

Floyd County People Hail V-J Day

Community Back To Work Again This Morning

Floydada and Floyd county people this morning began to pick up the threads of their interrupted affairs and places of business resumed their activities after a complete close-down Wednesday following the announcement late Tuesday that the war had come to an end.

With the exception of federal offices, personnel of which has a two-day holiday by executive order, business was toned to the usual speed and in the other channels of trade was being resumed this morning.

Reports of loosening of federal controls was spear-headed by the report that gasoline rationing had come to an end, the promise that tires would be available early and that war-time restrictions on the free movement of labor had been cancelled.

V-J Day Really Holiday

V-J day in Floydada—Wednesday, August 15—was by general acceptance and understanding a holiday in Floydada, and a holiday in fact in practically every home in Floyd county. It was, without doubt, the most generally observed holiday in all the history of the county it is declared. Business was 95 per cent at a standstill and the majority of those who were taking the "holiday" were spending it quietly at home.

Shouting and Crying

Emotion broke loose in every community of the area, as the same over the nation, and tears of gladness marked many faces which had been tearless for days and years. The president's formal announcement Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock was the signal for the outburst. Fears had been raised by false reports for four days. Would the combat actually come to an official end was the question in the minds of people in 2,500 Floyd county homes. Women with husbands and sons in the combat zones and with sons in the far stretches of the global war cried with unrestrained joy and men accustomed to "business as usual" on ordinary holidays that mark historic events of past times, ordered all activities to stop.

In Floydada several places of worship were opened Tuesday night and again Wednesday and prayer and thanksgiving among the people was general.

Plans made for the church calls for a full basement which will house several class rooms, kitchen and a general meeting place.

Arizona Flood Disaster Claims Mrs. U. M. Ezell

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wester and their son, Billy, may be home today from Mt. Vernon, Texas, after a fruitless wait there of four days for the arrival of the body of Mrs. Wester's deceased sister, Mrs. U. M. Ezell, from Tucson, Arizona.

Mrs. Ezell was one of six victims of flood waters of Arizona Friday night of last week, according to incomplete information the family had Saturday and as late as yesterday her body had not been recovered. Her little grandson, Bobby Davis, 7, also was drowned. His body was recovered and shipped home.

In addition to Mrs. Ezell and her grandson, the wife of a neighbor at Mt. Vernon, also was lost, as were three members of a party in another car who attempted to ford a stream. They had been to California on a visit and were enroute home when the tragedy occurred.

Mrs. Ezell had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Howard Davis, and her son, Garnet, who is in the navy, and stationed at a camp in that state. Another son, Marlin, is in the Merchant Marines with a Philadelphia address. Howard Davis, husband of the daughter who works for Lockheed, is in Germany with the Army of occupation.

In addition to these children, the sister here, Mrs. J. C. Wester, and her husband at Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Ezell has one other surviving sister, Mrs. J. D. Weatherford of Mt. Vernon.

Roy Jamison, Back from Alaska, Will Teach New Mexico Pueblos

Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Jamison, who have been making their home in Alaska for the past eight years, are back in the states once more.

They were here last week, guests in the home of Mr. Jamison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jamison, leaving for Albuquerque for assignment beginning Monday morning of this week. Jamison will teach some 50 miles west of Albuquerque on the Pueblo reservation.

Mr. Jamison's last assignment was as Kwigillingok. He says the Eskimos (with whom he worked) have an interesting language which resembles the English and that the different tribes do not have difficulty in understanding each other. Thus an Alaskan Eskimo could go to Greenland and make himself understood among tribesmen there although there are some differences in the way the language is spoken in somewhat the same manner as between the United States and Australia.

The Roy L. Jamison's have two daughters, both of whom were born in Alaska. Mrs. Jamison was a New Mexico girl and her father still resides at Clovis.

The family had to hurry to get out of Alaska this year. The last of two boats a year was due to sail from their nearest seaport, Bethel, in a short time when they got their orders for a transfer back to the states.

Jamison's work is a part of the service of the Department of the Interior.

Major Mathews On Visit Here

Major L. G. Mathews, QMC, of Brownsville Army Air Field, who has been in the service since the fall of 1940, with only one three-day leave in that period of time, is taking a little rest in Floydada while he winds up personal affairs here and prepares to move household effects of the family to a new residence which they have purchased in Brownsville.

Mrs. Mathews, who came as far north from the top of Texas as Coleman, is visiting in that city with her mother, while the judge is here. He has been the guest of the J. H. Reagans, the Jess Covingtons and other friends while in Floydada. He has no plans other than his army service for the present, he said.

Writing Final Chapter Judge Duncan Estate

Final chapter in the 14-year-old administration of the estate of the late Arthur B. Duncan is being written.

In the fall of last year the administrators, a daughter, Mrs. Maud Williams, and a son, Mark W. Williams, their final report in probate court and last week in 110th District Court Judge Alton B. Chapman and John H. Reagan as receiver of the estate to make final sale of property and report back. Because of the nature of the property involved the court recites that the estate be partitioned among the heirs and requires its sale.

Included in the list of lands and interests in the Duncan farm immediately south of Floydada known as the "Blue Goose" place, are the Blue Goose station and adjacent lots, and a considerable number of business and residence lots in Floydada, and like a considerable bit of real estate property in Lockney.

Jeff D. Ayres has handled the final phases of the administration since its inception.

ABOUT THE AMENDMENTS

Of the four proposed amendments on which the people will vote Saturday, August 23, there is the usual lack of information not only among the people but among newspaper people as well. Perhaps we shouldn't include all newspaper people, but we can say the people at one newspaper office and be pretty correct.

At that we have our minds made up on the proposals and will mention them briefly, as much to get the people to thinking about them as anything else.

In the first place, we favor the adoption of all four amendments, and in the second place those who have some complaint on the way some of the amendments are put, or think they should be otherwise proposed than they are should remember that practically everything a legislature does is the result of a compromise. Many people of many minds urge many angles on the legislature. When the final vote is cast in the legislature these different ideas are fused into a proposal that is more or less of a composite of all these ideas and the pull and tug of the various interested elements of the commonwealth.

Thus it is that your idea of what

SUPREME COURT AMENDMENT

The amendment which would increase the supreme court of the state from three to five members is one which would improve the present set-up which consists of:

Three Supreme court judges, each of whom appoints (as it works in practice) two members, making the total of nine. Only they call the six appointed men Commissioners of appeal. They draw pay and do all the work of a judge except that when it comes time to vote on a decision they sit back. Three men have the final say. Several years ago the court was so far behind with its work that something had to be done. The people at that time would not hear to an amendment that would increase the number of members of the court but they did permit the court to name some helpers called commissioners, who would do the work of judges. The people were told then that when the court caught up with its work the commissioners of appeal could be discarded. But this work still piles up and while the courts have caught up temporarily the hull is just one before another storm and the courts will be full and overflowing with work again and the added commissioners or judges seriously needed.

Accordingly we would say vote for the Supreme Court amendment.

LEGISLATIVE PAY AMENDMENT

The amendment which would increase the pay of the members of the legislature proposes a matter on which there has been much controversy for a good many years.

Because it is a move toward making the legislator a more independent entity when he gets to Austin we favor the amendment which gives him $10 per day during his tenure of office and travel pay to and from the state capital.

Some legislators go to Austin frankly as "so and so's man." They are there for the purpose of looking after special interests with access to the floor of the legislature and to the committee rooms and the inner councils of the state body.

While this amendment would not cure this situation it would have a tendency to do so. Also it would make it more nearly possible for a poor man to be elected to office and be independent and give his time to the study of his job than is now the case.

We doubt that it would raise the level or standard of statesmanship as is argued by some. The legislature, for the most part, is made up of average people with average abilities as it is; men who work hard for the most part and do their best to serve the state in good faith to the utmost of their ability.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

On the proposal for the Old Age assistance amendment there is much controversy. The amendment proposal as finally adopted really was one of the compromises. There was strong opinion on many angles of the matter. However, we do believe that the amendment would be a change for the better. It would come nearer doing what the people originally proposed to do for the aged and the otherwise helpless than is now being done.

There are some objections to the proposed amendment and some people will be able to vote favorably in it. We will favor it, however, as serving as a whole the people of the state better than the present set-up.

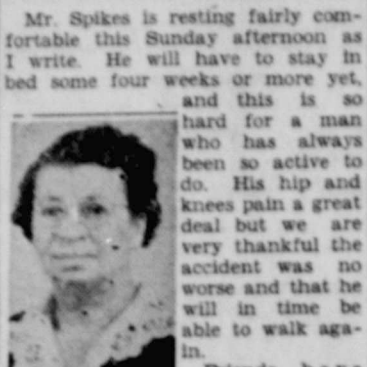

SOLDIER VOTE AMENDMENT

The soldier vote amendment, it appears, would cure the present constitutional provision against members of the army voting while at the same time continuing to disfranchise the regular army men, in periods of emergency as during last year's voting when thousands of Texas boys could not vote.

On account of non-payment of poll tax in the first place; and on account of being members of the armed forces of the country. As a matter of practice many sol-

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(By Nellie Witt Spikes)

Mr. Spikes is resting fairly comfortable this Sunday afternoon as I write. He will have to stay in bed some four weeks or more yet, and this is so hard for a man who has always been so active to do. His hip and knees pain a great deal but we are very thankful the accident was no worse and that he will in time be able to walk again.

Friends have called, have sent cards of love and sympathy, offered their services and have cheered and helped us in so many ways. We are so grateful. The rough has been made smoother and the long days of pain have been shortened.

As you know, I believe in miracles and the latest is the miracle of dry brown earth springing into cool waving green almost overnight since the rains. You remember the story of the man lost in a dry, rocky hilly country. That night he lay beneath the stars and wondered about a forsaken land. In the night a gentle rain fell and the next morning he rubbed his eyes at the sight of green, green everywhere hiding the rocks and the barren earth. He looked for the reason and found a plant which only yesterday lay curled brown to the eyes, dead. The rain had revived it and the glory of the Resurrection plant covered the land.

The dove of peace is flying over this beautiful Monday morning over the warring world and we hope within a few hours she will return with the olive branch of peace to all mankind. It has been so long since our son left that night and the dark of the night swallowed up the moving train. It will be in the bright sunshine when he returns, sunshine to us even if it is the black of midnight.

Mrs. Tom Oats was in the hospital when we were there and we had many pleasant talks with her and her husband, Sgt. Tom Oats who has recently returned from Germany where he found tough going before the war was over. Hope she is soon recovered and at home.

My sister Edna tells of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Grover Hill, saying that she did not care if she had three chins. "One needs another to hold up the two chins they have these days in Washington."

Soon will be time for the children to return to school and mother remembers the woman she knew when she was a girl saying, "I am allus glad to sit the chillen off to school, then I can set down and put my feet in the ashes and dip my snuff."

The air conditioned hospital was a fine place to be in if it had not been for Mr. Spikes being hurt. The days were so very hot and when one stepped outside the hospital it was like going into a kitchen where canning was being done. It seemed like we were enclosed in a block of clear ice and looking outside, it was so still and so cool. Hasten the day when our homes will all be air-conditioned in summer and heated throughout in the winter.

What Is Being Done with Grass in Cross Timbers

How the various new grasses are being used to stop erosion and to save and rebuild soil in central Texas is the central theme of a recent article as a special in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram under a Rising Star date line.

Because Floyd county people are studying the new grasses for use both in dry and irrigated farm operations the story has considerable appeal and it is reprinted below for its possible value to people of this section:

RISING STAR.—Farmers in two soil conservation districts in the West Cross Timbers near here have completed harvesting a record crop of more than 130,000 pounds of seed of hairy vetch, a legume which conservation leaders hail as an important part of the solution to the most critical soil erosion problem in the state.

Hairy vetch, grown on a large scale in the Cross Timbers only two years, flourishes on the light sandy soils of the peanut lands found near here when it is grown in combination with abuzzi rye. It is being used extensively as a cover and soil improving crop in the conservation crop rotations which co-operators with the Brown-Mills and Upper Leon Soil Conservation Districts are practicing.

Four combines Used
The two soil conservation districts have operated four combines on district co-operator's farms in harvesting the vetch and abuzzi rye seed. The combines were loaned to the districts by the SCS.

Hairy vetch grown in combination with abuzzi rye has not only been successful at Rising Star. Near Mineral Wells, De Leon, Dublin, Stephenville and Decatur it has made outstanding success. Throughout the West Cross Timbers the soil conservation districts, working with the technical assistance of the SCS, have been stressing the importance of the crops as part of a complete soil conservation program.

Importance of Vetch Stressed
"I firmly believe," says Louis P. Merrill, regional conservationist of the SCS, "that the discovery of the excellence of hairy vetch and abuzzi rye for use as cover and soil improving crops in the Cross Timbers is the most important single event in the history of the Soil Conservation Service in this region."

"It will mean the resurrection of 14,000,000 acres of Texas and Oklahoma land which have been our No. 1 erosion problem. Hairy vetch and abuzzi rye is to the Cross Timbers what kudzu has been to the South," Merrill asserted.

The record seed harvest at Rising Star was taken from less than 600 acres of more than 3,000 acres planted in the fall. Ten pounds of inoculated vetch and 30 pounds of rye per acre, seeded with at least 100 pounds of superphosphate is the recommended planting. The 2,400 acres of vetch and rye not harvested was used for grazing and then plowed under in the spring to increase yields of succeeding crops.

60,000 Pounds of Seed
Bernal Hickman, farmer living six miles southwest of Rising Star in the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District, combined 60,000 pounds of hairy vetch and abuzzi rye seed this year. The rye, having a stiff stalk, holds the vetch up and makes it easier to combine.

Hickman plans to plant 650 of the 780 acres he farms to hairy vetch and abuzzi rye in the fall. He was able to graze 130 cattle from November 20 to March 20 of this year on 150 acres of hairy vetch. "It made such a good stand I could have grazed twice that many cattle," he states.

Does Alexander, who operates a 112-acre peach and pecan orchard six miles west of Rising Star in the Upper Leon Soil Conservation District, used vetch and rye as a cover crop and green manure crop on all but 14 acres of his land. That 14 acres he harvested for seed, getting more than 200 pounds of vetch seed per acre. Hairy vetch seed currently sells for 14 cents a pound, with demand far exceeding supply.

Pecan Yield Boosted
George Goss, supervisor of the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District, who lives four miles south of Rising Star, harvested 12 acres of hairy vetch and abuzzi rye, getting 7,400 pounds of vetch and 2,640 pounds of rye seed. "Vetch has got winter peas and any other legume I know beat in putting plant food and organic matter in the land," Goss believes. He has a six-acre pecan orchard in which he grows vetch and rye as a cover and soil improving crop each year. That land made 4,000 pounds of 40-cent papershell pecans in 1944. Part of the credit he gives to the vetch.

Elmer Clark, co-operator with the Brown-Mills district, who lives four miles west of Rising Star, operates a farm which had been abandoned 10 years prior to last fall. The place was covered with useless needlegrass and greenbriars and was producing nothing. On the advice of L. K. Gregory, SCS technician, Clark planted vetch and rye.

This summer he harvested 3,600 pounds of hairy vetch seed from a 12-acre plot, and on another field he planted to vetch and rye he secured two months' grazing for 176 goats, 15 cattle, three horses and 50 sheep. "That land wouldn't provide any grazing at all before I planted vetch," said Clark.

Rancher Planting Cider

J. R. C. Moseley, operator of the Brazos Valley Ranch near Mineral Wells and a co-operator with the Palo Pinto Soil Conservation District, planted 750 acres of hairy vetch and abuzzi rye on his ranch, plowing it all under for soil improvement in the spring except 85 acres. The seed yield from that 85 acres is estimated at 27,500 pounds of vetch. He planted strip crops of peanuts and sweet sudan grass on the 665 acres where he plowed under the vetch as green manure.

W. R. Heizer, SCS technician at Dublin, says the way vetch is planted is important. "We've had failures where the vetch seed hasn't been inoculated and fertilized, and where abuzzi rye hasn't been planted in combination," he said. "The crop is an excellent green manure crop, increasing yields of succeeding crops as much as four times when it is plowed under in the spring to fertilize the soil. Vetch and rye help to protect the loose bers from blowing and washing away. They furnish good fall and winter grazing and will make a fine seed crop if the cattle are taken sandy soils of the West Cross Tim-off it by April 1."

Uncle Sam Pins Orchids On Local Women For Saving Used Fats!

"Things have really been happening to fat-salvage-collection figures since town and farm women got busy on the job! Latest official government records show that their fat savings have left the excellent record of city women way behind.

But it isn't a drop too much. This year, we face a shortage of 1 billion, 500 million pounds of fats in domestic supplies. Tons more of war and home-front supplies made from fats are needed!

Farm folks get more meat these days than most city people—so it's up to them to save the fats. Skin steaks, soups, gravies, Scrape pans. Melt down meat trimmings. It all helps you fill the fat-salvage can, and you get up to 4¢ and 2 red points a pound. If you have any difficulty, call your Home Demonstration or County Agent. Approved by WFA and OPA. Paid for by Industry.

Lt. and Mrs. J. L. Crosthwait and son, Jerry, visited Saturday with Mrs. Crosthwait's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Spence, before going on to their home in Lubbock. Lt. Crosthwait has just returned from overseas and will report to Ft. Leonard Wood, Missouri, at the end of his leave.

Wheat Coverage Policies Ready For Issuance

Approved yields and premium rates to be used in the 1946 wheat crop insurance program have been received in the county office and are being worked preparatory to the beginning of the sales program. The statement made early this week by Ray S. McEntire, administrative officer of the Floyd County ACA. Each farm has an individual yield assigned; however, the premium rates for all farms carrying out irrigation practices are the same. Likewise, farms carrying out dryland practices have the same premium rates.

Two Types Offered
In clarifying the above statement, McEntire said, "There are two types of insurance offered: 75% coverage and 50% coverage. The 75% coverage will cost 1.7 bushels under irrigation practice and 3 bushels under dryland practice. Bear in mind that these premium rates apply regardless of the individual farm yield. Likewise, the 50% coverage will cost 1.5 bushels under irrigation practices and 7 bushels under dryland practice regardless of the individual farm yield."

The basis for the on-premium rate for each practice instead of individual premium rates was brought about by the experience demonstrated in 5 years of insurance. One of the most important inequities was in the treatment of two insured growers—one of whom produced the total crop failure. Both growers obtained the insured yield from either actual production or an indemnity, yet the second grower incurred no harvesting and marketing costs. He may have also received an income from a substitute crop. In such a case, it frequently was more profitable to have a loss than to produce a crop.

Eliminates Inequity
This inequity has been eliminated in the 1946 program by providing for the payment of somewhat smaller losses in cases where there was a saving in production cost. The insured production remains either 75 or 50 percent of the average yield. However, on any acreage of wheat seeded to a substitute crop after a release of the acreage by the corporation, the amount of loss payable cannot exceed 50 percent of the maximum coverage. On any insured acreage of wheat not harvested for grain, the amount of loss cannot exceed 80 percent of the coverage.

Example is Given
McEntire gave the following example to illustrate the new program: "A yield of 18.0 bushels under dry land for 75% maximum coverage would cost a premium of 1.5 bushels per acre. The coverage would be 7.5 bushels per acre. 50% maximum coverage would cost a premium of 7 bushels per acre. The coverage would be 5.0 bushels per acre. If the loss occurs before harvest and the land is put to row crops the maximum loss under the 75% set up would be 2.7 bushels; under the 50%, 2.5 bushels. If a loss occurs before harvest and the land is not put to another crop, the maximum loss payable under the 75% set up would be 6.0 bushels; under the 50%, 4.0 bushels."

Policies are available from local community committees, county committees, or the county AAA office.

DOUGHERTY STUDIES PLANS FOR POSTWAR EFFORTS
The Dougherty Home Demonstration club had its first August meeting with Mrs. Claude Ring. The program was on postwar planning and the committee work of the Dougherty club was given by Mrs. J. T. Poole, Mrs. C. A. Caffee, and Mrs. Will Poole.

The club voted to buy sick room equipment and use it for the entire community in case of sickness. It also voted not to have our annual picnic as everyone was so busy.

Martha Lee Sanders honored the club with several piano numbers and games were furnished by Mrs. Blum. Mrs. Caffee won the prize and Mrs. Lide won the attendance prize.

Those present included Mesdames Will Poole, C. A. Caffee, J. T. Poole, Sam Lide, Lewis Blum, C. A. Dennison, C. E. Bartlett, and Misses Martha Lee Sanders and Martha Jane Brandon of Quanah.

SPECIAL NOTICE
The Floyd County P. P. Federation will meet in the I. O. O. F. hall Saturday, August 18, at 3 o'clock. The members are requested to be present as this is a very important meeting. T. O. Black, secretary, said.

T. T. Hamilton was brought home last Thursday afternoon from the Lubbock General hospital where he underwent a major operation the week before. He is doing nicely, the family reports.

Germany Pretty Country Writes R. V. Bartlett

Below are parts of a letter recently received by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bartlett from their son, R. V., written from Germany.

"I have just eaten supper and boy I'm sure full, too. It's now 20 minutes after 4 o'clock and I'm in Metz, Germany, right in the middle of the town. Boy it sure is a pretty place too. I have been across the Rhine River several times. Germany sure is a pretty country, far prettier than France or England. I have been on a trip most all over Germany, just got back from a 40-mile trip. Was in Luxembourg two days, in Trier, Munich, then I went to Frankfurt. Oh, I get around a little. I was up close to Austria, 20 miles from the border. I was also in the snow capped mountains the other day. I was in about 30 miles of Hitler's home."

I went swimming the other day and was going this evening but missed the truck.

"There sure is some pretty wheat, barley, and oats over here. It is being cut now. Sure wish I could have been home for the harvest."

"Mother here is a picture of me on a German motorcycle that I captured. I rode it about seven or eight hundred miles, but I haven't got it now."

I mailed three packages home last week and have one ready to mail now. I hope to be home soon."

Put Up Peaches To Save Future Ration Points

Home preservation of peaches now will save future ration points and assure menu variety later when commercially canned foods are in low supply, Mr. E. C. Munro, Acting District Director, CCC's Office of Supply, said today.

Added inducement for housewives to take advantage of the peach abundance is they are sweeter than many fruits, requiring less sugar for canning. Palatable canned peaches can be made with thinner syrups than many housewives are accustomed to use, he said.

According to the wartime canning guide, an average of one pound of sugar is sufficient to can four quarts of peaches. Honey also may be used to replace as much as one-half the sugar used for canning or corn syrup can be used to replace one-third the sugar requirement. Housewives are warned against using strongly flavored syrups, however, or unrefined syrups or brown sugar, which may cause the fruit to spoil.

Other popularly used home preservation methods housewives are encouraged to use include drying, freezing, pickling and preserving.

his affairs from a hospital chair until a few months ago. For several years he had anticipated death and lived past his own expectations of longevity. He had all plans made for the continued successful operation of the ranch and other business interests years before his death.

Helped in Critical Period
Perhaps his outstanding contribution to the general welfare of the area came in the crisis of the depression years, when he lent his strong backing to maintaining essential businesses. His counsel during the difficult days is credited by officials of the First National bank here as being vitally valuable to the local business structure.

Mr. Montgomery was born February 18, 1847 near Rome, Georgia, in Alabama, one of five sons, all of whom fought for the Confederacy. One sister died years ago in Arlington and is buried there. He was the last member of the family.

He joined the Confederate army at the age of 17 in 1864 and served to the end in Wheeler's cavalry, 12th Alabama regiment. He was at Gettysburg and surrendered in North Carolina. He was the last surviving member of the Robert E. Lee camp, United Confederate veterans, of Fort Worth. With only one exception he attended every re-union of the Confederate veterans from the late eighties until the meeting at Jackson, Mississippi.

Colonel Montgomery's wife was a daughter of General, later Judge, Ector, who was famous as a southern leader during the war and prominent in reconstruction days in Texas as a jurist. Mrs. Montgomery succumbed more than half a century ago.

Tough on The Medics
"I don't really know what happened then for I was unconscious two days. But if I had had a million dollars I don't believe I could have received better care than I've received from our Army doctors and nurses. I think the combat medics who picked me up had a tougher job of it than the infantry."

Before coming to Brooke, Love had two surgical operations overseas, and was then evacuated to Camp Shanks, N. Y. He was later transferred to Kennedy hospital, Memphis, before coming to Brooke.

Graduate Floydada High
Love is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Love of Floydada. He is a graduate of Floydada High school, class of 1941. He was reared at Cedar.

He has one brother also in service, Capt. James A. Love. Love is a veteran of eighteen months service with the Fifth Air force in New Guinea and has been awarded the Air Medal and Distinguished Flying Cross.

FLOYD MURRY APPRECIATES EFFORTS OF FIRE DEPT.

In a statement this week extolling the Floydada Volunteer Fire department and Mayor F. C. Harmon, Coach Floyd Murry of Floydada High school, expressed his appreciation of the untiring efforts and excellent of the department for keeping his loss caused by fire last week to a minimum. "Especially would I like to thank Mayor F. C. Harmon for his valuable information given my wife as to how to put out the fire in case the department failed the second time," said Mr. Murry.

Thos. L. Fawver Is Coming Home

As good as the news of peace to the Roy Fawver family this week is the news that their son, Thos. Leslie, is coming home from China. Furthermore, he is coming home on his feet and not in a wheel chair; and also his sergeant's rank has been restored and he may get back pay on that basis.

Sgt. Leslie, who served in the cavalry for nearly three years, was loaded up with other cavalrymen at Fort Brownville, and shipped to Burma, where he was made over to a private in the foot soldier, now 18 months ago, and traversed the length of the Ledo route across the jungles and Himalaya mountains to get to a strategic Chinese outpost. There the erstwhile cavalrymen fought some bloody battles with Japs as infantrymen. Fawver was injured by an accidental gunshot by a companion about 90 days ago and has been in a hospital since.

News that he was being sent home was received by the parents in a letter from him this week.

COLORADO VISITOR

An interesting flyer-visitor in Floydada last week was Flight Officer Elbert Flinn, of Colorado Springs, who with Mrs. Flinn and their little son, Elby, were guests of his aunt, Mrs. J. B. Bishop and Mr. Bishop.

Flinn had two flings at overseas duty, first in the West Indies and later in the European Theatre of operations. Two hot assignments were as glider pilot into Holland and into Germany. "You're an infantryman as soon as you light if you've dodged the flack on one of those assignments," said he.

P-O Flinn was enjoying the experience of getting acquainted with his eight-month-old son. With five years in the army, much of it overseas, he thinks he may be eligible for discharge when he reports back to San Antonio for duty.

PRESELY KENNAMER HOME

Lt. Presley Kennamer, who was flying transport on the western front when V-E day came, has returned home for re-assignment. He checked out at San Antonio, Texas and came home Wednesday night for a visit with home-folks, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Kennamer and family, and friends.

Presley had a little unusual experience as a trainee. First he was a naval cadet from which he resigned, and later went in as an army cadet and was commissioned. No sooner, however, than he was taken off engine aircraft to be put into glider service for final training—and when he got to Europe they put him to flying the big ones in transport of men and supplies to the fronts.

Quick Conversation Orders
Meanwhile, nation-wide quick steps were being taken from a wartime to a peace-time basis for industry. Billions in cut-backs on orders of army and navy were announced in the week, and the war and navy departments announced partial plans for demobilization of a large part of their organizations, with high ages and combat troops in priority lists.

War on reduced sporadic scale continued in sectors of the Pacific War theatre as well as in China and Manchuria today as General MacArthur called on the Japanese government to send envoys to Manila Friday to arrange for the surrender of Japanese men and arms.
