Flower Show Held Saturday Big Success

The Flower Show, sponsored by the Floydada Garden Club Saturday in the Parris building, had a pleasing array of flowers of many varieties registered and the committee reported that many visited the show who failed to register. The show, as a whole, was very gratifying even though the wind, which blew so hard Friday night, did some damage to the more delicate flowers. There were 125 entries brought from Floydada and all parts of the county. Mrs. R. C. Bennett and Mrs. A. P. McKinnon each received five in defense stamps for having entered the most flowers. Mrs. Bennett presented 17 arrangements and Mrs. McKinnon 15.

The show was arranged by Mrs. J. D. McBrien, Mrs. L. J. Welborn, Mrs. G. V. Smith, Mrs. J. M. Williams and Mrs. J. B. Claiborne, serving as a committee from the Garden Club. This is an annual project of the club and is the sixth flower show to be directed by the club. A 25c defense stamp was given for each 1st place and a 10c stamp was given for each 2nd place.

Out of Town Judges
Mrs. Jno. Lloyd, Mrs. Sam Hale, and Mrs. A. H. Kreis served as judges and were entertained with a luncheon at the Commercial hotel by the members of the club.

Park Florist and Hollums Florist each had beautiful commercial displays. The Park Florists offered prizes to the winners of the most 1st and 2nd places. Mrs. J. D. McBrien and Mrs. R. C. Bennett were the winners of these prizes. Mrs. Hollums gave a beautiful pot plant to the winner of 1st honors, which were taken by Mrs. McBrien, whose 1st and 2nd places scored the most points.

Homebuilders Club Wins
The Home Builders Home Demonstration club was presented a 25c defense stamp for their Victory display.

It was announced that there must be at least three entries of a kind to be judged, so honorable mention was given these entries:

Mayor White Proclaims Fire Prevention Week

TO ALL CITIZENS OF FLOYDADA TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Whereas, the prevention of fires is of vital importance to the success of the nation's war effort; and

Whereas, the production of materials essential to the prosecution of the war by our nation is taxing the capacity of industrial plants, the curtailment of production because of fire becomes a menace to our own safety; and

Whereas, how tremendously beneficial to the insuring public has been the Fire Prevention movement over the years, is shown by the reduced cost of insuring homes and business houses in Floydada; and

Whereas, statistics on fire losses reveal that the cause of fires, to a large extent, can be controlled by intensive education and intelligent law enforcement;

Now, therefore, I, W. U. White, mayor of the city of Floydada, hereby proclaim the week of October 4 to 10, 1942 as Fire Prevention Week in Floydada.

Citizens of Floydada, particularly civic, school, civilian defense, and municipal organizations, are called upon to emphasize the danger of fire and to encourage the adoption and enforcement of fire prevention rules and regulations in an effort to lessen the disastrous consequences of fire.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this 25th day of September, 1942.

W. U. WHITE,
Mayor of Floydada.

EDITORIALS

In our campaign for a late frost or killing freeze the ants seem to have us on the run right now, despite the almost solid phalanx of substantial citizens who have promised their utmost support in the movement. The "early freezers" point to the repeated cold spells in September, in one of which the temperature registered was as low as 42 degrees, only 10 degrees above the freezing point. They say our old-fashioned way of arriving at weather in store for the future, based on the prognostications of nature's own children, is out of date. That what one needs is a report on conditions in Alaska and the far northwest. Admitting that we are out of touch with Alaska most of the time, especially with the war censorship on, we still maintain that, unless Dame Nature did it strictly out of cussedness, she has fooled the prophets who use Alaska for a base and not us. Why couldn't it be that these repeated coolish snaps are in line with our promise to our readers? Do not cold, hard freezes in the fall nearly always follow continued pretty, mild, even hottish weather? We think so and accordingly hold our ground as best we can, shivering if it is true, but brave and undaunted as always.

What about a hard winter when it does hit? A good many pros and cons on the subject. More signs favor the probability of a hard winter as do also the mathematics of the cycles. Those who have plenty of feed, do not be in too big a hurry to sell if you have a place to store it, more especially if you'll need a lot of filler for stock should a hard winter hit. By February feed will be a lot higher. But high or low have it close to where you are running the live stock and have arrangements for plenty of water even during a long, cold spell. Now in the fall while it is pretty and the weather is on your side is the time to visualize just how cold it will be later and how you can manage to get the cows the most feed with the least danger of the frostbitten feet.

Where poison was used in cotton fields control of the leaf worm has been fair to excellent. One time when it paid and paid big to fight back in the battle of mankind against the worm. Where an occasional field that was treated is adjacent to one that was not the conclusion to be drawn is too plain to be overlooked. The worms undoubtedly are the same that hit the wheat last year, when they attacked the head after eating the tender parts of the leaf and beard. They are cutting off great big bolls that have already been counted. Which means every day they keep going is that much more cotton lost. In cases where a planter had only a few acres, like many have here, it probably wouldn't have paid to rig up for poisoning. Which is the explanation that more did not poison. Instead of dusting the poison on the most successful operators used it in liquid form and sprayed it under pressure several rows at a time.

That it certainly is high time the cold weather drove the boll weevil frontiers further back east is evidenced by the fact that these cotton pests are found this season in large numbers under the caprock and in some fields up on the high plains, believe it or not. Wet seasons, coupled with mild winters the past few years, making hibernation possible around fence rows and in weed piles, are supposed to be responsible for the westward advance of the cotton raisers' most dreaded enemy. That the damage is material in counties right under the caprock is now evident. Leaf worms also are taking a toll of the crop. On the plains it will be seen shortly whether the inroads of the insects has been a material factor in reducing the promised high yield.

That there is still a great deal of steel and iron junk in the country seems certain, although this area has shipped out junk for five years now, first to the Japs who are throwing it back at our boys in the Pacific, and later on to our own steel mills. In the past year the movement of junk from Floyd county has been way up in the hundreds of tons and there has been no letup so far as the junk yards are concerned. However, there has been some let-up on the part of the folks who will be increasingly busy as wheat planting and then the fall harvest go into high. A situation that can't be helped at once. But we can keep the junk in mind and the flow can be kept up on a reasonably brisk scale, busy as people may be. The steel mills must not be allowed to close down because of lack of supply from the homes of the country. If you've done all you can about junk, so far as your premises are concerned, encourage your neighbor who has not, to get busy.

Just what rationing of farm machinery and rationing of gasoline to conserve rubber will mean to the plains country is yet to be seen. Since both are here or almost here we may as well take it that neither may as seriously affect us as we dread to think of. That both will have a tendency to slow us down is true, but we might not be hurt so hard by being slowed down. A farmer does need and should surely have good farm machinery to work with. And we will have to have gasoline and tires if we get around in anything like the fashion that has been the custom. But the likelihood is our main dread and antipathy toward the rationing is based as much on human nature as anything else. Any happening which changes our accustomed habits or has a tendency to force us out of our "groove" always affects us adversely. Washington is dumb we admit, but when it becomes apparent that the lifeblood of agriculture is being sapped, somebody is going to wake up and do something about it.

Frank Phillips the grand old man of Phillips Petroleum company and Governor Coke R. Stevenson, of Texas, are in line to be "in Dutch" with the government's autocrats of the oil industry. The former made a speech the other day in which he expressed disgust with men in power who are absolutely ignorant of business. These men, he says, make decisions who have never had experience and are now exercising their first authority. Governor Stevenson says gasoline rationing will strangle Texas business and may completely undermine the Texas state government's operations set-up. Such plain talk can be made to the really high ups and not hurt you any, but the injury comes when you have to deal with the sub-secretaries and the appointees of the appointees. Mr. Phillips and Governor Stevenson are brave and patriotic men. They are taking long chances in an effort to right things that they urgently believe wrong in the petroleum industry's relations with the government.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

By Nelle Witt Spikes

This is a beautiful fall morning. A brisk southwest wind is drying out the wet fields. Tractors are chugging and wheat sowing will begin again. The gardens are still full of fat butter beans red tomatoes, tender greens—peas and beans with hot pepper to go with them. Meals are not hard to fix. It is a pleasure to gather the vegetables, to feel the security of plenty of food to eat and to can. These are days I like to walk around and see how much the young fruit trees have grown and marvel at the spread of the Chinese elm. The zinnias and dahlias are still gay but with deeper, softer shades. The Bermuda lawn is thick with grass the mower will hardly go through. Well, it can go till next Spring. One hard job over this year, anyway. In spite of all my hoeing, the weeds have made seed.

When a child, I stayed all night in the wagon yard at Canyon City with my parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Witt and younger brothers and sisters. I did not like the wagon yard or the bunk house either. The house was musty and dirty, smoked with coal oil lamps and greased with the grease from many a camper's skillet. I saw across the street a little girl sitting in an upstairs window of the hotel. Her white cross-barred dress was tied around the waist with long blue ribbons and her long braids tied with the same color ribbons. I was filled with envy, although my own white dress lay folded in the big trunk in the back of the wagon. My hair bows were as blue and silky as my sash as long and the bow as large. But there was a difference, although I lived in a hotel at Emma. This little girl was a boarder and it was a week day. I was dressed in long wearing brown checked gingham, my braids tied with a piece of string, and across the street was a girl boarding at a hotel, wearing every day her white dresses and silk ribbons and I was drably dressed staying all night in a wagon yard.

No, brother travelers, that is not a mirage down the road ahead of you on these country lanes. First thing you know you will drive off in a lake of water. My husband was saying he would haul off some grain if it was not such a hard job with wagons. "Anyhow," drily added, "Can't use a wagon without any axle grease."

Note to dealers: Better try to find some real old axle grease for wagons are fixing to roll and jolt again. The town markets had gotten so near—just a short haul—now like the mountains which come so near at times, seems as if we could reach them in an hour or so, then they recede as if it would take days. Now the markets are far off—a whole days journey with a wagon and team.

Around Floydada—the flower show was very nice. Lovely flowers, well arranged. Thanks to the women of Floydada for their trouble in making a beauty spot on which to feast one's eyes.

Giving September the tincture of May day.

HE: Well, here's the city limits. Tomorrow I can see my customers around town. Are you tired?
SHE: Not very. Does the car need anything?
HE: Yes, it does, but the map shows no Conoco station here.
SHE: You and your Conoco Nth oil... but I don't blame you... the way this car performs.
HE: Here's the hotel, and a garage right across. Let's leave the car there, eh?
ATTENDANT: Good evening! In for the night?
HE: Yes. Fill the tank, grease her, check the oil, but don't drain.
ATTENDANT: What brand do you use?
HE: Conoco Nth.
ATTENDANT: Sorry, haven't got it... but this is the last straw, mister. You're the fifth driver this week demanding Conoco Nth. Seems like everybody knows about that Death Valley Test, when six engines were run to destruction. Conoco Nth out-miled the average of five other brands more than two to one. I'm going to get some in stock.
HE: Sure, your regular customers, too, will want Conoco Nth to OIL-PLATE their engine.

Co-Op Is Making Un-Electrified Farm Survey

The Floyd County Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc., is making a check-up of the possible rural users of electric power in this area as part of a county-wide survey being conducted by the Rural Electrification Administration. The survey, which is a part of the federal government's post-war planning program, will cover un-electrified farms, schools, churches, stores, filling stations, food processing plants and other rural establishments. The Rural Electrification Act of 1936 charges the REA Administrator with responsibility for checking closely the conditions and progress of rural electrification.

Many farmers of this area who cannot obtain electricity until critical materials are again available have already applied to Floyd County Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc., for service, according to Mr. Henry. He said that the information obtained from the survey will be used in estimating how many rural consumers can be reached by REA electric service when the war is over.

Mr. Henry said that REA Administrator Harry Slattery has stressed the importance of the survey in view of President Roosevelt's emphasis on extension of rural electrification as a post-war development. In October, 1941, the President wrote to a Wisconsin Congressman that "expanded activity in rural electrification programs to be one of our staunchest supports in the transition from a defense to a peacetime economy."

Again in May this year, in a letter to Mr. Slattery on REA's seventh birthday, the President wrote: "It is a source of gratification to know that nearly 950,000 farms and other rural consumers on REA-financed lines are better able to make their maximum contribution to the war because they have electric power. This is a further demonstration of the need, when materials and manpower become available, for achievement of the goal of eventually taking electricity to every possible rural home and enterprise in the nation."

A careful study of trends in costs of construction will be made in connection with the survey of potential users, Mr. Henry said. He pointed out that standardization of construction designs by REA engineers between 1933 and 1942 had resulted in a reduction from about $1,500 per mile to $750 per mile in the costs of building rural electric distribution lines. This made electric service economically feasible for many farm families who at the start of the REA program were believed financially unable to bear the costs of such service. Continuation of this trend after the war, added to possible reductions in the price of construction materials, would bring electricity within reach of rural families still lower on the economic scale. As an indication of the possibilities, Mr. Henry pointed out that the price of aluminum has already decreased from 17 cents a pound to about 15 cents a pound since the war began.

Census figures indicate that about four million farms are still without electric service despite rapid advances in farm electrification during the past seven years. Mr. Henry pointed out, however, that the census report is limited to farms and does not include a wide variety of other rural enterprises of types now served by the local cooperative. Incomplete reports to REA headquarters from localities where the survey is already underway indicate that the potential number of users to be served during the post-war period is much higher than estimates based on the census report, according to Mr. Henry. One Maryland system, for instance, reports 1411 more unserved rural units than were indicated in other available data.

Many farm poultrymen are asking about flock treatment for the control of worms. The use of Phenothiazine is repeated because many did not see the recommendation. Use one pound Phenothiazine to 100 pounds of laying mash—or better, mix one-fourth pound in 25 pounds laying mash and feed to the flock two days each month.

This treatment will control all types of worms and represents an easy method of worming.

Young chickens that have not been vaccinated for fowl pox should be treated immediately. If already in production, the pigeon strain should be used, but if they are slow to come into production the fowl strain should be given.

Be sure to observe the expiration date on the vaccine box to determine if the material is fresh, and after vaccination 7 or 8 days, inspect approximately 10 per cent of the birds for "take." If a definite scab has formed on that number the poultryman can feel sure the vaccination was effective.

Cool weather reminds us that Thanksgiving and Christmas are not far away which brings on turkey talk.

Turkey growers should see that a high protein mash (about 20 per cent) and home grown grain are available free choice. Clean water must be available at all times if best gain is to be expected.

Careful selection of early-maturing birds for the breeding flock should be an October job.

4-H club members of McCoy and Starkey have collected 3,416 pounds of scrap iron to make fighting weapons. These members have also bought $21.80 of war stamps.

Every member of these clubs has made a contribution to the war effort, either by delivering scrap or buying war stamps. Most of the boys have done both.

Phosphorus poisoning caused by excellent green pasture can be avoided by supplying a liberal amount of calcium in the salt. Three parts limestone to one part salt is recommended as a control for this trouble in hogs and cattle.

The Agricultural Victory Council is sponsoring a county-wide meeting Saturday afternoon, October 3, to determine farm labor requirements and housing facilities. It is the opinion of the Farm Labor sub-committee, composed of L. A. Williams, John A. Lloyd, and W. F. Ferguson, that a general meeting is necessary to study the situation.

This will be a public meeting in the court house and has been called for 2:30 o'clock.

Filing supplies, business forms, binders at The Hesperian.

Homemakers in the county have been canning pears to supplement their pantry shelves.

To can pears place the pieces of pared fruit immediately into a solution of two tablespoons each of salt and vinegar to one gallon of water to prevent discoloration and loss of vitamin C.

Halve and core the ripe pears. Exhaust in boiling syrup for 4 to 8 minutes according to size and hardness of fruit. Seal immediately and process containers of all sizes 20 minutes in boiling water bath.

They should be cooled quickly and stored in a cool place so they will not turn pink. If pears get over heated after they are gathered and before they are canned, you can expect them to change color. Also, if pears are cooked too long or at too high a temperature may bring about the same change.

Pears may be dried as well as canned. If you're going to dry them, finish ripening them off the tree for at least 10 days to two weeks. While they ripen, keep them in a cool, dark well-ventilated place. When the pears are ripe, remove the stem and halve or quarter them. The smaller the piece, the more quickly it dries.

The more quickly it dries the more food value, flavor, and texture are conserved. Then remove the core and woody tissue in the center of the pear.

The next step is to sulphur the fruit. This helps to preserve the fruit over a longer period, helps prevent darkening and loss of Vitamin C, keeps insects away, and speeds up the drying process. There is how to sulphur the fruit. Do it out of doors.

Place one teaspoon of sulphur per pound of prepared fruit in a small piece of paper, roll it loosely, and twist the ends. Then place it in a pan. Place a tray below the tray or trays of cut fruit, so they will not come in contact with burning sulphur. Light the paper. Then quickly place a tight box or barrel over the trays and the pan. The covering should be tight enough to prevent loss of fumes. Sulphur the pears for three hours.

A home-made stove dryer is best for dehydrating pears, since the temperature can be controlled. The process should be started at 130 degrees F. and finished at 175 degrees F. Pears should be dried until they are rubbery or elastic, but not sticky. They should not be hard and brittle. Twenty-five pounds of fresh pears will yield from 3½ to six pounds of dried fruit.

FIVE GRASSHOPPER SPECIES DO MOST DAMAGE

Every state in the region where grasshopper outbreaks are a serious farming hazard has at least 100 species of grasshoppers, some rare, some common, says J. R. Parker of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A few of these species sometimes multiply under favorable circumstances and cause some damage to crops. But at least 90 percent of the losses caused by grasshoppers are caused by a group of only 5 species, he says: the lesser migratory grasshopper; the differential grasshopper; the red-legged grasshopper; and the clear-winged grasshopper. These are the insects entomologists find it necessary to study with a view to increasing the effectiveness of the poison campaigns and control programs.

Rev. and Mrs. Tommie Allen and Miss Lellafaye Hicks, all of Abilene visited this week-end in the home of their parents Dr. and Mrs. I. W. Hicks.

Acquaint Farm Truck Operators With New Order

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 1.—County agricultural agents in Texas are helping acquaint owners of farm trucks with the new government orders which vitally affect them, says George E. Adams, vice director and state agent of the A. and M. College Extension Service.

A new regulation of the Office of Defense Transportation requires a Certificate of War Necessity for the operation of farm trucks as well as other trucks, busses, and taxis. The regulation becomes effective November 15.

"The Extension Service is interested in helping farmers and ranchers conserve their equipment for war purposes," Mr. Adams explains.

Certificates of War Necessity will govern a truck's maximum mileage or minimum loads, or both, and no operator subject to the order will be able to obtain gasoline, tires, or parts without a Certificate. Enforcement officers of all states and political divisions have been authorized to report violations of the order.

Owners and operators of farm trucks and other commercial vehicles will make applications for their certificates on forms supplied by field officers on the ODT. They will also be required to keep records of their operations.

County Surveyor W. D. Newell, who is employed as engineer for the Cactus Defense plant at Lumaas, is home this week attending business matters.

Twenty-Five acres grows new house a year. To paraphrase a nursery rhyme, "this is the house that 25 acres of fast growing forests can grow every year." The picket fence illustrates what just one acre can do in a year. The estimates come from experts of the American Forest Products Industries who have been studying the growth capacity of the 630,000,000 acres of American forest land. There is about 463 board feet of lumber in a 100-foot picket fence, and about 12,000 board feet of lumber in the house.

Farm Machinery Freeze Order Operating

"Temporary rationing of farm machinery broke into the headlines several days ago and we know that most of you already know how it works. But, in case some of you don't, we're giving you the set-up," the Triple A committee announced this week.

Each county in the state will have a local rationing board, composed of three farmers. The chairman of the county AAA committee automatically becomes chairman of the rationing committee. The other two members will be appointed by the county USDA war board. Two alternates also will be selected by the war board.

Why is Rationing Necessary? Enormous quantities of steel which formerly would have been used in manufacture of farm machinery is going into production of planes, guns, tanks, ships and other war weapons. That's wartime production. production it takes to lick the Axis. Then, too, some factories which formerly manufactured farm machinery are turning out war materials almost entirely.

For these reasons, it's necessary to route available machinery into channels where it'll do the most good in wartime agricultural production. production of Food for Freedom.

How Does the Rationing Program Work? All farm machinery falls into three groups—Group A, Group B Group C. Rationing certificates are necessary for purchase of Group A machinery. All purchases must be made not later than October 31, 1942.

Items included in Group A are: beet lifters, beet loaders, combines, corn pickers, disc harrows, feed grinders, fertilizer spreaders, grain drills, grain elevators, hay balers, lime spreaders, manure spreaders, milk coolers, milking machines, pickup balers, potato diggers shredders and tractors (including garden tractors).

Group B includes most other farm machinery and equipment less scarce. A rationing certificate is not necessary but farmers will be required to certify to their dealers that this machinery is required for current production.

Group C includes the smaller items that may be sold without restrictions. Included are hoes, rakes, fork cythes, shovels and all hand-operated and one and two-horse drawn farm machinery and equipment not included in Group A.

There are no restrictions on sale or transfer of used farm machinery, equipment or repair parts.

Producers whose orders were not filled before the "freeze" date will be given rationing certificates by county rationing committees provided the applicant can satisfy the committee that an order was placed prior to September 7.

Defense Police Mobilization Plans Made

AUSTIN, Texas, October 1.—"Defense Police Mobilization in Texas is complete," Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced today. A plan whereby the regular organized police and sheriffs of non strategic areas may be drawn to danger zones to quell riots, sabotage, and other disorders has been developed.

The Department of Public Safety has catalogued all law enforcement personnel, guns, munitions, and other equipment and adequate protection can be instantly drawn to troubled areas.

The War Reserve Police are appointed and trained by local sheriffs and police chiefs and will supplement regular policemen in time of emergency.

Regardless of their good intentions, municipal officials have little opportunity for tax-slashing, Aldro Jenks, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Municipal Research has explained. About 75 per cent of the expenses of local government are fixed costs—sinking funds, bond payments, and other charges which cannot be changed.

Officials Stress Value of Fire Prevention Week

Observance Set For Week Of October 4-10

October 4 to the 10 has been officially proclaimed Fire Prevention week in Floydada by Mayor W. U. White, who cites an urgent need for the prevention of fire during the time of war.

The mayor calls upon various local organizations to cooperate in emphasizing the dangers of fire and to encourage its prevention. A similar proclamation is published this week by Governor Stevenson who suggests that every Texan accept individual responsibility in adopting fire prevention measures at home and at work.

Fire Prevention Week has special significance this year. Not only is the defense of factories, farms and homes against destruction by accidental fires essential to the war production program, it is vital to the preservation of home.

The production shortage of materials made is a necessity that the war production board stop the sales of building materials for homes, except under quite unusual circumstances. Since this is true, it would be impossible to replace a home after a fire while the war is on, except under special permit.

Rate Cut Tremendously
How tremendously beneficial to the insuring public has been the Fire Prevention movement over the years is graphically shown by reduction in the cost of insuring homes and business. In ten years the rate charged by the old line companies has been reduced 40 per cent, and in instances, even more!

While the reduction has been gradual up until the year of 1942, the State Fire Insurance commission lopped off one-fourth of the cost of insuring your home and its contents at one order entered last July and effective on August 1. This means just what it says. For instance, if your insurance premium on a house and its contents has been $50 heretofore the bill since August 1 is $37.50. And all due to the experience of insurance companies as to losses suffered. For, after all, the public pays for what it gets. If houses are burned right and left through carelessness the insurance companies, old line or mutual, have got to charge you more because risk is greater and the losses they have to pay for are greater. On the contrary, if fires are prevented and the losses are light, the insurance companies have a smaller bill to pass on to the public.

Has Good Fire Record Credit
And this is not all the story as regards a fire risk on an insurable residence in Floydada. Say that your insurance has cost you heretofore 80 cents per hundred dollars. The 25 per cent flat reduction ordered August 1 reduces this cost to 60 cents per hundred dollars. And then the community's good fire record comes along and gives you another 10 per cent reduction (if you live in Floydada) and your bill is cut to 54 cents per hundred dollars as indicated in the face of your policy.

You will note that the reductions ordered are percentage reductions. Figures are still based on the old rates, so that if we get careless or if incendiaries get loose in the country, the reductions will be taken off and the public goes to paying the fiddler all over again.

Things You Can Do
What can I do about fire prevention may be a question that comes into your mind. The answer is that you can do all there is to be done about it. Realizing that a fall season is at hand and that fall winds and fall fires take a heavy toll of residences in Texas every year, you can:

Check all of your heating appliances and all connections for natural gas and for electricity. Gas leaks and electric line short circuits take a toll of thousands of homes in America every year.

Check your stove pipes and see that a good fire proof mat is under the stove if you burn coal; ceiling fires take many homes where the owner had only to take a few minutes to exercise a little precaution against faulty flues.

You can clean up your attic, burn all trash and rubbish and see that the grass does not grow up against your house and outhouses.

If you use natural or butane gas, are your installations according to the city code? Are you using worn out rubber or synthetic flexible tubing? If you are, some morning your house will be afire and you'll wonder how that could have happened, while you hunt for a place to live, very probably unable to take your insurance money and replace the residence you will have lost.

And last but not least you can train your children in safety against the destruction of fire. You can

KENT KIKER IMPROVING FROM BURNS ON LIMB
Kent Kiker is reported doing fine this week following an accident in which he sustained severe burns on his left leg. The accident happened Saturday night at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kiker, nine miles south of Floydada.

He struck a match for light to see how to fill a delco can with gas and the fumes from the gas ignited catching his trousers. He was brought to Floydada hospital where he was given first aid treatment before returning home the same night.

Miss Flora Jeter left for Amarillo Sunday where she will be employed with the Pantex defense plant. She has recently been employed with the Norman's 5c to $1 store.

Changes during recent years in insurance matters have in practically every instance resulted to the benefit of insurance buyers. Today our insurance is handled by persons who are specialists in this line. With any of our problems requiring the services of a professional person we find it advisable to consult with them. This is applicable in matters of individual insurance problems. Insurance agents are in the best position to advise us on securing adequate protection to meet our needs.

Hall praised the insurance agents for the hearty cooperation they have extended the board of Insurance Commissioners. Insurance men and women, he said, have done everything possible to aid in promoting fire prevention in Texas.

"An insurance man or woman," Hall continued, "occupies a unique position. By his familiarity with insurance coverage he can render invaluable aid to his clients."

As an example of the patriotic service being rendered by insurance agents at this time Hall said: "those in the insurance business have accepted the responsibility of handling war risk insurance for the government's War Damage Corporation by writing such policies. This service is handled at a minimum cost, and in a large number of instances the expense involved exceeds the compensation received."

teach them that fire is an invaluable servant, a monster when it becomes master.

Longhorns Lose To Olton Squad Score 12 To 6

Olton High school football squad had too much well-balanced power for the Lockney Longhorns last Friday afternoon. Evidently, they also knew the facts in advance about Mitchell's fast chugging heels. And they won the second game of the Longhorns' season 12 to 6.

Well-coached, the powerful and rugged Olton boys, who are carrying on the tradition from a long line of great teams, kept the ball away from Mitchell when they had to boot down a receiver with two tackles alongside for protection, risking no end zones pass plays. Their offensive, sparked by Hedge at quarterback, had a good mixture of line back and power end plays and the benefit of the breaks of the games early in the first quarter.

The only time that Mitchell got the ball without a tackler in close proximity came in the second quarter when he took the ball around right end late in the first quarter to score the Longhorns lone touchdown.

Score In First And Second

The Olton squad scored early in the first quarter when a strong west wind nullified Zimmerman's effort to kick out of a hole. Patterson, Olton's rugged fullback took the ball on the Lockney 33 and scored around left end. In the second Olton scored on the same end of the field on a pass to Patterson to Finney, a 30 yard throw from the 53-yard stripe whence he chugged to pay dirt.

The remainder of the way the Olton squad was content with keeping their Longhorn opponents away from the goal posts. The line-up:

Merchants Advise Paint To Protect Against Rot, Rust

Good paint in large quantities are still available at local stores in Floydada. With the present shortage of some materials, it is a practical and patriotic duty to protect the things we now have and to prolong the life of the things we use. Paints are recommended as one of the best preservatives for prolonging the life of homes, barns, sheds, outbuildings, implements and machinery.

"Good paint can work wonders in protecting woods and metal against rot, rust and decay," declares J. M. Wilson of Wilson & Son Lumber company. Paint dealers will be glad to advise with you on the better grades of paint. Poor grades of paints, even though properly applied, can be a waste of time and money. Mr. Wilson pointed out. Good paints, properly applied, can do a real job against rot, winter ahead.

Center News

CENTER, Sept. 29.—We are about to get the roads in this community open again, after the deluge September 18. Most of the field roads are open again, and will be in good condition as soon as the maintainer gets some of the kinks out.

In most fields the worms have stripped the cotton stalks of all their leaves, leaving the bolls shining like greased balls in the bright sunshine. There is some question as to whether the worms have seriously damaged or really helped the cotton by removing the foliage this early, and before the crop has begun to open. Of course, only time will reveal the results to us.

Remember next Sunday, October 4, is our regular preaching day. Let our people respond to God's invitation to forsake not the assembling of themselves together in His house to worship Him on the Sabbath.

"My house shall be called the house of prayer," Matt. 21:13. "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together as the manner of some is," Heb. 10:25. Mothers, fathers, the quickest and best way (quicker than V-Mail) to reach that son in Australia, the Aleutian, Ireland or parts unknown is by the way of the throne. Heb. 4:16. And a good place to pray is in the house of God as well as at the family altar. America should go quickly and willingly to her knees. Not to bow to a heathen emperor; but to the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

THE MARTIN DRY GOODS COMPANY

"Hey, Mom... it's ALIVE!"

"HELP! HELP! I thought it was a pretty green stone, but when it stuck its neck out, I knew it was alive. It just shows you can't always judge by appearances."

That goes for motor oil, too. When you want quality oil... and who doesn't these days?... it is best to rely on facts and on the good name of the petroleum producer. That way you're sure of getting the genuine article.

You know that Phillips is one of the great independent organizations in the petroleum industry. You know that Phillips has a well earned reputation for giving greater value. So it means something when Phillips makes this simple, straightforward statement: If you want our best oil, remember we specify that Phillips 66 Motor Oil is our finest quality... the highest grade and greatest value... among all the oils we offer to car-owners like yourself.

Because quality oil means so much to car life, remember these facts when a new 1,000-mile mark clicks up on your speedometer, and when you are making the seasonal change.

Sparks Scores Three Times On Matador

Although Allen, Trowbridge, Dudley and Conner had a part in Friday night's ball totting for the Whirlwinds against the Matador Matadors in their practice game at Western field. Quarterback Conner called Sparks for all three touchdowns. On two extra point tries he kicked between the bars and the final score was Floydada 20, Matador 0.

Both squads used straight football throughout, line and end plays with some passing making up practically all of the offensive tactics. Neither team was willing to use any of their deception of tricks they hoped to make play off in their official interscholastic game later in the season.

The first quarter was marked by fumbles on both sides, a bad kick out late in the quarter giving Floydada the ball on Matador's 21-yard line from which the Whirlwinds perked up and scored by way of power through the line.

The second score came in the third quarter, when the extra point was kicked, and the third score, early in the fourth, the game winding up with the ball on the 50-yard line, after a punting duel.

Date Was Open One

The date was an open one for both teams but since both had lost one game from their originally planned schedule, and neither could find an opponent it was agreed to play on the Floydada field, the score to count nothing in interscholastic standing.

Durbin for the Matadors comes back good again this year and Campbell, fullback is a powerful driver and fair kicker. James and Pitts are new men in the backfield starting line. Smallwood and Stephens, ends, and Rushing and Marshall, tackles, showed up good. The boys are coached by E. L. Kelley, who was at Floydada last year. He will have a different appearing team on the field as soon as he has a little time with them in practice.

Considering the hurry-up notice given of the game the crowd was good. Starting line-up:

Pos.	Floydada	Matador
LT-Furrow	Smallwood
LT-Baxter	Rushing
LG-Gray	Garrison
C-Pytle	Willet
RG-Lovell	Mize
RT-Tyler	Marshall
RE-Battery	Stephens
QB-Conner	James
RH-Johnson	Durbin
LH-Allen	Pitts
Full-Sparks	Campbell

Wilson Head, coach of Lockney high served as referee. Mike Davis of Plainview as umpire, and R. E. Campbell, Jr. of Matador as head linesman.

1338 Lbs. Seed Cotton Makes A 480-Lb. Bale

The first bale of cotton from the 1942 crop at Lockney was ginned a week ago last Friday afternoon when Bruce Gentry, who operates a 740-acre farm twelve miles east of town brought in a bale. The Lockney Gin and Elevator handled the bale.

The seed cotton was picked and weighed 1338 pounds turning out a bale of 480 pounds of lint. It was graded strict middling and had 15-16 inch staple.

Mr. Gentry has 98 acres of cotton on this farm and has six or seven bales open now, he says. He is a resident of Lubbock.

A cash award of $37.50 was made up by the Lockney business men and presented Mr. Gentry. Mr. Gentry gave Fred Hall, gin manager a check for the amount and asked that the money be used to buy a War bond.

Students Really Glad Mr. Gray Has Returned

The band students were really glad to see Mr. Gray back. The band has already made several improvements and will soon start on new music. He is going to issue the suits Monday and the rent will be $1.50. The band only played in one public performance before he returned and that was at the first pep rally under the direction of Mrs. McCleskey. They also played at the pep rally Thursday night and at the football game. The band probably will not play for any out of town games as a whole this year, because of the war and its effects. At all home games they will be out there as usual cheering and helping our boys on to victory.

Thursday night at 8 the band and a few students met at the Martin building for a pep rally. They marched to Arwine Drug and gave a few yells. The band played about five minutes, and then they marched to the bonfire. There they yelled for the football boys and the game with Matador.

Mr. Gray, the band teacher, entertained the high school students Wednesday, with his saxophone because of the absence of the ministers of the town who were going to make their announcements concerning the time of their meetings starting.

Sighs, Groans Greet Seniors Pix Proofs

Today as the seniors look at the proofs of their pictures, one hears sighs of relief or groans of disgust. The poses run all the way from dignified and serious to comical. Seniors in the halls are comparing and discussing them.

Of course, each wants to appear at his best when viewed by posterity. A large picture of the entire class will be hung in the lower hall. This custom has been followed since 1935.

E. B. Godon and Betty Lou Bybee, not bad!
Why was Ora Jean Wilson blushing directly after assembly Thursday?
Love, why did you want to know where Donald lived?
Gene Arwine's heart-throb is a guess who? Aria Vee Bishop.
Sweet smiles have been passing between Joseph Looney and Mattie Pearl Patterson. Gee a new romance!

Dorothy Greer and I. C. Kirk have been seen holding hands, Teh, Teh.
Whose silver wings has Claudell been wearing?
Poor George Allen has all the trouble with a girl who lives out about Fairview. Dorothy Jean why don't you do something about it?
So Joy's heart throb is back from Amarillo. Happy, Joy? We should think so anyway.

Isn't it queer that Douglas suddenly loses his bashfulness when he sees Gloria?
Who is in the fifth period study hall that makes Beatrice wish that she was in there?
Why does Mildred Hicks want Shamrock to play football here? Could a certain boy be the reason?
Who was the girl with Ralph Womack last Saturday night? Her face is familiar.

Clara Nell, make up your mind. You have so many boyfriends that they are all wondering who you will choose.
Billie should be happy now. R. T. is back in school.
May Hope, whose ring are you wearing? Couldn't be that soldier's I've been seeing you with, could it?
Betty Jean, you are a two-timer. Is it Joe, Marvin, Billy or R. T.?
Why did Eddie Ruth Muncy want to go to the show Tuesday night? Was it because she knew Johnny was going to be there?

Why does Kay Sparks like English so well? Because Mayel Orman is there?
Maurine, who is your boy friend since Jimmie left? Could it be James?
Two nights straight with the same boy means that you like Bob pretty well, doesn't it Mary Lee?
Neoma Burgett was very happy Monday afternoon. The reason—George has sent her a ring, and it is a beauty, too.

Seems as if W. T. Conner likes Mary Lou Newberry. I wonder if the feeling is returned?
The Morrison-Covington flare has died down. They don't seem to mind though. Johnny is taking Billy's place and Ernestine is taking Jean's place.
Well kids, that's all for now. But next week there will be more.

GNATS
Gnats, we all know about gnats. Those little fugitives from a "broom weed," that take in after you and never give up until you are either driven nuts or until they decide a more delicious flavor has come along.
Gnats are about one twentieth of an inch long. Scientists think after wear little hats on their heads. They have decided that the little knots on their heads are either hats or their brains, and after all anything with a brain as small as that is very light any way. There are several kinds of gnats. There is the brave gnat, the cowardly gnat, and the conservative gnat. The brave gnat is the kind that goes head long into battle (or your ear) without anything but the love of himself. The cowardly gnat is the kind that usually live to be a ripe old parasite. He stays out of trouble and lives a long happy life. The conservative gnat is the kind that lives peaceful until he gets a swig of Vitamin tonic.
Yes, a gnat is a wonderful creature.

Routine Work of Red Cross Is Explained

For the benefit of knitters who have been at work for the Red Cross, the following letter written by Mrs. Lilian J. Smith, administrative assistant, at Saint Louis, Missouri, to Mrs. O. M. Conway, production chairman of the local Red Cross chapter, will answer questions raised by the public:

Knitting of garments for our armed forces began last year when, at the request of the military and naval authorities, it was found that certain types of garments were needed by our boys for special work, like walking guard duty at night in cold climates and for those stationed in outposts like Iceland.

An estimate of the need for a year was arrived at by the War department, submitted to the Office of War Production and after approval, orders were placed with the mills for a portion of the yarn which was needed. From time to time, additional orders were placed for each chapter until they had received the amount they were entitled to, that amount based on the population of the chapter jurisdiction.

Garments are made according to specifications made up by the army and navy and when finished are sent to certain designated warehouses.

While it is true that a soldier's clothing is issued to him by the government when he is inducted into the service, that clothing is suited to an average climate, and no additional garments are provided, since all would not need them. The Red Cross is a resource for these extra garments.

When the soldier reaches his post, the Commanding officer determines what extra garments, if any are needed and how many, and requests them come through the Quartermaster General or the Red Cross Field director. These requests are then sent to the National Organization offices to be filled. In this way all who have a real need for sweaters or other knitted garments receive them.

"Please tell your people that great care is being used to avoid duplication, because the conservation of wool is vitally necessary. If they wish to send a sweater, which will meet army and navy regulations, to one of their own soldiers, it will be quite all right. In that event he naturally would not receive one of the Red Cross garments," Mrs. Smith said.

Leader in the South and 13th in the nation is the rank accorded the University of Texas among the nation's colleges in the number of its graduates to be admitted to the American Institute of Accountants, Dr. J. A. Fitzgerald, dean of the School of Business Administration, has announced.

FULL FEED FOR FULL PROFIT
 With chickens—as with dairy cattle and hogs—it is the full fed unit of production that is likely to be the most profitable. As evidence: U. S. Department of Agriculture poultry investigators at the Beltsville (Md.) Research Center divided a flock of hens that had been on full feed, cutting the ration of one group by 25 percent. Production dropped, of course, but by 50 percent, not 25 percent. The explanation is simple enough. A hen—or cow or pig—requires a certain quantity of feed to keep itself alive and in running order. It is only the food in excess of this that is available for production—eggs, milk, or rapid growth. Cutting the hen's ration by a quarter, cut in half the feed available for conversion into eggs.

With plenty of grain available in the Ever-Normal Granary, the Department is urging full production—and profitable production—by feeding birds and animals full rations. If a flock has been on short rations an increase in feed is likely to be followed by an increase in egg laying—provided the birds are good quality and have inherited the ability to lay. That can be tested in a practical way by increasing the feed and checking on whether the hens lay enough more eggs to pay for the added feed plus a profit.

MORE WORK NEEDED ON LOCKNEY CEMETERY

An announcement was made this week by Mrs. L. M. Honea, secretary of the Lockney cemetery association, that the general cleaning of the cemetery, was continued to meet Monday, October 5.

Fine work was accomplished last week, but more work is badly needed while transportation is available. Mrs. Honea said.

Those who have relatives or friends buried at Lockney are asked to help in this work, either in person or by donations, the announcement stated.
