OPA Official Explains Gas Reductions

"The new rationing order on gasoline, reducing the value of A, B or C coupons from four to three gallons, will not prohibit farmers and ranchers of the Southwest from getting enough gasoline for 'essential' operations." The statement was made by Max McCullough, regional administrator for OPA, in a radio talk Tuesday night. He stated that "consideration" would be given to the fact that driving requirements vary in different sections and different localities.

Order Is Necessary
"Shortage of petroleum, plus military demands for petroleum products has made the new order necessary, especially when military requirements are already in excess of one million barrels a day," McCullough said.

According to the official, the reduction does not extend to the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific regions because there are still sufficient reserves there to permit civilian consumption of gasoline at the present rate, even after the Pacific theatre of war has received the oil that it needs. But these reserves, he said, could not be shipped to the Southwest, Midwest or East because of transportation shortages.

Fears Tire Shortage
"This nation faces, during the next six months, a shortage of tires so serious as to threaten essential civilian transportation unless our driving, nationwide, is held to a minimum," Mr. McCullough, OPA Regional administrator said.

GASOLINE BUSINESS BRISK SATURDAY AND SUNDAY AS SERVICE MEN FILL 'ER UP

Gasoline business was brisk Saturday and Sunday, to put it mildly. Station attendants say that if business were as good every day as it was those two days it would really be nice to be in business. Auto drivers used all the 4-gallon coupons they could for Monday morning they would be 3-gallon coupons.

Average citizen would drive up, have the first four gallons poured, then with measuring eye decide whether to try to stuff another four into the gas buggy's innards.

Generally speaking, local gasoline dealers and OPA officials are of the opinion that for actual needed driving the new rule will not adversely affect business.

S. G. T. CLYDE WRIGHT 'FIT AND WELL,' RED CROSS MAN WRITES MOTHER

Staff Sergeant Clyde Wright, with the American army contingent in England, is "exceedingly fit and well," his mother, Mrs. Mera Wright, is advised in a letter from J. Grant-Forbes, a Red Cross conductor, with headquarters at Hans Crewe club, Knight-bridge, London, S. W. 1.

"I had the pleasure of meeting your son the other day. We spent a happy morning seeing the sights of London. He looks exceedingly fit and well. It certainly appears that army life agrees with him," writes Mr. Grant-Forbes. Continuing he says:

"My only excuse for writing this note is because I know that mothers like to know just how their boys are 'getting along'."

"He is quiet happy and looks forward to the dawn of that day when he can return to his own homeland and those he loves. He sends his love to you and all at home and kindly greetings to all his friends."

FIRST WORD SINCE APRIL RECEIVED BY SHAWNS FROM SANFORD, IN THE NAVY

First word since he was here in April was received this week by the W. A. Shawns from their son, Sanford, in the navy somewhere in the Pacific. In a letter addressed to all members of the family, he says:

"I am having to write you all in one letter for I just have a few of these V mail heads left. "Now don't think I have lost my mind, but I saw two rainbows last night about 1 o'clock. They were so clear that I could almost distinguish the colors."

"I hope you will be able to read this as I am writing it in my bunk. "Mother, you and dad ought to know one of the sailor's family that is on here with me. His name is W. E. Foster. They live at Petersburg or about a mile from Allmon school. He knows the Holmes boys and a lot of people around Sand Hill. So you do and see them you can tell them he is fine."

"Tell everyone hello for me. Best regards to all, Sanford."

ROY E. SMITH HOME

Roy E. Smith, former merchandiser of Lakeview store, but who has been at Garden City, Kansas, in the Army Air forces for more than a year, has returned home after being put on the reserve list and out of active duty.

SHAWNS LEARN THEIR SON DON SERIOUSLY INJURED IN NEW GUINEA FIGHTING

The Tom Shawns have been notified by the War Department that their son, Don, who is in an infantry division in the Southwest Pacific, has been seriously wounded in action.

The telegram telling of their son's wounds was terse and carried no other information. It was received 14 days after he was hurt, and the parents were promised further information as it was possible to communicate with them.

Young Shaw was one of the early volunteers and has been in the Pacific theatre for more than 18 months of the war. He had been in previous encounters without injury, most of his service in the New Guinea campaign. The home folks' most recent letter from the boy had enclosed with it a much-worn Japanese bill, (assumed to be Japanese occupation currency) which Don suggested his daddy "just as well not try to spend."

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Sims and family of Vernon spent from Friday until Monday visiting in the home of W. C. Sims.

PFC. BOBBY E. REASONER WRITES TO PARENTS FROM BRITISH ISLES

(Editor's note: Following is a letter from Pfc. Bobby Elton Reasoner to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reasoner. The letter is the first word from their son in four weeks. In service the past 15 months. Pfc. Reasoner is serving in a bombing squadron).

August 2, 1943.
Dearest Mother, Papa and all—

I will write you a few lines to let you know I am well and doing fine. Hope all of you are the same.

I am somewhere in England. We came over on one of the world's largest ships. The trip was rather pleasant and I didn't even get sick. The country over here is really beautiful and the people over here are really nice to soldiers.

We get paid in English money. It seems kinda funny but I guess I will get used to it. When you answer send me Leonard's address because I have lost it. And white and send him mine.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if the Canadian Polar atmosphere pressure, now far, far receded, would suddenly come to life and decide to take a battle with the warm air from the Gulf of Mexico? And the two get together right over Floyd county? It would be a wonderful thing. Slipping down by way of the Rockies and then across the southern plains the Hudson bay forces could knock a lot of water out of the Gulf coast outfit, and that's what we are in favor of. However, we note to our disappointment, extreme disappointment in fact, that the tarantulas and the giant spiders of the prairie are not concerning themselves whatever. Nary a one have we seen hunting higher ground or building bulwarks against high water; nor for that matter are the prairie dogs indicating any interest. And to be matter of fact, we note that of those who are praying for rain are not banking up their wells against flood waters and some of them have not banked up their cellars to keep the water out of their winter supply of vegetables. Who could expect a real gully-washer, chunk floater, feed saver and sod plowing starter-upper under those circumstances? Quite discouraging, in fact, to the committee in charge on the rain front.

We admit it is true the rats have not left the country and they always leave before the prospect gets too blue. But remember the rats are expecting to eat through more than half of the fall and winter on feed stacks already in the ground from last year's crop and what this lacks of furnishing them they know is going to be hauled out from these irrigated farms and the rats won't even have to go after it. The feed will even be stacked in convenient spots for them. Just move from an old eaten up and rotten stack to a bright, new one is all they will have to do. And to be matter of fact, further, there are going to be many, many pretty fair to good bundles on these dry farms. Most everybody with a sizable field of feed knows where they are going to get feed for their cattle this fall and winter. Some of it may be a bit on the post toasty side, as it were, but it will be feed. About the only man who must worry is the one who has so many cattle he just has to have some leased pasture to see through.

The man who has to sell unfinished cattle is going to have to take some punishment, financially speaking, if he has not done so already. Cattle were too high for awhile, so high in fact that everybody could make a little profit trading around among themselves. Now it has come down to the government and the packers, both seriously interested in holding down, even beating down prices. We wouldn't say they are badly wrong, putting the thing on a matter of general principle and forgetting that a good many fellows in the southwest are getting hurt. But beyond this, after the cattle are out of the hands of the stockman, it appears that a meat famine is in prospect for the big centers this winter and next spring, because the feeders haven't made up their minds yet that there is a settled policy on the part of the people who are going to have the last say. A man might be ever so patriotic and still be unwilling to risk the whim or fancy, apparent or real, of a government policy maker. There are millions more cattle in the country than ever before in recn history. Many of these need to be sold and go into feed pens. How much should be paid for them, is feed going to be available to finish them? These are questions the man will ask himself before he takes on a winter job of feeding.

The Third War Loan drive is right around the corner. Sometime in September, the ninth to be exact, the big push will start. Subscriptions actually made within that period only will count toward the goal. To raise the big amount allocated all the available sources of loose money are going to have to be tapped. Many funds available last April are not any longer. Neighbors are going to have to talk with neighbors and find ways to plank down previously undiscovered. Some of our people are unaware that a war is on save for its inconvenience and others are not awake to the fact that their money is the money that the government is trying to talk into being spent for government securities. Incidentally, some people who are putting all they possibly can into war bonds are getting credit for not doing so. Bear down as hard as you want to but be careful not to make false witness against thy neighbor. Your face might be ever so red when the truth

That OPA is doing a pretty fair job of holding prices down, whether they are doing it to suit everybody or not, is indicated by a comparison or contrast between prices now and in the second year of the first World War of first grade bacon sliced. The difference is about 18 cents per pound—cheaper now than then. A few things at retail have gotten away from the war price making agency, things which the board may have felt were unnecessary to attempt to control, but by and large the foods that stick to your ribs continue to be more reasonably priced than the man's wages whose labor he sells.

If you filed an income tax report for last year you will be receiving soon, or have already received a communication from the Collector of Internal revenue at Dallas. This letter or notice will be for the purpose of instructing you on filing a declaration of your estimated income and victory taxes for the year 1943. It will be a headache in a way but probably not the impossible job it appears to be. You fill out the blanks, correctly answering the questions and you have it, regardless of what you may think otherwise about the matter. The highly necessary thing is that you have proper knowledge of your financial affairs, a thing many of us sadly neglect. We think we have about so much of this and that, we think we owe about so much. Also we think the expense bills have been about so and so. It is a Texas habit we will have to get out of because this tax business is here to stay. A story in this issue of The Hesperian gives a smattering at least of what is expected of you during the month of September.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

By Nellie Witt Spikes

Still no rain, yet each night the clouds hang low across the distant horizon and the lightning licks out long silver tongues and the thunder grows like angry dogs, then all disappear and the stars shine forth in beauty and splendor as if trying to make amends for the heavens that give no rain. Wilda and I sleep outside these warm nights and watch for the rain that somehow fails to come. At times our eyes are almost blinded by the quick flashing of a falling star, that leaves a trail of fire behind its mad flight into oblivion. We see Job's coffin, count over and over the seven brilliant stars in the big dipper, figure out designs here and there of our own pleasing, wonder about the milky way, taking a vacation in our own yard but up among the stars—travelling on beams of light—resting our tired bodies and minds with the glories of the night, the sunned bed, the cool winds of the night, the reassurance that all will be right again. Truly, "The Heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament sheweth His handiwork."

Corn on the cob, off the cob, or anyway is on the tables these days. But best of all I like to make bread of the fresh corn. Use corn after it has left the roasting stage till it gets almost too hard to cut off the cob and then grind in sausage mill. To two cups of the ground corn, add two cups of sour milk, one teaspoon of salt and one of soda, then bake till brown in a greased pan. Our grandmothers grated the corn and called the bread, grated bread, but grinding is much quicker and easier.

"Roasted Vienna sausage tastes good. My son writes from England. Most of the men do not like Vienna sausage but I still do. Perhaps I still get the thrill of going to town and having Vienna sausage and crackers in the back of a store. Remember how the strips of tin on the key used to run out and there wasn't a can opener available." Yes, I do remember. We went to Floydada in the Spaulding hack, dressed in our best for the day, leaving home bright and early, getting there tired and hungry, eating a lunch in the back of O. B. Olson's store. Then when we got the new car, you children wanted the Vienna sausage to eat on the road home, not wanting dad or I to open it. Of course this time you would not let the tin run out before the can was cut. Dad would take his pocket knife, getting the juice over his clothes, then I would get all stirred up. Yes, son, you still like Vienna sausage, but I understand the memories are the best part.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hambricht, of Alvin, Texas, arrived the first of the week from Alvin, Texas, for a visit of several days with relatives here. Mr. Hambricht has been employed in the Gulf coast area for the past three years.

Miss Ruth Collins has resumed her duties at West Texas Gas company as bookkeeper for the Floydada district, after a vacation spent in New York City, a guest in the home of her brother, Lieut. and Mrs. Leon L. Collins.

Cadet John Farris of the San Antonio cadet center came Saturday for a visit with his mother, Mrs. John N. Farris.

Ralph Zachery of Dumas spent the week end here with his wife and children.

L. B. Harris, Jr., who volunteered for service in the U. S. Navy last week, was accepted and has been forwarded to a navy base for basic training and indoctrination. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Harris.

Misses Ruby Norton and Sada Miller, who have been spending the summer at Buena Park, California arrived home Thursday prior to taking up their duties as teachers in the Floydada Public school.

No Workdays Off (till that After-War Car Trip)

Women must work so that we all may win...and have the boys coming home all the sooner. Not long after that, you may wager, plenty of re-united American families will be reviving the great American sport of taking a trip in the car.

What car? Not even the last pre-war models could be duplicated instantly, and the auto industry will outdo those—all of which will take time. You'll find it hard to wait. But how easily you can give your present much-needed car a great opportunity to outlive the Axis.

First...now...shield your engine from acid. This unavoidable product of combustion was formerly rather safely expelled in regular driving, at normal speed and heat. But your semi-occasional, slow, short drives nowadays barely heat the engine. Chemists know that this invites strongest acid attacks, yet engines OIL-PLATED by Conoco Nth motor oil have proved able to resist remarkably, and you can see why.

In patented Conoco Nth motor oil, a synthetic of apparently "magnet-like" energy joins lubricant closely to inner engine surfaces, as if to stay—like any familiar plating. In not all draining down to the crankcase, even at a standstill, the OIL-PLATING "walls off" the inner surfaces from the hungry acid. And so you'll have a good car that much longer...by OIL-PLATING...with Conoco Nth...at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

Our Children In Wartime

Every youngster is in this war... every classroom is a proving ground... every parent, every teacher is in the frontline on the home front.

Children are hoarding their ice-cream pennies, working after school, searching out salvage, acting as junior wardens, Red Cross aides, serving willingly and well in countless other ways.

Every home, every school, every American institution must join forces now to help prepare our young people to face a world without parallel in complexity. The retail stores of the nation face this need as an opportunity and a privilege... and pledge ourselves to serve the new generation, and the older, too, to the best of our ingenuity and our ability.

September 1 Deadline On Old Style B Gasoline Books, And C Coupons In Book Form

Motorists are again reminded that a material change is coming up quickly on the manner of issuing B and C gasoline coupons as well as the 100-gallon bulk coupons, with September 1 the deadline announced in the gasoline panel of the local War Price and Rationing board.

According to the information given out, coupons from old style B books will not be honored at service stations September 1, nor will C coupons which are in book form (still good in sheet form), and in addition the 100-gallon bulk gasoline coupons will be null and void on the same date.

In case you have the old style B and C coupons it is necessary to make applications for their renewal. Bulk coupons will need to be turned in and the holder is required to make application for six months needs in advance.

Court Waits But No Citizens At Budget Hearing

On the date for the advertised public hearing on the county's budget for the year of 1943, the commissioners court waited in vain for some citizen or citizens to appear and make criticisms or suggestions in regard to any of the proposed expenditures.

Preparation of the budget and the public hearing on the same is a procedure required by law of the Commissioners' courts of the 234 counties in the state. It is intended to give citizens a chance to do their "hollering" before taxpaying time.

Formal action on a tax rate based on the budget will be taken at the September regular term of court.

Aged Organizing To Look After Their Rights

Pushing the organization of the Old Age federation on a district-wide basis is the expressed goal of members who met at the Odd Fellow hall in Floydada last Saturday afternoon.

Hearing reports on activities down-state and in neighboring counties encouraged the members present at the meeting to believe that the federation can be carried to completion on a state-wide basis and that the organized voice of those on the assistance rolls can be made an effective means of getting their needs before the public.

H. P. Puckett, of Lockney, was among those who urged the members to raise funds to help carry on organization in this area.

Judge Tom W. Deen among others, also spoke to the group.

Bandage Makers For Red Cross On 'Vacation'

Scores of Floydada and Floyd county women who work in the Red Cross bandage making rooms in the Duncan building, southeast corner of the square, are taking a "vacation" this week before receiving materials and quotas for a new period beginning September 1.

By crossing their work and doing some overtime last week the workers finished their August task a week ahead of time to make the week's rest period, rather badly needed in some homes, to make ready for school.

With crews operating daily except Saturday and two nights a week as well, the Red Cross volunteers here have made up many thousands of bandages under the supervision of the Red Cross. Additional volunteers are needed for some of the days in the week, when work is resumed in September.

Dr. Turner Will Preach During M. E. Revival

Rev. Phil L. Gates, pastor of the First Methodist church announced today that the annual revival of that church would begin Sunday and continue for two weeks commencing Sunday, September 12. Services will be held each morning at 10 o'clock and evening at 8:45.

Rev. Mr. Gates has secured the services of Dr. Frank L. Turner, general evangelist of the Methodist church and whose home is in Fort Worth, as the preacher and Bob Watkins of Hedley, well known evangelist and young people's worker, who will lead the song services and direct the young people's work.

For 15 years Dr. Turner was a successful pastor in the Central Texas conference where he held pastorates at Hamilton, Fort Worth, C. S. and Elgin. While engaged in the pastorate, he made an enviable record as a church builder and pastor-evangelist, having conducted more than fifty revivals over Texas with hundreds of conversions and additions to the church.

For four years Dr. Turner was president of McMurry college at Abilene and while at McMurry he secured the college of its entire indebtedness and made some $30,000 worth of improvement to the plant and property, all of which was paid for.

Last September, 1942, he resigned this place at McMurry to enter the field of evangelism, to which work he is giving all his time. He comes to us from Muleshoe where he conducted his 15th revival since entering this work.

Bob Watkins is well known in Floydada, having been here some two or three times before, and the pastor has had him a number of times in other meetings. We invite you to attend these services, and pray for the meeting, the pastor urges.

CLOSE UP FOR VACATION. BUTLE NUMEROUS SHOPS FOLLOWING THIS YEAR

Many operators of personal service shops, including laundries, cleaning establishments and cafes, are finding the only way to take a vacation this year of short-handed operations, is to close up shop and take a rest.

Carroll D. Hopkins, owner and manager of a cleaning establishment at Stamford, is among those who found the new way the only way to get a rest. Said Hopkins, who was here for a brief visit with his sister, Mrs. Jack Henry and family.

"A hand or two out this year leaves a place so short-handed that those who are left to keep the place open are out on their feet when the vacationists get back, and by the time everybody has had a vacation the whole crew is worked down. Just close up shop and all hands take a rest at the same time, was the only way I could figure it out at our place."

Mr. Hopkins before his return to Stamford also will spend a short time at Miami, with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Hopkins.

R. O. Daniel and son of Lubbock visited friends here Friday. Mr. Daniel and his family are former residents of Floydada.

"Old Tens and Old Hens Will Make Good Eats For Our Fighting Men"

The army has pledged that all of our armed forces overseas will have turkey for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year. About ten million pounds are needed for this purpose.

The army needs two million pounds now and has made an urgent request that all turkeys available be listed for processing.

If you are a turkey producer will you send to the county agriculture agent's office the number of turkeys you can sell by September 1; and how many you will have for sale later.

It's a real opportunity for turkey producers to provide our armed forces with the traditional holiday meat. If anyone deserves turkey on Thanksgiving it is our fighting forces. We must not let them down, and we won't... they sacrifice their lives... we sacrifice our turkeys.

Unless a farmer is certain that planting seed for certain small grains is free from smut infection it should be thoroughly cleaned and treated before planting.

Ten years ago Texas winter grains suffered heavily from smuts. But as the result of seed treatment during the past few years only comparatively small amount now grades smutty. This does not mean that the disease has been eradicated and that seed treatment safely may be discontinued. If some spores are present and the seed is not treated there might, under favorable conditions, be a serious outbreak.

The fungus which affects wheat is called "stinking" smut because it changes the inside of the young kernels into black mass of spores which have an offensive odor. Chemical treatment consists of cleaning the wheat by fanning or otherwise to remove the smut balls and treating the seed either with two ounces per bushel of fifty per cent copper carbonate, or one-half ounce per bushel of ethyl mercury phosphate called "improved" ceresan. Many growers prefer ceresan because it doesn't clog the grain drill.

A homemade treating machine may be constructed from an oil drum with a tight fitting lid and a pipe extending through it for an axis on which it may be revolved.

Barley and oats smut may be controlled by treating the seed with one-half ounce per bushel of improved ceresan. Another satisfactory treatment is a mixture of one pint of commercial formaldehyde and ten gallons of water. Sprinkle the mixture uniformly over forty to fifty bushels of seed while it is being shoveled from one pile to another on a clean floor or tight wagon box.

Conservation District News

Bernard E. Harris of Alken community is so well pleased with the work of the district's engineering crew, who recently re-designed his irrigation system, that he has made application for assistance on another farm he is operating in the Lone Star community.

D. D. Tate of the Pleasant Valley area recently made application to the district for assistance in laying out irrigation ditches and laterals and in locating the proper site for a well that he plans to drill in the near future. He says he has tried to irrigate from adjoining wells without success and wants his own if the survey indicates its practicality.

Alan Smith, a Crosby county resident and a Floyd county district cooper, recently stated that his contoured cotton and feed was still standing up well in spite of the dry weather, whereas straight row crops in his community were burning up.

Watch this column each week for comments of Floyd county farmers.

RCAF CARRIES THE WAR 'ROUND THE WORLD

YOUNG Canadians wearing the badge of the Royal Canadian Air Force are flying and fighting in most of the theatres of war around the world. The roundels on the map above show the amazing distribution of R.C.A.F. personnel. Those on the map of Canada mark the training and operational command headquarters. Squadrons and other formations of the R.C.A.F. are located in the United Kingdom, the Middle East and in Ceylon. At other indicated points, large numbers of officers and men of the R.C.A.F. are serving with R.A.F. units. In Alaska formations of the R.C.A.F. are serving with the United States Army Air Forces.

An American-built Consolidated "Catalina" flying boat undergoing repairs at a picturesque R.C.A.F. base in Ceylon, India. (Above) This map shows the far-flung points in the world where Royal Canadian Air Force personnel are located.

Spring of 1943 was a period of hammer blows, smashing out of the air to cripple the Nazi war economy. By day and by night centres of Axis industry and transportation felt the strength of growing United Nations air power. German war plants are being transferred to the east and to the south in an effort to escape beyond the range of the Lancasters and Halifaxes.

Planes of the R.C.A.F. bomber group participated in the largest night operation of the year when more than 600 bomber aircraft struck at Pilsen in Czechoslovakia and Mannheim and Ludwigshafen in Germany. It was good bombing weather, and the attack had a devastating effect on two of the enemy's largest and most important armament centres.

There are about 38 R.C.A.F. squadrons serving in the United Kingdom and elsewhere.

A majority of R.C.A.F. personnel overseas is serving with R.A.F. squadrons. R.A.F. units in every part of the world include Canadian personnel. Canadians make up one quarter of the "Flying Garrison" of Malta. The 1,000th Axis aircraft destroyed by a Malta-based plane was shot down on April 25 by Squadron Leader John Lynch of Alhambra, Calif., a U. S.-born R.C.A.F. flier.

About 2,000 Canadian airmen are taking part in the air battles over the deserts of the Middle East. In a fierce air combat over Tunisia on April 20, Sergeant Michael Askey of Winnipeg, a 20-year-old R.C.A.F. pilot shot down three enemy aircraft. Flight Lieutenant James Francis Edwards, 21, has destroyed 10 enemy aircraft over the Tunisian desert.

R.C.A.F. reconnaissance squadrons continue their fight against submarines along the Canadian coast. On April 26 Canadians carried out two of the 13 attacks on Kiska in the Aleutians, a U.S. Navy Department communique stated.

OLD GLORY WAVES ON SICILIAN COAST—This U. S. Signal Corps photograph, received by radio, depicts exciting scenes on the beaches when American troops landed from invasion barges on the southern shore of Sicily. Within a few hours the soldiers of Lieut. Gen. George Patton's American 7th Army and their British and Canadian allies firmly established themselves with adequate equipment and pushed aggressively toward the interior of the island.

Checking Aluminum "Blades of War"

Careful inspection guarantees the quality of Chevrolet-produced war goods. Here a skilled metal worker makes the final inspection of aluminum propeller blade forgings, produced in a Michigan forge plant whose output, added to that of other Chevrolet aluminum forge units, makes this General Motors division one of the nation's major suppliers of aluminum aircraft forgings. This workman determines dead center in each blade, and measures to be certain that sufficient stock is included to allow for all machining operations.

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

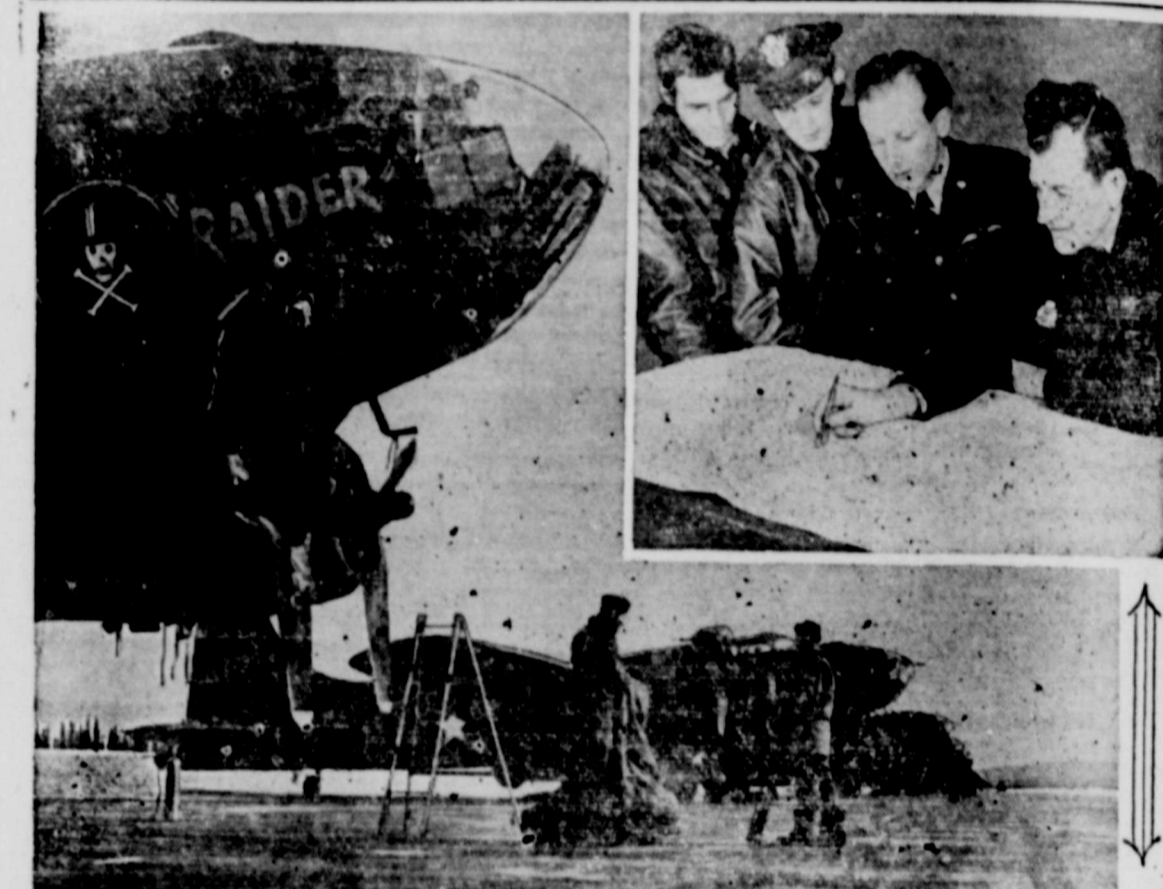

When Richard Breckenridge's submarine made a hurried dash off Japan, a hatch jammed, but he ignored the order to abandon the rapidly flooding conning tower and remained behind, desperately trying to fasten it. By succeeding, he saved vital equipment for his submarine and became the first enlisted man in the submarine service to win the Navy Cross. He was willing to give his life. READY FOR THE HOP TO BRITAIN

THE Canadian-built and Canadian-guarded outpost at Goose Bay, Labrador, is one of the world's largest and most important air bases. From this vital field, the Royal Canadian Air Force, with the cooperation of the United Nations Air Forces, deliver the necessary ships to embattled Britain. While these "Flying Forts" are being serviced, as shown above, previous to their take-off, Canadian soldiers carefully stand guard by them. Before leaving, inset, pilots get their last-minute instructions from Captain Cardiff of Los Angeles, California, who has well over 10,000 flying hours and several trips across the Atlantic to his credit.

M. N. Langley, Once With Floyd Co. Soil Conservation District, Writes From Southwest Pacific

(Ed. Note: Well over a year ago Maurice N. Langley quit his job with the Floyd County Soil Conservation District and joined USNR as an ensign. He is now a lieutenant and has been much active service in the southwest. A letter to Captain Travis P. Collins of Texas State Guard dated August 6, 20 days ago, relates Langley's story of his activities since leaving Floydada in the language below. Since he is no longer known over the county the story carries more interest.)

Immediately after receiving my commission I was sent to Dartmouth college, where I took courses in seamanship, navigation, naval law, naval ordnance, naval history, ship construction, etc. We made quite a few trips to Boston shipyards where we could watch ships under construction and repair.

Following Dartmouth I went to Washington, D. C. for a week, then on down to Norfolk, Va., to the naval air station where I entered duty in one of the new secret branches of the navy.

Spent some time there on the carrier Ranger, as well as several small converted carriers. Fourteen of us from the air station were then selected to go to Orlando, Florida, to the Army Air Force school of Applied tactics, and get the army sient on our work. My family had joined me in Norfolk, so I enjoyed a couple of months vacation in Florida, where we had a large six-room house and a backyard with lemons, oranges, grapefruit, tangerines and avocados. Great place for a winter vacation!

Thence Across The Continent
Following my studies at Orlando, we drove across the U. S. to Whittier, California, where my family settled down while I reported at the advance base depot in Hueneine, California (60 miles west of L. A.) It was from here that I left the states early this year.

Spent a little time in New Caledonia, then came on up to Guadalcanal. I was at Henderson field and saw plenty of action. On the day of the big raid when we shot down 77 Jap planes, I wasn't on regular duty, but was over at a photo laboratory developing some film. In an effort to save the film I stayed in the lab a little long, when I should have been in a foxhole. A Zero sweep of strafing missed me by about fifty feet. One of my best friends accounted for four Jap planes that day.

You probably read of the pilot whose foot was cut off when a Jap tried to ram him while he was floating down in a parachute, also of the pilot who bailed out at 2,000 feet and his big parachute didn't open, yet he lived to tell the story. Both lived in the quarters next to ours at Henderson and are out of the hospital. The first will have a wooden foot and be able to fly a civilian plane o. k. The latter is back in combat.

First Bombing Experience
My field experience in bombings came on board ship before we reached the Canal. Two bombers came over and dropped their eggs for our convoy. The first bomb hit about 50 yards off our port bow, while two more landed about 100 yards astern. Our sister ship took a strangle of their bombs without suffering damage.

The first night ashore on Guadalcanal we had a two- or three-plane raid and I saw my first bomber shot out of the sky. Down there we could figure on two or three raids a week during full moon and practically none during the dark of the moon. During the dark periods we get rain nearly every day and every night which also helps to discourage the Japs.

Food and living conditions at Henderson were very good. We lived in Quanset huts with the pilots, and ate at their mess. Everything had to be under lock and key to keep the rats from running off with it, but one soon got used to that.

First Personal Combat
In this last move I experienced my first personal combat. As it was essential that my unit get ashore as early as possible and get to operating as soon as possible I came ashore in landing barge No. 1 off our liner transport. We were to have a beach head cleared 20 minutes ahead of us, but due to a minor slip-up in locations the clearing troops landed about a mile up the beach from us. Due to coral and sand bars we could approach to only about 200 feet from the shore. Just as we started swinging over the bow of our barge into about three feet of water we heard the snarl that only a Jap 25-calibre can make. With bullets zinging over our heads and a 70-pound pack on our backs, we rushed the shore line and threw ourselves into the ferns that bordered the beach. Within an hour we were in complete control although still heckled by snipers.

For the first five days (nights) we slept in foxholes, usually with four or five inches of water, since it rained day and night. At night anything that moved above the ground level wot the works. Several funny things happened such as possums moving up in the tops of coconut trees and being mistaken for snipers. However, the occasion that topped them all occurred about 2 a. m. one morning. A large herd of wild brahma cattle wandered down into the camp area. It was pitch black and all you could hear was the movement through the ferns. Everyone started shooting and throwing hand grenades and didn't stop until all noise had ceased. What a mess we found next morning! Took a whale of a working party to bury that bunch before they started to decompose.

We are now living in tents and sleeping in mosquito barred cots. We get two hot meals a day. However, still eat out of our mess gear. Even that seems good after these first six days on K and D emergency rations. We bathe and wash clothes in the river about a half mile from here. That is deluxe, after 11 days without even having our shoes or clothes off. The insects are quite a problem, too. Mosquitoes aren't bad but the flies continue to get worse. The ants and lizards insist on living quarters in my cot, while the centipedes crawl around everywhere. Regardless of all this, we soon get used to life out here and time passes quickly. I'm very glad to have had this chance to help out here!

In a postscript Langley said that the forces where he is located get from two to six raids per night, designed largely to keep them awake. "Large daylight raids occur a couple of times a week, but don't have much luck getting through. It is amazing how many planes our boys shoot down, and how low they keep their own losses. These boys are tops with me both as pilots and men!" His letter was addressed from the Southwest Pacific.

"LITTLE EDWARD HAS DUG HIMSELF HOLE," TELLS MOTHER, "DON'T WORRY"
Mrs. M. P. Bosley recently received a letter from her son, S 1/c Edward Kilpatrick who is located somewhere in the southwest Pacific war zone.

Quoting from the letter, Seaman Kilpatrick told his mother, "We were recently initiated with a few Jap eggs but don't you worry mother, everything is looking good and Little Edward has dug himself a hole and I've done struck water."

The youth has been in service since November 10, 1942. The letter also stated he was well and feeling fine.

Half Minute Interviews
J. N. Redd: "I saw the monuments to the four presidents in the Dakota Black Hills recently. They are near Custer, a little city named for the famous Indian fighter massacred at Little Big Horn."

Skeet Thornton: "I planted my feed altogether too thick while there was lots of moisture. Now I wish I hadn't."

Ruth Collins: "I went as fast as I could while I was in New York—three symphonies, Helen Hayes, The Student Prince, a boat ride and everything. It was a grand vacation."

PIONEER RESIDENT MAKES VISIT TO FLOYDADA AFTER LAPSE OF FORTY YEARS

Mrs. Forrest McKenzie, of Mangum, Oklahoma, in company with her husband, was a visitor in Floydada for a brief time last mid-week and while here sought out a few friends whom she had known as a child here in the period from 1900 to 1902.

She is a daughter of Mrs. Jim Molloy her father being a blacksmith and operating a shop on approximately the northeast corner of the square in Floydada during the time he was here. He was one of the prime movers behind the building of the first church in Floydada, the Methodist church on North Main street, used for years by all denominations represented locally and by missionaries of other faiths.

Mrs. McKenzie said the family, after leaving Floydada, went further west into Cochran county and there pioneered on school land when all of that section of country was held by large cattle ranchers. The Molloyes were practically the first settlers in a wide area there, as Mrs. McKenzie recalls the circumstances. One of Mrs. McKenzie's cousins who remained in Floydada for some years after the Jim Molloy's left, built the first gin here, it is said.

From Cochran the Molloyes moved to Mangum, Oklahoma, where her father died in 1912. Her mother still lives at Mangum. Mrs. McKenzie's husband is interested in the cotton industry.

Mrs. Chleo Armstrong a student of Oklahoma City Business college, came this week end for a ten day vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Armstrong. Mr. Armstrong is chief engineer of the City Light & Power plant here, recently employed by the city to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Burl Holt.

Mrs. A. F. Norton returned home last week end from Owens where she has been spending the summer in the home of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Oldham and little daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cogdell, of Lone Wolf, Oklahoma, were visitors for a short time in Floydada last week, guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hilton. Mrs. Cogdell is an aunt of Mr. Hilton.

J. N. Redd returned last week from South Dakota where he had been for some weeks trucking. He had followed the wheat harvest northward from this section.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cogdell, of Lone Wolf, Oklahoma, were visitors for a short time in Floydada last week, guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hilton. Mrs. Cogdell is an aunt of Mr. Hilton.
