As A Farm Woman Thinks

(By Nellie Witt Spikes)

There is a quietness on the farm tonight. All our guests have gone to their homes. Mr. Spikes has gone to bed and since he does not have to stay in bed all of the time now, things seem more normal. The chairs are still grouped around the big dining table, the things from the big platter have been emptied in small dishes. A piece of pie reminds one of the happy people who left it such a few hours ago who enjoyed the "extra" of banana pie once more. We longed for the feet under our table, and his laughter joining the rest of the family's. The grandchildren are so happy that granddaddy can come with the rest to the table and for that matter so are we all.

I heard the commentator of the news say this morning that some manufacturer said that as soon as production could get well under way nylon hose would sell for only twenty-five cents. Well, will the women be satisfied or will we want something that will cost a great deal more?

Last week one afternoon in Ralls I met Mrs. Howard Crausby and Mrs. Junius Payne. They are sisters and told me of the passing of their father, Judge Howard who once was county judge of Crosby county. We always liked to meet Judge Howard. He was a gentleman of the old school, cortly, true to the best traditions of his day, a man whom we are indeed proud for his name to go down in history as a judge of our county.

Last August the first to be exact I had promised Mrs. Crausby that I would give a book review to the members of the club in her community. But as you know Mr. Spikes was so badly hurt on the thirty first, I did not get to meet my appointment, so I have promised Mrs. Crausby I would try again.

In the mail, a note from Mrs. Kate Carter of Crosbyton and in it she tells of some things Clayton Carter said he did when he was a boy at Old Emma. One of which was putting an old rooster up in the loft of the school and of course the old rooster crowed and finally the teacher found it before the old chicken passed out from starvation I wonder if Clayton remembers the time that Mr. Woody drove a big headed rail high in the front of the schoolroom and wrote the words "wax" under it. Lee Murphy began farmer, needs to make good money. The white collar people, so-called need to make good money for the benefit of the farmer. What is needed is a well-balanced arrangement so that everybody can thrive and do well.

To get that kind of a balance government is trying to get all the militant minorities appeased, get the prices held down, get the wages pegged on a high level, get the farmer assured a good market. Result is a good deal of presto digitation, a considerable bit of which won't work.

TENSION WILL EASE OFF
 Since the golden rule just won't be applied and the grabbing and snatching will be continued, the situation looks not so good. However, we do believe that much of the present tension is due to a considerable extent by the fact that the people have been keyed up to a high pitch for all of five years and the let down is resulting in something of a nervous reaction. Probably the tension will relieve itself as everybody gets an opportunity to let off steam. A nation which has been fighting all in a moment and resumes the paths of peace. We'll be fighting straw men as well as the real thing for a good while, and it would be quite normal that everybody hunt for an opponent for a time. We hope that is the explanation as to the general public. We think surely the public will find means to squelch the self-seekers and the quacks although the prospects is not so good right now. The common sense of the great mass of people of the nation will surely prevail through the travail of postwar troubles.

chewing, very prominently. Bring that wax up here and put it on the nail," Mr. Woody was stern. Lee climbed up on a wobbly chair and stuck a big gob of putty on the nail which he had hidden in his hand. As it would have been a big job to whip all the school that broke out in a big laugh, the teacher laughed, too, and the putty remained and no wax ever took its place as I remember.

Thank you, Ed Holmes and family for letting me have a part on your nice radio program last Saturday and was I surprised when I hear my name called. That quartet really was fine.

In Ralls, also, I met the daughter of the Judge Howard who was Judge of Floyd county. Mrs. Murphy Chapman of Robertson. She told me she had two black-haired daughters-in-law. They must be pretty good-looking if they are prettier than their blond-haired mother-in-law.

Suggestions for the Halloween party. Stage the gathering in the garage, basement, cellar, or barn. Invitations show the address there under put this rhyme.

Go nuts along with me. I crave the company of a cracked and screwy few—Dear nut, I'm asking you. Come dressed as one. Prizes for the nuttiest outfit, joke stunt and song. Well lighted posters confront guests at gate and porch such as "this house has a tile loose. Enter at own risk." And on the front door, "Nut at Home" Each guest is given a "Por-get-not lapel" souvenir, made of peanut shucks wired to form a "flower" and daubed with a bit of blue paint. Make faces on coconuts. Tie peanuts with orange and black threads to fringe windows, doorways, lampshades. Branches from trees decorate rooms all of them bearing nuts. Trailing vines labelled "poison ivy" don't touch bear tempting packages of nuts. Window drapes and table runners are made of the comic section of the Sunday papers. The hall tree bears doughnuts and the sign, "Do not disturb the doughnuts. Any found guilty will be arrested by the forfeit officer, I'm Nutcracker."

Fancy Nut Line. To start off Nuts line up for the march—more goofy than grand, before three judges, who will pick the winners. They march to music—or their own singing of peppy songs. Here is a song to be sung to the tune, "For he's a jolly good fellow." The Ration Blues.

A guy stood under my window
 A guy stood under my window
 A guy stood under my window
 And yowled the noisy nut.
 Oh Golly, I gotta have butter
 Oh Golly, I gotta have butter
 Oh Golly, I gotta have butter
 Oh Golly, I gotta have butter
 Cos I'm a butternut.

For cocoa, I'm a cocoanut. For nyons I'm a hazel nut. For bacon, cos I'm a hickory nut. For flowers, cos I'm a sweetpea nut.

Nutty faces. Each team is handed a tray containing three paper sacks large enough to fit comfortably over the head, paste, scissors and the makings of a funny face—scraps of hair, odd lengths of wire to frame cauliflower ears; rope for whiskers; crayons, blue. The lower part of the bag is cut to form the chin and each team is asked to select three artists to make the three most absurd masks they can devise. When finished "mankins" display them and judges vote on the nuttiest.

Nutty refreshments are served to guests, sitting on boxes, step-ladders—anything but a chair. Peanut butter sandwiches, cream cheese and walnut sandwiches, nut cake and cookies. And don't forget to drink a toast in cider to your favorite radio and movie nuts. May they continue to grow crazy and take us along.

If you have this party, please send me an invitation I may nut go.

Lightning Strike Thrice ?
 YES  NO

Even if it scores a knockout first crack, lightning can still jolt the same spot some more! It often does. Another accurate weather fact is that you'll step up your aging car's chances this Winter by OIL-PLATING the engine's insides. You want Conoco Nth motor oil for this protective OIL-PLATING.

Conoco Nth oil's great wear-fighting method is this: it employs the magnet-like action of its added ingredient to make metal and lubricant join up! This creates OIL-PLATED surfaces—no longer all bare to frictional wear and corrosion. Hence there's less cause for carbon—sludge—breakdown. And surfaces kept OIL-PLATED even at a standstill are ready for quick safe Winter starts. Your engine and battery both say, "Conoco Nth for Winter—today!"

He's the Sole Owner of the Business Now

Yes, Mr. Johnson is the sole owner of the business now. But he wouldn't be, if he hadn't invested in Southwestern Life Insurance. His business, you see, began as a partnership; a business that started from scratch, and blossomed into a thriving enterprise. And just at its peak, Mr. Johnson's partner lost his life in an accident.

Death terminates a partnership business—and unless proper arrangements have been made to continue it in some other form, the business must liquidate. The firm name, property, trade, good will—every asset passes away with a partner's death, unless the partners have taken sound steps to perpetuate that business.

Fortunate for Mr. Johnson, he and his partner had wisely arranged through Southwestern Life Insurance that either survivor should have the right to purchase the deceased's interest—and, equally as important, the money to do it with. That's how Mr. Johnson became sole owner of the business . . . and how he has arranged for his heirs to carry on when he gets ready to quit.

Death is the greatest single hazard any business faces. Business insurance offers the most effective method of offsetting the losses, ironing out complications and solving the problems of readjustment that death causes. Through Southwestern Life Insurance, you can do for your business just what Mr. Johnson did. You can have the ready cash, when you need it, to replace a key man, buy out your partner's widow, strengthen the financial structure of your business. Assure the future of that business today with Southwestern Life Insurance.

Golden Wedding Celebrated By the Lanhams

The Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lanham of Floydada was celebrated Sunday, October 14, at the home of their youngest son, Johnnie Lanham, and Mrs. Lanham were married October 16, 1895 and moved to this country from Stephens county, Mr. Lanham helped organize Briscoe county and name the county seat. They are one of the oldest couples living in Briscoe county.

Mr. and Mrs. Lanham's six children are all living and were present at the celebration. They are Mrs. Bert Mallow, Silverton, Mrs. W. Lee, Roswell, New Mexico, Miss Richard Lanham, Quitaque, Mrs. Lanham, South Plains and Miss Lanham, Silverton. Nine of their grand children were present. Dinner was served to 68 relatives and close friends. A bowl used at the dinner was used at their first wedding dinner.

Open House Held
Open house was held from 1 to 5 o'clock. After registering in a gold book, they were served refreshments by grand daughters, Mrs. Eimer Lanham, Quitaque and Mrs. Jack Harris, Lockney. A three-tiered golden wedding cake centered the lace covered table and a gold and pastel rainbow was mounted above the table. At the bases of the rainbow were two bouquets of gold and silver flowers. Gold and silver vases burned at each end of the table at the silver coffee service and a crystal punch bowl.

Fifteen bouquets of fall flowers given by friends, decorated the house and corsages of white mums were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Lanham by Mrs. Watson Douglas. The couple was honored with many lovely gifts, including gold wedding rings, from their children, Miss Dorothy McMurtry, and Mrs. Northcutt, accompanied by Betty Burson at the piano, sang "When Pa Was Courtin' Ma." Mrs. Rhonda Arnold recited "The Old Bonnet." Pictures were made of Mr. and Mrs. Lanham cutting the wedding cake and of their grandchildren lighting the gold tapers.

About 200 guests called.

RURAL AND CITY CHURCHES

City churches would be forced out of business if it weren't for the help of rural parishes. In return they do precious little for country churches except drain from them many of their best people.

Rural congregations, The Cumberland Presbyterian said, furnish city churches with "55% of their membership, 76% of their pastors and 84% of their officers, 62% of their Sunday school teachers and missionary leaders."

Instead of being "pitted against each other in a life-and-death struggle," the church paper editorialized, urban parishes should do more to strengthen country churches to "insure a continual flow of such help."

Building big city congregations by snapping country parishes is "merely transplanting a church from one locality to another."

The country church would welcome its supply role. The Presbyterian concluded, if city congregations mellowed the "take" with more "give."—Pathfinder.

ARKANSAS ELECTRIC ERA FOLLOWED FLOOD DISASTER

A two-fold program of flood control and development of hydro-electric power in Arkansas was the outgrowth of one of the nation's worst peace-time disasters, the Mississippi River flood of 1927.

With one-fifth of the entire state under water, President Hoover urged a long range program of flood control, which virtually was completed last year when workmen finished the $25,000,000 Norfolk dam over the White River at North Fork.

The dam forms a reservoir with a main valley length of 41 miles and an area of 30,700 acres. It generates 140,000 kilowatts, serving farms, homes and industry in 61 of the state's 75 counties.

Rigid Regulation Code for Comic Strip Artists

Comic strip artists who entertain millions of children—and adults—daily are bound by rules more rigid than those governing virtually any other class of public entertainment.

Because the comics reach children with receptive and malleable minds their creators and editors who pass on them must exert unusual care to give no possible cause of offense, according to an article by Ward Greene, one of the most famous feature editors in the world.

Comics must not deal with religion or politics, the article states in part. They must never be profane or brutal or horrible or indecent. Cruelty to children and cruelty to animals are taboo. So is cruelty to women.

In this connection a peculiar situation arises in the fact that while Maggie has smashed tons of crockery on Jagg's head, he has not retaliated in a violent way in more than twenty-five years of married life.

Drinking is not allowed in comics, the article states. Large areas of the United States are bone-dry. When drinking does occur, it is euphemistic drinking. Beer is "suds" and Snuffy Smith has his "corn suezings."

Comics must not offend races or groups. Snakes are forbidden. Crime must not pay and comic characters can't swear.

Comics appeal chiefly to adults but little kids laugh at the pictures though they do not understand the jokes. Before the war American comics appeared in more than thirty countries.

In this huge circus tents of all ages and many nationalities, everyone must be pleased or at least not offended. And of course you can't please all the people all of the time. The comics get all of their criticism, though less, I dare say than the stage or radio or movies or any other form of entertainment.

STORAGE FOR FROZEN FOODS

The idea of supplementing central locker plant service with home-type refrigerators that include compartments for freezing and for storing frozen foods is one that appeals to many prospective users or rural electric service. Typical of reports that have reached the Rural Electrification Administration is the summary of a survey of an area near Ithaca, N. Y., including more than 700 families, in the city, on farms and in non-farm rural homes.

The Research Committee on Food Processing and Storage, appointed from the staff at Cornell University made the survey. Some of the high lights of the report are:

Of the families surveyed, 90 percent said they would use more frozen food if they had storage space for it at home.

Owners of refrigerators including frozen food storage found them an excellent supplement for locker storage. A two weeks' supply of food was usually kept in the compartments, saving frequent trips to the locker plant.

One method of combining locker service and home refrigeration was to freeze small quantities of fruits and vegetables as they came from the garden. The freshly frozen parcels were then stored in the refrigerators until a half bushel or more could be taken to the locker at one time for longer storage. Freezing small quantities daily instead of large quantities at one time was less tiring and made use of fresh supplies while they were prime.

The Rural Electrification Administration anticipates notable expansions in this use of electric service as post-war reconversion supplies the kind of home refrigerating units housewives want, either to supplement locker service or to supplant need for central lockers.

At present REA is emphasizing the need for prompt organization of rural families that want electric service. The way to get high-line service is to go after it with a list of prospective patrons signed up as ready to use the service as soon as the release of war material allows for the manufacture of the generating and distributing equipment.

Telephone factories are already turning out some of the equipment needed to serve the 246,000 persons waiting for telephones in the Southwest at war's end.

That stream will grow mightily in the months ahead. It will move slowly for a while of course. It takes time to manufacture and install new apparatus.

A telephone alone contains 248 precision parts. Switchboards and dial central office equipment for only 10,000 telephones must be designed to handle nearly 50,000,000 possible interconnections.

But we've made a start. We've turned the corner. We're on our way. Every month ahead brings us closer to serving all who want telephones without delay.

POST-WAR ELECTRIFICATION

As soon as the war emergency ends and electrical equipment and supplies again become available on the market, the U. S. Department of Agriculture anticipates that rural electrification will advance rapidly as it did in the years just before Pearl Harbor.

But the farmer who wants electric service will have to do his part—and do it first—according to a recent statement by the Rural Electrification Administration.

"The only way a farmer can get electric high-line service to his farm is by going after it. No electric cooperative or other supplies will serve him until he has applied for the service. And no one can afford to build lines in any area unless the people in the area have indicated their desire for electric service. This means that there can be no rigid, centralized planning from the top down. The details of a national program of rural electrification can proceed in any particular area, will depend primarily on the vision and action of the people in that area."

Another paragraph of the statement is a suggestion of one of the ways that farmers can adopt in "going after" electric service. "Experience indicates," says the REA "that a large part of rural line construction after the war will have to be undertaken by nonprofit farmer-owned cooperatives if universal low-cost electric service is to be made available to rural America."

When the Rural Electrification Act was formed in 1935 there were about 750,000 electrified farms in the United States. By Pearl Harbor day the number had more than tripled with an estimated 2,352,603 farms electrified as of January 1, 1942.

There are 125 electric motors and 500 lighting fixtures.

YOUR OWN BUSINESS

IOWA ROAD DIRECTIONS

Recently I got some directions from Garnavillo, Iowa, that were accurate but funny, relates Ray Anderson, associate editor of Farm Journal. Several told me how to get where I wanted to go. It came out something like this:

"You go back to the furniture store and turn east. Then you don't go east any more. You follow the road till you see the first gravel road on the left. Don't take it, but don't miss it, because you're winding there and might not see it. Go on to the third gravel road left, and go up on Swede ridge and down a hill about a mile long and across the slimy gill, and then it's the first place on top of the next hill on the left."

WATERPROOFING FABRICS

Add this to your hopes for a brighter postwar future: If, someday you get caught in a shower with nothing between you and the rain but your shirt and overalls, or if somebody spills a glass of water on your slipover davenport, neither you nor the davenport is going to get wet. A new product you can use at home will waterproof ordinary clothing and household fabrics without any apparent change in the

"feel" of the material. Some manufacturers already are moving goods that have been treated and some laundries are offering treating service. Soon the material will be sold in retail stores. — Farm Journal.

Rabies Prevalent More in Winter Than in Dog Days

AUSTIN, Texas.—Contrary to popular belief, rabies is more prevalent in winter than in the so-called "dog days" of summer.

In a statement released this week by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health officer, it was disclosed that in the mid-winter month of February last year the State Laboratory examined 312 animal brains for the presence of rabies, over thirty seven per cent of which tested positive, whereas in August only 153 brains were examined, thirty per cent of which were positive.

"If all stray dogs were destroyed and all pets vaccinated for rabies it would go far toward stamping out this justly feared fatal disease," Dr. Cox said.

The doctor stressed that dogs suspected of having rabies should not be killed immediately, but should instead be confined ten days for observation to see if the disease develops. If a dog sickens and dies during the observation period, the head should be packed in ice and sent to the State Health department for examination. Freezing the brain, or killing the dog prematurely, or in such a manner as to injure the brain may make correct laboratory findings uncertain, if not impossible.

Dr. Cox declared that after a dog is confined ten days and then killed there is still ample time for a victim of his bite to be treated for rabies prevention, but he cautioned that the disease is found to be present in the dog, the victim should then begin treatment without further delay.

The Home Front

(Edith L. Wilson)

The average family walks several hundred miles a year over the same few hundred feet of floor space. Naturally this requires considerable upkeep, especially for certain avenues which get the most traffic.

Most household flooring, whether it's hardwood or linoleum, is protected with wax. And there are right ways and wrong ways to apply wax, according to Mrs. Bernice Clayton, specialist in home improvement for the A and M College Extension Service. She gives these five don'ts on floor waxing.

Don't ever puddle wax on the floor unless you pick it up immediately. Otherwise that puddle spot will show in your finished floor.

Don't ever use a mop which contains traces of oil for polishing your waxed floors. Even a trace of oil will soften the wax film and make dust and dirt stick to it.

Don't apply liquid wax by pouring it out on the cloth you intend to use. Pour out the wax into a pan or dish first, and never pour the remainder back into the can. Contamination may cause the wax to spoil.

Don't ever apply liquid wax with a wadded cloth. Fold the cloth into a neat pad so that you will have a flat surface with which to apply the wax.

Finally never apply the wax with haphazard strokes or circles. Put it on with straight, even strokes, as you would paint.

As soon as peace-time production permits homemakers can look forward to some aids in the big job of waxing floors, Mrs. Clayton says. One will be an improved floor cleanser for removing old wax and dirt. The other will be a self-polishing wax which is said to be more re-sistant to water, wear, dirt, and slipping than our pre-war type.

Olen Harris Due Home in Nov.

For his first visit home in six years Olen C. Harris is due to reach Floyd county about November 10 and will spend several weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vick Harris at Lockney and other relatives in Texas and Oklahoma. He is due to arrive in Houston from Sao Paula Brazil, about November 5, he advises his parents.

Meanwhile Mrs. Harris, with their son, Dick, 4, and baby daughter six months, have already sailed by ship to New York City and will come to the southwest by train. They left Brazil the last day of September and their first stop will be in Oklahoma where Mrs. Harris' relatives live and where she was reared.

Olen Harris has been with Anderson, Clayton company for several years, and has been general manager of a cotton oil mill and a number of mills in Sao Paula state, Brazil. He began his employment with the company while their mill was in operation at Lockney. Later he transferred to Oklahoma and it was there he met Mrs. Harris. After a stay of some four years in Brazil Harris returned to the USA and the couple were married. This will be their first sight of their native land and the homefolks since that time, the war and the hazards of shipping and travel having intervened since their departure on that day six years ago.

Meanwhile their youngsters, reared in Brazil speak Portuguese more fluently than they do their native language, and the home folks here are getting some amusement out of the prospect of their meeting with their little cousins reared in the southwest portion of the United States.

The South American family will spend several weeks in the USA planning now to leave again for Brazil sometime in January.

AN OPEN STATEMENT

I wish to make the following statement in the Floyd County Hesperian in order to rectify some former statements I have made in my advertising, which were wrong.

I was ignorant of the fact at the time. For instance in my ad of September 20th I stated that "The laws of Texas makes you safe." I thought this was a true statement, but it is not. Our Farmers Union company is chartered under Texas Laws, but this does not mean that "The laws of Texas makes you safe." And Again when I made the statement that "no risk is too big for us as we have millions behind us." Our re-insurance is carried with Oklahoma Farmers Union, who in turn re-insure with Lloyd's of England. This re-insurance was what I had in mind when I wrote this ad, however, literally taken, this is a mis-statement as I made it. Oklahoma has had 19 years and more of experience in insurance, is why I used "19 years."

My attitude in the above statement is applicable to any statement I have made which can be taken as an attempt to mis-state facts. You farmers in Floyd County know me and have known me all of my life, and I will say to you that to make any false statement or to mis-represent our Cooperative Insurance has been the farthestest thing from my mind.

NEW BABY IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Softly, sweetly, simply, solemnly

Our new baby Billie Joyce, sleeps Securely, surely, smoothly, calmly

New life comely comes and creeps

Posing, doting, mother opens her eye-To see that all with her baby is well.

Patience, pleasantly, her love doth apply.

Why?—little ones are not to buy or sell.

That dad is a "dope" is plainly seen

He shows off himself at his best;

Why you would think him a college dean,

To have a household a man is blest

The other children are up in the air,

"Our little sister," they talk and talk;

"She is different; She is rare,"—

And, they draw her with pen and chalk.

The household appears spring-blythe;

"The baby is not worth a dime,"

The neighbors say and cast a longing eye, and even do I as I write her a rhyme.

—With love and dedicated to little Billie Joyce Taylor who was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fred Taylor on September 18, 1945. Written on October 1, by Lillie Littrell Looney, 111 W. California street

Ermon Gray, former band director of the school, presented a student body with a very good program Monday morning. The first ten numbers, which he played on the marimba, were: "Columbian March," "Rosary," "Till the End of the Road," "Sentimental Journey," "My Home is Getting Better All the Time," "Sebon'e," "Tico, Tico," a medley of three songs, "Indian Love," and a medley of old tunes. Then four numbers were played on the saxophone. They were: "Sextet," "Memphis Blues," "A Day in the Life," and parts of "William Tell Overture." The last two numbers played were "America, the Beautiful," and then "Star Spangled Banner" with the student body singing. The program was enjoyed by all.

THIS WEEK'S PERSONALITY

For this week's personality, I decided to have one of our pep squad leaders. She is the head of the pep squad and is doing a wonderful job as our leader. She has helped us off to a flying start. Our personality was born in Floydada, and she now lives at home. She has lived in Floyd County all of her life, and she has gone to school since she was a mere freshman in high school. Our personality is a member of Gamma Sigma Kappa, the Junior Music club and is an active member of nearly everything. She is about five feet, three inches tall, has long blonde hair, and has blue eyes. Our personality says that her favorite food is duck, and it seems her ambition is to finish her education at A & M. Yes, by that you can be sure that it is Myra Nell. If you are puzzled about her identity, she will be the girl running around with short slacks and a baggy football jacket. Oh, yes, she won't be very far off. She is usually making the square in a little blue Ford that has carried two girls through high school already and is well started on two more. Myra Nell is quite a girl, and you will find that she fits my description, and is one of the best liked girls in high school, and she always has a smile for everybody.

Then Melvin Robertson took the pigskin over center for the Whirlwinds making the score 18-6. In the second quarter the Memphis Cyclones bucked the Whirlwinds to tie the score 6-6. ## SUBJECT: PITCHING THE WOO

When you stop your car to survey the moon and the girl looks pleased and smiles dreamily, that's one thing—and we probably don't have to tell you how to proceed from there. But if she makes a beeline for the far side of the seat, or starts a lively conversation, or says she really ought to go home—your technique is very, very lousy. You need instructions on pitching the woo. Instructions: First, ask her if you can hold her hand. If she says no, hold it anyway. Second, ask her if you can put your arm around her. If she says no, put it around her anyway. Last, ask her if you can kiss her. If she says no, kiss her anyway. If these instructions do not get definite results, both of you are dead and just don't know it.

WE AMERICANS

I hope that every student in Floydada High school will especially notice the little poster that will be in the trophy case. Each week there will be a different war hero, and some famous words he has said. This week's poster has a large picture of General MacArthur saluting the flag, and the following words: "I give to the people of the Philippines my solemn pledge that their freedom will be redeemed and their independence established and protected. The entire resources in men and material of the United States stand behind that pledge." —General Douglas MacArthur. I am sure that more stirring words could not be found anywhere and we have the promise of many more fine posters to follow.

I'm rally on the lookout for some excellent hideout, and real good camouflage, because I also want to live "A little bit longer"...There doesn't look like there's much chance for de poor little ole Quacker, honest. I'm such a BIG tattle tale, nobody likes me and everybody wants to get their hands on me. I see so doggone much, and I TELL everything that happens every week in FHS, so why should any one have any mercy on me???

Oh, I'm a good little ole fella at heart. Please forgive me if I talk too much. I just can't help it. One of these days I'll stab myself and no one will come to my funeral, no one will send even a sun flower for my grave, cause I'm "De Quacker," the noisiest and most hated guy in High school!! (Boo hoo). Lovell and Dwina had better keep a good watch on their dream men because Kelly and Glenn were seen in White's drug with the Clark sisters the other Saturday. Woo-woo! Emogene Gee and C. M. Norris seem to be making "beautiful music" together—and that ain't all brother!

told me that she's gonna move in another month. Bob and Jack Hough are to be mighty lonesome. Ain't it just like a woman.

Who is this they're calling Mutt or Jeff? Or is it just Barbara Moss and James Finley? ha ha. Ethel McNeely and Gene Hammit were caught writing notes. Be careful kids, De Quacker may find one some day for this column which is which... Hughetta Smartt-Dean, Corky or John Ray? Wanda Faye Pricer-T. R. John Henry Brock or oJhn Ray? Lovene Jones-C. L. or George Reid?

(Speaking of assembly—here we have had a songbird right under our noses, and I didn't know it (I'm suppose to know everything.) She's a regular Singtress. One thing I'd like to know, just who was that Fish she kept singing to? I noticed Charles Hammit swooning the rest of the day, so I suppose could have been aimed at him. Let's have more Pat! We're just wondering if T. R.'s lap is soft as the car seat, Wanda Faye?

Whispering may lead to something interesting. A little boy and girl were indulging in it in JBT class the other day. It was Fern Stovall and Jerald Vinson. Come, come—what's it all about and don't say JBT. Wills Bradford has quite a crush on Elmer Rucker (we suppose he knows it, if he doesn't, it's high time he's finding out.) She got it while practicing on an assembly program. Gosh, wish I were Elmer. WHAT? Is Dorothy Barton getting interested in a certain boy by the name of Weaver McClure-ich!

I keep my legs in good shape by chasing after you, I eat carrots to improve my vision, and I connect ear phones to my ears to make me hear good, but I just can't figure out who the girl to-be is going to be for Howard Adams. Will someone please tell me? Laverne Fowler, did you notice that a boy was making eyes at you in your third period study hall? Surely you did—at least we did. Tell us, Mary Lou Wise! Who is the boy you're going with?? Don't you just love horses and Sunday afternoons in the autumn breeze?? The Maxey - Johnston couple do and boy, do they take advantage of it! It's love the way I look at it. (People do just love to make excuses though, but they don't fool me).

Those cute eyes James Langley has been giving Marjorie!! Won't it be grand for those servicemen of yours to return to civiles, Viola Peel (a soldier), Jean Cardinal (L. D. at Fort Bliss), and Katherine Crumpton (a sailor over-seas)???

There's a boy that has been making special trips up here to school to see a certain little Miss by the name of Ella Hampton. All the girls seem to think he's real cute and Ella, I told you so. The first time you grab him, hold on tight. What's this I hear about Doris Vinson and Oran Eubanks? She has a brand new class ring on her finger. Doris, is it serious? I wonder what Billy Sandusky will have to say about this? Seems to me that Doris finds more excuses to go in and out of the library nowadays because just look who sits on the back seat!!!

O. L., what about these Freshman girls? What is it they've got that the Senior women haven't? My goodness, June Foster, are you a heart-crusher? Kenneth?? Bruce?? Douglas??

Football—

Crosbyton will have Paducah or their field.
Since Spur has been conference leader for so many years their game at Ralls is most likely to attract local attention. However, the Bulldogs should not have a very hard time of disposing of the inexperienced Ralls entry, if Spur is as strong as they probably are, and can carry on under wraps.

Crosbyton Surprise Team
But the squad that has taken the district by surprise is Crosbyton. They were not expected to make a splash this season but have some good, rugged lads, who have a good account of themselves, against the Matadors whom they beat 19 to 0 in their opener and against the Longhorns last Friday night with a 13 to 6 drubbing to christen the Lockney school's new floodlighted field. Their game will be a home game Friday night and Paducah Dragons will be their opponents. They should dispose of the Cottle county boys with reasonable ease.

On the basis of past performance Matador is due to lose to Petersburg. Conference Standing
In view of their two-game winning record in conference play Crosbyton clearly takes the top in conference standing today. Likewise Matador with two losses takes the cellar position. The standing this week:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Crosbyton	2	0	1.000
Floydada	1	0	1.000
Spur	1	0	1.000
Lockney	1	1	.500
Ralls	0	1	.000
Paducah	0	1	.000
Matador	0	2	.000

Games Friday Night
Matador at Petersburg, non-conference
Paducah at Crosbyton;
Spur at Ralls.
Floydada, Lockney, both open dates.

Finnell—

rains of the fall gave more moisture to eastern and northeastern portions of the county while the late rains were heavier west.
Ground that farmers went into to plow and sow in the vicinity of Floydada and westward was full wet and some crews had to stop and give their ground another day or two to dry. But in the northeast portion around South Plains crews went to work, a few of them, as early as Saturday.

While late crops have needed more sunshine than they got the forage feeds for the most part will make some grain and a lot of bundles regardless of the date for the first frost. Binder twine this week has been one of the heaviest items of sale for stores handling it and binders will be in operation this week-end, with a few crews already started up. Monday afforded the high and low temperature for the week the thermometer recording 82 degrees and a 46 degrees in the same 24 hours.

Beans Dehydrating Yesterday
At the Denver Alfalfa Products milling plant in Lockney this morning it was announced that the dehydrating plant resumed operations yesterday. Production in the last crop of the season is running from a half ton to a ton, their report said. The crop is as good as usual with about 17 per cent protein content. However, it has been slow to develop due to cooler weather of the late fall.

Clerk: "Yes, madam, I understand—large inside and small outside."

Methodist Notes, Aiken District

(J. G. Walker, Pastor)
Sunday was a great day at Carr's Chapel. Some disturbance caused by the stove flue being stopped up. Fire burned on outside in place of inside.

About the close of the Sunday school session, someone went out to cut the flow of oil off; but instead turned the valve the wrong way and flooded the stove with oil and the fire got bigger on the outside. The smoke filled the house.

The pastor tried to preach from text: "And Moses said, I will turn aside and see this great sight which the bush is not burned." Finally I had to cut the sermon short, to see why the stove was still burning. Some left house before the close. ("I did not blame them). I do not know whether the stove run them out, or the way I was handling the subject.

By the evening hour the stove was fixed, and the smoke had cleared away.

One more Sunday at Carr's Chapel for this Conference year. Let us make that a Rally Day. Let it be Sunday School Rally day and also Church Rally day. We are sure that all the finances will be met and we will have a report that all will be proud of.

Next Sunday 10 a. m. at Bellview; 11:15 and 7 p. m. at Aiken. Let every member be present if possible. So much hinges on how we close up this year. The pastor is proud of the outlook for the closing. Let all the churches observe Fourth Sunday for both Sunday school and Church Rally day.

Millions of Our Boys, Too
In addition to the help to the peoples of the devastated countries the National War fund will be used to aid in making more bearable the lot of our own boys who are and will be for an indefinite period in foreign lands for reason incident to closing the war account and patrolling areas which we are duty bound to take care of as a nation. The great need now will be to relieve the monotony of the existence of these boys, War Fund authorities say.

The accused had been duly convicted when it was proved on further evidence that he had actually been in prison at the time the crime was committed.

"Why didn't you say so?" demanded the judge.
"Well," said the man, apologetically, "I was afraid of prejudicing the jury against me."

Digger and Topper For Beet Harvest

At least one beet digger and topper to be used in Floyd county beet fields of the irrigation area has been received from the Rocky Ford Crystal Sugar company at Lockney. It will be used first in a 20-acre field adjacent to Lockney. H. M. Bainer, agriculture agent of the Santa Fe Railway company, said here yesterday.

Mr. Bainer said the beet acreage of the county was lower this year than last due to the labor shortage. Sugar beet culture calls for a great deal of hand labor which some growers were fearful would not be available at critical periods. The digger and topper will be helpful in relieving the situation during the period of harvest, he said.

Soil moisture content and general crop outlook is excellent throughout the high plains area, Mr. Bainer said. He is a veteran in the study and advancement of better conditions in agriculture of the area.

Captain and Mrs. W. L. Cooper and their son, Bill, are at home this week from Ft. Benning, Georgia, on 15-day leave. They are guests in the home of Mrs. Cooper's parents Mr. and Mrs. Carl McAdams at Lockney.
