EDITORIALS

Many people of many minds will each have his own reaction to the announcement made last week that smokers, either on or off the campus, are not wanted as students at Wayland college in Plainview. In the same announcement of policy is the statement that members of the faculty of the school are not expected to smoke or dance at any time, any place. One member of the board of trustees, who says he is a smoker, resigned from his place after a number of years service in the belief that a member of the governing body should not engage in a practice which is forbidden to faculty and students. The suggestion that the announced policy could be or would be harmful to the school has its pros and cons. No doubt some will condemn the verboten attitude of the school, and some will withdraw their support or give it only nominally. By the same token the school will get support and students from all parts of the country from people who are in sympathy with the enforced non-smoking rule. Nothing is ever as bad as it appears, nor ever as good. If the people who run Wayland college feel that way about it and so strongly there is nothing else in good conscience they can do than as they have done. A man can't violate his own concepts of right. He takes his chances on what may happen to him.

Sixtieth Anniversary. This coming Sunday, May 28, is the sixtieth anniversary of the day when the handful of early day nesters and cowboys set Floyd county up in business. On that day they put their county government into operation. Since that time there have been many ups and down for the people of the area, and only has it come about in the past 10 years that the land of milk and honey of which they spoke and dreamed and for which they toiled, has come to pass. At that there are people in our midst who are in want more dire than ever an old settler felt. More dire because for them hope is gone. The mistakes and ill fortunes that have come their way has been too much. There wasn't any too much for the pioneers, for them hope was ever present, and the promise of a home and independence and the good things of life — just pretty soon, not too many years in the future. So that is why the pioneers gather every once in awhile, to see themselves in youth and vigor, hopeful, with few but warm friends, their heads and shoulders in the clouds. The years add a halo of nostalgia.

You can't make any money being a member of the legislature of the State of Texas and if you have to make a living, or make money, it is well to figure out some way that conspicuous and honest service in that body will pay off. Rae Files Still seems to have found a way to at least pay back some of her expense money by publishing a book, "Gilmer-Aiken Bills." Her book shows how the legislature works in practice and since she was actively pushing the Gilmer-Aiken legislation she had the fullest knowledge of the workings of the legislature in connection with its final passage than she had, possibly, with any other measure that went through the legislative hopper. We gather from the publisher's advertising of Miss Files' book that she shows how many tried to defeat the bills one way and another and you get the impression that the state's strongest lobby, the State Teachers association, was lily white in its operations. Whether this is right or wrong we would not know. The Hesperian, which does not agree that the new school arrangement is wholly best for the people, notes with interest, however, that the attention paid by teachers to attendance of the scholastics has ceased to be academic and negative and is now definite and positive.

A bitter struggle for survival faces the American Merchant Marine. Whether the country shall have a merchant fleet adequate for national defense when war comes with Russia in 1952 or thereafter now hangs in the balance. What all the problems may be are not known by this writer. High costs of operation are at the bottom of the trouble, of course. American seamen demand certain standards, which may be assumed to be fair enough, but their competitors from other countries work for much less. Increasing competition for decreasing volume keeps American ships in port in increasing numbers. You give the answer. We do not know what it may be.

The railroad strike last week gave evidence of the value of the working man — the absolute need of the intelligent fellow that operates the country's industries and makes commerce possible. Also it gave evidence of the need for public backing in any attempt to settle a major mis-understanding in modern industry. Because the matter in controversy had been before the public for two or three years the beliefs of the public had pretty well crystallized on the basis that the firemen did not have any good ground to stand on, that they might have some proper grievances, if there were properly to be added another man on diesels possibly he should not be a "fireman" in the first place. This left the firemen without the support of their "engineers." Then two "fact finding" boards had looked over the situation and came up with the report that the firemen were not on sure ground in their claims, although admittedly with some fair grievances that should be adjusted. So that the strike, which pretty well paralyzed cross-country rail traffic for a week, only pointed up the fact that the firemen ought to go ahead with their work and let the actual grievances they had be a matter of arbitration. Which is where the matter stands now. The workingmen and the companies for which they work are signed up for an enforceable arbitration of the grievances they mutually hold. This the general public would be pleased to see happen regularly in industry. Strikes don't make anybody happy, it seems nor would arbitration always work too smoothly. But there are trade groups in the world which have had compulsory arbitration for years. They have disciplined themselves without forcing their grievances on the courts and the public. Why can't other industry do the same, is what the people are beginning to think out where the grass roots grow.

Grasshoppers May Show Up in Turn Rows

Dr. H. G. Johnson, state leader of grass hopper control has notified Robert H. Gibson, Floyd county agent, that the division of grasshopper control will not be able to buy new grasshopper bait materials this season because of the lack of funds. Those counties that have poison and bait which was not used may use it but those counties that used their last bait last year will not be able to obtain new materials until more money has been appropriated.

Floyd county does not have any poison or bait left from last year, therefore all farmers and ranchers are urged to check their turnrows, fence lines pastures and other places that were not plowed during the winter, for small grasshoppers. Wherever small grasshoppers are found that area should be sprayed with chlordane at the rate of 1 quart of 45% Chlordane emulsion per 50 to 100 gallons of water per acre. If the emulsion is not available 2 pounds of 50% wettable chlordane powder to 50 to 100 gallons of water per acre will give good results.

Taxophene may be used with good results by using 1 quart of 55% emulsion or 2 1/2 pounds of 40% wettable powder per 50 to 100 gallons water to spray one acre.

The above formulas will give good results when the hoppers are small. Therefore, Gibson urges everyone to check for the small grasshoppers now and if found to begin spraying at once to avoid an infestation later. No one who has small grasshoppers should put off control measures, because it is possible we will not be able to obtain poison or bait when the hoppers get large enough to damage the crops, he said.

Wayland Tightens Ban on Smoking

PLAINVIEW, May—Students who at Wayland college, it was voted here this week by the college trustees.

This following a recommendation by President J. W. Marshall. Trustees also backed a similar one which would bar the employment of any teacher who smokes, drinks, dances, or gambles.

"We are not infringing on students' freedom or asking them not to smoke," Dr. Marshall declared. "We simply are saying they are free to go to some other college if they want to smoke."

The trustees last year voted to ban smoking on the Wayland campus. Today's action goes further by requiring that no student, teacher or staff member of Wayland college smoke at any time or place.

Vocational News

Veterans studying agriculture in the Floyd County Vocational school attend two 2-hour discussion peri- ods each week said N. S. Abbott, coordinator of the program. This time is spent in studying such farm problems as: farm management, soil management, farm crops livestock, milk supply for home use, farm ma- chinery and equipment, fruit and vegetables for home use and many other related problems.

Recently the Floydada class of 21 veterans has been calculating balanced rations for hogs. The class worked out several good rations for hogs of different ages, using as much home grown feed as possible.

Rae Thornton of the Floydada class thinks that he can produce 100 pounds of grain in fattening hogs with 350 pounds of feed at a cost of about $4.25 - dry lot feeding. At this rate a profit can be made from feeding hogs with present prices.

Rae Thornton has a registered Duroc sow and two of her gilts that have just farrowed 30 pigs. Rae is going to feed out all of these pigs except two or three gilts that he plans to keep to use in expanding his hog program, Abbott said.

Get Set, Says Warning Issued to Candidates

Warning to Floyd county candidates for office that the expense of the primary elections in Floyd county is likely to be high this year and that they should make their plans accordingly was issued this week by the chairman of the Democratic party for Floyd county.

The warning was given in a letter addressed to the candidates in which it was pointed out that ap- plications for names on the ticket should be accompanied by the oath of loyalty and that both should be in the hands of the county chair- man June 17. This last-named date is the final one on which candidates for county and precinct office may file to get their names on the ticket.

"Few candidates and heavy ex- pense of the elections of this year's primary is calculated to make the individuals assessments quite heavy," says the letter from the chairman, who adds that "the committee has only one chance to get enough money to pay the election cost, which must come from the candi- dates."

Ticket Light So Far
The Floyd county ticket is a light one so far, County and precinct aspirants are few and far between. State and district aspirants, however especially state candidates are about as numerous as ever, and it seems reasonable to assume that printing cost (small in comparison with other expenses) will be about the same as formerly.

No committee meeting has been held as yet and the chairman voices no official statement, but there is no doubt that the individual cost will be high for candidates. The first meeting of the county committee, officially, will be made on June 19, after all applications have been filed.

CAMPAIGN FOR MUNICIPAL CONCERT MEMBERS SET; WEEK OF DRIVE BEGINS ON JULY 31

The campaign for the Floydada Municipal Concert association's membership will start officially on Monday, July 31, and will conclude on the following Saturday evening August 5, at six o'clock.

The Association headquarters for the drive will be at the American Legion hall. It was announced today by W. E. Garrett, president of the Floydada Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the Municipal concert plan under which the association will operate is to make possible the local appearance of brilliant and distinguished artists on a basis which eliminates all financial risk on the part of any person or group. The association is organized on a membership basis. Each member pays annual dues entitling him to attend, without additional expense, all the concerts presented by the Association during the season.

The association's membership will be secured only during the one-week drive, and every citizen of Floydada, as well as the citizens of Lockney, Ralls, Matador, Crosbyton, Silverton and any other neighboring towns are invited to join the association. At the end of the one-week campaign the membership list will be definitely closed for the season, and no one will be permitted to join for another year.

Dues Are Set Low

Annual membership dues for adults is $5.00 plus federal tax, and a special rate of $2.00 plus tax for students. The dues have been set low to enable everyone to enjoy the concert series.

Only members of the association may attend the concerts. There will be no single tickets sold for any of the concerts under the municipal plan. This course of action was explained by W. E. Garrett, president of the Jaycees, who said,

"Concerts presented on the basis of ticket selling and single admission have always meant and always will mean financial risk. The municipal concert plan is designed to make our concert season here a one hundred percent cooperative venture - with every member of the association in effect a sponsor in his own right without financial risk of any kind."

Each member is assured that a minimum of three concerts will be presented during the coming season. The success of the plan will be in direct proportion to the number of members who join. All dues will be spent for the presentation of concert attractions.

The artists to appear here will be selected by local committee at the close of membership campaign week. Memberships may be secured by contacting the association's headquarters located at the American Legion hall.

Regular Fourth Sunday Services

Regular fourth Sunday services will be held in the Sand Hill school, May 28. The service will be conducted by Mrs. Dora Raper of Plainview, who came to us from the Mississippi district.

All are invited to hear her at 2:30 p. m.

Anniversary of REA Finds Good Progress

The Floyd County Rural Electric Cooperative which serves farm areas in this and adjoining counties, is beginning to show the results of the electric program begun in 1938, it was pointed out this week by officials of the cooperative.

Having completed the present irrigation plans for Lone Star in Floyd County the contractor is going to work in the Harmony and Dougherty communities. A recent bid letting resulted in another construction program in Hale and Floyd Counties for irrigation facilities which is expected to carry considerable load by the 1951 season provided material shipments are not delayed.

"Connecting irrigation wells to the existing line is going on about as fast as facilities and time will permit," stated J. C. Ginn, president of the board of directors.

The resume of accomplishments of the nation-wide electrification program, which began 15 years ago, estimates that 85 per cent of the nation's farm now are receiving central station electric service, as compared to about 11 per cent when the REA program was created on May 11, 1935. There are at this time 977 borrowers of REA funds, most of them farmer-owned electric cooperatives.

Power Becomes Problem

"With the construction of new facilities moving at a rapid rate, the area coverage pledge of REA borrowers to make electricity available to all rural people in their service areas is progressing very satisfactorily," says Claud R. Wickard, national REA administrator.

He warned, however that the job of bringing service to the estimated 900,000 farms and thousand of non-farm rural establishments still without electricity would become increasingly difficult. This is because the areas yet to be reached are more isolated and have less density of population. In addition, adequate low cost power is difficult to obtain in most instances.

The REA official pointed out that the national average of power used on REA-financed lines during the month of December, 1949, was 141 kilowatt hours per farm, nearly 2 1/2 times the average in December, 1941.

"This figure," he says, "is growing constantly, and it is far exceeded on many individual farm in areas where sufficient power is available at low cost so that the farmers can fully utilize it."

Mr. Wickard declared that if farmers are to realize the full benefits of modern living and farmer methods that come from electrification, it is essential that REA borrowers have sources of power which will assure a dependable supply of electricity at a price the farmer can afford to pay, and facilities which have the capacity to give satisfactory service.

Commenting on REA's new lending program for the expansion and improvement of rural telephone facilities, Mr. Wickard said allocations totaling $778,000 already have been approved by the agency to five commercial companies and two newly-formed cooperatives. More than 400 other telephone loan applications have been received and are being considered by REA.

The new program was authorized by the rural telephone amendment to the Rural Electrification Act enacted on October 23, 1940. This program follows closely the REA pattern for electrification loans.

Farmers Loan Open House Held Saturday

Formal opening of the new office building of the Floydada National Farm Loan association was held Saturday, the general public being invited to join with the officers and members to celebrate the completion of the modern building at 319 South Main street.

The personnel of the organization moved Thursday and Friday in preparation for the opening.

The new building has three offices available for rental in addition to the office space occupied by the association. One of the pleasing features is a lobby which will serve for clients of all the occupants.

The building was completed at a cost of more than $11,000, and has $1,100 worth of new furniture. The building is white exterior, white ceiling and apple green walls.

Jake B. Watson, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Jake B. Watson and Mrs. Bennie Leibfried, the latter book-keeper, entertained the visitors. The ladies served punch, angel food squares and minis. Numerous bouquets of flowers graced the rooms, sent by friends and well-wishers.

Watson expressed appreciation of the association for the public's interest. "We are proud of our new home and we feel all of Floyd county will be also," he said. At the time plans for the new building were announced this spring, it was pointed out that the association was debt-free. Jno. A. Lloyd, president of the association, and Mr. Watson served on the committee which contracted for the structure.

They'll Take the Honeymoon Later Groom and Bride Find Hospital Pretty Fair Place For A Wedding

William Glenn Latham of Stratford, and Miss Johnnie Yvonne Rutherford, Floydada High school graduate were to have wed yesterday evening in Plainview, where they had been spoken the services of Rev. W. V. O'Kelly, a long-time friend of the Rutherford family to officiate at the taking of the vows.

But their plans didn't work out, except for one thing. They did get married. But of all places, in a hospital.

William Glenn Latham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Latham, of Mineral Wells, formerly of Floydada. He is working on a ranch near Stratford and got a week off of the job to come be married and take his bride on a brief honeymoon trip into Colorado.

Miss Rutherford is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Rutherford, of near Sand Hill. She was a member of the 1950 senior class, Floydada High school, and the graduating exercises were Tuesday night. When young Latham had his plans all made he went to the doctor in Dalhart for a blood test.

The doctor there insisted that a tonsilectomy was indicated and at once. Thinking perhaps the doc was a bit over-zealous the young man, anxious to get to Floydada and his bride-to-be, came on without the operation. A test at Floydada would be only a matter of form and he'd carry out his plans to be wed Wednesday night.

But not so. At Floydada the doctor was even more insistent. Come Monday morning the to-be-wed went to the clerk's office, got his license, then to the hospital to have a tonsilectomy. He would be out and ready to marry when Wednesday night came.

William Glenn didn't make it. He was a very sick young man. In a week he would be all right, the doctor said. Meanwhile, the hospital for him.

To make the story short, William Glenn had to have that little girl with him in his illness. And she consented to be wed Tuesday night in his hospital room. She called mamma and papa Rutherford in, and Uncle and Aunt M. M. Rutherford, and E. A. Powell, minister of the First Christian church, and the ceremony was said, he in his hospital garb, she in her commencement gown.

Then followed her trip to the commencement exercises at the high school, where she was the last across the stage to receive a diploma, at the hands of the superintendent, where her new husband had received his diploma one year ago.

And they are married and are to live happily ever afterward. Some day they'll take that honeymoon trip they planned.

Floyd Murry of Perryton and his daughter, Marieta, and son Mitch were here this week, visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Murry. Floyd and Marieta left for home Tuesday and Mitch will stay for a longer visit with his grandparents.

Graduate Lockney Hi

Wayland Music Head Popular

The Lockney high school graduate class held their commencement exercises at the city auditorium there on Thursday evening, May 18. The speaker for the evening was E. H. Lober, former deputy superintendent and now a member of the state school board.

At night week, Clyde C. Gandy preached the sermon for the congregation, which was held in the Lockney Baptist church.

The twenty-six students who received their diplomas were Robert L. J. Carthel, Eddie Cooper, John Cooper, Charles Crouch, Robert Boote, Robert Huckaby, W. C. Myers, Don McLaughlin, W. C. Myers, Tommie Nance, Delbert Beyer, DeJuan Strickland, Eugene Mahill, Lucile Cargill, Mervene Mahill, Nova Jean Cox, Bonita Gloe, Gene Harris, Wanda Jack, Rose Marie Harris, Annie Murphy, Myrtle Mathews, Kay Norman, Almeta Egan, and Jerry McCullough.

The 37 Grade school students received their diplomas Wednesday night, May 17. George Stokes of Wayland College, Plainview, was the guest speaker.

Guy Woods, Head of the Wayland college music department for the past year and a half, passed away at his former home in Lufkin, Texas, of a heart ailment. He left Plainview about three weeks ago for his former home, to recuperate from a recent illness. Mr. Woods was a graduate of Baylor University and Columbia University, New York City.

Mr. Wood came to Plainview first in 1932 to head the music department at Wayland, and remained eight years. He taught at Howard Payne College after leaving Wayland, then at Penn State at State College, Pa. He was a talented musician and his personality made him popular. Mr. Wood returned to Wayland in September, 1948.

He had many friends in and around Floydada as he assisted and gave piano concerts here during his stay at Wayland.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rutledge and sons, Scott and Steve, of Amarillo, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Rutledge.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

By Nellie Witt Sparks
One stitch dropped as the weaver drove
His nimble shuttle to and fro,
In and out, beneath, above,
'Til the pattern seemed to bud and grow
As if the fairies had helping been—
One small stitch which could scarce be seen;
But the one stitch dropped pulled the next stitch out,
And a weak spot grew in fabric
stout;
And the perfect pattern was marred for aye
By the one small stitch that was dropped one day.
I am sorry that the person who writes the above poem is not known for credit to be given. It is so true.

Our house is getting a white coat and we will like it better as there is so much of green trees and shrubs around. There are so many things that went with the house that money does not buy. We have fine new friends in Bob and Dorothy Collier and their pretty daughters, Sandra and Suzanne, good neighbors all around us, the laughter of children; red roses, white roses and honey suckle at our next neighbor's door. We can look over the fence in the wellmaker's yard and enjoy green berry vines white with blossom, soon to be followed by purple berries.

We have no mockingbird in our trees for the first time in some forty years but the ones in Mr. Davis's trees sing and give us as much joy as if they were in our trees. All the pretty yards in the town are ours to look at and take pleasure in as we ride around.

Our little garden is growing, the lettuce is green ruffles trimming a brown yard. Tomatoes have been hard to start, but we knew they like warm weather better and should have been more patient in starting them. The annuals have come up well and the second leaves are starting, riches of blossom in view for summer days.

People are so generous in sharing flowers from their homes for the churches. Mrs. McDonald had beautiful peonies at the Methodist church last Sunday. There were other lovely flowers but I did not learn who brought them. As Mr. McIntyre played the fine old hymns of the church there was such peace in my soul and such beauty of good Christian faces all around that I was inspired and lifted up for the work I do for the church.

Rev. Huckabee's voice is a melodious as a stringed instrument and his sermons bring comfort to our hearts and a desire for better living.

For the children and friends who have given me gifts and cards and well wishes on my birthday, May 4, and Mother's day:

'Tis not the weight of jewel or p late,
Or the fondle of silk or fur;
'Tis the spirit in which the gift is rich,
As the gifts of the wise men were:
And we are not told whose gift was gold
Or whose the gift of myrrh.

We really enjoyed the parade at Plainview on their Old Steeler's day. But who does not like a parade? Or to be a part of one? My heart beats fast as the bands go by, I like them so very much. I could follow one into mountains as did the children follow the Pied Piper. I recall at the Cowboy's and Confederate soldier reunion at Canyon City I sat by my great grandmother and listened to a man making a speech. I saw grandmother slip from her seat in the grandstand and walk from the grandstand as a band played near. I went also and both of us followed the band as near as we could, keeping step as best as an old old lady and a little girl could.

So many ask us if we like Floydada better than Rails as we moved here, but we love all the little towns of Texas as did the poet and we feel we would be at home with their citizens. The big cities are fine but we are more at home and ease in the small towns.

Poem of the week:
Watch Your Words
A careless word may kindle strife;
A cruel word may wreck a life.
A bitter word may hate instill;
A brutal word may smite and kill.
A gracious word may smooth the way;
A joyous word may light the day.
A timely word may lessen stress;
A loving word may heal and bless.

FARMERS CAN DEPEND ON U. S. RECLAMATION BUREAU. SHOULD BE WARY OF OTHERS

The people most effected by the Texas water problem are the farmers, and they are the least heard.

The cities, chambers of commerce and New York corporations are in a mighty fight over Texas water, and the farmers are going to lose out completely if they don't fight for their rights. Before they know it all will be lost.

Many farmers seem to think that their only worries are too much water at times, and too little at others, and there's nothing they can do about it.

That is not the case. The legislature will be asked to pass water laws in the interests of the cities, corporations and special groups, and the farmers will be left out.

The Reclamation Bureau of the U. S. Department of the Interior is looking after the farmers. It is the only agency that has ever done anything for the farmers in this respect, and it should hold all authority over soil and water conservation, without interference.

Farmers, see that only your friends are elected to congress and the legislature. Write members of congress and demand that they support the Reclamation Bureau in soil and water conservation. This is the most vital matter to the farmers ever to come up in Texas and if we don't get busy mighty quick, we will lose everything in the vital water problem. Let's act now, today!

Walling's Daughter Tells Experiences

Below, reciting some early experiences of the people here in the early nineties, is intended the program at the pioneers reunion Monday. It was made available by Mrs. John McDonald, of a sister of the writer.—(Note)

I am an early day settler of Floyd County I wish to offer a short history of my parents and some of the experiences of our family.

My father, Mr. E. M. Walling, or known as Dock, was born in Hill County Texas and later his father moved to Hill County, Texas where he lived until he married.

The stories they told of their childhood and early married life in the real frontier life in the raw.

All the clothes they wore were made from thread they spun and they wore into cloth and then made garments by hand as sewing machines were not in use at that time.

When they were first married they lived in a one room log house. There was no door or windows to close in winter, just quilts hung over the openings.

Father had to make a trip to the nearest town to get supplies and couldn't get back that day as oxen traveled slow, so mother who was not quite seventeen years old stayed alone. That evening when she went to milk a panther came close to the pen and screamed. Mother climbed over the fence and ran to the house. It was not much protection without doors or windows but the panther didn't chase her so she got along alright.

That is just one of the exciting times of their young life and those REALLY early days.

Then the years slipped by and their family grew in number and times got better.

Had to Go West
Father moved to Walnut Springs, Texas, lived there a few years but as he was born a pioneer he had to go west.

I well remember my parents loading the wagon with camp supplies and the children and starting west to find a place to live to.

I think father had the old panhandle in mind for he never stopped until we reached Floyd county.

We came out on the plains just before sunset and that sure looked like a big barren world without any living person in it except our own family, for as far as the vision of our eyes could reach there wasn't anything except green grass to be seen.

That night it started to rain and one of those western winds came ahead of the rain and almost blew the wagon off the caprock. I remember my father staked it down and took the family down behind a little bluff to get a little protection from the storm.

Next morning all was calm and sunny so we journeyed on.

The next day we reached Floydada. It looked like the jumping off place. At that time there was only a general merchandise, the drug store, postoffice, livery stable, hotel and courthouse, with very few homes and some of those were dugouts.

My father wasn't long buying a section of land south and east of Floydada.

He left the two oldest boys there to look after the place while the rest of us went back to get the household goods and farming tools. Father also took one hundred head of horses with him to the plains.

100 Horses 300 Miles
One of my uncles and a cousin, my oldest sister and my self drove the horses out.

At that time I was about nine years old and my sister nor I didn't know very much about riding horse back but by the time we rode that three hundred miles we had learned quite a bit.

One day on the trip my cousin said to me, "I bet you can't ride up to that sign board." I couldn't see any reason why I couldn't so I took the dare and just as I rode up he had slipped up close and hit the sign board with a whip. It sounded like a cannon. My horse was so surprised it gave a big jump and went right out from under me and there I sat in the road as much surprised as the horse.

But that trip was wonderful to me. I loved every step of the way. I am an out of doors lover anyway and I just fit right into that great open country, but my sister was not so well pleased as she had made up her mind to get a good education and that early day country didn't have any fine polishing to offer so she didn't get the education. We moved to the plains country in 1891. When we reached home we found the boys well and happy but glad to see the family back.

Skimpy Days Hard and Trying
That winter was a hard cold winter and as it was late September when we got here dad didn't have much time to get settled before winter.

It sure wasn't a pleasant change for mother. She had a nice frame house in Walnut Springs and to come out there to a one room box house and a one room dugout was enough to make an angel weep.

Mother put in big garden and had a lot of frying chickens the next summer and a big hail came and beat the vegetables into the earth and chickens were lying dead all over the place, but they didn't give up.

Then another year the garden was fine, cabbage headed up and the grass hoppers came and ate them down into the dirt.

Those were lean skimpy days, hard and trying.

The next year my oldest brother hauled cedar wood from the cedar brakes which was plentiful at that time.

There was some bear and panther in the breaks. Once a bear came out onto the plains to neighbors sheep ranch. He and my brother chased and shot it and we had bear meat and there was plenty of antelopes.

No Quick, Easy Fires
We young people had to travel 15 to 20 miles in the bitter cold to parties and we traveled the godd old slow way in buggy and horses. We would be so cold when we got home we couldn't bend our fingers and there wasn't any quick easy fires. We would warm our hands over the lamp enough to get to bed.

Our dresses were made from calico and three cent lawn for our Sunday best, but we looked nice and had as much fun and believe more than the youngsters of today.

I wouldn't take any amount of money for the experiences and joy of those days.

People of today may have luxuries and comforts we didn't have, but we had plenty of freedom.

Quiet, peaceful days, no hurry, no worries about the payment on the car, and every one we met was a friend and glad to see you. When ones neighbors got sick we went and stayed day and night and took care of them and didn't expect any thing in return except friendship.

It has been forty years since I saw the plains and know there have been great changes.

Plains a Wonderful Country
Yes, people have fine things we didn't have but we had something they didn't. The country may have improved and have luxuries now that didn't have in the early days but it has lost something very valuable that cannot be replaced and that is the western fellowship and genuine love of one for another.

The plains country is a wonderful country. It has the finest soil in the world and the vegetables grown there are far superior to California vegetables in flavor.

In conclusion I wish to say hail to all the old timers. I once knew that were gathered together on this eventful day and a kind wish for all the new people.

Your neighbor from California,
Letha Crawford.

Butane Dealers Hold Institute

AUSTIN—Enrolled as a members of the student body of the first school ever organized in the nation for owners and "top brass" of butane businesses. Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Foote of Foote Butane Co. and Buck Hickerson of Hickerson & Strickland of Floydada spent last week here. Classes of the butane management institute were held four hours each morning and four hours each afternoon in an assembly room of a hotel.
The Institute course covers four summer sessions. Certificates will be awarded enrollees completing each summer semester, and a diploma will await each student who completes the entire course.
Although the Texas Butane Dealers association, of which the Floydada firms are members, has held more than a hundred schools for butane gas servicemen, installers, repairers and drivers, this is the first ever organized anywhere for owners of the businesses. The curriculum includes such subjects as record keeping, store management and display, sales promotion, building remodeling and design and others.
The institute is sponsored jointly by the Texas Butane Dealers association, the University of Texas and the State Board for Vocational Education. The courses being taught are the result of months of study and effort by the instructors and outstanding Texas educators.
The dealers association, now in its sixth year, will hold its fifth annual convention and trade show in Fort Worth, June 22, 23, 24. These annual gatherings are the largest on state and regional level in the United States and the Texas Butane Dealers association is the largest and is recognized as the most active such group in the nation.
