Shower Helps City Squeeze by Water Trouble

While failures for both Hale and Crosby county in oil tests were being announced this week, lease men were continuing their activities in the immediate vicinity of Floydada, buying small tract leases as fill ins. Owners who leased Saturday and Monday were being paid $25 per acre. A few other tracts are due to be signed up in the limited area in which the lease men are interested.

Lacking on the map, not yet indicated as leased, are two tracts in the section southeast of the townsite comprising some 300 acres total, belonging to M. H. Martin and Fred Zimmerman, and a tract of about the same number of acres lying immediately west of the townsite belonging to W. M. Massie. A number of other smaller tracts are being negotiated. Ten year leases are being sought with $1 annual rental.

The lease men represent they are leasing for "major" oil companies and say they have plans for a test "inside of a year."

TMB Test Hits Granite

Appearance of two types of testing machines at the Montgomery No. 1 oil test of Humble Oil & Refining company in the edge of Crosby county last week, was followed by an announcement this week that the drill had hit into the granite at 9704 feet and a core test of 9707 feet returned two feet of pink and green granite, after which an electrical survey was run to total depth. The test is the deepest of many abandoned tests in this area and the only one ever to be punched below the 7,000-foot horizon, except the recent tests in southeast Hale county. The Montgomery test was in Section 21, Block 2, B & B survey. It is 12 miles northwest of Crosbyton, one-half mile across the Floyd county boundary in Crosby county.

Geologists show heightened interest in the area due to the fact that the "granite ridge" is being found. Its presence, they say, indicates a formation that is due to have oil-bearing stratas.

Street reports in Floyd county have it that the rig which has been used in the Montgomery test will be used to make the Cedar test, where a drilling site was staked on land belonging to Mrs. Marcia E. Meriwether some six weeks ago.

The abandoned tests in Hale county are offsets to the excellent Fisher No. 1 well north of Petersburg.

First reported missing was the business coupe belonging to D. W. Fyffe, taken Monday night in last week. On the heels of this came the theft of the four-door sedan, which belonged to Dr. C. M. Thacker, who lives a block distant from the Fyffe. This car was taken Sunday night.

License numbers and other information have been broadcast through the state police system in an effort to locate the stolen property.

No developments leading to the recovery of a business coupe and a four-door sedan stolen in Floydada have been reported to date, although sheriff's department and state highway officials have been busy in the effort.

Jaycees Elect, Name Committees For New Year Beginning July 1

With Guy Ginn chosen to succeed himself as president, and several other important posts in the organization filled by re-election, the Floydada Junior Chamber of Commerce have begun laying their plans for a new fiscal year, beginning on July 1.

The election meeting was held Wednesday night of last week when the members gathered at Scout hut. Jas. H. Word was re-elected first vice-president and John A. Kimble will be second vice-president, succeeding Ray S. McEntire.

J. E. Elza was re-elected to serve the coming year as secretary, as was Olin Watson, jr., for the position of treasurer. James Wester succeeds A. L. Hartzog as Parliamentarian.

New directors elected include Parnell Powell, Edward Wester, and W. E. Garrett. They succeed Fred Cardinal, Newell Parker, and W. M. Stanforth, jr., Billy Henry and Ray McEntire were re-elected for the coming year, and holdover directors are Aaron Carhel, Kinder Farris, Bob Crowell, and Fred Zimmerman, jr.

A publicity committee was named and Jim Word, E. L. Norman, jr., and J. M. Willson, jr. will make up this committee.

A project planning committee will be headed by A. L. Hartzog as chairman and will be composed of Edward Wester, J. E. Elza, W. E. Garrett and J. M. Willson, jr.

The officers elected and committeemen will take office on July 1. Call Leaders Together

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, calling all civic leaders, club members, and other interested parties to meet at the club on July 1.

Several cartloads of the golden harvest were enroute to storage points down-state by Saturday night.

A few fields were operated Sunday, more were added daily Monday and Tuesday, and Wednesday afternoon, four to six combines went into many of the larger fields, according to reports from all over the county.

With another 24 hours of maturing weather permitting, the whole county's combined effort, along with that of several hundred custom threshing crews from outside the county's confines, will get into the fields. Elevator men in Floydada said that yesterday afternoon's experience indicated it is going to be easy for the crews to put them behind with unloading. A few small fields completed this week yielded more heavily than was estimated before harvest began.

From only one area was a heavy downpour reported. This was in the Starkey and Blanco district where probably half of their combined area had middle-filling rains -- an inch or more. Other areas, like Floydada reported "a good cotton shower," which ranges from a third to a half inch of moisture. Some of the fields where heavy rains fell are ready for combines and the growers will be impatiently waiting for the resumption of work.

No rain fell at Lockney or at Aiken. Dougherty had a shower, as did Pleasant Hill.

Llano Ropers Will Rope Against Floydada Team after the Harvest

Floydada Roping club had their last practice session last night and today are turning the calves out to grass until after the harvest, said Jack Johnson, president.

"None of the members likely are to have time for while to do any roping, but for the benefit of those who might not know about it, please say the calves are not at the grounds for the present," said Johnson. He added the rodeo calves would be rounded up again as soon as practical after the rush of harvest and plowing is through.

Llano Ropers Coming

Mr. Johnson announced the Llano Roping club is making plans to send a team of five ropers up at a convenient date after the harvest to match a Floydada Roping club team. It is a return visit the hill country club is making to repay a journey the Floydada club made last year down there. The Llano club is one of the strongest in the state, Johnson asserts. With 40 active members it can pick up a team most any time that can compete in fast country. Johnson says the Floydada club will have to do about to make it interesting for the visitors. Llano is 420 miles distant from Floydada.

Paint Street Signs So You Can Read 'Em

Latest big news in the old town! Soon you'll be able to read the street markers once more.

The signs, which needed attention about the time World War II broke out, are getting a cleaning up and a going over. Carl Rodgers, the fire chief, is doing the work at his odd times. He began with signs on Main and is branching out on other streets as he gets to them, applying a coat of black on the letters with an aluminum background.

The first of the week Rodgers had made a substantial beginning on a job which is likely to take a considerable number of hours of the time he has to spare from his regular duties.

Mrs. Marshall Davis Dies at Amarillo

Mrs. Marshall Davis, about 55, died at her home in Amarillo Tuesday night at 9 o'clock, and friends of the family in this county have been advised that the last rites will be held in Amarillo this afternoon.

Born and reared in Lockney, Mrs. Davis was Lennie Griffith before her marriage to Mr. Davis. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Griffith, and a sister of John, Walter Don and Cleve Griffith who live at Lockney. One other surviving brother, Glen, lives in Arizona.

Besides the surviving husband there are three children, two sons, Wayne of California, and Bob, of Lubbock, and one daughter, Mrs. Hervey Champion of Amarillo.

The Davis' moved to Amarillo from Lockney 10 years ago.

Shower Interrupts Avalanche to Elevators

There's plenty of wheat in those fields and the big whoosh was just beginning yesterday afternoon when a shower stopped combines in more than half of the county, with the probability they will resume work this afternoon. In the northwest one-third, approximately, there was no rain and combines continued to go into fields as owners decided the fields were ready.

Elevators Working Steadily

Last week the occasional dry fields that dotted the county began to pour wheat into central points, were added to daily with the result that Combines and crews by the score, trucks by the fifties and single-handed workers in large numbers, ready to hit the harvest, are being offered Floyd county wheat growers this week by crowds which have swamped the county agent's office, asking for placement. Most of these, except in the case of trucks, have found ready takers, as fast as they could be cleared. A considerable sprinkle of the outside help is reentered from as far north as the Dakotas and Canada.

Announce Loan Rate on Wheat In a Few Days

Although the Floyd county loan rate on wheat has not been figured and announced, the fact that there will be a loan value placed on wheat this season was confirmed yesterday to Ray S. McEntire, secretary of the Floyd County Agricultural Conservation Association out of Kansas City, Missouri, by the Grain branch of the Production and Marketing administration.

The new loan announced will be based $2.08 Galveston, the PMA wired in response to a query by McEntire, and the additional information was given that the Floyd county rate will be determined the same as usual, but that the differential will be increased due to increased freight rates and higher country elevator handling charges. The state office will supply the county loan rate soon, it was indicated.

A guess on the loan rate made in Fort Worth, which is generally credited locally as being about correct, is that it will be $1.80 to $1.82. The information has great importance to wheat growers who must make up their minds at once and state what disposition they want made of their wheat as it is delivered. With a loan date, even approximately known, a grower can have more information on which to base his decision. It was indicated here yesterday that wheat men are marking their wheat for storage with the intention of getting a loan when the facilities are made available, probably on July 1.

$150 Bass Hooked by Floydada Men

A bass bearing tag No. 33 in the Possum Kingdom fishermen's rodeo was one of several good catches a party of Floydada fishermen caught last week-end. No. 33 reported at Mineral Wells is reputed to be worth some $150 in prizes which will be forwarded to the fortunate fishermen shortly, they were told.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Glassmeyer, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Deakin, and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Daily, the latter of Dallas. The prize bass weighed three pounds.

Meat Department Adds More Space

Addition of a new refrigeration display counter which doubles the space given over to their meat department, was made over the weekend at Piggly-Wiggly food store in Floydada, it was announced this week by R. F. Finley, manager. A large walk-in storage vault for meats and a frozen foods self-serve display also are among the recent installations at the store, which aid in large volume retail sales of refrigerated and frozen foods.

HAZARDS OF THE HIGHWAY

Tired, sleepy men from homes all the way from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico are on the roads of West Texas with harvesting equipment this week and will be for several days. They have provided themselves with temporary shelter and eating places, many of them, to use through the harvest season. Some of them have relatively "palatial" outfits, others are using make-shifts, operating somewhat on a shoe string. All are tired, some of them irritated by unexpected difficulties. Some necessarily have to use a bit more of the highway than is exactly usual.

This adds up to the fact that, when you get out on the road the next few weeks you had better be careful for yourself and for some of them as well.

Certainly we want them here. They are all needed and the authorities indicate that during the rush of the harvest there will be a big shortage of machines and men as well. Our idea is that there'll be more men and machines than are needed to get the wheat to the elevators considering the speed with which the latter and the railways can handle the traffic of golden grain. Be that as it may, the hazards are there, multiplied by the facts of crowded highways, imperfect machinery, and weariness. So, do watch your speed and watch for them, too.

GIVE THEM SIXTY MINUTES

Development of the machine beyond the capacity of man to cope with it is to be demonstrated in Floyd county this week. It may have been demonstrated forty minutes ago, it may be another two hours beyond the time this newspaper is read.

Men and machines have combined to "combine" wheat and haul it to the elevator faster than the elevator can get it out of the elevator and into the railway company's car. Short time ago the elevator could care for all the grain that came in, given three men to man it, and enough freight cars to whip into position to receive it. Not so any longer, so far as a country concern's equipment is considered. Now they can't keep up at all, and 30 minutes lost on "cooperage" (on a railway car that isn't fit to hold grain and the dealer has to patch up) whips the crew down for the rest of the season.

A crop that once moved in six months from farm to granary and in a year to New York City or Europe now leaves the field on Tuesday and is in a warehouse at Galveston by Friday. While a hundred trucks wait impatiently in line to unload several more carloads in a few more minutes.

About 1,680,000 pounds of beef are lost each year by Texas stockmen due to infestations of cattle grubs.

GOOD OLD SOYA SAUCE!

A diet authority's release, special, tells of what a great household art has been handed down from grandmothers to daughters and on to granddaughters in the making of soya sauce. According to the writer, who may have been straining a wee bit, the details of the recipes and the strains of ferment to be used are quite important, because it has been imported from China where the grandmothers seem to have just cooked some good old soya sauce, forgetting to "standardize."

Over in the United States we are fixing things up a bit, "standardizing" you know, so every batch, regardless of the bacterium, molds, yeasts, or micro-organisms used, they will all taste just alike. We are good at that. Especially in the hinterland of "up nawth" are we good at making it all taste like a piece of rough fencing run through the tannery and dehydrated after it has soaked awhile.

Thus, says the writer, after a few paragraphs, has the "scientist captured a Chinese art." To many of us it would have been a good idea if the scientist had had a choking fit just before he effected the capture. But anybody who has a mamma who cooks to make the food that is good for her taste good, too, or a wife who also does her best against odds to fix her husband and children something that will tempt their palates, knows these good women are getting out of fashion and will do what can be done to keep these mothers and wives from making spectacles of themselves. What if they should speak out of turn at the bridge party, the WCTU meeting or the gathering of the home demonstration club women! We must indeed standardize! All together now! Rah, Rah, Rah! Leather, Leather! Make it all taste like leather!

It was said 23 hundred years ago by the Greek, Xenophon, that "When agriculture flourishes, all other pursuits are in full vigor; but when the ground is forced to lie barren, other occupations are almost stopped, as well by land as by sea."

Each year, 18,000 people are killed, and 2,000,000 injured in farm accidents in the United States.

Veterans Administration rating boards rated 345,000 cases for disability compensation or pensions during January, 1947.

New Motifs in Gardens Revealed By Pilgrimage of Floydada Club

One of the most enjoyable meetings of the year was in store for the Garden Club members and a number of guests, Friday morning when they met at the home of Mrs. E. C. Henry on West California Street. Mrs. Henry met and directed them to the out-door living room.

At a table, displaying all the colors of the rainbow, Mrs. Olin Watson and Louise Wilson fitted each woman with a sun-bonnet of becoming hue. They were then directed to the refreshment table where golden punch and Ho-made cookies were served by Mrs. Earl Hooge and Mrs. Ross Henry.

Wild flowers in brown containers were used to carry out a color scheme of golden and brown on the refreshment table.

In a short business session directed by Mrs. J. D. McBrien, president, plans were discussed for the organization of a Junior Garden club and Friday, June 20, at 4 p. m. was set for the organization hour the place to be arranged later.

Mrs. Ross Henry, Pilgrimage chairman, announced the itinerary for the morning tour. Out-standing gardens visited were those of The Fred Zimmerman, Jr.'s, The Everett Colliers and The J. A. Arwines.

One of the unique features, at the Zimmerman home, was a small plot of wheat in the middle of the rose garden. The wheat soon sown and tended by the youngest of the Zimmerman wheat-farmers, Fred III, will be harvested, ground and made into a loaf of bread by his parents, for "Zip" and his little sister "Kil".

Special interest, at the Everett Colliers, was the "Verbena Path" leading up to the house and around to the back yard. There the out-door fireplace, the attractive hand made furniture, and the rack garden nestled amid a restful setting of shrubs and flowers, were admired by all.

A touch of the West greeted the Pilgrims when they entered the Arwine gardens. A number of na-

Betty Golden, Munday Became Bride of Chas. P. Baker, Jr., Sunday

A wedding of general interest to Floyd county residents, was that of Betty Golden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Golden, to Charles Pinner Baker, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Baker, which was solemnized in the Little Chapel in the Woods at Denton Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rev. Luther Kirk, district superintendent of the Methodist church at Perceton, officiated.

Both the Baker and the Golden families are residents in Munday and the young couple were reared there. Following a wedding trip to Colorado the couple will return to Munday to make their home and the bride-room will be associated with the Baker-McClarty Mercantile company in business.

Among Floyd county relatives who attended the wedding ceremony were Mrs. E. C. Henry, grandmother of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Billie R. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Otis and sons, Mrs. George V. Smith of Floydada, and Mrs. A. P. Barker and son Barry of Lockney.

Five shrubs had been used in the landscaping and many Old and New were heard when the pine-cones were seen growing in a Floydada yard.

From here the members were adjourned and left for their respective homes. To each, there was a feeling of pride, a feeling that The Floydada Garden club had contributed something to their motto, "We Strive to Beautify".

And to Mrs. A. P. McKinnon 81 year old active club member came the fulfillment of a need for beauty that she saw years ago when she visited the first flower bed in Floydada.

Public Attitude Responsible of Accidents

We will always have a high toll of accidents unless the public changes its attitude toward accidents, warns H. Harvey, manager director of the National Conservation Bureau.

There is danger, too, that the heeding only of the more widely publicized toll of traffic accidents overlook the hazard of accidents in the home.

Although the increasing number of traffic accidents and deaths shake the soul of the most individual, we should be quick to let the need for increasing safety in this field claim all attention," warned Mr. Harvey.

At least 80 percent of all accidents are due to personal causes and are therefore preventable by the care of him—all have poor personal attitudes and are social delinquents.

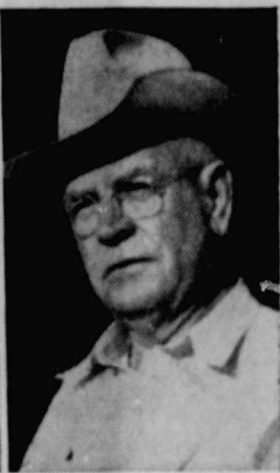

Lack of Mental Control

"Such faulty thinking qualities permit the lack of mental control that results in accidents occurring on the highway, in industry, in the home or anywhere and which are

Communist Vs. American Creed

By Mrs. Lydia Hayes National Americanism Chairman

We must decide now what we will leave to posterity—democracy or communism.

It was in May of 1776 that the communists in Russia first announced their adoption of the philosophy of Karl Marx and Frederick Engels, a philosophy so repulsive that even their native land Germany, rejected them and they fled to Russia as refugees.

AMERICANISM

I am an American. I may think speak or write as I please, so long as I do not interfere with the rights of others.

I have the right to vote. By my vote I choose the public officers who are really my servants.

I have the right to choose my work, to seek any job for which my experience and ability have fitted me.

I have the right to try to improve my lot in this world.

I have the right to prompt trial by jury if I should be accused of crime. I may seek justice in the courts where I have equal rights with others.

I have the privilege of sharing in the benefits of the many natural resources of my country.

I educate my children in our free schools.

I have the right to worship God as I please.

I have the Bill of Rights which guarantee me the right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

By a peculiar incident, or was it fate, in the same month and year May 1776, the continental congress declared the American colonies free of dictator rule and wrote the Declaration of Independence.

Now, we find these two nations who are supposed to be allies, pitted against each other. The world is measuring the merits of their respective governments. What will the outcome be?

Here, briefly, is Americanism and Communism.

COMMUNISM

I am a communist. I must destroy all religions, because the people must have faith only in communism—not in God.

I must destroy all national authority, and all rights of private ownership.

I must oppose all church leaders.

I must undermine the people's belief in family fidelity.

I must encourage intolerance of all official authority.

I must foster the spirit of revenge and violence—so that in the end all semblance of orderly government will be shattered.

I must do all I can to destroy democracy, for communism cannot flourish if democracy exists anywhere in the world.

I must work for dictatorship that controls individuals, their families, business, governments - everything in all countries.

I must strive to suppress all freedoms, and personal liberties.

KILLED BEFORE THEY HATCH

Chicks killed by a specific virus ten days before they hatch are the source of the vaccine that prevents encephalomyelitis (sleeping sickness) in horses, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. H. W. Schoenig, Bureau of Animal Industry, describes the steps of this method that kills half-hatched chicks to save horses from a disease that may also attack men.

After eggs have been incubated for 10 days, candling reveals the ones in which life has developed in the embryo. A skilled operator uses equipment similar to a dentist's drill to grind away shell at the end of such an egg, taking care not to puncture the membrane that lines the shell and encloses the egg material. A similar opening in the large end of the shell is ground away to allow for expansion when the injection needle is forced in.

Next the operator forces the needle of a hypodermic syringe through the outer membrane of the egg and into the membrane that surrounds and feeds the developing embryo. He injects a small dose of the infected virus material, withdraws the needle seals the two holes in the shell with paraffin, and returns the egg to the incubator for 18 hours.

The virus develops and affects the embryo within 18 hours. The eggs are then opened; the embryo are removed and ground fine, and added to a salt solution. A weak formalin solution is then added to kill the virus, and the material is allowed a week to settle in a refrigerator. The clear fluid after settling is the vaccine that is injected into horses to provide the protection against the virus.

The vaccine gets results because the vaccinated animal proceeds to develop the protective "antibodies" that are also found in the blood of animals that have recovered from the disease. Following a second injection of vaccine, enough killed virus is injected to further stimulate the development of more of the antibodies -- enough to take care of any load of virus likely to attack the horse as a result of bites by virus-carrying insects.

BIG WHEAT CROP

Since Floyd County will probably produce the largest grain crop in its history the Grain Dealers of Floyd County think it best to call some matters to the attention of grain producers before the harvest begins:

1. Most combines have been mounted on rubber and a great number of them follow the harvest throughout the summer. With so many machines available the harvest rush becomes faster each season. This condition makes it impossible for the small grain handler to protect himself in handling high moisture grain. He does not have the time nor the facilities for making blends that will get the grain out in proper condition.

With plenty of wheat—and more—terminal elevators and mills are not going to accept any high moisture without exacting severe penalties. Therefore, we cannot afford to accept wheat with more than 14% moisture.

2. To give producers the best service this time it will be necessary to load every available box car as quickly as possible. That may help us to get your wheat out of your hands before we become blocked and save the necessity of wheat going on the ground. If we hurry it on out of the country we must know at once whether you expect to sell or store. If we delay in deciding that, much wheat will be unloaded at terminals before it is sold. That will entail a lot of extra charges which the grain dealers do not believe they should be called upon to absorb. Hence, it is necessary to charge storage from the date that you unload your grain—no free storage will be allowed; nor will unloading charges at the terminals be paid for by us in case you delay selling until after your grain has reached destination.

3. While box cars appear to be plentiful judging by the number parked on the sidings in this neighborhood, still we are fearful that there may not be enough to go around so it is suggested that you make up your mind what disposition you want to make of your wheat and let us know at once when it begins to move.

4. We expect to give you everything we can in the way of service and as conditions are unusual we crave your co-operation in the efforts made to take care of this crop.

5. We wish to discourage the idea of instructing your trucker to go anywhere he can get unloaded, especially with no other instructions, realizing that this practice can only bring on confusion. We suggest that instead you make every effort to patronize the dealer of your choice.

Radio - Phone Hook Up Latest in Rural Areas

SCHENECTADY.—A combination radio and telephone hook-up, developed for rural areas which cannot support regular telephone service, is the newest telephone system for farms and ranches.

One such system, installed on an experimental basis in Cheyenne Wells, Colorado, serves a small group of ranches about 20 miles from the town. Paul W. Blye of New York City, transmission engineer of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, declared in a General Electric Science Forum address here over WGY and WGFM. Mr. Blye's talk was one which marked the centennial of the birth of Alexander Graham Bell inventor of the telephone.

Four of these Colorado ranches have their own radio terminals, and from one of them a wire-line goes to four more ranches. Mr. Blye continued, "As far as any of these patrons is concerned, his telephone might be right in town. He simply picks up his handset, the operator answers, and he gives the number he wants."

About 1,000 calls a month are handled over the system, and some of them have been real emergencies Mr. Blye pointed out.

NOTHING WRONG

The story is told of a prominent actor who conceived the notion that he re-quired an examination by a psychiatrist. So one day he took himself to the office of such an expert and laid before the doctor the complete story of his life up to that moment. He recited his fears and foibles, his diet, his love life, his dreams, his failures and successes—and anything else that came to mind.

"There is no need to go on," the psychiatrist said at last, "I find nothing wrong with you. Why did you come to me? You certainly seem as sane as I am."
"But doctor," the actor protested, "I came to see you about these infernal caterpillars. I can't stand them. They're crawling all over me."
"My goodness," exclaimed the doctor, keeping his distance, "Don't brush them off on me!"

"It was no accident. He was trying to crack jokes."

WICKED OR BAD?

The word wicked is derived from the ancient Anglo-Saxon "wicke," meaning a witch. "Wicked" implies offensive practice, while "bad" implies offensive qualities. Spoiled food is bad because of its inherent taste, but an evil action is wicked.

A man is bad through inherent evil traits of character, but he is wicked, because of the evil acts he commits. Bad implies no action; wicked does.

SCENE OF THE ANGLO-AMERICAN ASSAULT ON D-DAY, JUNE 6, 1944—This map depicts 115 miles of the English Channel Coast of Normandy between Le Havre and Cherbourg where the American First Army and the British Second Army established beachheads following prolonged air attacks and effective naval bombardment. Dotted lines indicate the beaches where landings were made. Omaha Beach where the heaviest losses were sustained was taken by the U. S. 1st, 29th and 2nd Infantry Divisions. At Utah Beach landings were made by the U. S. 4th, 90th and 9th Infantry Divisions after landings had been effected inland by the U. S. 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions. In the British-Canadian sector chief interest is the thrust toward Caen. Cherbourg was captured June 26th. By July 28th the breakthrough beyond St. Lo opened the way for the fall of Avranches to the 4th Armored Division and the sweeping advance of the Third Army.

Blaine's Eulogy Of the Martyred James Garfield

(A masterpiece of oratory was the eulogy by James G. Blaine on the martyred President, James A. Garfield.)

Great in life, he was surpassingly great in death. For no cause, in the very frenzy of wantonness and wickedness, by the red hand of murder, he was thrust from the full tide of this world's interest, from his hopes, his aspirations, his victories, into the visible presence of death - and he did not quail. Not alone for one short moment in which, stunned and dazed, he could give up life, hardly aware of its relinquishment, but through days of deadly languor, through weeks of agony that were not less agony because silently borne, with clear sight and calm courage he looked into his open grave.

What blight and ruin met his anguished eyes, whose lips may tell - what brilliant, broken plans, what baffled, high ambitions, what bitter rending of sweet household ties! Behind him a proud, expectant nation a great host of sustaining friends, a cherished and happy mother, wearing the full, rich honors of her early toil and tears; the wife of his youth, whose whole life lay in his; the little boys not yet emerged from childhood's day of frolic; the fair young daughter; the sturdy sons just springing into closest companionship, claiming every day and every day rewarding a father's love and care; and in his heart the eager, rejoicing power to meet all demands. And his soul was not shaken.

His countrymen were thrilled with instant, profound and universal sympathy. Masterful in his mortal weakness, he became the center of a nation's love, enshrined in the prayers of a world. But all the love and all the sympathy could not share with his suffering. He trod the wine-press alone. With unflinching front, he faced death with unflinching tenderness, he took leave of life. Above the demonic hiss of the assassin's bullet he heard the voice of God. With simple resignation, he bowed to the Divine decree.

As the end drew near, his early craving for the sea returned. The stately mansion of power had been to him the wearisome hospital of pain and he begged to be taken from his prison walls, from its oppressiveness, stifling air, from its homely, the love of a great people bore the pale sufferer to the longed-for, the hopelessness. Gently pressing, stifling air, from its home for healing of the sea, to live and to die, as God should will, within sight of the heaving billows, within sounds if its manifold voices.

With a wan, fevered face tenderly lifted to the cooling breeze, he looked wistfully upon the ocean's changing wonders; on its far sails; on its restless waves, rolling shoreward to break and die beneath the noon-day sun; on the red clouds of evening, arching low to the horizon; on the serene and shining pathway of the stars. Let us think that his dying eyes read a mystic meaning which only the rapt and parting soul may know. Let us believe that in the silence of the receding world, he heard the great waves breaking on a further shore and felt already upon his wasted brow the breath of the eternal morning.

May Be Housing Solution

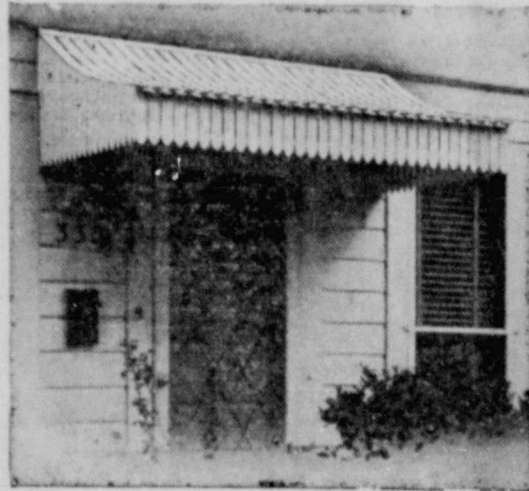

Three-bedroom house, shown above as pictured in the April issue of House Beautiful magazine, is being mass-produced by Henry Kaiser, whose industrial know-how contributed so much to our recent victory. Using partial prefabrication and a standardized floor plan, Kaiser produces dwellings such as these for $8,650. They are located on a 60 x 100 plot. By varying the exteriors, Kaiser has eliminated the dread "rubber-stamp" look of mass-produced dwellings. Housing experts believe the Kaiser technique marks a brand-new development in the housing field, and may solve our national housing shortage.

How to Simplify Dish Washing

COLLEGE STATION, June—That ever-present task of washing dishes can be a simple, fast operation, according to Mrs. Florence W. Low, home management specialist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

"This will probably shock most grandmothers," Mrs. Low says, "but there might be just one dishwashing period a day. Of course the sorting of dishes, size of the kitchen, and the kind of draining surface used will determine this."

THE LEAST YOU CAN DO

The early Greek physicians believed that it was not possible for a man to enjoy perfect health unless he carefully organized his life to accomplish this single objective. This meant the meticulous ordering of each day. Proper nutrition, exercise, and rest were perfectly balanced. Physical constitution, age, and even the seasons of the year were considered.

For a man of affairs, such a regimen is out of the question. When your work is done, you play and exercise when you can. But this little you can do. See your family physician at least once a year. Follow his advice. In case medication is required, we are prepared to serve you, promptly and economically.

Vacation Church School Has Full Enrollment

The daily vacation church school conducted by the First Methodist church of Floydada began last Monday with a full enrollment. The well planned program under trained leaders is receiving the eager response of the children from the beginner through the junior ages.

The beginners are studying the subject, "The World Outside" the primary age, "Outdoors in Palestine" and the Juniors, "The People Who Lived in Jesus' Day." Their study, handwork and recreation are planned to emphasize these subjects. During next week Reverend R. L. (Bob) Butler, pastor of The Methodist Church at Merkel, Texas, will be present as a resource person for the studies on Palestine. Having been to Palestine where he studied the customs of the people and their traditions and ways of thinking he is prepared to help make much of the Bible a living reality to the children and others who hear him. Rev. Butler has some of the native costumes of the people of Palestine, some water from Jacob's Well, the Jordan River and the Dead Sea. He has baptized a number of people with water from the Jordan.

A public service open to everyone is to be conducted on both Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock at which time Rev. Butler will present his very interesting program on Palestine.

On Thursday evening the children of the school will participate in the open program and have their handwork on display. The mothers and fathers in particular and the general public are invited.

The school will conclude with group picnics for the children of the different departments on Friday morning.

officers, city officials and others into a meeting last Friday night, urged discussion leading to the construction of a city auditorium and recreation center.

Guy Ginn, president of the Jaycees, and Jewel Elza, secretary, sent out the invitations and more than 30 attended the session. All present indicated a desire to see the project undertaken.

Practically every organized segment of the community was represented.

Sponsored by the Jaycees

Convinced that one of the principal needs of the community is an auditorium and recreation center, the Jaycees took the lead in calling the meeting, having decided in their organization to sponsor the auditorium as a project. The meeting was called for the purpose of sounding out sentiment, learn whether an auditorium was looked upon by others as a need of the community, and if so to organize all efforts.

As an outgrowth of the Friday night meeting, a similar monthly session will be held for an indefinite period, every second Friday night. Guy Ginn, president of the Jaycees said. The same group, with others added as interested, will attend the meetings.

Ginn said yesterday that the auditorium as a project would be a long range effort, and no concrete undertaking will be put before the public until all angles have been studied fully. He announced the appointment of a committee composed of Rev. Lloyd H. Jones, Earl Crow, Mrs. J. M. Wilson and Mrs. Lon M. Davis, which will make a study of the needs and offer a plan for a building adequate for the purpose. A committee which will study and report on the financing possibilities is composed of O. M. Watson, Lewis Norman, Mrs. J. D. Cleveland, and Mrs. John Stapleton.

STOPS TOOTH DECAY

Up and down have gone the hopes of the unhappy owners of America's half-billion decay-damaged teeth. The question was: Would or wouldn't fluorine help them stay away from dentists' chairs?

Early indications that calcium fluoride in diet or drinking water could make teeth decay-proof were played up by the press. Later, nutritionists dampened hopes by pointing out that the helpful fluoride salts hardened enamel only in teeth still growing—young people's. Now a California biochemist, H. M. Leicester of San Francisco's College of Physicians and Surgeons, has revived adult's hopes. Experimentally he tried painting dental patients' teeth on the outside with calcium fluoride solution, letting it dry on. It built itself in, he found, replacing the hydroxyl in the enamel, in eight applications.

When lactobacilli acidophilus, the that develops in the mouth, attacks enamel-destroying micro-organism the re-surfaced teeth, it gets a skin-there-surfaced teeth, it gets a skin-full of free fluorine, dies.—Ex.

Shurbel, a District cooperator who lives in the Almon community, states that he is growing up a considerable acreage of alfalfa in rotation with wheat but is not leaving the stand as long as he normally does because of the low price of alfalfa. The alfalfa was planted with superphosphate in the spring and according to Soil Conservation technicians this should be a better balance of plant nutrients for the crop that follows.

Bobbit, a District cooperator in the North Sterley group, states that he has graded 125 sheep pens on 9 acres of improved grass for thirty days and has grass left to run them another ten days before he takes off the pens. He also stated that the pens that were laid out by the Conservation Service technicians answered a twofold purpose: ideal for watering and during the big rains which last month they saved his pens and prevented washing.

Byars, a District cooperator in the Pleasant Valley group has turned under 25 acres of vetch pasture mure and planned to wax kaffir with a drill by June 20 but every fourth row making 40-inch rows.

Rites For Henry Hobbs, Oil Man, Held at Wichita

WICHITA FALLS—Henry Hobbs 63, president of the Hobbs Oil Company when it was in operation, a retired capitalist and resident of Wichita Falls since 1918, died in a Wichita Falls hospital June 6.

Hobbs was born in Stephens county, Texas, May 26, 1884. His father, W. M. Hobbs, was a Georgian whose parents brought him to Texas when he was a boy. His mother, the former Miss S. A. Harris, was a native Texan. With his parents, Hobbs moved from Stephens county where Henry Hobbs was educated. After his schooling he entered the cattle business with his father, which connection he continued until 1918 when he came to Wichita Falls.

After six months stay in Wichita Falls, Hobbs went into the oil business. He invested in 160 acres of Block 97 of the northwest district. From that beginning he rose to become head of the $6,000,000 company which from 73 wells rendered a monthly output of nearly $250,000.

Ill with Parkinson's disease since the early 1930's, Hobbs had not been active in the oil business since that time. Prior to that he and a son, Melvin Hobbs, now of Houston, engaged in the oil business in North Texas and in East Texas.

Hobbs was a member of the First Baptist Church in Wichita Falls. He was married to Miss Tock Hand in Floyd County on July 29, 1903.

Funeral services were held from the First Baptist Church at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Dr. James H. Landes and Dr. O. L. Powers officiating.

Interment was made in the Wichita Falls Rosemont cemetery under the direction of Hampton Vaughan & Merkle Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife; his mother, Mrs. W. M. Hobbs, Matarador, a daughter, Mrs. J. D. Hughes, South Pasadena, Calif., the son, Melvin Hobbs, Houston seven grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Harry Carter and two nieces, Mrs. John Stotts and Mrs. Jack Luckett of Matarador; and a brother, Monroe Hobbs, Lubbock.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(By Nellie Witt Spikes)

A peddler, I believe his name was, came by this past week with a big pack. His feet were shod in shoes of green, his hair looked like the lake nearby. I liked the suit, brown as Mother Earth and with stitches of green. But the things he had in his pack looked so many I was afraid they would not be enough for others. The garden and yards of lace enticed me enough to go to the peddler's east side of the house. Queen Anne's lace, yards and yards of filmy white web-like lace. I trimmed the south side of the garden fence with it and trimmed yards and yards around among the pink and blue orchid larkspurs. June will peddle his wares a few more days then he will pass on as did the peddler of other days, leaving folks happier with yards and yards of beautiful laces.

I want to thank John Ingram, once of Crosbyton but now of Germany, for the small box of lovely polished shells he brought from Okinawa and left with his mother for my collection. I hold each in turn in my hand enjoying them and wondering that they should have come so far to be mine.

The garden has soaked up water like a sponge the past week of hot winds. No sooner was a row watered, it seemed, that it needed more. The beans look pretty well, but I never did get the Kentucky Wonders staked. There was plenty of limbs cut from the trees that did not need more than sticking in the ground, but they had to be carried in and I never did get around to it. The potatoes are fine. The ground is raised up at every plant. Tomatoes seem to be growing for lost time and there are two zinnias where only one should be. I plant my flower garden in the vegetable garden and have lots and lots of flowers to cut. It makes gardening a greater pleasure.

I put the crochet away but only where I can pick it up if I want to. I find it relaxing and the bits of lace make nice gifts.

If Jackie and Kermit Davis had not come along at the right time yesterday afternoon, Mr. Spikes and I would have had a long time sitting in the car, the front wheels in the bar ditch and the ground slick as could be. I had hurried but the windshield wipers would not work fast enough to keep the glass clear enough for speed as we raced toward the rain cloud.

Of course I was to blame. We had been to visit Wilson and his wife at his clinic in Ralls stopping by to see Mr. Ware who was just home from the hospital. Mr. Spikes warned me two or three times that we had better go, but the porch was cool, the chair easy and we were visiting with friends of many years, so why hurry. Did not look too much like rain anyway.

As we sat with the car tilting forward, the rain pelting down, I had plenty of time to wish I had hurried more and Mr. Spikes seemed to enjoy telling me so.

Law Of The Harvest

Zella M. Walters
In a changing, puzzling world one truth stands that even the most careless can read. "The law of the harvest still holds". It has from the beginning, and it will hold forever. Men are reaping today what they have sown, and in the next harvest time they will reap what they are sowing today.
