Our State Winners Floyd 4-H Clubs

Person Calls For $35,000 Bonds This Week

Notice was received by A. L. Hartzog, county agent, Tuesday, from A. and M. College, that four Floyd County entrants in State 4-H contests had ranked as winners.

Jackie Gene Brock was state winner of the Leadership contest. Henry Neil Schacht of Lockney was a state winner in the 4-H Club Garden contest and will receive a $25.00 war bond. This contest was won by Billy Jo Smith of the McCoy community last year and he was entered in the National Garden contest again this year along with Henry Neil Schacht.

Billy Joe Hambricht of Route 5, Floydada, will receive a $25.00 war bond as state winner of the Safety contest and Earl Edwards, Jr., Rt. 2, Floydada, was state winner in the National Dairy Production Contest and will receive a $25.00 war bond.

According to information received here the records of boys who have topped the State in 4-H contests have been forwarded to Chicago for consideration in their respective national contests.

To Classify Floyd Jerseys November 16

Information received by Earl Edwards, Jr., secretary of the Floyd County Jersey Cattle club, from D. T. Simon, Texas representative of the American Jersey Cattle club, indicates that local Jersey breeders will hold their classification on Friday, November 16.

According to A. L. Hartzog, county agent, some of the herds originally scheduled for classification have passed their peak condition for classification and will be classified next spring instead of November 16.

Present indications are, however, that the herds of C. B. Carmack, Jack Brian, and Harvey Brock are to be classified now. Other registered herds to be classified in a spring classification are those of Earl Edwards, Jr., Clyde Farish, J. A. Jamison and Ferve Kings.

All persons interested in the improvement of registered cattle, Jerseys or otherwise are extended a cordial invitation by the county agent and the Floyd County Jersey Cattle club to be present at the Jack Brian farm, near Lockney, the morning of November 15 to follow the classification from farm to farm throughout the day.

Plans are being made for the holding of a breeders luncheon in Floydada at noon which will be sponsored by the Floyd County Jersey Cattle club and the Floydada Chamber of commerce.

USS TEXAS—Black smoke billows as the big guns of the venerable battleship USS Texas let loose with a broadside. One of the oldest battle wagons in the Navy, she nevertheless has one of the finest combat records. The Texas was the only American battleship that fought off three continents—Europe, Africa and Asia. Texans are making an effort to get the ship tied up adjacent to San Jacinto battle grounds to be used as a shrine instead of being scrapped as is usually done with out-moded battleships of the first line.

Freight Cars Plentiful for Floyd Dealers

Floydada grain dealers have been about the most fortunate of any in any south plains point without storage facilities the past two weeks. They have been receiving maize from harvesters in large quantities throughout the harvest, without a shutdown, although neighboring dealers without storage capacity have been closed days on end.

Plenty of cars here and lack of cars at the other points has been the answer. Todate Q. A. & P. railway has been able to supply all calls for grain cars, the exact opposite of their situation this summer during the wheat harvest when "caught with their plans down." Other railway lines operating in the county during the past two weeks have been helpless to relieve dealers on their lines, their usable cars caught in other sections of the country.

Numerous western Floyd county maize growers as well as those far south into Crosby normally marketing at other points, have taken advantage of the open market here to continue operations.

He told Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Harrison, parents of J. W., this at the re-union of the Lost Battalion held in Wichita Falls last week. The Harrisons were one couple of scores who attended the re-union in the hopes of getting information about their sons.

Hundreds Have Illegal Plates on Texas Cars

AUSTIN—Hundreds of Texas residents are operating their automobiles illegally with license plates secured in other states where the plates may be obtained at a lower rate than in Texas.

Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, has advised that there will start immediately an enforcement program to see that all persons who are residents of Texas properly register their automobiles.

Thousands of dollars are going into the revenue of other state treasuries when it should be going into the Texas treasury for the maintenance of Texas highways, he said.

Two Blazes Tuesday Noon

Within an hours time Tuesday Floydada Fire department was called upon to put out two fires. The first at the L. C. McDonald Implement company, about noon, started from a lighted match tossed into the waste basin where parts had been washed. No damage was reported.

The second fire, between 12:30 and 12:45, was reported at Farmers gin. Some trash had been burning on the outside and the high wind had blown it in the gin. The fire boys were there before it had time to get underway.

Poppy Day Sale Will Honor Dead And Aid Veterans of Two Wars

"Now we can begin! The poppies are here." When the members of the American Legion auxiliary heard these words today, many of them came to the Legion home to start getting the little red flowers ready for sale on Poppy Day, November 10.

Each little poppy is a paper replica of those blooms that grew so bravely on the battle fields of the first World War. Since each is shaped by hand, each is slightly different from its fellows, but as the Legion Auxiliary Poppy chairman pointed out, every flower carries the same message and dedication.

"The poppy is the memorial flower for every man who has died fighting in either of our two great World Wars. They have all died in a common cause, whether death came on Flanders Field in 1918 or on Tarawa in 1944," said Mrs. Jack Henry, president of McDermott auxiliary in announcing plans for the sale. In America's continual struggle to maintain her liberty, these dead warriors are linked together in spite of 25 years in time and thousands of miles in space. The poppy is worn as evidence that we remember and revere them all."

Thanksgiving Turkey Market Opens Soon

Although as usual, it is indicated that the turkey market this year will be a catch-as-catch-can event, local dealers this week said that the market will open this week-end, possibly today.

Meanwhile they have no idea that they will advance of what prices will be and how readily the turkey raisers will respond to offers. Dealers think, however, that turkeys that are mature enough to grade Number One, will move during the next few days of the Thanksgiving movement.

BUT THEY WON THE WAR

After you get through criticizing the army, the navy and the military in general for a million inept things you think they do every day, you have to admit that the strategy put forward by the brass won the war, which is what armies and navies and air forces are for.

However, even that preface doesn't keep you from being indignant when you read about the army having the manufacturers of a dozen of more brand new B-29s send out a detachment of men to cut to pieces machines that are barely out of the assembly lines because the army has some kind of a rule that requires it. This is said to have happened at Wichita. Everybody was helpless to do anything about it. A good many thousand war weary planes are stored around all over the country at air fields that could be and probably need to be salvaged instead. But the army had a rule and when it was applied they cut to pieces a bunch of good brand new B-29s worth a thousand dollar planes that were needed at training fields to carry on with classes the air corps still has in training.

The indignation at the waste could be tempered somewhat if you disbelieve the Treasury department's claim that the planes cost the big mouth filling figure of $600,000 a piece. That's what they said and still say for war bond selling purposes. You or we might believe this isn't so since it has become the custom now to catch departments of the government in what appear to be statements and claims wholly unsupported by the facts, as the civilian sees them. But anyway, the public prints say they cut the brand new B-29s to pieces with torches while paying millions for storage and in other costs for other planes by the thousand not worth the space they take up except for salvage.

YOUR WAR-WEARY CAR

Responding to the urge of their better judgment, to the warnings of their dealers and the urgings of their government, automobile owners have done an excellent job of conservation. Nineteen forty-two models and older have been made to do a good job of transportation much longer than one would have thought remotely probable a few years ago.

But lately many motorists, confident that new cars are going to be available very soon, have been taking long trips, driving their cars much more frequently, pushing them harder, imposing added burdens on them.

The fact is that most car owners are faced with the prospect of driving their vehicles through another winter, probably far into next year. Simple precautions, like careful preparation for the winter now set in for instance, of necessity must be taken to make the cars last. Conservation of cars is still the keynote, pleased though it may make you to see new cars beginning to appear on dealers' floors.

Just because he's a human dynamo doesn't mean that everything he has on is charged.

GRAIN HAS BETTER START

To speak of a better start for grain on the high plains means first of all that a better season is in the ground below the seed bed and that the grain is up or coming up to a good stand before the heavy freezes of the winter months come on. It presumes, of course, that some years the wheat man plants with less moisture in the ground than he would like to have, hoping that sometime soon he is going to get what he wants, namely a good rain.

This year a good start for the crop means one other thing not generally taken into account by anybody except the man who is operating the farm—a field that is clean of volunteer and grass and weeds—particularly "winter weeds." The October rains with the cool that followed brought up winter weeds from seed that many farmers thought were not even on their wheat acreage. The crop of weeds was killed by the planting and it is mostly unlikely to reappear certainly not in large enough numbers to do material damage. Whence "winter weeds" came to this area is not known locally. But the farmer who farms, nowadays without taking them into account finds a considerable bit of embarrassment the following spring.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(By Nellie Witt Spikes)

The past week has been a busy one on this farm as well as on the farms all about. Early and late we took advantage of the fine weather and help. Paul came over and helped saw the wheat and cut the grain with the combine and we had to go for help to oneway and harrow the land before the wheat could be planted. Wilda and I loaded one trailer of grain from a wagon and another from the ground. Pretty much of a job which left our muscles tired and sore. But there is a feeling of work done and resting time ahead while the slim green wheat comes through the brown soil in the shallow furrows left by the drill.

Mr. Spikes is not doing so well as he did. It takes one a long time to recover from such a bad hurt.

Wilda met a coyote in the road the other day as she had to walk back from her car that had run out of gasoline. It is not so far from the canyon over where they live. Mr. Spikes told us that when they moved west, one night when camp had been made, he hung his bridle on a fence post and the next morning it was cut to pieces and looked as if it had been done by a knife. He said it took him a long time to figure out how it had been done and he decided it was cut by a coyote.

Are you old enough to remember when everyone said, "gally"? Called a mirror a "lookin' glass"? Drank "teakettle tea"? The other morning Wilda made some of this tea for Margaret Nell and I remembered how some people were still old enough to call it cambric tea.

Many a hot summer afternoon when the children were growing up I made a hot fire in the big kitchen range and cooked a big skillet of chocolate fudge.

Last night I was hunting for something but forgot what it was when I picked up one of father's old daybooks of the store at Emma. Not only forgot what I wanted but forgot everything else and slipped back in the store for a while and this is what I found, and I am sure you will want to know what folks bought way back in the fall of 1898. J. W. Carter bought seven pounds of coffee for a dollar, 15 eggs for fifteen cents and right after him John Nobles purchased a bill of 57 pounds of potatoes for $1.30, three yards shirting, 3½ sold 2 pounds butter for $1.35 and 7 pounds onions for a quarter. John T. Beal bought 48 yards calico, 15 pound cotton, six spools thread and a paper of needles. Just how many comforts would that make?

Sam Wright was in town and took home 5 pounds breakfast bacon, 80c and fastened up his pants with a new pair of sixty cent suspenders. Temple Ellis also had the town notion and took home enough supplies to keep Lizzie in a good humor with something to look for a good while. He left out with 100 pounds flour which cost him $2.75, 11½ pounds potatoes, $2.70, 11 pounds onions 40c and a gallon of syrup. As I had gone into the store I stayed till the fall of '99. I found folks buying more stovepipes and dampers and stove shovels. Last year's supply did not seem to last over the rust of the summer rains. They bought pills and antikamnia and slate pencils.

Watt Murray bought a new suit of clothes for $12.50 and finished up with sleeve buttons 25c, collar 25c and tie the same. The St. Louis Cattle company paid $5.55 for 300 pounds of oats and $6.90 for 394 pounds of corn. The D. B. Jackson's always had a little better it seemed to me than most anyone else and we find them buying velvet and a corn popper. All the west used a black skillet.

F. E. Jones bought his usual yearly supply of safety pins, outing flannel and lawn lace and cotton flannel which Aunt Ella made into "little things." I just had to stay on and look what folks had in mind to buy in the fall of 1902. More stove pipes and dampers, more ax handles. One man bought a bucket of rock or rock candy for 75c. He was either going to give a candy pulling or had an immense lot of cough medicine to make up. Remember rock candy and whiskey. W. H. Hames needed a currycomb and an overcoat which cost him $7.50. But he would like to get as good a one as that as cheap now.

J. C. Murphy sold 1081 bundles of kaffir to the store for $54.09. Frank Jones bought his annual bill of safety pins, cotton flannel, etc. Stanley Carter got old enough for a charge account and paid $10.00 for a suit of clothes. Tom avitt hired a buggy for $1.00 and a horse for $2.00 to make a trip to Farmer. Walter Davies, now the judge of Lubbock purchased a pair of drawers yes that is what the book says, and an undershirt.

Well I will let the Emma people rest for a year and skip to 1904. My goodness! More stovepipes, more dampers and Frank Jones buying another bill of safety pins, flannel etc. Silas Witt brought in 75 pounds of turnips and was paid 75c. Women bought mittens and had to buy a grater. Dr. Guyton arrives in the town to practice medicine and maybe it was not to be remembered against him that he told Dr. Carter that Thurman Taylor had one bone broken above his elbow and he thought both were broken, which caused Dr. Carter to snort and say there was not but one bone in the upper arm.

Chas. Watkins bought three collars for a quarter. Must have been of the celluloid variety. Now who do I see coming in the store, going behind the counter and reaching in for a nut covered creamy chocolate! She looks familiar and I shall watch what she does next. She gets more chocolates, then goes behind the drygoods counter on the west side, reaches up for a bolt of soft blue wool, cuts off seven yards, then cuts off 2 yards of lining and gets a spool of blue silk thread to match goes to the day book on the tall desk, charges the bill and as I look over her shoulder, I see the name Nellie Witt.

J. W. Bonine brings in five dozen eggs and gets a dollar. Matt Davis 2½ pounds of butter and is rewarded with fifty cents. Stanley Carter buys fifty pounds of flour for $2.15 and also six yards of cotton flannel. Must have already had the safety pins as they are not on the bill. My goodness the hours have gone, and I must hurry home from the old store. Maybe this will be the day we will hear that Wilson has landed in the United States.

Floyd County 14 Years Ago

(Issue of November 5, 1931)
Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Johnson and Mrs. Lee Howard returned last Saturday from Houston where they attended the forty ninth annual session of the Grand Chapter of the order of the Eastern Star.

Thanksgiving turkey market in Texas this morning at 10 cents for number one grades, seven cents for old toms and five cents for number two grades, but local dealers this morning expressed the belief that no turkeys would be moved at that price, for the present, at least, and are not going to the trouble of active solicitation.

Ideal weather for wheat sowing and feed and cotton harvesting the past week has seen the operating forces on a very large per cent of the farms of the county operation on day and night shifts, activities being more pronounced and general than at any time within the past two years.

Both high and low thermometer readings have been recorded by the weather man in Floyd county during the week since last Thursday, a low wave over the week-end almost dipping the needle to the freezing point and skins of ice appeared on exposed surfaces of water. Low for the week came Friday morning with 34 degrees. High for the week was Monday afternoon at 48 degrees.

Advancing under a steady brilliant offensive that crushed the staunch defense of the Canyon Eagles and held them helpless in the second half, the Floydada Whirlwinds overcame a one-point lead, scored two touchdowns and marched to a thrilling 26-14 victory in Buffalo Park at Canyon Friday afternoon.

Funeral services for G. W. Turner, 77, of this city were held Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 from the Wall Street Church of Christ, with Elder Charlie Graves, of Lockney, preaching the funeral. P. C. Harmon had charge of the arrangements.

Naming her husband as honor guest, Mrs. T. W. Whigham entertained last Sunday with a surprise birthday dinner.

Mrs. C. A. Caffee of Antelope was elected chairman of the County Council of the Floyd County Home demonstration clubs at a meeting held Saturday afternoon. D. M. Collins, 50 brother-in-law of Mrs. Wilson Kimble of this city, died in a Houston hospital Monday morning and funeral services were held Wednesday.

Wellington Chapter Has Area Meeting

A training school for the officers of the Plains area of the Future Farmers was held at the Wellington High school, November 3. The meeting was for the area officers to work out ways and means that they could use to promote Future Farmer work in their respective localities. Encouraging students in vocational agriculture to develop their farming program under the guidance of the local V. A. teachers was decided to be the most important task of the area officers as they visit other chapters of Future Farmers through out the Plains area.

Billy Joe Sandusky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Sandusky of the Muncy community, attended the Area 1 meeting of the officers of the Future Farmers of America at Wellington Saturday, November 3. Billy Joe is the Area historian and attends all the meetings over the area to help carry on the business of the Future Farmers of this area.

Last week, November 1, the boys of the Future Farmer Chapter went out to Floyd Wilkes' turkey farm. He has about 1800 turkeys on his farm. He told the boys he feeds the turkeys 1100 pounds of feed a day. He has some good turkeys.

Whirlwinds Down Longhorns 24-0

The Floydada Whirlwinds gave the Lockney Longhorns a severe beating on Friday night at the Longhorns' home field. The game started with the Whirlwinds kicking off to the Longhorns. The Longhorn carried the ball from the 20 yard line up to the 50 yard line on a double and a single reverse. They then took the ball and on a series of reverses on around end-runs carried the ball down to the Whirlwinds two yard line and there the Whirlwinds held them.

From that point on, it was the Whirlwind's game. They took the ball and safeguarded it for the rest of the quarter. The second quarter opened with a 45 yard pass from Robertson to Payne to set up a touchdown. Tribble then tried for the conversion, but it was not good and the first half ended with the Whirlwinds in front 6-0.

Forty Yard Pass
 The second half started with the Longhorns kicking and the 'Winds receiving. The Winds took possession of the ball, and they were determined to show "who was who" in this game called football. They took the ball and on a 40-yard pass from Robertson to Womack added another 6 points to their collection. Again the conversion was not good. The 'Winds kicked to the Longhorns and the 'Horns drove down to the 20 yard line and there they were stopped cold by a sudden Whirlwind!

The 'Winds practically blocked a punt and took over on the 30 yard line and from then, with the aid of some mighty fine line blocking and Jones doing some fine line plunging drove down to the 4 yard line, where Carmack plunged over to make the score 18-0. The most spectacular play of the game was made when the Longhorns tried a 20 yard pass and Womack of the 'Winds intercepted and ran for a touchdown to end the scoring for the 'Winds and this sealed up another conference game 24-0.

Perfect Score So Far
 The 'Winds have a perfect record in conference play thus far in the season. They have not been beaten, have not been scored on and have not been tied. So, folks, we are mighty proud of them and are behind them 100%.

Let's Beat Matador
 On next Friday night the Whirlwinds will journey to Matador for another conference game. So come on out, folks, and let's beat Matador. I would also at this time like to thank (for myself and all of the boys) Mr. Berry and Mr. Jones for the nice meal that they gave us on Friday night. I also want to say that we were glad that we could be so happy while eating. Thanks a lot.

BEAT MATADOR

THIS WEEK'S . . . PERSONALITY

For this week's personality, I have chosen the third leader of our pep squad. Our personality is a member of the Social Club.

Our personality has lived here in Floydada all her life. She has red hair, blue eyes, and is about five feet, two inches tall. She says her favorite color is red, and her favorite food is pepper. Her favorite pastime is climbing goal posts and decorating them before every game when we use Wester Field.

Naturally you will know that I am talking about Nanette Bishop better known as Nancy. She is the daughter of J. B. Bishop, and you can recognize her by the Ford she is always in. I can't figure out why. Nancy says her ambition is to go to Texas tech when she finishes high school. Her hobby is collecting boxes for Pep rallies. Her pin-up-boy is coach Gresham. Nancy seems to get along pretty well with Don Jones. She must go for the strong silent type (mostly silent). Yes, Nancy Bishop is quite a girl. She usually cruises around in levis and a size 42 sweater. When she was a Sophomore she was elected Queen of High school, and she is still one of the most popular girls in the senior class.

FASHION OF THE WEEK

The fashion this week is almost past tense. Although the girls are still wearing their jingling bells in the night, they leave them at home during the day. This fashion has caused the boys to make "Jingle Bells" their favorite song. La Rue wore them quite a bit last year but we would say the originators this year are a group of juniors, Hazel Beth and Dwina.

Social Club Holds Hallowe'en Party

The members of the Social club and their guests were entertained last Wednesday night with a Hallowe'en party at the home of Miss Lovene Jones. Those present were in costumes, and the house was decorated in Hallowe'en colors and designs. After the guests had enjoyed a number of games, they were served sandwiches, soda pop, and cakes decorated in orange and black.

The girls present were June Foster, Oragene Willson, Jean Cardinal, Dwina Glassmeyer, Valrie Burke, Hazel Patton, Joy Lambert, Nita Merle Patterson, La Vell Hall, Nanette Bishop, Clara Cosby, Sue Teague, Hughetta Smartt, Martha Cudd, Jimmie Hicks, Beth Hinson, Lovene Jones, Mary Helen Lewis, Mickey Kennamer and La Rue Graves.

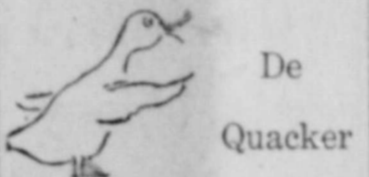

Changes Bring New Faces at Floyd Hi

We regret that three of our FHS pupils have left us. This was Gladys Roberts first year in Floydada. She has moved to Colorado.

We are especially sorry to have Gene Johnston leave. He has been a member of the class of seniors for most of their school years and very good in his classes, too.

Dorothy Barton is the third student who has left recently. To take their places we have two newcomers Auden Finley, a junior from El Paso and Rayford Cumbie, a freshman, who is living in Dougherty. We hope these new students enjoy FHS and we wish to take this means to extend to them a warm welcome.

We also had a new substitute this week, Mrs. Cardinal, who a few years ago was known as "Polly Smith" here in Floydada High. She is substituting for Mrs. Mitchell, who has gone to visit her husband.

Please consult Mr. Webster on the meaning of the above words if you are in doubt who De Quacker is. You may find out who the Real reporter is!

I have oodles and oodles of material on Glenn Carmack this week, since I received two juicy letters he wrote to Leola Fowler and Elaine Bloodworth, oh boy! Don't you wish you could read them! I might get the going over if I tell you the details and then again there's my reputation to bear in mind. After reading them, I just can't keep from feeling the affair with Dwina won't last—Good luck, Dwina, with this great "Lover" (oh, yes you'll need it! I'm to keep the letters on file in case I need them.)

Is Pete and his old flame, Ina Page, to kiss and make up? Joy has come into the story and she seems to be taking over. It was Joy at the Social club, it was Joy at Lockney, and Pete seems satisfied. George Reid will have to hunt for a new gal, the way I see it.

You are an eager beaver, George. I saw you holding hands with Mary Helen in the hall and giving her the sweet talk.

Does some one know how to work zig saw puzzles? A big one pops up at me dusk this week as to which boy Beth Hinson wants. Is it Van (not the swoon man) or is it Squire?

Mary had a little lamb. That's nothing. Travis has three trailing him; Jennie, Jane and Joy.

Nita, you will be lonesome when soldier boy, Lane, leaves, won't you? We see you're wearing his class ring.

Since she has no chance to obtain her man, June has gone to work fast. It was Sammy Hale the other night. And how about the sailor, Delbert Dillard? But then Maxine might have something to say about Delbert.

Oragene and Tom were really circulating Sunday evening. Billie Frances Sisson, you mustn't wink at boys. They might wink back!

James Finley-Willa? Corky-Willa? Tom Bob-Willa? Which one is beating whose time?

Mariene and Louis are really on the beam. Louis, how do you like Betty Lou?

Orby, you sure go for skating don't you?? What ticks? Oh what's cooking?

Rose, what was that Billy Mooney was saying about loving you?

Hughetta, what about Matador or will we find that out tomorrow night?

Valrie, you go for boys by the name Bill or is Bill H. the one and only man?? Bill H., you're not going to stand for it or "R" (Ralls) you?

Hint to Don Jones: As you know how to make a date, but do you also know how to "break" one? Say has Norma walked in where Nanette (or is N. B. out of the question) left off? Don likes Amarillo girls but all, but there looks like there may be bumps!

Jean had the hardest time getting Howard's attention at the Lockney ball game but she managed to but finally!

"Who is Shorty?" If you haven't found out who "Miss Unknown" is it's time you learned. She has Johnny Patton and Dale Sims on her mind, and she just loves to skate.

Now... telephone factories are working for you

More than 2,46,000 people in the Southwest have had to wait for telephone service for one reason: Telephone factories were working for war.

Now those factories are turning from war to peace. All the facilities and know-how that did the war job are beginning to produce the mountains of telephone equipment—switchboards, dial apparatus, cable, wire, and instruments—needed here at home.

The task ahead is not easy. In the next 12 months we expect to be able to add one telephone for every 10 now in service. They will serve most of those who are waiting. For others, in localities where heavy construction and installation is necessary, it may take longer.

But we've made a start; we're on our way. Now all our efforts are aimed at making the wait just as short as possible—to provide telephone service to all who want it, when they want it.

Millions Short in Edible Fats of The Next Quarter

AMARILLO, Texas.—A 255-million pound decrease in inedible fats and oils for the next three months emphasizes clearly the need for continued collection of household fats, according to E. C. Munro, acting district officer of marketing Production and Marketing Administration.

Although this is more than was allocated during the third quarter, every pound of used fats is needed to make soaps, soap powders, paints, floor coverings and other civilian products, he said. Used fat collections have increased considerably since the ration bonus recently was raised from two to four points per pound but there must be no let-up now if this post-war battle of reconversion is to be whipped, Munro continued.

The total amount of fats and oils allocated for all uses during the October-December period is about 2,142,300,000 pounds, compared to 1,893,400,000 pounds for the third quarter this year and 2,632,400,000 pounds for the last quarter of 1944.

The moderate increase for the quarter results from drops in military requirements, somewhat seasonally larger supplies and smaller foreign shipments.

Production of edible fats and oils for the year, however, will be about a billion pounds less than last year with lower hog slaughter accounting for most of the reduction.

Handle your sweet potatoes like eggs, says E. A. Miller, agronomist for the A. and M. college Extension Service. Don't drop or toss them around while digging and crating them in the field. They bruise easily, and bruised sweet potatoes are hard to keep and are unfit for market. Storage and curing make up the most important stage of the crop after it leaves the ground. Storage and curing make it possible for growers to sell their crops over a large period and get the benefit of demand prices being offered during the fall and winter season.

Spoilage of potatoes in the curing house may be due to a cut or bruise on the delicate skin during harvesting. Tests show that the dried juice on the surface of a wound is not a protection against the entrance of rots. Also the presence of dried juice on a sweet potato should not lead you to believe that it is safe from storage diseases, Miller says.

Large production justifies a sweet potato storage-curing house, but bank storage will take care of small production, Miller says. For a bank holding twenty bushels dig two trenches on high ground each nine feet long one foot wide and one foot deep. The ditches should cross at the center with the lower one dug out to surrounding ground level for drainage. A ventilator six feet long should be placed at the center of the intersection of the trenches. It should have six inches clearance for free air circulation. Lay short pieces of plank in the bottom of the cross trenches and cover them with corn stalks or hay five or six inches deep.

Starting next to the ventilator, pile the potatoes carefully around it to a height of three and one half to four feet in cone shape. Then cover the potatoes with six or eight inches of hay, straw, corn stalks or similar material and follow with three or four inches of soil which should be packed down. When cold weather comes add three or four more inches of dirt and close the trenches with wide boards or old tin.

By law Congress has given war veterans priority rights in the purchase of surplus government property. But the veteran has not been having much luck in actually getting a chance to buy this surplus property. Some time ago I joined with the interested members of Congress in urging and demanding that the Surplus Property board make available to the veteran his legal preference to acquire surplus property.

Effective October 15, a new procedure was put into operation where by a veteran who desires to secure surplus property makes application to the nearest district office of the Smaller War Plants corporation for the items he wishes to buy. The SWPC offices which are nearest western Texas are located at the Mercantile Bank building, Dallas; The Caples Building, El Paso; and the Key Building in Oklahoma City. The SWPC grants a priority certificate to the veteran and seeks to help locate the property for him.

Ft. Worth Regional Point
Effective November 5, surplus property in Texas is actually disposed of by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Surplus property division, Neil P. Anderson Building, Fort Worth, Texas.

Heavy machinery and industrial equipment are disposed of by the Regional RFC office, Cotton Exchange building, Dallas. But the Ft. Worth office handles as consumer type goods — the items in which erans and people generally are interested.

The articles in which veterans have expressed the greatest interest are as follows, and in the order named: automobiles, trucks, radios, photographic equipment.

One stumbling block in the way of veterans who have sought to buy surplus property is the fact that federal agencies, the states and subdivisions thereof, have a prior right to buy the property. The veteran will now have priority over the general public but not over governmental agencies.

Drop in The Bucket
During the period from October 23 to November 6, 9,100 surplus jeeps were offered for sale to the federal agencies, states and subdivisions. All of them will probably be sold in this period, but if any remain, they will be offered to the veterans. The general public will be next in line. This will be the general procedure followed in future sales of various types of surplus property.

The rate of disposal of surplus property is increasing rapidly. There are billions of dollars worth of surplus property to be sold, and the amount sold thus far is only a drop in the bucket. Veterans will soon have much better opportunities to acquire property in which they are interested and which many of them have sought in vain to secure.

I have asked the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to have a man specially assigned to each large disposal office whose duty it would be to eliminate red tape and facilitate sale of surplus property to interested veterans. However, for the present the veteran will have to secure his preference certificates through the District offices of the Smaller War Plant corporation.

Francis' Yarn About Dutchman of Pennsylvania

(When you have read this write Francis Wester a note—see address below. He's stuck in France for awhile, but he'd like to be home and he'll write some more of the same for us, perhaps.—Ed. Note.)

From time to time I run into interesting characters in this army and in the countries I have visited while serving in the army. Herein I will endeavor to list some of them and different things I have seen and learned about these people.

Because he truly is the most interesting person I have chanced to know, and learned to think very much of, I think I should start with my old friend Claud Alvin Smith. Claud was a 38-year old Pennsylvania Dutchman with a heart of gold and as big as all the outside and with an acute love for just any kind of spirited beverages. He was without a doubt the most popular man in the company and had an uncanny knack for getting by with most anything—things that most any of the rest of us would have spent time in the guard house for had we committed them. These things were always committed, of course, when Claud was under the influence of the fore-mentioned beverages. Because sober, there was not a more obedient and dependable solid man in the outfit than he. Truthfully, some of Claud's best antics will have to go untold as they just don't allow you to print stuff like that in newspapers, but I do remember one incident that may amuse you as it did me.

Claud Was Nonchalant

Back in the earlier days of the war, this company, for some reason or other was lodged very close to the front—much closer than I ever hoped to be, and we were subjected to quite a bit of German bombing and strafing. In this hot spot most of us were no time digging a good deep fox-hole; that is, all but Claud, who was spending most of his spare time either looking for, or drinking the applejack that was popular in that apple growing country. The first night passed with everyone else spending most of the night in their newly constructed fox-holes, but our friend Claud sweated it out in his pup tent, aided only by a half jug of applejack, but at that he solemnly swore that come the morning he would be found digging a hole. Came the morning with a clear sky, no Jerries, and off went Claud. No, not for a shovel, but for more applejack. We were bivouaced in a large apple orchard which afforded a very good natural camouflage for our pup tents, two, three and four being nestled back under each tree, and it was into one of these pup tents that Claud crawled the second night still without a fox hole and slightly inebriated.

Jersey Girl's Agains

Sure enough soon thereafter Jerry started on his nightly call and doing even better than he did the night before, because one near miss was so close that the concussion knocked most all the apples in the orchard off the trees. One of these apples caught Claud, who was lying on his back, square on the part of him that had covered many a barroom stool. With one loud scream and about two half-crawling jumps he was out of the tent and right on top of me in my already too small hole. "For God's sake let me in there with you, Wester," he says, "I've already got a piece of shrapnel in my—as big as your head."

Claud's out of the army now, and back running his little cafe in Shoemakersville, Pennsylvania. I know there never was a man left in his outfit that was missed as much as this company missed Claud and there were few dry eyes when he made the rounds shaking hands with every man before he left and inviting them to a good meal in his cafe in Shoemakersville "anytime," he says, "Because when I ever do get back there, don't think I will ever be doing any more travelling."

For this time we will quit about about this one character; I have more however, and will try to tell you about them from time to time. That is, if you like to read about them—Do you?

Forty-Six Model Chevrolet Shown Oden Sat.

The 1946 model Chevrolet motor was shown for the first time in Oden Saturday when Oden Chevrolet company put their first model car on the floor since finished selling their 1942 line of new Chevrolet being shown is the new four-door sedan, and Mr. Oden said that all the present production models are to be put on the floor as volume increases.

The gleaming front assembly which features the low, sleek lines of the entire car and an appealing array of color combinations are features of the modish style which characterizes the new 1946 Chevrolet the best of the low-priced field.

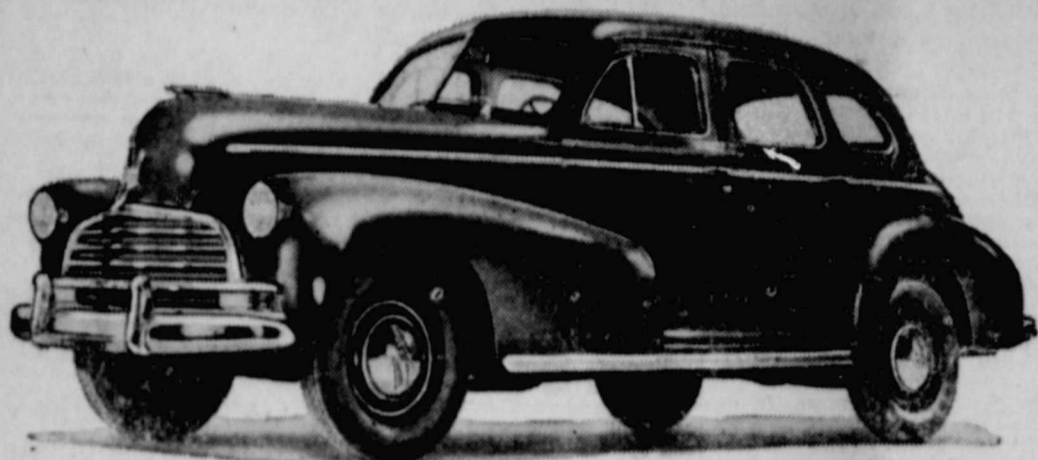

Embodiment of the best thinking of automotive designers, the new Chevrolet emphasizes classical lines, with flowing sweep from front to rear. Chromium plated and stainless steel trim, used with restraint of good taste, highlights the overall design. Streamlining is combined with massiveness and lowness of the bodies by Fisher, exclusive of Chevrolet in the low-priced field, provide a combination of style, luxury and durability. Fish-tail construction means that the rear panels, owl and turret-top are welded to form an all-steel unit. No-draft ventilation is provided.

A Chevrolet feature is the door-hinged fender, which flows smoothly half way into the front doors. The new hood is exceptionally deep and massive.

Taste and Luxury
Interiors are the last word in taste and luxury. Upholstery is expertly tailored in fabrics that look smarter, wear better and clean easily.

Pure beauty has been attained by master craftsmen in the design of interior fittings, instrument panel and home-like conveniences inside the car. The instrument

NEW 1946 MODEL CHEVROLET

The Stylemaster Sport Sedan

The new 1946 model Chevrolet, shown above, is outstanding not only for style-leading design, but for quality in materials and construction, advanced engineering, proved performance, economy and dependability.

Every line and contour emphasizes the massiveness and lowness of the vehicle from front to rear. The new, distinctive radiator grille, shown at the right, presents an expanse of gleaming chrome-plated horizontal bars, framed within a low-arched molding. A model of classic simplicity, it tends to emphasize width as well as lowness.

panel is distinctive, too, for its practical arrangements of dials and indicators, contributing to the ease of driving.

The new, post-war Chevrolet, on display in Oden Chevrolet company show rooms distinguishes the low-priced field with three lines: the Stylemaster, in the economy class; the Fleetmaster, with added refinements and the Fleetline, a luxury model.

Front End Treatment
The front-end treatment of the 1946 Chevrolet is completely new, bringing into modern focus the lowness and massiveness of line.

The bumper, radiator grille and headlights present a combined appearance of classic simplicity.

The grille consists of three horizontal bars, below which are two more, wider bars extending almost to the sides of the fenders. Parking lights are framed in rectangular plates at either end of this assembly.

The new front bumper enhances the appearances of the radiator grille, and is deeper and higher than any previously used. Simply-designed bumper guards are spaced well apart.

The Chevrolet name, in block letters, appears on the upper of the two wide grille bars, and the new Chevrolet emblem, an attractive shield on a modified V background, is on the hood. A new hood ornamental arrangement of dials and indicators, contributing to the low-sleek lines. The model name appears on the fore part of the hood louver molding.

A new rear bumper, styled to match that in front, imparts the final touch to the classic design.

Interior hardware and trim planned to harmonize with the new design notes. Upholstery fabrics are beautiful in color and texture and stay fresh.

Hamlin Y. Overstreet, of Farwell, is the new president of West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He was chosen at the closing session of the 28th annual meeting in Abilene Monday.

All planks in the referendum were approved on the basis of membership voting except part of one plank which would have pledged WTCC to support an all-Texas advertising campaign.

A plank sponsored by Floydada Chamber of Commerce was adopted on universal military training, as follows:

"Believing that our country will never be an aggressor nation, but has a passion for peace and now a mission to perfect practical machinery for world-wide peace; that these high ideals will be enhanced by the maintenance of a military force and power in a nation such as ours; and that due to the atomic bomb and other inventions this nation will no longer have time to prepare for its security in case of aggression, we of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in directors meeting assembled, representing a territory unexcelled in our recent war cooperation activities, do hereby endorse the program of universal military training as recommended by President Truman, the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, and, therefore call upon our representatives in congress, to enhance the security and peace of this country and the world also to give valuable training and discipline to the youth of this country by supporting the President's program for universal military training."

J. M. Wilson, Floydada, director was among representatives of West Texas towns present for the meeting.

The session was key noted by an address of Olin Culberson, chairman of the Texas Railroad commission, who said the recent ICC decision in equalizing class freight rates was the green light for Texas industry to develop the state's resources. J. M. Wilson, of Floydada, was president of the organization set up to stage the fight for freight rate equalization before the Interstate Commerce commission.

More Building Material After First of Year

Hope that the predictions of a continued shortage in building materials during the coming year are over-estimated and that lumber will begin to move from the mills early in 1946, was held out to F. C. Harmon, mayor of Floydada, by officials of the National Housing agency in Dallas last week.

Harmon was at the agency, while down-state, to see if that office could help in any way to relieve the housing shortage in Floydada.

Labor shortages, high taxes and high production during past months of 1945, have had a tendency to make mill men want to wait for developments during the next several weeks and see what a new year may bring about. Harmon was told. Mills will resume output when they can operate with some certainty of the future as to prices and working conditions, the housing agency thinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Winfrey, of Kansas City, Missouri, who were here for several days last week, will return to Floydada soon and Mr. Winfrey will be employed on the Producers Elevator construction job. He is a plaster and stucco expert.

The young major will report to Tyler, Texas, November 12 for reassignment. Meanwhile, he is renewing friendships in Besque and making new contacts in Floyd county. His parents have moved to Floydada since his last visit to the states and Mr. Powell, senior, is Rural letter carrier on Route One here.

With the British in Africa

Major Powell's first trip across after his commissioning was to North Africa. His unit campaigned with the British 8th army in the Desert campaign. He piloted a B-25 in the 12th Bomber group. That was back in 1942-43, when his group won the presidential unit citation, to which a cluster has been added for his CBI operations.

In this bitter campaign he was awarded the DFC, the Air medal with nine clusters on his ETO ribbon with two battle stars. On his Asiatic-Pacific ribbon he wears three battle stars.
