find a substitute if she can at all.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

By Nellie Witt Spikes

The end of the row. Our field has been gone over with a hoe, but this time I did not carry one. But I have in days past. When my children were young, we all took our hoes and went to the field. How big and impossible the weedy field looked as we first started in. Down the long rows, silent at times, but as the weeds thinned, how we all talked. At the end of the row, cool water from a jug gurgled down our dry throats.

We would sit on the ground and rest and relax. A bit of weed made a fine pen to write in the sand, turning a bus on his back watching his feet claw wildly in the air, chewing the sweet stems of mesquite grass, anything to do or see for a few restful minutes. How cool the wind blew on our sweat-covered faces. We pulled off our bonnets and hats to get more of the precious coolness.

Back to the work down another weedy row, rest at the end back and forth across the field, day after day. What a gratified feeling to look over the field at the end of the last row. True, some weeds were left, but our work was done, we were at the end of the last row.

Some day I shall come to the end of the last row of life. What a blessed privilege to sit down and let the winds of Heaven cool my brow and to drink with a gurgle down my hot throat from the Waters of Life flowing from the throne of God. Yes, there will be weeds left when I get to the end of the last row, but there will be many out and left to wither and die, and I pray that the harvest will be good.

A bit from the Past
Jeff liked to sit on the floor and listen to the tales of the Civil war told by his father and Gilford Reed.

"I low I go," Reed would slap his sides and say, "You could walk on dead men and never tech the ground," and Wesley Spikes and Gilford Reed would fight the war again. The boy, listening, looked with awe and admiration to white-haired Reed. He was a big raw-boned man who boasted he never struck a man who didn't get down at a log rollin' with a hand stick under a load. Jeff remembered the neighbors laughing because Reed moved his hog-pen to the corner of his porch one rainy spell. The men spoke of stirring times on Spikes Prairie when the war clouds gathered so thick as to overshadow the far-away Texas settlers. Israel, the oldest Spikes boy, organized a cavalry troop, and daily drilling began. The sound of the bugle and the beat of drums were heard. Women spun thick gray woolen cloth, cut and stitched uniforms. Powder horns were made from cow horns lying on the prairie. Jeff liked to rub his fingers on the buttons of the big blue overcoat that had a heavy cape that reached to the waist and spell the letters U. S. A. raised high on the big brass buttons. Of course the overcoat was the uniform of the north, but a man could not be choosy and many a blue suit or overcoat was wrapped around a southern man's starved frame.

Women of today, this year of 1942 will show the same kind of bravery and suffer the hardships as did the women that spun the blue and the gray cloth. And some day, pray it

DECLARE NEW ERA HAS COME IN TEXAS POLITICS

Floyd County Hesperian.
Floydada, Texas.
Politics in Texas seems to be in a metamorphic stage for the past several years, and more especially within the past two years. Time was in Texas politics when all of us considered it an unpardonable sin not to "vote 'em straight." There are hundreds of thousands of Democrats in Texas today who have never voted anything but the straight Democratic ticket throughout. And there are hundreds of thousands who have NOT voted in this manner. Whose place and authority is it to say which of the two classes of voters is right?

"Back yonder" just a decade or so it was somewhat the style, and by some considered the right thing, to run for office on the "Demerite" of the other fellow who was running against you. A former Governor of Texas popularized this method of campaigning and made it pay BIG dividends. This is not so today in Texas politics.

Not many years back little was thought of Washington having a hand, slyly, in Texas politics and in aiding, under cover in a way, the candidacy of an aspirant to office who seemed to be one who could "fit in" with the National Administration. This custom is not to be condoned by the citizenship of Texas any more, as was demonstrated very convincingly in last year's Senatorial race. Now, in this month, in the same kind of a race, we are very likely to see keen resentment on the part of the Texas electorate at Washington's meddling in Texas politics. The truth of the matter is that this "National Administration Meddling" is quite distasteful to all thinking Texans and they are going to put a stop to it one way or another, and soon.

The new era in politics that I started out to discuss is this: Texas voters demand and appreciate honesty in their public servants. Political fence builders are watched with a keen eye by the poll-tax holders, and their "number" is pretty well known by a vast majority of the voters and citizens. A "fence builder" is a parasite and seeks only to further his own selfish interests. What the public needs and asks for is of little concern to him. Mainly he is seeking to keep himself in office for what he can get out of the salary the position pays. The political "fence builders" are not all out of office yet, but the day is not far distant when they will be driven out in about the same manner that the Temple was cleansed under the leadership of the Nazarene.

As evidence that a new era in politics has dawned or is dawning let us take the case of Hon. J. E. McDonald, our Commissioner of Agriculture. He voted for Wilkie in the campaign of 1940 against Roosevelt. Time was when this would have been suicidal. Not so with McDonald as is evidenced by the overwhelming vote of the July Primary. The reason is this. McDonald has devoted his every energy to the interests of agriculture in Texas and most of the farmers know this. He has absolutely made no effort to build up a political fence to perpetuate himself in office. No "professional politician" would dare work out in the open as has McDonald. This man is valuable in office and a vast majority of our Texas citizens know and appreciate the fact.

Take Gerald Mann. He has never faltered in his duty to the masses of Texas citizens and not in a single instance has he endeavored to build a machine to keep him in office. Many of his friends, and most of the political wise, have said that he was sticking his neck out and making ready for a fall in handing down scores of decisions from his department which normally were fatal to a political career. But, the masses of Texas citizens want the truth, and honesty from their public servants. Be it said to the credit of Gerald Mann that he spends his time in performing the duties of Attorney General of Texas and not in digging "post holes for political fences." We are not through with Gerald Mann. One day, not too far distant, he will be Governor of Texas. And, he will make a real Governor, too.

There's Coke Stevenson. His enemies say that he is a hot-headed anti-prohibitionist and should not be in the Governor's chair. Well, if he is an anti that's his business. I'm sure that he is an anti. Also, I'm sure that he is a real statesman and an HONEST man. He is making Texas a real Governor. If any of the pros are worried about what may happen while Governor Stevenson is in office as relates to liquor and liquor laws, just check the record of this man who was Speaker of the House when Ferguson was Governor. He is not a reed shaken in the wind. He might be a good hand at building a barb wire fence around a ranch or farm, but he is certainly a failure at "political fence building."

Let's come down to date now. In the July Senatorial campaign the unbeatable and the popular Jimmie Alfred was defeated for about the first time in his political career just because he did not run on his OWN MERITS. No one will deny that Jimmie Alfred has plenty of merits of his own and to spare. He made a wonderful Attorney General; he lent dignity to the office of Governor; and he has made an enviable record on the Bench. Why a man of the ability and brains of Jimmie Alfred would seek to run on the demerits of his opponent, when he is flowing over with merits of his own that should elect him to any office to which he might aspire, is more than I can understand. Jimmie, if you want to be the next Junior Senator from Texas, here's some free advice that may prove valuable: Conduct your campaign on a platform of personal merit and do not criticize where you have no corrective remedy to offer. We want our Texas Senator to work with an support the President, when the President is right, but we DO NOT want a "yes-man" to represent Texas in Washington. You can be elected U. S. Senator from Texas on your own merits, but you cannot be elected on your opponent's demerits because a new era in politics has dawned.

I am proud of the confidence you have shown in me. Age limits for enlistment in the Navy or Naval Reserve are from 17 to 35 years of age. Parents consent and proof of place and date of birth are required for enlistment of men under 21 years of age. Physical requirements have been modified to such an extent that many men who were formerly rejected are now qualified for enlistment. Minimum height 62 inches, maximum height, 76 inches. Weight standards are proportionate to height and build.

Revival At Baptist Church To Continue Through Sunday

(Rev. L. A. Doyle, pastor)

The revival meeting now in progress at the First Baptist church will continue through Sunday night service. All agree that singing, attendance is good and the services are unusually fine in fellowship and spiritual quality.

Weather and Crops

Showers Monday and Tuesday helped crops in portions of the county.

Considerable moisture fell over portions of Irick, Lockney, Ramsey, Sterley, South Plains and Liberty districts Tuesday afternoon. About an inch of rain at Lockney and vicinity was recorded, with heavier falls reported both west and east of that point. Other sections of the county have fair to good moisture, but some areas need rain.

For the most part hay cutting of the ten-day period have been good and have not been caught on the ground by showers. Potato production is good on irrigated farms where they are planted and sugar beet crops are continuing to grow off well.

Cotton is doing well and early feed is maturing. Late feed will need another rain by mid-August to produce a maximum crop.

ONE INSECT'S POISON IS ANOTHER'S FOOD

Unexpected results have sometimes followed efforts to poison insects that are crop pests. What's one insect's poison, is another's meat, the experience of the U. S. Department of Agriculture reveals. Powdered derris root is a first class poison for many insects, but other insects feed freely on derris roots in storage.

As another example, some cotton growers who dusted their plants with arsenical dusts have found that even when the dusting killed nearly all the boll weevils, the dusted cotton plants might not yield much more than undusted ones. The immediate explanation was that aphids had multiplied until their feeding on the sap of the plant offset most of the gains from absence of the weevils. The first thought was that the dusting killed not only weevils but other insects that would normally prey on the aphids or plant lice and prevent their multiplication.

Careful study by entomologists showed, however, that calcium arsenate also increased the aphids in other ways. They discovered and reported last year that the arsenic absorbed into the cotton sap through the leaves and through the roots not only failed to kill the aphids, but actually stimulated their multiplication. They also found that the more alkaline the sap became—as from the lime in calcium arsenate—the more favorable to the aphids. Now they are testing other chemicals that may be added to the arsenical dust, in hopes of finding some mixture that will not hinder the arsenic in acting on the weevils, but will at the same time maintain the normal acidity of the cotton sap that puts a check on aphid multiplication.

STUDY FREEZING OF PEAS

Green peas in frozen storage lose weight by drying out. In many cases this loss of moisture is so high that the appearance and quality of the peas are impaired. They lose color and the skins toughen.

This moisture loss is due to the lining or wrapping material used in the package, rather than to the type of container selected, investigators in the Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering of the U. S. Department of Agriculture report. In a series of recent studies, packages which were either lined with or wrapped in moisture-vapor proof viscose sheets showed the least weight losses. Waxed paper liners and wrappers were inferior to moisture-proof viscose.

These studies also showed that the temperature at which frozen peas are held, and the length of time they stay in storage, make considerable difference in the loss of weight. For peas held only 6 months or less, the type of lining material was not critical, but for peas kept 20 months, only the best grade of viscose lining material was effective.

Peas held for 20 months at 15 degrees F. lost about twice as much weight as those stored just as long at 0 degrees F. under conditions of humidity similar to those in most storage plants. Peas stored at 0 degrees F. lost less vitamin C than those stored at 15 degrees F. but the longer the peas were stored, in any type of package, the more vitamin C they lost.

On The Farm & Home Front

JASON O. GORDON
County Agricultural Agent

Home Demonstration Agent

Texas A. & M. College Extension Service

Congratulations to H. A. Brotherton, McCoy; Roy Qoiden, Allmon; L. A. Hooten and Charles B. Smith, Harmony on their purchase of a Jersey bull calves for future herd sires. These calves are sired by a 3-Star bull out of cows with a mature equivalent of 600 pounds of butter fat, and better.

Complete butter fat tabulation is not available at this time but according to the American Jersey Cattle club official records are available for three and four generations. These bulls were purchased from the J. J. Smith herd in Hale county—a herd that consistently leads in butter fat production.

These four bulls are the first of 13 to be purchased by members of the Floyd county bull circle cooperative sponsored by the Farm Security Administration. Within a few years the improvement in Jersey foundation bulls which these far-sighted members of the coop made available for use in the county.

I have been impressed by the enthusiasm of the Milking Shorthorn breeders in this county. If all of the pure-bred breeders in Floyd county would display a similar spirit Texas would wake up to the outstanding livestock program we are following.

That leads me to advocate the organization of a Pure bred Breeders' association. An opportunity for poultry, cattle, hogs, horse and sheep fanciers to meet regularly and exchange ideas of the breed, as well as feeding and management.

Our 4-H Club and FFA members need this information and would take an active part on program when requested to do so. Our people need to know the farm managers who are striving to improve the livestock and poultry programs in the county. A list of pure bred breeders could be made available and time could be saved in locating foundation breeding stock.

A penny post card addressed to this office would start the movement.

Farm families who burn coal for winter fuel are requested to file orders for that supply now. Coal production and distribution moves in cycles, with the heaviest demand in winter months. Labor and transportation facilities are available at this time to fill orders without interruption. This condition will probably change by fall, so the fellows who expect to use coal should make his purchase without delay.

Floyd county is the leading county in the territory in sugar beet acreage. Ten producers have 105 acres of beets and present outlook is very favorable.

Grasshoppers destroyed about 95 acres of beets and damaged the other acreage to some extent, but the thin stand may prove favorable to heavier tonnage with no leaf spot.

The time may come when a sugar refinery will be located in this territory. This plant deserves to be located in Floyd county as D. E. Cox, Santa Fe agent at Lockney and H. M. Bainer, General Agricultural agent for the Santa Fe pioneered the crop in this county.

A new variety of wheat, Comanche, will be planted in the county this fall. This is an improved Tenmarq with two to three bushel better yield and one pound better test weight than the regular Tenmarq.

Those who expect to introduce this variety are R. Fred Brown, H. R. Patterson and Richard Stovall.

Nine schools in the county served lunches to 580 children during the last school year. There are five lunch rooms where a complete lunch was served and the other four served a partial lunch such as soup, cocoa, fruit or fruit juice. As a result of these children receiving more adequate noon day meal a number of them gained in weight, and in a number of cases their grades were improved.

From the standpoint of health the school lunch is no more important than any other meal, but it is difficult without a lunch room to provide the right foods for this meal and serve it in a wholesome setting. The hazard of the school lunch comes when children get such things as lolly pops, soft drinks, candy, pie, pickles and doughnuts instead of milk, vegetables, fruits, and other foods they need in order to be healthy and develop properly. Co-operating with an effort to establish a school lunch room is an effort to improve nutrition in the community.

Seed of many vegetables prove satisfactory for planting. Mrs. Zant Scott of the Harmony Home Demonstration club saved 8 or 10 varieties of vegetable seed last year, which gave her a good variety of seed to plant this spring without cost.

She was careful to see that the seeds were properly mature and dry before they were stored. When thoroughly dry, vegetable seed can be stored in various paper containers and should be kept in a cool, dry place. Beans and peas should be treated with a teaspoon of carbon disulphide to a quart of seed to prevent weevil damage.

Make your peach canning easier and conserve more of the peach by removing the skins preparatory to canning by placing them in a cloth sack and holding them in boiling water for a few minutes or until the skin slips easily. Then dip them in cold water before peeling.

Two thousand containers of vegetables, including beans, peas, corn, squash, greens and okra have been filled at the county canning center at Lockney, according to Mrs. Sallie Griffith, supervisor.

Anyone who has a surplus of vegetables that they want to sell please notify Mrs. Griffith as she has calls from people who want to buy these products.

The South Side Baptist Church

(Rev. R. N. Power, pastor)
We had great services last Sunday with Rev. J. D. Ewins of Littlefield doing the preaching in the absence of the pastor, who is conducting a revival at Crane, Rev. M. M. Griggs, a former pastor here, is pastor of the Crane church.

Rev. Power will fill his pulpit August 9, and will have a baptismal service Sunday afternoon.

Come to the church that believes in the Old Time Religion and preaches the Old Time gospel. You are welcome.

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. Evening services at 9 p. m. Wednesday night prayer services at 9 p. m.

Church Of The Nazarene

(Eugene Wood, pastor)
Our summer revival begins tonight with Rev. Brooks W. Taylor, pastor at O'Donnell doing the preaching. Rev. Taylor will speak each night and Sunday morning at 11. There will be no day services this week. Announcement will be made Sunday regarding day services next week.

Everyone is cordially invited to these services. If there is not room in the house, we will move out into the yard.

Methodist Church

(R. T. Breedlove, pastor)
The usual 11 o'clock and 6 o'clock services will be held at the Methodist church Sunday, as well as Sunday school and League for young people. We rejoice in the good attendance and success of the Baptist meeting under the leadership of Brother Doyle, the pastor and Brother O'Brien, the preacher, and wish for them a continuation of the good things they are receiving during this season of revival.

The pastor's subject for Sunday will be "Dry Bones." A good many sermons are dry, but at the same time a good many churches are also very dry. There are times when the spiritual powers of a whole people are running exceedingly low. Let us study together Ezekiel's vision of the valley of dry bones.

The revival at the Methodist church will begin August 16. The Reverend Bob Gilpin of Pampa will do the preaching. Please keep that date in mind and pray for "a sound from heaven as a rushing mighty wind and it filled all the house where they were sitting." Acts 2 and 22.

C. P. Church

(M. F. Allen, minister)
"But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint!" (Isaiah 40:31)

They who trustfully turn to the Lord in time of trouble for help, and they who wait upon Him in prayer and worship, do have their strength renewed.

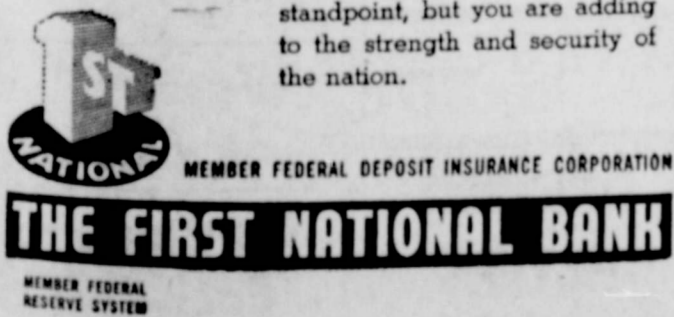

Stand on this promise by going to church Sunday. Our services are Sunday school at 9:45 and worship at 11 a. m. We shall have no evening services Sunday in order that those who will may attend the closing service of the Baptist revival. Prayer meeting will be held Wednesday evening at 8:15.
