A sizeable request that is to Floyd County people to raise more than $5 thousand for the USO and the 16 associated efforts during the War Fund period now on and ending sometime in November. But when it is considered that the whole 17 efforts to care for our service men, outside of their military and Red Cross needs, as well as for all the other worthy things we are usually asked to help with—when it is considered that all of these are included in the pot, and that we are having one drive instead of 17, treading in ranks as it were, one on the heels of the other, it makes the amount look much smaller. "Sure, I'll take a Texan's share" is the slogan in Texas counties for the push. Many have helped and many others are to be asked to help. The principal problem of those who are trying to promote the thing is that of acquainting the people with the set-up. A good many people have heard from their boys or from their friends in war-torn areas and they know and they are helping. It is to the others, who do not know, and who must be sold on the idea, that the facts of the matter need to be unfolded. And that takes time from one's own job and a considerable sacrifice in prospect for the committeemen.

Here are the names of the 17 agencies which will share in the funds raised: USO, United Seaman's service, War Prisoners ad; United Nations relief, which includes Belgian War Relief society, British War Relief society, French Relief fund, Greek War Relief association, Norwegian relief, Polish War relief, Queen Wilhelmina fund, Russian War relief, United China relief, United Czechoslovak Relief fund, United Yugoslav Relief fund, Friends of Luxembourg, Inc., Refugee relief, which includes Refugee Relief trustees and in the United States committee for the Care of European children. Division of the money collected among the participating agencies will be determined by the board of directors of the National War fund with the aid of the president's war relief control committee. Thus you will note that there is to be some general supervision to keep the public from being imposed upon. In fact, the decision to make the campaign all at one time came as a result of an effort to avoid much unnecessary soliciting, conserve time, and protect the public against self-seeking organizations which might undertake collection for their own gain in the name of patriotism. It appears that there is practically no possibility of scandal or waste in connection with the set-up. Since USO is the organization that comes closest to our own home through our service boys and girls, it is the one you'll hear the most about. USO seems to have made a hit with the service people, especially with enlisted personnel, far from home and oft-times lonesome.

One notes with interest the recent reports of the American Bankers association at which note was taken in several speeches of the continued backing by the government of agencies in competition with the banks in their lending departments. Supervised and told what to do and how to do it by the controller, the country banks have felt the brunt of the competition, especially as money has gotten to be easier and good places to put money to work harder to find. The big banks, it appears, now have taken up the issue, maintaining that the government is out of line when it gets into competition with private enterprise. The big banks are the people who have financed the throat cutting of the small banks. Lending the government money at one per cent and less to put out into the producing areas at five per cent and less when country banks had to have much more than that for their money to do business. What the outcome of the hue and cry will be one could hardly guess for sure. The big banks, if really sincere in wanting the government out of the private lending business can put a lot of weight behind their arguments. On the other hand, one wonders if producers who have had a taste of money at a price they can afford to pay for it, are going to let go without putting up a stiff fight. To meet the situation many banks are putting on "service charges" of one kind and another and if these meet with continued and wide-spread acquiescence from the public, perhaps the fight against federally-sponsored agencies in the lending business may not grow into the proportions that it might otherwise.

Back at home the folks are beginning to get the news that the boys in the service across the seas are not particularly happy to have the Italians, wearing medals for pot shots they took at American and British men only a few weeks ago, now taking the side of the Allies since the latter have the upper hand in Italy, talking in terms of "us" and "we." The Italian government and the Italian people have had a chance since 1939 to be idolized in the eyes of the world, a chance which they have completely muffed. Americans and British now in Italy and in the Mediterranean are fighting a grim war, when they might have been at home peacefully about their own affairs, all on account of a people who permitted such men as Mussolini to take over their affairs and help plunge the world into slaughter, are not going to get very enthusiastic about their new brothers-in-arms. Disgust and distrust are good words to use in this connection.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

By Nellie Witt Spikes

Without much warning the first frost of the fall slipped up the morning of the sixteenth, blackening the tops of the tomato vines and green leaves and fodder now hanging from a stiff stalk it has been so dry there was not so much green left to be killed and to be grieved over. Cotton farmers will find it an relief to get cotton leaves out of the way. Feed hay made or turned up. As the new maize does not fall after frost very much, no particular harm has been done by an early frost.

Joe Ellis blew out five candles on his birthday cake Saturday, the 16th. He said he was so glad to be five years old as he would not now be afraid of the fighting rooster. He has given us much joy in the five years we have had him to love and watch grow—all too soon, however for us.

Do you ever sigh for the good old days of the middy blouse? Whether tall or short, thick or thin, young or old, we rolled up the bottom of those white blouses at the top of a long wool-skirt pinned them close to each side, tied on a gay bow of red or blue or black and felt ready for sport occasions. How hard they were to wash and iron droopy if not enough starch, hard as a plank with too much.

It seems as if every one in the house has an errand to do in a room you have just mopped clean.

Our time was once divided in days but now since Margaret Nell is with us it is divided in hours minutes and seconds. How slow the clock hands creep in last half hour before feeding time and we try to close our ears to the begging cry she has learned. Poem of the week: Piney Woods Cure by Evantha Caldwell. Mommy got puny like she had a bad liver. And wouldn't eat anything we had to give her. Pap called the doctor to make high sure. Mommy wasn't running a temperature. The doctor told us "Your ma is all right. But her fet and her back and the top of her head. Shoes and a dress and a pretty new hat."

We have been looking at pictures of various schools I attended at Emma. I look at myself as if looking at a stranger and wonder what filled my mind at that particular moment. The first one, my first school, the younger children were toiling a rope on the ground. I am looking down, probably scared that teacher would not like it if my bare toes did not actually just touch the line. I pick out each face in the group, wonder where some are now. Teachers stand at the ends from the group taking time to look to the photographer just in time to get the picture. In another picture I am growing up probably worried about algebra and thinking about the boys I suppose. Wondering if the boy I liked best had my name written in his book or perhaps my initials N. W. carved on his desk. Then the last picture I do not find myself with the grown girls with the high pompadours the high stiff collars and the beribboned back hair. I was some ten miles out in the country teaching school my long skirts sweeping the town ball ground as I vainly tried to hit the swift rubber ball from the pitchers stand. I was all at the age of sixteen and had had a dozen or so pupils who I expect taught me more than I did them. It brings to me the night we put on plays at the school house or the night at the courthouse when I was the famed Joan of Arc and burned by enemies at the stake. While I looked heavenward a woman fainted and had to be carried out much to my disappointment in not seeing that fine effect. Then the same night I was the wife of the drunkard in Ten Nights in a Barroom and if you did not think my husband Walter Davies was realistic in his delirium tremens. And my poor little daughter whose head caught the bottle of red ink and looked so much like blood no one knew the difference. And after all that I was the wife in a song where the man's family demanded more and more and of course I needed money. Now looking back it seems that I should have made an actress or maybe not if you were there and heard the program.

Conservation District News

All farmers who have constructed terraces this past year are requested to report them to the A. A. office before December 1st, 1943. Any uncompleted terraces now under construction or planned, must also be completed and declared to that office by that date.

During the period from January 1 to June 1, 1943, district technicians have planned and redesigned irrigation systems on 44 farms from a resultant saving of 2766 man days of labor, which the supervisors point out, is quite an item in the light of present labor conditions, not to mention fuel and water saved.

After all the "fussing" Olan Bryant of Starkey did last spring about the terraces causing his plantings to be stuck out of his neck last week, he said the terraced land was combining about a third more bushels of corn per acre than his unterraced land. More accurate figures on this later when we can get some still long enough to get some accurate figures on comparative yields.

Floyd county farm boys who went off to war left heroes behind. These are their teen-age brothers... 4-H club members who took up the job of planting and harvesting the vast food, feed and fiber crops required to assure victory for their fighting brothers. This in addition to their 4-H demonstrations.

These young men adopted the slogan at the beginning of the year, "I'll try to feed and clothe a fighter and myself." Early reports reaching the county agent's office indicate these boys not only are producing the equivalent of the annual food budget for one fighter, but their production will feed more than one.

In addition to the food they are producing they are buying War bonds, collecting scrap metal and performing extra jobs on the farm. All of these jobs contribute to winning the war.

Fall is the time to catch up on any letdown in the care of the poultry flock. Houses which may have been neglected in the rush of late summer work should be thoroughly cleaned and sprayed with a good fly repellent. A mixture of one part carbolineum and four to five parts kerosene is effective for small vermin and a help in repelling flies and mosquitoes. Another good mixture is one part crude carbolic to five parts kerosene.

Dusting with sodium fluoride is effective for hens infested with lice and scattering some of it where they dust themselves is a further help in this important clean up job. Where infestation is severe dusting sulphur in nests and on floors give good results.

The feed situation is perhaps the poultryman's biggest problem, and to solve that most effectively, careful culling of flocks should be done immediately. There is a waste in feeding roosters, unless a good breeding program is being followed, old hens and layers which have fallen below profitable production.

Green feed is one of the important elements in the health and production of a laying flock. Abundant green feed or good alfalfa hay furnishes vitamin A which promotes growth and good health and keeps the hens on the job of producing essential food.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Henry of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Henry Jr. and daughter, Nancy Ann of Chicago, Illinois, visited friends and relatives Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Felt Patterson and daughter have gone to Los Angeles for a two week vacation.

Mrs. Bobby Harris is visiting her sister Mrs. Lacy Martin at Ralls this week.

Mrs. W. H. Hilton is visiting in Plainview this week.

Relatives Meet

in Get-Together At Woodson Home

About 70 people attended the joint program and exhibit sponsored by the Home Demonstration clubs and Garden club Saturday afternoon in the Southwestern Public Service building.

The program included colored pictures of Carlsbad cavern, flowers and a reel, "Food Sabotage." Mrs. B. K. Barker gave a demonstration on flower arrangement. Mrs. Geo. Stiles discussed quality vegetables. Mrs. Clyde Bagwell gave characteristics of good preserves and Mrs. A. H. Kreis discussed the best method of making jelly.

How much are you feeding your "garbage pail?" Well, last year a survey showed that the waste of food per person in this county probably averaged around 235 pounds per year. That's shameful and unpatriotic.

There's a limit to the amount of food we can produce, but we can cut down on that huge waste. Cutting down waste amounts to the same thing as producing more food. And often it's much easier, says Hazel Phipps, food preparation specialist for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

One way to save more food is by proper preparation and cooking. You can cut your peeling thinner or cook vegetables with the peeling on. You can save the good outer leaves of cabbage and lettuce. You can use beet tops and other root vegetable tops which often are more nutritious than the bottoms!

Yes, there are lots of ways to starve your garbage can, Miss Phipps says. Be sure you thoroughly scrape batters and dough out of mixing bowls. And watch carefully to see that food doesn't burn. A great deal of food is lost that way. Poor cooking and tasteless, monotonous meals are the reason lots of food is left uneaten on our plates. You can help guard against cooking failures by measuring ingredients carefully...not by haphazard guessing.

A burned piece of toast and a shriveled carrot may not mean to you, but multiply those by 34 million homes. That means our waste is tremendous. Not only the waste of amounts of food stuffs but of food values...vitamins and minerals. You can help eliminate this tragic waste by guarding your food carefully from the garden or market basket to the table. And, finally, let your family on the policy of the clean plate.

Overweight Oil makes Old Cars Older—Fast

A Light grade of oil can make good, with your engine Winter OIL-PLATED

You can change to an OIL-PLATED engine by changing to any grade of Conoco Nth motor oil—from lightest to heaviest—and you can change to any grade of Conoco Nth at the same popular price. But the lightest possible grade of oil that's fit for the Winter change your car needs now will help to save your battery—your gasoline—your engine. The more the oil is overweight the greater the wear, and when that makes you try still heavier oil you get still more wear—still more oil and gasoline consumption—worse and worse and worse. Short-circuit this ruinous process by having your engine OIL-PLATED.

OIL-PLATING is distinct from the familiar liquid type of high-strength oil film also provided by Conoco Nth oil. Both oil film and OIL-PLATING are paired against wear every mile. Every time your engine rests, however, any liquid film drains down to the crankcase. But OIL-PLATING doesn't all drain down. It tends to stay wherever attached by Conoco Nth oil's "magnet-like" action—achieved synthetically. Often now you don't use your car for days. Yet when you start, the OIL-PLATED surfaces are still ready-lubricated... "faster than instantly." That's how the former fierce wear of cold starting is reduced by OIL-PLATING your engine. All other wear, too, meets its match in your OIL-PLATED engine. Change at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station—today. He knows the lightest grade of Nth for you. Continental Oil Company

Dread Engine Acid Fought by OIL-PLATING

Normal combustion always leaves acids inside of your engine when it stops.

Formerly it seldom stood idle long. Soon mileage and speed heated your engine enough to oust acids.

But nowadays rationing may force long rests, while corrosive acids gnaw. To combat corrosion, metals are plated. You combat acid corrosion with your engine OIL-PLATED.

Sure! I'll take a Texan's Share

Your County War Fund is another "Victory weapon."

The United War Chest of Texas through war fund organizations in every county of the state is charged with the responsibility of raising $4,885,781.00 for the 17 approved war appeals of the National War Fund. The national goal is $125,000,000.

Each of the 17 participating agencies was carefully budgeted to stretch every dollar contributed before it received the approval of the President's War Relief Control Board.

Texans now are being asked to take a Texan's share in their County War Funds to aid three fronts with one gift—the Military Front, the United Nations Front, and the Home Front. Remember, President Roosevelt has said that a share in the National War Fund is a share in winning the war. Use this "Victory weapon." Give to your County War Fund.

THE 17 PARTICIPATING AGENCIES ARE:

- * USO
- * United Seamen's Service
- * War Prisoners Aid
- * Belgian War Relief Society
- * British War Relief Society
- * Dutch Relief Fund (Queen Wilhelmina Fund)

100 OCTANE GASOLINE

Adds 5th engine to every 4-engine bomber

ROUND-THE-CLOCK AIR RAIDS over Germany and South Pacific. . . Every time you read this headline in your news paper, remember that United Nations war planes are vastly improved war weapons because their tanks are filled with 100 octane gasoline from the United States.

To say that this super-fuel is equivalent to a fifth engine in every four-engine bomber is actually understating the facts! Compared with German aviation fuel of 87 octane, it improves performance more than 25 per cent.

Long peacetime research for new and better things from petroleum gases, as well as from petroleum, prepared Phillips for an important role in wartime production. Phillips Petroleum Company was among the first to take 100 octane gasoline . . . as well as butadiene for synthetic rubber . . . out of the laboratory and into mass production.

Twenty-four hours a day, our best efforts are devoted to the production of these and other synthetic chemicals which will bring closer that great day when once again you can say "Fill 'er up" . . . and the service man will crank into your tank a new and improved Phillips gasoline.

Until then, every time you see the Phillips 66 Shield, let it remind you that Phillips refiners in addition to producing gasolines, lubricants, fuel oils, are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

ADVICE ON HOME STORAGE OF SURPLUS VEGETABLES

Victory Gardeners who grow more vegetables than they need for current consumption may now look forward to practical advice on storage in a new Farmers' Bulletin, Home Storage of Vegetables and Fruits, free from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The bulletin, says the Agricultural Research Administration, comes opportunely for gardeners to make the simple preparations necessary for safe storage. It should meet the needs of almost anyone, regardless of garden size or of varieties to be stored.

The authors of the bulletin, J. H. Beattie and Dean H. Rose of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils, and Agricultural Engineering, tell how to make cellars under houses suitable as storage spaces, and how to prepare similar storages beneath other buildings, or frost-proof caves or pits out in the open. Caves are described as particularly desirable on the farm as they afford convenient and inexpensive storage facilities for surplus vegetables that might otherwise be lost.

The bulletin takes up a great variety of storage problems in addition to those of the structure itself. These include sanitation in storage spaces, waxing to prevent shrivelling of the product, storage combinations to be avoided, and detailed information on storing many kinds of vegetables and several kinds of fruit.
