Action Needed Now.—The Need for the 190 miles of farm to market roads in South Plains counties included in the program announced the other day by State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer is too apparent for discussion.

In fact, agreement is general, even in the State Highway department, that a great deal more such construction can be justified and will have to be done eventually. The program, however, would be a splendid start.

But residents of the 17 counties of this area included in the program must remember that the construction listed by Mr. Greer is dependent upon the provision of right-of-way for the proposed roads.

The sooner the governing bodies of the individual counties take steps to provide them, the surer they will be of the needed roads. Compliance with the condition is likely to be difficult in some instances. If the difficulties result in too much delay, some allocation almost certainly will be transferred to other counties. The demand for such roads is much greater than can be supplied within the next few years.

South Plains residents do not want to lose a mile of the roads included in the program announced by Mr. Greer. They, therefore, cannot procrastinate in the attempt to provide the required rights-of-way.

Announcement that cottonseed support program has been worked out with Commodity Credit corporation has been made out of Washington. Commodity Credit corporation is the government agency which absorbs losses entailed in the agricultural and numerous other government operations to support prices. Cotton seed have been selling as low as $35 per ton in the early crops of South Texas and other far south areas where harvest has already gotten under way. This has been somewhat rugged for the producers who have been used to cottonseed selling at $70 and up to a hundred the past few years. All kinds of fats took a big tumble in the past 12 months and they carried cottonseed and other vegetable oils down with them, including products of copra and soybeans. The readjustment, even at $50 per ton, will make quite a difference in the price the consumer will pay for such things as cottonseed meal and cake, for which there is usually a heavy market in this region. Meal and cake have been moving this year on the basis of last year costs for the most part, and it is to be noted that lard and soaps and other products that used fats have retailed at lower prices for some months.

The Tidelands controversy moves along with some indication that there is a compromise coming up. Confidence that the federal government will win its cases against both Louisiana and Texas is being expressed by Mr. Krug, the Secretary of the Interior, who says it is only a matter of the high court getting around to the case. Some indignation has been indicated in Austin over what is presumed to be an abstract of the compromise proposed. The State School board says the plan is entirely unsatisfactory. It is assumed the compromise plan spearheaded by Speaker Sam Rayburn is the one to which they refer. The outline has not been given to the general public. Evidently the claim of Texas must not be as simple and as uncontroversial as most country newspapermen think it to be. The Hesperian among these. It is our impression that Rayburn and others think there is no chance for their state to win the fight for Tidelands control and anything that can be salvaged will be just that much.

K. N. Clapp, the Anderson Clayton company area representative, who has been a wizard on cotton forecast in the South Plains country for a quarter of a century or so, gave out figures last week-end in which he forecast among other things, that Floyd county's 65,000 acres of land in cotton this season, will produce 50,000 bales, assuming that conditions move along normally. Of the acreage in cotton in Floyd county he says 40,000 acres are under irrigation and 25,000 acres in dry land cotton. Several south plains counties he estimates will run close to 100,000 bales and some of them are likely to break production records. Weather during August is most likely to tell the story of a bigger or a lesser production, Mr. Clapp says.

Ben F. Ezell, pre-war member of the Floyd County Hesperian staff, who made quite a record as an Air Force reconnaissance photographer in the Southwest Pacific, now has a newspaper of his own. He recently bought the interest of Vincent Lockhart in the Canadian Record. After his separation from the army, Ezell was with The Hereford Brand for two years or more. Thence he went to Canadian as newsman for The Record.

Week Entries West Texas Photo Contest

Photographers, both amateur and professional, of Floyd county, will have a chance at winning two top prizes within the next two months in the West Texas photographic contest now being sponsored by the Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Announcement of the contest was made by B. H. Crowell, manager of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce, who has been asked to assign local photographic entries. Prizes will be equal prizes in the amount of $100.00 each, with the possibility of accumulating a file of Texas photographs for Chamber of Commerce use.

Prizes will be $45 Crown Grant as the top prize in each class. Contest will close Sept. 30, with winners made in November. Pictures made in West Texas will be eligible, according to Crowell. They also must tell a story of West Texas, showing something of its beauty, industry or recreation. This will also be an opportunity for many fine pictures around Floyd county to be submitted, Mr. Crowell said.

All entries must be enlarged to size 8x10 glossy, with data written on the back. They may be finished either by the taker or in commercial plants. Other information may be had at the Chamber of Commerce.

Turn Soft Water Supply Into Mains

Old dream of Paducah citizens was realized recently when Mrs. C. M. Graham pulled the electric switch that started the motors of five new water wells, pumping soft water into the mains from a location about four and one half miles west of that city.

The event was celebrated with a ceremony which attracted between 200 and 300 people. Following speeches by Mayor Byron Schotts and other members of the council, Mrs. Graham pulled the switch that started the pumps. The first soft water well was discovered on the Graham farm, while other wells are located on two other adjacent farms.

County's Road Bond Refund About $25,000

The Board of County and District Road Indebtedness at Austin last week notified the Floyd County Commissioners court that they may expect to receive soon a check for approximately $20,046.28, which is the remainder of the county's credit from the road indebtedness fund of the state, and represents approximately the same amount as received by this county last year. The gross credit to the county is indicated in the estimate at $25,206.28, but of this amount $5,060.50 is being credited to the sinking fund on this county's eligible road bond issues, the local officials were told. $93.50 will be the board's service charge.

This money is slated to go either into construction or improvement of lateral roads, according to the statute which set up the procedure under which Texas counties share alike in the highway indebtedness fund which accumulates for the payment of state highways annually.

Rain Calls Off Half-Holiday For Clean-Up

When it showers in West Texas that cancels all bets, calls off all dates, and that is the story of what happened to the half-holiday in Floydada Wednesday morning, proclaimed by the mayor and urged by everyone to give each and all a chance at a last clean-up fling and the volunteers a chance to help the city finish the job of mass removal of non-burnable refuse within the city limits.

Late yesterday Mayor F. C. Harmon said plans are indefinite about setting another date for a half-holiday. Property owners who can get their un-burnable refuse into the alleys will soon see a city sanitary truck rolling by, if the city has to hire another truck to help their present force. This action may have to be taken by the city, said the mayor.

However if the job turns out to be so big the city cannot get around it then the call for volunteer help will be made again.

Yesterday no new cases of epidemic, polio or otherwise, had been reported locally.

Testing of grasses for improving forage yields and for holding the soil in place has been important in the research program of the Soil Conservation Service. Results have supplied basic scientific information, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Blue grama is one of the desirable.

able native bunch grasses of the western plains. It grows over a wide climatic range from Canada to Mexico, and in a broad belt each side of the Rockies. But when the SCS collected seeds from various locations north, south, and central and planted them side by side in nursery rows, the plants from seeds that looked alike did not grow alike. Each tended to follow the habit of growth that would have been suitable for the area in which the seed was produced. Blue grama from Texas seed planted in North Dakota continued to grow through the cool fall weather, but did not set seed before killing frost, and many plants could not stand the severe winter. When seed grown in North Dakota was planted in central Texas, the grass bloomed and set seed early in summer and did not continue to grow as the Texas blue grama does.

and proved as well adept as the Hungarian brome. In general, the reseeding or improvement of pastures and ranges is most likely to succeed if seed comes from near by.

Similarly with the seed of smooth brome imported from Russia and Hungary. The Russian seed did not thrive in hot summer weather, but the Hungarian strain did well. Farther north, however, the Russian strain found climate similar to the one in which it had developed.

One good service of the Soil Conservation Districts, as organized by farmers and ranchers in recent years, has been to promote harvesting of seed of local native grasses and distribution of this seed in the neighborhood where it is well adapted.

Cox Says Pre-School Check-Up Is Needed

AUSTIN—The month of September brings a return of school days, and thousands of Texas boys and girls will be returning to classrooms for the next nine months. Every one of these children, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, should be as free as possible from all physical defects that can be corrected, and protected against other diseases which frequently spread through classrooms.

A complete medical and dental pre-school check-up is of the utmost importance in getting the child, ready for school. Eyes, ears, nose, throat, and teeth should be carefully examined, and all remediable defects corrected or placed under treatment. Such defects can lead to serious impairment of growth and progress academically, socially and emotionally.

Defects of hearing and vision handicap a child in his class work, and often result in the false impression that he is backward and unable to learn. Such defects can often be corrected, and the child is not only more progressive in his school work, but is a happier, better balanced individual as a result of being more socially acceptable. Dental defects should be corrected not only for cosmetic reasons, but because good teeth enable a child to chew his food properly and thus promote good digestion and bodily nourishment.

"In addition to correcting such defects as already exist, young children should be protected by immunization against diseases, when possible," Dr. Cox said. "Immunization is safe and dependable, and every child is entitled to this protection against disease."

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(By Nellie Witt Spikes)

Let's slip in the Witt and Spikes General Mercantile store this West Texas reunion and watch the people buy their supplies.

It is the year of 1903 and many who came in the store that summer are gone to new frontiers and the small children who ate the candy and chewed the wax now gather for remembering just forty-six years later. Many of the young girls are buying yards and yards of material-like-calicoes to make long swinging dresses today that year of 1903.

L. B. Culwell bought a dress for Allie, eleven yards of calico. W. H. Hames bought 12 yards domestic, 75c 10 yards calico, 65c—2 yards lace, and one spool thread. R. J. Heard to one sack meal. R. E. King to one bottle shoe polish. Albert Murphy to one saddle, $30.00 By two heifers, $30.00.

The fourth and fifth of August that year A. Detwiler bought a broom and a bucket of lard. J. A. Bedingfield paid 25c for a call to Floydada. Tom Martin bought soap and gold-dust. Matt Davis wanted a barrel. T. H. Ellis was in town buying rice, lima beans, John Taylor paid $3.20 for 100 lbs. flour—people wanted vinegar and turnip and mustard seed. Joe Brown from Estacado paid $2.00 for a hat.

George Jones bought a lap duster for a dollar. Do you recall them? They were to spread over laps during buggy rides. Pearson brothers, Clabe and Foster bought 5 lbs. nails which cost them 30c (they can't do that now) Ed Snodgrass bought a French harp and Elijah James paid $2.00 for a saddle blanket. Remember how he could sing cowboy songs?

Ed A. Kelly to 1/2 dozen collars, 75c. They were the kind held on by small collar buttons, that is if you could find the buttons. Tom Jones bought two shirts for one dollar and paid $1.60 for a pair of gloves. Crosby county was set back for one dozen pencils which cost 15c. Pink Parrish paid fifty cents for a belt. C. R. Ramseur sold father a hog for $5.50. E. King bought one can salmon, 20c, 1 lb. crackers, 10c and took home candy. John Taylor bought a hat pin, for Nora, maybe.

Arthur Davis bought a jumper for fifty cents and suspenders for a quarter. J. W. Boyle paid $3.75 for a hundred pounds of sugar. Ed Kelly hired a buggy and team for a day which set him back the sum of $2.50.

Maybe it is time to leave the store and look round the sleepy town. Those hot summer days, forty-six years ago. The wind stirred the windmill and cool water ran into the big overhead tank with a cooling sound—a cowboy watered his tired, thirsty horse at the trough on the north side. A freight wagon creaked and rattled into town the driver worn-out from the long trip to and from the railroad at Canyon City. The breeze ruffled the cottonwood leaves at the Martin home—the scent of sweet-lash-sour canyon plums came on the air from several homes. A few men sat on the worn porch in front of the store and whittled small sticks into curly whittlings—no smoke from rushing trains mingled with the smoke from cow chip fires in the frame dwellings. Children scream and laugh and shout from their play, but for the most part you can hear the sound of locusts and the chirping of the mud dauber birds building under the eaves of the courthouse.

Only a few short years Emma played a leading role in Crosby county. From 1891 to 1906 or '10. But she lives on in the memory of the ones who knew and love her. The scent of blossoming wild plums and yellow roses at the Murray orchard, the exquisite perfume of honeysuckle and roses from the Martin home, the magic perfume of waxywhite locust blossoms in the moonlight of the courtyard, these live on.

The sound of running water in barrels, the click of a key as the merchant locks up his stock of goods to go home, the sound of a galloping horse, the rattling of wagons and buggies, the singing of Will Reagan bringing in the mail, the dancing fiddle tunes from the big courtroom.

Oh! these are not forgotten. The sight of long lances as the boys ran the tournament at the picnics, the big frosted cakes and chess pies and the smoke from the roasting barbecue. No, we do not forget. But as you read this your memories will blot out these I am recording and yours will come clear and sweet and take their place and we shall all be happier for the days that once were.

Motley Court House Readied for Occupancy

MATADOR—Largest real estate transaction in Matador during recent years was negotiated Monday by J. M. Jackson, pioneer cowboy, who is boss and manager of the Matador ranch for many years, purchased the Motley county temporary courthouse property. The cash consideration was $16,500. Mr. Jackson divides his time between Matador and Hot Springs, New Mexico. Besides the use of the building for five years, the county realized

$6,500 more than was paid to the Lockett estate after the old courthouse burned in September of 1944. Amount of actual profit is not known since considerable money was spent in converting the buildings for courthouse use, including partitions and the construction of two concrete vaults for sheriff and clerk records.

County Judge C. W. Giesecke, Jr., declared the court was satisfied with the results of the sale which included other minor buildings. Total cash proceeds were $17,661.

Builders of the new courthouse estimate that it will be ready for occupancy about the first of August. County ACA office is already located in the new building.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Badgett and family spent Saturday night and Sunday in Amarillo, where they were guests of the Fred Nabors family.

Twelve Widows On Mississippi Want Pavement

Mississippi Street in Floydada is one of the most populated streets in the community and it appears "they" are all for paving it. At least twelve widows on the street favor it and some of them are not too wealthy as this world's goods go.

So reports George Sherrill of the Palace Barber shop, who owns property on the street and thinks very well of it, so well that he wants to see the street paved and has gotten out to see the folks and ask them about it.

This week Sherrill's score was 41 out of 44 owners on four blocks between Main street and second street, a distance of four blocks, of people who have signed up for paving, which will be done when and if three more owners sign up. Two are non-resident, one is a local resident, a man. No widows have indicated they are un-willing to pave, Sherrill said. In fact, all the widows say they want the street paved and will pay the assessment against their properties.

"West Mississippi is one of the best streets in all of Floydada. It has mighty little paving now but if we realize our hopes it will have," said Mr. Sherrill.

Cooper & Woodruff, who have a new road contract coming up (at Cedar and Center-Fairview) will pave streets the same as during June and July and at the same price if the demand calls for it.

FARMERS

We spent another $400 last week for more and better equipment.

We now have more than 200 good Hen Coops we are selling. 38 new one man coops and 50 used poultry coops at a real bargain.

Charley Berry

Indications that a good many residents of Floydada will want paving has been heard in the current talks, but Mississippi is the first to begin to get on the dotted line. East Mississippi already has paving to the Q. A. & P. station.

"We'd sure like for the other three owners to make it unanimous," said Sherrill this week. "We'd like for the men folk to show they are as able as the widows are to pay the small assessment needed."

Hospital Meeting To Be Friday Night

Meeting of the members of the Peoples hospital association will be tomorrow night, when a special session is called to give members an opportunity to select seven of 14 nominees for posts as trustees of the organization.

Decision to have the special meeting of the membership was reached by the present board late in July, when it was announced that the membership and interest is now largely increased over the membership and interest at the time the present board was named, and the board felt that the enlarged membership should now have the opportunity to name a full board.

Nominees include all the present members of the board plus seven others, the list being composed of: Milton Harrison, Lakeview; Walter Collins, Floydada; Roy Hale, Harmony; Bill McNeil, Dougherty; J. B. Smitherman, South Plains; Hollis Bond, Floydada; E. L. Thomas, Blanco; John A. Lloyd, O. C. Vinson, John L. Hrabal, J. P. Moss, Floydada; Joe Robertson, Center; Ed Holmes, Sand Hill; and W. F. Ferguson, Starkey. The last seven named are members of the board. Other nominations may be made from the floor.

The newly-elected or re-elected members of the board will take office upon their election, acceptance and qualification.

Date of the meeting is Friday night, August 5, the hour is 8 o'clock and the place is the American Legion hall.

Present trustees will furnish the refreshments for the meeting and all the membership is urged to come and help elect trustees of their choice to help build it bigger and better, according to Ed Holmes.

Annual Camp of Future Farmers Is August 11 to 13

Floydada Future Farmers will hold their annual encampment at Roaring Springs beginning Thursday, August 11 through August 13.

There will be contests in swimming, racing, horse-shoe pitching, shooting, washer-pitching and baseball.

Each boy is required to furnish his eating utensils and bedding.

All regular FFA members and prospective members may attend, Henry Barber, vocational ag teacher announces.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Ely and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Beedy and family, of Fort Worth, are here visiting with relatives.

Who Entertains Who Question at Ralls Today

There seems to be some doubt about "whom is entertaining whom" at the West Texas Old Settlers Reunion at Ralls today, says the Ralls Banner, and continues with:

Jim Willson of Floydada is donating the huge out-door square dance pavilion, Baldrige Bakery of Lubbock is furnishing loud speakers, bread and fresh pies for the Old Settlers barbecue, Larrimore School of Dance, Lubbock, is furnishing the Friday night floor show, and the Lions club of Lorenzo is giving the Old Settlers a free barbecue at the city auditorium Friday noon. Ralls has provided some very expensive space, so necessary to getting around in. She is also furnishing, free of charge to a limited number, fresh air—but only in certain parts of town. To all of these out-of-towners who are contributing talent, time and material, we express our thanks.

Old Jim Willson considers himself as much a citizen of Ralls as the next guy. When asked if his lumber yard would furnish lumber he growled, "Send up a truck and get all you want." James O'Rear, president of the Lion's club of Lorenzo certainly earned the good will of a lot of folks by fetching up a hundred pounds of barbecue for the Old Settlers when it looked like the old timers might have to go without a noon-time sponsor.

Floyd County Eyes View South Dakota

A good many Floyd county eyes are on South Dakota this week while numerous people of this area are there in the harvest on their recently acquired lands.

Among those in the vicinity of Hayes, near the state's capital of Pierre, where L. C. McDonald and R. T. Jones, owners of a considerable spread of farm and ranch land, Travis Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jones and Roy Baxter.

Green bugs and dry weather combined to reduce production on the McDonald-Jones land, a report to C. B. McDonald from his father, L. C. Said Tuesday.

Some of the party will be home this week-end, but Mr. McDonald indicated he might remain for a few more days.

MICHAEL NEWTON LEACH BORN AT BORGER JULY 29

Michael Newton was born at North Plains hospital Borger. He weighed eight pounds and seven ounces at birth. The boy and his mother went to their home on Monday and Mrs. Newton journeyed to that city to spend several days with the Leach family.

Conservation District News

The board of supervisors of the Floyd County Soil Conservation district met in regular session Tuesday, August 2, with the following members present: R. G. Dunlap, Chairman, W. H. Nelson, W. F. Ferguson, Bert Bobbitt and Cecil Purcell. Agreements between the District and the following cooperators were approved: J. H. Holmes, W. P. Sims, Cleo Bay, and J. V. Nelson. Applications for assistance from the following farmers were also approved: W. J. Lee, R. R. Kellison, P. W. Jackson and J. W. Taylor estate.

We would like to urge all farmers that are planning to apply for assistance in the near future to come to the office and make application as soon as convenient. Our field crew cannot do the engineering until a conservation plan is prepared. Please allow a few days time before you need the engineering work and we will be able to give you more efficient service.

The Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the Floyd County Soil Conservation district have laid out a complete terrace system for T. E. Davis who farms the Neff half section northeast of Fairview. The system has been designed to control water coming in on this farm from other land as well as to control the water falling on it. The diversions at the top will carry the runoff water from the adjoining land down a natural grass waterway into a large lake. This farm was already badly eroded. These structures will heal the gullies already cut and keep washing rains from carrying away any more top soil.

Clarence Guffee, a District cooperator farming five miles north of Floydada, is making every effort to apply lake water to his crops before the hot weather evaporates the water. He is using a pumping plant designed especially for irrigating from lakes. The SCS engineers are helping him run out a ditch system.

The Soil Conservation Service field crew has completed some lines for Bill Norman, a district cooperator of Dougherty, to irrigate cotton and feed. Mr. Norman has some broadcast feed that he plans to water soon. He hopes to make a bale and a half to the acre on his cotton this year.
